his house since seven to eight years and doing agriculture. The real brother of his father-in-law Aidal Singh do no like this and on many occasions there was an altercation between them. Aidal Singh and others were afraid that Jagjit, his father-in-law will transfer the land about 20-25 Bighas to him and his wife. Aidal Singh forbid, his father-in-law Jagjit to keep his daughter and son-in-law in his house and wanted to eliminate him. The previous night at about 11:00 p.m., cousins of his wife, Naimichand, Gyaniram, his wife Bohri and his father-in-law Jagjit were siting in his house under a Chhappar and were talking. Dibbi (Kerosene lamp) was burning, meanwhile, Aidal Singh, Bhagwan Singh holding Lathi in their hands and Ram Jit Lal holding Ballam, Pratap Singh, Dariyav Singh and Ram Charan armed with country made pistols came there and Aidal said that today Jagjit will be taught a lesson for keeping his daughter and son-in-law with him and all of them surrounded us. Ram Charan fired a gun shot upon my father-in-law with a country made pistol which hit his left chest and he fell down on the ground and died. We all made a noise, Aidal Singh and others ran away towards ravine (Beehad) in the South. The witnesses saw and identified the accused in the light of Dibbi (kerosene lamp). In the night, he could not come to the police station due to fear and after sunrise have come at police station leaving family and villagers near the dead body.

5. On the aforesaid oral information Case Crime No. 67 under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 IPC was registered against all the six accused named in the FIR. Investigation commenced, investigating officer visited the place of occurrence and took blood stained and plain soil from the place of occurrence, sealed it in separate containers, also took in possession Dibbi (kerosene lamp) and prepared memo thereof and also prepared site plan. Panchayatnama and post-mortem of the deceased was conducted. Investigating officer recorded the statements of complainant and other witnesses and after completion of investigation submitted the charge sheet against all the six accused persons under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302/34 IPC.

6. Learned trial court framed charges against Aidal Singh, Bhagwan Singh, Ram Ji Lal, Pratap Singh and Darab Singh under Section 302 read with Section 149 IPC against the accused, Aidal Singh and Bhagwan Singh under Section 147 IPC, against the accused Ramji Lal, Pratap Singh, Darab Singh and Ram Charan under Section 148 IPC and against the accused - Ram Charan under Section 302 IPC. Accused denied the charges and claimed for trial. Four witnesses were produced by the prosecution and ten prosecution papers have been Exhibited. Statements of accused were recorded, under Section 313 Cr.PC. Accused denied the prosecution case and stated that they are innocent and have been falsely implicated due to enmity. One defence witness, Gyani Singh - D.W.-1 has also been examined by the accused.

7. Learned trial court by the impugned judgment acquitted accused - Bhagwan Singh, Ramji Lal, Pratap Singh and Darab Singh from all the charges and convicted accused - Aidal Singh and Ram Charan for charge under Section 302 IPC only and sentenced them for life imprisonment.

8. Post-mortem of the Jagjit was conducted by Dr. Keshaw Singh on 9.3.1983 at 1:00 p.m.. According to the post-mortem report, Exhibit Ka-1 rigor mortis present, eyes half open, the following anti-mortem injuries were found on the body (i) gun shot wound of entry 4 cm x 4 cm cavity deep on the left side of the chest and 3 cm below and lateral to the nipple. Blackening and tattooing present. Margins inverted.

In internal examination, left lung and pericardium were lacerated, heart was punctured and empty, clotted blood was present in chest cavity, stomach was empty, semi digested food material present in small intestine, faecal matter present in large intestine, liver was lacerated. Duration of death is about one and a half day and cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of anti-mortem injury. The post-mortem report has been proved as Exhibit Ka-1 by Dr. Keshaw Singh P.W.-1.

9. The prosecution case is based on direct evidence and there are two eye witnesses, namely Nathi Lal and Bohri. According to the prosecution, Nathi Lal (P.W.-2) is the complainant. In his examination-in-chief, he has narrated the version of the first information report and has supported it and has also proved the FIR as Exhibit-Ka-2. He has also said that police station is 5 to 6 kms away from his village. He being alone could not go the police station in the night.

10. Bohri (P.W.-3) is the wife of the complainant and the daughter of the deceased. In her examination-in-chief, she has said that she was living in his Mayaka (village - Nagla Asha) at the time of murder of her father. Her father's name is Jagjit and Aidal Singh is her uncle. Near one year and nine months ago at 12:00 p.m. in the night her father Jagjit was sleeping under the Chhappar of the house. She was sleeping inside the house. The house is built at thar. When she came outside, her father was lying dead. She has not seen anyone. She knows all the six accused, namely Bhagwan Singh, Ram Charan, Pratap Singh, Ramji Lal, Aidal Singh and Daryav Singh. They are present in the court. She has not seen them at the spot. This witness has not supported the prosecution case and on request of the prosecution, the witness was declared hostile and cross examined by the prosecution. In her cross-examination, the witness has denied her statement under Section 161 Cr.PC. She has further said that she was sleeping and no Dibbi (kerosene lamp) was burning. She woke up after hearing the sound of gun shot. She has also contradicted the suggestion given by the prosecution that she has entered into a compromise with her uncle and due to this she is not giving correct statement. On further examination by the defence, she again reiterated that she was sleeping inside the house and her husband was sleeping at the door. She and Naimichand and Gyaniram came outside after hearing the sound of gun shot and till then no one told the name of the person who fired the gun shot. It was dark night.

11. Constable - Nahar Singh, P.W.-4 is a formal witness who has proved the other prosecution papers, like Chik FIR, copy of the G.D., Panchayatnama and related papers, the site plan and charge sheet by secondary evidence.

12. Out of the two eye witnesses examined by the prosecution, one witness, P.W.-3 Bohri has become hostile and has not supported the prosecution case and now the prosecution case rests on the sole testimony of eye witness - Nathi Lal (P.W.-

2). Although, he has supported the allegations of the FIR, but his oral testimony is not inspiring. The prosecution case is that deceased along with his son-in-law, Nathi Lal (P.W.-2) and his wife and Nemichand and Gyan Chand were sitting under the Chhappar which is outside the house and were talking. It does not seem natural and probable because the village people believes in the principle of early to bed and early to rise. They take their dinner just after sun set and go to bed early. It is also pertinent to mention that incident is of first week of March, the winter season. It has also come in evidence that the house of deceased, Jagjit is one furlong away from the village and after some distance the ravines begin. So sitting and talking under Chhappar outside the house at 11:00 p.m. does not appear to be probable. It is also the prosecution case that the accused persons armed with lathi, ballam and country made pistols came there while deceased, her two brothers, son-in-law and daughter were sitting under the Chhappar. Accused, Ramcharan fired a single shot which hit the deceased and all accused ran away. None of the persons present on the spot even tried to pacify or intervene or save the deceased. No scuffle has taken place. No other person has received any kind of injury and all accused made good there escape just thereafter without causing any harm to the complainant or his wife. This story also not seem probable. There are other contradictions also in the oral statement of Nathi Lal (P.W.-2). In his cross examination, he has said that Dibbi (kerosene lamp) was kept in tidwall of the northern wall while in the site plan (Exihibit Ka-7), it is shown in the eastern wall and not in the northern wall as stated by Nathi Lal (P.W.-2). The witness has further stated in his cross examination that there was no other cot in the south of Jagjit's cot but in the site plan (Exibit Ka-7) three cots have been shown in the south of cot where dead body of the deceased was lying.

13. Gyan Singh named as Gyani in the FIR has been produced by the accused in defence as D.W.-1 and who is the cousin of the deceased. He has said that Jagjit was murdered two years ago in midnight in the fields. He also went there. Nemi, Nathi, Bohri and brothers of Jagjit also reached there. We all reached there after the murder. No one has seen the occurrence. Nathi went to lodge a report in the morning and till then name of the culprits were not known. In cross examination, this witness has contradicted his statement recorded by the investigating officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and has also denied the suggestion that he is giving false evidence due to compromise.

14. P.W.-3, Bohri is the daughter of the deceased and the wife of the complainant Nathi Lal although she has not supported the prosecution case and has become hostile but her oral statement cannot be ignored on this ground. She has said that when her father was murdered, she was living in her Mayaka. She has further said that it was 12:00 p.m. in the night her father was sleeping under the Chhappar at the door of the house and she was inside the house. In her cross examination, she has said that on hearing the sound of fire, she came out. She has also said that she was sleeping and no Dibbi (kerosene lamp) was burning, she woke up on hearing the sound of fire. She has further said that her husband was also sleeping at the door. So the statement of this witness appears to be natural and probable and from the evidence on record it appears that the incident has occurred in the dead of night in darkness when all were asleep. It is a hit and run case and no one had opportunity to see and identify the assailant. The statement of defence witness gets support from the oral statements of P.W.-3, Bohri and statements of these witnesses contradict and belie the oral testimony of P.W.-2, Nathi Lal. There are major contradictions and discrepancies in the statement of Nathi Lal. His oral testimony is not reliable. Learned trial court has erred in placing reliance on sole testimony of Nathi Lal (P.W.-2).

15. Learned AGA contended that oral evidence of Nathi Lal(P.W.-2), complainant and eye witness is consistent and is also supported with medical evidence. Bohri (P.W.-3) has become hostile and has not supported the prosecution case due to fear so it will not adversely affect the prosecution case and reliability of Nathi Lal (P.W.-2). These arguments are not convincing. As discussed above, the oral testimony of Nathi Lal (P.W.-2) is not inspiring and reliable. Bohri is the wife of Nathi Lal (P.W.-2), who has lodged the FIR and has named accused persons and also deposed against them in Court. Hence, it cannot be considered that wife of Nathi Lal out of fear has become hostile and has not supported the prosecution case. Contrary to it, from material on record, it appears that her statement is more natural and probable and it also gets support from defence witness - Gyan Singh who is named as eye witness in the FIR.

16. From appreciation of evidence on record, it appears that incident has occurred in the night while all were asleep and a single shot was fired by someone who made good his escape from the spot before anyone can notice the incident.

17. From the aforesaid discussion, it is clear that the sole testimony of Nathi Lal (P.W.-2) is not reliable and there is no other witness to corroborate his oral version. The learned trial court has failed to appreciate the evidence properly and the finding of conviction recorded by it is not sustainable. The appeal is liable to be allowed.

18. The criminal appeal is allowed. The conviction of the appellant no. 2, Ramcharan under Section 302 IPC and consequent sentence of rigorous imprisonment is set aside. Appellant no. 2 / accused, Ramcharan is acquitted from charge under Section 302 IPC. Appellant / accused is in jail. Appellant / accused be released forthwith if not wanted any other case.

19. Lower court record along with copy of the judgment be transmitted to the learned trial court immediately.

THE HON'BLE SUBASH CHANDRA SHARMA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1362 of 1983

Chhotey ...Appellant(In Jail)
Versus
The State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri N.K. Shukla, Sri Mohammad Waseem, Sri B.D. Sharma

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A.

(A) Criminal Law - appeal against conviction under Section 307 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 307 , 323 - The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Section 313 - motive loses all its importance in a case where direct evidence of eye witnesses is available because even if there is a very strong motive for the accused person to commit a particular crime, they cannot be convicted if the evidence of eye witnesses is not convincing.(Para - 23)

(B) Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 307 - ingredients - act attempted should be of such nature that if not prevented or intercepted it would lead to the death of victim - intention or mens rea to kill is needed to be proved clearly without doubt for this purpose the prosecution can make use of the circumstances like attack by dangerous weapon on fatal part of body, however, the intention to kill cannot be gauged simply by seriousness of the injury caused - intention and knowledge of the result of the act being done is the main thing that is needed to be proved for conviction under Section 307 I.P.C.- assault on the head with lathi - always a question of fact - whether there was intention to cause death or other injury - circumstances, manner of assault, nature and number of injuries will all have to be considered cumulatively. (Para - 36,41)

On 05.02.1980 at about 8:00 P.M. in the night - appellant in company of his other friend - caused simple injuries with lathi to Informant on his head and arms - while taking heat beside the fire in the field - where engine was placed - Finding recorded by the learned trial court to this extent - holding guilty to appellant - convicted appellant - hence appeal.

HELD:- Injuries caused by lathi in the opinion of doctor were simple, therefore, it is apparent that accused did not want to use lathi with the intention of causing death of informant. Present case does not fulfill the ingredients of Section 307 I.P.C. but it comes within the ambit of Section 323 I.P.C. Hence conviction of the appellant under Section 307 I.P.C. cannot be sustained. No any purpose will be served by sending the appellant (aged about 81 years) in jail after elapse of 41 years from the incident. Period of sentence is reduced to the period already undergone by him. (Para - 43,48)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subash Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 28.04.1983 passed by 4th Additional Sessions Judge, Budaun in Sessions Trial

No.242 of 1981 arising out of Case Crime No.45 of 1980, Police Station Dataganj, District Budaun by which appellant has been convicted under Section 307 I.P.C. and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a term of 3 years.

2. The prosecution story in brief is that two months prior to the present incident appellant and Rajbhar abongwith his other companions committed dacoity in the house of Shyam Pal (brother of informant). They were identified and named in the F.I.R. Atiraj brother of informant was witness in that case. That was the reason appellant was annoyed with him. On 05.02.1980 at about 8:00 P.M. in the night when informant with Shivlal was sitting at the tube well in his field, appellant alongwith some unknown person equipped with lathi came there and asked about Atiraj. At this informant-Jhandu Singh told him that Atiraj was at his home. Meanwhile Chhotey started assaulting informant with lathi and caused injuries. The appellant was identified in the light of torch and other unknown person could not be identified. An F.I.R. was lodged at Police Station Dataganj on 06.02.1980 at about 9:15 A.M. Jhandu Singh was sent to PHC Dataganj for medical examination from where he was referred to District Hospital, Budaun where he was examined on 06.02.1980 at about 12:30 P.M.

3. Injuries found on the person of Jhandu Singh are as here under :-

(I) Lacerated wound 3cm x 1cm bone deep on left side of the forehead.

(II) Incised wound 4cm x 1.5cm bone deep on right frontal region of head.

(III) Lacerated wound 1cm x 0.5cm, 10 cm above left ear on temporal region.

(IV) Lacerated wound 2cm x 0.5cm scalp deep, 1cm behind injury no.3.

(V) Lacerated wound 3cm x 0.5cm scalp deep on left occipital region of head.

(VI) Lacerated wound 4cm x 1cm scalp deep, 9cm behind injury no.5.

(X) Abraded contusion 16cm x 10cm lower part of left fore-arm and hand. Advised X-ray.

Duration about half day (12 hours). All except no.2 by blunt object, no.2 by sharp edged cutting object. All simple except no.1 & 2 Advised x-ray skull.

4. Investigation of the case was handed over to S.I. Babu Ram who after completing investigation submitted charge-sheet against Chotey under Section 307 I.P.C.

5. The court concerned took cognizance and afforded essential prosecution papers to the appellant and committed the case to the court of Session for trial.

6. The trial court framed charge under Section 307 I.P.C. against the appellant which was read over and explained to him. He did not plead guilty but denied the charge and claimed for trial.

7. Prosecution examined PW-1 Dr. S.C. Naugriya, PW-2 H.C. Ramveer Singh, PW-3 Jhandu Singh, PW-4 Shivlal and PW-5 Babu Ram the Investigating Officer.

8. After prosecution evidence statement of appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded in which he stated the prosecution story to be false. He had also stated that the statements made by the witnesses were false. He had been implicated in the case owing to an enmity about a field. He further stated that in wrestling he defeated Atiraj, so for damaging his good health he had been implicated falsely.

9. Opportunity for defence evidence was given to appellant but no evidence was adduced on his part.

10. After hearing the arguments for accused/appellant as well as the State, learned trial court passed the impugned judgment dated 28.04.1983 while convicting and sentencing the appellant as aforesaid.

11. Being aggrieved with this judgment and order this appeal has been preferred.

12. Heard Mr. Mohammad Waseem, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Arun Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that in this case the identity of appellant is not certain because the occurrence took place in the night. There was no source of light. Lathi has been said to be used in causing injuries to informant Jhandu Singh but one incised wound was found on his person which is not probable with lathi. No blood stains were found on the place of occurrence. Atiraj brother of Jhandu Singh was defeated by appellant on account of that enmity he has falsely been implicated in this case. Now the appellant is near about 81 years old and he has been in jail for a period of more than one year. He further argued that the nature of injuries found on the person of informant have been said to be caused with lathi which is hard and blunt object. All injuries are simple in nature. Anyhow injuries were not fatal to the life of the injured. The nature of injuries brings the case within the purview of Section 323 I.P.C. in place of Section 307 I.P.C. Learned trial court has not considered all these facts while passing the judgment but convicted and sentenced the appellant arbitrarily which is illegal and not based on the evidence on record, therefore, it is liable to be set aside and appeal be allowed.

14. Learned A.G.A. opposed the contentions raised by learned counsel for the appellant and argued that Jhandu Singh was injured in this case who supported the prosecution version. Shivlal and Rajpal were eye-witnesses who have also supported the prosecution version. Medical report also corroborates the prosecution case. There was source of torch light which was taken there by Rajpal, as a result there was no suspicion in identifying the appellant by the informant. Blood stained soil was taken from the place of occurrence by Investigating Officer. There is no ground to reverse the findings recorded by the learned trial court and the impugned judgment and order convicting and sentencing the appellant is sound and based on legal principles. The appeal is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed.

15. Before proceeding to deal with the contentions raised by learned counsel for the appellant, it will be convenient to take note of the evidence as adduced by the prosecution.

16. PW-3 Jhandu Singh is informant who had stated that it was at about 8 P.M. he was at the well where engine was placed and Shivlal was also with him at that time and they were taking heat with fire. Meanwhile appellant Chotey and one other person came there and Chotey asked about Atiraj. Jhandu Singh replied that Atiraj was at home then Chotey uttered "isi ko le lo" and started beating him with intention to kill. He identified them in the light of torch but he did not know the name of other person. On making hue and cry Rajpal also came there with a torch. He sustained injuries on his head and arms. Accused persons went away in the direction of North West after causing injuries. Prior to the said incident appellant Chotey committed dacoity at the house of Shyamlal who is his nephew. In that case his brother Atiraj Singh is witness and as a result the companion of appellant Chhotey was imprisoned. Case against the appellant was still pending. After the accused persons went away his brother Atiraj Singh also came there at about 9-10 P.M. They arrived at home in the morning and went to police station with his brother. He got tehrir written by Rajpal in the village and affixed his thumb impression. On the basis of which case was registered at the police station. He proved tehrir as Exibit Ka-4.

17. PW-4 Shivlal deposed that it was time about 8 P.M. engine was placed at Sarman Singh's tube well, it belonged to Jhandu Singh who was present there. Both of them were taking heat with fire. Shivlal was one fourth partner in the land of Jhandu Singh. Appellant Chhotey and one other person came there, both of them were equipped with lathi and Chhotey asked about Atiraj. Jhandu Singh lighted his torch and told him that Atiraj Singh was at his home. Chhotey uttered "isi ko dekhenge" and both of them started beating Jhandu Singh. He began to cry after going on some distance and Jhandu Singh also made hue and cry. Rajpal also came there and made noise then other people from the village also came there. Atiraj Singh also came there but both of the accused persons fled away.

18. PW-1 is Dr. S.C. Naugriya who examined injured Jhandu Singh and prepared injury report dated 06.02.1980 at about 12:30 P.M. He proved the injury report as prepared by him in his handwriting and signature as Exibit Ka-1. Giving detail of injuries, he opined that except injury no.2 all injuries were possible with some blunt object like lathi and all the injuries were about half day old. Injury no.2 was possible with some incised weapon. All injuries except injury nos.1, 2, 9 & 10 were simple. Injury nos.1, 2, 9 & 10 kept under observation and advised for x-ray. All injuries were possible to be caused on 05.02.1980 at about 8-9:00 P.M.

19. PW-2 Head Constable Ramveer Singh has stated that he prepared F.I.R. in his hand writing which he proved as Exibit Ka-2 and also stated that he entered the contents of F.I.R. into G.D at report no.14 which he proved as Exibit Ka-3.

20. PW-5 S.I. Babu Ram was the Investigating Officer of this case and he proved the investigation and the site plan as Exibit Ka-5, fard of taking torch into his possession as Exibit Ka- 6 to 8. He also collected blood stained soil and plain soil from the place of occurrence and prepared fard as Exibit Ka-10. Thereafter, he concluded the investigation and submitted charge-sheet as Exibit Ka-10.

21. Occurrence took place on 05.02.1980 at about 8:00 P.M. and F.I.R. was lodged at the police station on 06.02.1980 at 9:15 P.M. There is delay in lodging the F.I.R. but informant lived in a village which was five miles away from the police station, therefore, it could not be possible to go to the police station in the night for lodging F.I.R. In the morning he reached at police station and lodged F.I.R. without making any delay. In this way, the delay in lodging the F.I.R. cannot be said to be material in the circumstances of the present case.

22. So far as motive is concerned, there is no need to prove motive in cases of direct evidence.

23. It is settled law that the motive loses all its importance in a case where direct evidence of eye witnesses is available because even if there is a very strong motive for the accused person to commit a particular crime, they cannot be convicted if the evidence of eye witnesses is not convincing.

24. We find that the Supreme Court has clearly opined in various decisions, such as Gopi Ram v St. Of UP, 2006 (55) ACC 673 SC, State of UP v Nawab Singh; 2005 SCC (Criminal) 33, Shivraj Bapuray Jadhav v State of Karnataka; (2003) 6 SCC 392, R.R. Reddy v State of AP, AIR 2006 SC 1656, Sucha Singh v State of Punjab; AIR 2003 SC 1471, State of Rajasthan v Arjun Singh AIR 2011 SC 3380, Varun Chaudhry v State of Rajasthan AIR 2011 SC 72 that the prosecution case could not be denied on the ground of alleged absence or insufficiency of motive. Motive is insignificant in cases of direct evidence of eyewitnesses. Failure to prove motive or absence of evidence on the point of motive would not be fatal to the prosecution case when the other reliable, truthful and acceptable evidence is available on record sufficient to establish the guilt of accused persons.

25. PW-3 Jhandu Singh is informant and injured witness. PW-4 Shivlal was present on the spot at the time of occurrence and was taking heat with the fire in company of informant Jhandu Singh.

26. PW-3 Jhandu Singh is injured witness. His presence on the spot cannot be denied. The reliability of injured witness has well been explained by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of U.P. vs. Naresh & others (2011) 4 SCC 324 from which a relevant para is reproduced hereinunder for ready reference :-

".....The evidence of an injured witness must be given due weightage being a stamped witness, thus, his presence cannot be doubted. His statement is generally considered to be very reliable and it is unlikely that he has spared the actual assailant in order to falsely implicate someone else. The testimony of an injured witness has its own relevancy and efficacy as he has sustained injuries at the time and place of occurrence and this lends support to his testimony that he was present during the occurrence.

Thus, the testimony of an injured witness is accorded a special status in law. The witness would not like or want to let his actual assailant go unpunished merely to implicate a third person falsely for the commission of the offence.

