Issue for Consideration

In several petitions, a recurring issue has arisen where Revisional Courts consistently remand matters to trial courts after recording findings on the merits. The impugned orders are set aside as a matter of routine, and trial courts are directed to pass fresh orders taking into account the findings recorded by the Revisional Court. However, trial courts often pass similar orders again, leading to repeated remands. This cycle sometimes recurs multiple times before the matter reaches this Court. The Revisional Court, after applying an independent mind and recording its findings, has unnecessarily burdened the City Magistrate by remanding the matter to be decided afresh.

Head Notes

The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 145; The Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023- Section 438/ 442- The matter has already been pending before the civil court and the civil court has directed the parties to maintain status quo, there is no justification for remanding the matter to the City Magistrate to decide afresh. Moreover, the suit was filed in 2019. No effective order has been passed with respect to the possession and ownership of the land; and as recorded in the inquiry report of the Investigating Officer, there is an imminent threat to the life and property of the parties. Therefore, the City Magistrate's decision to attach the property and hand it over to a neutral third party appears to be just and proper. Furthermore, the recall application was filed subsequent to the institution of the suit, along with an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963, by respondent no. 2- Impugned order set aside.

That the routine and repetitive practice of remanding matters, particularly after entering into the merits of the controversy, reflects an avoidable reluctance on the part of the Revisional Courts to finally adjudicate the issues entrusted to them. An order of remand, unless founded upon a compelling legal or procedural necessity, is a significant indicator either of judicial hesitancy in assuming adjudicatory responsibility or of a lack of clarity in the understanding and application of governing legal principles. Revisional jurisdiction is intended to correct jurisdictional and legal errors and, wherever the record is sufficient, the Revisional Court is not only expected but duty-bound to render a conclusive adjudication rather than prolong the lis through mechanical remands.

Held- Repeated remands merely burden the judicial system and yield no meaningful relief to litigants. The Revisional Courts are required to act with greater sensitivity and responsibility, particularly when the trial court records are already available before them, and even otherwise, such records may be summoned if necessary. Unwarranted remands result in unnecessary wastage of judicial time and ultimately defeat the cause of justice. (E-15)

Order dated 09.09.2025 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Mathura, in Criminal Revision No. 32 of 2025, titled Dhruv Singh v. State of U.P. and Another, whereby the matter was remanded to the trial court for fresh consideration.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Petitioner(s) : Rama Goel Bansal, Shalini Goel
Counsel for Respondent(s) : G.A., Mayank

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinod Diwakar, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Rama Goel Bansal and Ms. Shalini Goel, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Rahul Chaudhary, learned Amicus Curiae, and the learned A.G.A. for the State-respondent, and perused the record.

2. The present petition has been instituted seeking to set aside the order dated 09.09.2025 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Mathura, in Criminal Revision No. 32 of 2025, titled Dhruv Singh v. State of U.P. and Another, whereby the matter was remanded to the trial court for fresh consideration.

3. In brief, the facts are that the petitioner approached the City Magistrate, Mathura, with a complaint under Section 145 Cr.P.C., stating that he owns a marriage home in the name of Kundan Vatika, which comprises rooms, a hall, and a field. The complainant states that he constructed the marriage home on his own land. One room in the corner of the marriage hall was given to the security guard, Dhruv Singh, who began residing therein. The security guard now seeks to usurp the complainant's marriage hall by claiming that he had purchased it from Kundan Singh. The electricity and water connections are in the name of the complainant, Kundan Singh. On receipt of the complaint, the City Magistrate sought a report from the Inspector, P.S. Kotwali. The Inspector submitted a report dated 15.07.2021, stating that both parties are claiming their rights over the disputed property, that there is a likelihood of a breach of peace, and that an untoward incident may occur between the parties.

4. After hearing both the parties and perusing the record, the City Magistrate, vide order dated 10.08.2021, directed the Police to attach the property and hand over the same to a neutral person so as to avoid any serious conflict between the parties. Aggrieved by the same, respondent no. 2 moved an application on 30.09.2021 for recall of the order dated 10.08.2021. The City Magistrate, Mathura, again sought a report from the Police, pursuant to which a fresh report dated 23.11.2024 was submitted, stating that Civil Suit No. 874 of 2019, titled Dhruv Singh v. Kundan Singh, is pending trial before the Court of Civil Judge (Junior Division), Mathura, and that the trial court, vide order dated 25.09.2023, directed the parties to maintain status quo. After hearing both the parties and upon perusal of the record, the City Magistrate, Mathura, vide order dated 26.12.2024, dismissed the application of respondent no. 2 for recall of the order dated 10.08.2021.

5. Aggrieved by the order dated 26.12.2024, respondent no. 2, on 07.01.2025, preferred a criminal revision along with an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, assailing the orders dated 10.08.2021 and 26.12.2024, before the learned District and Sessions Judge, Mathura. The Revisional Court, vide order dated 09.09.2025, allowed the application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and set aside the orders dated 10.08.2021 and 26.12.2024, with a direction to the City Magistrate, Mathura, to pass a fresh order.

6. The learned Additional Sessions Court has recorded its findings in paragraphs 18, 19, and 20 of the impugned order dated 09.09.2025, wherein it is observed that Civil Suit No. 874 of 2019, titled Dhruv Singh v. Kundan and Others, is pending between the parties, and that the civil court has jurisdiction to adjudicate the substantive rights of the parties regarding ownership and possession. Therefore, the proceedings under Section 146(1) Cr.P.C. were held to be erroneous, and after setting aside the orders dated 10.08.2021 and 26.12.2024, the Revisional Court directed the City Magistrate to decide the proceedings afresh. The Revisional Court, while recording such findings, placed reliance upon Vinay Tyagi v. Irshad Ali1, Amit Kapur v. Ramesh Chander2, Ram Sumer Puri Mahant v. State of U.P. and Others3, Amresh Tiwari v. Lalta Prasad Dubey & Anr.4, and Surenda Singh & Ors. v. District and Sessions Judge Kanpur & Ors5.

7. The order passed by the Revisional Court is detailed, and the Revisional Court has discussed all aspects of the case, except returning findings on the application filed under Section 5 of the Limitation Act by respondent no. 2. There was no legal impediment before the Revisional Court to take a final view on the matter. No reason has been recorded for remanding the matter to the City Magistrate for a fresh decision; only findings on the merits of the case were recorded. If the Revisional Court had found the City Magistrate's order to be erroneous and, while recording its own observations, had set aside the said order, it ought to have decided the matter on merits rather than remanding it for fresh consideration. In several petitions, a recurring issue has arisen where Revisional Courts consistently remand matters to trial courts after recording findings on the merits. The impugned orders are set aside as a matter of routine, and trial courts are directed to pass fresh orders taking into account the findings recorded by the Revisional Court. However, trial courts often pass similar orders again, leading to repeated remands. This cycle sometimes recurs multiple times before the matter reaches this Court. The Revisional Court, after applying an independent mind and recording its findings, has unnecessarily burdened the City Magistrate by remanding the matter to be decided afresh.

8. Such a procedure is unnecessary and counterproductive. It creates a vicious circle in which matters keep revolving between the trial court and the Revisional Court, and on many occasions, the matter ultimately reaches this Court either against the revisional order or against the subsequent order passed by the trial court pursuant to such remand.

9. Upon examining the impact of this recurring practice on the courts, this Court decided to hear all concerned parties so that the methodology adopted by the Revisional Courts may be examined in detail. A notice was issued to the Registrar General, with liberty to place on record any material regarding the aforesaid practice, and it was left to the learned Registrar General to take an informed decision in this regard.

10. Shri Rahul Chaudhary, Advocate, has been appointed as Amicus Curiae to assist the Court.

11. Shri Manish Goyal, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Shri Sudhir Malhotra, learned counsel for the High Court, stated that it shall always be the endeavour of the Courts to curtail litigation and not to generate it. Any unnecessary remand gives rise to a fresh round of litigation, which ought to be avoided6. The Courts are already heavily burdened; therefore, once a Court has applied its judicial mind and recorded findings on the merits of the case, in consonance with the principles laid down by the Constitutional Courts, there remains no palpable justification for Revisional Courts to remand the matter with a direction for a fresh decision.

12. Shri Rahul Chaudhary, learned Amicus Curiae, placing reliance upon Section 438 BNSS, 2023 (Section 397 Cr.P.C.), submitted that the object and scope of Section 438 BNSS, 2023 is the calling for of records to exercise the power of revision. Section 438 BNSS, 2023 empowers the High Court and the Sessions Judge to call for and examine the records of any inferior criminal court in order to determine whether the sentence, finding, or order of such inferior court is legal, correct, or proper, and whether the proceedings of such court are regular, so as to prevent miscarriage of justice and the perpetuation of illegality. The High Court, while exercising criminal revisional jurisdiction under Section 442 BNSS, 2023 (Section 401 Cr.P.C.), cannot convert a finding of acquittal into one of conviction. If the High Court believes that an acquittal was erroneous, it would not reverse it; instead, it would remand the matter for re-appreciation of evidence by the trial court.

12.1 The revisional jurisdiction of criminal courts constitutes an important supervisory mechanism within the criminal justice system. Under the provisions of the BNSS, the High Courts and Sessions Courts are vested with revisional powers to examine the correctness, legality, propriety, and regularity of findings, sentences, or orders passed by subordinate criminal courts. The object of revisional jurisdiction is not to provide another tier of appeal, but to ensure that subordinate courts act within the bounds of law and procedure and that miscarriage of justice is prevented.

12.2 Revisional jurisdiction is essentially discretionary and supervisory in nature. Unlike appellate jurisdiction, a Revisional Court ordinarily does not undertake a complete re-appreciation of evidence or substitute its own conclusions merely because another view is possible. The power is primarily exercised to correct jurisdictional errors, patent illegality, procedural irregularity, perversity of findings, or gross miscarriage of justice. The Revisional Court is therefore expected to exercise restraint and intervene only where necessary in the interest of justice.

12.3 An important principle governing revisional jurisdiction is the doctrine of finality of litigation. Judicial proceedings cannot be permitted to continue indefinitely, as endless adjudication undermines certainty, stability, and public confidence in the justice delivery system. Finality of litigation is a foundational principle intended to ensure that disputes attain a conclusive determination after due adjudication. Repeated interference with reasoned judicial findings, particularly through unnecessary remands, defeats this principle and prolongs litigation without sufficient cause.

12.4 The administration of justice does not rest merely upon the adjudication of disputes, but also upon ensuring that litigation reaches its logical and lawful conclusion within a reasonable time. Judicial discipline and procedural propriety demand that Courts exercise their powers in a manner that advances finality of litigation rather than prolonging uncertainty between the parties.

12.5 An unnecessary remand by a superior or Revisional Court often gives rise to a fresh round of litigation, thereby reopening controversies that have already been examined on the merits. Such remands not only delay the delivery of justice but also impose additional financial and procedural burdens upon the litigants. In a justice delivery system where Courts are already facing heavy case pendency, avoidable remands contribute further to judicial backlog and impede the effective administration of justice.

12.6 Where a subordinate Court has applied its judicial mind to the facts and circumstances of the case and has recorded findings on merits, particularly after acting in consonance with the principles laid down by the Constitutional Courts, there ordinarily remains no palpable justification for a Revisional Court to remand the matter merely for a fresh decision. Revisional jurisdiction is primarily supervisory and is intended to correct jurisdictional errors, material irregularities, or manifest illegality. It is not expected to routinely unsettle reasoned findings and direct de-novo adjudication in the absence of compelling circumstances.

12.7 The power of remand must therefore be exercised sparingly and only in cases where the ends of justice genuinely require reconsideration of material issues that could not have been adequately addressed earlier. Mechanical or routine remand orders defeat the principle of judicial economy and undermine public confidence in the efficiency of the justice system. Courts must remain conscious that justice delayed through repeated rounds of adjudication often amounts to justice denied.

12.8 Once findings on merits have been duly recorded after proper appreciation of evidence and applicable legal principles, the Revisional Courts should endeavour to finally adjudicate the dispute instead of remanding the matter unnecessarily. Such an approach alone would uphold the principles of finality, judicial efficiency, and expeditious dispensation of justice.

12.9 Learned Amicus Curiae has placed reliance7, besides other judgments8, to make out a case that the jurisdiction of the Court under Section 438 BNSS, 2023 can be exercised so as to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of the order passed by the trial court or the Court of SDM, as the case may be. The object of this provision is to set right a patent effect or an error of jurisdiction or law. The next well accepted norm is that the revisional jurisdiction of the higher Court is a very limited one and cannot be exercised in a routine manner. One of the inbuilt restriction is that it should not be against an interim or interlocutory order. The order has to keep in mind that the exercise of revisional jurisdiction should not lead to injustice ex-facie.

13. In the present case, as the matter has already been pending before the civil court and the civil court has directed the parties to maintain status quo, there is no justification for remanding the matter to the City Magistrate to decide afresh. Moreover, the suit was filed in 2019. No effective order has been passed with respect to the possession and ownership of the land; and as recorded in the inquiry report of the Investigating Officer, there is an imminent threat to the life and property of the parties. Therefore, the City Magistrate's decision to attach the property and hand it over to a neutral third party appears to be just and proper. Furthermore, the recall application was filed subsequent to the institution of the suit, along with an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963, by respondent no. 2.

14. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 09.09.2025 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Mathura, in Criminal Revision No. 32 of 2025, titled Dhruv Singh v. State of U.P. and Another, is set aside.

15. The present petition is allowed in the above terms.

16. In all the connected matters, a common question has arisen for consideration before this Court. In each of the cases, the Revisional Courts, after hearing the parties and examining the records, proceeded to set aside the orders passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate under Section 164 of BNSS, 2023 [Section 145 Cr.P.C.] and/or by the Magistrates under Section 175(3) of BNSS, 2023 [Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.], while simultaneously recording findings touching upon the merits of the controversy. Despite having undertaken such exercise, the Revisional Courts thereafter remanded the matters back to the trial courts for fresh adjudication in light of the observations recorded in the revisional orders.

17. However, in none of the aforesaid matters did the Revisional Courts assign any cogent reason as to why they were unable to finally adjudicate the controversies themselves while exercising revisional jurisdiction. Once the Revisional Courts had examined the records, heard the parties, and recorded findings touching upon the merits of the disputes, the routine exercise of remanding the matters for fresh consideration ought to have been avoided. Such remand orders, in the absence of any demonstrated legal or procedural necessity, unnecessarily prolong litigation and result in avoidable multiplicity of proceedings.

18. Accordingly, all Revisional Courts in the State of Uttar Pradesh are expected to exercise due restraint and circumspection while remanding matters to subordinate courts for fresh consideration, particularly in proceedings arising under Section 164 of BNSS, 2023 and Section 175(3) of BNSS, 2023, as well as other miscellaneous proceedings of a similar nature. The power of remand is an exception and not the rule. Even Section 442(3) of BNSS, 2023 recognises the limited contours within which revisional jurisdiction is to be exercised. Therefore, remand should be resorted to only in rare and exceptional circumstances where the Revisional Court, for reasons to be specifically recorded, finds itself unable to adjudicate the matter finally on merits.

19. Unfortunately, a contrary practice appears to have developed in the district courts of Uttar Pradesh whereby matters are routinely remanded despite the Revisional Courts having already examined the merits. Such an approach not only burdens the trial courts and the Courts of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate with repetitive proceedings but also contributes to unnecessary docket congestion, thereby adversely affecting the administration of justice. This practice, therefore, deserves to be discontinued.

20. This Court has no hesitation in observing that the routine and repetitive practice of remanding matters, particularly after entering into the merits of the controversy, reflects an avoidable reluctance on the part of the Revisional Courts to finally adjudicate the issues entrusted to them. An order of remand, unless founded upon a compelling legal or procedural necessity, is a significant indicator either of judicial hesitancy in assuming adjudicatory responsibility or of a lack of clarity in the understanding and application of governing legal principles. Revisional jurisdiction is intended to correct jurisdictional and legal errors and, wherever the record is sufficient, the Revisional Court is not only expected but duty-bound to render a conclusive adjudication rather than prolong the lis through mechanical remands.

21. Repeated remands merely burden the judicial system and yield no meaningful relief to litigants. The Revisional Courts are required to act with greater sensitivity and responsibility, particularly when the trial court records are already available before them, and even otherwise, such records may be summoned if necessary. Unwarranted remands result in unnecessary wastage of judicial time and ultimately defeat the cause of justice.

22. The matters in the aforesaid cases are being remitted to the concerned Revisional Courts with the object of sensitizing judicial officers to the settled principle that, once findings on merits have been recorded upon examination of the record and hearing of the parties, it is ordinarily unnecessary to remand the matter for fresh adjudication by the subordinate court. It is expected that, in future, the Revisional Courts shall adopt a more cautious, judicious, and legally sustainable approach while exercising the power of remand, and shall resort to such course only where compelling legal or procedural necessity so warrants.

23. For the aforesaid reasons, the orders under challenge in (1) A-227/1539/2025- Umesh Kumar Upadhyay v. State of U.P. and 5 Others; (2) A-227/12515/2025- Mahtab Husain and Another v. State of U.P. and Another; (5) A-227/13746/2025- Rajiv Shukla and Another v. State of U.P. and 2 Others; (6) A-

State of U.P. and Another- are hereby quashed and set aside, with a direction to the respective Revisional Courts to pass fresh orders. In cases where the trial court has already complied with the orders passed by the Revisional Courts and this Court as well, this order shall have no bearing on such cases.

24. Neither Shri Manish Goyal, learned counsel appearing for the High Court, nor Shri Rahul Chaudhary, learned Amicus Curiae, has placed before this Court any judgment or judicial precedent justifying the routine practice of remanding matters to subordinate courts for fresh consideration after having set aside the impugned orders.

25. I place on record my appreciation for the effective assistance rendered and the valuable suggestions advanced by Shri Rahul Chaudhary, learned Amicus Curiae.

26. The Registrar (Compliance) is directed to forthwith circulate a copy of this order to all learned District Judges in the State of Uttar Pradesh. Upon receipt thereof, the learned District Judges shall convene meetings within their respective judgeships for discussion, compliance, and record.

27. A copy of this order shall also be transmitted to the Director, Judicial Training and Research Institute, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh, for necessary reference and training purposes. The Judicial Training and Research Institute shall ensure that the aforesaid principles are disseminated across all levels of the subordinate judiciary in the State of Uttar Pradesh through periodic refresher programmes and workshops, so as to sensitize judicial officers, particularly those exercising revisional jurisdiction, to the settled legal position that remand ought to be an exception and not the rule.

28. All the connected petitions are disposed of with the aforesaid observations and directions.

1. Since the common question of facts and law are involved in all three applications, therefore, with the consent of the parties, they are being heard and decided by a common judgement.

2. The applicant/Smt. Sadhana Chooramani alias Sadhana Bedi in APPLICATION U/s 482 No. 3475 of 2026 has filed the application seeking setting aside of summoning order dated 25.03.2019 in Complaint Case No.2668 of 2018 (Pyarelal Shukla Vs. Sadhna Bedi & Ors.), under Sections 500, 501 of Indian Penal Code (for short ?IPC?), pending in the Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-I, Lucknow (for short 'Magistrate').

3. The applicants i.e. Smt. Sadhana Chooramani alias Sadhana Bedi and Rajesh Agarwal alias Rajesh Kumar Agarwal, respectively, in APPLICATION U/s 482 Nos. 3477 and 3679 of 2026 have filed the applications seeking setting aside of summoning order dated 31.07.2019 in Complaint Case No.2565 of 2018 (Surendra Kumar Verma Vs. Rajesh Agarwal & Ors.), under Sections 500, 501 of IPC, pending in the Court of the Magistrate.

4. The facts of APPLICATION U/s 482 Nos. 3475 of 2026 are extracted herein-below.

The complainant filed a complaint stating therein that he was employed as a typist at City Montessori School, Station Road Branch, Lucknow (for short 'CMS'), and that several persons, being jealous of the reputation of Shri Jagdish Gandhi (since deceased) on account of better education and discipline imparted by the institution, conspired to malign the image of CMS and its founder, Dr. Jagdish Gandhi. It has been alleged that Rajesh Agrawal, Ritesh Agrawal, Dr. Sunil Bisen, and Sandeep Pandey, had, even prior to the present incident, distributed pamphlets to defame CMS and its founder and had also staged demonstrations. It has further been alleged that, in order to create terror and defile the image of the school and Shri Jagdish Gandhi, on 18.08.2018, after sending an e-mail, Sandeep Pandey asked his supporters to hold demonstrations before CMS. Pursuant thereto, the supporters allegedly held demonstrations and distributed pamphlets. The statements of the complainant and the witnesses were recorded under Sections 200 and 202 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short 'CrPC'). Thereafter, the Magistrate summoned the applicants to face trial vide the impugned order dated 25.03.2019.

5. The facts of APPLICATION U/s 482 Nos. 3477 and 3679 of 2026 are related to each other and have arisen out of same complaint case which are mentioned below.

The complainant filed a complaint stating therein that he was employed as an Office Secretary at CMS. It has been alleged that Rajesh Agrawal, Ritesh Agrawal, Dr. Sunil Bisen, and Sandeep Pandey had, even prior to the present incident, distributed pamphlets to malign the image of CMS and its founder, Dr. Jagdish Gandhi, and had also staged demonstrations. It has further been alleged that, in order to create terror and defame the school and Shri Jagdish Gandhi, on 18.08.2018 and 25.08.2018, after sending an e-mail, Sandeep Pandey asked his supporters to hold demonstrations before CMS. Pursuant thereto, the supporters allegedly held demonstrations and distributed pamphlets. The statements of the complainant and the witnesses were recorded under Sections 200 and 202 CrPC. Thereafter, the Magistrate summoned the applicants to face trial vide order dated 31.07.2019.

6. Shri Subhash Bisaria, learned counsel for the applicants has submitted that the order sheet reveals that the summons were not served upon the applicant. He has also submitted that the applicant has been residing at Ghaziabad for more than five years after her husband shifted to Ghaziabad.

7. He has further submitted that opposite party no. 2 filed the present complaint case purportedly on behalf of CMS, where he is employed as Office Secretary, despite the fact that an F.I.R. had already been lodged by the school authorities regarding the same incidents dated 18.08.2018 and 25.08.2018, as stated in the complainant's own statement recorded under Section 200 CrPC as well as in the statements of the witnesses recorded under Section 202 CrPC.

8. He has further submitted that with regard to the very same incidents dated 18.08.2018 and 25.08.2018, another Complaint Case No. 2565 of 2018 has also been filed by one Surendra Kumar Verma, who is working as an Office Secretary at CMS. Thus, multiple criminal cases have been instituted in respect of the same incidents.

9. He has further submitted that the name of the applicant has intentionally and mala fidely been implicated in the matter, as she became a victim of rivalry between management factions and was removed from the post of Principal of the school merely to settle personal scores.

10. He has further submitted that under Section 199 CrPC, a Magistrate can take cognizance of an offence of criminal defamation only upon a complaint made by the person aggrieved. A complaint relating to defamation cannot be instituted through a proxy or even by way of general authorization. According to him, the person whose reputation has allegedly been harmed, namely the aggrieved individual, company, or entity, must himself institute the complaint or suit and demonstrate actual harm caused by the alleged defamatory act.

11. He has further submitted that in the present case, institution of multiple complaints in respect of the same incident subjects the applicant to double jeopardy, which is contrary to Section 300 CrPC as well as violative of Article 20(2) of the Constitution of India, 1950.

12. He has further submitted that, even going by the version of the complaint and the statements recorded under Sections 200 and 202 CrPC, at the most, a case of holding peaceful demonstrations before the school premises is made out, which is a democratic right of every citizen and within the ethos of a vibrant democracy.

13. He has further submitted that the name of the applicant neither figures in the allegation relating to sending of the e-mail, as stated in the complaint and the statements recorded under Sections 200 and 202 CrPC, nor is she visible in the photographs filed along with the complaint. According to him, her name has been maliciously implicated on account of rivalry between management factions.

14. He has further submitted that it is well settled that a complaint relating to defamation cannot be instituted by proxy, even with authorization, and the same must be instituted by the person allegedly aggrieved. It has also been submitted that the complainant has no locus standi to file the present defamation complaint on behalf of the school.

15. Shri Subhash Bisaria, learned counsel for the applicants in APPLICATION U/S 482 Nos. 3475, 3477 of 2026 has submitted that both the complaints indicate one fact that both complainants are employees of CMS and they have not been authorised to file the complaints. Similarly, the witnesses whose statements were recorded under Section 202 CrPC are also the employees of the CMS itself. Thus, there is statutory violation of Explanation 4 to Section 499 IPC which provides that reputation should be lowered down in the eyes of estimation of others whereas in the present case, the complainant as well as witnesses are employees of CMS whose reputation has been alleged to be lowered, as per complaints, thus, there is statutory violation of Explanation IV to Section 499 IPC.

16. He has relied on the following judgments :-

(I) Sanjay Dixit Vs. State of U.P. and Another, 2026:AHC-LKO:2515;

(II) Business Standard Pvt. Ltd. v. Lohitaksha Shukla, 2021 SCC OnLine Del 988 and

(III) Order dated 30.09.2024 passed by Hon?ble Apex Court in SLP (Crl.) No . 13279 of 2024 in re: Arvind Kejriwal and Anr. Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and Anr.

17. Shri R.K.S. Suryavanshi, learned counsel for the applicant in APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 3679 of 2026 has adopted the arguments advanced by Shri Subhash Bisaria, learned counsel.

18. On the other hand, Shri Purnendu Chakravarty, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Shashwat Vidyarthi and Shri Ankit Kumar, Advocates on behalf of opposite party no.2 in APPLICATION U/S 482 Nos. 3475, 3477 of 2026 has submitted that the complaints have been filed by the complainants who are employees of CMS. The statements under Section 200 CrPC of the complainants have been recorded and thereafter, statements under Section 202 CrPC of the witnesses have been recorded. The contents of the complaints indicate that the reputation of the school i.e. CMS and its founder Dr. Jagdish Gandhi has been lowered in the eyes of public. The pamphlets against CMS and its founder were circulated, which are defamatory in nature. The imputation has been levelled against the CMS and the applicants had assembled at the main gate of CMS, Station Road, Lucknow. The police had intervened in the said demonstraion but the applicants violated the law and order and following which they were arrested.

19. He has further submitted that the applicants were making demonstrations against the school and its founder despite the prohibitory order pased by the Court.

20. He has further submitted that once the statements under Sections 200 and 202 CrPC have been recorded and the Magistrate has issued summons, this Court cannot weigh the evidences and the applications are liable to be rejected.

21. He has further submitted that under Section 482 CrPC, this Court cannot do mini-trial. Once a prima facie offense is made out after a bare perusal of the statements under Sections 200 and 202 CrPC, the trial is to be conducted and no roving enquiry can be done by this Court.

22. To buttress his arguments, he has relied on following judgments :

(I) Sanjay Dixit (Supra); and

(II) Jyoti Kamal and Ors. Vs. State of U.P. and Another, reported in 2026 SCC OnLine All 100.

23. He has submitted that in the case of Sanjay Dixit (Supra), there was no witness examined under Section 202 CrPC whereas in the present case, there are witnesses under Section 202 CrPC, who have supported the complainants? case, therefore, it has been submitted that the judgment passed in case of Sanjay Dixit (Supra) will not be applicable in the present matter.

24. I have heard Shri Subhash Bisaria, learned counsel for the applicants in APPLICATION U/S 482 Nos. 3475, 3477 of 2026, Shri R.K.S. Suryavanshi, learned counsel for the applicant in APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 3679 of 2026, Shri Rao Narendra Singh and Shri Gyanendra Singh, learned Additional Government Advocates for the State/opposite party no.1 in APPLICATION U/S 482 Nos. 3475, 3477 of 2026, Shri Piyush Kumar Singh, learned AGA for the State/opposite party no.1 in APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 3679 of 2026, and Shri Purnendu Chakravarty, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Shashwat Vidyarthi and Shri Ankit Kumar, Advocates on behalf of opposite party no.2 in APPLICATION U/S 482 Nos. 3475, 3477 of 2026.

25. Notice to opposite party no.2 in APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 3679 of 2026 is dispensed with. It is also to be noted that Shri Purnendu Chakravarty, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Shashwat Vidyarthi and Shri Ankit Kumar, Advocates has put in appearance on behalf of complainant/opposite party no.2 in APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 3477 of 2026 and the complainant/opposite party no.2 of APPLICATION U/S 482 Nos. 3679 and 3477 of 2026 are same.

26. Before proceeding further, it would be apt to peruse the case laws relied upon by learned counsel for the parties as well as the provisions contained in Explanation IV to Section 499 of the Indian Penal Code, which are extracted herein-below:

‘Explanation 4.? No imputation is said to harm a person’s reputation, unless that imputation directly or indirectly, in the estimation of others, lowers the moral or intellectual character of that person, or lowers the character of that person in respect of his caste or of his calling, or lowers the credit of that person, or causes it to be believed that the body of that person is in a loathsome state, or in a state generally considered as disgraceful.

27. Madras High Court in the case of Nakkheeran Gopal v. Rajendran, 2022 SCC OnLine Mad 9871, has considered the proposition of Explanation IV to Section 499 IPC and has observed that it is important to make out the case of defamation as per Explanation 4 is that, only if a person's reputation, character and credit is directly or indirectly, in the estimation of others, is lowered, the offence of defamation would be attracted. Relevant paras are extracted herein-below:

"8. Explanation 4 is relevant here. What is important to make out the case of defamation as per Explanation 4 is that, only if a person's reputation, character and credit is directly or indirectly, in the estimation of others, is lowered, the offence of defamation would be attracted. As rightly pointed out by the learned counsel for the petitioners, the reading of the complaint allegations shows that there is no pleading as to whether respondent's reputation, character and credit is harmed in the estimation of others. Most importantly, the respondent has not cited any witness to speak about his reputation being dented in the estimation of others on reading the article referred in the complaint. Admittedly, no witness was examined to speak about this aspect.

10. The reading of the Complaint shows that the Respondent alleges that the Petitioners in connivance with each other forged the Complainant's Letter head with the sole intention to defame the Complainant and his party and published the article without his knowledge. The allegations are repeatedly made that Respondent's Letterhead is forged and defamatory article was published in the Magazine. However, in the Letters sent to the Petitioners, dated 8.2.2016, it is alleged that Petitioners should have contacted him before publishing the Letter. Publication of the Letter in his Letter pad without his permission is condemnable. It is also claimed that the Xerox copy of Office Letterhead was secured from others and the news was printed. Respondent had taken contradictory stand with regard to the published material in Letterhead. On the one hand, he claims that the Letterhead and the contents are fabricated, on the other hand, he claims that he was not the author of the Complaint and the Petitioner should have got his explanation and permission before publishing the Complaint in the Magazine. Another version is that the Xerox copy of the Letterhead was obtained from someone and the publication was made. The case of the Petitioners is that they got the Complaint impugned from their source and published in the Magazine along with certain other Complaints received against Party Leaders. There is no malice or will in publishing such Letters. It was only their part of job. The Judgments relied and mentioned above make it clear that there should be averment in the Complaint that the allegation made by the Accused were found to be untrue. Not only that, due to the above imputation, the prestige, image and reputation of the Complainant is lowered in the estimation of the public. Admittedly, there is no averments made in the Complaint on these lines. Therefore, this Court is of the considered view that there is no prima facie case made out to take cognizance of the case against the Petitioners for the offences under Section 469 & 500 read with 501 & 502 of Penal Code, 1860."

28. This Court has also considered legal aspect in the case of Sanjay Dixit (Supra). Relevant paras are extracted herein-below:

‘25. The Supreme Court in the case of Nakkheeran Gopal (supra) has observed that it is mandatory under Section 202 Cr.P.C. when the accused is residing outside the jurisdiction of Magistrate, the issuance of process should be postponed. The Magistrate should either inquire the case himself of direct an investigation to be made by police officer or by such other person, he thinks fit for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding. May be investigation by police officer is not required in this case and certainly an enquiry as to whether respondent's reputation is harmed in the estimation of others ought to have been conducted by the Magistrate by examining witnesses which was not done.

26. Section 499 IPC is pertaining to defamation wherein it is provided that whoever, by words either spoken or intended to be read, or by signs or by visible representations, makes or publishes any imputation concerning any person intending to harm, or knowing or having reason to believe that such imputation will harm, the reputation of such person, is said, except in the cases hereinafter expected, to defame that person. It is thus, clear that defamation as mentioned in the opening part of Section 499 IPC is subjected to exception of Explanation-4 wherein it is provided that no imputation is said to harm a person's reputation, unless that imputation directly or indirectly, in the estimation of others, lowers the moral or intellectual character of that person, or lowers the character of that person in respect of his caste or of his calling, or lowers the credit of that person, or causes it to be believed that the body of that person is in a loathsome state, or in a state generally considered as disgraceful.

27. In the present case, there is no evidence produced by opposite party no.2 which supports his version so that his image could have been lowered down in the eyes of others. To constitute an offence of defamation, there has to be imputation and admission made in the manner as provided under the provision for knowing or causing harm or having reason to believe that such imputation will harm the reputation of the person about whom it is made.

29. Delhi High Court has considered the issue of an aggrieved person’ in para 28 of Business Standard Pvt. Ltd. (Supra), in which it has been held that defamation of a class or body of persons is also defamation of individual members of that class or body cannot be said to be not maintainable. Relevant paras are quoted herein-below:

‘23. In the present case, the complainant has not led any evidence to establish how his reputation was harmed or his moral or intellectual character was lowered as a result of the said article. However, he has claimed that he has been asked by his friends to leave RSS as a result of this article but he has not brought anyone in the witness box in support of this assertion and thereby, has failed to prove that article brought any kind of defamation to him or that it has lowered the reputation of RSS in the eyes of his friends or RSS. So, trial court has erred in not applying its mind on this aspect.

24. The complainant claims himself to be Swayamsewak of RSS and its member. But again, he hasn't got any witness examined from RSS or brought any material on record to prove that he is a member of RSS.

28. Learned counsel for petitioners submitted that in Tek Chand Gupta (Supra), the complainant was a member of a body of large size, scope of which was too wide and therefore, the court held that defamation of a class or body of persons is also defamation of individual members of that class or body and a complaint by an individual member of that class or body cannot be said to be not maintainable. However, in the instant case complainant has failed to prove that he is a member of RSS nor he has placed anything on record to prove it and, therefore, he does not fall within the category of ?aggrieved person'

30. In the case of Jyoti Kamal (Supra), this Court has held that in para 26 that mini-trial cannot be done while deciding the case under Section 482 CrPC and if the offense is made out, then the disputed question of fact cannot be gone into. Relevant para is quoted herein-below:

'26. The Court is not required to conduct the mini-trial, at this stage of discharge/quashing of the criminal proceedings. Similarly, in the case of Sampelly Satyanarayana Rao (Supra), Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that while dealing with a quashing petition, the court has ordinarily to proceed on the basis of averments in the complaint. The defence of the accused cannot be considered at that stage. The court, considering the prayer for quashing does not adjudicate upon a disputed question of fact. Similarly, in the case of Neeharika Infrastructure (P) Ltd. (Supra), law is propounded by Hon'ble Supreme Court that while examining an FIR/complaint, quashing of which is sought, the court cannot embark upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR/complaint.'

31. An important fact which has come before this Court is that the complainant in APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 3475 of 2026 is Pyare Lal Shukla, who is an Honorary Clerk at CMS. Similarly, in APPLICATION U/S 482 Nos. 3477 and 3679 of 2026, Surendra Kumar Verma is the complainant, who is working as an Office Secretary at CMS. The witness in APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 3475 of 2026 is Vijay Narayan, who is working as a Clerk at CMS, whereas in APPLICATION U/S 482 Nos. 3477 and 3679 of 2026, the witnesses are Ramdas Gupta and Santosh Tiwari, who are working as Honorary Clerk and Officer on Special Duty, respectively, at CMS. For the sake of convenience, the details are being reproduced in tabular form herein-below:

Application before this Court.	Case Details before the Magistrate	Complainant	Witness(es)
APPLICATION U/s 482 No. 3475 of 2026	Complaint Case No.2668 of 2018	Pyare Lal Shukla, Honorary Clerk at CMS	Vijay Narayan, Clerk at CMS

APPLICATION U/s 482 Nos. 3477, 3679 of 2026	Complaint Case No.2565 of 2018	Surendra Kumar Verma, Office Secretary at CMS	1. Ramdas Gupta, Honorary Clerk at CMS 2. Santosh Tiwari, Officer on Special Duty at CMS

32. The allegation in the complaint is that the reputation of the founder of the school, namely Jagdish Gandhi, has been lowered in 'the estimation of others'. However, an important fact which requires for consideration is that the complainant as well as all the three witnesses in the connected cases are employees of City Montessori School. Explanation IV to Section 499 IPC clearly provides that an imputation would amount to defamation only if it lowers the reputation of a person in 'the estimation of others'. Once the witnesses themselves are employees of the school, this Court is required to examine as to how it can be concluded that the reputation of CMS and its founder had been lowered in the estimation of others, as contemplated under Explanation IV to Section 499 IPC. Thus, prima facie, there appears to be a complete departure from the statutory requirements contained in Explanation IV to Section 499 IPC. The offence of defamation is a serious matter and cannot be taken lightly. Rather, the complainant is required to satisfy all the ingredients provided under Section 499 IPC before criminal liability can be attracted.

33. The witnesses, who belong to CMS, cannot be termed as 'other persons' in whose estimation the reputation of the complainant or the founder of the CMS has allegedly been lowered. The complainants are employees of CMS and the witnesses are also employees of the same institution and, they are espousing their own cause. Accordingly, this Court comes to the conclusion that the essential ingredients of Section 499 IPC have not been satisfied in the present case.

34. Keeping in view the aforesaid discussion, the applications are allowed. The entire proceedings of Complaint Case Nos.2668 and 2565 of 2018 pending before the Magistrate including the impugned summoning orders dated 25.03.2019 and 31.07.2019, respectively, are hereby quashed qua the applicants.

35. No order as to costs.

Held: The judgment cited by counsel for applicant in the case of Himalayan Coop. Group Housing Society (infra), it has been held that Lawyers are perceived to be their client's agents - In the instant case, the judgment would not be applicable for the reason that applicant has filed the instant application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. seeking quashing of entire proceedings and summoning order and for the same cause of action, she had already filed a criminal revision before the Sessions Court - Therefore, filing of instant application is in clear violation of Rule 3 (5) of Chapter XVIII, Part-III of Rules of Court - Thus, the applicant is guilty of misrepresentation, fraud and concealment of material facts - Other judgments cited by counsel for applicant are not applicable to the facts of instant case - Therefore, application is rejected with exemplary cost - Since the application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is rejected on merit, IA No.2 of 2024 (Application for withdrawal of petition) and IA No.5 of 2025 (Application u/s 340 of Cr.P.C. r/w s. 379 of BNSS, 2023) filed by applicant are rejected as infructuous - Consequently, IA No.3 of 2025 (Application on behalf of opposite party no.2 under Rule 3(5) of Chapter XVIII Part-III of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 r/w ss. 379 and 215 of BNSS, 2023 for prosecution of applicant is partly allowed. (Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

1. The present application has been filed seeking quashing of the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No.1914 of 2023, Ghanshyam Soni @ Pappu Vs. Lallu Prasad Soni an others, under Section 420 IPC, Police Station Amethi, District Amethi and the summoning order dated 08.022024 including the bailable warrant dated 03.08.2024 passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Room No.20, Sultanpur.

2. Sri Prafulla Tiwari, learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that earlier the applicant consulted Sri J.N. Mishra, Advocate, for filing a criminal revision against the summoning order dated 08.02.2024, but on being advised to file an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. before this Court against the summoning order, the applicant orally instructed her counsel not to file the criminal revision before the Sessions Court, but despite the aforesaid instruction, Criminal Revision No.91 of 2024 was filed by the Advocate without informing the applicant, in which no interim order was passed. He has further submitted that on 20.09.2024, the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. was filed before this Court challenging the orders dated 08.02.2024 and 03.08.2024 and this Court stayed further proceedings of Criminal Complaint Case No.1914 of 2023, pending before the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.20, Sultanpur vide order dated 26.09.2024.

3. Counsel for the applicant has further submitted that instruction given by the client to his/her Advocate may be oral or written is binding on the counsel, but in the present case in spite of instruction given by the applicant, the counsel had filed the criminal revision before the Sessions

Court without informing to the applicant. It is further submitted that applicant on coming to know about the pendency of the criminal revision being filed in her name through the counter affidavit filed on the behalf of opposite party no.2, which was served on her on 06.11.2024, the applicant being a bona fide litigant, moved an application for withdrawal of the application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to pursue the remedy of criminal revision on 20.11.2024. However, this Court vacated the interim order granted without deciding the application for withdrawal of the application.

4. Counsel for the applicant has further submitted that it is a settled law that a client/litigant cannot at all be made to suffer for the mistake committed by his/her counsel. He has also submitted that the withdrawal application dated 20.11.2024 filed by the applicant is still pending adjudication before this Court and it deserves to be allowed by permitting the applicant to pursue the remedy of criminal revision.

Legal submissions of counsel for the applicant:

5. The contention of counsel for opposite party no.2 that the declaration in terms of Rule 3(5) Chapter XVIII, Part-III of the Allahabad High Court Rules, have not been made by the applicant and there has been material concealment by her in not declaring the pendency of the criminal revision falls on its face as the applicant herself got to know about the pendency of the criminal revision only when she was served the counter affidavit by opposite party no.2 on 06.11.2024 and immediately thereafter the applicant moved an application for withdrawal of the application on 20.11.2024. Therefore, there is no concealment, suppression of material fact or misstatement made by the applicant in terms of Rule 3(5) of Chapter XVIII, Part-III of the Allahabad High Court Rules as the applicant has no knowledge about the pendency of criminal revision at the time of filing the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. as she had specifically instructed her counsel not to file the criminal revision against the impugned order dated 08.02.2024. In fact, the applicant shows her bona fide conduct as she herself moved an application for withdrawal of the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on 20.11.2024 immediately after she came to know about the pendency of the criminal revision.

6. Counsel for the applicant has further submitted that the applicant is not seeking adjudication of her claim on merits and instead she is seeking withdrawal of the present application as she is now in knowledge of the fact that a criminal revision against the impugned summoning order dated 08.02.2024 is pending before the District and Sessions Judge, Sultanpur and she wishes to pursue the same. He has further submitted that allegation of opposite party no.2 that the interim order dated 26.09.2024 was communicated to the trial court by J.N. Mishra. Advocate is unsustainable as the application by means of which the interim order dated 26.09.2024 was communicated to the trial court was preferred by Sri Nagendra Pratap, Advocate as is evident from the application dated 01.10.2024 annexed as Annexure A-1 to the application dated 16.12.2024 filed by the applicant. Even the Vakalatnama filed on behalf of the applicant is in the name of Sri Nagendra Pratap, Advocate. He has, therefore, submitted that there is no concealment of material fact, omission or misstatement on the part of the applicant and there is no violation of Rule 3(5) of Chapter XVIII, Part-III of the Allahabad High Court Rules, rather the applicant to show her bona fide conduct, she herself moved an application for withdrawal of the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on 20.11.2024 immediately after she came to know about the pendency of the criminal revision, therefore, the application for withdrawal of application may kindly be allowed, so that the applicant may pursue her remedy before the Sessions Court in criminal revision.

7. Counsel for the applicant has further submitted that for the fault of the Advocate, the client (applicant) should not suffer because the applicant had instructed her Advocate on the next morning not to file the criminal revision, but he filed the same, therefore, in view of the judgement of the Hon?ble Supreme Court rendered in the case of Himalayan Coop. Group Housing Society Vs. Balwan Singh and others, (2015) 7 SCC 373, the applicant may not be held to be responsible. (Paras 22, 23, 31 and 32).

8. To buttress his argument, counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon the following judgements:-

1. Himalayan Coop. Group Housing Society Vs. Balwan Singh and others, (2015) 7 SCC 373;

2. Ganesh Patel Vs. Umakant Rajoria, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 2050;

3. Asit Kumar Vs. State of West Bengal and others, (2009) 2 SCC 703;

4. Vishnu Agarwal Vs. State of U.P. and another, (2011) 14 SCC 813;

5. Jaspreet Singh Garewal Vs. State of U.P. and another, 2019 SCC OnLine All 3579

6. Keshav Prasad and others Vs. Consolidation Commissioner, Lucknow and others, 2024 SCC OnLine All 8146; and

7. Vikram Bakshi and others Vs. R.P. Khosla and another, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1783.

9. On the other hand, Sri Rakesh Devi Prasad Kumar, assisted by Mr. Narendra Chaunan, counsel for opposite party no.2 has submitted that opposite party no.2 is owner of House No.230, which was earlier numbered as House No.163, Ward No.7, Raipur Fulwari, Town area, Amethi, District Amethi. Mr. Lallu Prasad Soni, Lalji Soni, Pujari Lal Soni and Sangam Lal Soni, residents of the same locality, filed Civil Suit No.1375 of 2013 in the Court of Civil Judge (J.D.), Sultanpur against opposite party no.2 and his brothers and after hearing the parties, the said Suit was dismissed with costs by the Civil Judge, Sultanpur vide judgement dated 17.12.2018. Feeling aggrieved with the said judgement, Mr. Lallu Prasad Soni, Lalji Soni, Pujari Lal Soni and Sangam Lal Soni filed Civil Appeal No.08 of 2019 in the Court of District and Sessions Judge, Sultanpur. During the hearing of the aforesaid appeal, Lallu Prasad Soni, Lalji Soni, Pujari Lal Soni and Sangam Lal Soni produced a certificate allegedly issued by the Nagar Panchayat. Opposite party no.2 has alleged that the said certificate was forged and prepared by the said Lallu Prasad Soni, Lalji Soni, Pujari Lal Soni and Sangam Lal Soni in collusion with the applicant and the then Executive Officer of the Nagar Panchayat. In the said certificate, boundary of the house of opposite party no.2 i.e. House No.230 was shown as the boundary of House No.292. The said certificate was signed by the applicant in the capacity of Chairperson of the Nagar Panchayat, Amethi.

10. Counsel for opposite party no.2 has further submitted that after making the necessary complaint to the police authorities, opposite party no.2 filed Criminal Case No.1914 of 2023, under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. in the Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sultanpur against Mr. Lallu Prasad Soni, Lalji Soni, Pujari Lal Soni and Sangam Lal Soni, including the applicant, on which the Magistrate after considering the complaint and the statement of the complainant, issued summons against the applicant and other accused order dated 08.02.2024. However, despite issuance of the summoning order, applicant and other accused persons did not appear before the Magistrate, therefore, bailable warrant dated 03.08.2024 was issued against them. Feeling aggrieved with the summoning order, applicant filed Criminal Revision No.91 of 2024, under Section 397/399 Cr.P.C. on 07.03.2024 in the Court of District and Sessions Judge, Sultanpur, on which the revisional court passed order on 07.03.2024, whereby the revision was admitted the notices were issued to opposite parties for hearing on stay application and posted the matter to 22.03.2024.

11. It has been submitted by counsel for opposite party no.2 that during the pendency of the aforesaid criminal revision, the applicant filed the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on 18.09.2024 i.e. after six months from the date of filing of the aforesaid criminal revision before this Court for quashing the proceedings of Complaint Case No.1914 of 2023, summoning order dated 08.02.2024 and the order of bailable warrant dated 03.08.2024 issued by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sultanpur by making following statement on oath in paragraph-3 of the application, which reads as under:-

"That no other petition under Section-482 of Cr.P.C. Now under Section-528 of BNSS, 2023 is being filed on behalf of the petitioner before this Hon'ble Court and no other petition is being filed on behalf of the petitioner before Hon'ble High Court of Judicature at Allahabad or here at Lucknow Bench, Lucknow on the same set of facts and subject matter"

12. Counsel for opposite party no.2 has further invited the attention of the Court towards Sub-Rule (5) of Rule-3 (Chapter-XVIII, Part-III), of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, which reads as under:-

‘(5) In first paragraph of application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., criminal revision, transfer application or writ petition (or supporting affidavit thereof) it should be mentioned that no earlier application/criminal revision/writ petition has been filed in Allahabad High Court or Lucknow Bench against the impugned order (if any) on the same or related cause of action or seeking the same or related reliefs, and no such criminal revision or transfer application for the same reliefs, and no such criminal revision or transfer application for the same relief was pending in the lower court. If any such application was pending, details of the same are to be furnished. Any substantial omission or misstatement on these facts would result in dismissal of the petition, imposition of costs and prosecution for perjury.?

13. It has been submitted by counsel for apposite party no.2 that in the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicant deliberately omitted and did not disclose the pendency of Criminal Revision No.91 of 2014 challenging the same summoning order dated 08.02.2024, which has been challenged in the present application, as such the applicant has violated the provisions of Sub-Rule (5) of Rule-3 (Chapter-XVIII, Part-III), of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952.

14. It has further been submitted by counsel for apposite party no.2 that applicant by suppressing the material fact of pendency of criminal revision, in which no interim order was passed, persuaded this Court to pass an interim order in her favour on 26.09.2024 in the present application. Opposite party no.2 filed counter affidavit dated 04.11.2024 annexing a copy of Criminal Revision No.91 of 2024 along with the order-sheet and the order dated 07.03.2024 passed in it, which was served upon the applicant on 06.11.2024. It is submitted that applicant having realized the fraud, omission and misstatement made by her in the present application, filed an application for withdrawal of application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on 20.11.2024 mentioning the brief particulars in paragraphs 3, 4 and 5 of the application, in order to mislead this Court. Opposite party no.2 filed reply to the application for withdrawal of application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on 27.11.2024, specifically denying the averments made by the applicant in the application for withdrawal dated 20.11.2024 and has specifically mentioned in paragraph-5 that Sri J.N. Mishra, Advocate has filed his Vakalatnama on behalf of the applicant in Criminal Case No.1914 of 2023 on 21.08.2024 i.e. prior to filing of the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on 18.09.2024 and he has neither withdrawn his Vakalatnama nor has given ?No Objection Certificate? for filing Vakalatnama by any other Advocate as on 01.10.2024. The applicant has filed her rejoinder affidavit on 16.12.2024 to the reply filed by opposite party no.2 on 27.11.2024.

15. It has further been submitted by counsel for apposite party no.2 that applicant in order to hide her own fraud, omission, misstatement, suppression of facts and documents, filed an application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. read with Section 379 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 making allegation that opposite party no.2 is continuously trying to mislead this Court by way of submitting false affidavits without any particulars and has not come with clean hands before this Court, hence he is liable to be punished by this Court under Section 340 of Cr.P.C. read with Section 379 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023. It is submitted that in the said application, the applicant has nowhere stated that Sri J.N. Mishra, Advocate is not representing her in Criminal Case No.1914 of 2023 before the Magistrate and further she has not stated anywhere that as on 26.09.2024 (the date of interim order passed by this Court) or as on 01.10.2024, Sri J.N. Mishra, Advocate has given his ?No Objection Certificate? to the applicant and was not representing her in the said criminal case. Therefore, the aforesaid application filed by the applicant Under Section 340 of Cr.P.C. read with Section 379 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 deserves to be rejected.

16. It is further submitted by counsel for opposite party no.2 that considering the omissions, misstatements, suppression of material facts and documents by the applicant, opposite party no.2 filed an application on 06.02.2025 under Sub-Rule-5 of Rule-3 of Chapter-XVIII, Part-III of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 read with Section 379 and Section 215 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 for prosecution of the applicant.

Legal Submissions of counsel for opposite party no.2

17. Counsel for opposite party no.2 has submitted that under Sub-Rule-5 of Rule-3 of Chapter-XVIII, Part-III of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, it was mandatory for the applicant while filing the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to disclose specifically that no such criminal revision or transfer application for the same reliefs was pending in the lower court. It was mandatory for the applicant under the said Rule to specifically disclose the pendency of Criminal Revision No.91 of 2024 filed against the summoning order, which was also challenged in the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. It is further submitted that the said non-disclosure, omission and misstatement on the part of the applicant is in clear violation of the said Rule, which clearly provides that any substantial omission or misstatement of the facts as mandated in the said Sub Rule-5 would result in dismissal of the petition making observations about the substantia omission or misstatement, imposition of costs and prosecution for perjury and in the present case all the aforesaid facts are apparent from the record and the pleadings of the applicant herself.

18. It is further submitted that as mentioned above, the applicant has taken the entire judicial process for granted and having failed to obtain any relief from the Sessions Court, she approached this Court by suppressing the material facts and documents pertaining to criminal revision filed by her before the Sessions Court and at the same time, making omission and misstatement in the present application in violation of the mandatory provisions of Sub Rule-5 of Rule-3 of Chapter-XVIII, Part-III of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952. It is submitted that applicant is not an illiterate person and at the relevant time, she was Chairperson of Nagar Panchayat, Amethi. It is submitted that Hon'ble Supreme Court has time and again held that no one can be permitted to pollute the stream of justice by suppressing material facts and documents and by omission or misstatement.

19. To buttress his arguments, counsel for opposite party no.2 has placed reliance upon the following judgments:

1. S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu (dead) by LRs. V. Jagannath (dead) by LRs. and others (1994) 1 SCC 1;

2. Ramjas Foundation and others Vs. Union of India and others, (2010) 14 SCC 38; and

3. Keshav Prasad and others Vs. Consolidation Commissioner, Lucknow and others, 2024 SCC OnLine All 8146.

20. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

21. After hearing the parties? counsel and going through the record, it is evident that summons were issued against the applicant on 08.03.2024 by the trial court. Thereafter, Criminal Revision No.91 of 2024, under Section 397/399 Cr.P.C. was filed on 09.03.2024 against the summons, in which no interim order was passed. The applicant filed the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. during the pendency of the aforesaid criminal revision after six months i.e. on 18.09.2024. Sub-rule (5) Rule 3 of Chapter XVIII, Part-III of the Rules of the Court postulates that criminal revision, transfer application or writ petition (or supporting affidavit thereof), it should be mentioned that no earlier application/criminal revision/writ petition has been filed in Allahabad

High Court or Lucknow Bench against the impugned order (if any) on the same or related cause of action or seeking the same or related reliefs, and no such criminal revision or transfer application for the same reliefs, and no such criminal revision or transfer application for the same relief was pending in the lower court. It is thus clear that it was mandatory for the applicant to disclose the pendency of Criminal Revision No.91 of 2024 in the Sessions Court, in the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in view of the aforesaid Rule of the Allahabad High Court Rules.

22. It is also to be noted that in the aforesaid criminal revision no interim order was granted. The applicant filed the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. before this Court and got an interim order on 26.09.2024. The applicant has taken a plea that the Advocate, who was instructed to file criminal revision before the Sessions Court, was orally instructed not to file the criminal revision, but the same was filed on 09.03.2024 in the morning. It is evident that when opposite party no.2 filed counter affidavit disclosing the fact that the aforesaid criminal revision was filed on 08.03.2024 by the applicant, she has filed an application on 20.11.2024 for withdrawal of the present application in order to suppress the fraud, omission misstatement made by her in the present application. Therefore, the act of the applicant is in clear violation of Sub-rule (5) Rule 3 of Chapter XVIII, Part-III of the Rules of the Court.

23. Hon’ble Supreme Court has deprecated such practice in the case of S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu (supra) and it has been held that a litigant to approach the Court is bound to produce all the documents executed by him which are relevant to the litigation. If he withholds a vital document in order to gain advantage on the other side then he would be guilty of playing fraud on the Court as well as on the opposite party. Paragraphs 1, 7 and 8 of the aforesaid judgement are quoted below:-

‘1. "Fraud avoids all judicial acts, ecclesiastical or temporal" observed Chief Justice Edward Coke of England about three centuries ago. It is the settled proposition of law that a judgment or decree obtained by playing fraud on the court is a nullity and non est in the eyes of law. Such a judgment/decree by the first court or by the highest court has to be treated as a nullity by every court, whether superior or inferior. It can be challenged in any court even in collateral proceedings.

7. The High Court, in our view, fell into patent error. The short question before the High Court was whether in the facts and circumstances of this case, Jagannath obtained the preliminary decree by playing fraud on the court. The High Court, however, went haywire and made observations which are wholly perverse. We do not agree with the High Court that "there is no legal duty cast upon the plaintiff to come to court with a true case and prove it by true evidence". The principle of "finality of litigation" cannot be pressed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants. The courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the court, must come with clean hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not, process of the court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax-evaders, bank-loan-dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court-process a convenient lever to retain the illegal-gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person, who's case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation.

8. The facts of the present case leave no manner of doubt that Jagannath obtained the preliminary decree by playing fraud on the court. A fraud is an act of deliberate deception with the design of securing something by taking unfair advantage of another. It is a deception in order to gain by another's loss. It is a cheating intended to get an advantage. Jagannath was working as a clerk with Chunilal Sowcar. He purchased the property in the court auction on behalf of Chunilal Sowcar. He had, on his own volition, executed the registered release deed (Ex. B-15) in favour of Chunilal Sowcar regarding the property in dispute. He knew that the appellants had paid the total decretal amount to his master Chunilal Sowcar. Without disclosing all these facts, he filed the suit for the partition of the property on the ground that he had purchased the property on his own behalf and not on behalf of Chunilal Sowcar. Non-production and even non-mentioning of the release deed at the trial is tantamount to playing fraud on the court. We do not agree with the observations of the High Court that the appellants- defendants could have easily produced the certified registered copy of Ex. B-15 and non-suited the plaintiff. A litigant, who approaches the court, is bound to produce all the documents executed by him which are relevant to the litigation. If he withholds a vital document in order to gain advantage on the other side then he would be guilty of playing fraud on the court as well as on the opposite party.?

24. Hon?ble Supreme Court in the case of Ramjas Foundation and others (supra) has held that the materialism has overshadowed the old ethos and the quest for personal gain has become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood, misrepresentation and suppression of facts in the Court proceedings. In the last 40 years, a new creed of litigants has cropped up. Those who belonged to this creed do not have any respect for truth. They shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. In order to meet the challenge posed by this new creed of litigants, the Courts have, from time to time evolved new rules and it is now well established that a litigant, who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tented hands, is not entitled to any relief, interim or final. Paragraphs 10 and 14 of the aforesaid judgement are quoted below:-

‘10. We have considered the respective submissions. In our view, the appeal deserves to be dismissed because the appellants have not approached the Court with clean hands. In Ramjas Foundation v. Union of India, acquisition of the land situated at Sadhora Khurd was challenged on the ground of violation of Section 5-A of the Act and also on the ground that land in question is exempted from acquisition because it is a Wakf property. Another plea taken by appellant No.1 was that if the land belonging to educational and charitable institutions established by Hindus and non-Muslims is not treated as Wakf property, then the exemption clause (d) is liable to be declared void for violation of Article 14 of the Constitution. While rejecting the argument that the acquisition proceedings were vitiated due to violation of Section 5-A of the Act, this Court noted that the appellants had made a patently incorrect statement on the issue of denial of opportunity of personal hearing and observed:

‘As regards the objection of the violation of the mandatory provisions of Section 5-A of the Act in not affording an opportunity of personal hearing while deciding such objections, we granted an opportunity to the learned Additional Solicitor General to place material after examining the original record. We granted this opportunity to the respondents on account of the reason that the writ petition had been dismissed by the High Court in limine without issuing notice to the respondents and as such the respondents had not been given any opportunity before the High Court to place any material to refute the allegations made by the appellants in this regard. The Additional Solicitor General during the course of the hearing of the matter placed an order of the Land Acquisition Collector, Delhi dated February 23, 1968 which has been taken on record and for the purposes of identification has been marked as Annexure `X'. A copy of the said Annexure `X' was also given to the learned counsel for the appellants. A perusal of the aforesaid order dated March 22, 1968 clearly shows that the Ramjas Foundation Society was represented through Shri Ratan Lal Gupta, Advocate who was given a personal hearing. From a perusal of the aforesaid document Annexure `X' dated February 23, 1968 it is clear that full opportunity of hearing through counsel was afforded to the Ramjas Foundation. It has been further mentioned in this order that the Ramjas Foundation Society was also allowed to file fresh objections if so desired, but Shri Ratan Lal Gupta, learned Advocate for the petitioner Society declined and stated that there was nothing more to add in the previous objection petition. After bringing the said document Annexure `X' to the notice of the learned counsel for the appellants, no satisfactory explanation or argument came forward on behalf of the appellants. The conduct of the appellants in raising the plea that no opportunity of personal hearing was given to the appellants in respect of the objections filed under Section 5-A the Act was totally baseless and factually incorrect and such conduct is reprehensible. It is well settled that a person invoking an equitable extraordinary jurisdiction of the Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is required to come with clean hands and should not conceal the material facts. The objection regarding not affording an opportunity of personal hearing in respect of objections filed under Section 5-A the Act was one of the main planks of the grounds raised in the writ petition as well as in the special leave petition filed before this Court and ought we know if such ground had not been taken this Court would have entertained this appeal or not. The appellants have taken the advantage of obtaining the stay order also from this Court which is continuing for the last 14 years as the special leave petition was filed in 1978 itself.

It may be further noted that a common objection petition under Section 5-A of the Act in respect of both the lands situated in Mubarikabad as well as in Sadhurakhurd was filed on December 11, 1959 through Shri Ratan Lal Gupta, Advocate. The said objections were heard in the presence of Shri Ratan Lal Gupta, Advocate and disposed of by one common order Annexure `X' and we cannot believe an ipse dixit explanation made orally during the course of arguments on behalf of the appellants that they had no knowledge of any personal hearing being given to Shri Ratan Lal Gupta, Advocate. It is also important to note that no such objection was taken in respect of land in Mubarikabad.?

The Court also criticized appellant No.1 for playing a game of hide and seek and observed:

‘It may be noted that the reference with regard to suit No. 451 of 1971 decided on March 21, 1977 is in respect of the land of petitioners situated in Mubarikabad. It is surprising that though the opportunity was sought for filing a fresh suit, the appellants again filed a Writ Petition No. 106 of 1978 in the High Court on January 7, 1978 which was ultimately dismissed by the High Court in limine on January 31, 1978 by a Division Bench comprising T.P.S. Chawla and Awadh Behari, JJ. In this Writ Petition No. 106 of 1978 the appellants conveniently omitted to mention that the permission to withdraw the Petition No. 213 of 1973 was granted on the statement of Shri M.C. Gupta that his clients reserved the liberty to file a fresh suit and not writ. Thus no liberty was sought or given for filing a fresh writ petition. In any case there were no fresh ground or circumstances available to the appellants to file a fresh Writ Petition No. 106 of 1978 on January 7, 1978 on identical grounds when the earlier Writ Petition No. 213 of 1973 had been dismissed as withdrawn on March 30, 1977. Nothing had happened between March 30, 1977 and January 7, 1978 for giving a fresh cause of action to the appellants to file the Writ Petition No. 106 of 1978. Awadh Behari, J. had dismissed the suit No. 451 of 1971 by order dated March 21, 1977 in regard to the lands in Mubarikabad and he was also one of the Judges of the Division Bench who passed the impugned order dated January 31, 1978 dismissing the writ petition in limine as he was fully aware of the entire background of this litigation. The appellants are themselves responsible for creating confusion in initiating separate proceedings at different periods of time in respect of the lands situated in Mubarikabad and Sadhurakhurd though challenge to the acquisition proceedings was on common grounds. Learned counsel for the appellants was unable to satisfy in respect of such conduct of hide and seek on the part of the appellants. In case, as sought to be explained by Mr. Tarkunde, learned senior counsel for the appellants, the appellants were depending on the result of the civil suit filed in respect of the lands situated in Mubarikabad there was no justification for filing the Writ Petition No. 213 of 1973 in respect of the land situated in Sadhurakhurd as the suit was not decided in 1973 but was in fact dismissed on March 21, 1977. We find no justification for filing the writ petition in respect of the land situated in Sadhurakhurd in 1973 and subsequently withdrawing the writ petition on March 30, 1977 reserving the liberty to file a fresh suit but thereafter again filing the writ petition on January 7, 1978 instead of suit."

11. In S.L.P.(C) No. 15017/2000 and connected matters, appellant No.1 had specifically raised a plea that its property is exempted from acquisition because it is a Wakf property, but failed to convince the Court to nullify the acquisition proceedings on that ground.'

25. Similarly, in the case of Keshav Prasad and others (supra), this Court while considering the judgments rendered by the Hon?ble Supreme Court in the cases of S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu and Ramjas Foundation and others (supra) held that the petition is vague, no personal cause of action has been made out coupled with the fact that the Petition suffers from the concealment of material facts and is an attempt to waste the precious time of the Court by resorting to filing a frivolous petition and if the State Counsel and the Gaon Sabha would not have brought the facts to the notice of the Court, the petitioners would have had a leverage by getting away with concealment and non-disclosure of material facts. Paragraphs 22 and 26 of the aforesaid judgement are quoted below:-

'22. What has been brought on record is an order passed by a Division Bench of this Court wherein the present petitioners had filed a PIL bearing No.667 of 2024 and the Division Bench of this Court by means of order dated 07.08.2024 noticing that the present petitioners had not filed their objections to the basic year Khatauni, hence their case in the shape of a PIL was not maintainable. However, liberty was granted to seek remedy as may be prescribed in law. It is thus urged that all the aforesaid facts which gave a cause of action ought to have been disclosed, hence non-disclosure leads to misrepresentation and petitioners have definitely not come before the Court with clean hands. Accordingly, the petition deserves to be rejected.

26. This Court had the opportunity to examine such an issue in Bhagwan Das Chela Balram Das Vs. District Magistrate Ambedkarnagar and others, 2023 (1) ADJ 342 [LB] wherein this Court with the aid of decision rendered by the Apex Court relating to the issue of concealment of material facts had noticed as under:-

'In Ram Chandra Singh Vs. Savitri Devi and others; (2003) 8 SCC 319 the Hon?ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"15. Commission of fraud on court and suppression of material facts are the core issues involved in these matters. Fraud as is well-known vitiates every solemn act. Fraud and justice never dwells together.

16. Fraud is a conduct either by letter or words, which induces the other person, or authority to take a definite determinative stand as a response to the conduct of former either by word or letter.

17. It is also well settled that misrepresentation itself amounts to fraud. Indeed, innocent misrepresentations may also give reason to claim relief against fraud.

18. A fraudulent misrepresentation is called deceit and consists in leading a man into damage by willfully or recklessly causing him to believe and act on falsehood. It is a fraud in law if a party makes representations which he knows to be false, and injury ensues therefrom although the motive from which the representations proceeded may not have been bad.

19. In Derry v. Peek, [1889] 14 A.C. 337, it was held:

In an 'action of deceit the plaintiff must prove actual fraud. Fraud is proved when it is shown that a false representation has been made knowingly, or without belief in its truth, or recklessly, without caring whether it be true or false.

A false statement, made through carelessness and without reasonable ground for believing it to be true, may be evidence of fraud but does not necessarily amount to fraud. Such a statement, if made in the honest belief that it is true, is not fraudulent and does not render the person make it liable to an action of deceit."

20. In Kerr on Fraud and Mistake, at page 23, it is stated:

"The true and only sound principle to be derived from the cases represented by Slim v. Croucher is this: that a representation is fraudulent not only when the person making it knows it to be false, but also when, as Jessel, M.R., pointed out, he ought to have known, or must be taken to have known, that it was false. This is a sound and intelligible principle, and is, moreover, not inconsistent with Derry v. Peek. A false statement which a person ought to have known was false, and which he must therefore be taken to have known was false, cannot be said to be honestly believed in. "A consideration of the grounds of belief", said Lord Herschell, "is no doubt an important aid in ascertaining whether the belief was really entertained. A man's mere assertion that he believed the statement he made to be true is not accepted as conclusive proof that he did so."

21. In Bigelow on Fraudulent Conveyances at page 1, it is stated:

"If on the facts the average man would have intended wrong, that is enough."

It was further opined:

"This conception of fraud (and since it is not the writer's, he may speak of it without diffidence), steadily kept in view, will render the administration of the law less difficult, or rather will make its administration more effective. Further, not to enlarge upon the last matter, it will do away with much of the prevalent confusion in regard to 'moral' fraud, a confusion which, in addition to other things, often causes lawyers to take refuge behind such convenient and indeed useful but often obscure language as 'fraud upon the law'. What is fraud upon the law? Fraud can be committed only against a being capable of rights, and 'fraud upon the law' darkens counsel. What is really aimed at in most cases by this obscure contrast between moral fraud and fraud upon the law, is a contrast between fraud in the individual's intention to commit the wrong and fraud as seen in the obvious tendency of the act in question."

22. Recently this Court by an order dated 3rd September, 2003 in Ram Preeti Yadav vs. U.P. Board of High School & Intermediate Education & Ors. reported in JT 2003 (Supp. 1) SC 25 held:

"Fraud is a conduct either by letter or words, which induces the other person, or authority to take a definite determinative stand as a response to the conduct of former either by words or letter. Although negligence is not fraud but it can be evidence on fraud. (See Derry vs. Peek [1889] 14 A.C. 337) In Lazarus Estate vs. Berly [1971] 2 W.L.R. 1149 the Court of Appeal stated the law thus:

"I cannot accede to this argument for a moment "no Court in this land will allow a person to keep an advantage which he has obtained by fraud. No judgment of a Court, no order of a Minister, can be allowed to stand if it has been obtained by fraud. Fraud unravels everything". The Court is careful not to find fraud unless it is distinctly pleaded and proved; but once it is proved it vitiates judgments, contracts and all transactions whatsoever."

In S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu vs. Jagannath 1994 (1) SCC 1 this Court stated that fraud avoids all judicial acts, ecclesiastical or temporal."

23. An act of fraud on court is always viewed seriously. A collusion or conspiracy with a view to deprive the rights of the others in relation to a property would render the transaction void ab initio. Fraud and deception are synonymous.

24. In Arlidge & Parry on Fraud, it is stated at page 21:

"Indeed, the word sometime appears to be virtually synonymous wit "deception", as in the offence (now repealed) of obtaining credit by fraud. It is true that in this context "fraud" included certain kind of conduct which did not amount to false pretences, since the definition referred to an obtaining of credit "under false pretences, or by means of any other fraud". In Jones, for example, a man who ordered a meal without pointing out that he had no money was held to be guilty of obtaining credit by fraud but not of obtaining the meal by false pretences: his conduct, though fraudulent, did not amount to a false pretence. Similarly it has been suggested that a charge of conspiracy to defraud may be used where a "false front" has been presented to the public (e.g. a business appears to be reputable and creditworthy when in fact it is neither) but there has been nothing so concrete as a false pretence. However, the concept of deception (as defined in the Theft Act 1968) is broader than that of a false pretence in that (inter alia) it includes a misrepresentation as to the defendant's intentions; both Jones and the "false front" could now be treated as cases of obtaining property by deception."

25. Although in a given case a deception may not amount to fraud, fraud is anathema to all equitable principles and any affair tainted with fraud cannot be perpetuated or saved by the application f any equitable doctrine including res-judicata.

26. In Smt. Shrisht Dhawan vss. M/s. Shaw Brothers 1992 AIR(SC) 1555], it has been held that:

"Fraud and collusion vitiate even the most solemn proceedings in any civilized system of jurisprudence. It is a concept descriptive of human conduct."

27. In S.P. Chengalvaraya vs. Jagannath [1994 (1) SCC 1] this Court in no uncertain terms observed:

"...The principles of "finality of litigation" cannot be passed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants. The Courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the Court, must come with clean hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not process of the Court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax-evaders, bank-loan dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court- process a convenient lever to retain the illegal gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person whose case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the Court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation.... A fraud is an act of deliberate deception with the design of security something by taking unfair advantage of another. It is a deception in order to gain by another's loss. It is a cheating intended to get an advantage... A litigant, who approaches the Court, is bound to produce all the documents executed by him, which are relevant to the litigation. If he withholds a vital document in order to gain advantage on the other side then he would be guilty of playing fraud on the Court as well as on the opposite party."

28. In Indian Bank vs. Satyam Fibers (India) Pvt. Ltd. [1996 (5) SCC 550], this Court after referring to Lazarus Estates (supra) and other cases observed that 'since fraud affects the solemnity, regularity and orderliness of the proceedings of the Court it also amounts to an abuse of the process of the Court, that the Courts have inherent power to set aside an order obtained by practising fraud upon the Court, and that where the Court is misled by a party or the Court itself commits a mistake which prejudices a party, the Court has the inherent power to recall its order".

It was further held:

"The judiciary in India also possesses inherent power, specially under Section 151 CPC, to recall its judgment or order if it is obtained by fraud on Court. In the case of fraud on a party to the suit or proceedings, the Court may direct the affected party to file a separate suit for setting aside the decree obtained by fraud. Inherent powers are powers, which are resident in all Courts, especially of superior jurisdiction. These powers spring not from legislation but from the nature and the constitution of the tribunals or Courts themselves so as to enable them to maintain their dignity, secure obedience to its process and rules, protect its officers from indignity and wrong and to punish unseemly behaviour. This power is necessary for the orderly administration of the Court's business."

29. In Chittaranjan Das vs. Durgapore Project Limited & Ors. 99 CWN 897, it has been held:

"Suppression of a material document which affects the condition of service of the petitioner, would amount to fraud in such matters. Even the principles of natural justice are not required to be complied within such a situation.

It is now well known that a fraud vitiates all solemn acts. Thus, even if the date of birth of the petitioner had been recorded in the service returns on the basis of the certificate produced by the petitioner, the same is not sacrosanct nor the respondent company would be bound thereby.""

In A.V. Papayya Sastry and others Vs. Government of A.P. and others; (2007) 4 SCC 221 the Hon?ble Supreme Court has held as under:

‘21. Now, it is well settled principle of law that if any judgment or order is obtained by fraud, it cannot be said to be a judgment or order in law. Before three centuries, Chief Chief Justice Edward Coke proclaimed; "Fraud avoids all judicial acts, ecclesiastical or temporal".

22. It is thus settled proposition of law that a judgment, decree or order obtained by playing fraud on the Court, Tribunal or Authority is a nullity and non est in the eye of law. Such a judgment, decree or order by the first Court or by the final Court has to be treated as nullity by every Court, superior or inferior. It can be challenged in any Court, at any time, in appeal, revision, writ or even in collateral proceedings.

23. In the leading case of Lazarus Estates Ltd. v. Beasley, (1956) 1 All ER 341 : (1956) 1 QB 702 : (1956) 2 WLR 502, Lord Denning observed:

"No judgment of a court, no order of a Minister, can be allowed to stand, if it has been obtained by fraud."

24. In Duchess of Kingstone, Smith's Leading Cases, 13th Edn., p.644, explaining the nature of fraud, de Grey, C.J. stated that though a judgment would be res judicata and not impeachable from within, it might be impeachable from without. In other words, though it is not permissible to show that the court was 'mistaken', it might be shown that it was 'misled'. There is an essential distinction between mistake and trickery. The clear implication of the distinction is that an action to set aside a judgment cannot be brought on the ground that it has been decided wrongly, namely, that on the merits, the decision was one which should not have been rendered, but it can be set aside, if the court was imposed upon or tricked into giving the judgment.

25. It has been said; Fraud and justice never dwell together (fraus et jus nunquam cohabitant); or fraud and deceit ought to benefit none (fraus et dolus nemini patrocinari debent).

26. Fraud may be defined as an act of deliberate deception with the design of securing some unfair or undeserved benefit by taking undue advantage of another. In fraud one gains at the loss of another. Even most solemn proceedings stand vitiated if they are actuated by fraud. Fraud is thus an extrinsic collateral act which vitiates all judicial acts, whether in rem or in personam. The principle of 'finality of litigation' cannot be stretched to the extent of an absurdity that it can be utilized as an engine of oppression by dishonest and fraudulent litigants.

27. In S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu (dead) by LRs. V. Jagannath (dead) by LRs. & Ors. (1994) 1 SCC 1 : JT 1994 (6) SC 331, this Court had an occasion to consider the doctrine of fraud and the effect thereof on the judgment obtained by a party. In that case, one A by a registered deed, relinquished all his rights in the suit property in favour of C who sold the property to B. Without disclosing that fact, A filed a suit for possession against B and obtained preliminary decree. During the pendency of an application for final decree, B came to know about the fact of release deed by A in favour of C. He, therefore, contended that the decree was obtained by playing fraud on the court and was a nullity. The trial court upheld the contention and dismissed the application. The High Court, however, set aside the order of the trial court, observing that "there was no legal duty cast upon the plaintiff to come to court with a true case and prove it by true evidence". B approached this Court.

28. Allowing the appeal, setting aside the judgment of the High Court and describing the observations of the High Court as 'wholly perverse', Kuldip Singh, J. stated:

"The courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the court, must come with clean-hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not, process of the court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax- evaders, bank-loan- dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court - process a convenient lever to retain the illegal-gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person, who's case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation".

29. The Court proceeded to state: "A litigant, who approaches the court, is bound to produce all the documents executed by him which are relevant to the litigation. If he withholds a vital document in order to gain advantage on the other side then he would he guilty of playing fraud on the court as well as on the opposite party".

30. The Court concluded: "The principle of 'finality of litigation' cannot be pressed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants".

31. In Indian Bank v. Satyam Fibres (India) Pvt. Ltd. (1996) 5 SCC 550 : JT 1996 (7) SC 135, referring to Lazarus Estates and Smith v. East Elloe Rural District Council, 1956 AC 336 : (1956) 1 All ER 855 : (1956) 2 WLR 888, this Court stated;

"22. The judiciary in India also possesses inherent power, specially under Section 151 C.P.C., to recall its judgment or order if it is obtained by Fraud on Court. In the case of fraud on a party to the suit or proceedings, the Court may direct the affected party to file a separate suit for setting aside the Decree obtained by fraud. Inherent powers are powers which are resident in all courts, especially of superior jurisdiction. These powers spring not from legislation but from the nature and the Constitution of the Tribunals or Courts themselves so as to enable them to maintain their dignity, secure obedience to its process and rules, protect its officers from indignity and wrong and to punish unseemly behaviour. This power is necessary for the orderly administration of the Court's business".

32. In United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Rajendra Singh and others., (2000) 3 SCC 581 : JT 2000 (3) SC 151, by practising fraud upon the Insurance Company, the claimant obtained an award of compensation from the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal. On coming to know of fraud, the Insurance Company applied for recalling of the award. The Tribunal, however, dismissed the petition on the ground that it had no power to review its own award. The High Court confirmed the order. The Company approached this Court.

In K.D. Sharma Vs. Steel Authority of India Limited and others; (2008 12 SCC 481, the Hon?ble Apex Court has held as under:

‘34. The jurisdiction of the Supreme Court under Article 32 and of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is extraordinary, equitable and discretionary. Prerogative writs mentioned therein are issued for doing substantial justice. It is, therefore, of utmost necessity that the petitioner approaching the Writ Court must come with clean hands, put forward all the facts before the Court without concealing or suppressing anything and seek an appropriate relief. If there is no candid disclosure of relevant and material facts or the petitioner is guilty of misleading the Court, his petition may be dismissed at the threshold without considering the merits of the claim.

35. The underlying object has been succinctly stated by Scrutton, L.J., in the leading case of R.V. Kensington Income Tax Commissioners, (1917) 1 KB 486 : 86 LJ KB 257 : 116 LT 136 in the following words:

"...it has been for many years the rule of the Court, and one which it is of the greatest importance to maintain, that when an applicant comes to the Court to obtain relief on an ex parte statement he should make a full and fair disclosure of all the material facts- it says facts, not law. He must not misstate the law if he can help it; the Court is supposed to know the law. But it knows nothing about the facts, and the applicant must state fully and fairly the facts; and the penalty by which the Court enforces that obligation is that if it finds out that the facts have not been fully and fairly stated to it the Court will set aside any action which it has taken on the faith of the imperfect statement".

36. A prerogative remedy is not a matter of course. While exercising extraordinary power a Writ Court would certainly bear in mind the conduct of the party who invokes the jurisdiction of the Court. If the applicant makes a false statement or suppresses material fact or attempts to mislead the Court, the Court may dismiss the action on that ground alone and may refuse to enter into the merits of the case by stating "We will not listen to your application because of what you have done". The rule has been evolved in larger public interest to deter unscrupulous litigants from abusing the process of Court by deceiving it.

37. In Kensington Income Tax Commissioner, Viscount Reading, C.J. observed:

"...Where an ex parte application has been made to this Court for a rule nisi or other process, if the Court comes to the conclusion that the affidavit in support of the applicant was not candid and did not fairly state the facts, the Court ought, for its own protection and to prevent an abuse of its process, to refuse to proceed any further with the examination of the merits. This is a power inherent in the Court, but one which should only be used in cases which bring conviction to the mind of the Court that it has been deceived. Before coming to this conclusion a careful examination will be made of the facts as they are and as they have been stated in the applicant's affidavit, and everything will be heard that can be urged to influence the view of the Court when it reads the affidavit and knows the true facts. But if the result of this examination and hearing is to leave no doubt that this Court has been deceived, then it will refuse to hear anything further from the applicant in a proceeding which has only been set in motion by means of a misleading affidavit".

38. The above principles have been accepted in our legal system also. As per settled law, the party who invokes the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 32 or of a High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is supposed to be truthful, frank and open. He must disclose all material facts without any reservation even if they are against him. He cannot be allowed to play `hide and seek' or to `pick and choose' the facts he likes to disclose and to suppress (keep back) or not to disclose (conceal) other facts. The very basis of the writ jurisdiction rests in disclosure of true and complete (correct) facts. If material facts are suppressed or distorted, the very functioning of Writ Courts and exercise would become impossible. The petitioner must disclose all the facts having a bearing on the relief sought without any qualification. This is because, "the Court knows law but not facts".

In Dalip Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others; (2010) 2 SCC 114 Hon'ble the Supreme Court has held as under:

'1. For many centuries, Indian society cherished two basic values of life i.e., `Satya' (truth) and `Ahimsa' (non-violence). Mahavir, Gautam Buddha and Mahatma Gandhi guided the people to ingrain these values in their daily life. Truth constituted an integral part of justice delivery system which was in vogue in pre-independence era and the people used to feel proud to tell truth in the courts irrespective of the consequences. However, post-independence period has seen drastic changes in our value system. The materialism has over-shadowed the old ethos and the quest for personal gain has become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood, misrepresentation and suppression of facts in the court proceedings.

2. In last 40 years, a new creed of litigants has cropped up. Those who belong to this creed do not have any respect for truth. They shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. In order to meet the challenge posed by this new creed of litigants, the courts have, from time to time, evolved new rules and it is now well established that a litigant, who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands, is not entitled to any relief, interim or final.

3. In Hari Narain v. Badri Das AIR 1963 SC 1558, this Court adverted to the aforesaid rule and revoked the leave granted to the appellant by making the following observations:

"It is of utmost importance that in making material statements and setting forth grounds in applications for special leave made under Article 136 of the Constitution, care must be taken not to make any statements which are inaccurate, untrue and misleading. In dealing with applications for special leave, the Court naturally takes statements of fact and grounds of fact contained in the petitions at their face value and it would be unfair to betray the confidence of the Court by making statements which are untrue and misleading. Thus, if at the hearing of the appeal the Supreme Court is satisfied that the material statements made by the appellant in his application for special leave are inaccurate and misleading, and the respondent is entitled to contend that the appellant may have obtained special leave from the Supreme Court on the strength of what he characterizes as misrepresentations of facts contained in the petition for special leave, the Supreme Court may come to the conclusion that in such a case special leave granted to the appellant ought to be revoked."

4. In Welcome Hotel and others v. State of Andhra Pradesh and others etc. AIR 1983 SC 1015, the Court held that a party which has misled the Court in passing an order in its favour is not entitled to be heard on the merits of the case.

5. In G.Narayanswamy Reddi and other v. Governor of Karnataka and another AIR 1991 SC 1726, the Court denied relief to the appellant who had concealed the fact that the award was not made by the Land Acquisition Officer within the time specified in Section 11-A of the Land Acquisition Act because of the stay order passed by the High Court. While dismissing the special leave petition, the Court observed:

"2. .. Curiously enough, there is no reference in the Special Leave Petitions to any of the stay orders and we came to know about these orders only when the respondents appeared in response to the notice and filed their counter affidavit. In our view, the said interim orders have a direct bearing on the question raised and the non-disclosure of the same certainly amounts to suppression of material facts. On this ground alone, the Special Leave Petitions are liable to be rejected. It is well settled in law that the relief under Article 136 of the Constitution is discretionary and a petitioner who approaches this Court for such relief must come with frank and full disclosure of facts. If he fails to do so and suppresses material facts, his application is liable to be dismissed. We accordingly dismiss the Special Leave Petitions."

6. In S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu (dead) by L.Rs. v. Jagannath (dead) by L.Rs. and others JT 1993 (6) SC 331, the Court held that where a preliminary decree was obtained by withholding an important document from the court, the party concerned deserves to be thrown out at any stage of the litigation.

7. In Prestige Lights Ltd. v. State Bank of India (2007) 8 SCC 449, it was held that in exercising power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India the High Court is not just a court of law, but is also a court of equity and a person who invokes the High Court's jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution is duty bound to place all the facts before the court without any reservation. If there is suppression of material facts or twisted facts have been placed before the High Court then it will be fully justified in refusing to entertain petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution. This Court referred to the judgment of Scrutton, L.J. in R v Kensington Income Tax Commissioners (1917) 1 K.B. 486, and observed:

"In exercising jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, the High Court will always keep in mind the conduct of the party who is invoking such jurisdiction. If the applicant does not disclose full facts or suppresses relevant materials or is otherwise guilty of misleading the Court, then the Court may dismiss the action without adjudicating the matter on merits. The rule has been evolved in larger public interest to deter unscrupulous litigants from abusing the process of Court by deceiving it. The very basis of the writ jurisdiction rests in disclosure of true, complete and correct facts. If the material facts are not candidly stated or are suppressed or are distorted, the very functioning of the writ courts would become impossible."

In Bhaskar Laxman Jadhav and others Vs. Karamveer Kakasaheb Wagh Education Society and others; (2013) 11 SCC 531 the Hon?ble Supreme Court has held as under:

‘42. While dealing with the conduct of the parties, we may also notice the submission of learned counsel for respondent No.1 to the effect that the petitioners are guilty of suppression of a material fact from this Court, namely, the rejection on 2nd May 2003 of the first application for extension of time filed by the trustees and the finality attached to it. These facts have not been clearly disclosed to this Court by the petitioners. It was submitted that in view of the suppression, special leave to appeal should not be granted to the petitioners.

43. Learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that no material facts have been withheld from this Court. It was submitted that while the order dated 2nd May 2003 was undoubtedly not filed, its existence was not material in view of subsequent developments that had taken place. We cannot agree.

44. It is not for a litigant to decide what fact is material for adjudicating a case and what is not material. It is the obligation of a litigant to disclose all the facts of a case and leave the decision making to the Court. True, there is a mention of the order dated 2nd May 2003 in the order dated 24th July 2006 passed by the JCC, but that is not enough disclosure. The petitioners have not clearly disclosed the facts and circumstances in which the order dated 2nd May 2003 was passed or that it has attained finality.

45. We may only refer to two cases on this subject. In Hari Narain v. Badri Das, AIR 1963 SC 1558 stress was laid on litigants eschewing inaccurate, untrue or misleading statements, otherwise leave granted to an appellant may be revoked. It was observed as follows:

'It is of utmost importance that in making material statements and setting forth grounds in applications for special leave, care must be taken not to make any statements which are inaccurate, untrue or misleading. In dealing with applications for special leave, the Court naturally takes statements of fact and grounds of fact contained in the petitions at their face value and it would be unfair to betray the confidence of the Court by making statements which are untrue and misleading. That is why we have come to the conclusion that in the present case, special leave granted to the appellant ought to be revoked. Accordingly, special leave is revoked and the appeal is dismissed. The appellant will pay the costs of the respondent.

46. More recently, in Ramjas Foundation vs. Union of India, (2010) 14 SCC 38 the case law on the subject was discussed. It was held that if a litigant does not come to the Court with clean hands, he is not entitled to be heard and indeed, such a person is not entitled to any relief from any judicial forum. It was said:

'The principle that a person who does not come to the court with clean hands is not entitled to be heard on the merits of his grievance and, in any case, such person is not entitled to any relief is applicable not only to the petitions filed under Articles 32, 226 and 136 of the Constitution but also to the cases instituted in others courts and judicial forums. The object underlying the principle is that every court is not only entitled but is duty bound to protect itself from unscrupulous litigants who do not have any respect for truth and who try to pollute the stream of justice by resorting to falsehood or by making misstatement or by suppressing facts which have a bearing on adjudication of the issue(s) arising in the case.''

26. The judgement cited by the counsel for the applicant in the case of Himalayan Coop. Group Housing Society (supra), it has been held that Lawyers are perceived to be their client's agents. The law of agency may not strictly apply to the clarinet-lawyer's relationship as lawyers have certain authority and certain duties. In the present case, the said judgement would not be applicable for the reason that applicant has filed the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. seeking quashing of the entire proceedings of Criminal Case No.1914 of 2023 and the summoning order and for the same cause of action, she had already filed a criminal revision before the Sessions Court. Therefore, filing of the present application is in clear violation of Sub-rule (5) Rule 3 of Chapter XVIII, Part-III of the Rules of the Court. Thus, the applicant is guilty of misrepresentation, fraud and concealment of material facts. It is settled law that fraud vitiates all proceedings and one who has committed fraud, cannot claim any relief. Other judgements cited by the counsel for the applicant are not applicable to the facts of the present case. Therefore, the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is liable to be rejected with exemplary cost.

27. Accordingly, application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., is rejected with exemplary cost of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rupees One Lakh). Out of the said amount, Rs. 30,000/- shall be paid to opposite party no.2 after due verification and the remaining amount of Rs.70,000/- shall be paid in the account of the State Legal services Authority. The cost shall be deposited by the applicant within two months from the date of pronouncement of the judgment, failing which the same shall be realized as areas of land revenue.

28. Since the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is rejected on merit, IA No.2 of 2024 (Application for withdrawal of petition) and IA No.5 of 2025 (Application under Section 340 of Cr.P.C. read with Section 379 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023) filed by the applicant are rejected as infructuous. Consequently, IA No.3 of 2025 (Application on behalf of opposite party no.2 under sub-rule(5) of Rule 3 of Chapter XVIII Part-III of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 read with Section 379 and Section 215 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 for prosecution of applicant is partly allowed.

29. Before parting with, it is to be noted that in most of the applications filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., this Court has noticed that only pendency of earlier application/criminal revision/writ petition filed in Allahabad High Court or Lucknow Bench against the impugned order (if any) on the same or related cause of action or seeking the same or related reliefs, has been mentioned, whereas according to Rule 3(5), Chapter XVIII Part-III of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, pendency of such criminal revision or transfer application for the same reliefs pending in the lower court, should also be mentioned as like the present application.

30. In view of the aforesaid, Registry is directed to strictly adhere to Rule 3(5), Chapter XVIII Part-III of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 while passing the applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in future without fail.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): not mentioned.
Counsel for Respondent(s): not mentioned.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sandeep Jain, J.)

1. The instant application has been filed for the following reliefs:-

"It is, therefore, most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to stay the impugned summoning order dated 03.07.2006 passed in Complaint Case No.958 of 2006 (Hari Om Pathak Vs. Rahul & others) under Section 138 of the N.I. Act, Police Station Kavi Nagar, District Ghaziabad.

It is, further prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to quash the proceedings of Case No.958 of 2006 (Hari Om Pathak Vs. Rahul & others) under Section 138 of the N.I. Act pending in the court of Special Judge, C.B.I., Ghaziabad."

2. The factual matrix of the case is that the complainant/respondent no. 2, Hari Om Pathak, filed a criminal complaint against the applicant Madhu Singh and co-accused Rahul Thind (her friend) under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, as well as under Section 420 IPC, with the allegations that relations between the complainant and Rahul Thind were very cordial ad due to this, the complainant advanced Rs. 3,00,000/- and Rs. 5,00,000/- in December, 2004 as loan for business purposes, on the assurance that the said amount would be repaid within two months, failing which interest @ 18% per annum would be paid.

3. Relying upon the said assurance, the complainant advanced the aforesaid sum to Rahul Thind. However, upon expiry of the stipulated period, the amount was not repaid. Upon repeated demands, Rahul Thind issued two cheques bearing no. 128736 dated 01.04.2006 for Rs. 3,00,000/- and cheque no. 128733 dated 04.04.2006 for Rs. 5,00,000/-, both drawn on HDFC Bank Ltd., Raj Nagar, Ghaziabad, with an assurance that the same would be honoured upon presentation.

4. Acting upon such assurance, the complainant presented the cheques in his bank account; however, both cheques were dishonoured and returned on 08.04.2006 and 13.04.2006 with the remark that the account of the drawer had been closed.

5. Thereafter, upon receiving information from the bank, the complainant consulted his counsel Shri Dhanesh Kumar Sharma, who advised issuance of a legal notice. Accordingly, a statutory notice dated 05.05.2006 was sent through registered post to both accused persons, which was duly served upon them on 22.05.2006. Despite service of notice, the cheque amount was not paid within the statutory period. Instead, a reply containing incorrect and misleading assertions was sent on 22.05.2006.

6. It is the case of the complainant that accused Rahul Thind, with fraudulent intent and with the object of cheating, obtained the aforesaid amount on false assurances and thereafter, deliberately issued cheques which were dishonoured, and even closed the bank account to evade liability. The accused/petitioner Madhu Singh was also jointly and severally liable to repay the loan. On these allegations, the complaint was instituted on 12.06.2006 before the competent court, to summon and punish the accused for offence under Sections 138,141 of the NI Act and Section 420 IPC and for ordering the accused to pay twice the cheque amount with 18% interest per annum.

7. Before the trial court, the complainant submitted his affidavit in evidence under Section 200 Cr.P.C., and produced relevant documentary evidence - the original cheques bearing nos. 128736 and 128733, bank return memos, postal receipts, and a copy of the legal notice issued under Section 138 of the N.I. Act.

8. Upon consideration of the material on record, the trial court, vide impugned summoning order dated 03.07.2006, summoned the accused persons to face trial only under Section 138 of the N.I. Act. The said order has been challenged only by the accused/applicant Madhu Singh by filing the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

9. Learned counsel for the applicant contended that although the cheques were issued from a joint account maintained by Rahul Thind and Madhu Singh, the same were signed exclusively by Rahul Thind. It is submitted that the applicant Madhu Singh is not a signatory to the cheques and, therefore, no offence under Section 138 of the N.I. Act is made out against her.

10. It is further contended that the present case does not involve vicarious liability under Section 141 of the N.I. Act, which applies only to companies and not to individuals. Hence, only the drawer of the cheque, i.e., the signatory Rahul Thind, can be held liable for dishonour of the cheque.

11. In support of his submissions, learned counsel has placed reliance upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Aparna A. Shah vs. Sheth Developers Pvt. Ltd. & Another (2013) 8 SCC 71, Jugesh Sehgal vs. Shamsher Singh Gogi (2009) 14 SCC 683 and Alka Khandu Avhad vs. Amar Syamprasad Mishra & Another (2021) 4 SCC 675.

12. Despite sufficient service, none appeared on behalf of the complainant/respondent no. 2.

13. I have heard learned counsel for the applicant and perused the record, as well as the case laws cited.

14. The Apex Court in Jugesh Sehgal (supra) while elaborately considering the essential ingredients constituting an offence under Section 138 of the N.I. Act, held as under:-.

"12. Section 138 of the Act reads as follows:

'138. Dishonour of cheque for insufficiency, etc., of funds in the account.' Where any cheque drawn by a person on an account maintained by him with a banker for payment of any amount of money to another person from out of that account for the discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or other liability, is returned by the bank unpaid, either because of the amount of money standing to the credit of that account is insufficient to honour the cheque or that it exceeds the amount arranged to be paid from that account by an agreement made with that bank, such person shall be deemed to have committed an offence and shall, without prejudice to any other provision of this Act, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine which may extend to twice the amount of the cheque, or with both:

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall apply unless'

(a) the cheque has been presented to the bank within a period of six months from the date on which it is drawn or within the period of its validity, whichever is earlier;

(b) the payee or the holder in due course of the cheque, as the case may be, makes a demand for the payment of the said amount of money by giving a notice in writing, to the drawer of the cheque, within thirty days of the receipt of information by him from the bank regarding the return of the cheque as unpaid; and

(c) the drawer of such cheque fails to make the payment of the said amount of money to the payee or as the case may be, to the holder in due course of the cheque within fifteen days of the receipt of the said notice.

Explanation. For the purposes of this section, 'debt or other liability' means a legally enforceable debt or other liability.'

13. It is manifest that to constitute an offence under Section 138 of the Act, the following ingredients are required to be fulfilled:

(i) a person must have drawn a cheque on an account maintained by him in a bank for payment of a certain amount of money to another person from out of that account;

(ii) the cheque should have been issued for the discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or other liability;

(iii) that cheque has been presented to the bank within a period of six months from the date on which it is drawn or within the period of its validity whichever is earlier;

(iv) that cheque is returned by the bank unpaid, either because of the amount of money standing to the credit of the account is insufficient to honour the cheque or that it exceeds the amount arranged to be paid from that account by an agreement made with the bank;

(v) the payee or the holder in due course of the cheque makes a demand for the payment of the said amount of money by giving a notice in writing, to the drawer of the cheque, within 15 days of the receipt of information by him from the bank regarding the return of the cheque as unpaid;

(vi) the drawer of such cheque fails to make payment of the said amount of money to the payee or the holder in due course of the cheque within 15 days of the receipt of the said notice.

Being cumulative, it is only when all the aforementioned ingredients are satisfied that the person who had drawn the cheque can be deemed to have committed an offence under Section 138 of the Act.

16. The next question for consideration is whether or not in the light of the aforementioned factual position, as projected in the complaint itself, it was a fit case where the High Court should have exercised its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code'

17. The scope and ambit of powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code has been enunciated and reiterated by this Court in a series of decisions and several circumstances under which the High Court can exercise jurisdiction in quashing proceedings have been enumerated. Therefore, it is unnecessary to burden the judgment by making reference to all the decisions on the point. It would suffice to state that though the powers possessed by the High Courts under the said provision are very wide but these should be exercised in appropriate cases, ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone the courts exist.

18. The inherent powers do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the High Court to act according to whim or caprice. The powers have to be exercised sparingly, with circumspection and in the rarest of rare cases, where the Court is convinced, on the basis of material on record, that allowing the proceedings to continue would be an abuse of the process of the court or that the ends of justice require that the proceedings ought to be quashed. [See Janata Dal v. H.S. Chowdhary [(1992) 4 SCC 305 : 1993 SCC (Cri) 36] , Kurukshetra University v. State of Haryana [(1977) 4 SCC 451 : 1977 SCC (Cri) 613] (SCC p. 451, para 2) and State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] .]

19. Although in Bhajan Lal case [1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] , the Court by way of illustration formulated as many as seven categories of cases, wherein the extraordinary power under the aforestated provisions could be exercised by the High Court to prevent abuse of process of the court yet it was clarified that it was not possible to lay down precise and inflexible guidelines or any rigid formula or to give an exhaustive list of the circumstances in which such power could be exercised.

20. The purport of the expression ‘rarest of rare cases’ has been explained very recently in Som Mittal v. Govt. of Karnataka [(2008) 3 SCC 574 : (2008) 1 SCC (L&S) 910 : (2008) 2 SCC (Cri) 1] . Speaking for the three-Judge Bench, the Hon'ble the Chief Justice said: (SCC pp. 580-81, para 9)

‘9. When the words ‘rarest of rare cases’ are used after the words ‘ sparingly and with circumspection while describing the scope of Section 482, those words merely emphasise and reiterate what is intended to be conveyed by the words ‘sparingly and with circumspection . They mean that the power under Section 482 to quash proceedings should not be used mechanically or routinely, but with care and caution, only when a clear case for quashing is made out and failure to interfere would lead to a miscarriage of justice. The expression ‘rarest of rare cases’ is not used in the sense in which it is used with reference to punishment for offences under Section 302 IPC, but to emphasise that the power under Section 482 CrPC to quash the FIR or criminal proceedings should be used sparingly and with circumspection.’

21. Bearing in mind the above legal position, we are of the opinion that it was a fit case where the High Court, in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code, should have quashed the complaint under Section 138 of the Act."

15. Further, the Apex Court in Aparna A. Shah (supra), has considered the issue as to whether all joint account holders can be held liable for dishonour of cheque, when a cheque is issued from a joint account. It was held as under:-

"14. In Jugesh Sehgal [(2009) 14 SCC 683 : (2009) 5 SCC (Civ) 482 : (2010) 2 SCC (Cri) 218] , after noting the ingredients for attracting Section 138 on the facts of the case, this Court concluded that there is no case to proceed under Section 138 of the Act. In that case, on 20-1-2001, the complainant filed an FIR against all the accused for the offence under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 and 406 of the Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as ?IPC?) and there was hardly any dispute that the cheque, subject-matter of the complaint under Section 138 of the NI Act, had not been drawn by the appellant on an account maintained by him in Indian Bank, Sonepat Branch. In the light of the ingredients required to be fulfilled to attract the provisions of Section 138, this Court, after finding that there is little doubt that the very first ingredient of Section 138 of the NI Act enumerated above is not satisfied and concluded that the case against the appellant for having committed an offence under Section 138 cannot be proved.

15. In S.K. Alagh v. State of U.P. [(2008) 5 SCC 662 : (2008) 2 SCC (Cri) 686] this Court held: (SCC p. 667, para 19)

?19. - If and when a statute contemplates creation of such a legal fiction, it provides specifically therefor. In absence of any provision laid down under the statute, a Director of a company or an employee cannot be held to be vicariously liable for any offence committed by the company itself. (See Sabitha Ramamurthy v. R.B.S. Channabasavaradhya [(2006) 10 SCC 581 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 621] .)

16. In Sham Sunder v. State of Haryana [(1989) 4 SCC 630 : 1989 SCC (Cri) 783] , this Court held as under: (SCC p. 632, para 9)

‘9. ‘ The penal provision must be strictly construed in the first place. Secondly, there is no vicarious liability in criminal law unless the statute takes that also within its fold. Section 10 does not provide for such liability. It does not make all the partners liable for the offence whether they do business or not.’

17. As rightly pointed out by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellant, the interpretation sought to be advanced by the respondents would add words to Section 141 and extend the principle of vicarious liability to persons who are not named in it.

18. In the case on hand, we are concerned with criminal liability on account of dishonour of a cheque. It primarily falls on the drawer, if it is a company, then drawer company and is extended to the officers of the company. The normal rule in the cases involving criminal liability is against vicarious liability. To put it clear, no one is to be held criminally liable for an act of another. This normal rule is, however, subject to exception on account of specific provision being made in statutes extending liability to others. For example, Section 141 of the NI Act is an instance of specific provision that in case an offence under Section 138 is committed by a company, the criminal liability for dishonour of a cheque will extend to the officers of the company. As a matter of fact, Section 141 contains conditions which have to be satisfied before the liability can be extended. Inasmuch as the provision creates a criminal liability, the conditions have to be strictly complied with. In other words, the persons who had nothing to do with the matter, need not be roped in. A company being a juristic person, all its deeds and functions are the result of acts of others. Therefore, the officers of the company, who are responsible for the acts done in the name of the company, are sought to be made personally liable for the acts which result in criminal action being taken against the company. In other words, it makes every person who, at the time the offence was committed, was in charge of, and was responsible to the company for the conduct of business of the company, as well as the company, liable for the offence. It is true that the proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 141 enables certain persons to prove that the offence was committed without their knowledge or that they had exercised all due diligence to prevent commission of the offence. The liability under Section 141 of the NI Act is sought to be fastened vicariously on a person connected with the company, the principal accused being the company itself. It is a departure from the rule in criminal law against vicarious liability.

19. It is not in dispute that the first respondent has not filed any complaint under any other provisions of the Penal Code and, therefore, the argument pertaining to the intention of the parties is completely misconceived. We were taken through the notice issued under the provisions of Section 138, reply given thereto, copy of the complaint and the order issuing process. In this regard, Mr Mukul Rohatgi, learned Senior Counsel for the respondent after narrating the involvement of the appellant herein and her husband contended that they cannot be permitted to raise any objection on the ground of concealing/suppressing material facts within her knowledge. For the said purpose, he relied on Oswal Fats and Oils Ltd. v. Commr. (Admn.) [(2010) 4 SCC 728 : (2010) 2 SCC (Civ) 237] , Balwantrai Chimanlal Trivedi v. M.N. Nagrashna [AIR 1960 SC 1292] , J.P. Builders v. A. Ramadas Rao [(2011) 1 SCC 429 : (2011) 1 SCC (Civ) 227] . Inasmuch as the appellant had annexed the relevant materials, namely, copy of notice, copy of reply, copy of the complaint and the order issuing process which alone is relevant for consideration in respect of complaint under Section 138 of the NI Act, the argument of the learned Senior Counsel for Respondent 1 that the stand of the appellant has to be rejected for suppressing of material facts or relevant facts, cannot stand. In such circumstances, we are of the view that the case law relied upon by contesting Respondent 1 is inapplicable to the facts of the present case.

20. Mr Mukul Rohatgi, learned Senior Counsel for Respondent 1, by drawing our attention to the definition of ‘person’ in Section 3(42) of the General Clauses Act, 1897 submitted that in view of the various circumstances mentioned, the appellant herein being wife, is liable for criminal prosecution. He also submitted that in view of the Explanation in Section 141(2) of the NI Act, the appellant wife is being prosecuted as an association of individual. In our view, all the above contentions are unacceptable since it was never the case of Respondent 1 in the complaint filed before the learned Magistrate that the appellant wife is being prosecuted as an association of individuals and, therefore, on this ground alone, the above submission is liable to be rejected. Since, this expression has not been defined, the same has to be interpreted ejusdem generis having regard to the purpose of the principle of vicarious liability incorporated in Section 141. The terms ?complaint?, ‘persons’, ‘association of persons’, ‘company’ and ‘Directors’ have been explained by this Court in Raghu Lakshminarayanan v. Fine Tubes [(2007) 5 SCC 103 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 455] .

21. The above discussion with reference to Section 138 and the materials culled out from the statutory notice, reply, copy of the complaint, order, issuance of process, etc. clearly show only the drawer of the cheque being responsible for the same.

22. In addition to our conclusion, it is useful to refer to some of the decisions rendered by various High Courts on this issue.

23. The learned Single Judge of the Madras High Court in Devendra Pundir v. Rajendra Prasad Maurya [2008 Cri LJ 777 (Mad)] , following decisions of this Court, has concluded thus:

'7. This Court is of the considered view that the above proposition of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the decision of Fine Tubes [(2007) 5 SCC 103 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 455] is squarely applicable to the facts of the instant case. Even in this case, as already pointed out, the first accused is admittedly the sole proprietrix of the concern, namely, ?Kamakshi Enterprises? and as such, the question of the second accused to be vicariously held liable for the offence said to have been committed by the first accused under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act not at all arise.'

After saying so, the learned Single Judge, quashed the proceedings initiated against the petitioner therein and permitted the Judicial Magistrate to proceed and expedite the trial in respect of others.

24. In Gita Berry v. Genesis Educational Foundation [(2008) 151 DLT 155] , the petitioner therein was wife and she filed a petition under Section 482 of the Code seeking quashing of the complaint filed under Section 138 of the NI Act. The case of the petitioner therein was that the offence under Section 138 of the Act cannot be said to have been made out against her only on the ground that she was a joint account-holder along with her husband. It was pointed out that she has neither drawn nor issued the cheque in question and, therefore, according to her, the complaint against her was not maintainable. The learned Single Judge of the High Court of Delhi, after noting that the complaint was only under Section 138 of the Act and not under Section 420 IPC and pointing out that nothing was elicited from the complainant to the effect that the petitioner was responsible for the cheque in question, quashed the proceedings insofar as the petitioner therein.

25. In Bandeep Kaur v. Avneet Singh [(2008) 2 PLR 796] , in a similar situation, the learned Single Judge of the Punjab and Haryana High Court held that in case the drawer of a cheque fails to make the payment on receipt of a notice, then the provisions of Section 138 of the Act could be attracted against him only. The learned Single Judge further held that though the cheque was drawn to a joint bank account which is to be operated by anyone i.e. the petitioner or by her husband, but the controversial document is the cheque, the liability regarding dishonouring of which can be fastened on the drawer of it. After saying so, learned Single Judge accepted the plea of the petitioner and quashed the proceedings insofar as it relates to her and permitted the complainant to proceed further insofar as against others.

26. In the light of the principles as discussed in the earlier paragraphs, we fully endorse the view expressed by the learned Judges of the Madras [Devendra Pundir v. Rajendra Prasad Maurya, 2008 Cri LJ 777 (Mad)] , Delhi [Gita Berry v. Genesis Educational Foundation, (2008) 151 DLT 155] and Punjab and Haryana [(2008) 2 PLR 796] High Courts.

27. In the light of the above discussion, we hold that under Section 138 of the Act, it is only the drawer of the cheque who can be prosecuted. In the case on hand, admittedly, the appellant is not a drawer of the cheque and she has not signed the same. A copy of the cheque was brought to our notice, though it contains the name of the appellant and her husband, the fact remains that her husband alone had put his signature. In addition to the same, a bare reading of the complaint as also the affidavit of examination-in-chief of the complainant and a bare look at the cheque would show that the appellant has not signed the cheque.

28. We also hold that under Section 138 of the NI Act, in case of issuance of cheque from joint accounts, a joint account-holder cannot be prosecuted unless the cheque has been signed by each and every person who is a joint account-holder. The said principle is an exception to Section 141 of the NI Act which would have no application in the case on hand. The proceedings filed under Section 138 cannot be used as arm-twisting tactics to recover the amount allegedly due from the appellant. It cannot be said that the complainant has no remedy against the appellant but certainly not under Section 138. The culpability attached to the dishonour of a cheque can, in no case ?except in case of Section 141 of the NI Act? be extended to those on whose behalf the cheque is issued. This Court reiterates that it is only the drawer of the cheque who can be made an accused in any proceeding under Section 138 of the Act. Even the High Court has specifically recorded the stand of the appellant that she was not the signatory of the cheque but rejected the contention that the amount was not due and payable by her solely on the ground that the trial is in progress. It is to be noted that only after issuance of process, a person can approach the High Court seeking quashing of the same on various grounds available to him. Accordingly, the High Court was clearly wrong in holding that the prayer of the appellant cannot even be considered. Further, the High Court itself has directed the Magistrate to carry out the process of admission/denial of documents. In such circumstances, it cannot be concluded that the trial is in advanced stage."

16. The Apex Court in the case of Mainuddin Abdul Sattar Shaikh vs. D. Salvi (2015) 9 SCC 622, held as under:-

"9. From a bare reading of Section 138 of the NI Act, the following essentials have to be met for attracting a liability under the section. The first and foremost being that the person who is to be made liable should be the drawer of the cheque and should have drawn the cheque on an account maintained by him with a banker for payment of any amount of money to another person from out of that account for discharge in whole or part, of any debt or other liability. We see that from the bare text of the section it has been stated clearly that the person, who draws a cheque on an account maintained by him, for paying the payee, alone attracts liability."

(emphasis supplied)

17. Similarly, the Apex Court in Alka Khandu Avhad (supra), reiterated that in the case of a joint bank account, only the person who has signed the cheque can be prosecuted for its dishonour. It was held as under:-

"8. We have heard the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respective parties at length, considered material on record and also considered the averments and allegations in the complaint. It emerges from the record that the dishonoured cheque was issued by original Accused 1 husband of the appellant. It was drawn from the bank account of original Accused 1. The dishonoured cheque was signed by original Accused 1. Therefore, the dishonoured cheque was signed by original Accused 1 and it was drawn on the bank account of original Accused 1. The appellant herein-original Accused 2 is neither the signatory to the cheque nor the dishonoured cheque was drawn from her bank account. That the account in question was not a joint account. In the light of the aforesaid facts, it is required to be considered whether the appellant herein-original Accused 2 can be prosecuted for the offence punishable under Section 138 read with Section 141 of the NI Act'

9. On a fair reading of Section 138 of the NI Act, before a person can be prosecuted, the following conditions are required to be satisfied:

9.1. That the cheque is drawn by a person and on an account maintained by him with a banker.

9.2. For the payment of any amount of money to another person from out of that account for the discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or other liability.

9.3. The said cheque is returned by the bank unpaid, either because of the amount of money standing to the credit of that account is insufficient to honour the cheque or that it exceeds the amount arranged to be paid from that account.

10. Therefore, a person who is the signatory to the cheque and the cheque is drawn by that person on an account maintained by him and the cheque has been issued for the discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or other liability and the said cheque has been returned by the bank unpaid, such person can be said to have committed an offence. Section 138 of the NI Act does not speak about the joint liability. Even in case of a joint liability, in case of individual persons, a person other than a person who has drawn the cheque on an account maintained by him, cannot be prosecuted for the offence under Section 138 of the NI Act. A person might have been jointly liable to pay the debt, but if such a person who might have been liable to pay the debt jointly, cannot be prosecuted unless the bank account is jointly maintained and that he was a signatory to the cheque.

11. Now, so far as the case on behalf of the original complainant that the appellant herein-original Accused 2 can be convicted with the aid of Section 141 of the NI Act is concerned, the aforesaid has no substance.

12. Section 141 of the NI Act is relating to the offence by companies and it cannot be made applicable to the individuals. The learned counsel appearing on behalf of the original complainant has submitted that ?company? means any body corporate and includes, a firm or other association of individuals and therefore in case of a joint liability of two or more persons it will fall within 'other association of individuals' and therefore with the aid of Section 141 of the NI Act, the appellant who is jointly liable to pay the debt, can be prosecuted. The aforesaid cannot be accepted. Two private individuals cannot be said to be 'other association of individuals'. Therefore, there is no question of invoking Section 141 of the NI Act against the appellant, as the liability is the individual liability (may be a joint liabilities), but cannot be said to be the offence committed by a company or by it corporate or firm or other associations of individuals. The appellant herein is neither a Director nor a partner in any firm who has issued the cheque. Therefore, even the appellant cannot be convicted with the aid of Section 141 of the NI Act. Therefore, the High Court has committed a grave error in not quashing the complaint against the appellant for the offence punishable under Section 138 read with Section 141 of the NI Act. The criminal complaint filed against the appellant for the offence punishable under Section 138 read with Section 141 of the NI Act, therefore, can be said to be abuse of process of law and therefore the same is required to be quashed and set aside."

18. The Apex Court in the case of Bijoy Kumar Moni vs. Paresh Manna and Another 2024 SCC OnLine SC 3833, held as under:-

?39. What invariably follows from a perusal of the aforesaid provisions is that it is only the drawer of the cheque who can be held liable under Section 138. Section 141 is an exception to this scheme of the NI Act and provides for vicarious liability of persons other than the drawer of the cheque in cases where the drawer of the cheque under Section 138 is a corporate person.

40. The question as to whether a person who was not the drawer of the cheque upon an account maintained by him could be held to be liable for an offence under Section 138 of the NI Act fell for the consideration of this Court in the case of P.J. Agro Tech Ltd. v. Water Base Ltd. reported in (2010) 12 SCC 146. The Court construed the provision strictly and answered the question in the negative. The relevant observations are reproduced hereinbelow:

‘11. From the submissions made on behalf of the respective parties, it is quite apparent that the short point for decision in this appeal is whether a complaint under Section 138 of the 1881 Act would be maintainable against a person who was not the drawer of the cheque from an account maintained by him, which ultimately came to be dishonoured on presentation.

xxx xxx xxx

13. From a reading of the said section, it is very clear that in order to attract the provisions thereof a cheque which is dishonoured will have to be drawn by a person on an account maintained by him with the banker for payment of any amount of money to another person from out of that account for the discharge, in whole or in part of any debt or other liability. It is only such a cheque which is dishonoured which would attract the provisions of Section 138 of the above Act against the drawer of the cheque.

14. In the instant case, the cheque which had been dishonoured may have been issued by Respondent 11 for discharging the dues of Appellant 1 Company and its Directors to Respondent 1 Company and the respondent Company may have a good case against Appellant 1 Company for recovery of its dues before other fora, but it would not be sufficient to attract the provisions of Section 138 of the 1881 Act. The appellant Company and its Directors cannot be made liable under Section 138 of the 1881 Act for a default committed by Respondent 11. An action in respect of a criminal or a quasi-criminal provision has to be strictly construed in keeping with the provisions alleged to have been violated. The proceedings in such matters are in personam and cannot be used to foist an offence on some other person, who under the statute was not liable for the commission of such offence.'

41. In Jugesh Sehgal v. Shamsher Singh Gogi reported in (2009) 14 SCC 683, this Court emphasised on the importance of the dishonoured cheque having been drawn by the accused person on an account held in his name for the offence to be made out and held thus:

'22. As already noted hereinbefore, in Para 3 of the complaint, there is a clear averment that the cheque in question was issued from an account which was nonexistent on the day it was issued or that the account from where the cheque was issued 'pertained to someone else'. As per the complainant's own pleadings, the bank account from where the cheque had been issued, was not held in the name of the appellant and therefore, one of the requisite ingredients of Section 138 of the Act was not satisfied. Under the circumstances, continuance of further proceedings in the complaint under Section 138 of the Act against the appellant would be an abuse of the process of the court. In our judgment, therefore, the decision of the High Court cannot be sustained.'

42. The aforesaid discussion makes it clear that as per the legislative scheme it is only the drawer of the cheque who is sought to be made liable for the offence punishable under Section 138 of the NI Act?"

(emphasis supplied)

19. From the aforesaid judicial pronouncements, it is evident that Section 141 of the N.I. Act, which deals with vicarious liability, is applicable only to companies and partnership firms and not to individuals. Consequently, joint bank account holders cannot be prosecuted unless they are signatories to the dishonoured cheque.

20. In the present case, it is not disputed that the cheques in question were issued from a joint bank account maintained by Rahul Thind and Madhu Singh. However, it is equally undisputed that the cheques were signed solely by Rahul Thind. Therefore, in light of the settled legal position, the applicant Madhu Singh, not being a signatory to the cheques, cannot be held liable for the offence under Section 138 of the N.I. Act. Moreover, a perusal of the complaint reveals that the allegations are primarily directed against Rahul Thind, and no specific role has been attributed to the applicant Madhu Singh, except that she is jointly and severally liable to repay the loan. Even on this ground, no prima facie case is made out against her.

21. In view of the aforesaid facts and legal position, this Court is of the considered opinion that the trial court erred in summoning the applicant Madhu Singh to face trial under Section 138 of the N.I. Act. The summoning order, to that extent, is unsustainable in law and is liable to be quashed.

22. Accordingly, the application is allowed.

23. The proceedings of complaint Case No. 958 of 2006/ New No.1776 of 2024 (Hari Om Pathak vs. Rahul Thind & others) under Section 138 NI Act, P.S. Kavi Nagar, District Ghaziabad, pending before the Special Court(NI Act), Ghaziabad, insofar as they relate to the applicant Madhu Singh, are hereby quashed.

24. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

25. It is made clear that the proceedings against co-accused Rahul Thind shall continue in accordance with law, and the trial court shall be at liberty to proceed against him, in accordance with law.

Application U/S 482 No. 21503 of 2015

Rahul Kushwaha ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether the criminal proceedings u/ss. 306, 354 and 506 IPC, along with the impugned summoning and revisional order, warranted quashing u/s 482 Cr.P.C., for want of a prima facie case, particularly the absence of a proximate nexus between the alleged acts of harassment and the deceased's suicide.

Headnotes

Indian penal Code, 1860 - ss. 306, 354, 506 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - ss. 156(3), 200, 202, 164, 161 - Summoning order and dismissal of revision challenged - Quashing of criminal proceedings - Abetment of suicide - Proximate nexus - Mens rea - Delay in lodging FIR - Effect of - The applicant, a Physics teacher was alleged to have persistently harassed, made indecent gestures towards, and attempted to outrage the modesty of minor daughter of first informant pressurising her for private tuitions and threatening to fail her in examinations upon refusal, culminating in an incident on 25.03.2011 wherein he allegedly entered her examination hall without invigilation duty, misbehaved with her and snatched her answer-book, followed by a further incident of alleged molestation on 02.04.2011, after which, despite complaints to the Principal, police and the SSP Ghaziabad, no FIR was promptly registered, and it was only pursuant to an application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. that FIR registered on 26.11.2011, nearly four months after she allegedly consumed poison and died by suicide on 29.07.2011 without any post-mortem or inquest having been conducted - The investigation culminated in two final reports finding no offence, both of which were rejected upon protest petitions, whereafter the ACJM treated the matter as a complaint case, recorded evidence u/ss. 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., and summoned the applicant, which summoning order, having been dismissed in revision, was challenged by applicant before the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. seeking quashing of the entire proceedings.

Held: It is apparent that there is a time gap of almost 3 months between the last act of harassment allegedly committed by accused on victim on 2.4.2011 and 29.7.2011, when the victim allegedly committed suicide by consuming poison - It is undisputed, that during the above duration, the victim remained in her house with her family members, and during this period there was no harassment, no contact with the accused - Further, the cause of death of the victim is also not proven - There is no evidence on record to presume that she committed suicide by consuming poison - It is further apparent that about 4 months after the death of victim, an application was moved by complainant for getting registered the FIR against the accused, which was allowed, and then a FIR was registered - There is no explanation by the complainant why she waited from 29.7.2011 till 15.11.2011 for approaching the Court in order to get the FIR registered - Further, all the alleged incidents occurred in the school, but the complainant has not examined any student of school or friend of victim in order to prove the allegations - The Principal of School, who was an important witness, has also not been examined by complainant - No injury report, statement u/ss. 164 or 161 CrPC of victim is available to corroborate the allegations of misbehaviour by accused - Further, the complainant and the witnesses examined by her u/s 202 CrPC are not eyewitnesses of alleged illegal acts committed by accused in the school, upon the victim - Accordingly application allowed, all proceedings quashed. 7. Pass such order or further order which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case."

2. The factual matrix of the case is that Km. Jyoti was the minor daughter of the first informant, Smt. Geeta Baisla, and was studying in Class XI at TRM School Modi Nagar at the relevant time. It is alleged that the applicant, Rahul Kushwaha, who was employed therein as a teacher of Physics, had developed an improper and lustful interest in Km. Jyoti and, from time to time, made indecent gestures towards her and attempted to outrage her modesty, which conduct was resisted and protested by her.

3. It is further alleged that the applicant repeatedly pressurized Km. Jyoti to take private tuition from him, which she declined. Upon such refusal, he allegedly threatened that he would fail her in the examinations and would also have her family eliminated. It was further asserted that the applicant used to boast that his uncle, Babli @ Gyanchand, was a political leader and that his relative, Dabbu, was a notorious criminal who wielded terror in Modi Nagar.

4. According to the first informant, Km. Jyoti used to disclose these incidents to her mother, and the matter was also brought to the notice of the Principal of the aforesaid school. The Principal allegedly assured the family that no untoward incident would occur with Km. Jyoti. However, it is alleged that on account of the complaint having been made, the applicant developed animosity towards Km. Jyoti and threatened to fail her in the examination unless she submitted to his demands.

5. It is further alleged that on 25.03.2011, while Km. Jyoti was appearing in her examination, the applicant, despite not being assigned invigilation duty in that room, entered the examination hall, behaved indecently with her, snatched her answer-book, and threatened that unless she established contact with him, he would not allow her to pass the examination. He is also alleged to have used obscene language and issued threats. On account thereof, Km. Jyoti raised an alarm and telephonically informed the first informant, whereupon the latter reached the school along with police personnel. A complaint was again made to the Principal, who reprimanded the applicant, and Km. Jyoti was thereafter permitted to continue her examination. It is alleged that while leaving, the applicant threatened that he would avenge the said incident.

6. The first informant further alleged that despite complaints being made to the police, no action was taken, as the applicant had, by use of influence, obstructed any legal proceedings against him. Again, on 02.04.2011, the applicant allegedly attempted to outrage the modesty of Km. Jyoti, regarding which another complaint was made to the Principal. It is further alleged that in retaliation, the applicant, in collusion with his associates, fabricated false injuries and procured registration of an FIR against Naresh the brother of the first informant, at Police Station Modi Nagar.

7. It is further stated that her husband arrived on leave on 18.04.2011 then the entire incident was disclosed to him, then her husband submitted an application on 19.04.2011 to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Ghaziabad seeking registration of an FIR at Police Station Modi Nagar, on which FIR was ordered to be registered. It is alleged that on 20.04.2011 at about 7:00 p.m., the applicant along with his accomplices came to the residence of the first informant and threatened her with dire consequences unless she withdrew her complaint. Another representation was thereafter submitted to the SSP Ghaziabad, who ordered arrest of the accused persons, but again no action ensued.

8. It is further alleged that Km. Jyoti subsequently reappeared in the examination and her answer-book was evaluated by other teachers, whereupon she passed the examination. However, the applicant and his associates allegedly continued attempts to implicate the family in false cases. According to the first informant, due to the persistent harassment and defamation caused by the conduct of the applicant, the reputation and mental peace of Km. Jyoti stood gravely affected, and ultimately on 29.07.2011 she committed suicide.

9. It is the further case of the first informant that despite attempts, the FIR regarding the said incident was not registered. It is alleged that the police neither conducted inquest proceedings nor post-mortem examination of the deceased. Consequently, the first informant was constrained to move an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. on 15.11.2011, which was allowed on 19.11.2011, and pursuant to the order of the court, an FIR being Case Crime No.781 of 2011 came to be registered on 26.11.2011 against the applicant under Section 306,354,506 IPC at P.S. Modi Nagar, District Ghaziabad.

10. After investigation, a final report was submitted on 09.01.2012, which was challenged by the first informant by means of a protest petition dated 17.02.2012. The said protest petition was allowed by the A.C.J.M., Court No.5, Ghaziabad on 01.09.2012, and further investigation was directed. Upon further investigation, yet again final report was submitted on 28.01.2013 on the ground that the first informant had not informed the police promptly, no treatment was undertaken and the body of the deceased Km. Jyoti has been cremated surreptitiously and that no post-mortem had been conducted to prove that she died due to the poisoning, hence the applicant has not committed any offence.

11. A second protest petition was thereafter filed on 20.03.2013, which was allowed. By order dated 10.05.2013, the learned ACJM, court no.5, Ghaziabad rejected the final report and treated the protest petition as a complaint case. Thereafter, the first informant, Smt. Geeta Baisla, was examined under Section 200 Cr.P.C., and her witnesses, namely Naresh (PW-1), Gyanendra (PW-2), Shyamo (PW-3), and Sunita (PW-4), were examined under Section 202 Cr.P.C.

12. All the aforesaid witnesses deposed that at the relevant time Km. Jyoti was studying in TRM Public School, Modi Nagar, where the applicant taught Physics. They stated that the applicant used to harass Km. Jyoti, made indecent gestures, pressurized her to take tuition from him, and threatened that if she refused, he would fail her in examinations. It has further come in evidence that due to such behaviour, Km. Jyoti remained under severe mental stress and used to narrate the incidents to her mother and other family members.

13. The witnesses further deposed that complaints were made to the Principal, who assured that no untoward incident would take place in the school. However, owing to such complaints, the applicant allegedly became hostile towards Km. Jyoti and threatened to ruin her reputation by using his political influence.

14. It was also stated that on 25.03.2011, while Km. Jyoti was appearing in an examination, the applicant, though not posted as invigilator in that room, entered the hall, misbehaved with her, snatched her answer-book, and declared that he would not permit her to sit in the examination. This incident was reported to the Principal, and upon receiving information, Smt. Geeta Baisla also reached the school. Police personnel were called, whereafter the applicant was reprimanded and Km. Jyoti was permitted to continue the examination.

15. The witnesses further stated that the oppressive conduct and indecent behaviour of the applicant continued thereafter. Again on 02.04.2011, the applicant acted indecently with Km. Jyoti and attempted to molest her, which was complained to the police and Principal, which angered the applicant, who alongwith his accomplices managed to get fabricated false injuries on his body and in collusion with the police, got registered a false report against complainant's brother Naresh. It was further stated that complainant's husband, who was in Army, arrived home on 18.04.2011 on leave, who was told about this, who complained to SSP Ghaziabad on 19.04.2011, on which Police Station Modi Nagar was directed to register FIR, which angered the applicant. It was also alleged that the applicant alongwith his accomplices visited the residence of the first informant on 20.04.2011 at about 7:00 p.m. and threatened her with dire consequences if she continued to pursue complaints against him. It has also been stated that the applicant managed to have Km. Jyoti declared failed in the examination and her result withheld, though subsequently, upon complaint by the first informant, she was allowed to reappear and passed with good marks.

16. All the witnesses consistently asserted that the applicant, bearing hostility on account of resistance offered by the first informant and her family, continued to harass and defame Km. Jyoti for illicit relations, and being unable to bear such sustained humiliation and mental persecution, she ultimately committed suicide by consuming poison on 29.07.2011. It was further asserted that Km. Jyoti was compelled to commit suicide by the applicant.

17. It is pertinent to note that on the basis of the aforesaid statements of the complainant and her witnesses, the applicant was summoned to face trial by the learned A.C.J.M., Court No.5, Ghaziabad, vide order dated 21.10.2014 under Sections 306, 354 and 506 IPC. The said summoning order was challenged by the applicant by filing Criminal Revision No. 22 of 2015, which came to be dismissed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.14, Ghaziabad, vide order dated 13.03.2015. By means of the present application, both the aforesaid orders have been assailed.

18. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the allegations levelled by the first informant are wholly false and devoid of substance. It was contended that the police investigated the matter twice and, finding no truth in the allegations, submitted final reports, which were erroneously rejected by the Magistrate. It was further submitted that although the first informant alleged harassment since April 2011, no prompt FIR was lodged. It was also argued that the alleged acts of harassment occurred in April 2011, whereas the suicide took place on 29.07.2011, and therefore there existed no live nexus or proximate link between the alleged conduct and the act of suicide.

19. It was further contended that since Km. Jyoti allegedly committed suicide at her parental residence, it was incumbent upon the family members to inform the police and ensure post-mortem examination and viscera analysis, which alone could have conclusively established poisoning as the cause of death. In the absence of such evidence, the prosecution case is rendered doubtful. It was even suggested that there was sufficient material to infer that Km. Jyoti may have died in an incident of honour killing at the hands of her own family members. It was lastly submitted that even if the entire prosecution version is accepted at face value, no offence under Section 306,354 and 506 IPC is made out. Accordingly, it was prayed that the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. be allowed and the criminal proceedings be quashed.

20. Per contra, learned AGA submitted that from the statements recorded under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., a prima facie case clearly emerges that Km. Jyoti was subjected to persistent harassment, indecent conduct, and repeated attempts were made to molest her, which cumulatively drove her to commit suicide. It was submitted that at the present stage the Court is not required to conduct a mini-trial, nor to appreciate the defence of the accused or adjudge the likelihood of conviction. It was contended that sufficient prima facie material exists to justify the summoning order and continuation of proceedings. Accordingly, it was prayed that the application be rejected.

21. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

22. The Apex Court in the case of Neeharika Infrastructure Private Limited vs. State of Maharashtra and Others (2021) 19 SCC 401 (By Three Judges), while delineating the scope of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and enumerating the circumstances in which criminal proceedings may be quashed, held as under:

'13.1. Police has the statutory right and duty under the relevant provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure contained in Chapter XIV of the Code to investigate into cognizable offences.

13.2. Courts would not thwart any investigation into the cognizable offences.

13.3. However, in cases where no cognizable offence or offence of any kind is disclosed in the first information report the Court will not permit an investigation to go on.

13.4. The power of quashing should be exercised sparingly with circumspection, in the 'rarest of rare cases'. (The rarest of rare cases standard in its application for quashing under Section 482CrPC is not to be confused with the norm which has been formulated in the context of the death penalty, as explained previously by this Court.)

13.5. While examining an FIR/complaint, quashing of which is sought, the Court cannot embark upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR/complaint.

13.6. Criminal proceedings ought not to be scuttled at the initial stage.

13.7. Quashing of a complaint/FIR should be an exception and a rarity than an ordinary rule.

13.8. Ordinarily, the courts are barred from usurping the jurisdiction of the police, since the two organs of the State operate in two specific spheres of activities. The inherent power of the court is, however, recognised to secure the ends of justice or prevent the above of the process by Section 482CrPC.

13.9. The functions of the judiciary and the police are complementary, not overlapping.

13.10. Save in exceptional cases where non-interference would result in miscarriage of justice, the Court and the judicial process should not interfere at the stage of investigation of offences.

13.11. Extraordinary and inherent powers of the Court do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the Court to act according to its whims or caprice.

13.12. The first information report is not an encyclopaedia which must disclose all facts and details relating to the offence reported. Therefore, when the investigation by the police is in progress, the court should not go into the merits of the allegations in the FIR. Police must be permitted to complete the investigation. It would be premature to pronounce the conclusion based on hazy facts that the complaint/FIR does not deserve to be investigated or that it amounts to abuse of process of law. During or after investigation, if the investigating officer finds that there is no substance in the application made by the complainant, the investigating officer may file an appropriate report/summary before the learned Magistrate which may be considered by the learned Magistrate in accordance with the known procedure.

13.13. The power under Section 482CrPC is very wide, but conferment of wide power requires the Court to be cautious. It casts an onerous and more diligent duty on the Court.

13.14. However, at the same time, the Court, if it thinks fit, regard being had to the parameters of quashing and the self-restraint imposed by law, more particularly the parameters laid down by this Court in R.P. Kapur [R.P. Kapur v. State of Punjab, 1960 SCC OnLine SC 21 : AIR 1960 SC 866] and Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] , has the jurisdiction to quash the FIR/complaint.

13.15. When a prayer for quashing the FIR is made by the alleged accused, the Court when it exercises the power under Section 482CrPC, only has to consider whether or not the allegations in the FIR disclose the commission of a cognizable offence and is not required to consider on merits whether the allegations make out a cognizable offence or not and the court has to permit the investigating agency/police to investigate the allegations in the FIR.

23. The Apex Court in the case of Veena Mittal vs. State of UP in Criminal Appeal No.122 of 2022 decided on 24.01.2022, held as under:-

‘6. ..It is well-settled that at the stage when the High Court considers a petition for quashing criminal proceedings under Section 482 of the CrPC, the allegations in the FIR must be read as they stand and it is only if on the face of the allegations that no offence, as alleged, has been made out, that the Court may be justified in exercising its jurisdiction to quash...

24. The Apex Court in the case of Mahmood Ali and others vs. State of UP and others (2023) 15 SCC 488 while elucidating the parameters governing the exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in cases alleging false, frivolous, and vexatious criminal proceedings, held as under:-

‘11. At this stage, we would like to observe something important. Whenever an accused comes before the Court invoking either the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC) or extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution to get the FIR or the criminal proceedings quashed essentially on the ground that such proceedings are manifestly frivolous or vexatious or instituted with the ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance, then in such circumstances the court owes a duty to look into the FIR with care and a little more closely.

12. We say so because once the complainant decides to proceed against the accused with an ulterior motive for wreaking personal vengeance etc. then he would ensure that the FIR/complaint is very well drafted with all the necessary pleadings. The complainant would ensure that the averments made in the FIR/complaint are such that they disclose the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence. Therefore, it will not be just enough for the Court to look into the averments made in the FIR/complaint alone for the purpose of ascertaining whether the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence are disclosed or not.

13. In frivolous or vexatious proceedings, the Court owes a duty to look into many other attending circumstances emerging from the record of the case over and above the averments and, if need be, with due care and circumspection try to read in between the lines. The Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Section 482CrPC or Article 226 of the Constitution need not restrict itself only to the stage of a case but is empowered to take into account the overall circumstances leading to the initiation/registration of the case as well as the materials collected in the course of investigation. Take for instance the case on hand. Multiple FIRs have been registered over a period of time. It is in the background of such circumstances the registration of multiple FIRs assumes importance, thereby attracting the issue of wreaking vengeance out of private or personal grudge as alleged.

25. The Apex Court in the case of Prakash and Others vs. State of Maharashtra and Another 2024 SCC OnLine SC 3835, while expounding the essential prerequisites for the invocation of Section 306 read with Section 107 of the IPC, has held as under:

'13. Section 306 of the IPC has two basic ingredients-first, an act of suicide by one person and second, the abetment to the said act by another person(s). In order to sustain a charge under Section 306 of the IPC, it must necessarily be proved that the accused person has contributed to the suicide by the deceased by some direct or indirect act. To prove such contribution or involvement, one of the three conditions outlined in Section 107 of the IPC has to be satisfied.

14. Section 306 read with Section 107 of IPC, has been interpreted, time and again, and its principles are well-established. To attract the offence of abetment to suicide, it is important to establish proof of direct or indirect acts of instigation or incitement of suicide by the accused, which must be in close proximity to the commission of suicide by the deceased. Such instigation or incitement should reveal a clear mens rea to abet the commission of suicide and should put the victim in such a position that he/she would have no other option but to commit suicide.

15. The law on abetment has been crystallised by a plethora of decisions of this Court. Abetment involves a mental process of instigating or intentionally aiding another person to do a particular thing. To bring a charge under Section 306 of the IPC, the act of abetment would require the positive act of instigating or intentionally aiding another person to commit suicide. Without such mens rea on the part of the accused person being apparent from the face of the record, a charge under the aforesaid Section cannot be sustained. Abetment also requires an active act, direct or indirect, on the part of the accused person which left the deceased with no other option but to commit suicide.

17. This Court held that abetment involves the mental process of instigating a person or intentionally aiding a person in doing of a thing. Therefore, without a positive act on the part of the accused to instigate or aid a person in committing suicide, conviction cannot be sustained. This Court further observed that the intention of the legislature and the ratio of the cases decided by this Court is clear that in order to convict a person under Section 306 of IPC, there has to be a clear mens rea to commit the offence. Abetment also requires an active act or direct act which led the deceased to commit suicide seeing no other option and that act must have been intended to push the deceased into such a position that he committed suicide. However, this Court has cautioned that since each person reacts differently to the same provocation depending on a variety of factors, it is impossible to lay down a straightjacket formula to deal with such cases. Therefore, every such case has to be decided on the basis of its own facts and circumstances.

25. Relying on the decision in the case of Sanju @ Sanjay Singh Sengar vs. State of MP (2002) 5 SCC 371, this Court in the case of Gurjit Singh vs. State of Punjab(2020) 14 SCC 264 set aside the conviction under Section 306 of the IPC as it was clear from the evidence on record that there was a time gap of about two months between the last visit of the deceased to her parents with regard to the illegal demand for money by the accused-appellant and the date of commission of suicide by the deceased. As such, this Court held that there was nothing on record to show that there was a proximate nexus between the commission of suicide and the illegal demand made by the accused-appellant. This Court observed as follows:

'36. It could further be seen from the evidence on record that the time gap between the last visit of the deceased to her parents with regard to the illegal demand and the date of commission of suicide is about two months. As such, there is nothing on record to show that there was a proximate nexus between the commission of suicide and the illegal demand made by the appellant. In Sanju v. State of M.P. [Sanju v. State of M.P., (2002) 5 SCC 371 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 1141] this Court found that there was time gap of 48 hours between the accused telling the deceased 'to go and die' and the deceased 'committing suicide'. As such, this Court held that there was no material to establish that the accused had abetted the suicide committed by the deceased.'

26. Thus, this Court has consistently taken the view that instigation or incitement on the part of the accused person is the gravamen of the offence of abetment to suicide. However, it has been clarified on many occasions that in order to link the act of instigation to the act of suicide, the two occurrences must be in close proximity to each other so as to form a nexus or a chain, with the act of suicide by the deceased being a direct result of the act of instigation by the accused person.

27. This Court in the case of Mohit Singhal (supra) reiterated that the act of instigation must be of such intensity and in such close proximity that it intends to push the deceased to such a position under which the person has no choice but to commit suicide. This Court held that the incident which had allegedly driven the deceased to commit suicide had occurred two weeks prior and even the suicide note had been written three days prior to the date on which the deceased committed suicide and further, there was no allegation that any act had been done by the accused-appellant therein in close proximity to the date of suicide. This Court observed as follows:

'11. In the present case, taking the complaint of the third respondent and the contents of the suicide note as correct, it is impossible to conclude that the appellants instigated the deceased to commit suicide by demanding the payment of the amount borrowed by the third respondent from her husband by using abusive language and by assaulting him by a belt for that purpose. The said incident allegedly happened more than two weeks before the date of suicide. There is no allegation that any act was done by the appellants in close proximity to the date of suicide. By no stretch of imagination, the alleged acts of the appellants can amount to instigation to commit suicide. The deceased has blamed the third respondent for landing in trouble due to her bad habits.

12. Therefore, in our considered view, the offence punishable under Section 306 IPC was not made out against the appellants. Therefore, the continuation of their prosecution will be nothing but an abuse of the process of law.'

26. The Apex Court in the case of Abhinav Mohan Delkar vs. State of Maharashtra and Others 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1725, has authoritatively held that for the offence punishable under Section 306 read with Section 107 of the IPC to be attracted, the sine qua non is the existence of a proximate and live link between the alleged act of abetment and the commission of suicide; in other words, there must be a direct and immediate act or conduct of incitement which, in its natural and consequential chain, compels the victim to take the extreme step of suicide. It is quoted as under:-

'22. What comes out essentially from the various decisions herein before cited is that, even if there is allegation of constant harassment, continued over a long period; to bring in the ingredients of Section 306 read with Section 107, still there has to be a proximate prior act to clearly find that the suicide was the direct consequence of such continuous harassment, the last proximate incident having finally driven the subject to the extreme act of taking one's life. Figuratively, 'the straw that broke the camel's back'; that final event, in a series, that occasioned a larger, sudden impact resulting in the unpredictable act of suicide. What drove the victim to that extreme act, often depends on individual predilections; but whether it is goaded, definitively and demonstrably, by a particular act of another, is the test to find mens rea. Merely because the victim was continuously harassed and at one point, he or she succumbed to the extreme act of taking his life cannot by itself result in finding a positive instigation constituting abetment. Mens rea cannot be gleaned merely by what goes on in the mind of the victim.

23. The victim may have felt that there was no alternative or option, but to take his life, because of what another person did or said; which cannot lead to a finding of mens rea and resultant abetment on that other person. What constitutes mens rea is the intention and purpose of the alleged perpetrator as discernible from the conscious acts or words and the attendant circumstances, which in all probability could lead to such an end. The real intention of the accused and whether he intended by his action to at least possibly drive the victim to suicide, is the sure test. Did the thought of goading the victim to suicide occur in the mind of the accused or whether it can be inferred from the facts and circumstances arising in the case, as the true test of mens rea would depend on the facts of each case. The social status, the community setting, the relationship between the parties and other myriad factors would distinguish one case from another. However harsh or severe the harassment, unless there is a conscious deliberate intention, mens rea, to drive another person to suicidal death, there cannot be a finding of abetment under Section 306.

24. We have already seen that even a rebuke to 'go, kill yourself'; often a rustic expression against distasteful conduct, cannot by itself be found to have the ingredients to charge an offence of abetment to suicide. There is no uniformity in how different individuals respond and react under pressure. Many stand up, some fight back, a few runaway and certain people crumble and at times take the extreme step of suicide. To put the blame on the pressure imposed and the person responsible for it, at all times, without something more to clearly discern an intention, would not be the proper application of the penal provisions under Section 306.

27. From the above law laid down by the Apex Court, it is evident that to sustain a charge under Section 306 IPC it must necessarily be proved that the accused person has contributed to the suicide by the deceased by some direct or indirect act. It is important to establish proof of direct or indirect acts of instigation or incitement of suicide by the accused, which must be in close proximity to the commission of suicide by the deceased. Further, such instigation or incitement should reveal a clear mens rea to abet the commission of suicide and should put the victim in such a position that he/she would have no other option but to commit suicide. In order to link the act of instigation to the act of suicide, the two occurrences must be in close proximity to each other so as to form a nexus or a chain, with the act of suicide by the deceased being a direct result of the act of instigation by the accused person.

28. It is further apparent that the victim may have felt that there was no alternative option, but to take his life, because of what another person did or said; which cannot lead to a finding of mens rea and resultant abetment on that other person. What constitutes mens rea is the intention and purpose of the alleged perpetrator as discernible from the conscious acts or words and the attendant circumstances, which in all probability could lead to such an end. The real intention of the accused and whether he intended by his action to at least possibly drive the victim to suicide, is the sure test. However harsh or severe the harassment, unless there is a conscious deliberate intention, mens rea, to drive another person to suicidal death, there cannot be a finding of abetment under Section 306.

29. From the evidence on record it is evident that the victim Km. Jyoti was studying in class XI at the relevant time, in the school in which the accused/applicant was a teacher of physics, who as per the prosecution case, continuously harassed, molested her, was trying to outrage her modesty, which was resisted by the victim. As per the statement of the witnesses the accused pressurised the victim to take private tuitions from him, to which she declined. The above acts and conduct of the accused were also brought to the notice of the Principal of the school, on which he reprimanded the accused and assured the parents of the victim that her safety will be ensured. In the protest petition and statements of the above witnesses, the last act of such harassment was meted out to the victim on 2.4.2011 by the accused in the school. Thereafter, there was no contact between the victim and the accused, the victim remained in her house with her parents and relatives, where she allegedly committed suicide on 29.7.2011 by consuming poison.

30. It is apparent that prima-facie there is no evidence on record to prove that the accused had the mens rea or he ever intended or instigated the victim to commit suicide. It is further apparent that there is a time gap of almost 3 months between the last act of harassment allegedly committed by the accused on victim on 2.4.2011 and 29.7.2011, when the victim allegedly committed suicide by consuming poison. It is undisputed, that during the above duration, the victim remained in her house with her family members, and during this period there was no harassment, no contact with the accused. It is apparent that there was no proximity between the alleged acts of harassment, indecent behaviour, molestation, attempt to outrage modesty committed by the accused and the act of suicide. It is well settled that if there is no proximity or nexus between the alleged acts of harassment which drove the victim to commit suicide and the act of suicide, then no offence of abetment or instigation to suicide is made out under Section 306 IPC.

31. In the protest petition and the evidence of witnesses, it is disclosed that the complainant and her husband met S.S.P. Ghaziabad and brought to his notice the above criminal acts of the accused by giving application on 19.4.2011, on which he directed the Police Station Modi Nagar to register FIR, but no such FIR in reality was registered against the accused. Even after the alleged suicidal death of the victim on 29.7.2011 no FIR was got registered by the complainant promptly. Eventually on 15.11.2011, an application under Section 156(3) CrPC was moved by the complainant before the competent criminal court, which was allowed on 19.11.2011, and thereafter, FIR being Case crime No. 781 of 2011 under Section 306, 354, 506 IPC was registered on 26.11.2011 against the accused at Police Station Modi Nagar, District Ghaziabad. It is apparent that there is a fatal delay on the part of the complainant in registering the FIR, which makes the whole prosecution case doubtful.

32. It is further apparent that the victim at the time of alleged suicide was residing in her house, who was not taken to any doctor/hospital for treatment, no intimation regarding this was given to the police. It is very surprising that if the victim had consumed poison then at least she should have been taken to the hospital for treatment but no such effort was made by the complainant or her relatives. Further, if the victim had died and had this information been given to the police, then the autopsy would have been performed for ascertaining the cause of death, but since no information was given to the police, neither panchayatnama was prepared nor autopsy was performed. It is further apparent that the body of the victim was surreptitiously cremated by the complainant and her relatives. In view of the above facts, there is no prima-facie evidence on record to prove that the victim committed suicide by consuming poison.

33. It is apparent that prima-facie the complainant has failed to prove that there was any mens rea or instigation on the part of the accused to force the victim to commit suicide. Further, the cause of death of the victim is also not proven. There is no evidence on record to presume that she committed suicide by consuming poison. It is further apparent that about 4 months after the death of the victim on 29.7.2011, an application was moved by the complainant under Section 156(3) CrPC on 15.11.2011 for getting registered the FIR against the accused before the competent Court, which was allowed on 19.11.2011, and then a FIR was registered on 26.11.2011 against the accused. There is no explanation by the complainant why she waited from 29.7.2011 till 15.11.2011 for approaching the Court in order to get the FIR registered in this matter. The complainant has not furnished any plausible explanation for the above delay, which is fatal.

34. It is further apparent that the victim has died, who could have proved the alleged offence under Section 354 IPC. Further, all the alleged incidents of harassment, indecent behaviour, molestation and attempt to outrage the modesty of victim occurred in the TRM School, Modi Nagar, District Ghaziabad but the complainant has not examined any student of the school or friend of the victim in order to prove the above allegations. The Principal of the School, who was an important witness, has also not been examined by the complainant. No injury report, statement under Section 164 or 161 CrPC of the victim is available to substantiate or corroborate the above allegations of misbehaviour by the accused. Further, the complainant and the witnesses examined by her under Section 202 CrPC are not eyewitnesses of the alleged illegal acts committed by the accused in the school, upon the victim. This is not a case where the incident occurred in a desolate place, where no witness was present. As per the prosecution case, the alleged incidents occurred in a school, where there was no dearth of witnesses, but still, no witness who was present in the school at the relevant time, has been examined by the complainant, in support of her case.

35. Therefore, in the considered opinion of this Court, for the reasons mentioned aforesaid, the offence punishable under Section 306, 354 and 506 IPC is prima-facie not made out against the accused/applicant Rahul Kushwaha. Therefore, the continuation of his prosecution will be nothing but an abuse of the process of law. Accordingly, the application deserves to be allowed.

36. The instant application under Section 482 CrPC is allowed. Consequently, the proceedings of complaint Case No. 49 of 2012, new No. 2608 of 2019, Geeta Bainsla versus Rahul Kushwaha under Section 306, 354 and 506 IPC, P.S. Modi Nagar, District Ghaziabad pending before the ACJM Court No. 5, Ghaziabad and all incidental proceedings thereto are hereby quashed.

Sessions Case No. 1078 of 2025, arising out of NCB Case No. 01 of 2025, under Sections 8(c), 20, 27A, 29 NDPS Act.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Syed Tamjeed Ahmad, Adil Abbas, Saurabh Sharma (Counsel)
Counsel for Respondent(s): Shri Sajeet Singh.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

1. The present application has been filed under Section 528 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (hereinafter referred to as 'BNSS') seeking following reliefs:-

(i) Setting aside of the impugned cognizance order dated 14.07.2025 passed by the Special Judge, NDPS Act, Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as 'Special Judge') in Sessions Case No. 1078 of 2025, arising out of NCB Case No. 01 of 2025 dated 14.07.2025, under Sections 8(c), 20, 27A and 29 of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'NDPS Act'), on the ground that at the pre-cognizance stage, the applicant was not afforded opportunity of hearing as envisaged under Section 223(1) of BNSS.

(ii) Quashing of the entire proceeding of Session Case No.1078 of 2025 (Supra) pending before the Special Judge.

2. At the outset, learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that he does not want to press the present application insofar as it relates to relief no.(ii) seeking quashing of the entire proceeding of Session Case No.1078 of 2025.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the impugned cognizance order dated 14.07.2025 has been passed in violation of the statutory mandate contained in the first proviso to Section 223 of BNSS.

4. He has further submitted that BNSS came into force with effect from 01.07.2024 and the first proviso to Section 223 of BNSS categorically mandates that no Court shall take cognizance of an offence upon a complaint without affording the accused an opportunity of hearing.

5. He has further submitted that, in the present case, it is undisputed that the opposite party instituted a complaint on 14.07.2025, i.e., on a date when the provisions of Section 223 of BNSS were in force. Consequently, the Special Judge was under a statutory obligation to adhere to the mandate contained in the first proviso to Section 223 of BNSS before taking cognizance.

6. He has further submitted that, in terms of Section 36A(1)(d) of NDPS Act, in matters arising under the said Act, the trial court may take cognizance either upon a police report in the nature of a charge-sheet or upon a complaint instituted by an authorized officer. According to learned counsel, in the present case, the proceedings emanate from a complaint instituted by Narcotics Control Bureau (hereinafter referred to as 'NCB') and, therefore, strict compliance of the provisions contained in Section 223 of BNSS was mandatory.

7. He has invited attention of this Court towards Section 36A(1)(d) of NDPS Act, which provides that a Special Court may, upon perusal of police report of the facts constituting an offence under NDPS Act or upon complaint made by an officer of the Central Government or a State Government authorised in his behalf, take cognizance of that offence without the accused being committed to it for trial.

8. He has further submitted that Section 36A(1)(d) of NDPS Act is at par with enacted provision of Section 44(1)(b) of Prevention of Money-Laundering Act, 2002 (hereinafter referred to as ?PMLA?) which also provides that a Special Court may, upon a complaint made by an authority authorised in this behalf under PMLA take cognizance of an offence under section 3, without the accused being committed to it for trial. Provided that after conclusion of investigation, if no offence of money-laundering is made out requiring filing of such complaint, the said authority shall submit a closure report before the Special Court.

9. Learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance on following judgments :-

I. Kushal Kumar Agarwal v. Enforcement Directorate, , reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1221;

II. Pushpraj Bajaj v. Union of India, reported in 2025 SCC OnLine Pat 3148; and

III. Tutu Ghosh v. Enforcement Directorate, reported in 2025 SCC OnLine Cal 5924

10. On the other hand, Shri Sajeet Singh, learned counsel for the NCB has submitted that accused-applicant was remanded on 14.07.2025 and on that date, impugned cognizance order was also passed wherein the Special Judge has observed that " सुना तथा परिवाद के साथ संलग्न समस्त प्रपत्रों को अवलोकन किया ".

11. He has further submitted that charges were framed vide order dated 08.08.2025, a copy whereof has been taken on record. According to him, the applicant did not challenge the impugned cognizance order even prior to framing of charges, though he had the opportunity to do so before the charges were framed. It has thus been submitted that, after framing of charges, it cannot be construed that the applicant was not afforded an opportunity of hearing.

12. I have heard Shri Syed Tamjeed Ahmad, Shri Adil Abbas, and Shri Saurabh Sharma, learned counsel appearing for the applicant, and Shri Sajeet Singh, learned counsel for the NCB.

13. Before proceeding further, it would be appropriate to reproduce certain relevant provisions of the BNSS, PMLA and NDPS.

14. Section 223(1) BNSS is reproduced herein-below:- ‘223(1). A Magistrate having jurisdiction while taking cognizance of an offence on complaint shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses present, if any, and the substance of such examination shall be reduced to writing and shall be signed by the complainant and the witnesses, and also by the Magistrate: Provided that no cognizance of an offence shall be taken by the Magistrate without giving the accused an opportunity of being heard.’

15. Section 36A(1)(d) NDPS is reproduced herein-below:- "(d) a Special Court may, upon perusal of police report of the facts constituting an offence under this Act or upon complaint made by an officer of the Central Government or a State Government authorised in his behalf, take cognizance of that offence without the accused being committed to it for trial."

16. Section 44(1)(b) NDPS is reproduced herein-below:- "(b) a Special Court may, upon a complaint made by an authority authorised in this behalf under this Act take cognizance of offence under section 3, without the accused being committed to it for trial. Provided that after conclusion of investigation, if no offence of moneylaundering is made out requiring filing of such complaint, the said authority shall submit a closure report before the Special Court."

17. In the case of Kushal Kumar Agarwal (Supra), which pertains to PMLA, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the provisions of Chapter XVI, containing Sections 223 to 226, will also apply to a complaint under Section 44 of the PMLA. Relevant paras are extracted herein-below:- "4. Section 223 of the BNSS corresponds to Section 200 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as ?the CrPC?). However, a proviso similar to the proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 223 does not find place in Section 200 of the CrPC.

5. This Court has taken a consistent view that a complaint filed by the Enforcement Directorate under Section 44 (1)(b) of the PMLA will be governed by Sections 200 to 204 of the CrPC. This view has been taken by this Court in the cases of Yash Tuteja v. Union of India and Tarsem Lal v. Enforcement Directorate. Therefore, the provisions of Chapter XVI, containing Sections 223 to 226, will also apply to a complaint under Section 44 of the PMLA. As the complaint has been filed after 1st July, 2024, Section 223 of the BNSS will apply to the present complaint."

18. Similarly, in the case of Pushpraj Bajaj (Supra), Patna High Court has observed as follows:-

"Now the contention of the Directorate of Enforcement for not affording opportunity of hearing to the petitioner is merely an irregularity for taking cognizance under Section 210 of BNSS and in support thereof Section 506(e) of BNSS has been referred. But Section 210 of BNSS is not a stand alone provision. It has to be read in conjunction with Section 223 of BNSS."

19. In the case of Tutu Ghosh (Supra), observations of Calcutta High Court are relevant, which are extracted herein-below:- "30. Upon hearing learned counsel, it transpires that several important questions have been raised by the parties, which can be summarised as follows:

(i) Whether violation of the first proviso to Section 223, BNSS vitiates the order of taking cognizance and consequential proceedings.

(ii) Whether absence of the words 'including any complaint filed by a person authorised under Special Law', as enumerated in Section 210 (1) (a) of the BNSS, in Section 223, BNSS excludes operation of the first proviso to Section 223 to cognizance in respect of such complaints.

(iii) Whether the accused has a burden to show 'prejudice' and 'miscarriage of justice' to vitiate an order taking cognizance on the ground of depriving the accused of pre-cognizance opportunity of hearing.

(iv) Whether complaints under the PMLA are in the nature of charge sheets and not ?complaints' under Sections 210 and 223 of the BNSS.

(v) Whether the concessions given by the ED and divergent stands taken by it in previous cases can be taken note of while deciding the issues involved herein.

(i) Whether violation of the first proviso to Section 223, BNSS vitiates the order of taking cognizance and consequential proceedings. 42. Accordingly, this issue is answered in the affirmative, holding that the denial of opportunity of hearing to the accused persons/petitioners prior to taking cognizance under Section 210, BNSS, is fatal to such cognizance and vitiates the order of cognizance itself, along with the subsequent proceedings undertaken in pursuance thereof.

(ii) Whether absence of the words 'including any complaint filed by a person authorised under Special Law', as enumerated in Section 210 (1) (a) of the BNSS, in Section 223, BNSS excludes operation of the first proviso to Section 223 to cognizance in respect of such complaints. 50. Hence, this issue is held in the negative. The absence of the words 'including any complaint filed by a person authorised under any Special Law' in Section 223 of the BNSS does not have the impact of exclusion of the operation of the first proviso to Section 223(1) in respect of complaints under Special Laws. (iii) Whether the accused has a burden to show 'prejudice' and 'miscarriage of justice' to vitiate an order taking cognizance on the ground of depriving the accused of pre-cognizance opportunity of hearing. 65. Accordingly, this court is of the firm view that the denial of the right of prior hearing, as enumerated in the first proviso to Section 223 of the BNSS, is sufficient to vitiate the order taking cognizance, without any further requirement on the part of the accused to prove prejudice and/or miscarriage of justice. In fact, the very denial of the right constitutes the prejudice and miscarriage of justice."

20. After going through record, it appears that case of the applicant is squarely covered by the judgments of Supreme Court and High Courts as mentioned above for the reason that Section 36A(1)(d) of NDPS is pari materia with Section 44(1)(b) of PMLA.

21. A perusal of the impugned cognizance order indicates that " सुना तथा परिवाद के साथ संलग्न समस्त प्रपत्रों को अवलोकन किया ". which means that opportunity of hearing was not granted to the applicant before taking cognizance. The applicant could have been afforded an opportunity of hearing by calling objection and thereafter, order could have been passed in a speaking manner. But in the present case, the impugned order does not indicate any such compliance, therefore, it cannot be said that compliance of Section 223(1) of BNSS has been made.

22. For the reasons aforesaid, the application is allowed. The impugned order dated 14.07.2025 is hereby set aside qua the applicant.

23. Applicant is directed to appear along with objections, if any, before the Special Judge on 29.05.2026, who will pass an order immediately, in accordance with law, after affording opportunity of hearing to both the parties in terms of the proviso to Section 223(1) of BNSS.

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether the charge-sheet and the consequent summoning order u/s 3(1) of U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 were sustainable in law, in the absence of any material establishing the essential ingredients of "gang" u/s 2(b) of Act r/w Rule 3 of Gangster Rules, 2021, namely, disturbance of public order or commission of offence for undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage.

assault and murder for temporal and pecuniary gain, with the gang-chart, approved by District Magistrate in a joint meeting with Superintendent of Police on 18.07.2024, showing the applicant's involvement in Case Crime No. 183 of 2022 (assault-related offences) and Case Crime No. 467 of 2023 (murder u/s 302 IPC), pursuant to which a charge-sheet was submitted and the Special Judge (POCSO Act) took cognizance and summoned the applicant vide order dated 30.07.2025 - The applicant challenged both the charge-sheet and summoning order primarily on the ground that gang-chart, though ostensibly based on information gathered during patrolling on 20.07.2024, had in fact already been prepared and forwarded by the very same Inspector-in-Charge on 07.07.2024, rendering the FIR's narration false on its face, and further contended that mandatory ingredients of "public order" or "undue pecuniary advantage" were neither pleaded nor established by any material on record.

Held: In the instant case, there is no material that the act alleged by the petitioner had the effect of disturbing the even tempo of life of community or the public at large, as distinguished from the act directed against the victims of offences - The requirement of s. 2(b) of Gangsters Act and Rule 3 (1) (a) of Gangster Rules, 2021, is not fulfilled - In absence of petitioner having been charged for the offence of extortion or attempt to make extortion of money, it cannot be said that merely because the petitioner is an accused for an offence u/s 302 IPC, the said offence was committed for gaining any pecuniary advantage - The Superintendent of Police has forwarded the gang-chart and District Magistrate approved the same without recording a satisfaction regarding fulfilment of conditions of s. 2(b) of Gangsters Act and Rule 3(1) of Gangsters Rules, 2021 - The learned trial Court has taken cognizance of offence in a mechanical manner, without recording a satisfaction regarding fulfilment of conditions of s. 2(b) of Gangsters Act and Rule 3(1) of Gangsters Rules, 2021, which vitiates the order taking cognizance of offence and summoning the accused - Thus, application allowed, impugned orders quashed. G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri B. A. Khan Senior Advocate assisted by Sri S. A. Hussain and Ms. Ruby Choudhary, the learned counsel for the applicant and Sri G.D. Bhatt, the learned AGA-I for the State of U.P.

2. By means of the instant petition, the petitioner has challenged the validity of a charge-sheet dated 09.07.2025 filed in furtherance of FIR No. 181/2024 lodged at Police Station Tulsipur, District Balrampur for the offence under Section 3(1) of the U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Gangsters Act') against the applicant Ramiz Nemat and another accused person Rizwan Zaheer. The petitioner has also challenged the validity of an order dated 30.07.2025 passed by the Special Judge (POCSO Act), Balrampur whereby the Court has taken cognizance of the aforesaid offence and has summoned the petitioner to face trial.

3. The aforesaid FIR was lodged on 21.07.2024 at 00:40 hours by the Ashok Singh, the Inspector-in-Charge of the police station, stating that while the complainant was engaged in patrolling his police station area in his government jeep along with Head Constable Ashok Yadav, Constable Sumit Bhalla and Constable Shubham Sahu, he came to know that there is an organized intra-district gang of the applicant Ramiz Nemat and the other accused Rizwan Zaheer is its member. The members of this gang commit offences like land grabbing, make fatal assaults and commit murders for gaining temporal and pecuniary advantages. The accused persons had committed offences under Sections 323, 504, 506, 327, 307 & 447 IPC by putting a gun on the chest of one Abdul Mahmood Khan in the year 2002, regarding which Case Crime No. 183/2022 is lodged in Police Station Tulsipur, in which a charge-sheet has been submitted on 05.11.2022. The petitioner Ramiz Nemat had killed one Shakeel Ahmad on 06.10.2023 for grabbing Rs. 25 lakh, regarding which Case Crime No. 467/2023 has been lodged for the offence under Section 302 IPC at Police Station Kokhraj, District Kaushambi, in which a charge sheet has been submitted on 23.05.2024. The complainant stated that the aforesaid facts prima facie establish that the petitioner has an organized gang and he is habitual of committing offences mentioned in Chapter XVI of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) and Chapter VI of the Bhartiya Nyay Sanhita (BNS) and he commits offences in collaboration with the co-accused person Rizwan Zaheer. Due to terror of the accused persons, no person can gather the courage to lodge a report against them.

4. The FIR states that a gang-chart has been approved by the District Magistrate, Balrampur after the recommendation of the higher officials. The gang-chart annexed with the FIR mentions the Petitioner's name as gang leader and the other accused Rizwan Zaheer is mentioned as its member. The gang-chart shows involvement of the applicant in two cases- (1) Case Crime No. 183 of 2022, under Sections 323, 504, 506, 327, 307 & 447 IPC, Police Station Tulsipur, District Balrampur and (2) Case Crime No. 467 of 2023, under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Kokhraj, District Kaushambi. The other accused-Rizwan Zaheer is shown involved in a solitary case bearing Case Crime No. 183 of 2022, under Sections 323, 504, 506, 327, 307 & 447 IPC. The other offence under Section 302 IPC mentioned in the gang-chart is said to have been committed by the petitioner alone and the other member of the gang is not alleged to be involved in committing that offence.

5. Strangely, the Inspector In-charge, Police Station Tulsipur had himself prepared the gang-chart on 07.07.2024 stating that the petitioner and the other gang member Rizwan Zaheer have formed an organized gang. They are active at the District level as well as inter-District level. They commit offences and commit murders for gaining temporal and pecuniary advantages. The complainant had mentioned in the gang-chart that the gang-leader (the petitioner) had killed one Mohd. Shakeel at a place within the jurisdiction of Police Station, Kokhraj, District Kaushambi on 06.10.2023 in connection with monetary transactions related to the sale-purchase of property, regarding which Case Crime No. 467 of 2023, under Section 302 IPC has been lodged at Police Station, Kokhraj, District Kaushambi, in which a charge-sheet has been submitted on 23.05.2024. Earlier also, Case Crime No. 183 of 2022, under Sections 325, 504, 506, 327, 307 & 447 IPC, Police Station Tulsipur, District Balrampur was lodged against the petitioner as well as co-accused Rizwan Zaheer wherein a charge-sheet has been submitted on 15.11.2023. The complainant - Inspector-in-Charge has written that he had prepared the gang-chart after proper scrutiny of the attached documents and there was sufficient ground to institute proceedings under the Gangsters Act.

6. A charge-sheet dated 09.07.2025 has been submitted after investigation in furtherance of the aforesaid FIR as per which, the investigation was carried out by the Inspector In-Charge, Police Station Pachpedwa and he found that the allegation levelled in the FIR regarding the offence under Section 3(1) of the Gangsters Act was established against the petitioner Rameez Nemat and the co-accused Rizwan Zaheer.

7. The learned Special Judge (POCSO Act) took cognizance of the offence by means of an order dated 30.07.2025 which states that the charge-sheet has been submitted before the court for taking cognizance. The learned defence counsel has not submitted any written or oral objections. The trial court has noted that the Inspector In-Charge, Pachpedwa has submitted the charge-sheet on 09.07.2025 and the supervising authority has forwarded the same with an endorsement dated 15.07.2025 that the charge-sheet be sent to the Court. The trial court has noted that sufficient evidence is available in the case diary for making out a case for trial of the accused persons. Accordingly, the trial court took cognizance of the offences and the petitioner was summoned to face the trial.

8. It has inter alia been pleaded in the petition challenging the validity of the charge-sheet and the summoning order that earlier also an FIR bearing Case Crime No. 54 of 2022 was lodged by the Inspector-in-Charge, Police Station Tulsipur, District Balrampur at Police Station Tulsipur, District Balrampur for the offence under Section 3(1) of the Gangsters Act against six persons, including the petitioner Rameez Nemat and the other accused person Rizwan Zaheer, stating that when the complainant was involved in patrolling in his area on 31.03.2022, he came to know that Rizwan Zaheer (co-accused in the present case) has formed an organized gang along with other accused persons. This gang caused murder of former Chairman Firoz @ Babu on 04.01.2022, for establishing their political clout and winning elections. FIR bearing Case Crime No. 2/2022, under Sections 302 & 120B IPC was lodged against unknown accused persons in this regard. During investigation, name of the leader and members of the gang came to light and a charge-sheet was submitted against them on 13.03.2022. During triple level Panchayat Elections, a gang members committed another incident on 26.04.2022, regarding which Case Crime No. 93/2021 was lodged for the offences under Sections 147, 149, 332, 353, 504, 506, 393, 307, 427 & 435 IPC and Section 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act. On 26.04.2021, FIR bearing Case Crime No. 94/2021 was lodged for the offences under Sections 147, 149, 435, 427, 323, 504, 506 IPC and a charge-sheet has already been submitted. On 16.08.2020, the accused persons committed another offence regarding which Case Crime No. 195/2020 was lodged under Sections 323/506 IPC and a charge-sheet has been submitted in that matter also. The gang-chart annexed with the said FIR was prepared on 24.03.2022 and it shows involvement of the applicant and the other co-accused person in the aforesaid three offences. Rest of the four persons accused in Case Crime No. 54/2022 were shown to be involved in a solitary case bearing Case Crime No. 2/2022, under Sections 302/120B IPC, Police Station Tulsipur, District Balrampur.

9. It has also been pleaded that while the petitioner was already in jail, another FIR was lodged against him on 30.10.2024, i.e. Case Crime No. 299/2024, under Sections 308(5), 351(3) & 61 BNS, Police Station Kotwali Nagar, District Balrampur, in which the petitioner has been granted interim anticipatory bail by means of an order dated 11.06.2025 passed by a Coordinate Bench of this Court in Anticipatory Bail Application No. 653 of 2025.

10. It has further been pleaded in the petition that gang-chart has been prepared in violation of the provisions contained in Rule 5(3)(a) of the Gangsters Act and 16(1) and 17 of the UP Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities Prevention Rules, 2021.

11. The State has filed a counter affidavit stating that the Special Judge (POCSO Act) was conferred with the powers of the Special Judge (Gangsters Act) and, therefore, cognizance and summoning order has been passed in the exercise of jurisdiction conferred upon the court. It has further been stated that the gang-chart was approved in a joint meeting of the District Magistrate Balrampur and Superintendent of Police, Balrampur held on 18.07.2024. Minutes of the meeting have been annexed as Annexure No. CA-1, wherein it is recorded that the Superintendent of Police insisted for granting approval to the gang-chart keeping in view the public interest. The District Magistrate examined the gang-chart and the annexed documents. The gang-chart mentions two criminal cases in which charge-sheet has been submitted. The Superintendent of Police informed about the criminal history of the accused persons and their criminal activities. After perusal of the material available on record and the criminal history of the accused persons, the District Magistrate found sufficient grounds for approval of the gang-chart and, accordingly, he approved it.

12. It has also been stated in the counter affidavit that the petitioner Rameez Nemat is involved in as many as 10 criminal cases, which are as follows:-

13. The petitioner has filed a rejoinder affidavit refuting the averments made in the counter affidavit.

14. Although the learned Counsel for the petitioner had initially submitted that cognizance of an offence under the Gangsters Act can be taken only by the Special Judge, Gangsters Act and the Learned Special Judge, POCSO Act does not have to take cognizance of the offence under the Gangsters Act, but after the State filed the counter affidavit and the learned AGA-I produced a copy of the Notification whereby jurisdiction in respect of the offence under the Gangsters Act has been conferred upon the Special Judge POCSO Act, Balrampur, he did not press this submission.

15. The learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the narration made in the FIR that the complainant Inspector-in-Charge came to know about the existence of the gang and its criminal activities during patrolling on 20.07.2024, is patently false as the Inspector-in-Charge himself had prepared and forwarded the gang chart on 07.07.2024. It indicates that the story narrated by the complainant police officer is false on the face of the FIR itself and it implies malice on the part of the police authorities.

16. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that the Superintendent of Police has forwarded the gang-chart on 16.07.2024. The meeting of the District Magistrate and the Superintendent of Police is alleged to have taken place on 18.07.2024. The Superintendent of Police has signed the minutes of meeting mentioning the date of signing as 18.07.2024 whereas the District Magistrate has not mentioned the date of putting his signatures on the minutes of the meeting, which shows that in fact no meeting of the Superintendent of Police and District Magistrate was held and the District Magistrate has approved the chart in a mechanical manner without holding a meeting with the Superintendent of Police.

17. The learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Vinod Bihari v. State of UP & Anr: 2025 SCC Online SC 1216 and Gabbar Singh @ Devendra Pratap Singh @ Rajesh Singh v. State of U.P.: 2026 SCC Online SC 451 and three decisions rendered by Division Benches of this Court in Sanni Mishra @ Sanjayan Kumar Mishrav. State of U.P.: 2023 SCC Online All 2975, Abdul Latif @ Mustak Khan v. Sate of U.P.:2024:AHC:119716-DB and Sukarmpal @ Amit Jat v. State of U.P.:2024 SCC OnLine All 5848.

18. After perusing the minutes of meeting of the Superintendent of Police and the District Magistrate annexed with the counter affidavit, I am satisfied that the meeting was held and I turn down the submission of the learned Counsel for the petitioner that the gang-chart has not been approved in a joint meeting of the District Magistrate and the Superintendent of Police.

19. Although the District Magistrate ought to have mentioned the date under the signatures put on the minutes of the meeting, like the Superintendent of Police has done, the mere non-mention of the date under the signature would not conclusively establish that no meeting of the District Magistrate and the Superintendent of Police was held.

20. Further, Section 114 of the Evidence Act provides as follows: -

'114. Court may presume existence of certain facts. The Court may presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened, regard being had to the common course of natural events, human conduct and public and private business, in their relation to the facts of the particular case.