Thus, the evidence of the injured witness should be relied upon unless there are grounds for the rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies therein. [Vide: Jarnail Singh v. State of Punjab, (2009) 9 SCC 719; Balraje @ Trimbak v. State of Maharashtra, (2010) 6 SCC 673; and Abdul Sayad v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2010) 10 SCC 259]. "

27. In another decision in the case of Mamo Dutt vs. State of U.P. (2012) 4 SCC 79, Hon'ble the Apex Court again reiterated the evidentiary value required to be attached to the evidence of an injured witness by observing thus:-

"Normally, an injured witness would enjoy greater credibility because he is the sufferer himself and thus, there will be no occasion for such a person to state an incorrect version of the occurrence, or to involve anybody falsely and in the bargain protect the real culprit.".....

28. Again in the case of Balwan Singh & others vs. State Of Haryana (2014) 13 SCC 560 Hon'ble the Apex Court observed thus:

"It is trite law that the evidence of injured witness, being a stamped witness, is accorded a special status in law. This is as a consequence of the fact that injury to the witness is an inbuilt guarantee of his presence at the scene of the crime and because the witness would not want to let actual assailant go unpunished."

29. PW-3 Jhandu Singh got injuries on his person in the incident. He was examined by Dr. S.C. Naugriya on 06.02.1980 at about 12:30 P.M. and injuries on his person were recorded by the doctor. Those injuries have been said to be caused on 05.02.1980 at about 8-9:00 P.M. in the night as stated by the doctor. Jhandu Singh has also stated about the incident to have taken place at about 8'o clock in the night. He also stated that injuries were caused on his head and arms. This gets support with the medical report Exibit Ka-1 and also with the statement given by PW-1 Dr. S.C. Naugriya.

30. PW-3 Jhandu Singh has told in his statement that accused/appellant was having lathi and caused injuries with it on his head and arms. PW-1 Dr. S.C. Naugriya has also mentioned in Exibit Ka-1 that except injury no.2 all injuries were possible to be caused with blunt object like lathi and injury no.2 was likely to be caused with some sharp object. He has further explained that injury no.2 could be caused with lathi having some sharp edged blade. In this way, it stands proved that injuries to PW-3 Jhandu Singh were caused with lathi at about 8:00 P.M. in the night of 05.02.1980.

31. Incident took place in the field where engine was placed on the well, which has clearly been stated by Jhandu Singh PW-3 and Shivlal PW-4. PW-5 S.I. Babu Ram had also explained in his statement about the place of occurrence which also gets support from site plan Exibit Ka-5. During cross-examination also informant Jhandu Singh had explained the place of occurrence to be on the well in the field where engine was placed and he had also explained the directions and about the fields situated around the site. Blood stained and plain soil was also taken from the place of occurrence by Investigating Officer during inspection of spot and fard was prepared which he proved as Exibit Ka-9. All these support the statement of informant Jhandu Singh about the place of occurrence being in the field at well where engine was placed.

32. So far as the fact of enmity between the informant and accused/appellant is concerned, appellant has stated in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that he was a wrestler and defeated Atiraj Singh brother of the informant in wrestling that was the reason he was implicated falsely and also on account of enmity related to field. In this regard nothing has been stated by informant Jhandu Singh during his cross-examination and no any other evidence has been brought on record by the appellant. On the other hand, it has been stated by the informant that appellant committed dacoity in the house of his nephew Shyam Pal in which his brother Atiraj Singh was witness. Co-accused was convicted and case was pending against him on account of which appellant was annoyed with Atiraj brother of informant. Further it has also been explained by the informant during cross-examination that there was no any field of appellant situated in the area. No other proof has been given by appellant which could show that his field was also situated near the field of informant and that caused enmity between them. So the argument relating to the fact of enmity due to wrestling and land dispute is not tenable.

33. It has further been submitted that in this case occurrence took place in the night at about 8:00 P.M. there was no source of light, so appellant could not have been identified by the informant but only on account of enmity he named him falsely. PW-3 Jhandu Singh had clearly stated during his examination-in-chief that he identified appellant in the light of torch. During cross-examination also he has reiterated the fact of torch. PW-4 Shivlal had also stated that he identified the appellant in the light of torch. This also gets supports with the statement of PW-6 S.I. Baburam who took the torch in his possession and prepared fard Exibit Ka-6 & 7. Argument in this regard has no force.

34. From testimony of injured informant PW-3 Jhandu Singh and eye-witness PW-4 Shivlal, it is proved beyond reasonable doubt that on 05.02.1980 at about 8:00 P.M. in the night appellant Chhotey in company of his other friend caused simple injuries with lathi to Jhandu Singh on his head and arms while taking heat beside the fire in the field where engine was placed. Finding recorded by the learned trial court to this extent, holding guilty to appellant, is correct and it requires no interference.

35. Now the argument by learned counsel for the appellant is that the offence does not come within the ambit of Section 307 I.P.C. because there was no intention to cause death of informant but it squarely falls within the purview of Section 323 I.P.C.

36. So far as, conviction of the appellant under Section 307 I.P.C. is concerned, it is expedient to examine the main ingredients of Section 307 I.P.C. which are (I) the act attempted should be of such nature that if not prevented or intercepted it would lead to the death of victim, (ii) the intention or mens rea to kill is needed to be proved clearly without doubt for this purpose the prosecution can make use of the circumstances like attack by dangerous weapon on fatal part of body, however, the intention to kill cannot be gauged simply by seriousness of the injury caused, (iii) the intention and knowledge of the result of the act being done is the main thing that is needed to be proved for conviction under Section 307 I.P.C.

37. In this regard, in the case of State Of Maharashtra vs Balram Bama Patil AIR 1983 SC 305, Hon'ble the Apex Court held in para 9:

"To justify a conviction under this section it is not essential that bodily injury capable of causing death should have been inflicted. Although the nature of injury actually caused may often give considerable assistance in coming to a finding as to the intention of the accused, such intention may also be deduced from other circumstances, and may even, in some cases, be ascertained without any reference at all to actual wounds. The section makes a distinction between an act of the accused and its result, if any. Such an act may not be attended by any result so far as the person assaulted is concerned, but still there may be cases in which the culprit would be liable under this section. It is not necessary that the injury actually caused to the victim of the assault should be sufficient under ordinary circumstances to cause the death of the person assaulted. What the Court has to see is whether the act, irrespective of its result, was done with the intention or knowledge and under circumstances mentioned in this section. An attempt in order to be criminal need not be the penultimate act. It is sufficient in law, if there is present an intent coupled with some overt act in execution thereof."

38. Hon'ble the Apex Court has held in the case of Jage Ram vs. State of Haryana (2015) 11 SCC 366 that :-

"12. For the purpose of conviction under Section 307 IPC, prosecution has to establish (i) the intention to commit murder and (ii) the act done by the accused. The burden is on the prosecution that accused had attempted to commit the murder of the prosecution witness. Whether the accused person intended to commit murder of another person would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. To justify a conviction under Section 307 IPC, it is not essential that fatal injury capable of causing death should have been caused. Although the nature of injury actually caused may be of assistance in coming to a finding as to the intention of the accused, such intention may also be adduced from other circumstances. The intention of the accused is to be gathered from the circumstances like the nature of the weapon used, words used by the accused at the time of the incident, motive of the accused, parts of the body where the injury was caused and the nature of injury and severity of the blows given etc."

39. Again it was reiterated in the Case of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Kanha @ Om Prakash, CrlA. No. 1589 of 2018.

40. For the conviction under this section more importance is to be given to mens rea or intention than the actus reus or the actual acts itself. The attempt should arise out of a specific intention or desire to murder the victim. The nature of weapon used, the manner in which it is used, motive for the crime, severity of the blow, the part of the body where the injuries inflicted is all taken into consideration to determine the intention.

41. In a case of an assault on the head with lathi, it is always a question of fact whether there was intention to cause death or other injury. The circumstances, manner of assault, nature and number of injuries will all have to be considered cumulatively.

42. In the F.I.R., it has been mentioned that appellant asked informant about his brother Atiraj Singh and when he told that Atiraj Singh was at home, appellant alongwith his friend assaulted with lathi with the intention of causing death but it has not been mentioned anywhere that appellant was uttering such words while causing injuries on his person. Even during his examination before the court he has not stated that appellant was uttering such words expressing his intention to kill him. PW-4 Shivlal has also not stated any word in this regard that appellant was uttering words expressing his intention to kill Jhandu Singh. It reveals that appellant might be furious on Atiraj because he was witness in the case of dacoity which was committed at the house of Shyampal nephew of informant but not against the informant Jhandu Singh. When Jhandu Singh told him that Atiraj Singh was at home appellant assaulted him with lathi while saying "isi ko le lo". This expression does not at all infer the intention of appellant to kill Jhandu Singh. No any other enmity with the appellant has been disclosed in the testimony of informant during examination before the Court, therefore, it cannot be concluded that there was any intention or motive in the mind of appellant to kill Jhandu Singh. The nature of injuries caused to Jhandu Singh also shows that all injuries are simple though some of them are on the head and others are on his arms but no any injury is of such nature as can be said to be grievous. In the opinion of the doctor PW-1 all injuries are simple and caused with lathi. He has nowhere stated that the injuries are fatal to the life of injured Jhandu Singh. Though lathi can be used to cause grievous injuries but it depends on force used. The nature of injuries shows that no much force was used while making assault with lathi otherwise it might have caused grievous injuries on the head and on the other parts of the body. In this way, it transpires from material on record that appellant had no intention to cause death of informant Jhandu Singh but he only intended to cause voluntarily simple hurt to him which cannot come within the purview of offence as defined under Section 307 I.P.C. and the manner committing the offence itself brings the case within the limits of Section 323 I.P.C.

43. Moreover, in the present case injuries were caused by lathi. The injuries in the opinion of doctor were simple, therefore, it is apparent that accused did not want to use lathi with the intention of causing death of informant. From this aspect also the present case does not fulfill the ingredients of Section 307 I.P.C. but it comes within the ambit of Section 323 I.P.C. Hence conviction of the appellant under Section 307 I.P.C. cannot be sustained.

44. In these circumstances of the case, this court is of the view that conviction of the appellant under Section 307 IPC cannot be sustained but appellant is liable to be convicted for the offence under Section 323 I.P.C.

45. In the case of Neelam Bahal and another vs. State of Uttarakhand 2010 (2) SCC 229 where conviction and sentence of appellant under Section 307 I.P.C. was converted into Section 326 I.P.C. simplicitor. Incident took place in the year 1987 and appellant was about 25 years old. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, Hon'ble the Apex Court, reduced the sentence to the period already undergone by him.

46. In the present case, it is noteworthy that the incident took place in the year 1980 i.e. 41 years ago and it is said that now appellant is above 81 years old person. Record does not show that the appellant has any criminal antecedent and learned counsel for appellant has also submitted the same which could not be rebutted by learned counsel for the State.

47. Record shows that appellant has remained in jail from 10.03.1980 to 28.06.1980 and from 28.04.1983 to 21.03.1984 i.e. more than one year.

48. To sum up, the conviction & sentence imposed on the appellant under Section 307 I.P.C. is set aside instead he is convicted under Section 323 I.P.C. No any purpose will be served by sending the appellant (aged about 81 years) in jail after elapse of 41 years from the incident. The period of sentence is reduced to the period already undergone by him.

49. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed.

CRIMINAL SIDE

THE HON'BLE ANIL KUMAR OJHA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2327 of 1982

Natthu Singh & Ors. ...Appellants(In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Pt. Mohan Chandra, Sri Anurag Shukla, Sri Imranullah, Sri Nazrul Islam Jafri, Sri A.B.L. Gaur (Senior Adv.)

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A.

(A) Criminal Law - appeal against conviction - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - 304 read with Section 34 - The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Section 161,313 - law on the point of cross case - non explanation of injuries by prosecution will not affect the prosecution case where injuries sustained by the accused are minor and superficial in nature.(Para - 25)

(B) Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - non-examination of eye-witness cannot be pressed into service like a ritualistic formula for discarding the prosecution case with a stroke of pen - Court can convict an accused on statement of sole witness even if he is relative of the deceased and non examination of independent witness would not be fatal to the case of prosecution - evidence of related witnesses is required to be carefully scrutinized and appreciated before any conclusion is made to rest upon it - if the testimony of an eye witness is otherwise found trustworthy and reliable, the same cannot be disbelieved merely on certain insignificant normal or natural contradiction have appeared in his testimony.(Para -18)

(B) Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 300 (Exception 2) - culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, in the exercise in good faith of the right of private defence of person or property, exceeds power given to him by law and causes the death of the person against whom he is exercising such right of private defence without premeditation, and without any intention of doing more harm than is necessary for the purpose of such defence - suffice to say - appellant has not been convicted and sentenced for the offence of murder - convicted only under Section 304 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. - not entitled to benefit of doubt.(Para - 28)

Deceased uprooted some pea plants - appellant along with co-accused persons assaulted the deceased by lathi and farsa - Hearing the cry, witness reached on the spot - other witnesses PW-2, PW-3 also reached there and saw the incident - witness has said that incident took place at 06:00AM in the morning - at that time his brother deceased has gone to attend the nature's call - Case registered by PW-1, complainant (brother of deceased) - against the appellants - appellants convicted - hence appeal.

HELD:- Prosecution established its case beyond reasonable doubt against the sole surviving appellant no. 3 (Jaibir). Appellant has been convicted under Section 304 read with Section 34 of I.P.C.. Impugned judgment and order passed by lower court is within four corners of law. No illegality in the impugned order, therefore impugned order passed with regard to conviction and sentence of the appellant under Section 304 I.P.C., is hereby confirmed. (Para - 30,31,32,33)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anil Kumar Ojha, J.)

This appeal relates to year 1982 and the same is nearly 39 years old.

2. Appeal of appellant no. 1 Nathu Singh has already been abated vide order dated 01.08.2016. Office has submitted report dated 02.08.2021 that appellant no. 2 Kali Charan has passed away therefore, appeal of appellant no. 2 Kali Charan stands abated. Now, the case of appellant no. 3 Jaibir Singh only is to be examined.

3. Heard learned counsel for the appellant no. 3 Jaibir, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the records.

4. Challenge in this criminal appeal is the judgment and order dated 19.08.1982 passed by Vth Additional Sessions Judge, Aligarh in S.T. No. 40 of 1980 (State v. Nathu Singh and others), under Section 304 I.P.C., P.S. Gangiri, District Aligarh whereby the learned Vth Additional Sessions Judge, Aligarh has convicted and sentenced the appellants under Section 304 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. to undergo seven years of rigorous imprisonment.

5. Shorn of unnecessary details, the prosecution case is that the complainant Jauhari lodged an F.I.R. on 25.02.1979 at 17:00 hours in the evening at P.S. Gangiri, District Aligarh stating therein that on 25.02.1979 at about 06:00 hours in the morning the deceased Govind went to answer the nature's call in the field, there, he extirpated peas from the Nathu's field. Nathu, his son Kali Charan and Jaibir were guarding that field. Kali Charan was armed with farsa, Nathu and Jaibir were armed with lathi. They caught hold Govind and started assaulting by lathi and farsa. After hearing scream of Govind, complainant Jauhari, Kamta Singh, Khubaram and Sarnam who belong to his village rushed to the spot, when complainant and witnesses reached there, Kali Charan exhorted and said that in case they will come forward, they will be killed. They left the injured Govind lying on the field there. Thereafter, complainant was taking the injured to hospital in bullock-cart and in the way to the hospital injured Govind died near Bilona. The complainant and witnesses have seen the accused persons assaulting the deceased by lathi and farsa.

6. On written report submitted by complainant Jauhari, a case was registered against the appellants Nathu, Kali Charan and Jaibir in Case Crime No. 30 of 1979, under Section 304 I.P.C., P.S. Gangiri, District Aligarh.

7. The investigation of case was entrusted to PW4 Banwari Lal Gautam who recorded statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C., visited the spot and prepared site plan. After completion of investigation, investigating officer submitted charge sheet against the appellants Nathu, Kali Charan and Jaibir Singh in Case Crime No. 30 of 1979, under Section 304 I.P.C., P.S. Gangiri, District Aligarh.

8. The then Additional Judicial Magistrate, Aligarh, on 22.10.1980 committed the case of appellants to the Sessions Court for trial. The then Additional Sessions Judge, Aligarh on 23.04.1981 framed charges against the appellants Nathu, Kali Charan and Jaibir under Sections 304 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. and in alternative Section 302 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. Appellants denied the charges and claimed trial.

9. Prosecution was called upon to adduce evidence to substantiate the prosecution case. Evidence of PW1 Jauhari, PW2 Sarnam Singh, PW3 Kamta Prasad were recorded to prove the prosecution case. All the three witnesses have supported the prosecution case.

10. PW4 Banwarli Lal Gautam is the investigating officer of the case and proved the documents such as panchayatnama Ex. K-2, F.I.R. Ex. K-3, Chik Report Ex. K-5, Site plan Ex. K-7 and charge sheet Ex. K-8.

11. PW5 Dr. K. K. Agarwal conducted the post mortem examination of the deceased Govind on 28.02.1979 and found following ante mortem injuries on his person:

(1) Incised wound 1-1/2" x 1/2" x muscle deep on the right upper lip.

(3) Lacerated wound 3/4" x 3/10" x muscle deep on the back of right elbow joint.

(4) Lacerated wound 2 1" x 4/10" x muscle deep on upper part of right forearm on the back.

(5) Lacerated wound 1/2" x 1/4" x muscle deep on the back of right elbow joint.

(6) Contusion on 3" x 2" on the back of right palm.

(7) Lacerated wound 1/2" x 1/4" x muscle deep on the front of right leg in it upper 1/3rd.

(8) Lacerated wound 3" x 1" x bone deep on the front of right leg below injury no. 7. Bone fracture & protended out.

(9) Lacerated wound 1-1/4" x 1/2" x muscle deep on the outer side of right leg on its middle 1/3rd part.

(10) Lacerated wound 3-1/2" x 2" x bone deep on the front of right leg on its middle of lower 1/3rd part. Tibia on preclaimed and protended out.

(11) Lacerated wound 4" x 1" x bone deep on the shine of left leg 2" below the knee joint.

(12) Lacerated wound 4" x 1/2" x bone deep 1" below the injury No. 11.

(13) Abraded contusion 4" x 2" on the back of left fore arm on the middle 1/3rd.

(14) Contusion 2" x 2" on the outer side of Rt. Buttock.

(15) Contusion 8" x 3" on the front of left side of chest 6" below the coller bone.

12. After completion of evidence, statement of appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded. Appellant Jaibir denied the evidence and said that he does not know how and when the deceased Govind died. Police has colluded with complainant Jauhari. He has been falsely implicated owing to enmity. All the witnesses are relatives of the deceased Govind.

13. Defence also produced DW1 S. N. Sharma as defence witness.

14. After hearing learned counsel for the prosecution and defence, the then Vth Additional Sessions Judge, Aligarh convicted and sentenced the appellant as above.

15. Aggrieved by the aforesaid order appellant preferred this appeal before this Court.

16. Learned counsel for the appellant no. 3 Jaibir submitted that there is unexplained delay of eleven hours in lodging the F.I.R. Witnesses have not seen the occurrence. All the witnesses are interested witnesses. There is cross version of the present case. Prosecution case is doubtful. Appellant Jaibir is entitled to benefit of doubt and deserves acquittal. Appeal should be allowed and appellant Jaibir should be acquitted.

17. Per contra, learned A.G.A. opposed the above submissions put forward by learned counsel for the appellant and contended that prosecution cannot take the defence of cross case. The evidence of witnesses is reliable and trustworthy. Further submitted that delay in lodging the F.I.R. is not fatal for the prosecution case as informant/complainant Jauhari is of the village background. Prosecution has established its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellants including Jaibir. There is no contradiction between oral and medical evidence rather medical evidence corroborates the prosecution case. Appeal has no legs to stand, hence, it should be dismissed.

18. Learned counsel for the appellant Jaibir submitted that PW1 is brother of deceased Govind. PW2 Sarnam Singh is also related with the informant and deceased. PW3 Kamta Prasad is also related witness, so relying on the testimony of the related witnesses, it would not be safe to record conviction against the appellant. Prosecution has not produced any independent witness. He further submitted that there are material contradictions in the statement of witnesses so on account of material contradictions, the evidence of PW1, PW2 and PW3 is unworthy of credence.

In Mukesh and another v. State of NCT of Delhi and others AIR 2017 SC 2161, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the if a witness examined in the court is otherwise found reliable and trustworthy, the fact sought to be proved by the witness need not be further proved through other witnesses though there may be other witnesses available who could have been examined but were not examined. Non-examination of material witnesses is not a mathematical formula for discarding the weight of the testimony available on record however natural, trustworthy and convincing it may be. It is settled law that non-examination of eye-witness cannot be pressed into service like a ritualistic formula for discarding the prosecution case with a stroke of pen. Court can convict an accused on statement of sole witness even if he is relative of the deceased and non examination of independent witness would not be fatal to the case of prosecution.

In Dahari and others Vs. State of U.P. AIR (2012) 10 SCC 256, the Hon. Apex Court has held as follows:

"It is settled legal proposition that the evidence of closely related witnesses is required to be carefully scrutinised and appreciated before any conclusion is made to rest upon it, regarding the convict/accused in a given case. In case the evidence has a ring of truth to it, is cogent, credible and trustworthy, it can, and certainly should, be relied upon."

In Bhagwan Jagannath Markad Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2016) 10 SCC 537, the Hon. Apex Court has held as follows:

"We may also refer to the judgment of this Court in Masalti versus State of U.P. [26] to the effect that the evidence of interested partisan witnesses though required to be carefully weighed, the same could not be discredited mechanically. When a crowd of unlawful assembly commits an offence, it is often not possible to accurately describe the part played by each of the assailants. Though the appreciation of evidence in such cases may be a difficult task, the court has to perform its duty of sifting the evidence carefully."

In Ashok Kumar Chaudhary v. State of Bihar 2008 (61) ACC 972 (SC), the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that if the testimony of an eye witness is otherwise found trustworthy and reliable, the same cannot be disbelieved and rejected merely because certain insignificant, normal or natural contradictions have appeared into his testimony. If the consistencies, contradictions, exaggerations, embellishments and discrepancies in the testimony are only normal and not material in nature, then the testimony of an eye witness has to be accepted and acted upon. Distinctions between normal discrepancies and material discrepancies are that while normal discrepancies do not corrode the credibility of a party's case, material discrepancies do so."

Thus, it is settled legal position that evidence of related witnesses is required to be carefully scrutinized and appreciated before any conclusion is made to rest upon it. It is also settled law that if the testimony of an eye witness is otherwise found trustworthy and reliable, the same cannot be disbelieved merely on certain insignificant normal or natural contradiction have appeared in his testimony.

In the light of above settled legal position the evidence of eye witnesses PW1, PW2 and PW3 is being analyzed and evaluated. Evidence of PW-1, PW-2 & PW-3 cannot be discarded merely on the ground that they are related to each other and interested witnesses.

19. PW1 Jauhari has deposed in the court that on the day of alleged incident, deceased Govind uprooted some pea plants then appellant Jaibir along with co-accused persons assaulted the deceased Govind by lathi and farsa. This witness has further deposed that the appellant Jairam was armed with lathi. Hearing the cry, this witness reached on the spot, other witnesses Sarnam, Kamta Prasad also reached there and saw the incident. This witness has said that incident took place at 06:00AM in the morning, at that time his brother deceased Govind has gone to attend the nature's call. He also has gone for the same purpose. Defence extensively cross-examined this witness but no major contradiction is there in his evidence. This incident occurred in the year 1979, nearly 42 year ago, court can take judicial notice of the fact that at that time in the villages there was scarcity of toilets in U.P. and going to attend nature's call, in the field at 6 O'clock, in the morning was a natural phenomena in the villages in 1979. Evidence of PW1 is natural, probable and reliable.