The Court may presume

(e) that judicial and official acts have been regularly performed;

Similarly, Section 119 of Bhartiya Sakshya Adhiniyam, 2023 provides that: -

119. Court may presume existence of certain facts. (1) The Court may presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened, regard being had to the common course of natural events, human conduct and public and private business, in their relation to the facts of the particular case.

The Court may presume that-

(e) judicial and official acts have been regularly performed;

Therefore, it has to be presumed that the meeting of the District Magistrate and the Superintendent of Police was held in a regular manner.

21. Now I proceed to examine whether the allegations levelled in the FIR and the material collected during investigation justify the submission of the charge-sheet and whether there was sufficient ground before the trial Court for taking cognizance of the offence under the Gangsters Act.

22. The allegations levelled in the FIR are that that while the complainant Inspector-in-charge of the Police Station was engaged in patrolling his police station area, he came to know that there is an organized intra-district gang of the applicant Ramiz Nemat and the other accused Rizwan Zaheer is its member. The members of this gang commit offences like land grabbing, make fatal assaults and commit murders for gaining temporal and pecuniary advantages. They are involved in Case Crime No. 183/2022 under Sections 323, 504, 506, 327, 307 & 447 IPC, Police Station Tulsipur, and the petitioner Ramiz Nemat is involved in Case Crime No. 467/2023 under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Kokhraj, District Kaushambi. The complainant stated that the aforesaid facts prima facie establish that the petitioner has an organized gang and he is habitual of committing offences mentioned in Chapter XVI of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) and Chapter VI of the Bhartiya Nyay Sanhita (BNS) and he commits offences in collaboration with the co-accused person Rizwan Zaheer. Due to terror of the accused persons, no person can gather the courage to lodge a report against them.

23. The gang-chart annexed with the FIR mentions the Petitioner's name as gang leader and the other accused Rizwan Zaheer is mentioned as its member. The gang-chart shows involvement of the applicant in two cases- (1) Case Crime No. 183 of 2022, under Sections 323, 504, 506, 327, 307 & 447 IPC, Police Station Tulsipur, District Balrampur and (2) Case Crime No. 467 of 2023, under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Kokhraj, District Kaushambi. The other accused-Rizwan Zaheer is shown involved in a solitary case bearing Case Crime No. 183 of 2022, under Sections 323, 504, 506, 327, 307 & 447 IPC. The other offence under Section 302 IPC mentioned in the gang-chart is said to have been committed by the petitioner alone and the other member of the gang is not alleged to be involved in committing that offence.

24. Strangely, the Inspector In-charge, Police Station Tulsipur had himself prepared the gang-chart on 07.07.2024 and had forwarded the same to his higher authorities. stating that the petitioner and the other gang member Rizwan Zaheer have formed an organized gang. They are active at the District level as well as inter-District level. They commit offences for gaining temporal and pecuniary advantages. The complainant had mentioned in the gang-chart that the gang-leader (the petitioner) had killed one Mohd. Shakeel at a place within the jurisdiction of Police Station, Kokhraj, District Kauhambi on 06.10.2023 in connection with monetary transactions related to the sale-purchase of property, regarding which Case Crime No. 407 of 2023, under Section 302 IPC has been lodged at Police Station, Kokhraj, District Kaushambi, in which a charge-sheet has been submitted on 23.05.2025. Earlier also, Case Crime No. 183 of 2022, under Sections 323, 504, 506, 327, 307 & 447 IPC, Police Station Tulsipur, District Balrampur was lodged against the petitioner as well as co-accused Rizwan Zaheer wherein a charge-sheet has been submitted on 15.11.2022. The complainant - Inspector-in-Charge has written that he had prepared the gang-chart after proper scrutiny of the attached documents and there was sufficient ground to institute proceedings under the Gangsters Act.

25. It is strange that the Inspector In-Charge who had himself prepared gang-chart on 07.07.2024 and had forwarded the same to the Circle Officer, has written in the FIR lodged on 21.07.2024 that he came to know about the existence of the gang and involvement of its members in commission of offences namely Case Crime No. 183 of 2023 and Case Crime No. 467 of 2023, during patrolling in the area on 20.07.2024. Therefore, I find force in the submission of the learned Counsel for the petitioner that the narration made in the FIR that the complainant Inspector-in-Charge came to know about the existence of the gang and its criminal activities during patrolling on 20.07.2024, is patently false as the Inspector-in-Charge himself had prepared and forwarded the gang chart on 07.07.2024. It indicates that the story narrated by the complainant police officer is false on the face of the FIR itself and it implies malice on the part of the police authorities.

26. A charge-sheet dated 09.07.2025 has been submitted after investigation in furtherance of the aforesaid FIR as per which, the investigation was carried out by the Inspector In-Charge, Police Station Pachpedwa and he found that the allegation levelled in the FIR regarding the offence under Section 3(1) of the Gangsters Act was established against the petitioner Rameez Nemat and the co-accused Rizwan Zaheer.

27. The learned Special Judge (POCSO Act) took cognizance of the offence by means of an order dated 30.07.2025 which states that the charge-sheet has been submitted before the court for taking cognizance. The learned defence counsel has not submitted any written or oral objections. The trial court has noted that the Inspector In-Charge, Pachpedwa has submitted the charge-sheet on 09.07.2025 and the supervising authority has forwarded the same with an endorsement dated 15.07.2025 that the charge-sheet be sent to the Court. The trial court has noted that sufficient evidence is available in the case diary for making out a case for trial of the accused persons. Accordingly, the trial court took cognizance of the offences and the petitioner was summoned to face the trial.

28. Before proceeding any further, it would be appropriate to have a look at the definition of 'gang' as set out in Section 2(b) of the Act of 1986, which reads thus: -

'(b) 'Gang' means a group of persons, who acting either singly or collectively, by violence, or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person, indulge in anti-social activities, namely….[…]

29. Section 2(b) of the Act of 1986 should be read alongwith Rule 3 of the U.P. Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Gangster Rules 2021□), which provides as follows: -

'3. Conditions of criminal liability.- (1) The offences mentioned in sub sections (i) to (xxv) of clause (b) of Section 2 of the Act shall be punishable under the Act only if they are:

(a) committed for disturbing public order; or

(b) committed by causing violence or threat or display of violence, or by intimidation, or coercion or otherwise, either singly or collectively, for the purpose of obtaining any unfair worldly, economic, material, pecuniary or other advantage to himself or to any other person.

30. In Vinod Bihari Lal v. State of U.P.: 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1216, the Hon'ble Supreme Court carried out a detailed analysis of the provisions of the Gangsters Act and the Rules and the relevant passage of the judgment is being reproduced below: -

'20. The definition of □gang□ under Section 2(b) of the Act of 1986 comprises the following essentials;

i. A group of persons i.e., there can be no gang of one person;

ii. The group of persons, acting either individually or collectively, indulges in anti-social activities as enumerated in clauses (i) to (xxv) of Section 2(b);

iii. Indulgence in such anti-social activities is by means of violence, or threat, or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion, or otherwise;

iv. Use of such means is with the object of disturbing public order, or gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person.

21. It is apparent that the definition of the term 'gang' is not attracted by mere association with a miscreant group. For such a group to metamorphize into a gang, it must engage in anti-social activities enumerated in clauses (i) to (xxv) of Section 2(b), and these must be committed for the object mentioned thereunder. In essence, a group of persons falls within the ambit of Section 2(b) only when the requirements set forth in Rule 3 are satisfied.

22. This Court in Shraddha Gupta v. State of Uttar Pradesh, reported as (2022) 19 SCC 57, held that an accused can be termed as gangster when he as a member of a gang, has indulged in any of the enumerated anti-social activities, whether by means expressly stated or otherwise, with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person. The relevant observations are reproduced hereinbelow:

'25. A group of persons may act collectively or any one of the members of the group may also act singly, with the object of disturbing public order indulging in anti-social activities mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act, who can be termed as 'gangster'. A member of a 'gang' acting either singly or collectively may be termed as a member of the 'gang' and comes within the definition of 'gang', provided he/she is found to have indulged in any of the anti-social activities mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act.

27. As per the settled position of law, the provisions of the statute are to be read and considered as it is. Therefore, considering the provisions under the Gangsters Act, 1986 as they are, even in case of a single offence/FIR/charge-sheet, if it is found that the accused is a member of a gang and has indulged in any of the anti-social activities mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act, such as, by violence, or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person and he/she can be termed as gangster within the definition of Section 2(c) of the Act, he/she can be prosecuted for the offences under the Gangsters Act.

(Emphasis in original)

23. A Full Bench of the High Court of Allahabad in Ashok Kumar Dixit v. State of U.P., reported as 1987 SCC OnLine All 203, while deciding on the constitutional validity of the Act of 1986 noted that the term gang means a group of persons who by violence, or threat, or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion, or otherwise indulge in anti-social activities with the object of disturbing public order or gaining any undue temporal or pecuniary material or other advantage for himself. The relevant observations are reproduced hereinbelow:

12.Section 2(b) defines the term 'Gang' to mean a group of persons who by violence, or threat, or show of violence or intimidation or coercion etc. indulge in anti-social activities with the object of disturbing public order of gaining any undue temporal or pecuniary material or other advantage for himself. S. 2(b) read as a whole necessarily brings in the concept of violence or intimidation or coercion etc. which is resorted to for gaining material advantage. Then we have cl. (c) of S. 2 which defines the word Gangster. It means a member or leader or organiser of a group which indulges in the kind of activities set out under the various sub-clauses of cl. (b) of S. 2, by use of violence or threat or show of violence or intimidation etc. S. 3(i) lays down the penalty for being the member or leader or organiser of a group which engages or indulges in the kind of unsocial activities enumerated under S. 2(b) by use of violence etc.

24.A more lucid exposition of the essential requirements was provided in the recent decision of Sukarmpal v. State of U.P., reported in 2024 SCC OnLine All 5848. The relevant observations are reproduced hereinbelow:

‘11. From the definition of gang under Section 2(b) of the Gangster Act, it is clear that merely becoming a member of a gang will not be punishable unless the gang falls within the purview of Section 2(b) of Gangster Act and for the punishment of the member or organizer or leader of a gang under the Gangster Act, conditions mentioned in Rule 3 must be fulfilled, which prescribes that offence mentioned in Sub-section (i) to (xxv) of Section 2(b) of the Gangster Act must be committed for disturbing public order or committed by causing violence or threat or coercion or otherwise for the purpose of obtaining unfair trustworthy, pecuniary, economic, material or other advantage. Therefore, merely because a person has committed any offence mentioned in Sub-section (i) to (xxv) of sub-section (b) of Section 2 of the Gangster Act will not itself come within the purview of the Gangster Act unless he is member of a gang falling under Section 2(b) of Gangster Act.

12. Even the Rule 4(2) of the Gangster Rules itself provides that, if a member of a gang has committed any offence which comes within the purview of the Act along with any other members then he will be presumed to be a gang. Therefore, punishing a person under the Gangster Act basic condition to be a member of a gang under Section 2(b) of the Gangster Act must be satisfied.

13. Rule 6 of the Gangster Rules also provides that at the time of preparation of gang chart, it must be mentioned that act of gang falls within the purview of Section 2(b) of the Gangster Act. Therefore, it is clear that for bringing an offence within the purview of Gangster Act, it must be committed by a member of a gang for the object mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Gangster Act by doing the activities mentioned in Sub-Section (i) to (xxv) of Clause (b) of Section 2 of the Gangster Act. Therefore, if any offence is committed whether the same falls within the category of Sub-Section (i) to (xxv) of Section 2(b) of the Gangster Act or not, that will not come within the purview of the Gangster Act unless the same is done with the object mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Gangster Act.

25. From the above exposition of law, a group of persons may be said to constitute a gang only when they, either singly or collectively, indulge in any of the anti-social activity enumerated in clauses (i) to (xvv) of Section 2(b), by means specified therein, or otherwise, and most importantly, with the object of disturbing public order, or securing any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person.

30. The contents of the chargesheet reflect a casual and cavalier attitude on the part of the investigating agency, as it discloses nothing beyond what was already stated in the subject FIR. Further, it remains obscure how the investigating authorities could assert that the offence under Section(s) 2 and 3 respectively stands proved against the appellant sans enclosing any documentary proved. We strongly disapprove of this practice and cast it into the cold storage wherein the investigating authority proclaims an offence to be proved . We would like to remind that the role of investigating agencies is strictly circumscribed to conducting an impartial investigation into the alleged crime; the guilt or the innocence of the accused is for the trial court to determine.

31. It is noteworthy to mention that the subject FIR was registered after approximately a year from the date of the registration of the first base FIR. In the three base FIRs - FIR No. 726/2017, FIR No. 761/2017, and FIR No. 244/2017, respectively, the allegations against the appellant pertain to offences under Chapters 16, 17 and 22 of the IPC and thus, may fall within the scope of anti-social activities itemized under Section 2(b). Even assuming, for the sake of argument, that these acts were committed by any of the means specified therein, they do not, even in the remotest possibility, appear to us that they had been committed with the object of disturbing public order or to gain any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person.

36. In the facts and circumstances of the case, more particularly, in view of the vague and general allegations levelled in the subject FIR, requiring the appellant to stand trial would amount to nothing but an abuse of the process of law. Non-interference in such a case would result in miscarriage of justice.

59. We also deem it necessary to make certain observations regarding the investigation conducted pursuant to the approval of the gang-chart and the registration of the subject FIR under the Act of 1986 respectively. Rule 20 mandates that, during the course of investigation, evidence pertaining to the elements of economic, material, and worldly benefits must be specifically collected. Upon being satisfied that credible, substantial, and logically coherent evidence has been compiled in accordance with the requirements of the Act, the Additional Superintendent of Police shall forward the report to the Senior Superintendent of Police/Superintendent of Police for sanction.

60. In the present case, the sanction order merely states that, based on the examination of the evidence collected, the accused were found to be involved in the commission of offences under the IPC by forming a gang with the objective of deriving economic and monetary benefits, and that a prima facie case exists for filing a chargesheet under Section(s) 2 and 3 of the Act of 1986.

31. The judgment in the case of Vinod Bihari Lal (supra) was followed in Gabbar Singh v. State of U.P., 2026 SCC OnLine SC 451, in which the Hon'ble Supreme Court further held that: -

'11. We fall back upon the principle that when a particular thing is to be done, it should be done in the manner stipulated; here statutorily prescribed, or not at all. Especially when at stake is the liberty of an individual, precious to all and possible of breach only in accordance with law. More so in the precarious nature of the law, which permits mere naming of a person, as a gangster and automatic condemnation, which perilous consequences we leave to be considered in an appropriate case.

32. The difference between public order and law and order was considered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Subhash Bhandari v. District Magistrate: (1987) 4 SCC 685. There was a tender for the supply of ballast in PWD. It was alleged that on account of the appellant's terror no other person submits any tender against him and he obtained tenders at rates of his choice. If any other person submitted his tender, the appellant terrorized him. However, another person submitted tender at a lower rate, which was accepted. For this reason the appellant bore a grudge against the complainant. For this reason, the appellant and his accomplices fired at the complainant with intention of killing him and they threw hand-grenades which fell on the car of the complainant. Consequently, there was a commotion. Traffic was obstructed and public tranquility was disturbed. In the backdrop of the above mentioned facts, the Hon'ble Supreme Court proceeded to formulate the question to be decided as follows:

'8. The main question which falls for decision is whether the act referred to in the grounds of detention is directed against certain individuals creating a law and order problem or the reach and potentiality of the act is so deep as to disturb the society to the extent of causing a general disturbance of public tranquility.

The aforesaid question was decided by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the following manner:

9. It has now been well settled by several decisions of this Court (the latest one being Gulab Mehra v. State of U.P. [(1987) 4 SCC 302] judgment which was pronounced by us on September 15, 1987) that public order is the even tempo of the life of the community taking the country as a whole or even a specified locality. Disturbance of public order is to be distinguished from acts directed against individuals which do not disturb the society to the extent of causing a general disturbance of public tranquillity. It is the degree of disturbance and its effect upon the life of the community in a locality which determines whether the disturbance amounts only to a breach of law and order or it affects public order. It has also been observed by this Court that an act by itself is not determinant of its own gravity. In its quality it may not differ from another but in its potentiality it may be very different. Therefore it is the impact, reach and potentiality of the act which in certain circumstances affect the even tempo of life of the community and thereby public order is jeopardized. Such an individual act can be taken into consideration by the detaining authority while passing an order of detention against the person alleged to have committed the act.

10. In the instant case the alleged act of assault by firearms is confined to the complainant Surya Kumar and not to others. It is an act infringing law and order and the reach and effect of the act is not so extensive as to affect a considerable members (sic number) of the society. In other words, this act does not disturb public tranquillity nor does it create any terror or panic in the minds of the people of the locality nor does it affect in any manner the even tempo of the life of the community. This criminal act emanates from business rivalry between the detenus and the complainant. Therefore such an act cannot be the basis for subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority to pass an order of detention on the ground that the impugned act purports to affect public order i.e. the even tempo of the life of the community which is the sole basis for clamping the order of detention.

33. In State of U.P. v. Kamal Kishore Saini: (1988) 1 SCC 287, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

12.... whether an act relates to law and order or to public order depends upon the effect of the act on the life of the community or in other words the reach and effect and potentiality of the act; if so put as to disturb or dislocate the even tempo of the life of the community, it will be an act which will affect public order.

13. In the instant case, the criminal acts referred to in Ground 1 are to the effect that on 4-6-1985 at about 11 p.m. some persons informed the complainant that his brother had been shot by some persons and when the complainant reached the spot he found his brother Vishnu Narain Awasthi lying in a pool of blood and he had already died. Crime Case No. 109 of 1985 under Section 302 IPC was registered at Ghazipur Police Station. This incident is confined to individual persons and it is private crime as distinct from public crime. It does not in any way affect the even tempo of the life of the community nor does it affect the peace and tranquillity of people of that particular locality where the crime has been committed. So far as the second crime referred to in Ground 2 is concerned, it is to the effect that the complainant went to Lucknow Jail along with his son, Ram Kumar and son-in-law, Nand Kishore to see an accused in the District Jail. They could not meet the accused. Ram Kumar and Nand Kishore proceeded towards home in one rickshaw while the complainant was coming by another rickshaw. When they reached a little distance from the jail near the residence of the Jail Superintendent at about 1.45 p.m. the detenus Rajiv Hazra and Kamal Kishore Saini along with another one Anandi Shukla said to be the accomplice of one Ram Gopal, came on a scooter, stopped it and challenged Ram Kumar and Nand Kishore and the complainant. They fired at them. The complainant, Ram Kumar and Nand Kishore ran helter-skelter. The accused chased Ram Kumar and fired twice or thrice and in consequence of it Ram Kumar fell dead on the spot and Nand Kishore and the rickshaw-puller sustained injuries. On these basis Crime Case No. 222 of the 1985 under Sections 302/307 IPC was registered on 13-6-1985. This firing was made in a public street during the daytime. This incident does affect public order as its reach and impact is to disturb public tranquillity and it affects the even tempo of the life of the people in the locality where the incident is alleged to have occurred. Therefore, the finding of the High Court with regard to this incident that it did not disturb in any way the public order is not legal and valid.

34. The difference between public order and law and order has been considered in a judgment rendered by a Division Bench of this Court in Abhayraj Gupta v. Central Jail, 2021 SCC OnLine All 900, in which after considering various precedents on the point, the Division Bench concluded that: -

'32. The law which has emerged from the precedents on this point is that public order is said to embrace more of the community than law and order. Public order is the even tempo of the life of the community taking the country as a whole or even a specified locality. The contravention of law always affects order but before it can be said to affect public order, it must affect the community or the public at large. Disturbance of public order is to be distinguished from acts directed against individuals which do not disturb the society to the extent of causing a general disturbance of public tranquility. It is the degree of disturbance and its effect upon the life of the community in a locality which determines whether the disturbance amounts only to a breach of law and order or a disturbance to public order. It means therefore that the question whether a person has only committed a breach of law and order or has acted in a manner likely to cause a disturbance of the public order is a question of degree and the extent of the reach of the act upon the society, which depends the facts of each particular case.

35. In the present case, there is no material that the act alleged by the petitioner had the effect of disturbing the even tempo of the life of the community or the public at large, as distinguished from the act directed against the victims of the offences. There is no material to establish that offences committed by the petitioner or his gang disturb the society to the extent of causing a general disturbance of public tranquillity. There is no material to establish that the acts alleged had been committed for disturbing public order. Therefore, the requirement of Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act and Rule 3 (1) (a) of the Gangster Rules, 2021, is not fulfilled.

36. The other contingency in which a person may be tried for an offence under Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act, read with Rule 3(1)(c) of the Gangsters Rules, 2021 is that the offence was committed with the object of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage.

37. Besides a bald allegation levelled in the FIR that the petitioner Ramiz Nemat had killed one Shakeel Ahmad on 06.10.2023 for grabbing Rs. 25 lakh, regarding which Case Crime No. 467/2023 has been lodged for the offence under Section 302 IPC at Police Station Kokhraj, District Kaushambi, in which a charge sheet has been submitted on 23.05.2024, there is no material available on record to even prima facie establish that the petitioner had committed the aforesaid offence for any pecuniary advantage. There is no charge for the offence of extortion in that case.

38. In absence of the petitioner having been charged for the offence of extortion or attempt to make extortion of money, it cannot be said that merely because the petitioner is an accused for an offence under Section 302 IPC, the said offence was committed for gaining any pecuniary advantage.

39. The investigating officer has committed the charge-sheet without recording satisfaction that the offences mentioned in the gang-chart were committed for disturbing public order or with the object of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage. The Superintendent of Police has forwarded the gang-chart and the District Magistrate has approved the same without recording a satisfaction regarding fulfilment of the conditions of Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act and Rule 3(1) of the Gangsters Rules, 2021.

40. The learned trial Court has taken also taken cognizance of the offence in a mechanical manner, without recording a satisfaction regarding fulfilment of the conditions of Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act and Rule 3(1) of the Gangsters Rules, 2021, which vitiates the order taking cognizance of the offence and summoning the accused to face the trial, for which reason the summoning order is unsustainable in law.

41. In view of the foregoing discussion, the petition is allowed. The charge-sheet dated 09.07.2025 filed in furtherance of FIR No. 181/2024 lodged at Police Station Tulsipur, District Balrampur for the offence under Section 3(1) of the Gangsters Act against the applicant Ramiz Nemat and co-accused Rizwan Zaheer and the order dated 30.07.2025 passed by the Special Judge (POCSO Act), Balrampur taking cognizance of the aforesaid offence and summoning the petitioner to face trial, are quashed. The necessary consequences to follow.

CASE ARISING FROM

Case Crime No. 167 of 2024, PS Cantt, Allahabad - Charge sheet dated 10.09.2025 - Cognizance order dated 17.09.2025 in Case No. 415 of 2025 (State v. Sanjeev Gaur).

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Ms. Sakshi Srivastava assisted by Sri Naveen Kumar Srivastava, Sri Shivanshu Mehta.
Counsel for Respondent(s): Shri Sri Siddhartha Srivastava, Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Atul Tej Kulshrestha, A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Sakshi Srivastava, assisted by Sri Naveen Kumar Srivastava and Sri Shivanshu Mehta, learned counsels appearing on behalf of applicants and Sri Siddhartha Srivastava, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Atul Tej Kulshrestha, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 and learned AGA for State.

2. Present application has been preferred with prayer to quash entire proceedings of Case no. 415 of 2025 (State vs. Sanjeev Gaur) pending before learned court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 5, Allahabad in pursuance of the charge sheet dated 10.9.2025 as well as cognizance order dated 17.9.2025 in Case Crime no. 167 of 2024 under sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120B IPC, PS- Cantt, District Allahabad.

3. Entire proceeding of Case no. 415 of 2025 (State vs. Sanjeev Gaur) arising out of Case Crime no. 167 of 2024 in pursuance to sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120B of IPC, has been challenged on the specific grounds taken up by learned counsel for applicants that both the applicants are the partners in M/s Swear Health Care Pvt. Ltd. who extended letter of authorization in favour of their one of the employee i.e. Rajesh Kumar son of Sri Raghunath Verma resident of Mahanti Ka Purwa, Maharajganj, Ayodhya, Uttar Pradesh for filing affidavit, vakalatnama on behalf of M/s Swear Health Care Pvt. Ltd. at Allahabad High Court on dated 12.4.2024 which is appended along with instant affidavit in support of the Application at page no. 164, but before that a Petition under Article under Section 227 no. 1997 of 2024 (M/s Anondita Healthcare and another vs. Faiz Mohammad and 4 others) have already been filed before the letter of authority issued at the behest of applicants in favour of Mr. Rajesh Kumar.

4. The specific allegation which is apparent from the narration of the FIR is against Rajesh Kumar along with applicants also and after conducting detailed investigation, concerned Investigating Officer preferred charge sheet against 4 accused wherein applicants are one of them. It is also submitted that the entire allegations whatsoever has been put forward has been investigated and it was found that co-accused namely Rajesh Kumar preferred Petition under Article 227 no. 1997 of 2024 by way of putting forged signature over vakalatnama and issued instruction to his counsel at the behest of applicants for filing under the title of M/s Anondita Healthcare and another whereas it is opposite party no. 2 who is the proprietor of M/s Anondita Healthcare who never instructed any of the accused to prefer Writ Petition on their behest at the same time, it is also apparent on face of record that no vakalatnama has ever been executed at the behest of M/s Anondita Healthcare by the informant at the stage of filing above mentioned Writ Petition and the same has been procured, manufactured with the ulterior motive by the person who is the co-accused, on the specific instructions so issued by applicants as mentioned by learned counsel for opposite party no. 2.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that in respect of the same allegation proceedings under Section 340 Cr.P.C. has already been initiated by co-ordinate Bench of this Court while issuing order dated 13.3.2024 in the aforesaid petition which is reproduced as under:

"1. Heard Shri Neeraj, Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioners and Shri Prateek Kumar, Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicants in application u/s 340 Cr.P.C.

2. Petitioner - M/S Anondita Health Care through its Proprietor Anupam Ghosh has moved this application u/s 340 Cr.P.C. with the allegation that the present petition has neither been filed by the applicant and has never authorized the Rajesh Kumar to file the present petition.

3. It has been stated by learned counsel for the applicants that Rajesh Kumar, who has signed the petition and given the affidavit, was never authorized by the applicant to file the present writ petition. It has also been stated that Vakalatnama annexed along with petition was never executed by the applicants. It has been further stated that applicant has not engaged Shri Neeraj or any other Advocate to file the present petition. Vakalatnama which is on the record has been identified by Shri Vaibhav Mittal, Advocate (Reg. No.3594/98, Mobile No. 9412326013, 9899060924).

3. Learned counsel for the applicants is permitted to implead Mr. Vaibhav Mittal, learned counsel, who has identified the Vakalatnama filed along with this petition as well as deponent namely Rajesh as opposite parties to the application.

4. Issue notice to the respondents/opposite parties in application u/s 340 Cr.P.C.

5. Steps be taken by the applicants in application u/s 340 Cr.P.C., within a week.

6. Office is directed to allot a regular number to the application filed u/s 340 Cr.P.C.

7. Shri Neeraj, learned counsel for the petitioners, who has filed this petition, shall be present before this Court on the next date when the matter is listed.

8. List this matter on 15.4.2024.

9. Whenever the case is listed next, name of Shri Prateek Kumar, Advocate be shown in the cause list.

10. Opposite parties may file their reply to the application filed u/s 340 Cr.P.C. before next date fixed. "

6. Over the said proceedings which is heavily relied upon by learned counsel for the applicant that two proceedings for same cause of action cannot be permitted in the eye of law and as such summoning of the applicants especially in Case Crime no. 167 of 2024 vide order dated 17.9.2025 passed by learned concerned court is not permissible, since the proceedings has already been initiated by co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 13.3.2024 and the applicant may not be put for initiating prosecution again which has been denied in catena of judgments rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court that no person can be put to trial and be convicted in shape of double jeopardy.

7. Learned counsel for applicants argued that the entire prosecution arises out of an alleged forged vakalatnama and affidavit filed before this Court in proceeding under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, therefore, the matter is squarely covered by Section 195(1)(b)(ii) of Cr.P.C. and cognizance could have been taken up only upon a complaint by the concerned Court after following the mandatory procedure under Section 340 Cr.P.C. and in support of this argument she relied upon judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of Iqbal Singh Marwah and another Vs. Meenakshi Marwah and another reported in 2005 AIR SC 2119.

8. It is further submitted that admittedly, an application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. filed by opposite party no. 2 is already pending before this Court and no finding regarding forgery has yet been recorded, despite this statutory bar, the police has independently registered FIR and filed charge sheet, rendering entire prosecution without jurisdiction. In the event this Court, subsequently directs prosecution under Section 340 Cr.P.C. the applicants would effectively face prosecution twice for the same alleged act, offending the constitutional safeguard against double jeopardy under Article 20(2) of the Constitution.

9. It has also been argued that the prosecution's own documents demolish the allegations that the authority letter i.e. dated 12.4.2024 is being made part of the Case Diary during the investigation that authorized co-accused Rajesh Kumar to file vakalatnama and affidavit on behalf of M/s Swear Healthcare Pvt. Ltd. and not on behalf of opposite party no. 2 or M/s Anondita

Healthcare and even from the date of authorization letter, the said writ petition was already filed and disposed of. Even if the applicants authorized co-accused Rajesh Kumar only to file petition on behalf of M/s Swear Health Care and after that also the applicants had no role to play in this writ petition. Even the Call Detail Records do not place the applicants at Prayagraj/Allahabad on the date of filing the alleged writ petition, rather, only co-accused Rajesh Kumar was present there. Applicant no. 1 is a retired Group Captain of the Indian Air Force with no criminal antecedents. The prosecution has failed to establish any wrongful gain, inducement or mens rea essential for offences under sections 419, 420, 467, 468 and 471 IPC. Even the Forensic Science Lab examination could not give any conclusive opinion regarding the alleged signatures due to non-availability of original documents. The prosecution is thus based merely on conjectures and statements of co-accused, which have no substantive evidentiary value. The dispute between the parties are admittedly a long-standing commercial rivalry and the present proceedings are a clear abuse of criminal process to give a civil dispute a criminal colour.

10. Learned counsel for applicants relied upon following judgments rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court which are as under:

i. Kapil Agarwal and others Vs. Sanjay Sharma and others reported in 2021 AIR(SC) 1241, paragraph no. 6 :

" 6. However, at the same time, if it is found that the subsequent FIR is an abuse of process of law and/or the same has been lodged only to harass the accused, the same can be quashed in exercise of powers under Article 226 of the Constitution or in exercise of powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. In that case, the complaint case will proceed further in accordance with the provisions of the Cr.P.C.

6.1 As observed and held by this Court in catena of decisions, inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and/or under Article 226 of the Constitution is designed to achieve salutary purpose that criminal proceedings ought not to be permitted to degenerate into weapon of harassment. When the Court is satisfied that criminal proceedings amount to an abuse of process of law or that it amounts to bringing pressure upon accused, in exercise of inherent powers, such proceedings can be quashed.

6.2 As held by this Court in the case of Parbatbhai Aahir v. State of Gujarat (2017) 9 SCC 641, Section 482 Cr.P.C. is prefaced with an overriding provision. The statute saves the inherent power of the High Court, as a superior court, to make such orders as are necessary (i) to prevent an abuse of the process of any Court; or (ii) otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Same are the powers with the High Court, when it exercises the powers under Article 226 of the Constitution."

ii. Sheila Sebastian Vs. R. Jawaharaj and another etc reported in 2018 AIR (SC) 2434, paragraph no. 25:

"25. Keeping in view the strict interpretation of penal statute i.e., referring to rule of interpretation wherein natural inferences are preferred, we observe that a charge of forgery cannot be imposed on a person who is not the maker of the same. As held in plethora of cases, making of a document is different than causing it to be made..."

iii. Mohammed Ibrahim Vs. State of Bihar reported in 2009 (8) SCC 751.

iv. Iqbal Singh Marwah and another Vs. Meenakshi Marwah and another reported in 2005 AIR SC 2119

11. Learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 while raising his arguments relied upon judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Iqbal Singh Marwah (supra) wherein certain distinction has been made by Hon'ble Apex Court and has been demonstrated in detail by learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Atul Tej Kulshrestha. The distinction placed by learned Senior Counsel is firstly, the matters wherein certain forgery has been made in the documents while preparation or manufacturing before filing the same in Court of law and as such those documents which are prepared outside of the Court will not come under the ambit of custodial legacy. Secondly, the documents wherein the manipulation, addition, alteration has been made which are under the definition of custodial legacy and are available inside the Court. The proceedings under Section 340 Cr.P.C. as submitted by learned Senior Counsel will be permissible only in both the categories but the right available in favour of opposite party no. 2 is to prefer FIR/complaint wherein allegations are regarding the documents which have been prepared before filing the same in court of law which is the case in hand and apparent from the narration of the FIR.

12. Learned senior counsel for opposite party no. 2 also argued that the co-accused Rajesh Kumar in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. clearly admitted that he was instructed by the applicants for filing the case before this Court on behalf of M/s Anondita Health Care, however, the same is not denied by the applicants and as such the same amounts to admission by the applicants. Further instead, the applicants admitted in para 42 of the affidavit filed in support of instant case, that the filing of the petition in the name of M/s Anondita Health Care was a bona fide mistake. Further the authority letter dated 12.04.2024 is yet another attempt of the applicants to mislead this Court as prior to issuing same, another authority letter was issued by the applicants in favour of same Rajesh Kumar on 25.01.2024 (page 75 of the counter affidavit) however same is consciously withheld by the applicants. In the withdrawal application filed by the Rajesh Kumar on the instruction of applicants in Matter under Article 227 no. 1997 of 2024 (M/s Anondita Health Care and another Vs. Faiz Mohammad and others) it is nowhere pleaded that the case was filed in the name of M/s Anondita Health Care was a bona fide mistake.

13. Learned senior counsel for opposite party no. 2 contended that since the false documents were prepared before filing case before this Court, as such private complaint is maintainable and in support of this argument he relied upon judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Iqbal Singh Marwah (supra), paragraph no. 23, 33 and case of Ashok Gulabrao Bondre Vs. Vilas Madhukar Rao Deshmukh reported in 2023 (9) SCC 539, paragraph no. 17.

14. He further submitted that since the offences are distinct, i.e. under Section 340 of Cr.P.C. and in the FIR lodged by opposite party no. 2, as such both can proceed and are not hit by double jeopardy. In support of this argument he relied upon judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of Iqbal Singh Marwah (supra), paragraph no. 23, 24, 25, 26 and case of Vasanthi vs. Umesh G.D. reported in 2024 SCC Online 15256, paragraph no. 3.6, 6.1, 8.1, 8.3, 8.5.

15. Sri Sandeep Kumar, learned AGA who defended the stand taken up by the State submitted that once the person who signed the vakalatnama was not authorized by opposite party no. 2 and at the same time who preferred the petition under Article 227 no. 1997 of 2024, without having any instructions issued by petitioner, the person is liable to be prosecuted and summoning order issued by learned concerned court is having no infirmity. The person who has been referred by learned AGA is the accused and the same has been summoned also. Sri Sandeep Kumar, further submitted that the authority letter is the sole ground for implication of the applicants who authorized co-accused to prefer affidavit and filing whatever is required at the behest of applicants before this Court.

16. After hearing rival submissions extended by learned counsels for the parties and the grounds taken up through written submission submitted by both the learned counsels, one thing is crystal clear that before initiative taken up by opposite party no. 2 for lodging complaint in shape of registration of FIR at Case Crime no. 167 of 2024 on dated 13.8.2024, the matter in pursuance to Section 340 Cr.P.C. has already been taken up over an application preferred under Section 340 Cr.P.C. by co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 13.3.2024.

17. Sri Siddharth Srivastava, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Atul Tej Kulshrestha, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 although elaborated attraction of sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120B IPC against the applicants and tried to satisfy this Court over the issue that how two parallel proceedings in pursuance to same allegation once initiated by co-ordinate Bench of this Court over Application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. preferred at the behest of opposite party no. 2 and second in pursuant to Case Crime no. 167 of 2024 can proceed. The arguments, so raised by learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2, if taken into consideration for justifying the entire proceedings which has been put under challenge through instant application, will amount to contrary to the order dated 13.3.2024 passed by co-ordinate Bench of this Court through which proceedings under Section 340 Cr.P.C. has already been initiated wherein after considering the issue involved therein reply to the application filed under Section 340 Cr.P.C. has already been invited, the dates and events are not at all disputed which clearly shows that in spite of order dated 13.3.2024 passed by co-ordinate Bench of this Court, opposite party no. 2 preferred First Information Report which has been registered at Case Crime no. 167 of 2024 on dated 13.8.2024 i.e. much later to the order dated 13.3.2024 passed by co-ordinate Bench of this Court.

18. The distinction which has been argued by learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 in respect of fraud, forgery committed outside of the Court and if the same has been committed with the documents available with the court specifically in terms of Section 195(1)(b)(ii) of Cr.P.C. has already been answered by Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Iqbal Singh Marwah (supra) wherein the accused was acquitted on the ground of Section 195(1)(b)(ii) of Cr.P.C., but the facts of instant matter is slightly different. In the instant matter it is the opposite party no. 2 who preferred an application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. before this Court itself whereupon after preliminary satisfaction co-ordinate Bench of this Court passed the order dated 13.3.2024 and there is hardly any dispute that it is the opposite party no. 2 only who preferred FIR registered on dated 13.8.2024, meaning thereby two parallel proceedings for same cause of action has already been opted by opposite party no. 2 and without waiting for outcome of the first option availed by opposite party no. 2 in shape of preferring application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. wherein the reply has already been invited by co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 13.3.2024 and the stage of inquiry directed by co-ordinate Bench of this Court is yet to arrive on the basis of adjudication pending before this Court in respect of the same documents which has been alleged as forged and fictitious although preferred and prepared by other accused than the applicants, during pendency of the adjudication by this Court, inquiry has already been conducted by way of submitting charge sheet against the applicants on dated 10.9.2025 whereupon cognizance of offence has been taken up by learned concerned court. The option availed by opposite party no. 2 for filing application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. before this Court now almost rendered infructuous since the second option availed by opposite party no. 2 culminated up to the level of initiating trial against applicants who have already been summoned vide order dated 17.9.2025 passed by learned court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 5, Prayagraj hence, the initial proceedings over an application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. became redundant and virtually rendered infructuous, if the proceedings of Case Crime no. 167 of 2024 shall be permitted to continue before learned court concerned who took cognizance of offence and summoned the applicants in respect of the same.

19. Herein the instant matter, once the proceedings has already been initiated by co-ordinate bench of this Court over an application preferred at the behest of opposite party no. 2 under Section 340 Cr.P.C. wherein objection has already been invited by the applicants in respect of the same issues/reference of same documents which has been alleged to be forged, fictitious in shape of vakalatnama, authority letter etc., the judicial discipline demands that inquiry which has already been conducted by concerned Investigating Officer in pursuance to Case Crime no. 167 of 2024 without considering that the similar issue has already been raised by opposite party no. 2 before this Court by way of filing application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. wherein no direction has ever been issued for conducting inquiry and the matter is pending only at the stage of exchange of pleadings and as such report submitted after conducting inquiry in shape of charge sheet dated 10.9.2025, seems to be bad in the eye of law since during inquiry this fact has never been brought to the knowledge of the concerned Investigating Officer at the behest of opposite party no. 2 being informant that proceeding under Section 340 Cr.P.C. has already been initiated before this Court for same cause of action wherein the similar issue has been brought to the notice of this Court at the behest of opposite party no. 2 and as such two parallel proceedings has already been initiated and so far as the issue argued by learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 that complaint can be filed by aggrieved person in respect of the documents if forged, manufactured outside of the proceedings of the court as decided by Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of Iqbal Singh Marwah (supra) is concerned, at the same time, the factual position of the instant matter has never been discussed by Hon'ble Apex Court that which proceedings will prevail, if adopted by complainant simultaneously by way of lodging FIR and preferring Application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. before lodging FIR wherein High Court invited objection after considering the application preferred at the behest of the informant/applicant. The facts of instant matter is slightly different in respect of the issue involved herein and the issue is as under:

"If an application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. preferred by an aggrieved person before High Court wherein objection has been invited, justification of the proceedings initiated by the same person after gap of considerable period of time by way of lodging FIR for same issue, will be maintainable or not?"

20. The above mentioned issue is hereby answered that once the High Court has already invited objection over an application preferred at the behest of opposite party no. 2 under Section 340 Cr.P.C., for similar set of facts and allegations FIR which has been lodged by the same person later on to the order passed by High Court through which objection has been invited wherein inquiry has been conducted, charge sheet has been preferred and cognizance of offence taken up along with the entire proceedings are not permissible. Once the consideration has already been made by co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 13.3.2024 and the charge sheet preferred before learned court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 5, Prayagraj on dated 10.9.2025 whereupon cognizance of offence has been taken up by learned court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 5, Prayagraj on dated 17.9.2025 are hereby in fact rendering order dated 13.3.2024 virtually infructuous and the same cannot be permitted considering the judicial discipline that once the matter has already been took up by High Court and invited objection over an Application under Section 340 Cr.P.C. on similar set of facts and on same allegations, inquiry has been conducted and cognizance of offence has been taken up by subordinate court and as such the arguments raised by Ms. Sakshi Srivastava, learned counsel appearing on behalf of applicants is quite convincing in respect of initiation of the proceedings under Section 340 Cr.P.C. at the behest of opposite party no. 2 wherein objection has been invited the same has to be given preference over any proceedings whatsoever has been conducted by subordinate court in respect of the same facts and allegations against the applicants.

21. In view of above mentioned facts and circumstances, entire proceedings of Case no. 415 of 2025 (State vs. Sanjeev Gaur) arising out of Case Crime no. 167 of 2024 under sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120B IPC, PS- Cantt, District Allahabad which includes charge sheet dated 10.9.2025, cognizance/summoning order dated 17.9.2025 are hereby set aside only in respect of applicants herein.

22. The application u/s 528 BNSS stands allowed accordingly.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION: Application U/S 528 BNSS No. 25601 of 2025

From the Judgment and Orders dated 19.5.2025 and 5.4.2023 passed by Additional District and Session Judge / Special Judge (POCSO Act), Court No. 13, Kanpur Dehat in S.T. No. 459 of 2022 arising out of Case Crime No. 57 of 2022, Police Station Shivli, District Kanpur Dehat.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Applicant(s):
Arun Kumar Singh, Himanshu Singh

Advs. for the Opposite Party(s)
Dipak Srivastava, G.A.,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Arun Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Deepak Srivastava, learned counsel appearing for the opposite party no. 2 and Sri Mohd. Afzal, learned counsel appearing for the State.

2. Present application under Section 528 B.N.S.S. has been filed for quashing the orders dated 19.5.2025 and 5.4.2023 passed by Additional District and Session Judge / Special Judge (POCSO Act), Court No. 13, Kanpur Dehat in S.T. No. 459 of 2022 (State vs. Praveen Pal) arising out of Case Crime No. 57 of 2022, under Sections 376(3) IPC and Section 3/4(2) of POCSO Act, Police Station Shivli, District Kanpur Dehat.

3. In brief, the facts of the case are that the first information report was lodged by the opposite party no. 2 on 15.2.2022 under Sections 376, 313, 354, 452, 323, 506 IPC and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act. The date of incident was not mentioned in the aforesaid first information report, registered as Case Crime No. 57 of 2022 at Police Station Shivli, District Kanpur Dehat. It is alleged in the first information report that the victim was subjected to rape by the applicant 6-7 years ago. The victim, in the first information report, claimed that she was aged about 16 years at the time of the alleged incident. Her obscene video was made by the applicant and she was being blackmailed by the applicant. Later the victim conceived, however, the applicant gave a medicine to the victim / informant and after the administration of medicine, she suffered miscarriage. Several other allegations were levelled in the first information report. The Investigating Officer recorded statement of the victim, wherein she claimed to be aged about 22 years and stated that the incident took place 5-6 years ago. In her statement, recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. on 18.2.2022, the victim claimed herself to be aged about 25 years and stated that the incident took place 6-7 years ago. The Investigating Officer after due investigation submitted charge-sheet in this case on 17.4.2022 under Sections 376, 313, 354, 452, 323, 506 IPC read with Section 3/4 of POCSO Act.

4. It is further submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant that as per high-school certificate, the date of birth of the victim / informant was 17.7.1997, therefore, she was more than 24 years of age at the time of lodging of first information report. The applicant claimed discharge under Section 227 Cr.P.C., however, his discharge application was rejected by the learned trial court vide order dated 27.3.2023 and charges were framed against the applicant on 5.4.2023 under Sections 376(3), 506 IPC and Section 3/4(2) of POCSO Act. The applicant pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

5. It is further submitted that the victim / informant was examined in the trial court on 23.6.2023, 11.3.2024 and 3.4.2024. In her examination in chief, she stated that the incident took place on 13.3.2016. As per her high-school certificate, her date of birth was 17.7.1997. Therefore, as per statement of the victim, her age was 18 years, 7 months and 26 days at the time of the alleged incident and at the time of lodging of first information report, her age was 24 years 6 months and 28 days. The victim was a major girl at the time of alleged incident and that, as per her medical report, she was aged about 25 years. The provisions of POCSO Act would not be applicable in this case and charge under Section 376(3) IPC is liable to be altertered. Therefore, an application under Section 216 Cr.P.C. / 239 B.N.S.S. was moved by the applicant on 10.3.2025 and it was prayed that charge be altered but the same application was wrongly and illegally rejected by the learned trial court vide order dated 19.5.2025. It is also submitted that the age of the victim would be determined as per Section 94 of Juvenile Justice Act, 2015.

6. In support of his submissions learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance on a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of P. Yuvaprakash vs. State Rep. By Inspector of Police (Criminal Appeal No. 1898 of 2023) decided on 18.7.2023.

7. Per contra, learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel appearing for the opposite party no. 2 vehemently opposed the prayer made by the learned counsel for the applicant and submitted that the victim was a minor girl at the time of alleged incident and the applicant moved discharge application under Section 227 Cr.P.C., which was rightly rejected by the learned trial court vide order dated 27.3.2023 and charges were framed. Now, the applicant is raising the same plea, which was taken by him at the time of discharge. The present application is not maintainable. It is further submitted that the applicant has no right to seek such addition or alteration by filing any application as a matter of right. It is the court only, who may exercise its power under Section 216 Cr.P.C. / 239 B.N.S.S. for addition or alteration of the charges. To buttress his submission, learned counsel appearing for the opposite party no. 2 has placed reliance on a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of P. Kartikalakshmi vs. Sri Ganesh and another (2017) 3 SCC 347.

8. I have heard the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties and have perused the record.

9. The question arises here as to whether, after the charges are framed by the trial court, the accused could be discharged or his charges could be altered through an application filed by the accused under Section 216 Cr.P.C. or 239 B.N.S.S. To understand it, Section 216 Cr.P.C. and 239 B.N.S.S. are reproduced hereunder:-

"216 Cr.P.C.

216. Court may alter charge.-(1) Any Court may alter or add to any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced.

(2) Every such alteration or addition shall be read and explained to the accused.

(3) If the alteration or addition to a charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the Court may, in its discretion, after such alteration or addition has been made, proceed with the trial as if the altered or added charge has been the original charge.

(4) If the alteration or addition is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the Court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary.

(5) If the offence stated in the altered or added charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered or added charge is founded."

239 B.N.S.S.

"239. Court may alter charge.?(1) Any Court may alter or add to any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced.

(2) Every such alteration or addition shall be read and explained to the accused.

(3) If the alteration or addition to a charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the Court may, in its discretion, after such alteration or addition has been made, proceed with the trial as if the altered or added charge had been the original charge.

(4) If the alteration or addition is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the Court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary.

(5) If the offence stated in the altered or added charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered or added charge is founded."

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in its recent judgement dated April 17, 2025 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 1319 of 2013 with Criminal Appeal No. 272 of 2014 (Director of Revenue Intelligence Vs. Raj Kumar Arora and others) has elucidated the scope of Section 216 CrPC, as follows:

143. Under this provision, any Court is empowered to alter or add to any charge framed against the accused, at any time before the judgment is pronounced. Therefore, an outer time limit is set i.e. the power conferred upon the Courts cannot be exercised after a decision is pronounced in the matter. Although the provision does not expressly provide for the stage of the trial after which the power under Section 216 CrPC can be exercised, yet logic and rationale obviously requires it to be exercised after a charge has been framed by the Trial Court under Section 228 CrPC. For if no charge has been framed, there arises no occasion to add or alter it. As a natural corollary, if an accused has already been discharged under Section 227 CrPC, no application or action under Section 216 CrPC would be maintainable.

144. The Court may alter or add to any charge either upon its own motion or on an application by the parties concerned. Therefore, such a power can be invoked by the Court suo moto as well. This power under Section 216 CrPC is exclusive to the concerned Court and no party can seek such an addition or alteration of charge as a matter of right by filing an application. It would be the Trial Court which must decide whether a proper charge has been framed or not, at the appropriate stage of the trial. On a consideration of the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and documents adduced, the Trial Court must satisfy itself that the exercise of power under Section 216 is necessary. The provision has been enacted with the salutary object to ensure a fair and full trial to the accused person(s) in each case.

145. This Court in Anant Prakash Sinha v. State of Haryana and Another reported in (2016) 6 SCC 105 summarised the principles as regards Section 216 CrPC. Herein, charges were framed against the appellant-husband for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 498-A and 323 IPC. During the pendency of the matter, the informant wife had filed an application under Section 216 CrPC for framing an additional charge under Section 406 IPC against both the husband and the mother-in-law on the ground that there was an express complaint with regard to the misappropriation of her entire Stridhan and other articles. Hence, it was contended that the accused persons had committed criminal breach of trust, however, a charge sheet was not filed in respect of the said offence. The application was allowed by the Trial Court and subsequently, the Revisional Court upheld the framing of charge under Section 216 CrPC IPC only against the appellant-husband. This Court while agreeing with the High Court summarised the principles underlying Section 216 CrPC as follows:

i. First, the test for exercise of power under Section 216 CrPC is that it must be founded on the material available on record and therefore, it can be on the basis of the complaint or the FIR, or other accompanying documents or materials brought on record during the course of the trial. The charge which has been framed by the Trial Court must therefore be in accord with the materials available before him.

ii. Secondly, the power must not be construed in a restricted manner to mean that unless evidence has been let in, the charges that have already been framed cannot be altered. The Court is empowered to change or alter the charge framed, if it finds that there is a defect or that something has been left out in the order framing charge.

iii. Thirdly, it is obligatory for the Court to ensure that no prejudice is caused to the accused due to the addition or alteration of charge. The accused must be informed and made aware of the new charge as also the case against him so that he can understand the defence that can be led on his behalf.

The relevant observations are reproduced hereinbelow:

'18. From the aforesaid, it is graphic that the court can change or alter the charge if there is defect or something is left out. The test is, it must be founded on the material available on record. It can be on the basis of the complaint or the FIR or accompanying documents or the material brought on record during the course of trial. It can also be done at any time before pronouncement of judgment. It is not necessary to advert to each and every circumstance. Suffice it to say, if the court has not framed a charge despite the material on record, it has the jurisdiction to add a charge. Similarly, it has the authority to alter the charge. The principle that has to be kept in mind is that the charge so framed by the Magistrate is in accord with the materials produced before him or if subsequent evidence comes on record. It is not to be understood that unless evidence has been let in, charges already framed cannot be altered, for that is not the purport of Section 216 CrPC.

19. In addition to what we have stated hereinabove, another aspect also has to be kept in mind. It is obligatory on the part of the court to see that no prejudice is caused to the accused and he is allowed to have a fair trial. There are in-built safeguards in Section 216 CrPC. It is the duty of the trial court to bear in mind that no prejudice is caused to the accused as that has the potentiality to affect a fair trial. It has been held in Amar Singh v. State of Haryana [Amar Singh v. State of Haryana, (1974) 3 SCC 81 : that the accused must always be made aware of the case against him so as to enable him to understand the defence that he can lead. An accused can be convicted for an offence which is minor than the one he has been charged with, unless the accused satisfies the court that there has been a failure of justice by the non-framing of a charge under a particular penal provision, and some prejudice has been caused to the accused.

146. In another decision of this Court in Nallapareddy Sridhar Reddy v. State of A.P. reported in (2020) 12 SCC 467, the scope of powers under Section 216 was elaborated. It was stated that the power under this provision to alter a charge is an exclusive and wide-ranging power and this is clear from the fact that it may be exercised at any time before the judgment is pronounced, meaning also at a stage wherein the evidence and arguments are completed and the judgment is reserved. It was further stated that if the Court is of the opinion that there was an omission in the framing of charge or if the existence of the factual ingredients constituting another offence is also inferred from a prima facie examination of the material brought on record, the alteration or addition of a charge can be done. Such material brought on record must have a direct nexus with the ingredients of the alleged offence. This Court cautioned that the power under this provision must be exercised judiciously and observed as follows:

‘21. From the above line of precedents, it is clear that Section 216 provides the court an exclusive and wide-ranging power to change or alter any charge. The use of the words ?at any time before judgment is pronounced? in sub-section (1) empowers the court to exercise its powers of altering or adding charges even after the completion of evidence, arguments and reserving of the judgment. The alteration or addition of a charge may be done if in the opinion of the court there was an omission in the framing of charge or if upon prima facie examination of the material brought on record, it leads the court to form a presumptive opinion as to the existence of the factual ingredients constituting the alleged offence. The test to be adopted by the court while deciding upon an addition or alteration of a charge is that the material brought on record needs to have a direct link or nexus with the ingredients of the alleged offence. Addition of a charge merely commences the trial for the additional charges, whereupon, based on the evidence, it is to be determined whether the accused may be convicted for the additional charges. The court must exercise its powers under Section 216 judiciously and ensure that no prejudice is caused to the accused and that he is allowed to have a fair trial. The only constraint on the court's power is the prejudice likely to be caused to the accused by the addition or alteration of charges. Sub-section (4) accordingly prescribes the approach to be adopted by the courts where prejudice may be caused.’

11. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of P. Kartikalakshmi (supra) has elucidated the power of the Court under Section 216 Cr.P.C. and held that power under Section 216 Cr.P.C., vested in the Court, is exclusive to the Court and there is no right in any party neither de facto complainant nor accused nor prosecution to seek such addition or alteration by filing an application as a matter of right. Relevant paragraph nos. 6 to 8 of the said judgment are quoted herein below :-

"6. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties, we find force in the submission of learned senior counsel for respondent no.1. Section 216 Cr.P.C. empowers the Court to alter or add any charge at any time before the judgment is pronounced. It is now well settled that the power vested in the Court is exclusive to the Court and there is no right in any party to seek for such addition or alteration by filing any application as a matter of right. It may be that if there was an omission in the framing of the charge and if it comes to the knowledge of the Court trying the offence, the power is always vested in the Court, as provided under Section 216 Cr.P.C. to either alter or add the charge and that such power is available with the Court at any time before the judgment is pronounced. It is an enabling provision for the Court to exercise its power under certain contingencies which comes to its notice or brought to its notice. In such a situation if it comes to the knowledge of the Court that a necessity has arisen for the charge to be altered or added, it may do so on its own and no order need be passed for that purpose. After such alteration or addition when the final decision is rendered, it will be open for the parties to work out their remedies in accordance with law.

7. We were taken through Sections 221 and 222 CrPC in this context. In the light of the facts involved in this case, we are only concerned with Section 216 CrPC. We, therefore, do not propose to examine the implications of the other provisions to the case on hand. We wish to confine ourselves to the invocation of Section 216 and rest with that. In the light of our conclusion that the power of invocation of Section 216 CrPC is exclusively confined with the Court as an enabling provision for the purpose of alteration or addition of any charge at any time before pronouncement of the judgment, we make it clear that no party, neither de facto complainant nor the accused or for that matter the prosecution has any vested right to seek any addition or alteration of charge, because it is not provided under Section 216 CrPC. If such a course to be adopted by the parties is allowed, then it will be well-nigh impossible for the criminal court to conclude its proceedings and the concept of speedy trial will get jeopardised.

8. In such circumstances, when the application preferred by the appellant itself before the trial court was not maintainable, it was not incumbent upon the trial court to pass an order under Section 216 CrPC. Therefore, there was no question of the said order being revisable under Section 397 CrPC. The whole proceeding, initiated at the instance of the appellant, was not maintainable. Inasmuch as the legal issue had to be necessarily set right, we are obliged to clarify the law as is available under Section 216 CrPC. To that extent, having clarified the legal position, we make it clear that the whole proceedings initiated at the instance of the appellant was thoroughly misconceived and vitiated in law and ought not to have been entertained by the trial court. As rightly pointed out by the learned Senior Counsel for Respondent 1, such a course adopted by the appellant and entertained by the court below has unnecessarily provided scope for protraction of the proceedings which ought not to have been allowed by the court below."

12. In a recent decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in K. Ravi vs. State of Tamil Nadu and another reported in 2024 SCC OnLine SC 2283, Hon'ble Supreme Court had categorically observed that Section 216 Cr.P.C. does not give any right to the accused to file a fresh application seeking discharge after the charge has been framed by the Court. In the above case, several accused persons were charge-sheeted under Sections 147, 148, 323, 324, 307 and 302 of the IPC respectively. The respondent no. 2 - accused filed an application for discharge under Section 227 Cr.P.C. which was dismissed by the Sessions Court. After charges were framed, the respondent no.2 along with the other accused then filed an application under Section 216 Cr.P.C. seeking alteration of charge, which was also dismissed. In revision, the High Court, however, set aside the charge framed against the respondent no. 2, while holding that an accused cannot seek a discharge under the garb of modification/alteration of charge through Section 216 Cr.P.C. application. Hon'ble Supreme Court also highlighted that it has become routine practice for the accused to file an application under Section 216 Cr.P.C. after their application for discharge under Section 227 Cr.P.C. is dismissed, sometimes in ignorance of the law but also on other occasions with the sole intent of derailing the trial. The relevant observations are as thus:

xxx xxx xxx

11. It is trite to say that Section 216 is an enabling provision which enables the court to alter or add to any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, and if any alternation or addition to a charge is made, the court has to follow the procedure as contained therein. Section 216 does not give any right to the accused to file a fresh application seeking his discharge after the charge is framed by the court, more particularly when his application seeking discharge under Section 227 has already been dismissed. Unfortunately, such applications are being filed in the trial courts sometimes in ignorance of law and sometimes deliberately to delay the proceedings. Once such applications though untenable are filed, the trial courts have no alternative but to decide them, and then again such orders would be challenged before the higher courts, and the whole criminal trial would get derailed. Suffice it to say that such practice is highly deplorable, and if followed, should be dealt with sternly by the courts.'

(Emphasis supplied)

13. In the opinion of this Court, Section 216 Cr.P.C. empowers the court to alter or add any charge at any time before the judgment is pronounced. It may be that if there was an omission in the framing of the charge and if it comes to the knowledge of the court, the power is always vested in the court, as provided under Section 216 Cr.P.C. to either alter or add the charge and that such power is available with the court at any time before the judgment is pronounced. It is an enabling provision for the court to exercise its power under certain contingencies, which comes to its notice or brought to its notice. In such a situation, if it comes to the knowledge of the court that a necessity has arisen for the charge to be altered or added, it may do so on its own and no order need to be passed for that purpose. After such alteration or addition, when the final decision is rendered, it will be open for the parties to work-out their remedies, in accordance with law.

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court had held in Thakur Ram and others vs. State of Bihar, reported in AIR 1966 SC 911; that the power available under Section 216 Cr.P.C. can be exercised only by the court on its own and no party has any right to seek for passing any order under the said provisions.

15. In the above judgments, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the court may alter or add any charge under Section 216 Cr.P.C. and no party can seek such addition or alteration of the charge as a matter of right by filing an application. It is the trial court which would decide whether an appropriate charge has been framed or not, at the appropriate stage of the trial. On a consideration of broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and documents adduced, the trial court must satisfy itself that the exercise of power under Section 216 Cr.P.C. / 239 B.N.S.S. is necessary. The provision has been enacted with the solitary object to ensure a fair and full trial to the accused in each case.

16. If there was an omission in framing of the charge and it comes to the knowledge of the court trying the offence, power is always vested in the court, as provided under Section 216 Cr.P.C. / 239 B.N.S.S. to either alter or add the charge and that such power is available with the court at any time before the judgment is pronounced. The application preferred by the applicant-accused before the trial court was rightly rejected since it was not incumbent upon the trial court to pass an order under Section 216 Cr.P.C. / 239 B.N.S.S. on the application moved by the applicant-accused.

17. The learned trial court has not committed any illegality, perversity or ambiguity in rejecting the application dated 10.3.2025 filed on behalf of the applicant-accused under Section 216 Cr.P.C. / 239 B.N.S.S.

18. Resultantly, the instant application filed under Section 528 B.N.S.S., being misconceived and devoid of merits, is dismissed. No order as to costs.

CASE ARISING FROM

Complaint Case No. 907 of 2024, Police Station Lalkurti, District Meerut, under Section 500 IPC, arising out of allegations of defamation against Dr. Akshay Jain following publication of a news article and filing of complaints by the applicant.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Anil Mullick
Counsel for Respondent(s): Shri Hari Keshav, A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chawan Prakash, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Anil Mullick, learned Counsel for the applicant, Mr. Hari Keshav, learned Counsel for opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This application under Section 528 BNSS has been filed to quash the summoning order dated 06.04.2024, passed by the Judicial Magistrate/Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No. 1, District Meerut, and the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No. 907 of 2024 under Section 500 I.P.C., Police Station Lalkurti, District Meerut, as well as the order dated 10.09.2025 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Meerut, in Criminal Revision No. 419 of 2024.

3. According to the facts, Dr. Akshay Jain, the opposite party No. 2/complainant filed the subject complaint in the Court of Judicial Magistrate/Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No. 1, District Meerut, alleging that the applicant published an article in the edition dated 9th July 2023 of the Dainik Jagran newspaper as a news item titled "Dr. Akshay's Prescription Used; Accused Granted Bail in Snigdha Case." The applicant also filed false and baseless complaints against him on the Chief Minister Portal, Prime Minister Portal, and several other platforms. Accordingly, the Chief Medical Officer, Meerut, was directed to inquire into the matter. He further alleged that after investigation, the entire matters/complaints were found to be false and baseless. These acts of the applicant brought down his reputation in the eyes of the public at large; thus, the applicant was liable to be prosecuted for criminal defamation punishable under Section 500 IPC.

4. The learned Magistrate, after considering all the averments made in the complaint, statements of opposite party No. 2 and witnesses (Uttam Saini, Jamuna Das, and Bilal Rizvi) under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., and documents filed with the complaint, summoned the applicant under Section 500 IPC vide order dated 06.04.2024. Thereafter, the applicant challenged the said summoning order by filing Criminal Revision No. 419 of 2024, but the same was dismissed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Meerut vide order dated 10.09.2025. The order dated 06.04.2024, passed by the Judicial Magistrate, and the order dated 10.09.2025, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, are assailed in the present application.

5. Learned Counsel for the applicant submits that the learned Magistrate committed a serious error in taking cognizance of the complaint, which fails to disclose the commission of any offence. He further submitted that even if the entire case, as presented by opposite party No. 2, is accepted or believed to be true, none of the ingredients constituting the offence of defamation as defined in Section 499 of IPC and made punishable under Section 500 of IPC are disclosed. He pointed out that the applicant has no connection with the said news article, and nowhere, either in the news item or in the complaint, is it stated that the news item was published by the applicant. The news item published in the newspaper concerns court proceedings, which are fully covered by Exception IV of Section 499 IPC.

6. He further submitted that the learned Magistrate failed to consider Exception VIII of Section 499 IPC. The applicant filed these complaints against opposite party No. 2 in good faith, as charge sheets under Sections 193 and 120-B IPC were filed against him. All the complaints made to the Chief Minister Portal, Prime Minister Portal, etc., were filed in good faith without malice. He further submitted that summoning any person in a criminal case is a serious matter, and criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. The Magistrate must carefully scrutinize the evidence brought on record and determine whether any offence is prima facie made out. The Magistrate may even personally put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truth of the allegations and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused. In the present case, the learned Magistrate has committed a serious error in passing the summoning order, as no prima facie case is made out against the applicant. Even the learned Revisional Court has not passed the impugned order in accordance with the facts of this case. Accordingly, the summoning order, as well as the order passed by the Revisional Court, is liable to be set aside.

7. Per contra, learned counsel for opposite party No. 2 vehemently opposed the arguments submitted by learned counsel for the applicant repuler and stated that opposite party No. 2 is a senior and renowned doctor of Meerut city. He has been successfully, diligently, and honestly running his medical practice from Arogya Clinic, B-13, Adarsh Nagar, Meerut for many years. He enjoys a rich legacy that is enviable, having been established by a person of unimpeachable character and reputation. The defamatory news article and mala fide complaints made against him by the applicant have had a serious and adverse impact on his reputation. The said news article was widely circulated and caused considerable harm to him. As a result, his reputation was significantly tarnished, and his credibility has been undermined in the eyes of his clients and the public. He further submitted that in light of the substantial reputational damage caused, he preferred a complaint under Section 200 Cr.P.C. against the applicant for committing criminal defamation. He underwent examination and also produced three witnesses. The learned Magistrate, after careful consideration of the defamatory nature of the said news article and the complaints made against him, issued summons against the applicant.

8. He further submitted that he had a long-standing relationship with the family of the applicant. The applicant's daughter, Snigdha, was married to Udit Arya, who was being treated by Dr. Geetanjali. Dr. Geetanjali prescribed some medicine. However, Udit Arya was unable to read or understand the medicines and requested opposite party no.2 to write them clearly on his letterhead. Thereafter, opposite party No. 2 wrote the medicines clearly on his letterhead in good faith. After some time, Snigdha died due to dengue. Subsequently, the applicant lodged an F.I.R. as Case Crime No. 310 of 2022 against Udit Arya, Rakesh Arya, Madhu Arya, and Shubham Arya under Sections 498A and 304B IPC. Later, all the accused persons were granted anticipatory bail by the High Court. Thereafter, the applicant filed complaints against him before different forums and also got the said news articles published to cause defamation. The learned Magistrate has not committed any illegality in passing the summoning order, as a prima facie case is made out against him. Even the learned Additional Sessions Judge has not committed any illegality by dismissing the said criminal revision and submitted that this application is liable to be dismissed.

9. Having heard the learned counsel appearing on both sides and having gone through the material available on record, the only question for determination is whether the allegations made in the complaint filed by opposite party No. 2 make out the offence under Section 500 IPC or not.

10. Section 499 of the Indian Penal Code reads thus:

‘499. Defamation.’

Whoever, by words either spoken or intended to be read, or by signs or by visible representations, makes or publishes any imputation concerning any person intending to harm, or knowing or having reason to believe that such imputation will harm, the reputation of such person, is said, except in the cases hereinafter expected, to defame that person.

Explanation 1.- It may amount to defamation to impute anything to a deceased person, if the imputation would harm the reputation of that person if living, and is intended to be hurtful to the feelings of his family or other near relatives.

Explanation 2.- It may amount to defamation to make an imputation concerning a company or an association or collection of persons as such.

Explanation 3.- An imputation in the form of an alternative or expressed ironically, may amount to defamation.

Explanation 4.- No imputation is said to harm a person’s reputation, unless that imputation directly or indirectly, in the estimation of others, lowers the moral or intellectual character of that person, or lowers the character of that person in respect of his caste or of his calling, or lowers the credit of that person, or causes it to be believed that the body of that person is in a loathsome state, or in a state generally considered as disgraceful.

Fourth Exception.- Publication of reports of proceedings of Courts. It is not defamation to publish substantially true report of the proceedings of a Court of Justice, or of the result of any such proceedings.

Eighth Exception.- Accusation preferred in good faith to authorised person. It is not defamation to prefer in good faith an accusation against any person to any of those who have lawful authority over that person with respect to the subject-matter of accusation.

11. Before appreciating the rival contention, it is necessary to look out into the specific allegation raised in the complaint against the applicant which are extracted in English as under:

‘1. The petitioner/complainant is a senior and well-known physician in Meerut city and has been successfully, diligently, and honestly running his medical practice under the name "Arogya Clinic" at B-13 Adarsh Nagar, Meerut, for many years. The petitioner/complainant enjoys a good reputation in the field of medicine in Meerut district and surrounding areas and is always ready to provide social service, treatment, and assistance to poor and needy patients. The petitioner/complainant is also an income taxpayer.

2. Upon reading the news published on page 6 of the daily newspaper Dainik Jagran dated 09-07-2023 titled "Dr. Akshay’s Prescription Used, Accused in Snigdha Case Got Bail," the petitioner/complainant was surprised. In it, Snigdha's father (Vipin Kumar Malhotra) accused the petitioner/complainant of colluding with the accused in the Snigdha case to secure bail for them and improperly issuing a prescription for Snigdha’s treatment. The news also revealed that Vipin Kumar Malhotra and his family lodged a false complaint against the petitioner/complainant with the Chief Medical Officer (CMO), following which the petitioner/complainant was asked for clarification. Due to the news publication and the petition submitted to the CMO office, the petitioner/complainant suffered severe defamation within the medical community and in Meerut district and surrounding areas, seriously damaging his reputation and standing. After the publication of the news and circulation of the petition among the people, many discussions took place via phone and in person, and the petitioner/complainant was viewed with suspicion, causing considerable harm to his social reputation and tarnishing his prestige.

3. The accused also filed false complaints against the petitioner/complainant on the Honorable Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh’s Lucknow portal, the Prime Minister’s portal, and several other platforms. In response, the Meerut Division authorities requested an investigation report from the Chief Medical Officer, Meerut, regarding these complaints. This information spread throughout the medical community, causing significant defamation and disgrace to the petitioner/complainant. However, after a thorough investigation, the Chief Medical Officer found the complaints by the accused to be baseless and untrue and gave a clean chit to the petitioner/complainant. The letter from the Chief Medical Officer, Meerut, to the Commissioner, Meerut Division, dated 13-06-2023, is attached regarding this matter.

4. The actual facts of the case are as follows: Snigdha’s husband, Udit Arya’s paternal aunt, Mrs. Anita Jain, wife of Mr. A.K. Jain, is the petitioner/complainant’s younger brother’s wife. Therefore, there are personal relations between the petitioner/complainant and Udit Arya’s family. Snigdha’s father, Vipin Kumar Malhotra (accused), had some issues during pregnancy, and Dr. Gitanjali Bendre, who was treating her, was not available that day. She had prescribed some medicines over the phone, but the spellings were incorrect and thus unreadable. Subsequently, on 10-09-2022, Udit Arya contacted the petitioner/complainant to obtain the correct spellings of those medicines prescribed for Snigdha and informed him about her condition. Knowing this, on 10-09-2022, the petitioner/complainant wrote the correct spellings of the medicines prescribed over the phone by Dr. Gitanjali on his letterhead, which was also his duty as a physician. These medicines were not harmful to the patient in any way.

5. It is stated that the petitioner/complainant later became aware that on 19-09-2022, Snigdha contracted dengue. Due to no fetal heartbeat being detected on ultrasound, she was initially admitted to S.D.S. Hospital and, on the same day, transferred to Nutirma Hospital. There, her husband Udit Arya and two of Udit's friends arranged a jumbo pack of platelets due to Snigdha's very low platelet count. However, the fetus could not be saved. On 20-09-2022, Snigdha gave birth to a stillborn baby and remained admitted to Nutirma Hospital until 25-09-2022. After being discharged on 25-09-2022, Snigdha was taken by her parents to their home in Defence Colony, where she continuously remained unwell from 25-09-2022 until 22-10-2022, when she tragically passed away. Throughout this entire period, from 25-09-2022 to 22-10-2022, Snigdha did not receive proper medical treatment, which possibly led to an increasing infection in her body.

6. It is stated that Vipin Kumar Malhotra and his family members, Mrs. Beenu Malhotra and Mohit Malhotra, with the intention of exerting undue pressure and blackmail, filed a case against Udit Arya, his family members, and the petitioner/complainant's brother's wife, Anita Jain, at the Gangangar police station under Sections 498A and 304B of the Indian Penal Code, alleging dowry death due to Snigdha's illness-related natural demise. In this case, all the accused were granted anticipatory bail by the honorable court, which recognized Snigdha's death as natural. Copies of the bail orders and the First Information Report (FIR) are attached. Notably, Snigdha's post-mortem report indicates sepsis (septicemia) as the cause of death. The post-mortem report is attached.

7. It is stated that, keeping in mind the above incidents and with malice, Vipin Kumar Malhotra, Mrs. Beenu Malhotra, and Mohit Malhotra have been making false and defamatory statements, holding press conferences, and filing complaint petitions against the petitioner/complainant to blackmail and defame him and his family, causing severe damage to the petitioner/complainant's reputation and dignity in society. As a result, the petitioner/complainant has suffered serious defamation and harm to his reputation. Moreover, he has endured severe mental distress due to having to continuously explain these matters to members of society and acquaintances.

8. It is stated that the accused, Vipin Kumar Malhotra, filed a false case against the petitioner and others at the A.C.J.M. Court No. 5, Meerut, through petition number 1141/2023 (Vipin Kumar Malhotra vs. Udit Arya and others) under Section 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, registered at Civil Lines police station. For investigation, the Civil Lines police visited the petitioner's house and clinic, causing great humiliation and defamation before the colony and the entire nursing home staff. Later, the court dismissed Vipin Kumar Malhotra's petition. Subsequently, Vipin Kumar Malhotra filed a criminal supervision petition number 543/2023 before the District and Sessions Judge, Meerut, which was dismissed by the Court of Special Judge (Prevention of Corruption Act), Meerut, on 12-12-2023. Copies of both orders are attached.

9. It is stated that Vipin Kumar Malhotra, Mrs. Beenu Malhotra, and Mohit Malhotra are continuously defaming and maligning the petitioner/complainant by exerting undue pressure without any cause, solely for the purpose of blackmail. By doing so, they have committed an offense under Section 500 of the Indian Penal Code. In the interest of justice, it is necessary that they be punished.

Therefore, it is humbly requested that a summons be issued under Section 500 of the Indian Penal Code against the accused Vipin Kumar Malhotra, Mrs. Beenu Malhotra, and Mohit Malhotra, and that they be punished.

12. The statement of opposite party no.2 recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. is as under:

'I have been practicing medicine for the past 44 years. There is a hospital named 'Giripush Arogya Hospital' located in Adarsh Nagar. The opposing parties are members of the same family with whom I had a long-standing relationship. The opposition used to visit our home frequently. The daughter of Opponent No. 1, Snigdha, was being treated by Dr. Geetanjali, who also prescribed some medicines. However, Udit Arya was unable to read or understand those medicines and requested that the prescriptions be written clearly on official letterhead. In good faith, I wrote the medicines clearly on my letterhead for Udit Arya.

After some time, due to adverse circumstances such as dengue, the daughter of Opponent No. 1 passed away, an event unrelated to my treatment. Nonetheless, on July 9, 2023, the opposing parties published a statement in the daily newspaper Dainik Jagran alleging that my prescriptions contributed to their daughter's death and accusing me of assisting the accused in this case. They also claimed that I conspired with the accused and provided those medicines solely to help the accused obtain bail. These allegations appeared in the Meerut edition of the national newspaper Dainik Jagran (page 6) on July 9, 2023.

This publication has tarnished my reputation and harmed my standing in the community. I reported the matter to the police station, but no action was taken. As a result of their complaints, the police have repeatedly summoned me unnecessarily, causing mental harassment.

I have nothing further to add."

13. It is an undisputed fact that a First Information Report, Case Crime No. 310 of 2022, under Sections 304B, 498A I.P.C., and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, was registered against Udit Arya, Rakesh Arya, Madhu Arya, and Shubham Arya at Police Station Ganga Nagar, District Meerut. After investigation, charge-sheet No. 185 of 2023 was filed on 08.08.2023. Subsequently, the applicant, being unsatisfied with the said investigation, approached the higher authority. The D.G.P., vide his letter No. DG Meerut (19) 2023/4419 dated 08.08.2023, transferred the investigation to District Bulandshahr. The Circle Officer (Crime), Bulandshahr, commenced the investigation and filed a charge-sheet under Section 498A, 304B I.P.C. read with Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act against Udit Arya, Rakesh Arya, and Madhu Arya. The accused, Udit Arya, filed Anticipatory Bail Application No. 4560 of 2023, and the Co-ordinate Bench of this Court allowed the said application vide order dated 03.05.2023.

14. On 09.07.2023, a news article titled "Dr. Akshay's Prescription Used; Accused Granted Bail in Snigdha Case" was published on Page No. 6 of Dainik Jagran, Meerut Edition. A copy of the said news item is annexed with this application as Annexure-7, the English transcribed form of which is as follows:

'Dr. Akshay's Prescription Used; Accused Granted Bail in Snigdha Case

Jagran Correspondent, Meerut - All five accused in the dowry harassment case involving Snigdha have been granted anticipatory bail by the court. During the bail hearing, the accused stated that Snigdha was taken to Dr. Akshay Jain from September 8 to September 19, 2023. His prescription was also submitted to the court. However, Snigdha's father claimed that despite her illness, she was not given proper treatment, which ultimately led to her death. Medicines were provided only after a phone conversation with Dr. Geetanjali Bora Bendre.

Following the accused's presentation of Dr. Akshay Jain's prescription in court, the deceased's father filed an application to register a case against the doctor. It has been alleged that the prescription was fabricated and submitted to the court through collusion. CO Sadar Dehat Devesh Kumar stated that the prescription of Dr. Akshay Jain is currently under investigation as per the court's orders. A charge sheet is being prepared against all the accused in this case. Dr. Jain has confirmed that a response regarding this matter has been submitted to the Chief Medical Officer (CMO) on his behalf.

15. A perusal of the said news article reveals that the source was the Jagran Correspondent, Meerut, and it is general news, commonly reported in other crime reports. The article does not state anywhere that it was published by the applicant or his family members. Furthermore, the applicant (father of the deceased Snigdha) has filed an application in the Court regarding the involvement of opposite party no. 2 in the dowry case.

16. After filing the complaint, opposite party no. 2 had himself examined under Section 200 Cr.P.C., and also examined Jamuna Das (PW-1), Bilal Rizvi (PW-2), and Uttam Saini (PW-3). In the statements of opposite party no. 2 under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and of witnesses under Section 202 Cr.P.C., it is not proved that the applicant was responsible for publishing the said news article. In other words, it can be concluded that opposite party no. 2 has not produced any evidence before the concerned Court that the applicant was responsible for the publication of the said news article.

17. As for the complaints made by the applicant to the Chief Minister Portal, Prime Minister Portal, etc., the sole allegation of opposite party no. 2 is that these complaints were filed by the applicant with malicious intent to harm the reputation. Opposite party no. 2 has admitted in the complaint itself and in his statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. that the applicant's daughter was married to Udit Arya. She was receiving treatment from Dr. Geetanjali, who prescribed some medicine; however, Udit Arya was unable to read or understand the medicines. Subsequently, at Udit Arya's request, opposite party no. 2 wrote the medicine on his letterhead.

18. It is also an admitted fact that the applicant registered a First Information Report as Case Crime No. 310 of 2022 against Udit Arya (son-in-law), Rakesh Arya, Madhu Arya, and Shubham

Arya under Sections 304B, and 498A I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act at Police Station Ganga Nagar, District Meerut. After investigation, a charge-sheet under Section 498A, 304B I.P.C., and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act was filed. Being unsatisfied with the investigation, the applicant approached higher authorities. Subsequently, the D.G.P., U.P., vide his letter No. DG Meerut (19) 2023/4419 dated 08.08.2023, transferred the investigation to District Bulandshahr. The extracts of the said report are as follows:

'Senior Superintendent of Police, District Bulandshahr,

Kindly be informed that on 23.10.2023, the complainant Mr. Vipin Kumar Malhotra, son of the late Shadillal, resident of B-28 Defense Colony, Ganganagar, Meerut, filed case no. 310/2022 at Ganganagar Police Station, District Meerut, under Sections 498A and 304B of the IPC and Sections 3 and 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act against the following accused:

1. Udit Arya (husband), son of Rakesh Ary

2. Mrs. Madhu (mother-in-law), wife of Rakesh Ary

3. Shubham Arya (brother-in-law), son of Rakesh Ary

4. Rakesh Arya (father-in-law), son of Omprakash Arya, residents of 105 Kornak Colony, Roorkee Road, Meeru

5. Anita Jain (aunt), wife of Dr. Ajay Jain, resident of B-13 Adarsh Nagar, Begambagh, Lalkurti Police Station, District Meerut, alleging that the complainant□s daughter, Snigdha, was demanded 6 million rupees and a vehicle and was subjected to harassment. Due to the harassment, she had a miscarriage. On 21.10.2022, she was assaulted and locked in a room. When the complainant brought his daughter home, her condition worsened, and she died while being taken to the hospital. A registration was made regarding her death, and the investigation has been conducted by me, the Area Crime Officer.

During the investigation of the above case, Dr. Akshay Jain, son of the late Mr. Girilal Jain, resident of B-13 Adarsh Nagar, Lalkurti, District Meerut, stated that the medicine prescribed for Snigdha by Dr. Geetanjali Bendre was not understood by the medical store owners; therefore, Udit Arya approached Dr. Akshay Jain to obtain the correct spelling of the medicine or to have the prescription made. However, contrary to this statement, the examination of the Call Detail Record (CDR) of Udit Arya□s phone number 8454045412 reveals that Udit Arya did not visit Dr. Akshay Jain on 10.09.2022 to get the prescription made because the location of Udit Arya□s phone was not near Dr. Akshay Jain□s Giripushp Arogya Hospital, and there was no phone conversation between Udit Arya and Dr. Akshay Jain. There is a contradiction between Dr. Akshay Jain□s statement and the location and call logs in Udit Arya□s CDR. Therefore, it appears that the prescription was fabricated by Dr. Akshay Jain to benefit the above-named accused in this case. Since Mrs. Anita Jain, wife of Dr. Ajay Jain, resident of B-13 Adarsh Nagar, Begambagh, Lalkurti Police Station, District Meerut, is the sister of accused Rakesh Arya, son of Omprakash Arya, and the wife of Dr.

Ajay Jain, the younger brother of Dr. Akshay Jain, Anita Jain appears to be involved in the false/fake prescription prepared by Dr. Akshay Jain on 10.09.2022.

Therefore, your honor is requested to kindly take action against Mr. Akshay Jain, son of the late Mr. Girilal Jain, and Mrs. Anita Jain, wife of Dr. Ajay Jain, residents of B-13 Adarsh Nagar, Lalkurti, District Meerut.

19. The Investigating Officer obtained the call detail report of Udit Arya and opposite party no.2 and found that Udit Arya did not visit Dr. Akshay Kumar Jain on 10.09.2022 to obtain the prescription because Udit Arya's location was not found near Dr. Akshay Kumar Jain's hospital. Furthermore, there was no telephonic conversation between Udit Arya and opposite party no. 2. The Investigating Officer found that it appears the prescription was prepared by opposite party no.2 on 10.09.2022.

20. The allegations made by the applicant in the complaints are duly supported by the said investigation. Moreover, it cannot be said that the complaints were filed with the intention to harm the reputation of opposite party no.2.

21. The principles governing the summoning of an accused in a criminal case, as well as the parameters for quashing criminal proceedings, are well-settled. Summoning an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter, and criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not necessary that the complainant bring only two witnesses to support allegations in the complaint to initiate criminal proceedings. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect an application of mind to the facts of the case and the applicable law. The Magistrate must carefully scrutinize the evidence brought on record and determine whether any offence is prima facie established. The Magistrate may even personally put questions to the complainant and witnesses to elicit answers to ascertain the truthfulness of the allegations and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by any or all of the accused.

22. When an accused seeks quashing of either the FIR or criminal proceedings on the ground that such proceedings are manifestly frivolous, vexatious, or malicious, the Court is duty-bound to examine the matter with greater care. It will not suffice for the Court to consider only the averments made in the FIR/complaint to ascertain whether the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence are disclosed. In frivolous or vexatious proceedings, the Court has a duty to consider additional circumstances emerging from the case record, beyond the averments, and, if necessary, with due care and circumspection, to read between the lines. While exercising its jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC or Article 226 of the Constitution, the Court need not restrict itself to the stage of the case but is empowered to consider the overall circumstances leading to the initiation/registration of the case as well as the materials collected during the investigation.

23. Based on the material available on record, there is no evidence to prove that the applicant was responsible for the publication of the said news article. Furthermore, there is no evidence to prove that the complaints were made with malicious intent to harm the reputation of Dr. Akshay Kumar Jain. Additionally, opposite party no. 2 has not filed any evidence to prove that the applicant had conducted any press conference.

24. Considering the overall facts and circumstances, it can be said that no prima facie case is made out against the applicant. The learned Magistrate passed the summoning order in a very casual manner and did not properly consider the facts of this case.

25. Accordingly, the application under Section 528 B.N.S.S. is allowed. The summoning order dated 06.04.2024 passed by the Judicial Magistrate/Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No. 1, District Meerut, in Complaint Case No. 907 of 2024, under Section 500 I.P.C., Police Station Lalkurti, District Meerut, along with the entire proceedings of the aforesaid complaint case, as well as the revisional order dated 10.09.2025 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Meerut in Criminal Revision No. 419 of 2024, are hereby quashed.

Criminal Appeal No. 206 of 1989
& Connected with other case

Laxmi Kant @ Pappu (dead) ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the conviction of the surviving appellant under Ss. 302/34 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 could be sustained solely on the basis of the last seen theory and other circumstantial evidence when the prosecution failed to establish a complete chain of circumstances beyond reasonable doubt - whether the order forfeiting the motorcycle to the State under S. 452 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 was sustainable or the vehicle was liable to be released to its owner upon conclusion of the trial. (Paras 1, 2, 56)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Criminal Procedure - Homicide - Circumstantial Evidence - Last Seen Theory - Disposal of Property - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 302, 34 and 120-B - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Ss. 374(2), 437-A, 452 and 454 - Evidence of last seen together is a weak kind of evidence and cannot by itself sustain conviction unless the chain of circumstances is complete and excludes every hypothesis consistent with the innocence of the accused - conviction on the basis of last seen together can be recorded only where the time gap between the accused and the deceased being last seen together and the recovery of the dead body is so small that the possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible - power under S. 452 Cr.P.C. is to be exercised after conclusion of the trial and, unless circumstances demand otherwise, property should ordinarily be released to its owner - prosecution failed to prove motive or establish a complete chain of circumstances - testimonies of the last seen witnesses were found inconsistent and improbable - conviction under Ss. 302/34 I.P.C. and order of forfeiture of the motorcycle set aside. (Paras 42, 44, 50, 51, 52, 55, 56, 60)

Held: The evidence of last seen together is a very weak kind of evidence and conviction cannot be made only on the basis of evidence of last seen together without considering the circumstantial evidence and the chain of circumstances complete in the manner in which they refer only and only towards the guilt of the accused and there is no hypothesis consistent with the innocence of the accused - the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn must be cogently and firmly established and those circumstances on the basis of which inference of guilt is drawn should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused only - each of these circumstances so proved must form a complete chain without any break to clearly point to the guilt of the accused and exclude every hypothesis except the one to be proved - conviction on the basis of the theory of last seen together can be made where the time gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were last seen alive and when the deceased is found dead is so short that the probability of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible - the learned trial court recorded the conviction without considering and appreciating the material on record appropriately and merely on the basis of surmises and conjectures - once the trial concluded, unless the circumstances so demand, the vehicle should have been released in favour of the owner particularly when he was not involved in the crime in any manner - Appeals allowed. (Paras 42, 44, 51, 52, 55, 60) (E-7)

(against accused Laxmi Kant @ Pappu and Sunil Kumar) and under Section 302/120B I.P.C. (against all accused persons), Police Station Shahabad, District Hardoi, by which appellants, Sunil Kumar and Laxmi Kant @ Pappu (since deceased), have been convicted and sentenced under Section 302 I.P.C. read with Section 34 I.P.C. for life imprisonment and a fine of Rs.5,000/- each, which shall be paid to father of deceased on deposit and in case of default in payment of fine, they will suffer further imprisonment for one year and in view of this sentence, no separate sentence has been passed under Section 302 I.P.C. read with Section 120-B I.P.C. However, co-accused Natthu Lal and Sri Kant have been acquitted under Section 302 I.P.C. read with Section 120-B I.P.C.

(2) Criminal Appeal No. 336 of 1989 under Section 454 Cr.P.C. has been preferred by appellant, Puttoo Lal Trivedi, assailing the judgment and order dated 04.03.1989 (supra), by which Motor Cycle, bearing registration No. U.S.W. 8137 (Rajdoot), of the appellant, Puttoo Lal Trivedi, has been forfeited in favour of the State.

(3) Both Criminal Appeal No. 206 of 1989 and Criminal Appeal No. 336 of 1989, arising out of one and the same judgment and order dated 04.03.1989, have been clubbed, heard and are being decided together by means of this common judgment and order.

(4) It is pertinent to mention that during pendency of Criminal Appeal No. 206 of 1989, convict/appellant no.1, Laxmi Kant alias Pappu, died, therefore, Criminal Appeal No. 206 of 1989 filed on behalf of convict/appellant no.1, Laxmi Kant alias Pappu, stood abated by means of order dated 15.02.2024 passed by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court. Thus, Criminal Appeal No. 206 of 1989 only survives on behalf of convict/appellant no.2, Sunil Kumar.

(5) It is also pertinent to mention that while entertaining Criminal Appeal No. 336 of 1989, this Court, while admitting and summoning the trial Court□s record, suspended the operation of the order regarding forfeiture of the motor cycle during pendency of the appeal and further directed to give the motor cycle in the custody of the appellant after obtaining sufficient security to the satisfaction of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hardoi, by means of order dated 26.04.1989 and as informed by learned counsel for the appellant, the custody of vehicle was taken by the appellant.

Facts of the case

(6) The case of the prosecution, in short, is that complainant, Pran Nath Shukla son of Shri Shyamcharan, resident of Mohalla Dilerganj, police station Shahabad, district Hardoi, had submitted a written report at police station Shahabad, district Hardoi, on 03.11.1986, alleging therein that his son, Deepak Kumar, runs a shop of electrical goods, which is situated in the house of Natthulal Mishra, resident of Mohalla Dilerganj, Kasba Shahabad. Some rumours were spreading for a few days alleging an illicit relations of the daughter of Natthu Lal Mishra, who got married in Pali, with his son Deepak Kumar, aged about 17 years, as she used to visit frequently. Due to this, the family members of Natthu Lal were keeping enmity internally, although apparently they maintained cordial relations. Yesterday i.e. on 02.11.1986, at about 6:30 in the evening, Laxmi Kant alias Pappu son of Natthu Lal, took his son Deepak Kumar, who was wearing kurta-paijama, on a Rajdoot motorcycle and in front of the house of Janardan Gupta in Mohalla Dilerganj near the peepal tree, Sushil Kumar Singh and Rajni Kant Srivastava saw them and also had a talk with them and since then his son did not return back home. In the morning, he (complainant) met Laxmi Kant in front of his house and he inquired about his son Deepak Kumar, but he refused to tell anything. Thereafter, he went in search of his son Deepak Kumar among Natthulal□s relatives and his several relatives, but no whereabout of him was found. Laxmi Kant had also left his home since morning, therefore, he has suspicion that Laxmi Kant and his associates would have disappeared his son and killed him or they would kill him. Report may be registered and legal action may be taken.

(7) On the basis of the aforesaid report (Ext. Ka.1), initially a check F.I.R., bearing Case Crime No. 183 of 1986, under Section 364 I.P.C. was registered against accused Laxmi Kant alias Pappu and his associates on 03.11.1986 at 07:10 p.m. at Police Station Shahabad, district Hardoi.

By that time, post-mortem of the dead body of the deceased was done. S.S.I. Hariraj Singh Tyagi, who accompanied S.I. Ram Lakhan Singh, had shown the unidentified dead body to the father and other relatives including Ashok Kumar Tewari. Upon seeing, complainant Pran Nath Shukla had identified the unknown dead body as his son Deepak Kumar and the dead body of the deceased Deepak Kumar was handed over to him. An entry in this respect was made in G.D. No. 22 at 06:55 p.m. on 04.11.1986. Thereafter, S.S.I. Hariraj Singh Tyagi along with other Constable returned to P.S. Kanth and an entry was made in G.D. at 07:45 P.M. on 04.11.1986, noting therein that the dead body of Deepak Kumar was given to his father and the offence commenced at Shahabad and ended at Jamaur culvert within that police station but the investigation will be done by police station Shahabad.

(13) The Investigating Officer S.I. Ram Lakhan Singh, thereafter, made a report to higher authorities on 04.11.1986 that the offence relates to Police Station Shahabad, therefore, papers be sent to police station Shahabad for investigation. Thereafter, further investigation of the case was conducted by S.I. Jagdamba Prasad Mishra of Police Station Shahabad. In the course of investigation, he found one motor cycle, bearing registration no. USW 8137, (Rajdoot black), standing in the house of aunt Smt. Vimla Misra of Sunil Kumar on 05.11.1986 and upon inquiry of it, Smt. Vimla Misra stated that her nephew Sunil Kumar in the night along with one of his friend left the motor cycle. He took the motor cycle in possession and prepared memo of recovery. On 07.11.1986, at 06:50 A.M., the case property, which was taken during investigation by S.I. Ram Lakhan Singh of Police Station Kanth, district Shahjahanpur was brought by Constable Kamlesh Chandra and was deposited in the Malkhana of Police Station Shahahbad and entry to this effect was made in G.D. No. 11. Thereafter, on 15.01.1987, Constable Rajendra Prasad Misra took the case property of Crime No. 183 of 1986 from Malkhana Shahabad to Sadar Malkhana, Hardoi and an entry to this effect was also made in G.D. No. 13. Thereafter, the case property was sent for chemical examination and Serologist's report. After completing the investigation, S.I. Mahak Singh had filed charge-sheet No. 145 of 1986 dated 31.12.1986 under Sections 364, 302 and 120-B I.P.C. against accused Laxmi Kant alias Pappu, Sri Kant, Natthu Lal and Sunil Kumar.

(14) Learned Magistrate took cognizance on the aforesaid charge-sheet and committed the case to the Court of Sessions on 11.05.1987, where the case was registered as Sessions Trial No.

209 of 1987. Learned Sessions Judge, by means of order dated 23.05.1987, had framed charges against accused Laxmi Kant and Sunil Kumar under Sections 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C. and against all accused, Laxmi Kant, Sri Kant, Natthu Lal and Sunil Kumar, under Sections 302 read with Section 120-B I.P.C. All the accused persons denied the charges and pleaded for trial. Hence trial commenced.

Ext. I, II, III, IV and V	Love letters adduced by complainant (P.W.2)
Ext. VI	Papers relating to Motorcycle, bearing registration No. U.S.W. 8137

(18) After recording the evidences of prosecution witnesses, the following two Court witnesses were summoned and examined:-

C.W.-1	Smt. Shahida Begum	Principal, Modern Montessori School, Shahabad. Proved that Usha Devi was a teacher.
C.W.-2	Usha Devi	Sister of accused/appellant Laxmi Kant

(19) Thereafter, the statements of accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein they denied the incident. Accused Laxmi Kant alias Pappu stated nothing except denial. Accused Srikant stated that out of the enmity of shop, he has been falsely implicated. He had purchased the house of maternal grandfather of witness Subhash and as such he has been falsely implicated. Accused Natthu Lal stated that Subhash Rastogi (P.W.3) was living in the house of complainant Pran Nath. The witness Rajni Kant has worked as a peon under the complainant Pran Nath, who was Naib Tehsildar and witness Smt. Krishna Kumari is the real sister of Pran Nath. He also stated that his daughter had given private examination of B.A. after passing Intermediate and she also took education in Tara Pathak Intermediate College, Shahjahanpur. Accused Sunil Kumar stated that sister's son of the complainant Pran Nath, namely, Govind Saran had a dispute with his brother in Loco and as a result of this, he has been falsely implicated in the incident.

(20) In defence, three witnesses were examined, which are as under :-

D.W.1	Puttu Lal Trivedi	Father-in-law of accused Laxmi Kant alias Pappu/owner of the Motor Cycle Rajdoot USW 8137
D.W.2	Shyam Lal	Head Clerk of Loco Shed
D.W.3	Jagdish Prasad	Witness of fact that accused Srikant was on duty at Railway Station Balamau in the night of 28/29.10.1986

(21) After hearing the learned Counsel for the parties and considering the evidence and material on record, learned trial Court, by means of the impugned judgment and order dated 04.03.1989, acquitted the accused Nathhu Lal and Sri Kant but convicted and sentenced the accused Laxmi Kant alias Pappu and Sunil Kumar, under section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C. to undergo life imprisonment and a fine of Rs.5,000/- each. In the event of default of fine to undergo one year additional imprisonment. The learned trial Court has also provided that the motor cycle

No. U.S.W. 8137 Rajdoot, which has been used in the commission of the crime, shall stand forfeited in favour of State.

(22) Feeling aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order dated 04.03.1989, convicts/appellants, Laxmi Kant alias Pappu, and Sunil Kumar have preferred Criminal Appeal No. 206 of 1989, whereas appellant, Puttoo Lal Trivedi, owner of Motor Cycle No. U.S.W. 8137 Rajdoot, has preferred Criminal Appeal No. 336 of 1989, seeking release of the said vehicle in his favour.

(23) No appeal against the order of acquittal of accused Natthu Lal and Sri Kant has been preferred either on behalf of the State or complainant, as informed by learned A.G.A.

Arguments

(24) Heard Shri Anand Yadav, Advocate holding brief of Shri Katyayan Mishra, learned Counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 336 of 1989, Shri Rajiv Kumar Bajpai, Advocate assisted by Ms. Suparna Mishra, learned Counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 206 of 1989 and Shri Pawan Kumar Mishra, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State.

Submissions of appellants in Criminal Appeal No.206 of 1989

(25) Learned counsel for the appellants in Criminal Appeal No.206 of 1989 submitted that the impugned judgment and order has been passed without considering the evidence and material on record appropriately and without making out the chain of circumstances complete against the appellants because the case rests only on circumstantial evidence. He further submitted that the investigation was tainted, which does not inspire confidence, therefore, on the basis of said tainted investigation, neither the charge sheet could have been filed nor the trial could have proceeded and convicted the appellants. Thus, he submitted that the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside and the appellants are liable to be acquitted.

Submissions of appellant in Criminal Appeal No.336 of 1989

(26) Learned counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.336 of 1989 submitted that the learned Trial Court has illegally held that the motor cycle in question bearing No. U.S.W. 8137 (Rajdoot) was used by the accused persons in committing the crime and forfeited the same, whereas neither the same was recovered on the pointing out of any of the accused nor the witnesses to the recovery of the said motor cycle were produced. He further submitted that the prosecution has failed to prove that the motor cycle was used in the crime, therefore, it could not have been forfeited. Thus, he submitted that the impugned judgment and order to the extent of forfeiting the motor cycle of the appellant is liable to be set aside and the appeal is liable to be allowed.

Submissions on behalf of State

(27) Learned A.G.A. vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the appellants. He submitted that the P.W.-1 had told P.W.-2 that he had seen Deepak going with Laxmi Kant on a motor cycle to Shahjahanpur and he had also told the number of motor cycle to the Investigation Officer and also deposed before the Court. He further submitted that the P.W.-4 has proved that he had seen and talked to Deepak lastly with Laxmi Kant @ Pappu and Sunil when they were going towards Shahjahanpur in the evening of 02.11.1986 at about 07:30 - 08:00 and, thereafter, Deepak has been found dead on the next morning. He further submitted that P.W.-5, in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., which was placed on record by the Investigating Officer and proved as Ex. Ka-22, had stated that Deepak had told him that his name is Deepak and Pappu and Sunil Mishra have brought deceiving him and fired on him and, thereafter, he was not found alive, therefore, the said statement of the deceased should be treated as dying declaration, which is sufficient proof against the appellant. Thus, he submits that though the P.W.-5 has been declared hostile in the Court but the aforesaid statement of the deceased is to be treated as dying declaration in view of the judgment rendered in the case of Pakala Narayana Swami Vs. Emperor; (1939) 26 AIR PC 47. He further submitted that the motor cycle was also recovered from the house of relative of Sunil. Thus, he submits that chain of circumstances is complete and the learned Trial Court has rightly and in accordance with law, after considering the material and evidence on record, has convicted the appellants by passing a reasoned and speaking order. There is no illegality or error in the impugned judgment and order, which may call for any interference by this Court. Thus, he submits that the appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds, which is liable to be dismissed.

(28) We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

Analysis in Criminal Appeal No.206 of 1989

(29) The son of the complainant, namely, Deepak Kumar was doing a business of electric goods in a shop situated in Mohalla Dilerganj, which was owned by accused Natthu Lal. Deepak Kumar disappeared on 02.11.1986 around 06:30 PM, thereafter, his whereabouts were not known. When he did not return, in the intervening night of 02/03.11.1986, he was searched by his father Pran Nath i.e. the complainant. He came to know from Rajni Kant Srivastava and Sushil Kumar Singh that they had seen his son alongwith son of accused Natthu Lal, namely Laxmi Kant @ Pappu going on a motor cycle at about 06:30 PM on 02.11.1986 in front of house of Janardan Gupta near a Pipal Tree and his son was wearing kurta and paizama at that time. They had also talked with them and, thereafter, he did not return. The complainant met the accused Laxmi Kant in front of his house on next morning and he enquired about Deepak Kumar but he showed ignorance and refused to tell him anything. Thereafter, he went for search of his son Deepak Kumar among his relatives and relatives of Natthu Lal but he could not get the whereabouts of his son and the accused Laxmi Kant had also left his house, therefore, he doubted that Laxmi Kant and his associates have done away his son Deepak Kumar on account of his illicit intimacy with daughter of Natthu Lal, who was married in Pali and on account of which rumour, Natthu Lal and his family kept enmity and grudge in their hearts, however, they were not showing it. Thus, on the basis of aforesaid facts and with the aforesaid allegations, the F.I.R. was lodged by the complainant on 03.11.1986 at 07:10 PM, a corresponding entry of which was made in the G.D. No.34 at 07:10 PM. The investigation started, however, in the meantime dead body of the deceased was found on Jamaur culvert, Shahjahanpur in the morning of 03.11.1986 and his post-mortem was conducted in unknown on 04.11.1986. On the same day in the evening, father of the deceased went to mortury in Shahjahanpur in search of his son and found his dead body. Accordingly, investigation proceeded and after completion of investigation into the matter, charge sheet was filed against the accused persons, upon which, cognizance was taken by the learned Magistrate and the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial, where the charge was framed, however, the same was denied by the accused persons and pleaded for trial. Consequently, the trial commenced.

(30) The first circumstances, which has been produced by the prosecution to show the complicity of accused in the commission of offence is that deceased was lastly seen in the company of accused Laxmi Kant alias Pappu and he was going with them, which was seen by P.W.1 and one Sunil Kumar. P.W.2 is only hearsay witness. There is no dispute that said Sushil Kumar was not examined by prosecution, reason best known to the prosecution. This fact is also not disputed that next day the dead body of deceased was found near Jamaur culvert, Shahjahanpur and his death was caused by firearm and his death occurred at about 09:00 p.m., same day on which he was lastly seen i.e. on 02.11.1986 itself. Therefore, homicidal death on 02.11.1986 has not been raised in challenge and the only fact in issue between the parties is complicity of accuseds. For the purpose of judicious and righteous dispensation of justice and give the observations thereof, it is always beneficial to bring on record the brief resume of evidence of factual witnesses.

(31) Rajni Kant appeared as P.W.-1. He stated that he knows the accused Laxmi Kant, who resides in his area and the deceased Deepak Kumar. On 02.11.1986 i.e. the next day of Deepawali around 06:30 in the evening, he alognwith Sushil Kumar was standing in front of house of Janardan Gupta, when Laxmi Kant and Deepak Kumar came on a motor cycle from the north. The motor cycle was being driven by Laxmi Kant and the number of the motor cycle was U.S.W. 8137, which was Rajdoot motor cycle of black colour. Sushil Kumar Singh stopped them and asked, then Deepak told that he is going to Shahjahanpur with Laxmi Kant. On being asked about the motor cycle, Laxmi Kant informed that his motor cycle has some fault and this is the motor cycle of one of his relatives, then both of them went towards the Ghas Mandi in the south. Thereafter, he has not seen Deepak alive.

(32) In cross-examination, the P.W.-1 deposed that he is working as Moharrir with an Advocate in Tehsil Shahabad. However, he was not registered as Moharrir. The complainant Pran Nath was an Ameen in Tehsil Shahabad. When he worked with Ram Hari, then Pran Nath was Naib Tehsildar. Explaining about the place he was standing, he stated that he was standing in front of the house of Janardan Gupta. He further deposed that none came from the neighbourhood of Janardan, when they saw and met Deepak. He along with Sushil was going to market. Deepak and Laxmi Kant met about 100 meters away from the house of Sushil. He knew Deepak as he was residing in his Mohalla. However, he had no friendship with him rather Sushil Kumar had friendship with Deepak. He had not stopped Deepak and Laxmi Kant rather it was Sushil, who had stopped and asked them about their going and it was then that Deepak had told that they are going to Shahjahanpur. On a query of Sushil regarding motorcycle, Laxmi Kant told that it is of his relative but the name of relative was not asked. While they were talking, none of the Mohalla had passed from there. He further deposed that this fact was shared by him with police. He also deposed that he knows father of Laxmi Kant, who has retired and running a shop of pumping set. He further deposed that they had met at 06:30 PM when it was dark and the lights were on; and after talking with Laxmi Kant and Deepak, he along with Sushil proceeded towards market. He further deposed that Sushil Kumar had told of their meeting with Deepak to his father at 08:30 on the next morning near Jawahar Lal School, which is at a distance of 40 meters on the west side of the road and he was also present at the relevant time. Sushil had met near the school. He had also told Pran Nath in regard to the memory about number of the motor cycle and since he had seen the motor cycle, therefore, it was but natural. On a query by the Court, he deposed that there was nothing special in the motor cycle, however, since they were going on it, therefore, he could notice the number of motorcycle and it remained in memory. He denied the suggestion that he would not have seen the motor cycle and the number. He also denied the suggestion that he does not know Laxmi Kant and gave false evidence under pressure of Pran Nath.

(33) The complainant, Pran Nath appeared as P.W.-2. He deposed that Deepak was his son, who was aged about 17 years at the time of incident. At the time of incident, he was runnig an electric goods shop under the name and style of Vinay Electric House. The shop was in front of the Co-operative Bank. His shop was in one of the shops of Natthu Lal. There are four shops in the house of Natthu Lal, out of which, one was of his son, one shop was of fertilizer, one shop was of pumping set, which was looked after by Natthu Lal himself and in fourth shop, there was a tailor. Deepak was doing business for the last six months and paid rent in each month. He further deposed that Natthu Lal had two sons, namely, the accused Laxmi Kant @ Pappu and Srikant and had three daughters, out of which two have been married. One has been married in Pali and another in Umrauli. The daughter, who was married in Pali, was teaching in Modern Montessori School in Shahabad. Laxmi Kant is married and name of his father-in-law is Puttu Lal, who is resident of Shahjahanpur. The accused Srikant is servant in Railway and resides in Roza Railway Colony. Fourth accused Sunil, who is present in Court, resides with his brother Sushil, who works in Railway in Roza. He further deposed that it was a rumour for the last 15 □ 20 days that Deepak had developed illicit relations with Usha, who was married in Pali but it could not be confirmed. He further deposed that Deepak had gone from his house wearing kurta, paizama and sweater lastly on 02.11.1986, whereas in the first information report, lodged by himself, he had mentioned that he was seen by Sushil Kumar Singh and Rajni Kant Srivastava in front of house of Janardan Gupta going on Rajdoot motor cycle with Laxmi Kant @ Pappu wearing kurta and paizama.

(34) He further deposed that when his son did not return till morning of 03.11.1986, then, he started his search. Sushil Kumar and Rajni Kant met him in front of Jawahar Lal School and told that Deepak Kumar had gone to Shahjahanpur with Laxmi Kant on black motor cycle but number of motor cycle was not told by them, therefore, he asked from Laxmi Kant but he did not tell anything and, thereafter, Laxmi Kant did not meet. He had searched Deepak among his relatives as well as of his and Natthu Lal and when Deepak did not meet, he lodged the F.I.R. at the Police Station Shahabad and proved the written tehrir as Ex. Ka-1.

(35) In view of above, from the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, it is apparent that on the one hand, P.W.-1 has deposed that the deceased Deepak Kumar had met him and Sushil Kumar Singh going on a motor cycle towards Shahjahanpur and they had met in front of house of Janardan in his Mohalla but on the other hand, the evidence of P.W.-2 does not indicate that the deceased Deepak had gone with Laxmi Kant @ Pappu from home, whereas the house of Deepak was at a distance of 100 steps from the place, where P.W.-1 and Sushil Kumar Singh had seen Deepak with Laxmi Kant @ Pappu. The P.W.-2 has deposed to have asked from Laxmi Kant about Deepak after P.W.-1 and Sushil Kumar Singh told him that they had seen Deepak with him, whereas in the first information report, it was mentioned by him that he met Laxmi Kant in front of his house on the very next morning and asked about Deepak Kumar, who denied to tell anything about him. The evidence of P.W.-1 also shows that Sushil Kumar Singh was friend of Deepak and he had talked to Deepak and told the complainant about last seen but he has not been examined. It is also apparent from the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 that they were known to each other as working in Tehsil and P.W.-1 must have been subordinate to P.W.-2 and Sushil Kumar Singh, who was friend of Deepak Kumar and an independent witness, has not been produced. It is also apparent from evidence of Investigating Officer P.W.-10 that number of motor cycle was told by him and other two witnesses told that they do not recollect, thus, P.W.-1 had not told the number to the Investigating Officer. The P.W.-2 has also deposed that number was not told by P.W.-1 and Sushil Kumar Singh. Hence Sushil Kumar was a material witness, who has been withheld.

(36) The learned Trial Court has recorded a finding, upon consideration of evidence of P.W.-1, that he is a reliable witness and he had seen Deepak lastly with accused Laxmi Kant going towards Shahjahanpur on motor cycle on the ground that he does not bore any enmity, living in same Mohalla or vicinity, and there was an occasion of 'Deepawali' festival to be present in market, but failed to consider that he had seen Deepak and Laxmi Kant in colony and not in market and if the finding of occasion of 'Deepawali' festival for their presence is to be considered to hold reliability of his testimony, then it should also have been considered that P.W.-1 has also deposed that none had passed from the said place, when they saw Deepak and Laxmi Kant, whereas on the 'Deepawali' festival people used to come out of houses and meet and go to the houses of others in Mohalla, particularly in the evening, therefore, absence of anybody else and withholding Sushil Kumar Singh coupled with the fact that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 were working in same office and P.W.-1 must have been subordinate to P.W.-2 casts doubt about testimony of P.W.-1.

(37) The P.W.-2 further deposed that he continued to search his son Deepak and went to Shahjahanpur on 04.11.1986 and at mortuary, he came to know that post-mortem was conducted of an unknown body and clothes were sealed. He saw and identified the dead body of Deepak. Four other persons were with him in search. The dead body was given in his custody by the Inspector of Police Station Kanth, District Shahjahanpur and a supurdgi memo was prepared, which was signed by him and proved as Ex. Ka-2. He further deposed that he went to Chhaya Kua, Shahjahanpur to arrange for a vehicle, where Sri J.P. Mishra, S.O., Shahabad met him and he had a talk with him. It is very strange that whenever any material information was to gather or given to some person connected with the case, they met P.W.-2 with co-incidence. Rajni Kant and Sushil Kumar Singh met in front of school during search on the next day of last seen by them for information of going of Deepak with Laxmi Kant @ Pappu and Sri J.P. Mishra, the Investigating Officer of F.I.R. at Police Station Shahabad, after dead body was found. The said Investigating Officer has admitted in his evidence that he came to know about death of Deepak at Chhaya Kunwa, Shahjahanpur.

(38) The P.W.-2 further deposed that Deepak was wearing kurta, paizama and sweater, whereas he had mentioned in the F.I.R. that P.W.-1 and Sushil Kumar had seen him in kurta and paizama, although sweater was also recovered from the body of deceased, which is recorded in post-mortem report but it remained unexplained as to how P.W.-1 and Sushil Kumar Singh had seen in Kurta and Paizama only on the same day that too at a short distance of 100 steps from house, which also creates doubt about testimony of P.W.-1.

(39) The motive of murder has been shown in the rumour of illicit relation of the deceased with the sister of Laxmi Kant. To prove the said motive, the complainant has placed on record the aforesaid love letters, alleged to have been written by sister of Laxmi Kant, who appeared as C.W.-2. However, their placing on record, as discussed above, creates doubt about their recovery.

(40) P.W.-2 had deposed that as per his inference Usha had written letters to Deepak and two letters were recovered from the shop of Deepak, which he had handed over to the Inspector of Police Station Shahabad on 11.11.1986, in regard to which, he had prepared a memo before him, which has been marked as Ex. Ka-3. Thereafter, as recorded in the evidence of P.W.-2, he went out of the Court and brought certain more letters and told that he had got certain more letters, which he placed on record and the same were marked as Ex-1, Ex.-2 and EX.-3. The Court has further recorded that a copy of the letters be kept on record and the other letters be traced out as they are not available in file. On the next date i.e. after three days, when his cross-examination resumed, he deposed that the letters, which were handed over by him to Sub Inspector on 11.11.1986 are before him and were marked as Ex.4 and Ex.5 and a memo of which is Ex. Ka-3. However, the said two letters were placed on record by him on the same day because he deposed that the two letters, which have been placed on record today, were found on 10.11.1986 in the drawer of show-case in the shop of Deepak and the remaining were found after 10-15 days, when the shop was vacated. They were recovered in a copy of passbook of Co-operative Bank, which was kept at other place behind the electric goods. The two letters were handed over by him to the Inspector, when he met in front of Police Station Shahabad and his statement was recorded at that time.

(41) The Sub Inspector, Sri J.P. Mishra, who appeared as P.W.-10, has deposed that on 11.11.1986, the complainant Pran Nath had come to the police station and filed two letters written by Pushpa to the deceased, which are on record as Ex.-4 and Ex.-5 and the corresponding memo is Ex. Ka-3. However, in the cross-examination by the Court, he stated that the complainant Pran Nath had given two love letters i.e. Ex.-4 and Ex.-5 in front of police station, which were entered by him in C.D. and not in the G.D. of the police station. However, there is no mention of the recovery memo and it has also not been mentioned that on account of shortage of paper, the entry of recovery memo is not being prepared but the names of the witnesses are mentioned. In regard to which, it is mentioned on the memo that they are witnesses. He further deposed that he had not made any over writing under his signature in Ex. Ka-3. By mistake '12.11.86' was written, which was written as '11.11.86' and '12.11.86' above remained written. It is wrong to say that he made a forged entry in Ex. Ka-3. This paper was submitted by the Incharge Inspector on 12.11.86, which is 11.11.86. Thus, there is contradiction in regard to the place, where two letters were handed over by the complainant to the Inspector and it has also not been clarified as to who were the witnesses called by him and if they were called, as to why their statements were not recorded and if their statements could not have been recorded, why they were called. Be that as it may, P.W.-2 admitted that he placed on record the said two letters recovered from the drawer of shop of Deepak on the date of his further cross-examination, which in itself creates doubt on the recovery memo of same, which deepens in view of evidence of Investigating Officer. The recovery of three letters separately by P.W.-2 from the same shop and the manner of placing them on record also creates doubt. Learned Trial Court failed to consider it.

(42) The learned Trial Court, examined Smt. Shahida Begum, the Principal of the Modern Montessori School as C.W.-1 and Smt. Usha Devi as C.W.-2 and, considering the evidence of C.W.-1, has recorded a finding only to the effect that one lady Usha was a teacher at the time when she was principal. However, it could not be proved that she was the sister of Laxmi Kant @ Pappu. The learned Trial Court, considering the evidence of C.W.-2 Smt. Usha Devi, has held that she can not be held to be a reliable witness at all. However, during her examination on oath, she was make to write but after considering her writing, the learned Trial Court has recorded a finding that what she has written makes one to believe that the education standard is either not up to the mark or the witness deliberately twisted and made such writing which may not make any sense and the Court can not be guided by such writing at all. Even thereafter proceeded to consider her handwriting under Section 73 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 and recorded a finding that I have tried to find out certain alphabets of Usha 'Da' of Devi which have been repeated in the love letters. Even in the handwriting 'Phu' of 'Phool' as well as 'La' of 'Phool' and 'Gu' of 'Gulab' are the letters, which have been repeated in the handwriting. The pen pressure twist had distorted mostly in the writing before this Court, but when examined by magnifying lens, they bear similarity. However, I do not check these letters as authentically as argued by the prosecution. However, considering her cross-examination, in which, she has come to know about the murder of Deepak Kumar only four days after, the learned Trial Court has recorded a finding that this is possible only when she has sympathetic vibrations in herself for such a young boy of 18 years of age. However, from the aforesaid findings, it is clear that no conclusive finding could be recorded that the letters placed on record by the complainant were written by C.W.-2 to the deceased Deepak Kumar. Thus, this Court is of the view that since no conclusive finding could be recorded on the basis of records and evidence that the aforesaid letters were written by the C.W.-2 to the deceased Deepak Kumar, the motive shown by the prosecution for the murder of the deceased is not proved. Rumour can not take place of proof to record a finding of motive and guilt. However, even if the motive is not proved, it can not be a ground to discard the prosecution case if the prosecution is otherwise able to prove it's case, though motive is an important factor, particularly in the case of circumstantial evidence.

(43) In view of above, P.W.-1, P.W.-2 and P.W.-3 have not named the appellant, Sunil Kumar. However, P.W.-4, Smt. Krishna Kumari, who is aunt (बुआ) of the deceased, has named the appellant, Sunil Kumar and deposed two instances of last seen. She admitted that the complainant, Pran Nath Shukla is her brother and deceased Deepak is his son. She further deposed that Laxmi Kant and Sunil were friends and they were also friend of Deepak and they used to come and go together to her house in the Roza Junction Railway Colony. Sri Kant, who is brother of Laxmi Kant, is also working at Roza Junction and lives in her colony. Sushil, who is brother of the accused Sunil, is working in Railway and resides in the same colony. Her husband is also working in Railway and the house, in which she resides, is allotted in his name. She further deposed that who so ever comes from Shahjahanpur, used to go from front of her house and there is an electric pole in front of her house. She had further deposed that on 02.11.1986 at 07:30 - 08:00 in the night, while she was standing near the gate of the door of her house, she saw Laxmi Kant and Deepak going on motor cycle towards the north. Laxmi Kant was riding the motor cycle while Deepak was his pillon rider. After 15-20 minutes, they returned and she was waiting for them because Deepak normally used to come to her house. When they returned, Sunil was also on the motor cycle and Deepak was sitting in between Laxmi Kant and Sunil. She stopped Deepak and as the motor cycle slowed down, he told that he would come tomorrow and they went towards Shahjahanpur.

(44) In the cross-examination, she stated that she was standing on the door because she was giving fodder to her cow. She also deposed that the house of Sunil is at a distance from her house and she does not know as to who resides near the house of Sunil. She further stated that she had not tried to search Laxmi Kant and Deepak on the next day. However, on 4.11.1986, she sent her children to enquire, however, admittedly, she did not go and when the children told her, she kept quite. She also stated that children were sent to the quarter of brother of Laxmi Kant. She has also deposed that she had got searched on 04.11.1986 at 04:00 in the evening and at 05:00 in the evening the Inspector had come. However, she had not sent any information to the police. She has also deposed that on 04.11.1986, one of a relative of Deepak, namely, Ashok Tiwari had come and asked for Deepak, then she informed that Deepak had come. However, she does not know Ashok Tiwari and she had met on the said day only. Thus, her evidence shows that she was not only aunt of the deceased Deepak, but had deep affection for him, therefore, she waited for him to return for about 15 - 20 minutes. However, even after gathering information from the house of Sunil and Sri Kant, she had not informed to police. The learned Trial Court has rejected the objection of defence that she is a related witness on three grounds firstly persons is expected to visit the house of a relative on the occasion of Deepawali, secondly she, having a cow is not disputed and she being a lady of fifty years, it is not unnatural that she would have come out to give fodder to cow and in colonies or quarters being a small cattle are tied outside and there was sufficient light and thirdly she had deposed that whenever Deepak used to come to his friend's house, he visited her, but failed to consider that as per own testimony of P.W.- 4, Deepak had not visited her house and findings have been recorded mainly on presumption. Even otherwise her evidence testifies only the last seen together which can not be sufficient to hold guilty.

(45) From the evidence of P.W.4, it has emerged in her evidence that she saw the deceased on two occasions, firstly, he was with the accused Laxmikant and secondly he was seen with Laxmikant and Sunil. Although we concur the finding of learned trial Court that tethering of cattle and some how probability of her presence on account of cattles, on the place of occurrence, may be respected, but one more factor which constraints us to ponder upon is that as per P.W.4, the deceased was seen by her on two occasions repeatedly, but if we analyze the situation like a prudent person, then, it appears that probability of happening and given version of P.W.4 Smt. Krishna Devi is altogether does co-exist and, therefore, does not appeal to our mind. Reason is not for to seek. It is not disputed that accused Sunil and P.W.4 reside in same colony and are acquainted with each other, then, in such situation, had the accused was having common intention to kill the deceased, then, we do not think in persepective of any person of ordinary prudence, will repeatedly pass through in front of house of P.W.4, as there was every liklihood of being seen, specifically, when they had another way to go to their destination. Therefore, the evidence of P.W.4, as put forth is highly improbable.

(46) Chhote appeared as P.W.-5. He had also named the appellant Sunil Kumar in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., which has been placed on record by the Investigating Officer as Ex. Ka-22. This statement was recorded on 05.11.1986, in which, he stated that he was fishing in the river about 150 yards (gaj) away from the place of incident in the night of Pareva, when he heard the sound of 2 - 3 fires and before that he heard 'Pappu don't kill'. Upon hearing the noise of fire, Rampal also came from his field and then he, Rampal and his nephew Ramkishan went to the place of occurrence. When they reached there, two persons ran towards south on the motor cycle, which was parked on the south of bridge. They went near the injured, who told his name Deepak and that Pappu and Sunil Mishra have shot him bringing him there deceiving him. He asked to take him to the hospital but on account of fear of being implicated, they ran away and did not tell it to anybody. The incident was stated of 08:30 - 09:00 in the night. He admitted in his examination-in-chief before Court that he was fishing in river Makshi at 08:00 in the night about 14 months ago, when his nephew Ramkishan was with him. He had heard the noise of fire, thereafter, Rampal had come from his field and all the three ran away. He had not seen any injured there. Thus, he was declared hostile. In the cross-examination, he admitted that his statement was recorded by the Inspector on the 3rd day but he had not told that he had heard 'Pappu don't kill'. He also denied to have given any statement that they had gone to meet the injured, who has told the aforesaid.

(47) Rampal appeared as P.W.-6, who also admitted that he was at his field when he had heard sound of fires and upon hearing the same, he alongwith Chhote and Ramkishan, who were fishing in the Bakshi river, ran away from there. He had not seen the injured and the motor cycle. He also deposed that the Inspector had recorded his statement on the next day, which was given by him as the false thing was told by the Inspector and on account of fear, he had told that. In the cross-examination, he admitted that he had come with the police personnel. He has also stated that earlier he has not given the evidence on account of fear of the Inspector and the police personnel.

(48) In view of above, the P.W.-5 and the P.W.-6 have turned hostile and the P.W.-6 has also stated that he had given statement to the police on account of the fear and as a false thing was told to him by police. No further cross-examination was made from him in this regard. So far as the statement of P.W.-5 under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is concerned, which has been placed on record, the same is not considerable for the reason that he has denied before the Court to have given any such statement. It is also noticed that in the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., he stated that he heard 'Pappu don't kill' from a distance of 150 yards (gaj), which is highly improbable and evidence of P.W.-6 shows that the police had got their statement misleading them, which may be to solve the case and show good work. Even otherwise the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. cannot be relied for any purpose except for contradicting him in cross-examination under Section 162 Cr.P.C. in the manner provided under Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. The judgment in the case of Pakala Narayana Swami Vs. Emperor (Supra) is of no assistance to learned A.G.A. and distinguishable on the facts of the present case. The learned Trial Court has placed reliance of testimony of P.W.-5 and P.W.-6 on the ground that they had heard sound of fire in the night of 02.11.1986 near the culvert, where the dead body was found on next morning but it cannot be a ground to hold the appellant guilty.

(49) In view of above, the P.W.-5, Chhote and the P.W.-6, Ram Pal, the star witnesses of prosecution have turned hostile, therefore, there is no eye witness account of crime and the case rests on the evidence of 'last seen together' only as P.W.-1 had deposed that he had seen the deceased Deepak lastly with Laxmi Kant @ Pappu going on a motor cycle towards Shahjahanpur but he had neither seen nor named the only surviving appellant, Sunil Kumar, therefore, his testimony is not of any assistance to the case of prosecution in regard to the appellant Sunil Kumar. The P.W.-4, Smt. Krishna Kumari has deposed that she had seen Sunil Kumar going with deceased Deepak Kumar and Laxmi Kant @ Pappu from Roza Railway Colony in front of her house around 07:30 - 08:00 in the night on 02.11.1986, when he was sitting in between Laxmi Kant @ Pappu and Sunil Kumar, who was residing in her colony, when Deepak had told her from the motor cycle that he would come on the next day and they went towards Shahjahanpur. The next day dead body of Deepak was found on Jamaur culvert on Shahjahanpur - Jalalabad Road but it has not been proved by any of the witness that Jamaur culvert falls on the way in between Roza Railway Colony and Shahjahanpur. The evidence of P.W.-10, S.I. Jagdamba Prasad Mishra shows that he had gone with S.I. Ram Lakhan Singh on the place of occurrence in front of Jamaur on the Pulia of Bakshi Nala on Shahjahanpur - Jalalabad Road and, after inspection, prepared the site plan on his pointing out, whereas the F.I.R. was lodged on the information given by Watchman Ram Kishore and site-plan has not been prepared on his pointing out, therefore, place of recovery of dead body also remained unproved by any cogent evidence because he has also not been produced.

(50) The evidence of 'last seen together' is very weak kind of evidence and conviction cannot be made only on the basis of evidence of 'last seen together' without considering the 'circumstantial evidence' and chain of circumstances complete in the manner, in which they refer only and only towards the guilt of the accused and there is no hypothesis of innocence of the accused. The 'circumstantial evidence' is to be seen on the touchstone of 5 golden principles (Panchsheel) laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra; AIR 1984 SC 1622. The said 5 golden principles are as under:-

"(1) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. The circumstances concerned must or should and not may be established;

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;

(3) The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;

(4) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and

(5) There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the-innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

(51) In view of above, the normal principle is that the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn must be cogently and firmly established and that those circumstances on the basis of which inference of guilt is drawn, should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused only. The circumstances, on the basis of which inference of guilt is sought to be drawn after considering cumulatively, should form a complete chain showing that in all human probability, the crime was committed by the accused only. However, if the prosecution fails to show and prove the chain of circumstances and exclude every hypothesis other than the guilt of the accused, the conviction on the basis of 'circumstantial evidence' cannot be made and it will not sustain. The conviction can be made on the basis of theory of 'last seen together', where time gap between the pointing of time, when accused and deceased was seen last alive, and, when the deceased is found dead is too short and the probability of other than accused being the author of crime becomes impossible. However, the time gap between both the incident is to be seen on the facts and circumstances of each case and the evidence of last seen together can not be rejected merely because there is long period.

(52) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Chetan v. State of Karnataka; (2025) 9 SCC 31, considered the issue of 'last seen' theory and held that conviction on the basis of 'last seen together' can be made only if the gap between the 'last seen' and the recovery is so short that the inference of anybody else is not possible. However, it cannot be said in every case that evidence of last seen together is to be rejected merely because the time-gap is for a considerable long period. The relevant paragraphs 86 and 87 are extracted herein below:-

"86. In this regard, the learned Senior Counsel has relied on the decision of this Court in State of Goa v. Sanjay Thakran [State of Goa v. Sanjay Thakran, (2007) 3 SCC 755 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 162] wherein this Court held that: (SCC p. 775, paras 31-32)

'31. Before we analyse the evidence of PW 11 Dinesh Adhikari, who was working as a domestic help in the bar and restaurant Iguana Miraj, PW 14 Calvert Gonsalves, who was said to be in the company of A-1 and D-1 on the evening of 27-2-1999 outside the lounge of the restaurant and PW 6 Amit Banerjee, who was working as Receptionist of Hotel Seema, we would refer to certain decisions of this Court on the point of 'last seen together'. It is a settled rule of criminal jurisprudence that suspicion, however grave, cannot be substituted for proof and the courts shall take utmost precaution in finding an accused guilty only on the basis of circumstantial evidence. This Court has applied the abovementioned general principle with reference to the principle of last seen together in Bodhraj v. State of J&K [Bodhraj v. State of J&K, (2002) 8 SCC 45 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 201] as under: (SCC p. 63, para 31)

'31. The last seen theory comes into play where the time-gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were seen last alive and when the deceased is found dead is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible. It would be difficult in some cases to positively establish that the deceased was last seen with the accused when there is a long gap and possibility of other persons coming in between exists. In the absence of any other positive evidence to conclude that the accused and the deceased were last seen together, it would be hazardous to come to a conclusion of guilt in those cases.'

32. In Ramreddy Rajesh Khanna Reddy [Ramreddy Rajesh Khanna Reddy v. State of A.P., (2006) 10 SCC 172 : (2006) 3 SCC (Cri) 512] this Court further opined that even in the cases where time-gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were last seen alive and when the deceased was found dead is too small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible, the courts should look for some corroboration.'

87. However, it may be noted that this Court also observed in the aforesaid decision of Sanjay Thakran [State of Goa v. Sanjay Thakran, (2007) 3 SCC 755 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 162] that it cannot be said in all cases that the evidence of last seen together is to be rejected merely because the time-gap is for a considerable long period, as stated in para 34 of the aforesaid decision which is reproduced herein as below: (SCC p. 776)

'34. From the principle laid down by this Court, the circumstance of last seen together would normally be taken into consideration for finding the accused guilty of the offence charged with when it is established by the prosecution that the time-gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were found together alive and when the deceased was found dead is so small that possibility of any other person being with the deceased could completely be ruled out. The time-gap between the accused persons seen in the company of the deceased and the detection of the crime would be a material consideration for appreciation of the evidence and placing reliance on it as a circumstance against the accused. But, in all cases, it cannot be said that the evidence of last seen together is to be rejected merely because the time-gap between the accused persons and the deceased last seen together and the crime coming to light is after (sic of) a considerable long duration. There can be no fixed or straitjacket formula for the duration of time-gap in this regard and it would depend upon the evidence led by the prosecution to remove the possibility of any other person meeting the deceased in the intervening period, that is to say, if the prosecution is able to lead such an evidence that likelihood of any person other than the accused, being the author of the crime, becomes impossible, then the evidence of circumstance of last seen together, although there is long duration of time, can be considered as one of the circumstances in the chain of circumstances to prove the guilt against such accused persons. Hence, if the prosecution proves that in the light of the facts and circumstances of the case, there was no possibility of any other person meeting or approaching the deceased at the place of incident or before the commission of the crime, in the intervening period, the proof of last seen together would be relevant evidence. For instance, if it can be demonstrated by showing that the accused persons were in exclusive possession of the place where the incident occurred or where they were last seen together with the deceased, and there was no possibility of any intrusion to that place by any third party, then a relatively wider time-gap would not affect the prosecution case.'

"131. The present case is clearly one that is founded on circumstantial evidence. By its very nature, circumstantial evidence as opposed to direct evidence, is the inference one draws from the existence of a fact based on certain established fact/circumstance. This process invariably involves intuitive reasoning, proper understanding of human behaviour and psychology. This reasoning has to be rational, probative and which accords with the natural human behaviour. At the same time, there will always be certain subjective elements, which however, cannot be in the nature of surmise or conjecture. The inference may not lead to absolute certainty as we are dealing with human behaviour and reconstructing a past incident in hindsight. Naturally, when evaluating the proven circumstances for drawing certain inferences therefrom, a logical, rational and pragmatic approach must be adopted without being too technical, pedantic, or seeking absolute proof, for this principle of circumstantial evidence is not based on statutory provision.

132. Thus, based on lived human experiences and human behaviour, if any supposition of fact is clearly inferable from an established fact, the inferred position of fact should be adopted as correct. Law does not require that a fact requires to be proved on absolute terms bereft of all doubts. What law contemplates is that for a fact to be considered proven, it must eliminate any reasonable doubt. Reasonable doubt does not mean any trivial, fanciful or imaginary doubt, but doubt based on reason and common sense growing out of the evidence in the case. A fact is considered proved if the court, after reviewing the evidence, either believes it exists or deems its existence probable enough that a prudent person would act on the assumption that it exists.

133. It is also settled that where the evidence is circumstantial in nature, the circumstances from which the inference of guilt is to be drawn, should be fully established. In other words, each of the circumstances from which certain inferences are sought to be drawn, is required to be proved in accordance with law, and there cannot be any element of surmise and conjecture, and each of these circumstances so proved must form a complete chain without any break to clearly point to the guilt of the accused person. The court has to examine the cumulative effect of the existence of these circumstances, which would point to the guilt of the accused, though any single circumstance may not in itself be sufficient to prove the offence. Thus, if the combined effect of all these circumstances, each of which has been independently proved, establishes the guilt of the accused, then the conviction based on such circumstances can be sustained. These circumstances so proved must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and should exclude every hypothesis except the one sought to be proved.

134. Thus, if upon evaluation of a set of proved circumstances consistent with understandable and socially recognised human behaviour, as a cumulative consequence, a clear and definitive pattern emerges which irresistibly points to the culpability of the accused person, we see no reason why we should not accept such an inferred conclusion to be correct to fasten criminal liability on the accused. On the other hand, if such an inference is sought to be assailed on the ground of any doubt, the doubt must be a reasonable one consistent with human behaviour under the circumstances of the case and not fanciful, abstract speculation or imagination."

(54) Similar view has been taken by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Chandrabhan Sudam Sanap Vs. State of Maharashtra; (2025) 7 SCC 401 and Karakkattu Muhammed Basheer Vs. State of Kerala; (2024) 10 SCC 813.

(55) The P.W.-3 Subhash Chandra Rastogi was produced to prove the conspiracy by Sri Kant and to dispute the same, the evidence of D.W.-2 and D.W.-3 was adduced. However, they have lost their relevance as the learned Trial Court has discarded the evidence of P.W.-3 and acquitted Sri Kant, which has not been challenged either by the State or complainant.

Conclusion

(56) Adverting to the facts of the present case, it is apparent on record that evidence in case in hand is of 'last seen together' and the 'circumstantial evidence' together with same does not prove the guilt of the appellants as the chain of circumstances is not complete as discussed above, coupled with the facts that evidence of P.W.-4 does not inspire confidence and the evidence of 'last seen' adduced by P.W.-1 also creates doubt, even otherwise it is not in regard to the surviving appellant Sunil Kumar. Thus, this Court is of the view that the learned Trial Court has recorded the conviction without considering and appreciating the materials on record appropriately and merely on the basis of surmises and conjectures and the post-mortem report has been considered relying on the rumour of illicit relations of the deceased Deepak with the sister of Laxmi Kant @ Pappu and letters to be of Usha, whereas it could not be proved but relied on presumption and without any cogenct evidence, therefore, the only surviving appellant Sunil Kumar is entitled for benefit of doubt and acquittal accordingly and the impugned judgment and order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and liable to be set aside.

Analysis in Criminal Appeal No.336 of 1989

(57) The Criminal Appeal No.336 of 1989 has been filed because the motor cycle bearing No. U.S.W. 8137 (Rajdoot) has been forfeited to the State of U.P. on the ground that it has been used in commission of crime. Section 452 Cr.P.C. provides 'Order for disposal of property at conclusion of trial'. Sub Section (1) of Section 452 Cr.P.C. provides that on conclusion of inquiry or trial in any Criminal Court, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal, by destruction, confiscation or delivery to any person claiming to be entitled to possession thereof or otherwise, of any property or document produced before it or in its custody, or regarding which any offence appears to have been committed, or which has been used for the commission of any offence. Thus, the Criminal Court has ample power to pass suitable order for disposal of property, which has been used for commission of any crime under Section 452 Cr.P.C. by either of three modes viz, destruction, confiscation or delivery to any person claiming to be entitled to possession.

(58) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Nevada Properties Pvt. Ltd. Through Its Directors Vs. The State Of Maharashtra and Another; (2019) 20 SCC 119, has held that the words, ‘may make such order as it thinks fit’ in Section 452 vests the court with the discretion to dispose of the property in any of the three modes specified, namely, destruction, confiscation or delivery to the person entitled to be in possession thereof or otherwise. The relevant paragraph 23 is extracted herein below :-

"23. Section 452 states that when an inquiry or trial in a criminal court concludes, the court may make an order as it thinks fit for the disposal, by destruction, confiscation or delivery to any person claiming himself to be entitled to possession thereof or otherwise, of any property or document produced before it or in its custody, or regarding which an offence appears to have been committed or which has been used for the commission of any offence. The context is wide, albeit the words, ‘may make such order as it thinks fit’ in Section 452 vests the court with the discretion to dispose of the property in any of the three modes specified, namely, destruction, confiscation or delivery to the person entitled to be in possession thereof or otherwise (see N. Madhavan v. State of Kerala [N. Madhavan v. State of Kerala, (1979) 4 SCC 1 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 883]). However, an order under Section 452 is not an order determining title or ownership but that of the right to possession, and therefore where serious claims to ownership are put forward, it would be best if the criminal courts directs the parties to establish their claim before the civil court. The criminal court can, however, pass appropriate order of interim nature as it may be appropriate."

(59) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Union of India Vs. Ganpati Dealcom (P) Ltd.; (2023) 3 SCC 315, has held that Section 452 Cr.P.C. has inbuilt safeguards of in personam criminal forfeiture, wherein confiscation occurs at the end of the trial and the confiscation is to be determined at an evidential standard of 'beyond reasonable doubt' and are dependent on the result of the criminal trial. The relevant paragraph 115 is extracted herein below :-

"115. Under the IPC, forfeiture is recommended to be a form of punishment under Section 53. Accordingly, the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 provides for a mechanism for interim custody and forfeiture at the conclusion of trial under Section 451CrPC (in personam forfeiture), which reads as under:

'451. Order for custody and disposal of property pending trial in certain cases. When any property is produced before any criminal court during any inquiry or trial, the court may make such order as it thinks fit for the proper custody of such property pending the conclusion of the inquiry or trial, and, if the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, or if it is otherwise expedient so to do, the court may, after recording such evidence as it thinks necessary, order it to be sold or otherwise disposed of.

Explanation. 'For the purposes of this section, 'property' includes' (a) property of any kind or document which is produced before the court or which is in its custody,

(b) any property regarding which an offence appears to have been committed or which appears to have been used for the commission of any offence.

452. Order for disposal of property at conclusion of trial. '(1) When an inquiry or trial in any criminal court is concluded, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal, by destruction, confiscation or delivery to any person claiming to be entitled to possession thereof or otherwise, of any property or document produced before it or in its custody, or regarding which any offence appears to have been committed, or which has been used for the commission of any offence.

The aforesaid provisions under the CrPC have inbuilt safeguards of in personam criminal forfeiture, wherein confiscation occurs at the end of the trial. Under these provisions, confiscation is to be determined at an evidential standard of 'beyond reasonable doubt' and are dependent on the result of the criminal trial."

Conclusion

(60) Adverting to the facts of the case, P.W.-1 has deposed that he had seen Laxmi Kant @ Pappu and Deepak Kumar going on a Rajdoot motor cycle having No. U.S.W. 8137. The P.W.-4, Smt. Krishna Kumari has also deposed that she had seen Laxmi Kant @ Pappu and Deepak Kumar and only surviving appellant, Sunil Kumar going on a motor cycle but she had not given number and make of the motor cycle. The P.W.-1 had not told the number of motor cycle to P.W.-2, when he met on the next day of missing of the deceased Deepak and Sushil Kumar Singh, who is said to have told number, as deposed by P.W.-2, has not produced. The said motor cycle was recovered from Kamalnayanpur on 05.11.1986 and witnessed by the aunt of the accused Sunil Kumar and the recovery memo in this regard was prepared, which has been proved as Ex. Ka-18 by Investigating Officer and only on this ground, a finding has been recorded that it was used in the crime and, therefore, the same has been forfeited in favour of the State but without considering that witness to recovery has not been examined and recording any reason as to why it could not be delivered to the owner i.e. Puttoo Lal Trivedi, who was neither accused nor witness in the case in hand, even if the vehicle was used in the crime, whereas we are of the view that once the trial concluded, unless the circumstances so demand, the vehicle should have been released in favour of the owner, particularly when he was not involved in the crime in any manner. Thus, this Court is of the view that this appeal is also liable to be allowed and the judgment is liable to be set aside to the said extent and Rajdoot Motor Cycle is liable to be released in favour of the appellant, which is in his custody in compliance of an interim order passed by this Court.

Criminal Appeal No. 924 of 2018

Hareram Chaudhary ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the conviction and sentence of the appellant under S. 302 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 and S. 3/25 of the Arms Act, 1959 can be sustained based on reliable ocular evidence corroborated by medical evidence and recovery of firearm notwithstanding the delay in lodging the First Information Report. (Paras 1, 18, 24, 25, 27)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Murder - Delay in lodging First Information Report - Appreciation of ocular evidence - Recovery of firearm - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 - Arms Act, 1959 - S. 3/25 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Ss. 161, 313, 374(2) - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 27 - Delay in lodging the First Information Report explained on account of fear, panic and confusion prevailing after the occurrence - Delay, when satisfactorily explained, not fatal to the prosecution case - Reliable and trustworthy ocular evidence corroborated by medical evidence inspires confidence - Motive assumes little significance where direct eyewitness account is found reliable, though prosecution also established motive - Recovery of firearm pursuant to disclosure statement admissible under S. 27 of the Evidence Act duly proved - Minor contradictions and omissions in the testimony of witnesses and lapses on the part of the Investigating Officer not sufficient to discredit the otherwise trustworthy prosecution case - Conviction under S. 302 IPC and S. 3/25 of the Arms Act affirmed - Appeal dismissed. (Paras 24, 26, 27, 33, 39, 43, 47, 50, 51, 57, 59-61)

Held: A cumulative appreciation of the evidence on record establishes that the delay in lodging the First Information Report has been satisfactorily explained in view of the fear, panic and confusion prevailing immediately after the occurrence and such delay by itself cannot be a ground to discard the prosecution case - Motive loses its significance where the prosecution case rests upon reliable ocular evidence and in the present case the prosecution has, in any event, established the existence of motive - The evidence of the eyewitnesses is natural, consistent and trustworthy and stands fully corroborated by the medical evidence regarding the manner of occurrence and the injuries sustained by the deceased - Mere omission or lapse on the part of the Investigating Officer in preparing the site plan or conducting investigation cannot enure to the benefit of the accused when the substantive evidence on record inspires confidence - Minor contradictions and discrepancies which do not affect the core of the prosecution case are inconsequential - The recovery of firearm made pursuant to the disclosure statement of the appellant under S. 27 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 has been duly proved and the defence version suffers from material inconsistencies - On an overall appreciation of the evidence on record, the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt and no interference with the conviction and sentence recorded by the trial court is called for. (Paras 27, 28, 33, 34, 39, 40, 44, 47, 48, 50, 51, 57, 59, 60) (E-7)

A false recovery memo has been prepared and the charge-sheet has been filed without proper investigation on incorrect facts. He also stated that the place and time of arrest have wrongly been shown; he was arrested from the house of Ram Pravesh in village Paigambarpur, Tola Bihar. He is innocent, on account of which, false evidence has been given against him. The report is unclear. Due to opposition to illegal activities taking place in the Ashram, he has been falsely implicated. He also stated that several criminal cases were pending against the deceased Dr. Ram Sahai Singh and he was a witness in the murder case of Saint Gyaneshwar Maharaj. (15) After hearing the learned Counsel for the parties and considering the evidence and material on record, learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused Hareram Chaudhary by means of the impugned judgment and order dated 29.03.2018 in the manner as disclosed in paragraph-1 here-in-above.

(16) Feeling aggrieved, the instant appeal has been filed by the appellant.

Arguments

(17) Heard Shri Vivek Shukla, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant, Shri Aatreya Tripathi, learned A.G.A. for the State and Shri Yogeshwar Sharan Srivastava, learned counsel for the complainant.

Submission on behalf of the appellant:

(18) Learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellant submitted that the impugned judgment and order passed by the learned Trial Court is bad in the eyes of law and suffers from manifest illegality and is liable to be set aside. He further submitted that the Trial Court wrongly and illegally discarded the defence version as well as the evidence adduced by the defence and recorded conviction contrary to the evidence available on record. He further submitted that there was an inordinate delay in lodging the FIR, which has not been satisfactorily explained by the prosecution, even then the Trial Court erroneously accepted such explanation because many vehicles and persons were present in the Ashram, even then the deceased was neither taken to hospital nor any information was given at police station. He further submitted that although seven persons including the present appellant were named in the FIR, but the Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet only against the appellant and exonerated the remaining accused persons on the basis of the same set of statements and material collected during investigation, which itself creates doubt on the prosecution story.

(19) Learned Amicus Curiae further submitted that as per prosecution story, the appellant was armed with a firearm and made fire at the deceased by the same and though a weapon was recovered but no ballistic examination report was obtained. He further submitted that the recovery was false and the appellant has been falsely implicated in the same. He further submitted that the golden principle of presumption of innocence of the guilty has not been followed because the impugned judgment shows that learned trial Court had made a view of guilt of the appellant since the beginning and convicted the appellant without any cogent evidence regarding complicity of the appellant.

(20) Learned Amicus Curiae further submitted that learned trial Court failed to consider that there was no motive to commit such heinous offence and the prosecution also miserably failed to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt against the appellant as required under law. Even then, the Trial Court accepted the prosecution evidence on the presumption of previous bad character of the accused as adduced by the prosecution, whereas there was no material evidence available on record corroborating the same. Thus, submission is that the impugned judgment and order suffers from vice of not only misreading of the evidence and material on record but also non-reading of relevant and necessary evidence, which has all along been available negating the alleged culpability of the appellant. The Trial Court also failed to consider that the prosecution had not examined an important witness, who disclosed that the complainant was at Lucknow at the time of the incident. He also submitted that learned trial Court has also failed to consider the legal position and the relevant laws and passed the impugned judgment and order against the weight of evidence. In any case, the sentence is too severe. Hence, the findings recorded by the Trial Court are grossly perverse.

(21) On the basis of above, learned Amicus Curiae submitted that the impugned judgment and order passed by learned trial Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set-aside.

Submission on behalf of the State :

(22) Learned A.G.A. vehemently opposed the submissions advanced by learned Amicus Curaie appearing on behalf of the appellant. He submitted that the learned Trial Court rightly and in accordance with law appreciated the evidence on record and passed a well-reasoned and speaking judgment and order convicting and sentencing the appellant. He submitted that Thakur Ram Sahai Singh was the head of the Institution and all the decisions were being taken by him, therefore, on account of his death, there was a confusion among the other disciples and residents of the Ashram. However, in the morning when all assembled in the Ashram, they were unable to decide amongst themselves as to what course ought to have been adopted in such circumstances. Thereafter, on the advise of the 'panchas', it was resolved that all of them are eye witnesses and an offence has been committed in the Ashram in their presence and failure to report the same itself would be improper, therefore, the F.I.R. should be lodged. Everyone present there agreed that the F.I.R. ought to be lodged and then at about 11:00 AM, they went to have the report registered. Thus, there was no delay in lodging the F.I.R. and the delay, if any, has satisfactorily been explained. He further submitted that motive has been proved by the P.W.1 in cross-examination and no evidence to the contrary was adduced by the defence. The delay in lodging the F.I.R. has also been properly explained as there was confusion among the disciples looking to the death in the Ashram and head of Ashram and the threats extended by the accused persons. He further submitted that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are eye-witnesses to the occurrence and their presence at the place of incident could not be doubted. Their testimonies fully corroborates the prosecution case. He also submitted that once the prosecution case stands proved by reliable ocular evidence, motive loses significance. He further submitted that minor discrepancies or inconsistencies in the testimonies of prosecution witnesses are natural on account of lapse of time and perception and observation, which differs person to person, therefore, the Trial Court rightly ignored such contradictions and inconsistencies. He further submitted that the recovery of the firearm was made in accordance with law, pursuant to the disclosure statement made by the appellant, which does not suffer from any illegality. Thus, submission is that the impugned judgment and order has rightly been passed in accordance with law and there is no illegality or error in it, which may call for any interference by this Court. The appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds, which lacks merit and liable to be dismissed.

Analysis

(23) We have cogitated on the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

(24) The case of the prosecution is that the occurrence took place in the intervening night of 15/16.05.2015 at about 02:00 AM at Purushottam Dham Ashram under the Police Station Kothi, District Barabanki. Thakur Ram Sahai Singh was the Head Secretary of the Institution Thakur Sadanand Tatvagyan Parishad. He was sleeping on the threshing ground (khaliyan). At about 02:00 A.M., accused/appellant-Hareram Chaudhary fired a shot at his head and Pratap Chandra resident of Raisanda was exhorting from the back and Anand Bhatt, Durgesh Pandey and Prem Chand were also exhorting (ekjks cpus u ik;s) and we, Arvind Ji, Anil Ji and Bandhu Ji, saw Ram Nivas Gupta and Vineet Gupta, Shiv Ashram fleeing away in the night in the light of generator. Many other residents of Ashram have also seen.

(25) The first information report was lodged on 16.05.2015 at 13:00 hours at Police Station Kothi District Barabanki with the aforesaid allegations, on the basis of a written report submitted by the complainant, Suryakant Mani (P.W.-1) in regard to the incident taken place at 02:00 AM. Learned Amicus Curiae laid much emphasis that there was an inordinate delay in lodging the F.I.R. and there is no plausible explanation for the same and the conduct of the complainant and the residents of the Ashram is also against the natural conduct, which creates doubt on the prosecution case and suggests the possibility of consultation, deliberation and embellishment, which has vehemently been opposed.

(26) To consider the aforesaid submissions of learned Counsel for the parties, we have examined the evidence adduced before the learned Trial Court. The complainant appeared as P.W.-1. He had got registered the First Information Report on the basis of the written complaint i.e. Ex. Ka-1. The P.W.-1 in regard to the delay in lodging of F.I.R. has deposed that he himself, Bandhu Ji (P.W.-2) and Anil Ji had gone to lodge the F.I.R. He had given the F.I.R. after writing under his hand and, thereafter, the police had come and the inquest of the deceased was conducted before him. In the cross-examination, he stated that upon the sudden and tragic death of Thakur Ram Sahai Singh, the information was spread in the village Risanda and the adjoining area during night but no one came at that time. By the morning people had assembled. During night none of them went to the police station to inform the authorities because the Head of the Institution, who used to take all the decision was murdered and the assailants had also threatened of dire consequences, therefore, they were in shock and fear. In the morning, when all the people gathered in the Ashram, they were still in confusion and did not proceed. However, on the advise of the panchas, it was resolved that all of them are eye witnesses and an offence has been committed in the Ashram and failure to report the same, would itself be improper, therefore, the F.I.R. should be lodged. Everyone present there including Bandhu Ji, Anil Ji, Arvind Ji, Ram Dhyan Ji and Anand Ji and several others agreed that the F.I.R. ought to be lodged, whereupon at about 11:00 AM they went to register the report. He denied the suggestion that he was in Lucknow on the date and time of the incident on account of which the first information report was lodged belatedly. P.W.-2 Bandhu Ji deposed in coherence to P.W.-1 and, in his cross-examination, stated that Thakur Ram Sahai Ji, the deceased was the Head of the Ashram. There were several kind of vehicles in the Ashram but Thakur Ram Sahai Singh Ji had died on the spot after being shot, therefore, he was not taken anywhere. On the question as to why the information to the police was not given promptly, P.W.-2 deposed that when the head of the family had been killed and threats had been extended that if anyone came out, he too would be killed, nobody could venture out in such a situation. He further deposed that at that time no one could understand as to what ought to be done. When all the people gathered together in the morning after prayer, it was only then it could be decided that the report of the offence be lodged and, accordingly, he alongwith P.W.-1 went the police station and the F.I.R. was lodged by P.W.-1.

(27) A cumulative reading of the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 indicates that on account of the sudden occurrence, in which the head of the institution was killed, there was an atmosphere of fear, panic and confusion in the ashram. The threats of dire consequences, if anybody comes out, was also extended. In such a situation nobody rushed to the police station for lodging the F.I.R. However in the morning, when all assembled, then on the advise of the 'panchas', the decision could be taken to lodge the F.I.R. as the heinous crime was committed before the eyes of the inmates of the ashram and, accordingly, the first information report was lodged. There is nothing unnatural in it. The learned Trial Court, after considering the evidence and material on record, has recorded a finding that it is proved from the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 that the deceased Ram Sahai Singh had died and after his death nobody was capable of taking decision, therefore, on the advise of the panchas the decision was taken to lodge the F.I.R. Accordingly, the complainant proceeded to the police station at 11:00 AM and filed a written report, on the basis of which, the F.I.R. was lodged at 01:00 P.M. Thus, the delay has sufficiently been explained.

(28) The delay in lodging the F.I.R. cannot be a sole ground to discard the prosecution case outrightly because the F.I.R. is lodged only to set the criminal prosecution in motion. Though it is not disputed that delay in lodging the F.I.R creates a doubt about the consultation, concoction and embellishment in the prosecution version, therefore, the same is liable to be explained. In case the delay in lodging the F.I.R. is explained sufficiently and evidence on record is not much against the version of F.I.R., the prosecution case cannot be thrown out on this ground alone.

(29) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Tara Singh and Others Vs. State of Punjab; AIR 1991 SC 63, held that the delay in giving the F.I.R. by itself cannot be a ground to doubt and reject the prosecution case outrightly. At times being grief-stricken because of the calamity it may not immediately occur to them that they should give a report and after all it is but natural in these circumstances for them to take some time to go to the police station for giving the report. The relevant portion of paragraph 4 is extracted below:-

"4. It is well settled that the delay in giving the FIR by itself cannot be a ground to doubt the prosecution case. Knowing the Indian conditions as they are we cannot expect these villagers to rush to the police station immediately after the occurrence. Human nature as it is, the kith and kin who have witnessed the occurrence cannot be expected to act mechanically with all the promptitude in giving the report to the police. At times being grief-stricken because of the calamity it may not immediately occur to them that they should give a report. After all it is but natural in these circumstances for them to take some time to go to the police station for giving the report. Of course the Supreme Court as well as the High Courts have pointed out that in cases arising out of acute factions there is a tendency to implicate persons belonging to the opposite faction falsely. In order to avert the danger of convicting such innocent persons the courts are cautioned to scrutinise the evidence of such interested witnesses with greater care and caution and separate grain from the chaff after subjecting the evidence to a closer scrutiny and in doing so the contents of the FIR also will have to be scrutinised carefully. However, unless there are indications of fabrication, the court cannot reject the prosecution version as given in the FIR and later substantiated by the evidence merely on the ground of delay. These are all matters for appreciation and much depends on the facts and circumstances of each case....."

(30) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Gian Chand; (2001) SCC(CRI) 980, has held that delay in lodging the F.I.R. cannot be used as a ritualistic formula for doubting the prosecution case and discarding the same solely on the ground of delay in lodging the first information report, whereas the delay has the effect of putting the Court on its guard to search if any explanation has been offered for the delay, and if offered, whether it is satisfactory or not and if the prosecution fails to satisfactorily explain the delay and there is a possibility of embellishment in the prosecution version on account of such delay, the delay would be fatal to the prosecution. However, if the delay is explained to the satisfaction of the Court, the delay can not by itself be a ground for disbelieving and discarding the entire prosecution case. A cool thought may precede lodging of the F.I.R.

(31) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Baldev Singh Vs. State of Punjab; (2014) 12 SCC 473, held that there cannot be any doubt that delay in lodging of the F.I.R. often results in embellishment as well as the introduction of a distorted version of what may have actually happened, but the facts of each case have to be examined to find out whether the delay in lodging the F.I.R. is fatal for the prosecution case.

(32) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Palani v. State of Tamil Nadu; (2020) 16 SCC 401, held that delay in setting the law into motion by lodging the complaint is normally viewed by the courts in suspicion because there is possibility of concoction of evidence against the accused and in such cases, it becomes necessary for the prosecution to satisfactorily explain the delay in registration of F.I.R. The relevant portion of paragraph 19 is extracted herein below:-

"19. Delay in setting the law into motion by lodging the complaint is normally viewed by the courts in suspicion because there is possibility of concoction of evidence against the accused. In such cases, it becomes necessary for the prosecution to satisfactorily explain the delay in registration of FIR. But there may be cases where the delay in registration of FIR is inevitable and the same has to be considered. Even a long delay can be condoned if the witness has no motive for falsely implicating the accused....."

(33) Adverting to the facts of the present case, we are of the view that delay in lodging F.I.R. has satisfactorily been explained and the learned Trial Court has also rejected the contention in this regard. Thus, the contention of learned Amicus Curiae in this regard is liable to be repelled only and repelled accordingly.

(34) The motive plays an important role in committing the crime. However, motive looses its significance in the case of ocular evidence. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant submitted that there was no motive to commit such heinous crime and the prosecution has also miserably failed to prove the motive but the learned Trial Court has failed to consider it. The contention has been opposed by the other side. The motive remains locked in the mind of an accused, therefore, it is very difficult in each and every case to prove it by any cogent evidence. It can be deduced by the evidence, material on record and the conduct of the parties. Before commenting on the facts of the present case, it would be apt to discuss the law on the point.

(35) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Subhash Aggarwal Vs. The State of NCT of Delhi; (2025) 8 SCC 440, has held that motive remains hidden in the inner recesses of the mind of the perpetrator, which cannot, oftener than ever, be ferreted out by the investigation agency. It has also been held that a strong motive does not by itself result in a conviction and the absence of motive on that sole ground cannot result in an acquittal, when the eyewitnesses are convincing. The relevant paragraphs 28, 29 and 33 are extracted herein below:-

"28. However, it was also noticed in Kishanpal [State of U.P. v. Kishanpal, (2008) 16 SCC 73 : (2010) 4 SCC (Cri) 182] that even if there may be a very strong motive for the accused to commit a particular crime, it does not lead to a conviction by itself, if the eyewitnesses are not convincing or the chain of circumstances is not complete.

29. The declaration in the cited decisions and the decisions relied on therein, is to the effect that if the case is built solely upon circumstantial evidence, absence of motive will be a factor that weighs in favour of the accused. Just as a strong motive does not by itself result in a conviction, the absence of motive on that sole ground cannot result in an acquittal. When the eyewitnesses are not convincing, a strong motive cannot by itself result in conviction, likewise when the circumstances are very convincing and provide an unbroken chain leading only to the conclusion of guilt of the accused and not to any other hypothesis; the total absence of a motive will be of no consequence.

33. Motive remains hidden in the inner recesses of the mind of the perpetrator, which cannot, oftener than ever, be ferreted out by the investigation agency. Though in a case of circumstantial evidence, the complete absence of motive would weigh in favour of the accused, it cannot be declared as a general proposition of universal application that, in the absence of motive, the entire inculpatory circumstances should be ignored and the accused acquitted.

(36) Adverting to the facts of the case, when we examined the records, we found that P.W.-1 has deposed that the appellant Hareram Chaudhary came in the Ashram in the year 2006 and after marrying his wife in the year 2008, when he came with his wife, he stayed in the Ashram for two years but he was not living there according to the conduct/rules of the Ashram. In the year 2010, Hareram Chaudhary started living outside the Ashram after constructing a hut. P.W.-2 Bandhu Ji, has also deposed that the deceased Ram Sahai Singh was the Head Secretary of the Institution. The accused wanted that if Secretary would be removed from the way, he could take possession of the Ashram and its property and commercialize it and for this reason, Ram Sahai Ji was murdered.

(37) In view of above, it appears that due to Hareram Chaudhary, having married and living in the Ashram with his wife, he was not considered in conformity with the discipline of the Ashram, therefore, he started residing outside the Ashram in a hut. Thus, it can be inferred that on account of conflict in this regard with the Head of Institution, he would have to live outside Ashram. Evidence of P.W.-2 also shows that the appellant was ambitious to possess the management of Ashram.

(38) The dispute or conflict with the Head of Institution and the appellant lends support by his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which he has stated that the case has been lodged on account of enmity as he was opposing the illegal activities going on in the Ashram. However, he has not disclosed as to what kind of illegal activities were going on in the Ashram. He has further stated in response to question No.12 that the deceased was a witness in the case of murder of the Sant Gyaneshwar, who established the Ashram, but he had not given the evidence, therefore, many disciple of Sant Gyaneshwar were angry with him and the complainant had also enmity with the deceased. It has also been stated that the deceased had enmity with many persons as he was the office bearer of all the Ashram in the country and many persons were falsely named in the cases, which were going on against him. It has further been alleged that neither anybody has seen the incident nor anybody came to know about the death of the deceased in the night of his murder in the Ashram. The complainant and the witness Anil Giri were in Lucknow in the night of incident and on the next day, on being informed, came and lodged a false case in consultation with embellishment.

(39) In view of above, upon considering the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 and statement of the appellant/accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C., it is apparent that the appellant had remained attached with the Purushottam Dham Ashram. However, on account of his conduct against the principles of the Ashram, he had to leave the Ashram and was residing out of the Ashram in a hut.

He has also admitted the enmity on account of wrong activities in the Ashram. However, he fails to disclose any such activity. It is also apparent on record that a case under Section 396 I.P.C. was pending against the appellant in the Court at Motihari, Bihar, in which the charge sheet was filed and the appellant was absconding. By means of the order dated 26.06.2015 passed in the said case, it has been reported to the Court that the appellant is lodged in the Barabanki Prison. The prosecution has thus proved that the appellant had suspicion that the deceased Ram Sahai Singh had got executed the warrant against him from the Court at Bihar. The enmity has been admitted by the appellant/accused in his statement. Thus, the motive to commit the crime cannot be disputed. The learned Trial Court, considering the aforesaid evidence and the law on the point, had recorded a finding that there is sufficient evidence on record to prove the motive and there is no reason to disbelieve the same. Even otherwise, even if the motive is not proved or there is any doubt about the motive and the occurrence is proved by ocular evidence, the prosecution case cannot be thrown out on this ground. The contention in this regard of learned counsel for the appellant is not tenable and is hereby rejected.

(40) The next argument advanced by learned counsel for the appellant was that seven persons were named in the F.I.R. but, except the appellant, names of all the persons have been dropped during investigation, therefore, the prosecution story itself is doubtful. The contention of learned counsel for the appellant is misplaced and not tenable for the reason that if no prima facie evidence was found against him and the Investigating Agency has dropped his name, it can not be said that the charge sheet was wrongly and illegally been filed against the appellant only. The dropping of the names of the other persons has not been challenged and if it would have been challenged, it could have been examined in the appropriate proceedings. However, it cannot give any benefit to the appellant as his case was to be considered on the basis of the evidence and material on record and if the prosecution is able to prove the charge against the appellant beyond reasonable doubt, there was no question of acquittal on this ground. Thus, the contention in this regard is not tenable.

(41) Now we proceed to consider the next argument and the issue as to whether there are material contradictions in the evidence of prosecution witnesses, which may have any effect on prosecution case.

(42) We have carefully examined the testimonies of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2. In the F.I.R., they were mentioned as eye-witnesses of the incident and had seen alongwith others, the accused/appellant firing on the deceased in the light of generator and identified them. There is no dispute regarding source of light as 3 - 4 bulbs were alight by the generator. The complainant, Suryakant Mani, (P.W.-1), in examination-in-chief, while reiterating the recitals contained in the written report, stated that the incident took place in the intervening night of 15/16th May, 2015 at about 02:00 AM. At that time, he was present in the threshing ground (khalihan) of the Ashram and was engaged in the cleaning work of the Ashram. Thakur Ram Sahai Singh, the Head Secretary of the Ashram, was sleeping in the threshing ground at a distance of about 5□6 steps from him. Arvind Ji, Bandhu Ji, Anil Ji and several other devotees were also present there. At about 2:00 in the night, accused persons, Hareram Chaudhary, Pratap Ji, Durgesh Pandey, Premdas, Anand Bhatt (of Nepal), Vinay Gupta alias Vineet Gupta and Ram Niwas Gupta came from the southern side. As soon as they arrived, Hareram Chaudhary fired a shot at the head of Thakur Ram Sahai Singh. All of them were exhorting and shouting □ekjks cpus u ik;s□ (hit, may not be spared). A generator was running there for service work and in its light, he identified all these persons. Two days later of the incident, a programme of Bhagwat Avataran Mahotsav was scheduled, for which they were making preparation. He did not give any information anywhere. In the morning, he along with Bandhu Ji and Anil Ji went to the police station, where he scribed and submitted the application after affixing his signature thereon. He proved the written report (Ext. Ka.-1). Thereafter, the police came at the place of occurrence and saw the dead body. The inquest proceedings were conducted in his presence. He made his signature on the inquest report. He also proved his signature on the inquest report. He also deposed that his statement was recorded.

(43) P.W.-1 was extensively cross-examined by the defence regarding incident, place of incident, reason for presence there, source of light, conduct of accused/appellant, manner of assault and the distance from where he had seen the incident and also suggested that he was not present in the Ashram at the time of the incident, but was at Param Tatva Dham Ashram, Sarvodaya Nagar, Lucknow, and had come in the morning after receiving information of the occurrence. However, his testimony is consistent with the examination-in-chief and nothing could be extracted, which may create any doubt about his testimony including presence etc. Thus, what emerges from the evidence of P.W.-1 is that though he was a person associated with the Ashram and was also connected with the Ashram situated at Sarvodaya Nagar Lucknow, he was present at Lucknow at the time of incident. It emerges from the evidence of P.W.-1 that the incident occurred in the intervening night of 15/16 May, 2015 at about 02:00 AM in the threshing ground (khalihan) of the Ashram, where the complainant and several other persons were present and engaged in routine cleaning and preparatory work on account of preparation of Bhagwat Avataran Mahotsav after two days. The deceased, who was the Head Secretary of the Ashram, was sleeping at a short distance of about 5□6 steps from the complainant (P.W.-1) and other persons, namely Bandhu Ji, Arvind Ji, Anil Ji and several devotees were also present at the spot at that time. It further emerges that the accused persons, namely Hareram Chaudhary, Pratap Ji, Durgesh Pandey, Premdas, Anand Bhatt (of Nepal), Vinay Gupta alias Vineet Gupta, and Ram Niwas Gupta, suddenly arrived from the southern side, crossed a drain, and immediately began exhorting to kill the deceased and not to spare him, upon which, the appellant, Hareram Chaudhary fired a shot at the head of Thakur Ram Sahai Singh, resulting in his instantaneous death on the spot. It also emerges that a generator was running at the place of occurrence, providing sufficient light, in which the witness clearly identified the accused. The witnesses remained at the spot in a state of fear and confusion owing to the sudden killing and the threats extended by the accused persons. In the morning, after deliberation among the persons present, including the complainant (P.W.-1) and other witnesses, a collective decision was taken to report the matter to the police and thereafter, P.W.-1 went to the police station along with others at 11:00 AM, prepared the written report and got the F.I.R. registered. P.W.-1 has also explained the surrounding circumstances of the Ashram, its layout, the presence of various structures, lighting arrangements, and the ongoing preparations, to support his presence and identification of the accused persons at the time of occurrence and nothing could be extracted in this regard, which may create any doubt about it.

(44) However, in the site plan (Ext. Ka.-4) prepared by the Investigating Officer, the place of presence of the witnesses and their distance from the deceased has not been specifically shown. On this count alone, the testimony of P.W.-1 cannot be brushed aside because lapses or omissions on the part of the Investigating Officer cannot, by themselves, demolish the prosecution case and should not be taken in favour of the accused. Our this view is fortified by the decision of Hon□ble Supreme Court, in the case of Jai Prakash Versus State of Uttar Pradesh and others; (2020) 17 SCC 632, wherein it has been held that any omission on the part of the investigating officer cannot go against the prosecution case. If the investigating officer has deliberately omitted to do what he ought to have done in the interest of justice, it means that such acts or omissions of investigating officer should not be taken in favour of the accused.

(45) The testimony of P.W.-1 is corroborated by the testimony of P.W.-2, who was also examined by the prosecution and named in the First Information Report as an eyewitness. From the statement of P.W.-2, it is evident that this witness along with P.W.-1 and other persons was filling husk in the threshing ground, where the deceased Ram Sahai Singh was sleeping. A generator was running at the place of occurrence for cleaning work and for providing light. This witness has also deposed regarding the presence of P.W.-1 and other witnesses at the spot. In the light of the generator, this witness saw accused Hareram Chaudhary firing at Ram Sahai Singh. The gunshot injury was caused on the head of the deceased and he died at the spot itself. The defence extensively cross-examined P.W.-2 and attempted to show that P.W.-1 was not present at the place at the time of the incident and that the statement of P.W.-2 was contradictory to that of P.W.-1. However, nothing could be extracted, which may create any doubt about his testimony and presence on spot at the time of incident. Thus, his testimony clearly not only proves the presence of P.W.-1 on the spot at the time of occurrence but also affirms the presence of the others as well. The description of the place of occurrence given by P.W.-1, on the basis whereof the Investigating Officer prepared the site plan (Ext. Ka.-4), also finds corroboration from the statement of P.W.-2.

(46) P.W.-2 also deposed that in the Ashram, the morning aarti takes place between 6:00 AM and 7:00 AM. When the aarti had concluded, all the persons in the Ashram came to know about the death of Ram Sahai Singh and then, all the persons of Ashram went to the place of occurrence. The learned Trial Court has appreciated this evidence of P.W.-2 and recorded finding that from this statement of P.W.-2, it does not emerge that P.W.-2 came to know of the incident only between 6:00 AM and 7:00 AM, rather this statement of P.W.-2 merely indicates that after the aarti, all the persons residing in the Ashram became aware of the incident. The expression all persons clearly refers to those other persons in the Ashram apart from the eyewitnesses to the occurrence. P.W.-2 had already stated that at the time of the incident, about 60 to 100 persons had come to the Ashram in connection with the festival programme. Thus, there is no contradiction between the testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 and contradiction, if any, is natural, which proves that there is no concoction and embellishment in his testimony.

(47) In view of the foregoing discussion, we are in full agreement with the findings recorded by the learned Trial Court that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 were natural witnesses, whose presence at the place of occurrence stands fully established from the evidence on record. Their testimonies are consistent, cogent, and mutually corroborative on all material particulars, including the time and place of occurrence, the manner of assault, the source of light at the spot, and the identity of the accused. Nothing substantial has been brought out in their cross-examination, so as to render their presence doubtful or to discredit their otherwise trustworthy version. The post-mortem report and the injuries in particular are also in corroboration to the prosecution case and witnesses, which shows the entry wound of fire arm on head 11 cm above right ear and exit wound on left side of mouth. We, therefore, find no reason to differ from the well-considered conclusion arrived at by the learned Trial Court in placing reliance upon their evidence.

(48) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Baban Shankar Daphal and Others Vs. The State of Maharashtra; 2025 SCC Online 137, has held that minor contradictions or inconsistencies in testimony do not necessarily render it unreliable, as long as the core facts remain intact. The Court has to discern truth by considering evidence in it's totality and not by isolating individual inconsistencies to discredit entire evidence. The relevant paragraphs 35 and 36 are extracted herein below:-

"35. The Trial Court gave undue weight to minor discrepancies in the eyewitness accounts, such as variations in their descriptions of the sequence of events or the exact number of blows inflicted. It is a well-established principle of law that minor contradictions or inconsistencies in testimony do not necessarily render it unreliable, as long as the core facts remain intact. The role of the court is to discern the truth by considering the evidence in its totality and not by isolating individual inconsistencies to discredit an entire narrative. The Trial Court erred by focusing excessively on trivial discrepancies, thereby losing sight of the broader picture and the compelling evidence against the accused.

36. The High Court appropriately invoked the principle that when direct evidence, such as eyewitness testimony, is credible and reliable, it must be given due weight unless there are compelling reasons to disbelieve it. In this case, the eyewitnesses were independent and had no motive to falsely implicate the accused. Their testimony was consistent with the overall circumstances of the case and was corroborated by the medical evidence.

(49) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Birbal Nath Vs. State of Rajasthan and Others; (2024) 15 SCC 190, has held that lengthy cross-examination of a witness may invariably result in contradictions. But these contradictions are not always sufficient to discredit a witness. Similar view was in Rammi Vs. State of M.P.; (1999) 8 SCC 649.

(50) Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has also challenged the arrest of the accused/appellant and the recovery of cartridges as well as the recovery of country made pistol, which has been shown on his pointing out on the ground that the appellant has been shown to have been arrested from near the Ashram and the recovery has been made thereafter but in fact he was apprehended from Bihar while he was attending a ceremony and, thereafter, a false recovery of cartridge and country made pistol has been shown. The case of the prosecution is that the accused/appellant married in 2008 and started living in the Ashram alongwith his wife but in 2010, he left the Ashram and started living outside the Ashram in a hut. After the incident, he fled away to Bihar and returned to take away his wife and children when on information from reliable source, he was arrested in the night of 25.05.2015 and on the basis of his disclosure statement and pointing out, a country made pistol of .315 bore allegedly used in the crime was recovered. He was arrested by the Investigating Officer, Rai Sahab Yadav (P.W.-5), who has proved the same and the recovery memo (Ex. Ka-7) of weapon on his pointing from a distance of about 500 meters from the Ashram. The recovery memo reveals that on the said date, Investigating Officer SI Rai Sahab Yadav (P.W.5) along with SI Brijesh Singh, Constables Hira Singh Yadav, Baijnath Yadav, Anjani

Tiwari, Dilbahar Yadav and driver Constable Mohd. Maqsood Ahmad departed from the police station on 24.05.2015 at about 11:00 PM through Government Jeep bearing registration No. UP41G-0139 and were present at Kaserganj crossing, where informer came and informed that the accused would come through Raisanda Ashram on the Amserua Tikriya road to take away his wife and children. In pursuance thereof, the police team arrested the accused/appellant on the Tikriya Amserua road and from his possession, a sum of Rs. 1,210/- was recovered. Thereafter, on the pointing out of the accused, a country-made pistol concealed beneath dry grass and leaves under the pipe of a culvert situated near Sati Baba turn, in the field of Pipermint of Pyare Lal, was recovered. The pistol was already wrapped in a piece of cloth. A recovery memo was prepared accordingly. The arrest of the appellant and recovery of Rs.1,210/- from him and country made pistol in pursuance of disclosure statement by appellant of committing crime from same has been proved by P.W.-7; Constable Dil Bahar Yadav also, who was with Investigating Officer. A lengthy cross-examination was made from him on this issue but nothing could be extracted, which may create even a doubt on his testimony. The defence has nowhere even attempted to suggest that the wife and family of accused Hareram Chaudhary was not residing outside the Raisanda Ashram. In such circumstances, the prosecution version that the accused, after the incident, had come there on 25.05.2015 to take away his family and was arrested and aforesaid recoveries were made cannot be said to be improbable.

(51) The confession in police custody can not be proved under Section 26 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, but when any recovery is made in furtherance of a disclosure statement made by accused, it becomes the relevant fact and upon proved before Court of law, it can not be discarded. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Anter Singh Vs. State of Rajasthan; (2004) 10 SCC 657, has dealt with the various requirements of Section 27 of The Indian Evidence Act, 1872 and placing reliance on the extra judicial confession. The relevant paragraphs 14 to 16 are extracted hereinbelow:-

"14.The expression "provided that" together with the phrase "whether it amounts to a confession or not" show that the section is in the nature of an exception to the preceding provisions particularly Section 25 and 26. It is not necessary in this case to consider if this Section qualifies, to any extent, Section 24, also. It will be seen that the first condition necessary for bringing this Section into operation is the discovery of a fact, albeit a relevant fact, in consequence of the information received from a person accused of an offence. The second is that the discovery of such fact must be deposed to. The third is that at the time of the receipt of the information the accused must be in police custody. The last but the most important condition is that only "so much of the information" as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered is admissible. The rest of the information has to be excluded. The word "distinctly" means "directly", "indubitably", "strictly", "unmistakably". The word has been advisedly used to limit and define the scope of the provable information. The phrase "distinctly" relates "to the fact thereby discovered" and is the linchpin of the provision. This phrase refers to that part of the information supplied by the accused which is the direct and immediate cause of the discovery. The reason behind this partial lifting of the ban against confessions and statements made to the police, is that if a fact is actually discovered in consequence of information given by the accused, it affords some guarantee of truth of that part, and that part only, of the information which was the clear, immediate and proximate cause of the discovery. No such guarantee or assurance attaches to the rest of the statement which may be indirectly or remotely related to the fact discovered. (See Mohammed Inayuttillah v. The State of Maharashtra (AIR 1976 SC 483).

15. At one time it was held that the expression "fact discovered" in the section is restricted to a physical or material fact which can be perceived by the senses, and that it does not include a mental fact, now it is fairly settled that the expression "fact discovered" includes not only the physical object produced, but also the place from which it is produced and the knowledge of the accused as to this, as noted in Palukuri Kotayya's case (supra) and in Udai Bhan v. State of Uttar Pradesh (AIR 1962 SC 1116).

16.The various requirements of the Section can be summed up as follows:

(1) The fact of which evidence is sought to be given must be relevant to the issue. It must be borne in mind that the provision has nothing to do with question of relevancy. The relevancy of the fact discovered must be established according to the prescriptions relating to relevancy of other evidence connecting it with the crime in order to make the fact discovered admissible.

(2) The fact must have been discovered.

(3) The discovery must have been in consequence of some information received from the accused and not by accused's own act.

(4) The persons giving the information must be accused of any offence.

(5) He must be in the custody of a police officer.

(6) The discovery of a fact in consequence of information received from an accused in custody must be deposed to.

(7) Thereupon only that portion of the information which relates distinctly or strictly to the fact discovered can be proved. The rest is inadmissible"

(52) One of the arguments of learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant was that an important witness, who had disclosed in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that the complainant was at Lucknow at the time and date of the incident and not in the Ashram has not been produced and only interested witnesses have been produced. Considering this argument learned Trial Court has recorded that the statements of prosecution witnesses were recorded on different dates by the Investigating Officer. The statement of the complainant; Suryakant Mani, who appeared as P.W.-1, was recorded on 16.05.2015 and statement of the second eye witness Bandhu Ji, who appeared as P.W.-2, was recorded on 18.05.2015. Thereafter on different dates the statements of the witnesses were recorded and the last statement was recorded on 03.06.2015, which was of Bankey Lal. Since the statement of other witnesses were recorded after a long gap of the date of incident, therefore, the possibility of their being win over cannot be denied, particularly when the prosecution witnesses, P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have deposed in their evidence before the Court that at the time of incident everybody was shocked and under fear, therefore, they could not go to the police station in the night. The prosecution had contended that no witness was ready to give the evidence against the accused in the Court, therefore, they were got discharged. The learned Trial Court, on the basis of an order dated 09.01.2017 passed in the case by the learned Trial Court, has recorded a finding that on the application of the prosecution, the said witnesses were discharged. It has also been recorded that on the said application, no objection was made by the defence. It has also been recorded that the defence has not moved any application to produce any of the said witnesses. The statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of the P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 were recorded immediately after the incident and their statements are in support of the first information report and the facts and circumstances of the incident and their evidence before Court is also consistent with the same, therefore, there is no plausible and valid reason to discard their evidence.

(53) The learned Trial Court also on the basis of the material placed on record by the defence has recorded that many cases of criminal nature were pending against the deceased Ram Sahai Singh, out of which, two were of murder. Thereafter, learned Trial Court, after considering the cases pending against the appellant in different Courts, recorded that on account of the criminal history of the appellant and he was also absconding in a case under Section 396 I.P.C., the witnesses whose statement were recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. were trying to save themselves from giving evidence on account of which they have not been examined by the prosecution. Thus, the statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C of the said witnesses looses their efficacy. This Court is in agreement with the aforesaid findings recorded by the learned Trial Court.

(54) The defence examined three witnesses to show that the accused was arrested from Bihar and false arrest and recovery have been shown. D.W.-1, Ashutosh Kumar Rai, deposed that he works in the shop of Pratibha Marble and Granite situated at Lucknow and for the last 10-12 years, he has been visiting Raisanda Ashram in connection with religious preaching, where he became acquainted with the accused. According to him, on 21.05.2015, the police of Police Station Kothi, Rai Sahab Yadav, brought him to Police Station Kothi and thereafter took him to Bihar by jeep, where, in village Paigampur, on 22.05.2015, they arrested Hareram Chaudhary from a function and brought him back to Police Station Kothi in the evening, after which he was released. In cross-examination, he stated that when the police had taken out him from the shop, neither the owner of the shop informed the local police nor informed his family members. He stated that he had no knowledge, as to whether there was any ceremony relating to the death anniversary (tehravi) at the house of Ram Pravesh Prasad or not. He further stated in cross-examination that the accused was not arrested on his pointing out, rather the police personnel had reached Baba Hareram (accused/appellant) through mobile and laptop.

(55) D.W.-2 Ram Pravesh Prasad stated that accused Hareram Chaudhary had come to his village for religious preaching and had come on 22.05.2015 to attend the death anniversary ceremony of his father, for which he had invited him. At about 11:00 12:00 noon, a white vehicle arrived, in which one person was in police uniform while the others were in plain clothes. They took away Hareram Baba, who was sitting on a cot at his door. In cross-examination, he stated that he has not brought death certificate of his father. He admitted that he had neither informed any local police officer that Hareram Chaudhary had been arrested from his door nor did he ask those persons as to where they were taking the accused.

(56) D.W.-3 Ram Vilas Mahato stated that he knew the accused as a religious preacher. On 22.05.2015, he had gone to attend the death anniversary ceremony of the father of Ram Pravesh Prasad, where Hareram Chaudhary had also come. At about 11:00-12:00 noon, 5□6 persons came in a white vehicle and took Hareram away without informing anyone. In cross-examination, he stated that he did not know how Ram Pravesh had invited Hareram Chaudhary. He further stated that on 22.05.2015, a religious recital (Bhagwat) was being held at the house of Baniya during the daytime, in which he had gone. He was present in the said programme from day to night and also eat there.

(57) The aforesaid evidence of D.W.-1, D.W.-2 and D.W.-3 shows that there are material contradictions and inconsistencies in their evidence, therefore, it is not safe to rely on them, where there is consistent evidence of Investigating Officer and P.W.-7, coupled with recovery, which stands proved. Learned Trial Court, considering the evidence of D.W.-1, D.W.-2 and D.W.-3, has recorded a finding that on perusal of their statement, it emerges that they have given different and inconsistent statements. There is no documentary proof on record to show that the accused was a religious preacher. P.W.-2 Bandhu Ji stated that Hareram Chaudhary used to live outside the Ashram in ordinary attire. After the occurrence, when he was sent to jail, he started living in the dress of a saint. It has also come on record that a charge-sheet under Section 396 of the Indian Penal Code is pending against accused Hareram Chaudhary in a Court in the State of Bihar, in which he has been shown absconding. No rebuttal of this evidence has been made by the defence. Thus, learned trial Court came to conclusion that there is no reason to disbelieve the prosecution witnesses regarding the fact that after the occurrence, the accused had gone to Bihar and on 25.05.2015, he came towards the Ashram situated at Raisanda to meet his family members, where he was arrested and a firearm was recovered from his possession. In regard to the plea taken by the defence that the accused was a religious preacher, learned trial Court, on appreciating the evidence on record, recorded the finding that no question was put by the defence to any prosecution witness, rather, from the statements of the witnesses it only appears that the accused had earlier lived in the Raisanda Ashram, but later on, due to his conduct contrary to discipline, he had to leave the Ashram premises, therefore, the evidence adduced by the defence to show that the arrest and recovery of the accused were falsely shown, is not trustworthy and the same does not discredit the prosecution evidence relating to the arrest and recovery of the accused. This Court is in agreement with the findings recorded by learned trial Court in regard to arrest of accused and recovery of weapon of assault. Even otherwise, even if the recovery fails and prosecution proves it's case beyond reasonable doubt, it can not be a ground of acquittal.

(58) Coming back to the facts of the present case, it is clearly established that deceased Thakur Ram Sahai Singh, who was the Head Secretary of the Ashram and of all Ashram connected therewith across the country, was murdered in the intervening night of 15/16 May, 2015 while he was sleeping in the open threshing-ground area within the Ashram premises. At the time of the incident, P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 were present at the spot and were engaged in the work of the Ashram. Cleaning work and storing of husk were being carried out by them, because two days later a birth anniversary programme was to be held in the Ashram and therefore, work in the Ashram was continuing even during the night. Arrangements for lighting had been made through a portable generator, where labourers were working. At that time, deceased Thakur Ram Sahai Singh was lying down and accused Hareram Chaudhary fired at the head of the deceased with a firearm, due to which he died on the spot. The accused was seen by P.W.-1 and P.W.-2.

(59) The statement of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 has also been supported by the medical evidence. P.W.-4 Dr. Shailendra Singh, who conducted the post-mortem of the dead body of the deceased, stated that a shot was fired from behind at the head of the deceased, which broke his jaw and exited outward. The post-mortem report (Ext. Ka.3) also mentions same two injuries, which have been supported by P.W.4. The other details of the incident as narrated by P.W.1 and P.W.2 does not contain any contradiction. Other official witnesses have proved lodging of F.I.R., inquest, post-mortem, investigation etc. and nothing could be extracted to doubt their testimony. Thus, on an overall analysis of evidence and material on record, this Court is of the view that the prosecution has proved it's case beyond all reasonable doubt and the learned Trial Court has passed the impugned judgment and order after considering all the evidence and material on record and dealing with all aspects minutely, therefore, it does not suffer any error, illegality or perversity.

(60) In view of above, we are in full agreement with the reasoning assigned by the Trial Court. Thus, it does not call for any interference by this Court. The appeal has been filed on baseless and misconceived grounds, which is liable to be dismissed and is, accordingly, dismissed.

(61) Consequently, the impugned judgment and order passed by the learned trial Court is hereby confirmed and the sentence is affirmed. The appellant is in jail. He shall serve out the sentence awarded by the trial Court by means of impugned judgment and order.

(62) Let the Trial Court's Record along with a copy of this order be transmitted to the trial Court concerned forthwith or in any case within two weeks from today.

Criminal Appeal No. 1022 of 1984

Madho & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the prosecution established the guilt of the appellant beyond reasonable doubt for the offences punishable under Sections 302/34 and 386/34 I.P.C. - whether the First Information Report was ante-timed - whether the ocular testimony of P.W.3 Bhagirathi is reliable and duly corroborated by the medical evidence - whether appellant Sati Ram was the son of the deceased Ram Charan or of co-accused

Madho so as to establish motive for the crime - and whether the facts proved constitute an offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. or Section 304 Part II I.P.C. (Paras 29-33, 42-46, 55-62, 72-77)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Murder and Extortion - Appreciation of evidence - Reliability of sole eyewitness - Ocular and medical evidence - Defective investigation - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 302/34 and 386/34 - A defective investigation does not by itself vitiate the prosecution case where the prosecution otherwise proves the guilt of the accused by reliable ocular evidence duly corroborated by the medical evidence - In the instant case, the appellants, along with two unknown persons, entered the tubewell Kothari during the night, overpowered the deceased and his wife, obtained the thumb impressions of the deceased on blank papers, stuffed cotton into his nostrils, pressed a pillow over his mouth and tightened an angaucha around his neck, resulting in his death by asphyxia - The testimony of P.W.3 Bhagirathi was found natural, reliable and fully corroborated by the medical evidence - Conviction of the appellant under Ss. 302/34 and 386/34 IPC affirmed. (Paras 40, 62, 72, 73, 76, 77)

Held: The prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. It has been established that the appellants along with two unknown persons entered the Kothari, overpowered the deceased and P.W.3 Bhagirathi and thereafter obtained the thumb impression of the deceased on blank papers. The appellants pressed a pillow over the mouth of the deceased, stuffed cotton into his nostrils and tightened an angaucha around his neck causing injuries which resulted in his death. The medical evidence clearly establishes that the cause of death was asphyxia resulting from a combination of smothering as well as strangulation and fully corroborates the ocular testimony of P.W.3 Bhagirathi. Merely because the Investigating Officer failed to collect the bulb or committed lapses during investigation, the prosecution case cannot be discarded when the ocular and medical evidence establish the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt. The testimony of P.W.3 Bhagirathi is natural, reliable and trustworthy and proves that the appellants along with two unknown persons committed the crime. Since the blank papers on which the thumb impressions were obtained could have been converted into valuable security, the ingredients of the offence punishable under Section 386/34 I.P.C. also stand established. The Trial Court has correctly appreciated the evidence on record and rightly convicted the surviving appellant Sati Ram for the offences punishable under Sections 302/34 and 386/34 I.P.C. (Paras 62, 66, 68, 72, 73, 76, 77) (E-7)

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred, under Section 374(2) Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, (in short Cr.P.C.), by appellants, namely Madho, son of Baliraj, and Sati Ram son of Madho, both residents of Village Jalalpur Mahawal, Police Station Kaptanganj, District Azamgarh, against the judgment and order dated 30.03.1984, passed by Sri. S.L. Adarsh, IIIrd, Additional Sessions Judge, Azamgarh, in Session Trial No.368 of 1982, under Sections 386/34 and 302/34 of the Indian Penal Code (in short 'I.P.C.'), Police Station Kaptanganj, District Azamgarh.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, appellants, Madho and Sati Ram were held guilty of the offence under Sections 386/34 and 302/34 I.P.C. Each of them were sentenced to undergo five year's rigorous imprisonment for offence punishable under Section 386/34 IPC and imprisonment for life for offence punishable under Section 302/34 IPC. It was further directed that both the sentences shall run concurrently.

3. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order, the present appeal has been filed by both the convicts. During the pendency of this criminal appeal, appellant No.1, Madho, died and the appeal against him stood abated vide order dated 22.03.2022. Therefore, the appeal has now been heard only in respect of the surviving appellant, Sati Ram.

4. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that the informant, Ramdhani, son of Munnar Ram, resident of Rampur, Police Station Maharajganj, District Azamgarh, presently residing at Naipura, Police Station Atrauliya, District Azamgarh, submitted a written application (tehrir), Ext. Ka-1, before the In-charge, Police Station Atrauliya, District Azamgarh, stating therein that he was married to Bhuwari, daughter of Ram Charan @ Chandu Verma, son of Baliraj Verma, resident of village Naipura, about 15 years ago. He, alongwith his wife, settled in village Naipura to look after his parents-in-law. As a result, his father-in-law's brother, Madho, developed a grudge against him, and he had earlier got his son Sati Ram's name wrongly entered in school records showing parentage of Ram Charan @ Chandu Verma to usurp the Ram Charan @ Chandu Verma's property. The informant's father-in-law, after knowing this evil design of his brother Madho, got his entire property transferred in the name of the informant and his wife, Smt. Bhuwari, about 4-5 months ago, and a mutation case in this regard is pending before the Tehsildar, Phulpur. Due to all the above reasons, Madho and his son, Sati Ram, developed enmity against the informant and his father-in-law and had occasionally asked him to leave the property and go away. Today, during the night, his parents-in-law were sleeping at in tubewell situated in the village Nebuadih, keeping doors open. There was light both inside and outside the tubewell. At about 4:00 a.m., Madho and Sati Ram along with two unknown persons, came there, and he could identify their faces. They stuffed cotton into his father-in-law's nostrils, turned his face downward, pressed it against a pillow, and started taking his thumb impression. His mother-in-law started screaming, but one of the miscreants muffled her mouth with his hand to prevent her from screaming. His father-in-law overturned and struggled to escape. In the process, he sustained some injuries. Thereafter, they again pressed his face against a pillow after stuffing cotton in his nostrils, causing his death. They also took thumb impression of his left hand on some papers. As soon as his mother-in-law got a chance, she screamed, and at the same time, the informant and his co-villagers, Ram Garib son of Balesher, Ram Shakal son of Budhi Ram, and Rajbali son of Ram Deo, were going towards the tubewell to irrigate their respective fields. Upon hearing the noise, they proceeded towards the tubewell, flashing their torches. Then Madho and Sati Ram, alongwith two unknown persons, came out from inside the tubewell and ran towards the western side. The informant and his companions recognized and identified them in the light outside the tubewell and from the flash of torches. His father-in-law's dead body was lying at the tubewell, where his mother-in-law and many villagers were present.

5. Upon this written application, an FIR under Case Crime No. 125 of 1982, under Sections 302 and 384 I.P.C. was lodged at Police Station Atraulia on 23.08.1982 at 9:55 A.M. against Madho, Sati Ram and two unknown persons. The investigation commenced and the Investigating Officer reached at the place of occurrence, where he collected cotton thrust into the nostrils of the deceased and the pillow bearing spots of liquid spilled from the nose and mouth and prepared its recovery memo (Ext. Ka-4). The Investigating Officer also inspected the torch and gave it in supurdagi and the supurdaginama (Ext. Ka-11) was prepared. The inquest of the deceased was prepared along with related papers and the body was sent for post-mortem. The post-mortem of the deceased was conducted, wherein the doctor found five ante-mortem injuries and the cause of death was opined as asphyxia as a result of strangulation. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the informant and other witnesses, inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site-plan (Ext. Ka-10).

6. After collecting the evidence, the Investigating Officer filed the charge-sheet before the concerned Magistrate, who took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. The accused appeared before the concerned Court and were furnished with copies of the relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial. The accused appeared before the Court of Sessions, where charge under Sections 302/34 and 386/34 I.P.C. were framed against them, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. The prosecution has examined six witnesses to prove its case, namely, P.W.1 Ram Dhani, P.W.2 Ram Sakal, P.W.3 Bhagirathi, P.W.4 Ram Autar Rai (S.O.), P.W.5 Dr. S.N. Sinha and P.W.6 Constable, Brijendra Nath Singh.

8. Out of these witnesses, P.W.-1 Ram Dhani is the informant and an eyewitness of the incident. He said that his father-in-law, Chandu @ Ram Charan, had three brothers, namely Bhaggal and Madho. Bhaggal had died prior to the informant's marriage and his widow had left him. Bhaggal had no daughter by the name of Gulaichi, but Madho lodged a case showing Gulaichi as Bhaggal's daughter in order to grab his property. Gulaichi lost the case. The accused, Madho, had two sons, namely Sati Ram and Daya Ram. Chandu had no son and had only one daughter, Bhuwari, who is married to the informant. Madho got the parentage of his son, Sati Ram, changed in the school records to show him as the son of Chandu @ Ram Charan, in order to grab his share of the property. He further said that he originally belongs to village Rampur, Atraulia, Bhairodaspur, Police Station Maharajganj and to take care of his parents-in-law, he started living in village Naipura alongwith them. Ram Charan @ Chandu's wife is Bhagirathi. Chandu had a tubewell situated about one furlong in the north-western direction from his house. His parents-in-law used to sleep at the tubewell to guard it, in a kothari behind the wall of the tubewell. The informant and his wife used to sleep in Chandu's house in village Naipura. The accused, Madho and Sati Ram, lived in village Jalalpur, which is 3-4 miles away from village Naipura in the south-eastern direction. The informant also stated that he was taking care of the agricultural work of his father-in-law and was permanently settled in village Naipura for the last 5-6 years. The accused, Madho, developed a grudge against him regarding agricultural work. His father-in-law had executed a sale deed of his land situated in villages Jalalpur and Basi about 4-5 months prior to his murder and another sale deed in favour of the informant's wife for land situated in Atrait, Nebuadih and Atraha. His father-in-law had not executed any sale deed in respect of the land situated in Mubapur. The accused Madho used to warn him to leave the land and vacate the place and also warned his father-in-law that he would face the consequences, if he disposed of the property. After the execution of the sale deeds, the informant filed an application for mutation and his name was mutated about 4-6 days after the murder of his father-in-law. He further said that his father-in-law was murdered at about 4:00 a.m. at night. He was awakened by Rajbali at about 4:00 a.m. to go to the tubewell for irrigation. He went towards the tubewell alongwith Rajbali, who was carrying a torch. On the way, Ram Gareeb and Ram Shakal met and accompanied them. When they had proceeded further and were about 50 steps away from the tubewell, they heard his mother-in-law screaming. There was a bulb lit at the tubewell, both inside and outside. Upon hearing the scream, they moved forward and saw the accused Madho and Sati Ram, alongwith unknown persons, whom he could identify, coming out of the kothari of the tubewell and running towards the western side. Ram Gareeb, Ram Shakal and Rajbali were carrying torches, which they flashed and identified the accused in the light of the torches and electricity. They chased the accused, but the accused fled away. They entered in the kothari at tubewell, where he saw his father-in-law lying on a cot and his mother-in-law weeping in the kothari. His mother-in-law told him that while they were sleeping, the accused Sati Ram and Madho alongwith two other persons, came there. They pressed Chandu's mouth with a pillow, stuffed cotton into his nostrils and one person climbed over him. Sati Ram strangulated his neck with a Angaucha and Madho forcibly obtained the thumb impression on some blank papers. P.W.3 Bhagirathi also stated that one of the persons, whom she did not know, gagged her mouth and continued to assault her. P.W.1 Ram Dhani has said that after leaving the dead body in the presence of the witnesses, he returned to his house and wrote a written application, which has been proved as Ext. Ka-1. He also said that he submitted the said application at Police Station Atraulia, where the FIR was lodged.

9. In cross-examination, P.W.1 Ram Dhani deposed that his parents are no more and there is no person in his house. Occasionally, he goes to his village, where he has 5 1/2 bighas of ancestral land. Ram Charan and Madho had equal shares of land in Nebuadih. Once Gulaichi had lodged a case against both Madho and Ram Charan and the case was dismissed. He has filed a photostate copy of the Kutumb Register of village Atrait, in which the name of Sati Ram is entered and his own name is not there. His name is entered in the Kutumb Register of village Rampur. Madho was 2-3 years older than Ram Charan. Ram Charan had executed three sale deeds, two in his favour and one in favour of his wife. Nobody objected in the mutation proceedings. Ram Garib, who is a marginal witness of a sale deed, is also a witness in this case. Shyam Lal's tubewell is about 200 meters away from the disputed tubewell. Shyam Lal does not live at his tubewell. At the time of the incident, he was standing to the south of the tubewell, which has only one door. Nobody can see from outside, anything inside the kothari. He saw the accused for the first time from a distance of 25-30 steps. The accused were coming out from the madai (small hut), thereafter he said that the distance between them and the accused was about 15-20 steps. All the three witnesses had torches in their hands, which they flashed and identified the accused in the light of the torches and the bulb. He did not see any weapon or country-made pistol in accused persons possession. They chased the accused for 25-30 steps but could not catch them. He himself wrote the written application at his house. He reached the police station at about 9:45 a.m. alone, on foot. The Inspector came to the place of occurrence at about 11:00 a.m. accompanied by him. The Inspector recorded his statement at the tubewell. He did not see the accused killing the deceased. It is true that his mother-in-law narrated the incident to him and, after consulting her, he lodged the report. He denied the suggestion that he himself killed the deceased and falsely implicated the accused. He also denied that he got the sale deed of the property of the deceased executed with the help of an impostor.

10. P.W.2 Ram Sakal, is an eyewitness to the incident and said that, on the fateful day, at about 4:00 a.m., he was going towards Shyam Lal's tubewell to irrigate his field. Shyam Lal's tubewell was closed, so he was returning home. On the way, Raj Bali, Ram Dhani, and Ram Gareeb met, and he accompanied them. After reaching near the sugarcane field, he heard the scream of Ram Dhani's mother-in-law. The scream was coming from Ram Dhani's tubewell, and she was crying that her husband had been murdered. He himself, Ram Gareeb and Raj Bali were carrying torches. After hearing the scream, they ran towards west and flashed their torches and saw four persons came running from the side of the tubewell. Out of them, two persons were identified in the flash of the torch. There was no other source of light. He identified Madho and Sati Ram, who are present in Court. He could not identify the other two miscreants. After returning to Ram Dhani's tubewell, they saw Ram charan lying dead on a cot. There was no injury mark on his body, except a mark on his left thumb. Ram Charan□s wife stated that he was killed by Sati Ram, Madho and others.

11. In cross-examination, P.W.2 Ram Sakal deposed that Madho is elder to him. Sati Ram and Madho do not live in his village. Madho's house is about one to one-and-a-half miles away from his house. Shyam Lal's tubewell is situated at a distance of one bigha to the north of his house. A bulb was lit at Shyam Lal's tubewell. He has said that he saw the accused from a distance of about 25 steps while they were running. There was only one entrance to the south of the tubewell. There was no exit to the north and east. The accused fled towards west and were chased from south. It was dark when he left his house. Everyone questioned the widow and she stated that Sati Ram and Madho had killed the deceased. The Inspector came at about noon and called him at about 1:00 p.m. and recorded his statement. The Investigating Officer took the bulb in his possession and obtained his signature on some papers.

12. P.W.3 Bhagirathi is also one of the eyewitness to the incident and said that she was living in village Naipura alongwith her husband. Her father-in-law's name was Balraj, who had only one son, Ram Charan. The accused, Madho, lives in Jalalpur. She has only one daughter, Bhuwari and no other issue. Bhuwari was married to Ram Dhani. During consolidation, the names of her husband and Madho were entered in the property, situated in villages Naipura and Jalalpur. After her daughter Bhuwari's marriage, she started living with her and her son-in-law. Ram Charan had transferred his land to Bhuwari and Ram Dhani. The accused, Sati Ram had got entered his parentage (father's name as Ram Charan) in his school records. Execution of sale deeds, in favour of Bhuwari and Ram Dhani, annoyed the accused. On the fateful day, she was sleeping at her tubewell alongwith her husband. For the last eight years, since the installation of the tubewell, they used to sleep there, while her daughter and son-in-law lived in the house which is inside village Naipura. A blue bulb was lit outside the tubewell. She and her husband were sleeping on a cot. The door of the tubewell was open then four persons entered and overpowered her husband, who was lying asleep on the cot. When she raised an alarm, one of the persons caught hold of her. One of the assailants stuffed cotton into her husband's nostrils, wrapped an angaucha around his neck and overturned him on the cot, while two persons, including Sati Ram, climbed over his back. They forcibly obtained his thumb impressions on some papers and tightened the anagucha around his neck, as a result of which he died. Out of those four persons, Madho and Sati Ram are present in Court.

13. In cross-examination, P.W.3 deposed that Sati Ram never lived in village Naipura. Ram Dhani has agricultural land in village Rampur. She never went to Tehsil to execute a sale deed. No money transaction took place in her presence and she has no knowledge of it. Ram Dhani came and told her about the property of which he executed the sale deed. Madho is her Jeth. Bhuwari□s marriage was solemnized with the help of Madho. As Madho was elder to Ram Charan, in that sense, he was the maalik (owner). Both families lived at both places. She further stated that after the demarcation of fields, a dispute arose with Madho and others, and thereafter Madho and Ram Charan started cultivating their land, separately. Madho was living separately. The house was also partitioned. Madho had constructed three kotharis in the house, which are now in her son-in-law's possession. She said that Ram Dhani cultivates Madho's field in village Naipura after Madho was roped into this case. After the death of her husband, Madho used to harass her daughter and son-in-law. Her husband had told her that Sati Ram had got his parentage wrongly entered. After the execution of the sale deed, Madho never came to her or her husband. She further said that she now sleeps at the tubewell. There is a small room at the tubewell. She was sleeping on a cot made of bamboo. It was hot and rainy season. It rained during the night, about 2-3 hours before dawn. They used to keep the door open due to the heat. At that time, she and her husband were sleeping on the cot. When the Investigating Officer came, she was weeping and was not in her senses. She denied the suggestion that she was deposing before the Court under pressure from Ram Dhani. She stated that she lives with both her daughter and her son-in-law. She further said that when the accused and two unknown persons reached the tubewell, they were empty-handed and had no weapons. The miscreants dragged her away from the cot and forced her to sit near the northern wall by muffling her mouth. She was not beaten and could not identify the person who caught hold of her. She said that the entire episode was over within half an hour and during this period, she was forced to keep sitting. Two persons climbed onto the cot and one person was taking signatures. Sati Ram alongwith one person were on the cot. She further said that upon her first scream, Ram Dhani, Ram Garib, Ram Sakal, and Rajbali reached there. The Investigating Officer did not find any angaucha at the spot, as the accused had taken it away with them. Her husband was not beaten with a stick (danda).

14. P.W.4 Ram Avtar Rai (S.O.), is the Investigating Officer of this case. He has said that the FIR of this case was scribed by Head Constable Yadunandan Singh and he is well versed with his handwriting and signature. He has proved the chik FIR as Ext. Ka-2 and the copy of G.D. No. 12 dated 23.08.1982 at 9:55 hours as Ext. Ka-3. He said about the investigation carried out by him and said that he recorded the statement of the informant at the Police Station and proceeded to the place of occurrence, reaching there at 11:00 a.m. The inquest and related papers were prepared at the spot, which are proved as Ext. Ka-5 and Ext. Ka-6. He has also proved the letters to the C.M.O. and R.I. as Ext. Ka-7 and Ext. Ka-8. He further said that cotton from the nostrils of the deceased and the pillow was taken into possession, sealed and a recovery memo was prepared, which he proved as Ext. Ka-9. He has further said that the dead body was sent to the mortuary for post-mortem through Constable Virendra Prasad and Constable Brijendra Nath Singh. He inspected the place of occurrence at the pointing out of the informant and the widow of the deceased and prepared the site-plan, which he proved as Ext. Ka-10. He inspected the torches of the witnesses and gave them in supurdagi and prepared the supurdaginama, which is proved as Ext. Ka-11. After completing the investigation, he submitted the charge-sheet against both the accused, which he proved as Ext. Ka-12.

15. In cross-examination, P.W.4 deposed that Ext. Ka-9 was not scribed in his presence at the Police Station. The special report of the crime was sent to Sadar on the same day. He denied the suggestion that the words 'दबाकर नाक में रूई डालकर' were added in the FIR with different ink. He said that he had inspected the bulb at the tubewell but did not take it into his possession. He further denied the suggestion that the FIR was lodged ante-timed. The witness proved the pillow and the cotton taken from the nostrils of the deceased as Ext.-1 and Ext.-2 respectively.

16. P.W.5, Dr. S.N. Sinha has conducted the autopsy of the deceased, Ram Charan @ Chandu. He said that on 24.08.1982, he was posted as Medical Officer in Sadar Hospital, Azamagarh, where the dead body of the deceased was brought by Constables, Virendra Prasad and Brijendra Nath Singh for post-mortem. He conducted post-mortem at 1:30 p.m. The body of the deceased was average, built. Rigour mortis had passed from upper limb and was present in lower limb. The body had swollen and the skin was peeling from places. There was vomiting from mouth and nose. Bloody froth was coming out from mouth and nose. Mouth was half open, half tongue was coming out, eyes were closed and swollen, nasal membrane was congested. There was a mark of pad ink over left thumb. He found following ante-mortem injuries:-

'(i) Contusion of left eye including both eye lids.

(ii) Contusion 5 cm x 4 cm on left eye temple region.

(iii) Abrasion 1 cm x 0.08 cm left side back just above middle of illiac crust.

(iv) Abrasion 0.6 cm x 0.2 cm on the root of dorsum.

(v) Contusion front and back of neck.'

During internal examination, the skull membranes beneath the injuries were congested. The walls of lungs were congested. The trachea and larynx were congested and filled with blood. Both lungs were congested. Semi-digested food was present in the stomach. The intestines were filled with gas and fecal matter.

17. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was asphyxia as a result of strangulation. He said that death could have occurred on 23.08.1982 at about 4:00 a.m. He proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-13. He further said that if a person is lying on his right side and beaten with a cane, injury no. 2 could be caused. Injury nos. 3 and 4 could be caused by a fragment of danda. Injury no. 5 could be caused if a person is pressed with a split bamboo (fate bamboo). This injury could not be caused by a wide stick. The deceased could have died on 22.08.1982 between 11:00 p.m. and 12:00 midnight. If a person is lying on his back and beaten, all the injuries could not caused. If a pillow is pressed, injury no. 5 could be caused. If the neck was tightly pressed with a gamchha, injury no. 5 could be caused and a clear ligature mark would be present. However, there was no ligature mark over injury no. 5.

18. P.W.6 Constable Brijendra Nath Singh is a formal witness who took the dead body of the deceased for post-mortem examination. He said that on 23.08.1982, at about 11:00 a.m., he reached the place of occurrence to take the dead body. He denied the suggestion that he had taken the dead body on 24.08.1982 at about 8:00 a.m.

19. The prosecution has produced following documentary evidence i.e. Ext. Ka-1 written report, Ext. Ka-2 FIR, Ext. Ka-3 carbon copy of G.D., Ext. Ka-4 Panchyatnama (inquest report), Ext. Ka-5 photo nash, Ext. Ka-6 Form No.13, Ext. Ka-7 letter to C.M.O. Ext. Ka-8 Form No.33, Ext. Ka-9 recovery memo of Cotton and Pillow, Ext. Ka-10 site plan, Ext. Ka-11 recovery memo of torch, Ext. Ka-12 Charge-sheet, Ext. Ka-13 Post-mortem report, Ext. Ka-14 Mutation Case No.337, Ext. Ka-15 copy of mutation case, Ext. Ka-16 and Ext. Ka-17 sale deed, Ext. Ka-18 transfer certificate of Satiram Verma, Ext. Ka-19 Kutumb Register, Ext. Ka-20 copy of order of settlement officer consolidation in appeal No.230, Ext. Ka-21, copy of corrected voter list for the year 1982 and Ext. Ka-22 copy of complaint case no.144 of 1983.

20. After the closure of prosecution evidence, the statements of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Appellant Madho admitted that Ram Charan @ Chandu and Baggal were the real brothers of accused Madho. It was admitted that Ram Charan had no son and had only one daughter, Bhuwari, who was married to Ram Dhani. It was denied that Sati Ram is Madho's son. It was admitted that Ram Charan and Madho had joint property in Atrait, Nebuadih, Mubapur, Jalalpur, Basi and other places. Accused Madho said that he had lodged a complaint against Ram Dhani and others, but he could not see properly and could not read the copy of the complaint. Accused Sati Ram said that he is not Madho's son and is son of Ram Charan. Bhuwari is Ram Charan's daughter and Ram Dhani is her husband. It was admitted that Ram Charan and Madho had separate properties in Mauza Atrait, Nebuadih, Mubapur, Jalalpur, Basi and other places.

21. The accused has examined Dr. Vinod Tripathi as D.W. 1 in their defence and have filed following documentary evidence:-

‘ (i) Querry from Tehsildar, Phulpur, Ext.Kha-2.

(ii) Extract of voters list, Ext.Kha-2.

(iii) Extract of birth and death register, Ext. Kha-4.

(iv) Extract of khasra for 1390f., Ext. Kha-5.

(v) Extract of kutumb register of the family of accused, Madho, Ext;Kha-6.

(vi) Extract of khatauni of Rajbali, Ext. Kha-7.

(vii) Extract of Khasara for 1390F, Ext;Kha-8 ‘

22. D.W.1, Dr. Vinod Tripathi, has said that on 07.08.1982 at about 9:00 a.m., he examined accused Madho’s eyes in District Jail, Azamgarh, on the direction of the District Judge and prepared a report, which is marked as Ext. Kha-1. He found cataracts in both eyes. He was of the opinion that the patient could recognize capital letters from a distance of more than one meter, meaning thereby that he could read the top line of the vision chart. The left eye vision was recorded as ‘PL + PR’, meaning perception of light and projection of rays. The vision of the right eye was 1/60 at that time. In the left eye, there was only a sense of light. Such a patient would be able to see to a limited degree with the right eye in darkness, as light is reduced under such conditions. However, the patient cannot see with the left eye in darkness. The type of cataract he found would take not less than three months to develop.

23. In cross-examination, D.W.1 said that, except for recognizing people, all other functions of the eye were normal. The accused, Madho was not diabetic. According to him, cataract develops naturally and a noticeable difference can be seen within 10-15 days. In his opinion, the cataract in the left eye was mature even before 15 days. The patient could read the top letters of the chart from a distance of one meter but stated that he could not read the remaining letters.

24. D.W.1 further explained that there is no subjective scale to determine a patient’s vision. In such cases, vision is noted based on the letters that the patient can read and identify. A patient in this condition can recognize an unknown person under electric light or a torch’s flash and can move independently on a familiar path.

25. The Learned Trial Court, after examining the evidence, found that the prosecution had proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. The FIR was lodged promptly and the place of occurrence was established. The eyewitnesses have supported the prosecution case and their testimony was consistent, reliable, and trustworthy. There were no contradictions between the ocular and medical evidence. Motive for the appellants to commit the crime was also established. Therefore, the appellants were found guilty, and accordingly convicted and sentenced to the terms indicated above.

26. We have heard Mr. Preet Pal Singh Rathore, learned Counsel for the appellant and Mr. Anil Kumar Mishra alongwith Mr. Deepak Mishra, learned Additional Government Advocates for the State and perused the record.

27. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that the learned Trial Court has appreciated the evidence on record incorrectly and has come to the wrong conclusion of guilt of the appellant. The FIR was ante-timed, which raises suspicion over the prosecution case. The ocular testimony is not supported by the medical evidence. There are major contradictions in the oral testimony of the witnesses of fact. The appellant had no motive to commit the murder of the deceased and the prosecution has failed to prove any motive for the appellant to commit the crime. As per the prosecution, the appellants were empty-handed, therefore, they had no intention or motive to commit the murder of the deceased and, at the most, they had the intention to take the left thumb impression of the deceased on blank papers. There was no injury on the body of the deceased which was sufficient, in the ordinary course of nature, to cause his death.A Case under Section 302 I.P.C. is not made out, and at the most it would fall under Section 304 (2) I.P.C. It is highly unnatural that the appellants would commit the crime without concealing their identity. The appellants have no criminal history. P.W.1 Ram Dhani and P.W.2 Ram Sakal are interested witnesses and their testimonies are not reliable. The presence of P.W.3 Bhagirathi at the place of occurrence is highly doubtful and if she was present while her husband was murdered, then the assailants could not have spared her to create evidence against themselves. In view of the above, the learned Trial Court failed to appreciate the evidence in the correct manner and has thus passed the illegal judgment, which is liable to be set aside.

28. On the other hand, it is submitted on behalf of the State that the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt. The FIR is prompt and not ante-timed. The witnesses of fact are natural witness and their presence at the spot is proved. Their testimony regarding the incident is consistent and trustworthy. The appellants had a motive to commit the crime to grab the land of the deceased. There are no major contradictions in the ocular and medical evidence. Thus, the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt and the appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

29. It is settled law that in a criminal case, the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In the present case, it is not in dispute that informant, Ram Dhani is the son-in-law of the deceased. It is also not in dispute that deceased, Ram Charan @ Chandu had two brothers, namely Madho and Bhaggal. It is further not in dispute that after the death of Bhaggal, his property came into the share of the deceased Ram Charan and appellant No.1, Madho. It is also not disputed that P.W.3, Bhagirathi, is the widow of the deceased, Ram Charan.

30. The first contention raised on behalf of the appellant is that the FIR is ante-timed and after consultation, the appellant has been falsely roped into this case. It is further contended that at the top of front page of inquest report, the details of the case crime number and FIR are written in different ink and handwriting, which shows that the FIR is ante-timed. It is also submitted that no case crime number or section is mentioned in recovery memo or post-mortem report which also shows that the FIR was lodged at a later point of time.

31. We do not agree with this submission advanced on behalf of the appellants. There is no requirement, under the law, that the case crime number and sections be mentioned in the recovery memo or the post-mortem report. The doctor, who conducted post-mortem, was not asked whether the FIR or other police papers were brought with the dead body. So far as the inquest report is concerned, the details of the case crime number and sections are mentioned at the top of the front page and in the first half of the second page. The appellant has not put any question to the Investigating Officer, before whom the inquest was prepared, regarding whether the details of the case crime number and sections were written in different ink and handwriting and if so, when and how. Had such a question been put to the Investigating Officer, he would have been in a position to explain the same. Without putting any such question to the Investigating Officer, the argument in this regard has no force. Further, a bare perusal of inquest report does not give any indication that the case crime number and FIR is written in different ink and handwriting.

32. A perusal of record shows that the incident occurred on 23.08.1982 at 4:00 a.m. and the FIR was lodged on 23.08.1982 at 9:55 a.m., meaning thereby, the FIR was lodged within five hours of the incident. As per the chik FIR, the distance of the Police Station from the place of occurrence is 07 miles. The informant, Ram Dhani is the son-in-law of the deceased. He has said that after the incident, he came to his house, wrote down the tehrir and then went to the Police Station on foot. He has also stated that he reached the Police Station at 9:45 a.m., and thereafter, the chik FIR was lodged. The chik FIR and the General Diary, having the gist of the FIR, have been proved by the I.O. He has said that the special report of the case was sent to Sadar on the same day and Sadar is situated about 40 kilometers from Police Station Atrauliya. The chik FIR shows that it was sent from the Police Station on the next day, i.e., 24.08.1982 and there is no time mentioned, when it was sent. The initials of the Circle Officer do not bear any date on the chik FIR. There is a faded seal of the court over it, which has faded perhaps due to lapse of time, and the signature and date of the concerned Magistrate are not visible over it. As the paper is very old and in bad condition so no observation can be made in this regard. So far as date below initials of Circle Officer is concerned it amounts to lapse, and nothing else, so no adverse inference can be drawn due to it, as held by a Division Bench of this Court in Deshraj Singh & Others v/s The State 1986 L.L.J. 263 (D.B.) that absence of date beneath the initials of the Circle Officer on the endorsement for sending the F.I.R. to the court. This could be an omission on the part of the Circle Officer by not writing down the date below his initials and this omission does not lead to any presumption.'

33. As per the prosecution, the inquest of the deceased was prepared at the place of occurrence from 11:00 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. A perusal of the inquest report (Ext. Ka-4) shows that the case crime number is mentioned at the top of the first page and on the second page, it is stated that after information of the said crime reached at the police station, the concerned police officers proceeded to the place of occurrence. Thereafter panchas were arranged and the inquest was prepared alongwith connected papers. This indicates that at-least, the FIR had been lodged before 11:00 a.m. if not at 09.55 a.m., as mentioned in FIR, because the case crime number is mentioned on both the first and second pages of the inquest report. Therefore, there is no such undue delay to raise such suspicion. It also does not mean that the FIR is anti timed.

34. It is argued on behalf of the appellants that, on the second page of the inquest report, the sentence 'दबाकर नाक में रूई डालकर' has been added later, which raises suspicion about the date and time of preparation of inquest. We do not agree with this submission. The I.O. has denied that these lines have been added later and a bare perusal of it also indicates that the above line appears to have been written simultaneously with the other contents. Beside this, it does not make any difference to the prosecution case because it is mentioned in the inquest, that there was pad ink on the left-hand thumb and cotton was thrust in both nostrils, which tallies with the contents of the chik FIR.

35. Learned Counsel for the appellants has relied upon a decision of the Division Bench of this Court, reported in 1999 (38) ACC 491, Jagdish vs. State of U.P., wherein it was held that if there is a delay in the dispatch of the dead body for post-mortem examination, an adverse inference may be drawn regarding the existence of the FIR. On the basis of the aforesaid decision, learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that in the present case, the post-mortem was conducted on the next day after 12 noon and the doctor found that the body was swollen with peeling of the skin. It has been argued that generally it takes more than three days for the skin to peel off from a dead body, therefore, the condition of the body does not match the alleged date and time of the incident.

36. We do not agree with this submission, as the incident occurred in the month of August, which is a month of rain and humidity. In such humidity, the condition of a dead body would deteriorate rapidly. The constable who had taken the body for post-mortem has stated on oath that he took the body on the same day and reached the police lines in the evening, but as the R.I. was not available, so he handed over the body to the doctor on the next day at about 12 noon. In the meantime the body was kept wrapped in cloth, which may have further deteriorated the condition of the body. The delay in sending the dead body to the doctor has been satisfactorily explained by the prosecution. There is no evidence and in its absence, it is hard to believe that the police personnel, the Investigating Officer and the doctor, all of them would collude with the first informant to fabricate false evidence in order to implicate the appellants in this case.

37. Learned Counsel for the appellants has also relied upon a decision of the Division Bench of this Court in 2019 (5) ADJ 809, Bachchi Lal and others vs. State of U.P., wherein the crime number and detail of the FIR and the G.D. entry were not mentioned in the inquest report and the witnesses of fact were found unreliable. Then, it was held that the FIR was ante-timed and the possibility of false implication could not be ruled out on account of previous enmity between the parties. As a result, the conviction and sentence was set aside. He also relied upon a decision of the Division Bench of this Court in 2025 (1) ADJ 635; Brij Bihari Bind and Others vs. State of U.P., wherein the inquest report did not contain any case crime number. In that case, the deceased was killed in a bomb attack, there were contradictions in the testimonies of the public witnesses and the doctor had stated that the chik FIR was not accompanying the dead body. Under those circumstances, the appeal was allowed.

38. The facts of the above decisions are entirely different which do not give any benefit to the appellant in this case. In the present case, the case crime number and the sections are mentioned in the inquest report and P.W.3, Bhagirathi, an eye-witness, has been found reliable and trustworthy. There is no evidence which may raise any suspicion that the appellants have been falsely implicated. The Investigating Officer has stated that the special report was sent on the same day and on this point, he has not been cross-examined, so the submission in this regard has no force. No question was put to the doctor, who conducted the post-mortem of the deceased, as to whether the chik FIR and copy of G.D. accompanied the dead body or not. Therefore, mere argument in this regard has no force.

39. It is also alleged on behalf of the learned Counsel for the appellants that there was no source of light, as claimed by the prosecution. The torches were not produced before the Court and the bulb was not collected by the Investigating Officer. It is further contended that it was a dark night and therefore, there was not sufficient visibility for any witness to see the crime and identify the assailants. In support of this contention, learned Counsel for the appellants has relied upon a decision of the Division Bench of this Court in 2015 (2) ADJ 72; Radhe Sharan vs. State of U.P. and 2025 (1) ADJ page 309; Lavkush vs. State of U.P. In both these cases there were material contradictions in testimonies of witnesses of fact and there was other material infirmity in prosecution evidence, beside sufficient evidence with regard to source of light.

40. We do not agree with the submission of the learned Counsel for the appellants. The main source of light was bulb, which was on, both inside and outside the Kothri and it has come in evidence that it was on at the time of the incident. If the Investigating Officer did not collect the bulb, it is a lapse on his part which amounts to defective investigation. Merely on this ground, the prosecution case cannot be doubted when, on the basis of oral and ocular evidence, it stands proved beyond reasonable doubt.

41. So far as the place of occurrence is concerned, as per the prosecution, the deceased was murdered in a kothari at his tubewell in Village Nebuadih, Police Station Atrauliya, District Azamgarh. The appellants have not disputed this place of occurrence. P.W.1 Ram Dhani, P.W.2 Ram Sakal and P.W.3 Bhagirathi have stated on oath that the incident occurred at the tubewell in Village Nebuadih. The dead body was found over the cot there and at the same place inquest of the deceased was prepared. The Investigating Officer has prepared the site-plan, in which the same place of occurrence is shown. In view of the above, the place of occurrence is established.

42. As per the prosecution, appellant Sati Ram is the son of co-appellant Madho and both of them are named in the FIR alongwith two unknown persons. It is the prosecution case that the deceased had no son and had only one daughter, who was married to the informant, Ram Dhani. The prosecution alleges that both the appellants, Sati Ram and Madho, attempted to grab the property of the deceased, Ram Charan, because he had no son and therefore committed his murder. The appellant, Sati Ram, denies that he is the son of Madho and instead claims that he is the son of deceased, Ram Charan. This is a very important factor, as it must be determined whether Sati Ram is the son of Madho or son of Ram Charan. If it is found that he is the son of Ram Charan, then the prosecution story would become doubtful because, being a son, he would not, in ordinary course, commit murder his own father to grab his property, which would come to him by succession. In this regard, P.W.1 Ram Dhani has stated on oath that Sati Ram is the son of Madho. P.W.3 Bhagirathi, the wife of the deceased Ram Charan, has also said on oath that appellant Sati Ram is the son of Madho. She has further said that she had no son and has denied that appellant Sati Ram is her son.

43. It is pertinent to mention that appellant Madho, in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., admitted that the deceased, Ram Charan had no son, but denied that Sati Ram is his son. The appellant Sati Ram, however, claims that he is the son of Ram Charan. It is also relevant to mention that the defence did not cross-examine P.W.1 Ram Dhani and P.W.3 Bhagirathi on the point whether Sati Ram is the son of Madho. By not cross-examining these witnesses on the said point, it may be presumed that the defence has admitted the statements of P.W.1 and P.W.3 to the effect that Sati Ram is the son of Madho. It is further relevant to note that there is no reason why P.W.3 Bhagirathi would disown appellant Sati Ram as her son, if he actually is so. There is no evidence to show that P.W.3 Bhagirathi has any enmity against the appellants or that she is under any pressure from the first informant, Ram Dhani, her son-in-law.

44. Beside this, both parties have filed certain documentary evidence in support of their contentions. On behalf of the prosecution, the voter list (Ext. Kha-21) of Jalalpur has been filed, which shows Sati Ram as the son of Madho. Ext. Ka-22 is Complaint Case No. 124 of 1983, which was filed, after the incident of the present case, on behalf of the appellant Madho, in which it is stated that Ram Charan has one daughter and Ram Dhani murdered Ram Charan and has falsely implicated Madho and his son in this case. Therefore, in the said complaint case, the appellant Madho has admitted that Sati Ram is his son, as Sati Ram is a co-accused alongwith Madho in the present case. Consequently, Madho admits that Sati Ram is his son.

45. On the other hand, the defence has not examined any witness to prove this fact. So far as the documentary evidence is concerned, the defence has filed the voter list of the year 1979, in which the name of Sati Ram is not mentioned. However, it may be noted that Sati Ram had not attained the age of 21 years at that time (as the minimum age for adult franchise was 21 years), because in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., recorded in year 1983, the appellant Sati Ram has said that he is 19 years old. The defence has also produced another document, namely the Birth and Death Register of year 1966 (Ex. Kha-3), which shows that a son was born to deceased Ram Charan. On this basis, it is argued on behalf of the appellant that Sati Ram is the son of Bhagirathi (P.W.3) and deceased, Ram Charan. We do not agree with this submission because this fact was not clarified from Bhagirathi when she was examined on behalf of the prosecution in court. Had she been cross-examined on this point, she could have explained whether she gave birth to a baby boy or not and if so, what happened to her son. By not cross-examining her on this point and merely filing Ext. Kha-3 does not help the defence case that Sati Ram is the son of Ram Charan. The appellants have also filed the Kutumb Register (Ext. Kha-6), which shows that the name of Sati Ram is not mentioned in Madho's family, but this fact does not establish that Sati Ram is the son of Ram Charan. On the other hand, appellant Madho, in his complaint filed after the incident, has admitted that Ram Charan had a daughter and has indirectly admitted that Sati Ram is his son.

46. Therefore, in view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the appellants have not been able to prove that Sati Ram is the son of the deceased Ram Charan, whereas the prosecution has proved, by oral and documentary evidence that Sati Ram is the son of Madho.

47. It has come in evidence that the deceased had no son and had agricultural property in his name. The appellants, Madho and his son Sati Ram were his close relatives. Therefore, the prosecution's case is that they wanted to grab the deceased's property and that is why they murdered Ram Charan after taking his thumb impression on blank papers. Though this is a case of direct evidence, in which the deceased's wife and other witnesses have alleged to have witnessed the incident, so motive loses its significance in the present case. However, there is force in the contention of the prosecution that the appellants had a motive to commit this murder. It is submitted on behalf of appellant that the first informant himself committed murder as he wanted that all the property be transferred in his name but the deceased had transferred some part of property to his daughter. Thus, being annoyed, the first informant himself committed murder. We do not agree with this submission, as there is no evidence in support of this contention. Though it has come in evidence that the first informant took possession of three rooms of appellant Madho and also cultivated crops on his land when he was in jail in this case. But this evidence do not suggest any hint that the first informant had developed any grudge against the deceased which could prompt him to commit his murder.

48. It is also relevant that, according to the evidence of P.W.3, in particular, in order to grab Ram Charan's property, Madho had recorded his son Sati Ram's parentage as Ram Charan in school records so as to project Sati Ram as Ram Charan's son. When Ram Charan came to know of this, he attempted to safeguard his property and executed sale deeds in favour of his daughter and son-in-law, in respect of a part of the property.

49. It is argued on behalf of the appellants that if the deceased had already sold his property in favour of his daughter and son-in-law, then there was no reason for the appellants to murder him. However, this contention has no merit. There is no evidence to show that the deceased had sold his entire property in favour of his daughter and son-in-law. The evidence indicates that a portion of his property still remained with him, therefore, the appellants had a strong motive to murder him so as to prevent him from disposing of the remaining property.

50. Now let us examine the evidence of the three eyewitnesses produced by the prosecution. Out of them, P.W.1 Ram Dhani, is the first informant as well as the son-in-law of the deceased. P.W.2 is Ram Sakal. As per prosecution, both of them are eyewitness who were present near the place of occurrence at an odd hour of the night. They saw the accused running away, thereafter, they chased the accused but could not capture and later reached the tubewell, where they found the deceased dead and his wife, P.W.3 Bhagirathi was sitting beside him. P.W.3, Bhagirathi, is stated to have been present inside the Kothari where the deceased was done to death. Thus, P.W.3 Bhagirathi is an eyewitness to the incident, while P.W.1, Ram Dhani and P.W.2, Ram Sakal are witnesses who saw the accused fleeing from the place of occurrence immediately after the incident.

51. So far as the evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 is concerned, they are chance witnesses, as the incident occurred at 4:00 a.m. on 23.10.1982 at the tubewell of the deceased, which was situated outside the village. At such an odd hour, P.W.1, Ram Dhani and P.W.2, Ram Sakal would not have been normally present there. With regard to the evidence of chance witnesses, it is settled law that their testimony cannot be outrightly rejected, but it must be scrutinized carefully.

52. According to the prosecution, the first informant and his co-villagers, Ram Garib, Ram Shakal and Rajbali were going towards the tubewell to irrigate their respective fields. The prosecution has not examined Rajbali in court. P.W.2, Ram Sakal has stated that he went to the tubewell of Shyam Lal to take water, but the tubewell was closed, so he was returning back and on the way, met the other eye-witnesses. The above testimony is not reliable because the witness has admitted that in the evening he did not have any talk with Shyam Lal regarding taking water from his tubewell, though Shyam Lal was present at his home till 9:00 p.m. When he had no such talk with Shyam Lal, it was not expected of the witness to reach the tubewell in anticipation that it would be open.

Further, the site-plan shows that Shyam Lal's tubewell is near the abadi, so if P.W.2 Ram Sakal had gone to Shyam Lal□s tubewell, then on his way back home, he had no occasion to go towards the place of occurrence and meet the first informant and other witnesses on the way. Therefore, it appears that P.W.2 Ram Sakal is not a reliable witness and his presence near the place of occurrence is highly doubtful.

53. P.W.1, Ram Dhani has said that Rajbali awakened him at 4:00 a.m. and asked him to accompany to the tubewell for irrigation. Thereafter, he proceeded towards the tubewell and, on the way, met Ram Garib and Ram Sakal. However, the prosecution has not examined Rajbali. It has come in the statement of P.W.3, Bhagirathi, that it had rained during the night, therefore, there was no occasion for the first informant and Ram Dhani to go to the tubewell to irrigate their fields. Further, P.W.1, Ram Dhani and P.W.2, Ram Sakal have stated that from a distance of about 15-20 steps, they saw the accused alongwith two unknown persons running from the deceased's tubewell, from where they heard cries. They chased them upto some distance but could not capture them.

54. It has come in evidence that the accused were unarmed, so the witnesses had no threat to their lives or to their persons. Therefore, absence of any sincere effort to catch the assailants on their part is not natural conduct. Further, they stated that they saw the accused running and flashed their torches at the accused persons, but it would have been difficult for them to recognize the persons while chasing them from behind. In view of the above, the testimony of P.W.1 and P.W.2 is highly unreliable, and their presence near the place of occurrence is highly doubtful. It appears that they reached at the spot after the incident was over.

55. Now, the testimony of P.W.3, Bhagirathi, remains. As per the prosecution, she was sleeping on the same cot with her husband, the deceased Ram Charan, in the Kothari of the tubewell when the appellants and two unknown persons came there and committed the crime. P.W.3 is an old village woman. She has supported the prosecution case, and there are no material inconsistencies in her testimony.

56. Learned Counsel for the appellants has submitted that the testimony of the prosecution witnesses is doubtful, therefore, no reliance can be placed upon it. In this regard, he has relied upon a decision of the Division Bench of this Court in Sanjay vs. State of U.P., 2022 (5) ADJ 458. He has further submitted that P.W.-3, Bhagirathi, has introduced a new version regarding the manner of the murder of the deceased, which is contrary to the post-mortem report, as such, her testimony is not reliable and trustworthy. In this regard, he has also placed reliance upon the decisions of the Division Bench of this Court in Ravindra Pandey vs. State of U.P., 2019 (1) ADJ 466; Saya Prakash vs. State of U.P., 2022 (3) ADJ 76; and Deny Bora vs. State of U.P., 2014 (87) ACC 681.

57. It is also argued on behalf of the appellants that it is not normal in North India for a woman to accompany her husband to the tubewell at night. Therefore, her presence at the spot has been fabricated to strengthen the prosecution case.

58. We do not agree with this submission. It has come in evidence that P.W.3 Bhagirathi had one daughter who was married to the first informant, Ram Dhani. Ram Dhani and her daughter used to live in their house in the village, while Bhagirathi accompanied her husband to guard the tubewell and used to stay there at night with him. Both of them were elderly persons, and if Bhagirathi accompanied her husband, it is not unnatural. She was the most suitable companion of the deceased, especially when her presence was not required in the house where her daughter and son-in-law resided.

59. It is further submitted on behalf of the appellants that it was the rainy season and, especially in hot and humid weather, it was not normal for the deceased and Bhagirathi to sleep in the Kothari of the tubewell. We do not agree with this submission either. It has come in evidence that the tubewell was near the fields, and due to the humid weather, the doors were kept open. There was also an apprehension of insects and mosquitoes outside, giving reason for them to sleep inside the Kothari.

60. It is also argued that Bhagirathi's presence at the place of occurrence is doubtful because, if the assailants were known or related to the deceased, they would have covered their faces, and also not causing any harm to Bhagirathi is unnatural. We do not agree with this submission. It has come in evidence that one of the assailants caught hold of Bhagirathi while the others committed the crime. It depends upon the mind of the criminals how they act and there is no rule that the assailants must kill all the persons present at the place of occurrence. If their purpose was achieved by taking the thumb impression of the deceased on blank papers and also by killing him, then merely because they spared Bhagirathi, no reasonable doubt can be raised about the prosecution case.

61. P.W.3, Bhagirathi, has stated that she was caught hold of by one of the assailants and was forced to sit by the northern wall of the Kothari, with her face towards the south. The Investigating Officer has depicted this position in the site plan (Ext. Ka-10), which shows that her face was towards the cot where the deceased was sleeping, so she had a clear view of what was happening there.

62. It has come in her evidence that bulb was on, inside and outside the Kothari and that there was electricity in the village that night. It is argued on behalf of the appellants that the Investigating Officer did not collect any evidence to know that electricity was available during the night, nor did he collected the bulb which was said to have been lit at the time of the occurrence; therefore, the source of light is doubtful, and the witness had no opportunity to identify the actual assailants. We do not agree with this submission because the witness has stated that there was electricity during the night, and Bhagirathi, in particular, has stated that the bulb was lit inside and outside the Kothari when the offence was committed. The failure to collect the bulb is merely a lapse on the part of the Investigating Officer. It is settled law that a defective investigation does not vitiate the prosecution case when it stands fully proved by reliable ocular and medical evidence. In the present case, P.W.3, Bhagirathi, has supported the prosecution case and has proved that the appellants, alongwith two unknown persons, committed the crime.

63. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that the Investigating Officer used two case diaries, which is impermissible under law and that no date is mentioned below the initials of the Circle Officer, in the FIR. It is also contended that the original copies of the case diary, except the inquest report, post-mortem report, charge-sheet and site plan, are not available. Ext. Ka-7 is not part of the paper book or the trial court record. Similarly, Ext. Ka-5 (photo nash) is also not part of the paper book or the trial court record, which raises suspicion over the prosecution case.

64. We do not agree with this submission. The above documents, exhibited as Ext. Ka-5 and Ka-7, were put to the witness and duly proved by the prosecution. The purpose of maintaining case diary is only for the purpose to refresh the memory of the Investigating Officer, when he is called by the Court as a witness. There is no evidence that during trial the case diary was not available before the trial court and there is also no evidence that any prejudice has been caused to the appellant due to it. Therefore, the absence of the original case diary has no adverse effect on the prosecution's case.

65. It has been argued on behalf of the appellants that the presence of appellant Madho at the place of occurrence is doubtful, as evidence suggests that he was suffering from cataract in both his eyes and while lodged in jail, his eyes were operated upon by D.W.1, Dr. Vinod Tripathi. The said witness has stated that Madho had no vision in his left eye and very poor vision in his right eye. Therefore, Madho's involvement in the crime was not possible. We do not find merit in this submission. D.W.1, Dr. Vinod Tripathi, performed the cataract surgery on appellant Madho and discharged him on 03.03.1983. Thus, the operation was conducted in February 1983, whereas the incident took place on 23.08.1982. This indicates that the surgery in Madho's eyes was performed approximately six months after the incident. D.W.1 has stated that it will take three months to develop this kind of cataract. Cataract develops slowly. Therefore, it can not be said with certainty that at the time of incident Madho's vision in his eyes was nil or negligible. The doctor has also said that such kind of patient can catch and identify a known person in electricity and flash of torch and it is hard to tell how much vision would be in case of cataract and upto which distance a patient can see.

66. Further, it is relevant to mention that the appellant underwent cataract surgery after his arrest in connection with the crime. It has come on record that, at the time of his eye test, the patient's vision was noted on the basis of what he claimed he could see with both eyes. Therefore, it is possible that the appellant, Madho, may have misstated his visual capacity while reading the letters to create doubt over the prosecution case. Consequently, the submissions made on behalf of the appellants have no force.

67. It is also submitted on behalf of the appellants that the statement of P.W.3 is contrary to the prosecution case. According to the prosecution, the deceased was killed by pressing a pillow over his mouth and thrusting cotton in his nostrils, whereas Bhagirathi has stated that an gamchha was wrapped around his neck and pulled, as a result of which the deceased died of strangulation. Therefore, the statement of Bhagirathi is not reliable.

68. We do not agree with this submission because the FIR was lodged by Ram Dhani, who is not an eyewitness to the incident. In fact, it was Bhagirathi who was present in the Kothari, where the deceased was murdered. Thus, she was in a better position to observe what was happening at the time of the incident. It is also to be noted that P.W.3, Bhagirathi, has stated that the accused had thrust cotton into her husband□s nostrils and wrapped an angaucha around his neck and pulled it, as a result of which her husband died. Therefore, the appellants not only strangulated the deceased but also pressed a pillow over his mouth and thrust cotton into his nostrils to stop him from breathing. Therefore, in the present case, smothering and strangulation took place simultaneously.

69. In this connection, another argument advanced by the appellants is that the ocular evidence is not supported by the medical evidence; therefore, the prosecution case is doubtful. It is argued on behalf of the learned Counsel for the appellants that there is no explanation for the five other injuries sustained by the deceased. In support of this contention, learned Counsel for the appellants has relied upon a decision of the Supreme Court in AIR 1990 SC 2154, State of Haryana vs. Lakhveer Singh and another, wherein there were material contradictions between the ocular and medical evidence. He has also relied upon the decisions of the Division Bench of this Court in 2018 (7) ADJ 658, Raghunath Singh and others vs. State of U.P.; 2022 (2) ADJ 220, Munna Singh vs. State of U.P.; and 2015 (2) ADJ 72, Radhe Sharan vs. State of U.P. on the same point.

70. In this regard, the oral evidence has already been discussed. So far as the medical evidence is concerned, as per the post-mortem report, the deceased sustained five injuries on his body. Out of them, two injuries were in the nature of contusions over the left eye and left temple. There were two abrasions over the left hip and the base of the left thumb. The fifth injury was a contusion over the front and back of the neck, including its middle part. There was also a contusion over the upper part of the chest extending to the back of the neck. The subcutaneous tissues underneath the muscles of the neck were congested. The nature of the above injuries supports the prosecution case, as it has come in evidence that when he was overpowered by assailants, while lying on the cot, the deceased tried to save himself. At the time of the incident, he was pulled upside down, a pillow was pressed on his mouth and cotton was thrust into his nostrils. In a struggle to attempt to save himself, the deceased might have struggled, as a result he could have sustained the above injuries. Besides, the injuries around the neck support the prosecution case that an angaucha was wrapped and tightened around his neck.

71. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was asphyxia as a result of strangulation. It is argued on behalf of the appellants that, in cases of strangulation, a ligature mark would appear around the neck, which is absent in the present case. The doctor has also stated that if an gamchha is wrapped around the neck, a ligature mark would usually occur. Therefore, the medical evidence does not support the ocular evidence.

72. We do not agree with this submission because the deceased was an old person, and multiple injuries on his body show that he struggled desperately. Smothering occurs when the face, or at least the nose or mouth, is covered to block the airway and prevent breathing. In the present case, an attempt was made to smother the deceased by pressing a pillow over his mouth and stuffing cotton in his nostrils, and an attempt to strangulate him by wrapping an gamchha around his neck was also made. In both smothering and strangulation, the result is asphyxia, which is loss of breath, and in both cases, death occurs due to cessation of breathing.

73. In view of the above, the peculiar facts of the case show that the object of the accused was to kill the deceased after obtaining his thumb impressions on some papers. The opinion expressed by the doctor is only an opinion and is not binding. Therefore, under the peculiar facts of the present case, the cause of death was asphyxia resulting from combination of smothering as well as strangulation.

74. The Investigating Officer collected cotton from both nostrils of the deceased and also recovered a pillow bearing some liquid stains, which may have come from the nose and mouth when they were pressed with the pillow. In view of the above, the ocular testimony is supported by the medical evidence. Even if the prosecution case is accepted, the intention and motive to commit murder cannot be established, as the alleged motive was only to obtain the thumb impression of the deceased on blank papers. The injuries were not such as could have caused death in the ordinary course of nature, therefore, at the most, an offence under Section 304 (II) IPC is made out and not under Section 302 IPC.

75. Learned Counsel for the appellants has submitted that appellant Sati Ram is not a previous convict and has no criminal history, therefore, he may be given the benefit of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958. In this regard, learned Counsel for the appellants has relied upon a decision of the Supreme Court reported in (2010) SCC 486; Mohd. @ Billa vs. State of Rajasthan.

76. We do not agree with the submissions, as it is a clear-cut case of murder. The appellants, along with two unknown persons, reached at the spot at an odd hour of the night, pounced upon the deceased and after obtaining his thumb impressions on some papers, pressed a pillow over his mouth, thrust cotton in his nostrils, and strangulated him with an angaucha, causing injuries that resulted in his death at the spot. Therefore, the offence clearly falls within the category of murder, which is punishable under Section 302 IPC.

77. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. It has been proved that the appellants alongwith two unknown persons, entered the Kothari, overpowered the deceased and Bhagirathi and thereafter took his thumb impression on blank papers. They pressed a pillow over his mouth and stuffed cotton in his nostrils and also wrapped an angaucha around his neck and pulled it, causing injuries which resulted in his death on the spot. Therefore, appellant Sati Ram is guilty of the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. Further, since the blank papers upon which the thumb impression was taken could have been converted into valuable security, so he is also guilty of the offence punishable under Section 386/34 I.P.C. Hence, the Trial Court has correctly appreciated the evidence on record and reached at the right conclusion regarding the guilt of the appellant, Sati Ram.

78. Thus, the present appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. The conviction and sentence of the appellant, Sati Ram, as recorded in the impugned judgment and order dated 30.03.1984, are hereby affirmed. The appellant, Sati Ram, is on bail. His personal bond and bail bonds are cancelled and the sureties discharged. He is directed to surrender before the Trial Court within three weeks from today to undergo the remaining part of his sentence, failing which the Trial Court shall adopt coercive measures to secure his presence.

79. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the Trial Court concerned along with the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 1466 of 2001

Gram Lodhi @ Salig Ram ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the prosecution proved the charge under Ss. 452 and 302 IPC beyond reasonable doubt, particularly in view of the plea that the FIR was ante-timed, the prosecution failed to establish the motive, the testimony of the alleged eye-witnesses was unreliable, there were material contradictions between the ocular and medical evidence, the source of light and identification of the assailant were not satisfactorily proved, and whether the conviction recorded by the Trial Court was sustainable. (Paras 32-50).

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Appreciation of Evidence - Sustainability of Conviction - Indian Penal Code - Ss. 302, 452 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Ss. 157(1), 162, 174, 313, 374(2) - Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 - S. 481 - FIR found to be ante-timed on account of suspicious circumstances including the description of the informant as wife of late deceased, inconsistency regarding the preparation of the written report, unexplained overwriting in the inquest, discrepancy in the General Diary entries, and failure to establish prompt forwarding of the special report to the Magistrate - Ante-timed FIR rendered the prosecution case doubtful and entitled the accused to the benefit of doubt. (Paras 33-40).

Criminal Law - Murder - Place of Occurrence - Indian Penal Code - S. 302 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 174 - Recovery of blood-stained earth, plain earth and bullet from the courtyard, preparation of site-plan, and ocular evidence established the place of occurrence - However, establishment of the place of occurrence by itself was insufficient to sustain the conviction in the absence of reliable evidence identifying the assailant. (Paras 41, 50).

Criminal Law - Murder - Motive - Indian Penal Code - S. 302 - Alleged land dispute relied upon as motive was neither satisfactorily proved nor of such a nature as would necessarily impel the commission of the offence - Failure to establish the alleged motive further weakened the prosecution case. (Paras 42, 50).

Criminal Law - Appreciation of Evidence - Chance Witness - Indian Penal Code - S. 302 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 162 - Evidence of the alleged chance witness required careful scrutiny - Presence of the witness at the place of occurrence at midnight was highly doubtful, the alleged source of light was not proved, and material improvements in his testimony rendered it unreliable. (Para 44).

Criminal Law - Appreciation of Evidence - Non-examination of Independent Witness - Indian Penal Code - S. 302 - Failure to examine the independent witness who was allegedly present at the time of occurrence, coupled with contradictions regarding his presence, assumed significance when the examined eyewitnesses were found unreliable - Unexplained omission raised doubt about the prosecution case. (Paras 45, 47).

Criminal Law - Appreciation of Evidence - Identification of Assailant - Indian Penal Code - S. 302 - Where the occurrence took place at midnight and the prosecution failed to establish a reliable source of light, and the ocular version regarding the manner of assault was inconsistent with the medical evidence, identification of the assailant became doubtful - Testimony of the alleged eyewitness was held unreliable. (Paras 46-47).

Criminal Law - Ocular and Medical Evidence - Indian Penal Code - S. 302 - Material contradictions between the ocular version and the post-mortem findings regarding the seat and number of firearm injuries remained unexplained - Such inconsistencies materially affected the credibility of the prosecution version and created reasonable doubt. (Paras 49-50).

Criminal Law - Benefit of Doubt - Appeal Against Conviction - Indian Penal Code - Ss. 302, 452 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 374(2) - Cumulative effect of ante-timed FIR, failure to prove motive, unreliable ocular evidence, doubtful identification, non-examination of independent witness and contradictions between ocular and medical evidence established that the prosecution failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt - Conviction and sentence set aside and the appellant acquitted. (Paras 50-55).

Held: The prosecution failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt - The FIR was not lodged at the time mentioned therein and was ante-timed which rendered it doubtful and gave rise to the possibility of false implication and improvement in the prosecution case - Though the place of occurrence stood established, the alleged motive was neither proved nor of such a nature as would prompt the commission of the offence - The testimony of the alleged eye-witnesses was not reliable and trustworthy as the presence of one witness near the place of occurrence was highly doubtful and there was no reliable evidence that the other witness was in a position to identify the appellant at the time of the incident - The prosecution failed to establish a sufficient source of light and the non-examination of the independent witness without any sufficient reason raised further doubts over the prosecution case - There were major contradictions between the ocular and medical evidence which remained unexplained - The Trial Court failed to appreciate the evidence on record correctly and erred in holding the appellant guilty - The conviction was based on incorrect appreciation of facts and evidence and the conclusion of guilt was based on conjectures - The impugned judgment and order were liable to be set aside and the appellant was entitled to acquittal - appeal allowed. (Paras 40-50, 51-55). (E-7)

1. The instant Criminal Appeal, under Section 374 (2) Cr.P.C., has been preferred by appellant/convict Gram Lodhi alias Salig Ram son of resident of Village- Mothi Katra, Police Station- Garautha, District- Jhansi, against the judgment and order dated 16.03.2001 passed by IInd Additional Sessions Judge, Hamirpur in Session Trial No. 159 of 1998, arising out of Case Crime No. 251 of 1998 (State Vs. Gram Lodhi alias Salig Ram), under Sections 452, 307 and 302 IPC, Police Station- Rath, District- Hamirpur.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, appellant Gram Lodhi alias Salig Ram has been convicted and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life for the offence punishable under Section 302 Indian Penal Code (in short 'IPC'). He has also been convicted and sentenced to undergo 5 years' rigorous imprisonment for the offence punishable under Section 452 IPC, and it was directed that both the sentences shall run concurrently.

3. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that informant Smt. Vidya Devi wife of late Chetram, daughter of Nathhu resident of village Kasba Khera, Police Station- Rath, District- Hamirpur, submitted a written application (tehrir) (Ext. Ka-6) dated 15.06.1998 before the Incharge Police Station- Rath, District- Hamirpur, stating therein that she lives in her father's house in Village- Kasba Khera since last 30 years, because she has no brother. Yesterday i.e. 14.06.1998, while all the family members were sleeping in courtyard after taking dinner, she awoke when accused Gram jumped in her house from the house ruins at 12 O' Clock midnight. The accused shot at her husband Chetram by pistol with the intention to kill. Upon scream, the accused ran away. Her dewar Bahadur, who came to invite them, was sleeping outside the house, saw and challenged him. Some neighbors also reached there but Gram could not be caught. About 11 months ago there arose a dispute between the accused and her husband over his husband's bua's land situated in Village- Kheri Kadaura, Police Station- Garautha, District- Jhansi and accused Gram shot at her husband due to the above dispute. The bullet had hit at her husband's chest. She, her father and some villagers admitted her husband in District Hospital, Rath for treatment and she has come to lodge the report. Upon this information FIR under case crime No. 251 of 1998, Section 452, 307 IPC was registered at Police Station- Rath at 02.00 a.m. and the investigation commenced.

4. Injured Chetram succumbed to the injuries in hospital and the case was converted to Section 302 IPC. The Investigating Officer reached at the place of occurrence and collected plain earth and blood-stained earth and a bullet and prepared its fard baramadgi (Ext. Ka-3). He also inspected a lantern and handed it over in possession and prepared its supurdaginama (Ext. Ka-2). The inquest of the deceased was prepared alongwith related papers. The body of the deceased was sent for post-mortem. In post-mortem six ante-mortem injuries were found and in the opinion of the doctor the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage due to ante-mortem injuries. The Investigating Officer recorded statements of informant and other witnesses and after completion of investigation filed charge-sheet under Section 452, 307 and 302 IPC before Chief Judicial Magistrate Hamirpur.

5. The concerned court took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. He appeared before the court. He was furnished copies of relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. and thereafter, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial.

6. The accused appeared before the Court of Sessions where charge under Sections 452, 302 IPC was framed against him to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. Prosecution has examined seven witnesses to prove its case, to wit, P.W. 1 Vidya Devi (informant), P.W. 2 Arjun Singh, P.W. 3 Ballu, P.W. 4 Dayawati, P.W. 5 Dr. D.C. Tiwari, P.W. 6 Amar Singh and P.W. 7 Dharampal Singh.

8. P.W. 1 Vidya Devi (informant) has said that she knows the accused since before the incident. Her father had no son, so after her marriage she kept living in her maika alongwith her husband. About one year and a month ago at about 12 midnight she and her husband were sleeping in the courtyard of her house and her dewar Bahadur was sleeping on a cot in another room keeping door open. Some person jumped inside the courtyard as a result she and her dewar awoke. Accused Gram fired at her husband with tamancha, upon her cry he fled from the spot. She identified accused in the light of a lantern lit near Lord Shankar's worship place in her courtyard. Soon thereafter, she, her dewar and other villagers brought her husband, in tempo, to Rath District Hospital and got him admitted. Thereafter, she went to Police Station- Rath where she got her application (tehrir) (Ex.Ka-1) written by her sister Dayawati and lodged the FIR. She has further said that about a year since before the incident, there arose a dispute and maarpeet between the accused and her husband regarding his bua□s land. Due to the above enmity the accused killed her husband.

9. In cross-examination P.W.1 Vidya Devi has said that she does not remember that her husband was convicted in the case under Section 25 Arms Act. She admitted that her husband Chetram was lodged in Hamirpur Jail after her marriage, but she does not remember for how many years he was kept in jail. He does not know Jairaj dacoit and has no knowledge that her husband was a member of his gang. She does not know that Jairaj was killed in Police encounter. It is correct that her husband appeared before the Court but she does not know that Police wanted to kill him. She was living with her husband since last 30-31 years. She went to Rath Hospital by the Taj Mohd's tempo along with ex-Pradhan Munnawar, Ramesh Pundit and her sister Dayawati. Ext. Ka-1 was written by her sister and she had taken paper and pen from her house. It took half an hour to reach Rath. The doctor soon thereafter, attended her husband in the hospital and she went to the police station, which is at a little distance from hospital. The Constable went to the hospital and when she returned to the hospital her husband had died. As her husband was seriously injured so she had taken him firstly to District Hospital, Rath. At about 7-8 p.m. they had taken meal. Blood had splattered on the ground at the place where her husband was murdered. He was shot while in lying condition. The Inspector had taken blood from the spot in his possession. Within 2-3 minutes after the accused fled from her house, the villagers came there. Prior to this incident the accused had visited her house along with her husband on many occasions.

10. P.W. 2 Arjun Singh, has said that he knows the accused since before the incident. The deceased was murdered inside his house in the night. He had gone to attend Akhand Ramayana in nearby Village Padra and was returning to his village at about 12 midnight. As soon as he reached Chetram's house he heard sound of fire from inside the house. He was carrying torch and saw in its light, the accused Gram jumping from behind the house carrying a tamancha. He hid himself behind the beetle shop. Soon thereafter, he heard weeping and crying from Chetram's house so he went there and saw Chetram lying in the courtyard drenched with blood. Vidya and Chetram were present there. Soon, thereafter, he left for his house.

11. In his cross-examination P.W. 2 Arjun Singh, has said that after about four days the Inspector called him and inquired from him about the incident and got his signature over a paper. He had told the Inspector that he had gone to village Padra to participate in Akhand Ramayan in Chowkidar Julmi's house. He does not know the reason why it is not mentioned in his statement. He went to Village Padra alone and did not tell about this act to anybody else except the Inspector. Earlier he has stood as a witness in Hari Kishun Dimar's murder. He saw accused jumping over the wall of Chetram's house, soon thereafter he flashed torch over the accused. Chetram's family members were saying that Gram had shot at the deceased and he himself said to the villagers that he saw Gram running from behind the house.

12. P.W. 3 Bablu, has said that the next day after the incident, the Inspector came to Chetram's house and while inspecting the place of occurrence had taken in his possession a lantern which was lit at the time of the incident and prepared its superdaginama (Ext. Ka2). The Inspector also collected sample of plain earth and blood-stained earth and a bullet in his possession and sealed it and prepared its fardbaramadgi (Ext. Ka3). He has also said that he has brought the said lantern today in court which was lit under the neem tree in the courtyard. When the Inspector took the lantern in his possession, it was burning and there was kerosene oil in it. He is brother-in-law of Chetram and Viday Devi is his sister. After getting the news of the death of Chetram, he reached in the morning.

13. In his cross-examination he has said that Vidya Devi is his real sister and then said that she is his neighbour and not her real sister.

14. P.W. 4 Smt. Dayawati is the younger sister of the informant. Smt. Dayawati has said that about one year and three months ago her (bahnoi) Chetram was murdered, who along with her sister was living in her parents house in village Kasba Khera. She came to know of her bahnoi's murder the same night. Thereupon she went to her sister's house. Her bahnoi was taken to Rath Hospital the same night. She also accompanied them in Hospital with her sister Vidya Devi where her sister dictated the application (tehrir) Ext. Ka-1 and had put thumb impression over it. She has proved tehrir as Ext. Ka-1.

15. In her cross-examination, P.W. 4 has said that on the fateful night her parents also came to know that Chetram was shot and her father along with some villagers went to Rath Hospital, where her bahnoi was brought. The Police was not there and an Inspector came there in the morning at about 8.00 a.m. The distance between Rath Hospital and police station Rath is about one furlong.

16. P.W. 5 Doctor D.C. Tiwari, has stated that on 15.06.1998 he was posted as Medical Officer in Rath Hospital. Constable Vinod Prajapati and Constable Ballu Lal Yadav brought dead body of deceased Chetram before him for post-mortem. He conducted the post-mortem at 05.00 p.m. He has stated that the body was average build and was aged about 40 years. Rigor mortis was present over the body. He found following ante-mortem injuries:-

i. Firearm wound of entry 1.5cm x 1.5cm through and through to the left of chest 2.5 c.m. below the shoulder. The margins of the wound were inverted. Blackening and tattooing was present in an area of 3 c.m.

ii. Firearm wound of exit 2cm x 3 cm x gutter shaped, muscle deep on the left arm, 2 c.m. above from the left wrist joint.

iii. Lacerated firearm wound of exit 2 c.m. x 2 c.m x on left side of chest 5.5 c.m. lateral from medial, 9 c.m. from collarbone margins of wound were everted.

iv. Abrasion 2.5 c.m. x 2 c.m. on the top of the right shoulder.

v. Abrasion 2.5 c.m. x 1 c.m. on the right buttock.

vi. Abrasion 1.5 c.m. x 1 c.m. on the back of right elbow.

17. In internal examination, sixth rib under injury no. 1 was fractured and left lung was lacerated and full of blood. There was semi digested food in the stomach, small intestine was empty and large intestine was filled with gases and fecal matter. In his opinion the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries and the death would have been caused about half a day ago. He has opined that the death could have occurred on 15.06.1998 at 02.00 a.m. He has further stated that there may be a margin of six hours on either side regarding the time of death. P.W. 5 Doctor D.C. Tiwari, has proved post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-4, and has stated that injury no. 1, 2 and 3 could have caused by fire from tamancha.

18. In his cross-examination P.W. 5 Dr. D.C. Tiwari, has said that injury no. 1 and 2 could have been caused by different fires. The entry wound and exit wound of both these injuries are different. Injury no.1 could have been caused from a distance of about three feet. There was no blackening or tattooing found on injury no. 2. The deceased could have taken food about 2-3 hours before his death.

19. P.W. 6 Inspector Amar Singh, is the second I.O. and has conducted part investigation of this case. He has stated that earlier the case was investigated by S.I. Dharampal Singh. The case was registered under Section 307 I.P.C. and after the death of the deceased it was converted into offence under Section 302 I.P.C and thereafter, he took over the investigation. He recorded statements of witnesses and submitted charge-sheet, which he proved as Ext. Ka-5.

20. In his cross-examination P.W.6 has said that the name of witness Arjun Singh is not mentioned in FIR. He recorded statement of witnesses Bahadur on 18.06.1998. He did not took into possession the torch, from which Arjun Singh saw the incident.

21. P.W. 7 S.I. Dharampal Singh, is the first Investigating Officer of this case. He has stated about the investigation he carried out and said that the scribe of chik FIR remained posted with him and he is well versed with his handwriting and signature. As a secondary witness, he has proved the chik FIR as Ext. Ka-6 and G.D. No. 5 dated 15.06.1998 as Ext. Ka-7. He has stated that he reached at the place of occurrence and inspected it at the instance of informant Smt. Vidya Devi and prepared its site-plan which he proved as Ext. Ka-8. He collected sample of plain earth and blood-stained earth and the bullet from the place of occurrence and prepared its fard baramadgi, which he proved as Ext. Ka-3. He also took into possession the lantern which was lit at the time of incident and thereafter, gave it in the supurdagi to Ballu and prepared its supurdaginama which he proved as Ext. Ka- 2. Thereafter, he reached Hospital Rath because it came to his knowledge, that injured Chetram has scummed to his injuries in the Hospital. When he reached at the Hospital the inquest was already prepared by Amar Singh Rathore.

22. In his cross-examination he has said that the deceased had died in the night of 14/15.06.1998. The accused had jumped inside the house from the southern wall as was told by the informant. The above wall was about 3-4 feet high and it was damaged. He has shown the place from which the blood was found.

23. In re-examination he has said that he had heard at the gate of the Police Station that the dead body of deceased Chetram was brought to the District Hospital, Rath. Thereafter, he reached at the District Hospital, Rath where Incharge I.O. Amar Singh was present along with inquest and at his direction he prepared the inquest report and other related papers. In his earlier statement he has mistakenly said that the inquest was prepared by S.I. Amar Singh.

24. In his cross-examination he has said that except for underwear there was no other cloth present over the dead body. He has mentioned the injuries in the inquest, which he found during examination of the dead body. There is over writing over the time of the FIR in the inquest and he cannot tell the digit over the writing.

25. The prosecution has produced following documentary evidence:-

Written report as Ext. Ka-1; Recovery memo of lantern as Ext. Ka.2, recovery memo of blood-stained and plain earth as Ext. Ka.3; postmortem report as Ext. Ka.4; a charge-sheet Ext. Ka.5; a chik FIR Ext. Ka.6; G.D. No. 5 dated 15.06.1998 Ext. Ka.7; Site plan Ext. Ka.8; Panchayatnama Ext. Ka.9; G.D. No. 33 Ext. Ka.10; photo nash Ext. Ka.11; letter to the CMO Ext. Ka.12 and Letter to the hospital Ext. Ka.13.

26. After closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of appellants was recorded, under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which he has admitted that it is true that witnesses Vidya Devi, Arjun Singh and Dayawati know him since before the incident. Smt. Vidya Devi is the elder sister of Smt. Dayawati. Deceased Chetram belonged to Moti Katra, Police Station- Garautha, District- Jhansi. It is also correct that Smt. Vidya Devi came to her village on many occasions. Rest of the prosecution case was denied and he has said that due to enmity he has been falsely implicated in this case. His nephew Jaipal had beaten Charan Singh, the son of Vidya Devi's sister Raj Kumari in a Kabaddi match. Due to the above enmity Vidya Devi has falsely implicated him in this case. The apellants have not produced any evidence in defence.

27. After hearing the learned Counsel for the parties and perusing the record, the learned Trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the charge against the appellant has been proved. It was observed that the FIR was prompt. The eye-witness are reliable and trustworthy and their evidence is consistent. The ocular evidence is supported by medical evidence. Accordingly, the appellant was convicted and sentenced to the term as indicated above.

28. We have heard rival submissions of learned Counsel for the parties and perused the record.

29. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that the FIR is ante-timed. There is cutting and over writing over the time on first page of the inquest of the deceased and as per prosecution at the time when the informant had lodged the FIR at the Police Station, the deceased was alive and was admitted in the Hospital but the first informant has written her name and address as Smt. Vidya Devi wife of 'Late Chetram', which goes to show that at the time of lodging the FIR, the deceased had already died and thus the FIR was lodged ante-timed giving rise of suspicion over the prosecution case.

30. It is also submitted that the prosecution has not examined any independent witness. All the witnesses of fact are related and thus they are highly interested witness, so their testimony is not reliable. It is also submitted that the deceased had criminal history and there were many heinous cases pending against him. He was a member of Jairam dacoit's gang and had several inimical persons, who would have committed his murder and the appellant has been falsely implicated in this case.

31. Per contra, Ms. Divya Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-I has submitted that the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt. P.W. 1 Vidya Devi is deceased's wife and she is natural witness. Her testimony is consistent and trustworthy. There was motive for the appellant to commit this murder because about 11 months prior to this incident a fight had occurred between the deceased and appellant in respect of a land. The ocular testimony is supported with the medical evidence. There was lantern burning at the time of the incident and the I.O. had inspected it and handed over it in the possession of witness Ballu. So there was a source of light in which the incident was witnessed by the eye-witnesses. The FIR was lodged promptly, after two hours of the incident and there was no delay in lodging the FIR. Some overwriting on the first page of the inquest over the time of the FIR, would not render it suspicious and it does not mean that the FIR was lodged ante-timed. P.W. 2 Arjun Singh is the witness who saw the appellant running from the back side of the house of the deceased soon after the incident and when the witness entered inside the deceased's house he saw the deceased in injured condition. Therefore, prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt and thus this appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

32. In view of the submissions of both the parties and the evidence on record, let us see whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.

33. The first submission on behalf of the appellant is that the FIR is ante-timed. In this regard, the prosecution case is that the alleged incident occurred on 14/15.06.1998 at 12'O clock midnight in the courtyard of first informant Vidya Devi in Village- Kasba Khera, Police Station- Rath, District- Hamirpur. As per chik FIR the distance from the place of occurrence to the police station is 8 km. The FIR was lodged by the first informant i.e. Vidya Devi at 02.00 a.m. Therefore, the FIR was lodged after two hours from the incident. It has come in the statement of P.W. 1 Vidya Devi that after the incident she took her husband to hospital at Rath, because he was seriously injured and after admitting him in hospital she went to Police Station Rath, which was about a furlong away from the hospital. It is the prosecution case that the written application was scribed by P.W. 4 Dayawati, who is the real sister of first informant, Vidya Devi. According to prosecution, the FIR was lodged under Sections 452, 307 IPC at Police Station- Rath.

34. P.W. 4 Dayawati, who is the scribe of the written application (tehrir) Ext. Ka-1, has said that she is married woman and her address is Village- Bhadarra, Police Station- Haryaspur District- Chhattarpur, Madhya Pradesh. She has said that it takes almost two hours by bus to reach from Bhadarra to Kasba Khera. She has said that in the night it came to her knowledge that her bahnoi was murdered, thereupon, she went to the informant's house. The above statement of P.W. 4, as well as other attending circumstances, raises suspicion over the FIR that it was actually lodged promptly or not.

35. First of all, if the above statement of P.W. 4 is believed that it takes 2 hours by bus to reach from her place to village Kasba Kheda, then she could not have reached at the informant's house before 02.00 a.m., (presuming that she was informed soon after the incident at 12 midnight, though it is not made clear at which time, by which source and from whom she came to know of the incident) and according to prosecution the F.I.R. was lodged at 2 a.m. and before that the first informant took her husband to hospital which, according to her (P.W.1) took half an hour, and after admitting her husband in hospital she got the tehrir scribed by her sister (P.W.4). As per prosecution P.W.4 Dayawati remained with the first informant from her house to hospital and then to the police station. Thus, the above duration of time shows that it was not at all possible to lodge the F.I.R. so promptly at 2 a.m. According to P.W. 4 upon hearing news of her bahnoi's murder she went to her sister's (first informant's) house but the prosecution case is that till the time FIR was lodged, the deceased was alive. Thus, the above statement of P.W. 4 regarding receiving news of death of deceased raises suspicion over the prosecution case whether the deceased was alive when FIR was lodged. It means that the death of deceased had occurred much earlier than is shown by the prosecution.

36. Further, it is relevant that in the first information report the first informant Vidya Devi has addressed herself as wife of □late□ Chetram. If at the time of lodging the first information report Chetram was alive then there was no occasion for the first informant to address herself as wife of 'late' Chetram. The prosecution has failed to explain why the first informant had addressed herself so, when as per her own version her husband was alive when the first information report was lodged. It also raises suspicion that the FIR was actually lodged at the time mentioned by the prosecution. It is also to be noted that according to P.W. 1 Vidya Devi, the written application (tehrir) was scribed by her sister outside the police station whereas, as per P.W. 4 Dayawati she had written it in the Hospital at the dictation of the first informant. So the place at which the written application was written is also not established. Beside this, P.W. 1 has said that she had taken with her pen and paper from her house. It is very unnatural that in such a condition, when the husband of the first informant was critically injured and needed immediate medical help and also the first informant had immediately taken him for treatment to the Hospital then she will take pen and paper from house with her.

37. Here, it is relevant to note that the inquest of the deceased was prepared from 08.10 a.m. to 10.30 a.m. at Police Station- Rath, District- Hamirpur. There is over writing over the first page of the inquest at the time of the FIR. The scribe of inquest (P.W. 7) S.I. Dharam Pal Singh was asked to explain about this overwriting but he failed to explain it. It is also relevant that over the second page of the inquest, G.D. No. 10 dated 15.06.1998, time 06.10 a.m., Case Crime No. 251 of 1998, Sections 452 and 307 IPC is entered whereas the present case was lodged at G.D. No. 5, time 02.00 a.m., on 15.06.1998. Regarding the above discrepancy, it is submitted on behalf of the State that G.D. No. 10 is, by which due to the death of deceased Chetram, the case was converted under Section 302 IPC and then the inquest of the deceased was prepared. We do not agree with this submission because, if by G.D. No. 10 the case was converted from Section 307 IPC to Section 302 IPC then Section 302 IPC would have been mentioned in it (and not section 307 IPC), thus this discrepancy also raises doubt over the prosecution case.

38. The prosecution has filed copy of G.D. No. 10 which shows that the doctor at PHC Rath, gave a written information to the Police Station- Rath that at 02.10 a.m. that deceased Chetram was brought dead. It means that deceased Chetram had died before 02.10 a.m. and looking into the statements of P.W. 2 Vidya Devi and P.W. 4 Dayawati, regarding the time they had taken in reaching the hospital and Police Station- Rath, it is highly improbable that they could have reached there if the incident had occurred at 12.00 midnight as alleged by the prosecution. Here, it is also relevant to mention that the prosecution has not filed any evidence to show that special report of the case was sent to the higher authorities at the earliest. The chik FIR Ext. Ka-6 shows that in the column regarding when the FIR is sent from the police station, 'Jaanewali Daak' (return post) is mentioned which means in the chik FIR also the date and time has not mentioned when the FIR was sent from the police station. At the front page of the chik FIR below the signature of CJM the date mentioned is 25.06.(1998), it means that the concerned CJM has put his signature over this chik FIR on 25.06.1998 i.e. about 10 days after the chik FIR was lodged. The prosecution has failed to explain how this happened and under what circumstances, the chik FIR was produced before the CJM after 10 days from lodging the FIR whereas according to Section 157 (1) Cr.P.C. upon registration of FIR the officer-in-charge Police Station was required to forthwith send report to concerned Magistrate. The above lapse renders FIR loose its evidentiary value and entitles the appellant the benefit of doubt.

39. The Supreme Court in Meharaj Singh (L/Nk.) v. State of U.P., (1994) 5 SCC 188, has observed in para 12 as under:

"FIR in a criminal case and particularly in a murder case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of appreciating the evidence led at the trial. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the FIR is to obtain the earliest information regarding the circumstance in which the crime was committed, including the names of the actual culprits and the parts played by them, the weapons, if any, used, as also the names of the eye witnesses, if any. Delay in lodging the FIR often results in embellishment, which is a creature of an after thought. On account of delay, the FIR not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger also creeps in of the introduction of a coloured version or exaggerated story. With a view to determine whether the FIR, was lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, the courts generally look for certain external checks. One of the checks is the receipt of the copy of the FIR, called a special report in a murder case, by the local Magistrate. If this report is received by the Magistrate late it can give rise to an inference that the FIR was not lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, unless, of course the prosecution can offered a satisfactory explanation for the delay in dispatch or receipt of the copy of the FIR by the local Magistrate. Prosecution has led no evidence at all in this behalf. The second external check equally important is the sending of the copy of the FIR along with the dead body and its reference in the inquest report. Even though the inquest report, prepared u/s 174 Cr.P.C. is aimed at serving a statutory function, to lend credence to the prosecution case, the details of the FIR and the gist of statements recorded during inquest proceedings get reflected in the report. The absence of those details is indicative of the fact that the prosecution story was still in embryo and had not been given any shape and that the FIR came to be recorded later on after due deliberations and consultations and was then ante timed to give it the colour of a promptly lodged FIR."

40. Looking into all these factors and from the discussions made above, it is clear that the FIR was not lodged at the time mentioned in it and it was ante-timed. As the FIR is ante-timed, so there is every possibility of false implication and improvement in the prosecution case.

41. So far as the place of occurrence is concerned, it is not disputed by the defence. P.W. 1 has said that her husband was shot while he was sleeping in the courtyard of his house. .P.W. 2 Arjun Singh, has also said that at the sound of fire he saw appellant coming out of the house and when he entered into the informant□s house he saw the deceased lying in the courtyard drenched in blood. The Investigating Officer has prepared site-plan at the pointing out of the informant and he found blood-stained earth at the place of occurrence which he collected and also a bullet from there and prepared its fard baramadagi, thus, the place of occurrence is established in this case.

42. According to prosecution, the appellant had committed murder of the deceased because about one year prior to this incident a dispute arose between the appellant and the deceased regarding the purchase of a property of deceased's Bua's land in Jhansi. P.W. 1 has said that both appellant and deceased wanted to purchase the property and in this regard a dispute arose between them. A panchayat was also held but she could not tell what was the result of this panchayat and the date and time when the alleged panchayat was held. It has come in evidence that the said property was still not sold and was being used by her husband's Bua. Though, in a case based on direct evidence the motive does not play every vital role, but if it is not alleged as a fact which had impelled the appellant to commit the offence then the prosecution is required to prove that fact also as any other fact to prove its case. In the present case, the alleged motive is neither proved nor, if believed to be true, is of such a nature which would prompt the appellant to commit murder of the deceased.

43. The prosecution has produced four witnesses of fact, out of them P.W. 4 Dayawati is not an eye-witness of the incident, she is the sister of the first informant and reached at the place of occurrence after getting news of the incident. P.W. 3 Ballu is also not an eye-witness and before him fard baramadagi regarding collecting the sample of blood-stained earth, plain earth and a bullet was prepared and the lantern, which was allegedly lit at the time of the incident, was inspected by the I.O. and supurdaginama was prepared. Thus, he is also a formal witness.

44. Now the statement of P.W. 1 Vidya Devi and P.W. 2 Arjun remains. So far as P.W. 2 Arjun Singh is concerned he is not named in the FIR as a witness. It is settled law that simply because a person is not named as a witness in the FIR, does not in itself render his testimony unreliable. There is no pre-condition that to rely a witness his name should be there in the FIR. P.W. 2 Arjun Singh is also not an eye-witness of the incident but according to the prosecution, he saw the appellant coming out of the house of the first informant soon after the incident. From the evidence of P.W. 2 Arjun Singh his testimony is not reliable. He is a chance witness and thus his testimony has to be scrutinized carefully to lend any credence thereupon. According to him, he is not a resident of Village- Kasba Khera, where the incident occurred but he resides in another village and had gone to a different village while passing through village Kasba Khera to attend a function of Akhand Ramayana at Mallu Chowkidar's house. According to prosecution after taking meal he was returning at about 12 midnight when he saw the appellant coming out of the house of the first informant. The presence of this witness at such an odd hour alone near the place of occurrence is highly doubtful. According to P.W. 2 Arjun Singh, the wall from which the appellant was seen jumping outside the house, was about 50-60 steps away from the road, from where he flashed torch at him. It has come in evidence that there was no moon light and it was a dark night. In such a scenario, it was not possible for P.W. 2 Arjun Singh to identify the appellant by a flash of torch from a distance of 50-60 steps. The alleged torch was neither shown to the I.O. nor it was produced before the court, thus there is no evidence of alleged source of light in his hand. According to P.W. 2 Arjun Singh he knew the appellant since before the incident because he had seen him at the deceased's house on some occasions. It is relevant to mention that the appellant is resident of District- Jhansi. The alleged incident took place in District- Hamirpur. P.W. 2 Arjun Singh is not the resident of village- Kasba Khera where the deceased lived, so it would be co-incidence that Arjun Singh had seen the appellant on some earlier occasions at deceased Chetram's house. It raises suspicion that P.W. 2 Arjun Singh knew the appellant since before the incident and his presence near the place of occurrence is highly doubtful. According to P.W. 2 Arjun Singh he went to attend the Akhand Ramayana and was returning from there, after taking meal but the said fact was not told to the Investigating Officer. It was first time the witness has said it before the Court, so this seems that it is a significant improvement and in view of Explanation to Section 162 Cr.P.C., the above statement amounts to contradiction which raises suspicion over his testimony.

45. According to the prosecution, deceased's younger brother Bahadur was also present in the house when the alleged incident occurred but the prosecution has not examined him in support of the case. According to the chik FIR Bahadur was sleeping outside the house when the alleged incident occurred but P.W. 1 Vidya Devi has stated on oath that at the time of incident Bahadur was sleeping 4-5 steps away from them in a room inside the house with doors open. Both these facts are contradictory to each other.

46. Now the testimony of P.W. 1 Vidya Devi remains, she has supported the prosecution case that it was the appellant who jumped inside the courtyard from the backside of the house and shot at her husband and thereafter, fled away in the same direction. It has come in evidence that the backyard of the house of the informant had damaged walls and at some places the height of the wall was 4-5 feet, so a normal person can enter the courtyard from this place. P.W. 1 Vidya Devi has said that she identified the appellant in the light of lantern lit near the place of occurrence. As the alleged incident has occurred in night, so the source of light is very important in this case. In FIR the source of light is not mentioned. The first informant in her statement has said that lantern was lit at the time of occurrence. It was about 12 midnight when the alleged incident occurred. Even if it is assumed that there was a lantern lit at the time of incident, generally in villages the flame of lantern is slowed down as dim to save fuel at such odd hour of night while going to sleep, unless otherwise required. In such a dim light it was hard to identify the assailant particularly when P.W. 1 Vidya Devi has stated in her FIR that the assailant shot at Chetram over his chest whereas as per post-mortem report the deceased was shot at back of the chest, therefore, when P.W. 1 Viday Devi could not see the part of body at which her husband was shot by the assailant then how it could be believed that she saw the face of the assailant clearly.

47. In view of the above discussion, the testimony of P.W. 1 Vidya Devi is also not reliable and trustworthy. It is hard to believe that she identified the assailant in the dark, thus, her testimony is not reliable. The prosecution has not produced another independent witness Bahadur, and has not assigned any reason for his non-examination. When the eye -witnesses examined (P.W.1 and P.W.2) are found unreliable then non-examination of independent witness, like Bahadur, without any sufficient reason, raises doubts over the prosecution case. Similar view was expressed by Supreme Court in Hem Raj v. State of Haryana, A.I.R. 2005 S.C. 2110, in which it was held that □An unexplained omission to examine independent eye-witness would create an adverse inference particularly when the eye- witnesses actually produced were not found to be reliable and there were serious doubts about their presence at the spot.'

48. P.W.1 is a relative witness (wife of the deceased) so naturally she in an interested witness also. She knew the appellant since before the incident and has alleged enmity as a motive for the appellant to commit murder of the deceased. Enmity is a double edged weapon and due to enmity an offence may be committed and similarly due to enmity a person can also be falsely implicated in a case. In the instant case, it is hard to believe that without any proper motive, the appellant, who resides in another district would plan to commit murder of the deceased in his house residing in another district and would come alone to shoot the deceased. It has come in evidence that the deceased had spent some time in jail. P.W. 1 Vidya Devi has herself admitted that her husband, the deceased, had remained in jail and had surrendered before the court. She has not denied the suggestion of the defence that her husband was a member of Jairaj□s gang and police was after him so he surrendered and went to jail. Looking into the above it is clear that the deceased had criminal antecedents and due to this it cannot be ruled out that he may be killed by somebody else. In the instant case the incident occurred at night with no proper source of light, so it may be possible it was a blind murder and the first informant did not knew the assailant, so to take advantage of alleged enmity, the appellant was falsely implicated in this case.

49. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that there are major contradictions in ocular and medical evidence. In this regard, perusal of evidence shows that according to P.W.1 Vidya Devi her husband Chetram was shot over his chest, but as per post-mortem report of the deceased the fire arm wound of entry was on the back of the chest. There were three firearm injury wounds as found by the doctor (one entry wound and two exit wounds). The prosecution case is that the deceased was shot only one fire. The doctor P.W. 5, D.C. Tiwari, has said that injury no. 1 and injury no. 2 could be caused by different fires and the entry and exit of wounds of both these wounds are different. The above statement goes to show that the deceased sustained two gunshot wounds, and even if it is assumed that there was only one gunshot wound then the prosecution has failed to explain, how injury no. 2 was caused to the deceased. It has come in evidence that injury no. 1 was firearm wound of entry and injury no. 3 was firearm wound of exit and both these wounds corresponded each other. Then how injury no. 2 was caused to the deceased is not cleared by the prosecution. Beside this, the deceased has also sustained three abrasions over right shoulder, right buttock and elbow of left hand. How these injuries were caused to the deceased is also not well explained. Thus, the injuries found at the time of post-mortem over the body of the deceased totally rules out the prosecution case. In view of the above the testimony of P.W. 1 Vidya Devi is not reliable and trustworthy. There are major contradictions in ocular and medical evidence, which raises suspicion over the prosecution case.

50. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The FIR was lodged ante-timed. The presence of P.W. 2 Arjun Singh near the place of occurrence is highly doubtful. The sufficient source of light is not established and there is no reliable evidence that P.W. 1 Vidya Devi was in a position to identify the appellant at the time of incident. There are major contradictions in ocular and medical evidence. The motive to commit the crime is also not proved, therefore, the learned Trial, Court failed to appreciate the evidence on record correctly, and erred in reaching at the conclusion by holding the appellant guilty and thus, illegally convicted and sentenced the appellant.

51. Therefore, the conviction recorded by the learned trial court is based on incorrect appreciation of facts and evidence, and the conclusion of guilt of appellant is based on conjectures. Thus, the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside, and the appellant deserves to be acquitted of the charge framed against him.

52. In view of the above, the instant criminal appeal is, accordingly, allowed. We set aside the judgment and order dated 16.03.2001 passed by IInd Additional Sessions Judge, Hamirpur in Session Trial No. 159 of 1998, arising out of Case Crime No. 251 of 1998 (State Vs. Gram Lodhi alias Salig Ram), under Sections 452, 307 and 302 IPC, Police Station- Rath, District- Hamirpur and acquit the appellant Gram Lodhi Alias Salig Ram of the charge under Section 452, 302 IPC.

53. Appellant Gram Lodhi Alias Salig Ram is on bail. His bail bonds and personal bonds are cancelled and the sureties discharged. Appellant Gram Lodhi Alias Salig Ram, need not surrender.

54. Appellant Gram Lodhi Alias Salig Ram shall execute a personal bond in the sum of Rs.25,000/- under Section 481 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to Section 437-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973) for his appearance, in the event of an appeal being preferred against his acquittal.

55. Let a copy of this order be sent to the learned Trial Court concerned alongwith the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 1533 of 2017

Jagdish ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to the sustainability of the conviction and sentence of the appellant under S. 302 I.P.C. based on circumstantial evidence and the last seen together theory, the completeness of the chain of circumstances, the effect of the alleged delay in lodging the F.I.R., and the rejection of the plea of alibi. (Paras 22, 29, 33, 34, 40, 49)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Murder - Circumstantial evidence - Last seen together - Plea of alibi - Delay in lodging F.I.R. - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Ss. 157, 374 - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Ss. 8, 106 - Evidence of last seen together by itself being a weak piece of evidence, conviction can be sustained only where the chain of circumstances is complete and excludes every hypothesis except the guilt of the accused - Evidence relating to the last seen furnished by prosecution witnesses found consistent and corroborative of the prosecution case - Medical evidence establishing death due to asphyxia resulting from ante-mortem throttling fully supported the prosecution version - Recovery of matchbox and beedi bundle from the place of occurrence, coupled with other proved circumstances, corroborated the presence of the accused - Evidence regarding demand of Rs.1400/- received under the Janani Suraksha Yojana constituted the prosecution motive and absence of stronger motive was not fatal where the chain of circumstances stood conclusively established - Plea of alibi not proved as the short distance between the place of occurrence and the alleged place of work did not exclude the possibility of the accused reaching the place of occurrence and returning - Delay, if any, in lodging the F.I.R. stood satisfactorily explained and did not affect the prosecution case - Chain of circumstances found complete and pointing only towards the guilt of the accused - Conviction under S. 302 I.P.C. affirmed and appeal dismissed. (Paras 25, 28-40, 43-49, 53-58)

Held: Conviction based on circumstantial evidence is sustainable where the chain of circumstances is complete and excludes every hypothesis except the guilt of the accused - Evidence of last seen together by itself is a weak piece of evidence and requires corroboration by other incriminating circumstances - Evidence relating to the last seen furnished by P.W.1 and P.W.2 remained consistent, trustworthy and corroborated not only each other but also the prosecution case and the medical evidence - The cause of death being asphyxia resulting from ante-mortem throttling fully supported the prosecution version - The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt was drawn stood fully established and were consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and excluded every possible hypothesis consistent with innocence - Recovery of the matchbox and beedi bundle from the place of occurrence, coupled with the short time-gap between the accused and the deceased being last seen together and the discovery of the dead body, constituted an important incriminating circumstance - Evidence regarding demand of Rs.1400/- under the Janani Suraksha Yojana furnished the prosecution motive and, in any event, absence of a stronger motive could not discredit an otherwise complete chain of circumstantial evidence - Delay, if any, in lodging the F.I.R. stood satisfactorily explained and mere non-examination of the child witnesses who first noticed the dead body did not render the prosecution case doubtful - Mere relationship of prosecution witnesses with the deceased was not a ground to discard otherwise reliable and trustworthy evidence - Plea of alibi was not established and, having regard to the short distance between the alleged place of work and the place of occurrence, the accused could have gone to his in-laws' house and returned before commencement of the threshing work - The proved circumstances formed a complete chain pointing only towards the guilt of the accused and established that he alone was the author of the crime - Conviction and sentence under S. 302 I.P.C. warranted no interference. (Paras 25, 28-40, 43-49, 53-58) (E-7)

In default of payment of fine to undergo additional one year's simple imprisonment. It has also been provided that on payment of fine, the same would be disbursed to the children of the deceased.

(2) The prosecution case, in brief, is that complainant, Ramdeen, had submitted written report (Ext. Ka.1) at police station Fursatganj, district Raebareli, on 30.04.2008, alleging therein that he is resident of village Khairhana, police station Fursatganj. His in-laws house is in village Tinera, hamlet of Tendua. He along with his children is living in village Tinera. His daughter Anita Devi was married about three years ago to Jagdish son of Babulal, resident of village Guru Ka Purwa, hamlet of Tendua. His daughter is the mother of a child. After the birth of a girl child, his son-in-law remains angry with his daughter and used to say to his wife to give the government money Rs. 1400/- received on the birth of girl. On 29.04.2008, at about 8:00 in the evening, his son-in-law came to his house and stayed there. His daughter prepared food and served it to him. After some time, he (accused Jagdish) told to his daughter that he needed to go for defecation and asked her to bring water in a mug (lota). His daughter, being simple in nature, brought water. He, then, told her to come along with the mug (lota) of water. Both, his daughter and his son-in-law, went towards the northern fields. Today on 30.04.2008, small children of village came to his house and informed his wife that the dead body of her daughter Anita Devi was lying in the field of Dadan. (7) Learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Raebareli took cognizance on the aforesaid charge-sheet and committed the case to the Court of Sessions, where the case was registered as Session Trial No. 536 of 2008: State Vs. Jagdish. The Sessions Judge, Raebareli, by means of order dated 11.11.2008, framed charge against the accused/appellant Jagdish under Section 302 I.P.C. He denied the charge and claimed for trial.

He further stated that the deceased Anita Devi used to say that he should stay at her parental home because her parents are old. On the day of the incident, he was at his ancestral village and was processing/threshing the wheat of Thakur Man Singh. On the day or night of the incident, he neither went to his matrimonial home nor had any such thought nor he demanded any money from his wife. He has falsely been implicated. He further stated that he and his family members had given all the jewellery to his wife. In order to usurp those ornaments, either his in-laws conspired against him or the deceased was killed by robbers for the jewellery.

(12) In defence, two witnesses have been produced, who are as under :-

D.W.1	Smt.Bhagwan Dei:Mother of the accused Jagdish
D.W.2	Man Singh

(13) After hearing learned Counsel for the parties and considering the evidence and material on record, the learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused Jagdish by means of the impugned judgment and order dated 29.10.2014 in the manner as stated in paragraph-1 here-in-above in this order.

(14) Heard, Shri Rajesh Kumar Dwivedi, learned Amicus Curiae for the convict/appellant and Shri Pawan Kumar Mishra, learned A.G.A. for the State.

(15) Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant submitted that the impugned judgment and order has been passed on the basis of surmises and conjectures, without considering the evidence and material on record and dealing it appropriately. He further submitted that there was an inordinate delay in lodging the F.I.R., which has been lodged with consultation, concoction and embellishments and in violation of Section 157 Cr.P.C. He further submitted that the exact time of incident has not been mentioned and there is no explanation for the delay. He also submitted that the place of occurrence is doubtful, as no blood was found on the spot and there is no eye witness account. He further submitted that no bangles or lota were recovered from the place of alleged incident. Thus, the case is based on circumstantial and last seen evidence. The time gap assumes significance in a case of last seen evidence and the time gap between the last seen and the recovery of dead body is sufficient for intervention by some other person and committing the crime. He further submitted that P.W.1 and P.W.2 are related and interested witnesses, and no independent witness has been produced in support of the prosecution case. It was also contended that although the dead body was recovered on the pointing out of certain children, yet none of the child was examined during course of trial. Even otherwise, the submission is that there are major contradictions in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, which the learned trial court failed to consider. He further submitted that behaviour of the appellant towards his wife was good, which has also been admitted by P.W.1 and, therefore, no motive for committing the alleged crime could be established against the appellant.

(16) He further submitted that P.W.2 has improved the prosecution case during the trial. Learned trial court has also failed to consider the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and the evidence of the defence witnesses. The case hinges upon circumstantial evidence and the chain of circumstances was not complete in the manner so as to refer towards the guilt of the appellant only, on account of which the appellant could have been convicted.

(17) On the basis of above, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the impugned judgment and order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and liable to be set aside.

(18) He relied on Marudanal Augusti v. State of Kerala; 1980 SCC (Cri) 985, Ishwar Singh versus State of U.P.; AIR 1976 SC 2423, Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra; AIR 1984 SC 1622, Padala Veera Reddy versus State of Andhra Pradesh; AIR 1990 SC 79,Shivaji Sahebrao Bobade & Anr vs State Of Maharashtra; 1973(2) SCC 793,Harendra Narain Singh Etc vs State Of Bihar;1991 SCC (CRI) 905, State Of U.P vs Satish;2005 (51) ACC 941 SC,Arjun Marik and Others v. State of Bihar;1994 SCC (Cri) 1551,Mani Ram versus State of U.P.;2004(48) ACC 767, Jaydeb Patra & Ors. versus State of West Bengal;2013(3) JIC 548(SC) and Nishar Ali versus State of U.P.; AIR 1987 SC 366.

(19) Learned AGA vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the appellant. He submitted that the impugned judgment and order has rightly been passed in accordance with law and there is no illegality or error in it. He further submitted that the case is based on circumstantial evidence and 'last seen' theory and the chain of circumstances are complete in the manner that they refer to the guilt of the accused-appellant only. In such cases, delay in lodging the F.I.R. is immaterial. Even otherwise, the same stands sufficiently explained in the facts and circumstances of the case. He also submitted that a related witness cannot, in all cases, be said to be an interested witness. Even otherwise, the relative would not falsely implicate an innocent person, that too, who was his son-in-law and husband of his daughter, after admitting that his behaviour was good, leaving out the actual culprit. He also submitted that the motive regarding the demand of Rs.1400/- received by the deceased on account of the birth of a girl child, stands duly proved on the basis of the evidence as well as the statement of the appellant recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., which has not been denied by him. He also submitted that the injuries mentioned in the post mortem report have corroborated the prosecution case, as the trachea rings were broken, which is common in cases of throttling, and cause of death was asphyxia resulting from anti mortem throttling. He further submitted that the defence witnesses have been produced to prove the plea of alibi, however, the distance between the place in respect of which the alibi has been claimed and the house of in-laws/place of incident is only about one to one and a half kilometers, therefore, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the plea is not tenable either on facts or in the eyes of law and the same has rightly been rejected by the learned trial court.

(20) On the basis of above, learned AGA submitted that the impugned judgement and order convicting the appellant has rightly been passed in accordance with law by means of a reasoned and speaking order and he has accordingly been sentenced. There is no illegality or error in the impugned judgment, which may call for any interference by this Court. The appeal is liable to be dismissed with cost.

(21) We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

(22) The first information report was lodged on 30.04.2008 at 10:30 a.m. on the basis of a written report alleging therein that the appellant, who is the son-in-law of the complainant, had come to his house on 29.04.2008 at about 8:00 p.m. and stayed there. The complainant's daughter prepared the food and served it to him. After some time, the appellant told his daughter that he is in need of going for defecation and asked her to bring water and accompany him. Accordingly, both the daughter and son-in-law went towards the northern fields. On 30.04.2008, some children from the village came to the complainant's house and informed his wife that the dead body of their daughter was lying in the field of Dadan. Upon receiving the information, he and his wife went there and found their daughter lying dead. Consequently, he lodged the F.I.R. alleging therein that his son-in-law, i.e., the appellant had killed his daughter by throttling her with his hands. Several injuries were found on her body and blood had also come out. In pursuance thereof, the investigation was conducted and a charge sheet was submitted against the appellant, upon which cognizance was taken by the learned trial court and the case was committed to the court of session. The learned Sessions Judge, after framing charge and upon denial thereof by the appellant, proceeded with the trial. Accordingly, the prosecution opened it's case.

(23) The prosecution produced Ramdeen, the complainant, as P.W.1. He deposed that the deceased Anita Devi was his daughter, who had been married to the appellant Jagdish, resident of Guru Ka Purwa. hamlet of Tendua, Police Station Furstaganj, District Raebareli. The village of the appellant is situated at a distance of about 1 kilometer from his village. He further deposed that at about one and a half years ago, his son-in-law Jagdish had come to his house at about 8:00 p.m. and had taken food in his house in the night. While sitting at the door, he told that he needs to go for defecation and asked his daughter Anita to bring water in a lota, which she did. Thereafter both of them went towards the northern fields. However, they did not return during the night. Upon making enquiries about them during the night, he came to know that they have gone towards the northern side.

(24) Smt. Prema Devi, wife of the complainant P.W.1 and mother of the deceased, appeared as P.W.2. She stated that she knows the accused, who is her son-in-law and her daughter Anita was married to him. The incident had happened about three years and two months ago. After becoming pregnant, her daughter Anita was living at her house in Tinera. A girl child was born to her daughter about one and a half months prior to the incident. On the date of the incident, the accused had come to her house at about 7-8 p.m. and had taken food there. Thereafter, her husband, son-in-law and she herself were sitting on the door, when her son-in-law Jagdish stated that he need to go for defecation and asked her daughter Anita to bring water in a lota. When she brought the water, Jagdish asked her daughter to accompany him. Accordingly, both of them went towards the northern side and thereafter did not return during the night. They made enquiries about them, but their whereabouts could not be known, therefore, they assumed that they might have gone to his house and would return but did not come back.

(25) In view of above, the evidence relating to the last seen given by P.W.1 and P.W.2 is consistent and corroborative not only to each other but to the prosecution case in F.I.R., and nothing could be extracted in the cross examination, which may create any doubt about the prosecution's last seen evidence. However, in defence, the appellant adduced the evidence of Bhagwan Dei, the mother of the appellant as D.W.1 and Maan Singh as D.W.2 to prove that Jagdish was present at his home in Guru ka Purwa, hamlet of Tendua on the date of the incident i.e. 29/30.4.2008.

(26) D.W.1 stated that her son had not gone to his in-laws house on the date of the incident and that he was present at his house in Guru ka Purwa, hamlet of tendua on the date of incident i.e. 29/30.4.2008. He was engaged in threshing wheat at the place of Thakur Man Singh of her village. The threshing work was being carried out in the threshing field (Khalihaan) of Man Singh, and Thakur Man Singh was also present there. She further deposed that on the next day, a person from the village informed that her daughter-in-law had gone somewhere. According to her, her son was not involved in the murder of his daughter-in-law and had been falsely implicated. In the cross examination, she denied the suggestion that her son Jagdish had gone to his in-laws' house on 29.04.2008 at about 8:00 p.m. and had taken food prepared by Anita. She further deposed that the threshing process was being carried out by an electric motor and machine. Being illiterate, she could not tell as to at what time the electricity had come. However, the electricity had come at about 7-8 p.m. and the threshing work continued throughout the night. She further deposed that the threshing work had started at about 8:00 p.m.and that Man Singh, she herself and her daughter and son-in-law were all engaged in the said work but her daughter and son-in-law have not been examined.

(27) Man Singh appeared as D.W.2. He deposed that he knows the accused Jagdish, who resides in his village. The house of Jagdish was situated at a distance of two and a half bighas from his own house. He further deposed that Jagdish was an agricultural labourer and own no agricultural field. Jagdish was engaged in threshing wheat at his place on 29/30.4.2008. At that time, his sister, brother-in-law and mother Bhagwan Dei and he himself were present there and the threshing of wheat was being carried out with the aid of electric power. Jagdish had done the threshing work throughout the day and night of 29/30.4.2008 and had not gone anywhere else. In the cross examination, he stated that in-laws' house of Jagdish is situated in Tinera, which is about one and a half kilometers from his place. He further stated in cross examination that the threshing work had started after 9:00 p.m., when the electricity had come. He came to know about the incident on the next day when the police had come in the village. The police had not made any enquiry from him and he cannot tell as to when the police had reached the house of Jagdish.

(28) In view of above, it is apparent that the threshing of wheat at the place of Man Singh had started after 9:00 p.m., whereas the accused- appellant had come to the complainant's house at about 8:00 p.m.and after taking food, had gone alongwith his wife towards the northern fields and thereafter did not return. Admittedly, the distance between the village of the complainant and that of the appellant is about one and a half kms. Thus, having regard to the distance and the time gap during which the accused-appellant was last seen by the complainant and P.W.2 and considering that the threshing of wheat started later in the night at the place of Man Singh, the presence of the appellant at his in-laws house i.e. the house of the complainant cannot be doubted.

(29) In view of above, it is a case which hinges upon the evidence of 'last seen together'. The evidence of 'last seen together' is very weak kind of evidence and conviction cannot be made only on the basis of evidence of 'last seen together' without considering the 'circumstantial evidence' and chain of circumstances complete in the manner, in which they refer only and only towards the guilt of the accused and there is no hypothesis of innocence of the accused.

(30) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Chetan v. State of Karnataka; (2025) 9 SCC 31, considered the issue of 'last seen' theory and held that conviction on the basis of 'last seen together' can be made only if the gap between the 'last seen' and the recovery is so short that the inference of anybody else is not possible. However, it cannot be said in every case that evidence of last seen together is to be rejected merely because the time-gap is for a considerable long period. The relevant portion of paragraphs 86 and 87 are extracted herein below:-

"86. .....we would refer to certain decisions of this Court on the point of 'last seen together'. It is a settled rule of criminal jurisprudence that suspicion, however grave, cannot be substituted for proof and the courts shall take utmost precaution in finding an accused guilty only on the basis of circumstantial evidence. This Court has applied the abovementioned general principle with reference to the principle of last seen together in Bodhraj v. State of J&K [Bodhraj v. State of J&K, (2002) 8 SCC 45 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 201] as under: (SCC p. 63, para 31)

'31. The last seen theory comes into play where the time-gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were seen last alive and when the deceased is found dead is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible. It would be difficult in some cases to positively establish that the deceased was last seen with the accused when there is a long gap and possibility of other persons coming in between exists. In the absence of any other positive evidence to conclude that the accused and the deceased were last seen together, it would be hazardous to come to a conclusion of guilt in those cases.'

32. In Ramreddy Rajesh Khanna Reddy [Ramreddy Rajesh Khanna Reddy v. State of A.P., (2006) 10 SCC 172 : (2006) 3 SCC (Cri) 512] this Court further opined that even in the cases where time-gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were last seen alive and when the deceased was found dead is too small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible, the courts should look for some corroboration.'

87. However, it may be noted that this Court also observed in the aforesaid decision of Sanjay Thakran [State of Goa v. Sanjay Thakran, (2007) 3 SCC 755 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 162] that it cannot be said in all cases that the evidence of last seen together is to be rejected merely because the time-gap is for a considerable long period, as stated in para 34 of the aforesaid decision which is reproduced herein as below: (SCC p. 776)

'34. From the principle laid down by this Court, the circumstance of last seen together would normally be taken into consideration for finding the accused guilty of the offence charged with when it is established by the prosecution that the time-gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were found together alive and when the deceased was found dead is so small that possibility of any other person being with the deceased could completely be ruled out. The time-gap between the accused persons seen in the company of the deceased and the detection of the crime would be a material consideration for appreciation of the evidence and placing reliance on it as a circumstance against the accused. But, in all cases, it cannot be said that the evidence of last seen together is to be rejected merely because the time-gap between the accused persons and the deceased last seen together and the crime coming to light is after (sic of) a considerable long duration. There can be no fixed or straitjacket formula for the duration of time-gap in this regard and it would depend upon the evidence led by the prosecution to remove the possibility of any other person meeting the deceased in the intervening period, that is to say, if the prosecution is able to lead such an evidence that likelihood of any person other than the accused, being the author of the crime, becomes impossible, then the evidence of circumstance of last seen together, although there is long duration of time, can be considered as one of the circumstances in the chain of circumstances to prove the guilt against such accused persons. Hence, if the prosecution proves that in the light of the facts and circumstances of the case, there was no possibility of any other person meeting or approaching the deceased at the place of incident or before the commission of the crime, in the intervening period, the proof of last seen together would be relevant evidence. For instance, if it can be demonstrated by showing that the accused persons were in exclusive possession of the place where the incident occurred or where they were last seen together with the deceased, and there was no possibility of any intrusion to that place by any third party, then a relatively wider time-gap would not affect the prosecution case.'

(31) The 'circumstantial evidence' is to be seen on the touchstone of 5 golden principles (Panchsheel) laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra; AIR 1984 SC 1622. The said 5 golden principles are as under:-

"(1) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. The circumstances concerned must or should and not may be established;

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;

(3) The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;

(4) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and

(5) There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the-innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

"131. The present case is clearly one that is founded on circumstantial evidence. By its very nature, circumstantial evidence as opposed to direct evidence, is the inference one draws from the existence of a fact based on certain established fact/circumstance. This process invariably involves intuitive reasoning, proper understanding of human behaviour and psychology. This reasoning has to be rational, probative and which accords with the natural human behaviour. At the same time, there will always be certain subjective elements, which however, cannot be in the nature of surmise or conjecture. The inference may not lead to absolute certainty as we are dealing with human behaviour and reconstructing a past incident in hindsight. Naturally, when evaluating the proven circumstances for drawing certain inferences therefrom, a logical, rational and pragmatic approach must be adopted without being too technical, pedantic, or seeking absolute proof, for this principle of circumstantial evidence is not based on statutory provision.

132. Thus, based on lived human experiences and human behaviour, if any supposition of fact is clearly inferable from an established fact, the inferred position of fact should be adopted as correct. Law does not require that a fact requires to be proved on absolute terms bereft of all doubts. What law contemplates is that for a fact to be considered proven, it must eliminate any reasonable doubt. Reasonable doubt does not mean any trivial, fanciful or imaginary doubt, but doubt based on reason and common sense growing out of the evidence in the case. A fact is considered proved if the court, after reviewing the evidence, either believes it exists or deems its existence probable enough that a prudent person would act on the assumption that it exists.

133. It is also settled that where the evidence is circumstantial in nature, the circumstances from which the inference of guilt is to be drawn, should be fully established. In other words, each of the circumstances from which certain inferences are sought to be drawn, is required to be proved in accordance with law, and there cannot be any element of surmise and conjecture, and each of these circumstances so proved must form a complete chain without any break to clearly point to the guilt of the accused person. The court has to examine the cumulative effect of the existence of these circumstances, which would point to the guilt of the accused, though any single circumstance may not in itself be sufficient to prove the offence. Thus, if the combined effect of all these circumstances, each of which has been independently proved, establishes the guilt of the accused, then the conviction based on such circumstances can be sustained. These circumstances so proved must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and should exclude every hypothesis except the one sought to be proved.

134. Thus, if upon evaluation of a set of proved circumstances consistent with understandable and socially recognised human behaviour, as a cumulative consequence, a clear and definitive pattern emerges which irresistibly points to the culpability of the accused person, we see no reason why we should not accept such an inferred conclusion to be correct to fasten criminal liability on the accused. On the other hand, if such an inference is sought to be assailed on the ground of any doubt, the doubt must be a reasonable one consistent with human behaviour under the circumstances of the case and not fanciful, abstract speculation or imagination."

Similar view has been expressed by Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Padala Veera Reddy versus State of Andhra Pradesh and others; AIR 1990 SC 79 and Harendra Narain Singh and others versus State of Bihar; 1991 SCC (Cri) 905.

(33) In view of above, the normal principle is that the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn must be cogently and firmly established and that those circumstances on the basis of which inference of guilt is drawn, should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused only. The circumstances, on the basis of which inference of guilt is sought to be drawn after considering cumulatively, should form a complete chain showing that in all human probability, the crime was committed by the accused only. However, if the prosecution fails to show and prove the chain of circumstances and exclude every hypothesis other than the guilt of the accused, the conviction on the basis of 'circumstantial evidence' cannot be made and it will not sustain. The conviction can be made on the basis of theory of 'last seen together', where time gap between the pointing of time, when accused and deceased was seen last alive, and, when the deceased is found dead is too short and the probability of other than accused being the author of crime becomes impossible. However, the time gap between both the incident is to be seen on the facts and circumstances of each case and the evidence of last seen together can not be rejected merely because there is long period.

(34) Adverting to the facts of the present case, it is now required to be examined as to whether the chain of circumstances are complete and whether the medical evidence supports the prosecution case or not. The prosecution case is that the deceased was murdered during the intervening night of 29/30.4.2008 by pressing her neck. P.W.4, the medical officer, who has conducted the post mortem examination, has supported the prosecution case and has deposed that the cause of death was asphyxia, resulting from anti mortem throttling. In his cross examination, he stated that the deceased could have died at any time during the intervening night of 29/30.4.2008 and there can be difference of 12 hours on either side. He further deposed that no injury of any sharp edged weapon was found on the body of the deceased, however, seven abrasion marks were present on the left side of the neck, which according to him, have come on account of pressing of the neck. However, hyoid bone of the deceased was not fractured and that approximately 200 ml of semi digested food was found in the stomach of the deceased.

(35) P.W.1 and P.W.2, both have deposed that the accused-appellant had come to their house at about 8:00 p.m. in the night and thereafter he had taken the food prepared by their daughter. Thereafter, on his asking, their daughter went with the accused-appellant towards the fields situated on the northern side, where she was found dead. Thus, the aforesaid evidence of P.W.4 has proved the date and time of the incident, which corroborates the prosecution case. Further, a match box and a bundle of beedis were recovered from the place of incident, where the deceased was found. P.W.1 has deposed in his evidence that his son-in-law/ the appellant used to smoke beedi. Thus, the presence of the accused-appellant at the place of occurrence could not be disputed, particularly when there was no cross examination on this issue. It has also been argued that since no blood, broken bangles or lota was recovered at the place of alleged incident, therefore, the place of occurrence itself becomes doubtful. The inquest report of the deceased indicates that ten sky coloured bangles were found in the hands of the deceased. P.W.4 has not indicated in his evidence that any injury was found in the hands of the deceased and even the post mortem report does not indicate any injury on the hands of the deceased, therefore, the question of any injury on the hands or the recovery of blood and broken bangles from the spot does not arise.

(36) The learned trial court, after considering the evidence and material on record, has recorded a finding that no cross examination of D.W.4 was conducted in regard to any injury on the hands of the deceased. Since ten bangles were found in both hands of the deceased, as recorded in the inquest report, it was natural that no broken bangles were found at the place of occurrence. It has also been recorded in the evidence of P.W.4,that the blood had come from the nose and the mouth, however,he has neither disclosed the quantity of blood nor any cross examination has been made on this point and since, in cases of throttling, small quantity of blood comes from nose and mouth, which remains on the body itself, blood may not have been found on the spot because there was no excessive bleeding. Thus, since there was no open injury to the deceased, the place of incident cannot be doubted on this ground alone, that the blood was not found on the spot. This Court does not find any illegality or error in the findings recorded by the learned trial court in this regard.

(37) It was also submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the behaviour of the appellant towards his wife was good, therefore, there was no motive for the appellant to kill and once the motive could not be proved for committing the alleged crime, the conviction could not have been made on the basis of the evidence adduced by the prosecution, in the case of circumstantial evidence. P.W.1 and P.W.2 both have deposed in their evidence that their daughter Anita had given birth to a female child, on account of which a cheque of Rs.1400/- was given to her by the Government, which was received by her from the hospital. The accused-appellant was demanding the said amount not only from the deceased but also from her parents. The said amount was not received by Anita, therefore, they asked the appellant that since she has not received the said amount, how she can give it to him but he was not satisfied with the explanation and it was alleged that she was murdered on account of non-payment of Rs.1400/-. It has also been deposed by P.W.2 in her evidence that though the bank account was opened, the pass book of which was placed on record, but the amount was not transferred. It was argued that merely for Rs.1400/-, the accused-appellant could not have killed his wife. It is settled in law that the motive remains locked in the mind of the accused and it is very difficult to produce any cogent evidence to prove it. It is true that motive may have an important role in the case of circumstantial evidence but it is trite in law that if the guilt of the accused is proved by circumstantial evidence conclusively, mere doubt or absence of motive cannot be a ground for acquittal. The Hon’ble Supreme Court, in the case of Arjun Malik and others versus State of Bihar; 1994 Supp (2) SCC 372, has held that mere absence of proof of motive for commission of crime cannot be a ground to presume the innocence of an accused if the involvement of the accused is otherwise established.

(38) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Subhash Aggarwal versus State of NCT of Delhi; 2025(8) SCC 440, has held that the motive remains hidden in the inner recesses of the mind of the perpetrator, which cannot, oftener than ever, be ferreted out by the investigation agency. Though in a case of circumstantial evidence, the complete absence of motive would weigh in favour of the accused, it cannot be declared as a general proposition of universal application that, in the absence of motive, the entire inculpatory circumstances should be ignored and the accused acquitted. Therefore when the circumstances are very convincing and provide an unbroken chain leading only to the conclusion of guilt of the accused and not to any other hypothesis; the total absence of a motive will be of no consequence. The relevant paragraphs 29 and 31 are extracted hereinbelow:-

29. The declaration in the cited decisions and the decisions relied on therein, is to the effect that if the case is built solely upon circumstantial evidence, absence of motive will be a factor that weighs in favour of the accused. Just as a strong motive does not by itself result in a conviction, the absence of motive on that sole ground cannot result in an acquittal. When the eyewitnesses are not convincing, a strong motive cannot by itself result in conviction, likewise when the circumstances are very convincing and provide an unbroken chain leading only to the conclusion of guilt of the accused and not to any other hypothesis; the total absence of a motive will be of no consequence.

30. We extract paragraph 17 from a three-judge bench decision,Jan Mohammad v. State of Bihar; which also is of vintage flavour, succinctly putting forth the proposition:

'Motive is a relevant fact under the Evidence Act(Section 8). It is an important element in a chain of presumptive proof where the evidence is purely circumstantial, but it may lose importance in a case where there is direct evidence by witnesses implicating the accused. In a case such as the present where the prosecution evidence itself shows that the relations between the deceased and the appellants were cordial, the absence of an apparent motive, though not necessarily fatal to the prosecution case, may reasonable be regarded as a fact in favour of the accused. We think, therefore, that the attempt to prove a motive against any of the appellants has failed.[sic]

31. Suresh Chandra Bahri v. State of Bihar held that in a case based on circumstantial evidence, proof of motive would 'supply a link in the chain of circumstances but allthe same, absence of motive cannot be a ground to altogether reject the prosecution case. Para 21 reads as follows:

'21. At the very outset we may mention that sometimes motive plays an important role and becomes a compelling force to commit a crime and therefore motive behind the crime is a relevant factor for which evidence may be adduced. A motive is something which prompts a person to form an opinion or intention to do certain illegal act or even a legal act but with illegal means with a view to achieve that intention. In a case where there is clear proof of motive for the commission of the crime it affords added support to the finding of the court that the accused was guilty of the offence charged with. But it has to be remembered that the absence of proof of motive does not render the evidence bearing on the guilt of the accused nonetheless untrustworthy or unreliable because most often it is only the perpetrator of the crime alone who knows as to what circumstances prompted him to a certain course of action leading to the commission of the crime."

(39) It is not in dispute that the cheque of Rs.1400/- was received by the deceased on account of the birth of a daughter. D.W.2, in his cross examination, has stated that it is true that an amount of Rs.1400/- is paid by the Government under the Janani Suraksha Yojana for medical betterment. He further stated that he cannot tell as to whether Jagdish was pressurizing his wife Anita for an amount of Rs.1400/- or not. The accused-appellant in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in response to the question no.4 regarding demand of the cheque amount of Rs.1400/-, has not denied the same and merely stated that birth of daughter is admitted. Thus, it could not be disputed that the accused-appellant was demanding Rs.1400/- from his wife and was also pressurizing her for the same. D.W.2, in his cross examination, has deposed that the appellant Jagdish is landless. It has also been deposed by him that he is an agricultural labourer, who has no agricultural field. Thus, admittedly, there was no source of income of the accused-appellant except the labour. Therefore, in this backdrop also possibility of demand of aforesaid amount of Rs.1400/- and murder for the same cannot be ruled out. The learned trial court, after considering the evidence and material on record, has recorded a finding that now-a-days when the crimes are being committed for small things, it cannot be said that the accused would not kill the deceased for Rs.1400/-. Learned trial court, after considering the defence plea that the deceased was killed by her maternal relatives, recorded a finding that the deceased was only daughter of her parents, therefore, there was no question of benefit of the land of the parents of the deceased going to any other family member in near future, as the parents are alive. This Court does not find any illegality or error in the findings recorded by the learned trial court.

(40) A plea regarding delay in lodging the F.I.R. and delay in sending to the concerned magistrate has also been raised on behalf of the appellant. The plea is misconceived and not tenable for the reason that as deposed by P.W.1 and P.W.2, the deceased had gone with the accused-appellant in the night on 29.04.2008 and died during the intervening night of 29/30.4.2008 and the dead body of the deceased was found in the morning on 30.04.2008 on the information given by some children to the P.W.2, which was given by them at about 6:00-7:00 in the morning. P.W.2 further deposed that upon receiving the information about the dead body of the deceased, he went to the fields of Ram Pyare, where the dead body was lying. Thereafter he called his brother Parmanand, who is resident of Khairana and got report written from him. Thereafter he went to the police station and submitted the written report at about 9:00 a.m. He has further deposed that he remained in the police station for about an hour. The report has been lodged at about 10:30 a.m. Thus, this Court is of the view that there is no delay in lodging the F.I.R. and delay, if any, has been sufficiently explained by the prosecution. The records also reveals that the F.I.R. was forwarded to the concerned magistrate after registration on 01.05.2008. Even otherwise unless any cogent evidence of constructive effect on prosecution on this ground is shown, it cannot be a ground to doubt the prosecution case or reject it. The learned trial court has also recorded a finding that the deceased had died during the intervening night of 29/30.4.2008 and after recovery of the dead body in the morning of 30.04.2008, F.I.R. was lodged at about 10:30 a.m. Thus, there is no delay in lodging the F.I.R. Even otherwise, mere delay in lodging the F.I.R. in each and every case, cannot be a ground for rejecting the prosecution case.

(41) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Marudanal Augusti v. State of Kerala; 1980 SCC (Cri) 985, has held that the High Court seems to have overlooked the fact that the entire fabric of the prosecution case would collapse if the F.I.R. is held to be fabricated or brought into existence long after the occurrence and any number of witnesses could be added without there being anything to check the authenticity of their evidence.

(42) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Arjun Malik and Others versus State of Bihar; 1994 Supp (2) SCC 372, has held that the forwarding of the occurrence report is indispensable and absolute and it has to be forwarded with earliest despatch which intention is implicit with the use of the word "forthwith" occurring in Section 157, which means promptly and without any undue delay. The purpose and object is so obvious which is spelt out from the combined reading of Sections 157 and 159 Cr.PC. It has the dual purpose, firstly to avoid the possibility of improvement in the prosecution story and introduction of any distorted version by deliberations and consultation and secondly to enable the Magistrate concerned to have a watch on the progress of the investigation. Similar view was taken in Ishwar Singh versus State of U.P.(supra).

(43) The plea has also been taken that none of the children, who gave the information about the dead body, were examined and there are major contradictions in the prosecution evidence. Mere non production of any child i.e. witness cannot be a ground for rejecting the prosecution case, if it is proved by other reliable witnesses. Even otherwise, the appellant had also not filed any application to summon any child which could have been done by him. However, the prosecution case has been proved by the prosecution witnesses beyond reasonable doubt, which is corroborated by the medical evidence as well as the defence witnesses produced by the accused-appellant, therefore, the contention of learned counsel for the appellant is not tenable.

(44) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Ishwar Singh versus State of U.P.; AIR 1976 SCC 2423, has held that Of course, non-examination of some witnesses would not matter if the witnesses examined unfolded the prosecution case fully. But it is well established that witnesses essential to the unfolding of the narrative on which the prosecution is based must be examined.

(45) So far as the alleged contradictions in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses and interested witnesses being relatives of deceased are concerned, the minor contradiction in the evidence cannot be sole ground to discard the evidence of the prosecution witnesses. The evidence of relatives cannot be discarded merely on the ground of relative as it cannot be said that the witness being relative is an interested witness because the relative would not implicate an innocent person leaving the actual culprit.

(46) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Arjun Malik and others versus State of Bihar; 1994 Supp (2) SCC 372, has held that mere relationship of the witnesses cannot be the sole basis to discard the evidence if it is otherwise found to be believable and trustworthy. However, when the Court has to appreciate the evidence of any interested witnesses it has to be very careful in weighing their evidence. In other words the evidence of an interested witness requires greater care and caution while scrutinising his evidence. The Court has to address to itself whether there are any infirmities in the evidence of such a witness; whether the evidence is reliable and trustworthy and whether the genesis of the crime unfolded by such evidence is probable or not. If the evidence of any interested witness or a relative on a careful scrutiny is found to be consistent and trustworthy, free from infirmities or any embellishment there is no reason not to place reliance on the same.

(47) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Mani Ram and Others versus State of U.P.; 1994 Supp (2) SCC 289, has held that where the direct evidence is not supported by the expert evidence then the evidence is wanting in the most material part of the prosecution case and, therefore, it would be difficult to convict the accused on the basis of such evidence. If the evidence of the prosecution witnesses is totally inconsistent with the medical evidence this is a most fundamental defect in the prosecution case and unless this inconsistency is reasonably explained it is sufficient not only to discredit the evidence but the entire case.

(48) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Shivaji Sahabrao Babode and Another versus State of Maharashtra;(1973) 2 SCC 793, has held that even if a witness is not reliable, he need not be false and even if the Police have trumped up one witness or two or has embroidered the story to give a credible look to their case that cannot defeat justice if there is clear and un- impeachable evidence making out-the guilt of the accused. Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between, □may be□ and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions. The Hon'ble

Supreme Court has further held that Proof of motive satisfies the judicial mind about the likelihood of the authorship but its absence only demands deeper forensic search and cannot undo the effect of evidence otherwise sufficient. The relevant paragraphs 19 and 20 are extracted hereinbelow:-

"19. Now let us sum up the whole case in the light of the evidence we have found to be of worth. We must observe that even if a witness is not reliable, he need not be false and even if the Police have trumped up one witness or two or has embroidered the story to give a credible look to their case that cannot defeat justice if there is clear and un- impeachable evidence making out-the guilt of the accused. Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between ,may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions. Informing ourselves of these important principles we analyse the evidence found good by us. In our view there is only one eye-witness, P.W. 5, Vilas. Even if the case against the accused hangs on the evidence of a single eye-,witness it may be enough to sustain the, conviction given sterling testimony of a competent, honest man, although as a rule of prudence courts call for corroboration. It is a platitude to say that witnesses have to be weighed and not counted since quality matters more than quantity in human affairs. We are persuaded that the PW 5 is a witness for truth but in view of the circumstances that he is interested, we would still want corroboration in this case to reassure ourselves. And that we have in this case.

20. The earlier discussion leaves unscathed the dying declaration and incriminating discoveries and the only question is whether they are sufficient to reinforce the essential facts bearing on the appellants' direct involvement in the crime. The accused, we feel convinced, are reasonably proved to have murdered Heriba. But counsel argues that no animus against the victim has been made out and motiveless malignity militates against natural human condut. Proof of motive satisfies the judicial mind about the likelihood of the authorship but its absence only demands deeper forensic search and cannot undo the effect of evidence otherwise sufficient. Motives of men are often subjective, submerged and unamenable to easy proof that courts have to go without clear evidence thereon if other clinching evidence exists. In the case on hand the enmity with Sita Ram being active and admitted,,the pique against Hariba, his loyal dependent, is understandable. While striking the deceased he was asked in a tell-tale manner, whether he would still stay at Vasti (Kadamwadi, with Sita Ram). That betrays the motive. We affirm the finding of the High Court."

(49) The appellant had taken a plea of alibi on the ground that he was engaged in threshing/processing wheat at the place of Thakur Man Singh in his ancestral village on the day of incident and he had not gone to his in-laws house on that day or night, in regard to which the defence witnesses were also examined. However, statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. indicates that there is no plea that at the time of incident, he has not gone to his in-laws house for doing threshing/processing of wheat. Thus as discussed above, the appellant has failed to establish the plea of alibi. It is settled in law that a plea of alibi is liable to be proved by the person, who is claiming the same. The learned trial court, after considering the evidence adduced by the parties, and the plea of alibi taken by the appellant, which could not be proved, has recorded a finding that in the facts and circumstances of the case and the evidence of the defence witnesses, it cannot be said that the accused Jagdish was present at every moment and minute for threshing work on 29/30.4.2008 at the place of D.W.2 and he had not gone anywhere else. In this regard, there is contradiction in the statement of the defence witnesses also and there is a difference of at least one hour in commencement of the threshing work in evidence of D.W.1 and D.W.2, therefore, looking to the short distance between the place of incident and the threshing site, it cannot be said that the said distance could not have been covered within a period of one hour. Consequently, the plea of alibi taken by the accused-appellant is neither believable nor tenable in the eyes of law. This Court is in agreement with the findings recorded by the learned trial court. Looking to the short distance, the appellant could have gone to his in-laws house and reached back by the time of start of threshing/processing. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Mukesh and Another versus State(NCT of Delhi) and others; (2017) 6 SCC 1, observed that it is well settled in law that when a plea of alibi is taken by the accused, the burden is upon him to establish the same by positive evidence after the onus as regards the person on the spot is established by the prosecution.

(50) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Joydeb Patra and others versus State of West Bengal; 203 AIR SCW 2744 relied by learned counsel for the appellant, has held that the burden to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt is on the prosecution and it is only when this burden is discharged that the accused could prove any fact within his special knowledge under Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act to establish that he was not guilty. There cannot be any dispute to the principle which is settled in law. The relevant paragraph 8 is extracted hereinbelow:-

"8. We are afraid, we cannot accept this submission of Mr. Ghosh.This Court has repeatedly held that the burden to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt is on the prosecution and it is only when this burden is discharged that the accused could prove any fact within his special knowledge under Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act to establish that he was not guilty."

(51) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Nishar Ali versus State of U.P.; AIR 1987 SC 366, relied by learned counsel for the appellant, has held that it is a cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that the innocence of an accused person is presumed till otherwise proved. There cannot be any dispute to this principle and the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that the trial court proceeded on assumption of his guilt is misconceived and not tenable.

(52) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of State of U.P. versus Satish; (2005) 3 SCC 114, relied by learned counsel for the appellant, has held that the principle of proportion between crime and punishment is a principle of just desert that serves as the foundation of every criminal sentence that is justifiable. The criminal law adheres in general to the principle of proportionality in prescribing liability according to the culpability of each kind of criminal conduct. This principle is also not in dispute and sentence is to be awarded considering the nature and manner of committing crime and various factors and the statutory provision of sentence. In the instant case, the sentence has rightly been awarded looking to the nature and manner of crime and the statutory provision. There is no illegality or error in it.

(53) In view of above, it is apparent that it is a case of 'last seen together' and circumstantial evidence and the circumstances in the present case refer towards the guilt of the accused-appellant only,and that he is the author of crime. The learned trial court has disclosed the circumstances leading to the guilt of the accused-appellant, which is extracted hereinbelow:

"पी.डब्लू.1 व पी.डब्लू 2 दोनों ने दिनांक 29.04.2008 की रात अभियुक्त द्वारा मृतका को साथ ले जाने के स्पष्ट कथन किये है। अगले दिन सुबह मृतका की लाश मिलती है। चिकित्सीय आख्या के अनुसार मृतका की दिनांक 29/30.04.2008 को रात किसी समय गला घोंटकर हत्या की गयी है। अतः मृतका के साथ मृत्यु पूर्व अंतिम व्यक्ति अभियुक्त ही है। अभियुक्त तथा वादी मुकदमा के मध्य पूर्व में कोई विवाद या झगडा होने का कथन बचाव पक्ष की ओर से नही किया गया है। अतः वादी पक्ष द्वारा असल अपराधी को छोडकर अभियुक्त अर्थात अपने दामाद को झूठा फंसाने का भी कोई मामला नही बनता है । डी.डब्लू. 1 जो अभियुक्त की मां व मृतका की सास है, अपनी मुख्य परीक्षा में कहती है कि घटना के बाद अगले दिन उसके गांव के एक व्यक्ति ने मृतका के कही भाग जाने की खबर दी थी। ऐसी स्थिति में व्यक्ति तुरन्त मृतका के मायके जाकर मालूमात का प्रयास करता है परन्तु बचाव पक्ष की ओर से ऐसा किये जाने का कोई कथन नही है जबकि बचाव पक्ष के अनुसार अभियुक्त व मृतका के मध्य मधुर सम्बन्ध थे। इसके अतिरिक्त ऐसा भी कोई साक्ष्य बचाव पक्ष की ओर से नहीं आया है कि डी.डब्लू. 2 ने विवेचना के दौरान अभियुक्त के थ्रेसिंग कराने हेतु उसके यहां उपस्थित होने का कथन विवेचक को दिया हो या देने का प्रयास किया हो अथवा पुलिस उच्चाधिकारियो को सूचना प्रेषित की गयी हो। यह भी साक्ष्य में आया है कि मायके में प्रसव के सम्बन्ध में मृतका अपने माता पिता के साथ घटना के समय रह रही थी। रात्रि में घर से ही अभियुक्त मृतका को ले जाता है इसलिए मृतका के माता पिता ही स्वाभाविक साक्षी हो सकते है। अतः किसी अन्य व्यक्ति का स्वतन्त्र साक्षी के रूप में प्रस्तुत ना करना अभियोजन मामले को संदेहास्पद नही बनाता है ।"

(54) Thus, in view of the discussion made here-in-above and considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case, this Court does not find any illegality or error in the impugned judgment and order. The learned trial court has passed the impugned judgment and order in accordance with law by a reasoned and speaking order after considering the material and evidence on record appropriately, by means of which the appellant has been convicted. The appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds, which lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

(55) The appeal is, accordingly, dismissed. The conviction of the appellant as recorded by the learned trial court is upheld. The sentence awarded is also maintained. The appellant is in jail. He shall serve out the sentence awarded by the trial court.

(56) Let a copy of this judgment and the trial court's record be transmitted to the Court concerned forthwith or in any case within two weeks, for information and necessary action.

(57) Before parting with the order, this Court records the valuable assistance provided by Mr. Ankit Singh, Research Associate, in preparation of this judgment and finding out case laws applicable in the present case.

(58) Sri Rajesh Kumar Dwivedi, learned Amicus Curiae was appointed to represent the appellant/accused. We put on record the words of appreciation for able assistance rendered by him, therefore, we quantify the remuneration of Rs.15,000/- for him. Let the same be paid by the concerned expeditiously.

Criminal Appeal No. 2089 of 2023
& Connected with other cases

Babloo Dubey @ Vishnudhar Dubey ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the prosecution had established the guilt of the accused appellants beyond reasonable doubt for the offences punishable under Ss. 147, 148, 307/149, 302/149 and 504 of the Indian Penal Code and S. 3/25 of the Arms Act in view of the material inconsistencies between the ocular and medical evidence, the doubtful place and time of occurrence, the legality and evidentiary value of the recovery, the absence of identification of one of the accused, the plea of alibi, and the overall credibility of the prosecution evidence, warranting interference with the judgment of conviction and sentence recorded by the Trial Court. (Paras 32-41)

Headnotes

Criminal Trial - Appreciation of Evidence - Ocular and medical evidence - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 147, 148, 307/149, 302/149 and 504 - Arms Act, 1959 - S. 3/25 - Where the ocular version regarding the manner of assault materially conflicted with the medical evidence, the prosecution witnesses gave inconsistent versions regarding the place of occurrence, and the site plan itself indicated a different place of occurrence, the prosecution version became extremely doubtful and could not be held to have proved the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt - Benefit of doubt extended - Conviction set aside. (Paras 32, 33, 39, 40, 41)

Evidence - Recovery - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 27 - Recovery of firearms - In the absence of any disclosure statement preceding the alleged recovery, and where the FSL report did not connect the recovered firearms with the bullet recovered from the body of the deceased or the empty cartridges recovered from the place of occurrence, the recovery was held to be bad in law and incapable of lending support to the prosecution case. (Paras 32, 38)

Evidence - Identification of accused - Criminal Trial - Where an accused was not named in the FIR and no Test Identification Parade was conducted, coupled with the absence of dock identification during trial, the prosecution failed to establish his identity in accordance with law, rendering the conviction vulnerable. (Para 34)

Evidence - Electronic evidence - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 65-B - Call detail records - Call detail reports not accompanied by the certificate required under S. 65-B, not duly proved and not exhibited could not be relied upon in evidence. (Para 35)

Criminal Procedure - First Information Report - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 157 - Delay in forwarding the police report to the Magistrate and cuttings in the inquest report, by themselves, were not sufficient to conclude that the FIR was ante-timed, the lapses not being of such nature as to vitiate the prosecution case on that ground alone. (Para 36)

Criminal Trial - Benefit of doubt - Appreciation of evidence - Where the cumulative effect of the inconsistencies in the prosecution evidence, doubtful place and time of occurrence, infirm recovery, failure of identification, and defence evidence created reasonable doubt regarding the prosecution version, the prosecution failed to establish the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt and the impugned judgment of conviction and sentence deserved to be set aside - Appeals allowed and accused acquitted. (Paras 37-41)

Held: The prosecution was required to establish the guilt of the accused appellants beyond reasonable doubt. Upon appreciation of the entire evidence on record, the prosecution version was found to suffer from material inconsistencies and infirmities. The ocular version with regard to the manner of assault was not in consonance with the medical evidence, inasmuch as the prosecution witnesses initially maintained that both the shots were fired on the head whereas the post-mortem disclosed one firearm injury on the head and another on the chest and the medical evidence indicated that both injuries could have been caused from the same firearm. The prosecution witnesses also gave contradictory versions regarding the place of occurrence and the site plan prepared on the pointing out of the informant did not support the prosecution case consistently. The evidence regarding the alleged bhoomi poojan and the presence of witnesses at the spot also created doubt. The call detail records relied upon by the defence could not be treated as substantive evidence in the absence of compliance with S. 65-B of the Evidence Act, though the surrounding circumstances remained relevant while appreciating the credibility of the prosecution version. Delay in forwarding the FIR to the Magistrate, by itself, was not sufficient to hold that the FIR was ante-timed or fabricated, as mere delay in compliance with S. 157 CrPC does not vitiate the prosecution case unless prejudice is shown. However, the prosecution case could not be accepted merely because the delay was not fatal. The recovery of firearms was not in accordance with law, there was no disclosure statement preceding the recovery, no independent witness was associated with the recovery, and the FSL report did not connect the recovered firearms with the empty cartridges or the bullet recovered from the body of the deceased, thereby rendering the recovery incapable of lending assurance to the prosecution case. The prosecution also failed to establish the identity of one of the accused in accordance with law as he was neither named in the FIR nor identified in a Test Identification Parade or in Court. The defence evidence regarding the plea of alibi assumed significance and, when considered with the acquittal of the said accused under one of the charges by the Trial Court, further weakened the prosecution version. Upon cumulative assessment of the ocular evidence, medical evidence, documentary evidence, recovery, identification, defence evidence and the surrounding circumstances, the conclusion recorded by the Trial Court was found not to be in accordance with law and the evidence on record. The prosecution failed to establish the guilt of the accused appellants beyond reasonable doubt and they were entitled to the benefit of doubt. Consequently, the impugned judgment of conviction and sentence deserved to be interfered with, the criminal appeals were allowed, the conviction and sentence imposed upon the accused appellants were set aside and they were honourably acquitted of all the charges framed against them. It was informed that the informant had gone to a particular plot of land which belonged to his bhabhi Sunita, wife of Raju Yadav since the year 2007. The purpose of being there on the plot in question on 8.8.2014 was that the foundation had to be laid for the construction of a house and that was to be done in the presence of the informant, his elder brother Raju Yadav and relatives Rajesh Yadav and Manish Yadav. At the particular point of time when the work of diging of pit for conducting Pooja etc. was going on and around 10.00 a.m. Govind Yadav, Suresh Yadav and his two real brothers, whose names were not known to the informant, alongwith Bablu Dubey and one unknown person reached the place of incident. They all were carrying revolvers and pistols and started abusing the first informant and the other persons of the informant's side. Not only that they also asked them to leave the place and go away. This was resisted by Raju Yadav, brother of the informant and upon this Bablu Dubey exhorted the others to fired upon him and he himself and Govind Yadav and Suresh Yadav came there near the deceased i.e. Raju Yadav and from their fire arms they fire on the head of the deceased and upon this the other accused persons also started firing with an intention to kill. The deceased, however, died instantaneously. The accused Bablu Dubey had also snatched away the licensed pistol of the deceased from his waist and thereafter the other accused while firing, in order to create terror in the area and thereafter fled from the place of the incident. The informant, upon the incident having taken place phoned up the Senior Superintendent of Police, Gorakhpur to give this message to him. Thereafter, they took the deceased to the hospital where the doctor declared him dead.

5. Upon lodging the FIR, the police got into action and a panchayatnama was conducted. The panchas present were Ram Kewal Yadav, Sita Ram Yadav, Ramesh Yadav, Pappu Yadav and Amarjeet Yadav. In the opinion of the panchas, the deceased had died on account of the firing which was done on him. Thereafter, the body was sent for post mortem on 8.8.2014 and in the post mortem report following injuries were found :

'1. Firearm entry wound present on the left side of the face, size 0.9 cm x 0.9 cm, which was circular in shape, going inwards, and had blackening. And the wound was 9 cm outside the angle of the mouth. On dissecting the wound, the inner dermis (leather) of the skin and flesh, and the bone of the face were fractured. The lower part of the skull was grazed/lacerated and a dark blood clot was present there. In the right part of the back of the skull (occipital) lower part, the size of the wound was 1.5 cm x 1.5 cm, the margins of which were everted (protruding outwards). When a probe was passed between the entry wound and the exit wound of the bullet, both wounds communicated with each other. Both these wounds are through and through.

2. Firearm entry wound in the lower part of the left chest, which was 7.5 cm below the nipple, and whose size was 0.9 cm x 0.9 cm, having inverted margins and blackening. On dissecting this, there was a dark blood clot in the skin, fascia, and muscle, there was an abrasion between the two ribs. Inside it, the lungs and pleura were ruptured (lacerated) and in the side chest cavity and around the lungs, one litre of dark blood clot was present. An iron bullet was found from the posterior part of the right chest, which was lodged between the fascia and muscle.'

12. PW-1 - Shiv Pratap Yadav @ Sadhu Yadav had appeared before the Court and in his examination-in-chief he had stated that he had three brothers. The eldest was Rajesh Pal, then there was Raju Yadav (deceased) and he himself was the third brother. He had stated that his bhabhi Sunita wife of Raju Yadav (deceased) had purchased in the year 2007 a piece of land from one Gulab Yadav, who was the father of some of the accused persons. The incident had occurred on 8.8.2014 at around 10.00. a.m. and the bhoomi poojan was to be done on that particular date and with regard to that he himself alongwith his brother Raju Yadav and relative Brijesh Yadav (PW-2) alongwith Manish Yadav (not examined) and Rajesh Yadav (not examined) were present. He had stated that while the pit was being dug, the accused Govind Yadav, Suresh Yadav, Rinku Yadav, @ Rajiv Yadav and Monu Yadav, all sons of Gulab Yadav alongwith Babludhar Dubey, who was accompanied by Rajan Yadav (six in number) came on the spot with revolvers and pistols and all six of them asked his brother Raju Yadav not to commence with the foundation and pooja. The brother of the informant resisted the threat and therefore Babludhar Dubey exhorted all the others to commit the crime and at that point of time Suresh Yadav and Govind Yadav with an intention to kill the brother of the informant fired on him and he fell down bleeding and at that point of time Babludhar Dubey took out licensed pistol from waist of the deceased. Thereafter the accused persons with an intention to kill the first informant and the other persons also fired towards them and after creating a terror in the area and after having threatened fled the place of incident. He has stated that he had also rung up the S.S.P., Gorakhpur at that point of time and thereafter had taken the injured brother in his Scorpio car to the hospital where he was declared dead. He had stated that thereafter he had got the FIR typed out and after signing the same lodged it. The statement of PW-1 was recorded at the police station itself on that date and he accompanied the police to the place of the incident and showed the site to the Investigating Officer. He also proved the FIR. In his cross-examination he had stated that Suresh Yadav, Govind Yadav, Rinku @ Rajiv Yadav and Monu were four brothers. The names of Rajiv @ Rinku and Monu he was knowing from before the incident. He had stated that amongst those, who were present Brijesh Yadav was a relative and that he lived around 7-8 kilometers away and was doing business of milk and was also his brother-in-law. He had stated that the land belonged to his bhabhi Sunita alone and that it was not in his name. To lookafter the plot of land he never used to visit but his elder brother Raju always used to go there and since the year 2007 itself boundary wall was constructed without any dispute. Upon a suggestion being made that the land was also his, he had stated that it was wrong to say so. The plot of land had a gate on the western boundary and that the boundary had a height of 4-1/2 feet. The boundary was not all over the plot but only in the front. About the fact that the bhoomi poojan was to take place he had stated that the relatives were informed only one day prior to the date of incident and from amongst the relatives Brijesh Yadav, Rajesh Yadav and Manish Yadav had come to his house on their motorcycles. Thereafter he alongwith Brijesh Yadav, Manish Yadav and his brother had gone to the place of incident on a Scorpio Car. In the bhoomi poojan ladies had not gone. He had categorically stated that for the bhoomi poojan Pandit (priest) and nai (barber) had not come. They were planning to call the priest and in fact he had in so many words stated that there was no definite person in their mind and they were searching for him. Same was the case for the Barber. From the Azad Chowk labour were arranged and they were digging the pit. When the accused had reached the place of incident, they had threatened his brother not to do the pooja and that his brother was at that point of time inside the western boundary. In the cross-examination he had also stated that Govind had fired on the head of the deceased while Suresh had fired on the right side of the chest. He however stated that it was correct to say that in the FIR he had stated that both Govind Yadav and Suresh Yadav had fired from very near the deceased and had stated that Suresh and Govind both had fired in the head of the deceased. He further stated that he wanted to say that they had fired towards the head. He had thereafter confirming what he had stated in the FIR and also had got recorded under Section 161 CrPC before the police that both Govind Yadav and Suresh Yadav had fired in the head of the deceased, categorically stated that he neither had stated in the FIR nor had informed the police that the firing was done on the chest. He was in a state of shock and he was stating the correct fact in the Court when he was stating that one firing was done in the chest. He had stated that he was not present at the time when the panchayatnama was being filled. He has very categorically stated that the accused had entered from the eastern side which did not have a boundary and the brother of the informant was standing inside the boundary wall. He had then stated that he himself, Manish, Rajesh and Brijesh were standing inside the boundary wall. From which side the accused Govind had fired he did not remember. He however had categorically stated that his brother was standing on the eastern side 5-7 feet away from the pit. He also stated that firing was done from a very short distance i.e. of 3-4 steps. He thereafter tried to inform the Court with regard to how the FIR was typed out in 10-12 minutes and how he had singed the same. Because only Sadhu was written, therefore, there was a cutting and he wrote Sadhu Yadav @ Shiv Pratap Yadav. He had stated that he had lodged the FIR after getting the same typed out and after taking legal advise. With regard to Babludhar Dubey he had stated that he was not knowing the name of his father and therefore he had not mentioned the same in the FIR. He had also not mentioned his other name i.e. Vishnudhar Dubey. About his other name and the name of his father he mentioned for the first time in the Court. Upon a specific question being asked as to how pooja had been planned, he stated that he had no knowledge about it. Upon a question being put with regard to the fact that whether any food etc. was taken by the deceased before the informant□s side had reached the place of incident, he had stated that no one had taken either tea, water or any food etc. He had thereafter stated that he had started from his house at betia hata and had reached the place of incident in 15 minutes and very categorically had stated that he had made phone call from betia hata using his mobile and that in between the place of incident and house many other areas had to be crossed namely, Azad Chowk and Durga Chowk. He had also stated that from the place of incident he had rung up the S.S.P. Gorakhpur from his mobile no. 9415619199. He had also given the telephone number of Brijesh which was 9616623045 and telephone number of Manish Yadav as 8896104235 and then from his memory he has given the mobile number of Rajesh Yadav as 7860489999. He thereafter on the cross-examination being done on behalf of Rinku Yadav had stated that when the firing was done the accused were inside the boundary wall and had very categorically stated that he had no idea if any empty cartridge was found outside the boundary wall. Upon suggestion being made that the other relatives were not there he had denied the suggestion and stated that the other relatives were definitely there. Again upon cross examination done by Monu Yadav he stated that he knew the family of Gulab Yadav including the wife and the sons. The names of two sons were not mentioned in the FIR, because at that time he could not recollect their names. He had informed that Rajesh Yadav was a clerk in Punjab National Bank. With regard to bhoomi pujan upon being asked as to how the planning was done he stated that 3-4 days prior to the incident priest had given the auspicious time (muhurt) after consultation. He however did not remember the name of priest who had told the auspicious time. He had then stated that the accused had entered from the gate and then had turned right and had fired on his brother. Upon the cross-examination done by Rajan Yadav, he had stated that at the time of lodging the FIR he had not remembered the name of Rajan as he was in a state of shock and that the name of Rajan was taken in the Court itself. He had further stated that he was well aware of the fact that the police had submitted final report vis-a-vis Babludhar Dubey but no action was taken from the side of informant. Nothing with regard to Babludhar Dubey was told to the Investigating Officer in the statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC and he was telling about Babludhar Dubey for the first time in the Court. He was also not aware that in the house of Babludhar Dubey recitation of Ramayan was going on. He had stated that he had two brothers-in-law namely Brijesh and Manish. Brijesh was engaged in the business of Milk and Manish was an Advocate in the Civil Court.

13. PW-2 - Brajesh Kumar Yadav in his examination-in-chief had stated the same story about the pooja etc. and that he alongwith others was present at the time of pooja. He had also narrated the manner in which Raju Yadav was shot dead by Suresh Yadav and Govind Yadav. He also stated that Govind Yadav had shot in the head of the deceased and Suresh Yadav had shot him in his chest. He had also stated that the other accused persons were trying to also kill the other persons but the others who were present had run away. He had stated that the land belonged to the informant and his Bhabhi Sunita. He had stated that he had no mobile telephone number. The recovery memos with regard to the empty cartridges and soil etc. were prepared in his presence. He had stated that the Investigating Officer had reached the place of incident after the FIR was lodged and taking the empty cartridges in his possession, he had very specifically stated that the recovery of empty cartridge etc. was done from the place where the incident had occurred. He had further stated that the pit was dug-up before the pooja. He had categorically stated that Raju Yadav was not killed anywhere inside the boundary but he was killed outside the boundary wall gate. The firing was not done inside the boundary wall but was done outside it. Raju Yadav and accused had gone out talking with each other and outside the plot Raju was murdered, while he himself remained inside the plot near the pit. Raju Yadav was hit by a bullet fired by Govind Yadav on the head and this was absolutely a close range shot and Suresh had fired on the left side of the chest of Raju Yadav. He had then stated that while he was inside the plot he had seen that Raju Yadav had fallen down thereafter second shot was fired upon him by Suresh and the shot on the chest was from a close range. He had stated that the accused had also fired on the others, who were present with an intention to kill them all. This answer came in response to a specific question put to him as to in what direction the accused had run away. He had then upon being recalled on 6.7.2017 stated the very same story that Govind and Raju were talking to each other and they went out of the western gate and others remained near the pit in the plot and Raju while had gone out of the gate was murdered. He had stated that Raju was killed outside the gate. He had stated that this fact was mentioned in his statement under Section 161 CrPC and how the same was not recorded, he does not know. He had stated that everything was being done in a very normal manner and then Raju and Govind had gone out of the gate talking to each other and thereafter suddenly there was firing done by Govind and Suresh. When Govind had gone out the gate then Suresh had also left the plot and had gone out of the gate. He had then stated that when Suresh was coming inside the plot then he himself had noticed the firearm in his hand. When Suresh had left the plot and had gone out by that time the first firing had already been done and everybody else was in a state of shock. He had stated that Suresh had fired upon Raju from the front. When the firing was done those persons including he himself, all were inside the boundary. He had stated that all the accused persons had gone out from the southern side. He had also stated that when Raju was taken to the hospital there was blood on his pant and shirt and this was also shown to the Investigating Officer. He had however stated that an NCR which was reported against somebody else, had his telephone no. as 8896104234.