20. PW2 Sarnam Singh has supported the prosecution version. He has stated in his examination-in-chief that the incident has taken place at about 05:30 or 06:00AM and at that time he was at this home. After hearing the commotion of Govind, Nathu Singh, Jaibir and Kali Charan, he rushed to the occurrence place and stopped before 20-25 steps from Nathu's field and saw that the appellants Nathu, Jaibir and Kali Charan were assaulting the deceased Govind. He further deposed that Kali Charan was having farsa and two other appellants namely Jaibir and Nathu were armed with lathies. Govind's brother Jauhari also reached there. When this witness asked to the appellants not to do so then the appellants threatened this witness to kill. Defence extensively cross-examined this witness but there is no major contradiction in the evidence of this witness. The evidence of PW2 is also probable and credible.

21. PW3 Kamta Prasad has also supported the prosecution version. He has stated in his examination-in-chief that the incident took place at about 06:00AM and at that time he was going to attend nature's call. He heard the noise of appellants Nathu Singh, Jaibir and Kali Charan, who were assaulting the deceased Govind. He further deposed that Kali Charan was having farsa and two other appellants namely Jaibir and Nathu were armed with lathies. Along with him Sarnam and Khoob Singh also reached on the spot. This incident occurred in the year 1979, nearly 42 year ago, court can take judicial notice of the fact that at that time in the villages there was scarcity of toilets in U.P. and going to attend nature's call, in the field at 6 O'clock, in the morning was a natural phenomena in the villages in 1979. Defence extensively cross-examined this witness but there is no major contradiction in the evidence of this witness. The evidence of PW3 is also probable, credible and reliable.

22. Learned counsel for the appellant Jaibir submitted that there is cross version of the present case. There was injury on the person of accused Kali Charan, which was not explained by the prosecution, so prosecution case is doubtful.

23. In Sucha Singh v. State of Punjab, 2003 (47) ACC 555 Hon'ble Apex Court has held that there is no invariable rule that injuries sustained by the accused in the same transaction should be explained by prosecution. When major portion of evidence deficient but residue sufficient to prove the guilt of the accused, conviction can be recorded.

24. In Bhola Yadav v. State of U.P., 2002 (1) JIC 1010 (Allahabad), it has been held that in a criminal trial under Section 302/34 I.P.C. non-disclosure of superficial injuries sustained by the accused would not be fatal to prosecution, if injuries are self explained and consistent with the prosecution case and circumstances themselves explain such injuries. Prosecution case will not be affected adversely.

25. In Bheru Lal v. State of Rajasthan, 2009 (66) ACC 997 (SC) Hon'ble Apex Court has held that non explanation of injuries by prosecution will not affect the prosecution case where injuries sustained by accused are minor and superficial or where the evidence is so clear and cogent, so independent and disinterested, so probable, consistent and creditworthy that it outweighs the effect of the omission on the part of prosecution to explain the injuries.

Bhagwan Jagannath Markad v. State of Maharashtra, (2016) 10 SCC 537; Shaikh Majid v. State of Maharashtra, 2008 (62) ACC 844 (SC) and Sukumar Roy v. State of W.B., AIR 2006 SC 3406, may also be cited on the above point.

Thus settled law on the point of cross case is that non explanation of injuries by prosecution will not affect the prosecution case where injuries sustained by the accused are minor and superficial in nature.

26. So far as the facts of the present case are concerned, DW-1 S. L. Sharma, pharmacist has proved Ex. Kha-2. This witness has deposed in the court in his cross-examination at page no. 32 of the paper book that injured himself came there. There was no police personnel with him and there was no police report. If anyone comes as a private case, then doctor can examine him after taking fees. Perusal of the Ex. Kha-2 reveals that Kali Charan s/o Nathu, R/o Muria Khera Gangiri, Aligarh was examined on 25.02.1979 at 01:00PM. Dr. K. S. Yadav found following injuries on his person: Scratch abrasion linear 4 cm x 1/8 cm. on left side of abdomen lower. Simple by friction with pointed. Duration recent.

Thus, from the above injury of appellant Kali Charan, it can be said that same was simple and superficial in nature and the appellant cannot get the benefit of cross version.

27. Learned counsel for the appellant relied upon the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Lakshmi Singh v. State of Bihar, 1976 LawSuit(SC) 325 and submitted that if there is a defence version which explains the injuries on the person of accused. It is rendered probable so as to throw doubt on the prosecution case. The omission on the part of prosecution to explain injuries on the person of accused assumes much greater importance where the evidence consists of interested or inimical witnesses or where the defence gives a version which completes in probability with that of prosecution one.

The authority relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant is not applicable to the facts of the present case because the injury sustained by the appellant Kali Charan is simple and superficial in nature.

28. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that there is contradiction between medical and oral evidence. So appellant is entitled to benefit of doubt. I do not agree with the above contention of learned counsel for the appellant.

In Thaman Kumar Vs. State of Union Territory of Chandigarh 2003 (3) SCR 1190, the Hon. Apex Court has held as follows:

"The conflict between oral testimony and medical evidence can be of varied dimensions and shapes. There may be a case where there is total absence of injuries which are normally caused by a particular person. There is another category where though the injuries found on the victim are of the type which are possible by the weapon of assault, but the size and dimension of the injuries do not exactly tally with the size and dimension of the weapon. The third category can be where the injuries found on the victim are such which are normally caused by the weapon of assault but they are not found on that portion of the body where they are deposed to have been caused by the eye-witnesses. The same kind of inference cannot be drawn in the three categories of apparent conflict in oral and medical evidence enumerated above. In the first category it may legitimately be inferred that the oral evidence regarding assault having been made from a particular weapon is not truthful. However, in the second and third category no such inference can straightway be drawn.

The manner and method of assault, the position of the victim, the resistance offered by him, the opportunity available to the witnesses to see the occurrence like their distance, presence of light and many other similar factors will have to be taken into consideration in judging the reliability of ocular testimony."

So far as facts of the present case are concerned, there is no contradiction between oral and medical evidence because Dr. K. K. Agarwal P.W.-5 who has conducted the post mortem examination of the deceased Govind found 15 ante mortem injuries on the person of the deceased. He has opined that the injuries on the person of the deceased Govind could be of 25.02.1979 at 06:00 hours in the morning. The lacerated wounds and contusions can be caused by blunt object like lathi and incised wound can be caused by sharp edged weapon like farsa. It is pertinent to note here that PW1 Jauhari, PW2 Sarnam Singh and PW3 Kamta Prasad have given consistent evidence that Kali Charan was armed with farsa and appellant Jaibir and Nathu Singh were armed with lathies. There were injuries of lathi and farsa both on the person of the deceased Govind. Thus, there is no contradiction or inconsistency between medical and oral evidence rather medical evidence corroborates the oral evidence of PW-1 Jauhari, PW-2 Sarnam Singh and PW-3 Kamta Prasad.

29. Learned counsel for the appellant next submitted that there is delay of eleven hours in lodging the F.I.R. and no plausible reason has been given for the same and on this basis the prosecution case should be thrown out. I do not agree with the above contention of the learned counsel for the appellant because the complainant belongs to village background. It is pertinent to note here that the injured Govind was being taken to hospital by bullock-cart which can travel one or two kilometers per hour. It is also notable that on the way to hospital the injured Govind succumbed to injuries. Therefore, it can be held that under the circumstances of the present case eleven hours delay in lodging the F.I.R. would not create doubt in the prosecution case.

30. Learned counsel for the appellant lastly submitted that in any case, when deceased Govind uprooted the pea plants, it is in the right of private defence, appellants beaten him. It can be a case of only exceeding the right of private defence.

In Section 300 I.P.C., Exception 2, there is provision that culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, in the exercise in good faith of the right of private defence of person or property, exceeds power given to him by law and causes the death of the person against whom he is exercising such right of private defence without premeditation, and without any intention of doing more harm than is necessary for the purpose of such defence. On this point it would be suffice to say that appellant Jaibir has not been convicted and sentenced for the offence of murder, he has been convicted only under Section 304 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. with seven years of rigorous imprisonment, so appellant Jaibir cannot get the benefit on the aforesaid argument.

31. The upshot of the above discussion is that the prosecution has established its case beyond reasonable doubt against the sole surviving appellant Jaibir.

32. From the perusal of the impugned judgment passed by the court below, it is evident that that appellant has been convicted under Section 304 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. to undergo seven years of rigorous imprisonment.

33. The impugned judgment and order passed by lower court is within four corners of law. There is no illegality in the impugned order, therefore impugned order dated 19.08.1982 passed by Vth Additional Sessions Judge, Aligarh with regard to conviction and sentence of the appellant in S.T. No. 40 of 1980 (State v. Nathu Singh and others), under Section 304 I.P.C., P.S. Gangiri, District Aligarh is hereby confirmed. Appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

34. Accordingly, this appeal is dismissed.

35. Appellant Jaibir is on bail, he be taken into custody to serve out the remaining sentence. His bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged.

36. Copy of this judgment be certified to the court below for compliance. Lower court record be transmitted to the District Court, concerned forthwith.

4. Gaurav @ Nilwa Vs St. of U.K. & anr. (2020) 112 ACC 186

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for petitioners as well as Shri Alok Tiwari, learned Additional Government Advocate for State.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed to quash the impugned order dated 19.8.2021, passed by Addl. Sessions Judge/FTC (New), Lakhimpur Kheri vide S.T. No.707 of 2018, Crime No.894 of 2018 under sections 364, 392, 419, 420 I.P.C., P.S. Kotwali Sadar, district Lakhimpur Kheri, whereby the application moved by the prosecution under Section 319 CrPC has been allowed and the revisionsits have been summoned to face trial.

3. Learned counsel for the revisionists submitted that the trial Court has illegally summoned the revisionists. In the statement under section 161 CrPC none of the prosecution witnesses has taken the name of the revisionists. It is submitted that relying on the evidence of P.W.1, P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.4, learned trial court has, though summoned the revisionists under section 319 CrPC, however, has failed to record any satisfaction as mandated by the Supreme Court in the case of Hardeep Singh and others versus State of Punjab and others 2014 AIR (SCW) 667.

4. The next ground raised by the revisionists' counsel is that the statement of the prosecution witnesses under section 161 CrPC and the material collected during investigation by the investigating officer have not been taken into account while summoning the revisionists.

5. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has submitted that the prosecution witnesses P.W.1, P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.4 in their statement before the court have assigned the motive of committing the crime to the revisionists. P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.4 have given the last seen evidence against the revisionists. P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.4 have also stated that the threat was extended by the revisionists to the deceased few days back and the trial court after considering the evidence of all four prosecution witnesses and after finding more than a prima facie case has rightly summoned the revisionists. There is no illegality in the order impugned.

6. A perusal of the evidence of P.W.1 Manoj Kumar Mathur shows that he came to know that the abductee Mobin has developed illicit relationship with the sister of revisionist No.1 Shivam Pandey. Mobin was working as driver with the witness and that is why, after coming to know the illicit relationship, he has terminated his service.

7. P.W.2 Razia wife of the abductee Mobin has stated that the revisionists 1 and 2 went with her husband Mobin. They were seen by another prosecution witness Salim. She has also corroborated and reiterated the illicit relationship of Mobin with the sister of revisionist No.1. 3 to 10 days prior, her husband Mobin was threatened by revisionists that either he leaves Lakhimpur Kheri and forget their sister or his family members will not be able to trace his body. She has further stated that on 8.8.2018 at 6.30p.m., her husband was taken by the revisionists. She has also stated that she had moved an application to the Superintendent of Police, Kheri and has told him that the revisionists in collusion with Abhishek Verma and Naman Verma, co-accused have abducted her husband.

8. P.W.3 Salim has stated that he has seen the revisionists 1 and 2 with the abductee Mobin on 8.8.2018 at around 6-7 p.m..

9. P.W.4 Baheed in his examination in chief has also stated that the abductee Mobin developed relationship with the sister of revisionist No.1. When it came to the knowledge of revisionists 1 and 2, they went to the house of Mobin at around 6.00p.m. and threatened Mobin to leave Lakhmpur Kheri, or else his family members will not be able to trace his dead body.

10. The trial Court on due appreciation of evidence of the prosecution witnesses P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.4 has found that all the three prosecution witnesses have taken the name of both the revisionists and have supported the story of committing the crime by them, hence has summoned the revisionists.

11. Learned counsel for the revisionists has relied on the judgment in Hardeep Singh's case (supra) and submitted that the trial court should have recorded its satisfaction that the evidence which has been adduced by the prosecution is sufficient and if it goes unrebutted, it will lead to conviction. Relevant para 99 of the judgment in Hardeep Singh's case (supra) is reproduced as below :

?99. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court not necessarily tested on the anvil of Cross-Examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. In Section 319 CrPC the purpose of providing if ?it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence? is clear from the words ?for which such person could be tried together with the accused.? The words used are not ?for which such person could be convicted?. There is, therefore, no scope for the Court acting under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused.?

12. A perusal of the aforesaid judgment (relevant para 99) shows that the test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction.

13. In the present case, I find that the trial court was satisfied that on the basis of the evidence of P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.4 , prima facie case against the revisionist is made out. There is no requirement for the court while issuing summons to the persons summoned under section 319 CrPC to form any opinion regarding guilt of the accused.

14. The learned counsel has further relied on Brijendra Singh and others versus State of Rajasthan 2017 AIR (SC) 2839. Relevant para 13 is extracted below :

?13. In order to answer the question, some of the principles enunciated in Hardeep Singh?s case may be recapitulated:

Power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised by the trial court at any stage during the trial, i.e., before the conclusion of trial, to summon any person as an accused and face the trial in the ongoing case, once the trial court finds that there is some ?evidence? against such a person on the basis of which evidence it can be gathered that he appears to be guilty of offence. The ?evidence? herein means the material that is brought before the Court during trial. Insofar as the material/evidence collected by the IO at the stage of inquiry is concerned, it can be utilised for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the Court to invoke the power under Section 319Cr.P.C. No doubt, such evidence that has surfaced in examination-in-chief, without cross-examination of witnesses, can also be taken into consideration. However, since it is a discretionary power given to the Court under Section 319Cr.P.C. and is also an extraordinary one, same has to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrants. The degree of satisfaction is more than the degree which is warranted at the time of framing of the charges against others in respect of whom chargesheet was filed. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the Court that such power should be exercised. It is not to be exercised in a casual or a cavalier manner. The prima facie opinion which is to be formed requires stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity.?

15. In the case of Brijendra Singh (supra), it has been held by Supreme Court that prima facie opinion which is to be formed requires stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity of the accused and the degree of satisfaction should be more than the degree which is warranted at the time of framing of charges. It is further held that even such evidence which has surfaced in the examination in chief without cross examination can be taken into consideration.

16. In the present case, the evidence of P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.4 makes it more than prima facie evidence and strong and cogent evidence has been given against the revisionists.

17. Learned A.G.A. on the other hand has relied on judgment in Rajendra Singh versus State of U.P. and another (2007)7 SCC 378. It has been held that if the evidence tendered in the course of any enquiry or trial shows that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which he could be tried together with the accused, he can be summoned to face trial even though he may not have been charge-sheeted by the investigating agency or may have been discharged at an earlier stage. .

18. In Gaurav @ Nilwa versus State of Uttarakhand and another [2020(112)ACC 186, the High Court of Uttarakhand while summing up law laid down in Hardeep Singh's case (supra) held as under (relevant para 10) :

?10. From the law laid down by Honble Apex Court in Hardeep Singhs case (supra), it emerges that- (i) the Court can exercise power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. even on the basis of the statement made in examination-in-chief of witnesses concerned; and (ii) Court need not wait till the cross examination of such a witness and the Court need not wait for the evidence against accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross examination and to a person not named in the FIR or a person so named in the FIR, but, to have not been charge-sheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C., provided from the evidence it appears that such person can be tried along with accused already facing trial.?

19. In regard to the arguments of the revisionists' counsel that the material collected by the investigating officer has to be taken into account, he has relied on para 110 of the judgment in Hardeep Singh's case (supra), which is extracted hereinunder :

?110. We accordingly sum up our conclusions as follows:

Question Nos.1 & III Q.1 What is the stage at which power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised?

AND Q.III Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319 (1) Cr.P.C. has been used in a comprehensive sense and includes the evidence collected during investigation or the word "evidence" is limited to the evidence recorded during trial?

A. In Dharam Pal's case, the Constitution Bench has already held that after committal, cognizance of an offence can be taken against a person not named as an accused but against whom materials are available from the papers filed by the police after completion of investigation. Such cognizance can be taken underSection 193 Cr.P.C. and the Sessions Judge need not wait till 'evidence' underSection 319Cr.P.C. becomes available for summoning an additional accused.

Section 319 Cr.P.C., significantly, uses two expressions that have to be taken note of i.e. (1) Inquiry (2) Trial. As a trial commences after framing of charge, an inquiry can only be understood to be a pre-trial inquiry. Inquiries under Sections 200, 201, 202 Cr.P.C.; and under Section 398 Cr.P.C. are species of the inquiry contemplated bySection 319 Cr.P.C. Materials coming before the Court in course of such enquiries can be used for corroboration of the evidence recorded in the court after the trial commences, for the exercise of power under Section 319Cr.P.C., and also to add an accused whose name has been shown in Column 2 of the chargesheet.

In view of the above position the word 'evidence' in Section 319 Cr.P.C. has to be broadly understood and not literally i.e. as evidence brought during a trial.

Question No. II Q.II Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1) Cr.P.C. could only mean evidence tested by cross-examination or the court can exercise the power under the said provision even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned?

A. Considering the fact that under Section 319Cr.P.C. a person against whom material is disclosed is only summoned to face the trial and in such an event underSection 319(4)Cr.P.C. the proceeding against such person is to commence from the stage of taking of cognizance, the Court need not wait for the evidence against the accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross-examination.

Question No. IV Q.IV What is the nature of the satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to arraign an accused? Whether the power under Section 319(1) CrPC can be exercised only if the court is satisfied that the accused summoned will in all likelihood be convicted?

A. Though underSection 319(4) (4)(b) Cr.P.C. the accused subsequently impleaded is to be treated as if he had been an accused when the Court initially took cognizance of the offence, the degree of satisfaction that will be required for summoning a person under Section 319 Cr.P.C. would be the same as for ?framing a charge. The difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused. Fresh summoning of an accused will result in delay of the trial - therefore the degree of satisfaction for summoning the accused (original and subsequent) has to be different.

Question No.V Q.V Does the power under Section 319Cr.P.C. extend to persons not named in the FIR or named in the FIR but not chargesheeted or who have been discharged?

A. A person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been chargesheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319Cr.P.C. provided from the evidence it appears that such person can be tried along with the accused already facing trial. However, in so far as an accused who has been discharged is concerned the requirement of Sections 300 and 398 Cr.P.C. has to be complied with before he can be summoned afresh.

The matters be placed before the appropriate Bench for final disposal in accordance with law explained hereinabove.?

20. A perusal of the law laid down in the aforesaid case shows that enquiries under sections 200, 201, 202 CrPC and under section 396 CrPC are species of the inquiry contemplated by section 319 CrPC. However, it is no where held that if for the first time statement has been given before the court which was not given before the investigating officer, the trial court shall be precluded from summoning the accused; rather on the contrary in view of the aforesaid judgment, it is quite clear that if the evidence has been given by the prosecution witness regarding commission of the crime by a person and makes out more than a prima facie case greater than the degree of satisfaction at the stage of framing of charges, such persons can be summoned by the trial court. Therefore, the law in this respect can be summarised that if during enquiry or trial an evidence has come that a person who is not charge-sheeted and not an accused has committed a crime and that evidence is more than prima facie evidence and also shows more than probability, rather it is a strong or cogent evidence, the trial Court shall be within its right to summon that accused to face trial along with other co-accused persons. The satisfaction that requires should be lower than that on which the accused can be convicted, however, it has to be greater than mere a prima facie case or mere a probable case.

21. In the present case, P.W. 2 and P.W.4 have given clear cogent evidence regarding commission of crime by the present revisionists. They have assigned motive against the revisionists. They have also given the last seen evidence against the revisionists that they were seen with Mobin who has been abducted. P.W.2, P.W.3 and P.W.4 have also stated that the revisionists have threatened the abductee Mobin to kill. Thus, a cumulative reading of statements of these three witnesses depicts that the revisionists had a clear motive. They have extended threat 8-10 days prior to the abduction of Mobin and on the date of occurrence, these three witnesses have given last seen evidence against the revisionists and in view of the aforesaid law laid down by Supreme Court, it is more than enough to summon the accused persons.

22. At this stage, learned counsel for the revisionists submits that although discretion under section 319 CrPC is discretionary, however, while summoning the accused, the trial court should not act in a casual manner and such discretion should be exercised sparingly.

23. I find that the trail court has been very careful and has gone through the evidence of the prosecution witnesses in detail and only then has summoned the revisionists to face trial. There is no illegality in the impugned order.

24. The revision, being devoid of merit, is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. The seminal question which is before the Court at this stage of the proceedings is as to whether in a revision under Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 20151, in a matter relating to consideration of bail to a 'child in conflict with law', the complainant/victim is to be afforded an opportunity of being heard.

2. The present criminal revision has been filed against the order dated 24.06.2021 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge POCSO Act, Mathura in Juvenile Criminal Appeal No. 39 of 2021 (Yogesh V. State of U.P. and Ors.) under Section 101 of the JJ Act, arising out of order dated 24.05.2021 passed by Incharge Principal Magistrate, Juvenile Justice Board in Case No. 77 of 2020, arising out of Crime No. 568 of 2020, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 342, 302/34 of the India Penal Code2 at Police Station -Vrindavan, District-Mathura.

3. Heard Shri Saurabh Pandey, appearing along with Shri Suresh Chandra Pandey, learned counsel for the revisionist and Shri Vinod Kant, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Shri Pankaj Saxena, learned Additional Government Advocate-I for the State-Opposite party.

4. The facts of the case, as reflected from the averments in the affidavit accompanying the memo of revision, indicate that the proceedings were initiated pursuant to an FIR dated 22.09.2020 registered as Case Crime no. 568 of 2020, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 342, 302/34 of the Penal Code at Police Station-Vrindavan, District-Mathura. As per the FIR allegations the revisionist along with other co-accused had tied up the victim on to a chaff cutter and had beaten him with sticks till he died, and thereafter, they had fled away from the scene of crime. The postmortem report showed cause of death as shock due to ante-mortem head injury. The statement of the witnesses were recorded during the course of investigation and thereafter the police filed charge sheet under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 342, 302/34 of the Penal Code.