14. PW-3 - Dr. Awadhes had done the post mortem of the deceased and had stated about the injuries sustained by the deceased. The first injury was 1.5 x 1.5 cm of entry in the head and that it had also gone out of the back of the head and therefore the other injury was an exit wound. The second injury was in the chest which was 7.5 cm below the left nipple and was measuring .9 x.9 cm. He had stated very categorically that while the small intestine was empty, in the large intestine there was gas and faecal matter. He had categorically stated upon cross-examination done by the defence counsel that both the injuries i.e. in the head and in the chest were from the same firearm. Upon a question being asked with regard to faecal matter and the gas he categorically stated that the situation he had found with regard to faecal mater and gas in the large intestine could have been there only if the food had been taken two hours prior to the incident. He had also stated that he had found the bullet inside the body of the deceased.

15. PW-4 - S.I. Shailendra Yadav is the person before whom the inquest had taken place. He had also tried to explain the interpolation in the panchayatnama.

16. PW-5 is the S.I. Mahendra Kumar, who was head moharrir and had prepared the chik. He had categorically stated that the FIR was transmitted to Chief Judicial Magistrate's Court only on 11.8.2014.

17. PW-6 - S.I. Jitendra Pal Singh was the first Investigating Officer. He had categorically stated that the site plan was prepared on the pointing out of PW-1. While recording the statement of PW-1 under Section 161 CrPC he had categorically stated that Govind Yadav and Suresh Yadav fired in the head of the deceased from a close range. He had also stated that statement of PW-2 under Section 161 CrPC was recorded on 10.8.2014. He had thereafter stated in his examination-in-chief as to how he had conducted the investigation and that thereafter submitted the charge sheet. In his cross-examination he had stated that he had followed all the rules and regulations as had been given in the Police Act and Police Regulations and thereafter in the cross-examination also he had stated that he had prepared the site plan on the pointing out of the PW-1/informant. PW-6 has further stated that the statement of PW-1 was not recorded at the police station. However, subsequently in his cross-examination he had stated that the statement of PW-1 under Section 161 CrPC was recorded at the police station itself. The statement of Rajesh Yadav was recorded on 10.8.2014. Thereafter he had told the manner in which the recovery was done under Section 27 of the Evidence Act. He had prepared only one recovery memo regarding recovery of both firearms and cartridges. He, in his cross-examination, had stated that even though Brijesh Yadav was present while site plan was being prepared but he had prepared the site plan only on the pointing out of PW-1. Thus, he had stated that in the site plan there was no mention of Brijesh Yadav, PW-2. With regard to the delay in the reaching of the special report to the Magistrate's office, he had stated that the same was sent on the same date by registering it in the dak-bahi. However, with regard to the person who had taken the special report he had not mentioned anything in the case diary. He had stated that on 8.8.2016 the Court had called for call details of the mobile numbers 9415619199 (PW-1), 7860489999 (Rajesh) and 8896104234 (PW-2) and he had given out in his cross-examination as to where the telephone numbers were found at the time of the incident. With regard to the sending of the pistol, revolver, empty cartridges and the live bullets he had mentioned that they had all gone for matching to the FSL. He had also stated that on the date of the incident he had also enquired if there was a Ramayan Path in the house of Babludhar Dubey.

18. PW-7 - Inspector Rampal Yadav is the second Investigating Officer. He had mentioned as to how he had excluded the name of Babludhar Dubey.

19. PW-8 - S.I. Pramod Kumar Singh was the I.O. of the Arms Act.

20. PW-9 - S.I. Narsingh was Head Moharrir at the time of preparation of the chik FIR with regard to Arms Act.

21. Upon closure of recording of statement of prosecution witnesses statements of accused under Section 313 CrPC were recorded. Whereafter, five defence witnesses appeared, out of which DW-1, DW-2 and DW-3 had appeared for proving the alibi of Babludhary Dubey.

22. DW-1 Dharmendra Mishra had stated in detail as to how he was attending the Ramayan Paath at the house of Babludhar Dubey and Babludhar Dubey was at his home during Ramayan Paath.

23. DW-2 Ram Ujagir Tripathi was the phupha of Babludhar Dubey and he had also stated in so many words as to how Ramayan Paath was going on and Babludhar Dubey was at his home during Ramayan Path. He stood firm in the cross-examination.

24. DW-3 Deen Dayal Gupta was the cook / bavarchi, who had also stated with regard to the alibi of Babludhar Dubey and also stood firm in the cross-examination.

25. DW-4 S.I. Dhirendra Kumar was the incharge Surveillance Cell at Gorakhpur and he had proved the case as was there with regard to the locations of mobile numbers 9415619199, 7860489999 and 8896104234 and he had stated that the location was got by due process and was thereafter placed before the Court.

26. DW-5 is Pandit Mithlesh Chaturvedi. He had stated that on that particular date there was no auspicious day for bhoomi pujan.

27. The learned trial court upon scrutiny of the evidence on record concluded that the case of prosecution was proved beyond reasonable doubt against the accused appellants and recorded conviction and sentenced them, as mentioned here-in-above. It may be noted that appellant Babludhar Dubey however was acquitted under Section 396 IPC. Hence, these appeals.

28. We have heard Shri Manish Tiwari, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Pranav Tiwari and Shri Atharva Dixit, learned counsel for the appellants in Criminal Appeal Nos. 2855 of 2023 and 2861 of 2023. Criminal Appeal No. 2089 of 2023 was argued by Shri Rahul Mishra and Shri Raghuvansh Mishra. Shri N.I. Jafri, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Sadrul Islam Jafri, learned counsel argued for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.2088 of 2023, Shri Sanjeev Kumar Singh, learned counsel was heard for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2519 of 2023. Shri Amit Daga, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Ankit Srivastava, Shri C.P. Pandey and Shri V.C. Shukla, was the learned counsel for the informant. Shri C.B.Dhar Dubey and Shri Muni Raj Mehrotra, learned Additional Government Advocates appeared for the State.

29. Assailing the impugned judgment and order, learned counsel appearing for the appellants have made the following submissions :

(i) PW-4 S.I. Shailendra Yadav, who was responsible for conducting the inquest proceeding of the body of the deceased in his cross-examination has categorically submitted that he had not mentioned about any alleged eye witness.

(ii) Delay in sending the report from the police station to the concerned Chief Judicial Magistrate under Section 157 of CrPC was not condonable. In the instant case it is clear that the FIR was lodged on 8.8.2014 but the report was sent on 11.8.2014.

(iii) Learned counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2861 of 2023 and Criminal Appeal No. 2855 of 2023 submitted that the manner of assault was also questionable. In the initial version put forth in the FIR it had been categorically stated by the PW-1/informant that the appellants Govind Yadav and Suresh Yadav shot at the deceased by two different firearms, viz. a pistol and revolver in the head and the same was done upon instigation of Babludhar Dubey. The post mortem report gave a version very different from that put forth by the informant and it revealed that only one single firearm was used for the injuries that were on the head as also on the chest. Learned counsel for the appellants, therefore, submitted that the prosecution version as had been brought forth was absolutely falsified, if statements of PW-1 and PW-2 are seen. It becomes clear that they, upon seeing the entry and exit injuries in the head, had somehow come to the conclusion that there were two firings done on the head itself. This version of PW-1 and PW-2 was maintained even in the statements given under Section 161 CrPC. However, when they had knowledge of the post mortem report and they had thereafter appeared in the Court then they had given a version which was absolutely different, i.e. two injuries were there out of them one was in the head and another in the chest.

(iv) PW-1 stated in his examination-in-chief that all the six accused had firearms with them, however, the role of shooting was assigned only to Govind Yadav and Suresh Yadav. It had been stated by them that all indiscriminately fired on the informant's side. However, there were no empty cartridges corresponding to this version of the prosecution. PW-1 and PW-2 admittedly were inside the premises of the plot and the incident had happened outside the premises and, therefore, the version of the prosecution that PW-1 and PW-2 had seen two firing being done was absolutely erroneous since when first firing was done the deceased had fallen down. From inside the boundary wall definitely PW-1 and PW-2 could not have seen the incident happening. What is more he submitted that apart from the deceased, no other person had received any firearm injury.

(v) If the prosecution version is properly seen then it becomes very evident that PW-1 and PW-2 and also the other relatives were not there at the site at all. PW-1 had throughout stated that the incident had actually happened within the boundary wall of the plot, however, PW-2 gave a contradictory version wherein he had stated that in fact the incident had happened outside the gate of the western side and when PW-1 and PW-2 both had found that the empty cartridges had fallen outside the western gate then PW-1 while getting the site plan prepared had in fact told to the Investigating Officer that the incident had happened outside the western side of the gate.

(vi) Relying upon the call detail reports it has been submitted that the three telephones were at places where the report had suggested them to be. Mobile No. 9415619199, as per the CDR report, was at Betia Hata, thereafter at Azad Chowk and thereafter at 11.12.53 at Durga Chowk, meaning thereby firstly it was found at Betia Hata, then at Azad Chowk and thereafter at Durga Chowk and thereafter ultimately well after the time of the incident the telephone had reached the place of incident. This showed that PW-1, who had stated that at the time of the incident he had called the Senior Superintendent of Police, Gorakhpur from the site in the question then definitely he was not at the place of incident because the call detail had showed that at that point of time PW-1 was at Betia Hata. Further, it was said that Babludhar Dubey @ Vishnu Dhar Dubey, who had exhorted the two assailants, namely, Govind Yadav and Suresh Yadav to kill the deceased, was present but learned counsel appearing for appellant Babludhar Dubey in Criminal Appeal No. 2089 of 2023 had submitted that Babludhar Dubey was in fact having Akhand Ramayan Path at his house, therefore, he was not present at the place of incident and since the prosecution tried to put him at the place of occurrence, it clearly shows that the prosecution case was a concocted one.

(vii) Prosecution case got falsified by the statements of DW-1, DW-2 and DW-3, who are pandit, cook/bawarchi and phupha of Babludhar Dubey and they had definitely stated that there was Akhand Ramayan Path at the house of Babludhar Dubey. If the defence witnesses were believed, then the prosecution case as was there in the FIR and thereafter would become absolutely falsified.

(viii) The cause for assembling of the deceased alongwith PW-1 and PW-2 and other relatives that there was bhoomi pujan going to take place at the place of incident also appeared to be fictitious. The scene of incident and the time of incident all became doubtful in view of the fact that neither there was Pandit (priest) nor Nai (barber) and also no pooja items were found. What is more even one of the defence witnesses had stated that in fact auspicious time as was stated by the prosecution was not there on that particular date.

(ix) The witnesses, who were produced, namely, PW-1 and PW-2 were virtually interested witnesses. The other persons, namely, Rajesh Yadav and Manish Yadav were not produced in the witness box, meaning thereby that such persons who could have actually revealed the truth were never produced.

(x) Learned counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 2088 of 2023 submitted that Rajan Yadav was not named in the FIR. Subsequently upon his name being mentioned he was arrested and thereafter he was produced as an accused However, nowhere at any point of time he was identified either during investigation by the method of test identification parade or during trial in the dock. He submits that test identification parade and dock identification are very important since the appellant Rajan was not named in the FIR and also in the statements under Section 161 CrPC. It was therefore important that the witnesses ought to have identified him, at least in the Court. In support of this submission he has placed reliance upon a decision of the Apex Court in Tukesh Singh v. State of Chattisgarh 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1110, wherein the Apex Court has observed that :

‘21. In a case where there are eyewitnesses, one situation can be that the eyewitness knew the accused before the incident. The eyewitnesses must identify the accused sitting in the dock as the same accused whom they had seen committing the crime. Another situation can be that the eyewitness did not know the accused before the incident. In the normal course, in case of the second situation, it is necessary to hold a Test Identification Parade. If it is not held and if the evidence of the eyewitness is recorded after a few years, the identification of such an accused by the eyewitness in the Court becomes vulnerable. Identification of the accused sitting in the Court by the eyewitness is of utmost importance. For example, if an eyewitness states in his deposition that □he had seen A, B and C killing X and he knew A, B and C□. Such a statement in the examination-in-chief is not sufficient to link the same to the accused. The eyewitness must identify the accused A, B and C in the Court. Unless this is done, the prosecution cannot establish that the accused are the same persons who are named by the eyewitness in his deposition. If an eyewitness states that □he had seen one accused assaulting the deceased with a sword, another accused assaulting the deceased with a stick and another accused holding the deceased to enable other accused to assault the deceased.□ In such a case, the eyewitness must identify the accused in the open Court who, according to him, had assaulted the accused with a stick, who had assaulted the deceased with a sword and who was holding the deceased. Unless the eyewitnesses identify the accused present in the Court, it cannot be said that, based on the testimony of the eyewitnesses, the guilt of the accused has been proved.’

(xi) Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that when the prosecution failed to establish the circumstances to prove the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt, a doubt shall be created and for that purpose they have relied upon the judgment of Apex Court in State of U.P. v. Arun Kumar Gupta, (2003) 2 SCC 202, (paragraph nos. 14,16, 20 and 21 of the said judgment) :

'14. We have heard the learned counsel and perused the records of the case and we are inclined to concur with the judgment of the High Court. As pointed out by the High Court that the prosecution though has been able to establish some of the links in the chain of circumstances, it has failed to establish some of the vital links beyond all reasonable doubts. Therefore, the High Court was justified in coming to the conclusion that the chain of circumstances in this case is not complete. On examining the evidence of Lilaldhar (PW 3), who allegedly saw the deceased with the respondent entering the house of the respondent on 27-5-1988 at about 3.00 to 3.30 p.m., we notice that even in his examination-in-chief he had admitted that he did not inform this fact to the father of the deceased, who at that point of time was searching for the deceased. Though, in the cross-examination, he has tried to fill in this omission, we think this circumstance is of such importance and if really he had noticed the deceased entering the house of the respondent on that afternoon, he would not have failed to mention this in his examination-in-chief itself, which omission should be taken note of while appreciating his evidence. Then we notice that this witness also belongs to the same biradari of PW 1 and was on visiting terms with him. Thus he is also an interested witness. He also stated in his evidence that the factum of seeing the deceased entering the house of the respondent was mentioned by him for the first time to the investigating officer when his statement was recorded even though ample opportunity was there to mention the same earlier. This coupled with the fact that the explanation given by him as to his presence near the house of the respondent on the afternoon being doubtful, we think the High Court was justified in coming to the conclusion that the evidence of this witness is not wholly reliable. We will next discuss the probability of the recovery of the dead body from the house of the respondent. In this regard, we have already noted the argument of the learned counsel for the respondent. Even according to the prosecution, the house in question belongs to the respondent and he was staying in that house with his family consisting of his wife and young children. The house is situated in a crowded locality and a large number of other houses and shops are in the close vicinity. We agree with the learned counsel for the respondent that no reasonable person would commit a ghastly murder like the one with which we are concerned by taking the victim to such a house where his family was residing. The prosecution has not produced any material to show either the presence or absence of the family members of the respondent at the time of the murder in the house. That apart, it is highly unlikely that neighbours and passers-by would not have been attracted if really the deceased, who suffered as many as 30 injuries was murdered in that house. Therefore, in all probability, the murder of the deceased was not committed in the house of the respondent.

16. In this regard, the prosecution relies on the evidence of PW 4. We have earlier noticed that PW 4 is not a resident in the immediate proximity of the house of the respondent. He belongs to the same biradari of the complainant and lives behind the house of the investigating officer, PW 9. We find no reasonable explanation, why such a person was called to be a witness to the recovery when there were any number of people available and who are residents of the houses in the immediate proximity of the house of the respondent. We also notice from the records that a large number of people were present at the time of the recovery, therefore, the prosecution should have come forward with some explanation, why PW 4 was so selectively chosen to be the witness for the recoveries. We also notice, though the preparation of memos of the recoveries took a long time, still for all the recoveries PW 4 is a common witness. There is also considerable discrepancy in regard to the manner in which PW 4 came to be a witness to the recoveries. From the evidence on record, it is seen that at one place it is stated that PW 4 had come to the house of the respondent on hearing the commotion that took place because of the breaking open of the lock of the house. At another place, we find that the IO, PW 9 had summoned PW 4 from his house to be a witness for the recovery. This discrepancy also adds to the doubt in regard to the evidence of PW 4. Therefore, in our opinion as held by the High Court, it is not safe to rely on the evidence of this witness. PWs 7 and 9 who were police officers are also witnesses, who speak about the recoveries made from the house of the respondent. PW 9 at one point says that all the recoveries in question were made by him and he left the house of the respondent around 11.00 or 11.30 p.m. in the night of 28-5-1988, while PW 7, who was also present at that point of time says that PW 9 was there throughout the night of 28-5-1988 till the morning of 29-5-1988 when the recoveries were completed. Thus we find a material contradiction in the evidence of these two witnesses. From the records, we see that the recoveries of the bloodstained knife and the bloodstained earth were made on 29-5-1988. And according to PW 9 he had made the recoveries and he had left the place by about 11.30 p.m. in the night. It is not possible to reconcile these two facts. If actually PW 9 was the person responsible for preparing the recovery memos then, the date 29th May does not fit into the prosecution case since according to this witness himself he left at about 11.30 in the night of 28-5-1988. Therefore, there is force in the arguments of the learned counsel for the respondent that these recoveries cannot be believed, more so in the background of the fact that the bloodstained knife and the bloodstained earth were not sent to the serologist. This Court in the case of Lakshmi Singh v. State of Bihar [(1976) 4 SCC 394 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 671 : AIR 1976 SC 2263] has stated that: (SCC p. 402, para 14)

'14. To add to this another important circumstance is the omission on the part of the prosecution to send the bloodstained earth found at the place of occurrence for chemical examination which could have fixed the situs of the assault. In almost all criminal cases, the bloodstained earth found from the place of occurrence is invariably sent to the Chemical Examiner and his report along with the earth is produced in the court, and yet this is one exceptional case where this procedure was departed from for reasons best known to the prosecution. This also, therefore, shows that the defence version may be true. It is well settled that it is not necessary for the defence to prove its case with the same rigour as the prosecution is required to prove its case, and it is sufficient if the defence succeeds in throwing a reasonable doubt on the prosecution case which is sufficient to enable the court to reject the prosecution version.'

20. From the material produced by the prosecution, it shows that this witness was taking extraordinary interest in the investigation and was present at practically every important place and time in the course of the investigation. The High Court has very elaborately discussed the evidence of this witness and has rejected the same for reasons with which we agree. In our opinion, the evidence of this witness does not inspire much confidence.

21. From the above discussion, in our opinion the prosecution has been able to establish only a motive as against the respondent for committing the murder, while most of the circumstances which are otherwise important to be proved in this case have not been established. We are of the opinion, the High Court was justified in interfering with the judgment of the Sessions Judge and allowing the appeal.'

(xii) For the purposes of non-examination of the material witnesses by the prosecution, learned counsel for the appellants have relied upon the decision of Supreme Court in Meharaj Singh v. State of U.P., (1994) 5 SCC 188, paragraph nos. 13,14,15 and 16 of the said judgment:

'13. It appears that it was a blind murder and none of the eyewitnesses were actually present at the scene. The ante-timing of the FIR was obviously made to introduce eyewitnesses to support the prosecution case. We may demonstrate this by noticing that though PW 3 Smt Kamlesh the widow of the deceased claimed that she was present with her husband at the time of the occurrence, her conduct was so unnatural that not only she did not try to save her husband by trying to provide a cover but even after her husband fell down and was inflicted repeated injuries with the knife by the appellant Meharaj Singh, she did not even try to go anywhere near her husband and even later on hold his head in her lap and try to provide some comfort to him. This becomes obvious from the absence of any bloodstains on her clothes. She admitted that she had not even received a scratch during the occurrence. In a situation like this, the normal conduct of any wife would be firstly to make an effort to save her husband even by taking the blow on herself and if that is not possible then at least to go so close to his person, at least after the assailants had left that there would be no escape from the blood oozing out of the injuries of the deceased to come on to her clothes. Similar criticism is also available against Balbir PW 2, Shiv Charan PW 4 and Satkari PW 5. It is not the case of the prosecution that the clothes of any of them had got bloodstained. The very fact that none of these witnesses went to lodge a report and instead left it to the father of the deceased to lodge the FIR would also go to show that the witnesses in all probability were not present at the spot. The absence of any blood in the field of Kirpal Singh as also the absence of blood trail from the field of Kirpal Singh to the place where the dead body was found, as admitted by PW 8, also suggests that the occurrence did not take place in the manner suggested by the prosecution and that the genesis of the fight has been suppressed from the court. The evidence of Dr Pande who conducted the post-mortem examination showing that the stomach contained partially digested food material weighing about 150 gms and concluding therefrom that the occurrence must have taken place between 9.00 and 9.30 a.m. if the deceased had taken his food at 7.00 a.m. would also throw a doubt on the correctness of the prosecution version which alleged time of occurrence as 11.30 a.m., presumably to lend an assurance that PWs 2, 3, 4 and 5 were present in the field at that time. The evidence of Dr Pande also to the effect that he had found incised injuries on the deceased including a L shaped injury (injury 11) and a semi-circular injury (injury 18) is indicative of the fact that these two injuries were caused with different weapons and looking to the nature of the other incised wounds present on the deceased, the possibility that three types of sharp-edged weapons were used cannot be ruled out. That being the position, it is obvious that the ocular testimony does not fit in with the medical evidence and instead it contradicts it.

14. It is interesting in this connection also to note that Satkari PW 5 named Resham also as an eyewitness. The High Court rightly held Satkari to be a chance witness also but the prosecution has not explained as to why Resham who was alleged to be an eyewitness has not been examined. According to Balbir PW 2, Jog Raj was also an eyewitness. He too has not been examined. Shiv Charan PW 4, also named Resham and Jog Raj as eyewitnesses. Thus, it appears to us that a concerted effort was made by the prosecution witnesses to introduce Resham and Jog Raj as false eyewitnesses in the case but since they have not been examined, it would be fair to draw a presumption, that they perhaps were not prepared to support the false case. The High Court while setting aside the order of acquittal did not deal with these various infirmities.

15. The alleged eyewitnesses are undoubtedly deeply interested in the prosecution but that by itself cannot be a ground to discard their testimony. It, however, certainly puts this Court on its guard to scrutinise their evidence more carefully and keeping in view their unnatural conduct, as noticed above, it appears to us that none of the alleged eyewitnesses had actually seen the occurrence and they were introduced as eyewitnesses after thoughtful deliberations and consultations. It appears, that since it was a blind murder, the appellants have been roped in on account of misguided suspicion because of the previous enmity. Our independent analysis of the evidence on the record coupled with the infirmities which we have noticed above has created an impression on our minds, that the prosecution has not been able to bring home guilt to either of the appellants beyond a reasonable doubt. The trial court was, therefore, right in acquitting them and the High Court even after noticing the infirmities, in our opinion, fell in error in convicting the appellants. The reasons given by the High Court, to set aside the order of acquittal do not commend to us. They are neither sufficient nor adequate or cogent much less compelling.

16. As a result of our above discussion, we hold that the case against both the appellants has not been proved beyond a reasonable doubt and that they are entitled to benefit of doubt. Their appeals consequently succeed and are allowed. The conviction and sentence recorded against them by the High Court are set aside. The appellants shall be set at liberty forthwith, if not required in any other case.'

(xiii) Since the case throughout of PW-1 was that the incident had happened inside within the boundary wall and that of PW-2 was that it had happened outside the boundary wall, therefore, when the place of occurrence itself was doubtful and it had shifted as per the prosecution witnesses, then the case definitely becomes doubtful. For this purpose, they have relied upon on the decision of Apex Court in Syed Ibrahim v. State of A.P., (2006) 10 SCC 601, paragraph nos. 10,11 and 12 of the said decision:

'10. Stress was laid by the accused-appellants on the non-acceptance of evidence tendered by PW 1 to a large extent to contend about the desirability to throw out the entire prosecution case. In essence the prayer is to apply the principle of 'falsus in uno falsus in omnibus' (false in one thing, false in everything). This plea is clearly untenable. Even if major portion of evidence is found to be deficient, in case residue is sufficient to prove guilt of an accused, his conviction can be maintained. It is the duty of the court to separate grain from chaff. Where chaff can be separated from grain, it would be open to the court to convict an accused notwithstanding the fact that evidence has been found to be deficient, or to be not wholly credible. Falsity of material particular would not ruin it from the beginning to end. The maxim 'falsus in uno falsus in omnibus' has no application in India and the witness or witnesses cannot be branded as liar(s). The maxim 'falsus in uno falsus in omnibus' has not received general acceptance nor has this maxim come to occupy the status of the rule of law. It is merely a rule of caution. All that it amounts to, is that in such cases testimony may be disregarded, and not that it must be disregarded. The doctrine merely involves the question of weight of evidence which a court may apply in a given set of circumstances, but it is not what may be called a mandatory rule of evidence. (See Nisar Ali v. State of U.P. [1957 SCR 657 : AIR 1957 SC 366 : 1957 Cri LJ 550]) In a given case, it is always open to a court to differentiate the accused who had been acquitted from those who were convicted where there are a number of accused persons. (See Gurcharan Singh v. State of Punjab [AIR 1956 SC 460 : 1956 Cri LJ 827] .) The doctrine is a dangerous one specially in India for if a whole body of the testimony were to be rejected, because the witness was evidently speaking an untruth in some aspect, it is to be feared that administration of criminal justice would come to a dead stop. Witnesses just cannot help in giving embroidery to a story, however, true in the main. Therefore, it has to be appraised in each case as to what extent the evidence is worthy of acceptance, and merely because in some respects the court considers the same to be insufficient for placing reliance on the testimony of a witness, it does not necessarily follow as a matter of law that it must be disregarded in all respect as well. The evidence has to be sifted with care. The aforesaid dictum is not a sound rule for the reason that one hardly comes across a witness whose evidence does not contain a grain of untruth or at any rate exaggeration, embroideries or embellishment. (See Sohrab v. State of M.P. [(1972) 3 SCC 751 : 1972 SCC (Cri) 819] and Ugar Ahir v. State of Bihar [AIR 1965 SC 277 : (1965) 1 Cri LJ 256] .) An attempt has to be made to, as noted above, in terms of felicitous metaphor, separate grain from the chaff, truth from falsehood. Where it is not feasible to separate truth from falsehood, because grain and chaff are inextricably mixed up, and in the process of separation an absolutely new case has to be reconstructed by divorcing essential details presented by the prosecution completely from the context and the background against which they are made, the only available course to be made is to discard the evidence in toto. (See Zwinglee Ariel v. State of M.P. [(1952) 2 SCC 560 : AIR 1954 SC 15 : 1954 Cri LJ 230] and Balaka Singh v. State of Punjab [(1975) 4 SCC 511 : 1975 SCC (Cri) 601] .) As observed by this Court in State of Rajasthan v. Kalki [(1981) 2 SCC 752 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 593] , normal discrepancies in evidence are those which are due to normal errors of observation, normal errors of memory due to lapse of time, due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of occurrence and those are always there however honest and truthful a witness may be. Material discrepancies are those which are not normal, and not expected of a normal person. The courts have to label the category to which a discrepancy may be categorised. While normal discrepancies do not corrode the credibility of a party's case, material discrepancies do so. These aspects were highlighted in Krishna Mochi v. State of Bihar [(2002) 6 SCC 81 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 1220] and in Sucha Singh v. State of Punjab [(2003) 7 SCC 643 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 1697] . It was further illuminated in Zahira Habibulla H. Sheikh v. State of Gujarat [(2004) 4 SCC 158 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 999] , Ram Udgar Singh v. State of Bihar [(2004) 10 SCC 443 : 2004 SCC (Cri) Supp 550] , Gorle S. Naidu v. State of A.P. [(2003) 12 SCC 449 : 2004 SCC (Cri) Supp 462] and in Gubbala Venugopalaswamy v. State of A.P. [(2004) 10 SCC 120 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 1764]

11. In the background of principles set out above it is to be seen how far the evidence of PW 1 is cogent and credible. Merely because he was the solitary witness who claimed to have seen the occurrence, that cannot be a ground to discard his evidence, in the background of what has been stated in Section 134 of the Evidence Act, 1872 (in short ‘the Evidence Act’). No particular number of witnesses are required for the proof of any fact; material evidence and not number of witnesses has to be taken note of by the courts to ascertain the truth of the allegations made. Therefore, if the evidence of PW 1 is accepted as cogent and credible, then the prosecution is to succeed. It is to be noted that PW 1, father of the appellant, claimed to have set law into motion. The testimony of PW 1 was to the effect that after witnessing a part of the occurrence he had run to the police station and had come back within about five minutes. The evidence on record disproves veracity of this part of his evidence. The occurrence is alleged to have taken place at about 10 p.m. The FIR was lodged at the police station at about 11.30 p.m. PW 1 and the investigating officer accepted that it will take nearly one hour for somebody on foot to reach the police station considering the distance of the alleged place of occurrence and the police station. There is another interesting factor : PW 1 accepted in the cross-examination that the report (Ext. P-1) was written in the police station in the presence of Sub-Inspector and a constable. But in his examination-in-chief, he had stated that he had got written the report by somebody at a hotel and the person normally writes petitions. No particulars of this person who allegedly scribed the report, not even his name, was stated by PW 1. His evidence is further to the effect that he alone had come to the police station where the report was lodged and that is how he admitted that the report was written at the police station. This may not appear to be that important a factor considering the illiteracy of PW 1. But there is another significant factor which completely destroys the prosecution version and the credibility of PW 1 as a witness. He has indicated four different places to be the place of occurrence. In his examination-in-chief he stated that the occurrence took place in his house. In the cross-examination he stated that the incident took place at the house of his wife, the deceased's mother. This is a very important factor considering the undisputed position and in fact the admission of PW 1 that he and his wife were separated nearly two decades ago, and that he was not on visiting terms with his wife. Then the question would automatically arise as to how in spite of strained relationship he could have seen the occurrence as alleged in the house of his wife. That is not the end of the matter. In his cross-examination he further stated that the incident happened in the small lane in front of the house of his wife. This is at clear variance with the statement that the occurrence took place inside the house where allegedly he, the deceased, his son, PW 2 and daughters, PWs 3 and 6 were present. That is not the final say of the witness. He accepted that in the FIR (Ext. P-1) he had stated the place of occurrence to be the house of the deceased. Though the FIR is not a substantive evidence yet, the same can be used to test the veracity of the witness. PW 1 accepted that what was stated in the FIR was correct. When the place of occurrence itself has not been established it would not be proper to accept the prosecution version.

12. Above being the position, the High Court was not right in lightly brushing aside the apparent inconsistencies and discrepancies by making a general observation that PW 1 is an illiterate person. Above being the position the impugned judgment of the High Court is set aside. The accused be set at liberty forthwith unless he is required to be in custody in connection with any other case.'

In Pohlu v. State of Haryana, (2005) 10 SCC 196, the Apex Court has held as under : paragraph nos. 9, 10, 11, 13 and 17 of the said decision:

'9. So far as motive is concerned, it is settled law that failure to prove motive is not fatal to the case of the prosecution if there is reliable evidence to prove the case of the prosecution. However, there is substance in the submission urged on behalf of the appellants that there was really no reason for the appellants to assault Sukhdei, and for that purpose to go to her house, even if they bore a grudge against Hukam Chand, the deceased. It is not understood as to why the appellants went to the house of Sukhdei and assaulted her when it was really Hukam Chand who was their target and who was living separately from Sukhdei. Moreover, the election took place on 19-12-1994 and thereafter for about 18 days nothing untoward happened. There is no reason why suddenly the appellants decided to assault Sukhdei. It was therefore, contended that the real genesis of the occurrence has not been disclosed by the prosecution, and that probabilises the defence case that in a different occurrence, and in a different manner, the informant and the deceased were assaulted.

10. It was then submitted that some of the material witnesses were not examined and in this connection it was argued that two of the eyewitnesses named in the FIR, namely, Chander and Sita Ram were not examined by the prosecution. Dharamvir, son of Sukhdei was also not examined by the prosecution though he was a material witness, being an injured eyewitness, having witnessed the assault that took place in the house of Sukhdei, PW 2. It is true that it is not necessary for the prosecution to multiply witnesses, if it prefers to rely upon the evidence of the eyewitnesses examined by it, which it considers sufficient to prove the case of the prosecution. However, the intrinsic worth of the testimony of the witnesses examined by the prosecution has to be assessed by the court. If their evidence appears to be truthful, reliable and acceptable, the mere fact that some other witnesses have not been examined, will not adversely affect the case of the prosecution. We have, therefore, to examine the evidence of the two eyewitnesses, namely, PW 1 and PW 2, and to find whether their evidence is true, on the basis of which the conviction of the appellants can be sustained.

11. PW 2 Sukhdei has alleged in the FIR that the occurrence took place near the village chaupal in which Hukam Chand, the deceased, was assaulted. Before that the appellants and others had entered her house, assaulted her and thereafter proceeded towards the chaupal. While deposing in court she has attempted to change the place of occurrence by stating that she was assaulted in the sahan of her house and Hukam Chand was assaulted just outside her house. Counsel for the State has shown to us the site plan from which it appears that the place where Hukam Chand is alleged to have been assaulted is only three steps from the main door of the house of the informant. Counsel for the appellants submitted that this has been done deliberately, because the material on record does disclose that a different occurrence took place near the chaupal in which the son of the informant namely Dharamvir, was also involved. However, with a view to prevent the emergence of truth the prosecution has shifted the place of occurrence and also not examined Dharamvir, son of the informant, who was also involved in that incident. What is apparent, however, is that PW 1 has sought to shift the place of occurrence where Hukam Chand is said to have been assaulted. Though, according to her, she was assaulted inside the house in the sahan and some blood had dropped in the sahan, and her clothes had also got bloodstained, the investigating officer has categorically stated that he did not find blood at any place either at the alleged place of occurrence or in the sahan or on the clothes of the informant. Moreover, this witness named only three accused persons in the FIR. Later she added the name of Prem Singh, and in the course of deposition in court she also implicated Raj Kumar. These facts lead us to hold that she is not a wholly reliable witness on whom the Court can place implicit reliance.

13. From the deposition of this witness it appears that in the course of the investigation he had stated that his father had been assaulted only by Ishwar, and not by others. In the course of deposition he sought to involve all the accused persons. Having considered the evidence of this witness in its entirety, we are satisfied that he is also not a reliable witness on whom implicit reliance can be placed and his credibility has been sufficiently impeached in his cross-examination. In fact so far as this witness is concerned, he named Raj Kumar and Prem Singh for the first time in the course of his deposition, and it appears that he had not even mentioned their names in the course of the investigation.

17. Having considered the evidence of the eyewitnesses and in view of the fact that the eyewitnesses tried to falsely implicate two other persons namely Raj Kumar and Prem Singh, whose acquittal was not challenged by the State, we are not persuaded to place reliance upon any one of the eyewitnesses for the reasons earlier recorded. Other witnesses named in the FIR who could have thrown some light on the occurrence as it took place, have not been examined. One of the injured persons, namely, Dharamvir has been kept out deliberately, and was not examined at the trial. There was a deliberate attempt on the part of the informant PW 2 to keep him out of the picture by not naming him in the FIR, though in her supplementary statement she mentioned that Prem Singh had assaulted her son Dharamvir inside her house. So far as PW 1 is concerned, his cross-examination reveals that he had a different story to tell in the course of the investigation involving only Ishwar. In these facts and circumstances, we hold that neither of the two eyewitnesses examined by the prosecution can be relied upon. If their evidence is discarded, there is no other evidence which can sustain the conviction of the appellants.'

(xiv) What is more learned counsel for the appellants have submitted that it had been the case of the prosecution especially of PW-1 and PW-2 that after the incident had occurred the deceased was taken to hospital in a Scorpio Car, however, the Scorpio Car was never made a part of investigation and it was never shown that there was any blood in the Scorpio Car and this also, as per the learned counsel for the appellants, became a doubtful circumstance.

(xv) There was absolutely no motive and submitted that there might have been a case of eye witness account but some element of motive had to be looked into by the Courts.

(xvi) Medical evidence was against the ocular evidence.

(xvii) Entire incident was based on nothing else but falsehood as two firearms, which were recovered on the pointing out of the accused Govind Yadav and Suresh Yadav and the empty cartridges which had fallen at the place of occurrence had not matched the firearms i.e. country made pistol and country made revolver and it is clear from the FSL report dated 2.8.2016.

(xviii) Relying upon the doctor's version that apart from the fact that PW-1 was not there and the place of incident was not determined, even the time of the incident was doubtful as the post mortem report showed that there was gas and faecal matter in the large intestine of the deceased and the doctor has stated that this was possible only if the deceased had taken food two hours before the incident. Therefore, the incident had occurred either two hours after lunch or two hours after dinner time. For this purpose learned counsel for the appellants relied upon the statement of PW-1 at page 64 of the paper book, which is as under. It had stated that the deceased was having an empty stomach :

'घर से चलने व घटना स्थल तक पहुचने तक कोई चाय यानी नास्ता पानी नहीं किये थे मौंके पर पहुचने पर भी और घटना के पहले मेरे भाई कुछ खाये पीये नहीं थे।"

Thereafter, he relied upon the statement of doctor at page 135 of the paper book, which is as under :

"आमाशय की दशा अन्तर वस्तुये और गंध पेस्टीफ्ल्यूड मौजूद था छोटी आंत और अपेंडिक्स की स्थिति खाली व नार्मल था। बड़ी आंत में गैस और मल मौजूद था।'

Contradictions in the statements of PW-1 and PW-3 definitely raises a doubt in the mind with regard to the timing of the incident.

(xix) There were two live cartridges also recovered at the place of occurrence by the Investigating Officer. Learned counsel submit that under no situation live cartridges would have fallen down at the place of incident when firing had been done actively by the pistols or revolvers. Only to give credence to the story of the prosecution the live cartridges were made to appear at the place of incident.

(xx) Even the samples of plain soil and bloodstained soil, which were taken by the Investigating Officer were sent to the FSL and the report had failed to establish that the place of occurrence was the place where the soil had been picked from.

30. On the other hand, learned counsel for the informant and the learned Additional Government Advocates submitted that :

(i) Though motive was not there in black and white but there was a motive because apparently the accused side never liked the ownership of the deceased wife of the plot in question. Still further, learned counsel for the informant submitted that there was no delay in sending the police report and thus no violation of the provisions of Section 157 CrPC. The two days delay to send the report to the Magistrate was because of there being intervening State Holidays. Also they submitted that no prejudice could be pointed out. For this purpose he relied upon a case in Ombir Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another, (2020) 6 SCC 378, paragraph nos. 4 and 5 of the said judgment:

'4. There was undoubtedly a delay in compliance with Section 157 of the Code, as the FIR was received in the office of the Chief Judicial Magistrate with a delay of 11 days. Effect of delay in compliance with Section 157 of the Code and its legal impact on the trial has been examined by this Court in Jafel Biswas v. State of W.B. [Jafel Biswas v. State of W.B., (2019) 12 SCC 560 : (2019) 4 SCC (Cri) 455] after referring to the earlier case laws, to elucidate as follows : (SCC pp. 565-67, paras 18-21)

'18. In State of Rajasthan [State of Rajasthan v. Daud Khan, (2016) 2 SCC 607 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 793] in paras 27 and 28, this Court has laid down as follows : (SCC pp. 620-21)

'27. The delay in sending the special report was also the subject of discussion in a recent decision being Sheo Shankar Singh v. State of U.P. [Sheo Shankar Singh v. State of U.P., (2013) 12 SCC 539 : (2014) 4 SCC (Cri) 390] wherein it was held that before such a contention is countenanced, the accused must show prejudice having been caused by the delayed dispatch of the FIR to the Magistrate. It was held, relying upon several earlier decisions as follows : (SCC pp. 549-50, paras 30-31)

'30. One other submission made on behalf of the appellants was that in the absence of any proof of forwarding the FIR copy to the jurisdiction Magistrate, violation of Section 157 CrPC has crept in and thereby, the very registration of the FIR becomes doubtful. The said submission will have to be rejected, inasmuch as the FIR placed before the Court discloses that the same was reported at 4.00 p.m. on 13-6-1979 and was forwarded on the very next day viz. 14-6-1979. Further, a perusal of the impugned judgments of the High Court [Sarvajit Singh v. State of U.P., 2003 SCC OnLine All 1214 : (2004) 48 ACC 732] as well as of the trial court discloses that no case of any prejudice was shown nor even raised on behalf of the appellants based on alleged violation of Section 157 CrPC. Time and again, this Court has held that unless serious prejudice was demonstrated to have been suffered as against the accused, mere delay in sending the FIR to the Magistrate by itself will not have any deteriorating (sic) effect on the case of the prosecution. Therefore, the said submission made on behalf of the appellants cannot be sustained.

31. In this context, we would like to refer to a recent decision of this Court in Sandeep v. State of U.P. [Sandeep v. State of U.P., (2012) 6 SCC 107 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 18] wherein the said position has been explained as under in paras 62-63 : (SCC p. 132)

'62. It was also feebly contended on behalf of the appellants that the express report was not forwarded to the Magistrate as stipulated under Section 157 CrPC instantaneously. According to the learned counsel FIR which was initially registered on 17-11-2004 was given a number on 19-11-2004 as FIR No. 116 of 2004 and it was altered on 20-11-2004 and was forwarded only on 25-11-2004 to the Magistrate. As far as the said contention is concerned, we only wish to refer to the reported decision of this Court in Pala Singh v. State of Punjab [Pala Singh v. State of Punjab, (1972) 2 SCC 640 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 55] wherein this Court has clearly held that (SCC p. 645, para 8) where the FIR was actually recorded without delay and the investigation started on the basis of that FIR and there is no other infirmity brought to the notice of the court then, however improper or objectionable the delay in receipt of the report by the Magistrate concerned be, in the absence of any prejudice to the accused it cannot by itself justify the conclusion that the investigation was tainted and the prosecution insupportable.

63. Applying the above ratio in Pala Singh [Pala Singh v. State of Punjab, (1972) 2 SCC 640 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 55] to the case on hand, while pointing out the delay in the forwarding of the FIR to the Magistrate, no prejudice was said to have been caused to the appellants by virtue of the said delay. As far as the commencement of the investigation is concerned, our earlier detailed discussion discloses that there was no dearth in that aspect. In such circumstances we do not find any infirmity in the case of the prosecution on that score. In fact the above decision was subsequently followed in Sarwan Singh v. State of Punjab [Sarwan Singh v. State of Punjab, (1976) 4 SCC 369 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 646] , Anil Rai v. State of Bihar [Anil Rai v. State of Bihar, (2001) 7

SCC 318 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1009] and Aqeel Ahmad v. State of U.P. [Aqeel Ahmad v. State of U.P., (2008) 16 SCC 372 : (2010) 4 SCC (Cri) 11]

28. It is no doubt true that one of the external checks against ante-dating or ante-timing an FIR is the time of its dispatch to the Magistrate or its receipt by the Magistrate. The dispatch of a copy of the FIR □forthwith□ ensures that there is no manipulation or interpolation in the FIR. [Sudarshan v. State of Maharashtra, (2014) 12 SCC 312 : (2014) 5 SCC (Cri) 94] If the prosecution is asked to give an explanation for the delay in the dispatch of a copy of the FIR, it ought to do so. [Meharaj Singh v. State of U.P., (1994) 5 SCC 188 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 1391] However, if the court is convinced of the prosecution version's truthfulness and trustworthiness of the witnesses, the absence of an explanation may not be regarded as detrimental to the prosecution case. It would depend on the facts and circumstances of the case. [Rattiram v. State of M.P., (2013) 12 SCC 316 : (2014) 1 SCC (Cri) 635]

19. The obligation is on the investigating officer to communicate the report to the Magistrate. The obligation cast on the investigating officer is an obligation of a public duty. But it has been held by this Court that in the event the report is submitted with delay or due to any lapse, the trial shall not be affected. The delay in submitting the report is always taken as a ground to challenge the veracity of the FIR and the day and time of the lodging of the FIR.

20. In cases where the date and time of the lodging of the FIR is questioned, the report becomes more relevant. But mere delay in sending the report itself cannot lead to a conclusion that the trial is vitiated or the accused is entitled to be acquitted on this ground.

21. This Court in Anjan Dasgupta v. State of W.B. [Anjan Dasgupta v. State of W.B., (2017) 11 SCC 222 : (2017) 4 SCC (Cri) 280] (of which one of us was a member, Hon'ble Ashok Bhushan, J.) had considered Section 157 CrPC. In the above case also, the FIR was dispatched with delay. Referring to an earlier judgment [Rabindra Mahto v. State of Jharkhand, (2006) 10 SCC 432 : (2006) 3 SCC (Cri) 592] of this Court, it was held that in every case from the mere delay in sending the FIR to the Magistrate, the Court would not conclude that the FIR has been registered much later in time than shown.

5. Therefore, delay in compliance with Section 157 of the Code cannot, in itself, be a good ground to acquit the appellant. Albeit, this fact has to be considered when we examine the credibility of the version of the eyewitnesses; in this case, the testimonies of Dinesh Singh (PW 1) and Mukesh Singh (PW 2). We must also keep in mind that there were questions raised by the complainant and the family members of the deceased as to the manner in which the investigation was carried by the first investigating officer and his team, and therefore the investigation was subsequently transferred to the Crime Branch□Crime Investigation Department (□CB-CID□, for short) on 1-8-1999.'

(ii) Even if the FSL report had not made the empty cartridges match with the bullet, which was found inside the body of the deceased, it matters little because it was an eye witness account which had initiated the prosecution and also it was a day light murder, which could not have been doubted.

(iii) The call detail reports, which were being relied upon to show that PW-1 and PW-2 were not present on the spot were of no avail, as they were neither accompanied by the certificate under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act, nor were they proved after exhibiting the documents.

(iv) The incident had occurred on 8.8.2014 and the examination-in-chief started on 17.8.2015 and thereafter there was cross-examination also done and for almost 5 years the trial had continued. There was every possibility that the witnesses i.e. PW-1 and PW-2 had become confused and therefore, they had not given the correct position where the incident had occurred. In this regard learned counsel for the informant and the learned AGA have relied upon a decision of Apex Court in Chandan v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2024) 6 SCC 799, and relied upon paragraph nos. 5 and 6 of the said decision, which are as under :

'5. An FIR was registered on the date of incident itself i.e. 28-5-1993, at Police Station, Kashmere Gate, Delhi on the statement of PW 2, the complainant, where she narrated the incident as already stated above. The police after investigation filed the charge-sheet against the sole accused, Chandan, under Section 302IPC.

6. After committal of the case to the Sessions Court, 18 witnesses were examined by the prosecution. The star witness of the prosecution was PW 2, who was the eyewitness. She was put to a lengthy cross-examination by the defence but nothing has come out which may discredit this witness. This witness in her testimony narrates the entire sequence of events as to how the accused stabbed the deceased to death and how she watched from a short distance the act being committed before her, and how all this happened in quick time.'

(v) Still further learned counsel for the informant submitted that minor contradictions do not matter and placed reliance upon a case of Supreme Court in Alauddin v. State of Assam, (2024) 12 SCC 224, paragraph nos. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 of the said judgment:

'5. Before we deal with the merits, something must be stated about how the trial court recorded the prosecution witnesses' cross-examination in this case, especially when they were confronted with their prior statements. The trial court did not follow the correct procedure while recording the contradictions.

6. Under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short 'CrPC'), the police have the power to record statements of the witnesses during the investigation. Section 162CrPC deals with the use of such statements in evidence.

7. Section 162 reads thus:

'162. Statements to police not to be signed: Use of statements in evidence.'(1) No statement made by any person to a police officer in the course of an investigation under this Chapter, shall, if reduced to writing, be signed by the person making it; nor shall any such statement or any record thereof, whether in a police diary or otherwise, or any part of such statement or record, be used for any purpose, save as hereinafter provided, at any inquiry or trial in respect of any offence under investigation at the time when such statement was made:

Provided that when any witness is called for the prosecution in such inquiry or trial whose statement has been reduced into writing as aforesaid, any part of his statement, if duly proved, may be used by the accused, and with the permission of the court, by the prosecution, to contradict such witness in the manner provided by Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872); and when any part of such statement is so used, any part thereof may also be used in the re-examination of such witness, but for the purpose only of explaining any matter referred to in his cross-examination.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to any statement falling within the provisions of clause (1) of Section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872), or to affect the provisions of Section 27 of that Act.

Explanation.-An omission to state a fact or circumstance in the statement referred to in sub-section (1) may amount to contradiction if the same appears to be significant and otherwise relevant having regard to the context in which such omission occurs and whether any omission amounts to a contradiction in the particular context shall be a question of fact.'

8. The basic principle incorporated in sub-section (1) of Section 162 is that any statement made by a person to a police officer in the course of investigation, which is reduced in writing, cannot be used for any purpose except as provided in Section 162. The first exception incorporated in sub-section (2) is of the statements covered by clause (1) of Section 32 of the Evidence Act, 1872 (for short 'the Evidence Act'). Thus, what is provided in sub-section (1) of Section 162 does not apply to a dying declaration. The second exception to the general rule provided in sub-section (1) of Section 162 is that the accused can use the statement to contradict the witness in the manner provided by Section 145 of the Evidence Act. Even the prosecution can use the statement to contradict a witness in the manner provided in Section 145 of the Evidence Act with the prior permission of the court. The prosecution normally takes recourse to this provision when its witness does not support the prosecution case. There is one important condition for using the prior statement for contradiction. The condition is that the part of the statement used for contradiction must be duly proved.

9. When the two statements cannot stand together, they become contradictory statements. When a witness makes a statement in his evidence before the court which is inconsistent with what he has stated in his statement recorded by the police, there is a contradiction. When a prosecution witness whose statement under Section 161(1) or Section 164CrPC has been recorded states factual aspects before the court which he has not stated in his prior statement recorded under Section 161(1) or Section 164CrPC, it is said that there is an omission. There will be an omission if the witness has omitted to state a fact in his statement recorded by the police, which he states before the court in his evidence. The Explanation to Section 162CrPC indicates that an omission may amount to a contradiction when it is significant and relevant. Thus, every omission is not a contradiction. It becomes a contradiction provided it satisfies the test laid down in the Explanation under Section 162. Therefore, when an omission becomes a contradiction, the procedure provided in the proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 162 must be followed for contradicting witnesses in the cross-examination.

10. As stated in the proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 162, the witness has to be contradicted in the manner provided under Section 145 of the Evidence Act. Section 145 reads thus:

'145. Cross-examination as to previous statements in writing.'A witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing or reduced into writing, and relevant to matters in question, without such writing being shown to him, or being proved; but, if it is intended to contradict him by the writing, his attention must, before the writing can be proved, be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him.'

31. We have considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the entire record including the impugned judgment and order and the case laws relied upon by the parties carefully.

32. We find that the place of incident is definitely doubtful. PW-1 had stated that the incident had occurred inside the plot which was surrounded by a boundary wall and closed by a gate. However, actually the incident had happened outside, as was stated by PW-2. Also the PW-6, the Investigating Officer had stated that on the pointing out of PW-1 he had prepared the site plan and he had found that the incident had happened outside the boundary wall and the gate. Empty cartridges, bullet etc. were found outside the boundary wall. We also find that there was no contradiction in the statement of PW-1 at various stages regarding the place of occurrence. PW-1 was constantly consistent that the incident had happened inside the gate whereas PW-2 was constantly consistent about the fact that the incident had happened outside the boundary wall and the gate of the plot. Thus, no confusion was there in the minds of PW-1 and PW-2. We find that even the Investigating Officer had prepared the site plan with the help of PW-1 and had stated that the incident had occurred outside the gate, therefore, with some certainty we can say that the place of incident definitely becomes doubtful. Also the firearm which was recovered and the bullet which was recovered from inside the dead body of the deceased and also the empty cartridges which were found from the place of occurrence and the empty cartridge which was found in the revolver all were sent to Forensic Science Laboratory and the report which came from there showed that none of the empty cartridges or the bullet etc. matched the two guns which were recovered under Section 27 of the Evidence Act. We are conscious of the fact that before the recovery had taken place, the disclosure statement was not recorded and therefore, as per the judgment of Apex Court in Subramanya vs. State of Karnataka reported in (2023) 11 SCC 255 the recovery itself became bad in law.

33. In the above conspectus and also while we consider the report of the doctor which said that there was gas and faecal matter in the large intestine making it evident that the deceased had taken food two hours prior to the incident, it makes it evidently clear that the incident might have happened at a time which was not in accordance with the time given by the prosecution. Coupled with the time not tallying after considering the statements of the PW-1 and PW-2, we have already found that the PW-1 and PW-2 were at variance with regard to the place of incident. These two factors definitely make the case of prosecution extremely doubtful.

34. Still further as per the judgment in Tukesh Singh case (supra) we are of the view that so far as the accused persons are concerned, specially Rajan Yadav, they all ought to have been identified in the Court and in the absence of dock identification the trial itself becomes vulnerable and had to result in acquittal. We are also of the view that when Rajan Yadav was not named in the FIR and subsequently his name erupted then there was a doubt as to whether he was there at all. Thus, we are definitely of the view that he should have been identified by a test identification parade. Be that as it may, even if the test identification parade had not been done at least dock identification should have been conducted at the time of the trial.

35. So far as the prosecution case with regard to the reliance of call detail reports is concerned, we do find that call details were not accompanied by any certificate under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act and also the call detail report was not subjected to proof and no evidence was led in this regard and also it was never exhibited. Thus, reliance on it would not be justified.

36. Further, from the entire reading of the evidence, we are of the view that the FIR might not have been ante-timed. The cuttings on the inquest report and the delay in sending the police report were not such lapses in the prosecution case that we would be led to conclude that the FIR was ante timed.

37. Concluding, we find that the place of incident becomes doubtful; presence of PW-1 and PW-2 and other persons from the informant's side becomes doubtful; the timing of the incident also becomes doubtful and so far as Babludhar Dubey is concerned, we are of the view that definitely, if all the testimonies of the defence witnesses are taken into account, the irresistible conclusion would be that he was not there at the site. His alibi was definitely an issue which had to be considered and if it was found that Babludhar Dubey was not there then the FIR version from the very beginning becomes nothing else but a bundle of lies. Also, when the Trial Court acquitted Babludhar Dubey under Section 396 IPC it gives us reason to believe that the prosecution had concocted the story with regard to his taking away the licensed gun of the deceased.

38. Also the recovery of firearm was not in accordance with law and also since the firearm did not match the empty cartridges and the bullet etc. we are of the considered view that the case taken by the prosecution under the Arms Act was also nothing else but a concocted story to help the main case.

39. Hence, upon careful analysis and consideration of the settled legal position in the backdrop of the facts and circumstances of the present case, we are of the opinion that the conclusion taken by the Trial Court in the impugned judgment and order is not in accordance with law and the evidence available on record. Thus, this Court is of the considered view that the prosecution has not been able to establish the guilt of the accused appellants beyond reasonable doubt. Therefore, the Court is inclined to grant benefit of doubt to the accused appellants on the ground of rule of caution.

40. In view of the above discussions, we are of the opinion that the prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of the accused appellants for the alleged offences punishable under Sections 147, 148, 307/149. 302/149, 504 of IPC and under Section 3/25 Arms Act beyond reasonable doubt and to the satisfaction of the judicial conscience of the Court. So, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 13/17.2.2023, which has been sought to be assailed, calls for and deserves, interference. The criminal appeals are liable to be allowed.

41. Accordingly, criminal appeals are allowed and the conviction and sentence imposed upon the accused appellants is set-aside as the accused appellants are found not guilty for the aforesaid offences. They are honourably acquitted of all the charges framed against them. Accused appellants Govind Yadav, Suresh Yadav, Rinku @ Rajiv Yadav, Monu Yadav, Rajan Yadav are on bail and accused appellant Babludhar Dubey @ Vishnudhar Dubey is on short term bail on medical ground. They need not surrender and their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged.

42. Copy of this order be also placed on the records of Criminal Appeal Nos. 2855 of 2023, 2861 of 2023, 2088 of 2023 and 2519 of 2023.

42. Office is directed to communicate this order to the court concerned forthwith for compliance and also to send back the trial court record.

43. Pending application, if any, stands disposed of.

THE HON'BLE AVNISH SAXENA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2360 of 1985

Rajendra Chauhan & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether, in the facts and circumstances of the case, where the conviction of the appellants under Ss. 307/34 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 stood affirmed, but the occurrence had taken place about 45 years earlier, the parties had entered into a verified compromise, the appellants had become senior citizens, and there was nothing on record to show that they were habitual criminals, the sentence of five years' rigorous imprisonment required modification to the period already undergone. (Paras 17-20)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Sentence - Modification of sentence after long lapse of time - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 307 and 34 - Judicial discretion in sentencing - Sentence must be just, adequate and proportionate to the gravity of the offence, but passage of time, age of the convicts, compromise between the parties and reformative principles of punishment are relevant considerations while determining whether the remaining sentence should be served - On facts, occurrence was about 45 years old, compromise had been verified, appellants had remained on bail for decades, were senior citizens and there was nothing on record to show that they were habitual criminals - Sentence modified to the period already undergone while maintaining conviction. (Paras 17-20)

Criminal Law - Sentencing policy - Reformative theory of punishment - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 307 and 34 - Long passage of time - Court held that sending the appellants to jail after lapse of about 41 years would not serve the purpose of the basic principles of the law of punishment, which in India is not corporeal in nature but reformative in its form, and the intention of the legislature regarding remission also reflects the same principle - Sentence reduced to the period already undergone. (Paras 17-20)
Criminal Law - Compromise - Effect on sentence - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 307 and 34 - Though the offence was non-compoundable, the verified compromise, coupled with the advanced age of the appellants, long pendency of proceedings and judicial precedents on sentencing, constituted relevant circumstances for modification of sentence without disturbing the conviction - Appeal partly allowed only on the question of sentence. (Paras 3-6, 19-22)
Held: The trial court had rightly evaluated the role of the appellants and awarded just and adequate punishment and the conviction under Ss. 307/34 IPC did not call for interference - However, while exercising judicial discretion in sentencing, the appellate court was required to consider the long passage of time, the verified compromise between the parties, the advanced age of the appellants, the fact that they had remained on bail for decades and the absence of any material to show that they were habitual criminals - Sending the appellants to jail after about forty-one years would not serve the purpose of the basic principles of the law of punishment which in India is not corporeal in nature but reformative in its form - The judicious and purposeful punishment was to reduce the sentence to the period already undergone while maintaining the conviction and accordingly the appeal was partly allowed on the point of sentence and the bail bonds and sureties were discharged - appeal partly allowed. Case Arising From APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal filed under S. 374 CrPC against the judgment of conviction and sentence dated 05.09.1985 passed in S.T. No. 201 of 1985 whereby the appellants were convicted under Ss. 307/34 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 and sentenced to five years' rigorous imprisonment each.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellants:
Sri Vinod Kumar Chandel.
Advs. for the Respondent:
Ms. Seema Shukla learned AGA for the State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Avnish Saxena, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vinod Kumar Chandel, learned counsel for the appellants and Ms. Seema Shukla, learned AGA for the State.

2. The present criminal appeal has been preferred under Section 374 CrPC by accused appellants Rajendra Chauhan and Ram Pyare Lal on being aggrieved by the judgment of conviction and sentence dated 05.09.1985 in S.T. No. 201 of 1985 (State Vs. Rajendra Chauhan and another) wherein the appellants have been convicted for offence under Section 307 read with Section 34 IPC and sentence each of them for five years rigorous imprisonment.

3. Before adverting to the facts of the case, it would be expedient to mention that there is cross version of FIR. The informant of this case namely Saghir Ahmad has moved an application on 13.10.1992 before this Court along with an affidavit stating therein that the permission be granted to compromise the matter. It is mentioned in paragraph nos. 1 to 3 of the affidavit that the appellants have been wrongly convicted under Section 307 IPC though on the face of it Sections 323, 324, 325 IPC is attracted. The relevant paragraph are reiterated underneath:-

‘1. That the appellants have been wrongly convicted under Section 307/34 IPC From the facts, evidence and circumstances of the case, it is Sections 323, 324 and 325 of Indian Penal Code, which are attracted and made out of the prosecution is at all believed.

2. That the learned Sessions Judge has observed in his Judgment that both, the prosecutory and the defence have concealed the facts leading to the occurrence.

3. That the injured Saghir Ahmad and the appellants Rajendra and Ram Pyare have to terms. They have compromised. In case this court accept the compromise the relation between the parties will become sweet and tension free, leading to future harmony and peace.

4. This Court in order dated 22.10.1992 has granted permission and send the compromise for verification. The order dated 22.10.1992 is reiterated underneath:-

‘Send the compromise for verification to the C.J.M. Azamgarh. The C.J.M. Azamgarh shall endeavour to get the compromise verified within six weeks from the date when he receives the papers sent by this court and he shall transmit the papers back after verification to this court, without delay. The office is directed to send the papers to the C.J.M., Azamgarh within ten days from today.’

5. In pursuance to the aforesaid order the application in original was sent to the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Azamgarh, who in order dated 25.01.1993 has verified compromise. The text of the verified compromise is reiterated underneath:-

"आज इस सुलहनामे के सत्यापन हेतु श्री सगीर अहमद वादी ने रूबरू अदालत मजमून सुलहनामा को तस्दीक किया तथा इनकी पहचान श्री शाहजहां एडवो ० ने किया। मजमून सुलहनामा इनको पढ़कर सुनाया एवं समझाया गया तथा सुलहनामे पर अपने हस्ताक्षर का होना स्वीकार किया।"

6. The verified compromise received to this Court on 18.03.1993 and since then it is fixed for disposal.

7. The prosecution case in a nutshell as revealed from first information report dated 24.05.1981 lodged at P.S.- Gambhirpur, Azamgarh by Saghir Ahmad with the allegation that Iliyas went to the village of the accused to call Nekchand Lohar of his village and took Saghir Ahmad, who met him in the way. The accused appellants had apprehended the informant and took him to the door of Saheb Ali and opened fire at him. Iliyas has sprinted away, whereas informant suffered gun shot injuries.

8. In the prosecution Saghir Ahmad and Iliyas were produced as PW-1 and PW-2; whereas, Dr. B.Das the Medical Officer has been produced as PW-3, the Doctor who found injuries on the person of Saghir Ahmad suffered due to gun shot.

9. It is the contention of learned counsel for appellants that the parties are of same village. The matter is nearly 45 years old. The parties have settled their dispute through compromise in the year 1992 and there is no point in moving with the conviction of the accused appellants, who are presently senior citizens of nearly 80 years of age, hence, prayed for an order of modification of sentence that the appellants shall be released on undergone.

10. Learned AGA, though argued that there is cross fight wherein both the accused and informant suffered injuries, which establishes the guilt, but concedes that there is compromise between the parties and the same is verified.

11. This Court has given thoughtful consideration to the rival submissions and considered some judgments on the point, which are dealt with in subsequent paragraphs.

12. In the case of Labh Singh v. State of Haryana1, Hon□ble the Supreme Court has taken the view, while considering the sentence awarded in the old case of 1985, wherein, all the accused are senior citizen by then, that no useful purpose would be served in sending the accused to jail. The relevant paragraph numbers 3 to 6 are reiterated underneath:

‘ 3. According to the impugned judgment passed by the High Court, Appellant 1 is more than 82 years of age and Appellants 2 and 3 are 72 and 62 years of age respectively.

4. This is an incident of 1985. The appellants have already undergone part of the sentence. Sending them to jail after a lapse of about 27 years, in the facts and circumstances of this case, would not be justified.

5. On a consideration of the totality of the facts and circumstances of this case, we are of the opinion that ends of justice would meet if we direct each of the appellants to pay Rs 1 lakh to the complainant/injured persons. We direct accordingly. Let the amount be deposited before the trial court within two weeks from today and after the amount is deposited, the trial court shall disburse the amount equally among the injured persons.

6. Consequently, the sentence of the appellants is reduced to the period already undergone by them, the impugned judgment is modified to the aforementioned extent and the appeal is partly allowed.

13. In the case of State of U.P. v. Siyaram2, Hon□ble the Supreme Court has considered the old case and propensity to false implication, took the view to compensate than to further incarceration. The relevant paragraph number 4 is reiterated underneath:-

‘4. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record. We are not inclined to interfere in the acquittal of Siyaram for the reasons recorded by the High Court, as the propensity to implicate falsely is not uncommon in India. We, however, do agree with Mr Dash that the reduction in the sentence in case of Jiya Lal to already undergone was somewhat inadequate but as the prosecution had been initiated in the year 1988, we are not inclined to interfere on the term of imprisonment. We, however, direct that the fine be increased to Rs 25,000 in all and in default of payment of fine the appellant Jiya Lal shall undergo 2 years' RI. The fine will be paid within three months from now to Banshi Lal, the injured and if Banshi Lal is not available, to his legal representatives.’

14. In the case of George Pon Paul v. Kanagalet3, Hon’ble the Supreme Court considered the passage of time, as a relevant factor to consider. The relevant paragraph numbers 4 to 6 are reiterated underneath:-

‘4. The only question that remains is whether the custodial sentence as was imposed by the trial court was adequate or not i.e. confinement till rising of the court.

5. It appears from record that the fine amount has been deposited and the amount which was directed to be paid to PW 2 has already been paid.

6. Considering this fact and the long passage of time, it would be appropriate to restrict the period of sentence to the period already undergone. The appeals stand disposed of.’

15. In the case of Manjappa v. State of Karnataka4, Hon□ble the Supreme Court considered the long pendency of case and opined the adequate punishment would be the period of incarceration already undergone but enhanced the fine to be paid as compensation. The relevant paragraph numbers 14 to 16 are reiterated underneath:-

‘14. At the same time, however, the fact remains that the High Court has reduced substantive sentence to a month and a half. It is also not in dispute that the appellant has undergone and has remained in custody for about fifteen days. Moreover, as on today, he is on bail. Hence, even though we are of the view that in the facts and circumstances of the case, provisions of Section 360 read with Section 361 of the Code are not attracted and Om Prakash [(2001) 10 SCC 477 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 799] does not help the appellant, it would not be appropriate now to direct the appellant to surrender and to suffer the remaining sentence for about a month. The incident is of 1997 and about 10 years have passed.

15. Keeping in view all the facts and circumstances, in our opinion, ends of justice would be met, if we order that the substantive sentence which the appellant has already undergone is held sufficient. We are also of the view that it would be appropriate if over and above the amount which the appellant herein has paid towards fine and also towards compensation to the injured victim, the appellant is ordered to pay an additional amount of Rs 10,000 (Rupees ten thousand only), to the complainant by way of compensation.

16. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal is partly allowed by holding that the sentence already undergone by the appellant is held sufficient and adequate in the facts and circumstances of the case. It is, however, ordered that the appellant will pay an additional amount of Rs 10,000 (Rupees ten thousand only) to the injured complainant within a period of one month from today over and above the amount of fine and compensation ordered to be paid by the courts below.'

16. In the case of Ramesh v. State of U.P.5, Hon'ble the Supreme Court has converted the offence of attempt to murder to the voluntary causing of grievous hurt in view of single injury and awarded punishment accordingly. The relevant paragraph numbers 3 and 4 are reiterated underneath:-

'3. The learned counsel for appellant has assailed the finding recorded by the High Court and the trial Judge and has urged that the appellant was implicated due to enmity. He urged that even though the High Court held that in the FIR the main part was specifically assigned to the appellant and one Jagat Singh but in the evidence it was confined to the appellant as the relations between the two were strained. The learned counsel further urged that the case of the prosecution was that the complainant was bitten by Jagat Singh and there being no injury of biting, the High Court committed an error in maintaining the conviction. We are not impressed by the argument. The learned counsel then urged that the High Court committed an error in convicting the appellant under Section 307, Penal Code, 1860. We do not propose to decide it as a matter of law. But we agree with the learned counsel for the appellant that in peculiar circumstances of the case it being a case of single injury in the back of neck the conviction can be altered to be under Section 324, Penal Code, 1860.

4. In the result the appeal succeeds and is allowed in part. The conviction under Section 307/34, IPC is converted to under Section 324, IPC and the sentence is reduced to the period already undergone. The appellant shall deposit a sum of Rs 3000 as fine within six months which shall be paid to the complainant. In default of payment he shall serve out the entire sentence. On deposit of fine the bail bond shall stand discharged.'

17. There is judicial discretion attached to reasoned sentencing. In the cases of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Bablu6 and Abdul Waheed Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh7, Hon'ble the Supreme Court observed solemn duty of the Courts while imposing sentence that the same would be just, adequate and proportionate to the gravity of offence. Further observed that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system and undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of system. Considering those principles the trial court rightly evaluated the role of the sole surviving appellants and adequately sentenced them on 05.09.1985 with just and adequate punishment. This Court in appeal has granted bail on 09.09.1985 and since then the surviving appellants are enlarged on bail. Now the point of concern is whether it would be rightful decision by appellate court to send the accused to serve the remaining sentence after elapse of 41 years.

18. The incident occurred 45 years back. There is nothing on record to show that the accused appellants were habitual criminals. Sending the appellants to jail will not serve the purpose of basic principles of the law of punishment, which in India is not corporeal in nature but reformative in its form. The intention of legislature in considering the act, conduct and behaviour of convict for remission also evinces the same principle.

19. Therefore considering, the dictums of Hon'ble the Supreme Court; the analogy drawn up from the facts of the case; and involvement of the appellants, their role in the occurrence vis-a-vis their age at the time of incident and as on date, this Court is of the view that the judicious and purposeful punishment would be to modify the punishment as below:-

19.1. The sentence awarded to Rajendra Chauhan son of Bhanu Pratap Chauhan and Ram Pyare Lal son of Thakuri r/o Village Mulanapur, P.S. Rani Ki Sarai (old P.S. Gambhirpur), District- Azamgarh is reduced to the period already undergone by them in S.T. No. 201 of 1985 (State Vs. Rajendra Chauhan and another), under Sections 307 read with Section 34 IPC.

20. The appeal is therefore partly allowed on the point of sentence, which is modified.

21. The appellants are on bail. Their bail bonds and sureties are discharged.

22. Record be returned forthwith as per Rules.

State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the appellant-accused has committed an offence punishable under S. 302 of the I.P.C., or any other lesser offence, more particularly S. 304 Part-I or II of the I.P.C. (Para 53)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Murder - Culpable homicide not amounting to murder - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 300 Exception 4, 302 and 304 Part I - Single blow theory - Sudden fight - Exception 4 to S. 300 applies where death is caused without premeditation, in a sudden fight, in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel, without the offender having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner - There is no inflexible rule that a single blow would invariably attract either S. 302 or S. 304 - Nature of offence depends upon the totality of the facts and circumstances including the nature of injury, weapon used, surrounding circumstances, intention and knowledge - Appellant-accused inflicted a single blow with scissors during a sudden scuffle following a quarrel - No evidence that the weapon was brought to the spot pursuant to any premeditated plan - Totality of circumstances established absence of premeditation and applicability of Exception 4 to S. 300 - Conviction altered from S. 302 to S. 304 Part I. (Paras 54-65, 67).

Criminal Law - Evidence - Injured eyewitnesses - Related witnesses - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 134 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 161 - Testimony of an injured eyewitness stands on a higher pedestal and ordinarily carries greater evidentiary value - Mere relationship with the deceased is not a ground to discard otherwise reliable testimony - Non-examination of independent witnesses is not fatal where the evidence of injured eyewitnesses is trustworthy and conviction can rest on quality and not quantity of evidence. (Paras 39-46).

Held: The evidence of an injured witness must be given due weightage being a stamped witness and his presence cannot ordinarily be doubted - The testimony of an injured witness is accorded a special status in law and is to be relied upon unless there exist major contradictions or discrepancies warranting its rejection - Mere non-examination of independent witnesses does not vitiate the prosecution case where the evidence of injured eye-witnesses is otherwise reliable, trustworthy and corroborated by medical evidence - There is no inflexible rule that in every case of a single blow S. 302 of the I.P.C. is excluded and the nature of the offence must be determined on the facts and circumstances of each case - Exception 4 to S. 300 of the I.P.C. applies where death is caused without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel without the offender having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner - The occurrence originated in a sudden quarrel and scuffle and the material on record does not establish that the appellant-accused had brought the scissors pursuant to any premeditated design - The fatal injury was inflicted during the course of the sudden fight and the totality of the circumstances establishes absence of premeditation and applicability of Exception 4 to S. 300 of the I.P.C. - The conviction under S. 302 of the I.P.C. is liable to be altered to one under S. 304 Part I of the I.P.C. - Appeal partly allowed. (Paras 39, 40, 55, 56, 60, 62, 63, 64, 65 and 67). (E-7)

1. The present Criminal Appeal under Section 374 (2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C.') has been filed by the appellant-accused- Rinku @ Amrish, against the Judgment and order dated 07.09.2019 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, P.C. Act, Lucknow, in Sessions Trial No. 1062 of 2014 (State Vs. Rinku @ Amrish), arising out of Case Crime No. 264 of 2014, Police Station Krishna Nagar, District Lucknow, wherein he has been convicted for the commission of offences under Section 302, 323, 504, 506, 427 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as the 'I.P.C.') and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life, along with a fine of Rs.1,00,000/-, and, in default, further imprisonment for six months.

CASE OF THE PROSECUTION

2. The prosecution case, as unfolded through the evidences adduced during the Trial, is succinctly narrated as under:

2.1) The complainant/P.W.-1, Smt. Satvindar Kaur, (wife of the deceased, Shri Gurpreet Singh Sethi), was running a boutique under the name and style of 'Simiran Boutique' situated on Natkheda Road, within the jurisdiction of Police Station Krishna Nagar, Lucknow. The appellant-accused, Rinku @ Amrish, was previously employed as a 'tailor' in the said boutique.

2.2) On account of alleged acts of misconduct, including that of theft and other wrongdoing in the said boutique shop, the appellant-accused was dismissed from his employment. Subsequently, the appellant-accused opened a tailoring shop in the same vicinity/complex.

2.3) On the fateful evening of 09.07.2014, at around 9:00 PM, the complainant/P.W.-1 Satvindar Kaur, along with her husband Gurpreet Singh Sethi (deceased), and her mother, Smt.

Basant Kaur (P.W.-2), were present inside the boutique. Suddenly, all of them heard the distinct sound of breaking glass from outside. Upon rushing out to ascertain the cause, they found the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, smashing/breaking the windshield/glass of their parked Activa scooter. When these people, in order to stop him, went near the appellant-accused, he started abusing them in filthy language and threatened to kill them. In the course of the alleged ensuing altercation/scuffle, actuated by a pre-existing grudge and with the clear intention to cause death, the appellant-accused picked up a pair of scissors and stabbed the deceased, Gurpreet Singh Sethi, once on the left side of the chest. During the said scuffle, the P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 also sustained injuries while attempting to rescue the deceased and ward off the assault.

The injured Gurpreet Singh Sethi was immediately rushed to Awadh Hospital, Lucknow, where he was declared brought dead. The incident was alleged to have been occurred under sufficient street-light illumination, rendering the identification of the appellant-accused unimpeachable.

2.4) Immediately thereafter, the complainant/P.W.-1, Smt. Satvindar Kaur, lodged a written complaint/Tehrir (Exhibit-Ka-1) at Police Station Krishna Nagar, Lucknow on the basis of which F.I.R. No. 264/2014 (Exhibit-Ka-13) was registered at about 10:00 PM on the same night under Sections 302, 323, 504, 506 and 427 I.P.C. against the appellant-accused. Inquest proceedings were conducted at the hospital (Exhibit-Ka-2), and the dead body was sent for post-mortem examination.

2.5) During investigation, the Investigating Officer/P.W.-4, (Inspector Vikas Kumar Pandey), inspected the scene of occurrence, prepared the Site plan (Exhibit-Ka-6 to Exhibit-Ka-8), collected blood-stained earth/soil from the spot, and recorded statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C., and subsequently, arrested the appellant-accused pursuant to his disclosure and pointing out, and, effected recovery of the blood-stained scissors (the alleged weapon used in the offence) and the blood-stained pant worn by the appellant-accused at the time of incident, from a pile of bricks in an open field at Mahuari Bagh. After completing the investigation, the Investigating Officer found sufficient incriminating material against the appellant-accused and, therefore, filed a charge sheet against the appellant-accused.

3. The case, being triable exclusively by the Court of Session, was committed accordingly. Charges were framed on 21.04.2015 under Sections 302, 323, 504, 506, and 427 of the I.P.C. The appellant-accused pleaded not guilty and claimed Trial. Hence, the case was taken up for Trial.

7. The prosecution, in order to prove its case before the Trial Court, had produced seven witnesses, wherein P.W.-1/ Smt. Satvindar Kaur, who is also the Complainant, an eye-witness, and the wife of the deceased, fully supported the prosecution version during her examination-in-chief. She narrated the entire sequence of events, being the employment and subsequent dismissal of the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, on theft charges, the ensuing grudge, the breaking of scooter glass, abuse/threats, scuffle, the stabbing with scissor on the chest of the deceased- husband causing fatal injury, injuries to herself and her mother (P.W.-2), and the shifting to the hospital and declaration of death.

She proved her written complaint/Tehrir (Exhibit-ka-1), identified the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, in the Court, and asserted presence of sufficient light at the crime scene for clear identification. Additionally, she stated in her examination-in-chief that when all of them came outside after hearing the sound of breaking of glass, it was her deceased husband who initially went to stop the appellant-accused. P.W.-1 deposed that the appellant-accused abused her husband, and also did □hatha-pai□ with her husband, and then only attacked him with the scissors, causing fatal injury.

8. P.W.-2/ Smt. Basant Kaur (Mother-in-law of the deceased), an ocular and injured eye-witness, corroborated the testimonies of P.W.-1 in toto. In her examination-in-chief, P.W.-2 deposed that on 09.07.2014 at around 9:00 PM, she was at the boutique with her daughter and son-in-law (the deceased). Upon hearing the glass breaking, they exited and saw the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, vandalizing the scooter's windshield. Upon objection, the appellant-accused abused them, threatened death, and, during the scuffle, stabbed the deceased in the chest with scissors. Resultantly, the deceased collapsed; P.W.-2 and P.W.-1 intervened and sustained injuries (lacerations on their hands). They immediately carried the deceased to Awadh Hospital, where he was declared brought dead.

P.W.-2 identified her daughter's signature on the F.I.R. (Exhibit Ka-1) and her own thumbprint on the Injury Report (Exhibit Ka-15). She confirmed her medical examination on 10.07.2014, revealing two lacerated wounds. P.W.-2 positively identified the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, in the Court as the perpetrator of the fateful incident.

9. P.W.-3/ S.I. Dharamveer Singh, who was posted as Station In-charge, Sarafa Bazar, Krishna Nagar P.S.- Lucknow, deposed that on 09.07.2014, as per the S.O.'s order, he conducted the inquest at Awadh Hospital at 10:10 PM of the deceased's body, under Case Crime No. 264/2014. The panchayatnama noted the death as homicidal by stabbing. P.W.-3 prepared and signed the panchayatnama (Exhibit Ka-2), Challan-lash (Form 13, Exhibit Ka-3 to Exhibit Ka-5), and forwarded the body for post-mortem. P.W.-3 confirmed readings to the panch witnesses and obtained their signatures. During his cross-examination, P.W.-3 admitted no personal knowledge of the incident but affirmed all procedural compliances.

10. P.W.-4/ Vikas Kumar Pandey, the Investigating Officer, detailed the investigation conducted on 09.07.2014, he took charge, recorded P.W.-1's statement, inspected the Site, prepared the Site-plan (Exhibit Ka-6 to Exhibit Ka-8), collected blood-soaked soil, and recorded statement of witnesses Govind Ram and Pinku Jaiswal (not examined). P.W.-4 arrested the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, and recorded his disclosure statement admitting the grudge, vandalism, scuffle, and stabbing. On appellant's pointing out, P.W.-4 recovered the blood-stained scissors and pants from a brick pile in 'Mahuari Bagh'. P.W.-4 proved the Charge-sheet (Exhibit Ka-12) and Material exhibits (Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-4). During Cross-examination, P.W.-4 admitted dictation of some documents to his subordinates but verified the signatures himself and also highlighted the lack of independent recovery witnesses.

11. P.W.-5/ Manoj Kumar Pal, Head Moharir proved the registration of F.I.R. at 22:00 hours on 09.07.2014 (Exhibit Ka-13) and General Diary (Exhibit Ka -14), copying verbatim the written complaint and signing the same.

12. P.W.-6/ Dr. Alok Sonkar, who was posted as an Emergency Doctor at Lokbandhu Hospital, Lucknow, examined the injured P.W.-2/ Smt. Basant Kaur, on 10.07.2014 at 7:45 PM and recorded the following: 'Injury 1 - 3x1 cm lacerated wound on left palm below thumb with clot; Injury 2 - 3x1 cm lacerated wound on right wrist with redness. Opined simple, by blunt object, - 1 day old'; (Exhibit Ka-15). For P.W.-1/ Satvindar Kaur, no external injuries but pain was opined, (Exhibit Ka-16).

13. P.W.-7/ Dr. Nirupam Awasthi, who conducted the post-mortem of the deceased on 10.07.2014 at 05:00 PM found 'one punctured wound 3x1 cm on left chest (70 cm below left nipple, 18 cm from mid line), penetrating deep into chest cavity, lacerating lung and causing about 1.5 litres haemothorax. Cause of death was haemorhage and shock due to injury to vital organ by sharp weapon (consistent with scissors). Time since death was opined about half a day' (Exhibit Ka-17). The said witness also deposed that there were no signs of any scratches or injuries on the rest of the body.

14. After the closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein he denied the incident, admitted only his prior employment at the shop of P.W.-1, and pleaded false implication due to business rivalry after he opened his own tailoring shop in the vicinity . He claimed about an unfair investigation in the present case.

15. In order to bolster its case, the defence examined three witnesses to establish alibi, false implication, and procedural lapses. The defence Counsel produced D.W.-1/ Smt. Sushma, hospital staff at Awadh Hospital, Lucknow, who deposed that on the alleged date of the incident in 2014, the deceased was brought in dead at around10:00 PM and not as a 'patient'. D.W.-1 was in the O.P.D., provided a stretcher, but no treatment/inquest occurred there. D.W.-1 refuted having any knowledge about further police proceedings.

16. D.W.-2/ Vishal Sharma, a neighbour of the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, deposed that he knew appellant-accused as a nearby resident of his grandmother's adjacent house. D.W.-2 denied any knowledge of a criminal history of the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish. D.W.-2 also deposed about witnessing arrest of the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish from Lalita Prasad's house at midnight in the year 2014, by police officers. D.W.-2 came to know about the charges from the newspaper on the next day. D.W.-2 deposed that he did not meet the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish on the evening of the incident, as he had returned home around 9:00-10:00 PM from his bookstore job.

17. D.W.-3/ Devendra Kumar, a fellow tailor of the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, deposed that on the day of the incident, he was working with the appellant-accused at his shop at Natkheda Road. They closed the shop at about 9:00 PM as usual, and thereafter, the D.W.-3 dropped the appellant-accused at his maternal grandmother's house and returned home. The next morning, he came to know that the appellant-accused had been arrested in the present case. He stated that the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish never had any quarrel with customers or anyone and that he was not aware about the incident mentioned in the F.I.R.

18. The learned Trial Court found that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, being the natural and injured eye-witnesses, their testimonies were reliable as the same were consistent throughout. The learned Trial Court ignored the minor discrepancies, by holding that they do not affect the substratum of the prosecution case. The learned Trial Court found the medical evidence to corroborate the ocular version of a single stab injury on the chest causing death of the deceased due to haemorrhage and shock. The learned Trial Court found that the F.I.R. was also promptly lodged, and any delay stood satisfactorily explained, the motive also stood proved and the recovery of the blood-stained scissors and pants pursuant to disclosure, was admissible and trustworthy. The learned Trial Court returned a finding that the plea of alibi was unsupported and unreliable. Thus, the learned Trail Court on the basis of the documentary and oral evidence, produced by both the parties, after dealing with the points of challenge, appreciation of evidence, and analyzing the core facts, held that the prosecution had proved its case beyond reasonable doubt, and consequently, went on to record a finding of conviction against the appellant-accused and accordingly, sentenced him for maximum punishment of life imprisonment, along with a fine of Rs.1,00,000/-, with a default clause, under Sections 302, 323, 504, 506 and 427of the I.P.C.

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE THIS COURT

19. It is in this aforesaid background that the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, as being aggrieved, has preferred the present Criminal Appeal under Section 374(2) of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 against the impugned Judgment and order dated 07.09.2019, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, P.C. Act, Lucknow, in Sessions Trial No. 1062 of 2014 (State Vs. Rinku @ Amrish), arising out of Case Crime No. 264 of 2014, Police Station Krishna Nagar, Lucknow.

20. The First bail application filed by the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish along with the present appeal, was rejected by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court with a reasoned order dated 17.06.2021, passed in Criminal Miscellaneous Bail Application No. 145579 (B) of 2019. Subsequently, the Second bail application filed by the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish was again rejected by the Co-ordinate Bench of this Court with a reasoned order dated 07.04.2023, passed in Criminal Miscellaneous Bail Application No. IA/09/2023.

21. Further, during the pendency of the present Criminal Appeal, a Third bail application came to be filed by the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish on 14.02.2025, being Criminal Miscellaneous Bail Application No. IA/11/2025; but while arguing the bail application, Shri Harshit Singh, learned Counsel for the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, has also pressed that, since the paper book has been prepared and that the actual period of incarceration of the appellant/accused Rinku @ Amrish, is more than 12 years, as per the Custody Certificate issued by the Jail Authorities, therefore, the appeal may be heard and decided on its merits and prayed that the Third bail application be dismissed as being not pressed. Consequently, the instant bail application is 'dismissed being not pressed', and the appeal has been heard on its merits.

SUBMISSION ON BEHALF OF THE PARTIES

22. Sri Harshit Singh, learned Counsel appearing for the appellant- accused Rinku @ Amrish, has submitted that the impugned conviction is contrary to the evidence on record and settled principles of criminal law. According to him, even if the prosecution case is accepted at its highest, the attending circumstances unmistakably attract Exception 4 to Section 300 of the I.P.C. and, at best, make out a case under Section 304 of the I.P.C., and not under Section 302 I.P.C.

23. Learned Counsel appearing for the appellant-accused has vehemently submitted that the prosecution story itself discloses that the occurrence arose out of a sudden quarrel relating to an alleged dispute over the smashing of the 'Activa' scooter mirror. There is no allegation of prior enmity, motive, planning, or preparation. He further submits that the alleged weapon i.e. a pair of scissors, is an ordinary article available in shops and workplaces, and there is no evidence that it was carried with a preconceived intention to commit murder.

The learned Counsel has submitted that only a single injury is attributed to the deceased, and there is no allegation of repeated blows, pursuit, cruelty, or undue advantage. Thus, he submits that these circumstances clearly indicate that the act, if any, occurred in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel, without premeditation, and the prosecution has failed to establish the specific intention to cause death or such bodily injury as was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. According to him, at the highest, knowledge may be attributed, but not intention; which is a distinction crucial in determining whether the offence falls under Section 302 I.P.C. or Section 304 I.P.C.

24. Learned Counsel has strenuously submitted that the conviction primarily rests upon the testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, who are closely related to the deceased. Their evidence suffers from material contradictions. P.W.-1 stated that no employee was present at the shop at the relevant time, whereas P.W.-2 deposed that two employees were present and working. This inconsistency strikes at the root of the prosecution case. If employees were present, their non-examination constitutes a serious lacuna warranting an adverse inference. If they were not present, the case rests solely upon interested witnesses without independent corroboration. Further, despite the admitted fact that other shops were open and public witnesses were present in the market area, no independent witness had been examined.

25. Learned Counsel has also submitted that the defence evidence further creates a reasonable doubt in the impugned conviction of the appellant, as D.W.-3 has deposed that he was working along with the appellant-accused and the shop came to be closed at about 9:00 PM, and that he dropped the appellant-accused at his maternal grandmother's house. Thereafter, D.W.-3 has further deposed that upon inquiry from other shopkeepers, none had witnessed the alleged occurrence. It has been submitted that it is well settled that defence witnesses are entitled to equal treatment and their testimony cannot be discarded merely because they were examined by the defence. Thus, it has been submitted that when read cumulatively with the contradictions in the prosecution case, a clear and reasonable doubt emerges in the present case.

26. Learned Counsel has also vehemently submitted that the very genesis of the prosecution story i.e., the alleged breaking of the scooter mirror, remains unsubstantiated. The broken mirror was neither recovered nor produced before the Trial Court. No photograph of the alleged damage was placed on record. Further, the official record from the Regional Transport Office shows that the vehicle registration number allegedly involved does not stand in the name of the deceased or his family members and pertains to a different vehicle altogether. This material discrepancy renders the alleged motive doubtful and weakens the prosecution case at its foundation.

27. Learned Counsel has lastly submitted that, in view of the cumulative effect of the aforesaid circumstances, absence of premeditation, a single-blow injury, contradictions in material witnesses, non-examination of independent witnesses, doubtful genesis of the occurrence, and plausible defence version; the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The conviction under Section 302 I.P.C. is, therefore, liable to be set aside. Alternatively, even if culpability is assumed, the case would fall within Section 304, Part II of the I.P.C., which prescribes for a maximum punishment of 10 years.

28. Learned Counsel appearing for the appellant-accused has placed reliance upon the following precedents of the Hon□ble Supreme Court in order to buttress his arguments:-

* Ravinder Kumar v. State of Punjab, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 635;

* Arjun v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2017) 3 SCC 247;

* Jagriti Devi v. State of H.P., (2009) 14 SCC 771;

* Jagtar Singh v. State of Punjab, (1983) 2 SCC 342;

* Jagrup Singh v. State of Haryana, (1981) 3 SCC 616;

* Satish Narayan Sawant v. State of Goa, (2009) 17 SCC 724;

* Hem Raj v. State (Delhi Admn.), 1990 Supp SCC 291;

* Gurmail Singh v. State of Punjab, (1982) 3 SCC 185;

* Kulwant Rai v. State of Punjab, (1981) 4 SCC 245;

* Ahmed Shah v. State of Rajasthan, (2015) 3 SCC 93.

29. Per contra, Sri S.P. Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate (A.G.A.) for the State, has vehemently opposed the appeal and supported the judgment of conviction passed by the learned Trial Court. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that the prosecution has successfully established the guilt of the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, beyond reasonable doubt for offences punishable under Sections 302, 323, 504, 506 and 427 of the Indian Penal Code. The impugned judgment is based upon cogent ocular testimony, duly corroborated by medical and documentary evidence, and warrants no interference.

30. Learned A.G.A. has strenuously contended that the occurrence dated 09.07.2014, at about 9:00 PM, stands proved by the consistent testimony of P.W.-1 Satvindar Kaur (wife of the deceased), and P.W.-2 Smt. Basant Kaur (mother-in-law of the deceased), both of whom were natural eye-witnesses present at the place of occurrence. Their presence at the shop is undisputed, and their testimony clearly established that appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, nursing a grudge after being removed from employment on allegations of theft, came to the shop, vandalized the vehicle parked outside, and, when objected to, assaulted the deceased with scissors, inflicting a forceful blow on the chest. Their evidence has remained materially intact in cross-examination and inspires confidence.

31. The learned A.G.A. has also submitted that merely because P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are closely related to the deceased, their testimony cannot be discarded. It is settled law that evidence of a related or interested witness is not to be rejected if it is otherwise credible and trustworthy. In the present case, P.W.-1 herself sustained injuries in the incident, and P.W.-2 was medically examined by P.W.-6/ Dr. Alok Kumar Sonkar, who proved the injury report. The presence of an injured eyewitness lends strong assurance to the prosecution case.

Even the medical evidence fully corroborates the ocular version. P.W.-7/ Dr. Nirupam Awasthi, who conducted the post-mortem, found a penetrating wound on the left side of the chest cavity, resulting in laceration of vital organs and excessive internal bleeding of approximately 1.5 litres. The cause of death was opined to be shock and haemorrhage due to the ante-mortem injury caused by a sharp-edged weapon such as scissors. The injury was sufficient, in the ordinary course of nature, to cause death. The situs of the injury on a vital part of the body and the force applied clearly establish intention to cause death, thereby attracting Section 302 of the I.P.C.

32. The learned A.G.A. has further submitted that the motive stands sufficiently established from the evidence on record. The appellant-accused had been removed from service on suspicion of theft and had developed animosity against the deceased and his family. Even otherwise, where there is clear and reliable direct evidence of eyewitnesses, proof of motive assumes secondary importance. The prosecution has led direct ocular evidence, which stands corroborated by medical findings and recovery. The recovery of the blood-stained scissors and blood-stained jeans/pants at the instance of the accused further strengthens the prosecution case. The Investigating Officer, P.W.-4/ Vikas Kumar Pandey, proved the recovery memos and arrest proceedings. The fact that independent public witnesses were not examined for the recovery is not fatal, particularly when the recovery is duly proved by official witnesses whose testimony has not been shaken in cross-examination.

33. The learned A.G.A. has vehemently submitted that plea of the defence that the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, had gone to his grandmother's house and was not present at the scene, is merely an afterthought and unsupported by reliable evidence. D.W.-3/ Devendra Kumar's, testimony is self-serving and does not inspire confidence, particularly in light of the recovery of the weapon at the instance of the accused and the consistent testimony of the eye-witnesses placing him at the scene.

34. The learned A.G.A. has strenuously submitted that the contention of the learned Counsel appearing for the appellant-accused that the present case falls under the Exception 4 to Section 300 I.P.C. is misconceived. The evidence clearly shows that the appellant- accused, after vandalizing the vehicle and engaging in a scuffle, deliberately inflicted a forceful stab injury on the chest of the deceased, a vital part of the body, with a sharp-edged weapon. The nature of the injury, its depth, the damage to internal organs, and the resultant excessive haemorrhage unequivocally demonstrate intention to cause death or, at least to cause such bodily injury as was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. The act cannot be characterized as a mere sudden quarrel devoid of intention.

35. The learned A.G.A. has lastly submitted that the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt, establishing that the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, has intentionally inflicted a fatal injury upon the deceased and also caused injuries to P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, besides committing acts of abuse, criminal intimidation, and mischief. The findings recorded by the learned Trial Court are based on a proper appreciation of the evidence and do not suffer from perversity or illegality warranting interference in the present criminal appeal. It is, therefore, submitted that the conviction of the appellant-accused Rinku @ Amrish, under Sections 302, 323, 504, 506 and 427 I.P.C. is fully justified both on facts and in law, and the present criminal appeal deserves to be dismissed.

ANALYSIS AND FINDINGS

36. Having heard the learned Counsel for the parties, we have given our thoughtful consideration to the submissions canvassed by the learned Counsels and have also carefully perused the materials placed on record.

37. In the present case, it is apparent from a facial reading of the impugned judgment that the Trial Court has based the conviction of the appellant-accused on the ocular account furnished by the informant and injured Satvinder Kaur (P.W.-1), and injured Smt. Basant Kaur (P.W.-2), and that of recoveries of the weapon of assault, i.e., the scissors, effected from the disclosure statement of the appellant-accused, as well as the medial opinion of the medical Experts.

38. The learned Counsel for the appellant-accused has vehemently argued that the conviction of the appellant-accused is perverse, as it primarily rests on the deposition of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, who are related to the deceased, being the wife and mother-in-law, respectively. According to the learned Counsel, the credibility and consistency of these witnesses are questionable and doubtful, and, as such the Trial Court could not have based its conviction entirely on their testimony.

First and foremost, apparently it seems that the learned Counsel has missed the event that these two eyewitnesses are also injured witnesses, as has also been deposed by P.W.-6 (Dr. Alok Kumar). The said P.W.-6 has deposed that the P.W.-2 has sustained injury, which was opined to be from a blunt object. Further, the doctor also deposed that P.W.-2 had about 3x1 cm lacerated wound was found on the left palm below the thumb with clot and another lacerated wound of 3x1 cm size was found on right wrist with redness. The said Doctor also opined that P.W.-1 experienced pain, although had no external injuries. This all goes to show that these eye-witnesses were also injured witnesses.

39. As far as the testimony of an Injured witness is concerned, it is settled law that ocular evidence of the victim or the injured is considered the best evidence. Apparently, these kind of witnesses come with a built-in guarantee of their presence at the scene of the crime and are unlikely to spare their actual assailant in order to falsely implicate anyone. Thus, testimony of these kind of witnesses is placed on a higher pedestal than a normal eye-witness, who is not injured. In State of U.P. v. Naresh, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 324; the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as follows:

'27. The evidence of an injured witness must be given due weightage being a stamped witness, thus, his presence cannot be doubted. His statement is generally considered to be very reliable and it is unlikely that he has spared the actual assailant in order to falsely implicate someone else. The testimony of an injured witness has its own relevancy and efficacy as he has sustained injuries at the time and place of occurrence and this lends support to his testimony that he was present during the occurrence. Thus, the testimony of an injured witness is accorded a special status in law. The witness would not like or want to let his actual assailant go unpunished merely to implicate a third person falsely for the commission of the offence. Thus, the evidence of the injured witness should be relied upon unless there are grounds for the rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies therein. [Vide: Jarnail Singh v. State of Punjab, (2009) 9 SCC 719; Balraje @ Trimbak v. State of Maharashtra, (2010) 6 SCC 673; and Abdul Sayed v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2010) 10 SCC 259.'

40. Further, as to how the evidence of an injured ocular witness is to be dealt with, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Balu Sudam Khalde v. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2023) 13 SCC 365; noted the following legal principles, which must be kept in mind by a Court while appreciating the said testimony. These principles are being enumerated herein below:

'26. When the evidence of an injured eyewitness is to be appreciated, the undernoted legal principles enunciated by the courts are required to be kept in mind:

26.1. The presence of an injured eyewitness at the time and place of the occurrence cannot be doubted unless there are material contradictions in his deposition.

26.2. Unless, it is otherwise established by the evidence, it must be believed that an injured witness would not allow the real culprits to escape and falsely implicate the accused.

26.3. The evidence of injured witness has greater evidentiary value and unless compelling reasons exist, their statements are not to be discarded lightly.

26.4. The evidence of injured witness cannot be doubted on account of some embellishment in natural conduct or minor contradictions.

26.5. If there be any exaggeration or immaterial embellishments in the evidence of an injured witness, then such contradiction, exaggeration or embellishment should be discarded from the evidence of injured, but not the whole evidence.

26.6. The broad substratum of the prosecution version must be taken into consideration and discrepancies which normally creep due to loss of memory with passage of time should be discarded.

(Emphasis Supplied)

41. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the said judgment also went on to observe that, in assessing the value of the evidence of an eye-witness, two principal considerations arise, firstly, as to whether in the circumstances of the case, it is possible to believe their presence at the scene of occurrence or in such a situation as would make it possible for them to witness the facts deposed to by them; and secondly, whether there is anything inherently improbable or unreliable in their evidence.

42. Testing on the anvil of these said two principal considerations, when we look into the oral evidence of the two injured eye-witnesses, namely, Satvinder Kaur and Smt. Basant Kaur (P.W.-1 and PW-2), respectively, it is apparent that Satvinder Kaur (PW-1) has deposed that the place of occurrence of the incident was near her shop, and it has also come in evidence that the appellant-accused had a shop in the same vicinity. Next, the time of incident is about 9 PM, which generally is the closing time of all the shops. It has come in evidence of P.W.-1 that, the incident occurred at 9 PM, when she was about to close her shop. It has also come in evidence of D.W.-1 that, on that particular date of incident, he along with the appellant-accused had closed their shop at 9 PM. Thus, both the place of occurrence and the time of the incident coincide, and it cannot be said that the presence of P.W.-1 at the scene of occurrence was not natural or impossible.

43. However, the learned Counsel for the appellant-accused has submitted that there is a contradiction in the version of the testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 relating to the number of employees present in the shop at the relevant point of time. According to him, P.W.-1 has stated in her testimony that there were no employees in her shop, whereas, on the contrary, P.W.-2 has deposed that two employees were present in the shop at the time of the incident. When, we examine the testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, as pointed out by the learned Counsel for the appellant-accused, we find that the said discrepancy in the statement does not have any bearing on the place of occurrence of the incident or the time of incident. On a dispassionate and careful reading of the depositions of both these injured eye-witnesses, we find that, except for minor the inconsistency relating to the presence of any employee in the shop at that particular time, there is no marked disparity in their statements.

Further, we find that the discrepancy pointed out by the learned Counsel for the appellant-accused is not material and does not go to the root of the controversy and could had been engineered due to various reasons of failing human memory and as to how one person has perceived the said fact or understood the question asked during the cross-examination. This Court does not find any good reason to disbelieve the testimony deposed by these injured ocular witnesses or anything inherently improbable or unreliable in their evidence. We do not find any material on records, which could disprove their presence at the time of incident. Further, the learned Trial Court has minutely dealt with the said aspect and recorded its observations, as herein under, in the impugned judgment:

" 34.- अभियुक्त के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा यह भी तर्क प्रस्तुत किया गया है कि घटना रात नौ बजे के आस-पास होना बताया गया है लेकिन घटना का कोई चक्षुदर्शी साक्षी को परीक्षित नही कराया गया है। जबकि घटनास्थल पर रामवीर, गौरव सिंह, शिवम, गुरूमीत सिंह व राजवीर सिंह को घटनास्थल पर होना बताया गया है। उसके साथ उनकी दुकान भी होना बताया गया है लेकिन किसी भी गवाह को न्यायालय में लाकर घटना के तथ्य, तिथि व समय आदि को साबित नही कराया गया है। घटना की वादिनी मृतक की पत्नी तथा पी०डब्लू०-2 बसंत कौर जो उसकी सास है तथा हितवद्ध साक्षी है। अतः घटना को किसी स्वतंत्र साक्षी द्वारा साबित नहीं कराया गया है इसलिए अभियोजन कथानक संदेह से परे साबित नहीं माना जा सकता है। इस संबंध में अभियोजन द्वारा यह कहा गया है कि विवेचक के द्वारा केस डायरी में बहुत सारे गवाहों के बयान धारा 161 सी०आर०पी०सी० के अंतर्गत अंकित किये गये है लेकिन यह सब लोग अभियुक्त से मिल गये हैं इसलिए इनकी गवाही अभियोजन द्वारा नही करायी गयी है। विधि का यह सुस्थापित सिद्धान्त है कि अभियोजन इस बात के लिए स्वतंत्र है कि वह किस साक्षी को परीक्षित कराये और किसको परीक्षित न कराये। क्योंकि विधि यह भी है कि किसी तथ्य को साबित करने के लिए Quantity की आवश्यकता नहीं है, बल्कि Quality की आवश्यकता है। मा० सर्वोच्च न्यायालय की विधि व्यवस्था " हुकुम सिंह बनाम स्टेट आफ राजस्थान, 2000 (41) एसीसी 662 (एससी) व " कृपाल सिंह बनाम स्टेट आफ हरियाणा, 2013- एससीसी (क्रि.) में मा० सर्वोच्च न्यायालय द्वारा अभिमत पारित किया गया है।

36.- इस संबंध में मेरे द्वारा केस डायरी में अंकित गवाहों के बयान धारा 161 सी०आर०पी०सी० तथा पी०डब्लू०-1 व पी०डब्लू०-2 के बयानों का अवलोकन किया गया जिससे स्पष्ट है कि विवेचक के द्वारा रामवीर, गौरव सिंह, शिवम, गुरुमीत सिंह व राजवीर सिंह का बयान अन्तर्गत धारा 161 सी०आर०पी०सी० दौरान विवेचना अंकित किया गया है लेकिन उनको परीक्षित नहीं कराया गया है क्योंकि उनको अभियुक्त से मिल जाना बताया गया है। लेकिन गवाह सतविन्दर कौर ने घटना को अपनी आंखों से देखा है जो मृतक की पत्नी है और केवल उसी को परीक्षित होने के कारण घटना को असाबित नहीं माना जा सकता है। माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के निर्णय विधि "कैलाश व अन्य बनाम स्टेट ऑफ यू०पी०, 1997 जे०आई०सी० 911 (एस०सी०)" के अवलोकन से स्पष्ट है कि हितबद्ध साक्षी यदि घटना को संदेह से परे साबित किया है तो उसे इस आधार पर अविश्वसनीय नहीं कहा जा सकता है कि मृतक का रिश्तेदार है। अतः मैं अभियुक्त के विद्वान अधिवक्ता के इस तर्क से सहमत नही हूँ कि सतविन्दर कौर उसकी पत्नी होने के कारण सही नहीं माना जा सकता है कि घटना को अन्य तथ्यों से संदेह से परे साबित किया गया हो। चूंकि सतविन्दर कौर स्वयं घटनास्थल पर मौजूद थी और वह चक्षुदर्शी साक्षी है।

आकर अपने बयान में घटना के सम्बंध में साक्ष्य दिया है, यह नहीं कहा जा सकता है कि वह घटनास्थल पर उपस्थित नहीं रही। दूसरे की घटना के समय वह मृतक को छुड़ाने गयी थी। स्वयं पी०डब्लू०-2 बसंत कौर को भी उक्त घटना में चोटें आयी हैं और उनका मेडिकल हुआ है जिसे पी०डब्लू०-6 डा० अशोक कुमार सोनकर ने साबित किया है जो पत्रावली पर प्रदर्श क-15 के रूप में दाखिल किया गया है. जिसके अवलोकन से स्पष्ट है कि उनके शरीर पर दो चोटें आयी थी जो किसी हार्ड और ब्लण्ट आब्जेक्ट से आना सम्भव है। यदि वह घटनास्थल पर उपस्थित नही थी तो उन्हें चोटें कैसे आयी थी। इस पर अभियुक्त की ओर से कोई तर्क प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया है। केवल यह कहना कि कभी भी वह दुकान पर नही आती थी और उसी दिन घटना की तिथि पर दुकान पर कैसे आयी, उनकी उपस्थिति को संदिग्ध होना नही कहा जा सकता और मैं अभियुक्त के विद्वान अधिवक्ता के स्तर सहमत नहीं हूँ। इस संबंध में मा० सर्वोच्च न्यायालय की विधि व्यवस्था" मोतीलाल व अन्य बनाम स्टेट आफ यू०पी०, 2010, क्रि०ला०जर्नल, 1937, पेज 1937" में मा० न्यायालय द्वारा कहा गया है कि यदि गवाह उक्त घटना में चुटहिल है, तो उसकी अनुपस्थिति पर कोई संदेह नही व्यक्ति किया जा सकता है। पी०डब्लू० 2 बसंत कौर को भी उक्त घटना में बीच बचाव करने में चोटें आयी हैं और उसका चिकित्सीय परीक्षण हुआ है और गवाह डाक्टर पी०डब्लू० 6 ने भी उसकी चोटों को साबित किया है। अतः उपरोक्त पी०डब्लू० 2की घटना पर उपस्थिति में कोई संदेह नही रह जाता है।"

44. As far as the contention of the learned Counsel for the appellant-accused is concerned, that no independent witness has been examined, although several people were present at the crime spot. It has to be understood that in case if a witness examined in the Court is otherwise found reliable and trustworthy, the fact sought to be proved by that witness need not be further proved (read doubly proved) through other witnesses, even though there may be other witnesses available who could have been examined but were not examined. The stress is on the quality, and not the quantity, of evidence, as per Section 134 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Any non-examination of a material witness is not a mathematical formula or a consequential effect for discarding the weight of the testimony available on record, however natural, trustworthy, and convincing it may be. It is settled law that the non-examination of independent witnesses cannot be pressed into service like a ritualistic formula for discarding the prosecution case, when the testimony of a witness is found to be trustworthy, reliable, and sterling. The Court can convict an accused on the testimony of a witness even if he is a relative of the deceased. The non-examination of an independent witness would not be fatal to the case of the prosecution.

45. Further, from the aforesaid portion of the judgment of the Trial Court extracted herein above, we also find that as far as the argument of the learned Counsel for the appellant-accused relating to reason for non-examination of independent witnesses, whether shop-keepers or public is concerned, the Trial Court has beautifully dealt with the said argument at paragraph 34 of the impugned judgment. To further add, we find that the law in that regard is also no longer res integra, in as much as, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Rajesh Yadav v. State of Uttar Pradesh, reported in (2022) 12 SCC 200; has held as follows:

'Non-examination of witness

34. A mere non-examination of the witness per se will not vitiate the case of the prosecution. It depends upon the quality and not the quantity of the witnesses and its importance. If the court is satisfied with the explanation given by the prosecution along with the adequacy of the materials sufficient enough to proceed with the trial and convict the accused, there cannot be any prejudice. Similarly, if the court is of the view that the evidence is not screened and could well be produced by the other side in support of its case, no adverse inference can be drawn. Onus is on the part of the party who alleges that a witness has not been produced deliberately to prove it.'

46. Further, the non-examination of independent witnesses would not reduce the credibility of the eye-witness account in any manner. Thus, the contention of the learned Counsel for the appellant-accused, that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, being related witnesses, their testimony cannot be taken into account for conviction without any deposition of an independent witness, has to be rejected.

47. As far as the contention of the learned Counsel for the appellant-accused that a doubt has been cast on the prosecution narrative as D.W.-3 has deposed that, after closing the shop at 9 PM, the said witness dropped the appellant-accused at his grand-mother's house and, upon inquiry the next morning from other shop-keepers in the complex, he came to learn that none had witnessed the said incident: firstly, this evidence appears to be hearsay for the simple reason that D.W.-3 does not himself say that no such incident had occurred, but relies on the version of other shop-keepers to say that no one has witnessed the said incident. Secondly, he was only a witness of the closing of the shop at 9 PM and to dropping the appellant-accused at his grandmother's place after the said closing of his shop. Neither the grandmother of the appellant-accused has been examined nor any witness, who would say that D.W.-3 actually dropped the appellant-accused at his grandmother's place after 9 PM and he continued to stay at her place until he was arrested by the police has been produced by the dense. In fact, D.W.-3 states in his cross-examination that he is not aware as to what the appellant-accused did after dropping the appellant at his grandmother's place. Thirdly, he admits that he was called as a witness by the father of the appellant-accused and wanted to help him and not that he had come to state the truth of the incident. Thus, apparently D.W.-3 appears to be not trustworthy and most importantly, he does not throw any light on the incident and expresses his inability about the said occurrence. According to this Court, the testimony of D.W.-3 has done more harm than favor to the appellant-accused.

48. The learned Counsel has next argued that the breaking of the Activa scooty mirror, which, according to him, was the foundation of the prosecution case, was not substantiated. According to him, the broken glass was not recovered from the crime spot, nor were any photographs produced of the said incident. It was also argued that even the scooty registration number suggested by the prosecution does not belong to the deceased or his family, and as such, these discrepancies go to the root of the controversy and create a reasonable doubt in the prosecution story. According to this Court, the aforesaid grounds are meaningless, as the defence cannot have a say on what kind of evidence is to be collected or as to what all evidence has to be proved by the investigating agency. The grounds as tried to be substantiated by the learned Counsel for the appellant-accused are, therefore to be rejected, as the prosecution has successfully proved the case beyond reasonable doubt on the basis of the depositions of the injured eye-witnesses, being P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, the testimony of the medical expert, and the recovery of the crime weapon upon the disclosure statement of the appellant-accused.

49. Learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant-accused has next drawn our attention to the non-applicability of Section 302 I.P.C. and according to him, in the given facts and circumstances, the appellant-accused ought to have been punished under Section 304 part-II and not under Section 302 I.P.C. The learned Counsel vehemently submitted that, as it is a case of a single blow, Section 302 I.P.C. shall not be attracted. It was submitted that even the so called alleged motive for the incident was prior to one and half months of the incident in question, i.e., the time when the appellant was removed from his service, and therefore, the prosecution has failed to establish and prove a motive for the appellant to kill the deceased.

It is, thus, submitted that the occurrence had taken place out of a sudden fight and, therefore, the offence would fall under Exception 4 to Section 300 I.P.C. and accordingly, the appellant has to be convicted for a lesser offence than Section 302 I.P.C. Relying on the various judgments mentioned supra, it has been prayed to convert the conviction from Section 302 I.P.C. to Section 304 Part- II of the I.P.C.

50. As far as the submission on behalf of the appellant-accused, that the prosecution has failed to establish or prove the motive, and/or that the alleged motive of the incident is prior in time to the incident in question, this Court finds that the law in that regard is no longer res integra. In a case where the eye-witnesses are available, the motive becomes insignificant. Admittedly, in the present case, P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are the eye-witnesses to the incident, and therefore, the proof of motive is insignificant. Further, on the aspect of non-proving of motive is concerned, this Court finds that the Hon'ble Apex Court in Madan v. State of U.P., reported in 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1473; has held that when there is an eye-witness who had seen the commission of murder and their evidence is credible, it is not necessary that the prosecution had to prove the motive behind the offence.

51. Similarly, in Shivaji Genu Mohite v. State of Maharashtra, reported in AIR 1973 SC 55; it was held that it is a well-settled principle in criminal jurisprudence that when ocular testimony inspires the confidence of the Court, the prosecution is not required to establish motive. The mere absence of motive would not impinge upon the testimony of a reliable eye-witness. Motive is an important factor for consideration in a case of circumstantial evidence. But when there is a direct eye witness, motive is not significant. This is what was held by the Hon□ble Supreme Court in the said judgment:

'In case the prosecution is not able to discover an impelling motive, that could not reflect upon the credibility of a witness proved to be a reliable eye-witness. Evidence as to motive would, no doubt, go a long way in cases wholly dependent on circumstantial evidence. Such evidence would form one of the links in the chain of circumstantial evidence in such a case. But that would not be so in cases where there are eye-witnesses of credibility, though even in such cases if a motive is properly proved, such proof would strengthen the prosecution case and fortify the court in its ultimate conclusion. But that does not mean that if motive is not established, the evidence of an eye-witness is rendered untrustworthy□ The principle that the lack or absence of motive is inconsequential when direct evidence establishes the crime has been reiterated by this Court in Bikau Pandey v. State of Bihar, (2003) 12 SCC 616; Rajagopal v. Muthupandi, (2017) 11 SCC 120; Yogesh Singh v. Mahabeer Singh, (2017) 11 SCC 195'

52. As held by this Court in a catena of decisions, motive is not an explicit requirement under the Penal Code, though 'motive' may be helpful in proving the case of the prosecution in a case of circumstantial evidence. As observed herein above, there are two eye-witnesses to the incident, and the prosecution has been successful in proving the case against the appellant-accused by examining those two eye-witnesses and therefore, as rightly observed by the Trial Court, assuming that the alleged motive predates the incident or the prosecution has failed to prove the motive beyond doubt, the same shall not be fatal to the case of prosecution.

As observed and held by the Apex Court in the case of Jafel Biswas v. State of West Bengal reported in (2019) 12 SCC 560; the absence of motive does not disperse a prosecution case if the prosecution succeeds in proving the same. The motive is always in the mind of person authoring the incident. Motive not being apparent or not being proved only requires deeper scrutiny of the evidence by the Courts while coming to a conclusion. When there is definite evidence proving an incident and eye'witness account prove the role of the accused, absence in proving of the motive by prosecution does not affect the prosecution case.

53. Thus, non-proving of motive is not fatal to the prosecution in case of direct witnesses. As such, the only issue which is now required to be considered in the present appeal is whether the appellant-accused has committed an offence punishable under Section 302 of the I.P.C., or any other lesser offence, more particularly Section 304 Part-I or II of the I.P.C.?

54. Before, this Court delves into the said consideration of facts relevant to the aforesaid determination, it would be pertinent to refer to certain guiding principles in the nature of judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the said context, which would act as a north star in answering to the aforesaid proposition. The submission of the learned Counsel for the appellant-accused for the applicability of Exception 4 to Section 300 of the I.P.C., so that the appellant-accused can be punished for the lessor punishment under Section 304, Part-II of the I.P.C. in place of Section 302 I.P.C., is threefold viz, (i) death is caused without any premeditation (ii) merely a single blow was inflicted and (iii) the whole incident occurred due to a sudden fight, and the appellant-accused did not take undue advantage or acted in an unusual manner.

55. As far as the single blow theory for applicability of Section 304 I.P.C. or Section 302 I.P.C. is concerned, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Mahesh Balmiki v. State of M.P., reporetd in (2000) 1 SCC 319; while deciding the question of whether a single blow with a knife to the chest of the deceased would attract Section 302 I.P.C. or not, held thus: (SCC pp. 322-23, para 9)

'9. …. there is no principle that in all cases of a single blow Section 302 IPC is not attracted. A single blow may, in some cases, entail conviction under Section 302 IPC, in some cases under Section 304 IPC and in some other cases under Section 326 IPC. The question with regard to the nature of offence has to be determined on the facts and in the circumstances of each case. The nature of the injury, whether it is on the vital or non- vital part of the body, the weapon used, the circumstances in which the injury is caused and the manner in which the injury is inflicted are all relevant factors which may go to determine the required intention or knowledge of the offender and the offence committed by him. In the instant case, the deceased was disabled from saving himself because he was held by the associates of the appellant who inflicted though a single yet a fatal blow of the description noted above. These facts clearly establish that the appellant had the intention to kill the deceased. In any event, he can safely be attributed the knowledge that the knife blow given by him was so imminently dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death.

56. Further, as far as the contention of the learned Counsel that a sudden fight had occurred on the fateful night between the deceased and the appellant-accused, and as such Exception 4 to Section 300 I.P.C. is applicable instead of Section 302 I.P.C. is concerned, the Hon'ble Supreme Court, from time to time has devised certain propositions, which plays a pivotal role in deciding whether the case falls under Section 302 or under Section 304 Part I or 304 Part II I.P.C. Thus, we see that the Apex Court in Dhirajbhai Gorakhbhai Nayak v. State of Gujarat, reported in (2003) 9 SCC 322; while discussing the ingredients of Exception 4 to Section 300 I.P.C. relating to sudden fight, as has been claimed by the appellant-accused in the present case, held as follows: (SCC pp. 327, para 11)

'11. The fourth exception of Section 300 IPC covers acts done in a sudden fight. The said Exception deals with a case of prosecution (sic provocation) not covered by the first exception, after which its place would have been more appropriate. The Exception is founded upon the same principle, for in both there is absence of premeditation. But, while in the case of Exception 1 there is total deprivation of self- control, in case of Exception 4, there is only that heat of passion which clouds men's sober reason and urges them to deeds which they would not otherwise do. There is provocation in Exception 4 as in Exception 1, but the injury done is not the direct consequence of that provocation. In fact, Exception 4 deals with cases in which notwithstanding that a blow may have been struck, or some provocation given in the origin of the dispute or in whatever way the quarrel may have originated, yet the subsequent conduct of both parties puts them in respect of guilt upon an equal footing. A 'sudden fight' implies mutual provocation and blows on each side. The homicide committed is then clearly not traceable to unilateral provocation, nor could in such cases the whole blame be placed on one side. For if it were so, the Exception more appropriately applicable would be Exception 1. There is no previous deliberation or determination to fight. A fight suddenly takes place, for which both parties are more or less to be blamed. It may be that one of them starts it, but if the other had not aggravated it by his own conduct it would not have taken the serious turn it did. There is then mutual provocation and aggravation, and it is difficult to apportion the share of blame which attaches to each fighter. The help of Exception 4 can be invoked if death is caused (a) without premeditation, (b) in a sudden fight, (c) without the offenders having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner, and (d) the fight must have been with the person killed. To bring a case within Exception 4 all the ingredients mentioned in it must be found. It is to be noted that the 'fight' occurring in Exception 4 to Section 300 IPC is not defined in IPC. It takes two to make a fight. Heat of passion requires that there must be no time for the passions to cool down and in this case, the parties had worked themselves into a fury on account of the verbal altercation in the beginning. A fight is a combat between two and more persons whether with or without weapons. It is not possible to enunciate any general rule as to what shall be deemed to be a sudden quarrel. It is a question of fact and whether a quarrel is sudden or not must necessarily depend upon the proved facts of each case. For the application of Exception 4, it is not sufficient to show that there was a sudden quarrel and there was no premeditation. It must further be shown that the offender has not taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner. The expression 'undue advantage' as used in the provision means 'unfair advantage.'

57. From the above stated decisions, it emerges that there is no hard and fast rule that in a case of single blow injury Section 302 of the I.P.C. would not be attracted. It depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case. The fact situation has to be considered in each case, more particularly, the events which precede will also have a bearing on the issue whether the act by which the death was caused was done with an intention of causing death or knowledge that it is likely to cause death. It is the totality of the circumstances which will decide the nature of the offence.

58. Applying the law laid down by the Apex Court in the aforesaid decisions, more particularly the decisions on the single blow injury and the facts on hand, it is required to be considered whether the case would fall under Section 302 I.P.C. or any other lesser offence.

P.W.1 Satvindar Kaur, who is an eye-witness to the incident right from the beginning and also an injured, deposed that the appellant-accused had worked along with her for two years and was removed one and a half months (in cross-examination, she says 3 months) prior to the incident due to allegations of theft and 'hera-pheri' against the appellant-accused. She admits that although a complaint had been lodged for the said theft, however, the same was settled on the ground that the appellant-accused would not repeat such conduct in the future. She also admits that it was her deceased-husband, who had come out first after hearing the noise of the breaking glass of the scooty, and she and her mother (P.W.-2) came out only upon hearing the abusive duel between her husband and the appellant-accused. It has also been admitted by the said eye-witness that 'dhakka-mukki' has occasioned and when the complainant and her mother went to save her husband, the appellant-accused attacked the husband with the scissors.

She also admits that both the appellant-accused and the deceased, while fighting and pushing each other, came from the spot of scooty to the basement where her shop was located, and eventually her husband was attacked in front of Sanjeev Boutique. She admits that she had told the police during investigation that her husband was stabbed at the place of scooty due to her mental disturbance.

Thus, apparently it appears that there had been some quarrel between the deceased and the appellant-accused over the breaking of glass and abuses words, which resulted in 'dhakka-mukki' and eventually leading to stabbing the deceased. Further, this Court finds that both the appellant-accused and the deceased moved from the spot of parking of scooty to the basement for more than two minutes. Thus, keeping in view the cumulative happening of the incident, it can be termed to be a sudden fight.

59. Further, the said eyewitness although has deposed that the appellant had bricks (withy which he was breaking the glass of scooty) in one hand and a pair of scissors in the other, however, when she is further cross-examined, she says that the appellant-accused was beating the deceased with his hands during 'dhakka-mukki', and the said beating went for about two minutes. She also admits that the appellant-accused attacked the deceased with the scissors suddenly and the first blow was directed towards her mother (P.W.-2) and the second towards her husband. She also admits that there were altogether only two blows with the scissors. Thus, it can be said that upon hearing the breaking of glass of the scooty , the deceased immediately rushed outside and may have challenged the appellant-accused and obviously would have given rise to verbal abuses followed by

'dhakka-mukki', resulting in a sudden quarrel, due to the existing dispute of the appellant-accused being an ex-employee and now a competitor, as has been brought out from the evidence on record.

60. Further, from an analysis of the aforesaid statement of the eyewitness, it is apparent from the statement, as far as the appellant-accused having the bricks in one hand and scissors in the other cannot be believed for the simple reasons that later during her cross-examination, she admits that prior to the blow with the scissors, 'Dhakka-mukki' i.e., pushing and fisting, had occasioned at the crime-spot and the appellant-accused was seen beating the deceased for two minutes by his hand. If both the hands of the appellant-accused were engaged with bricks and scissors,, as deposed by the eyewitness, how can the appellant-accused beat the deceased with his hands for two minutes. Thus, according to this Court, the appellant-accused was not holding the scissors in his hand when the fight started, and he may only had bricks with which he broke the glass of the scooty.

Further, this Court finds that there is no evidence on record as to whose scissor was used for stabbing the deceased, as to whether the appellant-accused brought along with him or that the scissor was picked from the shop of the deceased or the Sanjeev Boutique, wherein he eventually died with the stabbing of a scissor. Neither of the parties have led any evidence on the said aspect, although a suggestion was put by the appellant-accused to P.W.-1 that the scissor was brought by the deceased himself from his shop, which was denied, but this Court does not find any sterling evidence on the said issue as to who brought the scissor or as to who was the owner of the scissor. Since, there is no evidence, the benefit of the same has to accrue in favour of the appellant-accused and as such, it has to be held that the appellant-accused did not bring along with him the scissor, with which the deceased was attacked. In case, the appellant-accused was carrying the scissors all throughout the happening of the incident, this Court fails to understand as to why he used the bricks to break the glass of scooty or as to why he did indulge in 'dhakka-mukki' or that why the beating of the deceased by the appellant-accused was with hand. These all questions, merely indicate that the scissors were not brought along by the appellant-accused. Thus, it can be said in a way that the attack was not premeditated or preplanned.

61. Next, it has been admitted by the P.W.-1 that there were altogether two blows inflicted with the scissors. . The first being on the mother (P.W.-2) and the second on the deceased. Again, if the first blow was to the mother, it definitely meant that the intention of the appellant-accused was not directed towards the deceased only but was also towards the mother (P.W.-2). However, we see from the evidence which has come on record that the mother (P.W.-2) was not a regular visitor to the shop nor used to sit regularly at the shop. She, as per the evidence on record, came to visit her daughter and the shop, as a matter of chance. Thus, it cannot be said that the appellant-accused would have planned the same fate for the mother as well for the deceased. In any case, no evidence has been brought on record relating to any animosity between the mother (P.W.-2) and the appellant-accused. Thus, it can be stated with some certainty that a fight ensued between the parties due to the breaking of glass of the scooty by the appellant-accused and because of the □dhakka-mukki□ and beating which went for two minutes and the appellant-accused being faced with three persons i.e., the deceased, P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, could have caught hold of a pair of scissors and attacked the persons indiscriminately, who came in front of him. Since there was no premeditation, the mother-in-law of the deceased (P.W.-2) came first and as such was attacked with the scissors prior to the second attack on the deceased.

62. As to the intensity of the blow, the medical evidence shows that the injuries sustained by the mother were simple in nature. The medical report can be seen in that regard, which is being mentioned herein:

* 3x1 cm Lacerated wound over the ulna found on right wrist with redness.

The aforesaid injury has been opined to be simple by the Doctor. Apparently, the deceased was the second person to receive the blow with the scissors from the appellant-accused with equal intensity as has been revealed from the postmortem report. The said report says that the deceased sustained the following ante-mortem injury:

The cause of death is due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injury.

An analysis of the Medical report as aforesaid shows that although the intensity of the stab inflicted by the appellant-accused to the mother (P.W.-2) and the deceased is almost the same as the wound is of size 3 x 1 cm in both cases, however, there is a huge difference when it comes to the consequence of the said stabbing, as the mother merely sustained simple injury, whereas the deceased sustained a fatal injury. Apparently, the said difference in consequences is due to the place, where the stabbing was inflicted. In the case of deceased, he was stabbed on a vital part. But the question is whether the appellant-accused had the intention or knowledge of the said stabbing on vital part. The answer would be no, for the simple reason that it has come in evidence that there was a fight between the appellant-accused on one side and P.W.-1, P.W.-2 and deceased on the other. Further, it has also come in evidence that there were various neighbouring shop owners who had come to see the fight after verbal abuses between the appellant-accused and the deceased, therefore a commotion like situation was created at the crime-spot, leading to usage of the scissors to attack and get away from the said scene. Thus, we see that the first blow landed on the mother-in-law (P.W.-2) on the wrist/hand, while the second blow unfortunately landed on the chest of the deceased, causing fatal injuries.

63. Further, this Court finds that after the said second blow, there was no further blow to anyone or even to the deceased. There was only a single blow to the deceased. Thus, from the aforesaid narration of facts, it can be safely said that (i) the act was committed without premeditation; (ii) there was a sudden fight; (iii) the act was in a heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel; and (iv) the offender has not taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

64. As per Exception 4 to Section 300 of the I.P.C., Culpable Homicide is not Murder if it is committed without premeditation, in a sudden fight, in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel, and without the offender having taken undue advantage and not having acted in a cruel or unusual manner. In the present case, from the analysis of the evidence brought on record, the Culpable Homicide cannot be said to be a murder within the definition of Section 300 I.P.C. and, therefore, in the facts and circumstances of the case narrated herein above, and the manner in which the incident started with the breaking of the scooty glass, and followed by verbal abuse and 'dhakka-mukki', we are of the opinion that Section 302 of the I.P.C. shall not be attracted.

65. Now, the next question which is posed for consideration of this Court is whether the case would fall under Section 304, Part II I.P.C. Considering the totality of the facts and circumstances of the case, and more particularly that the appellant-accused inflicted a blow with scissors and he inflicted the injury on the deceased on a vital part of the deceased's body, it is to be presumed that causing such bodily injury was likely to cause death. Therefore, the case would fall under Section 304, Part I of the I.P.C. and not under Section 304, Part II of the I.P.C.

66. Though, the issue would now be restricted only to the sentence for the offence under Section 304, Part I of the I.P.C., and we have to consider about the appropriate punishment for the appellant-accused in this case, for its aggravating circumstances relating to the crime while mitigating circumstances relating to the criminal. We see from the record that at the time of commission of charged incident, age of appellant-accused was about 35 years. From the facts and circumstances of the case, it is clear that the appellant-accused initially had no intention for murder/homicide or causing any injury. The appellant-accused has no criminal history and is in incarceration for about 12 years. This Court when faced with the hardcore term of determining the quantum of sentence to be awarded to the appellant-accused, is reminded of the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Hazara Singh v. Raj Kumar, reported in (2013) 9 SCC 516. The relevant paragraph is being extracted herein below in verbatim:-

'17.We reiterate that in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt the corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration. We also reiterate that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The court must not only keep in view the rights of the victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment.

67. Therefore, keeping in view the totality of facts and circumstances, and for the reasons stated herein above, the impugned judgment and order passed by the Trial Court convicting the appellant-accused for the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C. is hereby modified from that of under Section 302 I.P.C. to Section 304, Part I of the I.P.C. The appellant-accused is held guilty for the offence punishable under Section 304, Part I of the I.P.C. and is accordingly sentenced to undergo 12 years Rigorous Imprisonment with a fine and default clause, as awarded by the Trial Court in Sessions Trial No.1062 of 2015, arising out of Case Crime No. 264 of 2014.

68. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed to the aforesaid extent.

69. Let a copy of this judgment, as well as the lower Court record, be sent to the Trial Court for necessary information and ensuring compliance.

70. All pending application(s) shall stand disposed of.

Criminal Appeal No. 4280 of 20111

Pawan Kumar ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to the validity of conviction of the appellant under Ss.302, 452 and 354 IPC and whether the prosecution proved its case beyond reasonable doubt on the basis of the dying declaration and other evidence, whether the charge under S.354 IPC stood established, and whether, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the offence amounted to murder punishable under S.302 IPC or culpable homicide not amounting to murder punishable under S.304 Part II IPC. (Paras 16, 28-59)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Evidence - Dying Declaration - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S.32(1) - Reliability and evidentiary value - A truthful, voluntary and reliable dying declaration, recorded when the maker was in a fit physical and mental condition, can by itself form the sole basis of conviction without corroboration - Requirement of corroboration is merely a rule of prudence and not an absolute rule of law - Briefness of the dying declaration or the fact that it is not recorded in question-answer form does not render it unacceptable - Applied to facts, the dying declaration was recorded within about two and a half hours of the occurrence after obtaining medical certification regarding the fitness of the declarant both before and after recording, was found brief, precise and trustworthy and was accepted as reliable - Conviction could safely be founded thereon. (Paras 28-46)

Criminal Law - Appreciation of evidence - Ocular evidence vis-à-vis dying declaration - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Ss. 3 and 32(1) - Dying declaration admissible under S. 32(1) on the maxim nemo moriturus praesumitur mentire - Brevity of the declaration lends assurance to its truthfulness and indicates absence of tutoring or prompting - Absence of a medical certificate regarding the declarant's fitness not fatal where the person recording the declaration was satisfied about the declarant's physical and mental condition - Extent or percentage of burn injuries not by itself determinative of mental fitness to make the declaration - Where ocular evidence is inconsistent with a truthful and voluntary dying declaration and is found unreliable, the Court may safely rely upon the dying declaration - In the present case, presence of P.W.2 at the place of occurrence held doubtful in view of material inconsistencies with the dying declaration, whereas testimony of P.W.1 partly corroborated the prosecution case and was supported by the medical and documentary evidence - Charge under S. 354 IPC not proved - Conviction under S. 452 IPC affirmed. (Paras 47-52, 59).

Criminal Law - Culpable Homicide and Murder - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss.299, 300, 302, 304 Part II, 452 and 354 - Distinction between murder and culpable homicide not amounting to murder - Court must determine the intention or knowledge of the accused from the proved circumstances and examine whether any clause of S.300 IPC is attracted - Applied to facts, the incident occurred during a sudden scuffle without previous enmity or premeditation and the deceased succumbed after seven days due to septicaemia resulting from burn injuries - Facts disclosed knowledge that death was likely but did not attract any clause of S.300 IPC - Conviction altered from S.302 IPC to S.304 Part II IPC, conviction and sentence under S.452 IPC affirmed, appellant acquitted of the offence under S.354 IPC, sentenced under S.304 Part II IPC with fine and default sentence and directed to be released forthwith, having already undergone the sentence, if not required in any other case. (Paras 53-59)

Held: A dying declaration recorded after the maker is found medically fit and which is voluntary, truthful and inspires full confidence can by itself form the basis of conviction without any corroboration and the rule requiring corroboration is merely one of prudence and not of law - the dying declaration in the present case having been recorded within a short time of the occurrence after obtaining fitness certificates before and after recording and having been found brief, precise and reliable was sufficient to establish that the appellant had set the deceased on fire - the testimony of P.W.2 was rightly found doubtful in view of inconsistencies with the dying declaration while the testimony of P.W.1 and the medical and documentary evidence afforded partial corroboration - the prosecution failed to establish the charge under S.354 IPC but successfully proved the charge under S.452 IPC - having regard to the facts that there was no previous enmity, no premeditation, the occurrence took place during a sudden scuffle and the deceased succumbed after seven days due to septicaemia resulting from burn injuries, the case did not fall within any of the clauses of S.300 IPC but was covered by clause (c) of S.299 IPC and consequently the conviction under S.302 IPC was liable to be altered to one under S.304 Part II IPC while maintaining the conviction and sentence under S.452 IPC and acquitting the appellant of the charge under S.354 IPC - the appellant was sentenced under S.304 Part II IPC with fine and default sentence and, having already undergone the sentence, was directed to be released forthwith, if not required in any other case - appeal partly allowed. 1. The instant Criminal Appeal has been directed against the judgment and order dated 07.07.2011 / 11.07.2011 passed by Additional Sessions Judge / Special Judge (S.C./S.T. Act), Etawah in Sessions Trial No.394 of 2008 (State Vs. Pawan Kumar) arising out of Case Crime No.90 of 2008, under Sections 452, 354, 302 IPC, Police Station - Ekdil, District Etawah convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 302 I.P.C. for life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. Rs.10,000/- with stipulation of default clause, under Section 452 IPC for seven years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs.5000/- with stipulation of default clause and under Section 354 IPC for two years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs.2000/- with stipulation of default clause. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

2. Prosecution story, in nutshell, as unfolded in written report (Ex.Ka.-1), is as follows:

On 02.04.2008 at about 12:00 Noon, when Kanchan, daughter of the complainant Santosh Kumar, aged about 16 years and a student of class XI returned home from school, kept her bag and was changing her clothes and the younger son of the informant namely, Vikas aged about 13 years was at home, the accused Pawan Kumar entered into the house of the complainant through the roof of the neighbour and started outraging the modesty of the daughter of the complainant. On being objected, he became annoyed. The son of the informant, who was outside the house came inside, to which the accused Pawan picked the kerosene container, poured it on Kanchan, lit the matchstick, set her ablaze and fled away from the roof of the house. The son of the informant, who witnessed the incident, started shrieking, on which the neighbour Smt. Urmila came at the spot and extinguished the fire that broke out in the roof of the house. At the time of incident, the complainant was working as a labourer along with his wife. Urmila told that he had seen Pawan Kumar running from the place of incident.

3. On the basis of written report (Ex.Ka.-1), on 02.04.2008 at 16:30 hours, Chik First Information Report (Ex.Ka-5) as Case Crime No.90 of 2008, under Sections 354, 452, 307 IPC was registered against the accused at Police Station - Ekdil, District Etawah.
4. The complainant immediately took his daughter in burnt condition to Moti Jheel Hospital, Etawah by rickshaw and got her admitted there, where she was medico legally examined. On 02.04.2008 itself, the statement / dying declaration of the victim (Ex. Ka.3) was recorded by the Tehsildar. He also took her signature over the same. Victim was conscious at the time of statement. On the very next day her daughter was referred to Kanpur Ursala Hospital, where she remained admitted for 6 - 7 days and during treatment, she took her last breath.

5. On 10.04.2008 at 3:20 P.M., the autopsy of the deceased Kanchan was performed by Dr. V.P. Chaturvedi, who found following injuries on her person :

(i) Superficial to deep burn injuries all over the body except some parts of chest, stomach, knee joints, legs and soles were saved from burning.

As per opinion of the Doctor, the cause of death of the deceased was due to septicemia, as a result of ante-mortem burn injury. The postmortem report is Ex. Ka.-17.

6. Sub Inspector Sajjan Singh P.W.6 started the investigation and after inspection of the spot, prepared the site plan (Ex.Ka.-7). He recorded the statements of witnesses Kiran, Urmilla Devi, Vikas, Satya Prakash, Raghuveer and Amar Singh. Thereafter he recorded the injury report of the victim in case diary and took remand of the accused on 20.04.2008. After the death of victim, inquest report was prepared and postmortem was performed. Thereafter, Investigating Officer recorded the proceedings of inquest in case diary and also recorded the statements of witnesses of inquest. In G.D. No.29 dated 22.04.2008 time 18:10 hours, Section 302 IPC was added and thereafter he handed over the investigation to Station House Officer. The then Station Officer Pradeep Kumar Sharma took over the investigation and after perusal of the case diary and conclusion of the investigation, submitted charge-sheet (Ex.Ka.-16) against the accused. Thereafter cognizance was taken upon the said charge-sheet and the case was committed to the Court of Sessions.

7. Accused appeared before the Court and after hearing both the parties, charges were framed under Sections 452, 354, 302 IPC against the accused. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

8. Trial started and in order to prove it□s case, the prosecution adduced P.W.1 Santosh Kumar, complainant (father of the deceased), P.W.2 Vikas (brother of the deceased), P.W.3 Panna Lal (Tehsildar, who recorded the dying declaration of the deceased), P.W.4 Dr. V.S. Agnihotri (who prepared injury report of the victim at District Hospital, Etawah), P.W.5 Virendra Pratap Singh (Head Moharrir, P.S. Ekdil), P.W.6 S.I. Sajjan Singh (Investigating Officer, who inspected the spot, prepared site plan and recorded the statements of the witness and prepared other papers), P.W.7 S.I. Girja Shanker (performed the inquest and prepared other papers), P.W.8 S.I. Pradeep Kumar (subsequent Investigating Officer who investigated the matter and submitted charge-sheet against the accused) and P.W.9 Dr. V.P. Chauturvedi (conducted the post-mortem of the deceased).

9. In support of oral version, following documents were filed and proved on behalf of the prosecution:

Written report / tehrir dated 02.04.2008 (Ex.Ka.-1), inquest report dated 09.04.2008 (Ex.Ka.-2), dying declaration dated 02.04.2008 (Ex.Ka.-3), injury report (Ex.Ka.-4), chik first information report (Ex.Ka.-5), G.D. report dated 02.04.2008 (Ex.Ka.-6), site plan (Ex.Ka.-7), photo nash (Ex.Ka.-8), G.D. Entry dated 22.04.2008 (Ex.Ka.-9), sample seal (Ex.Ka.-10), challan nash (Ex.Ka.-11), Application to S.S.P. (Ex.Ka.-12), Letter to C.M.O. (Ex.Ka.-13), Report (Ex.Ka.-14), inquest report (Ex.Ka.-15), charge-sheet (Ex.Ka.-16) and postmortem report (Ex.Ka.-17).

10. After the prosecution evidence was over, all adverse/incriminating circumstances relied upon by the prosecution were disclosed to accused in question answer form for his version of occurrence as per mandate of Section 313 Cr.P.C. Accused denied all those adverse/incriminating facts put to him and said that the prosecution case is false, he is innocent and falsely implicated. Investigation was not done in fair and impartial manner. Accused also pleaded that the statement of the victim was wrongly recorded, as she (victim) was not in a position to speak and did not say anything.

11. Trial Court, having heard learned counsel for parties and going through entire record, vide impugned judgment and order, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant as above. Hence, feeling aggrieved with said judgment and order, present accused-appellant has filed this appeal.

12. Heard Sri Abhishek Sharma, Amicus Curiae for the appellant, Sri Aditya Kumar Tripathi, counsel for the complainant and Sri Virendra Kumar Pal, the A.G.A. for the State.

13. The Amicus Curiae appearing for appellant argued that the prosecution case is totally baseless and from the evidence available on record, no case is made out as against the convict / appellant. It was further argued that the learned trial court has misinterpreted the evidence available on record. No ingredient to bring home the guilt of the accused under Sections 452, 354, 302 IPC was proved by the prosecution. On the basis of analysis of prosecution evidence, no guilt against the accused appellant is established and proved. Learned trial court misread the evidence and convicted and sentenced the appellant. It was further argued that this appeal pertains to the year 2011 and the appellant is languishing in jail for a considerable period of time. The sentence for life imprisonment awarded to the appellant by the trial court is very harsh and excessive.

14. The Amicus Curiae for the appellant further submitted that the injuries sustained by the deceased did not result into her instantaneous death. If, for the sake of argument, it is assumed that appellant has committed the offence, in that case also no offence under Section 302 IPC is made out. This case can maximum travel up to the limits of offence under Section 304 IPC, because the deceased died after 7 days of the occurrence due to developing the infection in her burn-wounds, i.e., septicaemia. As per catena of judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court and this Court, offence cannot travel beyond section 304 IPC, in case the death occurred due to septicaemia. He further submitted that autopsy report also shows that cause of death was septicaemia as a result of ante mortem burn injuries.

15. The counsel for the complainant as well as the A.G.A. for the State vehemently opposed the submissions made on behalf of the appellant and submitted that PW-1, the father of the deceased and P.W.-2, the brother of the deceased have fully supported the prosecution case in their testimony. Other witnesses of fact have also corroborated the prosecution version. Severe burn injuries were found on the body of the deceased. Hence, while going through the evidence on record, it cannot be said that the offence under Sections 452, 354, 302 IPC is not made out against he appellant. The learned trial court has not committed any error in convicting and sentencing the accused- appellant under Sections 452, 354, 302 IPC. There is no merit in the appeal and the same is liable to be dismissed.

Analysis

16. In the light of above, following questions arise for consideration in present appeal :

(i) Whether the dying declaration of the deceased is reliable or not ?

(ii) Whether the prosecution could be said to have proved it□s case against the appellant - convict beyond reasonable doubt ?

(iii) Whether the present case is a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder and, therefore, conviction / sentence of the appellant - convict is liable to be converted / reduced under section 304 I.P.C. ?

Oral Evidence on Record.

17. Informant Santosh Kumar, who is the father of the deceased Kanchan, has been examined by the prosecution as P.W.1. He is not an eyewitness of the incident. However, in his deposition, he has stated that the incident is of 02.04.2008. He and his wife had gone for labour work. At around 12:00 noon, a boy named Chaman came to this witness and asked him to come to his home immediately as some untoward incident had happened. He immediately returned to his home on the motorcycle of Chaman and found his daughter Kanchan, aged about 16 years, lying completely burnt. He immediately took Kanchan in burnt condition to Moti Jheel Hospital, Etawah by rickshaw and got her admitted. He asked his daughter Kanchan and his son Vikas regarding the incident on which, both of them have told him that when Kanchan had returned from school as usual and was changing her clothes, just then accused, who is present in Court, came down from roof of adjacent house through stairs and molested his daughter with bad intention. When his daughter tried to save herself and resisted, the accused poured kerosene oil upon her and thereafter set her on fire with a matchstick. At that time his son had also entered the house. Accused Pawan Kumar fled away from the roof by taking stairs. Hearing the noise of his son Vikas, their neighbours Satya Prakash, Urmila Devi and others also came on spot. After getting his daughter Kanchan admitted to Moti Jheel Hospital, he came back to Etawah Court where he got typed his written report / Tehrir from typist. Aforesaid written report / Tehrir was read out to him and thereafter he signed the same. This witness has proved the written report / Tehrir as Ex.Ka.-1. He gave the written report / Tehrir to Senior Superintendent of Police, Etawah. His daughter was referred to Ursala Hospital, Kanpur on the next day of her admission where she remained admitted for about 6 □ 7 days and died therein. On the second day of Kanchan□s death, he was made the witness of the inquest along with Arvind, Raju and his wife Kiran Devi. He signed on the inquest report and has proved inquest report as Ex.Ka.-2. He had also shown the scene of crime to the Investigating Officer. He also identified signature of his daughter Kanchan Kumari on Paper No.10-Ka, which is the dying declaration of his daughter.

18. The cross-examination of P.W.1 was deferred on 20.01.2009 and was cross-examined at length on 03.03.2009. As this witness is not an eyewitness of the incident, therefore, his all cross-examination is with respect to timing of his arrival on the spot. However, in his cross-examination, he has confirmed that information of the incident was given to him by Chaman. He has also confirmed that when he arrived in his house, he found his daughter completely burnt. This witness is the informant and has proved his written report / Tehrir as Ex.Ka.-1 as well as inquest report as Ex.Ka.-2. This witness has also proved the fact that on his arrival in his home on the date of incident, he found his daughter lying in a burnt condition.

19. The younger brother of the deceased namely, Vikas has been examined as P.W.2. The trial Court after recording his age and putting some questions, came to the conclusion that he understands right and wrong and thereafter recorded its satisfaction that witness is capable of giving testimony. In his examination-in-chief, P.W.2 has stated that on the date and time of incident, he was in the gallery of his house. He did not go to school as he was unwell on that day. Both of his parents had gone to work. His younger brother, aged about 2□ years at that time, was with him. His sister Kanchan, who was aged about 16 years at that time, had returned from the school and was changing her clothes inside the room. On hearing shrieks of his sister Kanchan, he went inside and saw that accused Pawan Kumar was molesting his sister and his sister was resisting, just then accused poured kerosene oil from a container kept there, on his sister and set her on fire with a matchstick. After setting her ablaze, accused went to the roof taking stairs and ran away from there. His sister Kanchan in a burning state came out of the room and went to the bathroom located in the courtyard. He tried to extinguish the fire by sprinkling water and raised alarm, then their neighbours Urmila Devi, Satya Prakash and other villagers came on spot and extinguished the fire. Chaman of his village brought his father on his motorcycle. Thereafter his father took his sister to the hospital. His sister Kanchan died in Kanpur Hospital about seven days after the burning. Accused Pawan Kumar□s house is situated at a distance of 5 - 6 houses from his house. Accused Pawan Kumar is present in Court, whom he knew and identified.

20. On the request of defence, the cross-examination of P.W.2 was deferred, however, an adjournment application was moved, which was rejected. No cross-examination was done, therefore, cross-examination of this witness was closed. This witness was again recalled on 10.02.2010, however, no one came to cross-examine this witness. His cross-examination was again closed. On the application of defence, this witness was again recalled and his cross-examination was concluded on 14.07.2010. P.W.2 in his cross-examination has stated that on the date of incident, he had fever and, therefore, he was at home. He was cross-examined regarding the place of incident and its directions. He, in his cross-examination, again affirmed that his sister came from school and was changing her clothes when accused Pawan Kumar came there. Before this incident, Pawan Kumar had never come to his house. He came to know about it when the noise started. Pawan Kumar was molesting his sister. When he reached, Pawan ran away after setting her sister ablaze. Therefore, this witness has confirmed the prosecution story in his cross-examination as well.

21. The then Naib Tehsildar, Etawah Pannalal P.W.3 in his deposition has stated that on 02.04.2008, he had recorded the dying declaration of Kanchan daugher of Santosh on the direction of S.D.M., Etawah. Kanchan was in a very burnt state. Whatever was stated by Kanchan, he had recorded the same. He started recording her statement on 02.04.2008 at 2:30 P.M. and concluded the same at 2:46 P.M. After recording her statement, he obtained the signature of Kanchan. He also obtained the fitness certificate from Emergency Medical Officer, Etawah that injured / victim is in a fit state to give her statement and only thereafter he recorded her statement. After recording the statement of the injured / victim, he again obtained certificate from the same Medical Officer that she was in a fit state. This witness has proved the dying declaration of the deceased as Ex.Ka.-10. Inspite of giving opportunity to the defence, no one turned to cross-examine this witness, therefore, his cross-examination was closed. However, on the application of defence, this witness was also recalled for cross-examination and in his cross-examination done on 21.11.2009, this witness has stated that when he arrived in hospital for recording the statement, family members of the victim were there, however, he had sent them outside. He had put questions to the victim to which she had answered. However, he had not recorded the dying declaration in question - answer form. The victim was promptly giving answers to the questions asked to her and was not taking time in giving the answers. This witness has proved the dying declaration of the deceased.

22. Dr. V.S. Agnihotri P.W.4 medico legally examined the deceased when she was admitted in District Hospital, Etawah on 02.04.2008 and prepared her medico legal examination report. This witness has proved the injury report of Kanchan as Ex.Ka.-4. He has found wounds of burn injuries, light on some places and dark on other places, both legs were positioned forward. Except knees, back side of both palms, some part of abdomen and head, the entire body was burnt. Colour was red and on some part blackening was present, hair of skull and eyebrows were singed. Smell of kerosene oil was there on burn injuries. Ulcers / sores were also present on some parts. The injured was conscious. Pulse and blood pressure was zero. Injuries were kept under observation and injured was admitted in the hospital. In his opinion, Kanchan has sustained those burn injuries as a result of burning from kerosene oil on 02.04.2008 at 12:00 noon. This witness was not cross-examined by the defence.

23. Head Constable Virendra Pratap Singh P.W.5, who was the scribe of the first information report, is a formal witness, who has proved the first information report as Ex.Ka.-5 and G.D. Report dated 02.04.2008 time 16:30 hours as Ex.Ka.-6.

24. Sub Inspector Sajjan Singh P.W.6 is the first Investigating Officer of this case, who after taking the investigation in hand inspected and prepared the site plan. He recorded the statement of various witnesses and took the accused on remand. When Section 302 I.P.C. was added after the death of deceased Kanchan, he handed over the investigation to Station Officer of concerned police station. This witness has proved the site plan as Ex.Ka.-7.

25. Sub Inspector Girja Shanker Pandey P.W.7 conducted the inquest proceedings of deceased Kanchan and has prepared the inquest report. He has proved various papers viz. Photo nash, G.D.

Entry, sample seal, challan nash, Application to S.S.P., Letter to C.M.O., Report P.S. Kotwali, Kanpur Nagar as Ex.Ka.-8 to Ex.Ka.-14. This witness has also proved inquest report as Ex.Ka.-15 by verifying his signature. This witness has stated that Ex.Ka.-2 is already marked earlier on the inquest report.

26. The then Station Officer Pradeep Kumar Sharma P.W.8 concluded the investigation and submitted the charge-sheet, which has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-16.

27. Dr. V.P. Chaturvedi P.W.9 is the autopsy surgeon, who has conducted postmortem examination of the deceased Kanchan and has proved the postmortem report as Ex.Ka.-17. Antemortem burn injuries found on the body of deceased and cause of death have already been mentioned in Para 5 of this judgment.

Question No.1 : Whether the dying declaration of the deceased is reliable or not ?

28. The then Naib Tehsildar, Etawah Pannalal P.W.3 has recorded the dying declaration of Kanchan on 02.04.2008 at 2:30 P.M. P.W. 3 in his deposition has categorically stated that prior to recording the dying declaration of Kanchan, he obtained the fitness certificate from the Emergency Medical Officer that she is in a fit state to give statement. Only thereafter, he recorded her statement. He further deposed that after recording the statement of the injured / victim, he again obtained certificate from the same Medical Officer that she was in a fit state during recording of her dying declaration. Therefore, P.W.3, after obtaining the fitness certificate from the Emergency Medical Officer, started recording the statement of victim at 2:30 P.M. and concluded the same at 2:46 P.M. He, after recording the statement of victim, again obtained fitness certificate. The dying declaration of the injured / victim Kanchan has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-10.

29. Before going into the submissions made by both the parties on facts and law it would be proper to have a glance over the dying declaration of the deceased recorded by Naib Tehsildar P.W.3 and proved as Ex.Ka.-3, which contains the certification by Emergency Medical Officer, Sadar Hospital, Etawah regarding the medical fitness of the victim both prior to and after recording the dying declaration. The dying declaration of the victim is reproduced here-in-below :-

"बयांन कंचन पुत्री संतोष उम्र लगभग १६ वर्ष निवासी वमनपुरा ने किया की हम पढ़ने के लिये सुबह संत कबीर पब्लिक स्कूल नगला खादर में पढ़ने के लिये गई हुई थी जब हम घर लौट कर आई तो माँ व पिता घर पर नहीं थे मैं अपने कपड़े बदलने लगे तो पड़ोस के माकन जो मेरे पिता का मकान है उसके मकान के दक्षिण को दीवाल से ज़ालिम का मकान है उसी दीवाल से एक लड़का चढ़ आया और छीना झपटी करने लगा जब मैंने विरोध किया और चिल्लाई तो पवन पुत्र रामहंस ने आग लगा दिया और उसी रास्ते जिस रास्ते से आया उसी से भाग गया जब हम चिल्लाई तो पड़ोस से जो चाची थी वह छत से आई और मोहल्ले वाले आये जिन्होंने आग बुझाई मेरे पिता से किसी की कोई दुश्मनी नहीं है और न ही मैं किसी को फ़साने का बयांन दे रही हूँ "

The dying declaration of the victim, originally made in hindi language is translated / reproduced in english as under :

'The statement was made by Kanchan, daughter of Santosh, aged approximately 16 years, resident of Vamanpura, stating that : I had gone to study at Sant Kabir Public School, Nagla Khadar in the morning. When I returned home, my mother and father were not at home. I started changing my clothes. Then, from the south wall of the neighbor's house (which belongs to my father and is adjacent to Zalim's house), a boy climbed over and began scuffling with me. When I resisted and screamed, Pawan, son of Ramhans, set me on fire and fled back the same way he had come. When I screamed, an aunt from the neighborhood came from the roof, and other people from the locality arrived and extinguished the fire. My father has no enmity with anyone, nor am I giving this statement to falsely implicate anyone.

30. A dying declaration is admitted in evidence on the principle of 'Nemo moriturns proesumitur mentiri i.e. a man will not meet his maker with a lie in his mouth. Dying declaration does not require any corroboration as long as it creates confidence in the mind of the Court and is free from any form of tutoring. In Lakhan V. State of MP(2010) 8 SCC 514, the Apex Court in para no.9 of it's judgment has observed as under :-

"9. The doctrine of dying declaration is enshrined in the legal maxim nemo moriturus praesumitur mentire, which means "a man will not meet his Maker with a lie in his mouth'. The doctrine of dying declaration is enshrined in Section 32of the Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter called as "the Evidence Act') as an exception to the general rule contained in Section of the Evidence Act, which provides that oral evidence in all cases must be direct i.e. it must be the evidence of a witness, who says he saw it. The dying declaration is, in fact, the statement of a person, who cannot be called as witness and, therefore, cannot be cross-examined. Such statements themselves are relevant facts in certain cases.'

31. In Khushal Rao v. State of Bombay AIR 1958 SC 22, Kusa v. State of Orissa (1980) 2 SCC 207 and in Meesala Ramakrishan v. State of A.P. (1994) 4 SCC 182 (SCC p. 183, para 4) it has been held that the law is well settled that the conviction can be founded solely on the basis of dying declaration, if the same inspires full confidence.

32. In Ranjit Singh v. State of Punjab (2006) 13 SCC 130, it has been held that: (SCC p. 134, para 13)

'conviction can be recorded on the basis of a dying declaration alone, if the same is wholly reliable, but in the event there exists any suspicion as regards the correctness or otherwise of the said dying declaration, the courts in arriving at the judgment of conviction shall look for some corroborating evidence.'

33. The Apex Court in Nanhau Ram v. State of M.P. 1988 Supp SCC 152 has held that normally, the court, in order to satisfy itself whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration, looks up to the medical opinion. But, where the eyewitness said that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, the medical opinion cannot prevail. While dealing with the evidence of the declarant's mind, the Constitution Bench in Laxman v. State of Maharashtra (2002) 6 SCC 710, has laid down thus: (SCC pp. 713-14, para 3)

'The juristic theory regarding acceptability of a dying declaration is that such declaration is made in extremity, when the party is at the point of death and when every hope of this world is gone, when every motive to falsehood is silenced, and the man is induced by the most powerful consideration to speak only the truth. Notwithstanding the same, great caution must be exercised in considering the weight to be given to this species of evidence on account of the existence of many circumstances which may affect their truth. The situation in which a man is on the deathbed is so solemn and serene, is the reason in law to accept the veracity of his statement. It is for this reason the requirements of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with. Since the accused has no power of cross-examination, the courts insist that the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the court in its truthfulness and correctness. The court, however, has always to be on guard to see that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. The court also must further decide that the deceased was in a fit state of mind and had the opportunity to observe and identify the assailant. Normally, therefore, the court in order to satisfy itself whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration looks up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitnesses state that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the declaration, the medical opinion will not prevail, nor can it be said that since there is no certification of the doctor as to the fitness of the mind of the declarant, the dying declaration is not acceptable. A dying declaration can be oral or in writing and any adequate method of communication whether by words or by signs or otherwise will suffice provided the indication is positive and definite.'

34. In the State of MP V. Dal Singh (2013) 14 SCC 159, an issue arose regarding the acceptability of dying declaration where the victim suffered from 100% burn injuries and had placed her thumb impression on her statement and the ridges and curves were clearly found on the thumb impression. The Apex Court in para 30 of this judgement has observed that 'There may also be in a given case, a situation where a part of the body may bear upon it severe burns, but a small part of the body may have none. When burns occur on the scalp, they may cause greater difficulties. They can usually be distinguished from wounds inflicted before the body was burnt by their appearance, their position in areas highly susceptible to burning, and on fleshy areas by the findings recorded after internal examination. Shock suffered due to extensive burns is the usual cause of death, and delayed death may be a result of inflammation of the respiratory tract, caused by the inhalation of smoke. Severe damage to the extent of blistering of the tongue and the upper respiratory tract can follow due to the inhalation of smoke.'

35. The Apex Court in para 16 of PV Radhakrishnan V. State of Karnataka (2003) 6 SCC 443 has observed that

'The residuary question whether the percentage of burns suffered is a determinative factor to affect the credibility of the dying declaration and the improbability of its recording. There is no hard-and-fast rule of universal application in this regard. Much would depend upon the nature of the burn, part of the body affected by the burn, impact of the burn on the faculties to think and convey the idea or facts coming to mind and other relevant factors. Percentage of burns alone would not determine the probability or otherwise of making the dying declaration.'

36. In Ram Bihari Yadav V. State of Bihar & Ors. MANU/SC0302/998 in para 9, the Apex Court has held that

'Generally, the dying declaration ought to be recorded in the form of questions and answers but if a dying declaration is not elaborate but consists of only a few sentences and is in the actual words of the maker the mere fact that it is not in question-answer form cannot be a ground against its acceptability or reliability. The mental condition of the maker of the declaration, alertness of mind, memory and understanding of what he is saying, are matters which can be observed by any person. But to lend assurance to those factors having regard to the importance of the dying declaration, the certificate of a medically trained person is insisted upon. In the absence of availability of a doctor to certify the above-mentioned factors, if there is other evidence to show that the recorder of the statement has satisfied himself about those requirements before recording the dying declaration there is no reason as to why the dying declaration should not be accepted.'

37. The Hon'ble Apex Court in para 22 of Atbir V. Govt. (NCT of Delhi) (2010) 9 SCC 1 has observed as under :

'(i) Dying declaration can be the sole basis of conviction if it inspires the full confidence of the court.

(ii)The court should be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind at the time of making the statement and that it was not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination.

(iii) Where the court is satisfied that the declaration is true and voluntary, it can base its conviction without any further corroboration.

(iv) It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot be the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated. The rule requiring corroboration is merely a rule of prudence.

(v) Where the dying declaration is suspicious, it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence.

(vi) A dying declaration which suffers from infirmity such as the deceased was unconscious and could never make any statement cannot form the basis of conviction.

(vii) Merely because a dying declaration does not contain all the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected.

(viii) Even if it is a brief statement, it is not to be discarded.

(ix) When the eyewitness affirms that the deceased was not in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, medical opinion cannot prevail.

(x) If after careful scrutiny, the court is satisfied that it is true and free from any effort to induce the deceased to make a false statement and if it is coherent and consistent, there shall be no legal impediment to make it the basis of conviction, even if there is no corroboration.'

38. The Apex Court in Paniben v. State of Gujarat (1992) 2 SCC 474 has laid down some factors, which can be considered to determine when a dying declaration should be accepted. The relevant para 18 of this judgment is reproduced herein below :-

'(i) There is neither rule of law nor of prudence that dying declaration cannot be acted upon without corroboration. (See Munnu Raja v. State of M.P. [(1976) 3 SCC 104 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 376 : (1976) 2 SCR 764])

(ii) If the court is satisfied that the dying declaration is true and voluntary it can base conviction on it, without corroboration. (See State of U.P. v. Ram Sagar Yadav [(1985) 1 SCC 552 : 1985 SCC (Cri) 127 : AIR 1985 SC 416] and Ramawati Devi v. State of Bihar [(1983) 1 SCC 211 : 1983 SCC (Cri) 169 : AIR 1983 SC 164] .)

(iii) The court has to scrutinize the dying declaration carefully and must ensure that the declaration is not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination. The deceased had an opportunity to observe and identify the assailants and was in a fit state to make the declaration. (See K. Ramachandra Reddy v. Public Prosecutor [(1976) 3 SCC 618 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 473 : AIR 1976 SC 1994] .)

(iv) Where a dying declaration is suspicious, it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence. (See Rasheed Beg v. State of M.P. [(1974) 4 SCC 264 : 1974 SCC (Cri) 426])

(v) Where the deceased was unconscious and could never make any dying declaration the evidence with regard to it is to be rejected. (See Kake Singh v. State of M.P. [1981 Supp SCC 25 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 645 : AIR 1982 SC 1021])

(vi) A dying declaration which suffers from infirmity cannot form the basis of conviction. (See Ram Manorath v. State of U.P. [(1981) 2 SCC 654 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 581])

(vii) Merely because a dying declaration does not [Added by official Corrigendum No. F.3/Ed. B.J./107/2003 dated 28-10-03] contain the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected. (See State of Maharashtra v. Krishnamurti Laxmipati Naidu [1980 Supp SCC 455 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 364 : AIR 1981 SC 617] .)

(viii) Equally, merely because it is a brief statement, it is not to be discarded. On the contrary, the shortness of the statement itself guarantees truth. (See Surajdeo Ojha v. State of Bihar [1980 Supp SCC 769 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 519 : AIR 1979 SC 1505] .)

(ix) Normally, the court in order to satisfy whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration looks up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitness said that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, the medical opinion cannot prevail. (See Nanhau Ram v. State of M.P. [1988 Supp SCC 152 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 342 : AIR 1988 SC 912])

(x) Where the prosecution version differs from the version as given in the dying declaration, the said declaration cannot be acted upon. (See State of U.P. v. Madan Mohan [(1989) 3 SCC 390 : 1989 SCC (Cri) 585 : AIR 1989 SC 1519] .)

(xi) Where there are more than one statements in the nature of dying declaration, the one first in point of time must be preferred. Of course, if the plurality of the dying declaration could be held to be trustworthy and reliable, it has to be accepted. (See Mohanlal Gangaram Gehani v. State of Maharashtra [(1982) 1 SCC 700 : 1982 SCC (Cri) 334 : AIR 1982 SC 839] .

39. The Hon□ble Apex Court in Irfan alias Naka Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, 2023 SCC OnLine 1060 in para 62 has affirmed the aforesaid factors for determining when a dying declaration should be accepted. However, the Apex Court has made it clear that these factors will only affect the weight of the dying declaration and not its admissibility. In this case, there were two dying declarations, which were not found consistent and were rather found contradictory to the oral evidence on record.

40. The Apex Court in PV Radhakrishnan V. State of Karnataka (2003)6SCC443 in para 12 and in Naeem V. State of UP (2024) 3 SCR 36 in para 6, has observed that a dying declaration carries great evidentiary weight but lacks the safeguard of cross-examination, so courts must ensure it inspires full confidence. The declaration must be free from tutoring, prompting, or imagination, and the deceased must have been in a fit mental state with a clear opportunity to identify the assailant. Once the court is satisfied of its truth and voluntariness, a conviction can be based solely on it without corroboration. The rule requiring corroboration is not an absolute rule of law but merely a rule of prudence. Thus, a credible and reliable dying declaration alone is sufficient to sustain a conviction.

41. The Apex Court in Surajdheo Ojha & Ors. V. State of Bihar 1980 (Supp) SCC 769 in para 3 observed that

'Moreover, the deceased has also given a short statement which is a proof of the manner in which the deceased was assaulted. The shortness of the statement itself, appears to be the guarantee of its truth. Even the Doctors who examined the deceased do not say, that having regard to the injuries, the deceased would have become unconscious immediately. In this view of the matter we are fully satisfied about the truth of the dying declaration.'

42. Law thus can be summarized that a credible and reliable dying declaration alone is sufficient to sustain a conviction. The rule requiring corroboration is not an absolute rule, but merely a rule of prudence. A dying declaration, even if brief or short in nature, holds significant evidentiary value under Indian law and is well recognized as an exception to the hearsay rule under Section 32(1) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. It is well settled that the value of a dying declaration depends not upon its length but upon its truthfulness, clarity, and the conscious state of the declarant. The absence of elaborate detail does not diminish its legal sanctity. Whenever there is a brief dying declaration it is indictive of the fact that it is neither the result of tutoring nor prompting. The shortness of the statement is itself a guarantee of its veracity.

43. Generally, the dying declaration ought to be recorded in the form of questions-answers but if a dying declaration is not elaborate but consists of only a few sentences and is in the actual words of the maker the mere fact that it is not in questions-answer form cannot be a ground against its acceptability or reliability.

44. If a person recording the dying declaration finds the victim / deceased to be in a fit physical and mental condition to make a statement, absence of fitness certificate in respect of such state of deceased is not essential in every case. The percentage of burns marks on the deceased is not a determinative factor in assessing the credibility of a dying declaration, as mental fitness depends on various factors such as the nature and impact of injuries, not solely on the extent of physical harm. The mental condition of the maker of the declaration, alertness of mind, memory and understanding of what he is saying, are matters which can be observed by any person. But to lend assurance to those factors having regard to the importance of the dying declaration, the certificate of a medically trained person is insisted upon. In the absence of availability of a doctor to certify the above mentioned factors, if there is other evidence to show that the recorder of the statement has satisfied, himself about those requirements before recording the dying declaration there is no reason as to why the dying declaration should not be accepted. Normally the court looks to the medical opinion about the fit condition of the declarant at the time of making the statement. But this cannot be an inelastic rule. If the person who records the statement or the witness to the declaration tenders satisfactory evidence as to the fit mental condition, the Dying Declaration will be accepted.

45. In the light of above principles, the acceptability of the alleged dying declaration in the instant case has to be considered. The dying declaration is only a piece of untested evidence and must, like any other evidence, satisfy the court that what is stated therein is the unalloyed truth and that it is absolutely safe to act upon it. If after careful scrutiny, the court is satisfied that it is true and free from any effort to induce the deceased to make a false statement and if it is coherent and consistent, there shall be no legal impediment to make it the basis of conviction, even if there is no corroboration.

46. The incident happened on 02.04.2008 at about 12:00 noon, immediately thereafter injured / victim Kanchan was admitted to District Hospital, Etawah where she was medico legally examined by Dr. V.S. Agnihotri P.W.4 at 12:15 P.M. and prepared her injury report Ex.Ka.-4. Thereafter, Naib Tehsildar Panna Lal P.W.3 recorded her dying declaration at 2:30 P.M. Meaning thereby, the dying declaration of the victim was recorded within 2 hours 30 minutes of the occurrence of the incident. The victim was referred to Ursala Hospital, Kanpur on the next day of her admission where she remained admitted for 6 - 7 days and died therein during the course of treatment. Kanchan in her dying declaration has specifically stated that she was burnt by Pawan son of Ramhans. She in her dying declaration has also briefly and precisely stated the manner of incident that when she returned home after attending her school and was changing her clothes, one boy entered into their house and started scuffling with her, to which she resisted and raised noise, on this Pawan son of Ramhans set her on fire and ran away. Victim□s dying declaration is a brief statement in which she has not only named her assailant, but even the manner of incident has been precisely stated by her. P.W.3 has proved the aforesaid dying declaration and it has come in his deposition that he obtained requisite fitness certificates from the Emergency Medical Officer both prior to and after recording of dying declaration of the victim. The veracity of her dying declaration further strengthens the fact that Dr. V.S. Agnihotri found burn injuries on the body of the victim with smell of kerosene oil on her burn injuries. Therefore, we are of the opinion that prosecution has been able to prove the dying declaration of Kanchan as Ex.Ka.-10 and the same is brief, precise and reliable. Accordingly, Question No.1 is answered in the affirmative.

Question No.2 : Whether the prosecution could be said to have proved it's case against the appellant - convict beyond reasonable doubt ?

47. In the present case, prosecution has successfully proved the dying declaration of the deceased Ex.Ka.-3. As per the aforesaid dying declaration, it was accused Pawan Kumar, who has burnt her. The aforesaid dying declaration has been found by this Court to be reliable and conviction of the appellant can be sustained only on the strength of aforesaid dying declaration without there being any corroboration. However, P.W.2 Vikas, who is the younger brother of the deceased Kanchan, has also deposed regarding the incident. Vikas P.W.2 in his deposition has stated that on the date of incident, he was in his house. He, on hearing shrieks of his sister Kanchan, went inside and saw accused Pawan Kumar molesting his sister. His sister was resisting and just then accused Pawan Kumar poured kerosene oil from a container upon his sister and set her on fire with the matchstick. Accused Pawan thereafter ran away from the spot.

48. Vikas P.W.2 in his deposition has stated that on the date of incident, he tried to extinguish the fire of his sister by sprinkling water and also raised alarm, then their neighbours Urmilla Devi, Satya Prakash and others came on spot. However, victim in her dying declaration has clearly stated that on her shrieks, one auntie from their neighbourhood came from the roof and other people from the locality also arrived and extinguished her fire. It is important to observe here that victim has not stated anything about the presence of her younger brother Vikas on the spot or even at the time of extinguishing her fire. Victim in her dying declaration has stated that accused was scuffling with her. However, Vikas P.W.2 has deposed that accused was molesting her. We have already found the dying declaration to be truthful and, therefore, when deposition of P.W.2 is tested in the light of specific averments made in the dying declaration of the deceased, a serious doubt arises in our mind regarding the presence of P.W.2 on the spot at the time of incident. We have carefully perused and evaluated the deposition of P.W.2 in the light of dying declaration of the deceased and are of the opinion that the presence of P.W.2 on the spot at the time of incident is doubtful, therefore, his depostion cannot be relied upon.

49. Informant Santosh Kumar P.W.1 is the father of the deceased, who in his deposition as P.W.1, has categorically stated that when he arrived on spot, he found his daughter Kanchan lying completely burnt. Therefore, the aforesaid evidence of P.W.1 also partially corroborates the prosecution version.

50. Ocular as well as documentary medical evidence prove it on record that the deceased Kanchan sustained burn injuries and she died due to septicemia as a result of antemortem burn injuries. Therefore, ocular as well as documentary evidence corroborate this part of the prosecution story that the deceased suffered burn injuries on the date and time of the alleged incident and she finally succumbed to her injuries due to septicemia, as a result of antemortem burn injuries.

51. Site plan Ex.Ka.-7 also proves that towards southern side of the house of informant, house of Zalim Singh is there, from where appellant - convict Pawan Kumar climbed over and thereafter ran away from the same route after committing the crime, which further corroborate the contents of dying declaration of deceased.

52. In the totality of the circumstances, the prosecution has been able to successfully prove the dying declaration of the deceased, which is a reliable piece of evidence, which in the present case is in itself sufficient to convict the appellant. However, in the instant case, the aforesaid dying declaration also finds partial corroboration from the deposition of P.W.1. The ocular as well as documentary medical evidence strengthen the prosecution version that the deceased sustained burn injuries on her body at the time of incident and ultimately she died due to septicemia, which was a result of burn injuries. It is also clear from the dying declaration (Ex. Ka.3) of the deceased that no allegation whatsoever regarding molestation has been made by the victim and this Court has found the presence of P.W.2 on the spot at the time of incident as doubtful, therefore, the prosecution has not been able to prove the charge of molestation framed against the appellant - convict. Prosecution has been able to prove the charge of house-trespass passed against the appellant - convict and the aforesaid house-trespass by the appellant - convict has been committed for assaulting the deceased and she was even set on fire. Therefore, the prosecution has been able to prove the charge under Section 452 I.P.C. against the appellant - convict. Therefore, we are of the opinion that in the present case, prosecution has been able to prove its case against the appellant - convict beyond reasonable doubt so far as charges of culpable homicide and criminal trespass are concerned, however, the prosecution has not been able to prove the charges under Section 354 I.P.C. Question No.2 is, therefore, accordingly decided.

Question No.3 : Whether the present case is a case of culpable homicide not amount to murder and, therefore, conviction / sentence of the appellant - convict is liable to be converted / reduced under section 304 I.P.C. ?

53. The Supreme Court while analyzing difference between culpable homicide amounting to murder and culpable homicide not amounting to murder in Anbazhagan V. State Represented by the Inspector of Police (2024) 20 SCC 500 in paras 39-44 has held that-

’39- This Court in Phulia Tudu (2007) 14 SCC 588 has observed that the academic distinction between ‘murder’ and ‘culpable homicide not amounting to murder’ has always vexed the courts. The confusion is caused if courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Sections 299 and 300 of the IPC. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences:-

Section 299	Section 300

Section 299	Section 300
A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which death is caused is done-
	Intention
	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused; or
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(3) with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death; or
(b) with the intention of causing injury as is likely to cause death; or	Knowledge
	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so imminently dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death

'40' Clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC corresponds with clauses (2) and (3) of Section 300 of the IPC. The distinguishing feature of the mens rea requisite under clause (2) is the knowledge possessed by the of ender regarding the particular victim being in such a peculiar condition or state of health that the internal harm caused to him is likely to be fatal, notwithstanding the fact that such harm would not in the ordinary way of nature be sufficient to cause death of a person in normal health or condition. It is noteworthy that the intention to cause death is not an essential requirement of clause (2). Only the intention of causing the bodily injury coupled with the of ender's knowledge of the likelihood of such injury causing the death of the particular victim, is sufficient to bring the killing within the ambit of this clause. This clause (2) is borne out by illustration (b) appended to Section 300 of the IPC.

'41' Clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC does not postulate any such knowledge on the part of the offender. Instances of cases falling under clause (2) of Section 300 of the IPC can be where the assailant causes death by a fist blow intentionally given knowing that the victim is suffering from an enlarged liver, or enlarged spleen or diseased heart and such blow is likely to cause death of that particular person as a result; of the rupture of the liver, or spleen or the failure of the heart, as the case may be. If the assailant had no such knowledge about the disease or special frailty of the victim, nor an intention to cause death or bodily injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the offence will not be murder, even if the injury which caused the death, was intentionally given. In clause (3) of Section 300 of the IPC, instead of the words □likely to cause death□ occurring in the corresponding clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC, the words □sufficient in the ordinary course of nature□ have been used. Obviously, the distinction lies between a bodily injury likely to cause death and a bodily injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. The distinction is fine but real and if overlooked, may result in miscarriage of justice. The difference between clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC and clause (3) of Section 300 of the IPC is one of the degree of probability of death resulting from the intended bodily injury. To put it more broadly, it is the degree of probability of death which determines whether a culpable homicide is of the gravest, medium or the lowest degree. The word 'likely' in clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC conveys the sense of probable as distinguished from a mere possibility. The words 'bodily injury'..sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death□ mean that death will be the 'most probable' result of the injury, having regard to the ordinary course of nature.

'42' For cases to fall within clause (3), it is not necessary that the offender intended to cause death, so long as the death ensues from the intentional bodily injury or injuries sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. The decision in the case of Rajwant Singh v. State of Kerala, AIR 1966 SC 1874, is an apt illustration of this point.

'43' The scope of clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC has been the subject matter of various decisions of this Court. The decision in Virsa Singh (supra) has throughout been followed in a number of cases by this Court. In all these cases the approach has been to find out whether the ingredient namely the intention to cause the particular injury was present or not? If such an intention to cause that particular injury is made out and if the injury is found to be sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, then clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC is attracted.

'44'Analysing clause thirdly and as to what the prosecution must prove, it was held in Virsa Singh (supra) as under:-

'15. First, it must establish, quite objectively, that a bodily injury is present;

16. Secondly, the nature of the injury must be proved; These are purely objective investigations.

17. Thirdly, it must be proved that there was an intention to inflict that particular bodily injury, that is to say, that it was not accidental or unintentional, or that some other kind of injury was intended'

18. Once these three elements are proved to be present, the enquiry proceeds further and,

19. Fourthly, it must be proved that the injury of the type just described made up of the three elements set out above is suficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. This part of the enquiry is purely objective and inferential and has nothing to do with the intention of the of ender.'

It was further observed as under:-

'20. - If they inflict injuries of that kind, they must face the consequences; and they can only escape if it can be shown, or reasonably deduced that the injury was accidental or otherwise unintentional. (Emphasis supplied)

The Apex court also observed in para 66 that

'66'Few important principles of law discernible from the aforesaid discussion may be summed up thus:-

'66.1'When the court is confronted with the question, what offence the accused could be said to have committed, the true test is to find out the intention or knowledge of the accused in doing the act. If the intention or knowledge was such as is described in Clauses (1) to (4) of Section 300 of the IPC, the act will be murder even though only a single injury was caused. To illustrate : 'A' is bound hand and foot 'B' comes and placing his revolver against the head of 'A', shoots 'A' in his head killing him instantaneously. Here, there will be no difficulty in holding that the intention of 'B' in shooting 'A' was to kill him, though only single injury was caused. The case would, therefore, be of murder falling within Clause (1) of Section 300 of the IPC. Taking another instance, 'B' sneaks into the bed room of his enemy 'A' while the latter is asleep on his bed. Taking aim at the left chest of 'A', 'B' forcibly plunges a sword in the left chest of 'A' and runs away. 'A' dies shortly thereafter. The injury to 'A' was found to be sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death. There may be no difficulty in holding that 'B' intentionally inflicted the particular injury found to be caused and that the said injury was objectively sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. This would bring the act of 'B' within Clause (3) of Section 300 of the IPC and render him guilty of the offence of murder although only single injury was caused.

'66.2' Even when the intention or knowledge of the accused may fall within Clauses (1) to (4) of Section 300 of the IPC, the act of the accused which would otherwise be murder, will be taken out of the purview of murder, if the accused's case attracts any one of the five exceptions enumerated in that section. In the event of the case falling within any of those exceptions, the offence would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder, falling within Part 1 of Section 304 of the IPC, if the case of the accused is such as to fall within Clauses (1) to (3) of Section 300 of the IPC. It would be offence under Part II of Section 304 if the case is such as to fall within Clause (4) of Section 300 of the IPC. Again, the intention or knowledge of the accused may be such that only 2nd or 3rd part of Section 299 of the IPC, may be attracted but not any of the clauses of Section 300 of the IPC. In that situation also, the offence would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder under Section 304 of the IPC. It would be an offence under Part I of that section, if the case fall within 2nd part of Section 299, while it would be an offence under Part II of Section 304 if the case fall within 3rd part of Section 299 of the IPC.

‘66.3’ To put it in other words, if the act of an accused person falls within the first two clauses of cases of culpable homicide as described in Section 299 of the IPC it is punishable under the first part of Section 304. If, however, it falls within the third clause, it is punishable under the second part of Section 304. In effect, therefore, the first part of this section would apply when there is ‘guilty intention,’ whereas the second part would apply when there is no such intention, but there is ‘guilty knowledge’.

‘66.4’Even if single injury is inflicted, if that particular injury was intended, and objectively that injury was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the requirements of Clause 3rdly to Section 300 of the IPC, are fulfilled and the offence would be murder.

‘66.5’ Section 304 of the IPC will apply to the following classes of cases:

(i) when the case falls under one or the other of the clauses of Section 300, but it is covered by one of the exceptions to that Section,

(ii) when the injury caused is not of the higher degree of likelihood which is covered by the expression 'sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death' but is of a lower degree of likelihood which is generally spoken of as an injury 'likely to cause death' and the case does not fall under Clause (2) of Section 300 of the IPC,

(iii) when the act is done with the knowledge that death is likely to ensue but without intention to cause death or an injury likely to cause death.

‘66.6’ To put it more succinctly, the difference between the two parts of Section 304 of the IPC is that under the first part, the crime of murder is first established and the accused is then given the benefit of one of the exceptions to Section 300 of the IPC, while under the second part, the crime of murder is never established at all. Therefore, for the purpose of holding an accused guilty of the offence punishable under the second part of Section 304 of the IPC, the accused need not bring his case within one of the exceptions to Section 300 of the IPC.

‘66.7’ The word 'likely' means probably and it is distinguished from more 'possibly'. When chances of happening are even or greater than its not happening, we may say that the thing will 'probably happen'. In reaching the conclusion, the court has to place itself in the situation of the accused and then judge whether the accused had the knowledge that by the act he was likely to cause death.

‘66.8’ The distinction between culpable homicide (Section 299 of the IPC) and murder (Section 300 of the IPC) has always to be carefully borne in mind while dealing with a charge under Section 302 of the IPC. Under the category of unlawful homicides, both, the cases of culpable homicide amounting to murder and those not amounting to murder would fall. Culpable homicide is not murder when the case is brought within the five exceptions to Section 300 of the IPC. But, even though none of the said five exceptions are pleaded or prima facie established on the evidence on record, the prosecution must still be required under the law to bring the case under any of the four clauses of Section 300 of the IPC to sustain the charge of murder. If the prosecution fails to discharge this onus in establishing any one of the four clauses of Section 300 of the IPC, namely, 1stly to 4thly, the charge of murder would not be made out and the case may be one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder as described under Section 299 of the IPC

'66.9' The court must address itself to the question of mens rea. If Clause thirdly of Section 300 is to be applied, the assailant must intend the particular injury inflicted on the deceased. This ingredient could rarely be proved by direct evidence. Inevitably, it is a matter of inference to be drawn from the proved circumstances of the case. The court must necessarily have regard to the nature of the weapon used, part of the body injured, extent of the injury, degree of force used in causing the injury, the manner of attack, the circumstances preceding and attendant on the attack.

'66.10' Intention to kill is not the only intention that makes a culpable homicide a murder. The intention to cause injury or injuries sufficient in the ordinary cause of nature to cause death also makes a culpable homicide a murder if death has actually been caused and intention to cause such injury or injuries is to be inferred from the act or acts resulting in the injury or injuries.

'66.11' When single injury inflicted by the accused results in the death of the victim, no inference, as a general principle, can be drawn that the accused did not have the intention to cause the death or that particular injury which resulted in the death of the victim. Whether an accused had the required guilty intention or not, is a question of fact which has to be determined on the facts of each case.

'66.12' Where the prosecution proves that the accused had the intention to cause death of any person or to cause bodily injury to him and the intended injury is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, then, even if he inflicts a single injury which results in the death of the victim, the of ence squarely falls under Clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC unless one of the exceptions applies.

'66.13' In determining the question, whether an accused had guilty intention or guilty knowledge in a case where only a single injury is inflicted by him and that injury is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the fact that the act is done without premeditation in a sudden fight or quarrel, or that the circumstances justify that the injury was accidental or unintentional, or that he only intended a simple injury, would lead to the inference of guilty knowledge, and the offence would be one under Section 304 Part II of the IPC.

54. In the present case, in the statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. in the year 2011, the accused has stated his age to be about 21 years. Therefore, at the time of commission of offence i.e. 02.04.2008, the appellant was about 18 years of age and the deceased was a school going girl of about 16 years at the time of incident. The prosecution has successfully proved that the deceased was set on fire by the appellant - convict. The victim Kanchan sustained extensive burn injuries and she died after 7 days of the incident due to septicemia, as a result of ante mortem burn injuries. Therefore, it is clear that burn injuries were caused to the deceased by appellant with the knowledge that his act is likely to cause death. Any reasonable person by any stretch of imagination can easily come to a conclusion that burning someone alive is likely to cause death.

55. In the present case, P.W.4 although found smell of kerosene oil on burn injuries, but no container of kerosene either empty or partially filled was found on spot. Moreover, no traces of kerosene oil were found on spot by the Investigating Officer.

56. It is an admitted fact that the deceased died after 7 days of burning and her postmortem report (Ex. Ka.-17) clearly goes to show that she died due to septicemia as a result of antemortem burn injuries. Autopsy Surgeon Dr. V.P. Chauturvedi P.W.9 in his deposition has affirmed the aforesaid finding recorded by him in postmortem report (Ex.Ka.-3) of the deceased. It is crystal clear that death of deceased was a homicidal death. Now the question remains that whether homicidal death of the deceased would fall within the four corners of murder or culpable homicide not amounting to murder. In the present case, there is no such evidence that appellant - convict was previously known to the deceased or her family members. Therefore, it is not a case of any previous enmity or earlier harassment. The deceased in her dying declaration has not stated any allegation of her molestation at the hands of appellant - convict. The victim has clearly stated that the appellant - convict was scuffling with her. The victim has stated that when she resisted and screamed, then appellant - convict set her on fire. The victim has not stated that how she was set on fire i.e. whether any kerosene oil or any other inflammable material was poured upon her or not.

57. We have carefully gone through the entire dying declaration of the deceased, which is the principle foundation for conviction of the appellant - convict. However, we are of the opinion that that the incident had happened in a spur of moment, that too during scuffle with no prior bad intention or planning. In this background, when evidence is again scrutinized, the victim was immediately shifted to hospital for treatment and she ultimately died due to septicemia as a result of burn injuries. As the death caused by the appellant - convict was not a premeditated and there being no previous enmity or instances of earlier harassment, therefore the present case falls under clause (c) of Section 299 I.P.C. We have carefully gone through the entire evidence and thus are of opinion that in the present case none of clause of Section 300 I.P.C. is attracted in the peculiar facts of the present case, therefore the offence committed by the appellant - convict falls under Part - II of Section 304 I.P.C. Resultantly, we are of the view that present appeal is liable to be partly allowed and the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 I.P.C. is liable to be converted into conviction under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. However, fine amount imposed by learned trial Court is liable to be maintained. The appellant - convict is in jail for the last more than 18 years.

58. We have already arrived on the conclusion that prosecution has not been able to prove the charge under Section 354 I.P.C. against the appellant - convict. Therefore, the appellant - convict is liable to be acquitted so far as offence under Section 354 I.P.C. is concerned.

59. Accordingly, present Appeal is partly allowed and the appellant is convicted for the offence under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. and is sentenced to undergo maximum imprisonment provided therein i.e. 10 years imprisonment without remission and is acquitted for the offence under Section 354 I.P.C. However, fine and default sentence imposed upon the appellant - convict by learned trial Court under Section 302 I.P.C. is maintained under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. with default sentence. Therefore, a fine of Rs.10,000/- is imposed upon appellant under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. and in case of his failure to deposit the same, he shall undergo an additional imprisonment of one year. However, we affirm the conviction and sentence imposed upon the appellant by learned trial Court under Section 452 I.P.C. along with the fine and sentence imposed under default clause. The appellant / convict is in jail for the last more than 18 years and as such has completed his sentence alongwith the default sentence for Section 304 Part-II and Section 452 I.P.C., therefore, he shall be set at liberty forthwith, if he is not wanted in any other case.

60. Let a copy of the judgment be provided immediately to the appellant through Superintendent Jail, free of cost.

61. The record of the 'Trial Court' be sent back immediately with a copy of this judgment for necessary information and compliance.

62. Lastly, the Court records its word of appreciation for the able assistance rendered by Sri Abhishek Sharma, Amicus Curiae for the appellant, who assisted the Court in reaching to its logical conclusion. Issue for Consideration Matter pertains to whether the prosecution proved its case beyond reasonable doubt notwithstanding the omission of the name of one deceased in the charge framed under Ss. 302 read with 149 IPC, and whether the testimony of injured and related eye-witnesses, corroborated by medical and ballistic evidence, could be relied upon despite alleged discrepancies in the ocular evidence regarding firing distance and the absence of proof of motive.

Headnotes

Held: The object of framing a charge is to make the accused aware of the accusations against him so that he can effectively defend himself. Under Ss. 215, 464 and 465 Cr.P.C., no error in stating the offence or particulars required to be stated in the charge and no omission therein shall be regarded as material unless the accused was in fact misled by such error or omission and it occasioned a failure of justice. In judging the question of prejudice, the Court must look to the substance of the matter and not to technicalities and its principal concern should be to ascertain whether the accused had a fair trial and sufficient notice of the accusations against him. In the present case, the appellants knew from the inception of the trial that they were being prosecuted for the murder of the deceased whose name was omitted from the formal charge, they were afforded full opportunity to cross-examine the prosecution witnesses and were specifically questioned in their examination under S. 313 Cr.P.C. regarding the said occurrence and, therefore, no prejudice or failure of justice was occasioned. The testimony of an injured witness carries special evidentiary value as the injury itself constitutes an in-built guarantee of his presence at the scene of occurrence and such a witness is unlikely to spare the real assailants. Minor discrepancies which do not go to the root of the matter and do not shake the basic version of the prosecution cannot be given undue importance, particularly where the witnesses have been subjected to lengthy cross-examination. In a case founded upon reliable direct evidence, motive loses its significance and failure to establish the precise motive is not fatal. The ocular testimony stands fully corroborated by the medical evidence, post-mortem reports, injury reports and ballistic expert report and the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. The conviction and sentence recorded by the Trial Court, therefore, call for no interference. (Paras 36, 37, 40, 41, 44, 53, 54, 60, 62, 73, 74, 76, 77) (E-7)

Brief facts of the prosecution case are that the informant Om Prakash son of Sri Sarman Singh Yadav, Resident of Village- Nagla Bandh, H/o Mudausi, Police Station- Kisni, District- Mainpuri, filed a written information (tehrir) dated 19.08.2001 before Incharge Police Outpost - Mogaon, Police Station- Kisni, District Mainpuri, stating therein that he is serving in the Army and had come to his village on leave. There was enmity over abadi land between Om Prakash and Santosh, Sukhvir Yadav and Kamlesh natives of his village. About one month ago he had come on leave to his house, then the reputed persons of the area had got the matter of disputed land settled in a panchayat, but the accused kept grudge against him and his family. His brother-in-law (saala) Mohar Singh son of late Pahelwan Singh Yadav, his nephew Sunil @ Baba son of Sobran Singh, both residents of village Nagla Sukhi, Police Station- Kurra had came to meet him because today he was going back to attend his duties after availing leave. Today, i.e. 19.08.2001 in the morning he and his younger brother Ganga Singh had gone to their field and his father was sitting to the North of his house, cleaning garlic and his wife was brooming in verandah. Her brother-in-law's (saala) son Sunil @ Baba had also gone to the field and his elder son Dharmendra alongwith his maternal uncle (mama) Mohar Singh had gone to see electric wires towards the transformer and his younger children Satendra and Jitendra were studying over the roof of the house. At about 07:30 a.m. the informant and his younger brother Ganga Singh returned home from the field and were talking to his father then Santosh, Sukhvir both sons of late Charan Singh, Kamlesh son of late Sua Ram, Naresh, Satyavir, Shivir and Ramadhar all sons of Sonelal Yadav. Arvind son of Ram Naresh and Shyam Pal son of Kanauji Lal resident of Village- Awazpur, Police Station- Kisni, armed with illegal weapons entered in his courtyard from the side of tubewell hurling abusive languages. As soon as he and his brother Ganga Ram looked towards the courtyard and objected then Santosh and Sukhvir shot at his wife Savitri Devi with intention to kill, she cried and his both sons sitting over the roof of the house also cried, then Kamlesh and Ram Naresh shot at their sons with intention to kill. All the accused rushed towards him, his brother Ganga Singh and his father. He himself and his brother took shelter behind the heap of straw (bhoose ka coop). Then, Kamlesh and Ram Naresh shot multiple fires at his father and upon the hue and cry of the informant and his brother, they ran towards tubewell. There his brother-in-laws nephew (Sunil @ Baba) was coming from the field. Satyavir and Shivvir, shot at him and thereafter all the accused ran towards the southern road of the village. Upon hearing the noise of fire his son Dharmendra and brother-in-law, Mohar Singh and Santosh were coming, when they were surrounded by the accused near Lala Ram s field where Ramadhar, Arvind, Shyam Pal shot at his son Dharmendra with intention to kill. He himself, Mohar Singh and Santosh somehow managed to save their lives after hiding themselves and all the accused after shooting ran towards Paharpur. His father, son Dharmendra and brother-in-law s son Sunil @ Baba had died at the spot and their dead bodies are lying there. The informant, his brother Ganga Singh and brother-in-law Mohar Singh have somehow managed to bring his injured wife Savitri Devi, injured son Jitendra to the police station. 15. The defence did not cross-examine the above witness despite being given an opportunity.

16. P.W. 6 Asht Muni, is the formal witness, who being posted as Head Constable at Police Station- Kisni on 19.08.2001, prepared inquest of deceased Dharmendra Singh, Sunil @ Baba and Sarman Singh along with related papers, at the direction of Station House Incharge A.K. Tyagi and also proved his signature over the fard baramadagi of taking into the possession the sample of plain concrete and blood-stained concrete from roof of house of the informant and plain-earth and blood-stained earth from places where Savitri Devi was shot and where dead body of deceased Sarman Singh, Sunil @ Baba and Dharmendra Singh was found. He has also proved the recovery memo of empty cartridges found at the place of occurrence, despite being given opportunity this witness is also not been examined by the defence.

17. P.W. 7- S.I. Anuj Kumar Tyagi has investigated the case and has stated that injured Savitri Devi met him at Police Outpost- Kushmura and recorded her statement there. The other injured Jitendra was also there and his statement was also recorded, their condition was serious so after preparing chitti majrubi, they were sent to Hospital. Thereafter, he reached at the place of occurrence(s) and the dead body of deceased Dharmendra was found to the south of village where at his direction inquest was prepared by Asht Muni. Three empty cartridges 315 bore were found from near the place where the dead body was found and its fard baramadagi was prepared. Thereafter, the inquest of deceased Sunil @ Baba and Sarman Singh were prepared at his direction and fard baramadagi of empty cartridges, plain earth and blood-stained earth found near the dead bodies, was prepared. Sample of plain earth and blood-stained earth was taken from the courtyard of the house alongwith two empty cartridges 315 bore and one empty cartridge 12 bore. Its fard baramadagi was also prepared. The sample of concrete and blood-stained concrete was taken from the roof of the informant□s house and its fard baramadagi was prepared. The three dead bodies were sent to District Hospital, Mainpuri for post-mortem. The same day, Om Prakash met and told him that Savitri Devi had died before reaching the Hospital. He recorded statement of informant Om Prakash and at his pointing out prepared site-plan of the place(s) of occurrence. He arrested accused and recorded their statements. Appellant Sukhvir was arrested carrying a tamancha 315 bore alongwith two live cartridges regarding which a separate Case No. 259 of 2001 was registered. He recorded statements of witnesses and filed charge-sheet (Ext. Ka-13) in the Magistrate□s Court. The defence did not cross-examine this witness.

18. P.W. 8- Constable Ram Kumar Singh is the formal witness who has proved the chik FIR and copy of G.D. as Ext. Ka-39 and Ext. Ka-40, respectively, scribed on the basis of (tehrir) given by the informant Om Prakash.

19. In his cross-examination, he has said that the entry of SO Anuj Kumar Tyagi is not mentioned in G.D. No. 12 dated 19.08.2001. He does not remember whether on 19.08.2001, the I.O. had reached at Police Outpost- Kushmura. According to G.D. No. 12, the presence of I.O. at Police Outpost- Kushmura on 19.08.2001, is not there. It is correct that both the injured were brought to the Police Outpost- Kushmura. A special report of the crime was sent through constable Krishna Swaroop by G.D. No. 17 dated 19.08.2001 at 11.30 a.m. to headquarter. His return is not mentioned in G.D dated 19.08.2001. The injured were soon sent to hospital after the FIR was lodged. The injured kept sitting in jeep so there was no blood dropped at the Police Outpost.

20. P.W. 9- S.I. Satyapal Singh, is the person who prepared inquest of deceased Savitri Devi at District Hospital, Mainpuri on 19.08.2001 at 02.:10 p.m. alongwith its related papers which the eye-witness has proved as Ext. Ka- 41 to 45.

21. In his cross-examination, he has said that as per the memo from the doctor, Savitri Devi had died during treatment in the hospital. In memo Ext. Ka-46, it is written that the deceased was brought by her husband in dead condition in hospital. He had heard about the murder of Savitri Devi in Kotwali but did not try to note the crime number and section of the crime. It is true that the crime number is not mentioned in the inquest and other related papers. He had completed inquest on 19.08.2001 at 03.30 p.m.

22. After closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. were taken in which they denied the prosecution case and have stated that false case has been lodged against them, due to enmity and partybandi. Witnesses have deposed against them due to enmity. Except for appellant Shyam Pal rest of the appellants have stated that Ganga Singh had earlier falsely implicated the absconded accused Rajveer in many cases and he has committed these murders alongwith his companions. Due to fear, the informant instead of lodging the FIR against Rajveer, has lodged false case against them. Accused Shyam Pal has stated that he is resident of the same village and has been falsely implicated in this case due to partybandi. He has no concern with other co-accused and does not even know them.

23. The defence has filed chik FIR of Case Crime No. 34 of 2006 under Sections- 147, 148, 149, 307, 302 IPC as Ext. Kha-1. The defence also summoned the ballistic expert to controvert the prosecution case, but at the time of examination-in-chief, D.W. 1 Shri Ram Asrey Pandey, requested for pellets recovered from near the dead body of deceased Dharmendra Singh to give a concrete opinion, but the prosecution failed to produce them as they were not available in Malkhana of Police Station or in Sadar Malkhana of the district. Thereupon, the defence endorsed on record that now it will not produce ballistic expert as defence witness. The defence has not examined any other witness in support of their contention.

24. After hearing argument of learned Counsel for the parties and perusal of record, the learned Trial Court observed that the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. The FIR was lodged promptly and there is no delay in lodging the FIR. The FIR was not ante-timed. The statements of witnesses were consistent and reliable. There were no contradictions between the ocular and medical evidence and accordingly, the learned Trial Court found the appellants guilty of the offence and convicted and sentenced them to the term as indicated above.

25. Heard the rival submissions of learned Counsel for the parties and learned A.G.A for the State and perused the record.

26. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The first argument, on technical point, is raised on behalf of the appellants that as per the prosecution, four persons were murdered in the incident and for charge framed against the appellants for the offence punishable under Section 302 read with 149 IPC. name of one of the deceased Sunil @ Baba is not mentioned in it, thus, the charge was defective, which cost prejudice to the appellants and thus, this omission or error has occasioned failure of justice. So on this ground, the impugned judgment and order is not sustainable, and in its support the appellants have relied upon case in Criminal Appeal No. 122 of 2021 (Kali Charan and Others Vs. State of U.P.) decided on 14.12.2022, of Supreme Court, which will be discussed in later part of this judgment. It is also submitted that there was no motive on the part of the appellants to commit the said crime, the prosecution has failed to prove motives and thus, the prosecution has not been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. It is also submitted that the presence of P.W. 1 Om Prakash, P.W. 2 Jitendra Singh and P.W. 4 Ganga Singh at the place of occurrence(s) is highly doubtful and particularly those of P.W. 1 Om Prakash and P.W. 4 Ganga Singh, because if they were also present at the place of occurrence then there was no reason why the appellants would have spared them unhurt. It is further submitted that as per prosecution the alleged incident occurred at three different places and it is highly unlikely and also there is no evidence that P.W. 1, Om Prakash, P.W. 2 Jitendra Singh and P.W. 4 Ganga Singh were present at all these three places, therefore, their testimony with regard to the entire incident(s) is not believable. It is also submitted that the statement of P.W. 4 Ganga Singh under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded at belated stage by the Investigating Officer, which raises doubt over his testimony. It is also submitted that the ocular testimony is not supported by medical evidence and there are major contradictions in it which raises serious doubt over the prosecution case. It is further submitted that the prosecution has failed to examine material witnesses of fact namely Mohar Singh and Santosh Singh, whom the prosecution says that they witnessed the murder of Dharmendra Singh @ Ballu. Therefore, non-production of these witnesses raises serious doubt over the prosecution case. It is also submitted that witness Ganga Singh, had lodged several reports against Gangster Rajvir and Kalua was on visiting terms with the informant, due to this he would have committed the aforesaid murders and the appellants have been falsely implicated in this case. It is also submitted that it is highly unlikely that each of the murder would be committed by the other members or other persons of the group rather than by the persons who allegedly shot the earlier deceased. The appellants have relied upon case law (State of U.P. and Another Vs. Jaggo @ Jagdish and Others) 1971 (2) Supreme Court cases 42, (Shahid Khan and Others Vs. State of Rajasthan) 2016 (4) SCC 1996, which shall be discussed in later part of this judgment.

27. On the other hand, learned A.G.A and learned Counsel for the informant submitted that the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt, the FIR was prompt and contains the original and true version of the incident. It was registered in a state of panic, shock and urgency. All the nine appellants are named in the FIR and their names, roles and weapons are mentioned in it. It is further submitted that minor contradictions are natural, and happen if the witness is cross-examined at length. The core prosecution story remains consistent in all essential particulars, therefore, minor contradictions have no bearing over the testimony of witnesses of fact. It is next submitted that the three material eye-witnesses namely informant Om Prakash, Ganga Singh and injured Jitendra Singh have supported the prosecution story, and, their presence at the spot is natural and well explained. So far as the, eye witness Mohar Singh is concerned, he has died therefore, he could not be examined before the court. There was motive for the appellants to commit this gruesome murder, because there was a land dispute between the informant and the appellants and due to this the appellants had developed enmity against the informants. The medical evidence fully corroborates the ocular testimony of the three eye-witnesses. The weapon recovered at the instance of appellant Sukhvir matches the cartridges, bullet recovered from the spot in the ballistic examination report which corroborates the prosecution case. It is also submitted that all the nine accused were armed with deadly weapons and all of them have actively participated in the crime, therefore, the crime was committed, in furtherance of common intention, as such, every member of the unlawful assembly is liable for the acts committed by the other. It is also submitted that before 2005, witness Ganga Singh had no criminal history and had no motive to falsely implicate the appellants. It is also submitted that the alleged incident occurred in the day light and the witnesses had seen the occurrence and there was no reason why they would implicate the innocent and spare the real culprits. The manner in which the murders were committed show that the appellants were in state of intense rage, it was a massacre, indiscriminate killings of children and elderly persons and woman which shows that the appellants had deep rooted motive and pre-meditation.

28. Prosecution has drawn the attention of the Court on different case laws such as 2005 (5) SCC 554 (State of Madhya Paradesh Vs. Saleem @ Chamaru and Another); (2011) 1 SCC (Criminal) 381 (State of U.P. Vs. Krishna Master and Others); AIR 2016 SC (Criminal) 1461 Bhagwan Jagannath Markad and Others Vs. State of Maharashtra; Criminal Appeal No. 1423 of 2007 Abdul Sayeed Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, Supreme Court decided on 14.09.2010; Criminal Appeal No. 297 of 1992 Leela Ram(D) through Duli Chand VS. State of Haryana and Another, Supreme Court decided on 06.10.1999, which shall be discussed in later part of this judgment. So far as Saleem @ chamaru (supra) is concerned that case law relates to imposing adequate sentence and as in this case prosecution has not challenged the adequacy of sentence imposed, so this ruling has no application in this case.

29. The first submission on behalf of the appellants is that charge against them was defective and in charge No. 3 dated 27.08.2002 the name of deceased Sunil @ Baba is missing which is framed for offence punishable under Section 302 read with 149 IPC. In view of the above omission of the name of deceased Sunil @ Baba, the appellants have been misled and it has resulted in failure of justice and this error and omission has caused prejudice to the appellants. Learned counsel for the appellants has relied upon a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Criminal Appeal No.122 of 2021 (Kali Charan and Others Vs. State of U.P.) dated 14.12.2022, in which the it was held that the object of the provisions in Chapter XVII in Cr.P.C., regarding framing of charge is obviously to make the accused aware of the accusations against him on the basis of which prosecution is seeking to convict him. The object of the provisions regarding framing of charge is that, accused should be in a position to effectively defend himself and the accused can properly defend himself provided he should be clearly informed about the nature of the allegations against him before the actual trial starts. The relevant part of the judgment is extracted here in below:-

'19. Section 215 lays down when errors in the particulars required to be stated in the charge can be treated as material. It lays down that the error cannot be said to be material unless the accused was misled by such error or omission and that such error or omission has caused a failure of justice. Section 464 deals with effect of error or omission made while framing charges on the finding and sentence of the competent Court. The Section provides that the finding and sentence of the Court cannot be invalid merely on the ground of error in framing charge or omission in framing charge. The finding and sentence will be invalid only if in the opinion of the Court of appeal, the error or omission has occasioned a failure of justice.

20. When the Court of appeal is called upon to decide whether any failure of justice has been occasioned due to omission to frame a charge or error in the charge, the Court is duty bound to examine the entire record of the trial including all exhibited documents, depositions and the statements of the accused recorded under Section 313.'

30. In the above said case the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that no questions were asked under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in statement of accused about post-mortem of the body of Harpal Singh, it was not put to the witness that cause of death of Harpal Singh was due to hemorrhage and shock as a result of injuries caused by sharp weapons. In view of the above it was held that if the accused is not explained the important circumstances appearing against him in the evidence, of which his conviction is sought to be based, the accused will not be in a position to explain the said circumstances brought on record against him and he will not be able to properly defend himself.

31. Section 215 and 464 of the Code of Criminal Procedure,1973, deal with such matters. Section 215 reads that □no error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was in fact misled by such error or omission, and it has occasioned a failure of justice'

32. Section 464 reads that □no finding sentence or order by a Court of competent jurisdiction shall be deemed invalid merely on the ground that no charge was framed or on the ground of any error, omission or irregularity in the charge including any misjoinder of charge, unless, in the opinion of the Court of appeal, confirmation or revision, a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned thereby'

33. A combined reading of the above provisions shows that the object of these sections is to prevent failure of justice and the irregularity in framing of the charge, is not fatal unless there is prejudice caused to the accused. The mere omission to frame the charge or a mere defect in the charge is no ground for setting aside a conviction. In Kahan Singh Vs. State of Haryana (1971) 3 SCC 216, it has been laid down that procedural laws are designed to subserve the ends of justice and not to frustrate them by mere technicalities. The object of the charge is to give the appellants notice of the matter he is charged with. If the necessary information is conveyed to him and ends of justice is caused to him because of the charges, the appellants succeeds merely showing that the charges framed were defective nor could conviction recorded on charges under wrong provisions be reversed, if the accused were informed of the details of the offences committed, and thus no prejudice was caused to him. In Gurpreet Singh v. State of Punjab, (2005) 12 SCC 615, it was held that unless there is a failure of justice and thereby the cause of the accused has been prejudiced, no interference is required if the conviction can be upheld on the evidence led against the accused. The Court should not interfere unless it is established that the accused was in any way prejudiced due to the errors and omissions in framing the charges against him.

34. The other section relevant for our purpose is Section 465 of the Cr.P.C., which lays down that no finding, sentence or order passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction shall be reversed or altered by a Court of appeal, confirmation of revision on account of any error, omission or irregularity in the proceedings, unless in the opinion of that Court, a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned. It further provides, inter alia, in determining whether any error, omission or irregularity in any proceeding under this Code, has occasioned a failure of justice, the Court shall have regard to the fact whether the objection could and should have been raised at an earlier stage in the proceedings. In judging the question of prejudice as of guilt, the Court must look to the substance of the matter and not to technicalities, and its main concern should be to see whether the accused had a fair trial, whether he knew what he was being tried for, whether the main facts sought to be established against him were explained to him, fairly and clearly and whether he was given a full and fair chance to defend himself.

35. In view of the above legal position, if we look into the present case then the prosecution case is that all the nine appellants came to the house of the informant, armed with deadly weapons, and in the incident committed murder of Dharmendra Singh, Sarman Singh, Savitri Devi and Sunil @ Baba. The charge was framed by the trial court on 27.08.2022 and with regard to offence punishable under Section 302 read with 149 IPC, inadvertently, omitted the name of deceased Sunil @ Baba as one of the deceased. Charge No.3 as framed by the learned trial court is reproduced here in below:-

‘Thirdly, that on the aforesaid date time and place you with common object intentionally committed murder of Dharmendra Singh, Sarman Singh and Savitri Devi and thereby you committed an offence punishable u/s 302 read with section 149 I.P.C. and within the cognizance of this Court.’

It shows the names of three deceased as mentioned in it, except Sunil @ Baba. The evidence led on behalf of the prosecution is with regard to all the four deceased.

36. More importantly, the witnesses of fact have given details of murder of deceased Sunil @ Baba also, committed by the appellants and on this point they were cross-examined at length by the defence and after closure of prosecution evidence, statements of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. As per prosecution case Sunil @ Baba was shot by appellants Satyavir and Shivvir, and it would be proper to quote Question No. 9, asked from the accused, in their statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., which reads as follows –

"प्रश्न नं9- अभियोजन साक्ष्य है कि उक्त दिनांक समय व स्थान पर आप सत्यवीर व शिववीर ने वादी के साले के लड़के सुनील उर्फ (बाबा) की गोली प्रहार कर हत्या कर दी, जिस सम्बन्ध में आपको क्या कहना है?

उत्तर- गलत है।"

37. The above question reads that as per prosecution evidence appellants Satyvir and Shivvir had shot dead Sunil @ Baba, the son of informant's brother-in-law, to which they answered 'गलत है' (it is incorrect). Thereafter, the appellants were given opportunity to lead evidence in their defence, In view of the above, the appellants knew from the beginning that they are charged for murder of deceased Sunil @ Baba also, therefore, the error/ omission in charge with regard to the name of Sunil @ Baba in charge no. 3, has not misled the appellants which would have occasioned the failure of justice and no prejudice has been caused to the appellants due to such omission of name in the charge. In view of the above discussion, we are of the considered opinion that such omission in the charge has no adverse bearing over the prosecution case.

38. As we know, in a criminal case the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In the present case, the incident occurred on 29.08.2001 at 07:30 a.m. The FIR was lodged the same date at 10:00 a.m., i.e., after two and a half hours of the incident. The incident occurred in Village- Nagla Bandh, Hamlet of Village Mudausi under Police Outpost Kushmura, Police Station- Kisni District- Mainpuri. As per chik FIR the distane from the place of occurrence to the Police Outpost- Kushmura is 8 kilometers. The FIR was lodged by informant Om Prakash, who has said that after the incident, he took his injured wife Savitri Devi and injured son Jitendra to the Police Outpost- Kushmura in Jeep, it took 30-45 minutes to arrange the jeep and about one and half hour to reach at the Police Outpost- Kushmura. He wrote down the written application (tehrir) at round about Kushmura and submitted it at the reporting Police Outpost- Kushmura. It has come in evidence informant's brother Ganga Singh and Mohar Singh accompanied him to the Police Outpost along with the injured.

39. P.W. 8 Constable Ram Kumar Singh, is the scribe of the chik FIR. The inquest of all the deceased was prepared the same day. Therefore, the FIR was lodged promptly and it has not been specifically challenged by the defence.

40. So far as the place of occurrence is concerned, according to the prosecution the incident took place at three different places, the first incident occurred at the house of the informant where his wife Savitri Devi was shot causing her serious injuries and informant's father Sarman Singh was shot dead. The second incident occurred near the tubewell in village Nagla Bandh where Sunil @ Baba was shot dead. As per prosecution Sarman Singh was shot dead at the door of the house and Savitri Devi was shot and injured in Verandah. Informant's son Jitendra was also shot and injured while he was at roof of the house. Deceased Sunil @ Baba was returning home from the side of transformer when he was shot and Dharmendra Singh was shot near Lala Ram's field. The Investigating Officer reached at the place of occurrences and found dead bodies of Sarman Singh, Dharmendra Singh, Sunil @ Baba at the places alleged by the prosecution. He also collected blood-stained earth and empty cartridges from near the dead bodies. He prepared site-plan at the instance of informant in which he has shown all the relevant things. The defence has not put any suggestion or gave any other alternative place of occurrence. Thus, in fact the defence has not challenged the place of occurrence. P.W. 1 Om Prakash, P.W. 2 Jitendra and P.W. 4 Ganga Singh, the three eye witnesses of the incident have stated on oath that the incident occurred at these three places. In view of the above, the place of occurrence is fully established.

41. The perusal of post-mortem reports of all the four deceased and injury report of injured Jitendra shows that all of them sustained indiscriminate gunshot wounds resulting to injuries over their body. The cause of death of all the four deceased was hemorrhage and shock as a result of gun shot injuries which means that all of them were shot dead. The prosecution case is that it were the appellants who committed such offence in furtherance of their common object. To prove its case, the prosecution has examined P.W.1 Om Prakash, P.W. 2 Jitendra and P.W. 4 Ganga Singh as eye-witness of the incident. P.W. 1 Om Prakash is the informant and his father Sarman Singh, wife Savitri Devi and son Dharmendra Singh were murdered in this incident. His brother-in-laws son Sunil @ Baba was also killed. A perusal of his statement shows that he was cross-examined for about one and half years by different sets of advocates from the side of accused. There is a very lengthy cross-examination and if we look into the entire testimony then it shows that the witness is consistent, reliable and trustworthy, with regard to the prosecution case. He has deposed that all the nine appellants came to his house armed with country-made pistol by giving a detail who carried which firearm and has said that it were appellants Santosh and Sukhvir who shot at his wife Savitri Devi; appellants Kamlesh and Ram Naresh shot at his son Jitendra and other son Satendra; appellants Ram Naresh and Kamlesh also shot at his father Sarman Singh, appellants Sayavir Singh and Shivivr Singh shot at his brother-in-laws son Sunil @ Baba and appellant Ram Pal, Ramadhar and Arvind shot at his son Dharmendra Singh. He has also said that appellant Ram Naresh, Ramadhar, Satyavir and Shivivr are real brothers and are sons of Kamlesh's maternal uncle (mama). Appellant Arvind is Ram Nareshs' son and appellant Shyam Pal resides in Azadpur and he is acquainted with Santoh and Sukhvir.

42. P.W. 2 Jitendra, is the injured witness, he has also supported the prosecution case. He has also been cross-examined at length but no material contradiction has come in his statement. P.W. 4 Ganga Singh is the younger brother of the informant, he has also supported the prosecution case and has described the manner in which the incident took place and in what manner the appellants took participation in the crime. If we take into account their entire deposition then it comes out that they are consistent, reliable and trustworthy. It is submitted on behalf of appellants that there are major contradictions in their statements therefore their testimony is not reliable. We do not agree with this submission. If a witness is cross-examined for days and months then some contradictions are bound to happen in their statement and if that contradiction does not shake the root of the prosecution case then such minor contradictions would have no bearing over the prosecution case.

42. In the case Krishna Master and Others (Supra), the Supreme Court observed that the material witness was cross-examined for days together on the point as to where and in which direction houses of Kailash, Rajaram Subedar, Darbari, etc. were situated.

It was held that ‘such an attempt by the defence lawyer can hardly be approved. On re-appreciation of evidence of Jhabbulal, this Court finds that he has not made major improvements in his testimony before the Court and the so-called discrepancies which are blown out of proportion by the High Court are minor in nature and do not relate to the substratum of the prosecution story.'

43. With regard to evidence of a child witness it was further held that 'This Court fails to understand as to on what principle and on which experience in real life, the High Court made a sweeping observation that it is inconceivable that a child of Madan Lal's understanding would be able to recapitulate facts in his memory witnessed by him long ago. There is no principle of law known to this Court that it is inconceivable that a child of tender age would not be able to recapitulate facts in his memory witnessed by him long ago. This witness has claimed on oath before the Court that he had seen five members of his family being ruthlessly killed by the respondents by firing gunshots. When a child of tender age witnesses gruesome murder of his father, mother, brothers, etc. he is not likely to forget the incident for his whole life and would certainly recapitulate facts in his memory when asked about the same at any point of time, notwithstanding the gap of about ten years between the incident and recording of his evidence. This Court is of the firm opinion that it would be doing injustice to a child witness possessing a sharp memory to say that it is inconceivable for him to recapitulate facts in his memory witnessed by him long ago. A child of tender age is always receptive to abnormal events which take place in his life and would never forget those events for the rest of his life. The child would be able to recapitulate correctly and exactly when asked about the same in future.'

43. In the case Bhagwan Jagannath Markad and Others (Supra), the Supreme Court has held that:-

'While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the court has to assess whether read as a whole, it is truthful. In doing so, the court has to keep in mind the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities to find out whether such discrepancies shake the truthfulness. Some discrepancies not touching the core of the case are not enough to reject the evidence as a whole. No true witness can escape from giving some discrepant details. Only when discrepancies are so incompatible as to affect the credibility of the version of a witness, the court may reject the evidence. It is not every discrepancy which affects the creditworthiness and the trustworthiness of a witness. There may at times be exaggeration or embellishment not affecting the credibility. The court has to sift the chaff from the grain and find out the truth. A statement may be partly rejected or partly accepted. Want of independent witnesses or unusual behaviour of witnesses of a crime is not enough to reject evidence. A witness being a close relative is not enough to reject his testimony if it is otherwise credible. A relation may not conceal the actual culprit. The evidence may be closely scrutinised to assess whether an innocent person is falsely implicated. Mechanical rejection of evidence even of a 'partisan' or 'interested' witness may lead to failure of justice.' It was also held that 'As already observed, the discrepancies of trivial nature could not be the basis of rejecting the evidence of injured eyewitnesses nor non-examination of some of the witnesses be a ground to reject the prosecution case when injured eyewitnesses were examined.'

44. In Bhag Singh & Ors. v. State of Punjab (1997) 7 SCC 712, while dealing with a similar contention, the Supreme Court observed:

"It is a general handicap attached to all eyewitnesses, if they fail to speak with precision their evidence would be assailed as vague and evasive, on the contrary if they speak to all the events very well and correctly their evidence becomes vulnerable to be attacked as tutored. Both approaches are dogmatic and fraught with lack of pragmatism. The testimony of a witness should be viewed from broad angles. It should not be weighed in golden scales, but with cogent standards. In a particular case an eyewitness may be able to narrate the incident with all details without mistake if the occurrence had made an imprint on the canvas of his mind in the sequence in which it occurred. He may be a person whose capacity for absorption and retention of events is stronger than another person. It should be remembered that what he witnessed was not something that happens usually but a very exceptional one so far as he is concerned. If he reproduces it in the same sequence as it registered in his mind the testimony cannot be dubbed as artificial on that score alone."

46. In the instant case P.W.2 Jitendra is injured witness and his presence at the place of occurrence can not be doubted. With regard to testimony of injured witness, in the case of Abdul Sayeed (Supra), the Supreme Court has held that:-

‘26. The question of the weight to be attached to the evidence of a witness that was himself injured in the course of the occurrence has been extensively discussed by this Court. Where a witness to the occurrence has himself been injured in the incident, the testimony of such a witness is generally considered to be very reliable, as he is a witness that comes with a built-in guarantee of his presence at the scene of the crime and is unlikely to spare his actual assailant(s) in order to falsely implicate someone. "Convincing evidence is required to discredit an injured witness.

28. The law on the point can be summarised to the effect that the testimony of the injured witness is accorded a special status in law. This is as a consequence of the fact that the injury to the witness is an in-built guarantee of his presence at the scene of the crime and because the witness will not want to let his actual assailant go unpunished merely to falsely implicate a third party for the commission of the offence. Thus, the deposition of the injured witness should be relied upon unless there are strong grounds for rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies therein.’

45. The appellants have submitted that the presence of P.W. 1, Om Prakash and P.W 4 Ganga Singh at the place of occurrence is highly doubtful and had they been present there the appellants would also have attacked and killed them but they have not sustained any injuries. Further, it has also argued that if such an incident is occurred in their presence then should have reacted and attacked the appellants, the first informant was a soldier in army having rifle and he should have used the rifle to protect his family. Secondly, P.W. 4 Ganga Singh who should also have reacted in the same manner, thus, their presence at the spot is doubtful. We do not agree with this submission, once an offence like this takes place then each person who witnesses the incident reacts in his own way.

46. In Rana Pratap v/s State of Haryana AIR 1983 SC 680, (1983) 3 SCC 327 at page 330, the Supreme Court observed:

'Every person who witnesses a murder reacts in his own way. Some are stunned, become speechless and stand rooted to the spot. Some become hysteric and start wailing. Some start shouting for help. Others run away to keep themselves as far removed from the spot as possible. The others rush to the rescue of the victim, even going to the extent of counter attacking the assailants. Every one reacts in his own special way. There is no such rule of natural reaction. To discard the evidence of a witness on the ground that he did not react in any particular manner is to appreciate evidence in a wholly unrealistic and unimaginative way.'

47. It has come in evidence that it was cold-blooded murder, the nine appellants were armed with firearms, the incident took place suddenly giving no chance to the informant to collect his rifle from the house and fire in self defence, beside this in such a horrible incident, the first reaction of the first informant and Ganga Singh would have been to save themselves and they have stated that they hid themselves behind a heap of straw (bhoose ka coop), thus, by not reacting in the manner as alleged by the appellants is not a ground to reject testimony of both these witnesses.

48. It is further submitted on behalf of the appellants that there are major contradictions, in the testimony of P.W. 1 and P.W. 4 as well as P.W. 2 Jitendra, which raises doubt over their statements. The appellants have drawn attention of this Court to the following statements of P.W. 1, P.W.2 and P.W.4 :-

P.W.1 Om Prakash :-

" पंचायत में पंचों ने मेरे मकान से जुड़ी हुई जगह मुझे दिलाई थी।….. पंचायत में यह भी तय हुआ था कि जगह के बदले दूसरी जगह दे दी जाय, मेरे मकान के उत्तर दूसरी साइड में जगह दिया जाना तय हुआ था।…… पंचायत के बाद घटना होने तक विवादित जमीन पर मुल्जमान ने कब्जा करने का प्रयास नहीं किया।"

P.W.4 Ganga Singh :-

"पंचायत ओम प्रकाश की मौजूदगी में हुई। पंचायत होने के बाद अभियुक्तगण ने विवादित जमीन को कब्जा करने का प्रयास नहीं किया।"

P.W.1-Om Prakash :-

"ये लोग ट्यूबवेल की तरफ गाली गलौज देते हुए मेरे आंगन में घुस आये जैसे ही मैंने व मेरे भाई गंगा सिंह ने देखा व टोका..

मेरे व मेरे गंगा सिंह के चिल्लाने पर सभी मुल्जिमान मेरे पिताजी, व मेरे भाई पर झपटे।...

मुल्जिमान फायर कर रहे थे मुझ पर व मेरे भाई पर हवाई हमले किये थे।.

जब मेरे ऊपर झपटे थे तब मुल्जिमान ने मुझे देख लिया था।

जब अभियुक्तगण अंदर आ रहे थे तब मैंने उन्हें टोका था।"

P.W.2- Jitendra :-

"दरवाजे पर मेरे पिताजी व गंगा सिंह ने मुल्जिमानों को टोका था टोकने पर मुल्जिमान ने मेरे पिता पर फायर नहीं किया था, मेरी माँ के ऊपर फायर किया था।"

P.W.4- Ganga Singh:-

"मैंने व मेरे भाई ओम प्रकाश ने जब मुल्जिमान हमारे घर में घुस रहे थे मैं तभी उनको टोका था। जब मैंने टोका तब उन लोगों ने हम दोनों पर फायर नहीं किया था।..

मैंने व मेरे भाई ने मुल्जिमान को टोका था तथा ललकारा था एवं पीछा किया था।...

ओम प्रकाश ही मुल्जिमानों के मुख्य लक्ष्य थे।"

49. If we look into the entire testimonies of P.W. 1 Om Prakash, P.W. 2 Jitendra and P.W. 4 Ganga Singh then the above quoted statements did not come within the category of major contradictions to shake the prosecution case. When the witness is cross-examined at length for so many months and even years (as is the case with P.W.1), then such contradictions are normal to happen.

50. When an incident like this happens in quick succession within minutes, the assailant(s), the victim(s) and the witness(es) are not expected to keep stand still but they keep moving, either to attack or protect themselves, as the case may be, so the observation of such an incident by one person may vary from the other. It has come in evidence that informant Om Prakash serving in Army, had come on leave to his house. His brother Ganga Singh was also there. His injured son Jitendra was reading at the roof of the house so their presence at the place of occurrence is quite natural and normal. No one can see into the mind of the criminal, if the appellants did not fire at the informant or Ganga Singh as they hid behind the heap of straw or for some other reason then mainly on this ground it cannot be said that these witnesses were not present at the spot.

51. In Bharwanda Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v State of Gujarat (1983) 3 SCR 280 at page 280 : (AIR 1983 SC 753 at page 756) the Supreme court has held:

‘ Discrepancies which do not go to the root of the matter and shake the basic version of the witnesses therefore cannot be annexed with undue importance. More so when the all important probabilities - factor echoes in favour of the version narrated by the witnesses.’

52. Therefore, these discrepancies in the statements of witnesses are minor which do not go to the root of the case and would have no adverse bearing over the prosecution case.

53. It is also submitted on behalf of the appellants that P.W. 2 Jitendra was on the roof so he had no occasion to see what was happening in the courtyard and thus, he could not have witnesses the murder of Smt. Savitri Devi and Sarman Singh. It is also submitted that Dharmendra was shot when he was coming from the side of Lala Ram’s field and after Jitendra sustained injuries he stepped down from roof and sat in the courtyard till he was taken to the Police Outpost from the courtyard. Therefore, P.W. 2 Jitendra has no occasion to see the murder of Dharmendra also.

54. We do not agree with this submission as it has come in evidence that when Savitri Devi was being shot the P.W. 2 Jitendra, who was sitting on the roof, peeped from the roof with his brother Satendra and upon that Kamlesh and Ram Naresh shot at them from the courtyard due to which Jitendra sustained injuries, therefore, it proves that Jitendra saw his mother Savitri Devi and grand-father Sarman Singh being shot by the appellants. So far as the murder of Dharmendra is concerned, it has come in the statement of P.W. 2 Jitendra that he saw it from the roof and on being asked P.W. 2 Jitendra has said that Dharmendra was shot at a distance of 200-225 steps from the roof where he was sitting. He has also said that in between both these places there are no trees but there are some small bushes. In view of the above, P.W.2 Jitendra Singh had occasion to witness the murder of Dharmendra Singh also from his roof. It has come in his statement that after he sustained firearm injuries, he stepped down from the roof in 20-25 minutes, therefore, the submission of the appellants has no force that soon after Jitendra sustained injury, he stepped down from the roof. If P.W. remained at the roof during the entire incident then he had occasion to witness the murder of Dharmendra Singh which was caused near Lala Ram's field. P.W. 2 Jitendra is the injured witness so his presence at the spot cannot be doubted and being an injured witness, his testimony assumes greater significance.

55. It is further submitted on behalf of appellants that according to P.W. 1 Om Prakash and P.W. 4 Ganga Singh, when the appellants shot at Savitri Devi and Sarman Singh, they hid themselves behind the 'Ladoria' i.e. heap of straw (bhoose ka coop), so they had no chance to witness murders of Sunil @ Baba and Dharmendra, which had taken place at other places. It is further submitted that the I.O. has not shown Ladoria, i.e. heap of straw (bhoose ka coop) in the site plan, it is material omission on his part raising suspicion over the prosecution case. We do not agree with this submission because the I.O. has shown 'Ladoria' i.e. heap of straw (bhoose ka coop) by two circles to the north of the open spot of the informant's house, in his site plan Ext. Ka-37, and in index at Serial No. 8 has mentioned that from this place the informant and Ganga Singh witnessed the incident after hiding themselves behind (bhoose ka coop), therefore, this submission on behalf of appellants has no force that the I.O. has not shown the heap of straw (bhoose ka coop) from where the witnessed have seen the incident. P.W. 1 Om Prakash, P.W. 4 Ganga Singh have said that they hid themselves behind heap of straw (bhoose ka coop) and it has come in their statement that after remaining their for a few minutes they followed the appellants. It has also come in statement of P.W. 1 Om Prakash that from behind the heap of straw (bhoose ka coop) the place was visible, where Dharmendra was shot. The I.O. has marked it as 'X', the place where Dharmendra was shot and in between heap of straw and the above place there is open land and raasta, so the witnesses could have seen this incident from behind the heap of straw. It has come in evidence of P.W. 1 Om Prakash, that when the appellants, after shooting Savitri Devi and Sarman Singh, fled from the house of the informant, they also followed the appellants and saw appellants Satyavir and Shiv Vir fire at Sunil @ Baba. The place where Sunil @ Baba was found was shown by the Investigating Officer in the site-plan as letter 'B'. Therefore, P.W. 1 Om Prakash was in a position to witness this incident also after following the appellants.

56. It has been submitted on behalf of appellants that the prosecution has not examined Mohar Singh and Santosh who were allegedly accompanying Dharmendra while he was near Lala Ram's field and thus by withholding these relevant winesses, adverse inference would be drawn against the prosecution. The appellants have relied upon case law Jaggo @ Jagdish and Others (supra), wherein the Supreme Court has held that 'it is true that all the witnesses of the prosecution need not be called but it is important to notice that the witness whose evidence is essential to the "unfolding of the narrative" should be called whether the effect of his testimony is for or against the case for the prosecution. Failure to examine such a witness might affect a fair trial. Presentation of an application to the effect that a witness had been won over was not conclusive to the question that the witness has been won over. In such a case the witness could have been produced for cross-examination by the accused which would have elicited the correct facts.'

57. The learned counsel for the appellants have also relied upon case law State of U.P. and Another Vs. Cheeku @ Jagdish and others 1971 (2) SCC 42, wherein it has been held that it is the duty of the prosecution to examine necessary witnesses and material contradiction between the eye witness account and medical evidence would render the prosecution unreliable.

58. We do not agree with this submission and the above case laws do not apply in the present case. It has been brought to the notice of this Court, by the prosecution, that one of the witness Mohar Singh had died before his statement could be recorded in the trial court. Further, in a criminal case, it is not the quantity but the quality of evidence, which matters. The prosecution has examined other eye-witnesses who have supported the prosecution case and their testimony is consistent and reliable, therefore, non examination of other eye witnesses would have no adverse effect over the prosecution case.

59. It has earlier come in the discussion that P.W. 1 Om Prakash, P.W. 2 Jitendra and P.W. 4 Ganga Singh are reliable witnesses and their testimony with regard to the incident is consistent and trustworthy, therefore, non examination of other witnesses of fact would have no adverse effect over the prosecution case. It has been further submitted on behalf of appellants that the statement of P.W. 4 Ganga Singh was recorded by the I.O. under Section 161 Cr.P.C. after a gap of three months and no explanation of delay is shown by the prosecution thus, he is a planted witness whose testimony before the court cannot be relied upon.

60. The defence has not asked from the I.O. the reason of delay in recording the statement of Ganga Singh, under Section 161 Cr.P.C. In absence of any such question put to the IO, it cannot be assumed that his statement was recorded belatedly without any sufficient explanation because if the I.O. had been asked about this delay, he could have explained the delay and only then the court could have examined whether the delay was sufficient or not. By not putting such question to the I.O. and merely arguing over this would have no adverse effect over the prosecution case. Beside this, it has been stated in the FIR that P.W. 4 Ganga Singh was present there alongwith informant when this incident occurred so the name of Ganga Singh was there from the beginning as eye-witness of this case. Therefore, it is not that his name has subsequently been added as witness to this case, therefore, on this ground the submission on behalf of appellants have no force.

61. It is also submitted on behalf of appellants that the investigation is defective and the first Investigating Officer was not present at the Police Outpost- Kushmura of Police Station- Kisni on the date when FIR was lodged, in view of statement given by P.W. 8 Constable Ram Kumar Singh that according to G.D dated 19.08.2001, there is no entry that the Investigating Officer was present at the Police Outpost. In view of the above, the statement of the I.O. that he recorded the statements of injured Jitendra and Savitri Devi at Police Outpost- Kushmura is false raising suspicion over the prosecution case and that false evidence has been prepared to implicate the appellants in this case. We do not agree with this submission, as it has come in evidence that the first informant Om Prakash reached at Police Outpost- Kushmura alongwith injured Jitendra and Savitri Devi who remained sitting inside the Jeep and the concerned police Inspector inquired from both the above injured, about the incident, while they were seated inside the Jeep. In view of the above, if the Investigating Officer inquired from the injured outside the premises of the Police Outpost Kushmura then if his presence in the G.D. of Police Outpost- Kushmura is not entered then it has no adverse bearing over the prosecution case.

62. It is also submitted on behalf of the appellants that there are contradictions that injured Savitri Devi died on way to the hospital or after reaching at the hospital, which raises suspicion over the prosecution case. We do not agree with this submission also, all the witnesses of fact have stated that Savitri Devi died on the way to the hospital, they are not experts who can give a certain opinion when a person dies. Therefore, if there is any such discrepancy then it would have no adverse effect over the prosecution case.

63. It is further submitted on behalf of appellants that there is contradiction in ocular and medical evidence and according to the site plan, deceased Savitri Devi sustained injuries from a distance of about 10 steps which comes out to 15 feet, whereas as per her post-mortem report there is scorching and blackening over the firearm wounds of entry. It is not possible that blackening and scorching would occur from a fire shot from a distance of 15 feet, therefore, these are major contradictions raising doubt over the prosecution case. We do not agree with this submission. The site plan prepared by the IO bears two kinds of evidence, the first kind of evidence is that which he observes and finds at the place and the second kind of evidence is hearsay, which is told to him by the informant and other witnesses at the time of inspecting the place of occurrence. Showing distance of Savitri Devi being shot from a place is hearsay account in site plan.

64. The defence should have inquired about it from the witnesses of fact. The witnesses of fact have supported the prosecution case, in such a brutal murder when everybody was there to save his life, it was not usual on their part to keep into account every minute details of the incident and then mathematically narrate that in the court. Therefore, in our view, there are no major contradictions in ocular and medical evidence. Witnesses have said that the deceased and injured were shot and injury reports and post-mortem reports confirm that they sustained firearm gunshot injuries. Further, during the investigation a firearm was recovered from appellant Sukhvir and was sent to Forensic Science Laboratory alongwith the cartridges found at the place of occurrence for expert opinion. As per ballistic expert the cartridges found at the place of occurrence matched with the firearm recovered at the pointing of appellant Sukhvir. It also substantiates the prosecution case regarding the involvement of the appellants in the commission of this offence.

65. It is submitted on behalf of appellants that according to P.W. 1 Om Prakash appellant Shyam Pal did not fire at any of the deceased or injured, therefore, his role in the commission of the offence is doubtful. We do not agree with this submission, as it has come in evidence that all the appellants including Shyam Pal reached at the house of the informant and thereafter the incident occurred. All the appellants remained together carrying firearms including appellant Shyam Pal and after committing the murder all of them fled from the spot which shows that they had formed unlawful assembly to commit a criminal act armed with firearms, which are deadly weapons and in furtherance of the common object, the above offence was committed by the members of that unlawful assembly, therefore, being member of the unlawful assembly, appellant Shyam Pal would also be liable for the offence committed by the other member of the unlawful assembly.

66. It is also submitted that the motive assigned to the appellants to commit this offence is not proved. As per prosecution there was a dispute with regard to a land between Om Prakash and Santosh regarding which a panchayat was also convened and it was resolved in the panchayat that some land would be given to the informant Om Prakash and the other part would be given to appellant Santosh. It has come in the statement of P.W. 1 Om Prakash and P.W. 4 Ganga Singh that after this panchayat no overt act was committed by the appellants, so there was no reason for them to commit such offence. The learned counsel for the appellants has drawn the attention of this Court over the statement of P.W. 1 Om Prakash:-

"पंचायत में पंचों ने मेरे मकान से जुड़ी हुई जगह मुझे दिलवा दी थी।

पंचायत के बाद घटना होने तक विवादित जमीन पर मुल्जमान ने कब्जा करने का प्रयास नहीं किया। "

And the statement of P.W. 4 Ganga Singh :-

"पंचायत ओम प्रकाश की मौजूदगी में हुई। पंचायत होने के बाद अभियुक्तगण ने विवादित जमीन को कब्जा करने का प्रयास नहीं किया।"

67. On the basis of above statements, learned counsel for the appellants wants to show that there was no reason for the appellants to commit such murder due to the above dispute. We do not agree with this submission also. It is settled law that in a case based on direct evidence motive to commit the crime looses its significance, so a direct motive is not at all relevant. Beside that, it is established from evidence that there was a land dispute between the first informant and the appellants. It is also not in dispute that panchayat was held with regard to said land and a civil suit was pending before the court. Motive is a state of mind of a person which cannot be seen from inside.

68. In the case of Thaman Kumar vs. State of Union Territory of Chandigarh, reported in (2003) 6 SCC 380: (AIR 2003 SC 3975), the Supreme Court has observed as under:-

"There is no such principle or rule of law that where the prosecution fails to prove the motive for commission of the crime, it must necessary result in acquittal of the accused. Where the ocular evidence is found to be trustworthy and reliable and finds corroboration from the medical evidence, a finding of guilt can safely be recorded even if the motive for the commission of the crime has not been proved."

69. The observation of Supreme Court in the case of Nathuni Yadav and others v. State of Bihar and another, 1997 (34) ACC 576 are also worth mentioning:-

"Motive for doing a criminal act is generally a difficult area for prosecution. One cannot normally see into the mind of another. Motive is the emotion which impells a man to do a particular act. Such impelling cause need not necessarily be proportionally grave to do grave crimes. Many a murders have been committed without any known or prominent motive. It is quite possible that the aforesaid impelling factor would remain undiscoverable. Lord Chief Justice Chambell struck a note of caution in 'Reg v. Palmer' thus: "but if there be any motive which can be assigned I am bound to tell you that the adequacy of that motive is of little importance. We know, from experience of Criminal Courts that atrocious crimes of this sort have been committed from very slight motives; not merely from malice and revenge, but to gain a small pecuniary advantage, and to drive off for a time pressing difficulties."

70. In the case of State of H.P. Vs. Jeet Singh, (1999) 4 SCC 370 : (AIR 1999 SC 1293), the Supreme Court has made the following observations:-

"No doubt it is a sound principle to remember that every criminal act was done with a motive but its corollary is not that no criminal offence would have been committed if the prosecution has failed to prove the precise motive of the accused to commit it. When the prosecution succeeded in showing the possibility of some ire for the accused towards the victim, the inability to further put on record the manner in which such ire would have swelled up in the mind of the offender to such a degree as to impel him to commit the offence cannot be construed as a fatal weakness of the prosecution. It is almost an impossibility for the prosecution to unravel the full dimension of the mental disposition of an offendoffender towards the person whom he offended."

71. Regarding the motive for commission of a crime, the Supreme Court has observed as under in the case of Suresh Chandra Bahri v. State of Bihar, AIR 1994 SC 2420 (in para 21 of the report at page 2429):-

"Sometimes motive plays an important role and becomes a compelling force to commit a crime and therefore motive behind the crime is a relevant factor for which evidence may be adduced. A motive is something which prompts a person to form an opinion or intention to do certain illegal act or even a legal act but with illegal means with a view to achieve that intention. In a case where there is clear proof of motive for the commission of the crime it affords added support to the finding of the Court that the accused was guilty for the offence charged with. But it has to be remembered that the absence of proof of motive does not render the evidence bearing on the guilt of the accused nonetheless untrustworthy or unreliable because most often it is only the perpetrator of the crime alone who knows as to what circumstances prompted him to a certain course of action leading to the commission of the crime."

72. Therefore, even if, for the sake of argument it is admitted that the prosecution has failed to prove motive for the appellants to commit the said crime, it would not have any adverse effect over the prosecution case. It is also submitted on behalf of the appellants that there are two groups one headed by Kalua @ Rajbeer and the other was headed by Rajvir. P.W. 1 informant, Om Prakash had admitted that Kalua has a licensed revolver and he sometimes comes with him, which means that Om Prakash and Kalua were acquainted with Ganga Singh. It is submitted that all the appellants in their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. have said that P.W. 4 Ganga Singh had lodged several reports against the gang of other Rajvir. Since Kalua and Rajvir were on visiting terms with the complainant and his family so Ganga Singh and other Rajvir were annoyed with the appellants and it is that Rajvir Singh which had committed such murders and the appellants have been falsely implicated in this case.

73. We do not agree with this submission as well, there is no such evidence led by the defence to show that there are two different Rajbeers'. Consequently, if P.W. 4 Ganga Singh had lodged some criminal cases against the other Rajbeer, prior to the said incident, then the other Rajbeer would have developed grudge against the Ganga Singh and not at the first informant and his family members. If this was the case then he would not have spared Ganga Singh during the said incident and most importantly if Ganga Singh had lodged several reports against Rajbeer prior to the said incident then he would have been the last person to be spared by Rajbeer. Therefore, the defence version has no force that the other Rajbeer and his gang were involved in this incident and appellants have been falsely implicated in this case. If Ganga Singh had courage to lodge other criminal reports against the said Rajbeer prior to the alleged incident then he would have certainly named that Rajbeer if the incident was caused by him and his gang. A family member would be the last person who will spare the real culprit and implicate an innocent person, if he knows the assailants.

74. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. It was gruesome murder in which informant Om Prakash's wife Savitri Devi, son and father were murdered. His brother-in-laws son was also murdered. His son Jitendra was also seriously injured and there was an attempt to life on his person. The testimony of P.W. 1 Om Prakash, P.W. 2 Jitendra, P.W. 4 Ganga Singh is consistent and reliable with regard to entire case of the prosecution. The ocular testimony is supported by medical evidence. FIR was lodged promptly and all the appellants were named from the very beginning. The argument on behalf of appellants with regard to their false implication has no force. The motive is also proved and even if it is argued that the prosecution has failed to prove motive then it is a case of direct evidence in which motive does not have much consequence.

75. In view of the above, the learned trial court has rightly appreciated the evidence on record and has rightly reached at the conclusion of the guilt of the appellants. The appellants have been rightly convicted and sentenced for the offence, therefore, appeal has no force and is liable to the dismissed.

76. Thus, all the appellants are guilty of the offence punishable under Sections- 302, 307, 452 read with 34 IPC. The Trial Court has appreciated the evidence on record properly and rightly reached at the conclusion of guilt of all the appellants.

77. Thus, the present three appeals Nos. 7543 of 2006, 7713 of 2006 and 7712 of 2006 lacks merit and are, accordingly, dismissed. All appellants Santosh, Sukhvir, Kamlesh, Ram Naresh, Satyavir, Shiv Vir, Ramadhar, Arvind and Shyam Pal, are on bail. Their personal bonds and bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. They are directed to surrender before the learned Trial Court to undergo the remaining part of their sentence, failing which, the Trial Court is directed to adopt coercive measures for securing their presence.

78. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the Trial Court concerned alongwith the lower court record for information and necessary compliance.

Ranjeet Yadav ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the conviction of the appellants under Ss. 302/34, 352, 504 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code and S. 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act could be sustained in view of the delay in lodging the First Information Report, inconsistencies in the ocular evidence, alleged contradictions with the medical evidence, the evidentiary value of the recoveries and the prosecution version as a whole. (Paras 1, 37, 38)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Murder - Conviction under Ss. 302/34, 352, 504 and 506 IPC and S. 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act - Delay in lodging First Information Report - Appreciation of ocular evidence - Contradictions between testimonies of alleged eye-witnesses - Consistency of ocular evidence with medical evidence - Evidentiary value of recoveries - Incident allegedly took place on 21.8.2018 at 19:00 hours and the First Information Report came to be lodged on 23.8.2018 at 13:29 hours, resulting in a delay of about 42 and a half hours – Prosecution explained the delay by stating that the informant was waiting for her four brothers to arrive before the cremation and lodging of the report - Investigating Officer admitted that police had visited the house of the deceased on the date of occurrence when family members and relatives were present, yet no written complaint was submitted - P.W.-1 claimed to have accompanied the deceased on the scooty and to have witnessed the assault whereas P.W.-2 stated that both she and her daughter were at the house and that a neighbourhood boy informed them of the incident before they reached the place of occurrence - Said neighbourhood boy was not examined as a witness - Medical evidence disclosed that except injury no.1, all injuries were on the back side of the body, whereas the ocular version suggested a frontal assault while the deceased attempted to ward off the blows - Doctor stated that the laceration in the brain could be because of the incident and opined that death could have occurred between 11:00 p.m. and 12:00 midnight - Recoveries of bamboo lathis were made from open places without recording disclosure statements under S. 27 of the Indian Evidence Act and without independent witnesses - Motive projected by the prosecution was found to be weak in the facts of the case - Delay in lodging the First Information Report remained unexplained - Material contradictions in the prosecution evidence, inconsistency between ocular and medical evidence and unreliable recoveries rendered the prosecution case doubtful - Conviction and sentence set aside and appellants acquitted. Held: Upon an overall appreciation of the evidence, the delay in lodging the First Information Report remained unexplained because even if the first informant was hesitant in lodging the report, the police personnel who had accompanied the injured to the hospital ought to have initiated the criminal process if the occurrence was perceived to be a case of murder, and the unexplained delay became prejudicial to the prosecution case. The names introduced in the First Information Report appeared to be the result of an afterthought. If the first informant had in fact remained throughout at the place of occurrence and had attempted to save the deceased, some injuries upon her person would ordinarily have been expected. The post mortem report disclosed that except injury no.1 all injuries were on the back side of the body and the medical evidence did not completely support the ocular version as narrated by the prosecution witnesses. The contradictions between the testimonies of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 regarding the presence of the daughter at the place of occurrence and the fact that the neighbourhood boy, who allegedly informed them of the incident, was never examined, constituted material infirmities in the prosecution case. The motive projected by the prosecution was found to be weak and the possibility of false implication could not be ruled out. The recoveries were also held to be unreliable as they were effected from open places without compliance with the settled principles governing recoveries under S. 27 of the Indian Evidence Act. Consequently, the prosecution failed to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt and the conviction and sentence recorded by the trial court were liable to be set aside. 2. The Criminal Appeal under Section 372 Cr.P.C., being Criminal Appeal No. 439 of 2023, has been filed against the judgment and order dated 10.8.2023 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (E.C. 3. Upon an incident which allegedly took place on 21.8.2018 at 19:00 hours (7:00PM), the first information report with regard to it was lodged by the complainant Neha Rai, the daughter of the deceased on 23.8.2018 at 13:29 hours(1:29PM). It was alleged in the first information report that at the relevant point of time, the first informant Neha Rai along with her mother Harikant Devi and father Uma Shankar Rai was living in their house at Deoria. She had stated that she had four brothers. The eldest brother was living in Mumbai and was doing the work of contractor and the second eldest brother Jitendra Rai was also living in Mumabi and was doing his private business. Third brother Raghvendra Rai was living in Bangalore and was working in a steel plant and the fourth brother Narendra Kumar was doing a job in Ahemdabad. In the first information report even before the incident was being reported, the motive was given out that in the front of her Sahen, one decimal of land of gaon sabha was there and with regard to possession over it there was a dispute always raised by one Amit Kumar Rai. In his support, Devendra Rai son of Subhash Yadav always used to be there and had on many an occasion along with his support in the past had beaten up Uma Shankar Rai the deceased and that with regard to the beating which was done , the father of the first informant had also got a case register in the police station and that case was still pending. She had stated that even though the Revenue Department had resolved the controversy with regard to the land contiguous to the Sahen land yet Devendra Yadav son of Subhash Yadav along with Amit Kumar Rai was occasionally abusing the father of the complainant and was also threatening him with dire consequences. Because of the doings of Amit Rai and Devendra Yadav there was quite a bit of fear prevailing in the village.

4. On 21.8.2018, it had been stated in the FIR that the Prasad which was brought by the complainant and her father from the Baijnath Dham was to be given to one Jai Prakash Tiwari and, therefore, on 21.8.2018 at around 6:00PM both the father and the daughter had gone to the house of Jai Prakash Tiwari and after having met him they were returning to their house and at around 7:00PM at the Bhadsar crossing the accused Devendra Yadav exhorted the other accused, in the presence of the first informant and shouted pointing to her father that the enemy of Devendra Yadav had reached and he had not to be spared. He had specifically exhorted that he be killed. Thereafter, Devendra Yadav and Dan Singh sons of Subhash Yadav; Rohit Yadav son of Surendra Yadav; Ranjit Yadav son of Ram Chhabila Yadav; Amit Kumar Rai son of Arvind Kumar Rai and Bharma Yadav son of Suryabali Yadav, all residents of village Chhitauni, Police Station Bankata District Deoria came up to the father and the daughter with lathies in their hands. They had come from the road which came from the side of Chhituani and with a common object and intention they started beating the deceased with their dandas. She had then stated that she had started shouting and had started raising a hue and cry that her father was being beaten and there was an apprehension that he would be killed. However, because Devendra Yadav was known as a strong man of the area, no shopkeeper of the area came to save the father of the first informant and the accused repeatedly beat up the father of the first informant. However, upon the hue and cry being raised, the mother of the first informant Harikanti Devi came running and thereafter both the mother and daughter made an effort to save the deceased. Upon this Devendra Yadav pulled out both Harikanti Devi, the mother of the first informant and the first informant from the place of the incident and chased them away. She had stated that as her father was lying on the place of incident, she had immediately, therefore, called at the telephone number ‘100’ but no police came. Thereupon she had stated that she informed the police station and after a lot of delay the police came and took the father of the first informant to the PHC, Bankata, where there was absolutely no doctor available.

Because of that the father of the first informant was taken to the Sadar Hospital Deoria where he was declared dead. About the incident, she had stated that she had informed her brothers. Out of the four brothers, two came in the night of 22/8/2018 and the other two brothers reached Deoria in the morning of 23.8.2018. The post mortem had already been done and even before the FIR was lodged the last rites were also performed and thereafter she had gone to get the FIR lodged.

6. After the death, a panchayatnama/inquest was undergone on 22.8.2018 at 1:00PM and was completed on the same day at 2:10PM. As no first information report was yet lodged, the panchayatnama along with the death certificate and other reports was sent for post mortem which was conducted on the body on 22.8.2018 itself at 5:00PM and had got completed at 5:50 PM. 9. The P.W. -1, the first informant, Neha Rai, appeared in the witness box and got her examination in chief recorded in the Court. She had told herself as being in the occupation of education and that she was staying with her mother Harikanti Devi and father late Uma Shankar Rai. She had thereafter given out the motive because of which the accused had killed her father. She had very categorically stated that on 21.8.2018, she had, along with her father, gone at 6:00PM with the prasad of Babadham to the house of Jai Prakash Tiwari. After they had both sat at the house of Jai Prakash Tiwari, they had proceeded towards their house at 7:00PM. On the Bhadsar crossing, Devendra Yadav was waiting exactly in the manner as she had stated in the FIR and she had got her statement-in-chief recorded as to how they had assaulted her father. She had further stated that though it was a crowded crossing and despite the fact that she was shouting for help, but because of the terror created by Devendra Yadav, no one came from the market to help her out. However, because of the hue and cry she had raised, her mother came out of her house and reached the spot. The mother and the daughter both tried to save the deceased but Devendra Yadav held her by the shoulder and separated her from her father. She was also threatened with dire consequences if she intervened. She had thereafter also dialed number □100□ to call the police but no police personnel came and therefore she rang up the Thana from where a Daroga came and took the father of the First informant to the PHC Bankata where there was no doctor available and, therefore, they went to Deoria Hospital where the doctors declared the father of the complainant dead and thereafter she started informing her brothers who came on 22.8.2018 and 23.8.2018 and the father of the first informant was thereafter cremated and she alone came to the police station to get the FIR lodged. She had written the FIR in her own handwriting at her house and proved the same. She had stated that with regard to the incident, the Investigating Officer had recorded her statement and she had also shown the Investigating Officer the place of incident.

10. In the cross-examination, she had stated that her father were three brothers. The names of other two brothers were Umesh Rai and Ramesh Rai. Ramesh Rai was a bachelor. Umesh Rai used to stay out of Deoria. Uma Shankar, the deceased, had four sons, namely, Satendra Rai, Jitendra

Rai, Raghvendra Rai and Narendra Rai. Thereafter there was one more daughter known by the name of Rekha Rai. She was not married. She had stated that her family was not a joint family. She had then stated that the elder brothers of the deceased were living separately from the deceased. She had then stated that even though the house was one, there was separation amongst the brothers. Her sister Rekha Rai was staying at Bombay with her brothers. She had stated that her father was not a journalist but was a leader of the Bhartiya Janata Party.

11. Upon a question being asked as to whether any interview of her was taken before she had dialed the number '100', she had denied the interview. She had then stated that on the day which followed the incident, some journalists had taken her interview. She had also stated that she had dialed '100' thrice. First two times, it was not picked up and on the third occasion it was picked up. After half an hour the police had reached the place of incident. She had stated that when the phone call had come from dial '100' the Darogaji said that he would reach on the place of incident in 5 minutes. She denied the suggestion that she had not rung up at the number '100' and categorically she had stated that when she had rung up the number 100 then, thereafter, within half an hour the Darogaji had come. The police which was required to come from the dialing of the number 100, reached the place of incident around half an hour of the commission of the crime. But before that the Darogaji had reached the place of incident. On the vehicle which came upon dialing number 100, there were 5 to 6 police personnel.

12. Upon a question being asked as to why she had not mentioned about the fact that the police, upon dialing 100 number, had reached half an hour late then she had answered that she had not stated that as she had told the Darogaji with regard to the incident orally immediately after the arrival of the police. The police had taken her father to the Primary Health Centre at Bankata where there was nothing done in writing. From there, upon the suggestion of Daroga, she herself came back to her house to look after her mother and the Darogaji took her father to Deoria Hospital. She had stated in the cross-examination that when exactly the body had reached the hospital, she did not know. What the doctor said was also not known to her. She had then stated that she drove herself to the Hospital at Deoria along with her mother. There Darogaji was present. Upon declaring her father as dead, the dead body was kept in hospital in the mortuary. She had again stated that the fact that she had gone by private car was not stated in the FIR. However, in the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. she had stated so. If it was not stated in the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., then she did not know the reason for that.

13. Upon a specific question being asked as to why when the police was there at the hospital, it had not got the FIR lodged she had replied that because there was no matured person at her house and because the accused had also given her dangerous threats, therefore, she had also not got the FIR lodged. She had stated that on the second day also she had not got the FIR lodged because the post mortem had not been conducted and she shifted the burden on the police by saying that because police had said that till such time as the post mortem would not be done they would not lodge the FIR. She had then stated that before the FIR was lodged, the post mortem report was made available to her. Then, she had stated that in the same paternal house, her uncle Umesh Rai was also living but separately. Ramesh Rai was also her uncle. She had also stated that Umesh Rai had two sons, namely, Anurag Rai and Anuj Rai and they were all staying in the same house. She had stated that it was correct to say that in the FIR and in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

she had not stated that her sister was staying with her. She had also stated that she had not given out in her statement in chief that her sister Rekha was staying along with her brother. She had also stated that she knew the names of the Pradhan of her village. She had also stated that on her pointing, the site map was prepared. Upon questions being asked as to who stayed in the neighbourhood she had given out all the names. She had then given out the names of the shopkeepers whose shops were in the neighbourhood of the site of occurrence. She had given out the names as Uma Nai, Ramesh Panwala, Falak Karim Panwala and Kapil Kharwar Chaiwala. She had stated that Manorama the wife of one Heera Lal had lodged a criminal case against her uncle Ramesh Rai for having teased her daughter. She had stated that Brahma Yadav one of the accused was giving evidence from the side of Manorama in the case which was got registered against her uncle Ramesh Rai. The prasad which was given to Jai Prakash Tiwari was given on that particular day to him alone. She had stated that even though Jai Prakash Tiwari used to write the title 'Tiwari' but he was also of the same caste to which the deceased and the first informant belonged.

14. She had stated that she did not remember as to how many lathies were there as she was engrossed in saving her father. She had also not seen the length of lathies and dandas. She had stated again that when she had with her father proceeded towards the Bhadsar Chauraha then she had seen the accused persons at the crossing. Devendra at that point of time had stated that the enemies had reached. Upon this the deceased i.e. the father of the first informant and the first informant immediately turned towards their house and started running. However, they were caught there and were surrounded. The father of the deceased was taken off the scooty which he was driving and was assaulted by lathies and dandas. She had stated that the father, therefore, was stopping the assault by bringing his hands in between the lathies and dandas. The father therefore got injuries also on his head. However no blood was coming out of his head. Whether there was any swelling on the head, she did not know. The scooty, upon a question, being asked whether was damaged she answered that it was in tact. She had then stated that while the father and daughter were on the scooty they were assailed and that the scooty was lying at the place of incident. What was done with the scooty, thereafter, she did not know. Darogaji had taken her father from the place of incident himself. From where, the blood was coming out she did not know. She had fallen on the body of her father to protect him from the assaults which were being made. Her efforts to save her father were thwarted by Devendra who pushed her aside. She had stated that from the place of incident, her house was around 100 to 200 meters away. She had also stated that when they were assaulting her father she had pleaded and implored that they may not beat him but they did not listen to her at all. With regard to the scooty, she had not mentioned anything in the FIR. She had stated that her father could have escaped using the scooty but the accused had surrounded him from all sides. She once again reiterated that the Daroga had stated that the FIR would be lodged only after the post mortem report would be made available. She then had stated the reason for the delay in the lodging of the FIR and had stated that when the 4 brothers had arrived then the FIR was lodged. She had also stated that she had thought it proper to first cremate her father and then lodge the FIR. This was done after much deliberation. When the incident had occurred and she had raised an alarm then apart from her mother many other persons from the neighbourhood had come. The names of the neighbours were not mentioned in the FIR. Whether the lands no. 3/7ka, 3/7kha and 318 were in the name of her father, she said that only he knew about it all. She had stated that on the date of incident, her statement were recorded by the police at her house and also at the police station. She had stated very categorically that on the date of incident while she was at the site, her mother had come running from the house. She had stated that when she had gone to the Deoria Hospital in her car then it was driven by somebody who was sent by her brother Jitendra Rai from across some river known as Bhat. That the brother had sent the driver was neither mentioned to the police nor was it mentioned in the FIR. She had stated that she had not brought the dead body of her father from the hospital. In fact, it was brought by Jai Prakash Tiwari by an ambulance. A police car was accompanying the ambulance. She had stated that she did not remember if any reporter had asked her name. She did not remember if she had told to him her name Neha or Neha Rai. Then she had stated that she had told them about her village Chhitauni. Upon the reporter asking her as to how the incident had occurred, she had replied that some boy had come to her house and had informed that her father was being beaten by somebody and thereafter she had gone running to the place of incident. Thereafter she had stated that this statement she had given to the reporter as she was afraid of the accused persons.

15. Upon the names being asked of the accused persons by the reporter, she had stated that their names were Surendra, Maqsoodan, Arun Kumar and Subhash and when the reporter had asked as to where her residence was then she had stated that they were of Chhitauni and she had then stated that her uncle Ramesh Rai was a lunatic. She had emphatically stated that he had not gone to the site or to Deoria. He had also run away from the house on the date of incident and thereafter he was at times coming to the house and was also at times going away from the house. At the brahmabhoj which was held 12 days after the death he was there. She had stated that she considered him a mad person. She had stated that she had not mentioned about the reporter in the FIR.

16. P.W.-2, was the widow of the deceased. Her name was Harikanti Devi. She had also stated about the family member in the same manner as the P.W.-1 had stated. She has stated that on the date of incident, she along with her husband and daughter were at the house. She had then stated as to what was the motive for which the murder had taken place and had mentioned about the very same land which the daughter had mentioned. However, she had stated that she had surrendered the possession of the land after sometime. Two days before the incident, her husband had gone to Baba Dham and had come back at 6:00PM. Her husband had gone alongwith his daughter to the house of Jai Prakash Tiwari to give Prasad on a scooty. When he was coming back from the house of Jai Prakash Tiwari the six accused were hiding at the Bhadsar Chauraha. When she came out of the house upon hearing some noise then the boy living in the neighbourhood said that her husband was being beaten up. She had also stated that she had heard the voice of her daughter. She was crying and shouting. Thereafter she reached the place of the incident and saw that four people were beating him with lathies. Rohit Yadav and Brahma Yadav had held him while 4 others were beating him. When she reached the place of incident and asked the accused to leave her husband then she was also pushed away and thereafter she fainted. When the son was informed on the phone about the incident, he had got a driver sent and then she reached Deoria at around 9:00PM and found her husband lying dead. She came back to her home at around 9:00am in the early morning. Her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was got recorded about one and a half months after the incident. She had in her cross-examination stated that her husband was a simple person and no one in the village was afraid of him. About Ramesh Rai, Dewar, (brother-in-law) she stated that he was living in the same house and she had been the surety for him when the bail was granted to him in the molestation case. When she had again stated that when she first saw the incident she had seen six persons assailing her husband. She had stated that while her husband was in a standing position he was being assaulted. She had stated that on the place of incident her husband was lying down, face downwards. She had not seen as to where the lathi had hit, whether it was on the head or hand. As she had thereafter fainted she could not tell where the scooty had gone. Till the date of the recording of the testimony in the court, she did not know what had happened to the scooty. She had then stated that the place of incident was around 200 to 500 yards away from her house. She had then upon cross-examination stated that the place of incident was first visited by her daughter and thereafter she had gone. The deceased was being hit by lathis. She had seen the incident with her own eyes. She rarely went out of the house. She denied the suggestion that the husband was beaten and killed at some other place and that after three days after a lot of discussion, the FIR was lodged and the accused were nominated in the FIR. She had stated that since she was a Pardanasin lady, she was not much aware of the incident between the accused and her husband. She had then stated that her house was around half a kilometer away from the site and that she could hear the sounds from the site, sitting at her house. She had stated that on the date of incident, the young boy living in the neighbourhood had come and informed her about her husband being beaten. Upon listening of the sounds of beating, first her daughter Neha had gone and thereafter she had gone. She then also stated that Anish son of Parmanand was the boy who had come and informed her. In the further cross-examination, she had given the details of the persons who were her relatives. But it had been stated that none of them had come to her place upon hearing about the death of her husband. She had stated that her daughter had informed her that she had rung up Jai Prakash Tiwari after the incident had occurred but he was not at home. She was also not aware as to whether her driver Dhruv had come to the place of incident. She had then stated that when Anish had informed about the incident, she had gone there. She had stated that most of the time, the vehicles were at home and were driven by her driver Dhruv. However at times her dever (brother-in-law) also used to drive but he was not a matured person (budbak). She had denied the suggestions that she had not known about the assailants of her husband till late in the night.

17. P.W.-3, Jai Prakash Tiwari was also a witness of the panchayatanama. He had stated that he had given out the reason for the death as assault by lathi and danda and also because of throttling. He had stated that Uma Shankar Rai, the deceased, was known to him because his daughter Vineeta and the daughter of Uma Shankar Rai, Neha were friends and that he had met Uma Shankar Rai around a week before the date of the incident. On the whole of the body of the deceased, there were only injuries of lathi. However strangulation was also there and he had stated that he had, in fact, seen the strangulation on the throat himself.

18. P.W.- 4 was the Police personnel who had stated that on 22.8.2018, the ward boy of the district hospital had informed the police station Kotwali by the Rojnamcha aam at around 8:30am. He had stated that he had got the duty of getting the panchayatnama done. The opinion given in the panchayatnama was that he was hit by lathies and dandas. Upon being cross-examined, he had stated that the exhibit ka9, (paper no. 18ka/1) did not have a signature and that inadvertently probably it was left out. He had admitted that there was over writing on 50 and upon ‘50’, ‘55’ had been written. Upon being asked whether there was also overwriting on 21 and on ‘21’, ‘22’ had been written, he had said yes that there was overwriting. In other columns also 21 was cut out and 22 was written. He admitted that overwriting had been done.

19. P.W.-5, the Head Moharrir, had proved the FIR which was dated 23.7.2018.

20. P.W. - 6 again was a formal witness who had proved certain computer entries.

21. P.W.-7 was, Devendra Singh Yadav, who was the Sub Inspector who had done the investigation and was the investigating officer. He had stated that on 23.8.2018 he was posted as Station House Officer at Bankata Police Station. The first informant Neha Rai had got the first information report lodged under Sections 143, 148, 149, 323, 352, 504, 506, 302/34 and that had given rise to Case Crime No. 144 of 2018 against the accused, namely, 1. Devendra Yadav, 2. Dan Singh Yadav, 3. Ranjeet Yadav, 4. Rohit Yadav, 5. Amit Kumar Rai, and 6. Brahma Yadav. They were all said to be the residents of village Chhitauli, Police Station Bankata, District Deoria. After the first parcha was written on 23.8.2018, the statement of the P.W.- 1 was recorded by him and on the pointing of the P.W.-1 the site map was prepared on 23.8.2018 itself. On 24.8.2018, for the purpose of arresting the accused efforts were made. On 25.8.2018, again all efforts were made. On the same date i.e. on 25.8.2018 telephones of the accused were put on surveillance. On 27.8.2018 and 28.8.2018, efforts were made to arrest the accused. On 29.8.2018, the accused Devendra Yadav son of Subhash Yadav and Ranjeet Yadav son of Ram Chhabila were arrested and from them two bamboo lathis on their pointing were recovered. On 2.9.2018 by the entries on parcha no. 9, he had stated that Rohit Yadav was arrested. From his pointing also, a certain bamboo lathi was recovered. Similarly, Dan Singh Yadav was also arrested and on his pointing on 7.9.2018 a bamboo lathi was recovered. In the same manner, from the accused Amit Kumar Rai who was arrested, a bamboo lathi was recovered. With the help of accused Dan Singh Yadav, Brahma Yadav was also arrested on 9.9.2018. From them also, weapons of the crime were recovered. In the same manner, he had described about all the other arrests and the other recoveries.

22. In his cross-examination, he had stated that he did not remember as to with which official, the weapons which were recovered were sent for further inspection. He also did not remember if the weapons/lathies etc. were sent to any laboratory for further tests. In fact, he admitted that there was no mention of any sending of weapons/lathies to the laboratory. He had submitted in his cross-examination that when recoveries were done no independent witnesses were there. He had stated that during investigation, he had not enquired as to how many brothers, the deceased had and, in fact, he admitted that even on the date of cross-examination, he was not knowing the number of brothers the deceased had. Whether there was any case under Section 354 IPC registered against Ramesh, the brother of the deceased, Uma Shanker, he did not know. He also did not know if the brother Ramesh was married. However, the deceased Uma Shanker, his wife P.W.-2, were sureties for him in the case under section 354 I.P.C. He had stated that he had not recovered any scooty in its proper or damaged form from the place of incident. He has stated that he had not taken the scooty in his custody. When he had reached the house of the deceased then a lot of family members and relatives were present. None of them, however, gave any written FIR despite the fact that the P.W.-7 had demanded one from them. However, he gave reasons for not lodging the FIR and that was that a few of the family members were still out of the town and they were being waited for. With regard to there being any journalist at the house of the deceased and whether any photography was done he had replied that, he had no idea. Upon a question being asked as to how the police authorities function vis-a-vis dial '100', he had replied that when the number '100' is dialed then it reaches Lucknow, the main office. From there, it is given to the Police Response Van (PRV) which is present at every police station and is in the control of the Station House Officer there. On the date of the incident, the control over the PRV was in the hands of P.W.-7. He had stated that whether dial '100' was dialed, he had no information but some police station had given him the information. The Sub Inspector Ram Pratap Yadav had given him the information that on Bhadsar Chauraha an incident had taken place. He had stated that on the date of incident i.e. 21.8.2018, he had gone to attend on it. What the Sub Inspector Ram Pratap Yadav had done on 21.8.2018, he had no idea. However, P.W.-7 had not cared to investigate as to from which number the dial '100' was dialed. He denied the fact that because the telephone from which number '100' was dialed was of some other people and not of P.W.-1 and, therefore, he had not mentioned about it in the case diary. That the police had taken the deceased to the primary health centre Bankata, he had not noted. Obviously, he said that the police of police station must have been taken along with the injured but with regard to this fact he had not mentioned anything in the investigation. Whether at the time of post mortem anyone from the police station was present, he had no idea. Before the FIR was lodged and after the number '100' was dialed, he had stated that he did not remember if he had gone to the house of the deceased. No dangerous weapon was used in the incident and no dangerous weapon was also recovered. He had stated that he had not taken the statement of any of the shopkeepers, namely, Kapil Kharwar, Brijesh Yadav, Suddu Lohar, Sheshnath Tiwari during his investigation. In the case only eye-witnesses were the mother of the first informant and the first informant herself. In the map, he had not given the distance of the place of the incident and the house of the informant. He had stated that he had not prepared any site plan with regard to the recovery of lathi from the pointing of Amit Kumar Rai. However, he had stated that the place from which the lathi was recovered was opposite the house of the informant. Since the recovery of lathi/bamboo from Amit Kumar Rai was not stated in so many words in the fard baramadgi, the P.W.-7 had stated, upon a question being asked, that in fact, a lathi was recovered from the house of Amit Kumar Rai. Upon further questioning, he had stated that the site plan was prepared by him. He had stated that in the map he had not given anything about the neighbourhood. He had also not taken the statement of any of the shopkeepers who were there in the neighbourhood. Even the statement of Sheshnath Tiwari, the land-lord of the Katra was not recorded by him. In the neighbourhood of the Katra, there was a milk dairy farm and the statement of the owner of the milk dairy farm was also not taken by him. He had upon questions being asked whether he had given the distance between the various fixed points, he had stated that he had not given them at all. Who had seen the incident and from which place also he had not mentioned in the site plan. At the time of the incident, where the first informant Neha was, also he had not mentioned in the map. How the wife of the deceased, Harikanti Devi came and from which direction, he had also not mentioned in the map. He had again stated, upon a question being asked, as to who lived in the neighbourhood, he had stated that he did not know about it specifically. The Katra owner Sheshnath Tiwari was living in the neighbourhood but he had not taken his statement at all. Before the recoveries were made under Section 27, he had stated that he had not taken any disclosure statement from any of the accused persons. He had stated that the news of the incident had reached him on the date when the incident had occurred i.e. on 21.8.2018 but he had not taken any steps till such time as the FIR was lodged. He had denied the allegations made by the P.W.-1 that the FIR was not lodged because he had asked for the post mortem report first. He had categorically stated that from the site in question he had not recovered any scooty. The place of recovery from where the lathi/bamboo sticks of Ranjeet and Rohit were found was an open place where any one could go easily. Where the accused had escaped, after committing the murder, he had not stated in the map. He had also not made any efforts to recover the scooty. He, in so many words, had stated that he recorded the statement of the widow of the deceased Harikanti Devi only after 36 days of the incident. The reason for the delay he did not know. On 21.8.2018, also he categorically states that neither Neha nor any of the family members was present in the house to tell as to who was responsible for the murder of Uma Shanker. He had categorically stated that there was no blood found on any of the lathies recovered.

23. P.W.-8 is Doctor Bipin Ranjan had proved the post mortem report. He had stated that the post mortem when was being conducted, it was also photographed. The police constable who had brought the dead body was Shailesh Kumar. The person who had recognized the dead body was Jai Prakash Tiwari son of Ram Ghyan Tiwari. The other person who had identified the dead body was one Rama Shish. The injuries on the dead body were 12 in number which were as follows:--

12. Contused swelling 3 cm x 3 cm सर के पिछले हिस्से में चोट था। आंतरिक परीक्षण scalp As noted. skull meninges lacerated था।"

24. In the cross-examination, amongst other things which he had stated was that the lasceration in the brain could be because of the incident. Then he had categorically stated that apart from the injury no. 1, all the injuries were on the back side of the body. The injury no. 2 could not be possible by a lathi as it was 40X21 CM in size. Regarding injury no. 3, he had stated that it could be possible by the assault by a single person.

25. On the cross-examination being done by the side of Rohit and Ranjeet, he had stated that the death could have taken place on 21.8.2018 in between 11:00PM to 12:00 midnight.

26. Thereafter, the statements of the accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. They had all denied having committed the crime and had stated that because they had highlighted the fact that the deceased had encroached upon the gaon sabha land and because of the that fine was imposed on the deceased, the accused had been falsely implicated by the daughter of the deceased.

27. D.W.-1 was Rajneesh Kumar Bharti. He had stated that in the interviews which he had taken of the P.W.-1. She had not mentioned the names of Devendra Yadava, Dan Singh Yadav, Rohit Yadav, Ranjeet Yadav and Verma Yadav. He had also denied the suggestion that there was any interpolation in the video.

28. D.W.-2 had played the video which had recorded the interview. 29. After the trial was completed, judgment was delivered on 10.8.2023 whereby the accused Devendra Yadav, Dan Singh Yadav, Rohit Yadav, Ranjeet Yadav, Ankit Kumar Rai were found guilty under Section 302/34, 354, 504 and 506 IPC and were exonerated for the offences under Sections 147, 148, 302/149, 323/149. 30. Pursuant to the conviction, Ranjeet Yadav filed CRLA No. 9263 of 2023, Dan Singh Yadav filed CRLA No. 9255 of 2023, Devendra Yadav filed CRLA No. 9555 of 2023 and Amit Kumar Rai filed CRLA No. 9965 of 2023.

31. Learned counsel who appeared for the appellants Ranjeet Yadav, Dan Singh Yadav, Devendra Yadav and Amit Kumar Rai, Sri Rajrshi Gupta assisted by Sri Ashutosh Kumar Mishra made the following submissions:-

I. There was a delay in the lodging of the FIR and that was sufficient, he submitted, to come to the conclusion that the accused were falsely implicated in the case and that too after much deliberation. Learned counsel for the appellants stated that the incident took place on 21.8.2018 as per the FIR at 7:00PM. The FIR was lodged by the informant Neha Rai, the P.W.-1, the daughter of the deceased on 23.8.2018 at 13:29 hours (1:29PM). Thus the delay was to the tune of 42 and a half hours. The prosecution had tried to explain the delay by saying that the informant had 4 brothers who resided in different parts of the country and only after they had come back, the cremation was done and then the FIR was lodged. She had stated in her statement at page 36 of paper book that on 22.8.2018 two of her brothers had come back and thereafter on 23.8.2018, the other two brothers had also come back. They had thereafter done the cremation and then she had gone to the police station to lodge the FIR. The relevant portion of page 36 is being reproduced here as under:-

'तो मैंने बाहर रहने वाले भाइयों को सूचना दी तो दो भाई दिनांक 22.8.18 के रात्रि में आये तथा दो भाई दिनांक 23.8.18 के सुबह आये और पापा का अन्तिम संस्कार किये। पापा के अन्तिम संस्कार के बाद थाने पर दर0 देने गयी। मैं दर0 अपने हाथ से लिखकर दिनांक 23.8.18 को थाने पर ले गयी थी।'

Learned counsel for the appellants stated that when two of her brothers had come on 22.8.2018 then at least on 22.8.2018 the FIR could have been lodged. Only on 23.8.2018 when the cremation was also done then the written first information report was lodged for the first time in the police station.

Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that the P.W.-7 at page 99 had stated that on receiving the information about the incident, he had reached the place of incident. Immediately thereafter he had reached the house of the deceased wherein the family members, relatives and others were present. He has stated that yet no complaint regarding the incident was given by any of the family members. He had stated that he had tried to ask the complainant to lodge the FIR but she had stated that she was waiting for her brothers to come. Learned counsel for the appellant had taken the Court through the statement of the investigating Officer at page 99 and, therefore, the same is being reproduced here as under:-

'पहले मैं घटना स्थल पर गया था। घटना स्थल पर जाने के कितनी देर बाद मृतक के घर गया था याद नहीं है। जब मैं मृतक के घर पहुँचा तो वहाँ उनके घर के लोग थे रिश्तेदार थे गांव के लोग थे। जब मैं मृतक उमाशंकर के घर पहुँचा तो वहाँ उनके परिवार के लोगों ने कोई लिखित तहरीर घटना के सम्बन्ध में नहीं दिया था। मैंने उनके परिवार से लिखित तहरीर मांगा था। लेकिन तहरीर इसलिए नहीं दिया क्योंकि उनके घर के कुछ लोग बाहर थे। घर के लोग जो बाहर थे उनका इन्तजार कर रहे थे लेकिन इस सम्बन्ध में कुछ नहीं कहा कि रपट कब देंगे।'

Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that the P.W.-1 had stated in her testimony that she had made a call on number 100 and when the police had not reached, she had made a call to the police station and thereafter the SHO from the police station had come and had taken her father to the PHC Bankata and after that to the Deoria Hospital. This, learned counsel for the appellants states, amounts to virtually an admission that the first informant had till the death of her father not given any information regarding the commission of any offence against her father. The police official who had accompanied the father i.e. the SHO to the Hospital had also not revealed the names of the accused persons. With regard to this, the statement of P.W.-1 at page 36 again becomes important.

'मैं 100 नम्बर पर डायल की लेकिन पुलिस समय पर नहीं आयी तो थाने पर फोन की। फोन पर दरोगा जी आये तो पापा को पीएचसी बनकटा ले गये लेकिन वहाँ डाक्टर के न रहने के कारण देवरिया अस्पताल आते-2 देवरिया सदर अस्पताल के डाक्टर ने मेरे पापा को मृत घोषित कर दिया।'

Learned counsel for the appellants while again explaining as to how the accused were falsely implicated in the delayed FIR had drawn the attention of the Court to the page 40 of the paper book wherein he had brought to the notice of the court as to what story the first informant had come up with regard to the fact as to why she had delayed the lodging of the FIR. The statement of the first informant as was read out by the learned counsel for the appellants, the same is being reproduced here as under:-

'प्रश्नः' जब दरोगा जी अस्पताल पर थे तो वहीं पर घटना की लिखित सूचना क्यों नहीं दी?

उत्तर- क्योंकि मेरे घर पर कोई गार्जियन नहीं था मेरे गांव मुझे भी जान से मारने की धमकी दिये थे इसलिए मैंने तुरंत तहरीर दरोगाजी को नहीं दिया था।

दूसरे दिन भी मैंने लिखित सूचना थाने पर नहीं दिया था क्योंकि पोस्टमार्टम नहीं हुआ था। दरोगाजी ने कहा था कि पोस्टमार्टम रिपोर्ट लाओ तब एफ०आई०आर० दर्ज होगी।'

This very witness, learned counsel for the appellants stated that, when was asked as to why she had not taken the help of her uncle Ramesh who was also staying in the same house, she had stated that he was of unsound mind and that he had left the house at the time of the incident and returned after 26 and 27 days. With regard to this submission of the learned counsel for the appellants, the statement of P.W.-1 at pages 50 and 51 of the paper book becomes important and the same is being reproduced here as under :-

'S.P. साहब का नम्बर मुझे याद नहीं है। मेरे चाचा रमेश राय दिमाग से पागल है। घटना के दिन घटना स्थल पर नही पहुंचे देवरिया भी नही गये थे। उस दिन नही बताया था कि रमेश मेरे चाचा पागल है। इस पर साक्षी ने कहा कि बोलने कहा देते है। आप। आज सिखाने के बाद मै चाचा को पागल बता रही हूँ। घटना के दिन मेरे चाचा घर से भाग गये थे तब से आते है जाते है। घटना के दिन मेरे चाचा भागे थे उसके 26, 27 दिन बाद लौटे थे। ब्रह्म भोज मे थे। ब्रह्म भोज 12 दिन पर होता है। मेरे चाचा मेरे पिता के समय से ही पागल हैं। उनकी दवा बहुत हुई थी। डा० का पर्चा है या नही मेरे को नही मालुम। कहाँ के डा० की दवा हुई मै नही जानती। मुल्जिमान से मेरे चचा रमेश बात करते है। इसीलिए हम समझते है कि वह पागल है मुझे याद नही है कि जिस समय रिपोर्टर मेरा इंटरव्यू ले रहा था फोटो खींच रहा था उस समय मेरे चाचा मौजूद थे या नहीं। मुझे नही मालुम कि उस रिपोर्टिंग मे मेरा व दरोगा जी व मेरे चाचा का व अन्य लोगो का फोटो हो।'

With regard to the view of the P.W.-2 as to why the FIR was not lodged immediately after the incident, she had also given the story that she was waiting for her sons and her brother-in-law (devar) Ramesh who was of no use whatsoever.

Despite all this, the P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have admitted to the fact that Ramesh was an accused of a case of teasing in which the appellant Brahma was a witness against him. The P.W.-1 stated as follows:-

'हीरा लाल चौहान को जानती हूँ। हीरा लाल की पत्नी मनोरमा ने लड़की से छेड़खानी का मुकदमा मेरे चाचा रमेश राय पर लिखवाया है। मुझे याद नही है कि मेरे पिता स्व० उमाशंकर राय व मेरी माँ हरिकंती देवी ने मेरे चाचा की जमानत भी हो। मेरे पिता के पास स्कूटर व चार पहिया गाड़ी थी। यह सही है कि दूर जाना होता था तो चार पहिया से जाते थे छोटी दूर जाना होता था तो स्कूटर से जाते थे। मै हमेशा उनके साथ नही जाती थी कभी-2 जाती थी। स्कूटर पर या गाड़ी पर बैठ कर जाती थी। ब्रम्हा नाम का मुल्जिम मनोरमा द्वारा लिखाये गये मुकदमे मे मनोरमा के तरफ से गवाह है।'

and the P.W.-2 had page 54 as stated as follows:

'जिरह द्वारा अभि० अधि० देवेन्द्र यादव, दान यादव, ब्रम्हा, रणजीत व रोहित मेरे पति सीधा व्यक्ति थे और गांव के लोग डरते नहीं थे। रमेश राय मेरे देवर हैं। शादी रमेश राय की नहीं हुयी है। रमेश राय के विरूद्ध अभि० गण ने छेड़खानी का मुकदमा लिखवाया है। मनोरमा W/o हीरा लाल ने लिखावाया है। इस मुकदमें का अभि० ब्रम्हा उक्त छेड़खानी के मुकदमें का गवाह है। रमेश राय मेरे देवर हमार साथ उसी मकान मे रहते हैं जहाँ मैं रहती हूँ। उस मुकदमें में रमेश राय ने जमानत करवा ली है। उनके जमानतदार मैं व मेरे पति हैं। छेड़खानी का मुकदमा इस मुकदमें के पहले का है। जब लड़के ने आकर बताया कि मेरे पति को मार रहे है तो उस समय छः बज रहा था। जब से मेरे पति की हत्या हुयी और दरोगा जी से पूछ ताछ तक मैं घर पर ही रही। एक मुकदमें में ब्रम्हा के विरूद्ध लिखवाया था। अभि० देवेन्द्र अमित राय के साथ मिल कर धमकी देता था। अभि० देवेन्द्र से मेरी कोई दुश्मनी नहीं थी।'

Learned counsel for the appellants, therefore, stated that if Ramesh was having the sense to get involved in teasing etc. and he had to be got released on bail then definitely he was a person who was in his senses and could not be written off absolutely. He submits that at least he could have gone and got the FIR lodged. Thus, to say that there was no grown up person at the relevant point of time is again only an excuse which was being made by the P.W.- 1 and 2 and thus learned counsel for the appellants submitted that definitely only an excuse was being made for the delay in lodging of the FIR. He submits that the informant had no idea with regard to the fact as to who had killed her father and she was only trying to deliberate the issue with her brothers as to whether the persons who were responsible for getting the encroachment of her father removed from the gaon sabha land should be implicated in the case which as per the appellants counsel was only an accident.

Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that as per the judgment of the Supreme Court in Lalita Kumari vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2014 (2) SCC 1, as per paragraph no. 93 of the judgment, the lodging of the FIR at the earliest was essential as it firstly set into motion the criminal process and secondly if the FIR was lodged at the earliest then there is a minimum chance of embellishment. Since paragraph no. 93 of the judgment was relied upon by the counsel it is being reproduced here as under:-

‘93. The object sought to be achieved by registering the earliest information as FIR is inter alia twofold; one, that the criminal process is set into motion and is well documented from the very start; and second that the earliest information received in relation to the commission of a cognizable offence is recorded so that there cannot be any embellishment, etc. leater.’

Learned counsel for the appellants also relied upon this very judgment and referred to paragraph no. 97 of it and submitted the importance of lodging the FIR. The same is being reproduced herein as under:-

‘97. The Code contemplates two kinds of FIRs: the duly signed FIR under Section 154(1) is by the informant to the officer concerned at the police station. The second kind of FIR could be which is registered by the police itself on any information received or other than by way of an informant [Section 157(1)] and even this information has to be duly recorded and the copy should be sent to the Magistrate forthwith. The registration of FIR either on the basis of the information furnished by the informant under Section 154(1) of the Code or otherwise under Section 157(1) of the Code is obligatory. The obligation to register FIR has inherent advantages :

97.1. (a) It is the first step to ‘access to justice’ for a victim.

97.2. (b) It upholds the □rule of law□ inasmuch as the ordinary person brings forth the commission of a cognizable crime in the knowledge of the State.

97.3. (c) It also facilitates swift investigation and sometimes even prevention of the crime. In both cases, it only effectuates the regime of law..

97.4. (d) It leads to less manipulation in criminal cases and lessens incidents of 'antedated' FIR or deliberately delayed FIR.'

Regarding the paragraph no. 120.4 of the judgment, he stated that any police officer cannot avoid his duty from registering the FIR, if cognizable offence is disclosed. In fact, he submitted that if the FIR was not registered by the officials with regard to the offence then they were liable to be proceeded with .The paragraph 120.4 of the judgment of Lalita Kumar is being reproduced here as Under:-

'120.4. The plice officer cannot avoid his duty of registering offence if cognizable offence is disclosed. Action must be taken against erring officers who do not register the FIR if information received by him discloses a cognizable offence.

Learned counsel for the appellants relied upon the judgement of the Supreme Court Thulia Kali vs. State of Tamil Nadu reported in (1972) 3 SCC 393 and relied upon paragraph no. 12 of the judgment and submitted that the delay in lodging the FIR results in miscarriage of justice. Any after thought results is miscarriage of justice and thus, the delay should be properly explained. A delay of 42 and a half hours being only explained by the fact that the informant was waiting for her brothers appears to be absolutely unsatisfactorily.

Further learned counsel for the appellants relied upon the judgement of Dilawar Singh vs. State of Delhi reported in (2007) 12 SCC 641 and submitted that in absence of satisfactory reasonings for causing the delay in reporting the incident may prove to be fatal to the prosecution case. The delay in the lodging of the FIR by PW1 and the non- filing of the FIR by the police definitely also, he submitted, went to show that the police did not lodge the FIR as it always thought it was only an accident and not any offence committed by anyone.

II. Learned counsel for the appellant has very categorically from the record of the case pointed to certain contradictions in the statements of the eye-witnesses and has submitted that if those contradictions are seen then a doubt is created as to whether the P.W.-1 and 2 were at all there at the place of incident. While the P.W.-1 had stated that she had accompanied the deceased and was also present at the alleged time of assault her statements get questioned in the following manner. First of all, she gave an interview to a journalist, D.W-1, and stated that when the incident had take place, she had received the information from some persons while she was at her house. She had stated that though she had given the interview, the things stated therein were because she was very frightened at the relevant point of time. Learned counsel states that what threat was worrying her was never disclosed. However, he stated that it was an admission that she did give the interview.

The fact that the P.W.-1 and 2 were not there at the relevant place on the date when the incident had taken place also gets corroborated by the testimony of the P.W.-2 i.e. the mother of the P.W.-1 and wife of the deceased who had page 59 categorically stated that at the time when she had heard the incident both she and Neha were at the house. The relevant portion of her statement which was pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellant is at page 59 wherein she had stated:

'मै शोर सुनकर घर से बाहर निकली उसी समय कोई लड़का रोते हुये आया और कहा कि चाचा को लोग मार रहे हैं। जब मैं शोर सुनी तो मेरी लड़की नेहा और मैं घर पर थी।'

She had also stated at page 57 that initially the daughter had reached the place of incident and she thereafter had followed her. The relevant portion which learned counsel for the appellant pointed out at page 57 is being reproduced here as under:

'घटना स्थल पर पहले लड़की गयी थी। फिर मैं गयी थी। लाठी से मारना मैंने अपने आँख से देखी। मैं बराबर घर में रहती हूँ। बाहर कम जाती हूँ। मैंने बयान दिया है कि लोग घटना देख रहे थे लेकिन देवेन्द्र के डर के मारे कोई छुड़ाने नहीं आ रहा था। मैं बेहोश होने के कारण नही देखी थी कि घटना कौन 2 लोग देखे हैं।'

Thus the contradictions in the statements of P.W.- 1 and 2 were not only there to show that they were not stating the correct facts but they also went to show that they were not present at the place of incident when the alleged assault had taken place. The PW2 was a highly tutored witness, which broke down to state the truth which she was being cross-examined.

Learned counsel for the appellants relied upon the statement of P.W.- 1 and stated that she had stated that her house from the place of incident was 100 to 200 meters away (जहा मार् हो रही थी वहा से मेरा घर, 100 से 200 मीटर इस दुरी पर है).

P.W.-2, however, had stated that the distance between the place of incident and her house was 200 to 500 yards. Again P.W. -2 at page 61 had stated something which neither the P.W.-1 nor the P.W.-2 had stated at the time of getting there statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. PW.-2 stated for the first time stated that she got to know about the incident from one Anish, the relevant portion at pages 61 and 62 of the paper book is being reproduced hereas under:-

'अनीस पुत्र परमानन्द ने जब मुझे बताया कि चाचा को मार दिये हैं, उस समय मैं अनीस पहचानती थी क्योकि वह मेरी पट्टीदारी का है। जब अनीस ने मुझे बताया तो उस समय दिन नही हुआ था, 15 मिनट दिन डूबने में बाकी था। अनीस के बताने के बाद मैं मौके पर हिम्मत बाँधकर गयी थी। अपने घर से मौके पर मैं अकेले गयी थी, मेरे साथ और कोई नही गया था। अनीस ने मुझे मेरे घर आकर घटना के बारे में बताया था, यह बात मैंने अपनी लड़की नेहा से भी नही बताया था। अनीस का नाम मैंने अपने लड़को को बताया था और किसी को नहीं बताया था। मैंने सभी लड़को को बताया था। अनीस ने घटना के बारे में मुझे बताया था, यह बात मैंने दरोगा जी को नही बतायी थी।'

Learned counsel for the appellants stated that Anish was never examined by the prosecution. Still further to prove that P.W.1 and P.W. 2 were not present at the relevant place at the time of occurrence and their statements were filled with contradictions, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the statement of the PW2 was recorded by the Investigating Officer almost after 36 days of the incident and no plausible explanation was brought forth by the prosecution. This has been stated by the P.W. - 7 and also by the P.W.-2.

III. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that no independent eye-witness was brought forth by the prosecution P.W. -1 and 2. Both have stated that the incident had taken place in a busy street. At pages 42 and 43, the names of the shopkeepers whose shops were there at the place of incident were mentioned by the P.W.-1 but strangely no one came in the witness box to testify about the incident. This fact has also been metnioned by the P.W.-7 at page 102 of the paper book. The relevant portion of which is being reproduced here as under:-

'इस केस के बाबत चश्मदीद गवाह वादिनी मुकदमा व उनकी मां हरिकान्ती के अलावा अन्य किसी का नाम चश्म दीद साक्षी के रूप में नहीं है।'

IV. There are material contradictions in the medical evidence from the occular testimonies of the P.W. 1 and 2. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that there were in fact 12 injuries on the person of the deceased and they were all on non-vital parts and that too in the back portion of the body. The P.W.-1 had stated that the assault was from the front and in fact the deceased had tried to hold the lathi blows. From the post mortem report this much was clear that no assault was made from front. The injury no. 12 which is laceration in the head was also a doubtful injury and in fact the doctor at page 114 had gone to the extent of saying 'brain ka laceration motor vehicle accident se ana sambhav hai'

V. If the statement of the P.W.-1 and the statement of P.W.-3 is seen then also there is a vital variation in the statements of the two witnesses. In the FIR, the P.W.-1 had stated that the father and the daughter had gone with some Prasad of Bhaijnath Dham at around 6:00PM to the house of Jai Prakash Tiwari and thereafter the father and the daughter were coming back to their house and then the incident had occurred whereas the P.W.-3, Jai Prakash Tiwari, had stated in his testimony before the Court that he was not a relative of Uma Shanker but he had met him because his daugther Vineeta and the daughter of the deceased Neha were friend and, therefore, he had known Uma Shanker Rai. He had met Uma Shanker Rai, the last time around 1 week before the incident had taken place, and thereafter, he had seen the dead body of the deceased at the time of panchayatnama on 22.8.2018. He very categorically stated that in between he had never met the deceased.

Learned counsel for the appellants, therefore, states that the story as was brought forth by the P.W.-1 with regard to her going to Jai Prakash Tiwari's house with her father becomes falsified.

Learned counsel for the appellants further has submitted that in the FIR itself the P.W.1 had stated that there was some dispute between the accused and the deceased and, therefore, her father was done to death. From the various statements of the witnesses, learned counsel for the appellants has demonstrated before the court that it was the deceased who had made illegal encroachments over certain gaon sabha land and since the accused side had moved applications for the removal of the encraochment there could not have been any reason for the accused to kill the deceased. In fact, since the deceased was pushed out of the encroachments on the complaint of the accused persons there was a possibility that P.W.-1, because her father had been dragged into a litigation where he had lost, had implicated the accused persons falsely.

VI. Learned counsel for the appellants states that while motive is a double edged weapon where murder could take place because of a motive, the very same motive could be used to implicate the accused falsely. Learned counsel for the appellants while disclosing the motive aspect has further stated that even though the prosecution witness had presented the accused as notorious people having local power/clout/terror in the area but no evidence in this regard had been brought forth.

Learned counsel for the appellants states that the P.W.-1 had categorically stated that her father was a BJP leader and he, therefore, submits that if he was politically strong then definitely some evidence ought to have been brought forth to indicate as to whether the accused were notorious people.

VII. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the demand made by the P.W.-1 with regard to the interview of the journalist cannot be lightly brushed aside. In the interview she had stated that she was at her house and someone had informed her about the incident having taken place and upon reaching there she had found Surendra, Maqsudan, Arun Kumar and Subhas assaulting her father. These persons whose names were taken in the interview were not mentioned in the FIR. In this regard, learned counsel for the appellants states that as per Section 58 of the Evidence Act such facts which are admitted need not to be proved. Since he relied upon Section 58 of the Evidence Act, the same is being reproduced here as under:-

58. Facts admitted need not be proved.

No fact need be proved in any proceeding which the parties thereto or their agents agree to admit at the hearing, or which, before the hearing, they agree to admit by any writing under their hands, or which by any rule or pleading in force at the time they are deemed to have admitted by their pleadings:Provided that the Court may, in its discretion, require the facts admitted to be proved otherwise than by such admissions.

Learned counsel, therefore, stated that if the factum of interview had been admitted then what was stated in the interview ought to be taken into consideration while deciding the case.

VIII. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the investigation was made in the most faulty manner and any lapse which was there in the investigation would go to benefit the accused. He states that if the panchayatnama is seen and the statement of P.W.4 S.I. Awadhesh Yadav, is seen then it would be evident that in the panchayatnama there were various interpolations which had not been explained.

Even in the panchayatnama, such opinions had been given so as to subsequently treat the incident as murder. Learned counsel for the appellants further states that even the preparation of the site map was done in a most shoddy manner. He relied upon Krishnedowda & Ors; Nanje Gowda and another vs. State of Karnataka by Arkaloud Police, reported in 2017 AIR SC 1657 and submitted that if there were contradictions bewteen the medical and occular evidence coupled with severe contradictions in the oral evidence, then clearly latches in investigation would benefit the case of the accused.

IX. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that the recoveries as were made were erronously made. Before the recoveries, no disclosure statements were prepared and nothing as was essential as per the judgement of Ramanand @ Nandlal Bharti vs. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in AIR 2022 SC 5273 and Subramanya vs. State of Karnataka reported in AIR 2022 SC 5110 was done.

X. Still further learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that if there was acquittal of two accused who were made accused on the very same evidence on the basis of which other accused were being convicted then it goes to establish that the prosecution had come up with a concocted case. In this regard, learned counsel for the appellants relied upon Yogarani Versus State by the Inspector of Police reported in 2024 AIR SC 4641. Learned counsel for the appellants has specifically relied upon paragrpah no. 10 of the judgement and the same is being reproduced here as under

'10. The Court cannot convict one accused and acquit the other when there is similar or identical evidence pitted against two accused persons. In the case of Javed Shaukat Ali Qureshi v. State of Gujarat reported in 2023 INSC 829, this court has held that:

'15. When there is similar or identical evidence of eyewitnesses against two accused by ascribing them the same or similar role, the Court cannot convict one accused and acquit the other. In such a case, the cases of both the accused will be governed by the principle of parity. This principle means that the Criminal Court should decide like cases alike, and in such cases, the Court cannot make a distinction between the two accused, which will amount to discrimination.'

In the case on hand, allegations against the appellant being the same as made against Accused No. 3 & 4, the Courts below could not have convicted the Appellant while acquitting the other two.'

He also relied upon the judgement of Supreme Court in Javed Shaukat Ali Qureshi vs State of Gujarat reported in 2023 (9) SCC 164 and relied upon 15 of this judgement it is being reproduced here as under :.

'15. When there is similar or identical evidence of eyewitnesses against two accused by ascribing them the same or similar role, the court cannot convict one accused and acquit the other. In such a case, the cases of both the accused will be governed by the principle of parity. This principle means that the criminal court should decide like cases alike, and in such cases, the court cannot make a distinction between the two accused, which will amount to discrimination.'

32. From the side of the first informant Sri Sri Amrendra Pratap Singh, Sri Girish Kumar Singh and Sri Ashutosh Ganguli were heard. The learned AGA Sri Amit Sinha were heard for the State. They have submitted, that not always delay in FIR would be fatal for the prosecution. They submitted, relying upon the judgment of Apren Joseph @ Current Kunjukunju & ors vs. State of Kerala reported in 1973 (3) SCC 114 that there are various circumstances under which the delay can happen. So far as the inconsistency in the testimony of witnesses are concerned, learned counsel for the first informant relied upon the judgment in CRLA No. 1587 of 2002 (Birbal nath vs State of Rajasthan and ors.) which was decided along with CRLA No. 1588 of 2002. Learned counsel for the first informant has submitted that evidence as is there on record had to be looked into with sagacity. In this, regard, he relied upon paragraphs no. 20, 21 and 22 of the judgment and therefore they are being reproduced here as under :

'20. The contradictions in the two statements may or may not be sufficient to discredit a witness. Section 145 read with Section 155 of the Evidence Act, have to be carefully applied in a given case. One cannot lose sight of the fact that PW 2 Rami is an injured eyewitness, and being the wife of the deceased her presence in their agricultural field on the fateful day is natural. Her statement in her examination-in-chief gives detail of the incident and the precise role assigned to each of the assailants. This witness was put to a lengthy cross-examination by the defence. Some discrepancies invariably occur in such cases when we take into account the fact that this witness is a woman who resides in a village and is the wife of a farmer who tills his land and raises crops by his own hands. In other words, they are not big farmers. The rural setting, the degree of articulation of such a witness in a court of law are relevant considerations while evaluating the credibility of such a witness. Moreover, the lengthy cross-examination of a witness may invariably result in contradictions. But these contradictions are not always sufficient to discredit a witness. In Rammi v. State of M.P. [Rammi v. State of M.P., (1999) 8 SCC 649 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 26] , this Court had held as under:

'24. When an eyewitness is examined at length it is quite possible for him to make some discrepancies. No true witness can possibly escape from making some discrepant details. Perhaps an untrue witness who is well tutored can successfully make his testimony totally non-discrepant. But courts should bear in mind that it is only when discrepancies in the evidence of a witness are so incompatible with the credibility of his version that the court is justified in jettisoning his evidence. But too serious a view to be adopted on mere variations falling in the narration of an incident (either as between the evidence of two witnesses or as between two statements of the same witness) is an unrealistic approach for judicial scrutiny.'

In the same case, how far a contradiction in the two statements can be used to discredit a witness has also been discussed

'25. It is a common practice in trial courts to make out contradictions from the previous statement of a witness for confronting him during cross-examination. Merely because there is inconsistency in evidence it is not sufficient to impair the credit of the witness. No doubt Section 155 of the Evidence Act provides scope for impeaching the credit of a witness by proof of an inconsistent former statement. But a reading of the section would indicate that all inconsistent statements are not sufficient to impeach the credit of the witness. The material portion of the section is extracted below:

'155. Impeaching credit of witness. 'The credit of a witness may be impeached in the following ways by the adverse party, or, with the consent of the court, by the party who calls him'

(1)-(2)

(3) by proof of former statements inconsistent with any part of his evidence which is liable to be contradicted;

26. A former statement though seemingly inconsistent with the evidence need not necessarily be sufficient to amount to contradiction. Only such of the inconsistent statement which is liable to be 'contradicted' would affect the credit of the witness. Section 145 of the Evidence Act also enables the cross-examiner to use any former statement of the witness, but it cautions that if it is intended to 'contradict' the witness the cross-examiner is enjoined to comply with the formality prescribed therein. Section 162 of the Code also permits the cross-examiner to use the previous statement of the witness (recorded under Section 161 of the Code) for the only limited purpose i.e. to 'contradict' the witness.

21. In Tahsildar Singh v. State of U.P. AIR 1959 SC 1012, it was held that to contradict a witness would mean to 'discredit' a witness. Therefore, unless and until the former statement of this witness is capable of 'discrediting' a witness, it would have little relevance. A mere variation in the two statements would not be enough to discredit a witness. This has been followed consistently by this Court in its later judgment, including Rammi (Supra) . Moreover, in this case the High Court lost sight of other more relevant factors such as the witness being an injured eyewitness.

22. The purpose of the cross-examination of a witness in terms of Sections 145 and 155 of the Evidence Act is to bring contradictions in the two statements of the witness, in the case at hand, one given to police under Section 161CrPC, and the other given before the court. Even assuming for the sake of argument that there is a difference in the two statements of PW 2 as she evidently does not disclose in her examination-in-chief that Jethnath was also working in the adjacent field and there was altercation between the two, this may discredit the witness only so far as the beginning of the incident; how it started. The fact that the incident happened is not in doubt. The offenders were the accused is also not in doubt. There is no doubt that the incident took place, which resulted in one death and grievous injuries to another. It may not have happened exactly as narrated by PW 2, yet for this discrepancy the entire testimony of PW 2 cannot be discarded.

33. He also relied upon the judgments of the Supreme Court wherein it was held that general denials in the statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. do not affect the prosecution. So far as the issue of electronic evidence is concerned, he relied upon the judgement Anvar P.V vs P.K. basheer and Ors. reported in 2014 (10) SCC 473 and Arjun Panditrao Khotkar vs Kailash Kushanrao Gorantyal reported in AIR 2020 SC 4908 and submitted that in the absence of the Section 65(B) certificate as was required to be issued in the Evidence Act, electronic evidence cannot be considered as admissible in a court of law.

34. Learned counsel for the first informant further has submitted that if the delay of 42 hours was there then there was a definite reason for that. The P.W.-1 was a common girl not having much experience in life and she was also afraid of her surrounding where she lived. She would definitely be afraid of lodging FIR against the persons who were absolutely known to her and were living around her house and, thus, the delay could not be in any manner prejudicial to the case of the prosecution. Learned counsel for the first informant further submitted that if there were minor contradictions in the statements of P.W.- 1 and 2 then the case could not be termed as doubtful. They were ladies who had little knowledge as to what had to be stated at what time and, therefore, if they had made certain statements which were different from each others statements and also if they were different from their statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. then it could not be said that the whole case of the prosecution would be brushed aside. Learned counsel for the informant has submitted that it was a broad day light murder seen by the P.W. 1 and 2 and, therefore, if other witnesses of the area did not appear then it mattered little.

35. So far as the motive part is concerned, learned counsel for the first informant has submitted that definitely the accused were aggrieved by the litigation between the parties and, therefore, the deceased who was a brave man had ultimately lose his life at the hands of the accused.

36. Learned counsel for the first informant further stated that two accused, namely, Brahma Yadav and Rohit Yadav had wrongly been acquitted. In this regard, a Criminal Appeal U/s 372 No. 439 of 2023 had been filed. He submitted that on the same evidence which had led the trial court to convict Ranjeet Yadav, Devendra Yadav, Dan Singh Yadav and Amit Kumar Rai, the two accused Brahma Yadav and Rohit Yadav could not have been acquitted.

37. Having heard the learned counsel for the appellants, learned counsel for the first informant and the learned AGA, we find that the incident occurred on 21.8.2018 at 19:00 hours as has been alleged in the FIR. Definitely there was a delay of 42 and a half hours. This delay the prosecution has tried to explain through the statements of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2. The P.W.-1 as has been noted above had stated that she had accompanied her father and was present at the time of the incident. When the incident occurred, she rung up the number □100□ to call the PVR. When there was no response from the PVR, she rung up to the police station and the SHO of the police station came. He took the injured along with the first informant to the primary health centre where they did not find any doctor and therefore, they went to the hospital at Deoria where the injured was declared dead. We also find that the first informant had on the very same day informed her 4 brothers who were staying in far off towns of the country and they took 24 and 48 hours respectively to come to Deoria. The P.W.-1 the first informant had also stated that the uncle of hers, Ramesh, was of an unsound mind and, therefore, she could not depend upon his advice. The P.W. 1 further shifted the burden over to the police and had stated that it had said that when she would get the post mortem report only then the FIR would be lodged.

38. We have considered the rival arguments of the learned counsel for the appellants and the learned counsel for the first informant who had submitted that delays did occur at times, specially when ladies are at home. However, upon the analysis of the entire incident which had taken place, we find that the delay was unexplained. The P.W. -1 had stated that upon the incident having been taken place, the police was called and the doctors were contacted. One fails to understand that even if the first informant was hesitant in getting the FIR lodged, at least the police personnel who had accompanied the injured and who had subsequently died should have at least lodged the FIR. We find substance in the submission made by the learned counsel for the appellants that, in fact, the police had been throughout of the view that it was an accidental death and therefore in all probability the FIR for the commission of murder i.e. offence under Section 302 was not being lodged. It is another matter that since a person had died the police had the responsibility to lodge the FIR. What inputs the brothers who had come from outside could give also is not known to anyone. If the P.W.-1 was an eye-witness and had seen everything, especially the assault then she should have got the matter reported at the earliest. This not having been done, we are definitely of the view that the delay would become prejudicial to the case and we are of the view that the names which were brought in the FIR were a result of an afterthought. Further, we find that P.W.-1 had stated that she had come to the house of Jai Prakash Tiwari along with her father to give prasad. Thereafter she had gone along with her father and had reached the place of incident and had actually seen her father being getting beaten. The story seems improbable. If the daughter had been there and if she had tried to resist the assault, then she would have also got injured. Not only this, from the post portem report, we find that all the injuries were on the back side of the deceased. These injuries could have very much been there if the body of the father was dragged because of some accident. The eye-witness says that she had seen the assailants coming from the front and her father was trying to hold back the assailants but there is no injury on the front portion of the body. Coupled with that, we find that even the doctor had opined that it could be an accidental death. Not only that the doctor had also opined that the timing as was given by the first informant appeared to be a different timing. Whether Jai Prakash Tiwari was the same Jai Prakash Tiwari who was there on the panchayatnama has not been clarified by the prosecution in the entire case. However, we find that P.W. 3 Jai Prakash Tiwari had stated that he had not met the deceased for quite some time. We would also like to comment on the working on the prosecution, specially the police, which had not lodged any FIR immediately after it came to know of the incident. If it had been a case of even an accident then we are definitely of the view that an FIR was a must.

39. The contradictions in the statements of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are also not such which could be ignored. P.W.-1 had throughout said that she had accompanied the father but P.W.-2 had in so many words stated that the daughter was throughout with her. This is again not a simple contradiction. Further, the P.W.-2, the widow of the deceased, had stated that she was informed by a boy of the name □Anish□ and Anish was never produced in the witnesses box and thus who was speaking the correct facts, remains a big mystery which went unsolved.

40. Also, the motive aspect seem to be absolutely weak. It was the father of the P.W.-1, who should have been the aggrieved by the acts of the accused and not vise versa. This compels us also to give a thought to the fact that false acquisition might have been there. And in the ultimate analysis we do find that it was a case of false implication.

41. Furthermore, even the recovery as per the judgments of the Supreme Court were faulty and the recoveries were also such which could not be relied upon. Also, they having been found in the open place no importance could be attached to them.

42. We are, however, definitely of the view that the recorded C.D. containing the interview which was brought before the court by the D.W.-1 could not be a substantial peace of evidence of which could be considered as admissible.

43. This we say because there was no certificate from the relevant authority under Section 65(B) of the Indian Evidence Act.

44. Be that as it may, we are of the view that some substance was there in the case of the defence when they came forth with the fact that the P.W.-1 had given an interview before some news agency. This we say because she had virtually admitted the interview. Whether there was any threat on the PW1 to give the interview was never clarified. No evidence was led with regard to the threat.

45. However, in the ultimate analysis after considering the entire evidence before us and the arguments made by the learned counsel for the appellants, we are of the view that the conviction was wrongly done by the judgement and order dated 10.8.2023 and, thus, the judgement and order dated 10.8.2023 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (E.C. Act), Court No. 4, Deoria, is set aside. The appellants, Devendra Yadav, Dan Singh Yadav, Ranjeet Yadav and Amit Kumar Rai are acquitted of all the charges. They be released forthwith, if they are not required in any other case.

46. Accordingly, the Criminal Appeal No. 9263 of 2023, Criminal Appeal No. 9255 of 2023, Criminal Appeal No. 9555 of 2023 and Criminal Appeal No. 9965 of 2023 are allowed.

47. So far as the Criminal Appeal U/s 372 Cr.P.C No. 439 of 2023 is concerned, we find that there is absolutely no evidence against the accused which could be used to convict them. We are of the view that the accused Rohit Yadav and Brahma Yadav were acquitted in a fair manner and, therefore, no interference in the appeal is required. All the reasons for which the Criminal Appeal No. 9263 of 2023, Criminal Appeal No. 9255 of 2023, Criminal Appeal No. 9555 of 2023 and Criminal Appeal No. 9965 of 2023 were allowed, are also the reasons for which this criminal appeal U/s 372 Cr.P.C. No. 439 of 2023 is being dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the allegations contained in the impugned First Information Report, arising out of disputes relating to allotment of commercial units, assured returns, execution of documents, and the alleged allotment of Shop No. D/GF-12 in the "IT Square" project, disclosed the essential ingredients of offences punishable under various ss. of IPC, or whether the controversy was essentially a civil/commercial dispute arising from contractual obligations, thereby warranting quashing of the FIR in exercise of the High Court's writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

Headnotes

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - ss. 406, 420, 467, 468, 469, 471 and 120-B - Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 - ss. 31, 71 - Cheating - Builder-buyer dispute - Allotment of commercial units - Assured returns - Non delivery of possession - Fabrication of allotted related documents - Arbitration clause - Quashing of FIR - Civil dispute given criminal colour - The petitioners instituted a bunch of writ petitions seeking quashing of First Information Report dated 03.10.2025, alleging offences under various provisions of IPC - The prosecution case originated from the complainant's booking of three commercial units in the "IT Square" project in 2008, coupled with an assurance of monthly returns - Owing to disputes regarding non-payment of assured returns, the complainant was allegedly offered an additional commercial unit, namely Shop No. D/GF-12, against adjustment of outstanding amount and made further payments - Subsequently, the complainant alleged that despite receiving the entire consideration, the accused failed to execute the sale deed and the purported Shop No. D/GF-12 did not exist in the sanctioned plan, thereby accusing the petitioners of cheating, forgery and criminal conspiracy - The petitioners contended that the project had undergone multiple changes in management, they were not in control during the relevant period of alleged transactions, the dispute arose purely out of contractual and commercial obligations concerning allotment, assured returns and execution of documents, and the criminal proceedings were initiated only to exert pressure in what was essentially a civil dispute.

Held: A bare perusal of allegations levelled in the FIR/complaint would demonstrate that the substratum of dispute pertains to alleged delay in completion of project, non-delivery of possession within the stipulated timeline, alleged deviation from representations made at the time of booking, demands pertaining to payments/installments, dispute qua map/site plan/non existence of allegedly sold unit, and grievances concerning performance of obligations arising out of Builder Buyer Agreement and the real estate project in question - Such disputes are intrinsically connected with the rights and obligations flowing from a real estate transaction and squarely fall within the regulatory framework contemplated under the RERA - Where the dominant nature of dispute is regulatory, contractual and compensatory, and the statute itself creates an efficacious forum for redressal of such grievances, criminal proceedings ought not to be permitted to become a tool for arm-twisting or exerting pressure in matters essentially falling within domain of civil and regulatory adjudication - Even if the allegations contained in FIRs are accepted at face value, the same primarily disclose civil and commercial disputes arising from real estate transactions, adjustment of assured returns and validity of allotment documents - The basic ingredients of offences u/ss. of IPC are not prima facie established against the petitioners - Accordingly, writ petitions allowed. Factual Matrix

1. All the aforesaid writ petitions arise out of the same factual background and challenge the same First Information Report (hereinafter 'FIR'), namely Case Crime No. 227/2025, registered on 03.10.2025 at Police Station - Knowledge Park, District Gautam Budh Nagar, under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 469, 471 and 120-B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860. Since the allegations levelled in the impugned FIR, the nature of the transactions involved, the parties against whom accusations have been levelled, and the legal issues raised in the petitions are substantially common and interconnected, all the petitions were heard together and are being decided by this common judgment.

2. The present batch of petitions has been filed by different accused persons/entities arrayed in the aforesaid FIR. Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 23655/2025 has been filed by the petitioner namely Sh. Arunpreet Singh Sahni, who has been described in the FIR as owner/director of the Solitarian Group and also connected with M/s Prasandi Infotech Park Private Limited as Additional Director. Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 23649/2025 has been instituted by the petitioners namely M/s Prasandi Infotech Park Private Limited (petitioner no.1) along with Sh. Rajkumar Sisodiya (petitioner no.2) himself. Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 25666/2025 has been filed by the petitioner namely Sh. Harjeet Singh Sahani, who has also been named as an accused in the impugned FIR and has been alleged to be associated with the affairs and management of the project in question. All the petitioners are named accused persons in the impugned FIR.

3. The background of the matter is that the FIR in question came to be lodged at the instance of respondent no. 4/informant/complainant Dr. Gurpreet Singh. The FIR alleges commission of offences by the petitioners and several other accused persons in relation to a commercial real estate project known as 'I.T. Square', situated at Plot No. 21, Knowledge Park-III, Greater Noida, Gautam Budh Nagar. The allegations broadly pertain to inducement, collection of money under an assured return scheme, non-delivery of possession of the allotted commercial unit, execution/non-execution of sale/sub-lease documents, alleged fabrication of allotment related documents and alleged cheating in relation to a unit stated to be Shop No. 12 situated at Tower-D, Ground Floor of the project.

4. The record further discloses a detailed chronology regarding the manner in which the project originally commenced (launched and operated by a Company namely 'Era'), the subsequent changes in ownership/management, and the eventual entry M/s Prasandi Infotech Park Private Limited and thereafter, the Solitarian Group, into the affairs of the project.

5. The record also shows that on 31.05.2015, in the midst of the aforesaid management structure, the alleged transaction relating to Shop No. D/GF-12 took place in the name of Prasandi. The petitioners have specifically pleaded that even at that stage, the affairs of the company were under the management of SREI Infrastructure Finance Limited/Bharat Nirman Fund and not under Solitarian.

6. The next major development reflected in the record concerns the incorporation and subsequent entry of Solitarian. It has been pleaded that Solitarian Buildinfra Private Limited was incorporated on 18.08.2015. The petitioners have further stated that Arunpreet Singh Sahni was associated with Solitarian and that Solitarian Group entered into the management structure of Prasandi only much later, namely around August, 2023.

7. According to the pleadings, after entering into the management in August, 2023, Solitarian allegedly executed a debt restructuring arrangement in March, 2024 and thereafter acquired 100% shareholding/control from Bharat Nirman Fund on 09.04.2024. The petitioners have also alleged that despite repayment of the restructured debt by September, 2024 and issuance of No Objection Certificates in November, 2024, several statutory records and company records were either not handed over properly or only partially transferred by Bharat Nirman Fund, thereby leaving several records untraceable.

8. The petitioners have thus attempted to portray a long and layered commercial history of the project spanning multiple entities and management transitions, namely:

(i) initial launch and development by Era Engineering Innovations/Era Landmarks Limited in 2008;

(ii) transfer/association of the project with Prasandi Infotech Park Private Limited;

(iii) takeover of shareholding and financial control by SREI Infrastructure Finance Limited/SREI Alternative Investment Trust/Bharat Nirman Fund pursuant to restructuring arrangements between 2014 and 2015; and thereafter

(iv) eventual entry and takeover of management by the Solitarian Group in the years 2023-2024.

9. It is in the backdrop of the aforesaid corporate and managerial transitions that the rival allegations have arisen between the complainant and the accused persons regarding the allotment, consideration, execution of documents and existence/non-existence of Shop No. 12 in the 'I.T. Square' project as well as the dispute regarding execution of the allotment letter of Shop No. 12.

10. As emerging from the FIR, the case is that on 31.03.2008, the complainant booked three commercial units/shops bearing Nos. 5, 6 and 7 situated at Tower-D, Ground Floor under a discounted cash down plan for a total sale consideration of Rs.1,17,76,050/-. The booking was allegedly made at the rate of Rs.3,510/- per square foot and, according to the informant, the entire amount stood paid. It is alleged that possession was promised to be delivered by 03.01.2009.

11. The FIR further alleges that under the Builder Buyer Agreement dated 31.03.2008, particularly Clause-C thereof, the complainant was assured monthly returns of Rs.1,99,901/- for a period of 36 months after deduction of TDS. According to the informant, only partial assured returns were paid and thereafter payment of assured returns amounting to approximately Rs.35,46,900/- was discontinued. The complainant alleged that when he approached the office of the company, he was informed that the project, though proposed to be completed in the year 2009, was still incomplete and consequently assured returns were not being released.

12. The FIR then narrates that after the complainant protested and raised objections regarding non-payment and delay in possession, certain representatives/directors including one Sh. Atul Bhalla and Sh. Ganesh Prasad Badri allegedly proposed allotment of another commercial unit namely Shop No. 12 admeasuring approximately 948 sq. ft. situated at Tower-D, Ground Floor, in lieu of the assured return component. It is alleged that the value of Shop No. 12 was fixed at Rs.44,55,600/- and payments towards the said shop were made by the complainant through various cheques issued between 12.05.2015 and 30.10.2015. The FIR specifically mentions cheque numbers and amounts allegedly paid by the complainant.

13. It is further alleged that on 13.05.2015, allotment letter, payment plan and site plan in relation to Shop No. 12 were handed over to the informant and, on the same date, five cheques of Rs.1,50,000/- each and one cheque of Rs.1,58,700/- were taken from him towards alleged brick and glass work. The FIR specifically alleges that cheque bearing No. 179010 amounting to Rs.1,58,700/- was deposited and encashed without the consent of the complainant.

14. According to the FIR, e-mails dated 05.09.2016 and 09.09.2016 were exchanged with one Sh. Sumit Sahu wherein assurances were allegedly extended that construction/brick work relating to Shop No. 12 would soon be completed and documents would thereafter be furnished. The complainant has alleged that despite passage of time, construction remained incomplete and when he inspected the site, he allegedly found that instead of the promised shop, a coffee shop was functioning at the site.

15. The FIR further alleges that in the meantime the Solitarian Group had taken over the project and that Sh. Arunpreet Singh Sahni, who is stated to be owner/director of the Solitarian Group, was also associated with the petitioners company. It is alleged that in April, 2022 the complainant was informed that the area of Shop No. 12 had increased to approximately 975 sq. ft.

and that additional amount would therefore be payable. Thereafter, on 16.04.2022, an allotment letter/document was allegedly issued mentioning enhanced area, adjustment of assured returns and other financial calculations.

16. The FIR further records that the revised valuation of the shop was stated to be Rs.48,48,041/-, out of which pending assured returns amounting to Rs.35,46,900/- and the cheque amount of Rs.1,58,700/- were adjusted, leaving a balance amount of Rs.11,42,441/-. According to the FIR, cheque bearing No. 445107 amounting to Rs.11,42,441/- was subsequently handed over to Sh. Rajkumar Sisodiya and the amount was debited from the account of the informant on 06.05.2022.

17. The complainant has also alleged that on 08.04.2022, an e-mail was sent by the Solitarian Group stating that Shop No. 12 was being sold by the Solitarian Group and that money was being received by them. It is then alleged that though sub-lease deeds in respect of Shop Nos. 5, 6 and 7 were executed in the year 2022, the sale/sub-lease deed relating to Shop No. 12 was not executed despite repeated requests. The complainant alleges that one Sh. Naresh Kumar Khetan informed him that a certain balance amount was still outstanding and therefore execution of sale deed could not be undertaken.

18. The FIR also alleges that despite receiving a total amount of Rs.48,48,041/-, the accused persons failed to execute the sale deed in respect of Shop No. 12. It is further alleged that after the death of the complainant□s father, when the complainant again visited India in March, 2025 for execution of the sale deed, one Ms. Anamika Dogra, General Manager of the Solitarian Group, demanded a further amount of Rs.23,35,809/- towards registration and other alleged charges. Reference is also made to an e-mail dated 22.04.2025 demanding additional amounts towards holding charges, delayed payment charges and CAM charges.

19. The FIR further states that when the complainant approached Greater Noida Authority to verify the status of the unit, he allegedly came to know that no sanctioned plan existed in relation to Shop No. 12 and that the location allegedly shown as Shop No. 12 was in fact a common passage/common area situated at the Ground Floor. It is further alleged that the said unit existed only on paper and that the accused persons had cheated the informant by selling a non-existent unit.

20. On the basis of the aforesaid allegations, the impugned FIR dated 03.10.2025 came to be registered against the present petitioners and several other named persons including Sh. Atul Bhalla, Sh. Ganesh Prasad Badri, Sh. Naresh Kumar Khetan, Sh. Sumit Sahu, Sh. Raj Kumar Sisodiya, Sh. Harjeet Singh Sahani, Sh. Arunpreet Singh Sahni, representatives of Solitarian Group and others.

21. The petitioners, however, have disputed the allegations in entirety and have asserted that the dispute is essentially civil/commercial in nature arising out of real estate transactions and contractual obligations.

22. The pleadings further disclose that M/s Prasandi Infotech Park Private Limited had availed financial assistance from SREI entities and, upon alleged financial defaults, the management and shareholding structure underwent substantial changes over a period of time. It has been stated that SREI Infrastructure Finance Limited and Bharat Nirman Fund (BNF) came to acquire and control the management of the company and that the Solitarian Group entered into the management only in or around August, 2023 pursuant to restructuring arrangements.

23. The petitioners have specifically pleaded that several of the acts alleged in the FIR pertain to periods when the present petitioners were not in control of the company or the project. It has further been pleaded that the allotment letter dated 16.04.2022 relied upon by the complainant was unsigned and unenforceable and did not bear signatures of authorized representatives. The petitioners have also asserted that Sh. Harjeet Singh Sahani had resigned from the directorship of Solitarian prior to registration of the FIR and that he was neither employee, director nor shareholder at the relevant time. The petitioners have relied upon various documents including e-mails, allotment documents, MCA records, D-Mat holdings, reminders, sub-lease deeds among other documents in support of their case.

24. The aforesaid facts, emerging from the pleadings and documents filed in the connected petitions, constitute the broad factual matrix giving rise to the present batch of matters.

Submissions on behalf of the petitioners

25. The learned counsel appearing for the petitioners in all the connected petitions submitted that since all the present petitions arise out of the same factual matrix and challenge the same FIR, the petitions deserve to be heard and decided together by way of a common judgment. It was submitted that the allegations levelled in the impugned F.I.R. are substantially identical in nature and are directed against different persons connected with the management and affairs of the company at different points of time.

26. It was argued on behalf of the petitioners in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 23649/2025, namely M/s Prasandi Infotech Park Private Limited through its authorized representative and petitioner no.2, that petitioner no.1 company was incorporated on 17.10.2001 under the provisions of the Companies Act, 1956 and was the lessee of Plot No. 21, Knowledge Park-III, Greater Noida by virtue of lease deed dated 20.03.2002. It was submitted that in the year 2008, ERA Landmarks Ltd., subsequently known as ADEL Landmarks Ltd., launched a commercial project under the name and style of ‘IT Square’ over the said leased property and under the understanding between the parties, ERA/ADEL had absolute development and marketing rights over the project.

27. The petitioners further submitted that respondent no.4/complainant had originally booked three commercial units bearing Nos. D/GF-05, D/GF-06 and D/GF-07 in the aforesaid project on 31.03.2008 at discounted rates and the complainant had been assured returns in respect of the said units. It was argued that possession of the said units had already been offered to the complainant on 20.02.2012 and reminder letters dated 08.06.2012 were also issued requesting the complainant to clear outstanding dues and complete necessary formalities. Learned counsel submitted that despite the offer of possession, the complainant got the sub-lease deeds executed only on 25.11.2022 after more than ten years.

28. It was next contended that during the years 2006-07 and thereafter till 2013-14, ERA/ADEL became the majority and subsequently the sole shareholder of petitioner no.1 company. The learned counsel referred to annual returns and shareholding documents filed along with the supplementary affidavits to contend that the entire control, management and day-to-day affairs of petitioner no.1 company were being managed by ERA/ADEL and thereafter by SREI Infrastructure Finance Limited (SIFL) and Bharat Nirman Fund (BNF). It was submitted that petitioner no.1 company had availed financial assistance from SREI Infrastructure Finance Limited to the extent of approximately Rs.300 crores and on account of financial restructuring, the entire shareholding together with management rights stood transferred to SREI/BNF pursuant to Share Purchase Agreement dated 30.12.2014.

29. Learned counsel for the petitioners further argued that from the year 2015 till March, 2024, the entire management, control and operational affairs of petitioner no.1 company remained with SREI Infrastructure Finance Limited and Bharat Nirman Fund and thereafter Solitarian Group entered into the management of the company in August, 2023 and subsequently acquired 100% shareholding on 09.04.2024 pursuant to restructuring arrangements. It was thus submitted that the petitioners against whom criminal liability has now been fastened were not in control of the affairs of the company during the relevant period when the alleged transactions took place or when the alleged documents were executed.

30. It was specifically submitted on behalf of petitioner no.1 in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 25666/2025, namely Sh. Harjeet Singh Sahani, who has been arrayed as accused in the impugned F.I.R., that he had already resigned from the Directorship/management of Solitarian on 30.06.2025, much prior to lodging of the impugned F.I.R. dated 03.10.2025. Learned counsel submitted that the only allegation against the said petitioner is that he, along with two other persons, had informed respondent no.4/complainant regarding possession related aspects and such allegation, even if accepted on its face value, does not disclose commission of offences punishable under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 469, 471 or 120-B of the IPC.

31. Learned counsel appearing for petitioner Sh. Arjunpreet Singh Sahani in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 23655/2025 submitted that the said petitioner has falsely been implicated merely because he was associated with the Solitarian Group at a later stage. It was argued that the petitioner had no role whatsoever in the original allotment of units in favour of respondent no.4/complainant in the year 2008, nor was he connected with the alleged representations made at the time of booking of the units. It was submitted that the entire dispute pertains to commercial transactions arising out of allotment of commercial units in a real estate project and no element of criminality is made out against the said petitioner.

32. The petitioners jointly contended that the allegations contained in the impugned F.I.R. essentially arise out of contractual and commercial obligations between the parties concerning allotment, possession, assured returns and execution of sub-lease deeds and the same at best constitute a civil dispute for which appropriate civil remedies are available. Learned counsel submitted that respondent no.4/complainant had accepted possession and had also entered into sub-lease deeds in respect of the allotted units, thereby acknowledging the subsisting contractual relationship between the parties. It was argued that the dispute relating to alleged non-payment of assured returns, adjustment of dues, possession and execution of documents cannot be converted into a criminal prosecution merely to exert pressure upon the petitioners.

33. It was further argued that the allegations of forgery and fabrication are wholly vague, bald and unsupported by any material particulars. Learned counsel submitted that even according to the petitioners, the alleged allotment letter/document dated 16.04.2022 relied upon by the complainant does not bear signatures of the petitioners and therefore, the same cannot legally be attributed to them. It was submitted that even assuming such a document exists, the same was allegedly issued during the period when the affairs of the company were under the management and control of SIFL/BNF and not under the petitioners. Hence, ingredients of offences under Sections 467, 468, 469 and 471 of the IPC are not made out against the present petitioners.

34. The learned counsel further submitted that the impugned F.I.R. suffers from gross and unexplained delay. It was argued that the transactions in question pertain to the period commencing from the year 2008, possession had admittedly been offered in the year 2012 and various communications had been exchanged between the parties over the years, yet the impugned F.I.R. came to be lodged only on 03.10.2025 after an inordinate lapse of time. It was contended that such abnormal delay clearly demonstrates that the criminal proceedings have been initiated with ulterior motives and only as a pressure tactic in relation to an old commercial dispute.

35. It was also submitted that respondent no.4/complainant had throughout remained aware of the status of the project, the management changes and the possession related communications. The petitioners referred to various reminder letters, e-mails and allotment related documents annexed with the writ petitions and supplementary affidavits to contend that there had been continuous interaction between the parties and therefore the allegations of cheating from inception are inherently improbable.

36. Learned counsel for the petitioners further argued that essential ingredients of the offence under Section 420 IPC are completely absent inasmuch as there was no dishonest intention at the inception of the transaction. It was submitted that the project was in fact developed, units were allotted, possession was offered and sub-lease deeds were eventually executed, which itself demonstrates that the dispute relates to performance of contractual obligations and not to any fraudulent inducement from the very beginning. It was argued that mere breach of contractual terms or non-fulfilment of commercial expectations cannot give rise to criminal prosecution in absence of fraudulent or dishonest intention at inception.

37. It was next contended that no entrustment of property in the manner contemplated under Section 405 IPC has been pleaded or established and therefore offence under Section 406 IPC is also not attracted. Learned counsel submitted that the monies paid by respondent no.4/complainant were paid pursuant to contractual arrangements under commercial allotment transactions and the same cannot be treated as entrustment for the purposes of criminal breach of trust.

38. The petitioners also argued that the allegations contained in the impugned F.I.R. are unsubstantiated and there is no specific role attributed individually to each of the accused persons. It was submitted that different petitioners were connected with the company at different stages and periods, however the complainant has mechanically implicated all of them without disclosing any specific overt act attributable to each accused. It was argued that such sweeping allegations without distinct particulars are legally insufficient to sustain criminal prosecution.

39. Learned counsel further submitted that the present proceedings are manifestly attended with mala fide and have been instituted maliciously with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance and coercing the petitioners in relation to a long-standing commercial dispute. It was argued that the criminal process is being misused as a tool for recovery and settlement of monetary claims arising out of contractual transactions.

40. It was also specifically submitted on behalf of petitioner no.2 in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 23649/2025 that Sh. Rajkumar Sisodia had been falsely implicated despite not being concerned with the original transaction of 2008 and despite the fact that the relevant affairs of the company were being managed by different entities over different periods. Similarly, on behalf of petitioner Sh. Arjunpreet Singh Sahani in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 23655/2025 and petitioner Sh. Harjeet Singh Sahani in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 25666/2025, it was submitted that they have been implicated merely because of their subsequent association with Solitarian Group and no material has been brought on record to demonstrate their involvement in the original inducement or execution of the alleged forged documents.

41. The petitioners have further submitted that the entire controversy, even as per the own case of the informants, substantially pertains to contractual and allotment disputes arising out of commercial agreements executed between the parties and therefore the matter is fundamentally civil and arbitrable in nature. It has specifically been argued that the agreement dated 16.04.2022 and other agreements pertaining to any of the allotment, relied upon by the informant itself, contains an arbitration clause at ‘Clause 7 of Heading X’ of the allotments letters, thereby, governing disputes inter se the parties. The petitioners have thus contended that once the parties consciously agreed to a contractual dispute resolution mechanism, invocation of criminal machinery for enforcement of alleged contractual obligations is wholly impermissible. It has accordingly been urged that the FIRs are nothing but an attempt to convert a commercial dispute into a criminal prosecution for exerting pressure upon the petitioners.

42. The petitioners have further argued that the principal allotments originally made in favour of respondent no.4/complainant were with respect to three commercial units namely D/GF-05, D/GF-06 and D/GF-07 situated at Tower-D, Ground Floor in the ‘IT Square’ project and not with respect to any fourth unit. It has been categorically argued that the aforesaid three units were booked on 31.03.2008 under a discounted cash down plan for a total consideration of Rs.1,17,76,050/-. According to the petitioners, possession of these three units had already been offered way back on 20.02.2012 and eventually sub-lease deeds in respect thereof were executed on 25.11.2022. It is thus contended that insofar as the original three units are concerned, the contractual relationship substantially stood concluded and therefore no criminal offence can be said to arise therefrom.

43. The petitioners have emphasized that the real dispute now sought to be projected in the FIR substantially revolves around the so-called ‘fourth unit’ allegedly allotted to respondent no.4/complainant against adjustment of assured returns. According to the petitioners, since respondent no.4/complainant was demanding adjustment towards alleged assured returns, petitioner no.1 company proposed allotment of an additional commercial unit in lieu thereof. Consequently, vide allotment letter dated 13.05.2015, respondent no.4 was allegedly allotted one additional unit bearing Shop No.12 in Tower-D having an area of 948 sq. ft. in the subject project. It has been submitted that the total sale consideration reflected therein was Rs.44,55,600/-, out of which adjustment of Rs.35,46,900/- towards alleged assured returns was proposed and the remaining amount was payable through cheques.

44. The petitioners have thus contended that the FIR itself demonstrates that the original three allotted units were delivered/offered possession long back and the entire surviving controversy is essentially confined to the disputed fourth alleged unit, whose very allotment, execution, validity, location and contractual status are seriously disputed by the parties. According to the petitioners, such issues can only be adjudicated upon by a competent civil forum or arbitral tribunal after appreciation of documentary evidence and cannot constitute the basis for criminal prosecution under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120-B IPC.

45. On the aforesaid grounds, learned counsel for all the petitioners prayed that the impugned first information report dated 03.10.2025 registered as Case Crime No. 0227 of 2025 under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 469, 471 and 120-B IPC, Police Station Knowledge Park, District Gautam Budh Nagar, together with all consequential proceedings, be quashed by this Court in exercise of powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, as continuation of the criminal proceedings would amount to abuse of process of law.

Submissions on behalf of the respondents

46. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for the State as well as respondent no.4/complainant have vehemently opposed the writ petitions and have submitted that the impugned FIRs disclose commission of serious cognizable offences involving cheating, forgery, criminal breach of trust, fabrication of documents and conspiracy on the part of the petitioners and other accused persons. It has been contended that the allegations cannot be brushed aside merely by describing the dispute as ‘civil’ or ‘commercial’ in nature, particularly when the accusations disclose dishonest intention, inducement, false representations and preparation of forged documents.

47. The respondents have submitted that the petitioners launched and marketed the project ‘IT Square’ at Plot No.21, Knowledge Park-III, Greater Noida by holding out categorical assurances regarding allotment, possession, assured returns and execution of documents, thereby inducing innocent purchasers to invest substantial amounts. According to the respondents, the complainant booked commercial units after being lured by representations and assurances extended by the accused persons and huge sums were paid relying upon the promises made by them. It has been contended that despite receipt of substantial consideration, the accused persons deliberately failed to honour their commitments and instead adopted deceitful methods to avoid their liabilities.

48. The respondents have further argued that the petitioners cannot escape criminal liability merely by taking shelter under internal corporate arrangements between ERA/ADEL, SREI, Bharat Nirman Fund or Solitarian Group. According to the respondents, all the accused persons acted in concert and continuously represented themselves to be persons in control of the project and competent to deal with the allottees. It has been submitted that the subsequent change in shareholding pattern or transfer of management cannot absolve the accused persons of liability arising from fraudulent acts committed against purchasers.

49. It has specifically been argued by the complainant in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.23649/2025 that petitioner no.2 Sh. Rajkumar Sisodia and petitioner no.1 company continued to actively participate in discussions, meetings and negotiations concerning the disputed unit and payments even during later periods. It has been alleged that petitioner no.2 played an active role in orchestrating transactions and induced the complainant to deposit additional amounts on assurances regarding allotment and adjustment of assured returns. According to the respondents, the active participation of the petitioners in negotiations and dealings clearly establishes their involvement in the alleged offences.

50. The respondents have further submitted that the controversy does not merely relate to delay in possession or breach of contractual obligations but concerns fraudulent creation and manipulation of documents. According to the respondents, forged allotment letters, fabricated documents and manipulated papers were prepared in order to mislead purchasers and to illegally retain their money. It has been argued that the genuineness, validity and authenticity of such documents can only be examined during investigation and trial and therefore the writ petitions seeking quashing at the threshold are wholly premature.

51. The respondents have also refuted the submission of the petitioners that possession had already been validly offered and delivered with respect to the original three units. According to the complainant, despite repeated assurances and demands, complete and lawful possession together with all rights was never actually handed over in a legally enforceable manner. It has been submitted that execution of sub-lease deeds at a highly belated stage after several years cannot wipe out the criminality attached to the conduct of the accused persons. The respondents contend that prolonged withholding of possession and repeated false assurances demonstrate continuing dishonest intention on the part of the accused persons.

52. The respondents have further submitted that the dispute regarding the fourth unit cannot be trivialized by portraying it as a mere contractual adjustment dispute. According to them, the fourth unit was specifically allotted against adjustment of assured returns and other dues legitimately payable to respondent no.4 and the petitioners deliberately induced respondent no.4 to accept such arrangement while knowing fully well that they neither intended nor were capable of honouring the same. It has been argued that after extracting payments and obtaining continued confidence of respondent no.4, the accused persons subsequently denied the allotment itself and started disputing the very documents executed by them. According to the respondents, such conduct clearly discloses mens rea and ingredients of cheating and forgery.

53. The respondents have also denied the contention regarding discrepancies in tower identification being mere clerical or contractual inconsistencies. It has been argued that the conflicting descriptions of units, tower numbers and allotment particulars themselves demonstrate manipulation and fabrication of project records by the accused persons. According to the respondents, the inconsistencies are not innocent discrepancies but are indicative of fraudulent dealings requiring thorough investigation by the investigating agency.

54. So far as the arbitration clause is concerned, learned counsel for the respondents have submitted that existence of an arbitration clause or availability of civil remedies does not bar initiation of criminal proceedings where allegations prima facie disclose commission of cognizable offences. It has been argued that civil liability and criminal culpability may coexist and merely because the parties are governed by contractual arrangements, the accused persons cannot seek immunity from criminal prosecution. According to the respondents, where allegations of forgery, cheating and criminal conspiracy are specifically made, the matter cannot be relegated exclusively to arbitration proceedings.

55. The respondents have further submitted that the petitions under Article 226 of the Constitution seeking quashing of FIRs deserve dismissal in view of the settled principles laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra1. It has been contended that at the stage of investigation the Court is only required to examine whether the FIR discloses commission of cognizable offences and not whether the allegations are ultimately likely to result in conviction. According to the respondents, disputed questions of fact, rival versions, genuineness of documents and defence pleas raised by the accused persons cannot be adjudicated in writ jurisdiction.

56. The State has additionally submitted that the investigation is at a nascent stage and substantial material is yet to be collected regarding execution of documents, financial transactions, role of various accused persons and movement of funds. It has therefore been argued that interference by this Court at this premature stage would seriously prejudice fair investigation into grave economic offences involving large financial implications.

57. The respondents have thus prayed that the writ petitions, being devoid of merits, be dismissed and the investigating agency be permitted to proceed with investigation in accordance with law without any interference by this Court.

Analysis and Findings

58. The principal questions which arise for consideration are - first, whether the FIR and the materials relied upon by the complainant disclose, on their face, the ingredients of the offences under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 469, 471 and 120-B of the IPC against the present petitioners; second, whether the dispute is essentially civil/commercial in character; third, whether the role attributed to each petitioner is specific enough in law to justify continuation of criminal proceedings; and fourth, whether the continuation of the impugned proceedings would amount to abuse of process.

59. Since all the petitions arise from the same factual matrix, pertain to the same project namely 'IT Square', Plot No.21, Knowledge Park-III, Greater Noida and involve substantially overlapping allegations and accused persons, they are being decided together by this common judgment.

60. The principles governing quashing of criminal proceedings are well settled. In State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal2, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the High Court can exercise jurisdiction to quash where the allegations taken at face value do not constitute any offence, or where the criminal proceeding is ex facie with mala fide and instituted with an ulterior motive. The relevant paragraph of the same is as follows:

'102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we have given the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge.'

61. In Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated the aforementioned principle of law regarding the quashing of the FIR and held that though investigation should not be stifled as a matter of routine, the Court must still see whether the FIR discloses commission of a cognizable offence on the allegations made.

62. At the outset, it is equally well settled that a mere breach of contract does not give rise to criminal prosecution for cheating unless fraudulent or dishonest intention exists at the inception of the transaction. The distinction between mere contractual non-performance and criminal cheating has been repeatedly emphasized by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. Similarly, for criminal breach of trust under Section 406 IPC, there must be entrustment and dishonest misappropriation or conversion of entrusted property, and not a mere failure to honour a contractual obligation. As regards forgery, the law requires making of a false document or using a forged document as genuine with the requisite knowledge and intent, commercial disputes regarding validity or enforceability of allotment papers do not, by themselves, satisfy these ingredients.

63. On the civil-commercial character of disputes, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in A. Ayyasamy v. A. Paramasivam3, and in Avitel Post Studioz Ltd. v. HSBC PI Holdings (Mauritius) Ltd.4, recognized that ordinary allegations of fraud arising between parties to a commercial arrangement do not always take the matter outside the domain of civil or arbitral adjudication. These decisions underscore that every allegation of deception in a commercial setting does not automatically justify a criminal prosecution, especially where the dispute remains between parties and documentary.

64. Before adverting to deal with the contentions, it would be apposite to recapitulate the broad factual backdrop emerging from the pleadings and documents brought on record.

65. The material available before the Court shows that petitioner no.1 in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.23649/2025 namely M/s Prasandi Infotech Park Pvt. Ltd. became lease holder of Plot No.21, Knowledge Park-III, Greater Noida by virtue of lease deed dated 20.03.2002. Thereafter, in the year 2008, ERA Landmarks Ltd., subsequently renamed as ADEL Landmarks Ltd., launched a commercial project in the name and style of 'IT Square' upon the aforesaid plot. The pleadings and documents placed before the Court further prima facie indicate that ERA/ADEL was entrusted with development and marketing rights of the project.

66. It is also not in dispute that respondent no.4/complainant initially booked three commercial units namely D/GF-05, D/GF-06 and D/GF-07 situated at Tower-D, Ground Floor in the said project under a discounted cash down plan for a total consideration of Rs.1,17,76,050/-. The material on record further reflects that possession in respect of the aforesaid three units had already been offered on 20.02.2012 and ultimately sub-lease deeds came to be executed on 25.11.2022. Therefore, insofar as the original three units are concerned, the admitted position emerging from the record is that the parties remained engaged in a continuing commercial relationship extending over several years.

67. This Court finds considerable significance in the fact that the present criminal proceedings do not substantially arise out of the original three units, but primarily revolve around the alleged 'fourth unit', namely Shop No.D/GF-12, which admittedly did not form part of the original allotment made in the year 2008.

68. The records reveal that disputes subsequently arose between the parties with regard to alleged assured returns. According to the complainant himself, he was thereafter offered another/additional unit in lieu of adjustment of assured returns and related claims. Thus, even according to the prosecution case, the alleged fourth unit emerged only during subsequent commercial negotiations, facilitation, and financial settlements between the parties.

69. The record indicates that vide the alleged allotment letter dated 13.05.2015, an additional unit allegedly bearing Shop No.12 in Tower-D admeasuring approximately 948 sq.ft. was proposed to be allotted in favour of the complainant against adjustment of assured returns amounting to Rs.35,46,900/- out of total alleged consideration of Rs.44,55,600/-. The remaining amount was allegedly payable through cheques. Thus, the entire genesis of the dispute qua the fourth unit itself arises out of adjustment/accounting arrangements concerning assured returns and reciprocal contractual obligations.

70. The aforesaid aspect assumes considerable importance because it demonstrates that the dispute is deeply embedded in contractual and financial dealings between the parties requiring examination of accounts, documentary evidence, reciprocal obligations and validity of allotment arrangements.

71. Even more significant is the fact that the allotment agreements/letters of all the original three units as well as the alleged agreement/document dated 16.04.2022 pertaining to Shop No.D/GF-12 itself contains an arbitration clause. Clause 7 under Heading 'X' of the said agreement specifically contemplates reference of disputes to arbitration. Thus, the parties themselves consciously agreed that disputes arising from the said arrangement would be adjudicated through contractual dispute resolution mechanisms. The said Clause has been reproduced herein for reference:

'(7) In the event of any disputes or differences between the parties thereto arising out of the terms hereof or its scope, or interpretation, applicability etc, the same unless amicably settled shall be referred for arbitration. The sole arbitrator shall be appointed by the 'LESSOR. The proceeding shall be held at Gautam Budh Nagar and the laws of the State of UP or as may be made applicable to the State of UP shall be applicable.

72. This Court is conscious that mere existence of an arbitration clause does not by itself bar criminal proceedings. However, where the dispute substantially concerns enforcement of contractual rights, validity of allotment documents, adjustment of monetary liabilities, interpretation of agreements and entitlement arising from commercial arrangements, the existence of an arbitration clause becomes a relevant circumstance while examining whether the allegations genuinely disclose criminality or whether criminal law is being invoked to exert pressure in a civil dispute.

73. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Indian Oil Corpn. v. NEPC India Ltd.5, observed that a given set of facts may give rise to both civil and criminal liability, but courts must guard against attempts to cloak purely civil disputes with criminal colour. Similarly, in IV.Y. Jose v. State of Gujarat6, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that a contractual dispute should not be allowed to be converted into a criminal case unless clear ingredients of the alleged offences are disclosed. The relevant paragraph of NEPC India Ltd. (Supra) is as follows:

'13. While on this issue, it is necessary to take notice of a growing tendency in business circles to convert purely civil disputes into criminal cases. This is obviously on account of a prevalent impression that civil law remedies are time consuming and do not adequately protect the interests of lenders/creditors. Such a tendency is seen in several family disputes also, leading to irretrievable breakdown of marriages/families. There is also an impression that if a person could somehow be entangled in a criminal prosecution, there is a likelihood of imminent settlement. Any effort to settle civil disputes and claims, which do not involve any criminal offence, by applying pressure through criminal prosecution should be deprecated and discouraged. In G. Sagar Suri v. State of U.P. [(2000) 2 SCC 636 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 513] this Court observed: (SCC p. 643, para 8)

'It is to be seen if a matter, which is essentially of a civil nature, has been given a cloak of criminal offence. Criminal proceedings are not a short cut of other remedies available in law. Before issuing process a criminal court has to exercise a great deal of caution. For the accused it is a serious matter. This Court has laid certain principles on the basis of which the High Court is to exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code. Jurisdiction under this section has to be exercised to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice.'