5. The age of the revisionist was determined by the Juvenile Justice Board3 vide order dated 22.03.2021, as 16 years 6 months and 16 days on the date of the incident. The District Probation Officer submitted its report before the Board on 10.02.2021 and thereafter, the bail application was rejected by the Board by order dated 24.05.2021 after recording that there was lack of family control over the accused and that his involvement in the heinous offence was due to his association with persons of criminal nature and for the reason of lack of moral values and family control there was possibility of his influencing and destroying the prosecution evidence. It was observed that there was a possibility of the accused being exposed to moral, physical and psychological danger and that his release would defeat the ends of justice. Accordingly, the bail application was rejected. Aggrieved against the aforesaid order, the revisionist preferred an appeal under Section 101 which was also rejected by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge POCSO Act, Mathura upon due consideration of the facts and circumstances of the case and the material on record, reiterating the findings recorded by the Board.

6. The principal contention which is sought to be put forward by the counsel for the revisionist is that in a revision which arises out of an order passed by the Board under Section 12 of the JJ Act, rejecting the bail application, which has subsequently been affirmed in an appeal under Section 101, the complainant/victim cannot be said to be a necessary party entitled to an opportunity of hearing.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that an application for bail on behalf of the child in conflict with law is firstly required to be filed before the Board under Section 12 of the JJ Act, and as per the statutory provisions there is no requirement to provide any opportunity of hearing to the complainant/victim while deciding the bail application. Against the order of the Board rejecting the bail application, there is a provision of appeal under Section 101 which also does not stipulate providing of a hearing to the complainant/victim. It is submitted that in a case where the application for bail of the child in conflict with law has been rejected under Section 12 of the JJ Act, and the appeal preferred there against under Section 101 has also been turned down, the remedy there-against is by filing a revision before the High Court under Section 102 of the JJ Act.

8. Learned counsel has strenuously urged that looking to the scheme of the Act, which is in the nature of beneficial legislation there being no clear provision with regard to grant of any opportunity to the complainant/victim at the stage of hearing of the bail application under Section 12 or at the stage of appeal under Section 101, there is no reason as to why a notice to the complainant/victim should be held necessary at the stage of revision under Section 102. It is submitted that looking to the legislative intent of the enactment there is no such indication which may require providing of opportunity of hearing to the complainant before proceeding to consider the prayer for bail at the stage of revision.

9. It was further submitted that an order of bail to a child in conflict with law cannot be held to cause any prejudice to the complainant/victim so as to require grant of opportunity of hearing in a revision under Section 102.

10. Attention has been drawn to Section 15A of the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 18894 to contend that in terms of Section 15A thereof, there is a clear mandate for notice to the victim or his dependent and in case legislature had intended to grant the right of hearing to the complainant in proceedings relating to bail under the JJ Act, a similar provision could have been provided herein also. In the absence of any such specific provision, the requirement of granting an opportunity of hearing to the complainant/victim could not be read into the statute as a condition precedent for hearing of the revision.

11. Learned counsel has sought to contend that the practice of impleading the parties in a revision relating to a bail matter under Section 102 of the JJ Act has the effect of causing unwarranted delay in the hearing of the bail application relating to a juvenile. To support his submissions, learned counsel for the revisionist has placed reliance upon the order in X S/o Laxman vs. State, Through Pp and Another5.

12. Responding to the aforesaid contention learned Additional Advocate General has submitted that as per terms of the proviso to Section 102, there being a clear mandate that the High Court shall not pass any order under this section prejudicial to any person without giving him a reasonable opportunity of being heard, the complainant/victim would necessarily be required to be heard in a revision filed by the child in conflict with law in a bail matter. It is pointed out that in terms of the proviso to Section 102, any order to be passed on a revision filed by the accused, may have the effect of being prejudicial to the interest of the complainant/victim and therefore, a reasonable opportunity of being heard ought to be accorded to the complainant. He submits that any other interpretation would render the proviso to the section redundant.

13. Learned Additional Advocate General has further submitted that the JJ Act, 2015 has been promulgated as a beneficial enactment with the purpose of reform and rehabilitate the child in conflict with law and as such no analogy can be drawn with that of an adult offender facing trial before a regular criminal court. He has submitted that in terms of the scheme of the Act, in a case when the bail of the juvenile is rejected, he is not sent to a jail but only to an observation home with the object of providing him avenues for reform. It is pointed out that the proviso to Section 12 indicates that the bail application can be rejected if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that the release is likely to bring that person into association with any known criminal or expose the said person to moral, physical and psychological danger or the person's release would defeat the ends of justice.

14. It is also submitted that one of the grounds on which the bail may be refused would be a situation where the person's release would defeat the ends of justice. It is contended that this would bring into fore the rights of the victim/complainant and in a particular set of facts, one of the grounds to refuse grant of bail to the juvenile would be whether his release would defeat the ends of justice. It is submitted that the proviso to Section 12(1) would indicate that the victim/complainant's interest may also be a ground for denial of bail. Referring to Section 102 of the JJ Act, 2015 which provides the forum of revision, it is pointed out that in terms of the proviso, the High Court is not to pass an order under the section prejudicial to any person without giving him a reasonable opportunity of being heard. Submission is that a conjoint reading of the proviso to Section 12(1) which enumerates the grounds for denial of bail together with the proviso to Section 102 would indicate the clear intention of the legislature to grant an opportunity to the victim/complainant to be heard at the stage of revision.

15. Rival contentions with regard to the requirement of a notice to the complainant/victim in a revision filed under Section 102 of the JJ Act in a matter relating to consideration of bail to a child in conflict with law, now fall for consideration.

16. The JJ Act, 2015 was enacted to consolidate and amend the law relating to children alleged and found to be in conflict with law and children in need of care and protection by catering to their basic needs through proper care, protection, development, treatment, social reintegration, by adopting a child friendly approach in the adjudication and disposal of matters in the best interest of children and for their rehabilitation.

17. The enactment was made in furtherance of the powers and duties conferred under various provisions of the Constitution, in particular, clause (3) of article 15, clauses (e) and (f) of article 39, article 45 and article 47, wherein the State is to ensure that all the needs of children are met and that their basic human rights are fully protected. The enactment also takes into consideration the standards prescribed by various international conventions to which the Government of India is a party.

18. The provisions under the JJ Act, 2015, which are relevant for the purposes of the controversy at hand and would be required to be referred, are as follows:-

(54) "serious offences" includes the offences for which the punishment under the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) or any other law for the time being in force, is imprisonment between three to seven years;

10. Apprehension of child alleged to be in conflict with law.--(1) As soon as a child alleged to be in conflict with law is apprehended by the police, such child shall be placed under the charge of the special juvenile police unit or the designated Child Welfare Police Officer, who shall produce the child before the Board without any loss of time but within a period of twenty-four hours of apprehending the child excluding the time necessary for the journey, from the place where such child was apprehended:

Provided that in no case, a child alleged to be in conflict with law shall be placed in a police lockup or lodged in a jail.

(2) The State Government shall make rules consistent with this Act,--

(i) to provide for persons through whom (including registered voluntary or non-governmental organisations) any child alleged to be in conflict with law may be produced before the Board;

(ii) to provide for the manner in which the child alleged to be in conflict with law may be sent to an observation home or place of safety, as the case may be.

12. Bail to a person who is apparently a child alleged to be in conflict with law.--(1) When any person, who is apparently a child and is alleged to have committed a bailable or non-bailable offence, is apprehended or detained by the police or appears or brought before a Board, such person shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or in any other law for the time being in force, be released on bail with or without surety or placed under the supervision of a probation officer or under the care of any fit person:

Provided that such person shall not be so released if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that the release is likely to bring that person into association with any known criminal or expose the said person to moral, physical or psychological danger or the person's release would defeat the ends of justice, and the Board shall record the reasons for denying the bail and circumstances that led to such a decision.

(2) When such person having been apprehended is not released on bail under sub-section (1) by the officer-in-charge of the police station, such officer shall cause the person to be kept only in an observation home in such manner as may be prescribed until the person can be brought before a Board.

(3) When such person is not released on bail under sub-section (1) by the Board, it shall make an order sending him to an observation home or a place of safety, as the case may be, for such period during the pendency of the inquiry regarding the person, as may be specified in the order.

(4) When a child in conflict with law is unable to fulfil the conditions of bail order within seven days of the bail order, such child shall be produced before the Board for modification of the conditions of bail.

14. Inquiry by Board regarding child in conflict with law.--(1) Where a child alleged to be in conflict with law is produced before Board, the Board shall hold an inquiry in accordance with the provisions of this Act and may pass such orders in relation to such child as it deems fit under sections 17 and 18 of this Act.

(2) The inquiry under this section shall be completed within a period of four months from the date of first production of the child before the Board, unless the period is extended, for a maximum period of two more months by the Board, having regard to the circumstances of the case and after recording the reasons in writing for such extension.

(3) A preliminary assessment in case of heinous offences under section 15 shall be disposed of by the Board within a period of three months from the date of first production of the child before the Board.

(4) If inquiry by the Board under sub-section (2) for petty offences remains inconclusive even after the extended period, the proceedings shall stand terminated:

Provided that for serious or heinous offences, in case the Board requires further extension of time for completion of inquiry, the same shall be granted by the Chief Judicial Magistrate or, as the case may be, the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, for reasons to be recorded in writing.

(5) The Board shall take the following steps to ensure fair and speedy inquiry, namely:--

(a) at the time of initiating the inquiry, the Board shall satisfy itself that the child in conflict with law has not been subjected to any ill-treatment by the police or by any other person, including a lawyer or probation officer and take corrective steps in case of such ill-treatment;

(b) in all cases under the Act, the proceedings shall be conducted in simple manner as possible and care shall be taken to ensure that the child, against whom the proceedings have been instituted, is given child-friendly atmosphere during the proceedings;

(c) every child brought before the Board shall be given the opportunity of being heard and participate in the inquiry;

(d) cases of petty offences, shall be disposed of by the Board through summary proceedings, as per the procedure prescribed under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974);

(e) inquiry of serious offences shall be disposed of by the Board, by following the procedure, for trial in summons cases under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974);

(f) inquiry of heinous offences,--

(i) for child below the age of sixteen years as on the date of commission of an offence shall be disposed of by the Board under clause (e);

(ii) for child above the age of sixteen years as on the date of commission of an offence shall be dealt with in the manner prescribed under section 15.

16. Review of pendency of inquiry.-- (1) The Chief Judicial Magistrate or the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate shall review the pendency of cases of the Board once in every three months, and shall direct the Board to increase the frequency of its sittings or may recommend the constitution of additional Boards.

(2) The number of cases pending before the Board, duration of such pendency, nature of pendency and reasons thereof shall be reviewed in every six months by a high level committee consisting of the Executive Chairperson of the State Legal Services Authority, who shall be the Chairperson, the Home Secretary, the Secretary responsible for the implementation of this Act in the State and a representative from a voluntary or non-governmental organisation to be nominated by the Chairperson.

(3) The information of such pendency shall also be furnished by the Board to the Chief Judicial Magistrate or the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate and the District Magistrate on quarterly basis in such form as may be prescribed by the State Government.

17. Orders regarding a child not found to be in confilct with law.-- (1) Where a Board is satisfied on inquiry that the child brought before it has not committed any offence, then notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, the Board shall pass order to that effect.

(2) In case it appears to the Board that the child referred to in sub-section (1) is in need of care and protection, it may refer the child to the Committee with appropriate directions.

18. Orders regrding child found to be in conflict with law.-- (1) Where a Board is satisfied on inquiry that a child irrespective of age has committed a petty offence, or a serious offence, or a child below the age of sixteen years has committed a heinous offence, then, notwithstanding anything contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, and based on the nature of offence, specific need for supervision or intervention, circumstances as brought out in the social investigation report and past conduct of the child, the Board may, if it so thinks fit,--

(a) allow the child to go home after advice or admonition by following appropriate inquiry and counselling to such child and to his parents or the guardian;

(b) direct the child to participate in group counselling and similar activities;

(c) order the child to perform community service under the supervision of an organisation or institution, or a specified person, persons or group of persons identified by the Board;

(d) order the child or parents or the guardian of the child to pay fine:

Provided that, in case the child is working, it may be ensured that the provisions of any labour law for the time being in force are not violated;

(e) direct the child to be released on probation of good conduct and placed under the care of any parent, guardian or fit person, on such parent, guardian or fit person executing a bond, with or without surety, as the Board may require, for the good behaviour and childs well-being for any period not exceeding three years;

(f) direct the child to be released on probation of good conduct and placed under the care and supervision of any fit facility for ensuring the good behaviour and childs well-being for any period not exceeding three years;

(g) direct the child to be sent to a special home, for such period, not exceeding three years, as it thinks fit, for providing reformative services including education, skill development, counselling, behaviour modification therapy, and psychiatric support during the period of stay in the special home:

Provided that if the conduct and behaviour of the child has been such that, it would not be in the childs interest, or in the interest of other children housed in a special home, the Board may send such child to the place of safety.

(2) If an order is passed under clauses (a) to (g) of sub-section (1), the Board may, in addition pass orders to--

(i) attend school; or

(ii) attend a vocational training centre; or

(iii) attend a therapeutic centre; or

(iv) prohibit the child from visiting, frequenting or appearing at a specified place; or

(v) undergo a de-addiction programme.

(3) Where the Board after preliminary assessment under section 15 pass an order that there is a need for trial of the said child as an adult, then the Board may order transfer of the trial of the case to the Children's Court having jurisdiction to try such offences.

19. Powers of Children's Court.-- (1) After the receipt of preliminary assessment from the Board under section 15, the Childrens Court may decide that--

(i) there is a need for trial of the child as an adult as per the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) and pass appropriate orders after trial subject to the provisions of this section and section 21, considering the special needs of the child, the tenets of fair trial and maintaining a child friendly atmosphere;

(ii) there is no need for trial of the child as an adult and may conduct an inquiry as a Board and pass appropriate orders in accordance with the provisions of section 18.

(2) The Children's Court shall ensure that the final order, with regard to a child in conflict with law, shall include an individual care plan for the rehabilitation of child, including follow-up by the probation officer or the District Child Protection Unit or a social worker.

(3) The Childrens Court shall ensure that the child who is found to be in conflict with law is sent to a place of safety till he attains the age of twenty-one years and thereafter, the person shall be transferred to a jail:

Provided that the reformative services including educational services, skill development, alternative therapy such as counselling, behaviour modification therapy, and psychiatric support shall be provided to the child during the period of his stay in the place of safety.

(4) The Children's Court shall ensure that there is a periodic follow-up report every year by the probation officer or the District Child Protection Unit or a social worker, as required, to evaluate the progress of the child in the place of safety and to ensure that there is no ill-treatment to the child in any form.

(5) The reports under sub-section (4) shall be forwarded to the Children's Court for record and follow-up, as may be required.

21. Order that may not be passed against a child in conflict with law.--No child in conflict with law shall be sentenced to death or for life imprisonment without the possibility of release, for any such offence, either under the provisions of this Act or under the provisions of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) or any other law for the time being in force.

101. Appeals.--(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, any person aggrieved by an order made by the Committee or the Board under this Act may, within thirty days from the date of such order, prefer an appeal to the Children's Court, except for decisions by the Committee related to Foster Care and Sponsorship After Care for which the appeal shall lie with the District Magistrate:

Provided that the Court of Sessions, or the District Magistrate, as the case may be, may entertain the appeal after the expiry of the said period of thirty days, if it is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from filing the appeal in time and such appeal shall be decided within a period of thirty days.

(2) An appeal shall lie against an order of the Board passed after making the preliminary assessment into a heinous offence under section 15 of the Act, before the Court of Sessions and the Court may, while deciding the appeal, take the assistance of experienced psychologists and medical specialists other than those whose assistance has been obtained by the Board in passing the order under the said section.

(3) No appeal shall lie from,--

(a) any order of acquittal made by the Board in respect of a child alleged to have committed an offence other than the heinous offence by a child who has completed or is above the age of sixteen years; or

(b) any order made by a Committee in respect of finding that a person is not a child in need of care and protection.

(4) No second appeal shall lie from any order of the Court of Session, passed in appeal under this section.

(5) Any person aggrieved by an order of the Children's Court may file an appeal before the High Court in accordance with the procedure specified in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974).

102. Revision.--The High Court may, at any time, either on its own motion or on an application received in this behalf, call for the record of any proceeding in which any Committee or Board or Children's Court, or Court has passed an order, for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any such order and may pass such order in relation thereto as it thinks fit:

Provided that the High Court shall not pass an order under this section prejudicial to any person without giving him a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

103. Procedure in inquiries, appeals and revision proceedings.--(1) Save as otherwise expressly provided by this Act, a Committee or a Board while holding any inquiry under any of the provisions of this Act, shall follow such procedure as may be prescribed and subject thereto, shall follow, as far as may be, the procedure laid down in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) for trial of summons cases.

(2) Save as otherwise expressly provided by or under this Act, the procedure to be followed in hearing appeals or revision proceedings under this Act shall be, as far as practicable, in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974)."

19. The procedure to be followed in relation to children in conflict with law has been provided under Chapter IV of the JJ Act. Section 10 relates to apprehension of child alleged to be in conflict with law. In terms thereof, as soon as such a child is apprehended by the police, he/she shall be placed under the charge of the special juvenile police unit or the designated Child Welfare Police Officer, who shall produce the child before the Board without any loss of time but within a period of twenty-four hours and it is provided that in no case, a child alleged to be in conflict with law shall be placed in a police lock-up or lodged in jail. In terms of sub-section (2), the State Government is to make rules to provide for the manner in which the child alleged to be in conflict with law may be sent to an observation home or place of safety.

20. The provision with regard to grant of bail to a child in conflict with law is provided for under Section 12 of the JJ Act. Sub-section (1) thereof provides that when any person, who is apparently a child and is alleged to have committed a bailable or non-bailable offence, is apprehended or detained by the police or appears or brought before a Board, such person shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 19736 or in any other law for the time being in force, be released on bail with or without surety or placed under the supervision of a probation officer or under the care of any fit person. The rule under Section 12(1) is therefore for grant of bail to a child in conflict with law; the question with regard to the merits of the case including the role or complicity of a child in conflict with law or the gravity of the offence notwithstanding. This is however subject to the conditions under the proviso to sub-section (1) whereunder bail can be denied.

21. T he grounds on which bail can be denied to a juvenile as per terms of the proviso to Section 12(1), are as follows: (i) if there appears to be reasonable grounds for believing that the release is likely to bring that person in association with any known criminal; or (ii) expose the said person to moral, physical and psychological danger; or (iii) the person's release would defeat the ends of justice.

22. The Board, while denying bail, is required to record the reasons and the circumstances that led to such a decision. It is therefore seen that the case for bail under Section 12(1) has to be tested on three parameters specified under the proviso and in terms thereof bail is to be granted to the juvenile/child in conflict with law except where the case falls under any of the three disentitling categories contemplated by the proviso.

23. It is also to be noticed that in a situation where the juvenile is not released on bail under Section 12 (1), he is to be kept only in an observation home, as per sub-section (2), in a manner, as may be prescribed, until he can be brought before the Board. Further sub-section (3) provides that when such person is not released on bail under sub-section (1) by the Board, it shall make an order sending him to an observation home or a place of safety, as the case may be, regarding the person, as may be specified in the order.

24. The procedure of inquiry referred to under sub-section (3) of Section 12 is provided under Section 14 and in terms thereof, the inquiry is to be completed within a period of four months, unless the period is extended, for a maximum period of two more months by the Board, having regard to the circumstances of the case and after recording reasons in writing for such extension.

25. Section 15 provides for a preliminary assessment in case of a heinous offence alleged to have been committed by a child, who has completed or is above the age of 16 years, and in terms of sub-section (3) of Section 14, such preliminary assessment is to be disposed of by the Board within a period of three months from the date of first production of the child before the Board. This is subject to further extension of time, in case the Board so requires, which is to be granted by the Chief Judicial Magistrate/Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, as the case may be, for reasons to be recorded in writing. Sub-section (5) of Section 14 enjoins upon the Board to take steps to ensure fair and speedy inquiry. Section 16 provides for a periodic review of pendency of cases relating to inquiry before the Board.

26. Section 17 empowers the Board to pass orders regarding a child not found to be in conflict with law and in terms of Section 18, the Board is empowered to pass orders regarding child found to be in conflict with law. Amongst the various orders which may be passed by the Board under Section 18, it is provided, as per terms of clause (g) of sub-section (1), that the Board may direct the child to be sent to a special home, for such period, not exceeding three years, for providing reformative services. As per sub-section (3) where the Board after preliminary assessment under Section 15 passes an order that there is a need for trial of the child as an adult, then the Board may transfer the trial of the child to the Children's Court having jurisdiction to try such offences.

27. Section 19 relates to powers of Children's Court and in terms of sub-section (1) thereof upon receipt of preliminary assessment from the Board under Section 15, the Children's Court may decide that-- (i) there is a need for trial of the child as an adult as per the provisions of the Code; (ii) there is no need for trial of the child as an adult and may conduct an inquiry as a Board and pass appropriate orders in accordance with the provisions of Section 18. Sub-section (2) of Section 19 provides that the Children's Court shall ensure that final order, with regard to a child in conflict with law, shall include an individual care plan for the rehabilitation of the child. As per sub-section (3) the Children's Court is to ensure that the child found to be in conflict with law is sent to a place of safety till he attains the age of twenty one years and thereafter, the person shall be transferred to a jail. It is further provided that the reformative services including educational services, skill development, alternative therapy such as counseling, behaviour modification therapy and psychiatric support shall be provided during the period of stay of the child in the place of safety.

28. Section 21 mandates that no child in conflict with law shall be sentenced to death or for life imprisonment without the possibility of release, for any such offence, either under the provisions of the JJ Act or under the Penal Code or any other law for the time being in force.

29. The aforementioned discussion delineates the scheme of the JJ Act and the measures provided thereunder for furtherance of the objective of the Act, which is in the nature of a beneficent legislation, and also a remedial one with detailed provisions for providing avenues for reforms and rehabilitation of a juvenile/child in conflict with law.

30. The orders made by the Child Welfare Committee or the Board, under the JJ Act, have been made subject to appeal.

31. Section 101 provides for a statutory appeal to any person aggrieved by an order made by the Committee or the Board. As per Section 102 the High Court may, at any time, either on its motion or an application received on this behalf, call for the record of any proceeding in which any Committee or Board or Children's Court, or Court has passed an order for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any such order. In terms of the proviso to Section 102, the High Court shall not pass an order under the section prejudicial to any person without giving him a reasonable opportunity of being heard. The procedure to be followed in inquiries, appeals and revision proceedings is provided under Section 103 and in terms of sub-section (2) thereof, the procedure to be followed in revision proceedings under the Act shall be, as far as practicable, in accordance with the provisions of the Code.

32. The term "prejudice" occurring in the proviso to Section 102 would be significant for understanding its true scope, ambit and width:

(i) Black's Law Dictionary7 explains "prejudice" to mean damage or detriment to one's legal rights or claims.

(ii) Concise Oxford English Dictionary8 defines "prejudice" as under :

"Prejudice.--n (1). Preconceived opinion that is not based on reason or actual experience. » unjust behaviour formed on such a basis. chiefly Law (2). harm or injury that results or may result from some action or judgment. » v.(1) give rise to prejudice in (someone); make biased. (2). cause harm to (a state of affairs)".

(ii) Webster Comprehensive Dictionary9 explains "prejudice" to mean (i) a judgment or opinion, favourable or unfavourable, formed beforehand or without due examination ... detriment arising from a hasty and unfair judgment; injury; harm.