14. While no one with a legitimate cause or grievance should be prevented from seeking remedies available in criminal law, a complainant who initiates or persists with a prosecution, being fully aware that the criminal proceedings are unwarranted and his remedy lies only in civil law, should himself be made accountable, at the end of such misconceived criminal proceedings, in accordance with law. One positive step that can be taken by the courts, to curb unnecessary prosecutions and harassment of innocent parties, is to exercise their power under Section 250 CrPC more frequently, where they discern malice or frivolousness or ulterior motives on the part of the complainant. Be that as it may.

Section 405

21. We will next consider whether the allegations in the complaint make out a case of criminal breach of trust under Section 405 which is extracted below:

'405. Criminal breach of trust. 'Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property, or with any dominion over property, dishonestly misappropriates or converts to his own use that property, or dishonestly uses or disposes of that property in violation of any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract, express or implied, which he has made touching the discharge of such trust, or wilfully suffers any other person so to do, commits 'criminal breach of trust'

23. In Chelloor Mankkal Narayan Ittiravi Nambudiri v. State of Travancore Cochin [(1952) 2 SCC 392 : AIR 1953 SC 478 : 1954 Cri LJ 102] this Court held: (AIR p. 484, para 21)

'[T]o constitute an offence of criminal breach of trust it is essential that the prosecution must prove first of all that the accused was entrusted with some property or with any dominion or power over it. It has to be established further that in respect of the property so entrusted, there was dishonest misappropriation or dishonest conversion or dishonest use or disposal in violation of a direction of law or legal contract, by the accused himself or by someone else which he willingly suffered to do.

It follows almost axiomatically from this definition that the ownership or beneficial interest in the property in respect of which criminal breach of trust is alleged to have been committed, must be in some person other than the accused and the latter must hold it on account of some person or in some way for his benefit.

26. The question directly arose for consideration in Central Bureau of Investigation v. Duncans Agro Industries Ltd. [(1996) 5 SCC 591 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 1045] It related to a complaint against the accused for offences of criminal breach of trust. It was alleged that a floating charge was created by the accused debtor on the goods by way of security under a deed of hypothecation, in favour of a bank to cover credit facility and that the said goods were disposed of by the debtor. It was contended that the disposal of the goods amounted to criminal breach of trust. Negativing the said contention, this Court after stating the principle as to when a complaint can be quashed at the threshold, held thus: (SCC pp. 607-08, para 27)

'[A] serious dispute has been raised by the learned counsel ' as to whether on the face of the allegations, an offence of criminal breach of trust is constituted or not. In our view, the expression 'entrusted with property' or 'with any dominion over property' has been used in a wide sense in Section 405 IPC. Such expression includes all cases in which goods are entrusted, that is, voluntarily handed over for a specific purpose and dishonestly disposed of in violation of law or in violation of contract. The expression 'entrusted' appearing in Section 405 IPC is not necessarily a term of law. It has wide and different implications in different contexts. It is, however, necessary that the ownership or beneficial interest in the ownership of the property entrusted in respect of which offence is alleged to have been committed must be in some person other than the accused and the latter must hold it on account of some person or in some way for his benefit. The expression 'trust' in Section 405 IPC is a comprehensive expression and has been used to denote various kinds of relationships like the relationship of trustee and beneficiary, bailor and bailee, master and servant, pledger and pledgee. When some goods are hypothecated by a person to another person, the ownership of the goods still remains with the person who has hypothecated such goods. The property in respect of which criminal breach of trust can be committed must necessarily be the property of some person other than the accused or the beneficial interest in or ownership of it must be in the other person and the offender must hold such property in trust for such other person or for his benefit. In a case of pledge, the pledged article belongs to some other person but the same is kept in trust by the pledgee. In the instant case, a floating charge was made on the goods by way of security to cover up credit facility. In our view, in such case for disposing of the goods covering the security against credit facility the offence of criminal breach of trust is not committed.

32. The essential ingredients of the offence of □cheating□ are: (i) deception of a person either by making a false or misleading representation or by other action or omission, (ii) fraudulent or dishonest inducement of that person to either deliver any property or to consent to the retention thereof by any person or to intentionally induce that person to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived and which act or omission causes or is likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, reputation or property.

35. In Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma [(2000) 4 SCC 168 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 786] this Court held: (SCC pp. 176-77, paras 14-15)

‘14. On a reading of the section it is manifest that in the definition there are set forth two separate classes of acts which the person deceived may be induced to do. In the first place he may be induced fraudulently or dishonestly to deliver any property to any person. The second class of acts set forth in the section is the doing or omitting to do anything which the person deceived would not do or omit to do if he were not so deceived. In the first class of cases the inducing must be fraudulent or dishonest. In the second class of acts, the inducing must be intentional but not fraudulent or dishonest.

15. In determining the question it has to be kept in mind that the distinction between mere breach of contract and the offence of cheating is a fine one. It depends upon the intention of the accused at the time of inducement which may be judged by his subsequent conduct but for this subsequent conduct is not the sole test. Mere breach of contract cannot give rise to criminal prosecution for cheating unless fraudulent or dishonest intention is shown right at the beginning of the transaction, that is, the time when the offence is said to have been committed. Therefore it is the intention which is the gist of the offence. To hold a person guilty of cheating it is necessary to show that he had fraudulent or dishonest intention at the time of making the promise. From his mere failure to keep up promise subsequently such a culpable intention right at the beginning, that is, when he made the promise cannot be presumed.

37. Section 425 IPC provides:

‘425. Whoever, with intent to cause, or knowing that he is likely to cause, wrongful loss or damage to the public or to any person, causes the destruction of any property, or any such change in any property or in the situation thereof as destroys or diminishes its value or utility, or affects it injuriously, commits ‘mischief’

The three ingredients of the section are: (i) intention to cause or knowledge that he is likely to cause wrongful loss or damage to the public or to any person; (ii) causing destruction of some property or any change in the property or in the situation thereof; and (iii) the change so made destroying or diminishing the value or utility or affecting it injuriously. For the purpose of Section 425, ownership or possession of the property is not relevant. Even if the property belongs to the accused himself, if the ingredients are made out, mischief is committed, as is evident from Illustrations (d) and (e) to Section 425. The complaints clearly allege that NEPC India had removed the engines thereby making a change in the aircrafts and that such removal has diminished the value and utility of the aircrafts and affected them injuriously, thereby causing loss and damage to IOC, which has the right to possess the entire aircraft. The allegations clearly constitute the offence of □mischief□. Here again, we are not concerned with the proof or ultimate decision.

74. The relevant paragraph of V.Y. Jose v. State of Gujarat (Supra) has also been reproduced for reference:

26. Recently, in Vir Prakash Sharma v. Anil Kumar Agarwal [(2007) 7 SCC 373: (2007) 3 SCC (Cri) 370] , noticing, inter alia, the aforementioned decisions, this Court held: (SCC p. 377, paras 13-16)

‘13. The ingredients of Section 420 of the Penal Code are as follows:

(i) Deception of any persons;

(ii) Fraudulently or dishonestly inducing any person to deliver any property; or

(iii) To consent that any person shall retain any property and finally intentionally inducing that person to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit.

No act of inducement on the part of the appellant has been alleged by the respondent. No allegation has been made that he had an intention to cheat the respondent from the very inception.

14. What has been alleged in the complaint petition as also the statement of the complainant and his witnesses relate to his subsequent conduct. The date when such statements were allegedly made by the appellant had not been disclosed by the witnesses of the complainant. It is really absurd to opine that any such statement would be made by the appellant before all of them at the same time and that too in his own district. They, thus, appear to be wholly unnatural.

15. In law, only because he had issued cheques which were dishonoured, the same by itself would not mean that he had cheated the complainant. Assuming that such a statement had been made, the same, in our opinion, does not exhibit that there had been any intention on the part of the appellant herein to commit an offence under Section 417 of the Penal Code.

16. Furthermore, admittedly, their residences are in different districts. Whereas the appellant is a resident of the district of Ajamgarh, the respondent is a resident of the district of Rampur. Cheques were admittedly issued by the appellant at his place. There is nothing on record to show that any part of the cause of action arose within the jurisdiction of the court concerned. Even if such statements had been made, the same admittedly have been made only at the place where the appellant resides. The learned Magistrate, therefore, had no jurisdiction to issue the summons. (See Mosaraf Hossain Khan v. Bhagheeratha Engg. Ltd. [(2006) 3 SCC 658 : (2006) 2 SCC (Cri) 98])

27. The said principle has been reiterated in All Cargo Movers (I) (P) Ltd. v. Dhanesh Badarmal Jain [(2007) 14 SCC 776 : (2007) 12 Scale 391] stating: (SCC p. 781, para 16)

'16. For the said purpose, allegations in the complaint petition must disclose the necessary ingredients therefor. Where a civil suit is pending and the complaint petition has been filed one year after filing of the civil suit, we may for the purpose of finding out as to whether the said allegations are prima facie correct, take into consideration the correspondences exchanged by the parties and other admitted documents. It is one thing to say that the Court at this juncture would not consider the defence of the accused but it is another thing to say that for exercising the inherent jurisdiction of this Court, it is impermissible also to look to the admitted documents. Criminal proceedings should not be encouraged, when it is found to be mala fide or otherwise an abuse of the process of the court. Superior courts while exercising this power should also strive to serve the ends of justice.

28. A matter which essentially involves dispute of a civil nature should not be allowed to be the subject-matter of a criminal offence, the latter being not a short cut of executing a decree which is non-existent. The superior courts, with a view to maintain purity in the administration of justice, should not allow abuse of the process of court. It has a duty in terms of Section 483 of the Code of Criminal Procedure to supervise the functionings of the trial courts.

29. An offence of cheating may consist of two classes of cases:

(1) Where the complainant has been induced fraudulently or dishonestly. Such is not the case here;

(2) When by reason of such deception, the complainant has not done or omitted to do anything which he would not do or omit to do if he was not deceived or induced by the accused.

75. A perusal of the afore-quoted portions of the judgments reveal that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has repeatedly cautioned against the growing tendency of converting purely civil and commercial disputes into criminal proceedings with a view to exert pressure upon the opposite party or to secure recovery/settlement through coercive criminal process. The consistent view of the Hon'ble Supreme Court is that criminal law cannot be permitted to be used as a substitute for civil remedies or as a short-cut for enforcement of contractual and commercial obligations, particularly where the dispute predominantly arises out of contractual terms, monetary claims, business arrangements, or alleged breach of reciprocal obligations.

76. It further emerges from the aforesaid decisions that while exercising jurisdiction for quashing of criminal proceedings, the Court is required to examine whether the allegations contained in the FIR/complaint, even if taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, disclose the essential ingredients constituting the offences alleged. In the absence of foundational averments satisfying the statutory ingredients of the offences invoked, continuation of criminal proceedings would amount to abuse of the process of law warranting interference by the constitutional courts in exercise of their inherent/writ jurisdiction.

77. Insofar as the offence of cheating is concerned, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has consistently held that the sine qua non for attracting the offence is the existence of fraudulent or dishonest intention at the very inception of the transaction. Mere breach of contract, subsequent non-performance, or failure to honour assurances subsequently would not, by itself, constitute the offence of cheating unless it is shown that the accused possessed dishonest intention from the very beginning at the time when the representation or promise was made. The distinction between a mere contractual breach and the offence of cheating, though fine, is nevertheless well recognised in law, and criminal liability cannot arise merely on account of failure to fulfil contractual obligations.

78. Likewise, for constituting the offence of criminal breach of trust, the essential requirement is entrustment of property or dominion over property coupled with dishonest misappropriation or conversion thereof in violation of law or contractual obligation. The Hon□ble Supreme Court has clarified that the property alleged to have been misappropriated must belong beneficially to a person other than the accused and must have been entrusted to the accused in a fiduciary or legally recognised capacity. In commercial transactions involving contractual arrangements, financial accommodations, or hypothecation/security interests, mere non-payment or disposal of secured assets, absent the essential ingredient of entrustment in the legal sense contemplated under Section 405 IPC, would not ipso facto constitute criminal breach of trust.

79. The aforesaid principles unequivocally demonstrate that where the dispute essentially pertains to performance of contractual obligations, settlement of accounts, commercial understandings, recovery of money, or alleged breach of terms governing a business transaction, and the necessary criminal intent or statutory ingredients are conspicuously absent from the allegations, permitting continuation of criminal proceedings would result in misuse of the criminal justice machinery. In such circumstances, the superior courts are duty-bound to exercise their jurisdiction to secure the ends of justice and to prevent abuse of the process of Court.

80. Examining the allegations in the present case in light of the aforesaid principles, this Court finds that the foundational ingredients of the alleged offences are conspicuously absent.

81. So far as the offence under Section 420 IPC is concerned, the law is well settled that there must exist dishonest or fraudulent intention at the very inception of the transaction. Mere breach of promise, subsequent non-performance or failure to honour contractual obligations cannot amount to cheating unless it is shown that the accused possessed fraudulent intention at the time the representation was made.

82. In Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma7, the Hon'ble Supreme Court categorically held that distinction between mere breach of contract and the offence of cheating depends upon intention of the accused at the inception of the transaction.

83. Applying the aforesaid principles to the facts of the present case, this Court finds no material whatsoever indicating dishonest intention from inception. The initial allotments were made in the year 2008. Construction activities admittedly progressed. Possession of the three original units was admittedly offered on 20.02.2012. Sub-lease deeds came to be executed on 25.11.2022. The parties continued to engage in negotiations over several years. Assured returns were allegedly paid at least to some extent. Thereafter, the complainant himself allegedly agreed to adjustment of claims through allotment of another/additional unit. Such prolonged commercial dealings extending over years completely negate the allegation that the accused persons possessed fraudulent intention from the very inception.

84. The entire dispute rather reflects continuing disagreements concerning performance of contractual obligations, adjustment of assured returns and validity of subsequent arrangements. Such disputes, by their very nature, fall within the domain of civil adjudication.

85. Likewise, the essential ingredients of Section 406 IPC are also not satisfied. Entrustment is the sine qua non for constituting an offence of criminal breach of trust. The FIRs do not disclose any entrustment in the legal sense. The money paid by the complainant was paid as consideration under commercial builder-buyer transactions. Mere non-delivery or delayed delivery of units cannot by itself constitute criminal breach of trust.

86. This Court is also of the view that mere breach of contractual obligations arising out of agreements to sell would not by itself attract criminal breach of trust unless specific entrustment and dishonest misappropriation are established.

87. The allegations under Sections 467, 468 and 471 IPC also do not withstand scrutiny at this stage. The dispute regarding the alleged fourth unit fundamentally turns upon validity and execution of documents dated 13.05.2015 and 16.04.2022. The petitioners have consistently disputed the authenticity and execution of the said documents and specifically pleaded that the agreement dated 16.04.2022 does not bear signatures of any authorized representative/director of petitioner no.1 company.

88. A perusal of the material placed before this Court further indicates that the said document appears to have been signed only from the side of the complainant and not by any authorized person of the management of petitioner no.1 company. Thus, whether the document was validly executed, whether it was acted upon, whether it creates enforceable rights and whether any forgery was actually committed are all matters requiring detailed evidence and adjudication. Mere existence of disputed documents does not automatically establish offences of forgery against the petitioners before this Court.

89. Equally important is the issue regarding management and control of petitioner no.1 company during the relevant period.

90. The documents on record prima facie show that pursuant to restructuring arrangements and share transfer mechanisms, the control and management of petitioner no.1 company remained with SREI Infrastructure Finance Limited/Bharat Nirman Fund from the year 2015 till March, 2024.

91. Petitioner Sh. Harjeet Singh Sahani in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.25666/2025 has specifically pleaded that he resigned from the directorship on 30.06.2025 whereas the FIR came to be lodged subsequently on 03.10.2025. The record further prima facie indicates that petitioner Sh. Arjunpreet Singh Sahni became associated with the management only subsequently after restructuring arrangements and takeover by Solitarian entities.

92. Thus, many of the documents and transactions now relied upon by the complainants pertain either to periods prior to induction of the petitioners before this Court or to periods when management and operational control vested elsewhere. In absence of specific allegations showing active participation coupled with criminal intent attributable to each accused person, sweeping criminal liability cannot be imposed merely on account of subsequent association with the company.

93. Pertinently, this Court also notes that other than the reference to arbitration clause, the complainant's grievances substantially fall within the framework of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 (hereinafter 'RERA'). Under Section 31 of the RERA Act, an aggrieved allottee possesses the statutory remedy of filing complaint before the Real Estate Regulatory Authority. Section 71 further contemplates adjudication regarding compensation and related grievances by the Adjudicating Officer. The legislature having created a specialized statutory mechanism for adjudication of disputes arising from real estate projects, disputes relating to delay in possession, contractual defaults, compensation and allied builder-buyer grievances ordinarily fall within the realm of civil/regulatory adjudication unless clear criminality is independently disclosed.

94. A bare perusal of the allegations levelled in the FIR/complaint would demonstrate that the substratum of the dispute pertains to alleged delay in completion of the project, non-delivery of possession within the stipulated timeline, alleged deviation from representations made at the time of booking, demands pertaining to payments/installments, dispute qua map/site plan/non existence of allegedly sold unit, and grievances concerning performance of obligations arising out of the Builder Buyer Agreement and the real estate project in question. Such disputes are intrinsically connected with the rights and obligations flowing from a real estate transaction and squarely fall within the regulatory framework contemplated under the RERA. The grievance of the complainant is essentially directed against the manner of execution and performance of the project and the contractual obligations undertaken by the developer/promoter, for which the statute itself provides a complete adjudicatory mechanism.

95. The legislative intent behind enactment of the RERA framework is to provide a specialised and sector-specific mechanism for adjudication of disputes between allottees and promoters/developers, particularly in relation to delay in possession, refund claims, project completion obligations, disclosures, compensation and contractual defaults. The allegations in the present case, when holistically examined, substantially emanate from such builder-buyer and allotment related disputes.

96. In the considered opinion of this Court, merely because allegations of breach of assurances, delay, or non-fulfilment of contractual obligations have been made, the same would not ipso facto clothe the dispute with criminal colour in the absence of specific allegations disclosing fraudulent or dishonest intention from the inception of the transaction. Where the dominant nature of the dispute is regulatory, contractual and compensatory, and the statute itself creates an efficacious forum for redressal of such grievances, criminal proceedings ought not to be permitted to become a tool for arm-twisting or exerting pressure in matters essentially falling within the domain of civil and regulatory adjudication.

97. The respondents have repeatedly argued that the existence of civil remedies cannot bar criminal proceedings. There can be no quarrel with the said proposition. However, the equally settled principle is that criminal law cannot be permitted to become an instrument of pressure or harassment in disputes predominantly civil in character.

98. This Court is of the considered view that criminal proceedings should not be encouraged where the dispute is essentially civil and criminal courts should not be used for settling scores or exerting pressure in commercial disputes.

99. Therefore, taking into consideration the entirety of the matter, this Court is further of the opinion that the present case falls within the parameters illustratively laid down in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal (Supra). Even if the allegations contained in the FIRs are accepted at face value, the same primarily disclose civil and commercial disputes arising from real estate transactions, adjustment of assured returns and validity of allotment documents. The basic ingredients of offences under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120-B IPC are not prima facie established against the petitioners before this Court.

100. The continuation of criminal proceedings in such circumstances would amount to abuse of the process of law.

Conclusion

101. This Court is conscious of the fact that every dispute arising out of a real estate transaction or every delay in completion of a project cannot ipso facto be permitted to assume the character of a criminal offence. The real estate sector inherently involves complex commercial, regulatory and financial considerations, and delays in execution of projects may occur on account of multiple factors including market downturns, liquidity constraints, regulatory approvals, force majeure circumstances, or other unforeseen contingencies affecting the viability and timelines of the project.

102. If every instance of delay in handing over possession, failure to adhere to projected timelines, or inability of a developer to immediately fulfil contractual commitments were to result in registration of criminal cases, the same would not only amount to criminalising commercial and contractual defaults but would also have serious adverse repercussions on legitimate business and commercial activity in the sector. Criminal law cannot be permitted to operate as a mechanism for enforcing contractual performance in ordinary commercial disputes, absent clear allegations disclosing the requisite criminal intent and statutory ingredients of the offences alleged.

103. This Court also cannot lose sight of the hardship and inconvenience which may have been caused to the complainant on account of the alleged delay and non-fulfilment of expectations arising from the transaction in question. The grievances projected by the complainant may indeed entitle him to seek appropriate reliefs including refund, compensation, interest, possession-related directions, or other consequential remedies in accordance with law. However, such sympathy, by itself, cannot justify continuation of criminal prosecution where the essential ingredients constituting a cognizable criminal offence are otherwise not disclosed from the material placed on record. The complainant has efficacious civil and statutory remedies available under the governing contractual framework as well as under the provisions of the RERA Act and other competent forums, where appropriate relief in relation to the subject units and allied claims may be duly adjudicated and granted in accordance with law.

104. It is true that, as noted from the record, the investigation is still at a nascent stage and ordinarily this Court would be slow in interfering with criminal proceedings at the threshold. However, it is equally well settled that mere pendency of investigation cannot operate as an absolute bar against exercise of writ or inherent jurisdiction where the allegations contained in the FIR itself, even if accepted in their entirety, fail to disclose the essential ingredients of the alleged offences or where continuation of criminal proceedings would amount to abuse of process of law.

105. The power of judicial review is intended precisely to prevent misuse of criminal machinery in cases where disputes are overwhelmingly civil or commercial in nature. In the present case, the foundational facts are substantially documentary and largely undisputed, namely the original allotment of three units in the year 2008, offer of possession on 20.02.2012, execution of sub-lease deeds on 25.11.2022, subsequent negotiations concerning assured returns and the alleged fourth unit, the existence of arbitration clause under Clause 7 of Heading □X□ of the agreement dated 16.04.2022, as well as the shifting management structure of petitioner no.1 company during the relevant periods.

106. Therefore, even at this stage, the Court is not required to conduct a roving inquiry into disputed facts but only to examine whether the uncontroverted allegations prima facie disclose commission of cognizable offences.

107. Upon such examination, this Court finds that the dispute essentially arises from contractual and commercial arrangements relating to a real estate project and does not prima facie satisfy the ingredients of offences under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 or 120-B of the IPC qua the present petitioners. Consequently, merely because investigation is at a nascent stage would not justify relegating the petitioners to prolonged criminal proceedings which, in the facts of the present case, appear to be manifestly civil in character, rather, quashing of the FIR at this stage would prevent the misuse of the process of law.

108. Accordingly, all the connected writ petitions deserve to be allowed.

109. In view thereof, impugned FIRs as well as all consequential proceedings arising therefrom are hereby quashed qua the petitioners.

110. It is made clear that the instant batch of petitions have been adjudicated on the basis of the pleadings brought before this Court and the observations made hereinabove shall not be construed as expression on the merits, rights and contentions of the parties which they may seek to address or raise in other proceedings or before any other forum of law, in accordance with the law.

Jail Appeal No. 589 of 2021

Jag Prasad Yadav @ Jaggu ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the prosecution proved beyond reasonable doubt the guilt of the accused for the offences punishable under Ss. 302, 307 and 323 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 on the basis of ocular and medical evidence and whether, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction under S. 302 I.P.C. was liable to be altered to S. 304 Part II I.P.C. on the ground that the act was committed with the knowledge that it was likely to cause death but without intention to kill. (Paras 46-55)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Murder and Culpable Homicide - Whether conviction under S. 302 I.P.C. sustainable or liable to be converted into S. 304 Part II I.P.C. - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 299, 300, 302, 304 Part II, 307 and 323 - Where prosecution proved the occurrence by reliable testimony of an injured eye-witness fully corroborated by medical evidence, conviction could not be interfered with on the ground of absence of motive or alleged contradictions - However, evidence disclosed that the accused had come with bad intention towards the mother of the deceased and, in the heat of passion, threw the children into the well and though he had knowledge that the act was likely to cause death, intention to kill was not established - Conviction under S. 302 altered to S. 304 Part II while convictions under Ss. 307 and 323 maintained. (Paras 25-32, 46-55, 57)

Criminal Law - Appreciation of Evidence - Injured eye-witness - Related witness - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Mere relationship is not a ground to discard testimony where the witness is consistent, convincing and nothing could be extracted in cross-examination creating any doubt regarding the occurrence or involvement of the accused - Medical evidence corroborated the ocular version and the prosecution proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. (Paras 25-35)

Criminal Law - First Information Report - Prompt lodging - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Prompt F.I.R. lodged within one hour and ten minutes of the occurrence after taking the injured children to hospital guaranteed the truthfulness of the prosecution version and substantially ruled out chances of consultation, concoction and embellishment. (Paras 21-24)

Criminal Law - Motive - Relevance - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - In a case resting on reliable eye-witness account, motive does not play a significant role and absence of proof of motive by itself does not dent the prosecution case though motive remains relevant while considering whether intention to kill existed for determining the nature of the offence. (Paras 29, 46-55)

Criminal Law - Medical Evidence - Ocular Evidence - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Medical evidence corroborated the prosecution case where injuries sustained by the injured witness supported her testimony and post-mortem findings together with negative viscera report did not rule out death due to drowning - Hence no inconsistency warranting benefit of doubt arose. (Paras 31-35)

Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act - Applicability of S. 3(2)(v) - Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - S. 3(2)(v) - Acquittal under the special enactment upheld since the offence was not committed on the ground that the victims belonged to Scheduled Caste community but because of the criminal conduct of the accused. (Paras 36, 46)

Held: The prosecution established its case beyond reasonable doubt by the consistent and convincing testimony of the injured eye-witness which stood corroborated by the medical evidence and the prompt F.I.R. and nothing could be extracted in cross-examination creating any doubt regarding the occurrence or the involvement of the accused - Mere absence of proved motive or the fact that the principal witness was related to the deceased did not weaken the prosecution case - At the same time the evidence disclosed that the accused had come with bad intention towards the mother of the deceased and in the heat of passion picked up the children sleeping on the cot and threw them into the well and though he had the knowledge that such act was likely to cause death the intention to kill was not established and the occurrence could not be treated as a premeditated murder - Consequently the conviction under S. 302 I.P.C. was liable to be modified to S. 304 Part II I.P.C. while maintaining the conviction and sentence under Ss. 307 and 323 I.P.C. - appeal partly allowed. (Paras 21-35, 46-57) (E-7)

(15) Being aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence, the appellant has preferred the instant jail appeal before this Court.

ARGUMENTS

(16) Heard, Shri Shreesh Kumar Mishra Atal, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

(17) Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant submitted that impugned judgment and order has been passed without considering the evidence and material on record and dealing it appropriately. He further submitted that the prosecution has failed to establish any motive for the commission of offence. There are material contradictions and discrepancies in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses of fact. P.W.1 is not an eye witness. P.W.2 claims to be an eye witness, but her testimony is not reliable for the reason that it is highly improbable that the accused-appellant could have picked two children from near her and thrown them in a well at a distance. The post mortem report and the injuries have not corroborated the prosecution case, as no injury was found on the body of the deceased and the cause of death could not be ascertained. The Viscera report was also negative. He also submitted that the instant case is of circumstantial evidence and the prosecution has failed to establish chain of circumstances. He also submitted that if two views are possible, then the benefit of doubt must be given to the accused-appellant. There was no independent witness to the occurrence and all the witnesses are related witnesses and the evidence of the injured witness is also not reliable as he is also a related witness.

(18) On the basis of the above submissions, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant submitted that the prosecution has failed to prove it's case beyond reasonable doubt, therefore, the conviction of the appellant could not have been recorded and, thus, the impugned judgment and order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside and the appellant is liable to be acquitted.

He relied on Amar Nath vs The State of U.P; 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1322, Alauddin vs State of Assam; AIR 2024 SC (criminal)756, Anand Ramachandra Chougule vs Sidarai Laxman Chougule; AIR 2019 Supreme Court 3871, Balaji Gunthu Dhule vs State of Maharashtra; AIR 2013 Supreme Court 264, Abdul Wahid & another vs State of Rajasathan; 2025 SCC OnLine SC 453, Krishnegowda vs State of Karnataka by Arkalgud Police; AIR 2017 Supreme Court 1657, Baso Prasad and others vs State of Bihar; AIR 2007 Supreme Court 1019, Mohar Singh and others vs State of Punjab; 1981 SCC (Cri) 638.

(19) Learned AGA vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the appellant. He submitted that the impugned judgement and order has rightly been passed in accordance with law, by means of which the appellant has been convicted and sentenced. He further submitted that the prosecution has proved it's case beyond reasonable doubt by adducing evidence of an eye witness, who was also an injured witness and mother of the deceased, which stands corroborated by the medical evidence relating not only to the injured witness but also to the deceased. Merely because she is related witness, her testimony could not have been discarded. It is settled in law that the related that too an injured witness would not implicate an innocent person, leaving the culprit. Merely because the witness is the mother of the deceased, whose three and a half year son was killed and whose 1 year daughter was also thrown and sustained injury in the eye but survived, her testimony cannot be discarded. He also submitted that the motive has also been proved by P.W.2. Thus, he submits that the impugned judgment and order has rightly been passed in accordance with law. There is no illegality or error in it, which may call for any interference by this Court. The appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds, which is liable to be dismissed.

(20) We have considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties and perused the records.

(21) The written report dated 22.04.2015 was submitted at the Police Station by P.W.1 Ram Lotan, on the basis of which, F.I.R. was lodged at 00.10 hours on 23.04.2015, with regard to the occurrence on 22.04.2015 at 23:00 hours, i.e., within a period of 1 hour 10 minutes. The distance between the police station and the place of incident is three kilometers. P.W.1 as well as P.W.2 have coherently deposed regarding the occurrence, which took place at 11:00 p.m. on 22.04.2015. P.W.2 has also stated in her cross examination that after about 10 minutes when the children were brought out from the well, her uncle and villagers took them to the hospital.

(22) P.W.1 who is uncle of P.W.2 has stated that after the death of the child, he got the report written by Arvind Singh and submitted the same at Police Station, which was proved as Ex. Ka(1). Thus, looking to the time taken, for providing the medical aid and the distance of the police station, it is apparent that the F.I.R. was lodged promptly within a period of 1 hour 10 minutes of the occurrence. The prompt lodging of the F.I.R. guarantees the truthfulness of the prosecution version, as chances of consultation, concoction and embellishments are very remote or less.

(23) The F.I.R. was lodged naming the appellant, as the accused, who has committed the crime. The report was lodged by P.W.1 Ram Lautan, who is uncle of P.W.2. He has admitted in his evidence that he was not an eye witness. He was sleeping at home on 22.04.2015 at about 11:00 p.m. in the night. His niece Rekha, alongwith her children, was sleeping in the thatch shed outside the house. A marriage procession had come in the village that night, during which the appellant Jag Prasad @ Jaggu was vandalizing a motorcycle and when the members of the marriage procession chased the accused, he ran towards the house of Suraju and picked up Shagun, a boy who was aged about three and a half years and a girl aged about one year, who were sleeping on a cot and threw them into a well. Upon hearing the cries of the children, he and the neighboring villagers brought the children out of the well and took them to the Kumarganj Hospital, where the doctor declared Shagun as dead but the girl survived. Thus, P.W.1 has not stated in his evidence either he had seen the accused throwing the children in the well or taking away them. Thus, P.W.1 is not an eye witness, which has been admitted also by him in his cross examination. However, he has further deposed that the night of the incident was dark but the light was alight and as per his knowledge, the accused was neither mad nor intoxicated. He further deposed that after the incident, the mother of the child Rekha Devi was disturbed. Considering the evidence of P.W.1, learned trial court has recorded that P.W.1 is not an eye witness to the occurrence and has also not supported the prosecution case.

(24) The P.W.1 is not an eye witness but he has proved that upon hearing the noise he had reached on the spot and he alongwith neighbour villagers had brought the children out of well. Thus he has proved the place of occurrence and nothing could be extracted from him in cross examination, from which it may be inferred that he has deviated from his earlier statement.

(25) P.W.2 is an eye witness to the incident. She has deposed in his examination-in-chief that the incident had taken place one and a half year ago. It was 11:00 p.m. in the night. Ram Lautan is her uncle. At the time of the alleged incident, she was staying at her maternal home at Pithola, where she was sleeping alongwith her two children namely Shagun aged about three and a half year and Payal aged about one year under the thatched shed. At the time of incident, Jag Prasad Yadav @ Jaggu came at her house and pressed her neck. She asked him to go away. In the meantime, he kicked her on the leg, as a result of which she fell down. Thereafter Jag Prasad picked up her son Shagun and daughter Payal and threw them in the well. Upon raising alarm, her uncle and several villagers arrived at the spot and saw the accused Jag Prasad running away. Then the neighbors brought the children out of the well. Her son's condition was serious. He was taken to the Kumarganj Hospital, where the doctor declared him dead. She was examined at the Government Hospital, Milkhipur and thereafter at District Hosptial, Faizabad. She had suffered injuries in her right leg and her daughter suffered injury in her eye but she was saved. The report was lodged by her uncle.

(26) P.W.2 further categorically stated that she had seen the accused and identified him. Her statement was recorded by the Circle Officer. She further deposed that she belongs to a scheduled caste community. Thus, she has proved the incident as an eye witness and it is apparent from her evidence that the accused-appellant had come at about 11:00 p.m. in the night and pressed her neck and upon being asked to go away kicked her also on leg, on account of which she fell down. Thereafter he took her two children and threw them in a nearby well. Upon raising alarm, the villagers had come and brought children out of well. She was also medically examined. She has also deposed that the accused-appellant Jag Prasad is a resident of her village. She has no quarrel or enmity with the family of the accused. She has also deposed that her village is Sarai Dhanethi. She also deposed that when the accused was caught after 5-6 days of the incident, she was called at the police station. She further deposed that on the date of incident, her uncle Pinku, Ram Lautan and some other villagers had assisted in bringing out the children from the well. After about ten minutes of the bringing out of the children from the well, they were taken to the hospital.

(27) P.W.2 has further deposed that she was wearing a mangalsutra at the time of alleged incident, which is still kept at her home and none of her jewellery was snatched. She further deposed that she knows the accused Jag Prasad since childhood, as his sister was studying with her, therefore, she knows him well. The house of the accused is situated at a distance of about 40-45 houses away from her house. The accused had come near her with bad intention. However, she had not spoked to the accused prior to the date of incident nor she had made any wrong talk to him prior thereto. She denied the suggestion that she had not seen the accused on the night of incident and had implicated him falsely in consultation with Arvind Singh. Nothing could be extracted from her in the cross examination, which may create any doubt regarding the occurrence or involvement of the appellant.

(28) The aforesaid evidence of P.W.2 shows that she has clarified that she had no enmity or quarrel with the family of the accused, therefore, question of any false implication does not arise. P.W.1; the complainant and P.W.3 Suraju, who had also reached on spot have also joined the P.W.2 on the issue of enmity between the two families and have categorically deposed that there was no enmity. The P.W.1 has even said that the accused and his family had no enmity with his family and still there is no enmity and the relations between both the families are normal and they go to meet and greet each other. It shows that family members of the appellant must also be knowing that he is guilty, otherwise after his implication, they would not have kept normal relation.

(29) P.W.2 has also deposed in cross examination that the deceased had come with bad intention. It appears that the appellant had come near P.W.2 with bad intention and on being confronted pressed her neck and when she asked him to go away, he picked up the children lying near her on the cot and threw them in the nearby well. Thus the cross examination of P.W.2 throws some light on the motive. However, Investigating Officer (P.W.6), has deposed in cross examination that he does not know the reason of incident and could not get any motive for occurrence. But the motive appears to be was of bad work with P.W.2 and not the murder of her child. However, even if the motive is not proved, the prosecution story cannot be said to have even a dent on account of absence of motive because it is a case of eye witness account and in the case of eye witness account, the motive does not play any significant role.

(30) In view of above, the evidence of P.W.2 is consistent and convincing and nothing could be extracted in the cross examination, which may create any doubt about the testimony of P.W.2. P.W.2 is an eye witness and there is no contradiction in her evidence. The learned trial court has also recorded a finding that there is no contradiction in the evidence of P.W.2 and she had seen the accused pressing her neck, kicking her and throwing the children in the well.

(31) P.W.2 has deposed that the accused-appellant had kicked her in her leg, on account of which she fell down. The medical report of P.W.2 indicates three injuries,out of which two are in the right leg between knee and near ankle joint. In case a person would kick in the leg, the injury would come in the lower part of the leg. Thus, the medical report of P.W.2, who is an injured witness, has corroborated her evidence. P.W.9 Dr. Arun Kumar, who had examined the injured P.W.2 has also stated that the injuries were of within 24 hours, which could have been caused by a bangle or kudal. In the cross examination, he deposed that the injuries could have been of within 24 hours or even within 12 hours also. The post mortem report of the deceased indicates that 50 ml black coloured material was found in his stomach, which could have entered on account of falling and drowning into the well. Since cause of death could not be ascertained, therefore, the viscera was preserved and the FSL report shows that no poison was found in the body. Thus the post mortem report (Ex. Ka. 4), also supports the prosecution case because the death could have been on account of drowning in the well. Therefore, the presence of about 50 ml liquid in the stomach further supports the prosecution version. The post mortem report has been proved by P.W.5 Dr. Gulrez Ahmad, who has also opined that since 50 ml liquid was found in the stomach of the deceased and the poison was not found, therefore, viscera was preserved. No poison was found in the viscera report, therefore, death due to drowning may not be ruled out in the facts and circumstances of the case. The post mortem examination of the deceased was conducted at about 3:05 p.m. on 23.04.2015 and as per the post mortem report, the approximate time since death was about one day. No cross examination of P.W.5 was conducted, except with regard to the cause of death mentioned in the post mortem report. Thus, his evidence in regard to the time of death is intact.

(32) In view of above, the prosecution case stands proved not only by the testimony of the eye witness but the same is also corroborated by the medical evidence.

(33) P.W. 3 supported the statements of P.W.1 and P.W.2, in saying that on the date of incident at about 11:00 p.m.in the night, on a alarm raised, he had gone to the house of Ram Lautan, where two children were thrown into the well by Jag Prasad. They had brought the children out of the well, in which the child Shagun, aged about three and a half years had died. The inquest was prepared by the investigating Officer. He is a witness to the inquest report and has also proved his thumb impression in inquest.(Ex. Ka 2). He has also deposed that the dead body was sealed and sent for post mortem. Thus the P.W.3 has also proved the place of incident and that the children were thrown in the well, from where they were taken out, upon which the child Shagun was found dead, as well as the inquest report, in which opinion of witnesses is recorded, according to which the child Shagun died as he was thrown in well by Jaggu @ Jag Prasad.

(34) P.W. 3 has also deposed that at the time of incident, when the children were thrown in the well, the name of Jag Prasad had come. The accused had ran away from the village leaving the children in the well and he was caught by the police after 4-5 days. P.W.2 the mother of the deceased was injured who had also deposed that the accused-appellant was caught after 4-5 days and upon call from the police, she had gone to the police station but she had not met the accused either at the police station or anywhere else. Thus, the conduct of the appellant also shows that though he resides after 40-45 house from the place of occurrence but he had absconded in the very night of the incident and was caught only after 4-5 days.

(35) P.W.4, writer of the F.I.R. has proved it. P.W.5 is the Investigating Officer, who had recorded statements and prepared the site plan on the pointing out of the complainant and collected the material and filed the charge sheet and proved them. P.W.7 has also proved the inquest of the deceased Shagun. P.W.8-Constable Indrajeet Sharma helped in the preparation of the inquest and took the dead body for post mortem and proved it. Nothing could be extracted from the said official formal witnesses, which may create any doubt about their testimony or even on the prosecution case. Thus, this Court is of the view that the prosecution has proved it's case beyond reasonable doubt. Learned trial court upon considering the evidence and material on record has recorded a finding that on the basis of evidence on record, the charge of Section 302, 307 and 323 IPC has been proved against the appellant with the following findings:-

"इस प्रकार अभियोजन पक्ष की तरफ से कुल दो साक्षी तथ्य के परीक्षित कराये गये हैं जिसमें से पी०डब्ल्यू ०२ रेखा चश्मदीद साक्षी है। इन्होंने अपने साक्ष्य में इस तथ्य को साबित किया है कि अभियुक्त जग प्रसाद उर्फ जग्गू रात में ११ बजे उसके घर आया और वह अपने छप्पर में अपने दोनों बच्चों के साथ रात ११ बजे सो रही थी। अभियुक्त बुरी नीयत से उसके पास आया और पी०डब्ल्यू०२ रेखा को लात से मारा, उसका गला भी दबाया। संभवतः प्रतिरोध होने के कारण उसने रेखा के दोनों बच्चों को ले जाकर कुयें में फेक दिया जिससे उसके बेटे सगुन की मृत्यु हो गयी और उसकी लड़की बच गयी। सगुन के पोस्टमार्टम रिपोर्ट में उसके पेट में ५० ग्राम तरल पदार्थ पाया गया है। न्यायालय के विचार से यह तभी हो सकता है जब मृतक को डुबोया गया हो अथवा वह स्वयं डूबा हो। इस प्रकार मौखिक साक्षी पी०डब्ल्यू०२ रेखा के साक्ष्य का समर्थन डाक्टरी साक्ष्य से भी होता है। पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध साक्ष्य से अभियुक्त के विरूद्ध धारा ३०२, ३०७ व ३२३ भा०दं०सं० का अपराध सन्देह से परे साबित होता है। चूँकि अभियुक्त द्वारा किये गये कार्य से पी०डब्ल्यू०२ रेखा के लड़के सगुन की मृत्यु हुई तो यह माना जायेगा कि अभियुक्त यह जानता था कि तीन वर्ष के बच्चे को यदि कुएं में फेंक दे तो निश्चित रूप से उसकी मृत्यु हो जायेगी। इसके अलावा पी०डब्ल्यू०२ की लड़की को भी कुएं में अभियुक्त द्वारा फेका गया है लेकिन कुएं से निकालकर अस्पताल ले जाने पर व दवा इलाज होने पर वह बच गयी किन्तु उसकी आंख खराब हो गयी लेकिन अभियुक्त का आशय पी०डब्ल्यू०२ की लड़की को जान से मारने का था। इसलिए उसने उसको कुएं में फेक दिया। इसके अलावा पी०डब्ल्यू०४ के साक्ष्य से यह साबित है कि पीड़िता के शरीर पर भी चोटें आयी है। इस प्रकार पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध साक्ष्य से अभियुक्त के विरूद्ध धारा ३०२, ३०७ य ३२३ भा०दं०सं० का अपराध साबित होता है।

(36) The learned trial court, further considering the evidence and material on record and the provisions made under Section 3(2)(v) of SC/ST Act, found that charge under Section 3(2)(v) of SC/ST Act is not proved as the crime was not committed on the ground that the victims are of SC/ST community and recorded the following findings:-

"अभियुक्त के विरूद्ध धारा ३(२) (v) अनुसूचित जाति एवं अनुसूचित जनजाति (अत्याचार निवारण) अधिनियम का आरोप भी विरचित किया गया है। धारा ३(२) (v) अनुसूचित जाति एवं अनुसूचित जनजाति (अत्याचार निवारण) अधिनियम के लागू होने के संबंध में यू० पी० सीआर० आर० २००० पेज-२६८ मासूमशा हसनशा मुसलमान बनाम स्टेट ऑफ महाराष्ट्र का उद्धरण महत्वपूर्ण है जिसमें माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा यह कहा गया है कि धारा ३(२) (v) अनुसूचित जाति एवं अनुसूचित जनजाति (अत्याचार निवारण) अधिनियम के लागू होने के लिए जरूरी शर्त है कि पीडित व्यक्ति अनुसूचित जाति या अनुसूचित जनजाति का हो और पीड़ित के साथ अपराध इस आधार पर किया गया हो कि वह अनुसूचित जाति या जनजाति का है। यदि यह दोनों शर्तें पूरी नहीं हैं तो धारा ३(२) (v) अनुसूचित जाति एवं अनुसूचित जनजाति (अत्याचार निवारण) अधिनियम का आरोप साबित नहीं होगा। न्यायालय के विचार से अभियुक्त द्वारा उपरोक्त अपराध इसलिए नहीं किया गया है कि बच्चे अनुसूचित जाति के थे बल्कि आपराधिक मानसिकता से उपरोक्त अपराध कारित किया गया है। ऐसी स्थिति में अभियुक्त के विरूद्ध धारा ३(२) (v) अनुसूचित जाति एवं अनुसूचित जनजाति (अत्याचार निवारण) अधिनियम का अपराध साबित नहीं होता है।

(37) The judgment relied by learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant are not applicable on the facts and circumstances of the case and of any help to him, which in short, are being referred here-in-after.

(38) In the case of Amar Nath versus the State of Uttar Pradesh(supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court, has held that when there are multiple inconsistencies in the evidence on the basis of which conviction was ordered and possibility of conviction resulting in grave miscarriage of justice, interference with a concurrent verdict is not only possible but it would be well warranted. It has further been held that when the testimonies of the eye-witnesses suffer from fatal flaws, to sustain conviction on the basis of such unreliable evidence, would surely amount to miscarriage of justice.

(39) In the case of Alauddin versus State of Assam(supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court, has dealt with the status of the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and further observed that when the two statements cannot stand together, they become contradictory statements. When a witness makes a statement in his evidence before the Court which is inconsistent with what he has stated in his statement recorded by the Police, there is a contradiction. If a former statement of the witness is inconsistent with any part of his evidence given before the Court, it can be used to impeach the credit of the witness in accordance with clause (3) of Section 155 of the Evidence Act.

(40) In the case of Anand Ramachandra Chougule versus Sidarai Laxman Chougala (supra), has held that The burden lies on the prosecution to prove the allegations beyond all reasonable doubt. In contradiction to the same, the accused has only to create a doubt about the prosecution case and the probability of its defence. An accused is not required to establish or prove his defence beyond all reasonable doubt, unlike the prosecution. The fact that a defence may not have been taken by an accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. again cannot absolve the prosecution from proving its case beyond all reasonable doubt. The relevant paragraphs 9 and 10 are extracted hereinbelow:-

‘9. The burden lies on the prosecution to prove the allegations beyond all reasonable doubt. In contradistinction to the same, the accused has only to create a doubt about the prosecution case and the probability of its defence. An accused is not required to establish or prove his defence beyond all reasonable doubt, unlike the prosecution. If the accused takes a defence, which is not improbable and appears likely, there is material in support of such defence, the accused is not required to prove anything further. The benefit of doubt must follow unless the prosecution is able to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt.

10. The fact that a defence may not have been taken by an accused under Section 313 CrPC again cannot absolve the prosecution from proving its case beyond all reasonable doubt. If there are materials which the prosecution is unable to answer, the weakness in the defence taken cannot become the strength of the prosecution to claim that in the circumstances it was not required to prove anything. In Sunil Kundu v. State of Jharkhand [Sunil Kundu v. State of Jharkhand, (2013) 4 SCC 422 : (2013) 2 SCC (Cri) 427] , this Court observed: (SCC pp. 433-34, para 28)

28. When the prosecution is not able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt it cannot take advantage of the fact that the accused have not been able to probabilise their defence. It is well settled that the prosecution must stand or fall on its own feet. It cannot draw support from the weakness of the case of the accused, if it has not proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

(41) In the case of Balaji Gunthu Dhule versus State of Maharashtra(supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court, has held that since the entire evidence of the eye-witnesses has not been accepted by the High Court, it could not have merely relied upon the postmortem report to convict the appellant for an offence under Section 302 of the I.P.C. Further, in our view, the postmortem report should be in corroboration with the evidence of eye-witnesses and cannot be an evidence sufficient to reach the conclusion for convicting the appellant.

(42) In the case of Abdul Shakur versus State of Rajasthan(supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that it is for the prosecution to connect the accused to the murder of the deceased by producing credible and legally admissible evidence.

(43) In the case of Krishnegowda versus State of Karnataka by Arkalgud Police(supra), The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that When there is inconsistency between medical evidence and ocular evidence, the benefit of doubt should be given to the accused.

(44) In the case of Baso Prasad and others versus State of Bihar(supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the exact time of death cannot be established scientifically and precisely, only because of presence of rigour mortis or in the absence of it.

(45) In the case of Mohar Singh and others versus State of Punjab(supra), the Hon'ble Surpeme Court has held that in the facts and circumstances of the case, upon consideration of which the Hon'ble Court has recorded that in view of this glaring inconsistency between the ocular and medical evidence, it will be extremely unsafe and hazardous to maintain the conviction of the appellants on such evidence. The judgment has been passed on the facts and circumstances of case.

(46) The settled position of law discussed in the aforesaid case laws, relied by learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant, cannot be disputed and it is for the prosecution to prove it's case beyond reasonable doubt, irrespective of the contradictions or inconsistencies in the evidence and weakness of the defence and it cannot absolve the prosecution of it's liability. As discussed above, the aforesaid case laws are not of any assistance to the case of the appellant. This Court is in agreement with the acquittal of appellant under Section 3(2)(v) of SC/ST Act and none of the parties have informed that it has been challenged either by the prosecution or complainant. Even otherwise, since there is no enmity with the appellant and his family with the P.W.2 and her family and their relations are not strange even thereafter and cordial, it could not have been challenged by the complainant. This also leads us to consider as to whether the murder of the children was the motive of accused/appellant and he attempted to murder with pre-meditated mind, on account of which one of the child died.

(47) In view of aforesaid discussion, the motive, which could be inferred from evidence of P.W.2 was not to commit murder of child, by the accused /appellant but he had come with bad intention to her. Thus, it may not be said that there was any intention to kill any of the child, Since the motive of murder of child could not be proved, therefore, it may be a case in which the intention to kill may not be there, even if the accused/appellant was knowing that the child may die on account of throwing in well and a child is also alive. If the motive and intention to kill is not proved then it is required to be considered as to whether the offence would fall under the category of murder or not, if not, then it may be a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

(48) In view of above, it would be apt, to consider the issue emerged in the case, to refer the relevant provisions made in I.P.C., which for convenience may be extracted. Sections 299, 300, 302 and 304 I.P.C. relevant for the purpose are extracted below:-

"299. Culpable homicide.--Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide.

300. Murder.--Except in the cases hereinafter excepted, culpable homicide is murder, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or—

2ndly.--If it is done with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused, or—

3rdly.--If it is done with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or—

4thly.--If the person committing the act knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death, or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as aforesaid.

Exception 1.--When culpable homicide is not murder.--Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, whilst deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation, causes the death of the person who gave the provocation or causes the death of any other person by mistake or accident.

The above exception is subject to the following provisos:--

First.--That the provocation is not sought or voluntarily provoked by the offender as an excuse for killing or doing harm to any person.

Secondly.--That the provocation is not given by anything done in obedience to the law, or by a public servant in the lawful exercise of the powers of such public servant.

Thirdly.--That the provocation is not given by anything done in the lawful exercise of the right of private defence.

Explanation.--Whether the provocation was grave and sudden enough to prevent the offence from amounting to murder is a question of fact.

Exception 2.--Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender in the exercise in good faith of the right of private defence of person or property, exceeds the power given to him by law and causes the death of the person against whom he is exercising such right of defence without premeditation, and without any intention of doing more harm than is necessary for the purpose of such defence.

Exception 3.--Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, being a public servant or aiding a public servant acting for the advancement of public justice, exceeds the powers given to him by law, and causes death by doing an act which he, in good faith, believes to be lawful and necessary for the due discharge of his duty as such public servant and without ill-will towards the person whose death is caused.

Exception 4.--Culpable homicide is not murder if it is committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without the offender's having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

Exception 5.--Culpable homicide is not murder when the person whose death is caused, being above the age of eighteen years, suffers death or takes the risk of death with his own consent.

302. Punishment for murder.-

Whoever commits murder shall be punished with death, or imprisonment for life, and shall also be liable to fine.

304. Punishment for culpable homicide not amounting to murder.--Whoever commits culpable homicide not amounting to murder, shall be punished with 1 [imprisonment for life], or imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, or with fine, or with both, if the act is done with the knowledge that it is likely to cause death, but without any intention to cause death, or to cause such bodily injury as is likely to cause death.

(49) In view of above to bring a case under Section 300 firstly it must be established that a bodily injury is present; secondly the nature of the injury must be proved and thirdly it must be proved that there was an intention to inflict that particular bodily injury and it was not accidental or unintentional or that some other kind of injury was intended and fourthly it must be proved that injury inflicted on the deceased is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. If all these eliments are established by the prosecution the offence would be murder under Section 300 I.P.C.

(50) The Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the issue, in the case of Virsa Singh Vs. The State of Punjab; 1958 SCC Online SC 37, (AIR 1958 SC 465), and held that after determination of objective facts in regard to the nature of injury and the part on which it has been inflicted etc, when it comes to the question of intention, that is subjective to the offender, it must be proved that he had an intention to cause the bodily injury that is found to be present and laid down the principles as to how it is to be considered. The relevant paragraphs 13 to relevant portion of paragraph 22 are extracted below:-

13. In considering whether the intention was to inflict the injury found to have been inflicted, the enquiry necessarily proceeds on broad lines as, for example, whether there was an intention to strike at a vital or a dangerous spot, and whether with sufficient force to cause the kind of injury found to have been inflicted. It is, of course, not necessary to enquire into every last detail as, for instance, whether the prisoner intended to have the bowels fall out, or whether he intended to penetrate the liver or the kidneys or the heart. Otherwise, a man who has no knowledge of anatomy could never be convicted, for, if he does not know that there is a heart or a kidney or bowels, be cannot be said to have intended to injure them. Of course, that is not the kind of enquiry. It is broadbased and simple and based on common sense: the kind of enquiry that " twelve good men and true could readily appreciate and understand.

14. To put it shortly, the prosecution must prove the following facts before it can bring a case under section 300, 3rdly "

15. First, it must establish, quite objectively, that a bodily injury is present ;

16. Secondly, the nature of the injury must be proved; These are purely objective investigations.

17. Thirdly, it must be proved that there was an intention to inflict that particular bodily injury, that is to say, that it was not accidental or unintentional, or that some other kind of injury was intended.

18. Once these three elements are proved to be present, the enquiry proceeds further and,

19. Fourthly, it must be proved that the injury of the type just described made up of the three elements set out above is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. This part of the enquiry is purely objective and inferential and has nothing to do with the intention of the offender.

20. Once these four elements are established by the prosecution (and, of course, the burden is on the prosecution throughout) the offence is murder under's. 300, 3rdly. It does not matter that there was no intention to cause death. It does not matter that there was Do intention even to cause an injury of a kind that is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature (not that there is any real distinction between the two). It does not even matter that there is no knowledge that an act of that kind will be likely to cause death. Once the intention to cause the bodily injury actually found to be present is proved, the rest of the enquiry is purely objective and the only question is whether, as a matter of purely objective inference, the injury is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. No one has a licence to run around inflicting injuries that are sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature and claim that they are not guilty of murder. If they inflict injuries of that kind, they must face the consequences; and they can only escape if it can be shown, or reasonably deduced that the injury was accidental or otherwise unintentional.

21. We were referred to a decision of Lord Goddard in R v. Steane (1) where the learned Chief Justice says that where a particular intent must be laid and charged, that particular intent must be proved. Of course it must, and of course it must be proved by the prosecution. The only question here is, what is the extent and nature of the intent that s. 300 thirdly requires, and how is it to be proved ?

22. The learned counsel for the appellant next relied on a passage where the learned Chief Justice says that:

"if, on the totality of the evidence, there is room for more than one view as to the intent of the prisoner, the jury should be directed that it is for the prosecution to prove the intent to the jury's satisfaction, and if, on a review of the whole evidence, they either think that the intent did not exist or they are left in doubt as to the intent, the prisoner is entitled to be acquitted."

We agree that that is also the law in India. But so is this. We quote a few sentences earlier from the same learned judgment:

"No doubt, if the prosecution prove an act the natural consequences of which would be a certain result and no evidence or explanation is given, then a jury may, on a proper direction, find that the prisoner is guilty of doing the act with the intent alleged."

(51) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Pulicherla Nagarjun Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh; (2006) 11 SCC 444, discussed as to what is to be considered for deciding a case as to whether it falls under Section 302 or 304 Part-I or 304 Part-II and also the intention to cause death can be gathered from a combination of circumstances. The relevant paragraph-18 is extracted below:-

"18. Therefore, the court should proceed to decide the pivotal question of intention, with care and caution, as that will decide whether the case falls under Section 302 or 304 Part I or 304 Part II. Many petty or insignificant matters # plucking of a fruit, straying of a cattle, quarrel of children, utterance of a rude word or even an objectionable glance, may lead to altercations and group clashes culminating in deaths. Usual motives like revenge, greed, jealousy or suspicion may be totally absent in such cases. There may be no intention. There may be no pre-meditation. In fact, there may not even be criminality. At the other end of the spectrum, there may be cases of murder where the accused attempts to avoid the penalty for murder by attempting to put forth a case that there was no intention to cause death. It is for the courts to ensure that the cases of murder punishable under section 302, are not converted into offences punishable under section 304 Part I/II, or cases of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, are treated as murder punishable under section 302.

The intention to cause death can be gathered generally from a combination of a few or several of the following, among other, circumstances : (i) nature of the weapon used; (ii) whether the weapon was carried by the accused or was picked up from the spot; (iii) whether the blow is aimed at a vital part of the body; (iv) the amount of force employed in causing injury; (v) whether the act was in the course of sudden quarrel or sudden fight or free for all fight; (vi) whether the incident occurs by chance or whether there was any pre- meditation; (vii) whether there was any prior enmity or whether the deceased was a stranger; (viii) whether there was any grave and sudden provocation, and if so, the cause for such provocation; (ix) whether it was in the heat of passion; (x) whether the person inflicting the injury has taken undue advantage or has acted in a cruel and unusual manner; (xi) whether the accused dealt a single blow or several blows. The above list of circumstances is, of course, not exhaustive and there may be several other special circumstances with reference to individual cases which may throw light on the question of intention. Be that as it may."

(52) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Suresh Chandra Bahri Vs. State of Bihar and Others; 1995 Supp(1) SCC 80, has held that sometimes motive plays an important role and becomes a compelling force to commit a crime and therefore motive behind the crime is a relevant factor for which evidence may be adduced. However it further noticed that in a case where there is clear proof of motive for the commission of the crime it affords added support to the finding of the court that the accused was guilty of the offence charged with. But the absence of proof of motive does not render the evidence bearing on the guilt of the accused nonetheless untrustworthy or unreliable because most often it is only the perpetrator of the crime alone who knows as to what circumstances prompted him to a certain course of action leading to the commission of the crime. Therefore motive may only be a relevant factor to form an opinion as to whether in a given circumstances there was an intention to kill on account of which the case may fall under Section 302 I.P.C.

(53) The Hon’ble Supreme Court, in the case of Khuman Singh Vs State of MadhyaPradesh; (2020) 18 SCC 763, has held that Exception 4 to Section 300 IPC can be invoked if death is caused; (a) without premeditation; (b) in a sudden fight; (c) without the offender having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner and (d) the fight must have been with the person killed.

(54) In view of the above statutory provisions and the principles laid down by Hon’ble Supreme Court, when we test the facts of the instant case on the aforesaid principles, we find that it is apparent from the evidence and material on record that the appellant had thrown the children of P.W.2 in the well in heat of passion on account of frustration of his bad intention for the P.W.2, which could not be fulfilled, as she had asked him to go away, therefore, firstly he kicked her in the leg and in the same continuation, he picked up her children sleeping with her on the cot and thrown them in the well, on account of which one of the child died and the other suffered injury in the eyes. In these circumstances, though it may be said that he had thrown the children in the Well with the knowledge that it is likely to cause death but without intention to kill, therefore, it cannot be said to be a per-medidated murder. This Court is of the view that, looking to the offence and manner of committing offence, it would fall under Section 304 Part II I.P.C. Thus, we are of the view that while upholding conviction under Section 307 I.P.C., on account of throwing of one year child in well, who suffered injury in eyes and under Section 323 IPC on account of injuries sustained by P.W.2, conviction of offence under Section 302 IPC is liable to be modified and converted under Section 304 Part II IPC. Now we will consider as to what punishment is to be awarded.

(55) Learned trial court has awarded with imprisonment for life and fine of Rs.10,000/- under Section 302 IPC and 7 years rigourous imprisonment under Section 307 IPC with fine of Rs.5000/- and 6 months rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.500/- under Section 323 IPC. However, the maximum punishment has not been awarded for any of the offence as the court has not found the crime so heinous to award the maximum punishment. Thus, this Court is of the view that the conviction and sentence under Section 302 IPC is liable to be modified to Section 304 Part II IPC, upholding the conviction and sentence under Section 307 and Section 323 IPC.

(56) The appeal is partly allowed.

(57) We, therefore, uphold the conviction and sentence awarded to the appellant by the trial Court under Sections 307 and 323 I.P.C., however, modify the conviction under Section 302 IPC to Section 304 Part II I.P.C. and award a sentence of 10 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs.50,000/-. In case of default of payment of fine, to undergo 1 year further rigorous imprisonment. On completion of the said period, the appellant is entitled to be released forthwith, if, he is not required in any other case.

(58) On deposit of the aforesaid fine against all the punishments, if already deposited and if any amount has been deposited, deposit of the remaining amount,the same shall be disbursed to the P.W.2, which shall be transferred in her account after calling account details from her.

(59) The appellant is in jail since 25.04.2015. Thus, he must have completed the punishment of 10 years. Therefore, he shall be released forthwith on deposit of the fine/remaining amount of fine. In case he has already completed the sentence and not deposited the fine and completed the default period, he shall be released forthwith, if he is not wanted or required to remain in jail in any other case.

(60) Appellant-Jag Prasad Yadav @ Jaggu is directed to file personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the Court concerned in compliance with Section 437-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 within a period of two weeks.

(61) Pending application(s), if any, stands disposed of accordingly.

RERA Appeal No. 169 of 2025

U.P. Real Estate Regulatory Authority ...Petitioner
Versus
M/S Maa Bhagwati Commercial Reality N Resorts Llp B-20/2 New Delhi ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Whether a real estate project can be granted registration by the Real Estate Regulatory Authority under Section 5 of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, on a land held on lease for a period of 29 years and 11 months, in light of the provisions contained in Section 4(2)(l)(A) of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016

Head Notes

The Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016-Sections 2(zk), 4(2)(1) (A), 5 & 58; The Transfer of Property Act, 1882- Section 105- Respondent does not possess the legal authority or right under the terms of the lease-deed, to sell the plot, apartment, or building, as the case may be, the project does not fall within the ambit of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016. The ability to offer units for sale is a foundational element for attracting the applicability of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, as the statutory scheme primarily governs 'real estate projects' undertaken for the purpose of sale to allottees-

Held- In the absence of such a right, the Respondent cannot be brought within the definition of a "promoter" under the Act, as the essential condition of developing or marketing real estate for sale remains unfulfilled. Consequently, the provisions relating to mandatory registration, particularly under Section 5 of the Act, are not attracted in the present case- Respondent is neither obligated to seek registration nor it can be compelled to obtain registration under the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, the legislative intent being to regulate only those projects which are intended for sale to prospective allottees. Appeal disposed of. Order dated 25.09.2025 passed by the Real Estate Appellate Tribunal (REAT), Lucknow in Appeal No. 135 of 2025 thereby directing the Regulatory Authority to grant registration for the respondent's project and to grant Registration Number including a Login ID and Password within 7 days while setting aside the order dated 10.03.2025 passed by the Real Estate Regulatory Authority (RERA) Lucknow.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Appellant(s) : Shireesh Kumar, Shobhit Mohan Shukla
Counsel for Respondent(s) : Swetank Sharma, Swetank Sharma, Syed Aftab Ahmad

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Qamar Hasan Rizvi, J.)

1. Sri Shobhit Mohan Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Sudeep Seth, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Syed Aftab Ahmad, learned counsel for the respondent are present.

2. By means of the instant appeal under section 58 of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 the U.P. Real Estate Regulatory Authority, the Appellant, has challenged the order dated 25.09.2025 passed by the Real Estate Appellate Tribunal (REAT), Lucknow in Appeal No. 135 of 2025 (M/s. Maa Bhagwati Commercial Reality N Resorts LLP vs. UP Real Estate Regulatory Authority) thereby directing the Regulatory Authority to grant registration for the respondent's project and to grant Registration Number including a Login ID and Password within 7 days while setting aside the order dated 10.03.2025 passed by the Real Estate Regulatory Authority (RERA) Lucknow.

3. The facts, in nut-shell, as culled out from the pleadings available on record, are that a public charitable trust, namely 'Udasin Sangat Rishi Aashram, Ranopali, Ayodhya, Uttar Pradesh, (hereinafter referred to as Trust,) registered in the Office of the Sub-Registrar, Sadar, Ayodhya, vide Registration No. 275/2019 is the owner of the plots of land having Gata Nos.309 and 328, situated at village Ranopali, Pargana Haveli Awadh, Tehsil Sadar, District Ayodhya, admeasuring, 26000.58 sq.mtrs.

4. The above-mentioned Trust granted lease for a period of 29 years and 11 months in favour of the respondent/appellant by means of Registered lease dated 29.09.2023, to construct a commercial building, on a yearly consideration at the rate of Rs.60,00,000/- with five per cent increase after every five years. The term of the 'lease' is renewable by mutual consent.

5. The Respondent/Appellant having obtained the relevant and necessary clearances, applied with the Uttar Pradesh Real Estate Regulatory Authority (hereinafter referred to as UP RERA) for registration of its project, 'Samrajya', on 02.02.2025, vide application ID 1426755, in terms of Section 4 of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 and in conformity with the Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) of the real estate project issued by U.P. Real Estate Regulatory Authority. However, the Regulatory Authority vide communication dated 06.02.2025, inter-alia, raised objection, as is reflected from the impugned order, alleging that from the land details it is not clear whether the land owner /lessor is having leasing rights and that it is also not clear as to how could the land owner give sub-leasing rights to the lessee, as the property belongs to a Trust.

6. The Respondent/Appellant acknowledged the objections/notice and submitted a reply vide communication dated 11.02.2025, inter alia, stating that the leasing rights in favour of the applicant firm are clearly ascertainable from the trust-deed itself, which had already been uploaded on the portal. Along with the same, copies of the Khatauni extracts evidencing the title of the trust over the plots in question were also furnished.

7. The Regulatory Authority, however, vide communication dated 21.02.2025 reiterated the same objections regarding land details and leasing/sub-leasing rights. In response, the appellant clarified that the right to sub-lease had been expressly conferred upon it under the terms of the lease-deed. The Respondent herein Appellant also uploaded the lease-deed along with the registration certificate issued by the Sub-Registrar. Despite the same, the Regulatory Authority again raised identical queries vide communication dated 03.03.2025, questioning the authority of the land owner to grant sub-leasing rights. Ultimately the Regulatory Authority, being dissatisfied with the replies and clarifications submitted by the Respondent proceeded to reject the application for registration of the project.

8. Feeling aggrieved by the order of rejection of application for grant of registration of the project dated 04.03.2025 the Respondent herein challenged the same by filing an appeal under Section 44 of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 before the Real Estate Appellate Tribunal (hereinafter referred to as Appellate Tribunal), which came to be allowed vide order dated 25.09.2025 i.e. the impugned order.

9. The case of the Respondent/Appellant before the Tribunal was that the lessor/Trust is the absolute and lawful owner of the plots forming the subject matter of the project, and the said plots have been validly and legally leased in its favour for the purposes of development and that under the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 the owner of a property possesses a bundle of rights, including the right to lease the property in accordance with Sections 105 to 117 of Chapter V of the Act.

10. It was further contended, before the learned Appellate Tribunal, by the Respondent/Appellant that the Regulatory Authority has committed a manifest error in questioning the right of the land owner to lease its own property. The objection raised by the Authority, to the effect that the owner lacks the right to lease the property, is wholly beyond its jurisdiction and contrary to settled legal principles and that the Authority failed to consider Section 108(j) of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, which expressly provides that a lessee is entitled to transfer his interest, either absolutely or by way of mortgage or sub-lease, in whole or in part, and that such transferee may further transfer the same. Thus, the rights of a sub-lessee are both heritable and transferable. It was also contended by the Respondent/Appellant that the direction issued by the Authority requiring it to obtain permission under Section 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, is legally unsustainable as the same is merely an enabling provision and cannot be construed in a manner that restricts the trustees from leasing Trust property for generating funds for the administration and objectives of the Trust.

11. As rejection of the present respondent's application was also on the ground that the lease period is limited to 29 years and 11 months it was asserted on their behalf that the conclusion drawn by the Regulatory Authority to the effect that the lease is not of a permanent nature is erroneous and based on a misreading of the lease deed as the lease deed expressly provides for renewal by mutual consent, thereby reflecting the intention of the parties to continue the arrangement.

12. On the other hand, it was contended on behalf of the Regulatory Authority before the learned Appellate Tribunal that on the strength of the sub-lease deeds to be executed of the units by the promoter the sub-lessees would not fall within the scope and ambit of the definition, 'allottee' as defined under Section 2 (d) of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 as allottee means a person to whom a plot, apartment or building, as the case may be, has been allotted or sold but not given on rent. It was further contended that Section 2 (zk) of the Act, 2016 defines a 'promoter' as one who constructs or causes to be constructed, inter alia, building/apartment for the purpose of selling all or some of the apartments to other persons. Further, reliance was placed on the definition of the 'real estate project', defined under Section 2 (zn), wherein, a real estate project, which inter-alia means development of building or a building consisting of apartments for the purpose of selling all or some of the said apartments.

13. It was also submitted by the Regulatory Authority that the apartments/plots/building, as the case may be, could only be sold and would not include apartments/plots/building, given on rent/sub lease. It further relied upon Section 17 of Act, 2016, to submit that after completion of the project, promoter shall execute a registered conveyance deed in favour of the allottee, along with, the undivided proportionate title in the common areas, Section 2 (n) defines "common areas" inter alia, to mean the entire land for the real estate project. Further, that the promoter has obtained the land of the project on lease and is not legally competent to transfer the undivided share of the land to the allottees of the entire common areas to the association of allottees or the competent authority, as the case may be. Therefore, under clause (a) of sub-Section (1) of Section 5 of the Act, 2016, the Regulatory Authority was justified in rejecting the application being dehors the provisions of the Act, rules and regulation made thereunder.

14. Based upon the rival submissions, the learned Appellate Tribunal framed the following questions for consideration:

(i) whether real estate project can be developed on a leasehold property/land under Act 2016;

(ii) whether lessor (trust) was required to obtain permission of the competent court for the lease under Section 92 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908;

(iii) whether the project of the appellant came to be registered in view of the deeming fiction under Section 5(2) of Act 2016.

15. The learned Appellate Tribunal answered Questions No. 1 and 2 in favour of the appellant/respondent herein and against the respondent/appellant herein while Question No. 3 was answered against the appellant/respondent herein and the Appeal was allowed in the following terms:

"….56. Having due regard to the facts and circumstances of the case and for the reasons assigned herein above, the appeal succeeds, accordingly allowed by passing the following orders:

(i) Impugned order dated 10.03.2025, passed by the Regulatory Authority is set aside and quashed.

(ii) The Regulatory Authority is directed to grant registration for the appellant project and issue registration number including a Login Id and password to the appellant within seven days from the date this order is uploaded on the portal of the Tribunal.

(iii) It is clarified that no other point or ground was pressed and argued by the contesting parties.

(iv) No order as to costs….."

16. Feeling aggrieved, the U.P. Real Estate Regulatory Authority preferred the instant appeal under Section 58 of the Act, 2016 which came to be admitted by this Court on 20.11.2025 on the following substantial questions of law:

"(i). Whether the appeal under Section 58 of the Real Estate (Regulation & Development) Act, 2016 can be preferred by the Regulatory Authority and can be termed as 'person aggrieved' as used in Section 58 of the said Act?

(ii). Whether a trustee can lease out the charitable trust property without the leave of the District Judge, as provided under Section 92 of the C.P.C. 1908?

(iii). Whether a real estate project can be developed and registered with Real Estate Regulatory Authority under Section 5 of the Act of 2016 on the land taken on lease for a period of 29 years and 11 months in the teeth of the provisions of section 4 (2) (l) (A) of the Act.

17. The respondent/promoter who had entered appearance through caveat, filed a Short Counter Affidavit dated 17.02.2026 stating therein that the case of the appellant before the Appellate Tribunal as well as this Court is to the effect that the Respondent is not covered within the meaning of promoter as defined under section 2 (zk) of the Act and the project was not a 'real estate project' as defined under section 2 (zn) and the appellant has made a categorical averment to the same effect in Paragraph No. 26 of its affidavit filed in support of application for stay.

18. It has further been submitted that in view of the admitted position that the respondent is not covered within the statutory definition of "promoter", it, by necessary implication, is neither required to seek registration under section 4 nor is it liable to be granted registration under section 5 of the Act, 2016 thereof.

19. In the aforesaid Short Counter Affidavit filed on behalf of the respondent, it is categorically averred that it would be expedient in the interest of justice that the present appeal be disposed of in terms of the statement/averment made by the appellant to the effect that the respondent is beyond the purview of the Act of 2016 and is not required to obtain registration for the project in question as it stands absolved of any requirement to apply for and to obtain the registration under the provisions of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 in respect of the project in question.

20. The respondent has further stated in its Short Counter Affidavit that as per statement made by the RERA in the appeal, the nature of title is leasehold and not transferable, hence as per section 17 of the Act of 2016, the project does not fall under RERA registration. It has further been stated that as per RERA the Respondent is not covered within the purview of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 and the restrictions imposed vide Form-D are not applicable and should be revoked.

21. Finally, the learned counsel for the Respondent has very emphatically urged that under the circumstances as mentioned here-in-above, it would be expedient in the interest of justice that the appeal preferred by the Authority may be disposed of in terms of the following statement/averment as mentioned in paragraph no. 13 of the said Short Counter Affidavit:

i. That the respondent is beyond the purview of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 and is not required to apply for registration of real estate project or be granted registration under section 5 of the Act.

Further, the Appellant U.P. Real Estate Regulatory Authority may also be directed to immediately remove the restrictive clauses contained in Form-D prohibiting the Respondent from marketing, promoting, selling, advertising, booking, or dealing with the project.

22. The Appellant/Authority did not file any rejoinder/objection to the aforesaid Short Counter Affidavit filed by the Respondent/Promoter and has agreed that the appeal may be decided in terms of the proposition made by the Respondent/Promoter. The parties have also agreed that the substantial questions of law nos. (i) and (ii) may be left to be decided in some appropriate matter and the present appeal may be decided in terms of substantial questions of law (iii) only, as rest of the questions have become redundant in view of the admitted position that the Respondent is not required to apply or be granted registration under the Act, 2016.

23. Paragraph 26 of the affidavit filed by the Appellant Authority in support of its application for stay reads as under:

"...26. That the application for registration of the Project was not maintainable as the respondent was not covered within the meaning of promoter as defined under Section 2(zk) of the Act and the project was not a Real Estate Project as defined under Section 2(zn) of the Act wherein a real estate project means development of a building or a building consisting of apartments or converting an existing building or part thereof into apartments, or the development of land into plots or apartments, as the case may be, for the purpose of selling all or some of the said apartments or plots or building, as the case may be, and includes the common areas, the development works, all improvements and structures thereon, and all easement, rights and appurtenances belonging thereto?."

24. Now, with the consent of the parties, this Court takes up only the third substantial question of law i.e. whether a real estate project can be developed and registered with Real Estate Regulatory Authority under Section 5 of the Act of 2016 on the land taken on lease for a period of 29 years and 11 months in the teeth of the provisions of section 4 (2) (l) (A) of the Act.

25. The proposition that the Respondent is not required to be granted registration under the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016; emerges from the fact that it is only a lessee of the original owner/Trust and given that it is not capable of transferring the units/apartments/building, as the case may be, by way of sale, is beyond the purview of the Act, 2016.

26. Sri Shobhit Mohan Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the appellant Authority has drawn the attention of this court towards the preamble to the Act and has submitted that the respondent is not covered under Section 2(zk) of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 as it cannot sell the plot, apartments or building and can only assign leasehold rights in the project by way of creation of sub-leases in favour of its allottees. The preamble to the Act reads as under:

"An Act to establish the Real Estate Regulatory Authority for regulation and promotion of the real estate sector and to ensure sale of plot, apartment or building, as the case may be, or sale of real estate project, in an efficient and transparent manner and to protect the interest of consumers in the real estate sector and to establish an adjudicating mechanism for speedy dispute redressal and also to establish the Appellate Tribunal to hear appeals from the decisions, directions or orders of the Real Estate Regulatory Authority and the adjudicating officer and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto."

27. It is trite in law that admissions, if clear, are by far the best proof of facts admitted. Admissions in pleading or judicial admission, if admissible, made by the parties or their agents at or before the hearing of a case, stand on a higher footing than evidentiary admissions. The former class of admissions is fully binding on the party that makes them and constitutes a waiver of proof. The Court can very well pass an order on the basis of an undisputed admission of a party in accordance with law. It is well settled that where admissions of facts and law have been made either in the pleading or otherwise, whether orally or in writing, the Court at any stage of the proceeding either on the application of a party or on its own motion without waiting for the determination of other questions, may make such order or give such judgment as it may think fit, having regard to such admission. The Hon'ble Supreme Court observed in the case of Ram Niranjan Kajaria versus Sheo Prakash Kajaria and others; reported in 2015 (10) SCC 203 that a party cannot be permitted to wholly withdraw the admission in the pleadings.

28. Sri Syed Aftab Ahmad learned counsel appearing for the respondent very emphatically submitted that Section 2(zk) of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, which defines promoter, states that a person who has been assigned development rights in respect of a project for the purpose of selling the apartments or a person who develops land as a project for the purpose of selling, would only qualify as being a promoter and would, consequently, require a registration under the Act and since he cannot sell the plot, apartments or building and can only assign leasehold rights in the project by way of creation of sub-leases in favour of its allottees he stands exempted from the operation of the Act.

29. Before delving into the merits of the case, it would be appropriate to take note of the statement of objects and reasons of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, which reads as follows:

"THE STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The real estate sector plays a catalytic role in fulfilling the need and demand for housing and infrastructure in the country. While this sector has grown significantly in recent years, it has been largely unregulated, with absence of professionalism and standardisation and lack of adequate consumer protection. Though the Consumer Protection Act, 1986 is available as a forum to the buyers in the real estate market, the recourse is only curative and is not adequate to address all the concerns of buyers and promoters in that sector. The lack of standardisation has been a constraint to the healthy and orderly growth of industry. Therefore, the need for regulating the sector has been emphasised in various forums.

In view of the above, it becomes necessary to have a Central legislation, namely, the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Bill, 2013 in the interests of effective consumer protection, uniformity and standardisation of business practices and the transactions in the real estate sector. The proposed Bill provides for the establishment of the Real Estate Regulatory Authority (the Authority) for Regulation and promotion of real estate sector and to ensure sale of plot, apartment or building. as the case may be, in an efficient and transparent manner and to protect the interest of consumers in real estate sector and establish the Real Estate Appellate Tribunal to hear appeals from the decisions, directions or orders of the Authority."

(emphasis supplied by this court)

30. For ready reference, the definition of "promoter" as occurring in section 2(zk) of The Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act 2016 is reproduced as below;

2 (zk) "promoter" means,--

(i) a person who constructs or causes to be constructed an independent building or a building consisting of apartments, or converts an existing building or a part thereof into apartments, for the purpose of selling all or some of the apartments to other persons and includes his assignees; or

(ii) a person who develops land into a project, whether or not the person also constructs structures on any of the plots, for the purpose of selling to other persons all or some of the plots in the said project, whether with or without structures thereon; or

(iii) any development authority or any other public body in respect of allottees of?

(a) buildings or apartments, as the case may be, constructed by such authority or body on lands owned by them or placed at their disposal by the Government; or

(b) plots owned by such authority or body or placed at their disposal by the Government, for the purpose of selling all or some of the apartments or plots; or

(iv) an apex State level co-operative housing finance society and a primary co-operative housing society which constructs apartments or buildings for its Members or in respect of the allottees of such apartments or buildings; or

(v) any other person who acts himself as a builder, coloniser, contractor, developer, estate developer or by any other name or claims to be acting as the holder of a power of attorney from the owner of the land on which the building or apartment is constructed or plot is developed for sale, or

(vi) such other person who constructs any building or apartment for sale to the general public.

Explanation. For the purposes of this clause, where the person who constructs or converts a building into apartments or develops a plot for sale and the person who sells apartments or plots are different persons, both of them shall be deemed to be the promoters and shall be jointly liable as such for the functions and responsibilities specified, under this Act or the rules and regulations made thereunder,

The expression "real estate project" is defined under Section 2(zn) of the Act which reads as under:

2 (zn) "real estate project" means:

"the development of a building or a building consisting of apartments, or converting an existing building or a part thereof into apartments, or the development of land into plots or apartments, as the case may be, for the purpose of selling all or some of the said apartments or plots or building, as the case may be, and includes the common areas, the development works, all improvements and structures thereon, and all easement, rights and appurtenances belonging thereto".

Therefore, the purpose of selling is sine-qua-non for a person to be a promoter within the meaning of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, but the respondent, admittedly, does not have the right to sell the property.

31. Section 105 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 defines 'lease' of immoveable property as a transfer of a right to enjoy such property, made for a certain time, express or implied, or in perpetuity, in consideration of a price paid or promised, or of money, a share of crops, service or any other thing of value, to be rendered periodically or on specified occasions to the transferor by the transferee, who accepts the transfer on such terms.

32. The Transfer of Property Act, 1882 envisages five different modes for transferring a property but for the purpose of the present appeal we are only concerned with one of the modes i.e., "Sale" and the same is dealt with under section 54 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 which defines "sale" and a "contract for sale" as follows:"

"54. 'Sale' defined.

'Sale' is a transfer of ownership in exchange for a price paid or promised or part-paid and part-promised.

Sale how made. Such transfer, in the case of tangible immovable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, or in the case of a reversion or other immovable property of a value less than one hundred rupees, such transfer may be made either by a registered instrument or by delivery of the property. Delivery of tangible immovable property takes place when the person as he directs, in possession of the property.

Contract for sale.-

A contract for the sale of immovable property is a contract that a sale of such property shall take place on terms settled between the parties. It does not, of itself, create any interest in or charge on such property."

33. Upon a bare perusal of clauses 4 and 7 of the lease deed dated 29.09.2023 it is apparent that the respondent has been given a right to undertake construction on the land forming subject matter of the lease and to sub-lease it to others and has only lease hold rights, thus, the lease deed is conditional in nature. For ready reference clauses 4 and 7 of the lease deed are reproduced as under:

धारा-4

धारा-7

यह कि द्वितीयपक्ष-प्रथमपक्ष को लीज प्रतिफल मु० 60,00,000 रूपये वार्षिक है। प्रथमपक्ष जिसकी अदायगी प्रत्येक छः माह पर मु० 30,00,000 रूपये 1 वर्ष में या दो किस्तो में अदा कर सकता है। यदि द्वितीयपक्ष द्वारा लगातार लीज प्रतिफल की तीन किस्तें अदा नहीं की जाती हैं तो यह अनुबन्ध लीज स्वतः शून्य हो जायेगी।

The relevant clauses of the lease deed particularly the above quoted clauses make it abundantly clear that the element of sale is lacking in the transaction and all that the respondent/lessee has been given under the terms of the lease-deed, is a mere right to create sub-leases of the land involved in the principal lease.

34. The lease deed does not speak about the right to sell but clauses 4 and 7 envisage the right to sub-lease the property. In view of the above the developer herein cannot be a promoter within the meaning of section 2 (zk) of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act 2016.

35. Upon a careful examination of the provisions of the Act this Court finds that under Section 2 (zk) of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, the status of a 'promoter' is not determined by mere possession or leasehold interest in land, but by the active role of development and sale of units in a real estate project. A lessee, who does not sell units to prospective allottees, does not fall within the ambit of 'promoter'. Further, as per Section 2 (zn), a 'real estate project' necessarily contemplates development for the purpose of sale. In absence of any sale component, the activity does not constitute a real estate project, and consequently, the provisions relating to registration under Section 3 are not attracted.

36. Section 2(zn) defines a "real estate project" as development of land into plots or apartments for the purpose of selling the same to allottees. Thus, the element of "sale" is indispensable for bringing any activity within the ambit of the Act.

37. A conjoint reading of the aforesaid provisions yields the following mandatory conditions: (a) there must be development or construction activity and (b) such activity must be undertaken for the purpose of sale to allottees. Therefore, unless both conditions co-exist, a person cannot be classified as a "promoter" under the Act and is not required to apply for registration under the Act and the Authority is not supposed to grant or refuse registration to such a person.

38. A lessee, thus, holds only a restricted right of possession and enjoyment in accordance with the terms of the lease, without acquiring absolute ownership or any inherent obligation to undertake development. Mere possession, in the absence of any legally enforceable right to sell the property, does not fulfil the statutory requirements of a "promoter" under the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016.

39. In the case of "District Mining Officer vs. Tata Iron & Steel Co." (2001) 7 SCC 358 Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

"A statute has to be construed according to the intent of them that make it and the duty of the court is to act upon the true intention of the legislature. If a statutory provision is open to more than one interpretation, the court has to choose that interpretation which represents the true intention of the legislature. The function of the courts is only to expound and not to legislate. The process of construction combines both literal and purposive approaches. In other words, the legislative intention i.e. the true or legal meaning of an enactment is derived by considering the meaning of the words used in the enactment in the light of any discernible purpose or object which comprehends the mischief and its remedy to which the enactment is directed. It is also a cardinal principle of construction that external aids are brought in by widening the concept of context as including not only other enacting provisions of the same statute, but is preamble, the exiting state of law, other statutes in pari materia and the mischief which the statute was intended to remedy.?

40. It is a settled principle of law that where the language of a statutory provision is clear and unambiguous, it must be presumed that the legislature has consciously and deliberately employed such words to give effect to the object of the Act. This principle is encapsulated in the legal maxim A Verbis Legis Non Est Recedendum, meaning thereby that no departure can be made from the plain words of the law. Accordingly, the Court is bound to proceed on the basis that the legislature intended what it has expressly stated, and the statute must be interpreted without doing violence to its language. This position has been affirmed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hardeep Singh vs. State of Punjab and Others, (2014) 3 SCC 92.

41. Similar view has been taken by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of M/s Newtech Promoters and Developers vs. State of U.P. (2021) 18 SCC 1 wherein the court has held as under: -

‘It is well established principle of interpretation of law that the court should read the section in literal sense and cannot rewrite it to suit its convenience, nor does any canon of construction permits the court to read the section in such a manner as to render it to some extent otiose.?

42. In view of the consensus between the parties, the controversy in the present appeal stands confined solely to the determination of the question as to whether a real estate project can be granted registration by the Real Estate Regulatory Authority under Section 5 of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, on a land held on lease for a period of 29 years and 11 months, in light of the provisions contained in Section 4(2)(l)(A) of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016. Accordingly, the remaining substantial questions, namely Questions Nos. 1 and 2, do not survive for consideration in the present case. The Court, therefore, adjudicates only the aforesaid third substantial question for the purpose of disposal of the instant appeal.

43. The third question of law formulated by this Court is as to whether a real estate project can be developed and registered with Real Estate Regulatory Authority under Section 5 of the Act of 2016 on the land taken on lease for a period of 29 years and 11 months in the teeth of the provisions of section 4 (2) (l) (A) of the Act of 2016.

44. Section 4 of the Act, 2016 deals with an application for registration of real estate projects making it mandatory for every promoter to make an application to the Authority for registration of the real estate project and enumerates certain documents to be enclosed along with the application. Section 4 (2) (l) (A) of the Act, 2016 makes it mandatory for a promoter to make a declaration supported by an affidavit stating that he has a legal title to the land on which the development is proposed along with legally valid documents with authentication of such title if such land is owned by another person.

45. The term "title" is a comprehensive concept signifying lawful ownership backed by enforceable rights. It is the cornerstone of property related laws, determining the legitimacy of claims and the entitlement to possession and enjoyment of property. In legal parlance, the term "title" refers to the lawful basis of ownership or the bundle of rights by which a person asserts and enjoys dominion over property. It is not merely physical possession, but the legal right to possess, use, enjoy, and dispose of property. Title embodies both ownership rights and the legitimacy of such rights, recognized and enforceable in law.

46. It has been vehemently argued by Sri Sudeep Seth learned Senior Advocate appearing for the Respondent that Section 4 (2) (l) (A) of the Act, 2016 also makes room for someone who himself does not have the title, by providing for an authentication of title if such land is owned by another person and it is grossly misconceived on the part of the Authority to allege that the respondent/promoter suffers from lack of title for the purposes of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016.

47. However, this Court is of the considered opinion that since the Respondent does not possess the legal authority or right under the terms of the lease-deed, to sell the plot, apartment, or building, as the case may be, the project does not fall within the ambit of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016. The ability to offer units for sale is a foundational element for attracting the applicability of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, as the statutory scheme primarily governs 'real estate projects' undertaken for the purpose of sale to allottees.

48. In the absence of such a right, the Respondent cannot be brought within the definition of a "promoter" under the Act, as the essential condition of developing or marketing real estate for sale remains unfulfilled. Consequently, the provisions relating to mandatory registration, particularly under Section 5 of the Act, are not attracted in the present case.

49. Therefore, it necessarily follows that the Respondent is neither obligated to seek registration nor it can be compelled to obtain registration under the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, the legislative intent being to regulate only those projects which are intended for sale to prospective allottees.

50. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

51. Consequently, the appeal is disposed of in the light of the observations made here-in-above .

52. The appellant/U.P. Real Estate Regulatory Authority, therefore is, under no obligation to provide registration number, Login ID and Password etc. to the respondent herein pursuant to its application dated 02.02.2025. The Uttar Pradesh Real Estate Regulatory Authority is expected to withdraw the communication vide Form-D containing the prohibitory and restrictive clauses against the Respondent with respect to the project in question.

53. No order as to costs.

S.C.C. Revision No. 16 of 2026

Suresh Shah Sisodiya ...Revisionist

Versus

Jai Prakash Yadav ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Whether, after having recorded a finding that the controversy between the parties involved a serious, substantial and bona fide question of title so as to attract Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, the court below was justified in proceeding to dismiss the suit on merits, or whether the only course open to it in law was to return the plaint for presentation before a court of competent jurisdiction.

Head Notes

The Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887- Section 23 & 25- A Court of Small Causes is intended to adjudicate suits of a comparatively simple nature. Therefore, where determination of the rights of parties involves an intricate and substantial question of title, such disputes are more appropriately tried by a regular Civil Court. Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 is specifically designed to meet such situations by empowering the Court to return the plaint where adjudication of the plaintiff's right depends upon proof or disproof of title which cannot be satisfactorily decided in summary proceedings. The object of the provision is to ensure that disputes involving serious questions of title, requiring full-fledged evidence and carrying consequences of finality, are determined by a competent court of ordinary civil jurisdiction.

Once such a conclusion is reached, the Court is required to refrain from deciding the suit on merits and to adopt the course statutorily prescribed, namely, return of the plaint for presentation before a competent civil court. Section 23 does not contemplate dismissal of the suit in such circumstances, for that would defeat the very purpose of the provision and may seriously prejudice the rights of the parties by foreclosing adjudication before the proper forum.

Held- The trial court has itself recorded a categorical finding that there exist two competing chains of title and that the dispute is serious, substantial and bona fide in nature. Having reached such a conclusion, it ought to have exercised jurisdiction under Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 by returning the plaint for presentation before the competent civil court-Revision allowed with the direction to return the plaint to the plaintiff for presentation before the appropriate court, as contemplated under Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887(E-15) (Para 21, 22 & 24)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

Heard Sri Devendra Dahma, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Shishir Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for the opposite party.

2. The present S.C.C. Revision under Section 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 has been preferred by the revisionist - plaintiff assailing the judgment and decree dated 30.10.2025 passed by the Judge, Small Cause Court/Additional District Judge, Court No.1, Etah in

S.C.C. Suit No.11 of 2010, whereby the suit instituted for ejectment, arrears of rent, possession and damages has been dismissed.

3. Briefly stated, the case of the revisionist-plaintiff is that he became owner/landlord of the disputed tenanted premises on 07.11.2008 by virtue of a registered lease deed executed by the managers of the temple property, namely Shri Raj Rajeshwar Maharaj Mahadev Ji Maharaj Virajman Mandir. It is asserted that the opposite party was already occupying the premises as a tenant at a monthly rent of Rs.3,500 and, upon execution of the said lease deed, the revisionist stepped into the shoes of the erstwhile landlord.

4. It is further pleaded that the tenant committed default in payment of rent, whereafter notices terminating the tenancy were duly issued. Despite service thereof, the tenant failed to vacate the premises or clear the arrears, compelling the revisionist to institute S.C.C. Suit No. 11 of 2010 seeking eviction, recovery of arrears of rent and damages for use and occupation.

5. The defendant-tenant contested the suit by specifically denying the existence of any relationship of landlord and tenant with the revisionist. He set up an independent and competing chain of title through one Shishupal Singh, supported by registered sale deeds tracing back to earlier transactions, and asserted that he continued to be tenant under the said Shishupal Singh and not under the plaintiff.

6. The trial court, upon appreciation of the oral and documentary evidence on record, recorded findings to the effect that the plaintiff failed to establish the relationship of landlord and tenant, that two rival chains of title had been set up by the parties, and that the dispute regarding title was serious, substantial and bona fide in nature. However, despite recording such findings, the trial court did not exercise jurisdiction under Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 for return of the plaint, and instead proceeded to dismiss the suit on merits.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the trial court has committed a manifest error of jurisdiction in dismissing the suit on merits despite having itself recorded a categorical finding that a serious and bona fide dispute regarding title exists between the parties. It is contended that once the trial court found two rival and competing chains of title requiring adjudication upon detailed evidence, the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court stood circumscribed by Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, and the only course open to it in law was to return the plaint for presentation before a court of competent regular jurisdiction.

8. It is further urged that Section 23 does not contemplate dismissal of the suit in such circumstances, but is specifically designed to prevent summary adjudication of complex title disputes by a court lacking jurisdiction to finally determine the same. The trial court, by proceeding to decide the matter on merits, has failed to exercise jurisdiction vested in it and has caused serious prejudice to the revisionist. It is, therefore, submitted that the impugned judgment is legally unsustainable and liable to be set aside with a direction for return of the plaint in accordance with law.

9. Learned counsel appearing for the respondents, while not admitting the stand taken by the revisionist in its entirety, has not disputed the legal position with regard to the scope and ambit of Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887. It has also not been controverted on behalf of the respondents that where the Court of Small Causes forms an opinion that adjudication of the dispute would necessarily involve determination of complex and substantial questions relating to title, the proper course in law would be to return the plaint for presentation before a court of competent jurisdiction rather than to proceed to decide the suit finally on merits.

10. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record. The principal question which arises for consideration in the present revision is whether, after having recorded a finding that the controversy between the parties involved a serious, substantial and bona fide question of title so as to attract Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, the court below was justified in proceeding to dismiss the suit on merits, or whether the only course open to it in law was to return the plaint for presentation before a court of competent jurisdiction.

11. In order to appreciate the controversy, it would be apposite to notice Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, which reads as under:

'23. Return of plaints in suits involving questions of title. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing portion of this Act, when the right of a plaintiff and the relief claimed by him in a Court of Small Causes depend upon the proof or disproof of a title to immovable property or other title which such a Court cannot finally determine, the court may at any stage of the proceedings return the plaint to be presented to a Court having jurisdiction to determine the title.

(2) When a Court returns a plaint under sub-section (1), it shall comply with the provisions of the second paragraph of Section 57 of the Code of Civil Procedure and make such order with respect to costs as it deems just, and the Court shall, for the purposes of the Limitation Act, 1877 be deemed to have been unable to entertain the suit by reason of a cause of a nature like to that of defect of jurisdiction.

12. The scope of Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 assumes significance in determining whether a suit instituted before a Court of Small Causes ought to be tried on merits or returned for presentation before a regular Civil Court. The provision embodies a jurisdictional limitation on the summary powers of the Small Cause Court and operates as a mechanism to ensure that disputes requiring final adjudication of title are not decided in a forum not competent to conclusively determine such issues. It thus preserves the distinction between the summary jurisdiction exercised in rent and eviction matters and the plenary jurisdiction vested in ordinary Civil Courts for adjudication of complex proprietary disputes. In essence, it reserves substantial questions of title and proprietary rights for courts of regular civil jurisdiction equipped to undertake a full-fledged trial.

13. A careful reading of the provision shows that though it employs the expression 'may', return of plaint is not to be understood as an unguided discretion. The discretion conferred is judicial in nature and has to be exercised upon examination of the real controversy between the parties. Only where the plaintiff's right to relief is substantially dependent upon proof or disproof of title incapable of final determination by the Small Cause Court does the occasion arise for invoking Section 23.

14. It is equally well settled that a mere denial of title by the defendant does not ipso facto attract Section 23. In suits for eviction and arrears of rent, the principal issue ordinarily is the existence of the jural relationship of landlord and tenant and not adjudication of absolute title. For deciding such relationship, the Small Cause Court is competent to incidentally examine questions of title to a limited extent. Such incidental scrutiny does not amount to a final declaration of ownership.

15. In Shamim Akhtar v. Iqbal Ahmad1, the Supreme Court has clarified that a Court of Small Causes can incidentally examine questions of title for the limited purpose of determining the existence of landlord-tenant relationship, and that such incidental findings do not amount to final adjudication. It was further held that the power under Section 23 is to be exercised only where the relief claimed is inseparably dependent upon final determination of title, and that a tenant cannot avoid eviction proceedings merely by denying the landlord's title or raising collateral disputes.

16. Section 23 embodies the principle that jurisdiction is determined not by the ingenuity of pleadings, but by the true nature of the relief claimed. A defendant cannot, by merely raising a plea of title, convert a summary eviction proceeding into a regular title suit. The provision must, therefore, be construed in a manner that prevents procedural subversion while at the same time preserving the legislative object of providing a speedy remedy in landlord-tenant disputes.

17. Thus, a tenant cannot be permitted to frustrate summary proceedings by setting up a bald, illusory or superficial dispute of title. Equally, where the controversy is genuine, substantial and supported by material disclosing competing claims of ownership going to the very root of the landlord□tenant relationship, the Court must recognise the limits of its summary jurisdiction and adopt the course contemplated by law.

18. The jurisprudence underlying Section 23 is intended to maintain a balance between the expeditious disposal of tenancy disputes and the full adjudication of serious civil rights before a competent forum. The law permits incidental examination of title so as to avoid delay in summary proceedings, yet simultaneously recognises that complex and bona fide disputes involving competing proprietary claims ought to be adjudicated by a competent civil court. The distinction between incidental examination of title and final adjudication of title is, therefore, crucial. While the former is permissible to the limited extent necessary for determining whether a landlord□tenant relationship exists, the latter lies outside the normal province of the Court of Small Causes.

19. The discretionary nature of Section 23 is rooted in the principle that such discretion must be exercised judicially. Where the dispute of title is real, substantial and goes to the root of the matter, and is incapable of being decided in a summary manner, the Court must decline to adjudicate the suit on merits. As explained by the Supreme Court in Budhu Mal v. Mahabir Prasad2, the power to return the plaint is to be exercised in those cases where doing so is necessary to ensure complete justice between the parties and to avoid prejudice arising from adjudication by an inappropriate forum.

20. The legal position governing Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 is well settled. A mere plea of title raised by the defendant does not, by itself, oust the jurisdiction of the Court of Small Causes, which may proceed where such plea is unsubstantial or lacking bona fides. However, where the dispute of title is real, substantial, supported by material on record, and goes to the root of the landlord-tenant relationship, the Court must examine whether the controversy can be satisfactorily decided within the limits of its summary jurisdiction. If adjudication of the plaintiff's right and relief necessarily depends upon determination of a substantial and intricate question of title, the proper and judicious course would be to return the plaint for presentation before the competent civil court.

21. A Court of Small Causes is intended to adjudicate suits of a comparatively simple nature. Therefore, where determination of the rights of parties involves an intricate and substantial question of title, such disputes are more appropriately tried by a regular Civil Court. Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 is specifically designed to meet such situations by empowering the Court to return the plaint where adjudication of the plaintiff□s right depends upon proof or disproof of title which cannot be satisfactorily decided in summary proceedings. The object of the provision is to ensure that disputes involving serious questions of title, requiring full-fledged evidence and carrying consequences of finality, are determined by a competent court of ordinary civil jurisdiction.

22. Once such a conclusion is reached, the Court is required to refrain from deciding the suit on merits and to adopt the course statutorily prescribed, namely, return of the plaint for presentation before a competent civil court. Section 23 does not contemplate dismissal of the suit in such circumstances, for that would defeat the very purpose of the provision and may seriously prejudice the rights of the parties by foreclosing adjudication before the proper forum.

23. While Section 23 is couched in discretionary terms and does not render return of the plaint mandatory in every case, such discretion must be exercised judiciously and upon sound principles. Where the dispute of title is bona fide, substantial and incapable of summary adjudication, it would be a proper and prudent exercise of jurisdiction for the Court of Small Causes to return the plaint for presentation before the competent civil court rather than proceed to determine the controversy within the confines of its limited summary jurisdiction.

24. In the present case, the trial court has itself recorded a categorical finding that there exist two competing chains of title and that the dispute is serious, substantial and bona fide in nature. Having reached such a conclusion, it ought to have exercised jurisdiction under Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 by returning the plaint for presentation before the competent civil court.

25. The dismissal of the suit on merits, despite such findings, amounts to a jurisdictional error, inasmuch as the court below has failed to exercise the jurisdiction vested in it by law and, at the same time, assumed jurisdiction to decide issues falling beyond the permissible scope of its summary powers.

26. In the result, the judgment and decree dated 30.10.2025 passed by the Judge, Small Cause Court/Additional District Judge, Court No. 1, Etah in S.C.C. Suit No.11 of 2010 are hereby set aside. The Judge, Small Causes is directed to return the plaint to the plaintiff for presentation before the appropriate court, as contemplated under Section 23 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887.

27. The revision is, accordingly, allowed.

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether administrative deficiencies/missing entries in official dispatch registers can automatically render an appointment or post-creation order forged/fabricated?
(b) Whether long-standing service/equity protects appointees whose initial entry into service suffered from lack of basic statutory eligibility qualifications or was vitiated by fraud?
(c) Whether the petitioners are entitled to release of salary arrears and retiral benefits?

Headnotes

A. Service Law - U.P. Junior High Schools (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other Employees) Act, 1978: Section 9(2) - Dharmendra Kumar Janta Laghu Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Satgur Muzuri, District Maharajganj was established in 1974 as a recognized Junior High School (Classes VI to VIII) and was brought under the State grant-in-aid list on 12.09.1994.

On 08.06.1996, the Assistant Director of Education (Basic), Gorakhpur, allegedly sanctioned/created 7 posts of Assistant Teachers and 1 post of Assistant Clerk. Permission to advertise was granted by the District Basic Education Officer (BSA), Maharajganj on 06.06.1996. The management advertised the posts in a local daily (Rashtriya Chetna), conducted selections on 27.06.1996, and submitted the proposal for approval. The BSA granted approval on 29.06.1996, and the petitioners joined on 01.07.1996.

The petitioners received their salaries until August 2000, after which their salaries were abruptly withheld pending an inquiry ordered on 24.10.2000 by the Assistant Director of Education (Basic). The petitioners challenged the salary stoppage in Writ Petition No. 28745 of 2001, wherein an interim order was granted on 06.08.2001 directing that salary non-payment stay in abeyance during the inquiry. This interim order was never complied with by the State authorities. On 27.09.2018, the High Court criticized the state officials for failing to conclude the inquiry for over 17 years and directed the Director of Education (Basic), U.P. to finalize the inquiry and fix accountability. Pursuant to the Director's inquiry report dated 10.10.2018, the BSA, Maharajganj passed the impugned order dated 12.01.2023, rejecting the petitioners' claim for salary.

B. Where approval orders are not verifiable from dispatch records and minimum qualifications are absent, the appointments cannot be held to be lawful, nor can such appointees claim salary from the State exchequer. (Para 51, 53 to 55)

B.(i) In the present case, the issue is not merely of a missing entry in the dispatch register, but rather a cumulative pattern of discrepancies, contradictions, and suspicious circumstances surrounding the very genesis of the appointments. The order, based on records, reveals inconsistencies regarding sanction of posts, variance in the names of employees reflected in the M.R. records of 1991–92 vis-à-vis salary bills of 1996, absence of proof regarding sanctioned vacancies, doubtful approval letters, and procedural irregularities in the selection process. Such circumstances cast a serious cloud upon the legality of the appointments themselves. (Para 48)

Glaring inconsistencies cannot be brushed aside as mere administrative lapses, especially where the petitioners seek enforcement of monetary claims from public funds. The very substratum of the petitioners' claim remains shrouded in uncertainty and suspicion. (Para 45, 46, 47)

B.(ii) Lacking the requisite qualifications prescribed u/Rule 4 of the Rules, 1978 – Petitioner nos. 1, 2 and 4 in Writ-A No. 3037 of 2023 have been alleged to be lacking the requisite qualifications prescribed u/Rule 4 of the Rules, 1978, for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher. The petitioners have failed to dispel the said objection by placing cogent material on record. (Para 50)

C. The appointments are ex facie contrary to Section 9(2) of the Act, 1978. Even if assumed that the alleged posts were created either in 1980 or 1988, admittedly, appointments came to be made only in the year 1996, much beyond the statutory period of three months prescribed u/s 9(2), whereby approval for newly created posts stands deemed withdrawn if appointments are not made within the stipulated period. Consequently, the very basis of appointment becomes legally unsustainable. (Para 49)

D. Equity cannot override statutory mandate. It is trite that there can be no estoppel against law. There can be no quarrel with the proposition that long-standing appointments ought not ordinarily be unsettled. However, Mere continuance in service for a period of time or receipt of salary for certain years cannot sanctify an appointment which is otherwise dehors the statutory framework. The foundational burden to establish a lawful appointment squarely rests upon the petitioners. A person claiming salary from the State Exchequer must demonstrate that his appointment was made strictly in accordance with the statutory procedure and against duly sanctioned posts. (Para 44, 56, 63)

It is a settled proposition of law that salary payable from public exchequer can only be claimed by a person whose appointment is demonstrably legal and in accordance with statutory provisions. Sympathy or equitable considerations cannot be permitted to supplant the rule of law, particularly where public funds are involved. (Para 57)

Equity cannot be invoked to perpetuate an illegality. Since the petitioners were permitted to function, if at all, only for a short duration of approximately four years on the basis of appointments which were not made in accordance with the procedure prescribed under law, they cannot derive any equitable advantage so as to seek continuance of service or salary from the State Exchequer. (Para 62, 64)

E. Salary is payable for the work actually performed, save in exceptional circumstances where the employee is unlawfully prevented from discharging duties despite a valid appointment. In the present case, petitioners' appointments themselves stand clouded by serious infirmities and have been found to be contrary to statutory provisions, therefore, any claim for salary beyond the period for which actual work has been discharged cannot be countenanced. In absence of any material, it cannot be presumed that petitioners continued to work in the Institution after stoppage of salary in August, 2000. They cannot claim salary as a matter of right merely on the strength of an interim order, particularly when the factum of rendering service itself remains unsubstantiated. (Para 58 to 60)

Petitioners have failed to establish that their appointments were made against duly sanctioned posts and in accordance with the provisions of the Rules, 1978 and the Act, 1978. The findings recorded in the inquiry report dated 10.10.2018 and the consequential order dated 12.01.2023 do not suffer from perversity, arbitrariness, or illegality warranting interference in exercise of writ jurisdiction u/Article 226 of the Constitution. (Para 66)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

2. As all the abovementioned three petitions arise out of connected facts and involve common questions for consideration, with the consent of learned counsel for the parties, the same are being heard and decided together by this common judgment.

3. Placing the brief facts of the case, learned counsel for the petitioners submits that Dharmendra Kumar Janta Laghu Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Satgur Muzuri, District Maharajganj1 is a duly recognized Junior High School, which was brought on the grant-in-aid list vide order dated 12.09.1994. The Institution in question was established in the year 1974 as a Junior High School imparting education from Classes VI to VIII and has been functioning continuously since its establishment. The Institution, as already stated, was brought under the grant-in-aid list for the first time vide order of the State Government dated 12.09.1994.

4. At the relevant point of time, the Institution had one Headmaster, 13 Assistant Teachers, 3 Class-IV employees, and 1 Class-III employee working therein. Subsequently, vide order dated 08.06.1996 passed by the Assistant Director of Education (Basic), Seventh Region, Gorakhpur, 7 posts of Assistant Teachers and 1 post of Assistant Clerk were sanctioned/created for the Institution in question.

5. For the purpose of filling up the aforesaid sanctioned posts, the Institution sought prior permission from the District Basic Education Officer, Maharajganj2, which was granted vide order dated 06.06.1996, permitting the Institution to publish advertisements in newspapers in accordance with the prescribed procedure under law.

6. Accordingly, the Manager of the Institution proceeded to advertise the aforesaid posts in two daily newspapers in accordance with law. Pursuant thereto, eligible candidates, including the petitioners, duly submitted their applications and appeared before the Selection Committee. The Selection Committee, after considering the candidature of the applicants, held the selection proceedings on 27.06.1996 and found the petitioners to be the most suitable candidates on the basis of quality point marks. Consequently, their names were recommended for issuance of appointment letters. Thereafter, the Committee of Management, accepting the recommendations made by the Selection Committee, duly forwarded the relevant papers to the District Basic Education Officer, Maharajganj, for grant of approval, which came to be accorded on 29.06.1996.

7. On the basis of the aforesaid approval, all the petitioners joined their respective posts on 01.07.1996 and have been discharging their duties regularly and continuously since then. The petitioners were paid salary regularly, without any interruption, and continued to receive the same up to the month of August, 2000. However, without any justifiable reason and without affording any opportunity of hearing to the petitioners, payment of their salary was withheld under the garb of some inquiry, which is wholly arbitrary and unsustainable in the eyes of law.

8. It has further been submitted that when the salary bills pertaining to the petitioners, along with those of other teachers, were submitted by the Management before the BSA, a note/remark dated 10.01.2001 was made by the BSA to the effect that in pursuance of the order dated 24.10.2000 passed by the Assistant Director of Education (Basic), Seventh Region, Gorakhpur, payment of salary to the petitioners shall remain withheld and could be released only after conclusion of the inquiry.

9. Aggrieved by the order dated 24.10.2000 passed by Assistant Director of Education (Basic), Seventh Region, Gorakhpur, as well as the consequential orders/notings made by the BSA on the salary bills of the petitioners for the period commencing from the month of August, 2000 onwards, the petitioners instituted Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 28745 of 20013. In the said writ petition, this Court granted an interim order dated 06.08.2001, which reads as under:

"Supplementary affidavit filed today be kept on record."

The respondents no 1 to 4 are represented by the standing Counsel. He may file counter affidavit within six weeks. Required steps be taken by the petitioner within three days.

List after expiry of the aforesaid period

In the meantime considering the fact that the petitioners were getting salary since 1996 after approval. Stopping of their salary merely because of some complaint which in the opinion of the respondent no. 1 requires some enquiry does not appear to be justified. It has been alleged by the petitioner that almost one year has been passed but no enquiry has been done so far. In the circumstances as an interim measure, it is directed that the order stopping the salary of the petitioner will remain in abeyance to the extent it directs the stopping of the salary. However. the enquiry will continue but in the enquiry no final orders will be passed unless the concerned teachers as well as Management are given opportunity of hearing.

10. It is submitted that the interim order granted by this Court was neither given effect to nor complied with by the respondent authorities.

11. During the pendency of Writ Petition No. 28745 of 2001, a subsequent order dated 27.09.2018 was passed by this Court,which is as follows:

'Supplementary affidavits filed today by the respective parties be taken on record.

This writ petition is filed in the year 2001, in which, an order was passed on 6.8.2001, which is quoted below :-

"Supplementary affidavit filed today be kept on record.

The respondents No. 1 to 4 are represented by the standing Counsel. He may file counter affidavit within six weeks. Required steps be taken by the petitioner within three days.

List after expiry of the aforesaid period.

In the meantime, considering the fact that the petitioners were getting salary since 1996 after approval. Stopping of their salary merely because of some complaint which in the opinion of the respondent no.1 requires some enquiry does not appear to be justified. It has been alleged by the petitioner that almost one year has been passed but no enquiry has been done so far. In the circumstances as an interim measure, it is directed that the order stopping the salary of the petitioner will remain in abeyance to the extent it directs the stopping of the salary. However, he enquiry will continue but in the enquiry no final orders will be passed unless the concerned teachers as well as Management are given opportunity of hearing."

While passing the order dated 6.8.2001, this Court had clearly indicated and recorded that the petitioners were getting the salary since 1996, after approval which was stopped on a complaint, which in the opinion of respondent No.1, the Assistant Director of Education (Basic), 7th Region, Gorakhpur, requires some enquiry.

The petitioner approached this Court in the year 2001 with an objection that even after expiry of one year, no enquiry report was submitted and in the garb of the alleged enquiry, the salary of the petitioner was stopped / not paid.

This Court while entertaining this writ petition has provided as an interim measure by directing that the order stopping the salary of the petitioner will remain in abeyance to the extent it directs that the stopping of salary. However, this Court further clarified that the enquiry will continue but in the inquiry no final orders will be passed unless the opportunity will be provided to the concerned Teachers as well as the management.

It appears that in the garb of the aforesaid order, the matter is yet not settled nor the enquiry is finalized even after a gap of more than 17 years.

This Court finds it appropriate that this matter must be placed before the Director of Education (Basic), Uttar Pradesh at Lucknow,and before the concern Principal Secretary, who are hereby directed to take appropriate action against the erring authorities, who were supposed to complete the enquiry within a reasonable time, which in my opinion expired at least 15 years back.

In case, if the petitioner is entitled, the erring officials, who so ever they may be, will be liable to pay the entire salary or dues if the same is payable.

List this petition before this Court on 12 October 2018.

12. On Pursuant to the aforesaid order, an inquiry report was submitted by the Director of Education (Basic). The said inquiry report was assailed by the petitioners by way of amendment in the writ petition.

13. On the basis of the inquiry report submitted by the Director of Education (Basic), the claim of the petitioners came to be rejected vide order dated 12.01.2023 passed by the BSA. Aggrieved by the aforesaid order, petitioner nos. 1, 2, 3 and 5 challenged the same by instituting Writ-A No. 3037 of 2023.

14. By means of the said writ petition, the petitioners, inter alia, prayed for quashing of the order dated 12.01.2023 and further sought a direction to the respondent authorities to release and pay their salary with effect from August, 2000 onwards.

15. It is further submitted that the interim order dated 06.08.2001 passed in Writ Petition No. 28745 of 2001 was not complied with by the respondent authorities, despite the fact that Special Appeal preferred by state respondents was dismissed.

16. During the pendency of the matter, petitioner - Brahm Dev Yadav, and petitioner - Anirudh Yadav, attained the age of superannuation and retired in the years 2021 and 2022 respectively. Aggrieved by non-release of retiral dues, they preferred Writ-A No. 2504 of 2026 before this Court praying for a writ of mandamus directing the respondent authorities to release their pension and other retiral benefits.

17. It is contended by learned counsel for the petitioners that the impugned order dated 12.01.2023 has been passed by respondent no. 2 merely on the ground that the official dispatch register containing the relevant dispatch number is not traceable in the office of the BSA. Consequently, the respondents have raised doubts regarding the validity of creation of the posts on which the petitioners came to be appointed.

18. It is further contended that if the dispatch register for the relevant period is not traceable or is missing from the office of the Deputy Director of Education (Basic), Seventh Region, Gorakhpur, the same cannot be attributed to the petitioners. Moreover, no action appears to have been taken against the officials concerned for such negligence or dereliction of duty.

19. It is contended that mere non-availability or non-traceability of the dispatch register containing reference to the post-creation letter dated 05.05.1980 cannot be made the sole basis to conclude that the said letter, pursuant to which the posts against which the petitioners were appointed were created/sanctioned, is forged and fabricated.

20. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that the impugned order dated 12.01.2023 passed by the BSA, is founded solely upon the order/report dated 10.10.2018 of the Director of Education (Basic). It is contended that the rejection of the petitioners' claim for payment of salary on such basis is patently illegal and cannot be sustained in law.

21. Placing reliance upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Subodh Kumar Prasad vs. State of Bihar4, learned counsel for the petitioners contends that the mere absence of an entry in the dispatch register cannot, by itself, invalidate the existence of a relied document. Placing reliance upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Radhey Shyam Yadav & Anr. vs. State of U.P. and Others5, learned counsel for the petitioners contends that where excess appointments had been made against sanctioned posts, but no illegality was attributable to the employees themselves, the Supreme Court has deprecated the abrupt stoppage of salary and set aside the order assailed therein.

22. Placing reliance upon the aforesaid judgment, learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that, in the present case also, the appointments of the petitioners were made after following the due procedure prescribed under law and were duly approved by the competent authority. The petitioners have rendered services for more than thirty years and had continuously discharged their duties.

23. It is contended that the salary of the petitioners has been stopped solely on the ground that the record relating to creation/sanction of posts does not find mention in the dispatch register. Mere non-availability of such entry, however, cannot be made the basis to invalidate the appointments or deny salary to the petitioners after decades of service. On this ground alone, it is submitted that the impugned order is arbitrary, illegal and unsustainable in the eyes of law.

24. Reliance has further been placed upon the judgment passed in the case of Rajesh Kumar Srivastava v. State of U.P. & 4 Ors.6, wherein stoppage of salary was occasioned on account of an alleged discrepancy/mismatch in the dispatch number pertaining to the approval letter and the post creation letter. The petitioner therein having retired from service, and no illegality being attributable to him and the Court had directed release of salary and consequential retiral benefits.

25. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that in the case of Yashwant Kumar Rai also, the approval letter could not be duly verified from the dispatch register and, on the said ground, payment of salary was stopped. Aggrieved thereby, the petitioner therein approached this Court by instituting Writ-A No. 17479 of 2021 (Yashwant Kumar Rai v. State of U.P. & 4 Ors.), which came to be allowed in the light of the observations made by the Supreme Court in Subodh Kumar Prakash vs. State of Bihar and Others7. The said writ petition was allowed vide judgment and order dated 04.11.2022.

26. It is further submitted that the aforesaid judgment and order dated 04.11.2022 was assailed by the State of Uttar Pradesh by filing Special Appeal (Defective) No. 400 of 20238, however, the appeal preferred by the State Government came to be dismissed vide order dated 31.05.2023.

27. Reliance has also been placed upon the judgment in the case of Ram Kewal & 7 Ors. v. State of U.P. & 2 Ors.9, wherein, despite non-availability of records concerning approval of appointments and post creation, coupled with missing pages of the dispatch register, this Court held that appointments made after due compliance of statutory procedure cannot be disturbed on such administrative deficiencies alone, unless tainted by fraud on the part of the appointee.

28. Aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment, the State preferred Special Appeal (Defective) No. 660 of 202510, which ultimately came to be dismissed vide judgment and order dated 23.04.2026. Nevertheless, the question of law concerning the effect and interpretation of Section 9(2) of the U.P. Junior High Schools (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other Employees) Act, 197811 was expressly left open to be adjudicated in an appropriate proceeding.

29. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that in case of Tridip Kumar Dingal and others v. State of West Bengal & Ors.12, the Apex Court held that long-standing appointments should not ordinarily be unsettled merely because some irregularity is alleged in the selection process, especially where the appointees are not at fault and have continued in service for years. Judicial discretion must balance legality with equity and administrative stability.

30. In view of the aforesaid, the impugned orders are liable to be quashed and the petitioners are entitled for payment of salary together with arrears and all consequential benefits admissible under law

31. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel submitted that although permission was allegedly granted by the BSA on 06.06.1996 to the Management of the Institution for issuance of an advertisement with respect to the vacant post of Assistant Teacher, the said post was not reflected as a sanctioned post in the official records of the office concerned.

32. The learned Standing Counsel further contended that the Manager of the Institution had issued an advertisement in the daily newspaper ‘Rashtriya Chetna’, which did not have wide circulation in District Maharajganj. Subsequently, a meeting of the Committee of Management was held on 27.06.1996, wherein the recommendations of the selection committee came to be approved. It was further alleged that the selection proceedings were completed in the absence of an observer, thereby vitiating the process.

33. The learned Standing Counsel further submitted that the selection committee, without adhering to the procedure prescribed under the Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers) Rules, 197813, initiated the appointment proceedings, selected the petitioners for the posts of Assistant Teacher, and forwarded the proposal for approval. It was contended that the relevant papers were forwarded by the Manager of the Institution on 27.06.1996 to the BSA, who allegedly granted approval on the very same day in favour of the petitioners. However, the said approval order was not reflected in the dispatch register maintained in the office of the BSA.

34. The learned Standing Counsel further submitted that the alleged appointment of the petitioners was made in contravention to the provisions contained under Rules 4, 7, 9, 10 and 11 of the Rules, 1978, therefore, the same is wholly unsustainable in the eyes of law.

35. The learned Standing Counsel further submitted that the appointment of the petitioners was made against the posts allegedly created pursuant to a post-creation order. However, upon verification, it was found that the alleged post-creation order dated 19.01.1988 did not correspond with the dispatch records maintained in the office concerned.

36. The learned Standing Counsel further submitted that the alleged letter dated 06.06.1996, purportedly issued by the then BSA granting permission to advertise the posts, is not traceable in the office records, thereby rendering its genuineness doubtful. It was further argued that although the Manager of the Institution allegedly forwarded the selection proceedings and proposal for approval, and approval is stated to have been granted on 27.06.1996, no corresponding entry exists in the dispatch register of the office of the BSA. As such, the approval order relied upon by the petitioners appears to be false and fabricated, and consequently, the entire selection and appointment proceedings undertaken by the Committee of Management stand vitiated.

37. It has been further submitted that petitioner nos. 1, 2 and 4 in Writ Petition No. 3037 of 2023 were not duly qualified for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher in terms of Rule 4 of the Rules, 1978. It was contended that petitioner no. 1, namely Amar Prakash Chandra, possessed the qualification of B.Sc., B.Ed.; petitioner no. 2, namely Ashok Lal Srivastava, possessed the qualification of B.A., B.Ed.; and petitioner no. 4, namely Anirudh Yadav, possessed the qualification of M.A., L.T., which, according to the respondents, did not satisfy the prescribed eligibility requirements under the applicable Rules.

38. It was further submitted that the aforesaid controversy already stands settled by this Court in the case of Deepak Kumar and Another v. State of U.P. and Others14, judgment dated 27.04.2016, wherein this Court considered the issue in detail and observed as follows in paragraphs 19, 20 and 21:

‘19. An affidavit of Sri Raj Kumar, District Basic Education Officer, Allahabad, dated 24th February, 2016, has been filed. Paragraphs 3 and 4 of the affidavit reads as under:-

"3. That as per direction of Hon'ble Court dated 20.1.2016 the answering respondent have gone into 'Uttar Pradesh Basic Shiksha Karmchari Varg Niyamawali, 1973' read with 'Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Act, 1972', and after examining the provisions enshrined under U.P. Basic Shiksha Karmchari Varg Niyamawali, 1973, the deponent has gone into the qualification as prescribed under Rule 10 of said Rules, wherein the minimum educational eligibility criteria has been mentioned. Rule 10 of said Rules reads as under:-

"Rule 10: Educational Qualification-

The minimum educational qualifications are as under:-

(a). Teachers of Nursery Vidyalaya:-

Nursery Training from Trained Institutions.

(b). Teachers (Male/Female) for Junior Basic Schools:-

Trained High School/Teachers from old trained Junior High Schools are eligible for appointments.

(c). In Senior Basic Institutions, Teachers (Male/Female) are being appointed, who possess the minimum educational qualification of Intermediate with Training."

4. That in view of aforesaid, it is evident to mention here that before commencement of Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Services of Teachers) Rule, 1978, the minimum qualification for an appointment of a teacher for Junior Basic Schools was 'High School with Training' as well as Junior High Schools for 'Old Teachers with Training' and for Senior Basic Institutions, the minimum educational qualification was prescribed 'Intermediate alongwith Training Qualification'. The training qualification is said to be BTC, HTC, JTC etc. ..."

20. It is in the context of these facts and circumstances that petitioners' claim for payment of salary is required to be considered. Admittedly, none of the petitioners possesses training qualification. The service rules in respect of teachers of privately managed Junior High Schools were framed in 1978, which required minimum qualification of intermediate with recognized training qualification. The minimum qualification otherwise specified in respect of teachers of Junior High School under U.P. Basic Education Employees Service Regulations, 1973, readwith Basic Education Act, 1972, is trained High School for Junior Basic Schools and trained Intermediate for Senior Basic Schools. Learned counsel for the petitioners contend that prior to framing of 1978 rules, there existed no rules, which prescribed any minimum qualification for appointment of teachers. In case this contention is to be accepted, then anybody could become a teacher and claim salary from State. This contention, therefore, cannot be accepted. It cannot be presumed that task of teaching students could be left to even an illiterate person. Even if no statutory rules existed on 1.7.1977, prescribing the minimum qualification for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher in a Junior High School, yet, the State would be justified in insisting upon a reasonable qualification to be possessed, before he/she could be held entitled to payment of salary from the State. Apex Court, in its decision in State of Orissa Vs. Mamata Mohanty; (2011) 3 SCC 436, has been pleased to hold that possessing of minimum qualification is essential for standard of education to be maintained, and the State would be justified in insisting upon minimum qualifications to be possessed for grant of aid. The minimum qualification prescribed in respect of similar teachers under U.P. Basic Education Employees Service Regulations, 1973 readwith U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972, is a trained matriculate. The possessing of training qualification is otherwise mandatory by virtue of the Clause-4 of the Government Order dated 20.3.1997. Petitioners admittedly do not possess any recognized training qualification on the date of their appointment i.e. 1.7.1977. It is, therefore, to be observed that the petitioner nos.1 to 6 could not have been validly appointed in the institution due to lack of minimum qualification possessed, nor in its absence, they are entitled to payment of salary from State, in view of Clause-4 of the Government Order dated 20.3.1997.

21. There is a serious issue on facts as to whether petitioners' appointment had been approved. The petitioners have referred to the approval dated 31st of July, 1990 but no such order exists on record. The original dispatch register has been produced before the Court to show that no such letter/order was dispatched on the relevant date. Even otherwise, no provision has been shown under the rules of 1978, whereunder any order of regularization/approval could be issued. I am, therefore, inclined to hold that no order of approval exists in favour of the petitioners, as alleged by them, in terms of Clause-4 of the Government Order dated 20.3.1997. So far as petitioner no.7 is concerned, no approval of appointment exists in her favour either, once the approval dated 31st of July, 1990 is disbelieved.'

39. Learned counsel for the respondents further submits that the letter sanctioning the posts on which the petitioners were appointed, dated 19.01.1988, as well as the permission granted for filling up the posts on 06.06.1996 and the approval order dated 27.06.1996, were not reflected in the dispatch register. From this, it can be inferred that the appointments were made on the basis of forged and fabricated documents, which have also not been placed on record.

40. It is submitted that the impugned order dated 10.10.2018 passed by the Director of Education (Basic), U.P., Lucknow, as well as the order dated 12.01.2023 passed by the BSA, are in accordance with law and suffer from no illegality, therefore, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

41. Learned Counsel for the respondents on the basis of details mentioned in the order dated 10.10.2018 passed by Director of Education (Basic), U.P., Lucknow, submits that Dharmendra Kumar Janta Laghu Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Satgur Muzuri, Maharajganj, was granted recognition by the letter dated 05.05.1980 issued by the Deputy Director of Education, Seventh Division, Gorakhpur. Thereafter, vide letter dated 12.09.1994 the Institution was included in the grant-in-aid list.

i. It is further stated that additional classes were sanctioned to the Institution vide letter/order dated 05.05.1980 issued by the then District Inspector of Schools, Gorakhpur, whereby 4 additional sections in Class VI, 4 in Class VII, and 3 in Class VIII were approved. It is further stated that, vide another letter/order of the same reference number and date, i.e., 05.05.1980, issued by the then District Inspector of Schools, Gorakhpur, two additional sections each from Classes VI to VIII were sanctioned, thereby recognising a total of 5 sections in each class from VI to VIII, aggregating to 15 sections in all.

ii. Thus, the Institution appears to have obtained two separate orders granting permission for additional classes bearing the same reference number and date, which, prima facie, renders the matter suspicious, particularly in view of the fact that permanent recognition was granted to the Institution by the Deputy Director of Education, Seventh Division, Gorakhpur, only on 05.05.1980.

iii. It has been shown that the additional sanction/approval of the Institution was granted by the Assistant Director of Education (Secondary), Seventh Division, Gorakhpur, vide order dated 19.01.1988. However, the same appears to be wholly forged and fabricated, inasmuch as the document dated 19.01.1988 is addressed to the Postmaster, Head Post Office, Gorakhpur. In such circumstances, the alleged additional sanction order of the Institution dated 19.01.1988 is wholly forged, fabricated, and fictitious.

iv. Thus, the alleged additional recognition/approval order dated 05.05.1980 produced by the Institution before this Court appears to be wholly forged, fabricated, and fictitious, particularly when the Institution itself is showing the grant of permission for additional classes on the very same date, i.e., 05.05.1980. The grant of permanent recognition, approval for additional classes, and sanction of additional sections/curriculum on one and the same date is not in consonance with the governing rules and, therefore, appears to be impermissible under the applicable regulatory framework.

v. In Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 28745 of 2001, Smt. Durgawati Devi, Manager of the Institution, while filing a counter affidavit in July, 2005, placed before this Court an alleged order relating to additional recognition/approval of the Institution purportedly issued from the office of the Deputy Director of Education, Seventh Division, Gorakhpur, vide letter/order dated 05.05.1980.

vi. It is stated that, in the academic session 1991-92, an application was submitted by the Manager of the Institution seeking grant-in-aid for upgrading the Institution to Junior High School status. Along with the said application, a prescribed proforma was annexed containing details of the teachers and non-teaching staff working in the Institution at the relevant point of time.

vii. The said proforma bears the signatures of the Manager of the Institution, the Headmaster, the concerned Block Education officer Paniyara, Maharajganj, and the BSA, dated 13.02.1993. It is further stated that the same was countersigned/approved by the then Assistant Director of Education (Basic), Seventh Division, Gorakhpur, though such approval appears to be doubtful/suspicious.

viii. In the aforesaid proforma, the particulars of the teachers and non-teaching employees have been furnished in the following manner:

क्र०सं०	शिक्षक/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारी का नाम	पदनाम	संस्था में नियुक्ति तिथि

ix. It is stated that, in the grant-in-aid records of the Institution for the Academic Session 1991-92, the details of teachers and non-teaching employees as shown by the Manager of the Institution are at variance with the persons to whom salary payments were made in the year 1996. In the year 1996, salary disbursement was allegedly made to employees whose names, as entered in the salary bills/register, are materially different from those recorded in the relevant grant-in-aid documents. The details of names mentioned in Salary Bill Register of the year 1996 are as follows:

क्र०सं०	शिक्षक/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारी का नाम	पदनाम

x. In the Institution's M.R. (Management Register) for the Year 1991-92, the teachers and employees recorded therein, namely, Shri Shiv Narayan Mishra, Assistant Teacher; Shri Sitaram, Assistant Teacher; Shri Channar Yadav, Assistant Teacher; and Shri Sudama, Class IV Employee (Peon), were not paid salary as per the salary bill register of the year 1996. On the contrary, in deviation from the M.R. for the year 1991-92, Shri Aniruddh Yadav, Shri Bechan Prasad, Shri Hariram Singh, Shri Kanhaiya Lal Yadav, Shri Hanuman Prasad, Shri Nagendra Updahyay, Shri Om Prakash Dubey, Shri Uday Shankar Singh, Shri Molhu Prasad, Shri Angad Singh, Shri Shiv Prasad, Assistant Teachers, and Shri Chaitu Prasad, Class IV Employee (Peon) were paid salary as per the salary bill register of the year 1996.

xi. This clearly reflects that, contrary to the M.R., the Institution's Manager irregularly facilitated salary payments to eleven Assistant Teachers and one Class IV employee, which indicates fraudulent functioning on the part of the Institution's Management. If the names of duly appointed teachers working against sanctioned posts had been forwarded in the M.R. in accordance with rules, then under what circumstances salary payments were made to teachers other than those mentioned therein remains unexplained. It is also not clear against which sanctioned posts these alleged teachers were selected and appointed.

xii. The Management has produced only two orders relating to the creation of posts, out of which one document of the year 1988 appears to be forged, while the order of 1980 could not be verified. In such circumstances, when no valid and lawful document regarding the creation of posts is available in the Institution, the basis on which such a large number of teachers were appointed, remains wholly unclear.

xiii. In addition to the above, in the Institution□s M.R. for the year 1991-92, in the seventh column relating to the details of student strength, sanctioned posts, and approved employees annexed thereto, a copy of the order regarding creation of posts, bearing reference number and date, has been mentioned. In the said entry, the date 05.05.1980 and the corresponding letter/reference number dated 05.05.1980 have been referred to.

xiv. The concerned document was countersigned on 13.02.2019 by the Manager of the Institution, Principal, the concerned Deputy Inspector of Schools, and the BSA. The said document indicates that the reference number and date relating to the creation of posts dated 05.05.1980 pertain to a letter granting permission for an additional class/section, which was issued by the District Inspector of Schools, Gorakhpur. This establishes that no order for additional creation of posts was issued to the Institution by the competent departmental authority in accordance with the prescribed rules.

xv. By letter dated 06.06.1996, the then BSA purportedly granted permission to the Institution for issuing an advertisement for appointments. However, with regard to the permission allegedly granted to the Institution through the letter of the then BSA, dated 06.06.1996, no records are available in the office of the BSA, concerning the appointment of a departmental observer for completion of the selection process pursuant to the said advertisement. Consequently, the authenticity of the said permission appears to be doubtful.

xvi. Further, approval is shown to have been granted by letter dated 27.06.1996 issued by the then BSA, however, the same is not supported by the dispatch register. The alleged approval letter appears to be wholly forged and fabricated.

xvii. In Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 47856 of 200315, Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 25681 of 200216, and Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 22455 of 200217, this Court, after hearing the matters, passed an order dated 15.05.2012, the relevant extract of which is reproduced hereinbelow:

'In view of the above facts and circumstances, it is established that the explicit direction of this Court in the earlier writ petition that an inquiry be held and a copy of the inquiry report be supplied to the petitioners as well as the Committee of Management has not been complied with till date. The orders impugned in the three writ petitions namely 9.5.2003, 16.4.2002 and 14.1.2001 are, therefore, quashed. A direction is issued to the Zila Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Maharajganj to hold the enquiry as ordered by this Court in the order dated 20.12.2000 and provide a copy of the inquiry report to the petitioners within a period of six months from the date a certified copy of this order is received in the office of the District Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Maharajganj. It goes without saying that the petitioners will be given an opportunity of hearing and of leading all such evidence as available with them before the Basic Shiksha Adhikari.

The writ petitions are accordingly allowed in the aforesaid terms.

xviii. In compliance with the order of this Court, a three-member inquiry committee was constituted by the BSA. The committee comprised the Finance and Accounts Officer, Basic Education, Maharajganj, and Shri Mahendra Prasad I, Senior Block Education Officer, while the then District Basic Education Officer, Maharajganj, himself functioned as a member of the committee.

xix. Since the position of the petitioners in Writ Petition No. 47858 of 2003, Shobhnath Singh and 3 Ors., Writ Petition No. 25681 of 2002, Shambhu Prasad and Others, and Writ Petition No. 22455 of 2002, Pramod Kumar Pandey and Others, was similar to that of Writ Petition No. 28745 of 2001, the inquiry committee conducted an investigation concerning the Institution in relation to all the aforesaid writ petitions.

xx. By letter dated 30.10.2012 issued by the BSA, the hearing of the claimants/petitioners was fixed for 09.11.2012 at 2:00 PM. During the hearing, all the claimants, namely Amar Prakash Chand, Ashok Lal Srivastava, Brahm Yadav, Brahmdev Yadav, Aniruddh Yadav, Akhilesh Kumar Mishra, Rakesh Srivastava, and the alleged Assistant Teachers and Lab Bearers appeared and submitted their respective statements and documentary evidence before the inquiry committee.

xxi. In point no. 7 of the petitioners statement dated 09.10.2012, it was specifically mentioned that, insofar as Writ Petition No. 28745 of 2001 is concerned, the counter-affidavit filed by the Department stated that no additional posts had been created in the Institution. However, according to the petitioners, sanction for the additional posts had been granted by the Deputy Director of Education, Seventh Division, Gorakhpur.

xxii. The three-member inquiry committee, in its inquiry report, recorded that by office letter dated 30.03.2015, a request had been made to the Deputy Director of Education, Seventh Region, Gorakhpur for verification of the order relating to the creation of posts in favour of the Institution, bearing reference number and dated 05.05.1980. However, till date, the verification report has not been received. It was further stated that upon receipt of the verification report, this Court shall be informed separately through an affidavit.

xxiii. The post creation order provided by the petitioners, which was issued by the Deputy Director of Education, Seventh Region, Gorakhpur, vide letter dated 05.05.1980, was forwarded by the then BSA, vide their letter dated 30.03.2015 to the Joint Director of Education, Seventh Region, Gorakhpur, for verification.

xxiv. In continuation of this, the Joint Director of Education, Seventh Region, Gorakhpur, vide letter dated 07.04.2016, has sent the verification report to the BSA, wherein it is mentioned that the dispatcher was directed to verify the received letter from the dispatch register. The dispatcher of the office informed on date 07.04.2016 that the dispatch register which he received, is only from 23.05.1980 to 27.11.1982, hence it is not possible to verify the non-receipt of the duplicate register prior to this. In this manner, the post creation order also appears to be suspicious.

xxv. By the letter dated 19.01.1988 of the Assistant Director of Education, Basic, Seventh Region, Gorakhpur, the additional post creation order was directed to be canceled being completely forged, because that letter dated 19-01-1988 was addressed to the Postmaster, Head Post Office, Gorakhpur. Permanent recognition was granted to Institution by the Deputy Director of Education, Seventh Region, Gorakhpur via letter dated 05.05.1980, on the same date, four additional sections in class 6, four in class 7, and three additional sections in class 8 were approved for the Institution by the then District Inspector of Schools, Gorakhpur vide letter dated 05.05.1980, and on the same date 05.05.1980, the District Inspector of Schools, Gorakhpur, by letter dated 05.05.1980 approved 2 additional separate sections in each classes of Standards 6 to 8, and by accepting 5-5 sections in each Classes 6 to 8, approved a total of 15 sections. In this manner it is clear, that the said letter is forged because two letters have been issued on the same letter number on the single date, which is absolutely not acceptable to anyone.

xxvi. An application form was filled by the Management of the Institutions in the year 1991-92 for sanction of initial grant to the unaided Senior Upper Primary Schools up to the level of Junior High Schools. Along with the said application form, a document was appended, wherein in Column-7 the details of number of students post creation and approved employees are mentioned, which also bears the details of letter dated 05.05.1980. The said document is signed by the Manager/Headmaster of the Institution and countersigned by Deputy District Inspector of Schools, Area Paniyara Maharajganj/ District Basic Education Officer, Maharajganj. The aforesaid letter bears the details of letter of post creation dated 05.05.1980, which is the letter number and date of the additional section approval issued to the Institution by the District Inspector of Schools, Gorakhpur. On the very same date i.e. 05.05.1980, it is not possible to grant permanent recognition to the Institution, grant additional section approval, and creation of additional posts, because, in view of the relevant provisions, initially the additional section approval is granted, thereafter application form for the creation of additional posts is filled by the Institution Manager/Headmaster, thereafter, the post creation order is issued by the competent authority. From this, it is clearly reflected that on the basis of forged and fabricated records, an attempt is being made by the Manager/Headmaster/Petitioners to obtain irregular payments, which is not acceptable under the Rules.

xxvii. It is noteworthy that after the post creation order of the year 1988 was found to be forged and fabricated during verification, in the year 2005, the post creation year 1980 was shown by the Manager of the Institution before this Court, which proves that a misleading situation was created by the Manager regarding post creation. Even if, the post creation year is accepted as 1980 or 1988, then according to the provisions contained in the Act, 1978, the appointment process against the said newly created posts should be completed within three months from the date of creation. Whereas the appointment year of the petitioners is shown as 1996, which is 16 years after the alleged post creation order dated 05.05.1980 and 08 years after the alleged post creation order dated 19.01.1988, which is completely contrary to Section 9 of the Act 1978. Section-9 which is in connection with the approval of posts, is being quoted herein below:

‘(1) No institution shall create a new post of teacher or other employee, except with the previous approval of the Director or such other officer, as may be empowered by a general or special order in that behalf by the Director.

(2) If any new post is created with the previous approval referred to in sub-section (1) and no appointment is made to such post, within three months, the approval shall be deemed to have been withdrawn.

xxviii. In this manner, it is clear that the alleged appointment of the petitioners against the post creation dated 05.5.1980 is completely contrary to the provisions of Section 9(2) of the Act, 1978 and is by no means it is acceptable.

xxix. Similarly, in the year 1991-92, contrary to the number of teachers/employees mentioned in the M.R. Form-2, getting irregular salary payments for 11 teachers and 01 peon, proves that Management is functioning contrary to departmental rules/instructions and Statutes.

xxx. From the above, it is clear that the authenticity of the newly created posts against which the alleged appointment of the petitioners is being stated is not verified. Furthermore, there appears to be no legal justification for making appointments to those posts after such a long interval i.e. 16 years. The approval of the petitioners' appointment is also forged because verification of the said approval letter has also not been possible. It is clear that the appointment of the petitioners has been made contrary to the provisions mandated in the Rules, 1978 and Act, 1978. Since the appointment of the petitioners has not been made according to the rules, in such a situation, the petitioners are not entitled to receive salary payments from the State Exchequer.

42. Learned Counsel for the respondents further submits that on the representation of Ashok Lal Srivastava, for payment of salary which was not being paid since 2000, the order dated 12.01.2023 has been passed, in which stand taken in the order dated 10.10.2018 has been reiterated. It has also been submitted that the appointment of the petitioners has been made contrary to the provisions laid down in the Rules, 1978 and the Act, 1978. Because the appointment of the petitioners, was not made according to the rules, in such a situation, they are not entitled to receive salary payments from the State Exchequer.

43. After grant of the interim order, it is not clear as to whether the petitioners have worked or not, therefore, they are not entitled for any salary after August, 2000, when the appointment itself is not in accordance with law.

Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

44. At the very threshold, this Court finds that the foundational burden to establish a lawful appointment squarely rested upon the petitioners. A person claiming salary from the State

Exchequer must demonstrate that his appointment was made strictly in accordance with the statutory procedure and against duly sanctioned posts. Mere continuance in service for a period of time or receipt of salary for certain years cannot sanctify an appointment which is otherwise dehors the statutory framework.

45. In the present case, the petitioners have utterly failed to place unimpeachable documentary material to establish the legality of their appointments. Though the petitioners have asserted that their appointments were made against sanctioned posts pursuant to permission granted on 06.06.1996 and approval dated 27.06.1996, no legally verifiable documents have been annexed so as to conclusively establish the authenticity of the alleged post creation, permission to advertise, or approval of appointment. The very substratum of the petitioners claim remains shrouded in uncertainty and suspicion.

46. This Court cannot lose sight of the grave discrepancies noticed in the order dated 10.10.2018 submitted by the Director of Education (Basic), U.P., Lucknow, which stands reiterated in the consequential order dated 12.01.2023 passed by the BSA. The order categorically records that the alleged post-creation order dated 19.01.1988 appears to be forged and fabricated inasmuch as the said document was addressed to the Postmaster, Head Post Office, Gorakhpur, rendering its authenticity wholly doubtful. Likewise, the alleged post-creation document dated 05.05.1980 could not be verified from official records and appears suspicious, particularly in view of the glaring anomaly that permanent recognition, approval of additional sections, and alleged creation of additional posts are shown to have been granted on the same date, which is wholly incongruous to the statutory scheme governing educational institutions.

47. Further, the alleged permission dated 06.06.1996 said to have been granted by the BSA for the issuance of advertisement is not traceable in official records. Similarly, the approval order dated 27.06.1996 allegedly approving the appointments of the petitioners does not find mention in the dispatch register maintained in the office of the District Basic Education Officer. Such glaring inconsistencies cannot be brushed aside as mere administrative lapses, especially where the petitioners seek enforcement of monetary claims from public funds.

48. The argument advanced on behalf of the petitioners that mere non-availability of the dispatch register cannot invalidate their appointments is liable to be rejected in the peculiar facts of the present case. Here, the issue is not merely of a missing entry in the dispatch register, but rather a cumulative pattern of discrepancies, contradictions, and suspicious circumstances surrounding the very genesis of the appointments. The order, based on records, reveals inconsistencies regarding sanction of posts, variance in the names of employees reflected in the M.R. records of 1991 92 vis- -vis salary bills of 1996, absence of proof regarding sanctioned vacancies, doubtful approval letters, and procedural irregularities in the selection process. Such circumstances cast a serious cloud upon the legality of the appointments themselves.

49. This Court further finds substance in the submission advanced by learned counsel for the respondents that the appointments are ex facie contrary to Section 9(2) of the Act, 1978. Even assuming for the sake of argument that the alleged posts were created either in 1980 or 1988, admittedly, appointments came to be made only in the year 1996, much beyond the statutory period of three months prescribed under Section 9(2), whereby approval for newly created posts stands deemed withdrawn if appointments are not made within the stipulated period. Consequently, the very basis of appointment becomes legally unsustainable.

50. Equally significant is the fact that petitioner nos. 1, 2 and 4 in Writ-A No. 3037 of 2023 have been alleged to be lacking the requisite qualifications prescribed under Rule 4 of the Rules, 1978. The respondents have specifically pleaded that the petitioners did not possess the qualifications mandated for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher. The petitioners have failed to dispel the said objection by placing cogent material on record.

51. This Court is also persuaded by the principle enunciated by this Court in the decision rendered in Deepak Kumar (supra), wherein this Court held that where approval orders are not verifiable from dispatch records and minimum qualifications are absent, the appointments cannot be held to be lawful, nor can such appointees claim salary from the State exchequer. The ratio laid down therein squarely applies to the controversy at hand.

52. The judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioners are wholly distinguishable and do not render any assistance in the peculiar facts of the present case.

53. The judgment of the Apex Court in Subodh Kumar Prasad (supra), proceeded on the premise that the underlying appointment was otherwise valid and only a discrepancy in dispatch or record maintenance was involved. In the present matter, however, the challenge goes to the root of the appointment process itself, including the authenticity of post creation, approval, sanction, qualification, and procedural compliance, therefore, the said judgment is clearly distinguishable.

54. Similarly, the reliance as placed by learned counsel for the petitioners upon the judgment of the Apex Court in Radhey Shyam Yadav (supra) is misconceived. In the said case, appointments had been made against sanctioned posts and the employees were not found responsible for any illegality attributable to the selection process. Here, the petitioners have failed to establish the existence of lawful sanctioned posts itself, and the very approval and post-creation documents as well as documents regarding selection process are under serious doubt, hence, the factual matrix is entirely different.

55. Likewise, the judgments rendered in Rajesh Kumar Srivastava (supra), Yashwant Kumar Rai (supra) and Ram Kewal (supra) do not advance the case of the petitioners. In those cases, the appointments were not found to be tainted by such pervasive discrepancies concerning post creation, forged documents, doubtful approvals, and statutory violations. Those decisions turned on their own peculiar facts and cannot be mechanically extended to a case where the very edifice of appointment appears legally infirm.

56. The reliance placed upon by learned counsel for petitioners upon the judgment of Apex Court in Tridip Kumar Dingal (supra) is equally misplaced. There can be no quarrel with the proposition that long-standing appointments ought not ordinarily be unsettled. However, equity cannot override statutory mandate. It is trite that there can be no estoppel against law. Continuance in service or lapse of time cannot legitimize an appointment made in violation of statutory provisions or based on doubtful and unverified records.

57. It is a settled proposition of law that salary payable from public exchequer can only be claimed by a person whose appointment is demonstrably legal and in accordance with statutory provisions. Sympathy or equitable considerations cannot be permitted to supplant the rule of law, particularly where public funds are involved.

58. This Court further finds that, notwithstanding the interim order dated 06.08.2001 passed in favour of the petitioners, no material whatsoever has been brought on record to demonstrate that the petitioners were ever permitted to discharge duties in the Institution thereafter, or that they, in fact, continued to function and render services pursuant to the said interim protection. Mere grant of an interim order does not ipso facto establish actual continuance in service, unless supported by cogent documentary evidence demonstrating performance of duties, attendance, work allocation, salary acquittance, or any contemporaneous record maintained by the Institution.

59. In absence of any such material, this Court is unable to presume that the petitioners continued to work in the Institution after stoppage of salary in August, 2000. Consequently, the petitioners cannot claim salary as a matter of right merely on the strength of an interim order, particularly when the factum of rendering service itself remains unsubstantiated.

60. It is a trite law that salary is payable for the work actually performed, save in exceptional circumstances where the employee is unlawfully prevented from discharging duties despite a valid appointment. In the present case, however, the petitioners' appointments themselves stand clouded by serious infirmities and have been found to be contrary to statutory provisions, therefore, any claim for salary beyond the period for which actual work has been discharged cannot be countenanced.

61. Accordingly, the petitioners, if otherwise entitled, can lay claim only to such emoluments as may be relatable to the period during which they demonstrably worked after August 2000, and not otherwise. However, in absence of any evidence establishing that the petitioners were permitted to function in the Institution subsequent to August, 2000, no such relief can be granted.

62. The submission of learned counsel for the petitioners that long-standing appointments ought not to be unsettled after passage of time is equally devoid of merit in the facts of the present case. Admittedly, the petitioners were appointed in the year 1996 and salary payment came to be discontinued from August, 2000. Thus, at best, the petitioners continued in service only for a brief period of approximately four years before the legality of their appointments came under scrutiny.

63. The principle protecting long-standing appointments is ordinarily invoked in cases where appointments have continued uninterruptedly for decades and equities have crystallized in favour of employees appointed against lawful or substantially compliant procedures. The said principle cannot be mechanically extended to cases where the very appointment is ex facie illegal, unsupported by authentic records, made in derogation of prescribed statutory procedure, and tainted by serious discrepancies regarding sanction of posts and approval.

64. Equity cannot be invoked to perpetuate an illegality. A person appointed dehors the statutory framework cannot claim a vested right merely because he was permitted to continue for a limited period. An illegal appointment does not mature into legality by efflux of time. Since the petitioners were permitted to function, if at all, only for a short duration of approximately four years on the basis of appointments which were not made in accordance with the procedure prescribed under law, they cannot derive any equitable advantage so as to seek continuance of service or salary from the State Exchequer.

65. Having regard to the facts pleaded, the material placed on record, the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, and particularly the discrepancies reflected in the inquiry report dated 10.10.2018 and consequential order dated 12.01.2023, the writ petition deserves to be dismissed for the reasons recorded hereinafter.

66. Accordingly, this Court is of the considered opinion that the petitioners have failed to establish that their appointments were made against duly sanctioned posts and in accordance with the provisions of the Rules, 1978 and the Act, 1978. The findings recorded in the inquiry report dated 10.10.2018 and the consequential order dated 12.01.2023 do not suffer from perversity, arbitrariness, or illegality warranting interference in exercise of writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

67. The writ petitions, being devoid of merit, are accordingly dismissed.

68. Needless to say that the petitioners will be at liberty to move application before the concerned respondent authority for payment of salary for the period they worked, which shall be looked into by the authority concerned after verifying the same from the records.

69. No order as to costs.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Application of principle of natural justice in an enquiry conducted on the allegation of changing the date of birth in the service record, and validity of order retiring the petitioner earlier without giving him opportunity of hearing.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Age of retirement – Date of Birth – Determination – Principle of natural justice – Applicability – Enquiry – Allegation of changing the Date of Birth (DoB) by making overwriting in the service book from 19.10.1967 to 14.4.1966 was made – Impugned order was passed stating that the petitioner would retire on 30.4.2026 on the basis of Transfer Certificate considering his DoB to be 14.04.1966 ignoring the DoB (19.10.1967) as mentioned in service record – Petitioner was not called upon to participate in the enquiry – effect

Held : Since at the time of entry into service, the petitioner has not passed High School or equivalent examination, therefore, date of birth recorded in service book at the time of entry shall be deemed to be correct date of birth – There are various documents in service records which consistently recorded petitioner's date of birth as 19.10.1967. There was no reason for the petitioner to make forgery to change date of birth from 19.10.1967 to 14.04.1966, which would be against his interest, since he would retire early – Impugned orders dated 19.03.2026 and 23.03.2026, being passed behind the back of petitioner also as well as contrary to above referred position of law and in present set of circumstances, cannot sustain. 1. The petitioner was appointed on the post of Shramik at Harduaganj Thermal Power Plant, Kasimpur, Aligarh vide an appointment letter dated 18.3.1988.

2. At the time of entry in service, petitioner's date of birth was mentioned on basis of a report of medical examination dated 19.10.1987 that at that stage, petitioner appears to be 20 years old and accordingly in service records his date of birth was recorded as 19.10.1967 and same was mentioned in other documents also including information uploaded on web portal of respondent Nigam and according to said date of birth, petitioner's date of retirement would be 31.10.2027.

3. Sri Rahul Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that after 35 years, an inquiry was conducted behind his back regarding his date of birth to determine correct date of retirement, since it was found that his date of birth was changed by making overwriting in his service book from 19.10.1967 to 14.4.1966 as well as his date of birth mentioned in Hindi as (उन्नीस अक्टूबर सन् उन्नीस सौ सडसठ) was deleted by using white fluid and just below it was mentioned in Hindi as (चौदह अप्रैल सन् उन्नीस सौ छाछट), though the date of retirement i.e. 31.10.2027 was not disturbed. For reference, scanned copy of same though very dim , still for ready reference is pasted hereinafter:-

'कृपया अध्यक्ष, जाँच समिति एवं मुख्य अभियन्ता (न्यू कोल ब्लॉक), कार्यालय के पत्रांक: 68 / उनि / कोल ब्लाक / 2024 दिनांक: 24.02.2024 के निष्कर्ष बिन्दु सं०: 01 एवं खण्ड कार्यालय पत्रसं०: 87 / 1X660 पीटीईपी / सा०सं०अनु०ख० / पीएफ दिनांक: 22.12.2025 (छायाप्रति संलग्न) का सन्दर्भ ग्रहण करें, जिसके माध्यम से विधि विज्ञान प्रयोगशाला अलीगढ़ से जांच परीक्षण, उपरान्त जो वास्तविक जन्म तिथि / सेवानिवृत्ति तिथि फॉरेंसिक जांच में आयी हो तो इस कार्यालय को अतिशीघ्र उपलब्ध कराने हेतु आग्रह किया गया। इस संबंध में अवगत कराना है कि कार्यालय में अभी तक दिशा-निर्देश प्राप्त नहीं हुआ है। श्री यतीश सिंह, श्रमिक की सेवापुस्तिका में जन्म तिथि 14.04.1966 मानते हैं तो सेवानिवृत्त तिथि 30.04.2026 होती है और यदि जन्म तिथि 19.10.1967 माने तो सेवानिवृत्ति तिथि 31.10.2027 होती है। पनकी ई०आर०पी० में भी सेवानिवृत्त तिथि 31.10.2027 अंकित है। यदि कार्मिक की जन्म तिथि 14.04.1966 मानते हैं तो सेवानिवृत्ति तिथि निकट है, जिस कारण सेवानिवृत्त देयों के ससमय निस्तारण के लिये कार्यवाही किया जाना लम्बित होगा।

अतः उपरोक्त तथ्यों के दृष्टिगत अनुरोध है कि संदर्भित प्रकरण में पुलिस महानिदेशक, सतर्कता द्वारा जांच पूरी हो गयी हो तो दिशा-निर्देश प्रदान कराने का कष्ट करें, अन्यथा कि स्थिति में सेवानिवृत्त / पेंशन संबंधी देयों का ससमय भुगतान करने में कठिनाइयाँ होंगी।'

5. In aforesaid circumstances, since neither a report was submitted by the Inquiry Committee nor I.G. Vigilance has submitted a report on basis of Forensic Report, if any information was sent by the Executive Engineer to Chief General Manager vide a communication dated 19.03. 2026 that date of birth of petitioner be considered on basis of a new document i.e. a Transfer Certificate wherein petitioner□s date of birth was mentioned as 14.04.1966 i.e. he would retire on 30.04.2026 i.e. about a year and 6 months earlier. Relevant part of aforesaid communication is reproduced hereinafter:

' 2. इस सम्बन्ध में सूचित करना है कि पुलिस महानिदेशक (सतर्कता) द्वारा प्रश्नगत प्रकरण में अपनी जाँच आख्या अद्यतन प्रेषित नहीं किया गया है। अवगत है कि जन्मतिथि निर्धारण के सम्बन्ध में परिषददेश सं० -2661-जीएम/रा०वि०प०-तीन-28 जीएम/75 दिनांक 30.06.1975 में प्राविधानित है-

"ठीक जन्म दिनांक या आयु का अवधारण:- किसी सरकारी सेवक का जन्म दिनांक, जैसा कि हाई-स्कूल या समकक्ष परीक्षा में उत्तीर्ण हो जाने के प्रमाण पत्र में अभिलिखित हो, अथवा जहाँ कोई सरकारी सेवा में प्रविष्टि होने के समय उसकी सेवा पुस्तिका में अभिलिखित जन्म दिनांक या आयु उसकी सेवा के सम्बन्ध में प्रयोजनों के लिये, जिसके अन्तर्गत पदोन्नति, अधिवार्षिकी, समय-पूर्व सेवानिवृत्ति लाभ के लिये पात्रता भी है, यथास्थिति, उसका ठीक जन्म दिनांक या आयु समझी जायेगी तथा ऐसे दिनांक या आयु को सही (करेक्शन) करने के बारे में कोई आवेदन-पत्र या अभ्यावेदन किन्हीं भी परिस्थितियों में, चाहे जो भी हो, ग्रहण नहीं किया जायेगा।"

3. श्री यतीश सिंह, श्रमिक द्वारा मृतक आश्रित कोटा अन्तर्गत सेवा में प्रवेश करने का दिनांक 18.03.1988 है। निगम में प्रवेश करने की तिथि से पूर्व के अभिलेख, नवाब सिंह चौहान ग्रामोदय इण्टर कालेज की छात्र पंजी एवं स्थानान्तरण प्रमाण-पत्र (टी०सी०) में श्री यतीश सिंह पुत्र श्री योगेन्द्र सिंह की जन्म तिथि: 14.04.1966 (चौदह अप्रैल सन् छियासठ) अंकित है, जोकि कार्मिक के सेवा में प्रवेश करने से पहले का अभिलेख है।

4. अतः यह निष्कर्ष कि सेवा में प्रविष्टि होने के समय, सर्विस बुक में जन्मतिथि अंकित किये जाने के प्रयोजन से उपलब्ध अभिलेखों में से सर्वथा मान्य एवं उचित अभिलेख प्रतीत होता है। अन्य प्रस्तुत अभिलेख जैसे- हाईस्कूल प्रमाण पत्र (सन् 2004), सेवा में प्रवेश करने के पश्चात के है। अतः स्थानान्तरण प्रमाण पत्र में श्री यतीश सिंह, श्रमिक की अभिलिखित जन्म तिथिः 14.04.1966 (चौदह अप्रैल सन् छियासठ), उनकी सेवा के सम्बन्ध में प्रयोजनों के लिये, जिसके अन्तर्गत पदोन्नति, अधिवार्षिकी, समय-पूर्व सेवानिवृति लाभ के लिये पात्रता भी है, यथास्थिति, उसका ठीक जन्म दिनांक या आयु माना जाना चाहिए।

5. अतः विषयगत प्रकरण में यह कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि जन्मतिथि निर्धारण के सम्बन्ध में उपरोक्तानुसार परिषदादेश सं० 2661-जीएम/रा०वि०प०- तीन - 28 जीएम/75 दिनांक 30.06.1975 के प्राविधानों, कार्मिक का नवाब सिंह चौहान ग्रामोदय इण्टर कालेज की छात्र पंजी एवं स्थानान्तरण प्रमाण पत्र (टी०सी०) में अंकित जन्म तिथि 14.04.1966 को सेवा के सम्बन्ध में प्रयोजनों के लिये ठीक जन्म दिनांक मानते हुये अग्रेतर आवश्यक प्रभावी कार्यवाही करने का कष्ट करें।'

6. In aforesaid circumstances, for first time petitioner was informed about the decision vide a communication dated 23.03.2026 that he would retire on 30.4.2026 on basis of above referred document i.e. Transfer Certificate considering his date of birth to be 14.04.1966 ignoring Date of Birth (19.10.1967) mentioned in service records.

7. In aforesaid circumstances, petitioner approached this Court by way of filing present writ petition on 12.04.2026 against orders dated 19.03.2026 and 23.03.2026.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner referred Rule 2 of U.P. Recruitment to Services (Determination of Date of Birth) Rules, 1974 that in case at the time of entry in service, an employee has not passed High School or equivalent examination, date of birth recorded in service book at the time of entry shall be deemed to be correct date of birth or age as the case may be and since there are sufficient materials on records that date of birth of petitioner at the time of his entry into Government Service was 19.10.1967, therefore, his retirement date would be 31.10.2027, therefore, said date of birth cannot be disturbed.

9. So far as any allegation of forgery is concerned, that petitioner's date of birth as mentioned at the time of entry into government service was 19.10.1967 which was changed as 14.04.1966, by making overwriting and using whitener, can be ignored since till date there is no proof that it was done by the petitioner. Inquiry Report of Inquiry Committee or of I.G. Vigilance or Forensic Report is still awaited.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner also submitted that during service, petitioner has passed High School also, however, a different date of birth was mentioned therein i.e. 16.09.1966, however, in view of above provisions same cannot be considered for purpose of retirement.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that date of birth as mentioned in the Transfer Certificate which has now been relied upon was issued in the year 2005 but it was not verified from original records. As per above referred provision, date of birth as mentioned in service record at the time of entrance in service would be final, since on the other relevant element i.e High School Certificate which was not available at the time of entry into service.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on a judgment passed by this Court in Brij Kishore Vs. State of U.P.& Ors, 2016 (4) ESC 2148 and Union of India & Ors. Vs. Nathan Singh (2023) 2 UPLBEC 1321 that principles of natural justice were not followed before taking an adverse decision.

13. Per Contra, Sri Abhishek Srivastava and Ms.Tanisha Jahangir Monir, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that petitioner has mentioned different date of birth in his various documents. In Aadhar Card and PAN Card, his date of birth is recorded as 16.04.1966 and 16.04.1968 respectively and in PIS Service Record it is recorded as 19.10.1967 and in the High School Certificate it is recorded as 16.09.1966 and in service records with overwriting it is 14.04.1966 and same date of birth was mentioned in the Transfer Certificate, therefore, it was a subject matter of inquiry and they referred a report dated 24.02.2024, however, it has not been denied that petitioner was not a part of said vigilance or police investigation and that report does not has any final conclusion, except that a further inquiry is required such as Forensic Reports. For reference, relevant part of report dated 24.02.2024 is reproduced hereinafter:

'प्रकरण के सम्बन्ध में समिति की विवेचना निम्नवत है -

1. उपलब्ध अभिलेखों से पता चलता है कि सर्वप्रथम संदर्भित प्रकरण जवाहरपुर तापीय परियोजना द्वारा श्री यतीश सिंह, श्रमिक के तृतीय समयबद्ध वेतनमान एवं पदोन्नति के सम्बन्ध में कार्यवाही के दौरान जून 2022 में संज्ञान में लाया गया था जिस पर मानव संसाधन इकाई द्वारा जुलाई 2022 में पत्रावली प्रचलित की गयी थी। पत्रावली पर जनवरी 2023 में प्रदत्त अनुमोदन के क्रम में मानव संसाधन इकाई द्वारा संदर्भित जांच हेतु विभागीय समिति गठित की गयी तथा साथ ही पुलिस महानिदेशक, सतर्कता को भी प्रकरण की जांच कर आख्या प्रस्तुत किये जाने हेतु निर्देशित किया गया।

2. अवगत कराना है कि पत्रावली में उपलब्ध विभिन्न प्रपत्रों में श्री यतीश सिंह, श्रमिक की जन्म तिथि एवं नाम का विवरण निम्न तालिकानुसार है (संलग्नक-37) –

क्र० सं०	प्रपत्र का विवरण	कार्मिक का नाम	पिता का नाम	कार्मिक की जन्म तिथि
1	आधार नं० 520893001959	श्री यतीश सिंह(Yatish Singh)	योगेन्द्र सिंह	16.04.1966
2	पैनकार्ड- AHTPS4095B	श्री यतीश सिंह(Yatish Singh)	योगेन्द्र सिंह चौहान	16.04.1968
3	पी०आई०एस०	श्री यतीश सिंह(Yatish Singh)	योगेन्द्र सिंह चौहान	19.10.1967
4	हाईस्कूल	श्री यतीश चौहान(Yatish Chauhan)	योगेन्द्र चौहान	16.09.1966
5	सेवापुस्तिका	श्री यतीश सिंह	योगेन्द्र सिंह चौहान	14.04.1966परन्तु सेवापुस्तिका में अंकित जन्म तिथि में छेड़ छाड़ (ओवर राइटिंग) परिलक्षित हो रहा है
6	नवाब सिंह चौहान ग्रामोदय इण्टर कॉलेज की टी०सी०	श्री यतीश सिंह चौहान	योगेन्द्र सिंह	14.04.1966

◦ उक्त तालिका से परिलक्षित है कि विभिन्न अभिलेखों में श्री यतीश सिंह की जन्म तिथि व नाम अलग-अलग अंकित है। उक्त के सम्बन्ध में सूच्य है कि वर्तमान में श्री यतीश सिंह की सर्विस बुक में जन्म तिथि 14.04.1966 (छेड़ छाड़ के उपरान्त) अंकित है जबकि दिनांक 18.02.2010 को पनकी तापीय परियोजना द्वारा मुख्यालय को प्रेषित कार्मिक के पी.आई. एस विवरण में उनकी जन्मतिथि दिनांक 19.10.1967 अंकित थी। पी०आई०एस० में अंकन हेतु परियोजना द्वारा प्रगति इकाई को उपलब्ध कराये गये अभिलेख में अंकित जन्म तिथि 19.10.1967 व सेवानिवृत्त तिथि 31.10.2027 अंकित है। परन्तु देखने से उक्त दोनों तिथियों में भी छेड़ छाड़ परिलक्षित हो रही है (संलग्नक-38)

◦ जवाहरपुर तापीय परियोजना द्वारा प्रस्तुत वर्तमान सेवापुस्तिका में जन्म तिथि 14.04.1966 अंकित है जोकि ओवर राइटिंग प्रतीत होती है साथ ही शब्दों में यह अंकित है "चौदह अप्रैल उन्नीस सौ छि" जिससे यह प्रतीत होता है कि जन्म तिथि का अंकन अंकों एवं शब्दों में भिन्नता है। उक्त के अतिरिक्त यदि इनकी जन्म तिथि 14.04.1966 मानी जाती है तो इनकी सेवानिवृत्त तिथि 30.04.2026 होनी चाहिये परन्तु सेवापुस्तिका में सेवानिवृत्त तिथि 31.10.2027 अंकित है जोकि अधिवर्षिता आयु हेतु मानी गयी 60 वर्ष के अनुसार ठीक नही है। उक्त के अतिरिक्त यह भी अवगत कराना है कि सेवानिवृत्त तिथि 31.10.2027 में भी छेड़ छाड़ परिलक्षित होती है (संलग्नक-39)।

◦ उक्त जाँच में किये गये ओवर राइटिंग के सम्बन्ध में विगत में तैनात अधिशासी अभियन्ताओं एवं कार्यकारी सहायक (वर्तमान में कार्यरत) से लिखित रूप में सूचना मांगी गयी, जिसमें सभी लोगों ने सूचित किया हैं कि ओवर राइटिंग के सम्बन्ध में उनकी कोई जानकारी नहीं है। इसलिये कार्यालय ज्ञाप संख्या 357-मा0सं0-05/उनिलि/2023-2 (17) मा0सं0-05/2023 दिनांक 04.03.2023 एवं 977-मा0सं0-05/उनिलि/2023-2 (17) मा0सं0-05/2023 दिनांक 09.06.2023 में अंकित बिन्दु संख्या 02 में अंकित तथ्यों के सम्बन्ध में यह स्पष्ट करना सम्भव नही हो पा रहा है कि उक्त कटिंग/ओवर राइटिंग किस अधिशासी अभियन्ता/कार्यकारी सहायक के कार्यकाल में हुआ हैं। यह भी सूच्य है कि श्री यतीश सिंह की सर्विस बुक के रखरखाव हेतु खण्ड में तैनात कुछ अधिशासी अभियन्ता एवं कार्यकारी सहायक सेवानिवृत्त हो चुके है।

14. Learned counsel for the respondents have placed reliance on a judgment passed by Supreme Court in Union of India Vs. Harnam Singh, 1993 SCC (2) 162.

15. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the records.

16. Law in regard to determination of correct date of birth or age is well settled that provisions of Rule 2 of Rules 1974, shall be applicable that since at the time of entry into service, the petitioner has not passed High School or equivalent examination, therefore, date of birth recorded in service book at the time of entry shall be deemed to be correct date of birth.

17. In aforesaid background, Court finds that there are two different date of birth mentioned in the service record. One is 19.10.1967 without any overwriting and using white fluid and according to this petitioner’s date of retirement would be 31.10.2027. The other date of birth after overwriting and using white fluid is 14.04.1966 and accordingly to said date petitioner’s date of retirement would be 30.04.2026, though decision to retire him on 30.4.2026 was taken on basis of date of birth mentioned in Transfer Certificate issued in the year 2005, which is not the relevant document in terms of Rule 2 of Rules, 1974.

18. A decision to consider date of birth as 14.04.1966 being adverse to the petitioner, therefore, respondents could not take any decision at petitioner's back and further as referred above, since outcome of inquiry still remains unconclusive, therefore, dispute among date of birth i.e. 14.04.1966 and 19.10.1967, it would be appropriate that date of birth of the petitioner be considered as 19.10.1967, since overwriting has not been proved. Otherwise also, admittedly petitioner was not called to participate in any inquiry. There are various documents in service records which consistently recorded petitioner's date of birth as 19.10.1967. There was no reason for the petitioner to make forgery to change date of birth from 19.10.1967 to 14.04.1966, which would be against his interest, since he would retire early.

19. The Court takes note of few paragraphs of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in U.P. Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad v. Raj Kumar Agnihotri, (2005) 11 SCC 465. Relevant paragraphs of it are reproduced hereinafter:

'17. In the instant case, the U.P. Recruitment to Services (Determination of Date of Birth) Rules came into force w.e.f. 28-5-1974. Rule 2 of the Rules was amended by the First Amendment Rules, 1980 on 7-6-1980. The existing rule and the substituted rule are extracted hereinbelow:

Column 1 (Existing rule)	Column 2 (Rule as hereby substituted)
"2. The date of birth of government servant as recorded in the certificate of his having passed the High School or equivalent examination, or where a government servant has not passed any such examination as aforesaid, the date of birth or the age recorded in his service-book at the time of his entry into government service, shall be deemed to be his correct date of birth or age, as the case may be, for all purposes in relation to his service including, eligibility for promotion, superannuation, premature retirement or retirement benefits, and no application or representation shall be entertained for correction of such date or age in any circumstances whatsoever."	"2. The date of birth of a government servant as recorded in the certificate of his having passed the High School or equivalent examination at the time of his entry into the government service or where a government servant has not passed any such examination as aforesaid or has passed such examination after joining the service, the date of birth or the age recorded in his service-book at the time of his entry into the government service shall be deemed to be his correct date of birth or age, as the case may be, for all purposes in relation to his service, including eligibility for promotion, superannuation, premature retirement or retirement benefits, and no application or representation shall be entertained for correction of such date or age in any circumstances whatsoever."

As per the existing rule, the date of birth or the age recorded in his service-book at the time of entry into the government service shall be deemed to be the correct date of birth or age, as the case may be, for all purposes and no application or representation shall be entertained for correction of such date or age in any circumstances whatsoever.

18 [Ed.: Para 18 corrected vide Official Corrigendum No. F.3/Ed.B.J./71/2005 dated 20-8-2005.] . The amended rule of 1980 was deemed to have come into force w.e.f 28-5-1974 and as per the substituted rule, the date of birth or the age recorded in the service-book at the time of entry into the government service shall be deemed to be the correct date of birth or age, as the case may be, for all purposes and that no application or representation shall be entertained for correction of date of birth or age in any circumstances whatsoever. The respondent has given his date of birth as 30-7-1941 at the time of entry into service which has also been recorded in the service records of the respondent. The above amended rule which came into force w.e.f. 7-6-1980 stipulates that no application or representation shall be entertained for correction of such date or age in any circumstances whatsoever and that the date of birth or age recorded in the service-book at the time of his entry into government service shall be deemed to be his correct date of birth or age as the case may be for all purposes.

19. In view of the above rule, we hold that the correct date of birth of the respondent is only 30-7-1941 and the claim now made by the respondent to correct his date of birth from 30-7-1941 to 16-10-1945 cannot at all be entertained or encouraged.