(iii) P. Ramanatha Aiyar; the Law Lexicon10 explains "prejudice" to mean injurious effect, injury to or impairment of a right, claim, statement etc.

The term "Prejudice" is, therefore, generally defined as meaning "to the harm, to the injury, to the disadvantage of someone". It also means injury or loss.

33. The question as to whether the complainant/informant or aggrieved party can claim any vested right of being heard at the stage of an application for grant of bail was considered in Sandeep Kumar Bafna vs. State of Maharastra and Others 11and it was observed that though no such vested right can be claimed to conduct a prosecution, however the complainant or informant or aggrieved party may be heard at a crucial and critical juncture of the trial, so that his interests in the prosecution are not prejudiced or jeopardized.

34. It may be relevant to take note of the fact that sub-section (2) of Section 103 mandates that the procedure to be followed in hearing appeals or revision proceedings under the Act shall be, as far as practicable, in accordance with the provisions of the Code.

35. Under the Code, Section 401 contains the High Court's powers of revision and in terms of sub-section (2) thereof, no order under the section shall be made to the prejudice of the accused or other person unless he has had an opportunity of being heard either personally or by pleader in his own defence.

36. The right to be heard provided under sub-section (2) of Section 401 of the Code, which is somewhat analogous to the right of hearing as per the proviso to Section 102 of the JJ Act, was subject matter of consideration in Manharibhai Muljibhai Kakadia and Another vs. Shaileshbhai Mohanbhai Patel and Others12. A similar ground, as has been raised in the present case, was taken to contend that since the "accused" or "other person" had no role to play in the earlier stage of the proceedings and as the revision had been filed against the dismissal of a complaint at the pre-cognizance stage, the "accused" or "other person" would not have any right of hearing at the stage of revision under Section 401(2) of the Code. Repelling the aforesaid contention and holding that opportunity of hearing to accused/other person is necessary in a revision filed by the complainant against dismissal of the complaint under Section 203, the following observations were made:-

"46. The legal position is fairly well-settled that in the proceedings under Section 202 of the Code the accused/suspect is not entitled to be heard on the question whether the process should be issued against him or not. As a matter of law, upto the stage of issuance of process, the accused cannot claim any right of hearing. Section 202 contemplates postponement of issue of process where the Magistrate is of an opinion that further inquiry into the complaint either by himself is required and he proceeds with the further inquiry or directs an investigation to be made by a Police Officer or by such other person as he thinks fit for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding. If the Magistrate finds that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding with the complaint and dismisses the complaint under Section 203 of the Code, the question is whether a person accused of crime in the complaint can claim right of hearing in a revision application preferred by the complainant against the order of the dismissal of the complaint. Parliament being alive to the legal position that the accused/suspects are not entitled to be heard at any stage of the proceedings until issuance of process under Section 204, yet in Section 401(2) of the Code provided that no order in exercise of the power of the revision shall be made by the Sessions Judge or the High Court, as the case may be, to the prejudice of the accused or the other person unless he had an opportunity of being heard either personally or by pleader in his own defence.

48. In a case where the complaint has been dismissed by the Magistrate under Section 203 of the Code either at the stage of Section 200 itself or on completion of inquiry by the Magistrate under Section 202 or on receipt of the report from the police or from any person to whom the direction was issued by the Magistrate to investigate into the allegations in the complaint, the effect of such dismissal is termination of complaint proceedings. On a plain reading of sub-section (2) of Section 401, it cannot be said that the person against whom the allegations of having committed the offence have been made in the complaint and the complaint has been dismissed by the Magistrate under Section 203, has no right to be heard because no process has been issued. The dismissal of complaint by the Magistrate under Section 203 - although it is at preliminary stage - nevertheless results in termination of proceedings in a complaint against the persons who are alleged to have committed the crime. Once a challenge is laid to such order at the instance of the complainant in a revision petition before the High Court or Sessions Judge, by virtue of Section 401(2) of the Code, the suspects get right of hearing before revisional court although such order was passed without their participation. The right given to "accused" or "the other person" under Section 401(2) of being heard before the revisional court to defend an order which operates in his favour should not be confused with the proceedings before a Magistrate under Sections 200, 202, 203 and 204. In the revision petition before the High Court or the Sessions Judge at the instance of complainant challenging the order of dismissal of complaint, one of the things that could happen is reversal of the order of the Magistrate and revival of the complaint. It is in this view of the matter that the accused or other person cannot be deprived of hearing on the face of express provision contained in Section 401(2) of the Code. The stage is not important whether it is pre-process stage or post process stage."

37. The aforementioned decision in the case of Manharibhai Muljibhai Kakadia (supra) lays down the proposition that where a complaint is dismissed under Section 203 of the Code, the accused/suspect is entitled to a hearing before the revisional court as per the requirement under Section 401(2), and that no order under sub-section (1) shall be made to the prejudice of the accused or other person unless he as had an opportunity of being heard in his own defence. It was held that once a challenge is made to an order of dismissal of a complaint under Section 203, at the instance of the complainant, the accused/suspect gets a right of hearing before the revisional court, although such order was passed without their participation- the right to be heard emanating from Section 401(2). It was made clear that the right given to the "accused" or other person under Section 401(2) of being heard before the revisional court ought not to be confused with the proceedings before the Magistrate under Sections 200, 202, 203 and 204 of the Code. It was also observed that in a revision petition at the instance of the complainant challenging the order of dismissal of the complaint, one of the things that could happen is reversal of the order of the Magistrate and revival of the complaint and in that situation, the persons who were alleged in the complaint to have committed the crime would have no right to participate in the proceedings before the Magistrate. The fact that the accused/suspect were not heard when the original order of dismissal has been passed under Section 203 and would not be heard upon restoration of the proceedings upon the revision being allowed, was held not to affect their right to be heard in the revision proceedings.

38. The requirement of an opportunity of hearing under Section 401(2) of the Code and its extension to cases under Section 482 of the Code in the context of a challenge to an order refusing to issue summons under Section 319 was reiterated in the decision in Mohit alias Sonu and another vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another13, and it was held that it was required to give notice and opportunity of hearing to a person in whose favour some right had accrued by virtue of an order refusing to issue summons.

39. The complainant's right to be heard in the revision under Section 53 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000, i.e. the old Act was subject matter of consideration in Babloo Pasi vs. State of Jharkhand and Another14 and in the context of Section 53 and its proviso, which are pari materia, the provisions contained under Section 102 and its proviso under the JJ Act, 2015, it was held that the High Court while exercising its revisional jurisdiction could not pass an order prejudicial to any person without affording him an opportunity of hearing; hence complainant is to be accorded an opportunity of hearing. Referring to the principle of audi alteram partem, it was observed as follows:-

"12. Section 52 of the Act provides that any person aggrieved by an order made by a competent authority under the Act may prefer an appeal to the Court of Sessions. Section 53 of the Act confers on the High Court the revisional jurisdiction to satisfy itself as to the legality or propriety of any order passed by the competent authority or Court of Sessions. The Section reads as under:

"53.Revision.- The High Court may, at any time, either of its own motion or on an application received in this behalf, call for the record of any proceeding in which any competent authority or Court of Session has passed an order for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any such order and may pass such order in relation thereto as it thinks fit:

Provided that the High Court shall not pass an order under this section prejudicial to any person without giving him a reasonable opportunity of being heard."

From a bare reading of proviso to the Section, it is plain that in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction the High Court cannot pass an order, prejudicial to any person without affording him a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

13. At this juncture, it would be profitable to note that Section 54 of the Act also prescribes the procedure to be followed while dealing with inquiries, appeals and revisions under the Act. Sub-section (2) thereof stipulates that save as otherwise expressly provided under the Act, the procedure to be followed in hearing revisions under the Act, shall be as far as practicable in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short `the Code'). Sub- section (2) of Section 401 of the Code contemplates that no order under the said Section shall be made to the prejudice of the accused or other person unless he has had an opportunity of being heard either personally or by pleader in his own defence.

14. Furthermore, by now it is well settled that save in certain exceptional situations, the principle of audi alteram partem mandates that no one shall be condemned unheard. It is a part of rules of natural justice and the soul of natural justice is `fair play in action', which demands that before any prejudicial or adverse order is passed or action is taken against a person, he must be given an opportunity to be heard.

15. The question for consideration is that when the statutory provisions mandate and principles of natural justice demand a pre-decisional hearing, whether or not the High Court was justified in not granting an opportunity of hearing to the appellant/complainant? In our opinion, having regard to the nature of controversy before the High Court and the scheme of the relevant statutory provisions whereunder the High Court was exercising its jurisdiction, the "fairness in action" did demand that the complainant was given an opportunity of hearing in the revision petition preferred by the accused. Moreover, he was impleaded as a party-respondent and was obviously prejudiced by the order passed by the High Court when the accused was declared to be a juvenile. We have, therefore, no hesitation in holding that the High Court was clearly in error in reversing the order passed by the Board without giving an opportunity of hearing to the appellant. Accordingly, we uphold the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that the order of the High Court deserves to be set aside on this short question alone."

40. It would be seen that the order in the case of X S/o Laxman (supra), sought to be relied upon by revisionist, has been passed without considering the binding precedent-- the decision in the case Babloo Pasi (supra). It may also be noticed that the questions which have been raised in the present case were neither argued nor considered in the aforesaid order made in the case of X S/o Laxman, and accordingly, the same cannot be held to be a conclusive authority on the point.

41. The issue as to whether a prospective accused is also a necessary party and is required to be heard in a revision filed against an order rejecting an application under Section 156 (3) of the Code, before a final order is passed, was one of the questions which were taken up upon a reference by a Full Bench of this Court in Jagannath Verma Vs. State of U.P.15 and the same was answered by holding that the prospective accused or, as the case may be, the person who is suspected of having committed the crime is entitled to an opportunity of being heard before a decision is taken in a criminal revision.

42. The right of "victim" as defined under Section 2 (wa) under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code came up for consideration in Mallikarjun Kodagali (dead) represented through legal representatives vs. State of Karnataka and Others16 and it was held that the said right available to the "victim" is not a mere matter of procedure but a substantive right. The travails and tribulations of victims of crime and the continuing ordeal faced by them prior to trial and during the trial were taken note of and it was observed as follows:-

"2. The travails and tribulations of victims of crime begin with the trauma of the crime itself and, unfortunately, continue with the difficulties they face in something as simple as the registration of a First Information Report (FIR). The difficulties in registering an FIR have been noticed by a Constitution Bench of this Court in Lalita Kumari v. State of U.P., (2014) 2 SCC 1: 2014 1 SCC (Cri) 524. The ordeal continues, quite frequently, in the investigation that may not necessarily be unbiased, particularly in respect of crimes against women and children. Access to justice in terms of affordability, effective legal aid and advice as well as adequate and equal representation are also problems that the victim has to contend with and which impact on society, the rule of law and justice delivery.

3. What follows in a trial is often secondary victimisation through repeated appearances in Court in a hostile or a semi-hostile environment in the courtroom. Till sometime back, secondary victimisation was in the form of aggressive and intimidating cross-examination, but a more humane interpretation of the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 has made the trial a little less uncomfortable for the victim of an offence, particularly the victim of a sexual crime. In this regard, the judiciary has been proactive in ensuring that the rights of victims are addressed, but a lot more needs to be done. Today, the rights of an accused far outweigh the rights of the victim of an offence in many respects. There needs to be some balancing of the concerns and equalising their rights so that the criminal proceedings are fair to both. .....

4. In Sakshi v. Union of India, (2004) 5 SCC 518: 2004 SCC (Cri) 1645 this Court passed significant directions for holding in camera proceedings, providing for a screen between the accused and the victim and placed restrictions, in a sense, on the cross examination of witnesses. It is true that these directions have been passed in a case relating to sexual offences but the trend of this Court has been to show concern for the rights of victims of an offence and to address them.

5. Parliament also has been proactive in recognising the rights of victims of an offence. One such recognition is through the provisions of Chapter XXI-A of the Cr.P.C. which deals with plea bargaining. Parliament has recognised the rights of a victim to participate in a mutually satisfactory disposition of the case. This is a great leap forward in the recognition of the right of a victim to participate in the proceedings of a non-compoundable case. Similarly, Parliament has amended Cr.P.C. introducing the right of appeal to the victim of an offence, in certain circumstances. The present appeals deal with this right incorporated in the proviso to Section 372 Cr.P.C.

6. In other words, a considerable amount has been achieved in giving life to the rights of victims of crime, despite the absence of a cohesive policy. But, as mentioned above, a lot more still needs to be done.

7. Among the steps that need to be taken to provide meaningful rights to the victims of an offence, it is necessary to seriously consider giving a hearing to the victim while awarding the sentence to a convict. .....

8. The rights of victims, and indeed victimology, is an evolving jurisprudence and it is more than appropriate to move forward in a positive direction, rather than stand still or worse, take a step backward. A voice has been given to victims of crime by Parliament and the judiciary and that voice needs to be heard, and if not already heard, it needs to be raised to a higher decibel so that it is clearly heard.

9. With this background, we need to consider the questions that arise before us consequent to the introduction of the proviso to Section 372 of the Cr.P.C. with effect from 31st December, 2009. The questions are somewhat limited: Whether a "victim' as defined in Cr.P.C. has a right of appeal in view of the proviso to Section 372 Cr.P.C. against an order of acquittal in a case where the alleged offence took place prior to 31st December, 2009 but the order of acquittal was passed by the Trial Court after 31st December, 2009? Our answer to this question is in the affirmative. The next question is: Whether the "victim" must apply for leave to appeal against the order of acquittal? Our answer to this question is in the negative."

43. The rights of the victims of crime in the context of remedies available to them were considered in the light of certain recent reports of the Law Commission and it was observed as follows:-

"14. In recent times, four Reports have dealt with the rights of victims of crime and the remedies available to them. The first Report in this sequence is the 154th Report of the Law Commission of India of August 1996. While this Report did not specifically deal with the right of a victim of crime to file an appeal, it did discuss issues of victims of crime, compensation to be paid to the victim and rehabilitation of the victim including the establishment of a Victim Assistance Fund.

15. The second important Report is the March 2003 Report of the Committee on Reforms of Criminal Justice System, commonly known as the Report of the Justice Malimath Committee. In the Chapter on Adversarial Rights, it is recommended under the sub-heading of Victims Right to Appeal as follows:

"2.21. The victim or his representative who is a party to the trial should have a right to prefer an appeal against any adverse order passed by the trial court. In such an appeal he could challenge the acquittal, or conviction for a lesser offence or inadequacy of sentence, or in regard to compensation payable to the victim. The appellate court should have the same powers as the trial court in regard to assessment of evidence and awarding of sentence."

16. Thereafter, in the substantive Chapter on Justice to Victims, it is noted that victims of crime, in many jurisdictions, have the right to participate in the proceedings and to receive compensation for injury suffered. It was noted as follows:

"6.3. Basically two types of rights are recognized in many jurisdictions particularly in continental countries in respect of victims of crime. They are, firstly, the victim's right to participate in criminal proceedings (right to be impleaded, right to know, right to be heard and right to assist the court in the pursuit of truth) and secondly, the right to seek and receive compensation from the criminal court itself for injuries suffered as well as appropriate interim reliefs in the course of proceedings."

17. Following up on this, and extending the rights of victims of crime, it was observed in paragraph 6.5 that:

"6.5. The right of the victim should extend to prefer an appeal against any adverse order passed by the trial court. The appellate court should have the same powers to hear appeals against acquittal as it now has to entertain appeal against conviction. There is no credible and fair reason why appeals against acquittals should lie only to the High Court."

18. On this basis, the Justice Malimath Committee made the following recommendation enabling the victim of a crime to prefer an appeal. The recommendation (made in the Chapter having the same heading) reads as follows:

"6. (14) (v) The victim shall have a right to prefer an appeal against any adverse order passed by the court acquitting the accused, convicting for a lesser offence, imposing inadequate sentence, or granting inadequate compensation. Such appeal shall lie to the court to which an appeal ordinarily lies against the order of conviction of such court."

19. The third Report worth considering is the July 2007 Report of the Committee on the Draft National Policy on Criminal Justice also known as the Professor Madhava Menon Committee. While this Committee does not specifically deal with providing a right of appeal to the victim of a crime, it does refer to victim orientation to criminal justice and providing for a balance between the constitutional rights of an accused person and a victim of crime. One of the suggestions given by the Committee is to permit the impleadment of a victim in the trial proceedings. Obliquely, therefore, it follows that if a victim is impleaded as a party to the trial proceedings, the victim would certainly have a right to file an appeal against an adverse order, particularly an order of acquittal.

20. The fourth Report that deserves a mention is the 221 st Report of the Law Commission of India, April 2009. In this Report, the recommendation of the Law Commission of India was to the effect that as the law stands, an aggrieved person cannot file an appeal against an order of acquittal. However, a revision petition can be filed. The powers of a revisional court are limited and the process involved is cumbersome and it also involves a wastage of money and time. It was, therefore, recommended by the Law Commission that against an order of acquittal passed by a Magistrate, a victim should be entitled to file an appeal before the revisional court. It was also recommended that in complaint cases also an appeal should be provided in the Sessions Court instead of the High Court. In all such cases, the aggrieved person or complainant should have the right to prefer an appeal, though with the leave of the Appellate Court. The view of the Law Commission was expressed in the following words:

"2.9 All appeals against orders of acquittal passed by Magistrates were being filed in High Court prior to amendment of section 378 by Act 25 of 2005. Now, with effect from 23.06.2006, appeals against orders of acquittal passed by Magistrates in respect of cognizable and non-bailable offences in cases filed on police report are being filed in the Sessions Court, vide clause (a) of sub-section (1) of the said section. But, appeal against order of acquittal passed in any case instituted upon complaint continues to be filed in the High Court, if special leave is granted by it on an application made to it by the complainant, vide sub-section (4) of the said section.

2.10. Section 378 needs change with a view to enable filing of appeals in complaint cases also in the Sessions Court, of course, subject to the grant of special leave by it.

2.11 Further, at present, against orders of acquittal passed by Magistrates (where the offence is cognizable and non-bailable) or by Sessions Courts, appeal in cases filed on police reports can be filed only at the instance of the District Magistrate or the State Government, as the case may be, vide sub-section (1) of section 378. In such matters, the aggrieved person or the informant cannot himself file an appeal. However, he can prefer a revision. If the revisional Court finds that the accused has been wrongly acquitted, it cannot convict him in view of sub-section (3) of section 401, but it has to remand the case. It is a cumbersome process and involves wastage of money and time. This provision also needs a change and in such matters also, where the District Magistrate or the State does not direct the Public Prosecutor to prefer appeal against an order of acquittal, the aggrieved person or the informant should have the right to prefer appeal, though with the leave of the Appellate Court. This will also give an opportunity to the aggrieved person to challenge the findings of fact recorded by lower court. Also, this will introduce more transparency and accountability in the lower judiciary, as at present, the percentage of acquittal is quite high."

21. It is, apparently, on the basis of all these Reports and other material that Section 372 Cr.P.C. was amended on 30th December, 2009 with effect from 31st December, 2009. Section 372 Cr.P.C., as it stands today, reads as follows:

"372. No appeal to lie unless otherwise provided. - No appeal shall lie from any judgment or order of a Criminal Court except as provided for by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force:

Provided that the victim shall have a right to prefer an appeal against any order passed by the Court acquitting the accused or convicting for a lesser offence or imposing inadequate compensation, and such appeal shall lie to the Court to which an appeal ordinarily lies against the order of conviction of such Court."

44. The 'Declaration of Basic Principles of Justice for Victims of Crime and Abuse of Power17', adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations in the 96th Plenary Session on 29.11.1985, referred to as the Magna Carta of the rights of victims, was also considered and one of the declarations made thereunder in relation to access to justice for the victim of an offence through justice delivery mechanisms, both formal and informal, was extracted. It was stated thus:-

"73. In our opinion, the proviso to Section 372 of the Cr.P.C. must also be given a meaning that is realistic, liberal, progressive and beneficial to the victim of an offence. There is a historical reason for this, beginning with the Declaration of Basic Principles of Justice for Victims of Crime and Abuse of Power, adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations in the 96th Plenary Session on 29.11.1985. The Declaration is sometimes referred to as the Magna Carta of the rights of victims. One of the significant declarations made was in relation to access to justice for the victim of an offence through the justice delivery mechanisms, both formal and informal. In the Declaration it was stated as follows:

"4. Victims should be treated with compassion and respect for their dignity. They are entitled to access to the mechanisms of justice and to prompt redress, as provided for by national legislation, for the harm that they have suffered.

5. Judicial and administrative mechanisms should be established and strengthened where necessary to enable victims to obtain redress through formal or informal procedures that are expeditious, fair, inexpensive and accessible. Victims should be informed of their rights in seeking redress through such mechanisms.

6. The responsiveness of judicial and administrative processes to the needs of victims should be facilitated by:

(a) Informing victims of their role and the scope, timing and progress of the proceedings and of the disposition of their cases, especially where serious crimes are involved and where they have requested such information;

(b) Allowing the views and concerns of victims to be presented and considered at appropriate stages of the proceedings where their personal interests are affected, without prejudice to the accused and consistent with the relevant national criminal justice system;

(c) Providing proper assistance to victims throughout the legal process;

(d) Taking measures to minimize inconvenience to victims, protect their privacy, when necessary, and ensure their safety, as well as that of their families and witnesses on their behalf, from intimidation and retaliation;

(e) Avoiding unnecessary delay in the disposition of cases and the execution of orders or decrees granting awards to victims.

7. Informal mechanisms for the resolution of disputes, including mediation, arbitration and customary justice or indigenous practices, should be utilized where appropriate to facilitate conciliation and redress for victims."

74. Putting the Declaration to practice, it is quite obvious that the victim of an offence is entitled to a variety of rights. Access to mechanisms of justice and redress through formal procedures as provided for in national legislation, must include the right to file an appeal against an order of acquittal in a case such as the one that we are presently concerned with. Considered in this light, there is no doubt that the proviso to Section 372 of the Cr.P.C. must be given life, to benefit the victim of an offence.

75. Under the circumstances, on the basis of the plain language of the law and also as interpreted by several High Courts and in addition the resolution of the General Assembly of the United Nations, it is quite clear to us that a victim as defined in Section 2(wa) of the Cr.P.C. would be entitled to file an appeal before the Court to which an appeal ordinarily lies against the order of conviction. It must follow from this that the appeal filed by Kodagali before the High Court was maintainable and ought to have been considered on its own merits.

76. As far as the question of the grant of special leave is concerned, once again, we need not be overwhelmed by submissions made at the Bar. The language of the proviso to Section 372 of the Cr.P.C. is quite clear, particularly when it is contrasted with the language of Section 378(4) Cr.P.C. The text of this provision is quite clear and it is confined to an order of acquittal passed in a case instituted upon a complaint. The word "complaint" has been defined in Section 2(d) of the Cr.P.C. and refers to any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate. This has nothing to do with the lodging or the registration of an FIR, and therefore it is not at all necessary to consider the effect of a victim being the complainant as far as the proviso to Section 372 of the Cr.P.C. is concerned."