20. In aforesaid circumstances, since impugned decisions suffer from errors on both account i.e. on law as well as on facts, therefore, Court finds that impugned orders dated 19.03.2026 and 23.03.2026, being passed behind the back of petitioner also as well as contrary to above referred position of law and in present set of circumstances, cannot sustain, therefore, set-aside and petitioner will continue to work considering his date of birth as 19.10.1967 i.e. his retirement date would be 31.10.2027. However, respondents will be at liberty to conclude the inquiry if still pending only with participation of the petitioner.

21. Writ Petition is accordingly disposed of.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Determination of arise of cause of action in respect of fixation of seniority.
(2) Scope of interference in review application.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Fixation of seniority – Cause of action – Determination as to when it was arisen – Limitation to file OA before Central Administrative Tribunal (CAT) – Petitioner was appointed on 07.05.2013 on the direction of the Tribunal, which was also affirmed by the Supreme Court on 18.03.2013 – He was also regularized on 03.03.2014 – However, on the issue of fixation of seniority, CAT dismissed the OA holding it as barred by limitation on the ground that the cause of action was arisen in the year 1990 or latest in the year 2002 – The order of CAT was also affirmed by the Division Bench of the High Court – Review of the order of Division Bench sought :

Held : The concept of cause of action necessarily presupposes the existence of a right which has been violated. Until the petitioners were appointed and their seniority was fixed, no cause of action for a grievance qua seniority could have arisen against them – The petitioners are not seeking to reopen or disturb any settled seniority position dating back to 1990. What they seek is the correct implementation of a binding and final direction issued by the Principal Bench, CAT, New Delhi in O.A. No. 1215 of 2001, which attained finality up to the Supreme Court, directing that the seniority of trained apprentices be fixed according to their merit in the trade test. Since the petitioners were appointed and regularised under that litigation, they have a legal right to get their seniority fixed according to that direction. The respondents cannot be permitted to use the ground of limitation as a shield to defeat the enforcement of a direction which was obtained by the applicants-petitioners themselves after years of protracted litigation. [Para 6.1 and 6.5]

(B) Allahabad High Court Rules,, 1952 – Ch. V- Rules 12 – Civil Procedure Code – Order XLVII Rule 1 – Review – Scope of interference – Miscarriage of justice – Application – S. Nagaraj's case relied upon :

Held : If the Court finds that the order was passed under a mistake and it would not have exercised the jurisdiction but for the erroneous assumption which in fact did not exist and its perpetration shall result in miscarriage of justice then it cannot on any principle be precluded from rectifying the error. Mistake is accepted as valid reason to recall an order. Difference lies in the nature of mistake and scope of rectification, depending on if it is of fact or law. But the root from which the power flows is the anxiety to avoid injustice. It is either statutory or inherent – It is this Court's constitutional and legal obligation to set right the injustice by recalling its earlier order.. (Para 6.6 amd 6.7) (E-1)

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Applicant : Fuzail Ahmad Ansari (Amicus curiae)
Advs. for the Respondents : P. N. Rai.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mahesh Chandra Tripathi, J.)

A. Appearance of Counsel:-

1. Heard Shri Fuzail Ahmad Ansari, learned amicus curiae for the applicants-petitioners and Shri P.N. Rai, learned counsel for the respondents- opposite parties on the review application and the writ petition.

B. Prayer:-

2. The present review application has been preferred in Writ-A No. 7653 of 2019 (Ashok Kumar Yadav & 2 others v. Union of India & 2 others) with the prayer to review the judgment and order dated 16.05.2019 whereby the said writ petition was dismissed by a Division Bench of this Court comprising one of us, i.e., Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J. By the said judgment, the order dated 06.02.2019 passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad1, dismissing Original Application No.330/00624/20162 as barred by limitation, was upheld.

2.1. It is clarified that this order is being passed both on the review application as well as on the writ petition. Upon the review application being allowed and the judgment dated 16.05.2019 being recalled, Writ-A No.7653 of 2019 stands restored to its original number. This Court is accordingly proceeding to dispose of the said writ petition on merits as well. As such, both the proceedings are being finally disposed of by this common order for the reasons set forth in the following paragraphs.

C. Brief Facts:

3. The aforesaid Original Application in question was filed by the applicants-petitioners, namely Ashok Kumar Yadav, Riaz Babu and Chhail Behari, seeking directions against the railway authorities regarding their seniority and promotional benefits. The applicants prayed that they should be treated at par with one Mohd. Niyaz, who according to them had secured lower marks and a lower position in the merit list but was engaged earlier than them. They also sought promotional benefits similar to those granted to him.

3.1. The case of the applicants - petitioners before the Tribunal was that they were holders of National Apprenticeship Certificates and were regularised on the post of Helper with effect from 03.02.2014 by order dated 03.03.2014. They submitted representations against the said order and challenged the seniority list circulated on 13.10.2015. According to them, their seniority was not fixed in accordance with earlier directions issued by the Tribunal and the provisions of the Indian Railway Establishment Manual. They contended that the respondents failed to properly consider their claim and wrongly denied them the benefit of seniority and promotion.

3.2. The respondents opposed the Original Application and stated that the applicants - petitioners could not compare themselves with Mohd. Niyaz because he belonged to the Wireman Trade, whereas the applicants belonged to Fitter and Carpenter Trades. It was argued that separate seniority lists are maintained for different trades and therefore the claim of parity was not legally sustainable.

3.3. After hearing both sides and examining the records, the Tribunal found that Mohd. Niyaz had been engaged in service in the year 1990, whereas the applicants - petitioners themselves were appointed only in the year 2014. Therefore, the applicants - petitioners could not claim equality or seniority with a person who had entered into its service much earlier. The Tribunal further observed that if the applicants - petitioners had any grievance regarding the appointment or seniority of Mohd. Niyaz, the cause of action had arisen in the year 1990 itself. However, the said Original Application was filed only in the year 2016 after an extraordinary delay of about 26 years.

3.4. The Tribunal considered the provisions of Section 21 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 19853 relating to limitation and delay. The Tribunal further observed that the applicants had failed to give any satisfactory explanation for the enormous delay and had not even filed any proper application for condonation of delay. It held that the conduct of the applicants showed negligence and inaction from the very beginning. The Tribunal also noted that entertaining such delayed claims relating to seniority and promotion would disturb settled positions and create unnecessary complications.

3.5. Apart from limitation, the Tribunal also found no merit in the case of the applicants - petitioners because the comparison with Mohd. Niyaz was itself incorrect due to the difference in trades and separate seniority lists. Accordingly, the Tribunal held that the claim of the applicants - petitioners was barred by limitation as well as devoid of merit. Consequently, the Original Application was dismissed vide order dated 06.02.2019. The said order was challenged in the instant writ petition (Writ-A No. 7653 of 2019), which was dismissed by judgment and order dated 16.05.2019 review of which is being sought in the instant review application. For ready reference the order dated 16.05.2019 is reproduced below:

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioners. Sri Vivek Kumar Rai has accepted notice on behalf of the respondents.

The petitioners have preferred this petition against the judgment and order dated 6th February 2019 of the Central Administrative Tribunal whereby Original Application of the petitioners has been dismissed as barred by limitation.

A perusal of the pleadings reveal that the petitioners have filed Original Application claiming seniority in terms of directions dated 2.6.2002 given by the tribunal in Original Application Nos. 1021 and 1215 of 2001 as well as the directions given by the tribunal in Original Applications No. 1101 of 1997 and 511 of 2001 vide order dated 16.4.2002.

In view of the aforesaid relief claimed by the petitioners in the Original Application, the cause of auction for the seniority as claimed by them arose on 2.6.2002 and 16.4.2002 respectively. The petitioners preferred Original Application in the year 2016.

The tribunal in view of Section 21 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 as such has rightly held that the claim petition is hopelessly barred by time. It can not be entertained as there is no sufficient cause for condoning the delay. This apart, it has also been held that there is no purpose for disturbing the long drawn seniority which has been prevailing since 2002.

In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, we find no error or illegality in the order of the tribunal which may warrant exercise of its discretionary jurisdiction in the matter.

The writ petition is dismissed accordingly.'

D. Submission on behalf of the applicants-petitioners:-

4. Shri Fuzail Ahmad Ansari, learned amicus curiae for the applicants-petitioners submits that the judgment and order dated 16.05.2019 passed by the Division Bench as well as the order dated 06.02.2019 passed by the Tribunal suffer from an apparent error on the face of record inasmuch as both the Courts proceeded on an incorrect assumption that the cause of action of the petitioners had arisen in the year 1990 or at the latest in the year 2002, whereas in fact the applicants - petitioners were granted appointment only on 07.05.2013 and were regularised on 03.03.2014 with effect from 03.02.2014. It is thus submitted that the grievance regarding fixation of seniority actually arose only after their regularisation and preparation of seniority list in the year 2014.

4.1. It is further argued that the petitioners had completed their three years compulsory apprenticeship training during the period from 14.05.1986 to 15.05.1989 and had secured higher marks than one Mohd. Niyaz in the examination held at the end of the training period. The applicant-petitioner No.1- Ashok Kumar Yadav secured 445/700 marks, applicant-petitioner No.2 - Riyaz Babu secured 417/700 marks and applicant-petitioner No.3 - Chhail Bihari secured 413.5/700 marks, whereas Mohd. Niyaz secured only 391/700 marks. Despite having secured lesser marks, Mohd. Niyaz was appointed on the post of Khalasi (Group-D) on 02.04.1990, whereas the applicants - petitioners were denied similar benefit.

4.2. Learned amicus curiae further submits that after coming to know that several persons junior in merit had been granted appointment, the applicants - petitioners approached the Principal Bench of the Central Administrative Tribunal, New Delhi4 by filing O.A. No.1215 of 2001 (Chhail Bihari and 2 others vs. GM Central Railway). The said Original Application was allowed on 03.06.2002 in terms of the decision rendered in Original Application No.1021 of 2001 (Rama Shankar and 50 others vs. Union of India). By the aforesaid order, the respondents were specifically directed to maintain a seniority list of trained apprentices according to their merit and batch and to reconsider adjustment and appointment accordingly.

4.3. It is argued that the aforesaid order dated 03.06.2002 attained finality up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court. The writ petition challenging the same filed by the Railway Authorities before the Delhi High Court being W.P.(C) No.197 of 2003 was dismissed on 24.05.2012. Thereafter, the Special Leave Petition (SLP CC No.2941/2013) filed before the Hon□ble Supreme Court was also dismissed on 18.03.2013. Therefore, according to learned counsel, the directions issued vide order dated 03.06.2002 by the Tribunal regarding maintenance of seniority according to merit became final and binding upon the respondents.

4.4. Learned amicus curiae further submits that when the respondents failed to comply with the directions issued by the Principal Bench, CAT, New Delhi in O.A. No.1215 of 2001 even after dismissal of the writ petition preferred by the Railway Authorities, the petitioners were constrained to initiate contempt proceedings before the Tribunal for enforcement of the aforesaid directions. It is argued that only thereafter the respondents proceeded to issue appointment orders to the petitioners on 07.05.2013. According to learned counsel, this itself clearly establishes that the petitioners had been continuously pursuing their grievance and had never abandoned their claim. Therefore, the findings recorded by the Tribunal as well as by the Division Bench of this Court that the applicants - petitioners were guilty of delay, laches and inaction are wholly incorrect, misplaced and contrary to the material available on record.

4.5. It is next submitted that even after the aforesaid orders attained finality, the respondents failed to correctly implement the directions issued by the Principal Bench, CAT, New Delhi. The petitioners were offered appointment only on 07.05.2013 on substitute Group-D posts and thereafter were regularised on 03.03.2014. However, while fixing their seniority on 09.04.2014, the Railway Authorities wrongly treated them as casual labour/substitute employees instead of giving them proper seniority according to their merit position amongst trained apprentices.

4.6. Learned amicus curiae further submits that immediately after regularisation and fixation of incorrect seniority, the petitioners submitted representation dated 14.03.2014 seeking implementation of the order dated 03.06.2002 passed in Original Application No.1215 of 2001. Thereafter, a final representation/appeal was also submitted before the General Manager, North Central Railway, Saraswati Parishar, Subedarganj, Allahabad on 15.09.2015 praying that the petitioners be placed above Mohd. Niyaz in accordance with their higher merit. The said representation was rejected on 27.10.2015 and thereafter the petitioners promptly filed Original Application in question before the Tribunal on 25.02.2016.

4.7. It is thus contended that the Tribunal as well as the Division Bench committed manifest error in holding that the Original Application was barred by limitation. According to learned counsel, the cause of action cannot be said to have arisen in the year 1990 because the petitioners themselves were not appointed at that time. Their real grievance arose only after the respondents failed to correctly implement the binding directions issued in O.A. No.1215 of 2001 and wrongly fixed their seniority after their appointment and regularisation in the year 2014.

4.8. It is further argued that the petitioners are not seeking disturbance of any settled seniority position from the year 1990, but are merely praying for implementation of the directions already issued by the Tribunal and affirmed up to the Hon’ble Supreme Court, to wit that trained apprentices are required to be assigned seniority according to their merit and batch. Therefore, the finding recorded by the Tribunal that the petitioners were seeking to reopen stale claims is factually and legally incorrect.

4.9. Learned amicus curiae also submits that the Tribunal failed to appreciate that the petitioners and Mohd. Niyaz belong to the same category of trained apprentices and the petitioners had consistently asserted their right from the very beginning. It is argued that once the respondents themselves granted appointment to the petitioners pursuant to the earlier litigation, they could not thereafter deny them appropriate seniority in accordance with merit.

4.10. Shri Ansari, learned amicus curiae, vehemently argued that although the applicants, in the first round of litigation, had succeeded in their claim up to the Supreme Court, there was no delay in raising the issue of seniority while instituting the second proceedings before the Tribunal. He submitted that, instead of deciding the matter on merits, the entire emphasis of the Tribunal was to non-suit the applicants on the ground that the gradation list had already been finalized, and to hold that the matter was stale and old. He further contended that, although the Tribunal touched upon the merits in a solitary paragraph, no reasons whatsoever were assigned for rejecting the claim, which has caused grave injustice to the applicants. As such, the order passed by the Division Bench is liable to be reviewed, and the Tribunal be directed to decide the matter on merits.

4.11. It is lastly submitted that the judgment and order dated 16.05.2019 passed by this Court proceeded only on the question of limitation without considering the true nature of the relief sought by the petitioners and the effect of the earlier binding orders passed by the Principal Bench, CAT, New Delhi, Delhi High Court and Hon'ble Supreme Court. It is therefore prayed that the judgment and order dated 16.05.2019 be reviewed and recalled and the writ petition be allowed on merits after restoration of the same in the interest of justice.

E. Submission of Respondents-opposite parties:-

5. Per contra, Shri P.N. Rai, learned counsel for the respondents-opposite parties submits that no error apparent on the face of record has been shown so as to warrant exercise of review jurisdiction by this Court. It is argued that the review applicants - petitioners are merely seeking rehearing of the matter on merits, which is not permissible in review proceedings.

5.1. It is further submitted that the Tribunal as well as the Division Bench of this Court have rightly held that the claim raised by the applicants was hopelessly barred by limitation. He also submits that the grievance of the applicants regarding appointment and seniority relates back to the year 1990 and, therefore, the Original Application filed in the year 2016 after an enormous and unexplained delay was rightly dismissed. It is also argued that separate seniority lists are maintained for different trades and, therefore, the applicants - petitioners cannot claim parity with Mohd. Niyaz, who belonged to a different trade. Accordingly, it is prayed that the review application being devoid of merit is liable to be dismissed.

F. Discussion and Findings:-

6. Having considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and having carefully perused the record, this Court is of the opinion that the review application deserves to be allowed. There are glaring errors apparent on the face of record which have resulted in a gross miscarriage of justice. Both the Tribunal as well as the Division Bench of this Court proceeded on a fundamentally erroneous appreciation of the factual matrix, resulting in an incorrect determination of the cause of action and consequently an unjust dismissal of the petitioners' claim on the ground of limitation.

6.1. The first and most significant error apparent on the face of record is the misplaced assumption taken by both the Tribunal and the Division Bench that the cause of action of the applicants - petitioners arose either in the year 1990, when Mohd. Niyaz was appointed, or in the year 2002, when the Principal Bench, CAT, New Delhi issued directions in Original Application No.1215 of 2001. This assumption is demonstrably incorrect. The applicants - petitioners were not appointed into service until 07.05.2013 and were not regularised until 03.03.2014. A person who has not yet been appointed to service cannot possibly have a cause of action for grievance in respect of seniority inter se among members of that service. The concept of cause of action necessarily presupposes the existence of a right which has been violated. Until the petitioners were appointed and their seniority was fixed, no cause of action for a grievance qua seniority could have arisen against them.

6.2. The record further discloses that the applicants - petitioners were regularised on 03.03.2014 with effect from 03.02.2014. Even prior to the formal fixation of seniority, the applicants - petitioners submitted a representation on 14.03.2014 seeking correct implementation of the order dated 03.06.2002 passed in O.A. No.1215 of 2001, having apprehended that their seniority would not be fixed in accordance with the binding directions of the Tribunal. Their apprehension proved well-founded as the seniority was thereafter wrongly fixed on 09.04.2014, treating them as casual or substitute employees rather than as trained apprentices ranked by merit. Thereafter, the seniority list was formally circulated on 13.10.2015. The petitioners also preferred a representation before the General Manager on 15.09.2015 and, upon its rejection on 27.10.2015, promptly filed the Original Application in question before the Tribunal on 25.02.2016, i.e. within approximately four months of the final rejection. Read in sequence, the conduct of the petitioners is wholly inconsistent with any finding of laches or inaction; on the contrary, it demonstrates persistent and diligent pursuit of a legitimate claim at every stage.

6.3. The second error, equally apparent, is the failure of both the Tribunal and the Division Bench to appreciate the significance and binding nature of the earlier proceedings. The petitioners had been engaged in litigation since the year 2001 by filing Original Application No.1215 of 2001 before the Principal Bench, CAT, New Delhi. The said Original Application was allowed vide order dated 03.06.2002 directing the Railway Authorities to maintain seniority of trained apprentices according to merit and batch. The Railway Authorities, instead of complying with the said directions, challenged the same before the Delhi High Court and thereafter before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. In the meantime, having waited for years without any compliance, the petitioners were constrained to initiate contempt proceedings, being Contempt Petition No.778 of 2012 (Chhail Bihari and others v. Union of India), before the Tribunal. The challenge by the Railway Authorities also proved to be in vain as the SLP filed before the Hon'ble Supreme Court was ultimately dismissed on 18.03.2013. It was only under the pressure of the said contempt proceedings that the appointment orders were eventually issued on 07.05.2013. The order dated 08.05.2013 passed in Contempt Petition No.778 of 2012 records as under:

"Counsel for respondents states that in compliance of the order of this Tribunal dated 03.06.2002, appointment letters have been issued for three applicants and fourth applicant has since passed away. The appointment letters are taken on record and in view of the same, nothing survives in the petition. CP is accordingly closed. Notices are discharged. If, however, any grievance still remains, the applicants shall be at liberty to seek remedy through appropriate proceedings."

6.4. The aforesaid order leaves no manner of doubt that the appointment of the petitioners on 07.05.2013 was not a voluntary act of compliance by the Railway Authorities but was the direct result of contempt proceedings initiated by the petitioners after the directions of the Tribunal had remained unimplemented for over a decade. More significantly, the Tribunal itself, while closing the contempt petition, expressly preserved the petitioners' right to seek further remedy through appropriate proceedings in respect of any remaining grievance. The Original Application in question filed by the petitioners in the year 2016, challenging the incorrect fixation of their seniority after regularisation, is precisely such an appropriate proceeding, sanctioned and anticipated by the Tribunal's own order. Calling such parties lazy or blaming them for delay would be completely opposite to what the record actually shows.

6.5. The third error is the failure to appreciate that the petitioners are not seeking to reopen or disturb any settled seniority position dating back to 1990. What they seek is the correct implementation of a binding and final direction issued by the Principal Bench, CAT, New Delhi in O.A. No.1215 of 2001, which attained finality up to the Supreme Court, directing that the seniority of trained apprentices be fixed according to their merit in the trade test. Since the petitioners were appointed and regularised under that litigation, they have a legal right to get their seniority fixed according to that direction. The respondents cannot be permitted to use the ground of limitation as a shield to defeat the enforcement of a direction which was obtained by the applicants - petitioners themselves after years of protracted litigation.

6.6. On the scope and power of review, and the constitutional obligation of Courts to rectify errors that cause miscarriage of justice, this Court finds direct guidance in the celebrated judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in S. Nagaraj v. State of Karnataka5, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court authoritatively expounded the philosophy and amplitude of review jurisdiction. In paras 18 and 19 of the said judgment, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed and held as under:

"18. Justice is a virtue which transcends all barriers. Neither the rules of procedure nor technicalities of law can stand in its way. The order of the Court should not be prejudicial to anyone. Rule of stare decisis is adhered for consistency but it is not as inflexible in Administrative Law as in Public Law. Even the law bends before justice. Entire concept of writ jurisdiction exercised by the higher courts is founded on equity and fairness. If the Court finds that the order was passed under a mistake and it would not have exercised the jurisdiction but for the erroneous assumption which in fact did not exist and its perpetration shall result in miscarriage of justice then it cannot on any principle be precluded from rectifying the error. Mistake is accepted as valid reason to recall an order. Difference lies in the nature of mistake and scope of rectification, depending on if it is of fact or law. But the root from which the power flows is the anxiety to avoid injustice. It is either statutory or inherent. The latter is available where the mistake is of the Court. In Administrative Law the scope is still wider. Technicalities apart if the Court is satisfied of the injustice then it is its constitutional and legal obligation to set it right by recalling its order. Here as explained, the Bench of which one of us (R.M. Sahai, J.) was a member did commit an error in placing all the stipendiary graduates in the scale of First Division Assistants due to State's failure to bring correct facts on record. But that obviously cannot stand in the way of the Court correcting its mistake. Such inequitable consequences as have surfaced now due to vague affidavit filed by the State cannot be permitted to continue.

19. Review literally and even judicially means re-examination or reconsideration. Basic philosophy inherent in it is the universal acceptance of human fallibility. Yet in the realm of law the courts and even the statutes lean strongly in favour of finality of decision legally and properly made. Exceptions both statutorily and judicially have been carved out to correct accidental mistakes or miscarriage of justice. Even when there was no statutory provision and no rules were framed by the highest court indicating the circumstances in which it could rectify its order, the courts culled out such power to avoid abuse of process or miscarriage of justice. In Raja Prithvi Chand Lal Choudhury v. Sukhraj Rai and others, AIR (1941) Federal Court 1, the Court observed that even though no rules had been framed permitting the highest court to review its order yet it was available on the limited and narrow ground developed by the Privy Council and the House of Lords. The Court approved the principle laid down by the Privy Council in Rajinder Narain Rae v. Bijai Govind Singh, 1 Moo PC 117, that an order made by the Court was final and could not be altered,

'nevertheless, if by misprision in embodying the judgments, by errors have been introduced, these Courts possess, by common law, the same power which the Courts of record and statute have of rectifying mistakes made in drawing up its own judgments, and this Court must possess the same authority. The Lords have however gone a step further, and have corrected mistakes introduced through inadvertence in the details of judgments; or have supplied manifest defects in order to enable the decrees to be enforced, or have added explanatory matter, or have reconciled inconsistencies.''

Basis for exercise of the power was stated in the same decision as under:

'It is impossible to doubt that the indulgence extended in such cases is mainly owing to the natural desire prevailing to prevent irremediable injustice being done by a Court of last resort, where by some accident, without any blame, the party has not been heard and an order has been inadvertently made as if the party had been heard.'

Rectification of an order thus stems from the fundamental principle that justice is above all. It is exercised to remove the error and not for disturbing finality. When the Constitution was framed the substantive power to rectify or recall the order passed by this Court was specifically provided by Article 137 of the Constitution. Our Constitution-makers who had the practical wisdom to visualise the efficacy of such provision expressly conferred the substantive power to review any judgment or order by Article 137 of the Constitution. And clause (c) of Article 145 permitted this Court to frame rules as to the conditions subject to which any judgment or order may be reviewed. In exercise of this power Order XL had been framed empowering this Court to review an order in civil proceedings on grounds analogous to Order XLVII Rule 1 of the Civil Procedure Code. The expression, 'for any other sufficient reason' in the clause has been given an expanded meaning and a decree or order passed under misapprehension of true state of circumstances has been held to be sufficient ground to exercise the power. Apart from Order XL Rule 1 of the Supreme Court Rules this Court has the inherent power to make such orders as may be necessary in the interest of justice or to prevent the abuse of process of court. The Court is thus not precluded from recalling or reviewing its own order if it is satisfied that it is necessary to do so for sake of justice."

(Emphasis supplied)

6.7. The observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paras 18 and 19 in S. Nagaraj (supra) quoted above are directly applicable to the facts of the present case. The judgment and order dated 16.05.2019 was passed by the Division Bench on an erroneous assumption of fact, namely that the cause of action had arisen in the year 1990 or 2002, without adverting to the undisputed material on record showing that the applicants - petitioners were not even appointed until 07.05.2013 and were not regularised until 03.03.2014. This was exactly the kind of mistake, caused by ignoring important facts, which the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held to be a proper ground for review. As observed in S. Nagaraj (supra), if the Court finds that the order was passed by mistake and the Court would not have passed such order if the correct facts had been known, and if allowing the mistake to continue would cause injustice, then the Court can correct the error. It is this Court's constitutional and legal obligation to set right the injustice by recalling its earlier order. Both the impugned orders are accordingly vitiated by errors apparent on the face of record and are liable to be set aside.

G. Conclusion:-

7. In the light of the foregoing discussion, this Court holds as follows:

(i) Both the judgments and orders dated 16.05.2019 passed by this Court in Writ-A No. 7653 of 2019 and dated 06.02.2019 passed by the Tribunal in the Original Application in question suffer from following errors apparent on the face of the record:

(a) both the Tribunal and this Court proceeded on a fundamentally incorrect understanding of the cause of action by treating it as having arisen in the years 1990 or 2002, whereas the petitioners were appointed in service only on 07.05.2013, and consequently held the claim to be barred by limitation;

(b) both Courts failed to appreciate that the petitioners had been continuously and diligently pursuing their grievance since the year 2001, including through contempt proceedings, and were therefore not guilty of delay, laches, or inaction;

(c) both Courts failed to appreciate that the relief sought was not intended to disturb any settled seniority position, but merely sought enforcement of the binding directions issued in O.A. No.1215 of 2001, as affirmed up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court, requiring fixation of seniority according to merit and batch;

(ii) The judgment and order dated 16.05.2019 passed by the Division Bench of this Court was rendered on an erroneous assumption regarding the cause of action and is therefore liable to be reviewed;

(iii) The petitioners were not guilty of delay, laches, or inaction, as they had been continuously and diligently pursuing their grievance since the year 2001, including through contempt proceedings, and the Original Application instituted in the year 2016 was within limitation;

(iv) The relief sought by the petitioners does not involve disturbance of any settled seniority position, but relates to enforcement of the binding directions issued by the Principal Bench, CAT, New Delhi in Original Application No.1215 of 2001, which have attained finality up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court;

(v) Consequently, the review application deserves to be allowed and the the judgment and order dated 16.05.2019 passed by the Division Bench of this Court is liable to be reviewed and consequently and the order dated 06.02.2019 passed by the Tribunal is liable to be set aside.

H. Final Orders:-

8. In view of the above, this review application is allowed. The judgment and order dated 16.05.2019 passed by the Division Bench is recalled. Writ-A No. 7653 of 2019 stands restored and is taken up on merits. The same is disposed of to the extent indicated above.

8.1. The order dated 06.02.2019 passed by the Tribunal is set aside. Original Application No.330/00624/2016 is restored to the file of the Tribunal for fresh adjudication on merits in accordance with law and in the light of the binding directions issued in O.A. No.1215 of 2001 which have attained finality up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

8.2. Before parting, this Court deems it necessary to record that the petitioners are trained apprentices of the 1986-1989 batch who have been relentlessly pursuing their legitimate claim for over two decades, first before the Tribunal, then through contempt proceedings, then before the Delhi High Court, then before the Hon'ble Supreme Court, and thereafter again before the Tribunal and this Court. They have, by now, in all likelihood superannuated from service. Their dispute, which has its origins in a denial of correct seniority upon regularisation in the year 2014, has effectively been converted by the passage of time into a dispute concerning monetary benefits, i.e. arrears of pay in the appropriate grade, promotional benefits, and pension computed on the basis of correct seniority. This Court expects that the Tribunal shall be alive to this reality while adjudicating the matter.

8.3. For the purposes of the remand, it is clarified that the following facts stand conclusively established on the record and shall not be reopened before the Tribunal:

(a) that the petitioners completed their apprenticeship training from the batch of 1986-1989 and secured higher marks than Mohd. Niyaz in the trade test;

(b) that by order dated 03.06.2002 passed in O.A. No.1215 of 2001, the Tribunal directed that seniority of trained apprentices be fixed according to merit and batch; and

(c) that the said directions attained finality up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

The Tribunal shall proceed on the basis of the aforesaid undisputed facts and confine its adjudication to the question of consequential relief admissible to the petitioners in accordance with law.

8.4. The Tribunal shall decide Original Application No.330/00624/2016 expeditiously, preferably within three months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before it. No observation made in the judgment and order dated 16.05.2019 passed by the Division Bench and the order dated 06.02.2019 passed by the Tribunal shall influence the fresh consideration.

8.5. No order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE KARUNESH SINGH PAWAR, J.

Writ A No. 7873 of 2024

Ashok Kumar Kanaujiya ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Validity of disciplinary proceeding initiated with the allegation that an awards allegedly containing erroneous determination of compensation was passed.
(2) Effect of delay of seven years in initiating the disciplinary proceeding.
(3) Competence of District Magistrate to constitute the four-members Committee to inquire into the issue relating to determination of compensation and its effect on initiating the disciplinary proceeding.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Disciplinary proceeding – Inquiry report – Allegation that the petitioner, while acting as competent authority, passed an awards allegedly containing erroneous determination of compensation, was leveled – Validity of disciplinary proceeding was challenged : (E-1)

Held : Prima facie, the allegations leveled against the petitioner relate only to passing of an allegedly erroneous or wrongful order while exercising quasi-judicial powers as Competent Authority Land Acquisition which does not warrant disciplinary proceedings in light of the dictum as reported in Amresh Srivastava's case – The impugned disciplinary proceedings initiated against the petitioner cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. The material brought on record prima facie demonstrates that the allegations leveled against the petitioner pertain merely to alleged errors in determination of compensation while discharging quasi-judicial functions as Competent Authority for Land Acquisition under the National Highways Act, 1956, without there being any allegation or material indicating mala fide, corrupt motive, extraneous consideration or dishonest intention on the part of the petitioner. [Para 33 (1) (IX) and 34]

(B) Service law – Disciplinary proceeding – Unexplained delay of about seven years was taken place in initiating the disciplinary proceeding – Effect

Held : Initiation of disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner after more than seven years merely on the allegation of passing an erroneous order while exercising quasi-judicial powers does not appear to be in consonance with the settled principles governing disciplinary action against officers discharging quasi-judicial functions – The charge-sheet is arbitrary and illegal on the ground of unexplained delay alone, as recognised in decisions such as Bani Singh's case and P.V. Mahadevan's case. [Para 33 (1) XII and Para 33 (2) (II)]

(C) Service law – Disciplinary proceeding – District Magistrate, being Arbitrator, constituted a four-members Committee to inquire into the issue relating to determination of compensation – The Committee submitted its report, which formed the basis of initiating the disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner – Competence of District Magistrate to constitute the four-members Committee and the validity of the very genesis of initiating disciplinary proceeding felt into consideration

Held : From the statutory scheme contained under Section 3G(5) of the National Highways Act, 1956, it appears that the role of the arbitrator is confined to adjudication of disputes relating to determination of compensation arising out of acquisition proceedings. The provision does not contemplate delegation of arbitral functions or constitution of an independent fact-finding/enquiry committee for conducting an inquiry into the conduct of the Competent Authority for Land Acquisition – The District Magistrate, Amethi, while functioning as the Sole Arbitrator appointed by the Central Government under Section 3G(5) of the National Highways Act, 1956, could not have travelled beyond the statutory scope of reference/arbitration contemplated under the Act by passing orders in the pending arbitration proceedings directing constitution of a four-member committee for submission of an inquiry report. Such exercise was beyond the ambit of jurisdiction conferred upon the arbitral authority under the statutory scheme contained in Section 3G(5) of the Act. [Para 33 (3) (III) and (V)] (E-1)

Advs. for the Respondents : Sandeep Sharma, S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned Sr. Advocate assisted by Ms. Alina Masoodi, who has also independently argued this matter for the petitioner and Sri Sandeep Sharma, learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

RELIEF SOUGHT

2. Under Challenge in this petition is the charge-sheet dated 11.01.2023, issued by the Inquiry Officer/respondent no. 3, contained in Annexure No. 1, whereby four charges have been levelled against the petitioner. The substance of the allegations is that, while functioning as the Competent Authority for Land Acquisition, the petitioner had allegedly determined erroneous rates of compensation in three separate awards pertaining to parcels of land situated in District Amethi, which had been acquired for the purpose of widening and four-laning of National Highway-56.

FACTUAL MATRIX OF THE CASE

3. The petitioner was posted and functioning as the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Musafirkhana, District Amethi, during the period from 19.09.2015 to 25.03.2016. Prior thereto, the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways, Government of India, had issued a Gazette Notification dated 27.09.2011 under Section 3(a) of the National Highways Act, 1956, whereby the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Musafirkhana, District Amethi, was notified as the 'Competent Authority'. Subsequently, another notification dated 12.07.2012 was issued under Section 3(a) of the Act, containing the schedule and brief description of the lands proposed to be acquired for the public purpose of construction of National Highway-56. Thereafter, a further Gazette Notification dated 26.04.2013 under Section 3(d) of the Act was issued by the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways declaring the said lands to have been acquired by the Central Government for the construction and development of National Highway-56.

4. In discharge of his duties as Competent Authority for Land Acquisition (hereinafter referred to as ?CALA?), the petitioner passed three separate awards relating to acquisition proceedings. The first award dated 03.12.2015 pertained to Village Poore Premshah, District Amethi. The second award dated 05.12.2015 related to Village Utelwa, District Amethi, while the third award dated 18.02.2016 concerned Village Niyawan, District Amethi.

5. The award relating to Village Poore Premshah was approved on 30.12.2015, the award concerning Village Utelwa was approved on 06.01.2016, and the award pertaining to Village Niyawan received approval on 07.03.2016. The approvals were granted by the Regional Officer, NHAI (National Highways Authority of India), upon consideration of the recommendations and submissions made by the Project Director, Project Implementation Unit, NHAI (hereinafter referred to as ?PD-PIU, NHAI?). On 26.12.2015, certain objections were communicated by the PD-PIU, NHAI, to the petitioner in relation to the draft award concerning Village Niyawan, District Amethi.

6. Thereafter, by Notification dated 22.02.2016, issued by the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways, Government of India, the District Collector, Amethi, was appointed as the Arbitrator under sub-section (5) of Section 3G of the National Highways Act, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Highways Act'). It is significant to note that, after a lapse of nearly five years from the dates of the awards dated 03.12.2015 and 05.12.2015, arbitration applications were instituted on 19.12.2020 by the PD-PIU, NHAI before the District Magistrate, Amethi, challenging the aforesaid awards relating to Village Poore Premshah and Village Utelwa respectively.

7. The District Magistrate, Amethi, acting as the sole Arbitrator, passed an order dated 12.10.2022 in the arbitration proceedings (Annexure No. 6), directing constitution of a four-member committee for examining the rates of compensation determined in the awards in question. The said committee comprised: (i) the Additional District Magistrate (as Chairman), (ii) the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Musafirkhana (as member), (iii) the Chief Treasury Officer, Amethi as a member (as member), (iv) the Assistant Inspector General (Stamp and Registration) (as member). Pursuant to the aforesaid order dated 12.10.2022, the committee submitted its report on 28.10.2022 (Annexure No. 7). Thereafter, the Arbitrator/District Magistrate, Amethi, forwarded the said report to the Additional Chief Secretary, Appointments, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, vide letter dated 29.10.2022 (Annexure No. 8), without applying any independent application of mind, requesting initiation of further action in relation to the alleged erroneous determination of compensation by the petitioner and four other officers.

8. Subsequently, on 25.11.2022, another arbitration application came to be filed challenging the award dated 18.02.2016 relating to Village Niyawan, after a lapse of approximately six years from the date of the said award. Thereafter, the State Government, vide order dated 05.12.2022, initiated disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner. In pursuance thereof, the petitioner was served with the impugned charge-sheet dated 11.01.2023 on 31.01.2023, containing four charges alleging that the petitioner had incorrectly and erroneously determined the rates of compensation in the awards relating to Village Poore Premshah dated 03.12.2015, Village Utelwa dated 05.12.2015, and Village Niyawan dated 18.02.2016, besides allegations relating to distribution and disbursement of compensation amounts.

9. Pursuant to an application moved by the petitioner under the Right to Information Act, the concerned Section Officer furnished information vide replies dated 12.05.2023 and 23.08.2023 disclosing that disciplinary proceedings against other officers named in the four-member committee report dated 28.10.2022, namely the then Competent Authorities/Sub-Divisional Magistrates, Musafirkhana, Shri Subhash Prajapati and Shri Abhay Kumar Pandey, had already been dropped, while the petitioner alone had been singled out for disciplinary action. The petitioner thereafter submitted his detailed reply to the charge-sheet on 22.10.2024.

10. In Civil Miscellaneous Application No. 120 of 2023, titled Girija Shankar Dwivedi vs. State of U.P. and others, a Division Bench of this Court, while allowing the review application, directed transfer of all arbitration proceedings pending before the District Magistrate, Amethi, to the Commissioner, Lucknow, as reflected from Annexure No. RA-6.

11. The Inquiry Officer thereafter submitted his inquiry report dated 08.01.2025. Consequent thereto, a show-cause notice dated 07.02.2025 was served upon the petitioner under Rule 9(4) of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Rules, 1999'), calling upon him to submit his representation against the findings recorded in the inquiry report. The copy of the inquiry report was supplied to the petitioner on 28.02.2025, which forms part of the record at page no. 14 of the counter affidavit.

12. Thereafter, this Court, vide interim order dated 28.04.2025 passed in the present writ petition, granted protection to the petitioner by directing that no final order in the pending departmental proceedings shall be passed without obtaining prior leave of the Court. In compliance of the aforesaid proceedings, the petitioner submitted his representation under Rule 9(4) of the Rules, 1999 on 19.05.2025.

13. It is lastly stated that the Special Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, vide communication dated 30.03.2026 addressed to the Inquiry Officer, categorically acknowledged that no opportunity had been afforded to the petitioner to cross-examine witnesses during the course of disciplinary proceedings. Consequently, the Inquiry Officer was directed to submit a revised inquiry report, as evidenced from Annexure No. CA-4."

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONER

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned charge-sheet as well as the consequential disciplinary proceedings initiated against the petitioner are founded solely on the allegation that, while discharging his judicial/quasi-judicial functions as the Competent Authority for Land Acquisition (CALA), the petitioner passed awards allegedly containing erroneous determination of compensation. It is vehemently contended that the charge-sheet does not contain even a whisper of any allegation relating to mala fide intention, extraneous consideration, illegal gratification, or abuse of official position. The entire foundation of the disciplinary proceedings rests merely upon the allegation that the awards passed by him were erroneous in nature.

15. It is further submitted that the petitioner, while functioning as CALA, passed awards only in respect of three villages, namely, Village Poore Premshah, Village Utelwa, and Village Niyawan. The petitioner merely adopted and followed the pattern, methodology, and rates of compensation already determined by his predecessor, namely Shri R.D. Ram, who had earlier been posted as Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Musafirkhana, and had acted as the Competent Authority prior to the petitioner?s posting during the period commencing from 19.09.2015 to 25.03.2016. Thus, the petitioner cannot be singled out when the compensation rates had already been determined and followed in earlier awards passed by his predecessor.

16. Learned counsel further submits that, prior to passing the final awards, the petitioner had duly circulated and shared the draft awards pertaining to all the aforesaid three villages with the PD-PIU, NHAI, strictly in compliance with Guideline 3.5 of the Manual of Guidelines on Land Acquisition for National Highways. The said guideline specifically casts responsibility upon the Project Executing Agency, namely PD-PIU, NHAI, to examine the proposed awards and raise objections, if any. It is contended that objections were received only in respect of Village Niyawan, and even those objections were confined merely to the area of certain plots of land and not with regard to the rates of compensation or any alleged error in the calculation thereof. At no point of time did the PD-PIU, NHAI point out any alleged erroneous determination of compensation or any defect in calculation, despite the fact that the said authority was equally responsible in the process relating to determination and scrutiny of compensation payable under the awards.

17. It is further submitted that the petitioner passed all the aforesaid awards dated 03.12.2015, 05.12.2015, and 18.02.2016 in exercise of powers under sub-section (1) of Section 3G of the National Highways Act, 1956. No arbitration proceedings were initiated within the prescribed period of limitation and the arbitration applications came to be filed only after an extraordinary and unexplained delay of approximately four to five years. The arbitration application challenging the awards relating to Villages Poore Premshah and Utelwa was admittedly filed by the PD-PIU, NHAI on 19.12.2020, after 4-5 years of the awards.

18. In support of the aforesaid submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Hon?ble Supreme Court in Amresh Shrivastava Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh and others, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 693, wherein the Apex Court held that disciplinary proceedings are not warranted merely because an officer, while discharging quasi-judicial functions, has passed an award which is subsequently alleged to be erroneous, unless there exist allegations of extraneous consideration and mala fide conduct.

19. Reliance has also been placed upon the judgment of the Hon?ble Supreme Court in Union of India Vs. K.K. Dhawan, (1993) 2 SCC 56, wherein the Supreme Court laid down the parameters governing disciplinary proceedings against officers exercising judicial or quasi-judicial powers and held that such proceedings would be permissible only if the conduct of the officer falls within the categories specifically enumerated therein. It is submitted that none of the conditions laid down in the aforesaid judgment are attracted in the present case.

20. Learned counsel submits that the impugned charge-sheet does not allege that the petitioner acted with mala fide intention, received any illegal gratification, or acted on the basis of any extraneous consideration. Therefore, at the most, the allegations against the petitioner may amount merely to passing an erroneous or incorrect order, which by itself cannot constitute misconduct warranting disciplinary proceedings in view of the law laid down in K.K. Dhawan (supra).

21. Further reliance has been placed upon the judgment of the Hon’ble Supreme Court in Abhay Jain Vs. High Court of Judicature of Rajasthan and another, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 319, wherein it has been reiterated that even if an officer is found negligent while discharging judicial or quasi-judicial functions, such negligence by itself would not amount to misconduct so as to justify disciplinary action. The Supreme Court categorically held that disciplinary proceedings cannot be initiated merely because an officer has passed an incorrect order or because another view was possible in the matter. Similar principles were earlier reiterated in Zunjarrao Bhikaji Nagarkar Vs. Union of India and others, (1997) 7 SCC 409.

22. The next submission advanced on behalf of the petitioner is that the disciplinary proceedings suffer from gross and unexplained delay and are, therefore, liable to be quashed on this ground alone. It is submitted that the charges relate to awards passed in the years 2015 and 2016, whereas the charge-sheet came to be issued only on 11.01.2023 and served upon the petitioner on 31.01.2023, after an inordinate delay of approximately six to seven years.

23. Elaborating the chronology, learned counsel submits that the award relating to Village Poore Premshah was passed on 03.12.2015 and approved on 30.12.2015 by the Regional Officer, PD-PIU, NHAI, whereas the arbitration application challenging the same was filed only on 19.12.2020, followed by issuance of the impugned charge-sheet on 11.01.2023, after nearly seven years. Similarly, the award relating to Village Utelwa was passed on 05.12.2015 and approved on 06.01.2016, yet the disciplinary proceedings were initiated only after several years. Likewise, the award concerning Village Niyawan was passed on 18.02.2016 and approved on 07.03.2016, whereas the arbitration proceedings challenging the said award were instituted only on 25.11.2022, after more than six years.

24. It is thus contended that initiation of disciplinary proceedings after such an enormous and unexplained lapse of time is wholly arbitrary, unjustified, and contrary to settled principles of law. In support of the aforesaid contention, learned counsel has relied upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Bani Singh, 1990 Supp (1) SCC 738 and P.V. Mahadevan Vs. Managing Director, Tamil Nadu Housing Board, (2005) 6 SCC 636, wherein the Apex Court has deprecated initiation of disciplinary proceedings after long and unexplained delay.

25. Lastly, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the District Magistrate, Amethi, had been appointed as the sole Arbitrator by the Central Government under the provisions of the National Highways Act, 1956 and, therefore, was required to act strictly within the jurisdiction conferred under sub-section (5) of Section 3G of the Act. It is contended that the Arbitrator exceeded his statutory jurisdiction by directing constitution of a four-member committee for conducting an inquiry into the awards in question and for submission of a report concerning alleged erroneous determination of compensation.

26. It has further been argued that, although several officers were named in the report of the four-member committee, disciplinary proceedings against the other officers have either been dropped or not initiated at all, whereas the petitioner alone has been selectively targeted and singled out for departmental action in an arbitrary and discriminatory manner. In support of the said contention, learned counsel has also placed reliance upon the judgment of the Hon?ble Supreme Court in V.K. Ashokan Vs. CCE, (2009) 14 SCC 85."

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

27. Per contra, Shri Sandeep Sharma, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents, has opposed the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner and submits that the departmental proceedings against the petitioner have been validly initiated under Rule 7 of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999, on the allegations relating to irregular and erroneous determination of compensation payable in respect of lands situated in Villages Poore Premshah, Utelwa, and Niyawan.

28. It is submitted that, pursuant to initiation of the disciplinary proceedings, the Inquiry Officer, along with the duly approved charge-sheet, served the same upon the delinquent officer/petitioner vide communication dated 31.01.2023. Thereafter, the petitioner participated in the proceedings and submitted his replies on various dates, namely 01.06.2023, 16.06.2023, and subsequently a supplementary reply dated 22.10.2024. Learned Standing Counsel submits that adequate opportunity of hearing was afforded to the petitioner during the course of the inquiry proceedings, including personal hearing granted on 22.10.2024, on which date the petitioner submitted his supplementary response to the charges levelled against him.

29. It is further submitted that, after submission of the inquiry report, the petitioner was again afforded opportunity to submit his representation in terms of Rule 9(4) of the Rules, 1999 vide notice dated 07.02.2025, to which the petitioner submitted his detailed reply/representation vide letter dated 19.05.2025. The petitioner has, thus, been granted full opportunity at every stage of the departmental proceedings and the principles of natural justice have been duly complied with.

30. Learned Standing Counsel has further submitted that, in compliance of the order passed by the Division Bench of this Court in Civil Miscellaneous Application No. 120 of 2023, Girija Shankar Dwivedi Vs. State of U.P. and others, all arbitration proceedings pending before the District Magistrate, Amethi, stood transferred to the Court of the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, where the same are presently pending consideration.

31. Lastly, learned Standing Counsel submits that the arbitration proceedings concerning the awards passed by the petitioner and the departmental proceedings initiated against him operate in altogether distinct and separate fields. Mere pendency of arbitration proceedings does not create any legal embargo upon continuation of departmental proceedings, inasmuch as both proceedings are independent in nature and can validly proceed simultaneously in accordance with law.

CONSIDERATION BY THE COURT

32. Perused the record.

33. On the basis of the pleadings exchanged between the parties and the grounds urged in the present writ petition, the following issues arise for consideration by this Hon’ble Court:

(i) Whether the initiation of disciplinary proceedings by the respondent authorities against the petitioner, merely on the allegation of having passed an erroneous order while discharging quasi-judicial functions as Competent Authority for Land Acquisition, in the absence of any allegation of mala fide or extraneous consideration, is legally sustainable in the facts and circumstances of the present case?

(ii) Whether the initiation of disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner on stale charges by the respondents authorities, after an inordinate and unexplained delay of approximately six to seven years, is sustainable in the eyes of law?

(iii) Whether the District Magistrate, Amethi appointed as the Sole Arbitrator by the Central Government, go beyond the scope of reference/arbitration as provided in the statutory scheme as contained in National Highways Act, 1956 under sub-section (5) of Section 3G and pass orders in arbitration proceedings pending before it directing for constitution of a four-members committee to submit an enquiry report? "only rephrase the sentences?

RE: ISSUE NO. 1 - DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

I. The aforesaid material on record prima facie reflects that the petitioner, while functioning as Competent Authority for Land Acquisition, had passed awards only in respect of three villages namely Poore Premshah, Niyanwan and Utelwa, which were affected by the widening and four-laning of National Highway-56, whereas the awards pertaining to the remaining twenty-seven villages had already been passed by his predecessor-in-office, Shri R.D. Ram, while posted as Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Musafirkhana, prior to the petitioner?s tenure from 19.09.2015 to 25.03.2016. It further appears that the petitioner had followed the compensation rates already determined by his predecessor and had also shared the draft awards in respect of the aforesaid three villages with the Project Director Project Implementation Unit, National Highways Authority of India (PD-PIU, NHAI) in consonance with Guideline 3.5 of the Manual of Guidelines on Land Acquisition for National Highways. The Guideline 3.5 of of the Manual of Guidelines on Land Acquisition for National Highways is as under:-

"3.5 Determination of the amount of Compensation in respect of land by the CALA

3.5.1 Determination of market value of land:

A number of issues have come to notice regarding the acquisition of land, especially those relating to determination of the market value of land, treatment of the nature of land and its impact on the market value of land and the total compensation amount awarded in respect of land acquisition for the National Highways. These are discussed and elaborated in the following sub-paras:

(i) It is re-iterated in the first instance that the CALAs, though officers from the State Governments, are appointed as such by the Central Government under the NH Act, 1956 and, accordingly, the CALAs are obliged to act in accordance with the provisions contained in the NH Act, 1956 and the quidelines issued by this Ministry in furtherance thereof in discharge of their quasi-judicial functions.

(ii) Further, it has been observed that the officers-in-charge of the Project Implementing Agencies (e.g. NHAI, NHIDCL, State PWDs and BRO) of the Central Government do not undertake any due diligence qua the amount of Award and leave it entirely to the CALAs on the ground that it is not their domain to question the CALAS in this behalf. This has been the practice followed so far. It may be noted that, as representatives of the land acquiring agency (i.e. the Central Government), they cannot entirely distance themselves in this process. They have to watch the financial interests of the Central Government as representatives of the land acquiring agency. As such, the concerned field officers of MORTH/NHAI/NHIDCL/State PWDs, executing NH Projects on behalf of MoRTH, may request the concerned CALA to share the Draft Award with them for furnishing their comments, if any. They would generally oversee that the compensation being awarded and paid for land acquisition is in accordance with the law and that any extraneous factors or considerations are not built therein. Any such inconsistencies, timely rectification of which is necessary in the interests of the landowners as well as the Central Government, must be pointed out to the CALA immediately in writing for reconciliation and correction."

II. A perusal of Guideline 3.5 of the Manual prima facie demonstrates that although the Competent Authority Land Acquisition discharges quasi-judicial functions under the National Highways Act, 1956, the officers of the project implementing agency, including NHAI, are also required to undertake due diligence with respect to the amount proposed in the award and to safeguard the financial interests of the Central Government. The said Guideline further contemplates that the draft award may be shared with the concerned authorities of NHAI so as to enable them to point out any inconsistency, deviation or irregularity before the award is finalized.

III. Further, Guideline 3.13.2 of the Manual clearly sets out the duties and responsibilities of the PD-PIU, NHAI and specifically casts upon such authority the obligation to assist the Competent Authority Land Acquisition in determination of market value, verify correctness of mathematical calculations, identify deviations from statutory provisions or guidelines at the draft stage itself and ensure that the compensation proposed in the award is in accordance with law. Guideline 3.13.2 are reproduced as under:-

"The officer-in-charge of the project executing agency is expected to discharge his role as the owner of the project at every stage of completion of the LA process and establish his project ownership by taking the lead at every stage. Briefly stating, his role and responsibilities include the following:

(i) Active coordination and collaboration with the DPR Consultants regarding all aspects of land acquisition right from the stage of preparation of DPR/Feasibility Report

(ii) At the first level, call on the concerned Deputy Commissioner/ District Collector and the CALA to brief them about the road project and the need for timely acquisition of land for the said project. Keep this contact on a continuing basis;

(iii) At the next level, coordinate with and liaise with the concerned field officers from the Departments of PWD, Forest, Horticulture, Electricity and other Utility owning departments and brief them about the importance of the project and their support,

(iv) Request the Deputy Commissioner/ District Collector to convene periodical review meetings of all concerned with refreshments/lunch/dinner hosted by the officer-in-charge of the project executing agency.

(V) Ensure timely issue of Notifications under Sections 3(a), 3(A) & 3(D) of the National Highways Act, 1956;

(vi) Ensuring timely conduct of Joint measurement survey, wherever required;

(vii) Coordination with the CALA and officers of other concerned departments, i.e. Forest, Horticulture, PWD for valuation of assets attached to the land and for seeking pre-project statutory clearances:

(viii) To assist the CALA in determination of market value of land as per the provision of the Act, while observing the quidelines issued by the Ministry of Road Transport & Highways in furtherance of the Act in this behalf;

(ix) To bring any deviation from legal provisions/ quidelines to the Notice of the CALA for necessary correction at the draft stage of the Award, correct positioning of the nature/ category of land in the Award, assist the CALA in correctness of mathematical calculations, and to ensure that compensation for Government land is not included in the Award;

(x) Expeditious settlement of compensation claims/declaration of award;

(xi) Identification of missing plots and expediting the LA process for the same;

(xii) Expediting appointment of Arbitrators, as and when required; (xii)

(xiii) Challenging Arbitral Awards, in event of their being unreasonable;

(xiv) Mutation of acquired land in favour of Central Government in the Record of Rights;

(xv) To ensure strict compliance of Guidelines issued by MoRT&H from time to time."

IV. From the material brought on record, it further appears that draft awards in respect of all the three villages were duly shared by the petitioner with the PD-PIU, NHAI and objections were received only in relation to village Niyanwan and that too merely regarding the area of a particular plot and not with respect to the rate or calculation of compensation awarded by the petitioner. Prima facie, therefore, if there existed any alleged error in determination of compensation or mathematical calculation thereof, the same could have been identified and pointed out by the PD-PIU, NHAI prior to finalization of the awards.

V. It also appears from a perusal of Section 3G of the National Highways Act, 1956 that the said enactment constitutes a self-contained code governing not only the determination of compensation but also the remedy available against such determination. Under sub-section (5) of Section 3G, if the amount determined by the Competent Authority is not acceptable to either of the parties, the matter may be referred to arbitration before an arbitrator appointed by the Central Government. Sub-section (6) further provides that the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 shall apply to every such arbitration. Guideline 3.5 is being reproduced as under:-

3G. Determination of amount payable as compensation.-

(1) Where any land is acquired under this Act, there shall be paid an amount which shall be determined by an order of the competent authority.

(2) Where the right of user or any right in the nature of an easement on, any land is acquired under this Act, there shall be paid an amount to the owner and any other person whose right of enjoyment in that land has been affected in any manner whatsoever by reason of such acquisition an amount calculated at ten per cent, of the amount determined under sub-section (1), for that land.

(3) Before proceeding to determine the amount under sub-section (1) or sub-section

(2), the competent authority shall give a public notice published in two local newspapers, one of which will be in a vernacular language inviting claims from all persons interested in the land to be acquired.

(4) Such notice shall state the particulars of the land and shall require all persons interested in such land to appear in person or by an agent or by a legal practitioner referred to in sub-section (2) of section 3C, before the competent authority, at a time and place and to state the nature of their respective interest in such land.

(5) If the amount determined by the competent authority under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) is not acceptable to either of the parties, the amount shall, on an application by either of the parties, be determined by the arbitrator to be appointed by the Central Government—

(6) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (26 of 1996) shall apply to every arbitration under this Act.

(7) The competent authority or the arbitrator while determining the amount under sub-section (1) or sub-section (5), as the case may be, shall take into consideration

(a) the market value of the land on the date of publication of the notification under section 3A;

(b) the damage, if any, sustained by the person interested at the time of taking possession of the land, by reason of the severing of such land from other land;

(c) the damage, if any, sustained by the person interested at the time of taking possession of the land, by reason of the acquisition injuriously affecting his other immovable property in any manner, or his earnings;

(d) if, in consequences of the acquisition of the land, the person interested is compelled to change his residence or place of business, the reasonable expenses, if any, incidental to such change."

VI. Section 3G(5) of the National Highways Act, 1956 provides that if either party is dissatisfied with the compensation determined by the Competent Authority, the dispute may be referred to an arbitrator appointed by the Central Government, and under Section 3G(6), the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 apply to such proceedings. Thus, any grievance against the compensation awarded by the Competent Authority Land Acquisition while exercising quasi-judicial powers under Section 3G(1) was required to be challenged through arbitration. In the present case, the petitioner had passed awards dated 03.12.2015, 05.12.2015 and 18.02.2016 relating to villages Poore Premshah, Utelwa and Niyanwan in District Amethi while acting as Competent Authority Land Acquisition. However, no arbitration proceedings were initiated within the prescribed limitation period, and only subsequently in 2020 the Project Director, Project Implementation Unit filed an arbitration application dated 29.12.2020 concerning the awards relating to villages Poore Premshah and Utelwa.

VII. At this stage, reference may also be made to the judgment rendered by the Hon?ble Supreme Court in Amresh Shrivastava (supra), wherein it has been held that disciplinary proceedings are not ordinarily warranted merely on account of passing of an allegedly erroneous order while exercising quasi-judicial powers unless such order is shown to have been influenced by mala fides, extraneous consideration, gratification or dishonest intention. The Hon?ble Supreme Court further observed that where the order appears to have been passed in good faith and without any indication of impropriety, initiation of disciplinary proceedings would not be justified. The relevant extract of the Judgment reported in Amresh Shrivastava (supra), is being reproduced hereunder for ease of perusal and kind consideration of this Hon'ble Court:-

The facts as have been narrated above are not in dispute. Two aspects which need to be considered are:

(1) Whether the chargesheet issued to the Appellant by the Respondent-State would fall within the scope of observations that have been carved out by this Court in K.K. Dhawan case (supra)?

(2) Whether inordinate unexplained delay in issuance of the chargesheet (in this case 14 years) would in itself be a ground for quashing the chargesheet issued to the appellant?

15. As regards the first question in K.K. Dhawan case (supra), this Court carved out the following situations where the government is not precluded from taking disciplinary actions for violation of the Code of Conduct:-

"(1) Where the officer had acted in a manner as would reflect on his reputation for integrity or good faith or devotion to duty;

(ii) If there is prima facie material to show recklessness or misconduct in the discharge of his duty,

(i) if he has acted in a manner which is unbecoming of a Government servant;

(iv) if he had acted negligently or that he omitted the prescribed conditions which are essential for the exercise of the statutory powers;

(v) if he had acted in order to unduly favour a party,

(vi) if he had been actuated by corrupt motive however, small the bribe may be because Lord Coke said long ago "though the bribe may be small, yet the fault is great."

After carving out the above exceptions, this Court proceeded to further observe that mere technical violations or the fact that an order is wrong, if not falling under the above enumerated instances, does not warrant disciplinary actions. It was further reiterated that each case depends on its facts, and absolute rules cannot be postulated. The above instances as referred and reproduced hereinabove, are thus only a guide and not meant to be mandatorily adhere to without exception.

16. In the present case, we are of the considered view that the charges alleged against the Appellant in the chargesheet fall under the category of a wrongful order, which does not appear to have been influenced by extraneous factors or any form of gratification. It appears that the order has been passed in good faith, without any indication of dishonesty. Furthermore, the facts outlined in the Show Cause Notice do not suggest any such impropriety. The power exercised by the Appellant in his capacity as a Tehsildar, while passing the order of Land Settlement Order, cannot be considered of a nature that would warrant disciplinary proceedings against him. The decision relied upon by the Counsel for the Appellant as mentioned above, supports this view. Consequently, the first question is answered in favor of the Appellant.

17. As to the second question, regarding whether delay is a ground for stopping the departmental proceedings at the stage of the chargesheet itself, suffice it to say that this varies from case to case. However, in the instant case where there is unexplained inordinate delay in initiating departmental proceedings despite the alleged misconduct being within the knowledge of the department, but still no departmental proceedings are initiated, the answer must go in favour of the employee. However, there may be cases where the department was not even aware of such irregularities or the misconduct, which is of such a nature that it is indicative, based on material considerations of factors other than merit, such as extraneous influences and gratifications. In such cases, such a delay, by itself would not be a valid ground to scuttle the initiation of the process of departmental proceedings.

18. Reference in this regard can be made to the decision of this court in State of Madhya Pradesh v. Bani Singh, wherein the court noted that there was no reason to interfere with the quashing as the disciplinary proceedings were initiated after 12 years of delay. A reference should also be made to the decision of this Court in P.V. Mahadevan v. MD, T.N. Housing Board, where it has been reiterated that continuing the departmental proceedings after an undue delay would be unjust, causing unnecessary mental distress and damaging the reputation of the employee for the mistakes committed by the department in initiating disciplinary proceedings.

19. In view of the above, the present appeal is allowed and the Impugned Judgment dated 30.04.2019 passed by the Division Bench of the High Court is set aside and consequently the order dated 26.04.2017 passed by the learned Single Judge stands restored."

VIII. It is also well settled that in matters involving officers exercising judicial or quasi-judicial powers, what is relevant is not merely the correctness of the ultimate decision but the decision-making process adopted by such officer. In this regard, reference may be made to the judgment in K.K. Dhawan (supra), wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that disciplinary proceedings against an officer exercising quasi-judicial functions would be maintainable only if the conduct of such officer falls within the recognized exceptions enumerated therein.

IX. A perusal of the impugned charge-sheet dated 11.01.2023 further reflects that there is no allegation whatsoever that the petitioner acted mala fide or passed the awards in anticipation of any gratification or on account of any extraneous consideration. Prima facie, the allegations levelled against the petitioner relate only to passing of an allegedly erroneous or wrongful order while exercising quasi-judicial powers as Competent Authority Land Acquisition which does not warrant disciplinary proceedings in light of the dictum as reported in Amresh Srivastava (supra).

X. Reference may also be made to the judgments rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Abhay Jain (supra) and Zunjarrao Bhikaji Nagarkar (supra), wherein it has consistently been held that mere passing of an erroneous order, or even negligence while discharging judicial or quasi-judicial functions, would not by itself amount to misconduct unless accompanied by mala fides, extraneous consideration or dishonest intention.

XI. The aforesaid principles also appear to have been followed by this Court in Prakash Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and others, (Writ A No. 29828 of 2021) wherein it was observed that disciplinary proceedings cannot be initiated merely because a judicial or quasi-judicial authority may have passed an incorrect or erroneous order in absence of allegations relating to mala fides or extraneous consideration.

XII. Thus, even assuming, that there was any error in determination of compensation by the petitioner while passing the awards dated 03.12.2015, 05.12.2015 and 18.02.2016, the statutory remedy available to the aggrieved party was to seek arbitration under the provisions of the National Highways Act, 1956, which remedy admittedly came to be invoked subsequently. Thus, initiation of disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner after more than seven years merely on the allegation of passing an erroneous order while exercising quasi-judicial powers does not appear to be in consonance with the settled principles governing disciplinary action against officers discharging quasi-judicial functions.

XIII. Accordingly, the issue is liable to be answered against the respondent authorities and in favour of the petitioner, inasmuch as initiation of disciplinary proceedings merely on the allegation of passing an erroneous order while discharging quasi-judicial functions, in the absence of any allegation of mala fide, extraneous consideration or dishonest intention, does not appear to be legally sustainable in the facts and circumstances of the present case.

RE: ISSUE NO. 2 - DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

I. The impugned charge-sheet dated 11.01.2023 pertains to alleged erroneous determination and disbursal of compensation by the petitioner while exercising quasi-judicial powers as Competent Authority Land Acquisition under the National Highways Act, 1956 in awards passed during 2015?2016 relating to villages Poore Premshah, Utelwa and Niyanwan in District Amethi. Prima facie, the charge-sheet contains no allegation of mala fide conduct, extraneous consideration, dishonest intention, or personal gain, and the allegations are limited to alleged errors in determination of compensation. The relevant details of the awards, approvals and arbitration proceedings are being set out separately in tabular form.

S. No.	Village	Date of Award Passed by the Petitioner	Date of Approval by Regional Officer, NHAI and PD-PIU, NHAI	Date of Filing of Arbitration Application Against the Award	Delay till Issuance of Charge-sheet on 11.01.2023
1	Poore Premshah	03.12.2015	30.12.2015	19.12.2020	More than 7 years
2	Utelwa	05.12.2015	06.01.2016	19.12.2020	More than 7 years
3	Niyawan	18.02.2016	07.03.2016	25.11.2022	Almost 7 years

II. It is well settled that unexplained and inordinate delay in initiating disciplinary proceedings renders such proceedings unsustainable, particularly when based on stale allegations. In the present case, the impugned charge-sheet dated 11.01.2023 relates to awards passed by the petitioner on 03.12.2015, 05.12.2015 and 18.02.2016 concerning villages Poore Premshah, Niyanwan and Utelwa in District Amethi, nearly eight years prior to initiation of proceedings. The charge-sheet is arbitrary and illegal on the ground of unexplained delay alone, as recognised in decisions such as 1990 Supp (1) SCC 738 in re: State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Bani Singh and (2005) 6 SCC 636 in re: P.V. Mahadevan Vs. MD T.N. Housing Board. Reliance is also placed upon Amresh Shrivastava (supra), wherein it was held that unexplained delay in initiating departmental proceedings despite prior knowledge of the alleged misconduct must ensure to the benefit of the employee.

III. In the present case, the draft and final awards were admittedly within the knowledge of the concerned authorities, including the PD-PIU and Regional Officer, NHAI, who had approved the same, and there is no allegation that the alleged errors were unknown to the respondents. Consequently, the absence of any plausible explanation for the delay makes the departmental proceedings liable to be set aside.

RE: ISSUE NO. 3 - DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

I. The record reflects that the Central Government, in exercise of powers under Section 3G(5) of the National Highways Act, 1956, had appointed the District Collector, Amethi as the Sole Arbitrator for adjudication of disputes relating to compensation under the Act. The arbitration proceedings in question arose out of challenges made by the PD-PIU, NHAI to the awards passed by the petitioner while functioning as Competent Authority for Land Acquisition.

II. During pendency of the arbitration proceedings, the District Magistrate, Amethi, acting as Sole Arbitrator, passed an order dated 12.10.2022 constituting a four-member committee to inquire into the issue relating to determination of compensation, pursuant whereto the committee submitted its report dated 28.10.2022. The said report was thereafter forwarded to the State Government and ultimately formed the basis for initiation of disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner.

III. From the statutory scheme contained under Section 3G(5) of the National Highways Act, 1956, it appears that the role of the arbitrator is confined to adjudication of disputes relating to determination of compensation arising out of acquisition proceedings. The provision does not contemplate delegation of arbitral functions or constitution of an independent fact-finding/enquiry committee for conducting an inquiry into the conduct of the Competent Authority for Land Acquisition. The arbitral authority is required to independently adjudicate the disputes referred before it within the confines of the statutory reference.

IV. In this regard, reference may also be made to V.K. Ashokan v. Assistant Excise Commissioner and Others, (2009) 14 SCC 85, wherein the Hon?ble Supreme Court observed that statutory authorities are required to act strictly within the scope of powers conferred by the statute.

V. Thus, the aforesaid issue is answered in the negative. It is held that the District Magistrate, Amethi, while functioning as the Sole Arbitrator appointed by the Central Government under Section 3G(5) of the National Highways Act, 1956, could not have travelled beyond the statutory scope of reference/arbitration contemplated under the Act by passing orders in the pending arbitration proceedings directing constitution of a four-member committee for submission of an inquiry report. Such exercise was beyond the ambit of jurisdiction conferred upon the arbitral authority under the statutory scheme contained in Section 3G(5) of the Act.

CONCLUSION AND DIRECTIONS

34. In view of the discussions made hereinabove and the findings recorded while considering Issue Nos. 1, 2 and 3, this Court is of the considered opinion that the impugned disciplinary proceedings initiated against the petitioner cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. The material brought on record prima facie demonstrates that the allegations levelled against the petitioner pertain merely to alleged errors in determination of compensation while discharging quasi-judicial functions as Competent Authority for Land Acquisition under the National Highways Act, 1956, without there being any allegation or material indicating mala fide, corrupt motive, extraneous consideration or dishonest intention on the part of the petitioner.

35. This Court further finds that the impugned charge-sheet has been issued after an inordinate and unexplained delay of nearly seven years from the dates of passing of the awards, despite the relevant records and proceedings having remained within the knowledge of the respondent authorities throughout. Such initiation of disciplinary proceedings, particularly in matters relating to exercise of quasi-judicial powers, is contrary to the settled principles laid down by the Hon?ble Supreme Court in catena of decisions referred to hereinabove.

36. This Court also finds substance in the contention that the process culminating in initiation of disciplinary proceedings itself originated from a procedure not contemplated under the statutory framework of Section 3G(5) of the National Highways Act, 1956, inasmuch as the Sole Arbitrator travelled beyond the permissible scope of arbitral jurisdiction by constituting a four-member inquiry committee during pendency of arbitration proceedings.

37. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned charge-sheet dated 11.01.2023 as well as all consequential disciplinary proceedings arising therefrom are hereby set aside.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Effect of non-joinder of parties in writ proceeding.
(2) Applicability of new Act of 2023 enforced after the publication of advertisement and before the final consideration.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Selection – Advertisement was issued on 08.08.2023 prior to date of enforcement of the Act, 2023 i.e. 21.08.2023 – Selection process was taken place – Impugned order was passed holding that since advertisement was published prior to the enforcement of the Act, 2023, therefore, it would not be illegal to continue with selection process in terms of earlier Act of 1982 and not by Act of 2023 – Validity challenged – Effect of repeal of old Act and enforcement of new Act felt into consideration

Held : Only on a ground that a writ petition is pending from 2010 on a dispute of Committee of Management, there may not be a vacuum as well as students of the College concerned cannot be forced to suffer in absence of teaching staff. The conditions imposed in permission was in anticipation and as discussed above, the selection process was protected by provisions "Repeal and Savings" of Act, 2023, therefore, such condition has no legal consequence. No candidate has come forward being aggrieved by the impugned decision, therefore, the Court finds that there is no illegality in impugned order dated 21.04.2025. Since advertisements were issued before Act, 2023 was enforced, therefore, procedure applicable earlier vide Act of 2019 was followed and selection process was found to be legal. (Para 39)

(B) Service law – Selection – Post of Assistant Professors – Non-joinder of parties – Selected candidate were not impleaded as parties – Effect : (E-1)

Held : Defect of non-joinder of parties goes to the root of case since petitioner cannot deny that he was not aware about subsequent events that selected candidates were already appointed and they have joined at their respective posts as well as University has granted approval also, therefore, it was necessary for petitioner in first petition to array them as a party. (Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Writ-A No. 10333 of 2025 was filed by one, Sunil Kumar Jain, claiming himself to be the Treasurer of time barred Committee of Management of Digamber Jain Mahavidyalaya, Baraut, Baghpat, a Minority Institution. The impugned order dated 21.04.2025 was passed by Principal Secretary, Higher Education, State of Uttar Pradesh in pursuance of a judgment passed in a bunch of three writ petitions, leading being, Sunil Kumar Jain vs. State of U.P. and others, 2025:AHC:9341 and in order to place relevant facts and details of earlier round of litigation, it would be appropriate to reproduce said judgment hereinafter in its entirety:

'1. All these writ petitions are arising out of a selection process initiated to fill vacant post of Assistant Professor in Digambar Jain College (Minority Educational Institution), Baraut, Baghpat.

2. Facts, as mentioned in one of the writ petition, are that there was a dispute with regard to Committee of Management of said Minority Institution and earlier attempt to fill up the vacant post does not reach to its logical end due to orders passed by Registrar of Chaudhary Charan Singh University, Meerut.

3. In above background an issue came up before this Court relating to inspection and Committee of Management of said Minority Institution filed Writ-A No. 20415 of 2023, which was disposed of vide order dated 20.12.2023 and relevant part thereof is mentioned hereinafter:

'11. The facts are not in dispute. The only bone of contention in between the parties is relatable to the fact as to whether the said exercise could have been resorted to by the State Government on the basis of the complaint behind the back of the writ petitioners without putting them to notice. The second issue would be whether the source of power of passing the said order would be Section 66-A or Section 40 of the U.P. State Universities Act, 1973. Though learned counsel for the writ petitioners argues that Section 66-A does not provide for such a power to be resorted to in view of the judgments in the case of Rekha Yadav (supra) and Rakesh Ranjan Verma (supra), however, on the other hand the respondents have relied upon Section 40 of the 1973 Act. Section 40 of the U.P. State Universities Act, 1970 provides a procedure, according to which inspection is to be done and further the association of the Committee of Management is also required. It is also apparent from Sub-section (4) of Section 40 that the State Government may communicate to the Management the result of the inspection or enquiry and may issue a direction as to the action to be taken and the Management shall comply thereof and further Sub-Section (5) provides that the State Government shall inform the Vice-Chancellor about any communication made by it to the Management under sub-section (4) and finally sub-section (6) of Section 40 provides that the State Government may, at any time, call for any information from the Management or Principal of an affiliated or associated college in connection with such inspection or inquiry. Thus in the opinion of the Court, a complete set of procedure has been provided modulating the manner according to which inspection is to be done and follow up action to be taken in that regard. Since the Court finds that the order in question has been passed in violation of the principles of natural justice and further the writ petitioner has raised the issue of jurisdiction, thus in the opinion of the Court the State Government has to specify as to what is the provision, under which it has proceeded to take such an action and whether it is permissible under law.

12. Bearing in mind the aforesaid issues, the writ petition is decided in the following manner: (a) The order dated 22.11.2023 passed by the Joint Secretary, State of U.P., Lucknow, second respondent is set aside. (b) The matter stands remitted back to the second respondent, Joint Secretary, State of U.P., Lucknow, to pass fresh order strictly in accordance with law within a period of two weeks from today.

13. It is open for the affected parties to join themselves post-remand and the second respondent shall pass orders strictly in accordance with law detailing the source of power either under Section 40 or Section 66-A of the State Universities Act 1973 and it is open for the writ petitioners to raise the questions of jurisdiction and all legal and factual issues, which is to be decided by the authorities.

14. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition stands disposed of.

4. Before aforesaid order was passed candidates were selected and they were awaiting their appointment letters.

5. In pursuance of above referred order passed by this Court, Joint Secretary, Higher Education, Government of U.P., Lucknow passed order dated 06.05.2024 that since earlier selection of Teachers in Minority Institution was governed by provisions of U.P. Higher Education Services Selection Commission Act, however, now a new Act has been enacted, namely, U.P. Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2023, which came into force on 21.08.2023 and now said selection in Minority Institution is to be governed by said Commission and since there is a change of procedure of selection, therefore, it was directed that earlier selection process is liable to be cancelled. Relevant part of said order is reproduced hereinafter:

'7- प्रश्नगत प्रकरण में सुनवाई के उपरांत बिंदु विचारणीय हैः-

7.1 महाविद्यालय का संचालन करने वाली प्रबंध समिति कालातीत है, प्रबन्ध समिति की वैधता एवं चुनाव को लेकर अनेक रिट याचिकाएं मा० न्यायालय के समक्ष विचाराधीन है।

7.2 क्षेत्रीय उच्च शिक्षा अधिकारी, मेरठ के पत्र संख्या- क्षे०का०मे०/1324-26/2023-2024 दिनांक 10.07.2023 के माध्यम से 05 पदों पर, निदेशक, उच्च शिक्षा, प्रयागराज के पत्र संख्या- डिग्री अर्थ-1/2562/2023-2024 दिनांक 04.08.2023 के माध्यम से 08 पदों पर एवं निदेशक, उच्च शिक्षा, प्रयागराज के पत्र संख्या-डिग्री अर्थ-1/2944/2023-2024 दिनांक 08.08.2023 के माध्यम से 09 पदों पर अर्थात शिक्षकों के कुल 22 रिक्त पदों पर भर्ती की अनुज्ञा प्रदान की गयी। निदेशक, उच्च शिक्षा, प्रयागराज के उपर्युक्त संदर्भित पत्रों दिनांक 04.08.2023 एवं दिनांक 08.08.2023 में स्पष्ट उल्लिखित है कि " प्रस्तावित शिक्षा सेवा चयन आयोग के अस्तित्व में आने के फलस्वरूप भर्ती प्रक्रिया में कोई बदलाव होता है तो, उक्त अनुज्ञा स्वतः निरस्त समझी जायेगी।"

7.3 यहां सबसे महत्वपूर्ण बिंदु यह है कि विधायी अनुभाग-1, उ०प्र० शासन द्वारा निर्गत अधिसूचना संख्या-415/79-वि-1-2023-1-क-14-2023 दिनांक 21.08.2023 के माध्यम से उ०प्र० शिक्षा सेवा चयन आयोग अधिनियम, 2023 प्रख्यापित हुआ। इस आयोग के माध्यम से सहायता प्राप्त अल्पसंख्यक महाविद्यालयों में शिक्षकों की नियुक्त की जानी है। ध्यातव्य है कि सहायता प्राप्त अल्पसंख्यक महाविद्यालयों में शिक्षकों की भर्ती उ०प्र० उच्चतर शिक्षा सेवा चयन आयोग, प्रयागराज की परिधि से बाहर था। अर्थात उ०प्र० शिक्षा सेवा चयन आयोग, प्रयागरा के गठन के उपरांत अल्पसंख्यक महाविद्यालयों में भर्ती की प्रक्रिया में बदलाव किया गया है। अतः उक्त आधार पर निदेशक, उच्च शिक्षा, प्रयागराज के पत्र दिनांक 04.08.2023 एवं दिनांक 08.08.2023 द्वारा निर्गत अनुज्ञायें स्वतः निरस्त हो गयी है। उत्तर प्रदेश शिक्षा सेवा चयन आयोग के गठन के उद्देश्य एवं कारण में यह स्पष्ट उल्लिखित है कि " संस्था स्तरीय चयन समितियों द्वारा संचालित चयन प्रक्रिया में पारदर्शिता का अभाव भी परिलक्षित है, जिसके परिणामस्वरूप मुकदमें की स्थितियां उत्पन्न हो रही है।" प्रश्नगत प्रकरण में भी यही स्थिति परिलक्षित होती है।

7.4 प्रश्नगत प्रकरण में महाविद्यालय प्रबंध समिति द्वारा संचालित भर्ती प्रक्रिया पर वैधता, अनियमितता, भ्रष्टाचार एवं अनेक अन्य आरोप लगाये गये है। सूच्य है कि सहायता प्राप्त अल्पसंख्यक महाविद्यालयों के शिक्षकों के वेतन का भुगतान राज्य द्वारा प्रदत्त अनुदान से किया जाता है। लोक निधियों का प्रभावी, कुशल, पारदर्शी एवं शुचितापूर्ण उपयोग सुनिश्चित करना राज्य सरकार का सबसे महत्वपूर्ण दायित्व है। ऐसी स्थिति में शिक्षकों के चयन की पारदर्शी, निष्पक्ष, शुचितापूर्ण एवं गुणवत्तापूर्ण व्यवस्था के लिये उ०प्र० शिक्षा सेवा चयन आयोग का गठन किये जाने के बाद दिगम्बर जैन कालेज, बडौत, बागपत में शिक्षकों की भर्ती प्रक्रिया, उसी प्रबंधतंत्र से , जिस पर अनेक आरोप लगाये गये है, से कराये जाने का कोई औचित्य प्रतीत नहीं होता है। उक्त के अतिरिक्त उ०प्र० शिक्षा सेवा चयन आयोग के गठन के उपरांत कालेज द्वारा भर्ती प्रक्रिया संचालित होने से एक ही समय में दो पृथक प्रक्रियाए स्थापित हो जायेंगी, जो विधि विरूद्ध होगा।

8- अतः उपर्युक्त वर्णित स्थिति में रिट याचिका संख्या-20415/2023 कमेटी आफ मैनेजमेंट दिगम्बर जैन महाविद्यालय, बडौत, बागपत व अन्य बनाम उ०प्र० राज्य व 07 अन्य में मा० उच्च न्यायालय, इलाहाबाद द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 20.12.2023 के अनुपालन में उ०प्र० शिक्षा सेवा चयन आयोग के गठन के उपरांत निदेशक, उच्च शिक्षा, प्रयागराज द्वारा निर्गत अनुज्ञाएं स्वतः निरस्त होने की स्थिति में महाविद्यालय- हित, उच्च

शिक्षा-हित एवं पारदर्शिता तथा शुचिता सुनिश्चित करने के दृष्टिगत दिगम्बर जैन महाविद्यालय, बडौत, बागपत में असि० प्रोफेसर के 22 पदों पर प्रक्रियारत भर्ती उ०प्र० शिक्षा सेवा चयन आयोग से कराये जाने का निर्णय एतद द्वारा किया जाता है।

6. Aforesaid order dated 06.05.2024 was challenged by selected candidates in Writ-A No. 7792 of 2024 and by Committee of Management by way of filing Writ-A No. 7979 of 2024.

7. In said two writ petitions counter affidavit was filed by State-Respondents-1, 2 and 3 (The State of U.P. through Secretary, Higher Education, U.P., Lucknow; The Joint Secretary, State of U.P., Lucknow; and The Director of Higher Education, U.P., Prayagraj, respective), sworn by Assistant Director, Office of Directorate, Higher Education at Prayagraj and relevant paragraphs thereof are mentioned hereinafter:

‘ 8. That it is provided that the Committee of Management managing the institution is time-barred, therefore, various writ petitions filed for validity and for holding the elections of Committee of Management.

9. That it is further relevant to mention here that permission was given for recruitment on 05 post by Regional Higher Education Officer, Meerut vide letter dated 10.07.2023, on 08 posts by Director, Higher Education vide letter dated 04.08.2023 and on 09 posts by the Director, Higher Education, Prayagraj, vide letter dated 08.08.2023 i.e. a total of 22 vacant posts of teachers.

10. That it is clearly mentioned in the above referred letters dated 04.08.2023 and dated 08.08.2023 of the Director, Higher Education, Prayagraj that, If there is any change in the recruitment process as a result of the coming into existence of the proposed Education Service Selection Commission, the said permission will automatically deemed to be cancelled. The most important point here is that the Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2023 was promulgated by, Notification dated 21.08.2023 issued by the Uttar Pradesh Government.

11. That in terms of Notification dated 21.08.2023 issued by the Uttar Pradesh Government the teachers are also to be appointed in aided minority colleges by the UP Education Service Selection Commission. It is noteworthy to mention here that the recruitment of teachers in aided minority colleges was outside the purview of UP Higher Education Service Selection Commission, Prayagraj, but, after the formation of UP Education Service Selection Commission, Prayagraj, the process of recruitment in minority colleges has been changed. Therefore, on the above basis, the permissions issued by the Director, Higher Education, Prayagraj vide letter dated 04.08.2023 and dated 08.08.2023 have been automatically stand nullified. It is clearly mentioned in the purpose and reason of constitution of Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission that lack of transparency is also reflected in the selection process conducted by the institution level selection committees, as a result of which, various litigations have been filed.

12. That the same situation is reflected in the case in question and in the case in question, allegations of legality, irregularity, corruption and many other allegations have been made on the recruitment process conducted by the College Management Committee. It is further pointed that the salaries of teachers of aided minority colleges are paid from the grants provided by the state. The most important responsibility of the state governments is to ensure effective, efficient, transparent and fair use of public funds. At this stage, after the constitution of Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission for a transparent, fair and complete quality system of selection of teachers, the recruitment process of teachers in the institution in question to be done by the same management against which many allegations have been made on which there seem to be any justification.

13. That apart form the above, if the recruitment process is conducted by the college after the formation of Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission, two separate processes will be established at the same time, which will be against the law. In the above mentioned situation, a writ petition no. 20415/2023 filed by the petitioner, in which this Hon'ble Court passed order dated 20.12.2023, consequently in compliance with the Hon'ble Court's order dated 20.12.2023 passed in the aforesaid writ petition, after the constitution of Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission, in the event of automatic cancellation of permissions issued by the Director, Higher Education, Prayagraj, in the interest of the college- interest of higher education and to ensure transparency and purity. Thus, in view of aforesaid backdrop, it has been decided to get the recruitment process for 22 posts of Assistant Professor in the Institution in question done by Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission.

8. Above referred specific stand of State-Respondents is later on changed and a U-tern was taken and without any permission of this Court or informing the Court, Chief Secretary of Higher Education, issued a Office Memorandum dated 20.11.2024 that earlier order dated 06.05.2024 was recalled on basis of a representation filed by Committee of Management of said Minority Institution dated 16.05.2024. Said order dated 20.11.2024 is reproduced hereinafter:

9. Aforesaid order is challenged by other Petitioner-Sunil Kumar Jain, claiming to be a life member of Committee of Management by filing Writ-A No. 19843 of 2024. As referred above, aforesaid order has neither referred the contents of representation dated 16.05.2024 filed by Committee of Management nor any reason has been assigned why earlier order dated 06.05.2024 is effectively recalled, despite supported in counter affidavit filed in other connected writ petitions.

10. Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Ms. Shreya Gupta, learned counsel appearing for petitioners (selected candidates) in Writ-A No. 7792 of 2024, mainly, argued that a process once initiated cannot be stopped on basis of some subsequent event, i.e., enactment of U.P. Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2023. Impugned order dated 06.05.2024 does not describe any reasons, therefore, it was rightly recalled by a subsequent order dated 20.11.2024, which is impugned in Writ-A No. 19843 of 2024. It was also referred that challenge to said order in above writ petition is not maintainable since selected candidates, i.e., petitioners in Writ-A No. 7792 of 2024, are not made party.

11. Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Nipun Singh, learned counsel appearing for petitioners in Writ-A No. 7979 of 2024 filed by Committee of Management of said Minority Institution, has reiterated the similar arguments. He also requested that opportunity be granted to State to file counter affidavit in Writ-A No. 19843 of 2024.

12. As referred above, in aforesaid two writ petitions, i.e., Writ-A Nos. 7792 of 2024 and 7979 of 2024, order impugned is dated 06.05.2024 and as referred above, this order is now recalled by subsequent order dated 20.11.2024, as such both these writ petitions may become infructuous, however, since order dated 20.11.2024 is impugned in Writ-A No. 19843 of 2024, therefore, Court will take note of above submissions also, if required, in later part of judgment.

13. Sri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Chandan Sharma, learned counsel appearing for petitioner in Writ-A No. 19843 of 2024, submitted that the Committee of Management is under dispute, as such any process initiated was a legally incorrect approach. Once order dated 06.05.2024 was under challenge and it was supported by State, then any order to recall it or change it by subsequent order dated 20.11.2024 was illegal.

14. In reply to above submissions, Sri R.K. Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for State-Respondents, submitted that State was empowered to take a different decision since there was no bar.

15. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the material available on record.

16. Pleadings are already exchanged in one of the writ petition and all the facts are before this Court, therefore, there is no need to file counter affidavit in Writ-A No. 19843 of 2024.

17. So far as maintainability of Writ-A No. 19843 of 2024 is concerned since selected candidates are not party in it, for that the Court takes note that selected candidates are already before this Court by filing Writ-A No. 7792 of 2024 wherein pleadings are already exchanged as well as now they have filed impleadment application and their version has also been heard.

18. As referred above, there is a dispute with regard to Committee of Management of concerned Minority Institution, however, the Court is not entering into that issue at this stage.

19. The Court is concerned that once an order has been passed by Higher Education Department of State of U.P. in pursuance of an order passed by this Court on 06.05.2024 that the selection process of Teachers in said Minority Institution cannot go further and some reasons were also assigned, which was subject matter of two writ petitions, i.e., Writ-A Nos. 7792 of 2024 and 7979 of 2024 and even a detailed counter affidavit was filed by State-Respondents, supporting the said order with specific averment, then under what circumstances without informing the Court, said order was recalled by a cryptic order dated 20.11.2024. For reference said order dated 20.11.2024 is again reproduced hereinafter:

20. Contents of above order indicates that a very Senior Officer in Higher Education Department, in a very careless manner proceeded with the matter and without taking note of stand of Department before this Court and the fact that matter is sub-judice. The said Higher Officer has not taken pain to inform the Court about order dated 20.11.2024. No reason has been mentioned in above referred order nor any details are mentioned about said representation dated 16.05.2024 submitted by Committee of Management, after a writ petition was filed before this Court, being Writ-A No. 7979 of 2024 on 12.05.2024. Even said Committee of Management has also not informed the Court that any representation was pending before said authority.

21. Aforesaid approach of a Senior Officer of State, i.e., Chief Secretary of Higher Education, was not only casual but inappropriate also. Accordingly, Court is of the considered opinion that there was no justification to pass said order especially when it has assigned no reason.

22. In view of above, impugned order dated 20.11.2024 in Writ-A No. 19843 of 2024, is hereby set aside.

23. So far as order impugned in Writ-A Nos. 7792 of 2024 and 7979 of 2024, i.e., order dated 06.05.2024 is concerned, said order also cannot sustain on ground that it does not take note of other provisions of U.P. Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2023, i.e., Repeal and Savings as provided under Section 31 of Act. It ought to have taken note with regard to eligibility and minimum qualifications, whether there was any difference or not. Court also takes note, as told by learned counsel for parties, that till date U.P. Education Service Selection Commission has not commenced its working. These factors were not even taken note of.

24. In aforesaid circumstances, impugned order dated 06.05.2024 in Writ-A Nos. 7792 of 2024 and 7979 of 2024, is hereby set aside. Concerned respondents are directed to relook into the matter and pass a fresh order. Higher Officials in Department of Higher Education, Government of U.P. are cautioned to remain careful while passing orders, especially when they are recalling any order during pending litigation. Fresh decision shall be taken within a period of four weeks from today. Meanwhile, further procedure of selection shall be kept in abeyance.

25. With aforesaid observations/ directions, all these writ petitions are disposed of.

2. In above background, one of the relevant fact which is necessary to mention herein is that in aforesaid matter judgment was reserved on 10.01.2025 and delivered within a short period of 11 days, i.e., on 21.01.2025.

3. In the garb of deemed approval not only appointment letters were issued to selected candidates but they were allowed to join also on 09.01.2025, i.e., a day prior when the writ petitions were listed for final hearing, however, said fact was not disclosed during final hearing, therefore, it is necessary to observe that it was an act of undue haste and, therefore, a direction passed by this Court in above referred judgment that further procedure of selection shall be kept in abeyance, was rendered ineffective.

4. In pursuance of aforesaid judgment dated 21.01.2025, the Principal Secretary, Higher Education, U.P. passed order dated 21.04.2025, whereby it was held that procedure initiated to fill up 22 posts of Assistant Professors at concerned Institution, would continue in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 on ground that the advertisements were published on 08.08.2023 and 12.08.2023 whereas U.P. Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2023 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 2023') was notified in the Gazette of State on 21.08.2023 (wrongly mentioned as 12.12.2023 in impugned order), i.e., the procedure for selection was already initiated before 'Act, 2023' came into force as well as that no other irregularity was found in selection process, i.e., due selection procedure was adopted and all candidates were qualified and selected on merit.

5. Aforesaid order dated 21.04.2025 passed by Principal Secretary, Higher Education, Government of U.P., is challenged in first petition, i.e., Writ-A No. 10333 of 2025.

6. Sri V.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Shashank Shekhar Mishra, Advocate appearing for selected candidates, i.e., petitioners in Writ-A No. 5920 of 2026, Sri Nipun Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Naman Agrawal, Advocate appearing for Committee of Management of College concerned, i.e., petitioners in Writ-A No. 5941 of 2026 and Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Avneesh Tripathi, learned counsel for University, have submitted that first petition, i.e., writ petition filed by Sunil Kumar Jain, is not maintainable mainly on two grounds.

7. Firstly, petitioner-Sunil Kumar Jain, cannot file writ petition being Treasurer of Committee of Management since it would be a challenge to resolutions passed by said Committee of Management and in support of above submission reliance was placed on the judgments passed by Supreme Court in Kumari Chitra Ghosh and another vs. Union of India and others, 1969(2) SCC 228 and Ayaaubkhan Noorkhan Pathan vs. State of Maharashtra and others, 2013(4) SCC 465 as well as this Court's judgments in Desh Deepak Srivastava vs. State of U.P. and others, 2015(3) ADJ 352 (DB); Mita Ram Yadav and another vs. State of U.P. and others, 2021:AHC:19808; and, Ram Pal Singh vs. State of U.P. and others, 2019:AHC:217573, that petitioner either in personal capacity or in capacity of Treasurer would not fall within the ambit of a 'person aggrieved'.

8. Second limb of objection was that in first petition none of the selected candidates were arrayed as a party respondent despite their appointment letters were placed on record and in support of submission, learned Senior Advocates placed reliance on a judgment passed by Supreme Court in Prabodh Verma and others vs State of Uttar Pradesh and others, 1984(4) SCC 251.

9. Per contra, Sri R.K. Ojha, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ritesh Upadhyay, Advocate for petitioner-Sunil Kumar Jain in first petition, submitted that petitioner has already filed earlier writ petitions in the same capacity and without any objection, said writ petitions were considered on merit and were allowed to some extent, with certain directions and on said direction the impugned order was passed, therefore, any objection on locus may not be reopened at this stage.

10. Learned Senior Advocate for petitioner-Sunil Kumar Jain further tried to defend that writ petition may not be rejected on ground of non joinder of parties since selected candidates have also approached this Court subsequently by way of separate writ petition, being Writ-A No. 5920 of 2026. The challenge is to the procedure of selection and on legal advice an application for impleadment of selected candidates was also filed later on.

11. However, Court finds that aforesaid defect of non-joinder of parties goes to the root of case since petitioner cannot deny that he was not aware about subsequent events that selected candidates were already appointed and they have joined at their respective posts as well as University has granted approval also, therefore, it was necessary for petitioner in first petition to array them as a party and in this regard Court takes note of judgments passed by Supreme Court in Vijay Kumar Kaul and others vs. Union of India and others, 2012(7) SCC 610; J.S. Yadav vs. State of U.P. and another, 2011(6) SCC 570; and, Public Service Commission of Uttaranchal vs. Mamta Bisht and others, 2010(12) SCC 204.

12. In above background, first petition can be dismissed on ground of non-joinder of relevant parties, however, the Court takes note that there are two other writ petitions filed by selected candidates and Committee of Management to challenge the subsequent orders passed on basis of an interim order passed in first petition and that a legal issue has also been cropped up that whether recruitment process would be considered to be commenced with effect from publication of advertisement or at the stage of consideration by Competent Authority, i.e., approval of appointment and what would be the effect if meanwhile rules were amended or a new Act was enacted, after publication of advertisement, however, before final consideration. Therefore, for consideration of said issue Court proceed to decide the petitions on merit, ignoring above procedural defect.

13. In first petition, i.e., Writ-A No. 10333 of 2025, following interim order was passed by a Coordinate Bench on 25.07.2025:

‘1. The instant writ petition has been filed seeking following main prayers:-

"(I) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari calling for the record of case and to quash the impugned order dated 21.04.2025 passed by Respondent No. 1 i.e. Principal Secretary Higher Education, Government of U.P., Lucknow.

(II) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the Respondents to fill up the vacant post of Assistant Professor in the institution in accordance with law i.e. through "U.P. Education Service Selection Commission"."

2. Sri R.K. Ojha, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ritesh Upadhyay, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner submitted that the impugned order dated 21.04.2025 passed by the respondent no.1 in the teeth of the order dated 04.08.2010 passed by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Writ-C No.45786 of 2010 (Atul Kumar Jain Vs. State of U.P. and others). It is submitted that the respondent no.1 while passing the impugned order has recorded the wrong finding that the Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2023 (hereinafter referred to as the Act, 2023) is notified/ gazetted on 13.12.2023, while it has been notified on 21.08.2023 much prior to the interview dates commenced with 19.11.2023 to 24.11.2023.

3. Mr. Ojha, learned Senior Counsel has placed the Gazette dated 21.08.2023 before this Court for perusal. The same has been perused and found that the Gazette was published on 21.08.2023 not on 13.12.2023.

4. Mr. Ojha, learned Senior Counsel also submitted that there is no valid Committee of Management in existence in the institution since 1999. It is submitted that the authority concerned by way of making appointments in the institution without following the norms, statutory provision and also some other considerations. It is, therefore, submitted that the entire selection process is illegal, unjust, without sanction of any valid authority and contrary to the law. It is vehemently submitted that the entire selection process of the institution after the notification/ Gazette dated 21.08.2023 by which the recruitment power of the minority institution has been withdrawn by the State Government is deserved to be set aside.

5. Taking into consideration of the submissions made by the learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner, averments made in the writ petition and documents on record, prima facie I am of the opinion that matter requires consideration.

6. Issue notices to respondent nos.5 and 6 by ordinary post as well as registered post on payment of PF within a week.

7. Learned Standing Counsel appeared on advance accepted notice on behalf of State-respondents nos.1, 3 and 4.

8. Sri Prateek Rai, learned counsel appeared on advance accepted notice on behalf of respondents no.2.

9. Learned Standing Counsel and learned counsel for respondent no.2 vehemently opposed the petition and prayed four weeks time to file counter affidavits.

10. Let them file counter affidavits within the period as prayed.

11. Rejoinder affidavit, if any, may be filed within two weeks thereafter.

12. List on 19.09.2025.

13. Since the matter kept pending for further consideration, considering the averments made in the petition, I am of the opinion that the operation of the impugned order dated 21.04.2025 should be kept in abeyance till the next date of hearing.

14. Accordingly, the operation of impugned order dated 21.04.2025 passed by the respondent no.1, shall be kept in abeyance till the next date of hearing.

14. As referred above, aforesaid interim order was passed without taking note that selected candidates were not party. On basis of above interim order, Regional Higher Education Officer, Meerut passed an order dated 26.02.2026 whereby the order of disbursement of salary in favour of selected candidates was stopped with immediate effect and subsequently by an order dated 02.04.2026 Registrar, Chaudhary Charan Singh University, Meerut suspended the order dated 26.07.2025, whereby approval was granted to appointments of selected candidates.

15. Some of the selected candidates, being aggrieved by aforesaid orders dated 26.02.2026 and 02.04.2026, filed Writ-A No. 5920 of 2026 and subsequently Committee of Management of said College has also challenged aforesaid orders by way of filing Writ-A No. 5941 of 2026, which are also connected with first petition filed by petitioner-Sunil Kumar Jain and are being decided finally by present judgment.

16. Now the Court proceed to consider the issue referred in paragraph no. 12 of this judgment.

17. Learned Senior Advocate appearing for petitioner-Sunil Kumar Jain, vehemently referred a recent judgment passed by Supreme Court in the case of Dr. Manoj Kumar Rawat vs. State of U.P. and others, 2026 INSC 508 wherein following question of law was also considered:

‘(ii) Whether, after enforcement of the Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2023 (hereinafter referred as ‘the New Act’), repealing the old Act, the recommendation dated 13.12.2023 and consequential communications and placement order dated 12.01.2024 and 15.01.2025, issued in favour of the appellant can be sustained within the statutory scheme of the New Act?

18. Above referred question of law was answered by the Supreme Court in following manner:

‘21. At this stage, it also imperative to refer to the judgement of this Court in Kamlesh Kumar Sharma (Supra) wherein this Court had the occasion to deal with the interpretation of the word ‘otherwise’ in Section 13(4) of the Old Act. In the said judgement, it was held that if a wider interpretation is given, it would run contrary to the very object of the Old Act and permit filling of vacancy which was never advertised and a person, who did not apply, would inadvertently be absorbed on such vacancy. The relevant portion of the judgement is reproduced as thus:

‘13. We find, after giving our careful consideration that in case the appellant's argument is accepted by giving wider interpretation to the word ‘otherwise’, it would thwart the very object of the Act. In other words it would permit the filling of the vacancy occurring which was never advertised and a person in the select list panel, even though not applying for any vacancy, would be absorbed. Hence it would be limiting the sphere of selection in contradiction to the object of the provision to draw larger applicants by advertising every vacancy to be filled in. We have no hesitation to say that any appointment to be made on a vacancy occurring in the succeeding year in question for which there is no advertisement under the provisions of sub-section (4) of Section 12, the person on the panel list of preceding academic year in question, cannot be absorbed or be appointed. The word □otherwise□ has to be read as ejusdem generis, that is to say, in group similar to death, resignation, long leave vacancy, invalidation, person not joining after being duly selected. In other words, it would be a case of unforeseen vacancies which could not be conceived under Section 12(2). Section 12(2) conceives of a vacancy which is existing on the date the vacancy is to be advertised and which is likely to be caused in future but constricted for a period ending in the ensuing academic year in question. The words 'likely to be caused' under Section 12(2) are followed by the words 'during the course of the ensuing academic year' that is any person likely to retire by the end of the academic year in question. In other words, such vacancies could be foreseen and not unforeseen. While vacancies under Section 13(4) are unforeseen vacancies which fall under the group, death and/or resignation. Hence the word 'otherwise' cannot be given the wide and liberal interpretation which would exclude a large number of expected applicants who could be waiting to apply for the vacancies occurring in the succeeding year in question.

22. In view of the above, it is observed that under the scheme of Old Act, the act done was issuance of recommendation dated 03.08.2022 by the Director. Simultaneously, in response to the appellant's representation dated 26.06.2023, the Director vide letter dated 17.08.2023 to the Special Secretary has unequivocally made it clear that after issuance of the previous recommendation on 03.08.2022 under the government instructions and applicable law, no arrangement for changing the place of posting can be made. In such a scenario, prior to the commencement of the New Act on 21.08.2023, the act done by the authorities was issuing the recommendation dated 03.08.2022, which remained valid and no further action was recommended vide letter dated 17.08.2023. Therefore, in furtherance to the repeal and saving clause under Section 31(2) of the New Act, the act done will be treated only to the extent indicated above.

23. It is even more surprising that after the letter dated 17.08.2023 and commencement of the New Act, the Joint Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, on his own accord, issued order dated 12.01.2024 recommending the name of the appellant for being posted as Principal of Meerut College. In our view, after commencement of the New Act, the validity of the list/panel under the Old Act will automatically lapse and the authorities are duty bound to follow the procedure under Sections 10 and 11 of the New Act to take steps for appointment on the post of Principal. Thus, the concerned authorities could not have issued the letter dated 13.12.2023 on the basis of the list prepared under the Old Act and thereafter, passed the consequential orders on 12.01.2024 and 15.01.2024, to effectively recommend and appoint the appellant on the post of Principal of Meerut College.

24. At this stage and in to understand the real intent of Section 31 of the New Act, it is necessary to refer Section 6 of the Uttar Pradesh General Clauses Act, 1904 dealing with the 'Effect of repeal', whereby it is clear that in case any Uttar Pradesh Act repeals any enactment hitherto or hereafter, then unless a different intention appears, the repeal shall not revive anything not in force or existing at the time at which the repeal takes effect. Further, it shall not affect anything duly done, suffered or incurred under any enactment so repealed. Therefore, the act done, as also indicated above, was the recommendation dated 03.08.2022, which could not be implemented. The authorities have clearly intended that after issuance of the recommendation dated 03.08.2022, no subsequent change in the place of posting can be made in terms of the letter dated 17.08.2023. Thereafter, on 21.08.2023, the New Act came into force. Thus, there was no occasion for the authorities to issue the order dated 13.12.2023 and, consequent recommendation dated 12.01.2024 and order dated 15.01.2024 in favour of the appellant, under the pretext of Section 13(4) of the Old Act indicating that the position had otherwise fallen vacant. Therefore, with the assistance of Section 6 of the Uttar Pradesh General Clauses Act 1904, the effect of repeal of the Old Act is clear insofar as it will not revive the previous list or the act done under the Old Act, which is having the effect of repeal. (Emphasis supplied)

19. Learned Senior Advocate has also referred another judgment of Supreme Court passed in the case of State of U.P. and others vs. Rachna Hills and others, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 506 and relevant part thereof is mentioned hereinafter:

'Re issue no. 3 : Whether the posts of teachers could be filled as per the Rules and Regulations that existed when the vacancies arose and not as per the amended Regulations?

28. The Division Bench, as well as the Single Judge of the High Court, accepted the submission of the selected candidates that the vacancies to the post of teachers could be filled only as per the Rules and Regulations that operated when the vacancies arose and not as per the Regulations that came to be amended thereafter.

29. We have already held that approval of DIOS is mandatory and that the Act injuncts the appointment of a Teacher without such approval. We have also held that the legal regime concerning the appointment of Teachers does not contemplate any concept of deemed appointment if the DIOS does not decide upon the proposal within 15 days. Under these circumstances, the reference to and reliance on the principle that Rules that existed at the time when vacancies arose will govern the appointments is misplaced.

30. In any event, it is now a settled principle of law that a candidate has a right to be considered in the light of existing Rules, which implies Rules in force as on the date of consideration. This principle is affirmed by this Court in Deepak Agarwal v. State of U.P. (2011)6 SCC 725, as below:

'26. It is by now a settled proposition of law that a candidate has the right to be considered in the light of the existing rules, which implies the 'rule in force' on the date the consideration took place. There is no rule of universal or absolute application that vacancies are to be filled invariably by the law existing on the date when the vacancy arises. The requirement of filling up old vacancies under the old rules is interlinked with the candidate having acquired a right to be considered for promotion. The right to be considered for promotion accrues on the date of consideration of the eligible candidates. Unless, of course, the applicable rule, as in Y.V. Rangaiah case lays down any particular time-frame, within which the selection process is to be completed. In the present case, consideration for promotion took place after the amendment came into operation. Thus, it cannot be accepted that any accrued or vested right of the appellants has been taken away by the amendment.

31. While reaffirming the above referred principle, in a subsequent case of Rajasthan State Sports Council v. Uma Dadhich, (2019)4 SCC 316, (in which one of us was a member Dr. D.Y. Chandrachud, J., as he then was). This Court noted:

'5. There is merit in the submission which has been urged on behalf of the appellants that the respondent had no vested right to promotion but only a right to be considered in accordance with the rules as they existed on the date when the case for promotion was taken up. This principle has been reiterated in several decisions of this Court. (See H.S. Grewal v. Union of India, Deepak Agarwal v. State of U.P., State of Tripura v. Nikhil Ranjan Chakraborty and Union of India v. Krishna Kumar.

(emphasis supplied)

32. In a recent decision, in State of Himachal Pradesh v. Raj Kumar, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 680, after reviewing a number of decisions on the same subject, this Court formulated the following principles:

'70. A review of the fifteen cases that have distinguished Rangaiah would demonstrate that this Court has been consistently carving out exceptions to the broad proposition formulated in Rangaiah. The findings in these judgments, that have a direct bearing on the proposition formulated by Rangaiah are as under:

1. There is no rule of universal application that vacancies must be necessarily filled on the basis of the law which existed on the date when they arose, Rangaiah's case must be understood in the context of the rules involved therein.

2. It is now a settled proposition of law that a candidate has a right to be considered in the light of the existed rules, which implies the 'rule in force' as on the date consideration takes place. The right to be considered for promotion occurs on the date of consideration of the eligible candidates.

3. The Government is entitled to take a conscious policy decision not to fill up the vacancies arising prior to the amendment of the rules. The employee does not acquire any vested right to being considered for promotion in accordance with the repealed rules in view of the policy decision taken by the Government. There is no obligation for the Government to make appointments as per the old rules in the event of restructuring of the cadre is intended for efficient working of the unit. The only requirement is that the policy decisions of the Government must be fair and reasonable and must be justified on the touchstone of Article 14.

4. The principle in Rangaiah need not be applied merely because posts were created, as it is not obligatory for the appointing authority to fill up the posts immediately.

5. When there is no statutory duty cast upon the State to consider appointments to vacancies that existed prior to the amendment, the State cannot be directed to consider the cases.

(emphasis supplied)

33. In view of the clear enunciation of the law, we have no hesitation in rejecting the submission made by the learned counsels for the Respondents, that the vacancies that existed prior to the amendment of Regulation 17 of Chapter II, must be governed by unamended rules.

(Emphasis supplied)

20. Learned Senior Advocate also submitted that permission to initiate process of selection was granted by Director of Higher Education by letters 04.08.2023 and 08.08.2023, however, it was with a specific condition that in case the proposed Education Service Selection Commission came into existence and resultantly there would be any change in process, permission would be deemed to be cancelled. By referring said condition, learned Senior Advocate further submitted that immediately after the advertisement new Act, 2023 was came into force, therefore, permission to initiate earlier process was deemed to be cancelled and any process subsequent to it, which led to appointment of selected candidates, would be non-est.

21. Learned Senior Advocate also submitted that a litigation with regard to dispute of Committee of Management is still pending before this Court in Writ-C No. 45786 of 2010, wherein an interim order was passed on 04.08.2010 that no election shall be conducted and, therefore, a time barred Committee of Management was not even empowered to initiate process of selection, as such, permission would have not been granted vide an order dated 04.08.2023, however, later on said order was recalled by a subsequent order dated 06.05.2024, which was subject matter of earlier round of litigation and that effect of said interim order is still in existence.

22. Per contra, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioners in Writ-A No. 5920 of 2026, i.e., writ petition filed by selected candidates, submitted that once a process was already initiated with due permission and advertisement was also published then such act would be protected though subsequently 'Act, 2023' came into force and for that learned Senior Advocate has referred Section 31 of Act, 2023, i.e., 'Repeal and Savings' and in support of his submission placed reliance on a judgment passed by a Full Bench of this Court in Santosh Kumar Singh vs. State of U.P. and others, 2015(7) ADJ 179 (FB) and referred the questions framed therein as well as answer given to said questions, which are reproduced hereinafter:

'(a) Whether even after the rescission of Removal of Difficulties Orders under Section 33-E of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 (Act) (U.P. Act No. 5 of 1982), with effect from 25 January 1999, the Committee of Management retains the power to make ad hoc appointment against short term vacancies only because it had published an advertisement for the purpose prior to 25 January 1999;

(b) Whether on enforcement of Section 33-E of the Act rescinding the Removal of Difficulties Orders issued earlier, the Committee of Management has lost all powers to make ad hoc appointment against short term vacancies;

(c) Whether under Section 16-E of the Intermediate Education Act 1921 (Act of 1921), there is a power with the Committee of Management to make ad hoc appointment against short term vacancies and if so then for what period; and

(d) Whether the Division Bench in the case of Subhash Chandra Tripathi v. State of U.P., Writ-A No. 70721 of 2010, decided on 14 July, 2014, has laid down the correct law.

'20. We consequently answer the reference in the following terms:

(a) Despite the rescission of the Removal of Difficulties Orders by Section 33-E of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1999 with effect from 25 January 1999, the power of the Committee of Management to make appointments against short term vacancies, where the process of appointment had been initiated prior to 25 January 1999 by the publication of an advertisement, would continue to be preserved;

(b) On the enforcement of the provisions of Section 33-E, the power of a Committee of Management to make ad hoc appointments against short term vacancies would not stand abrogated in a case where the process of selection had been initiated prior to 25 January 1999;

(c) Under Section 16-E of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, the Committee of Management is empowered to make an appointment against a temporary vacancy caused by the grant of leave to an incumbent for a period not exceeding six months or in the case of death, termination or otherwise, of an incumbent occurring during an educational session. An appointment made under sub-section (11) of Section 16-E as provided in the proviso thereto shall, in any case, not continue beyond the end of educational session during which the appointment was made; and

(d) The judgment of the Division Bench in Subhash Chandra Tripathi (supra) is affirmed as laying down a correct interpretation of the judgment in A A Calton (supra).
(Emphasis supplied)

23. Learned Senior Advocate also placed reliance on a judgment passed by a Coordinate Bench of this Court in Rajiv Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others, 2024 SCC OnLine All 5843, wherein similar view was taken.

24. With regard to submission that recruitment process would consider to begin with issuance of advertisement, learned Senior Advocate for selected candidates referred a judgment passed by a Constitution Bench of Supreme Court in Tej Prakash Pathak and others vs. Rajasthan High Court and others, 2025(2) SCC 1 and relevant part thereof is reproduced hereinafter:

'13. The process of recruitment begins with the issuance of advertisement and ends with the filling up of notified vacancies. It consists of various steps like inviting applications, scrutiny of applications, rejection of defective applications or elimination of ineligible candidates, conducting examinations, calling for interview or viva voce and preparation of list of successful candidates for appointment.'

'65.1 Recruitment process commences from the issuance of the advertisement calling for applications and ends with filling up of vacancies; (Emphasis supplied)

25. Learned Senior Advocate further submitted that in case of any ambiguity in the opinion rendered by a Bench of lesser strength even of Supreme Court, this Court would be legally entitled to follow a judgment passed by a Larger Bench of the Supreme Court, i.e., in present case the judgment passed by Constitution Bench in Tej Prakash Pathak (supra), so far as above issue is concerned.

26. Learned Senior Advocate also submitted that it may be a case of haste by giving appointment letter but haste may not be considered an illegality and at the most it could be an irregularity, which can be ignored, if otherwise the process was legally sustainable. Merely on a ground that no election of Committee of Management was undertaken for last many years, there would not be a vacuum and students of College should not suffer due to non availability of Teachers.

27. Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Avneesh Tripathi, learned counsel for University has adopted above referred arguments of learned Senior Advocate for selected candidates and submitted that Writ-A No. 10333 of 2025 filed by petitioner-Sunil Kumar Jain is liable to be dismissed not only on locus but on ground of misjoinder of parties also. The University has already granted approval to appointments and interim order was granted, without disclosing misjoinder of parties.

28. Learned Senior Advocate appearing for Committee of Management in Writ-A No. 5941 of 2026, has also adopted above referred arguments made on behalf of selected candidates as well as University that there was no illegality in selection process. Committee of Management has took a decision for granting appointment on basis of deeming clause since Vice Chancellor of University concerned has not granted approval within stipulated time and, therefore, in terms of proviso to Section 31(11)(c) of U.P. State Universities Act, 1973 that there was a deemed approval for appointment of selected candidates, approval was deemed to be granted. Selected candidates have already joined and subsequently vide order dated 15.01.2025 Vice Chancellor of the University has accorded approval also, therefore, at this stage at the behest of petitioner-Sunil Kumar Jain, selected candidates cannot be ousted specifically when there is no allegation that they were not duly qualified or requisite procedure for selection was not followed.

29. Sri Sanjeev Singh, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri D.K. Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and Sri Saurabh, learned Standing Counsel appearing for State-Respondents, and assisted the Court on legal issue, whether impugned order assailed in first petition was legally sustainable or not. Learned Additional Advocate General submitted that impugned order whereby selection process was found to be legal since commenced prior to Act, 2023 came into force, would not survive in the light of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in Rachna Hills (supra) and he referred the discussion in reference to issue no. 3 therein, which is already quoted in earlier paragraph of this judgment. Learned Additional Advocate General has fairly placed reliance on a judgment passed by Supreme Court in Government of Andhra Pradesh and others vs. Sri Sevadas Vidyamandir High School and others, 2011(9) SCC 613 that in case recruitment process was already begin, it may be protected.

30. Learned Senior Advocates for selected candidates, University and Committee of Management, have objected the submission of learned Additional Advocate General, being contrary to the counter affidavit filed on behalf of State.

31. Now the Court proceeds to consider above submissions of respective parties on referred issue.

32. There is no dispute so far as dates are concerned that Director, Higher Education has accorded permission vide orders dated 04.08.2023 and 08.08.2023 to fill up 22 posts of Assistant Professors in College concerned. In pursuance of permission the concerned College issued advertisements on 08.08.2023 and 12.08.2023. Said permission was recalled subsequently vide order dated 06.05.2024 passed by Secretary, Higher Education, Government of U.P., which was subject matter of challenge in earlier round of litigation and during pendency of said litigation order dated 06.05.2024 was recalled by a subsequent order dated 20.11.2024 and that Act, 2023 came into force with effect from its gazette notification on 21.08.2023, i.e., subsequent to advertisement.

33. As referred above, in earlier round of litigation both orders whereby permission was recalled and subsequent order whereby said order was recalled were set aside and matter was remitted back to concerned State Authority to pass a fresh order taking note of relevant factors including the effect of repeal.

34. In above background, an order dated 21.04.2025 was passed by the Principal Secretary, Higher Education, which is impugned in first petition, whereby it was held that since publication of advertisement was prior to enforcement of Act, 2023, therefore, it would not be illegal to continue with selection process in terms of earlier Act of 1982 and not by Act, 2023

35. After considering rival submissions and judgments placed on record, the Court finds that in Dr. Manoj Kumar Rawat (supra) an issue was considered of fresh recommendation to change the place of posting of a wait listed candidate and in such circumstance it was held that earlier recommendation would not be protected after considering the issue of effect of repeal of old Act and enforcement of new Act as well as in terms of Section 6 of U.P. General Clauses Act, whereas in the present case issue is process of a selection which was admittedly commenced after due permission by publishing advertisement before Act, 2023 came into existence, therefore, the Court finds that the facts of Dr. Manoj Kumar Rawat (supra) may not be applicable in the present case.

36. Now the Court takes note of Rachna Hills (supra), however, finds that it is distinguishable on facts and law as well. In present case there is a ‘deemed approval’ also, therefore, approval of Vice Chancellor of University may not be necessary after stipulated time, whereas in Rachna Hills (supra) there was no ‘deeming clause’. Further, in present case it is the stand of State that selection procedure can be continued as per old procedure even after Act, 2023 came into force, whereas in Rachna Hills (supra) the opposition was of the Government. Other distinguishable features are that in present case selection was started with prior permission and in Rachna Hills (supra), there was an amendment in the Act, whereas in present case a new Act, namely, Act, 2023 was enforced and earlier selection process can still be protected under Repeal and Saving clause, which was done by the order impugned.

37. The Court finds that in given circumstances above referred both judgments are not applicable.

38. Otherwise also there is a judgment passed by a Constitution Bench in Tej Prakash Pathak (supra) wherein issue involved in present case was was considered and it was held that process of recruitment begins with issuance of advertisement and ends with filling of notified vacancies and rules of game cannot be changed after it commenced, therefore, the Court finds that in given circumstances there would be no difficulty to follow the judgment passed by Constitution Bench of Supreme Court in Tej Prakash Pathak (supra) that recruitment process would commence from the date of advertisement.

39. In aforesaid circumstances, the Court finds that in strict interpretation the first petition filed by petitioner-Sunil Kumar Jain is not maintainable on ground of non-joinder of parties. Still the referred issue is answered that in facts and circumstances of present case, this Court follows the judgment passed by a Constitution Bench of Supreme Court in Tej Prakash Pathak (supra) and that the judgments passed by Supreme Court in Dr. Manoj Kumar Rawat (supra) and Rachna Hills (supra) would not be applicable in the present case. There is no allegation that selected candidates were not qualified. Only on a ground that a writ petition is pending from 2010 on a dispute of Committee of Management, there may not be a vacuum as well as students of the College concerned cannot be forced to suffer in absence of teaching staff. The conditions imposed in permission was in anticipation and as discussed above, the selection process was protected by provisions 'Repeal and Savings' of Act, 2023, therefore, such condition has no legal consequence. No candidate has come forward being aggrieved by the impugned decision, therefore, the Court finds that there is no illegality in impugned order dated 21.04.2025. Since advertisements were issued before Act, 2023 was enforced, therefore, procedure applicable earlier vide Act of 2019 was followed and selection process was found to be legal. Further, since approval has also been granted and selected candidates are working, therefore, the outcome of above discussion, on facts and law, is that no interference be caused in order impugned in first petition.

40. In view of above, Writ-A No. 10333 of 2025 filed by petitioner-Sunil Kumar Jain is dismissed. Interim order therein is vacated.

41. Consequently, orders impugned in Writ-A Nos. 5941 of 2026 and 5920 of 2026, i.e., orders dated 02.04.2026 and 26.02.2026 become non-est since they were passed on basis of interim order passed in Writ-A No. 10333 of 2025 and its legal consequence shall follow.

42. Writ-A Nos. 5941 of 2026 and 5920 of 2026 are accordingly disposed of.

43. Writ-C No. 45787 of 2010 (Atul Kumar Jain vs. State of U.P. and others) be listed in third week of July at 12.30 PM before appropriate Bench for final hearing.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Rohit Kumar Singh; Vijay Bahadur Singh.
Advs. for the Respondents : Ran Vijay Singh.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Rohit Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned counsel for the Union of India, Mr. Ran Vijay Singh, learned counsel for the opposite parties no. 2 & 3, learned counsel for the State and perused the record.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has sought prayer for directing the opposite party no. 3 i.e. Regional Director, Employees? State Insurance Corporation (ESIC), Regional Office, Kanpur, U.P., for issuance of a joining letter, within the time stipulated by this court.

3. The factual matrix of the case are that the Employees? State Insurance Corporation (hereafter referred to as ESIC) had issued an advertisement on 28-12-2021 for recruitment on the posts of Upper Division Clerks(UDC), Stenographers and Multi-Tasking Staff (MTS) in Uttar Pradesh region of ESIC. The last date of submission of applications was 15-02-2022, against 119 vacancies of Multi Tasking Staff and the process of the recruitment was to be undertaken within two phases; Phase-I, the preliminary examination and Phase-II, the main examination. The petitioner applied for the post of Multi Tasking Staff (hereinafter referred to as 'MTS') under the unreserved category, through e-applications, on the website of the ESIC and appeared in Phase-I examination and was declared qualified and thereafter, he also appeared in the main examination, which was scheduled to be held on 05-06-2022 at examination centre, Lucknow. The petitioner was shortlisted in the list of additional shortlisted candidates, on 10-06-2024 and was called for the documents verification, scheduled on 20-06-2024, wherein the petitioner appeared and after verification of the documents, he received an offer of appointment alongwith attestation form for the post of MTS, vide e-mail dated 09-07-2024. After receiving the offer of appointment, the petitioner accepted and duly filled the attestation form on 18-07-2024 at the dispatch section of ESIC, Regional Office, Kanpur, wherein the petitioner disclosed the details of two pending criminal cases against him.

4. In furtherance to the shortlisted list of the candidates, the joining letters were issued to them, though the petitioner has not been issued any joining letter and on query being asked, he was informed that he will be issued the joining letter after completion of the police verification. The decision on the police verification is still pending.

5. Contention put forth by the learned counsel for the petitioner is that despite completion of the formalities and submission of the attestation form, the concerned authority did not issue any joining letter to the petitioner, whereas the other similarly situated candidates have already been permitted to join. He added that on 13-02-2025, the petitioner received a reply of letter, wherein it was stated that as per the DoPT letter dated 30-03-2016, the police verification is a condition precedent prior final acceptance of the appointment and issuance of the joining letter, though subsequent thereof, the petitioner visited the department several times while submitting representations, clarifying the position that in the first information report no. 50 of 2020, the final report no. 57 of 2022, has been submitted by the Investigating Officer concerned.

6. He contends that the criminal history of two cases has been disclosed by the petitioner and there is no concealment as such. He also submits that so far as the N.C.R. 93 of 2015, under sections 323 & 504 of I.P.C. was registered at Police Station-Bhiti, Ambedkar Nagar, the same is pending before the Juvenile Justice Board, wherein he has been declared as juvenile, on 20-12-2024. He submits that in the F.I.R. No. 50 of 2020, under sections 419,420,467,468 & 471 of I.P.C., Police Station-Bhiti, District-Ambedkar Nagar, the investigation has been concluded and the Final Report (Closure Report) No. 57 of 2022, has been submitted before the learned trial court.

7. Adding his arguments, he submits that so far as the N.C.R. No. 93 of 2015 is registered, the petitioner has been declared as juvenile delinquent. He submits that the law is clear that the pendency of any criminal case, would have no bar, in case of juvenile to be appointed in any job/service. He next added that since the first information report has been submitted before the learned trial court and therefore, the same would also not come in the way of the appointment of the petitioner.

8. Concluding his argument, he submits that the petitioner is waiting for his joining since long back and those, who were shortlisted alongwith the present petitioner, have been given joining and they are now continuing in service. Therefore, submission is that the concerned authority may be directed to issue the joining letter to the petitioner and to appoint him on the post of M.T.S.

9. Contrary, submission of learned counsel for the opposite parties no. 2 & 3 is that though an offer of appointment was issued to the petitioner on 09-07-2024, but, the joining has been withheld due to disclosure of two criminal cases and the adverse police verification report. He submitted that the petitioner had moved a representation with respect to his claim on 18-08-2025, which has been referred for legal opinion and therefore, submission is that the relief sought by the petitioner is premature and is not maintainable.

10. Upon considering the submissions of learned counsels for the parties and after perusal of records, what apparent is that the admitted fact in between the parties is that after the completion of the main examination for the post of M.T.S., the offer of appointment was issued to the petitioner, on 09-07-2024 and because of the disclosure of two criminal cases by the petitioner, issuance of joining letter has been withheld. The details of two criminal cases are given as follows :-

(i) N.C.R. No. 93 of 2015, under sections 323 & 504 of I.P.C., Police Station-Bhiti, Ambedkar Nagar.

(ii) F.I.R. No. 50 of 2020, under sections 419,420,467,468,471 of I.P.C., Police Station-Bhiti, District-Ambedkar Nagar

11. Though, it seems that there is no denial letter or any decision taken by the authority for non issuance of the joining letter, but the same has not been issued as yet, whereas the statement made in the Counter Affidavit filed by the opposite parties no. 2 & 3 is apparent that because of the abovenoted two criminal cases, pending against the petitioner, the joining letter has not been issued and further, the matter is referred to the headquarter for legal opinion,which is still pending consideration.

12. When this court examines the question that whether the pendency of the abovenoted two cases can be absolute bar for issuing the joining letter to the petitioner, it emerges that out of two criminal cases, one case is registered as N.C.R. No. 93 of 2015, under sections 323 & 504 of I.P.C., wherein the petitioner is declared as juvenile delinquent on 20-12-2024.

13. In this regard, section 19 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000(hereinafter referred to as ?Act,2000?), is relevant, which reads as under :-

'19. Removal of disqualification attaching to conviction :- (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law, a juvenile who has Removal of committed an offence and has been dealt with under the provisions of this Act shall not suffer disqualification, if any, attaching to a conviction of an offence under such law.

(2) The Board shall make an order directing that the relevant records of such conviction shall be removed after the expiry of the period of appeal or a reasonable period as prescribed under the rules, as the case may be.'

14. A bare reading of the abovesaid provision, makes it abundantly clear that the juvenile, who is alleged to have committed any offence and has been dealt with under the provision of the ‘Act, 2000', would not suffer any disqualification since his/her conviction, though this provision does not disclose regarding any impact. Thus, the intent of the legislature is very clear that such juvenile even convicted for an offence, would not make him disqualified.

15. I am aware of the law rendered by the Hon’ble Apex Court in the case of Union of India And Others Versus Ramesh Bishnoi,reported in (2019) 19 SCC 710, wherein the law has been laid down as under :-

"8. From the facts, it is clear that at the time when the charges were framed against the respondent, on 30-6-2009, the respondent was well under the age of 18 years as his date of birth is 5-9-1991. Firstly, it was not disputed that the charges were never proved against the respondent as the girl and her parents did not depose against the respondent, resulting in his acquittal on 24-11-2011. Even if the allegations were found to be true, then too, the respondent could not have been deprived of getting a job on the basis of such charges as the same had been committed while the respondent was juvenile. The thrust of the legislation i.e. the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 as well as the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 is that even if a juvenile is convicted, the same should be obliterated, so that there is no stigma with regard to any crime committed by such person as a juvenile. This is with the clear object to reintegrate such juvenile back in the society as a normal person, without any stigma. Section 3 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 lays down guidelines for the Central Government, State Governments, the Board and other agencies while implementing the provisions of the said Act. In clause (xiv) of Section 3, it is clearly provided as follows:

"3. (xiv) Principle of fresh start: All past records of any child under the juvenile justice system should be erased except in special circumstances."

9. In the present case, it is an admitted fact that the respondent was a minor when the charges had been framed against him of the offences under Sections 354, 447 and 509 IPC. It is also not disputed that he was acquitted of the charges. However, even if he had been convicted, the same could not have been held against him for getting a job, as admittedly, he was a minor when the alleged offences were committed and the charges had been framed against him. Section 3(xiv) provides for the same and the exception of special circumstances does not apply to the facts of the present case."

16. While dealing with the identical issue, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that even the juvenile is convicted, that would not be any ground to disqualify him for getting a job, if he was minor at the time of committal of the offence.

17. Placing reliance on the above, the coordinate Division Bench of this court in Writ A No. 9462 of 2025, Navodaya Vidhyalaya Samiti and 2 Others Vs Pundarikaksh Dev Pathak and Another, decided on 16-10-2025, has held in paragraph no. 22 as under :-

"22. From the above discussion, it is crystal clear that even conviction of a juvenile has been found to be irrelevant qua his services and the present case stands on much better footings where trial against the petitioner is pending. Further, as per judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ramesh Bishnoi (supra), even requirement of disclosing the details of criminal prosecution faced by a juvenile is violative of right to privacy and right to reputation of child, guaranteed under the Constitution of India, and therefore, it is not expected of a juvenile to disclose such details. Same proposition has been laid down by this Court in the case of Shivam Maurya (supra) and the judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Ramesh Bishnoi (supra) as well as in the case of Shivam Maurya (supra) are being consistently followed by this Court. Reference to the judgement of a learned Single Judge of this Court in Abhishek Kumar Yadav vs. Union of India and 3 others, 2022 (6) ADJ 564, can also be made in this regard. "

18. It is abundantly clear that not only the pendency of a criminal case against the juvenile delinquent, but, even if he is convicted, the same would have no bearing so far as the appointment in the job, government or private is concerned.

19. Now, coming to the next question that whether pendency of the final report in a criminal case for decision before the trial court, would create any hindrance or bar for getting the job?

20. Time and again, there are certain rules framed that if a criminal case is pending, that would disqualify for appointment on the post in government job. After a criminal case is registered and investigation is completed, resulted into filing of the final report, would infact, prima-facie shows that there is no involvement of such accused or person in the alleged crime, unless such final report is rejected by the trial court.

21. In our country, it is truth that because of the heavy pendency of the cases, the trial courts are overburdened and for these reasons, cases remain pending to be decided, for a long period. Therefore, the question arises that whether in case of specific circumstances like the present, if the Investigating Officer does not find the correctness in the allegations or any substantial evidence against such accused person, files final report and that remains pending consideration for a long period of time, would come into way of getting the job for such person. Infact, the fate of a person, whose career is on stake, cannot be thrown to suffer for there being any material reason. Assuming, if the trial court accepts the final report at a belated stage, such accused person, must suffer irreparable loss and injury, which cannot be compensated by any means. Infact this can never be the intent of any law.

22. It is of worth consideration that if the charges are not serious in nature and the final reports are filed in such cases, the accused persons should not be deprived of for getting the job because of pending consideration of such final reports. Actually, if the final report is rejected and such accused person is convicted,the legal recourse is always open for the government/department concerned to dispense with the services of such employee.

23. I have noticed that in F.I.R. No. 50 of 2020, the final report no. 57 of 2020, has already been submitted by the Investigating Officer. The trial court has failed to pass any order on the final report submitted by the Investigating Officer, thus no otherwise inference can be drawn against the petitioner, in such circumstances.

24. I have also considered the law rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Gujarat And Another Vs Surya Kant Chunilal Shah, reported in 1999 (1) SCC 529 and I am of the view that the allegation of the involvement of the accused in a criminal case, does not mean that he is guilty for committing of the offence as is alleged against him. The adjudication of the allegations including the evidences, will take the matter to the final conclusion, which may result into conviction or acquittal and therefore, it would be highly improper and unjusticibale to deprive a person of his livelihood merely on the basis of his alleged involvement. Such decision of the deprival, would have far reaching consequences, for an accused, which is neither justified on common sense, nor under any law. The laws are meant for putting the society in order. The application of laws can never be in vacuum, but, infact, to all the extent, it impacts human being. If the law applies and resulted into soothing the heart of a person,infact in the real sense, the object of such law succeeds. Consequently, the petitioner cannot be thrown to suffer for unlimited period of time, to wait for a job, because of the pending final report for it's adjudication.

25. In view of the aforesaid submissions and discussions, this court finds merit in the writ petition.

26. Ergo, the opposite party no. 3/Regional Director, Employees State Regional Corporation, Regional Office,Kanpur, U.P. is directed to issue the joining letter to the petitioner, ignoring the pendency of the criminal cases against him, within the period of thirty days, from the date; a certified copy of this order is produced before him.

27. The writ petition is allowed accordingly.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Enforceability of a Corrigendum having the provision contrary to the provision a Government Order in substance.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Selection for Training Course – Stipend – Entitlement – GO dated 14.01.2004 provide to pay stipend till the date of appointment – However, the same was denied on the ground that as per Corrigendum letter dated 14.05.2015, it is payable only during the course of training – Validity challenged – Significance of the Government Order and Scope of a Corrigendum letter felt into consideration

Held : A Government order, particularly issued with the approval of the Governor, represents an exercise of executive policy making power and is capable of creating enforceable rights and obligations. A corrigendum, on the other hand, is ordinarily intended to rectify clerical, typographical, accidental, or explanatory errors so as to give effect to the true intent of the original order. The legal permissibility of a corrigendum is thus confined to correction without alteration of substance. [Para 59]

Further held : The original Government order dated 14.01.2004, as amended on 20.02.2004, unequivocally contemplated payment of stipend to the selected trainees till the date of their appointment. The subsequent corrigendum, by restricting such payment only to the duration of training, effectively truncates the period of entitlement and thereby deprives the beneficiaries of a substantive financial benefit which had accrued under the original policy – In absence of issuance of a valid Government order with due approval in accordance with Article 166 of the Constitution of India, the said corrigendum cannot be given legal effect. (Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. The petitioners in the present batch of petitions were selected for the Special BTC Training Course, 2004. The controversy involved in these writ petitions are similar in nature that under the Government Order dated 14.01.2004, it was specifically provided that the candidates selected for the said training course would be paid a stipend of Rs. 2,500/- per month from the commencement of their training until the date of their appointment, however, the respondent authorities have denied to pay the stipend on the ground that, by means of a corrigendum letter dated 14.05.2015, the condition contained in the earlier Government order had been modified, providing that the stipend would be payable only for the duration of the training period and not till the date of appointment, as was originally stipulated.

2. When the petitioners leading writ petition being Writ-A No. 29926 of 2016 along with some other persons, were not paid the aforesaid stipend, they preferred Writ-A No. 64689 of 20151, in which this Court directed the concerned authority to consider the grievance of the petitioners therein and pass appropriate orders. Pursuant thereto, the claim of the petitioners was rejected vide order dated 18.05.2016 on the ground that, by means of a corrigendum letter dated 14.05.2015, the condition contained in the earlier Government order had been modified, providing that the stipend would be payable only for the duration of the training period and not till the date of appointment, as was originally stipulated. Similarly, the claim of other petitioners in connected two other writ petitions has been rejected by orders dated 09.06.2015 and 30.07.2015, thus, the petitioners herein have challenged the claim rejection orders along with the corrigendum letter dated 14.05.2015.

3. Earlier, Writ-A No. 29926 of 2016 was decided on 03.02.2020 by passing the following order:

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and learned Standing Counsel for respondents.

By means of the present writ petition, the petitioners have sought for issuance of writ of certiorari to quash the order dated 18.5.2016 passed by the respondent No.1 and corrigendum dated 14.5.2015 with the further prayer to issue a writ of mandamus to command the respondent No.2 to make immediate payment of remaining stipend as per Clause-3(12) contained under Government Order dated 14.1.2004.

Brief fact of the case is that the petitioners appeared in Special B.T.C. Training Course, 2004, wherein they were selected. Under the Government Order dated 14.1.2004, it was provided that the candidates, who have been selected for Special B.T.C. Training Course shall be given stipend of Rs.2,500/- per month from the start of training till the date of appointment.

In regard to the controversy that whether the training through correspondence course is valid or not for consideration of claim for the selection for Special B.T.C. Training Course was subject matter of challenge before this Court in bunch of writ petition. The petitions were decided and ultimately, the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide judgment and order dated 26.4.2013 held that B.Ed. course through correspondence is valid. After the selection, the petitioners claimed stipend as per the Government Order issued on 14.1.2004. The respondents paid stipend for 6 months only and not till the date of appointment to the petitioners. Although, till date, no appointment letter has been issued to the petitioners.

The controversy in regard to the payment of stipend came before this Court in Writ-A No.49574 of 2010, which was decided vide judgment and order dated 8.12.2014 and following direction was issued :-

"On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the petitioners again relies upon paragraph 3(12) of the Government Order dated 14.1.2004, which clearly stipulates that from the date of selection for Special BTC Course till the appointment the candidate would be entitled for stipend of Rs.2,500/-.

Paragraph 3(12) of the Government order dated 14.1.2004 is unambiguous and nothing to the contrary has been presented to the Court. In my view, the petitioners are entitled for stipend till they are appointed as Assistant Teachers in the Primary School, therefore, from May 2005 till December 2005 the petitioners are entitled for stipend of Rs.2,500/- per month in case there is nothing contrary in law against such entitlement.

Subject to the aforesaid, writ petition is allowed."

The order passed by the learned Single Judge was subject matter of challenge in Special Appeal (Defective) No.321 of 2015 which was decided vide order dated 27.4.2015, by holding the following observation :-

"The aforesaid provision makes it clear that the stipend was liable to be paid during the period of training and until the order of appointment was issued. The impugned order of the learned Single Judge is hence consistent with the clear mandate of paragraph 3(12) of the Government Order. The reliance which has been placed by the learned Standing Counsel on a subsequent Government Order dated 9 July 2007, which is placed on the record, is misconceived. That Government Order merely states that the recruitment process had been concluded. It has no bearing on the liability to pay stipend, which is governed by paragraph 3(12) of the earlier Government Order extracted above. For these reasons, we find no merit in the special appeal and it is, accordingly, dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs."

Thereafter, the matter went up to the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the S.L.P. filed by the State Government was dismissed vide judgment and order dated 12.10.2015. A review was also sought, which has also been dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 10.11.2016.

In view of the above, the matter is set at rest. The petitioners are also entitled for the benefit claimed in the present writ petition.

Accordingly, the writ petition is finally disposed of with the direction to the respondents to ensure payment of stipend to the petitioners with effect from the date of training till the date of appointment in view of Clause-3(12) contained under Government Order dated 14.1.2004 and as per the judgment passed in Writ-A No.49574 of 2010, Special Appeal (Defective) No.321 of 2015 as well as affirmed in the S.L.P. by the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide judgment and order dated 12.10.2015, within a period of 3 months from the date of production of certified copy of this order."

4. The aforesaid judgment and order dated 03.02.2020 was challenged by the State by filing Special Appeal No. 11 of 20212, wherein the following order was passed on 27.01.2021:

"By this appeal a challenge is made to the impugned order dated 03.02.2020 passed by the learned Single Judge on a writ petition preferred by the non-appellant with the following prayers;

"(a) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari, quashing the impugned order dated 18.05.2016 passed by respondent no. 1 and office order/corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 also be quashed.

(b) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no. 2 make immediate payment of remaining stipend amount as mentioned in the Government Order dated 14.01.2004 in Para 3 (12) till his appointment as Assistant Teacher with interest 18%.

(c) Issue any other writ, order or direction in the nature of which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case.

(d) Award the cost of the petition to the petitioners."

The writ petition has been decided in reference to the earlier litigation and the Government Order dated 14.01.2004, without addressing the issue raised in reference to the subsequent government order/corrigendum dated 14.05.2015. By the aforesaid order, a modification was made in regard to the benefit of stipend. It was made limited to the period of training after entering into Special B.T.C. course.

The issue in reference to the government order/corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 has not been addressed effectively by any of the Court, though, a review petition preferred by the State Government before the Apex Court has been dismissed but the judgment aforesaid does not propound a ratio.

Taking into consideration aforesaid and as prayed by learned counsel for the parties, the impugned order dated 03.02.2020 passed by the learned Single Judge is set-aside with remand of the case to the learned Single Judge to be decided afresh in reference to all the prayers made by the petitioners in writ petition.

Appeal is allowed with the direction given above."

5. The present petitions are being heard afresh in terms of the directions issued by the Division Bench of this Court while deciding the aforesaid Special Appeal, particularly with regard to the issue arising out of the subsequent Government Order/corrigendum dated 14.05.2015.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the Government order dated 14.01.2004 was issued with the due approval and sanction of the State Government and specifically provided that the candidates selected for the Special BTC Training Course, 2004 would be entitled to payment of a stipend at the rate of Rs. 2,500/- per month from the commencement of their training till the date of their appointment. It is contended that the said Government order created a substantive and enforceable right in favour of the selected candidates, and the authorities were bound to act in accordance with the terms and conditions contained therein.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that benefit of payment of stipend from commencement of training till their appointment having been granted by a duly sanctioned Government order, could not subsequently be curtailed or withdrawn retrospectively by means of a mere corrigendum dated 14.05.2015, particularly after the petitioners had already completed the training and acquired a vested right to receive the stipend in terms of the original Government order. According to the petitioners, the corrigendum seeks to alter the very substance of the policy decision contained in the Government order dated 14.01.2004 by restricting payment of stipend only up to the training period instead of till the date of appointment, which amounts to a substantive amendment and not a mere correction or clarification.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioners contends that the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 travels beyond the scope of a mere corrigendum or clarification, inasmuch as it substantially alters the policy decision embodied in the original Government order dated 14.01.2004. It is argued that a corrigendum can ordinarily be issued only to correct clerical, typographical, or inadvertent errors and cannot be used as an instrument to amend, modify, or take away substantive benefits already granted under a duly sanctioned Government order.

9. It is further submitted that the petitioners had already acquired a vested and accrued right to receive stipend till the date of appointment in terms of the original Government order, and such right could not have been retrospectively taken away after lapse of several years by issuing the impugned corrigendum. The corrigendum, therefore, according to the petitioners, is arbitrary, unreasonable, and violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India, apart from being contrary to the doctrine of legitimate expectation.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the original Government order dated 14.01.2004, having been issued with the sanction of the Governor, was subsequently amended by another Government order dated 20.02.2004, which was also issued with the sanction and approval of the Governor. It is contended that the amendment introduced by the Government order dated 20.02.2004 specifically modified certain conditions relating to the Special BTC Training Course, while maintaining the stipulation regarding payment of stipend to the selected candidates .

11. It is further submitted that the very fact that the earlier Government order dated 14.01.2004 was amended by issuance of a fresh Government order dated 20.02.2004, duly sanctioned by the Governor, clearly demonstrates that any substantive alteration in the conditions of the original policy could only have been made through another properly sanctioned Government order. According to the petitioners, the subsequent corrigendum dated 14.05.2015, not being in the nature of a duly sanctioned amendment but merely styled as a corrigendum, could not legally curtail or withdraw the substantive benefit of stipend payable till the date of appointment, which had been granted under the original Government order.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that, with respect to the dispute relating to payment of stipend, several writ petitions came to be filed before this Court. One such writ petition, being Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 49574 of 20103, was allowed by judgment and order dated 08.12.2014. Against the aforesaid judgment, the State preferred Special Appeal Defective No. 246 of 20154, which too was dismissed by order dated 01.05.2015.

13. It is further submitted that, against the aforesaid orders, the State respondents approached the Apex Court by filing SLP (Civil) No. 29614 of 2015, which also came to be dismissed. Similarly, Special Appeal No. 321 of 20155, was also dismissed. Accordingly, paragraph 3.12 of the Government order dated 14.01.2004 stood affirmed and the controversy relating to payment of stipend attained finality up to the Supreme Court.

14. It is further submitted that, thereafter, the State filed Review Application No. 3450 of 2016 in SLP (Civil) No. 29614 of 20156, raising the plea that the issue pertained to Vishisht/Special BTC Training, 2004, the selection process whereof had been conducted pursuant to Government order dated 14.01.2004 as amended by Government order dated 20.02.2004. Reliance was placed upon paragraph 3.12 of the Government order, which provided that stipend at the rate of Rs. 2,500/- per month would be payable to the selected candidates till they completed the requisite training, passed the examinations conducted under the control of the State Council of Educational Research and Training, and secured regular appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher in Primary Schools of the Board. The State, in the review application, further contended that the Government order dated 14.01.2004 had subsequently been amended by corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 and, therefore, the judgment dated 12.10.2015 required reconsideration in light of the amended Government order. However, the aforesaid review application also came to be dismissed.

15. In view of the aforesaid facts, learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the controversy regarding payment of stipend already stands settled by the Apex Court, and the petitioners, being similarly situated, are entitled to payment of stipend from the commencement of their training till the date of their appointment in terms of the Government order dated 14.01.2004.

16. During the pendency of the present writ petitions, the other petitions were earlier allowed by judgment and order dated 03.02.2020. Against the aforesaid judgment, a Special Appeal was preferred, which came to be decided by order dated 27.01.2021, whereby the matter was remanded to the learned Single Judge for fresh consideration, particularly with regard to the issue arising from the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015.

17. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that, in another set of similarly situated matters, the State had filed Special Appeal No. 532 of 2018 before this Court, which was decided by judgment and order dated 18.02.2020. The said appeal was allowed in favour of the claimants holding them entitled to the benefit of stipend in terms of the Government order dated 14.01.2004.

18. It is further submitted that the aforesaid judgment was challenged by the State before the Apex Court by filing SLP (C) No. 137 of 20217, wherein once again the State raised the issue relating to the amended corrigendum dated 14.05.2015. However, despite the aforesaid contention having been specifically raised, the Special Leave Petition also came to be dismissed by order dated 11.07.2022.

19. Accordingly, learned counsel submits that the issue with regard to entitlement of stipend under the Government order dated 14.01.2004, notwithstanding the subsequent corrigendum dated 14.05.2015, already stands concluded against the State by successive judicial pronouncements extending up to the Supreme Court, and therefore the petitioners are entitled to the same relief.

20. In view of the aforesaid submissions, it is contended that the impugned orders cannot be sustained in the eyes of law, inasmuch as the same are arbitrary, illegal, unreasonable and contrary to the Government orders dated 14.01.2004 and 20.02.2004, as well as the law laid down by this Court and affirmed up to the Apex Court. It is, therefore, prayed that the impugned orders may be quashed and set aside, and the petitioners may be granted all consequential benefits, including payment of stipend from the commencement of their training till the date of their appointment, in accordance with the original Government order dated 14.01.2004.

21. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents, however, submits that the case of the petitioners is founded upon the Government order dated 14.01.2004, under which the petitioners claim entitlement to payment of stipend at the rate of Rs. 2,500/- per month not only during the training period but also till the date of their appointment. Since the said amount was not paid, the petitioners, along with other similarly situated persons, filed Writ-A No. 64689 of 2015, wherein a direction was issued to the competent authority to consider the grievance of the petitioners and pass appropriate orders.

22. It is submitted that, pursuant to the aforesaid directions, the claim of the petitioners was duly considered and rejected by the Joint Secretary by order dated 18.05.2016 on the ground that, by means of corrigendum letter dated 14.05.2015, the conditions contained in the earlier Government order had been modified so as to make the stipend payable only up to the period of training and not till the date of appointment as originally provided.

23. Learned counsel for the respondents further submits that the petitioners have challenged the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 mainly on the ground that the same was not issued under the authority or sanction of the Governor and, therefore, could not validly amend the earlier Government order dated 14.01.2004, which had been issued with the approval of the Governor. According to the petitioners, the corrigendum is consequently inoperative in law and, therefore, the order dated 18.05.2016 rejecting their claim for stipend is liable to be set aside.

24. It is further submitted that the challenge to the Government order/corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 is essentially based on the plea that the original policy decision contained in the Government order dated 14.01.2004 had been issued after obtaining specific approval of the Governor, whereas the subsequent modification curtailing the period of stipend was effected only at the level of the Secretary and not through a fresh Government order duly sanctioned by the Governor.

25. Accordingly, the principal legal issue which arises for consideration in the present case is as to whether, by means of a corrigendum issued by the Government, the substantive stipulation relating to payment of stipend till the date of appointment could legally be altered by restricting the period of such payment only up to completion of the training course.

26. The core legal issue, as raised by learned counsel for the respondents, is whether a corrigendum issued for clarifying that stipend to Special BTC trainees would be payable only during the training period, and not till the date of appointment, required fresh approval or sanction of the Hon'ble Governor, particularly when the original Government order dated 14.01.2004, containing the earlier stipulation, had itself been issued with the approval of the Governor.

27. In other words, the question which falls for consideration is whether the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 merely clarifies the original policy and corrects an inadvertent error, or whether it substantially alters the conditions of the original Government order so as to necessitate issuance of a fresh Government order with the sanction of the Hon'ble Governor.

28. Learned counsel for the respondents submits that, so far as the constitutional scheme governing the conduct of executive business of the State is concerned, it would be apposite to refer to Article 166 of the Constitution of India, which regulates the manner in which the business of the Government of a State is to be transacted.

29. It is submitted that Article 166(1) provides that all executive actions of the Government of a State shall be expressed to be taken in the name of the Governor. Article 166(2) further provides that orders and instruments made and executed in the name of the Governor shall be authenticated in such manner as may be specified in rules framed by the Governor, and once so authenticated, the validity thereof cannot be questioned on the ground that the same was not duly made or executed. Article 166(3) empowers the Governor to frame rules for the more convenient transaction of the business of the Government and for allocation of such business amongst the Ministers, except in matters where the Governor is required to act in his discretion.

30. Learned counsel submits that the significance of Article 166 lies in ensuring legal accountability and administrative efficiency by prescribing a formal procedure for executive actions and by enabling systematic delegation of authority within the governmental framework. According to the respondents, under the Rules of Business framed under Article 166(3), only specified categories of matters involving important policy decisions, constitutional or statutory mandates, or issues of substantial significance are required to be placed before the Hon□ble Governor for approval. Routine, clerical, administrative, or clarificatory matters are ordinarily dealt with at the departmental level by the Minister-in-charge or competent departmental authorities and do not require fresh approval of the Governor.

31. It is thus contended that a corrigendum issued merely for correcting or clarifying an earlier Government order does not fall within the category of matters mandatorily requiring approval of the Governor and can validly be issued at the departmental level.

32. Learned counsel for the respondents has further placed reliance upon the judgment of B.K. Srinivasan & Ors. v. State of Karnataka & Ors.8 to contend that the validity of an executive decision primarily depends upon its proper authentication in accordance with Article 166 of the Constitution, whereas the internal process by which such decision is arrived at is regulated by the Rules of Business framed by the State Government. According to the respondents, once an order is duly authenticated in the manner prescribed, its validity cannot ordinarily be questioned on the basis of alleged irregularities in the internal governmental procedure.

33. It is submitted that the aforesaid judgment recognizes the distinction between the formal validity of an executive order and the internal decision-making mechanism within the Government. Learned counsel submits that the Rules of Business framed under Article 166(3) of the Constitution of India permit delegation of governmental functions and allocation of business amongst Ministers and departmental authorities, thereby enabling routine administrative and ministerial functions to be discharged without requiring the Governor's personal approval in every matter.

34. The respondents further submit that the distinction between ministerial acts and substantive policy decisions is well recognized in constitutional and administrative law. Ministerial or administrative acts include routine, clerical, explanatory, or clarificatory actions taken for proper implementation of governmental decisions, whereas substantive acts involve creation of new rights, withdrawal of vested rights, or formulation of fresh policy decisions. According to the respondents, only matters involving important policy decisions, constitutional obligations, or statutory mandates are required to be submitted for approval of the Governor under the applicable Rules of Business.

35. In this regard, reliance has also been placed upon the Uttar Pradesh Secretariat Instructions and the Uttar Pradesh Authentication (Orders and Other Instruments) Rules, 19759 framed under Article 166 of the Constitution of India, which regulate the manner in which Government business is transacted and executive orders are authenticated within the State of Uttar Pradesh. Learned counsel submits that the said Rules, 1975 contemplate that ordinary governmental business is to be disposed of by the Minister-in-charge of the concerned department, and only specified categories of matters of exceptional importance are required to be placed before the Governor.

36. It is thus contended that routine clerical, explanatory, or clarificatory matters do not require fresh approval of the Governor, and therefore a corrigendum clarifying the scope of payment of stipend under the earlier Government order could validly be issued at the department level. According to the respondents, the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 did not constitute a fresh policy decision but merely clarified the original intent of the Government order dated 14.01.2004, and hence no separate approval of the Governor was legally required.

37. Upon analysis of the constitutional scheme and the Rules of Business framed under Article 166 of the Constitution of India, the critical position which emerges is that only such matters which involve important policy decisions, constitutional obligations, statutory mandates, or issues specifically required under the Constitution or any statute be placed before the Governor for necessary approval or sanction.

38. On the other hand, routine administrative matters, ministerial acts, clerical corrections, explanatory communications, or clarificatory corrigenda are ordinarily excluded from the category of matters requiring the Governor’s approval and may validly be dealt with at the departmental level in accordance with the Rules of Business.

39. Thus, the distinction essentially lies between a substantive decision involving formulation or alteration of governmental policy, creation or extinguishment of rights, or exercise of constitutional/statutory power on the one hand, and routine or clarificatory administrative actions intended merely to explain, correct, or implement an existing decision on the other. While the former category ordinarily requires approval of the Governor in terms of Article 166 and the applicable Rules of Business, the latter category does not.

40. Learned counsel for the respondents submits that a corrigendum issued for the purpose of correcting, explaining, or clarifying an earlier Government order does not fall within the category of matters mandatorily requiring approval of the Governor and, therefore, such corrigendum can validly be issued at the departmental level in accordance with the Rules of Business framed under Article 166 of the Constitution of India.

41. It is further submitted that there exists a well settled distinction between a clerical or clarificatory act, the legal effect whereof is merely ministerial in nature, and a substantive modification amounting to a fresh governmental decision. According to the respondents, a ministerial or clarificatory act intended to remove ambiguity, correct an inadvertent error, or explain the true purport of an earlier order does not require fresh approval of the Governor, since such action does not result in formulation of a new policy or creation of new rights and liabilities.

However, where the alteration is substantive in character and its legal effect amounts to taking a fresh policy decision, modifying vested rights, or introducing a material change in the earlier governmental policy, such action would require approval of the Governor in terms of Article 166 of the Constitution and the applicable Rules of Business.

42. On the strength of the aforesaid distinction, learned counsel for the respondents submits that the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 was merely clarificatory in nature and intended to rectify the scope of the original Government order dated 14.01.2004 regarding payment of stipend, and therefore the same did not require fresh approval or sanction of the Governor.

43. Learned counsel for the respondents, placing reliance upon the judgment of State of Bihar v. D. N. Ganguly & Ors.10, submits that ministerial or clerical acts do not amount to a fresh exercise of statutory or executive power. It is contended that where an authority merely corrects an apparent error, clarifies an ambiguity, or rectifies an inadvertent omission in an earlier order, such action retains the character of a ministerial act and does not constitute taking of a fresh policy decision.

44. According to the respondents, the principle laid down in the aforesaid judgment recognizes that correction of apparent errors or issuance of clarificatory directions does not amount to review or reconsideration of the original decision, provided the substance of the original policy remains unchanged. It is thus argued that a corrigendum issued for correcting or clarifying the true intent of an earlier Government order can validly be issued at the departmental level without requiring fresh approval of the Governor, since such action is merely ancillary to the implementation of the original decision and not an independent exercise of executive power.

45. Learned counsel for the respondents has further placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Master Construction Co. (P) Ltd. v. State of Orissa & Another11 to contend that errors apparent on the face of the record may be corrected by the competent authority, provided such correction does not alter the substance of the original decision.

46. It is submitted that, in the aforesaid judgment, the Supreme Court has recognized the distinction between correction of an accidental or clerical mistake and alteration of a substantive determination. The Court observed that where the correction merely removes an obvious error, omission, or ambiguity so as to give effect to the true intention underlying the original order, such correction would not amount to review or reconsideration of the matter. However, if the purported correction changes the essential nature or substance of the original decision, the same would travel beyond the scope of a mere correction.

47. On the strength of the aforesaid principle, learned counsel for the respondents submits that executive authorities possess inherent ministerial powers to rectify mistakes, remove ambiguities, and issue clarificatory corrigenda for proper implementation of governmental decisions. According to the respondents, the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 merely clarified the actual scope of the stipend payable under the Government order dated 14.01.2004 and did not introduce any fresh policy decision or substantive alteration requiring approval of the Governor.

48. In the case of Indian Council for Enviro-Legal Action & Ors. v. Union of India12, the Supreme Court has observed that every Court or authority possesses inherent power to correct errors in order to ensure that justice is done and to prevent abuse of the process. The Court recognized that procedural or accidental mistakes, clerical omissions, or errors arising from inadvertence can always be corrected so that the record reflects the true intention of the authority passing the order. The Supreme Court has further observed that the power to rectify accidental slips or omissions is ancillary to the exercise of judicial or executive power and that correction of such mistakes does not amount to review of the original decision, provided the substantive rights determined by the original order are not altered.

49. Relying upon the aforesaid principle, learned counsel for the respondents submits that the executive authorities are competent to issue clarificatory or corrective corrigenda in order to remove inconsistencies or rectify inadvertent errors in earlier Government orders, and such exercise would fall within the scope of ministerial or administrative powers rather than constituting a fresh policy decision requiring approval of the Governor.

50. Lastly, learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the case of S. Nagaraj & Ors. v. State of Karnataka & another13 to contend that every authority possesses inherent power to correct accidental mistakes, slips, or omissions in order to ensure that the record reflects the true intent of the decision originally taken.

51. It is submitted that, in the aforesaid judgment, the Supreme Court observed that justice is a virtue which transcends all barriers and that the purpose of the Court or authority is to render substantial justice. The Court further held that where an error is attributable to accidental slip, omission, or inadvertence, the same may always be corrected, and such correction does not amount to review of the original decision on merits. The Supreme Court emphasized that the power to correct mistakes is inherent in every authority so as to avoid perpetuation of an obvious error and to prevent miscarriage of justice.

52. Learned counsel for the respondents contended that the principle laid down in the aforesaid judgment clearly recognizes the distinction between correction of an accidental or clerical error and reconsideration of the merits of the original decision. While review involves re-examination of the substantive decision itself, correction of an accidental slip merely brings the order in conformity with the true intention underlying the original decision. On the basis of the said principle, learned counsel submits that the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 was merely corrective and clarificatory in nature, issued to rectify an inadvertent inconsistency in the earlier Government order dated 14.01.2004, and therefore the same cannot be treated as a fresh policy decision requiring approval of the Governor or as an impermissible review of the original Government order.

53. Applying the aforesaid principles to the facts of the present case, learned counsel for the respondents submits that the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015, whereby payment of stipend was confined only to the training period, merely operates as a clarification of the original Government order dated 14.01.2004 and does not amount to formulation of a new policy or withdrawal of any vested right. According to the respondents, the corrigendum only clarifies the actual period for which stipend was intended to be paid and, therefore, falls within the realm of a ministerial or clarificatory act. Consequently, no separate approval or sanction of the Governor was required for issuance of the said corrigendum.

54. It is further submitted that if approval of the Governor were to be insisted upon for every corrigendum, clarification, or clerical correction issued by the Government, the entire administrative machinery would be rendered unworkable and the very purpose underlying the Rules of Business framed under Article 166 of the Constitution would stand defeated. According to the respondents, settled constitutional practice and administrative law recognize that routine explanatory or corrective actions can validly be undertaken at the departmental level without necessitating approval at the highest executive level.

55. Learned counsel for the respondents further submits that, in the instant case, the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 does not alter the substance of the policy regarding payment of stipend, but merely clarifies the duration for which such stipend was payable. Since no substantive change in policy was introduced, the corrigendum cannot be treated as a fresh executive decision requiring sanction of the Governor.

56. In view of the aforesaid submissions, learned counsel for the respondents contends that the impugned order rejecting the claim of the petitioners suffers from no illegality warranting interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, and consequently the writ petitions are liable to be dismissed.

57. Heard Mr. H.M.B. Sinha, learned counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Rishi Kumar, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State and perused the record.

58. The controversy which falls for determination before this Court lies in a narrow compass. The principal issue is whether the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015, whereby the payment of stipend to Special BTC Trainees was confined only to the period of training instead of extending till the date of appointment, constitutes a mere clarificatory or ministerial act, or whether it effects a substantive alteration in the policy embodied in the Government Order dated 14.01.2004, thereby necessitating approval of the Hon'ble Governor in terms of Article 166 of the Constitution of India and the Rules of Business framed thereunder.

59. The distinction between a Government order embodying a policy decision and a corrigendum intended merely to correct or clarify an earlier order is no longer res integra. A Government order, particularly issued with the approval of the Governor, represents an exercise of executive policy making power and is capable of creating enforceable rights and obligations. A corrigendum, on the other hand, is ordinarily intended to rectify clerical, typographical, accidental, or explanatory errors so as to give effect to the true intent of the original order. The legal permissibility of a corrigendum is thus confined to correction without alteration of substance. Once a purported corrigendum travels beyond the realm of clarification and seeks to curtail, modify, or extinguish rights flowing from the original policy decision, it ceases to remain ministerial in character and assumes the colour of a substantive executive determination.

60. The constitutional framework under Article 166 undoubtedly permits allocation and transaction of governmental business at departmental levels, and every routine administrative or clerical action does not require the personal approval of the Governor. Equally well settled is the principle that ministerial or clarificatory acts may validly be undertaken by competent departmental authorities without recourse to the Governor. However, the crucial test is whether the subsequent action merely clarifies the original intent or whether it materially alters the rights and liabilities flowing from the original Government order.

61. In the case of State of Bihar & Ors. v. Kripalu Shankar & Ors.14, the Apex Court referring the observations made in the case of Bachhittar Singh v. State of Punjab15, has expounded the constitutional sanctity attached to executive action under Article 166 of the Constitution of India. The Court lucidly held that mere departmental notings or internal expressions of opinion do not attain the character of enforceable executive action unless the same are formally expressed in the name of the Governor and duly authenticated in the manner prescribed by the Rules of Business. The Supreme Court emphasized that executive action acquires legal efficacy only upon constitutional authentication and communication. The ratio of the aforesaid judgment unmistakably reinforces the principle that a substantive governmental determination issued with the sanction of the Governor cannot subsequently be diluted or modified through an informal departmental exercise lacking corresponding constitutional imprimatur.

62. The Apex Court in the case of Commissioner of Police, Bombay v. Gordhandas Bhanji16, has held that public orders are to be construed objectively with reference to the language employed therein and cannot subsequently be supplemented, varied, or explained away by affidavits or administrative explanations. The Court authoritatively observed that public authorities are bound by the tenor of the order actually issued and not by subsequent attempts to reinterpret its content. Applying the aforesaid principle, once the Government order dated 14.01.2004 expressly contemplated payment of stipend till the date of appointment, the executive could not subsequently curtail the extent of such entitlement under the nomenclature of a □corrigendum□ while retaining the fa□ade of a mere clarification.

63. In the case of Sant Ram Sharma v. State of Rajasthan & Ors.17, the Supreme Court recognized the binding force of executive instructions and administrative policy decisions issued in exercise of executive power. The Court observed that executive instructions, so long as they do not contravene statutory provisions, govern the field of administration and create enforceable norms regulating governmental action. The Government order dated 14.01.2004, therefore, cannot be trivialized as a mere administrative communication devoid of legal consequences, rather, it constituted a substantive executive policy regulating financial entitlement of Special BTC trainees.

64. The doctrine of legitimate expectation and accrued rights flowing from governmental representation has elaborately been considered by the Apex Court in the case of State of Punjab v. Nestle India Ltd. & Another18, wherein it has been held that governmental representations and policy assurances, once acted upon by affected parties, create enforceable expectations which cannot be arbitrarily withdrawn to the detriment of beneficiaries. The Court underscored that fairness in State action is an indispensable component of Article 14 of the Constitution and that executive authorities are not permitted to resile capriciously from representations which have induced legitimate reliance. In the present case, the trainees entered and completed the Special BTC Training on the assurance contained in paragraph 3.12 of the Government order dated 14.01.2004, and consequently the stipend entitlement acquired an enforceable and accrued character incapable of being extinguished through a unilateral departmental clarification. Equally instructive is the decision in the case of Mohinder Singh Gill & Another v. Chief Election Commissioner, New Delhi & Others19, wherein the Supreme Court propounded the celebrated principle that an order must stand or fall upon the reasons contained therein and cannot subsequently be supplemented by fresh explanations. The Court cautioned against validating executive action on the basis of post facto rationalizations. The attempt of the respondents to characterize the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 as merely explanatory, despite its palpable effect of curtailing the duration of stipend, therefore cannot withstand judicial scrutiny.

65. The scope of correction of clerical or accidental errors has been examined by the Supreme Court in the case of Master Construction Co. (P) Ltd. v. State of Orissa & Another20, wherein it is observed that accidental slips, typographical mistakes, or apparent omissions may undoubtedly be corrected so long as such correction does not alter the substance of the original determination. The Court drew a clear distinction between rectification of an obvious mistake and modification of the substantive content of an order. A correction which transforms the extent of rights originally conferred necessarily transcends the permissible boundaries of a ministerial correction.

66. The cumulative effect of the aforesaid authorities leaves no room for ambiguity that while executive authorities possess incidental power to issue clerical corrections, explanatory notes, or ministerial clarifications, such authority terminates at the point where the proposed correction materially alters substantive rights, financial entitlements, or policy conditions embodied in the original Government Order. Once the alteration ceases to be explanatory and assumes the character of a substantive modification, the constitutional discipline contemplated under Article 166 becomes indispensable.

67. In the considered opinion of this Court, the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 cannot be construed as a mere clerical or explanatory exercise. The original Government order dated 14.01.2004, as amended on 20.02.2004, unequivocally contemplated payment of stipend to the selected trainees till the date of their appointment. The subsequent corrigendum, by restricting such payment only to the duration of training, effectively truncates the period of entitlement and thereby deprives the beneficiaries of a substantive financial benefit which had accrued under the original policy. Such curtailment cannot be characterized as correction of an accidental slip or removal of ambiguity. It amounts, in substance and effect, to modification of the original policy decision itself.

68. The submission advanced on behalf of the respondents that the corrigendum merely clarifies the duration of stipend does not commend acceptance. A clarification explains, it does not diminish policy. A corrigendum corrects an error and it does not rewrite the policy. The impugned corrigendum, by materially altering the extent of monetary entitlement granted under the original Government order, travels far beyond the permissible limits of a ministerial correction.

69. This Court is also unable to lose sight of the fact that the original Government order was issued with the sanction and approval of the Governor and constituted the foundational policy governing the Special BTC Training Scheme. Any action having the effect of substantially modifying the conditions of such policy, particularly one affecting vested or accrued benefits, could only have been undertaken through issuance of a fresh Government order in accordance with the constitutional procedure contemplated under Article 166 and the applicable Rules of Business. Such a substantive alteration could not legally have been introduced through a departmental corrigendum lacking corresponding approval.

70. The judgments relied upon by the respondents, including D. N. Ganguly (supra), Master Construction Co. (P) Ltd. (supra), Indian Council for Enviro-Legal Action (supra) and S. Nagaraj (supra), do not support the case of the respondents inasmuch as the principles laid down therein pertain to correction of accidental, clerical, or inadvertent errors without affecting the substantive nature of the original decision. The said judgments cannot be read to confer authority upon the executive to alter substantive policy conditions or extinguish accrued rights under the guise of issuing a corrigendum.

71. Moreover, the issue relating to entitlement of stipend under the Government order dated 14.01.2004 already stands settled in the earlier rounds of litigation extending up to the Hon'ble Apex Court, wherein the entitlement of similarly situated trainees to stipend till the date of appointment stood affirmed. The attempt made through the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015 to dilute the effect of the original policy and the judicial pronouncements rendered thereupon cannot be sustained in law.

72. Accordingly, this Court holds that the corrigendum dated 14.05.2015, insofar as it seeks to restrict payment of stipend only up to the training period, is not a mere clarificatory or ministerial act but constitutes a substantive modification of the original Government order dated 14.01.2004. In absence of issuance of a valid Government order with due approval in accordance with Article 166 of the Constitution of India, the said corrigendum cannot be given legal effect. Consequently, the order dated 18.05.2016 rejecting the claim of the petitioners on the basis of the aforesaid corrigendum is unsustainable and liable to be quashed.

73. The writ petitions accordingly succeed and are allowed. The corrigendum dated 14.05.2015, to the extent indicated above, and the consequential orders under challenge in respective writ petitions, dated 18.05.2016, 09.06.2015 and 30.07.2015 are hereby quashed. The respondents are directed to extend to the petitioners the benefit of stipend in terms of the Government order dated 14.01.2004 read with the Government Order dated 20.02.2004, and to ensure payment of the admissible amount expeditiously, preferably within a period of four months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order before the competent authority.

74. No order as to costs.

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether entries of possession in Class-IX/Khasra confer sirdari rights when mandatory procedures prescribed under the Land Record Manual were not complied with?
(b) Whether certified copies of a 1965 decree filed for the first time in the High Court in 2023 can overturn findings of fact recorded by consolidation authorities?

Headnotes

A. Land Reform Law – U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953: Section 9A(2), 11(1); U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1951: Section 229-B, 331 - The dispute pertains to plot numbers 720/40, 722/92, 746/40, and 755/24 situated in Village Rampur Bagha, District Deoria, recorded in the basic year of consolidation in the names of petitioner Laxmi and respondent Dhoopai as sirdari plots.

Respondent Feku filed an objection u/s 9A(2) of the U.P.C.H. Act, 1953, seeking addition of a 92-dismil area to his khata. Petitioner Laxmi and Respondent Kali also filed title objections claiming ownership/possession over the disputed plots. Laxmi claimed rights on the basis of a judgment and decree dated 25.11.1965, passed in a suit u/s 229-B of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1951, allegedly decided in his favor by a Judicial Officer (J.O.), Hata. Laxmi also claimed a compromise before the Assistant Consolidation Officer (ACO) on 24.06.1975. Claimed sirdari rights based on continuous possession recorded in the revenue records.

Consolidation Officer (CO) decided title objections on 17.06.1980. Settlement Officer of Consolidation (SOC) dismissed Laxmi's appeal on 02.09.1980, finding that no steps were ever taken to record his name pursuant to the 1965 decree, the alleged ACO compromise was fraudulent/unsupported, and possession entries violated the Land Record Manual. Deputy Director of Consolidation (D.D.C.) dismissed Laxmi's revision on 27.06.1981, noting that the 1965 judgment was never produced on record. Writ Petition was filed in 1981 by Laxmi; interim stay granted on 12.10.1981.

B. Compliance of provision of land record manual is mandatory for claiming benefit of Class-IX entry (possession without title). (Para 11)

Petitioner is claiming benefit of the judgement and decree alleged to be passed by J.O. Hata Kushinagar u/s 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act but the Judicial Officer did not have jurisdiction to entertain and decide the suit u/s 229-B at that time. Moreover, no steps were taken by petitioner- Laxmi for recording his name on the basis of judgment and decree alleged to be passed in the suit u/s 229-B. The compromise alleged to take place before the Assistant Consolidation Officer on 24.06.1975 was also not found genuine by all the three consolidation authorities. (Para 9 to 16)

C. The filing of certified copy of the judgment/decree dated 25.11.1965 before this Court in the year 2023 cannot be taken into consideration as the same was not filed before the Consolidation

Court where the trial of the case was conducted. The finding of fact has also been recorded by Deputy Director of Consolidation while deciding the revision to the effect that copy of the judgment dated 25.11.1965 alleged to be passed in suit u/s 229- B is not available on record, as such, no reliance can be placed upon that. (Para 12, 13)

Considering the categorical finding of fact recorded by the consolidation authorities, there is no scope for interference against the impugned judgments passed in the proceeding u/s 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act. (Para 17)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

He further submitted that plot no. 722 area 92 dismil is sirdari plot of the petitioner and petitioner is in possession over the same. He further submitted that a suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. He further placed the certified copy of the decree passed in the suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act in order to demonstrate that suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act filed by petitioner/ Laxmi was decreed in proper manner by J.O. Hata as Trial Court. He submitted that writ petition should be allowed setting aside impugned orders and matter should be sent back before revisional Court to decide the dispute afresh. He placed the following judgements in support of his argument:-

(i) 1997 RD 257 Sunder Bhan Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Jalaun and Others

(ii) [2024] 5 SCR 492 Prashant Singh and Others Etc. Vs. Meena and Others Etc.

(iii) Consolidation No. 20558 of 2019 Surendra Singh and Others Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Sultanpur and Others dated 2.8.2019.

6. On the other hand, learned Counsel for the private respondent submitted that all the consolidation authorities have decided the dispute under Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act in proper manner. He further submitted that evidences adduced by the parties were properly taken into consideration by the consolidation authorities, as such, argument advanced by learned Counsel for the petitioner cannot be accepted that evidence adduced by the petitioner was not taken into consideration. He further submitted that no lawful compromise has taken place before Assistant Consolidation Officer in case no. 2428, as such, the same cannot be relied upon. He submitted that the judgement and decree alleged to be passed on 25.11.1965 in suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act cannot be relied upon as no steps were taken by the petitioner for recording of his name on the basis of judgement and decree alleged to be passed on 25.11.1965. He submitted that if there was decree under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act in favour of petitioner then there was no occasion for passing of the order dated 24.6.1975 by Assistant Consolidation Officer. He submitted that different stand has been taken by the petitioner at different point of time, as such, petitioner is not entitled to any relief in the matter. He submitted that along with the writ petition, true copy of the decree alleged to be passed on 25.11.1965 was annexed and certified copy of the decree has been annexed along with the supplementary affidavit dated 20.7.2023 but the consolidation authorities have recorded finding that copy of the judgement/ decree passed under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act has not been filed by petitioner before consolidation Court. He submitted that in view of the provisions contained under the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act, the Judicial Officer was not empowered to decide the suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act at the relevant point of time, as such, the claim set up by the petitioner cannot be accepted in any manner. He submitted that writ petition filed by petitioner should be dismissed.

7. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned Counsel for the parties and perused the records.

8. There is no dispute about the fact that title dispute against the basic year entry has been decided by consolidation authorities against the petitioner under the impugned orders.

9. It is material to mention that petitioner is claiming benefit of the judgement and decree alleged to be passed by J.O. Hata Kushinagar under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act but the Judicial Officer was not having jurisdiction to entertain and decide the suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act at that time. It is also material to mention that no steps has been taken by petitioner- Laxmi for recording his name on the basis of judgement and decree alleged to be passed in the suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act. The compromise alleged to take place before the Assistant Consolidation Officer in case no. 2428 on 24.6.1975 was also not found genuine by all the three consolidation authorities.

10. The Settlement Officer of Consolidation has recorded finding that petitioner/ Laxmi Singh has claimed the right in respect to plot nos. 720, 722, 746, 755 on the basis of possession but entry of possession is not according to the provision contained under land record manual. The relevant finding of fact recorded by Settlement Officer of Consolidation will be necessary for perusal which is as under:-

"गाटा 722 के सम्बन्ध में काली व फेंकू दोनों ने अपील प्रस्तुत की है जैसा कि ऊपर कहा गया है कि फेंकू आदि का स्वत्व इस नम्बर में सिद्ध नहीं है। अब केवल यह देखना है कि क्या गाटा 720, 722, 746, 755 में लक्ष्मी सिंह आदि सीरदार हैं या काली आदि का ही स्वत्व या कब्जा है। लक्ष्मी धुपई ने उपरोक्त गाटे पर कब्जे के आधार पर सीरदारी हक माँगे हैं और अपने कब्जे को सिद्ध करने के लिये 1359 फ० 1366, 6776, 77 दाखिल किये हैं यह इन्द्राज भूलेख नियमावली के विरूद्ध है कि पर भी तिथि व रोज नामजे की हवाला नहीं है। 1377 फ० गा० 9 का इन्द्राज किया गया। परन्तु एस०के० का कोई आदेश नहीं है। विद्वान च०अ० ने निर्णय में लिखा है कि लक्ष्मी सिंह ने खतौनी 1377, 1372 फ० दाखिल किया है। उसमें मूल नम्बर 1255 तारीख फ० 25-11-65 का हवाला है जिसके अनुसार काली आदि का नाम खारिज करने का आदेश हुआ है परन्तु इसके अनुसार न तो कोई कागज दुरुस्त हुआ है और न कोई आदेश की प्रतिलिपि दाखिल की गयी है। अतः इसमें कोई लाभ लक्ष्मी आदि को नहीं प्राप्त होते च०अ० ने दूसरा आधा 2428 में च०अ० के निर्णय दिनांक 24-6-75 को लिखा जिसमें सुलहनामें की नकल दाखिल की गयी है। परन्तु इस आदेश की प्रतिलिपि बिल्कुल फर्जी है क्योंकि जैसा कि अपील सं० 1114 का जिक्र करते हुये लिखा गया है। इस नम्बर का कोई मुकदमा स०च०अ० द्वारा तय नहीं किया गया। अतः इसका आधार जो च०अ० ने लिया है उससे सिद्ध है कि लक्ष्मी सिंह अपने कब्जे की सिद्ध करने में असमर्थ रहे। विद्वान च०अ० ने इनको सीरदार घोषित करने में भूल की है और इनेक आदेश को कायम व बहाल नहीं रखा जा सकता।

उपरोक्त विवेचन के आधार पर अपील संख्या 1114/1169 खारिज की जाती है तथा अपील संख्या 1113 स्वीकार की जाती है। फलस्वरूप गाटा संख्या 720 रकबा 44 व 722-92, 746-40, 755-20 काली सिंह के खाते में पूर्ववत अंकित रहेगा और इसके सम्बन्ध में लक्ष्मी व धुपई की आपत्ति खारिज समझी जाय। गाटा संख्या 722 फेंके आदि के खाते से खारिज किया जाये। यही आदेश अपील संख्या 1114, 1169 पर भी लागू।

11. The finding fact recorded by Settlement Officer of Consolidation as quoted above is in accordance with ratio of law laid down by this Court in the case reported in 2007 (103) RD 317 Ambika and another Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and Others that compliance of provision of land record manual is mandatory for claiming benefit of Class-IX entry (possession without title). Paragraph no.9 of the judgement rendered in Ambika (Supra) will be relevant for perusal which is as under:-

"9. In the aforesaid circumstances, Deputy Director of Consolidation erred in giving rights to respondent No. 7 on the basis of adverse possession and holding that P.A. 10 must have been prepared and served particularly when there is no reference in the entries made in remarks column about it. The provision contained in para A-80 and A-81 and A-82 and A-102-C of Land Record Manual are mandatory and if the compliance of the same has not been made, the entries made by Lekhpal would not be deemed to have been made in discharge of his duty. In such a situation there cannot be any escape from the conclusion that entries are inadmissible in evidence. Since there is no reference of P.A. 10 in the entries itself no evidentiary value can be attached to the entries and in the circumstances, finding recorded by Deputy Director of Consolidation holding that respondent No. 7 was in possession from 1367 fasli stands vitiated being based on inadmissible entries contained in remarks column about possession in khasra of 1368 fasli. So far as entries contained in Class-9 is concerned for 1369 to 1377 fasli it may be observed that since the basis of the entry regarding possession becomes doubtful, the entries made in Class-9 of the khatauni cannot be relied upon for basing the finding on question of possession and Deputy Director of Consolidation has committed a patent illegality."

12. The finding of fact has also been recorded by Deputy Director of Consolidation while deciding the revision to the effect that copy of the judgement dated 25.11.1965 alleged to be passed in suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act is not available on record, as such, no reliance can be placed upon the judgement and decree alleged to be passed under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act.

13. The filing of certified copy of the judgement/ decree dated 25.11.1965 before this Court in the year 2023 cannot be taken into consideration as the same was not filed before the Consolidation Court where the trial of the case was conducted.

14. The provision contained under Section 331 of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act in 1959 Edition of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act was under:-

"331. Cognizance of suits, etc. under this Act.- (1)Except as provided by or under this Act no court other than a court mentioned in Column 4 of Schedule II shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 take cognizance of any suit, application, or proceedings mentioned in Column 3 thereof [,]

[Provided that where a declaration has been made under Section 143 in respect of any holding or part thereof, the provisions of Schedule II in so far as they relate to suits; applications or proceedings under Chapter VIII shall not apply to such holding or part thereof.;]

(2)Except as hereinafter provided no appeal shall lie from an order or [decree] passed under any of the proceedings mentioned in Column 3 of the Schedule aforesaid:

3)[An appeal shall lie from an order passed under Section 47, 104 and order 41, rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 or any final order or decree passed by a court mentioned in Column No. 4 in the proceedings mentioned in Column 3 to the court or authority mentioned in Column No. 5 thereof; and]

(4)A second appeal shall lie on any of the grounds specified in Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 from the final order or decree, passed in an appeal under sub-section (3), to the authority, if any, mentioned against it in Column 6 of the Schedule aforesaid.]"

15. The Schedule II in the 1959 Edition of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act was under:-

Serial No.	Section	Description of proceeding	Court of original jurisdiction	Court of first appeal	Court of second appeal
34	229B 229 C	Suit for declaration of right	Assistant Collector First Class	Commissioner	Board

16. The column No.4/ Court of original jurisdiction/ Assistant Collector First Class was not changed or amended in any matter till the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act was repealed, as such, J.O. cannot entertain or decide the suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act accordingly the judgement/ order/ decree alleged to be passed on 25.11.1965 by J.O. Hata under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act cannot be relied upon.

17. Considering the categorical finding of fact recorded by the consolidation authorities, there is no scope for interference against the impugned judgements passed in the proceeding under Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act.

18. The writ petition is dismissed.

19. No order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE VIKAS BUDHWAR, J.

Writ C No. 6398 of 2021

Uttar Pradesh State Textile Corporation ...Petitioner
Versus
Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Whether the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal was justified in rejecting the application for condonation of delay and the recall application seeking recall of the ex parte order dated 21.08.2019 passed by the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad

Headnotes

Limitation Act, 1963, ss.3, 5. Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 – Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal – Recall application – Delay condonation application – Petitioner-corporation having become sick and its management having been handed over to U.P. State Spinning Company Ltd. – Only three regular employees remaining to manage the affairs of the petitioner-corporation and U.P. State Spinning Company Ltd. – Petitioner-corporation and U.P. State Spinning Company Ltd. declared sick – Management of U.P. State Spinning Company Ltd. suspended and subsequently restored pursuant to settlement under s.12-A of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016 – Ex parte order dated 21.08.2019 passed by the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal enhancing interest from 12% simple to 16% p.a. with quarterly rest – Recall application along with delay condonation application filed after restoration of management – DRAT rejecting delay condonation and recall applications vide order dated 01.12.2020 – Writ petition – Justification:

Held :

Rule which says that the Court may not inquire into belated and stale claims is not a rule of law, but a rule of practice based on sound and proper exercise of discretion, and there is no inviolable rule that whenever there is delay, the Court must necessarily refuse to entertain the petition – Each case must depend on its own facts – Substantial justice is paramount.

There was a cloud with respect to the management and affairs of the petitioner-corporation – There happened to be a situation whereby the petitioner-corporation remained sick and only three regular employees were available to manage the affairs of the petitioner-corporation and U.P. State Spinning Company Ltd. – Consequent to the restoration of the management of U.P. State Spinning Company Limited, the management of the petitioner-company was also restored, and thereafter, on 04.09.2000, a recall application along with a delay condonation application came to be preferred for recalling the order dated 21.08.2019 passed by the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal - Looking into the overall fact situation which the petitioner-corporation was facing, they can be termed to be negligent to a certain extent, but the same cannot be endorsed as fatal – Grounds taken in the delay condonation application as well as the application seeking recall of the order dated 21.08.2019, though not happily worded but in the facts of the present case, opportunity to be accorded to the petitioner-corporation to put forward its stand before the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, on payment of costs – Order dated 01.12.2020 passed by DRAT set aside – Delay in filing restoration application condoned – Matter remitted to DRAT, Allahabad to decide recall application on merits within three months – Order not to be construed as expression on merits of recall application – Respondent No.3/IARC entitled to costs of Rs.25,000 . Writ petition disposed of. (E-5)

ORDER ON PETITION

FACTS

1. Heard Sri Rakesh Pandey, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Abhinav Krishna Srivastava for the writ petitioners, Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned Addl. Advocate General assisted by Sri Anshul Nigam for Respondent no.9/State and Sri Anurag Khanna, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Sandeep Arora for Respondent no.3.

2. A joint statement has been made by learned counsels for the rival parties that since affidavits have been exchanged between the parties and they do not propose to file any additional affidavit, the writ petitions be decided on the basis of the documents available on record.

3. With the consent of the parties, the writ petition is being decided at the admission stage.

4. The case of the writ petitioner, Uttar Pradesh State Textile Corporation through its Managing Director, having its registered office at 1, Smith Square, 14/72, Civil Lines, Kanpur-208001, is that it is a Government company incorporated under the Companies Act, 1956, and its entire share capital is owned by the Government of Uttar Pradesh. Earlier, the writ petitioner had five textile units in Meerut, Jhansi, Sandila, Kashipur, and Jaspur. For the purposes of running the above-mentioned five mills, the petitioner company obtained credit facilities to the tune of Rs.16,50,00,000 from the respondent Consortium Bank. A chart showing the credit facility availed by the petitioner company is being quoted herein under:-

S.No.	Name of the Bank	Unit	Limits (Fund Base)		Total
			C/C	B/P
1.	Bank of Baroda	Sandila	205	170	375
2.	Bank of Baroda	Jaspur	105	70	175
3.	Syndicate Bank	Meerut	215	160	375

S.No.	Name of the Bank	Unit	Limits (Fund Base)		Total
4.	Indian Overseas Bank	Jhansi	205	145	350
5.	Allahabad Bank	Kashipur	205	170	375
	Total		935	715	1650

(Figures in Lakhs)"

5. As per the writ petitioner, on 18.09.1993, the credit facilities stood renewed and, lastly, it was raised to Rs. 2,17,00,00,00. It is claimed that the leader of the Consortium Bank was Bank of Baroda and the second leader was Syndicate Bank.

6. As the ill luck it may be, in the year 1994-95, the units of the petitioner-company went into losses and the production came to a standstill. Due to incurring huge losses, the petitioner-company became sick, attracting the provisions of the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985, and vide order dated 02.02.1995 passed by the Board of Industrial and Financial Reconstruction, (in short BIFR), the petitioner was declared a sick company.

7. On account of the fact that the petitioner company became sick, the staff of the petitioner-company were offered the benefits of VRS lay off and the management of the petitioner-company was handed over to U.P. State Spinning Company Limited. However, U.P. State Spinning Company Limited also became a sick company and there were only three regular employees retained in the company for looking after the works of it and of the petitioner-company. Since the petitioner-company could not maintain financial discipline, so the respondent-bank approached the Debt Recovery Tribunal, Allahabad, while invoking the provisions of the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993, by filing O.A. No. 123 of 2000 and 161 of 2000. In the meantime, on account of bifurcation of the State of Uttar Pradesh, while carving out a new State of Uttarakhand in the year 2000, out of the five units, two units of the petitioner-company, i.e. Kashipur and Jaspur, were transferred to the State of Uttarakhand along with the entire assets and liabilities. On 21.10.2010, the State of Uttar Pradesh passed an order approving the rehabilitation scheme submitted before the then BIFR, by which liabilities of the petitioner-company were supposed to be settled by selling the assets of the petitioner-company. The above rehabilitation scheme remained pending before the BIFR for approval. In the meanwhile, the Union of India promulgated the Sick Industries Companies (Special Provisions) Repeal Act, 2003, due to which BIFR ceased to exist. However, by virtue of the notification dated 01.11.2016, the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016 came into effect, whereby the parties to the pending proceedings before the BIFR were allowed to approach the National Company Law Tribunal for disposal of such matters within 180 days from the date of notification. Thereafter, on 19.06.2018, an exparte order came to be passed by the Debt Recovery Tribunal, Allahabad, in Original Application No. 161 of 2000, Bank of India and 3 others versus UP State Textile Corporation Limited and others, which reads as under (relevant extract):- "10. The Original Application is allowed and ordered as under:-

i) That the bank is entitled to recover an amount of Rs. 21,09,15,523.60 (Rs. Twenty One Crore, Nine lacs, Fifteen Thousand, Five Hundred Twenty Three and Paisa Sixty only) out of which the dues of the applicant No.1 Bank of Baroda is Rs. 1,13,71,027.15, the dues of Applicant No.1A- IARC is Rs. 6,54,36,093.33, the dues of applicant no.2 Syndicate Bank is Rs.

6,81,56,112.29 and dues of applicant no.4 Indian Overseas Bank (now assigned to ARCIL) is Rs. 6,59,52,290.83. The applicants are entitled to pendentelite and future interest 12% simple from the date of filing of Original Application i.e. 15.9.2000 till full recovery is made from the defendant No.1 company and defendant no.2 together with costs of the Original Application. ii) The Applicants will be entitled to sell the hypothecated goods as well as other personal movable assets and Immovable properties of the defendant company. iii) The defendants are hereby restrained by means of injunction from depleting, transferring, encumbering, alienating or in any way dealing with its properties/assets without first paying the claim of the applicant bank. iv) A Recovery Certificate be issued u/s 19(22) of Recovery of Recovery of Debts & Bankruptcy Act, 1993. Judgment pronounced in the open court on this 19th Day of June, 2018."

8. It is also the case of the writ petitioner that, in the meantime, insolvency proceedings were initiated against U.P. State Spinning Company Limited, which came to be allowed vide order dated 22.10.2019, and thereafter the management of U.P. State Spinning Company Limited was suspended and handed over to the Resolution Professional.

9. Aggrieved by the order dated 19.06.2018 passed in O.A. No. 161 of 2000 by the Debt Recovery Tribunal, Allahabad, Bank of Baroda and others versus M/s UP State Textile Corporation Limited, whereby only 12% interest was awarded to the third respondent instead of 16% interest per annum with quarterly rests from the date of filing of the original application till realization, the International Asset Reconstruction Company Pvt. Ltd., (in short IARC), preferred an appeal before the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad, being Appeal Sr No. 135 of 2018, International Asset Reconstruction Company Pvt. Ltd. versus UP State Textile Corporation Limited and others. The appeal came to be allowed ex-parte on 21.08.2019, operative portion whereof is as under:- "10. The effective rate of interest was 16% at the time of fiting the original application as shown in clause (s) of the O.A. The respondents have not refuted these documents in any manner. The general rule is that the rate of interest during the pendency of the suit and for future period should be at the contractual rate particularly in commercial transactions unless there are circumstances which may disentitle the creditor to get the same. No such circumstances were shown by the borrowers in this case. So, the appellant is entitled to charge the interest on the contractual rate. This view is fortified by the principle laid down in the judgments of Canara Bank Vs. Marshall Cycle (Supra). 11. In view of the aforesaid, the appeal is partly allowed and the impugned order dated 19.06,2018 passed by the Tribunal below is modified to the extent that the appellant-company is entitled to charge the interest @ 16% ??? annum with quarterly rest from the date of filing of the original application till realization. Rest part of the impugned order is confirmed. No order as to costs."

10. According to the writ petitioner, a settlement stood undertaken between U.P. State Spinning Company Limited and Union Bank of India by virtue of an application under Section 12A of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, whereby the insolvency order dated 22.10.2019 was recalled by virtue of the order dated 25.06.2020 and the management of U.P. State Spinning Company Limited was restored.

11. Consequent to the restoration of the management of U.P. State Spinning Company Limited, the management of the petitioner-company was also restored, and thereafter, on 04.09.2000, a recall application along with a delay condonation application came to be preferred for recalling the order dated 21.08.2019 passed by the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad, Appeal Sr No. 135 of 2018, International Asset Reconstruction Company Pvt. Ltd. vs. M/s UP State Textile Corporation Limited. The delay condonation application along with the recall application came to be contested by IARC, the third respondent, by filing a common reply i.e. to the delay condonation application as well as the recall application. The said recall application along with the delay condonation application was registered as M.A. No. 69 of 2020 in Regular Appeal No. 135 of 2018, International Asset Reconstruction Company Ltd. vs. M/s UP State Textile Corporation Limited, and the same came to be rejected on 01.12.2020.

12. Questioning the order dated 01.12.2020 passed by Debt Recovery Tribunal, Allahabad in M.A. No. 69 of 2020 in Regular Appeal No. 135 of 2018 International Asset Reconstruction Pvt. Ltd. vs UP State Spinning Corporation, as well as the relief for direction allowing the application of the writ petitioner, i.e. MA No. 69 of 2020 filed in Regular Appeal No. 135 of 2018 and to recall the order dated 21.08.2019 passed by the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad in Regular Appeal No. 134 of 2018, as well as for questioning the order dated 19.01.2021 passed by the Recovery Officer, Debt Recovery Tribunal Allahabad in DRC No. 442 of 2018, Bank of Baroda/ International Assets Reconstruction Company Limited vs. UP State Spinning Corporation, the present petition has been preferred.

13. This Court entertained the writ petition on 19.03.2021 while passing the following orders:- "Notice on behalf of respondent nos. 1, 2 and 8 has been accepted by Sri Vikram Bhalla, Advocate. Sri Sandeep Arora, Advocate has accepted the notice on behalf of respondent no.4. Sri K.M. Asthana, Advocate has accepted the notice on behalf of respondent no.5. Sri Ashish Kumar Srivastava, Advocate has accepted the notice on behalf of respondent no.6. Sri Maneesh Mehrotra, Advocate has accepted the notice on behalf of respondent no.7.

All the respondents are directed to file their counter affidavits within three weeks. Rejoinder affidavit, if any, may be filed within two weeks thereafter.

List immediately thereafter."

14. Counter and Rejoinder affidavits have been exchanged between the parties. Thereafter, on 31.05.2022, the following orders were passed:- "Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Amit Manohar, Additional Chief Chief Standing Counsel.

An impleament application has been filed on behalf of State of U.P. stating therein that the State of UP is major stake holder in recovery proceedings against the petitioner and State of UP was a party before the Debt Recovery Tribunal but the petitioner has not impleaded State who is a necessary and proper party in the case.

Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that he has no objection if the impleadment application is allowed and the State of UP is impleaded as a party.

In view of aforesaid fact, the Impleadment Application No.3 of 2022 is allowed.

Learned counsel for the petitioner is directed to implead 'State of Uttar Pradesh through Additional Chief Secretary, Industrial Development Department, U.P., Lucknow' as respondent no.9 in the array of party.

It is stated by learned counsel for the petitioner that due to inadvertence, the State of UP was not impleaded as a party but the fact remains that it is not in dispute that the State of UP was a necessary and proper party in the case.

In such view of fact, the Sate of UP should have been impleaded by the petitioner inasmuch as for want of impleadment of State of UP, the writ petition was liable to be dismissed. Accordingly, this Court finds that the stay application may be heard after instructions/counter affidavit may be obtained from the State of UP.

Sri Amit Manohar, Additional Chief Chief Standing Counsel is granted four weeks time to seek instructions in the matter.

List this case on 04.07.2022."

15. On 09.01.2023, the following orders were passed:- "1. Heard Sri Kartikey Saran, learned counsel for petitioner and Sri Anurag Khanna, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Sandeep Arora, learned counsel for Respondent-3.

2. Learned counsel for petitioner seeks and is granted a week?s time to take specific instruction with regard to repayment of loan atleast at the rate of 12% and parties will also come up with calculation regarding payment of loan as on date at the rate of 12%, 16% and 16% per annum quarterly.

3. Learned Standing Counsel may also take instruction, whether there are any progress for settlement of dispute or not."

16. Questioning the said order, the writ petitioner herein preferred Special Leave (Civil) Petition No. (S) 9842 of 2025, Uttar Pradesh State Textile Corporation Ltd. vs. Debt Recovery Tribunal, Allahabad in which on 03.03.2025, the following orders were passed:- "UPON hearing the counsel the Court made the following

ORDER

We dispose of this Special Leave Petition by reserving liberty to the petitioner herein to seek expeditious disposal of the writ petition before the High Court.

If such a request is made by the petitioner to the High Court, the same shall be considered in accordance with law and endeavour shall be made to dispose of the writ petition as expeditiously as possible.

Having regard to the nature of the order passed above, all pending application(s) including the application seeking condonation of delay stand disposed."

17. On 08.07.2025, this Court proceeded to pass the following orders:- "1. Shri Anurag Khanna, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Sandeep Arora, learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 3 submitted that by order dated 09.01.2023, the petitioner was granted a week's time to take specific instruction with regard to repayment of loan at least at the rate of 12% and parties will also come up with calculation regarding payment of loan as on date at the rate of 12%, 16% and 16% per annum quarterly. It has been submitted by learned Senior Advocate that nothing has been done.

2. Learned counsel for the respective parties may provide the amount due as on today as directed by Debt Recovery Tribunal in the original decree within two weeks.

3. List this matter immediately after two weeks."

18. On 15.04.2026, this Court passed the following orders:- "Contention of the learned counsel for the writ petitioner is that initially financial assistance was accorded to the petitioner herein to the tune of Rs. 16,50,00,000/- by the concerned banks thereafter on 18.09.1993, the above-noted credit facilities were renewed and lastly was raised to Rs. 21,70,00,000/-. Since there happened to be certain events which were beyond the control and comprehension of the petitioner resulting to a position whereby the petitioner could not stick to the timelines for making the payments so the respondents-bank preferred an Original Application No. 161 of 2000, Bank of Baroda and others v. U.P. State Textile Corporation Ltd. and by virtue of the order dated 19.06.2018, the original application came to be allowed wherein the following directions were issued:

"10. The Original Application is allowed and ordered as under:-

i) That the bank is entitled to recover an amount of Rs. 21,09,15,523.60 (Rs. Twenty One Crore, Nine lacs, Fifteen Thousand, Five Hundred Twenty Three and Paisa Sixty only) out of which the dues of the applicant No.1 Bank of Baroda is Rs. 1,13,71,027.15, the dues of Applicant No.1A- IARC is Rs. 6,54,36,093.33, the dues of applicant no.2 Syndicate Bank is Rs. 6,81,56,112.29 and dues of applicant no.4 Indian Overseas Bank (now assigned to ARCIL) is Rs. 6,59,52,290.83. iv) A Recovery Certificate be issued u/s 19(22) of Recovery of Recovery of Debts & Bankruptcy Act, 1993."

Submission is that the said order was an exparte one thereafter the respondent no. 3, herein, International Asset Reconstruction Company Pvt. Ltd. preferred an Appeal Sr No. 135 of 2018 before the Debts Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad seeking to question the rate of interest 18.75% per annum and future period which reduced from 16% to 12% per annum and by virtue of an exparte order dated 21.08.2019, the DRAT proceeded to allow the appeal so preferred by the respondent no. 3, exparte while modifying the order of the Tribunal to the extent that the respondent no. 3 being the appellant before the Appellate Tribunal was entitled to charge the interest @ of 16% per annum quarterly raised from the date of filing of the original application till realization. As per the petitioner herein, the said order was an exparte order so a recall application came to be preferred along with the delay condonation application for condonation of the delay in filing the recall application for getting the exparte order dated 21.08.2019 recalled. The said recall application dated 04.09.2020 has been rejected on 01.12.2020. Argument is that they were various factors attributable in filing the recall application beyond the attributable period. One of the same was the fact that the parties were themselves in the process of settlement, which constrained the writ petitioner to approach the appellate tribunal while filing recall application by delay and not within the time stipulated and secondly, on account of the pandemic related to Covid circumstances which were beyond the control and the comprehension of the petitioner in that regard. During the course of argument, a question arose as to what is the exact reply to the delay condontion application so submitted by the respondents. The Court finds that the same is not available on record.

Learned counsel for the petitioner seeks 10 days' time to file the same.

Put up this case on 05.05.2026 under the same caption."

ARGUMENTS OF THE LEARNED COUNSEL FOR THE PETITIONER AND THE LEARNED ADDL. ADVOCATE GENERAL FOR THE STATE

19. Sri Rakesh Pandey, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Abhinav Krishna, for the petitioner-corporation and Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned Additional Advocate General, assisted by Sri Anshul Nigam, learned Standing Counsel who are on the same lines and for common interest, have submitted that the order dated 01.12.2020 passed by the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal Allahabad rejecting the delay condonation application as well as the recall application seeking recall of the order dated 21.08.2019 in Appeal Sr No. 135 of 2018 cannot be sustained even for the a single moment.

20. Elaborating the said submission, it is contended that there were exceptional circumstances which necessitated special treatment to be meted to the writ petitioner, particularly when the writ petitioner-corporation had become a sick unit since the Financial Year 1994-95 and by virtue of the order dated 02.02.1995 passed by the BIFR, the petitioner-corporation was declared sick and once the entire staff of the petitioner-corporation were given VRS, lay off and the management of the petitioner-corporation was handed over to U.P. State Spinning Company Limited, and further, the U.P. State Spinning Company Limited also became a sick company and, there were only three regular employees who remained in the company for looking after the work and affairs of U.P. State Spinning Company Limited as well as the writ petitioner-corporation, namely U.P. State Textile Corporation and also by virtue of the notification dated 01.11.2016, in view of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, which came into effect, and the pending proceedings before the BIFR stood transferred by operation of law before the National Company Law Tribunal and an order came to be passed on 22.10.2019 whereby, in the insolvency proceedings, the management of U.P. State Spinning Company Limited was suspended and handed over to the Resolution Professional and thereafter, in view of the settlement so entered between Uttar Pradesh State Spinning Corporation and Union Bank of India under Section 12A of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, the order dated 22.10.2019 was recalled vide order dated 25.06.2020 and the management of U.P. State Spinning Company Limited was restored and thereupon post passing of the orders by the Debt Recovery Tribunal on 19.06.2018 and the order passed by the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad, in Appeal Sr No. 135 of 2018 on 21.08.2019, the recall application along with delay condonation application seeking to recall the order dated 21.08.2019 of the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal came to be preferred.

21. Contention is that the circumstances were not only abnormal but beyond the control and comprehension, which resulted in a situation where the petitioner corporation could not either participate in the proceedings before the Debt Recovery Tribunal or before the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal and then things stood normalized, the recall application came to be preferred, which has illegally been rejected in a cursory manner without considering the said aspect of the matter.

22. The submission is to the effect that though the grounds taken in the delay condonation application for condonation of delay in filing the recall application, as well as the grounds taken in the recall application itself, are not happily worded, yet the facts and circumstances indicated therein do make out a perfect case wherein the recall application ought to have been allowed while condoning the delay in that regard.

23. Sri Rakesh Pandey, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Abhinav Krishna for the petitioner-corporation, and Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned Additional Advocate General, assisted by Sri Anshul Nigam, submit that the petitioner-corporation has entered into a settlement with the banks, but insofar as IARC, the third respondent, is concerned, the only dispute is with regard to the interest component, which stands saddled upon the writ petitioners by the order of the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad, in Appeal Sr No. 135 of 2018, International Asset Reconstruction Company Limited versus State of UP.

24. According to them, as per the instructions received from their clients, they have no objection in complying with the order of the Debt Recovery Tribunal dated 19.06.2018 passed in O.A. No. 161 of 2000. Attention has been drawn towards the fifth supplementary affidavit sworn by one Vinod Kumar Mishra, claiming himself to be authorized representative of the petitioner, dated 23.07.2025, so as to contend that the total principal liability is Rs. 6,54,36,093/- and the interest component is Rs.19,40,27,872/- for the period from 23.10.2000 to 08.07.2025, totaling to Rs. 25,94,63,965/-, which is in line with the order of the DRT dated 19.06.2018 passed in O.A. No.

161 of 2000. However, now, as per the claim set up by the third respondent, IARC, they are claiming benefits in line with the order of the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal dated 21.08.2019, wherein the interest is 16% per annum with quarterly rest from the date of filing of the Original Application till realization, which would amount to Rs.32,54,02,039.13. Submission is to the extent that the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal has accorded interest at the rate of 16% while enhancing it from 12% that too on quarterly rest basis and without assigning any basis or reasoning. In case the interest at the rate of 12%, as awarded by the Debt Recovery Tribunal was not as per the expectation, then on an appeal before the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, the matter could have been remitted back to the Debt Recovery Tribunal and it was not proper for the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal to assume the function itself. Reliance has been placed upon the judgment of the Hon?ble Apex Court in Central Bank of India vs. Ravindra and others (2002) 1 SCC 367, ?.?. Sasankan Vs. Dhanalakshmi Bank Limited, (2009) 11 SCC 60, Punjab and Sind Bank Vs. Allied Beverage Company Private Limited and others with Allied Beverage Company Private Limited and others Vs. Punjab and Sind Bank and others, (2010) 10 SCC 640, S.P. Polymers Vs. The Registrar, Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, AIR2015Mad102 so as to contend that the interest cannot be awarded on mere asking and the same is to be adjudged in a correct perspective in that regard. It is thus prayed that the impugned orders rejecting the delay condonation application and the recall application be set aside and the writ petition be allowed in toto.

ARGUMENTS OF THE COUNSEL FOR IARC, THIRD RESPONDENT

25. Countering the said submissions so made by the learned counsels for the writ petitioner and State, Sri Anurag Khanna, assisted by Sri Sandeep Arora, has submitted that none of the contentions so raised by the writ petitioner have any legs to stand. Submission is that right from the very inception, a careless and reckless attitude has been adopted by the petitioner, as though they had full knowledge about the factum of the institution of the proceedings in O.A. No. 161 of 2000 before the Debt Recovery Tribunal, Allahabad, and the passing of the order dated 19.06.2018 as well as the factum of institution of the appeal so preferred by the IARC, third respondent before the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad and passing of the order dated 21.08.2019, but they allowed the proceedings to go on ex-parte. However, now when the time came to reap the fruits, a delay condonation application along with the recall application came to be referred for recalling the order of the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal that too without any cogent reasons, just for the sake of filing, despite the fact that the notice was served upon the petitioner on 26.9.2018, and there is a delay of 718 days from the date of service of the summons and 350 days from the date of the order of the Tribunal. Contention is that from the perusal of the delay condonation application as well as the recall application, it is clear that the same does not explain the delay on date-to-date basis, and further the entire story so cooked up by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner and learned Additional Advocate General for the State is nothing but an eyewash. Reliance has been placed upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Pathapati Subba Reddy (Died) by L.Rs. and Ors. Vs. The Special Deputy Collector (LA), (2024) 12 SCC 336 so as to contend that there should be sufficient cause for adopting a liberal approach for condonation of delay, but the same cannot be as a matter of right and also the judgment in H. Guruswamy and Ors. Vs. A. Krishnaiah Since Deceased By L.Rs. 2025 2 AWC 1594 SC, so as to contend that the length of delay is a relevant factor and the Court must take into consideration while considering whether delay should be condoned or not. Reliance has been placed upon the judgment in Divyangnakumari Harisinh Parmar (Dead) and Ors. Vs. Union of India (UOI) and Ors, MANU/ SC/1321/2015 so as to contend that whatever has been pleaded in the delay condonation application/recall application that is only to be considered and not anything foreign to it.

26. I have heard the submissions made across the bar and perused the records carefully.

27. The bone of contention between the parties is whether the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal was justified in rejecting the delay condonation application/ recall application seeking recall of the order dated 21.8.2019 passed by Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad in Appeal Sr No. 135 of 2018, National Asset Reconstruction Company Private Limited Vs. M/s. UP State Textile Corporation Limited or not.

28. In order to address the said issue, what would be relevant would be the sequence and the chronology of the events, which occurred from time to time. Apparently, financial assistance was extended to the petitioner corporation by the consortium banks. The pleadings reveal that the petitioner-corporation went into losses since the Financial Year 1994-95 and it became Sick by virtue of the provisions contained under Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985, vide order dated 02.02.1995 passed by BIFR. It is claimed that the scheme of VRS and Lay Off was floated and the management of petitioner-corporation was handed over to the U.P. State Spinning Company Limited, and in order to manage the affairs of the petitioner-corporation and U.P. Spinning Company Limited, which also became a sick company, only three regular employees were entrusted with the said work, and they remained in the company. By that time in the year 2000, on account of non-maintenance of financial discipline of the petitioner-corporation, O.A. No. 161 of 2000 came to be instituted by the respondent-bank before the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal. Consequent to the U.P. State Reorganization Act 2000, out of five units of petitioner-corporation, two stood transferred along with the assets along with the Uttarakhand and by virtue of the order dated 21.10.2010, the State Government approved the rehabilitation scheme, submitted before the then BIFR by which liabilities of the petitioner were supposed to be paid by selling the assets of the petitioner. Then comes the notification dated 01.11.2016 brought under section 252 of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code 2006 by which the parties to the pending proceedings before BIFR were allowed to approach the National Company Law Tribunal vide order dated 01.12.2016 and thereafter, post-repealing of the Sick Industrial Companies Act 1985, the proceedings stood triggered before the Debt Recovery Tribunal and an order came to be passed on 19.06.2018 in O.A. No. 161 of 2024 that too exparte allowing the Original Application of the respondent while making them admissible for an amount of Rs. 21,09,15,523.60 plus 12% interest. Thereafter, on 22.10.2019, the insolvency proceeding against the U.P. State Spinning Company Limited was allowed and thereafter, the management of U.P. Spinning Company Limited was suspended and handed over to the Resolution Personnel. In the meantime, on an appeal preferred by the International Asset Reconstruction Company (IARC), third respondent, against non-award of 16% interest, that too quarterly rest from the date of filing of Original Application till realization, the Appeal Sr No. 135 of 2018 came to be allowed on 21.08.2019 and thereafter, post-settlement so entered into between U.P. State Spinning Corporation and Union Bank of India by virtue of an application under Section 12A of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, the order dated 22.10.2019 was recalled vide order dated 25.06.2020 and the management of the U.P. State Spinning Company Limited, petitioner-company was restored. Thereafter, a recall application along with delay condonation application came to be preferred on 04.09.2020 for recalling of the order dated 21.08.2019 passed by Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad. The aforesaid chronology and sequence of events show that there were several developments which occurred since the institution of the proceedings before the Debt Recovery Tribunal and passing of the orders by the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal. Therefore, said circumstances do indicate that there was a roller-coaster in the interregnum period.

29. To be more precise, the management of the petitioner-corporation stood disbanded. It became a part of U.P. State Spinning Company Limited and the petitioner-corporation and the U.P. State Spinning Company were declared sick and post-restoration of the management, the legal proceedings by way of recall / restoration application came to be filed.

30. Now the next question, which would arise for consideration is as to what are the pleadings set forth in the delay condonation application / recall application so preferred by the petitioner - corporation for condonation of delay and recall of the order dated 21.08.2019. For the ready reference, the same is quoted as under:-

PLEADINGS OF RECALL APPLICATION

"1. That the Hon'ble Chairperson DRAT had passed can ex-parte order dated 21/08/2019 in above appeal Sr. No. 135 of 2018 arising out from OA No. 161 of 2000.

2. That the OA No. 161 of 2000 had also decided as ex-parte and Applicant could not be able to present themselves neither in the Court below nor in the Court of Hon'ble Chairperson DRAT.

PLEADINGS OF DELAY CONDONATION APPLICATION

"1) That the Applicant Company had received the order this Hon'ble this Court on 30/08/2019.

2) That it is pertinent to mention here that the above Applicant Company had ceases to operation from the year 2000 and entire staff of the company had been allowed to V.R.S. 3) That the Applicant could not get the permission from the concerned Govt. authority for filing in recall application. Therefore delay had been occurred. The delay is not a deliberate one but it is a genuine and routine in nature. The delay in filing the recall application is 167 days upto 15th March and 5 months of Pandemic Covid-19 may be condoned and the matter may be heard on merit basis. Otherwise the Applicant/ Respondent No. 1 shall suffer the great loss and injury which can not be sustained in terms of money.

(4) That in this regard it is pertinent to mention here that there was a pendency of compromise before the Consortium leader i.e. Bank of Baroda who had neither accepted nor rejected the offer.

Prayer

In view of the above it is prayed from this Hon'ble Court that the suitable order may be passed for condonation of delay in filing the Misc. Application for recall of the order dated 21/08/2019 passed in Appeal Sr. No. 135 of 2018 filed by International Asset Reconstruction Company Pvt. Ltd. (IARC) versus M/s U.P. State Textile Corporation Ltd. and others, The delay may be condoned and the matter may be heard on merit basis."

31. A reply came to be submitted by the IARC, third respondent, to the delay condonation application / recall application which reads as under:

"REPLY/OBJECTIONS TO THE APPLICATION SEEKING RECALL

M.A.60 OF 2020

IN

APPEAL 1350F 2018

I.A.R.C. VS. M/S U.P.STATE TEXTILE CORPORATION LIMITED

The respondent, most respectfully submits as under :-

1. That applicant has made a false statement pertaining to period of delay in its application seeking condonation of delay, applicant was served with the order on 26.08.2019 the recall application, if any, could have been filed within 30 days therefrom, whereas the application seeking recall has been filed on 14.09.2020 l.e 353 days without narrating any sufficient cause of condonation of such an inordinate delay of more than 353 days.

2. That provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 apply to the proceedings before this Hon'ble Tribunal by virtue of Section 245 of the Act, 1993 and as such in terms of Section 3 of the Limitation Act, 1963 no court has jurisdiction to entertain any application filed beyond the prescribed period of limitation subject to extension of the prescribed period on satisfying the rigors of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963.

3. No cause whatsoever has been pleaded to seek condonation of duration of inordinate delay. The pleadings are vague. It is a matter of record that the applicant was negligent and has not taken necessary steps and has acted without due care and attention as such there is no sufficient cause for condonation of delay and application seeking condonation of delay is liable to be dismissed.

4. That in reply to the contents of para 1 of the recall application it is most respectfully submitted that the applicant herein was duly served with the Memo of Appeal on 26.09.2018, and despite admitted service respondent no.ldid not file any Reply / Written Statement and it had voluntarily chosen not to contest the appeal. Copy of Affidavit filed by Mr.V.K.Mishra, together with copy of notice evidencing service of notice/summons on applicant is ANNEXURE 1

5. That the contents of para 2 pertaining to alleged disability to not contest the Original Application and Memo of Appeal are utterly false and distorted, whereas, applicant was duly represented before the Ld. Presiding Officer, D.R.T., Allahabad since 04.12.2000 through his Counsel and representatives, however, 19.04.2017 applicant/defendant(s) voluntarily abandoned the proceedings pending before Ld. Presiding Officer, D.R.T., Allahabad as such final hearing was concluded exparte after an year on 29.05.2018, as regards the proceedings before this Hon'ble Appellate Tribunal it is most respectfully submitted that the applicant herein was duly served with the Memo of Appeal on 26.09.2018, and despite admitted service respondent no.1did not file any Reply / Written Statement and it had again voluntarily chosen not to contest the appeal despite knowledge and service.

6. That the contents of para 3 are vexatious & misleading applicant herein has always willingly avoided proceedings before the Ld. Presiding Officer, D.R.T... Allahabad and also before this Hon'ble Appellate Tribunal, and has now come up with a lame excuse with an alleged delay of only 7 days, whereas it is a matter of record that applicant herein was duly served with the Memo of Appeal on 26.09.2018 and thereafter as per applicants own admissions, applicant was also served with order dated 21.08.2019, it is further most respectfully submitted that applicant on 26.08.2019 was served with the order dated 21.08.2019 passed by this Hon'ble Tribunal in the proceedings before the Ld. Recovery Officer, applicant was directed by Ld. Recovery Officer to give details of mode and time frame from payment. Copy of Order dated 26.08.2019 is ANNEXURE 2.

7. That the contents of para 4 are misplaced & misleading. Applicant has also made a false statement pertaining to period of delay, applicant was served with the order on 26.08.2019 the recall application, if any, could have been filed within 30 days therefrom, whereas the application seeking recall has been filed on 14.09.2020 i.e. 353 days without narrating any sufficient cause of condonation of such an inordinate delay of more than 353 days. Provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 apply to the proceedings before this Hon'ble Tribunal by virtue of Section, 245 of the Act, 1993 and as such in terms of Section 3 of the Limitation Act, 1963 no court has jurisdiction to entertain any application filed beyond the prescribed period of limitation subject to extension of the prescribed period on satisfying the rigors of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963.

8. That the contents of para 5 & 6 are denied.

9. That the applicant is not only casual but also taking all provisions for granted including the limitation. The casual attitude in the whole of the application would render the application not only incompetent but deserves to be dismissed with exemplary costs. No indulgence can be granted to a fence sitter. The minimum particulars claimed to be cause of delay have not been stated at all. Application seems to be one of the most casual applications wherein the discretionary power of the Hon'ble DRAT be not exercised. An affidavit in support of the reply is being filed herewith."

32. Evidently the grounds taken in the delay condonation application as well as the application seeking recall of the order dated 21.8.2019 are not happily worded, but looking into the over all aspects of the matter including the orders passed at different stages by appropriate judicial forums, it can be very well said that there was a cloud with respect to the management and affairs and the situation which was emanating was not akin to a situation wherein there was already a management, who was in the helm of the affairs in active control, then too in deep slumber regarding asserting their legal rights. Though in the order dated 01.12.2020 passed by the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal rejecting the delay condonation application and the recall application, finding has been recorded that the notice was served upon the petitioner-Corporation on 26.09.2018, then too, no legal action was taken by the petitioner, but what would be relevant is the fact that on 26.09.2018, the petitioner-company was sick. More so, in the application seeking condonation of delay in filing recall application 30.08.2019 is the date mentioned for receiving the copy of the order, but since there happened to be a situation whereby the petitioner-Corporation remained sick, and only there were only three regular employees to manage, the U.P. State Spinning Company, thus the position even otherwise cannot be said to be congenial in that regard. This Court is mindful of the fact that due diligence and promptness is required from the personnel who are in the helm of affairs to assert their right, but looking into the overall fact situation which the petitioner-company was facing, they can be termed to be negligent to certain extent, but the same cannot be endorsed as fatal. There is no quarrel to the proposition of law laid down in Pathapati Subba Reddy (supra), H. Guruswamy (supra), and Divyangnakumari Harisinh Parmar (supra), but here, there lies a slight distinction regarding the developments which occurred from time to time, creating circumstances in favour of the petitioner -corporation to be given a chance to at least put forward their stand by being afforded the opportunity before the appellate forum.

33. Notably, an additional factor is also there regarding the financial liability, which would be fastened upon the State with respect to the import and the impact of the order of the Debt Recovery

Tribunal and Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal, whereby the interest stood awarded by the Appellate Tribunal while enhancing from 12% simple to 16% quarterly rest from the date of filing of O.A. till realization. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Inder Singh vs. The State of Madhya Pradesh, 2025 LiveLaw (SC) 339, had the occasion to consider the issue relatable to delay in initiating the proceedings before the competent Court of law and following was observed:-

"16. The Court in Ramchandra Shankar Deodhar v State of Maharashtra, (1974) 1 SCC 317 held: ?10. ?There was a delay of more than ten or twelve years in filing the petition since the accrual of the cause of complaint, and this delay, contended the respondents, was sufficient to disentitle the petitioners to any relief in a petition under Article 32 of the Constitution. We do not think this contention should prevail with us. In the first place, it must be remembered that the rule which says that the Court may not inquire into CIVIL APPEAL NO. OF 2025 belated and stale claims is not a rule of law, but a rule of practice based on sound and proper exercise of discretion, and there is no inviolable rule that whenever there is delay, the Court must necessarily refuse to entertain the petition. Each case must depend on its own facts. The question, as pointed out by Hidayatullah, C.J., in Tilokchand Motichand v. H.B. Munshi [(1969) 1 SCC 110, 116 :(1969) 2 SCR 824] ?is one of discretion for this Court to follow from case to case. There is no lower limit and there is no upper limit .... It will all depend on what the breach of the fundamental right and the remedy claimed are and how the delay arose?.? (emphasis supplied)

17. No doubt, Ramchandra Shankar Deodhar (supra) relates to a writ petition, but the statement of law laid down is clear. Sheo Raj Singh (supra) has also considered the impersonal nature of the functioning of the State, taking note of what was observed in State of Manipur v Kotin Lamkang, (2019) 10 SCC 408. In A B Govardhan v P Ragothaman, (2024) 10 SCC 613, the Court considered as under: ?37. In Collector (LA) v. Katiji [Collector (LA) v. Katiji, (1987) 2 SCC 107], the Court noted that it had been adopting a justifiably liberal approach in condoning delay and that justice on merits? is to be preferred as against what ?scuttles CIVIL APPEAL NO. OF 2025 a decision on merits?. Albeit, while reversing an order of the High Court therein condoning delay, principles to guide the consideration of an application for condonation of delay were culled out in Esha Bhattacharjee v. Raghunathpur Nafar Academy [Esha Bhattacharjee v. Raghunathpur Nafar Academy, (2013) 12 SCC 649: (2014) 1 SCC (Civ) 713: (2014) 4 SCC (Cri) 450: (2014) 2 SCC (L&S) 595]. One of the factors taken note of therein was that substantial justice is paramount [Para 21.3 of Esha Bhattacharjee [Esha Bhattacharjee v. Raghunathpur Nafar Academy, (2013) 12 SCC 649: (2014) 1 SCC (Civ) 713: (2014) 4 SCC (Cri) 450: (2014) 2 SCC (L&S) 595]].

38. In N.L. Abhyankar v. Union of India [N.L. Abhyankar v. Union of India, 1994 SCC OnLine Bom 574: (1995) 1 Mah LJ 503], a Division Bench of the Bombay High Court at Nagpur considered, though in the context of delay vis-a-vis Article 226 of the Constitution, the decision in Dehri Rohtas Light Railway Co. Ltd. v. District Board, Bhojpur [Dehri Rohtas Light Railway Co. Ltd. v. District Board, Bhojpur, (1992) 2 SCC 598] , and held that: (N.L. Abhyankar case [N.L. Abhyankar v. Union of India, 1994 SCC OnLine Bom 574: (1995) 1 Mah LJ 503], SCC OnLine Bom para 22)

‘22. - The real test for sound exercise of discretion by the High Court in this regard is not the physical running of time as such, but the test is whether by reason of delay there is such negligence on the part of the petitioner, so as to infer that he has given up his claim or whether before the petitioner has moved CIVIL APPEAL NO. OF 2025 the writ court, the rights of the third parties have come into being which should not be allowed to be disturbed unless there is reasonable explanation for the delay.

Ajeet Nigam ...Petitioner
Versus
Additional District Judge & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the non-functioning of judicial work on the civil side would constitute a ground for not presenting an election petition within the prescribed period of limitation; and whether, in the absence of any specific notification permitting acceptance of an election petition during summer or winter vacations, the period of limitation prescribed under the statute for presenting the election petition can be extended by the Court.

Headnotes

U.P. Municipal Corporation Act, 1959 – ss.62(1)–(4), 71 – U.P. General Clauses Act, 1904 – s.10 – General Rules (Civil), 1957 – rr.13, 32 – Election petition challenging election of Corporator – Election held on 11.05.2023 and result declared on 13.05.2023 – Election petition required to be presented before the District Judge exercising jurisdiction in the City within 30 days of declaration of result, i.e. by 12.06.2023 – Election petition presented on 01.07.2023, after a delay of 18 days – Election Tribunal, vide order dated 31.05.2024, decided Issue No.5 relating to limitation in favour of the election petitioner and against the returned candidate – Returned candidate challenging the said order before the High Court contending that summer vacations from 01.06.2023 to 30.06.2023 and suspension of civil judicial work could not extend the period of limitation and that the election petition could have been presented before the Munsarim or other officer authorised by the District Judge – Election petitioner contending that during summer vacations civil work was suspended and only criminal work was being conducted and, therefore, election petition could not be entertained before reopening of the Court – Whether non-functioning of judicial work on civil side during summer vacations would constitute a ground for not presenting the election petition within the prescribed period of limitation :

Held :

Provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 do not apply to election petitions – Courts, by a judicial fiat, cannot extend the period of limitation stipulated in the statute for presenting the election petition – Provisions of s.10 of the U.P. General Clauses Act, 1904 do apply – Where the Court or office is closed on the last day of the prescribed period, the act or proceeding, if done or taken on the next day afterwards on which the Court or office is open, would be considered as done or taken in due time – Rules 13 and 32 of the General Rules (Civil), 1957 operate on different fields – Rule 13 relates to work on holidays, whereas Rule 32 provides for the time for presenting applications and petitions before the Munsarim – Question of limitation for filing election petitions during vacations or holidays depends upon the notifications issued by the appropriate authorities – District Court calendar providing that only criminal work would be conducted and civil work would remain suspended except urgent matters, in absence of any rule, notification, circular or order permitting presentation and acceptance of election petitions during summer vacations, would not extend the period of limitation – In the present case, barring Rule 13 and Rule 32 of the General Rules (Civil), 1957, no rule, notification, circular or order was placed on record to show that even during the summer vacations/holidays, the election petition could be accepted – Held, no manifest illegality committed by the Court below in holding the election petition not to be time-barred . Writ petition dismissed. (E-5)

4. The case of the writ petitioner, as worded in the present petition, is that the State Election Commission had issued a notification bearing No. 206/Ra.Ni.Aa.Anu.4/Na.Ni./2023/Lucknow dated 09.04.2023 for the election of Corporators in Nagar Nigam throughout the State of U.P. The writ petitioner herein claims to have contested the election of Corporator, Ghaziabad Nagar Nigam, Ward No. 96, Nehru Nagar-III, on the symbol of camera. 7. Vide order dated 31.05.2024 passed in Election Petition No. 20 of 2023, besides other issues, Issue No. 5 relating to the fact as to whether the election petition was time-barred or not was considered, the issue came to be decided in favor of the election petitioner and against the returned candidate (writ petitioner).

8. Questioning the order dated 31.05.2024 passed by the Court of Additional District Judge Court No. 6, Ghaziabad, in Election Petition No. 20 of 2023, to the extent of deciding Issue No. 5 against the returned candidate (writ petitioner) in favour of respondent No. 2, the present petition has been preferred.

9. This Court entertained the writ petition on 04.09.2024 while passing the following order.-

"1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that election of Corporator was held on 11.05.2023 and the result was declared on 13.05.2023, in which petitioner was declared as elected candidate. He next submitted that against the aforesaid election respondent No. 2 has filed election petition No. 20 of 2023, who has also contested the aforesaid election. He next submitted that post of Mayor, Corporation is governed by the Uttar Pradesh Nagar Nigam Adhiniyam, 1959, Rule 62 of which provides objection upon the election of the Corporator and Rule 60(2) provides limitation of 30 days in which election petition shall be produced before the District Judge. He next submitted that admittedly election petition was filed with delay of 18 days and Issue No. 5 was also framed to this effect and ultimately, the same was decided in favour of respondent No. 2 on the ground that court was closed in the summer vacation and election petition was filed on the opening day after the summer vacation, therefore, he is entitled for the benefit of limitation. He next submitted that law is settled on the point that election petitions are accepted in the office of District Judge and further, this issue was dealt by this Court on many occasions and the Court has taken the firm view that in the election petition benefit of limitation would not be applicable. Therefore, impugned judgment and order dated 31.05.2024 is bad and liable to be set aside. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance upon the judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court in the matter of Reji Thomas and Others Vs. State of Kerala and Others: 2018 LawSuit(SC) 555, judgment of this Court in the matter of Shahnawaz Ali Vs. Election Tribunal District Judge Muzaffarnagar And 10 Others: 2024 LawSuit(All) 2010 & Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 56867 of 2012 (Smt. Sharda Devi Vs. State of U.P. through Secretary and Ors.), judgment of Bombay High Court in the matter of Ashok Shankarrao Chavan Vs. Anil Trayambakrao Patil: (1988)90BOMLR39, judgment of Mysore High Court in the matter of P Narappa Vs. A Shanker Alva: 1927 LawSuit(Kar)91.

3. Matter requires consideration.

4. Issue notice to 2, 5 & 6, returnable within six weeks. Steps be taken within a week. 5. List this case on 23.10.2024.

6. Until further order of this Court, effect and operation of impugned judgment and order dated 31.05.2024 and further proceeding of Election Petition No. 20 of 2023 shall remain stayed."

10. Assailing the order dated 04.09.2024, the second respondent, Anil Swami, election petitioner, preferred Special Leave Petition (Civil) Diary No(S). 11311 of 2026, in which the following orders were passed on 23.03.2026.-

"Delay condoned.

We have heard the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner.

In as much as the special leave petition has been filed against an interim order, we find no reason to interfere with the same.

However, taking into consideration the submission made by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner and the fact that we are dealing with an election petition pertaining to an election that was conducted on 13th May 2023, we request the High Court to dispose of Writ (C) No.26552/2024 within a period of four months.

The Special Leave Petition stands disposed of, accordingly.

Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of."

11. Counter and rejoinder affidavits have been exchanged between the parties which are available on record.

12. Learned counsel for the returned candidate, the writ petitioner has sought to argue that the order dated 31.05.2024 passed by the Election Tribunal/Additional District Judge Court No. 6, in Election Petition No. 20 of 2023, deciding Issue No. 5 against the election returned candidate, cannot be sustained even for a single moment. Elaborating the submission, it is contended that as per sub-section (4) of Section 62 of the 1959 Act, the election of a Corporator can be challenged by an unsuccessful candidate while presenting an election petition before the Election Tribunal exercising jurisdiction in the city within 30 days of the declaration of the result of the election. Argument is that, as per the own saying of the election petitioner, the elections were conducted on 11.05.2023 and the results came to be declared on 13.05.2023. Thus, the election petition could only be filed within 30 days, i.e. by 12.06.2023, however, the same came to be filed beyond 30 days, i.e. on 01.07.2023 which is after a delay of 18 days. Submission is that the provisions contained under the Limitation Act, 1963 are thoroughly inapplicable, and thus in absence of any provision for condonation of delay, it was not open for the Election Tribunal to have entertained the election petition. It is submitted that though the consideration which weighed with the election tribunal in treating the election petition to be within time on the premise that there happen to be summer vacations in the district court and the civil work came to be suspended and only criminal matters were being entertained is not a ground to hold the election petition to be within time while extending the period of limitation particularly when, though the courts dealing with civil matters are closed and civil work is not conducted but the office remains open and in order to overcome the hurdle of delay, it was always open for the election petitioner to have presented the election petition during the summer vacation before the Munsarim or the officers so authorized by the District Judge in the district court and while not doing so, the election petition was beyond the limitation period. In order to buttress the submission, reliance has been placed upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Reji Thomas and Others Vs. State of Kerala and Others: 2018 LawSuit(SC) 555, judgment of this Court in the matter of Shahnawaz Ali Vs. Election Tribunal District Judge Muzaffarnagar And 10 Others: 2024 LawSuit(All) 2010 & Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 56867 of 2012 (Smt. Sharda Devi Vs. State of U.P. through Secretary and Ors.), judgment of Bombay High Court in the matter of Ashok Shankarrao Chavan Vs. Anil Trayambakrao Patil: (1988)90BOMLR39, judgment of Mysore High Court in the matter of P. Narappa Vs. A Shanker Alva: 1927 LawSuit(Kar)91. Thus, it is prayed that the order dated 31.05.2024 passed by the Election Tribunal deciding Issue No. 5 against the petitioner/returned candidate and in favour of the election petitioner/respondent No. 2 be set aside, and the petition be allowed in toto.

13. Countering the submissions so made by the learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Akshat Sinha, who appears for the election petitioner/ second respondent, has submitted that none of the contentions so raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner has any legs to stand. The submission is that though the provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 do not apply in the proceedings pertaining to the election of Corporator under the 1959 Act but the provisions contained under Section 10 of the U.P. General Clauses Act, 1904 squarely applies. The argument is that though the election took place on 11.05.2023, the result was declared on 13.05.2023 and as per sub-section 4 of Section 62 of the 1959 Act, the election petition is to be presented before the District Court exercising jurisdiction within 30 days of the declaration of the result. Thus, the limitation period was till 12.06.2023. However, since there were summer vacations in the District Court and the civil work was suspended, and only criminal work was being conducted, and an election petition being a civil dispute could not be entertained, thus, on the conclusion of the summer vacation and opening of the court on 1st July 2023, the election petition came to be presented. Thus, according to the election petitioner, there is no delay in filing the election petition. Reliance has been placed upon the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in (H. H. Raja) Harinder Singh vs. S. Karnail Singh, AIR 1957 SC 271.

14. The learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, who appears for the State, has adopted the submissions so made by the learned counsel for the election petitioner/second respondent, and according to him, he has nothing to add except the fact that the order passed by the election tribunal cannot be faulted in any manner whatsoever.

15. I have heard the submissions so made across the bar, and perused the record.

16. Before embarking and inquiry upon the tenability of the arguments of the rival parties, it would be apposite to have a survey of the statutory provisions governing the field.

U.P. Municipal Corporation Act, 1959

"62. Questioning of election of (Corporator).- [(1) The election of any person as [Corporator] may be questioned by any unsuccessful candidate at the election, or by any person whose nomination paper was rejected at the election, or by any elector of the ward concerned.]

(2) The petition may be presented on any one or more of the grounds mentioned in Section 71.

(3) The election of any person as (Corporator) shall not be questioned on the ground that the name of any person qualified to vote, has been omitted from, or the name of any person not qualified to vote, has been inserted in the electoral roll or rolls.

[(4) The petition shall be presented to the District Judge exercising jurisdiction in the City within 30 days of the declaration of result of the election.]"

Uttar Pradesh General Causes Act, 1904

"10. Competition of time.- whereby any Uttar Pradesh Act, any act or proceeding is directed or allowed to be done or taken in any court or office on a certain day or within a prescribed period, then if the court or office is closed on that day or the last day of the prescribed period, the act or proceeding shall be considered as done or taken in due time if it is done or taken on the next day afterwards on which the court or office is open. Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to any act or proceeding to which the Indian Limitation Act, 1877 applies."

General Rules (Civil), 1957

"[13. Work on Holidays.- Except with the consent of the parties, no suit, case, or appeal shall be heard on a day declared holidays for the subordinate Courts:

Provided that on a day declared holiday for the subordinate Courts, a Courts shall not refuse to do any act or make any order urgently required or which may with propriety be done or made out of Court.

32. Time for Presenting Applications.- Except as otherwise provided by these rules, applications and petitions which can be presented to the Munsarim of a Court shall be received on any day other than an authorised holiday between 10:30 a.m. and such hour as may be fixed by the Court:

Provided that an application or petition presented after such hour and before 4:00 p.m. may be received on the ground, if any, of limitation or any other urgent reason. The Presiding Officers when accepting plaints or applications after Court hours will note on such papers the time of their presentation."

17. Facts are not in issue. It is not in dispute that the election of the Corporator, Ghaziabad Nagar Nigam, Ward No. 96, Nehru Nagar-III, came to be conducted on 11.05.2023. It is also not in dispute that the result was declared on 13.05.2023, and the petitioner herein became the returned candidate. Parties are in agreement that for questioning the election of the Corporator, there happens to be a provision, being Section 62 of the U.P. Municipal Corporation Act, 1959. Perusal of the said provision would go to show that the election of a Corporator may be questioned by an unsuccessful candidate at the election, or by a person whose nomination paper was rejected at the election, or by an elector of the ward concerned, on the specified grounds. As per sub-section (4) of Section 62 of the 1959 Act, the election petition is to be presented before the District Judge exercising jurisdiction in the city within 30 days of the declaration of the result of the election. Meaning thereby, the time period for presenting the election petition is within 30 days of the declaration of the result. As a matter of fact, it is also not in dispute between the parties that there happened to be summer vacations in the month of June 2023, i.e., from 1st June 2023 to 30th June 2023.

18. Interestingly, there is no dispute between the parties, and it is a matter of common knowledge also, that during the summer vacations, criminal work is being conducted irrespective of the summer vacations being there. However, so far as the civil work is concerned, only urgent matters are being entertained. The bone of contention between the parties is whether the non-functioning of the judicial work on civil side would be a ground not to present the election petition or not. In order to address the said issue, what would be relevant would be the notifications/circulars/orders issued from time to time either by the High Court on the administrative side or by the District Judge in that regard.

19. Rule 13 of the General Rules (Civil), 1957 talks about the work on holidays. According to it, except with the consent of the parties, no suit, case, or appeal shall be heard on a day declared a holiday for the subordinate courts and there is a proviso appended thereto that on a day declared a holiday for the subordinate courts, a court shall not refuse to do an act or make any order urgently required, or which may with propriety be done or made out of court.

20. Next comes Rule 32 of the 1957 Rules which itself provides for the time for presenting applications. According to which, except as otherwise provided by the Rules, applications and petitions which can be presented to the Munsif of a court shall be received on any day other than an authorized holiday between 10:30 AM and such hour as may be fixed by the court. A proviso is also appended thereto that the application or petition presented after such hour and before 4:00 PM may be received on the ground of limitation or any other reason, and the presiding officer then accepting claims or applications after court hours will note on the paper the time of presentation.

21. Rule 13 and Rule 32 of the rules operate on different fields. Rule 13 talks about work on holidays, wherein even on holidays, with the consent of the parties, urgent matters can be entertained, whereas Rule 32 stipulates the time for presenting applications, and in urgency, beyond office hours, on exceptional reasons, while recording the same, the petitions can be accepted.

22. Now the next question which arises for consideration is whether there happens to be any specific notification issued for acceptance of an election petition during the vacations, either summer or winter. On a pointed query being raised to the parties, whether there happens to be any specific notification in that regard, the answer is in the negative. Notably, there is no provision under the 1959 Act which makes the Limitation Act, 1963 applicable. Thus, the courts, by a judicial fiat, cannot extend the period of limitation so stipulated in the statute for presenting the election petition.

23. Another aspect which needs to be noticed is the applicability of the U.P. General Clauses Act, 1904. Section 10 of the U.P. General Clauses Act, 1904 throws light upon the said aspect, according to which, an act or proceeding is directed to be allowed to be done or taken in any court or office on a certain day or within a prescribed period, then if the court or office is closed on that day or the last day of the prescribed period, the act or proceeding shall be considered as done or taken in due time if it is done or taken on the next day afterwards on which the court or the office is open. Meaning thereby, that once the courts are closed and the limitation period comes to an end on the date when the courts are closed, then on the opening day, if the proceedings are undertaken, then it would be within time and not time-barred. The issue whether the provisions of Section 10 of the General Clauses Act stands applicable in matters pertaining to election petitions is no more res integra. As the Hon'ble Apex Court in (H. H. Raja) Harinder Singh (supra) observed as under.-

"(5) This argument proceeds on an interpretation of S. 10 of the General Clauses Act which, in our opinion, is erroneous. Broadly stated, the object of the section is, to enable a person to do what he could have done on a holiday, on the next working day. Where, therefore, a period is prescribed for the performance of an act in a Court or office, and that period expires on a holiday, then according to the section the act should be considered holiday, then accorded to have been done within that period, if it is done on the next day on which the Court or office is open. For that section to apply, therefore, all that is requisite is that there should be a period prescribed, and that period should expire on a holiday. Now, it cannot be denied that the period of fourteen days, provided in R. 119 (a) for presentation of an election petition is a period prescribed, and that is its true character, whether the words used are "within fourteen days" or "not later than fourteen days". That the distinction sought to be made by the appellant between these two expressions is without substance will be clear beyond all doubt, when regard is had to S. 81 of the Act. Section 81 (1) enacts that the election petition may be presented "within such time as may be prescribed", and it is under this section that R. 119 has been framed. It is obvious that the rule-making authority could not have intended to go further than what the section itself had enacted, and if the language of the Rule is construed in conjunction with and under the coverage of the section under which it is framed, the words "not later than fourteen days" must be held to mean the same thing "within a period of fourteen days". Reference in this connection should be made to the heading of R. 119 which is, "Time with-in which an election petition shall be presented". We entertain no doubt that the Legislature has used both the expressions as meaning the same thing, and there are accordingly no grounds for holding that S. 10 is not applicable to petitions falling within R. 119."

24. The view taken in (H. H. Raja) Harinder Singh (supra) came to be followed in Hukumdev Naraian Yadav Vs. Lalit Narain Mishra (1974) 2 SCC 133, wherein the following was observed.-

"5. On the question whether the petitioner could have filed the petition on Saturday, March 18, 1972, what has to be seen is whether the Court can be said to be closed within the meaning of either Section 4 of the Limitation Act, 1963, or Section 10 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, because under both the provisions where the prescribed period of limitation expires on a day when the Court is closed the petition could be filed on a day when the Court re-opens. Where, however, the pro-visions of the Limitation Act apply, the proviso to Section 10(1) of the General Clauses Act in terms makes that provision itself inapplicable. Under Section 4 of the Limitation Act it is provided that where the prescribed period for any suit, appeal or application expires on a day when the Court is closed, the suit, appeal or application may be instituted, preferred or made on the day when the Court re-opens. The Explanation thereof states that a Court shall be deemed to be closed on any day within the meaning of that Section if during any part of its normal working hours it remains closed on that day. It was sought to be contended that even if the Limitation Act applies, Section 4 would not apply because an election petition is neither a suit, nor an appeal nor an application, notwithstanding the definition of "application" contained in Section 2(b) of the Limitation Act as including a petition. It is, in our view, unnecessary to examine the submission in this context because even if Section 4 of the Limitation Act does not apply, Section 10 of the General Clauses Act will certainly apply to election petitions to be filed under the Act as held by this Court in H. H. Raja Harinder Singh v. S. Karnail Singh. In that case an election petition had to be filed under Rule 119(a) of the Election Rules not later than fourteen days from the terminus a quo prescribed therein, but as the day on which it could be filed was a Sunday he filed it on the next day. The contention of the Solicitor-General was that Section 10 of the General Clauses Act:

"can apply on its own terms only when the act in question is to be done 'within a prescribed period', that under Rule 119(a) of the Election Rules the petition has to be filed 'not later than' fourteen days, that the two expressions do not mean the same thing, the words of the Rule being more peremptory, and that accordingly Section 10 of the General Clauses Act cannot be invoked in aid of a petition presented under Rule 119, later than fourteen days".

This argument was rejected as being erroneous because:

"Broadly stated, the object of the Section is, to enable a person to do what he could have done on a holiday, on the next working day. Where, therefore, a period is prescribed for the performance of an act in a Court or office, and that period expires on a holiday, then according to the Section the act should be considered to have been done within that period, if it is done on the next day on which the Court or office is open. open. For that Section to apply, therefore, all that is requisite is that there should be a period prescribed, and that period should expire on a holiday."

Of course Section 10(1) of the General Clauses Act does not speak of a holiday, but refers to the Court or office being closed on the last day of the prescribed period to enable a party to do an act or take any proceedings on a certain day or within a prescribed period, as the next day on which the Court or office is open. If the Court is closed on the day when limitation expired, Section 10(1) of the General Clauses Act enables the filing on the next working day of the Court. But is the Court closed on a Saturday when the Judges do not sit though the office of the High Court is open?"

25. The Hon'ble Apex Court, from a judgment of this Court, had the occasion to consider the contingency akin to what is finding presence in the present case relatable to expiring of the limitation period during the summer vacations and in Hari Shanker Tripathi Vs. Shiv Harsh and others (1976) 1 SCC 897, it was held as under.-

6. To begin with we would first deal with the case of Hukumdev Narain Yadav (supra). What had happened in that case was that the election petition was filed on March 20; 1972 instead of being filed on Saturday March 18, 1972 which was the last day on which the limitation expired. The election petitioner sought to cross the bar of limitation on the ground that Saturday not being a working 1 day of the Court, the petitioner was entitled to file the petition on the next working day, namely, Monday. This Court on a consideration of various factors negatived this contention and held that even though the Judges of the High Court did not usually sit on Saturdays it was undoubtedly a working day of the Court and it could not be said that the Court was observing a closed holiday on Saturday. After referring to a large number of decisions and traversing various provisions of the Limitation Act, this Court observed as follows:- ".... for the purpose of determining any period of limitation prescribed for any suit, appeal or application by any special or local law, the provisions contained in s. 4, ss. 9 to 18 and s. 22 shall apply only insofar as, and to the extent to which, they are not expressly excluded by such special or local law..... For all these reasons we have come to the conclusion that the provisions of s. 5 of the Limitation Act do not govern the filing of election petitions or their trial, and in this view, it is unnecessary to consider whether there are any merits in the application for condonation of delay."

This Court accordingly held that s. 4 as also s. S of the Limitation Act had no application to the election petitions on the true interpretation of s. 29(2) of the Limitation Act. The Court also held on a reading of rr. 6 & 7 with r. 26 of the Patna High Court Rules that even though the Judges were not sitting on Saturdays the- election petition could be presented on a Saturday to the Registrar or other officers as envisaged by r. 26 of the Patna High Court Rules. In the instant case, however, the period of limitation provided by s. 81(1) of the Representation of the People Act appears to have expired during the summer vacation which according to the notification of the Allahabad High court was declared to be a closed holiday. By virtue of the notification of the Allahabad High Court dated September 22, 1973 when the High Court Calendar for 1974 was approved by the Court after inviting objections from the members of the public, a list of days had been mentioned to be treated as closed holidays. The last part of this notification runs thus:

"List of days to be observed as closed holidays in the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad during the year 1974.

Name of holidays	Date on which they fall		Days of the week	Number of days
	According to Gregorian Calendar	According to Indian Calendar (Saka Era)
1	2	3	4	5
Summer Vacation	May 25 to July 7	Jyaistha 4 to Asadha 11, 1896	Saturday to Sunday	44

44 In view of this notification, therefore, the legal position would be that the sunder vacation, namely, the period starting from May 25 and ending on July 7, 1974, would be deemed to be close holidays in the High Court. Thus it follows that June 14, 1974, which fell within this period would also be a closed holiday. If, therefore, the period of limitation under s. 81 of the Representation of the People Act expired on June 14, 1974 which being a closed holiday right upto July 7, 1974, then s. l0 of the General Clauses Act would apply in terms and the appellant would be fully justified in filing the petition on July 8, 1974 when the Court re-opened after the summer vacation. The relevant portion of s. l0 of the General Clauses Act runs thus: "10. (1) Where, by any Central Act or Regulation made after the commencement of this Act, any act or proceeding is directed or allowed to be done or taken in any, Court or office on a certain day or within a prescribed period, when, if the Court or office is closed on that day or the last day of the prescribed period, the act or proceeding shall be ' considered as done or taken in due time if it is done or taken on the next day afterwards on which the Court or office is open: Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to any act or proceeding to which the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, applies."

Analysing the section it would appear that the following conditions must be satisfied before a litigant may take advantage of the protection of s 10 of the General Clauses Act.

(1) that any act or proceeding is allowed to be done or taken in any court or office on a particular day or within a prescribed period; (2) that if the court or office is closed on that day or the last day of prescribed period then the act or proceeding will be deemed to have been taken in due time if-it is done or taken on the next day afterwards on which the Court or office is open.

The proviso to s. 10 makes these provisions inapplicable to cases where the Limitation Act applies. In the instant case which arises out of the election petition it is manifest from the judgment of this Court on Hukumdev Narain Yadav (supra) that the provisions of ss. 4 and S of the Limitation Act do not apply. It is also clear from the notification of the High Court referred to above that the entire period of the summer vacation starting from May 25 to July 7, 1974, was a closed holiday. Thirdly the period of limitation prescribed by s. 8(1) of the Representation of the People Act expired on June 14, 1974 during the summer vacation. In these circumstances the inescapable conclusion would be that s. 10 of the General Clauses Act would apply in terms and the appellant would be entitled to file the election petition on July 8, 1974 as he did.

8. Another reason given by the learned Judge was that even though the High Court was closed its office was open and the Registrar was available to receive any election petition. This reasoning of the High Court fails to consider the distinction between the opening of the Court and opening of the office. While the Court may be closed, the office may remain open for conducting ministerial business or administrative work. So far as the election petitions are concerned they are matters of moment and if the power to receive these petitions was delegated to the Registrar by the Rules framed by the Allahabad High Court under the Representation of the People Act, the Registrar must be deemed to exercise a judicial power which could not be exercised when the Court was observing a closed holiday. It would appear that under the rules framed by the High Court of Allahabad regarding the trial of election petitions, r. 3 required that every election petition shall be presented to the Registrar and r. 4 laid down that after the office report etc. is complete the petition shall be laid forthwith before the Chief Justice for reference to the Bench concerned. The learned Judge seems to think that in view of these rules there was no impediment in the way of the appellant in filing the election petition before he Registrar who was available luring the summer vacation even though the Court was closed. We are, however, unable to agree with this view. These rules clearly refer to a situation where the Court is open, because the Registrar has to take legal steps, namely, the placing of the petition immediately before the Chief Justice for reference to the Bench concerned and the assignment of a Judge. This could not be done when the Court was observing a closed holiday. The presentation before the Registrar as required by r. 3 of the aforesaid rules must be a legal presentation and not a physical presentation. For instance, if the Registrar visited the High Court on a Sunday or on any public holiday, could it be said that the election petition could be presented to him and the Registrar may be asked to entertain the same. The answer to this question must obviously be in the negative. Therefore, the position would be the same if the Court by virtue of the notification issued on September 22, 1973, was observing a closed holiday during the summer vacation. A similar question appears to have arisen before the Allahabad High Court in a case on appeal to the Federal Court where six weeks time for depositing security money expired during the High Court vacation and the Allahabad High Court clearly pointed out that the mere fact that certain ministerial officers of the Court were available to conduct the routine matters would not indicate that the Court was open. In this connection the Allahabad High Court in Krishna Dhan Mullick v. Umratul Zohra Begam(l) . observed as follows: "The six weeks within which security could be deposited expired during the High Court vacation. If the period expires on a closed holiday, it is not disputed that the time would be excluded in computing the period of six weeks. This is done under section 10 of the General Clauses Act (X of 1897)..... The fact that the Court for its own convenience deputes certain officers to receive the money does not give them a separate existence and it cannot be urged that while the Court is closed the office is open. There may be days when the learned Judges are not sitting and yet the Court may not be closed, but if the Court is closed then it cannot be said that the ministerial officers attached to the Court are an office within the meaning of the term in section 10 of the General Clauses Act and they have a separate existence from the Court."

We find ourselves in complete agreement with the observations made by the Division Bench in the aforesaid decision, and in fact this . clearly brings out the real distinction between the functioning of the office of the High Court and of the High Court itself.

9. Furthermore, it would appear from r. 10 of Ch. V of the Allahabad High Court Rules, that this is the only provision which em powers the Vacation Judge to hear certain types of matters. The rule may be extracted thus: E "10. (1) Criminal work shall continue to be dealt with during the vacation by such Judges as may be appointed for the purpose by the Chief Justice. They may also exercise the original and appellate jurisdiction vested in the Court in any miscellaneous matter or any civil matter connected with, relating to, or arising out of, the execution of a decree, which may in their opinion, require immediate attention. Such jurisdiction may be exercised even in cases which are under the Rules cognizable by two or more Judges, unless the case is required by any other law to be heard by more than one Judge. G (2) Subject to any general of special order of the Chief Justice, Vacation Judges shall, in the absence of the Chief Justice. exercise jurisdiction at Allahabad or Lucknow, as the case may be, in connection with the arrangement of Benches, listing of cases and other like matters."

A perusal of r. 10 would clearly indicate that only criminal work shall continue to be dealt with during the vacation by such judges as may be appointed for the purpose by the Chief Justice. The second part of r. 10 no doubt gives jurisdiction to the Vacation Judges to entertain other matter, but the rider is that those matters must require immediate attention. This rule no where empowers the Registrar to entertain or to receive an election petition. Rule 10 of Chapter V has a very limited scope and does not include election petitions which cannot be said to be cases of a criminal nature or those requiring immediate attention so as to be taken up even when the Court is observing a closed holiday. It is true, as the learned Judge pointed out, that the office of the High Court was open and the Registrar or the Deputy Registrar etc. were receiving a number of applications, but the mere fact that such a practice had grown which may not have been strictly justified by the statutory Rules would not have the effect of converting what is legally a closed holiday into a working day. Similarly as indicated above, this Court in Hukumdev Narain Yadav's case (supra) was not at all called upon to consider the significance of a closed holiday but was deciding a case where on all accounts the day on which the limitation expired was a working day of the . Court and where the Court was factually and legally held to be open. In these circumstances, therefore, the analogy drawn by the learned Judge from that case does not hold good in the facts of the present case.

10. Mr. S. N. Misra appearing for the respondents advanced two contentions before us. In the first place he drew our attention to r. 3 of Chapter I of the Allahabad High Court Rules, the relevant part of which may be extracted thus: " 'Registrar' includes- - (i) the Deputy Registrar at Lucknow, in matters relating to the Lucknow Bench; (ii) the Joint Registrar or any other officer, with respect to such functions and duties of the Registrar as may have been assigned to the Joint Registrar or such officer by the Chief Justice, and (iii)in the absence of the Registrar, the Joint Registrar or any other officer authorized to act on his behalf;"

Rule 3 no doubt provides that the Registrar includes the Deputy Registrar and other officers. Rule 4 of Chapter I would have no application to the present case because this rule applies only to such cases where the period of limitation is prescribed by the Rules. In r the instant case, be period of limitation is not prescribed by the Rules made by the High Court of Allahabad but by s. 81(1) of the Representation of the People Act itself, and therefore this rule can- . not be of any assistance to the respondents.

11. It was then submitted that under s. 2(1)(h) of the Representation of the People Act, "public holiday" was defined as meaning any day which is a public holiday for the purposes of section 25 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. It was contended that as the notification issued by the High Court declared the summer vacation to be a closed holiday it could not be construed as a holiday under s 25 of the Negotiable Instruments Act and it would not be deemed to be a public holiday of which the appellant could have taken any advantage. The argument is undoubtedly attractive but on a deeper probe it does not appear to be tenable. The term "public holiday" referred to in s. 2(1) (h) of the Representation of the People Act has nothing to do with any administrative functions exercised by the High Court but refers only to such contingencies as are mentioned in the conduct of the actual elections under the provisions of the Representation of the People Act. For instance s. 39(1)(a) provides thus:

39. (1) As soon as the notification calling upon the elected members or the members of the Legislative Assembly of a State or the members of the electoral college of a Union territory to elect a member or members is issued, the Election Commission shall, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint-

(a) the last date for making nominations which shall be the seventh day after the date of publication of the first mentioned notification or, if that day is a public holiday, the next succeeding day which is not a public holiday." The word "public holiday" used in s. 39(1) (a) would undoubtedly refer to public holiday as defined in s. 2 (1)

(h) of the Representation of the People Act. So far as the disposal of the election petitions is concerned, once s. 80 confers the power on the High Court to try an election petition, s. 2 (1) (h) would have no`application what soever to the trial of such election petition by the High Court which will be governed either according to the Rules framed by the High Court under the Representation of the People Act or under the general Rules of the High. Court or in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure. This is borne out by s. 87(1) of the Representation of the People Act which may be extracted as follows:

"87. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act and of any rules made there under every election petition shall be tried by the High Court, as nearly as may be, in accordance with the procedure applicable under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, to the trial of suits: Provided * * * * *" In the instant case the High Court having framed the Rules under the Representation of the People Act which provided for the presentation of the election petitions to the Registrar, which as we have held could only be done on a day which is not a closed holiday, the term "closed holiday" would have to be referred to as defined by the High Court Rules and not by s. 2(1) (h) of the Representation of the People Act. In these circumstances, therefore, the contention of the respondents on this score must be overruled.

12. For the reasons given above we are satisfied that as the period of limitation expired during the summer vacation which was a closed 6-5225CI/76 holiday by virtue of the notification issued by the High Court, the . Registrar was not competent to entertain the election petition nor could the appellant have presented the election petition legally to the Registrar during such period. We are further satisfied that this is a case in which s. 10 of the General Clauses, Act applies in terms and the appellant was fully justified in filing the election petition on the re opening day of the High Court, namely, July 8, 1974. In these B; circumstances the view taken by the High Court that the election t, petition was barred by time is wrong on a point of law, and the finding of the learned Judge on issue No. 8 cannot, therefore, be sustained. 13. The appeal is accordingly allowed, the order of the High Court dated February 10, 1975, is set aside and the matter is remitted to the learned Judge for trying the election petition in-accordance with the law. In the special circumstances of this case we make no order as to costs in this Court."

26. Yet in Manohar Joshi v. Nitin Bhaurao Patil and another (1996) 1 SCC 169, again the issue came up for consideration regarding the applicability of Section 10 of the General Clauses Act in the matter of presentation of an election petition, and the following was observed.-

"14. The question now is : Whether the applicability of Section 10 of the General Clauses Act to the presentation of election petitions under the R.P. Act is excluded No doubt the R.P. Act is a self-contained Code even for the purpose of the limitation prescribed therein. This, however, does not answer the question. It has to be seen whether the context excludes the applicability of Section 10 of the General Clauses Act which is in the part therein relating to the General Rules of Construction of all Central Acts. The legislative history of prescribing limitation for presentation of election petitions in accordance with sub- section (1) or Section 81 is also significant for a proper appreciation of the context. Admittedly, Section 10 of the General Clauses Act applied when by virtue of the requirement in the then existing sub-section (1) of Section 81, the period of limitation was prescribed by Rules framed under the R.P. Act, in Rule 119 of the 1951 Rules. This was expressly provided by Rule 2(6) of the 1951 Rules. There is nothing to indicate that providing the period of limitation in sub-section (1) of Section 81 itself by substitution of certain words by Act 27 of 1956 instead of prescribing the limitation by Rules, was with a view to exclude the applicability of Section 10 of the General Clauses Act. The change appears to have been made to provide for a fixed period in the Act itself instead of leaving that exercise to be performed by the rule making authority. An express provision in Rule 2(6) of the 1951 Rules was required since the General Clauses Act ipso facto would not apply to Rules framed under the Central Act, even though it would to the Act itself. The context supports the applicability of Section 10 of the General Clauses Act instead of indicating its exclusion for the purpose of computing the limitation prescribed in sub-section (1) of Section 81 for presentation of election petition."

27. In Chandra Kishore Jha v. Mahavir Prasad and others, (1999) 8 SCC 266, the question relatable to expiry of the limitation period during the vacations came up for consideration, the following was observed.-

"17. In our opinion insofar as an election petition is concerned, proper presentation of an election petition in the Patna High Court can only be made in the manner prescribed by Rule 6 of Chapter XXI-E. No other mode of presentation of an election petition is envisaged under the Act or the Rules thereunder and, therefore, an election petition could, under no circumstances, be presented to the Registrar to save the period of limitation. It is a well-settled salutary principle that if a statute provides for a thing to be done in a particular manner, then it has to be done in that manner and in no other manner. (See with advantage : Nazir Ahmad Vs. King Emperor, 63 Indian Appeals 372=AIR 1936 PC 253; Rao Shiv Bahadw Singh & Anr. Vs. State of V.P., 1954 SCR 1098 = AIR 1954 SC 322. State of Utter Pradesh v. Singhara Singh & Ors., AIR 1964 SC 358 = (1964) 1 SCWR 57] An election petition under the Rules could only have been presented in the open Court upto 16.5.1995 till 4.15 P.M. (working hours of the Court) in the manner prescribed by Rule 6 (supra) either to the Judge or the Bench as the case may be to save the period of limitation.

That, however, was not done. However, we cannot ignore that the situation in the present case was not of the making of the appellant. Neither the designated election Judge before whom the election petition could be formally presented in the open Court nor the Bench hearing civil applications and motions was admittedly available on 16.5.1995 after 3.15 P.M., after the Obituary Reference since admittedly the Chief Justice of the High Court had declared that "the Court shall not sit for the rest of the day" after 3.15 P.M. Law does not expect a party to do the impossible - impossiblium nulla obligatioest as in the instant case, the election petition could not be filed on 16.5.1995 during the Court hours, as far all intent and purposes, the Court was closed on 16.5.1995 after 3.15 P.M.

19. Since, Indian Limitation Act does not apply to an election petition, Section 10 of the General Clauses Act would apply. As already noticed, the Patna High Court was, for all practical purposes, closed after 3.15 P.M. on 16.5.1995. It was, therefore, not possible for the appellant to have presented the election petition to the designated election Judge or in his absence to the Bench hearing civil applications and motions in the open Court on that date, which was the last day of the prescribed period of limitation. Thus, the presentation of the election petition on the very next date i.e. 17.5.1995, in the open Court, would be considered, by virtue of Section 10 of the General Clauses Act, as presentation of the election petition within the prescribed period of limitation. In the established facts and circumstances of the case, the learned designated election Judge fell in error in denying to the appellant the benefit of Section 10 of the General Clauses Act and dismissing the election petition as barred by time. The order of the learned designated election Judge cannot, under the circumstances, be sustained. The election petition must proceed to trial on merits."

28. So far as the reliance placed upon the judgment in Reji Thomas (supra) by the learned counsel for the petitioner is concerned, there is no quarrel with the proposition so laid down therein that no court, so much so the High Court, in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226, can extend the period of limitation in election matters. As regards the reliance placed upon the judgment of P. Narappa (supra) is concerned, the said judgment is also not applicable, particularly when in the present case in hand there is no provision cited are brought on record to show that during the vacations there is any notification that election petitions could be entertained. With respect to the judgment in Ashok Shankarrao Chavan (supra) is concerned, the said judgment is also not applicable, particularly when in the said case there happen to be a notification issued by the High Court itself authorizing acceptance of election petitions during the vacations. The said notification is missing in the present case. Nonetheless, the judgment in Shahnawaz Ali (supra) is also not applicable, particularly when though Rule 13 and Rule 32 of the General Rules (Civil), 1957 were considered, the Court did not go into the issue which is being raised herein, on the ground that attempts were being made to file the election petition during the summer vacations. Apart from the same, there happens to be a judgment of the Punjab and Haryana High Court in Navjot Singh Vs. Smt. Harsimrat Kaur Badal, 2015 AIR CC 2555, wherein the entire law has been summed up, but the said judgment refers to a notification of the Punjab and Haryana High Court wherein there was a provision that election petitions can be accepted during the vacations.

29. Applying the principles as culled out in the above-noted decisions, in the facts and circumstances of the present case an irresistible conclusions stand drawn (a) The provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 do not apply to election petitions (b) The provisions of Section 10 of the General Clauses Act do apply (c) The question of limitation for filing election petitions during vacations or holidays depends upon the notifications so issued by the appropriate authorities.

30. As regards, the reliance placed upon the calendar of the district courts Annexure CA-2 at page 12 relevant extract whereof has been made at page13 of the counter affidavit, the same is also not in aid and assistance of the writ petitioner particularly when the said calendar only refers to the fact that the only criminal work is to be conducted and civil work is suspended except urgent. In absence of any rule/notification/circulars on the said subject, it cannot be said that the election petition is liable to be filed and accepted during the summer vacations particularly when Section 10 of the U.P. General Clauses applies with full force.

31. As noticed above in the present case, barring on Rule 13 and Rule 32 of the General Rules (Civil), 1957, no rule/notification/circular/order has been placed on record by either of the party to show that even in the summer vacations/holidays, the election petition so presented could be accepted.

32. Accordingly, this Court does not find any manifest illegality committed by the court below to accord interference. Resultantly, the writ petition is misconceived and is accordingly dismissed.

33. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

Munni Devi ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

A. Whether the election petition preferred by the election petitioner against the rejection of her nomination was maintainable;

B. Whether the election petitioner, proposer and seconder were denied an opportunity to attest the photographs appended to the nomination form while such opportunity was afforded to the returned candidate; and what would be the consequences of non-attestation in the light of the circular dated 05.07.2021 issued by the State Election Commission.

Headnotes

U.P. Kshettra Panchayats and Zila Panchayats Adhiniyam, 1961 – ss.237, 264-B – Uttar Pradesh Kshettra Panchayats (Election of Pramukhs and Up-Pramukhs and Settlement of Election Disputes) Rules, 1994 – rr.11(2)(d), (4), 35, 36, 37 – Constitution of India – Art.243-O – Election petition challenging election of Pramukh – Rejection of nomination paper – Election petition filed by candidate whose nomination was rejected on ground of non-attestation of photograph by candidate, proposer and seconder – Maintainability of election petition – Rule 36 not specifying or limiting the grounds on which an election petition may be filed and employing the expression "ground or grounds" – Whether rejection of nomination paper can constitute a ground for challenging election – Election petition held maintainable – State Election Commission circular dated 05.07.2021, Cl.6(a) requiring signatures over photographs – Whether non-attestation of photograph constituted a ground for rejection of nomination and whether opportunity to rectify the defect was afforded to the election petitioner – Election Tribunal setting aside election of returned candidate – Challenge before High Court :

Held :

A. Election petition challenging election on ground of improper rejection of nomination paper is maintainable – Rules 35, 36 and 37 of the 1994 Rules do not specify or limit the grounds on which an election petition may be presented – Expression "ground or grounds" in Rule 36 is wide enough to include improper rejection of nomination – Had the rule-making authority intended to restrict the grounds of challenge to those specified in the 1961 Act, nothing prevented it from so providing – Court cannot, by judicial fiat, curtail a ground which the rule-making authority has not intended to exclude – Election petition against improper rejection of nomination paper, therefore, maintainable.

B. Nomination paper cannot be rejected on ground of a technical defect or error which is not of a substantial character – No provision either in the Act, Rules or the circular was placed before the Court authorising rejection of the nomination on the ground of absence of self-attestation of the photograph on the nomination paper by the candidate, proposer and seconder – Though Cl.6(a) of the State Election Commission circular dated 05.07.2021 requires signatures of the candidate, proposer and seconder over the photographs appended to the nomination form, no provision under the Act, Rules or circular authorises rejection of nomination merely for absence of such self-attestation – Signatures of candidate, proposer and seconder not alleged to be non-genuine or obtained by fraud – Extreme act of cancellation of nomination, therefore, could not have been done.

C. Whether opportunity was afforded to the election petitioner, proposer and seconder to rectify the defect of non-attestation, particularly when such opportunity was alleged to have been afforded to the returned candidate, was a material question – Communication dated 09.07.2021 of the Assistant Election Commissioner, Gangoh/District Cane Officer and written arguments submitted by the State before the Election Tribunal containing material regarding such opportunity not considered by the Tribunal – Matter required reconsideration – Order dated 20.09.2023 setting aside election of the writ petitioner set aside – Matter remitted to Election Tribunal for fresh order after considering the said documents . Writ petition partly allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Heard Sri K.R. Singh along with Sri Bharat Singh Pal, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Sanjay Kumar Singh, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel for the State, Sri Prakhar Saran Srivastava, learned counsel for the Election Commission and Shri N.K. Pandey, counsel for the respondent no. 6.

2. The counsel(s) for the rival parties have made a joint statement that they do not propose to file any further affidavits and the writ petition is being decided on the basis of the documents available on record, thus, with the consent of the parties, writ petition is being decided at the admission stage.

FACTS

3. The facts of the case as worded in the petition are that the State of Uttar Pradesh in exercise of powers as conferred therein decided to fill up the office of Block Pramuk throughout the State of Uttar Pradesh including Block Pramuk of Block Gangoh, Tehsil Nakud, District Saharanpur which was earmarked under OBC (Woman) reservation category. The date of the nomination of the candidates for election to the office of Pramukh was 08.07.2021 and nomination could be withdrawn by 09.07.2021 and the date of the election for the office of Pramukh was scheduled on 10.07.2021. As per the writ petitioner/ Munni Devi filed objections (Paper No. 25C/13) against the nomination of Smt. Babli w/o Mem Singh, sixth respondent on the ground that her name stands recorded in Uttarakhand Legislative Assembly-25 at Haridwar and Lok Sabha-5 Haridwar at Serial No. 142, Aryanagar, Jwalapur, U. Bhawan, K.N.-1 and Serial No. 781, Shivalik Shishu Junior High School, Aryanagar, Uttari Bhawan, Tehsil Haridwar. Since the name of the sixth respondent found place at both the places i.e. Saharanpur, Uttar Pradesh and Haridwar, Uttarakhand, thus, her name be deleted from one place to contest election to the other place. Then after scrutiny of the nomination's papers, the nomination of the 6th respondent, (Smt. Babli W/O Mem Singh) and Kavita W/O Vikash Kumar resident of Village Dabkaula was rejected due to non-compliance of condition No. 6(A) of the Directive issued by State Election Commission, U.P., Lucknow vide Letter No. 4169/ Ra. Ni. Aa.-3/P.Ni./53-21/2021 dated 25.07.2021.

4. It is also the case of the petitioner, that due to the rejection of the nomination of the 6th respondent and Smt. Suman, they raised objection that their nomination paper cannot be rejected. Assistant Returning Officer/ District Cane Officer, Saharanpur, thereafter wrote a letter dated 09.07.2021 to District Election Officer, Saharanpur, apprising all the factual and the legal position and found that the objections of the 6th respondent and Smt. Kavita had no force. The elections were conducted on 10.07.2021 and the petitioner is claimed to be elected unopposed for the office of Block Pramukh of Block Gangoh, Tehsil Nakud, District, Saharanpur, under OBC (Women) Reservation Category.

5. The same led to filing of an election petition by Smt. Babli, 6th respondent, before the District Judge/ Election, Tribunal, Saharanpur, which was numbered as Election Petition No. 217 of 2021 (Smt. Babli v. State of Uttar Pradesh and 4 others), seeking relief to the extent that election for the office of Block Pramukh of Block Gangoh, District Saharanpur be declared void, and an appropriate directions be issued in that regard against the defendants in the election petition.

6. On being noticed, the present petitioner filed his written statement and reply was also filed by the defendant nos. 1 and 3 being the State of Uttar Pradesh, through its Collector, Saharanpur, Collectorate, Saharanpur and the Election Officer, DCO/ Deputy Cane Commissioner, Saharanpur.

7. Vide order dated 03.07.2022, the District Judge/ Election Tribunal, Saharanpur framed two issues, namely, (a) whether on the basis of the averments made in the election petition, the uncontested election of the Opposite Party No. 4 (writ petitioner) and such declaration order dated 10.7.2021 issued by Opposite Party No. 3 (Election Officer / DCO, Ganna Bhavan, Saharanpur) could be set aside and the election of the Opposite Party No. 4 (writ petitioner) can be declared null and void; (b) whether the present election petition is maintainable as per the averments made by Opposite Party No. 4 (writ petitioner).

8. The writ petitioner herein who was defendant No. 4 in the election petition filed an application (34C) along with an affidavit 40-A by which evidences were adduced before the Election Tribunal. The statement of an oath of Smt. Babli W/O Mem Singh, sixth respondent was recorded before the Election Tribunal on 17/25.08.2022. The statement of the petitioner was also recorded an oath before the Election Tribunal on 31.01.2023.

9. However, vide order dated 20.09.2023, the District Judge/ Election Tribunal, Saharanpur proceeded to pass the impugned order by which the election of the Opposite Party No.4 in the election petition/petitioner for the office of Pramukh of Block Gangoh provisional election area No. 98 was declared null and void while setting aside the order dated 10.07.2021 passed by the Election Officer/ DCO, Ganna Bhawan, Saharanpur.

10. Questioning the order dated 20.09.2023 passed by the District Judge/ Election Tribunal, Saharanpur setting aside the election of the petitioner, the office of the Pramukh of Block Gangoh, Saharanpur, the present petition has been preferred.

11. When the matter was taken up, a preliminary objection came to be raised by the respondents herein that the present petition is not maintainable, particularly when, the order in question which is subject matter of challenge is appealable under Rule 49 of the Uttar Pradesh Kshettra Panchayats (Election of Pramukhs and Up-Pramukhs and Settlement of Election Disputes) Rules, 1994 (hereinafter referred to as 'The Rules 1994') as the order dated 20.09.2023 comes within the purview of Rule 44 of the 1994, Rules. The said objection came to be dispelled by this Court vide order dated 27.10.2023 and and interim order came to be passed, restraining the State Election Commissioner (Panchayat and Local Bodies) State Election Commission, U.P., Lucknow from notifying the elections in question without the leave of the Court. Aggrieved against the part of the order impugned in the petition, the petitioner herein preferred Special Leave Petition (C) Diary No. 41647 of 2025 (Munni Devi v. State of U.P. and others), in which on 08.08.2025, the following orders were passed: "Delay condoned. Though we are not inclined to interfere with the impugned order, we appreciate the actual grievance expressed by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner that out of the 5 years of the election term, nearly 4 years are already over without any adjudication. In such view of the matter, we request the High Court to make an endeavour to dispose of Writ-C No.34527/2023, within a period of four months from the date of receipt of copy of this order. The Special Leave Petition stands disposed of. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of."

Argument of learned counsel for the writ petitioner

12. Shri K.R. Singh assisted by Shri Bharat Singh Pal, learned counsel for the writ petitioner has sought to argue that the order dated 20.09.2023 passed by the District Judge/ Election Tribunal, Saharanpur declaring the election of the petitioner as Block Pramukh of Block Gangoh, Tehsil Nakud, Saharanpur on 10.07.2021 as void cannot be sustained for more than one reason. Firstly, the election petition itself was not maintainable, particularly, Chapter VI of the 1994 Rules itself provide for the disputes regarding election of the Pramukh and Up-Pramukhs, Rule 35 further provides for the time and the manner of the presenting petitioner, Rule 36 form etc. of the petitions and Rule 37 relief which may be claimed by the election petitioner but none of the said provisions in any manner whatsoever provide for filing of an election petition when a candidate is aggrieved against rejection of his nomination.

13. Submission is that the principles of benevolent legislation are not applicable in election matters as strict interpretation is to be resorted to. Argument is that there happens to be an enactment by the name and the nomenclature of the Uttar Pradesh Kshettra Panchayat and Zila Panchayat Adhiniyam, 1961 wherein Section 13 deals with the disqualification for membership of Kshettra Panchayat and further Section 16 also deals with the removal of Pramukh/ Up-Pramukh whereas Section 27 also deals with dispute as to the membership or disqualifications, thus, only those grounds which are specified in the above noted sections can only be taken into account for the purposes of challenge by means of election petition and no other grounds.

14. In nutshell submission is that the Election Tribunal has exceeded its jurisdiction and travelled beyond the scope and permission and has passed an order which cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. It is also contended that by passing of the order dated 20.09.2023 declaring the election of the office of Block Pramukh invalid and void, a vacancy has been arisen that too on the basis of certain factors which are beyond the scope and the purview of election petition.

15. Additionally, it has been argued that the basic reason attributable for rejection of the nomination of the Smt. Babli, sixth respondent is the fact that as per Rule 8 of the 1994 Rules, any person who desires to be nominated as the candidate at an election to the office of the Pramukh shall deliver in person or through his proposer and seconder nomination form duly filled in Form-II to the returning officer within the hours of 11 o'clock in the forenoon and 3'O clock in the afternoon on that date and the place specified in the notice under Rule 6, and the nomination paper shall be signed by the candidate and attested himself as assenting to the nomination and also by one member as proposer and other member as seconder. Argument is, here though, there happened to be the photograph of the sixth respondent in the nomination form, but the same was not self-attested, either by the sixth respondent or by the proposer and seconder. Thus, in view of the provisions contained under Clause 6(a) of the circular issued by the State Election Commission, Uttar Pradesh on 05-07-2021, which is mandatory in nature, rightly, the nomination of the sixth respondent, Smt. Babli, was cancelled.

16. Argument is to the extent that circular being mandatory in nature and holding the field would dis-entitle the sixth respondent for any relief and in failing to appreciate the crucial aspect of the matter which goes to the root, the election petition could not have been allowed. It is also contended that in the cross-examination before the Election Tribunal, sixth respondent, Smt. Babli had admitted that the photographs of the nomination form was not self-attested either by her or by the proposer and the, seconder.

17. It is submitted that the allegation so leveled by the sixth respondent, Smt. Babli that though the petitioner was permitted to get the self-attestation done in the photograph so appended in the nomination form and the said request was denied to the sixth respondent is preposterous besides being misconceived for the simple reason that the records even otherwise depict that despite opportunity accorded to the sixth respondent, she did not get the photographs so appended in the nomination form self-attested in that regard. To put in otherwise, according to the learned counsel for the petitioner, there happens to be a communication of the Election Officer/ District Cane Officer, Saharanpur/ Assistant District Election Officer addressed to the District Election Officer, Saharanpur dated 09-07-2021 and also in the written submission so submitted by the State which was marked at paper No. 33-A, a specific ground was taken that despite giving opportunity to be respondent no. 6, Smt. Babli to rectify the defect relating to self-attestation by herself, proposer and seconder, no steps were taken. In order to buttress the submission, reliance has been placed upon, the judgement of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Jyoti Basu and others v. Debi Ghosal and others; AIR 1982 SC 983, Smt. Guddi Devi v. The State Election Commissioner, Haryana and others; AIR 1995 P & H 101 and Anju v. Addl. Civil Judge (Sr. Division) Pehowa and others; CWP No. 15310 of 1996, decided on 12.03.1998. Thus it is prayed that the petition be allowed in toto and the order be set aside.

Argument of the counsel for sixth respondent, Smt. Babli

18. Countering the submissions so made by the learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri N.K. Pandey who appears for the sixth respondent has submitted that none of the contentions raised by the counsel for the petitioner has any legs to stand.

19. Submission is that the basic ground for challenge raised in the election petition under Section 35 of the 1994 Rules is with regard to illegal rejection of the nomination. Chapter VI of the 1994 Rules deals with the disputes regarding the election of Pramukh and Up-Pramukh and Rule 35 prescribes the time and the manner of presenting election petitions, Rule 36, forms etc. of petition, Rule 37 reliefs that can be claimed by the petitioner, thus, according to him, in absence of anything in the said rules restricting the grounds only on which election petition can be filed and it would not be appropriate and rather violence to the provisions so as to introduce something which is not provided while coming up with a stand that rejection or acceptance of nomination is not a ground of challenge in an election petition.

20. Contention is that in view of the language employed in Rule 35, 36, and 37, all the grounds are open to the raised as in case it was the intention of the legislature to restrict certain grounds while excluding others, then obviously they could have been engrafted in the statute. It is also contended that the elections of Pramukh and Up-Pramukh which are subject matter herein is an indirect election in contrast with the elections of Gram Pradhans as per U.P. Panchayati Raj Act, 1947 where the elections are direct elections. According to the learned counsel for the sixth respondent, Section 12-C of the U.P. Panchayati Raj Act, 1947 itself deals with the grounds questioning the elections and one of them is improper acceptance or rejection of any nomination and the said aspect stands provided under Rule 3 of the Uttar Pradesh, Panchayati Raj (Settlement of Election Dispute) Rules, 1994 and the said provisions are pari materia to position which is existing in Section 100 of the Representation of the Peoples Act, 1951. Contention is that in the said enactments, grounds have been given which can only be made the basis for filing election petition, however, in the case of 1994 Rules relatable to Pramukh and Up-Pramukh, no grounds are mentioned except the fact that Rule 36 of the 1994 Rules only specifies that there should be ground or grounds which should be in election petition while questioning the elections.

21. Reliance has been placed upon the judgement of the Coordinate Bench in Anil Kumar v. Smt. Suchita; 2009 (3) UPLBEC 2361 so as to contend that the similar controversy came up for consideration wherein pari materia provisions of the 1994 Rules as available in Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat (Election of Adhyaksha and Up-Adhyaksha and Settlement of Election Dispute) Rules, 1994, wherein 35 Rules of 1994 Rules were similar to Rule 33 of the 1994 Rules and it was observed that the grounds of filing of election petitions are quite wide and they cannot be restricted while limiting the same in view of the provisions contained under the 1961 Act.

22. It is also contended that though there happened to be non-self-attestation of photographs in the nomination form of the sixth respondent, proposer and seconder which was required to be done in view of the circular of the State Election Commission dated 25.07.2021, the same cannot be a ground to reject the nomination, particularly, when it is a curable defect and consequences thereof its non-compliance would not be fatal. It is submitted that in the case of the writ petitioner, there also photograph was not self-attested but an opportunity was accorded to the writ petitioner to get the same attested but despite request being raised by the sixth Respondent seeking an opportunity to get its self-attested, the same was denied on the ground that there is no need for attestation. Contention is that once consequences of non-fulfillment of one of the requirement is not provided then the extreme act of rejection of the nomination cannot be done. Attention has been drawn towards, Rule11 of the 1994 Rules so as to contend that sub-rule (2) of Rule 11 deals with certain grounds which commences from (a) to (g), the case of the six respondent does not stand covered under the same and in view of sub-rule (4) of Rule 11 of 1994 Rules, the returning officer is not required to reject any nomination paper on the ground of any technical defect or any other which is not of substantial character. Argument is that once the proposer, seconder and the candidate himself was present before the returning officer at the time of nomination/ scrutiny and they were asking for self-attestation then the same cannot be a ground to reject the nomination.

Argument of the State

23. Learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State has adopted the arguments of the learned counsel for the petitioner, according to him, he has nothing to add except the fact that the order impugned cannot be sustained. The election petition against the rejection of the nomination is not maintainable.

Argument of State Election Commission

24. Shri Prakhar Saran Srivastava who appears for the State Election Commission submits that the real purpose of the incorporation of clause 6(a) of the Circular dated 05.07.2021 is that any person who desires to be nominated as a candidate as an election to the office of the Pramukh shall deliver in person or through its proposer and seconder, a nomination form duly filled in Form-II to the returning officer. Thus, nomination form is to be delivered either by a candidate or his proposer or seconder and there is no mandate that all the three have to be present at the time of filing of the nomination. Further Rule 8(2) provides for signing of nomination form by the candidate as assenting to the nomination and also by one member as proposer and another member as seconder. According to him, Rule 10 describes the procedure for filing of nomination paper which only requires the returning officer to enter therein, the serial number and the date and the hour at which the nomination paper has been delivered to him. There is nothing more to be required to be done else not even point out defects in the nomination paper and Rule 11(1) of the 1994 Rules permits the presence of the candidate, his proposer and seconder to attend the scrutiny. It is at that stage, three persons are permitted to be inside and witness the scrutiny and returning officer is under obligation to give all reasonable facilities to examine the duly nomination paper. According to him, attestation in the photographs over the nomination paper is only to ensure free and fair election and it is mandatory in nature. Contention is that the guidelines of the State Election Commission issued under Section 243-K of the 1961 Act are binding in view of the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Union of India v. Association for Democratic Reforms and another; 2002 (5) SCC 294.

Analysis

25. I have heard the submissions made across the bar and perused the record carefully.

26. To begin with there are certain undisputed facts. Namely, a notification to be issued by the State of Uttar Pradesh for filling up the office for Block Pramukh throughout the State of Uttar Pradesh inclusive of Block Pramukh of Block Gangoh, Tehsil Nakud, District Saharanpur which was under OBC (Woman) Category. The date scheduled for nomination was 08-07-2021, the same could be withdrawn by a candidate by 09-07-2021 and the election was scheduled on 10-07-2021. The petitioner/ returned candidate along with the election petitioner, sixth respondent/ Smt. Babli and one Smt. Suman had submitted their nomination form. The nomination form of the sixth respondent, Smt. Babli and of Smt. Suman, seventh respondent, came to be rejected. The ground for rejection of the nomination form of Smt. Babli, sixth respondent was that the photograph so attended in the nomination form was neither attested by the election petitioner/ sixth respondent nor by the proposer or the seconder. As a matter of fact, the petitioner/ returned candidate also filed an objection (Paper No. 25-C/13) against the nomination of the election petitioner/ sixth respondent, Smt. Babli taking a ground that her name stands recorded in Uttarakhand Legislative Assembly-25 at Haridwar and Loksabha- 5, Haridwar at serial No.142, Aryanagar, Jawalapur, U-Bhavan, K.N.-1 and serial No.781, Shivalik Shishu Junior High School, Aryanagar, Uttari Bhavan, Tehsil and District Haridwar. Thus, the name of the election petitioner/ sixth respondent is to be deleted from one place to contest election at the other place. Aggrieved of the rejection of the nomination by the official respondents, the election petitioner/ sixth respondent instituted instituted an election petition No. 217/2021 before the court of District Judge/ Election Tribunal, Saharapur, Smt. Babli v. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, under Section 35 of the 1994 Rules seeking following relief: "

"(अ) क्षेत्र पंचायत गंगोह प्रादेशिय निर्वाचन क्षेत्र संख्या -98 पर विपक्षी संख्या 4 को प्रमुख के पद पर दिनांक 20215 को निविरोधा निर्वाचित किये जाने सम्बन्धी विपक्षीगण संख्या 1 ता 3 के आदेश को निरस्त कर विपक्षी सं0-4 का चुनाव शून्य घोषित किया जाये।

(स) इस चुनाव याचिका का व्यय याची को विपक्षीगण से दिलाया जाये।"

27. The election petition on contest came to be allowed on 20.09.2023 setting aside/ cancelling the election dated 10.07.2021, declaring the election of the writ petitioner as illegal and void. The first and foremost question which arises for consideration is whether the election petition so preferred by the election petitioner against the rejection of nomination is maintainable or not. In order to address the said issue, what would be relevant, would be the legal position in the statutory framework. Chapter-IX of the Constitution of India deals with the Panchayats. Article 243-A talks about Gram Sabha who is to exercise such powers and performs such functions at the village level as the legislature of the State may by law provide, followed by Article 243-B that there shall be constituted in every State, Panchayats at the village, intermediate and district levels in accordance with the provisions, Article 243-C deals with Composition of Panchayats whereas Article 243-E deals with duration of Panchayats, Article 243-F, disqualification of membership, Article 243K, election in the Panchayat. Thereafter comes Article 243-O which provides for a bar to interference by courts in election matters. Article 243-O (b) stipulates that no election to the Panchayat shall be called in question except by an election petition presented to such authority and in such manner as is provided for by or under any law made by the Legislature of the State. To put in otherwise, the election petition, questioning an election of any Panchayat can only be called in question in accordance with law before the designated authority as specified by the Legislature. In the present case, the election of Block Pramukh is the subject matter of controversy, thus, in exercise of the powers under Section 237 read with Section 264-B of the Uttar Pradesh Kshettra Panchayat and Zila Panchayat Adhiniyam, 1961 (in short, 'The 1961 Act'), the rules by the name and the nomenclature of the The Uttar Pradesh Kshettra Panchayats (Election of Pramukhs and Up-Pramukhs and Settlement of Election Disputes) Rules, 1994 came to be enacted. Chapter IV of the 1994 Rules deals with the dispute regarding elections of Pramukhs and Up-Pramukhs. Notably Rule 35 prescribes the time and the manner of election petition, according to which, an election petition calling in question the election of Pramukh or Up-Pramukh is to be presented to the Judge at any time within 30 days from the date of the declaration of the result under Rule 14 and 29 as the case may be. Rule 36 provides that an election petition shall specify the ground and grounds on which the election of a returned candidate is questioned and shall contain a summary of circumstances alleged to justify election being questioned on the said ground. Sub-rule (2) of Rule 36 of the 1994 Rules further provides that the person whose election is questioned and where the election petitioner claims that any other candidate shall be declared elected in the place of such person, every unsuccessful candidate shall be made a respondent to the petition. Rule 37 of the 1994 Rules provides for the nature of the relief which can be claimed in the election petition seeking declaration; (a) that the election of the returned candidate is void; (b) that the election of the returned candidate is void and that he himself or any other candidate has been duly elected. Interestingly, Rule 35, 36 and 37 of the 1994 Rules do not specify the grounds on which election petition is to be filed question the elections.

28. Apparently, there happens to be an act by the name of Uttar Pradesh Kshettra Panchayat and Zila Panchayat Adhiniyam, 1961 wherein Section 6 deals with Composition of Kshettra Panchayat wherein the Kshettra Panchayat shall consist of a Pramukh, who shall be its Chairperson and all the Pradhans of the Gram Panchayats in the Khand and elected members, who shall be chosen by direct election from the territorial constituencies in the Panchayat area for the said purpose. Section 6-B deals with the election rolls for Kshettra Panchayat and Section 6-C provides for right to vote. Now comes Section 7 of the 1961 Act which mandates that in every Kshettra Panchayat, a Pramukh (a senior Up-pramukh and a junior Up-pramukh) shall be elected by elected members of Kshettra Panchayat for amongst others. Section 8 talks about the term of the Kshettra Panchayat and its members. Section 9, terms of Pramukh and Up-pramukh, Section 11 deals with the resignation of Pramukh, Up-pramukh or member and Section 12 further deals with filling of casual vacancies.

29. Section 13 of the 1961 Act talks about the disqualifications of membership of Kshettra Panchayat and Section 14 deals with disputes to the membership or disqualifications and Section 16, removal of Pramukh or Up-pramukh. Section 27 deals with the dispute as to membership or disqualifications.

30. The bone of contention between the parties is whether against the rejection of the nomination, the election petition is maintainable or not. Pertinently, Rules 35, 36 and 37 of the 1994 Rules nowhere provide any specific grounds on which election petition is to be presented. However, the word which has been employed is "ground or grounds" itself is quite wide and had the legislature intended to restrict the grounds so mentioned in the 1961 Act then nothing prevented from not specifying or referring to in Rule 35 of the 1994 Rules. It is also not the case of the parties that the 1994 Rules is ultra vires of the 1961 Act as the 1994 Rules came to be enacted in exercise of the powers under Section 237 read with Section 264-B of the 1961 Act. Certainly, the position might have been different, in case, there was any indication in the Rule 36 of the 1994 Rules that there are specific grounds on which the election petition could be filed but once the Rules are completely silent upon the said aspects and the word 'ground and grounds' have been mentioned then by no stretch of imagination, it can be said that only the grounds for disqualification so provided in the 1961 Act, would only be the ground for filing of the election petition. As regards, the Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat (Election of Adhyaksha and Up-Adhyaksha and Settlement of Election Dispute) Rules, 1994 are concerned and they have also been enacted in exercise of the powers under Rule 237 the 1961 Act and Rule 33 of the said Rule is pari materia to the Rule 35 of 1994 Rules whereas Rule 34 is pari materia to Rule 36 of the 1994 Rules and Rule 35 is also the pari materia to Rule 37 of 1994 Rules.

31. In Anil Kumar (supra) wherein an issue was framed regarding the maintainability of the election petition on the ground that Rule 33 of the the Uttar Pradesh Zila Panchayat (Election of Adhyaksha and Up-Adhyaksha and Settlement of Election Dispute) Rules, 1994 did not provide for filing of an election petition with regard to the qualification/ disqualification wherein the following was observed: "22. There is no dispute between the parties that the only ground on which the election petition was filed was that the respondent Smt. Suchita Patel was not 21 years of age on the relevant date and as such was disqualified for being nominated and elected as Adhyaksha of Zila Panchayat. 23. Sri Ravi Kiran Jain, in the view of the provisions of Section 27(2)(c) of the Act contends that as the issue raised in the election petition is with regard to qualification/disqualification of the respondent Smt. Suchita Patel to hold the office of Adhyaksha, the dispute is referable to the Judge and the election petition for the purpose as provided under Rule 33 of the Rules is not maintainable. Section 27 sub clause (2)(c) of the Act which is relevant provides that if a dispute arises as to whether a person has become disqualified to be Adhyaksha or Upadhyaksha, the dispute shall be referred to the Judge as may be prescribed. The manner and procedure of raising dispute under Section 27(2)(c) of the Act has been laid down in rules 48 to 52 of the Rules. For the sake of convenience the relevant part of the Section 27 of the Act is quoted herein below. "

(1) .....

(2) If a dispute arises as to whether a person-

(a) has been lawfully chosen [x x x] a member of a Zila Panchayat under Section 18; or

(b) has ceased to remain eligible for being chosen [x x x] a member [x x x] of the Zila Panchayat for the purposes of Section 20; or

(c) has become disqualified to be Adhyaksha or Upadhyaksha for the purposes of Section 19, the dispute shall be referred in the manner prescribed to the Judge whose decision shall be final and binding."

24. The power given under Section 27 of the Act is very limited in nature and is confined only to cases where an Adhyaksha or Upadhaksha after being elected becomes disqualified. Thus, it is only in the limited cases where the person subsequent to election for one reason or the other earns disqualification that the matter is referable to the Judge concerned and not otherwise. In other words, where a person who was disqualified from the very beginning to contest for the post of Adhyaksha and to hold the same, the provisions of Section 27(2)(c) of the Act would not come into play. In that event, an election petition under Rule 33 alone would be maintainable as it would amount to incorrect acceptance of nomination of a person who is not qualified.

25. On the contrary Article 243-O of the Constitution provides that no election to any Panchayat (which obviously include the post/office of Adhyaksha) shall be called in question except by an election petition. In consonance thereof Rule 33 of the Rules provide for disputing the election of Adhyaksha or Upadhyaksha by presenting an election petition to the Judge concerned for which no specific grounds have been enumerated.

26. A bare reading of Rule 33 of the Rules demonstrates that it is much wider in amplitude in comparison to Section 27 of the Act. Rule 33 provides that an election of an Adhyaksha or Upadhyaksha of Zila Panchayat can be questioned by filing an election petition before the Judge concerned and such a petition can be on any ground whatsoever as the grounds have not been enumerated therein i.e. adopting corrupt practice, incorrect acceptance or rejection of the nomination paper or even on the ground of disqualification of the person concerned, etc. It would not be proper to give a restrictive meaning to Rule 33 of the Rules so as to exclude the ground of disqualification from its ambit in view of the language used in Article 243-O of the Constitution.

27. Section 18-C of the Act clearly lays down that a person who has not completed the age of 21 years shall not be qualified to be elected as a member or office bearer of the Zila Panchayat. The effect of the aforesaid provision is that the election of a person who does not fulfil the above requirement would be void. In the case of Sushil Kumar Vs. Rakesh Kumar (2003) 8 SCC 673 the Supreme Court observed such a question undisputedly would fall for consideration in an election petition as despite disqualification the acceptance of nomination paper of such a person amounts to incorrect acceptance.

28. There is another angle for arriving at the above conclusion. Both under Section 27(2)(c) of the Act and Rule 33 of the Rules, the matter is to be adjudicated by the Judge concerned which under Section 2(24) of the Act means the District Judge and any other sub-ordinate Civil Judge or judicial officer named or designated by the District Judge in this behalf. As such the dispute in both the cases is to be decided by the same person/authority for which the procedure is also the same. Therefore, it makes no difference if such a dispute comes before the Judge concerned either by reference under Section 27(2)(c) of the Act or though on election petition under Rule 33 of the Rules.

29. In view of the above limited sphere of operation of Section 27(2)(c) of the Act, I am of the firm opinion that the Court below manifestly erred in deciding issue No.3 and holding that the election petition was barred. Therefore, the finding on the said issue deserves to be set aside and is hereby set aside and it is held that the election petition under Rule 33 of the Rules is maintainable even on the ground of disqualification which is said to have existed at the time of nomination."

32. As regards, the reliance placed upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Jyoti Basu and others v. Debi Ghosal and others; AIR 1982 SC 983 so as to contend that Election Tribunal is not a court of preliminary jurisdiction and exercise of jurisdiction is controlled and limited by statute creating it and it can only entertain an election petitioner on the ground as specified in the statute is concerned, there is no quarrel to the said proposition of law. However, there is a distinguishable feature appearing in the present case at hand that Rule 36 does not specify or limit any ground which can be taken for the purposes of filing of an election petition. However, the words employed in Rule 36 of 1994 Rules itself provides for "ground or grounds" meaning thereby that all the grounds are available to be taken in order to question the elections. So far as the judgment in Charan Lal Sahu v. Giani Zail Singh and another; 1984 (1) SCC 390 is concerned, the same also reiterates the law laid down in Jyoti Basu and others (supra), however, the same may not be of any aid or assistance to the petitioner, particularly when there is nothing in the 1994 Rules restricting or limiting certain grounds. Now comes the judgment of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Smt. Guddi Devi v. The State Election Commissioner, Haryana and others; AIR 1995 P & H 101 in which the provisions of Section 176(4) of the Haryana Pancyati Raj Act,1994 came to be considered. The same for ready reference is quoted hereinunder: "(4) (a) If on the holding such inquiry the civil court finds that a candidate has, for the purpose of election committed a corrupt practice within the meaning of sub-section (5) he shall set aside the election and declare the candidate disqualified for the purpose of election and fresh election may be held. [(aa) If on holding such enquiry the Civil Court finds that- (i) on the date of his election a returned candidate was not qualified to be elected; (ii) any nomination has been improperly rejected; or (iii) the result of the election, in so far it concerns a returned candidate, has been materially affected by improper acceptance of any nomination or by any corrupt practice committed in the interest of the returned candidate by an agent other than his election agent or by the improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote or the reception of any vote which is void or by any non-compliance with or violation of the provisions of the Constitution of India or of this Act, or any rules or orders made under this Act, election of such returned candidate shall be set aside and fresh election may be held.;] (b) If, in any case to which 2[clause (a) or clause (aa)] does not apply, the validity of an election is in dispute between two or more candidates, the court shall after a scrutiny and computation of the votes recorded in favour of each candidate, declare the candidate who is found to have the largest number of valid votes in his favour, to have been duty elected : Provided that after such computation, if any, equality of votes is found to exist between any candidate and the addition of one vote will entitle any of the candidate to be declared elected, one additional vote shall be added to the total number of valid votes found to have been received in the favour of such candidate or candidates, as the case may be, elected by lot drawn in the presence of the judge in such manner as he may determine. (Section 176(4)(aa)(i)(ii)(iii) came to be inserted by H.N. No. 17 of 2001.)"

33. Perusal of Section 176(4) of the 1994 Act prior to its amendment, provided the specific grounds for challenge to be raised in the election petition, wherein the grounds were confined to corrupt practices within the meaning of subsection (5) of Section 176 of the Act amongst others. However, there was no ground available relatable to filing of an election petition against any nomination being improperly rejected. Post amendment which was inserted by H.A. No. 17 of 2001 grounds (i) (ii) (iii) of Clause (aa) came to be inserted in subsection (4) of Section 176 of the Act whereby against the rejection of nomination, the election petition was made maintainable.

34. Though in Guddi Devi (supra), the Division Bench of the Punjab and Haryana High Court came to the conclusion that merely because neither under the Act nor under the Rules framed any remedy had been provided against illegal rejection or illegal acceptance of the nomination paper by way of election petition, however, it would not be a bar for the party for taking the said ground in election petition while challenging the validity of the election at a subsequent stage to the declaration of the result. The correctness of the decision in Guddi Devi (supra) was doubted and in Anju v. Addl. Civil Judge (Sr. Division) Pehowa and others; CWP No. 15310 of 1996, decided on 12.03.1998, while relying upon the judgment in Jyoti Basu and other (supra) and others judgments, it was laid down that in Guddi Devi (supra) is not a good law while observing as under: "10. We find support in our view from the authority of the apex Court in N. P. Ponnuswami v. The Returning Officer, Namakkal Constituency, Namakkal, Salem Distt., AIR 1952 SC 64 wherein it was observed that rejection or acceptance of nomination papers is included in the term 'election'. We find further support in our view from the authority of the apex Court in Hari Vishnu Kamath v. Ahmad Ishaque, AIR 1955 SC 233 wherein on the basis of the authority in N. P. Ponnuswami's case (supra), it was held that the word 'election' in Article 329(b) was used in a comprehensive sense as including the entire process of election commencing with the issue of a notification and terminating with the declaration of election of a candidate and that an application under Article 226 challenging the validity of any of the acts forming part of that process would be barred. These are instances of original proceedings calling in question an election, and would be within the prohibition enacted in Article 329(b)." 11. It is true that under sub-section (4) of Section 176 of the Act it is provided that the election shall be set aside for committing corrupt practice within the meaning of subsection (5), However, we are of the firm view that the provision of sub-section (4)(a) for setting aside the election of a candidate on the basis of corrupt practice within the meaning of sub-section (5) cannot in any manner be interpreted to mean that only ground for setting aside the election would be on the basis of corrupt practice and not on the basis of illegal rejection or acceptance or nomination papers of a candidate or illegalities or irregularities committed in preparation of electoral rolls and all such matters connected with the conduct of the election process right from its very beginning up to its final culmination with the declaration of the election results. Mere fact that neither under the Act nor under the Rules framed by the Stale Legislature any remedy has been provided against illegal rejection or illegal acceptance of nomination papers or illegalities or irregularities committed in preparation of the electoral rolls before the culmination of the election process in our view would not in any manner debar the affected party from taking up all such objections in the election petition while challenging the validity of election at a stage subsequent to the declaration of the election results. Rather such an interpretation which we have taken is in consonance with the prime object of completing the entire election process expeditiously, and without any undue delay and would certainly be helpful in holding the election process according to the schedule. The mistakes, irregularities or illegalities committed in the election process can certainly be rectified at a later stage when the affected party approaches the competent authority by way of election petition."

35. Though the learned counsel for the petitioner has heavily relied upon the judgment in Anju (supra) but the said judgment is distinguishable, particularly, when Rule 36 of the 1994 Rules does not provide any specific ground on which an election petition can be filed. Thus, by virtue of a judicial fiat, this Court cannot curtail any ground, once it was never the intention of the rule making authority.

36. Thus, it can be safely said that an election petition is maintainable against the improper rejection of the nomination paper and to the said extent, the order under challenge of the Election Tribunal cannot be faulted.

37. The next question which needs to be addressed is whether the election petitioner, proposer and seconder were denied opportunity attest to the photographs appended on the nomination form while according opportunity to do so to the returned candidate and also the consequences of non-attestation in the light of the circular of the State Election Commission dated 05.07.2021. Both the questions are interwoven are each other, thus, they are being taken together.

38. Apparently, the allegation of the election petitioner is that along with the proposer and the seconder was present at the time of filing of the nomination and scrutiny. It is also alleged that the petitioner/ returned candidate had also not got the photograph appended on the nomination form attested but opportunity was accorded to the returned candidate/ writ petitioner to rectify the said defect and the writ petitioner/ returned candidate, its proposer and seconder got the self-attestation done but the same was denied to the election petitioner and in the order impugned, it is recorded that the election petitioner, proposer and seconder were present and when the election petitioner asked requested accorded opportunity to self-attest the photograph on the nomination form, the same was refused.

39. In para-6 of the writ petition, the following has been averred: "6. That after scrutiny of Nomination Papers under Rule 11 of the Rules, 1994, the nomination of the respondent no. 6 (Smt. Babli W/O- Mem Singh) and Kavita W/O- Vikas Kumar of Village Dabkaula was rejected due to non-compliance of the endition no. 6(A) of the Directive issued State Election Commission, U.P., Lucknow vide Letter No. 4169/Ra.Ni.Aa.-3/P.Ni./53-21/2021 dated 25.07.2021. Due to rejection of their nomination, respondent no. 6 and Kavita raised objection that their nomination paper can not be rejected. Assistant Returning Officer/ District Cane Officer, Saharanpur wrote a letter vide dated 09.07.2021 to District Election Officer, Saharanpur apprising all the relevant facts and legal position and found that complaint raised by respondent no. 6 and Kavita has no force as their nomination was rejected due to incomplete nomination paper which was not corrected by them. The copy of the letter dated 09.07.2021 written by Assistant Election Officer, Saharanpur to District Election Officer, Saharanpur and State Election commission, U.P., Lucknow letter dated 05.07.2021 are being annexed as Annexure No. 3 and Annexure No. 4 respectively to this writ petition."

40. In support of the same, Annexure-3 page 51 happens to be a communication of the District Cane Officer, Saharanpur/ Assistant Election Officer, Gangoh addressed to the District Election Officer, Saharanpur, according to which, despite opportunity being accorded to the Election petitioner/ sixth respondent to do the needful for getting the self-attestation done in the photograph appended to the application form, the election petitioner/ sixth respondent did not make any attempt to get the self-attestation done. Para-6 of the writ petition has not been specifically denied in pleadings by way of a counter affidavit by the sixth respondent. The communication dated 09-07-2021 has been given a Paper No. being 25-C/12. Basically, the objection of the election petitioner/ respondent no. 6 is that the said communication is of Assistant Election Officer, Gangoh, though addressed to District Election Officer and not a communication of Election Officer or of a Returning Officer, thus, it has got no legal sanctity and it cannot be relied upon.

41. The relevant extract of communication of the District Cane Officer/ Assistant Election Officer, Gangoh addressed to District Election Officer, Saharanpur dated 09.07.2021 is quoted hereinunder:

"उक्त के सम्बन्ध में अवगत कराना है कि श्रीमति बबली पत्नी मेमसिंह ग्राम पूजना के द्वारा प्रमुख क्षेत्र पंचायत के लिए दो सेट में नामांकन पत्र दाखिल किया गया दोनो ही नामांकन पत्र के सेट पर शिकायतकर्ता के द्वारा राज्य निर्वाचन आयोग, उ.प्र. के पत्र संख्या 4169/रा.नि.अ.-3/प.नि./53-21/2021 दिनांक 05.0.7.2021 के प्रस्तर 6 (क) में दिये गये निर्देशानुसार सम्मीदवार तथा उसके प्रस्तावक व अनुमोदक द्वारा नामांकन पत्र पर चस्पा किये गये फोटोग्राफ स्वप्रमाणित नही किये गये थे जबकि शिकायतकर्ता को 3.00 बजे तक पर्याप्त अवसर भी दिया गया परन्तु इनके समक्ष स्कूटनी के पश्चात जब नामांकन पत्र को अवैध घोषित कर दिया गया तत्पश्चात उनके द्वारा बखेडा खडा किया गया। इसके अतिरिक्त नामांकन पत्र इनके द्वारा निर्वाचक नामावली में बबली पत्नी मेमसिंह क्रमाक 98 पर दर्ज होने के बाद भी नामांकन पत्र पर श्रीमति बबली पत्नी मेमसिंह लिखा गया। श्रीमति बबली के विरूद्ध यह भी आपत्ति आई कि रूडकी विधान सभा एवं हरिद्वार लोकसभा उत्तराखण्ड राज्य से यह मतदाता है जिसका कोई उल्लेख शिकायतकर्ता के द्वारा अपने शपथपत्र में नहीं किया गया था आपत्ति इस पत्र के साथ संलग्न है।"

42. Apart from the same, the Court finds that there happens to be a written argument submitted by the State, Annexure-7, page-99. Reference whereof has been given in para-9 of the petition, which reads as under: "9.That in this election petition, Opposite Party No. 1 to 3 have also filed written arguments (33A) before the respondent no. 2 vide dated 15.02.2022. The copy of the written arguments filed on behalf of Opposite Party No. 1 to 3 vide dated 15.02.2022 is being annexed as Annexure No. 7 to this writ petition."

43. The relevant extract of the written submissions of defendant nos. 1 and 3 in the elections and respondent nos. 1 and 3/ State of Uttar Pradesh through connector and Election Officer/ DCO Bhawan Cane, Saharanpur dated 15.02.2022 is quoted hereinunder:

"नाम निर्देशन पत्र जमा हो जानेके बाद जाँच करनेके पश्चात किसी भी उम्मीदवार को त्रुटि ठीक करनेके लिए नही कहा जा सकता परन्तु इसके बावजूद भी याची को 3.00 बजे तक पर्याप्त अवसर भी दिया गया था परन्तु इनके द्वारा इसके बावजूद भी उनके द्वारा ना तो कोई प्रार्थना पत्र दुरूस्ती के लिए दिया गया और ना ही उपरोक्त त्रुटि को ठीक किया गया। जिस पर विधिनुसार याची व अन्य का नाम निर्देशन पत्र त्रुटिपूर्ण होनेके कारण का उल्लेख करते हुए निरस्त किया गया जिसके विरूद्व याची को कुछ भी कहनेका अधिकार नही है। याची ने जो भी आरोप विपक्षीगण नं० 1 ता 3 के विरूद्ध लगाये है वह आधारहीन एवं साक्ष्यहीन है तथा याची के इस कदर झूठे आरोप लगाने से विपक्षीगण नं० 1 ता 3 के पद की गरिमा को ठेस पँहुची है जिसके विषय में याची के विरूद्व कार्यवाही करने का अधिकार सुरक्षित रखा गया।"

44. In the said written argument, the State had come up with a stand that despite opportunity being accorded to the election petitioner/ respondent no. 6/ Smt. Babli to get the self-attestation done and to rectify the error but nothing was done at the end of the election petitioner/ sixth respondent. The written submission was given a Number 33-A. However, Election Tribunal has referred to the said documents but has not considered the same.

45. Certainly, Rule 8 of the 1994 Rules provides for nomination wherein who desires to be nominated as the candidate as to deliver in person or through proposer and seconder, nomination paper duly filled in Form-II to the Returning Officer within the hours of 11 o'clock in the forenoon and 3'O clock in the afternoon on that date and the place specified in under Rule 6, and the nomination paper is to be signed by the candidate and attested himself as assenting to the nomination and also by one member as proposer and other member as seconder. Rule 6 speaks about scrutiny of nomination, according to which, at the scrutiny of the nomination, the candidates, their proposer and seconders are to be present. The returning officer is to examine the papers and decide all objections and after summary inquiry, he has the power to reject on several grounds as apparent from sub-clause (a) to (g) of sub-rule (2) of Rule 11. Sub-rule (4) of Rule 11 of the 1994

Rules goes to show that the returning offier shall not reject any nomination paper on the ground of any technical defect or other error which is not of substantial character and may for the purposes of removing any such defect or error, allow entry to be correct in the nomination paper including entry relating to name and number on the Election Roll.

46. Pertinently, sub-clause (d) of sub-rule (2) of Rule 11 of the 1994 Rules provides that one of the ground amongst others for rejection of the nomination is that the signature of the candidate or the proposer or seconder is not genuine or has been obtained by fraud.

47. Here, it is none of the case of the parties that the signature of the candidate, proposer or seconder was not genuine and had been obtained by fraud. Sub-rule (4) of Rule 11 of the 1994 Rules enjoins the returning officer not to reject nomination paper on the ground of any technical defect or of error which is not substantial character. Then comes the circular of the State Election Commission dated 05-07-2021, Clause 6-(a) itself shows that there has to be a signature of the candidate, proposer and seconder over the photographs so appended to the nomination form. No provisions either in the Act, Rule or in the circular as referred to above has been placed before this Court for rejection of the nomination on the ground that on absence of self-attestation of the photograph on the nomination paper of the candidate, proposer and seconder, thus, it can be very well said that the extreme act of cancellation of nomination could not have been done.

48. However, the entire thing boils upon the fact that whether opportunity was accorded to the election petitioner/ sixth respondent, Smt. Babli to get the self-attestation done on the photograph appended to the nomination paper or not in the wake of the fact that discrimination has been alleged by her. As already noticed two crucial documents, one being the communication dated 09.07.2021 of the Assistant Election Commissioner, Gangoh/ District Cane Officer addressed to District Election Officer and the second, the written arguments submitted by the State before the Election Tribunal reciting therein that despite opportunity being accorded to the election petitioner/ sixth respondent/ Smt. Babli to get the attestation done of the photograph appended on the nomination form, the same was not done.

49. Since the aforesaid documents which goes to the root of the matter has not been considered though it was available before the Election Tribunal in view of the Registration of the paper number to the said documents, thus, in the opinion of the Court, the matter needs to be remitted back to the Election Tribunal to pass a fresh order after considering both the said documents.

50. Accordingly, the writ petition is being partly allowed.

51. The order dated 20.09.2023 is passed by the District Judge/ Election Tribunal, Saharanpur in Election Petition No. 217 of 2021 is set aside.

52. Matter stand remitted back to the Election Tribunal to pass a fresh orders within a period of two months from the date of presentation of the certified copy of the order.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether issuance of Form GST DRC-01A under Rule 142(1A) of the CGST Rules, 2017 is mandatory before issuance of a Show Cause Notice on Form GST DRC-01, and whether the assessee retains the statutory right under Section 74(5) of the GST Act, 2017 to settle the dispute with reduced penalty @ 15% against the full penalty demand created under the impugned adjudication order.

HEADNOTES

Tax Law – Constitution of India - Article 226 – Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 – Section 74(5) - CGST Rules, 2017 – Rule 142(1A) :- Writ Petition under Article 226 - filed against Adjudication Order and Form DRC-07 for FY 2019-20 - seeking relief of reduced penalty under Section 74(5) of the GST Act - Petitioner contended that no DRC-01A was issued prior to the Show Cause Notice, depriving it of the statutory right to settle demand with 15% penalty - The Adjudicating Authority rejected this plea, holding Rule 142(1A) to be directory - The legal question before the High Court was whether issuance of DRC-01A is mandatory and whether the assessee retains the right under Section 74(5) - Court finds that Section 74(5) being part of principal legislation is mandatory, and Rule 142(1A) must be read consistent with it - procedural rules cannot override substantive statutory rights - benefit of reduced penalty survives up to reply stage of DRC-01 – Rules are consistent to the Act and in case of any doubt the Rules must be read consistent to the Act - Held, issuance of DRC-01A is mandatory, and assessee entitled to claim benefits of section 74(5) of the Act, up to the stage of filing of his reply to the SCN on Form DRC-01 to settle demand with 15% penalty – writ Petition allowed - adjudication order satisfied upon payment of tax, interest, and 15% penalty within one month - with liberty to the adjudicating Authority to pass a rectification order if so advised, for statistical purposes.

CASE ARISING FROM

Challenge to Adjudication Order dated 12.02.2026 and Form DRC-07 dated 12.02.2026 for FY 2019-20, arising from denial of ITC and imposition of penalty without issuance of DRC-01A.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Vivek Sarin, Sri Harsh Vardhan Gupta, Counsel for Respondent(s): Shri Amit Mahajan, Sri Parv Agrawal.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal Singh, J.
& Hon'ble Vivek Saran, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vivek Sarin along with Sri Harsh Vardhan Gupta, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Amit Mahajan, and Sri Parv Agrawal, learned counsel for the revenue.

2. Learned Standing Counsel for the revenue though objected to the relief claimed, he also states, since all facts are clear from a plain reading of the petition, and only legal issues are invloved, no Counter Affidavit is required to be filed. Accordingly, the matter has been heard, at the fresh stage itself.

3. Challenge has been raised to the Adjudication Order dated 12.2.2026 and Form DRC-07 dated 12.2.2026, for F.Y. 2019-2020.

4. Though, formal challenge has been raised to the Adjudication Order, at the very beginning learned counsel for the petitioner has confined the dispute to the rights of the petitioner-to claim benefit of Section 70 (5) of the GST Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'), read with Rule 142(1A) of the CGST Rules 2017 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Rules')

5. Thus, it has been submitted, no opportunity was granted to the petitioner, prior to the issuance of the Show Cause Notice, on DRC 01. Thereby, the petitioner was deprived of its statutory right to pay up the disputed demand together with interest, at reduced penalty. By virtue of the own force of law created by Section 74(5) of the Act, the petitioner was entitled to seek adjudication of the dispute against reduced penalty @15%, as against full penalty demand created under the impugned Adjudication Order.

6. On the other hand, Sri Amit Mahajan, learned counsel for the revenue would contend, Rule 142(1A) of the Rules is directory. It does not mandatorily require issuance of DRC-01A, prior to issuance of a show cause notice on DRC-01. Upon a holistic view taken by the Adjudicating Authority, it may choose to issue or to not issue notice on DRC-01A. Only if positive discretion is exercised and notice on DRC-01A is issued to a noticee, in those facts, benefit of Section 74(5) of the Act may be claimed, but not otherwise.

7. Sri Mahajan has relied upon Notification no.79 of 2020 dated 15.10.2020, to submit that the words earlier used "proper officer shall", have been replaced with the words "proper officer may". Thereby, the Central Government has clearly made the Rules directory, with effect from 15.10.2020. Therefore, the earlier decision of a coordinate bench in Skyline Automation Industries vs. State of U.P. [2023] 148 taxmann.com 345 (All), does not apply to the present case.

8. Non issuance of DRC 01 is an admitted fact, in the present case. That objection was raised by the petitioner before the Adjudicating Authority. It is duly recorded in paragraph 5.3 thereof. However, the Adjudicating Authority has rejected the same on the following reason:

5.3 In terms of the above provisions it is clear that to avail the input tax credit, the taxpayer should have received the goods/services. However, in case of a non-existent supplier, a supply of goods/services cannot be made. Only invoices will be issued by the non-existent supplier without actual supply of goods/services with fraudulent motive to pass the inadmissible input tax credit. Thus, the taxpayer has not received the goods /services. Therefore, in terms of the above provisions the taxpayer is not eligible for the input tax credit aken/availed by them. The taxpayer raised contention in respect of the issuance of DRC-01A. The relevant statutory provision i.e. Rule 142(1A) of the CGST Rules, 2017.

RULE 142(1A) The proper officer may, before service of notice to the person chargeable with tax, interest and penalty, under sub-section (1) of Section 73 or sub-section (1) of Section 74 or sub-section (1) of section 74A, as the case may be. communicate the details of any tax, interest and penalty as ascertained by the sid officer, in Part A of FORM GST DRC-01A.

In terms of the above the word may has been used in the above Rule in respect of compliance by the proper officer. Therefore, the issuance of the FORM GST DRC-01A is not a statutory or mandatory requirement. The taxpayer also alleged that they received the SCN for the first time, but as per the para 3 of the SCN the taxpayer was issued a letter on 19.02.2024(DIN 202402254YC0000621546), therefore in this contention of the taxpayer there is no force. The SCN uploaded by the department was alleged to be blurred by the taxpayer, in this regard the taxpayer was also served the copy of SCN dated 10.09.2025 through speed post also. Further, the taxpayer never asked for legible copies despite having repeated opportunities of personal hearing. The taxpayer has submitted nothing on the merits of the case, which means that they have nothing concrete material/defence to defend the allegation of irregular ITC as per the SCN. In view of the above the instant demand raised by the SCN dated 10.09.2025 is sustainable against them.

9. Second, it has been objected that the stage of DRC-01A has long passed. Not only Show Cause Notice on DRC-01 was issued but the petitioner also responded to the same. After hearing the petitioner, final Adjudication Order has been passed. Therefore, the stage of Section 74(5), of the Act does not survive.

10. Shri Parv Agarwal, learned counsel for the revenue, has further submitted that no real prejudice has been caused to the petitioner, inasmuch as, even at the stage of issuance of the Show Cause Notice on DRC-01, the petitioner could seek finalization of the demand against payment of demand of disputed tax together with interest and 25% of the penalty. By not availing that opportunity, the petitioner cannot be heard to complain any further.

11. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, it is fundamental in our jurisprudence that a principal statute stands on a higher pedestal in law, and must therefore prevail over an inconsistent delegated legislation. Neither there can be any dispute to that principle nor that dispute has been raised, in the present case. Section 74(5) of the Act is reproduced hereinbelow:

"74. Determination of tax , pertaining to the period upto Financial Year 2023-24,] not paid or short paid or erroneously refunded or input tax credit wrongly availed or utilised by reason of fraud or any wilful misstatement or suppression of facts

(1) Where it appears to the proper officer that any tax has not been paid or short paid or erroneously refunded or where input tax credit has been wrongly availed or utilised by reason of fraud, or any wilful-mis statement or suppression of facts to evade tax, he shall serve notice on the person chargeable with tax which has not been so paid or which has been so short paid or to whom the refund has erroneously been made, or who has wrongly availed or utilised input tax credit, requiring him to show cause as to why he should not pay the amount specified in the notice along with interest payable thereon under section 50 and a penalty equivalent to the tax specified in the notice.

(2) The proper officer shall issue the notice under sub-section (1) at least six months prior to the time limit specified in sub-section (10) for issuance of order.

(3) Where a notice has been issued for any period under sub-section (1), the proper officer may serve a statement, containing the details of tax not paid or short paid or erroneously refunded or input tax credit wrongly availed or utilised for such periods other than those covered under sub-section (1), on the person chargeable with tax.

(4) The service of statement under sub-section (3) shall be deemed to be service of notice under sub-section (1) of section 73, subject to the condition that the grounds relied upon in the said statement, except the ground of fraud, or any wilful-mis statement or suppression of facts to evade tax, for periods other than those covered under sub-section (1) are the same as are mentioned in the earlier notice.

(5) The person chargeable with tax may, before service of notice under sub-section (1), pay the amount of tax along with interest payable under section 50 and a penalty equivalent to fifteen per cent. of such tax on the basis of his own ascertainment of such tax or the tax as ascertained by the proper officer and inform the proper officer in writing of such payment."

12. To the extent a person who may be issued notice on DRC-01, may never be aware from before, if such notice was about to be issued to him and in any case such person may never have any knowledge of the amount of tax etc. proposed to be demanded from him, for any tax period, there may not exist any situation where settlement of dispute may be claimed, without the demand being proposed by the Adjudicating Authority.

13. Prior to the amendment made to Rule 142 (1A) the words used "the proper officer shall" were read and interpreted to mean that no Show Cause Notice on Form DRC-01 may be issued unless prior notice on Form DRC-01A had been issued. That interpretation made, amongst others by this Court in Skyline (supra) may have led to the amendment made to Rule 142 (1A) of the Rules. Thus, in place of the words earlier used, Rule 142 (1A) now employs the words "the proper officer may".

14. Later Rule 142 (1A) of the Rules was amended vide Notification No.49 of 2019 Central Tax dated 9.10.2019, with effect from that date. For ready reference, the said Rules are reproduced as below:

"RULE 142(1A) The proper officer may, before service of notice to the person chargeable with tax, interest and penalty, under sub-section (1) of Section 73 or sub-section (1) of Section 74 or sub-section (1) of section 74A, as the case may be, communicate the details of any tax, interest and penalty as ascertained by the sid officer, in Part A of FORM GST DRC-01A."

(emphasis supplied)

15. In view of law as stands today, the ratio in Skyline (supra), may not apply. To the extent we may not find ourselves in agreemnt with the line of reasoning in Skyline (supra) so as to reach a conclusion of jurisdictional defect in the notice issued on Form DRC-01, in view of changed statutory law, no need survives to refer the matter to a larger bench.

16. The said Rule is wholly to the benefit of the parties, mainly the noticee-who may pay up without seeking to contest the adjudication proceedings. It is also to the benefit of the revenue that may collect short payment of revenue etc., without having to undertake an adjudication proceeding. Thus, the provision of Rule 142 (1A) of the Rules have to be read in conjunction with Section 74(5) of the Act. To the extent Section 74(5) of the Act leaves no manner of doubt that it is an integral part of the statutory scheme, providing for finalization of proposed demands, before issuance of a formal Show Cause Notice and a person may opt to seek finalization of the demand against full payment of short paid tax, interest and only 15% of the penalty, in face of that clear consequence prescribed under Section 74(5) of the Act, as against higher penalty 25% payable upon issuance of formal show cause notice on DRC-01, and payment of full penalty against an adjudication order (that may be passed in consequence of show cause notice on DRC-01), the provision of Section 74(5) of the Act is unambiguously mandatory, for reason of those consequences provided.

17. To the extent, statutory provision contained in the principal legislation is mandatory, the use of the word 'may' in Rule 142(1A) of the Rules must be given the same interpretation. To interpret Rule 142(1A), to be directory, would be to imagine a conflict between the principal legislation i.e. the Act and the delegated action i.e. the Rules. That may never be done. Presumption exists that the Rules are consistent to the Act and in case of any doubt the Rules must be read consistent to the Act. To the extent the Rules have been enforced to give effect to the Act that position must always be recognized in law. The submission to the contrary, advanced by learned counsel for the revenue-to read Rule 142(1A) as directory, is misconceived.

18. No reliance may be placed on the decision of the Delhi High Court in Manpar Exim Inc vs. Additional Director DGGI and Ors. 2025:DHC:10737-DB, inasmuch as, in that case for reason of DRC-01A not issued, challenge raised to DRC-01 was invalidated. While we may not differ from the view taken by the Delhi High Court in Manpar Exim Inc (supra), we note that such challenge has not been raised in the present petition. As recorded above, learned counsel for the petitioner has confined the present case to secure to the petitioner, its right to avail settlement against payment of 15% of the penalty amount.

19. In view of the above noted reasons, we hold that the provisions of Section 74(5) of the Act read with Rule 142(1A) of the Rules are mandatory to the extent-no demand of penalty-higher than 15% may be raised in the first place, and issuance of notice on DRC-01A is mandatory.

20. Consequently, the benefit flowing therefrom may never be denied to an assessee who raises that plea at the stage of reply to the show cause notice. Thus, the Show Cause Notice issued on DRC-01 may not lack inherent jurisdiction and for want of DRC-01A not issued, prior in time.

21. Yet whenever, a Show Cause Notice on Form DRC-01A is not issued, the noticee will remain entitled to claim benefits of Section 74(5) of the Act, up to the stage of filing his reply to the show cause notice on Form DRC-01.

22. Here, the assessee had chosen to avail that right. Thereafter, it was obligatory upon the Adjudicating Authority to have allowed the petitioner to pay up the disputed demand, in accordance with Section 74(5) of the Act, read with Rules 142(1A) of the Rules.

23. That right may be eclipsed only in such cases-where notwithstanding non-issuance of DRC-01A, the noticee chooses to enter appearance in response to the Show Cause Notice on DRC-01 and disputes its liability to pay the demand so raised, without claiming his right under Section 74(5) of the Act. In those cases the statutory right conferred under Section 74(5) of the Act would be deemed to have been waived, by such notices.

24. The submission of Shri Parv Agrawal also does not support the revenue. In fact, it indicates the statutory intent to give mandatory effect to provisions of Section 74(5) of the Act read with Rule 142(1A). It is so, because this penalty amount would increase from 15% to 25%, at the stage of notice on Form DRC-01.

25. Last, we may note, rules of procedure exist to give effect to the statutory scheme created by the principal legislature. Such statutory Rules/pieces of delegated legislation may never be read to carve out a scheme different to that created by principal legislature.

26. In view of the above, this petition must succeed and is allowed, to the extent discussed above. Subject to the petitioner paying up the disputed demand alongwith interest and 15% penalty computed, strictly in terms of Section 74(5) of the Act with interest as computed on the date of issuance of the show cause notice issued on DRC-01, within a period of one month from today, treating the same to be a notice issued on DRC-01A (on that date), the Adjudication Order would stand satisfied. In that view, we leave it open to the Adjudicating Authority to pass a rectification order if so advised, for statistical purposes.

27. No orders as to costs.

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 227; The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908-Sections 151, 114 read & Order XLVII Rule 1; The U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972- Section 21(1) (a) & 34(1)(g); The U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Rules, 1972- Rule 22(f)- The review court, while considering the application moved under Section 151 C.P.C. read with Rule 22(f) of the Rules, examined the controversy from the limited perspective as to whether the earlier appellate judgment had proceeded upon a misconception apparent from the admitted record itself- The review court noticed that although the appellate court had already accepted and recorded the existence of the registered sale deed dated 13.02.1963, it nevertheless applied the statutory requirement of notice under the first proviso to Section 21 despite the admitted position that the property had been purchased through the said registered sale deed dated 13.02.1963, i.e., much prior to the enforcement of the U P Act No.13 of 1972. The review court accordingly held that the earlier appellate judgment had resulted in a palpably erroneous order passed under a misapprehension, insofar as the statutory requirement of notice had been applied despite the foundational facts already borne out from the existing record indicating clear inapplicability of such requirement.

The review court did not reopen any disputed factual controversy requiring adjudication upon competing evidence nor did it undertake reassessment of bona fide need, comparative hardship, or any other substantive issue arising in the release proceedings. The exercise remained confined to correction of the apparent misconception emerging from the admitted documentary record already noticed by the appellate court itself. No fresh adjudicatory exercise upon rival factual claims was undertaken, nor was one possible view substituted by another upon re-appreciation of evidence.

Held- The nature and scope of the jurisdiction exercised by the review court was corrective and procedural in character, and not a substantive review on merits. The interference was confined to removal of an apparent misconception arising from admitted material already existing on record and attributable to the adjudicatory process itself. The review court neither reassessed disputed questions of fact nor reopened the merits of the release proceedings for fresh determination upon re-appreciation of evidence. Such an exercise, directed towards securing the ends of justice and preventing continuation of an error attributable to the authority itself, squarely falls within the limited ambit of procedural review and inherent jurisdiction recognised under Section 151 C.P.C. read with Rule 22(f) of the Rules, and cannot be treated as an impermissible assumption of substantive review jurisdiction in the absence of statutory conferment. Petition dismissed. Case Arising From

The present petition arises out of proceedings initiated under Section 21(1)(a) of the U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 in relation to a shop. The petitioners have assailed the order dated 19.12.2025 passed by the appellate court in Rent Control Appeal No. 30 of 2018, whereby the review application filed by the respondent-landlord has been allowed, the earlier appellate judgment dated 16.10.2025 has been recalled, and the appeal has been directed to be reheard.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Petitioner(s) : Rishikesh Tripathi, Shashwat Tripathi
Counsel for Respondent(s) : Rishabh Agarwal

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rishikesh Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Atul Dayal, learned Senior Counsel appearing along with Sri Rishabh Agarwal, for the respondent.

2. The present petition arises out of proceedings initiated under Section 21(1)(a) of the U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 19721 in relation to a shop situated in District Jhansi. The petitioners have assailed the order dated 19.12.2025 passed by the appellate court in Rent Control Appeal No. 30 of 2018, whereby the review application filed by the respondent-landlord has been allowed, the earlier appellate judgment dated 16.10.2025 has been recalled, and the appeal has been directed to be reheard.

3. Briefly stated, the facts giving rise to the present proceedings are that the respondent-landlord instituted P.A. Case No. 79 of 2013 (Devendra Dhawan vs. Aftab Qureshi and others) on 22.10.2013 under Section 21(1)(a) of the U P Act No.13 of 1972 seeking release of the tenanted premises setting up the ground of bona fide requirement for his son. Upon notice, the petitioners-tenants entered appearance on 01.09.2014 and filed their written statement contesting the release application and disputing the alleged need set up by the respondent-landlord.

4. The Prescribed Authority, after considering the pleadings and material brought on record, allowed the release application by judgment and order dated 29.10.2018. Aggrieved by the aforesaid order, the petitioners preferred Rent Control Appeal No. 30 of 2018 before the District Judge, Jhansi. The appellate court, by judgment dated 16.10.2025, allowed the appeal and set aside the judgment of the Prescribed Authority. While deciding the appeal, the appellate court framed points for determination and recorded findings, inter alia, regarding the maintainability of the release application.

5. Thereafter, the respondent-landlord moved a review application in the said appeal seeking recall of the appellate judgment dated 16.10.2025. The petitioners filed objections to the review application and also submitted written arguments on 19.12.2025 opposing the prayer for recall. However, the appellate court, by the impugned order dated 19.12.2025, allowed the review application, recalled its earlier judgment dated 16.10.2025, and directed rehearing of the appeal. Being aggrieved by the order dated 19.12.2025 passed in the review proceedings, Petitioners have approached this Court by means of the present petition.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners has assailed the impugned order primarily on the ground that the appellate court has exercised a jurisdiction wholly alien to the statutory scheme governing proceedings under the U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 by virtually undertaking a substantive review of its earlier judgment dated 16.10.2025 despite absence of any statutory provision conferring such power. It has been submitted that the power of review is not an inherent power and can be exercised only where specifically conferred by statute or by necessary implication. According to the petitioners, the appellate court, under the guise of exercising inherent powers, has effectively reopened and reconsidered the earlier adjudication on merits, which is legally impermissible.

7. In support of the aforesaid contention, reliance has been placed upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in Patel Narshi Thakershi v. Pradyumansinghji Arjunsinghji, wherein it was categorically held that the power of review is not an inherent power and must be conferred by law either expressly or by necessary implication. Learned counsel submits that the Court clearly observed that where the parent statute does not confer review jurisdiction, neither the authority nor its delegate can reopen or reconsider an earlier decision. It has therefore been argued that the appellate authority functioning under the U P Act No.13 of 1972 could not have recalled its earlier judgment in absence of statutory conferment of review power.

8. Reliance has further been placed upon Kalabharati Advertising v. Hemant Vimalnath Narichania, wherein the Supreme Court reiterated the settled proposition that unless the statute or rules expressly so permit, a review application against judicial or quasi-judicial orders is not maintainable. Learned counsel submits that the Court held that review jurisdiction is a creation of statute and any order passed in purported exercise of review powers without statutory sanction is ultra vires, illegal and without jurisdiction. Particular emphasis has been laid upon the observations that an authority cannot, under the garb of clarification, modification or correction, undertake reconsideration of the matter on merits in absence of statutory power of review.

9. The petitioners have also relied upon Pushpa Sareen v. State of U.P. to contend that the power of substantive review cannot be implied and must necessarily emanate from an enabling statutory provision. It has been argued that while the said judgment recognizes existence of a limited procedural review inhering in judicial and quasi-judicial authorities for rectifying defects such as absence of notice or violation of natural justice, the same simultaneously draws a clear distinction between procedural review and review on merits. Learned counsel submits that this Court in the aforesaid judgment expressly held that substantive review remains impermissible in absence of statutory conferment and only a limited procedural review is maintainable in exceptional situations involving procedural defects.

10. Placing reliance upon Grindlays Bank Ltd. v. Central Government Industrial Tribunal, learned counsel for the petitioners has further submitted that the Supreme Court itself recognized two distinct categories of review, namely procedural review and review on merits. It has been argued that the Court clearly held that while procedural review may be exercised to cure a procedural defect or inadvertent error committed under misapprehension, review on merits is impermissible unless specifically authorized by statute. According to the petitioners, the present case does not involve any procedural defect rather, the appellate court has effectively reopened the correctness of the earlier judgment itself, thereby entering into the prohibited field of substantive review.

11. The petitioners have additionally relied upon M/s. Bombay T.V. Centre v. Additional District and Sessions Judge, Dehradun to contend that grounds relating to alleged fraud, misrepresentation or erroneous appreciation of facts pertain to the merits of adjudication and cannot furnish a valid basis for recall or review in absence of statutory authority. It has been argued that this Court in the aforesaid decision specifically held that reopening an order on grounds touching the merits of the controversy amounts to review and is impermissible where no statutory review power exists.

12. The petitioners have further relied upon Reliance General Insurance Company Limited v. Kanika and Others to contend that while limited clarificatory or clerical corrections may be permissible under Sections 151 and 152 C.P.C., the Court cannot alter findings affecting substantive rights under the guise of clarification or correction. It has been submitted that the Supreme Court has clearly held that any exercise which alters substantive adjudication or affects rights of parties would in substance amount to review and must satisfy the strict requirements governing review jurisdiction.

13 On the strength of the aforesaid authorities, learned counsel for the petitioners has contended that the impugned order dated 19.12.2025 does not merely rectify a procedural irregularity but substantially reopens the earlier adjudication and directs rehearing of the appeal on merits. According to the petitioners, the appellate court has therefore exercised an impermissible substantive review in absence of any statutory conferment of such power and consequently the impugned order is wholly without jurisdiction and liable to be set aside.

14. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for the respondents has supported the impugned order and submitted that although the authorities functioning under the U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 do not possess any substantive power of review akin to that contained under Order XLVII Rule 1 C.P.C., nevertheless such authorities retain limited inherent jurisdiction under Rule 22(f) of the U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Rules, 19728 read with Section 151 C.P.C. to correct procedural errors, misconceptions, and manifest illegalities so as to secure the ends of justice and prevent abuse of the process of Court. It has been contended that the exercise undertaken by the appellate court in the present case was not a rehearing of the matter on merits, but merely a procedural and corrective exercise undertaken to rectify an error which had occasioned failure of justice.

15. It has been contended on behalf of the respondents that the review court did not undertake any fresh adjudication on merits nor reassess the evidentiary material so as to substitute one possible view by another. It is submitted that the appellate court, while deciding Issue No. 1 in the judgment dated 16.10.2025, had itself taken note of the registered sale deed dated 13.02.1963 executed in favour of Smt. Sarla Devi, through whom the respondent-landlord derived title by testamentary succession. Despite recording the existence and date of the said registered sale deed, the appellate court proceeded to hold that the landlord was required to comply with the statutory requirement of six months notice under Section 21(1)(a) of U P Act No.13 of 1972.

16. It is urged that the review application merely pointed out that the finding so recorded suffered from a manifest misconception apparent from the record itself, inasmuch as the property admittedly stood purchased prior to 15.07.1972 i.e. the date of commencement of the U P Act No.13 of 1972, and, therefore, the statutory embargo regarding six months notice was not attracted at all. It is, thus, submitted that the exercise undertaken by the review court was confined to correction of a patent error arising from misapprehension of the existing record and was, therefore, within the limited ambit of procedural review and inherent jurisdiction recognised under Section 151 C.P.C. read with Rule 22(f) of the Rules, 1972.

17. In support of the aforesaid submission, reliance has been placed upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in Grindlays Bank Ltd., wherein the distinction between a substantive review and a procedural review was recognized. Learned counsel submits that the Court held that while review on merits is not permissible in absence of statutory conferment, every Court or Tribunal possesses inherent jurisdiction to correct a palpably erroneous order passed under a misapprehension or procedural defect in order to prevent abuse of process and secure the ends of justice. Reliance has particularly been placed upon the observation that procedural review inheres in every Court or Tribunal ex debito justitiae and stands on a footing distinct from review on merits.

18. The respondents have further relied upon Pushpa Sand v. R.C.E.O./City Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar to contend that where an authority has failed to decide the controversy on merits owing to misconception of law or erroneous assumption regarding its jurisdiction, it is open to such authority to recall its order and reconsider the matter in exercise of powers under Rule 22 (f). It has been argued that this Court in the aforesaid decision recognized that although review of an order passed on merits may not be permissible, recall of an order occasioned by misconception or failure to exercise jurisdiction is legally maintainable. Learned counsel submits that the said judgment further recognizes that even where technical objections regarding review jurisdiction may exist, this Court, while exercising jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, may decline interference if setting aside the impugned order would revive an otherwise illegal or erroneous order.

19. Reliance has also been placed upon Pt. Chet Ram Sharma v. Ist Additional District Judge, wherein this Court, after considering Section 34 of the Act and Rule 22(f) of the Rules, held that although no specific power of review is conferred upon appellate authorities functioning under the U P Act No.13 of 1972, such authorities nevertheless retain inherent powers analogous to Section 151 C.P.C. to pass appropriate orders in the ends of justice and to prevent abuse of the process of Court. Learned counsel submits that the aforesaid decision specifically recognizes that Section 151 C.P.C. embodies the inherent jurisdiction of the Court to act ex debito justitiae where circumstances so require.

20. The respondents have further drawn attention to the observations made in the aforesaid judgment that where an order has been passed on grounds which neither arose from pleadings nor were argued by the parties, the authority would be justified in recalling such order so that a litigant does not suffer on account of an inadvertent error committed by the Court itself. It has been argued that the appellate court in the present case has similarly exercised corrective jurisdiction to rectify an error arising from misconception and therefore the impugned exercise cannot be treated as an impermissible review on merits.

21. Reliance has additionally been placed upon Sidh Nath Tripathi (Dr.) v. IInd Additional District Judge to contend that where an order has been passed under misconception or by overlooking material aspects on record, the Court is competent to correct such mistake. According to the respondents, the impugned order merely seeks to remedy such misconception and therefore falls within the permissible ambit of inherent procedural jurisdiction.

22. The respondents have also relied upon Sita Ram Sikhaula v. Prescribed Authority, wherein this Court upheld exercise of inherent jurisdiction by the Prescribed Authority to set aside an unlawful compromise decree after noticing manifest illegalities apparent from the record. Learned counsel submits that the aforesaid judgment recognizes that where an authority notices illegality apparent on the face of record, it possesses inherent power to rectify the same and that no litigant should suffer because of a mistake committed by the Court. It has been urged that the present case also involves correction of an error which had materially affected the adjudicatory process and therefore the appellate court rightly exercised its inherent jurisdiction.

23. Further reliance has been placed upon Swaran Singh Chauhan v. Rent Control and Eviction Authorities to contend that although a review application in the strict sense contemplated under Order XLVII Rule 1 C.P.C. is not maintainable before authorities under the U P Act No.13 of 1972, nevertheless Rule 22(1) read with Rule 22(f) expressly acknowledges the inherent powers of such authorities analogous to Section 151 C.P.C. Learned counsel submits that this Court in the aforesaid decision categorically held that where an order has been passed under misconception, by ignoring material facts on record, or in a manner causing manifest injustice or abuse of process, the authority is competent to correct such error in exercise of inherent jurisdiction and such exercise would not amount to substantive review of the earlier order.

24. It has thus been contended on behalf of the respondents that the impugned order merely restores the appeal for rehearing so as to ensure proper adjudication after rectifying the procedural misconception noticed by the appellate court and does not finally re-adjudicate the controversy on merits. According to the respondents, the exercise undertaken by the appellate court is therefore procedural and corrective in nature and falls squarely within the ambit of inherent jurisdiction preserved under Rule 22(f) read with Section 151 C.P.C. Consequently, it has been submitted that no interference is warranted by this Court in exercise of its supervisiory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

25. In light of the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, the principal issue which arises for consideration is whether, in absence of any express statutory provision conferring power of review, the authority concerned could exercise its inherent jurisdiction under Rule 22(f) read with Section 151 C.P.C. to recall its earlier order for correcting a procedural illegality or misconception, and whether such exercise amounts to a permissible procedural review or an impermissible substantive review on merits.

26. Before examining the rival submissions on the scope of procedural and substantive review, it would be apposite to refer to the statutory framework governing the powers exercisable by the authorities constituted under the U P Act No.13 of 1972. In the present controversy, particular significance attaches to Rule 22(f) of the Rules framed under the Act read with Section 34(1)(g), which reads as follows:

"22. Powers under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 [Section 34 (1) (g)]. [The District Magistrate, the Prescribed Authority or the Appellate or Revising Authority shall, for the purposes of holding any inquiry or hearing any appeal or revision under the Act, shall have the same powers as are vested in the Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act No. V of 1908), when trying a suit, in respect of the following matters, namely-

(f) the power referred to in Sections 151 and 152 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act No. V of 1908) to make any order for the ends of justice or to prevent the abuse of the process of the authority concerned."

27. A careful examination of Rule 22(f) indicates that the authorities functioning under the U P Act No.13 of 1972 have been vested with certain powers analogous to those exercisable by a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure. Amongst such powers, clause (f) specifically incorporates the powers referred to under Sections 151 and 152 C.P.C. "to make any order for the ends of justice or to prevent abuse of the process of the authority concerned."

28. The incorporation of Sections 151 and 152 C.P.C. within the statutory framework assumes significance inasmuch as the Act itself does not contain any express provision conferring a substantive power of review akin to Order XLVII Rule 1 C.P.C. The scheme of Rule 22(f), therefore, reflects a legislative recognition of the inherent procedural powers exercisable by judicial and quasi-judicial authorities while conducting proceedings under the Act.

29. Section 151 C.P.C., as incorporated through Rule 22(f), does not create or confer jurisdiction in the strict sense but recognizes the existence of inherent powers necessary for administration of justice and for preserving the sanctity of judicial proceedings. Likewise, Section 152 C.P.C. contemplates correction of clerical or accidental errors arising from accidental slips or omissions. The expression employed in Rule 22(f), namely 'to make any order for the ends of justice or to prevent abuse of the process,' is couched in broad terms and bears directly upon the scope of inherent jurisdiction exercisable by authorities under the U P Act No.13 of 1972.

30. The statutory language of Rule 22(f) further indicates that the powers preserved thereunder are procedural and ancillary in nature and are intended to facilitate effective adjudication under the Act. The provision neither expressly incorporates Order XLVII Rule 1 C.P.C. nor employs the expression □review.□ At the same time, the incorporation of Section 151 C.P.C. reflects legislative intent to preserve limited inherent jurisdiction enabling the authority to pass such orders as may be necessary in aid of justice and proper conduct of proceedings.

31. It is a settled principle of law that the power of review is not an inherent power. A substantive review, whereby an authority reconsiders, re-appreciates, or re-adjudicates the correctness of its earlier decision on merits, can be exercised only when such power is specifically conferred by statute or flows by necessary implication from the statutory scheme. In absence of such conferment, no Court or quasi-judicial authority can sit in appeal over its own judgment under the guise of review.

32. A substantive review ordinarily contemplates reconsideration of the merits of the controversy, reassessment of findings already recorded, or re-appreciation of the material forming basis of the earlier adjudication. Such power is analogous to the jurisdiction contemplated under Order XLVII Rule 1 C.P.C. and is purely statutory in nature.

33. On the other hand, procedural review stands on an altogether different footing. Procedural review is not directed towards reconsideration of the merits of the decision, but is confined to correction of procedural defects which may have vitiated the decision-making process itself. Such jurisdiction may be exercised where an order has been passed without notice to a party, in violation of principles of natural justice, under a mistaken assumption, or owing to some manifest procedural irregularity resulting in miscarriage of justice. The foundation of procedural review lies not in re-examination of the merits of the dispute, but in ensuring fairness of procedure and preventing abuse of the process of Court.

34. The aforesaid distinction was lucidly explained by the Supreme Court in Grindlays Bank Ltd. v. Central Government Industrial Tribunal, wherein it was held that while a review on merits is impermissible in absence of statutory conferment, every Court or Tribunal possesses inherent power to recall an order passed under procedural misconception or in violation of natural justice in order to prevent abuse of its process. The Court clarified that procedural review inheres in every judicial or quasi-judicial authority ex debito justitiae, whereas substantive review must necessarily stem from statutory authorization.

35. The distinction drawn in the aforesaid judgment assumes considerable significance in determining the true nature and scope of the jurisdiction exercised by a Court or Tribunal while entertaining an application seeking reconsideration of an earlier order. The Supreme Court expressly recognized that the expression 'review' is not employed in a singular or uniform sense and that a clear conceptual distinction exists between a procedural review and a review on merits. In that context, the Court observed as follows:

"Furthermore, different considerations arise on review. The expression 'review' is used in the two distinct senses, namely (1) a procedural review which is either inherent or implied in a court or Tribunal to set aside a palpably erroneous order passed under a misapprehension by it, and (2) a review on merits when the error sought to be corrected is one of law and is apparent on the face of the record."

(emphasis added)

36. The aforesaid exposition makes it evident that the source, character and object of the two jurisdictions are fundamentally distinct. A review on merits contemplates re-examination of the correctness of conclusions already arrived at upon adjudication of rival claims and necessarily involves reconsideration of the substance of the controversy. Such exercise directly affects the finality attached to judicial determinations and, therefore, can be undertaken only where the statute expressly or by necessary implication confers such authority. In contradistinction, procedural review is not directed towards re-adjudication of the dispute itself, but is confined to rectifying a defect in the decision-making process which has resulted in a manifest procedural illegality, misconception, inadvertence, or denial of fair opportunity.

37. What is of particular relevance is that the Supreme Court did not treat procedural review as a species of appellate or substantive reconsideration. Rather, the same was recognized as an inherent jurisdiction inhering in every judicial and quasi-judicial authority to ensure that its own procedure does not occasion injustice. The emphasis of the Court was not upon correction of an erroneous conclusion on merits, but upon correction of the process through which such conclusion came to be recorded. Thus, where an order is shown to be a palpably erroneous order passed under a misapprehension by the authority itself, the jurisdiction exercised for correction thereof partakes the character of procedural review and not substantive review.

38. The principle laid down therein thus furnishes the controlling test for determining whether the jurisdiction exercised by the authority is truly procedural in nature or whether it amounts, in substance, to a review on merits. The inquiry, therefore, is not governed merely by the nomenclature of the application or the provision invoked, but by the real nature of the correction undertaken, the source of the error sought to be rectified, and the extent to which the authority re-enters into adjudication of the substantive controversy already decided.