45. It would be apposite to refer to The Crime Victims' Rights Act (CVRA)18, which is a part of the United States Justice for All Act. The CVRA enumerates the rights afforded to victims in the following manner:-

"The Crime Victims' have following rights:-

(a) The right to be reasonably protected from the accused.

The right to reasonable, accurate, and timely notice of any public court proceeding, or any parole proceeding, involving the crime or of any release or escape of the accused.

(b) The right not to be excluded from any such public court proceeding, unless the court, after receiving clear and convincing evidence, determines that testimony by the victim would be materially altered if the victim heard other testimony at that proceeding.

(c) The right to be reasonably heard at any public proceeding in the district court involving release, plea, sentencing, or any parole proceeding.

(d) The reasonable right to confer with the attorney for the Government in the case.

(e)The right to full and timely restitution as provided in law.

(f) The right to proceedings free from unreasonable delay.

(g) The right to be treated with fairness and with respect for the victim's dignity and privacy."

46. The question with regard to consideration of grant of permission under Section 302 of the Code to a complainant or victim to conduct prosecution fell for consideration in Amir Hamza Shaikh and Others vs. State of Maharashtra and Another19 and it was held that though the Magistrate is not bound to grant permission at the mere asking but the victim has a right to assist the court in a trial before Magistrate. The observation made in the earlier judgment in J.K. International v. State (Government of NCT of Delhi) and Others20 with regard to the complainant's continued participation in criminal proceedings initiated by him were referred to and it was stated as follows:-

"8. In a three Judge Bench of this Court in J.K. International v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi) (2001) 3 SCC 462: 2001 SCC (Cri) 547, where offences under Sections 420, 406 and 120-B IPC were investigated and charge-sheet filed on the basis of complaint of the appellant, the accused filed a petition for quashing of the charges in which the complainant wanted to be heard. The Public Prosecutor filed an application before the Magistrate for amending the charge for incorporating two more offences which were exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions. The Magistrate dismissed the application but the said order was not challenged by the prosecution. It was held that the scheme in the Code indicates that the person who is aggrieved by the offence committed is not altogether wiped out from the scene of the trial merely because the investigation was taken over by the police.

9. This Court while considering the provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 301 and Section 302 CrPC, held as under:

"9. The scheme envisaged in the Code of Criminal Procedure indicates that a person who is aggrieved by the offence committed, is not altogether wiped out from the scenario of the trial merely because the investigation was taken over by the police and the charge-sheet was laid by them. Even the fact that the court had taken cognizance of the offence is not sufficient to debar him from reaching the court for ventilating his grievance. Even in the Sessions Court, where the Public Prosecutor is the only authority empowered to conduct the prosecution as per Section 225 of the Code, a private person who is aggrieved by the offence involved in the case is not altogether debarred from participating in the trial. This can be discerned from Section 301(2) of the Code which reads thus:

"301. (2) If in any such case any private person instructs a pleader to prosecute any person in any court, the Public Prosecutor or Assistant Public Prosecutor in charge of the case shall conduct the prosecution, and the pleader so instructed shall act therein under the directions of the Public Prosecutor or Assistant Public Prosecutor, and may, with the permission of the court, submit written arguments after the evidence is closed in the case."

47. The settled principles governing the grant of bail and the relevant considerations while considering an application for bail may be enumerated as follows:-

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of charge;

(iii) severity of punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of accused;

(vi) likelihood of offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with; and (viii) danger of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

Vague allegation that the accused may tamper with evidence or witnesses may not be a ground to refuse bail; however, if the accused is of such character that his mere presence at large would intimidate witnesses or if there is material to show that he will use his liberty to subvert justice or tamper with evidence, then bail would be refused.

48. The plea of bail of an adult in a non-bailable offence, would substantially be governed by the provisions of Section 439 of the Code, wherein a wide discretion is conferred on the High Court or the Court of Sessions, and in terms thereof for an adult offender, bail in a non-bailable offence is not a matter of right. The right to bail in such cases is dependent upon the discretion of the High Court or the Court of Sessions, and which is to be exercised along settled lines in relation to different offences. In case of a juvenile offender, sub-section (1) of Section 12 of the JJ Act provides for bail as a matter of right, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code or in any other law for the time being in force. This is however, subject to the three distinct exceptions carved out in terms of the proviso to the sub-section.

49. The right to be granted bail in case of a juvenile, therefore cannot be held to be indefeasible or unqualified, and the same is to be considered as per terms of the settled principles and in context of subsection (1) of Section 12 of the JJ Act and the proviso to the said sub-section.

50. In order to examine the question with regard to the right of the complainant/victim to be granted a reasonable opportunity of being heard at the stage of a revision under Section 102, which seeks to assail an order refusing bail under the provisions of the Act, the proviso to Section 102 would be required to be considered in the light of the statutory scheme of the Act.

51. The normal function of a proviso as has been consistently held, is to except something out of the enactment or to qualify something enacted therein which but for the proviso would be within the purview of the enactment.

52. The law relating to the statutory construction of a proviso was considered in Ali M.K. And Others v. State of Kerala and Others21, and it was reiterated that the proviso qualifies or carves out an exception to the main provision, and referring to earlier judgments in Mullins v. Treasurer of Surrey22, Shah Bhojraj Kuverji Oil Mills and Ginning Factory v. Subhash Chandra Yograj Sinha23, Calcutta Tramways Co. Ltd. v. Corporation of Calcutta24, West Derby Union v. Metropolitan Life Assurance Co.25, A.N. Sehgal v. Raje Ram Sheoran26, Tribhovandas Haribhai Tamboli v. Gujarat Revenue Tribunal27, Kerala State Housing Board v. Ramapriya Hotels (P) Ltd.28, R. v. Taunton, St James29 and Lord Esher in Barker, Re30, the law on the point was summarized as follows:-

"10. The normal function of a proviso is to except something out of the enactment or to qualify something enacted therein which but for the proviso would be within the purview of the enactment. As was stated in Mullins v. Treasurer of Surrey16, (referred to in Shah Bhojraj Kuverji Oil Mills and Ginning Factory v. Subhash Chandra Yograj Sinha17 and Calcutta Tramways Co. Ltd. v. Corporation of Calcutta18, when one finds a proviso to a section the natural presumption is that, but for the proviso, the enacting part of the section would have included the subject matter of the proviso. The proper function of a proviso is to except and to deal with a case which would otherwise fall within the general language of the main enactment and its effect is confined to that case. It is a qualification of the preceding enactment which is expressed in terms too general to be quite accurate. As a general rule, a proviso is added to an enactment to qualify or create an exception to what is in the enactment and ordinarily, a proviso is not interpreted as stating a general rule. "If the language of the enacting part of the statute does not contain the provisions which are said to occur in it you cannot derive these provisions by implication from a proviso. ..." said Lord Watson in West Derby Union v. Metropolitan Life Assurance Co.19 . Normally, a proviso does not travel beyond the provision to which it is a proviso. It carves out an exception to the main provision to which it has been enacted as a proviso and to no other. (See A.N. Sehgal and Ors. v. Raje Ram Sheoran20, Tribhovandas Haribhai Tamboli v. Gujarat Revenue Tribunal21 and Kerala State Housing Board and Ors. v. Ramapriya Hotels (P)Ltd.22).

"This word (proviso) hath divers operations. Sometime it worketh a qualification or limitation; sometime a condition; and sometime a covenant." (Coke upon Littleton 18th Edn., p. 146.)

"If in a deed an earlier clause is followed by a later clause which destroys altogether the obligation created by the earlier clause, the later clause is to be rejected as repugnant, and the earlier clause prevails....But if the later clause does not destroy but only qualifies the earlier, then the two are to be read together and effect is to be given to the intention of the parties as disclosed by the deed as a whole" [Per Lord Wrenbury in Forbes v. Git (1922) 1 AC 256].

11. A statutory proviso "is something engrafted on a preceding enactment" (R. v. Taunton, St James23).

"The ordinary and proper function of a proviso coming after a general enactment is to limit that general enactment in certain instances." [Per Lord Esher in Barker, Re24].

12. A proviso to a section cannot be used to import into the enacting part something which is not there, but where the enacting part is susceptible to several possible meanings it may be controlled by the proviso [See Jennings v. Kelly, (1940) AC 206].

53. In "Construction and Interpretation of the Laws" by Henry Campbell Black31 it has been stated as a rule of construction that a proviso when added to a section thereof introduces a condition or limitation upon the operation of the enactment, or makes special provision for cases excepted from the general provisions of the law, or qualifies or restrains its generality, or excludes some possible ground of misinterpretation of its extent. The legal proposition has been stated as follows:-

"107. A proviso is a clause added to a statute, or to a section or part thereof, which introduces a condition or limitation upon the operation of the enactment, or makes special provision for cases excepted from the general provisions of the law, or qualifies or restrains its generality, or excludes some possible ground of misinterpretation of its extent."

54. A proviso, added to a section or a part thereof, has therefore been held to qualify the enactment by introducing a condition or limitation upon its operation. A statutory proviso coming after the general enactment is something engrafted on a preceding enactment and is to be construed in a manner, so as to limit the operation of the enactment in certain instances.

55. The revisional powers under Section 102 of the JJ Act is subject to the proviso engrafted in the section which mandates that the High Court shall not pass an order under the section prejudicial to any person without giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard. The word "shall" is usually used to indicate the mandatory nature of the provision and the word "not" is used in a sense of creating a prohibition. The proviso to Section 102 uses the words "shall" and "not" in conjunction which is a clear indication of the intent of the Parliament to convey the mandatory nature of the proviso containing a condition providing in absolute terms that the High Court shall not pass an order exercising powers of revision under the section prejudicial to any person without giving him a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

56. In statutory construction the intention of legislature is primarily gathered from the language used which means that attention has to be given to what has been stated. A construction, which would render a part of the statute as being devoid of any meaning or application has to be avoided.

57. The basic rules of interpretation of statutes came up for consideration in Constitution Bench decision, Hardeep Singh and Others vs. State of Punjab and Others32, in the context of examining the scope of exercise of powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C., and it was stated that when language of the statute is plain and unambiguous, the court should give effect to the same and should not go behind the express language so as to add or subtract any word. Referring to the doctrine A Verbis Legis Non Est Recedendum it was stated that legislature is presumed to have used words deliberately and consciously for carrying out the purpose of the statute. The observations made in this judgment in this regard are as follows:-

"42. To say that powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised only during trial would be reducing the impact of the word "inquiry" by the court. It is a settled principle of law that an interpretation which leads to the conclusion that a word used by the legislature is redundant, should be avoided as the presumption is that the legislature has deliberately and consciously used the words for carrying out the purpose of the Act. The legal maxim A Verbis Legis Non Est Recedendum which means, "from the words of law, there must be no departure" has to be kept in mind.

43. The court cannot proceed with an assumption that the legislature enacting the statute has committed a mistake and where the language of the statute is plain and unambiguous, the court cannot go behind the language of the statute so as to add or subtract a word playing the role of a political reformer or of a wise counsel to the legislature. The court has to proceed on the footing that the legislature intended what it has said and even if there is some defect in the phraseology, etc., it is for others than the court to remedy that defect. The statute requires to be interpreted without doing any violence to the language used therein. The court cannot rewrite, recast or reframe the legislation for the reason that it has no power to legislate."

58. The earlier decisions in Patel Chunibhai Dajibha etc. v. Narayanrao Khanderao Jambekar33, The Martin Burn Ltd. v. The Corporation of Calcutta34, M.V. Elisabeth v. Harwan Investment & Trading Pvt. Ltd.35, Sultana Begum v. Prem Chand Jain36, State of Bihar v. Bihar Distillery Ltd.37, Institute of Chartered Accountants of India v. M/s. Price Waterhouse38, South Central Railway Employees Co-operative Credit Society Employees Union v. Registrar of Co-operative Societies39, were referred to emphasize the presumption against redundancy or surplusage by observing that no word in a statute should be treated as redundant or surplusage.

"44. No word in a statute has to be construed as surplusage. No word can be rendered ineffective or purposeless. Courts are required to carry out the legislative intent fully and completely. While construing a provision, full effect is to be given to the language used therein, giving reference to the context and other provisions of the Statute. By construction, a provision should not be reduced to a "dead letter" or "useless lumber". An interpretation which renders a provision an otiose should be avoided otherwise it would mean that in enacting such a provision, the legislature was involved in "an exercise in futility" and the product came as a "purposeless piece" of legislation and that the provision had been enacted without any purpose and the entire exercise to enact such a provision was "most unwarranted besides being uncharitable." (Vide Patel Chunibhai Dajibha etc. v. Narayanrao Khanderao Jambekar27, The Martin Burn Ltd. v. The Corporation of Calcutta28, M.V. Elisabeth v. Harwan Investment & Trading Pvt. Ltd.29, Sultana Begum v. Prem Chand Jain30, State of Bihar v. Bihar Distillery Ltd.31, Institute of Chartered Accountants of India v. M/s. Price Waterhouse32, South Central Railway Employees Co-operative Credit Society Employees Union v. Registrar of Co-operative Societies33.

45. This Court in Rohitash Kumar v. Om Prakash Sharma, (2013) 11 SCC 451, after placing reliance on various earlier judgments of this Court held: (SCC pp. 460-61, paras 27-29)

"27.The Court has to keep in mind the fact that, while interpreting the provisions of a Statute, it can neither add, nor subtract even a single word... A section is to be interpreted by reading all of its parts together, and it is not permissible, to omit any part thereof. The Court cannot proceed with the assumption that the legislature, while enacting the Statute has committed a mistake; it must proceed on the footing that the legislature intended what it has said; even if there is some defect in the phraseology used by it in framing the statute, and it is not open to the court to add and amend, or by construction, make up for the deficiencies, which have been left in the Act. ...

28. The Statute is not to be construed in light of certain notions that the legislature might have had in mind, or what the legislature is expected to have said, or what the legislature might have done, or what the duty of the legislature to have said or done was. The Courts have to administer the law as they find it, and it is not permissible for the Court to twist the clear language of the enactment, in order to avoid any real, or imaginary hardship which such literal interpretation may cause. ...

29... under the garb of interpreting the provision, the Court does not have the power to add or subtract even a single word, as it would not amount to interpretation, but legislation." (emphasis in original)

46. Thus, by no means can it be said that provisions of Section 319 Cr.P.C. cannot be pressed into service during the course of "inquiry". The word "inquiry" is not surplusage in the said provision."

59. The presumption against redundancy or surplusage was reiterated in a subsequent judgment in the context of the provisions of the JJ Act in Shilpa Mittal vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and Another40 and it was held that where language of the provision is explicit and clear the court cannot remove any word treating it as surplusage.

60. It is a cardinal principal of construction that the language of a statute should be read as it is and any construction which results in rejection of words as meaningless or treating them as surplusage has to be avoided.

61. In the Constitution Bench decision Union Of India vs Hansoli Devi & Ors41, after referring to the observations made by Tindal CJ in the Sussex Peerage Case42 and also the observations made in the decisions in Aswini Kumar Ghose v. Arabinda Bose43, Quebec Railway, Light Heat and Power Co. v. Vandray44, it was held that where the language of the statute is plain and unambiguous, the court must give effect to the words used in the statute and it would not be a sound principle of construction to brush aside words in a statute as being inapposite surplusage. It was stated thus:-

"9. Before we embark upon an inquiry as to what would be the correct interpretation of Section 28-A, we think it appropriate to bear in mind certain basic principles of interpretation of statute. The rule stated by Tindal, C.J. in Sussex Peerage case, (1844) 11 Cl & Fin 85: 8 ER 1034, still holds the field. The aforesaid rule is to the effect: (ER p. 1057)

"If the words of the statute are in themselves precise and unambiguous, then no more can be necessary than to expound those words in their natural and ordinary sense. The words themselves alone do, in such case, best declare the intent of the lawgiver."

It is a cardinal principle of construction of statute that when language of the statute is plain and unambiguous, then the court must give effect to the words used in the statute and it would not be open to the courts to adopt a hypothetical construction on the ground that such construction is more consistent with the alleged object and policy of the Act. In Kirkness v. John Hudson & Co. Ltd, (1955) 2 All ER 345, Lord Reid pointed out as to what is the meaning of "ambiguous' and held that: (All ER p. 366 C-D)

"A provision is not ambiguous merely because it contains a word which in different context is capable of different meanings. It would be hard to find anywhere a sentence of any length which does not contain such a word. A provision is, in my judgment, ambiguous only if it contains a word or phrase which in that particular context is capable of having more than one meaning."

It is no doubt true that if on going through the plain meaning of the language of statutes, it leads to anomalies, injustices and absurdities, then the court may look into the purpose for which the statute has been brought and would try to give a meaning, which would adhere to the purpose of the statute. Patanjali Sastri, C.J. in the case of Aswini Kumar Ghose v. Arabinda Bose, [1953] SCR 1, had held that it is not a sound principle of construction to brush aside words in a statute as being inapposite surplusage, if they can have appropriate application in circumstances conceivably within the contemplation of the statute. In Quebec Railway, Light Heat and Power Co. v. Vandray, AIR (1920) PC 181, it had been observed that the Legislature is deemed not to waste its words or to say anything in vain and a construction which attributes redundancy to the legislature will not be accepted except for compelling reasons. ..."

62. The treatise "Construction and Interpretation of the Laws" by Henry Campbell Black45 may be referred to again, wherein the rule against surplusage has been stated in the following manner:-

"In giving construction to a statute, the courts are bound, if it be possible, to give effect to all its several parts. No sentence, clause, or word should be construed as unmeaning and surplusage, if a construction can be legitimately found which will give force to and preserve all the words of the statute."

63. The rule against surplusage is a principle of statutory construction based on semantics. The principle requires the courts to give each word and clause of a statute operative effect. The courts should not interpret any statutory provision in a way that would render it or another part of the statute inoperative or redundant or devoid of any meaning or application.

64. In interpretation of statutes, the courts would always presume that legislature inserted every part thereof for a purpose and the legislative intention is that every part of the statute should have effect. It is for this reason that it has been held that legislature is deemed not to waste its words or to say anything in vain and a construction which attributes redundancy to the legislature would not be accepted except for compelling reasons; the rule being that a meaning should, if possible, be given to every word in the statute, unless there are good reasons to the contrary.

65. In the context of the JJ Act, an order granting bail to a juvenile by the Board would be subject to an appeal under Section 101 by any aggrieved person, including the victim/complainant, and thereafter a revision under Section 102. The aggrieved person, including the victim/complainant, would therefore, have a remedy against an order granting bail under Section 12 or at the stage of appeal under Section 101. It would therefore be of no avail to raise an argument, as is sought in the present case, that the victim/complainant having not been given any right to oppose the bail at the stage of Section 12 or Section 101, no such right can be claimed at the stage of revision under Section 102.

66. This would be more so for the reason, as noticed above, that the victim/complainant would have a right to raise a challenge to an order granting bail passed under Section 12 or any such order passed at the stage of appeal under Section 101; however, in the event the victim/complainant is denied an opportunity to oppose the bail at the stage of revision under Section 102, which is the final stage under the statute, he would be left remedy-less. It is in this view of the matter that the victim/complaint cannot be deprived of an opportunity of hearing on the face of the express provision contained under the proviso to Section 102 of the JJ Act.

67. The JJ Act is a beneficial legislation aimed to provide for protection of rights of "child in conflict with law", and also a "child in need of care and protection". There may be a situation, as in the present case, where the person in conflict with law is a child so also is the victim/complainant. The protection granted to a juvenile under the provisions of the JJ Act, cannot be held to be absolute but it would be circumscribed by the provisions of the Act and would apply strictly upon fulfillment of the conditions precedent therefor. The Act provides for beneficent consequences, and thus, it is required to be construed liberally; however, the beneficent legislation is not to be construed so liberally in favour of the "child in conflict with law" so as to deny the basic right of an opportunity of hearing to the victim who, in many cases, may also be a child -- "a child in need of care and protection".

68. It is also relevant to note that the JJ Act apart from being a beneficent legislation, is also a remedial one. The rule under Section 12(1) is for grant of bail to a "child in conflict with law" irrespective of questions regarding his role and complicity or the gravity of the offence. The reasons for which bail can be denied as spelt out under the proviso to Section 12(1), namely, that the release is likely to bring that person into association with any known criminal or expose the person to moral, physical and psychological danger or the persons release would defeat the ends of justice, go to show that these are all reasons which are indicative of the legislative intent of giving primacy to the interest of the "child in conflict with law".

69. It may also be noticed that as per terms of sub-section (2) of Section 12 where the juvenile is not released on bail under sub-section (1), the statute enjoins that he is to be kept only in an observation home, in such manner, as may be prescribed, until he can be brought before a Board. Further, sub-section (3) provides that when such person is not released on bail under sub-section (1) by the Board, it shall make an order sending him to an observation home or a place of safety, as the case may be, regarding the person, as may be specified in the order. The procedure of inquiry referred to under sub-section (3) of Section 12 is provided under Section 14 and in terms thereof, the inquiry is to be completed within a period of four months, unless the period is extended, for a maximum period of two more months by the Board having regard to the circumstances of the case and after recording reasons in writing for such extension.

70. Section 15 provides for a preliminary assessment in case of a heinous offence alleged to have been committed by a child who has completed, or is above the age of 16 years and in terms of sub-section (3) of Section 14, such preliminary assessment is to be disposed of by the Board within a period of three months from the date of first production of the child before the Board. This is subject to further extension of time, in case the Board so requires, which is to be granted by the Chief Judicial Magistrate/Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, as the case may be, for reasons to be recorded in writing. Sub-section (5) of Section 14 enjoins upon the Board to take steps to ensure fair and speedy inquiry.

71. Section 16 provides for a periodic review of pendency of cases relating to inquiry before the Board. Section 17 empowers the Board to pass orders regarding a child not found to be in conflict with law and in terms of Section 18, the Board is empowered to pass orders regarding child found to be in conflict with law. Amongst the various orders which may be passed by the Board under Section 18, it is provided, as per terms of clause (g) of sub-section (1), that the Board may direct the child to be sent to a special home, for such period, not exceeding three years, as it thinks fit, for providing reformative services. As per sub-section (3) where the Board after preliminary assessment under Section 15 passes an order that there is a need for trial of the child as an adult, then the Board may order transfer of the trial of the case to the Children's Court having jurisdiction to try such offences.

72. Section 19 relates to powers of Children's Court and in terms of sub-section (1) thereof after receipt of preliminary assessment from the Board under Section 15, the Children's Court may decide that- (i) there is a need for trial of the child as an adult as per the provisions of the Code and pass appropriate orders after trial subject to the provisions of the section and Section 21, considering the special needs of the child, the tenets of fair trial and maintaining a child friendly atmosphere; (ii) there is no need for trial of the child as an adult and may conduct an inquiry as a Board and pass appropriate orders in accordance with the provisions of Section 18. Sub-section (2) of Section 19 provides that the Children's Court shall ensure that the final order, with regard to a child in conflict with law, shall include an individual care plan for the rehabilitation of the child, including follow-up action by the probation officer or the District Child Protection Unit or a social worker. As per sub-section (3) the Children's Court shall ensure that the child who is found to be in conflict with law is sent to a place of safety till he attains the age of twenty one years and thereafter, the person shall be transferred to a jail. It is further provided that the reformative services including educational services, skill development, alternative therapy such as counselling, behaviour modification therapy, and psychiatric support shall be provided during the period of stay of the child in the place of safety.

73. Section 21 mandates that no child in conflict with law shall be sentenced to death or for life imprisonment without the possibility of release, for any such offence, either under the provisions of the JJ Act or under the provisions of the Penal Code or any other law for the time being in force.

74. The aforementioned statutory provisions underline the scheme of the JJ Act which shows that irrespective of the fact that in a situation a juvenile may have been denied bail for the reasons spelt out under the proviso to Section 12(1), the beneficial and the remedial provisions of the legislation with avenues for reform and rehabilitation would continue to be available.

75. The test as to whether a person would be entitled to an opportunity of being heard in a challenge to an order passed in an original proceeding, or an appeal thereon, by another cannot be held to be dependent necessarily on whether such a person had a right to be heard in the original proceeding or at the stage of appeal. A person who is entitled to be heard in an original proceeding may legitimately assert a right to be heard when a substantive right created by an order passed in that proceeding is sought to be assailed before a higher forum at the behest of another person but a right to be heard in revision would not stand excluded only for the reason that a person who claims such a right was not entitled to be heard at the stage of passing of the original order or at the appellate stage. The entitlement or the right of hearing at a particular stage would have to be assessed independently, by considering the consequences of the proceeding in which a hearing is sought. In a situation where a substantial right would be effected or a prejudice is likely to result, an opportunity of hearing can legitimately be claimed as a matter of right when the order is assailed at the higher forum, irrespective of the right of hearing having been given at the stage when the original order was passed.

76. Applicability of principles of natural justice as part of our jurisprudence is not merely a matter of statutory entitlement but a recognition of the constitutional right to fair procedure and fair treatment. The principle of audi alteram partem is a fundamental rule of natural justice and 'fair play in action' is its essence, which demands that before any order prejudicial to the interests of a person is passed, he must be given an opportunity to be heard.

77. The victim/complainant would therefore be entitled to a reasonable opportunity of being heard in a revision where the order refusing bail by the Board under Section 12 and by the appellate authority under Section 101, are sought to be assailed. This would be more so on the face of the express provision under the proviso to Section 102 which mandates that the High Court shall not pass an order under this section prejudicial to any person without giving him a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

78. It would be apt to take note that one of the grounds on which bail may be denied to a juvenile, as per the exception carved out under Section 12 (1), would be a situation where his release would defeat the ends of justice. In a given case, the release of the juvenile may have the consequence of defeating the ends of justice, for reasons which may be multifarious, and may include within its ambit situations, which may be having the effect of causing prejudice to the rights of the victim/complainant.

79. To put it differently, a situation where the juvenile's release would have the effect of defeating the ends of justice, may in a given case, also be a cause of prejudice to the victim/complainant. It would therefore be seen that one of the grounds for denial of bail under Section 12(1) i.e. the person's release defeating the ends of justice, may have a linkage, direct or otherwise, to a cause of prejudice to the victim/complainant.

80. A conjoint reading of the proviso to Section 12 (1) and the proviso to Section 102 would therefore lead to the inference that an order granting bail to a juvenile, in given case, may have the effect of defeating the ends of justice by causing prejudice to the rights of the victim/complainant. There being a likelihood of the rights of the victim/complainant being prejudiced, it would follow, as a logical corollary, that he would be entitled to a reasonable opportunity of being heard at the stage of revision under Section 102 where the order rejecting the bail application is sought to be assailed.

81. Our criminal justice system rests itself on the edifice of a fair trial. The concept of fairness would require to be manifest in an infinite variety of actual situations with the ultimate test being-- whether denial of opportunity has deprived the quality of fairness to a degree where miscarriage of justice has resulted. It may not be wholly correct to say that it is only the accused who is entitled to be fairly dealt with. Taking such a view may result in gross injustice to the victims, their family members, relatives and to the society at large. Denial of opportunity-- a fair opportunity-- is as much injustice to the accused as it is to the victim. Failure to grant a fair hearing would be equally a cause of prejudice to the accused as to the victim. It is for this reason, that the criminal justice system would have to accord primacy to the triangulation of interests of the accused, the victim and the society that acts through the State and its prosecuting agencies.

82. Having regard to the aforestated reasons, this Court is of the view that before passing an order in revision under Section 102 of the JJ Act, in a matter relating to consideration of bail to a 'child in conflict with law', the complainant/victim would be required to be given a reasonable opportunity of being heard before any order prejudicial to his/her interest, is passed. Taking any other view would render the proviso to Section 102 redundant.

83. Let notice be issued to opposite party no.2 returnable within four weeks.

84. List/put up on date fixed.

List of Cases cited:

St. of Mah. Vs Tapas D. Neogy (1999) 7 SCC 685

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J.
Hon'ble Piyush Agrawal, J.)

1. Heard Sri S.K. Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioners; Sri Patanjali Mishra, learned AGA for State-respondents and Sri Ved Byas Mishra, learned counsel for the informant-respondent-5.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following relief:-

"I. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the Notice / order dated 31.01.2021 issued by Respondent No. 3 (Annexure No. 6 to the Criminal Misc. Writ Petition) by which directed to the Respondent no. 4 to freeze the account No. 577102000013527 of the petitioner no. 2.

II. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the Branch Manager I.D.B.I. Bank, Regional Officer I.D.B.I. Tower W.T.C. Complex Mumbai, Maharastra to allow the Petitioner No. 2 to operate her account No. 577102000013527."

3. The informant-respondent no. 5 has lodged the F.I.R. No. 047 of 2021, dated 10.1.2021, under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 IPC, Police Station Phase III, Commissionerate, Gautam Buddha Nagar alleging that the petitioners have fraudulently taken a sum of Rs. 4,58,60,160/- out of which, after much persuasion a sum of Rs. 60 lakh and 75 lakh have been refunded on 9.6.2020 and 10.6.2020 and a sum of Rs. 3,03,19,200/- is still with the petitioners which they have retained fraudulently and the aforesaid amount was paid by the informant to the petitioners in their bank account no. 577102000013527, I.D.B.I. Bank, Thane Branch, Mumbai through R.T.G.S. The Investigating Officer issued the impugned notice dated 31.1.2021 to the Branch Manager I.D.B.I. Bank with reference to the aforesaid bank account and requested to freeze the aforesaid account and by the same notice the Investigating Officer has also requested the Branch Manager to give statement of the account in question from 1.1.2020 till date. The impugned notice dated 31.1.2021 has been challenged in the present writ petition.

4. Undisputedly, the aforesaid amount in question was paid as advance by the informant-respondent no. 5 to the petitioners through R.T.G.S. in the aforesaid bank account. The allegation in the F.I.R. is that the amount was fraudulently obtained by the petitioners from the informant-respondent. Although the heading on the top of the impugned notice is "नोटिस अंतर्गत धारा 91 सी. आर. पी. सी." but the last portion of the notice to freeze the bank account is referable to Section 102 Cr. P. C.

5. In the case of State of Maharastra Vs. Tapas D. Neogy, (1999) 7 SCC 685 (para 12), Hon'ble the Supreme Court considered the scope of Section 102 Cr P C and held as under:

"12. Having considered the divergent views taken by different High Courts with regard to the power of seizure under Section 102 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and whether the bank account can be held to be `property' within the meaning of said Section 102 (1), we see no justification to give any narrow interpretation to the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code. It is well known that corruption in public offices has become so rampant that it has become difficult to cope up with the same. Then again the time consumed by the Courts in concluding the trials is another factor which should be borne in mind in interpreting the provisions of Section 102 of the Criminal Procedure Code and the underlying object engrafted therein, inasmuch as if there can be no order of seizure of the bank account of the accused then the entire money deposited in a bank which is ultimately held in the trial to be the outcome of the illegal gratification, could be withdrawn by the accused and the Courts would be powerless to get the said money which has any direct link with the commission of the offence committed by the accused as a public officer. We are, therefore, persuaded to take the view that the bank account of the accused or any of his relation is `property' within the meaning of Section 102 of the Criminal Procedure Code and a police officer in course of investigation can seize or prohibit the operation of the said account if such assets have direct links with the commission of the offence for which the police officer is investigating into. The contrary view expressed by Karnataka, Gauhati and Allahabad High Courts, does not represent the correct law. It may also be seen that under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, in the matter of imposition of fine under sub-section (2) of Section 13, the legislatures have provided that the Courts in fixing the amount of fine shall take into consideration the amount or the value of the property, which the accused person has obtained by committing the offence or where the conviction is for an offence referred to in clause (e) of sub- section(1) of Section 13, the pecuniary resources or property for which the accused person is unable to account satisfactorily. The interpretation given by us in respect of the power of seizure under Section 102 of the Criminal Procedure Code is in accordance with the intention of the legislature engrafted in Section 16 of the Prevention of Corruption Act referred to above. In the aforesaid premises, we have no hesitation to come to the conclusion that the High Court of Bombay committed error in holding that the police officer could not have seized the bank account or could not have issued any direction to the bank officer, prohibiting the account of the accused from being operated upon. Though we have laid down the law, but so far as the present case is concerned, the order impugned has already been given effect to and the accused has been operating upon his account, and so, we do not interfere with the same."

6. The petitioners are accused in the above noted F.I.R. The amount in question was transferred by the informant -respondent no. 5 to the petitioners in the aforesaid bank account which has been freezed pursuant to the impugned notice. The bank account of the accused / petitioners is a "property' within the meaning of Section 102 of Cr. P.C. The police officer in course of investigation can seize or prohibit the operation of the said account if such assets have direct links with the commission of the offence for which the police officer is investigating into.

7. Prima facie, there is a direct link between the alleged commission of offence and the aforesaid bank account which is being investigated by the Investigating Officer. Therefore, even though Section 102 Cr. P. C. has not been mentioned in the impugned notice but the power exercised by the Investigating Officer to freeze the bank account in question is referable to Section 102 (3) Cr. P. C. The only irregularity which appears to us is that the Investigating Officer has not reported forthwith the fact of freezing the bank account to the concerned Judicial Magistrate.

8. Therefore, considering the facts and circumstances of the case in its entirety, we do not find any good reason to interfere with the impugned notice. However, we direct that in the event, the fact of freezing the bank account in question has not yet been reported by the Investigating Officer, same shall be reported by the Investigating Officer to the concerned Judicial Magistrate immediately and not later than a week from today.

9. Subject to aforesaid observation, the writ petition is dismissed.

"Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, I am of the view that the petitioners are at liberty to live together and no person shall be permitted to interfere in their peaceful living. 5. Perusal of the impugned FIR, prima facie, discloses commission of cognizable offence by the petitioners.

6. Learned counsel for the informant/victim/respondent no. 3 has stated, before us, that on 23.06.2021, the statement of the victim has been recorded under section 164 Cr.P.C., in which she has supported the First Information Report version.

7. Perusal of the impugned FIR, prima facie, indicates fraud practiced by the petitioner no. 1 upon the Court to obtain the aforesaid order dated 12.03.2021 passed in Writ C No. 7852 of 2021 (Kajal Kumari & Another Vs. State of U.P. & 3 Others).

8. The Courts need to be cautious enough to see that under the garb of personal liberty of one, the personal liberty of the victim, is not offended or under allegation of marriage with her, she is not used as a shield to escape from the offences or perpetuation of offences. Facts of the present case, prima facie, disclose that the petitioner no. 1, firstly, kidnapped the informant/respondent/ victim and thereafter, under coercion and threat shown marriage with her and also obtained protection by filing Writ C No. 7852 of 2021 (Kajal Kumari & Another Vs. Order on Civil Misc. Review Petition No.178479 of 2011.

1. Heard Sri Shashi Nandan, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri S.K. Chaturvedi, Advocate on behalf of review-applicant, Sri Satish Chandra Mishra, Sri Navin Sinha, and Sri M.C. Chaturvedi learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Kapil Misra, Sri Ramanand Gupta, and Sri Vineet Sankalp learned counsel for the defendant-appellant.

2. The present review petition has been filed by the plaintiffs-respondents (hereinafter referred to as 'applicants') praying for the review of the judgment of this Court dated 25.05.2011 whereby this Court has allowed the appeal and remanded the matter back to decide the same after giving the full opportunity of hearing to the parties and after getting the property in dispute identified.

3. The necessary facts for the present case detailed in the judgment dated 25.05.2011 are as under:-

4. The applicants instituted a suit praying that defendants-appellants (hereinafter referred to as appellants) may be restrained from interfering with the possession over the plot shown by letters 'A, B, C & D' in the map attached with the plaint and boundaries given at the foot of the plaint.

5. The plaint case was that the father of the applicant E.M. Boyce was a permanent lessee of three Bighas, four Biswas equivalent to two acres situated in Civil Lines under a lease deed dated 01.09.1919 executed by Radhabai Zamindaria, widow of one Harlal Bhorey. There was a stipulation in the lease deed that lessees have no right to transfer the aforesaid land without permission of Zamindaria. Subsequently, Smt. Sarjoobai daughter of Radhabai on 05.06.1942 deleted the clause in the lease deed which prohibited the applicants to transfer the lease without permission of Zamindaria. A document to this effect was signed by Sri Rewa Shankar Bhayal as 'Muktar-e-am' of Smt. Sarjoobai. A further case in the plaint was that the leased plot was part and parcel of a big plot whose number was 158 in the settlement of 1865. The said plot was divided into 22 plots in the settlement year of 1297 and the land of three bighas and four Biswas was converted into plot nos.296, 297, and 298 in the settlement of 1346 fasli. The applicants are in possession of the aforesaid plots since 1919. It is further stated in the plaint that the appellant purchased the aforesaid land from defendant no.2 (Rewa Shankar Bhayal), and thereafter, they submitted an application before the S.D.O. concerned for demarcation. The Kanoongo, thereafter, inspected the spot for demarcation of land purchased by appellants, and the same was done on 14.03.1982.

6. The appellants contested the suit by filing a written statement contending interalia that the applicants are neither lessee nor in possession of plots marked by letters A, B, C & D and red lines in the map attached to the plaint. The appellants also denied the right of applicants over the land shown by letters C, G, K & J. The appellants further pleaded that the land shown by letters A, B, C & D in the map attached with the plaint was never leased out under the said lease, and boundaries given in Suit No.441 of 1993 do not tally with the lease dated 01.09.1919. Besides the above averments, the appellants took several other pleas and prayed for the dismissal of the suit.

7. The trial court by judgment and order dated 30.07.1983 decreed the suit of the applicants for the land shown by letters A, B, C, & D, but dismissed the suit for the land shown by letters C, G, K & J. The trial court also held that the land shown by letters A, B, C & D belongs to the applicants and they are in possession over the same.

8. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment of the trial court, the appellants preferred Civil Appeal before the District Judge, Jhansi. The applicants filed a cross objection against the judgment and order passed by the trial court. The appellate court by judgment and order dated 18.10.1988 confirmed the judgment of the trial court and dismissed the appeal filed by the appellants as well as the cross objection of the applicants. The appellate court held that the land shown by letters A, B, C & D are covered by lease deed dated 01.09.1919, hence, applicants are the owner of the same. The appellate court further held that Rewa Shanker Bhayal had no right to transfer the land shown by letters A, B, C & D to the appellants. Consequently, appellants have no right over the land-based on sale deed executed by Rewa Shanker Bhayal in their favour.

9. Feeling aggrieved by the order of the appellate court dated 18.10.1988, the appellant preferred the present second appeal.

10. The record of the case reveals that the present second appeal was heard on admission on 18.01.1989, on which date this Court while admitting the appeal passed the following order:-

"Admit.

Issue notice.

The substantial question of law is involved in this appeal is question no.4 framed as substantial question of law in the appeal."

11. The substantial question no.4 framed in the memo of appeal reads as under:-

"4. Whether the learned lower appellate court is justified placing reliance of the alleged admission made by Smt. Sarju Bai in the plaint of the suit no.441 of 1933, without the plaint is being proved in accordance with law?"

12. Thus, it is clear from the order dated 18.01.1989 that this Court has admitted the appeal on the substantial question of law no.4 framed in the memo of appeal.

13. The appeal was decided by this Court by judgment and order dated 25.05.2011whereby this court set aside the judgment of appellate court dated 18.10.1988 and judgment and decree dated 30.07.1983 passed by the trial court. The operative portion of the judgment and order dated 25.05.2011 reads as under:-

" In such circumstances, I am of opinion that courts below was not justified in granting injunction in favour of plaintiff-respondent. In case there was no identification of land it was the duty of the courts below to have identification through issuance of commission but admittedly, from the record it appears that courts below have not taken this endevour to get the property identified, therefore, in my opinion, the judgement and order passed by courts below dated 10.10.1988 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge (Special Judge, E.C. Act) and judgement and decree dated 30.7.1983 passed by Munsif Magistrate, Jhansi are not sustainable in law, therefore, it is hereby quashed. The present appeal is allowed and appeal is remanded back to trial court to decide the same after giving full opportunity to the parties and after getting property in dispute identified. As the matter is very old and the parties are litigating from 1982, therefore, it will be appropriate that the trial court may decide the suit within a period of six months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

No order as to costs."

14. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicants has firstly submitted that no substantial question of law was formulated by the Court as required under Section 100(4) of C.P.C. at the time of admission of appeal, hence, there is a palpable error committed by the Court in deciding the second appeal without complying with the requirement of Section 100 (4) of C.P.C.

15. He further submits that according to Section 100 (5) of C.P.C., the jurisdiction of the Court is to hear the appeal on the substantial question of law so formulated at the time of admission of appeal, and the Court is under obligation to permit the respondents, at the time of the hearing, to argue that case does not involve such question. He further submits that though the proviso appended to Section 100 (5) of C.P.C. vests the power in the Court to hear the appeal on any other substantial question of law not formulated by it at the time of admission of appeal, that power can be exercised by the High Court subject to compliance of stipulation contained in the proviso to Section 100 (5) of C.P.C. which means that the Court has to record reasons for formulating another substantial question of law which, in the opinion of the Court, is involved in the case. Accordingly, he submits that the Court in the instant case without recording reasons proceeded to formulate substantial question of law relating to the identity of the land and decided the same. Accordingly, the submission is that the Court did not comply with the requirement of proviso to Section 100 (5) of C.P.C.

16. Further, elaborating the aforesaid submission, he contends that no substantial question of law relating to identifiability of land was involved in the second appeal as no plea has been raised by the applicants in the written statement that property in dispute is not identifiable nor any issue was framed by the trial court in respect of the identity of land in dispute, and hence, there is an error of law on the face of record calling for intervention by this Court in the exercise of its power of review under Order 47 Rule 1 of C.P.C.

17. He further submits that the question of the identity of land is a question of fact and not a substantial question of law, therefore, this Court has erred in interfering with the judgement and order of the trial court as well as appellate court and allowed the appeal.

18. He also contends that the order under review has been passed without hearing the applicants and thus, a ground for review is also made out.

19. On the point of non-framing of the substantial question of law, learned Senior Counsel for the applicants has relied upon the following judgments:-

I. Naba Kishore Mohanta Vs. Janardan 2001 (92) R.D. 26 (SC);

II. Ashok Rangnath Nagar Vs. Srikant Govind Rao 2015 AIR S.C.W. 6318 (SC);

III. K.K. Kanan Vs. Koolivathukkal 2010 AIR S.C.W. 156 (SC).

20. On the issue that question of law relating to the identity of property is the question of fact, learned Senior Counsel for the applicants has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the case of Lisamma Vs. Karthiyayan 2015 AIR SC 2824. On the question that the Court did not frame any question of law for remand, he has placed reliance upon the judgements in the cases of Sayeeda Rahimunnisa Vs. Malan Bi 2016 SC 4653, Municipal Corporation Vs. Surendra Singh 2008(4) A.W.C. 3414, P.Purushottam Vs. Pratap Steel 2002 (2) S.C.C. 686 and Thyang Rajan and Others Vs. Vinugopal Swami 2004 AIR S.C. 1913.

21. Rebutting the aforesaid submission, learned Senior Counsel for the appellant submits that earlier in the case, applicants had engaged Sri Radhey Shyam Dwivedi, Advocate, and Sri Rajesh Dwivedi, Advocate as their counsel. He submits that the judgment of this Court reveals that learned counsel for the applicants (respondents in appeal) was heard by the Court, and therefore, the review petition by another counsel Sri N.B. Nigam is not maintainable. He further submits that now presently, even the counsel, who has filed the review petition, Sri N.B. Nigam is not representing the applicants, and they are being represented by Sri S.K. Chaturvedi, Advocate who has filed Vakaltnama on 27.10.2016. Accordingly, he submits that the practice of changing Advocate while filing the review petition has been deprecated by the Apex Court in the case of Tamil Nadu Electricity Board and Another Vs. N. Raju Reddiear and Another AIR 1997 SC 1005 wherein the Apex Court has held that review petition cannot be entertained at the behest of a counsel or a person, who had not appeared before the Court or was not a party in the main case, therefore, the review petition is liable to be dismissed at the threshold in view of the judgment of Apex Court. He places paragraph 3 on page 8 of the judgment under review to point out that the Court has noted the contention of learned counsel for the respondents, therefore, the review petition could have been filed only by the counsel who was representing the applicants originally, as he is the best person to state as to whether the argument advanced herein by the learned Senior Counsel for the applicants was ever raised by him or not.

22. He further submits that earlier counsel Sri Rajesh Dwivedi has filed an affidavit on record wherein he has stated that he was engaged only to assist Sri Radhey Shyam Dwivedi, Advocate, who had died in January 2008. It is further stated in the affidavit that on the date of hearing of the case, he did not appear before the Court since he was confined to bed due to a fracture in his leg. Paragraphs 1 to 5 of the affidavit are being extracted herein below:-

"1. That, the deponent was engaged in the above mentioned second appeal to assist Sri Radhey Shyam Advocate, on behalf of the respondents.

2. That Sri Radhey Shyam Advocate had died in the month of January, 2008.

3. That thereafter the respondents had taken record of their case from the chamber of late Radhey Shyam, Advocate in end of April, 2011 for engagement of another counsel.

4. That the deponent was not in position to appear in Second Appeal on 25.05.2011 as the applicant was confined to bed due to fracture of his leg and as such the deponent could not inform the court that the deponent had no instructions to act as counsel in appeal.

5. That after the death of Sri Radhey Shyam Advocate, the respondents never contacted to deponent for argument of the case."

23. He submits that Sri Rajesh Dwivedi, Advocate, who was also counsel in the case, is a practicing Advocate, and therefore, in such circumstances, the review petition ought to have been filed by Sri Radhey Shyam Dwivedi, Advocate. He submits that veracity of the affidavit of Sri Radhey Shyam Dwivedi cannot be verified, and a bald averment has been made by Sri Rajesh Dwivedi, Advocate that he did not appear before the court on the day of hearing of case due to a fracture in his leg and no documentary evidence relating to his treatment was filed by Sri Rajesh Dwivedi, Advocate to substantiate said averment. He submits that no reliance can be placed upon the alleged affidavit of Sri Rajesh Dwivedi Advocate in the absence of any investigation enquiring about the veracity of the affidavit or any material on record to prove that the affidavit of Sri Rajesh Dwivedi is genuine. He further contends that the affidavit of Rajesh Dwivedi, Advocate is a device to get away with the objection of non-maintainability of review petition by other counsel.

24. He submits that once the Court has noted in its order that the submission had been advanced by counsel for the applicant, the said recital in the order is to be taken as true unless there is any material contrary to it on record. He further submits that this Court while admitting the appeal has formulated the substantial question of law extracted above which has been noted by the Court on page 4 in the judgment, and thereafter, it proceeded to decide the appeal.

25. He further submits that the Court can exercise its power of review only when it falls within the parameters of Order 47 Rule 1 of C.P.C., and the present case does not meet the requirement of Order 47 Rule 1 of C.P.C., hence, the Court should refrain from exercising its power under Order 47 Rule 1 of C.P.C. He further submits that the submission of learned counsel for the appellants that the Court has not framed any substantial question of law at the time of admission of appeal is incorrect and against the record since the order dated 18.01.1989 reflects that the appeal has been admitted on the substantial question of law no.4 framed in the memo of appeal.

26. He further submits that the Court has noted the substantial question of law framed at the time of admission of appeal in the judgement, and thereafter, it proceeded to decide the appeal on merit, and while deciding the substantial question of law, the Court found that the judgement of both the courts below is erroneous for the reason that the suit could not have been decreed without identification of the property in dispute, and accordingly, it set aside the judgment of both the courts below and remanded the matter back. He further submits that in the case of Ram Sahu (Dead) through L.Rs. and Others Vs. Vinod Kumar Rawat and Others 2020 SCC Online SC 896, the Apex Court held that an order can be reviewed by a Court only on the prescribed ground mentioned in the order under Order 47 Rule 1 of C.P.C. In this respect, he has placed reliance upon paragraph 34 of the judgment which is being extracted hereinbelow:-

discuss the object and ambit of Section 114 CPC as the same is a substantive provision for review when a person considering himself aggrieved either by a decree or by an order of Court from which appeal is allowed but no appeal is preferred or where there is no provision for appeal against an order and decree, may apply for review of the decree or order as the case may be in the Court, which may order or pass the decree. From the bare reading of Section 114 CPC, it appears that the said substantive power of review under Section 114 CPC has not laid down any condition as the condition precedent in exercise of power of review nor the said Section imposed any prohibition on the Court for exercising its power to review its decision. However, an order can be reviewed by a Court only on the prescribed grounds mentioned in Order 47 Rule 1 CPC, which has been elaborately discussed hereinabove. An application for review is more restricted than that of an appeal and the Court of review has limited jurisdiction as to the definite limit mentioned in Order 47 Rule 1 CPC itself. The powers of review cannot be exercised as an inherent power nor can an appellate power can be exercised in the guise of power of review."

27. He further submits that the fact whether learned counsel for respondents had raised any argument that the question of identification of land is a question of fact and is not a substantial question of law at the time of hearing of appeal could only be certified by counsel who appeared in the case at the time of the hearing, and since the counsel who appeared in the case for the applicants has not filed review petition certifying that he had raised the aforementioned argument at the time of the hearing, therefore, this question cannot be raised by the counsel for the applicants. He submits that the applicants want rehearing of appeal in the garb of review application which is beyond the scope of review since it is settled in law that the power of review can be exercised only if there is an error apparent on the face of the record, and an error which has to be searched and fished out is not an error apparent on the face of the record.

28. Thus, he submits that no ground for review is made out and the review petition deserves to be dismissed.

29. I have considered rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

30. The fact as emanates from the record reveals that Sri Radhey Shyam Dwivedi and Rajesh Dwivedi were counsels representing the applicants. The Court noted the submission advanced by the learned counsel for the respondents in the judgment, therefore, in view of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of (Tamil Nadu Electricity Board and Another) (supra), the review petition at the behest of another counsel is not maintainable. Paragraph 1 of the judgment is being extracted hereinbelow:-

"1. It is a sad spectacle that new practice unbecoming of worthy and conducive to the profession is cropping up. Mr. Mariaputham, Advocate-on-Record had filed vakalatnama for the petitioner-respondent when the special leave petition was filed. After the matter was disposed of, Mr. V. Balachandran, Advocate had filed a petition for review. That was also dismissed by this Court on April, 24, 1996. Yet another advocate, Mr. S.U.K. Sugar, has now been engaged to file the present application styled as "application for clarification", on the specious plea that the order is not clear and unambiguous. When an appeal/special leave petition is dismissed, except in rare cases where error of law or fact is apparent on the record, no review can be filed; that too by the advocate on record who neither appeared nor was party in the main case. It is salutary to note that Court spends valuable time in deciding a case. Review petition is not, and should not be, an attempt for hearing the matter again on merits. Unfortunately, it has become, in recent time, a practice to file such review petitions as a routine; that too, with change of counsel, without obtaining consent of the advocate on record at earlier stage. This is not conducive to healthy practice of the Bar which has the responsibility to maintain the salutary practice of profession. In Review Petition No.2670/96 in CA No.1867/92, a Bench of three Judges to which one of us, K. Ramaswamy,J., was a member, had held as under:

"The record of the appeal indicates that Shri Sudarsh Menon was the Advocate-on-Record when the appeal was heard and decided on merits. The Review Petition has been filed by Shri Prabir Chowdhury who was neither an arguing counsel when the appeal was heard nor was he present at the time of arguments. It is unknown on what basis he has written the grounds in the Review Petition as if it is a rehearing of an appeal against our order. He did not confine to the scope of review. It would be not in the interest of the profession to permit such practice. That part, he has not obtained "No Objection Certificate" from the Advocate-on-Record in the appeal, in spite of the fact that Registry had informed him of the requirement for doing so. Filing of the "No Objection Certificate" would be the basis for him to come on record. Otherwise, the Advocate-on-Record is answerable to the Court. The failure to obtain the "No Objection Certificate" from the erstwhile counsel has disentitled him to file the Review Petition. Even otherwise, the Review Petition has no merits. It is an attempt to reargue the matter on merits.

On these grounds, we dismiss the Review Petition".

31. In the present case, it is worth noticing that the facts detailed above reflect that the conduct of the applicants is mischievous and not fair for the reason that the Court has recorded in the judgment the contention advanced by the learned counsel for the applicants and to wriggle out the said fact recorded by the Court, applicants have filed the affidavit of Sri Rajesh Dwivedi, Advocate sworn on 25.04.2013 after about 2 years from the date of filing the review petition stating therein that he was engaged as assisting counsel to Sri Radhey Shyam Dwivedi, Advocate and on the date of hearing, he had fracture in leg without bringing any documentary evidence on record relating to his treatment which can demonstrate that he had fracture in leg. The affidavit of Sri Rajesh Dwivedi, Advocate had been filed after two years from the date of filing of the review petition to meet out the objection that the review petition is not maintainable as it has been filed by some other counsel and not the counsel who was heard at the time of hearing of the appeal. Further, from the averments made in the affidavit of Sri Rajesh Dwivedi, Advocate, it is manifest that Sri Rajesh Dwivedi, Advocate is still a practicing Advocate and he did not dare to come before the Court and state that the affidavit has been sworn by him and the averments made therein are correct, therefore, in such circumstances, this Court is not inclined to accept the affidavit of Sri Rajesh Dwivedi, Advocate and averments contained therein, more so, when the Court has noted the contentions advanced by the counsel for the applicants in the judgment.

32. At this stage, it would be apt to refer to the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Bhavnagar University Vs. Palitana Sugar Mill Pvt. Ltd. AIR 2003 SC 511 wherein the apex court observed that statement of facts as to what transpired at the time of hearing recorded in the judgment of the Court are conclusive of the facts so stated and no one can contradict such statements by affidavit or other evidence. In this regard, the relevant extract of paragraph 61 of the judgment of the Apex Court is being reproduced hereinbelow:-

"61...statements of fact as to what transpired at the hearing, recorded in the judgment of the court, are conclusive of the facts so stated and no one can contradict such statements by affidavit or other evidence. If a party thinks that the happenings in court have been wrongly recorded in a judgment, it is incumbent upon the party, while the matter is still fresh in the minds of the Judges, to call the attention of the very Judges, who have made the record to the fact that the statement made with regard to his conduct was a statement that had been made in error (Per Lord Buckmaster in Madhusudan v. Chandrabati, AIR 1917 PC 30). That is the only way to have the record corrected. If no such step is taken, the matter must necessarily end there. Of course a party may resile and an Appellate Court may permit him in rare and appropriate cases to resile from a concession on the ground that the concession was made on a wrong appreciation of the law and had led to gross injustice; but, he may not call in question the very fact of making the concession as recorded in the judgment."

33. In the instant case, the matter was argued on behalf of applicants by original counsel, and review was filed by Sri N.B. Nigam, Advocate who was not the original counsel of the applicants, and even after filing the review, the applicants have changed the counsel and engaged a new counsel Sri S.K. Chaturvedi. Therefore, this court is of the view that the review application is not maintainable.

34. Now, coming to the other contention advanced by the learned counsel for the applicants, it would be pertinent to refer to the judgment of Apex Court wherein it has been held that the power of review can be exercised within the parameters provided in Order 47 Rule 1 of C.P.C. In the case of Lily Thomas etc. Vs. Union of India and Others AIR 2000 SC 1650, the Apex Court has held that the power of review can be exercised within the limits of the statute.

35. In this regard, it would also be relevant to refer to paragraph no. 3 & 5 of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of State of Haryana and Others Vs. Mohinder Singh and Others 2003 (1) AWC 567 SC which is being extracted hereinbelow:-

"3. Learned Additional Solicitor General appearing for the appellant-State strongly contended that the High Court could not have passed the order under challenge in the purported exercise of its powers of review and the order under challenge is liable to be set aside on this ground alone, dehors even the infirmities in the ultimate decision on merits. Reliance has been placed in support thereof on the decision in Parsion Devi and others v. Sumitra Devi and others, JT 1997 (8) SC 480, wherein it has been observed as follows:-

"9. Under Order XLVII, Rule 1, C.P.C., a judgment may be open to review inter alia, if there is a mistake or an error apparent on the face of the record. An error which is not self-evident and has to be detected by a process of reasoning can hardly be said to be an error apparent on the face of the record justifying the Court to exercise its power of review under Order XLVII, Rule 1, C.P.C. In exercise of the jurisdiction under Order XLVII, Rule 1, C.P.C., it is not permissible for an erroneous decision to be "reheard and corrected". A review petition, it must be remembered, has a limited purpose and cannot be allowed to be "an appeal in disguise."

10. Considered in the light of this settled position we find that Sharma, J., clearly overstepped the jurisdiction vested in the Court under Order XLVII, Rule 1 C.P.C. The observations of Sharma, J., that "accordingly, the order in question is reviewed and it is held that the decree in question was of composite nature wherein both mandatory and prohibitory injunctions were provided" and as such the case was covered by Article 182 and not Article 181 cannot be said to fall within the scope of Order XLVII, Rule 1 C.P.C. There is a clear distinction between an erroneous decision and an error apparent on the face of the record. While the first can be corrected by the higher forum, the latter only can be corrected by exercise of the review jurisdiction."

5. We have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsel appearing on either side. The Division Bench in the High Court, in our view, completely overstepped the limits of its review jurisdiction and on the face of it appears to have proceeded as though it is a rehearing of the whole petition which had been earlier finally disposed of. It has often been reiterated that the scope available for a litigant invoking the powers of review is not one more chance for rehearing of the matter already finally disposed of. The course adopted in this case by the High Court appears to be really what has been held by this Court to be not permissible. On this ground alone, without expressing any views on the merits of the claim, the order of the High Court dated 14.5.1999 is set aside and the original order dated 14.5.1998 shall stand restored. While noticing some of the submissions made on merits by either side, we consider it appropriate to place on record that even the learned counsel for the appellant could not seriously dispute the position that the respondents would at any rate be entitled to be placed on the 'first higher standard pay scale' and that to this extent atleast, the respondents' claim would deserve consideration. The appeals are allowed in the above terms. No order as to costs."

36. Now, so far as the first contention of learned counsel for the applicant that the Court has not proceeded to frame any question of law at the time of admission of appeal, the said contention on the face of the record is wrong and incorrect. As noted above, this Court has admitted the appeal on the substantial question of law no.4 framed in the appeal, therefore, the judgment relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicants on the point that non-framing of the substantial question of law by the Court at the time of admission of appeal amounts to an error apparent on the face of the record which calls for intervention by this court in the exercise of the power of Review are not applicable in the facts of the instant case.

37. So far as the second contention advanced by the learned counsel for the applicants that proviso to Section 100(5) of C.P.C. was not adhered to by the Court in deciding the appeal, since the Court has not recorded any reason in framing the question of the identity of the land, and further the question of identification of land is a question of fact, therefore, the Court has committed an error which is apparent on the face of the record, therefore, the present is a case falling within the ambit of Order 47 Rule 1 of C.P.C., the said submission is also not sustainable for the reason that the Court while deciding the appeal has noted the substantial question of law framed at the time of admission of appeal in the 6th line from the top at page 4 of the judgement under review, and thereafter, proceeded to decide the appeal.

38. While deciding the substantial question of law on which the appeal was admitted, the Court found the illegality committed by the court below since the identity of the land in question was not ascertained and accordingly, it formed an opinion that the court below had erred in law in decreeing the suit without getting the property in dispute identified.

39. The perusal of judgment discloses that the Court did not frame any other substantial question of law and had decided the appeal only on the question of law so framed at the time of admission of appeal, and therefore, there does not arise any question of compliance of proviso to Section 100 (5) of C.P.C.

40. The judgment relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicants in the case of Lisamma (supra) on the point that question of the identity of property is a question of fact is not applicable in the facts of the present case. Since the Court has not framed any substantial question of law regarding the identity of the land, the Court, while deciding the question of law on which appeal was admitted, found illegality committed by the court below in not getting the land identified while decreeing the suit.

41. It is settled in law that Court can exercise its power of review only when there is an error apparent on the face of the record and an error which is to be fished out by a process of reasoning cannot be said to be an error apparent on the face of the record. Hence, it implies that the reviewing court has no power to review the judgment where the error in the judgment is to be searched out by a process of reasoning.

42. This Court is of the opinion that to test the aforesaid contention of learned counsel for the applicants, a process of reasoning has to be applied which is beyond the scope of review as under the power of review, the Court cannot re-hear the appeal.

43. At this stage, it would be relevant to note that the appellants have taken specific plea in paragraphs 17 and 19 of the written statement wherein they have disputed the identification of land, and further, they have filed an application before the appellate court, which is marked as paper no.74, praying for the survey of the land in question and thus, the submission of learned counsel for the applicants that identity of land was not disputed by the applicants is incorrect on the face of the record.

44. Now, so far as the submission of learned counsel for the applicants that Court did not frame any substantial question of law of remand, it is pertinent to note that no ground has been taken by the applicants in the memo of review petition that no substantial question of law of remand was framed, accordingly, the judgment under review is not sustainable. As no such ground has been taken by the applicants for reviewing the judgment of this Court, therefore, this submission cannot be advanced during the argument.

45. It is worth mentioning that the Court ought to have framed any issue of remand or not can be adjudicated only after hearing the applicants on merit inasmuch as to ascertain this question, the first question that would arise for adjudication is whether the Second Appellate Court on finding that the judgment of the lower court is not sustainable in law is devoid of the power to remand the matter directing the court below to decide the suit afresh without framing the issue of remand. To adjudicate the said question, this Court has to re-hear the appeal which is beyond the scope of the Court in the exercise of the power of review under Order 47 Rule 1 of C.P.C. Thus, the judgments cited on the point that no issue of remand was framed therefore the judgment under review is not sustainable are not applicable in the facts of the present case.

46. The contention of learned counsel for the applicants that no opportunity of hearing was given is also misconceived as the Court in its judgment has noted the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the applicants, and accordingly, the said submission is also misconceived

47. Thus, for the reasons given above, the review application being misconceived is dismissed with no order as to cost.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddharth, J.)

1. Heard Sri Chandra Kumar Rai, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Kunal Shah, learned counsel for the respondents and perused the record of the court below.

2. This first appeal has been preferred by the defendant-appellant against the judgment and decree dated 13.03.2019 passed by Civil Judge (Senior Division), Gautambuddh Nagar in Original Suit No. 1334 of 2010 (Ranpal Singh vs. Amar Singh and Others).

3. Plaintiff/respondent no. 1 instituted an Original Suit No. 1334 of 2020 praying for a decree of partition of 1/5 share in respect of property in dispute shown by letters A, B, C and D being Khasra No. 120, area 525 square yards. The pedigree mentioned in the plaint is as follows:-

- Ranpal (plaintiff/respondent no. 1)

- Amar Singh (defendant no. 1/appellant)

Late Shri Ramphal - - Raghubar (defendant/respondent no. 2)

- Ram Niwas (defendant/respondent no. 3)

- Smt. Rameshari (defendant/respondent no. 4)

It was pleaded in the plaint that plaintiff/respondent no. 1 and defendants, who are five in numbers, are real brothers and sister. Their father died on 29.08.2007 and after his death plaintiff/respondent no. 1 and defendants are entitled to 1/5 share each in the property in dispute which is shown by letter A, B, C and D in the plaint map.

4. Defendant No. 1/appellant filed his written statement denying the plaint case. In the additional pleas the defendant no. 1/appellant stated that suit is liable to be dismissed as 150 square yard area of Khasra No. 120 was given to defendant no. 1/appellant by lease dated 11.05.1974. The same is situated in disputed area shown by letter A, B, C and D in the plaint map. The remaining area of 525 square yard of Khasra No. 120 belongs to their father Ramphal Singh in which all the five brothers and sister will be entitled to equal share. It has been also stated in the written statement that in the 150 square yard area which belongs to defendant no. 1/appellant residential house was constructed by him from his own funds. The same has no concern with the plaintiff/respondent no. 1 and defendant/respondent nos. 2 to 4.

5. Defendant/respondent nos. 2 and 3 filed their joint written statement admitting the plaint allegations and defendant/ respondent no. 4 filed her separate written statement admitting the plaint allegations.

6. The trial court framed the following six issues in the plaint:-

(1) Whether the plaintiff is owner of 1/5 part of disputed property shown in the plaint map ?

(2) Whether the suit is barred by provisions of Sections 34, 41 and 49 of Specific Relief Act ?

(3) Whether the suit is undervalued ?

(4) Whether the court fees paid by the plaintiff is insufficient ?

(5) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to partition of his share on the basis of pleadings in the plaint ? and

(6) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to any other relief, if yes, then to what effect?

7. On behalf of the plaintiff/ respondent no. 1, Ranpal Singh, was examined as P.W-1 and documentary evidences were also filed in support of his case.

8. On behalf of the defendant no. 1/appellant, Amar Singh, was examined as D.W-1 and in documentary evidence original lease receipt (82 Ga-83 Ga), C.H. Form 45 (84 Ga), C.H. Form 41 (85 Ga), Khatauni, Revenue map, Electricity Bill (86 Ga to 91 Ga) were filed in support of his case.

9. The trial court heard the counsel for the parties in Original Suit No. 1334 of 2010 and perused the evidence on record and decreed the plaintiff/respondent no. 1's Suit No. 1334 of 2010 for 1/5 share in respect of property in dispute by judgment and decree dated 13.03.2019.

10. That the trial court decided issue nos. 1 and 5 together and recorded the finding that the defendant no. 1/appellant failed to prove that he has been allotted the land of 150 square yard in Khasra No. 120 by any lease of land management committee and held that since the parties are brothers and sister, the plaintiff/respondent no. 1 is entitled to his 1/5 shares in his property. Issue nos. 3 and 4 regarding valuation and court fees paid in the suit were decided in favour of plaintiff/respondent no. 1. Issue no. 2 was decided holding that the same was required to be proved by the defendant no. 1/appellant which he has failed to prove and therefore it was decided against defendant no. 1/appellant. Finally, issue no. 6 was decided holding that the suit is liable to be decreed and 1/5 share of the plaintiff/respondent no. 1 was declared in the suit property.

11. Learned counsel for the defendant no.1/appellant has submitted that the trial court has failed to consider the lease executed in favour of the defendant/appellant on 11.05.1974 in accordance with law. Permission of Assistant Collector / Sub-Divisional Officer regarding execution of lease has came into existence on 01.11,1975 while lease in question was executed on 11.05.1974 when there was no such provision in the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950. Hence, impugned judgment and decree dated 13.03.2019 passed by the court below is wholly illegal and manifestly erroneous.

12. Trial court has failed to consider that unless lease in question is cancelled by Revenue Court in accordance with law; the Civil Court cannot ignore it, as such impugned judgment and decree dated 13.03.2019 is illegal and manifestly erroneous.

13. Counsel for the plaintiff/respondent no. 1 has submitted that defendant no. 1/appellant claimed that he is exclusive owner of part of the suit property, area about 150 square yard and therefore as per Section 103 of the Evidence Act he was required to prove the ownership of the aforesaid area of land on the basis of residential lease dated 11.05.1974. He only filed a receipt of premium in evidence and not the lease granted in his favour. The trial court has rightly not accepted the receipt of premium as reliable evidence regarding the claim of defendant no. 1/appellant. At the relevant time the substantive provision for grant of lease was contained in Sections 122-C, 195, 197 and 198 of U.P. Zamindari and Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 and also the procedural aspect of grant of lease by Rule 115-L to Rule 115-T of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules, 1952 was incorporated on 25.03.1972 by way of 9th amendment. Clause 3 of Rule 115-N of the then existing rules provided that allottee of a housing site shall be given a certificate to allotment in Z.A. Form 49-F in two parts. Main certificate is to be given to the allottee and its counterpart shall remain with land management committee. No such certificate was produced in evidence by the defendant no. 1/appellant.

14. Section 64 of the Evidence Act provides that documents must be proved by primary evidence which as per Section 62 of the Evidence Act means the document itself. No allotment certificate or any such document was produced by the defendant no. 1/appellant.

15. Non-production of original lease / allotment certificate by the defendant no.1/appellant despite objection of the plaintiff/respondent no. 1 would lead to drawing of adverse interference against him. The plaintiff/respondent no. 1 had moved an application dated 25.04.2011, exhibit- 22 Ga 2, before the trial court asking the defendant no. 1/appellant to produce the original copy of the lease / allotment certificate but it was not produced before the Court. He has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Union of India vs. Ibrahim Uddin, 2012 (5) AWC 5003 SC, in this regard. During the pendency of suit the plaintiff/respondent no. 1 vide letter dated 26.03.2012 sought information from the office of Assistant Collector, Tehsil Dadri whether any lease / allotment certificate was issued in the name of defendant no. 1/appellant, Amar Singh and by letter dated 03.04.2012 it was informed that no record with respect to allotment of residential leases for the year 1974 exists in his office. This information was never disputed by the defendant no.1/appellant. In his cross-examination, defendant no. 1/appellant admitted that no possession certificate was issued in his favour.

16. After hearing the rival contentions, this court finds that the following points of determination are involved in this appeal:-

(1) Whether the defendant no. 1 / appellant has proved the disputed area of about 150 square yard in plot no. 120 to be his exclusive property on the basis of residential lease dated 11.05.1974 ?

(2) Whether prior to 01.11.1975 permission of Assistant Collector / Sub-Divisional Officer was required for execution of lease and the trial court has ignored the evidence produced before it by the defendant no. 1/appellant without considering the correct legal position ?

(3) Whether till the lease in question is cancelled by competent revenue court in accordance with law, it is binding on Civil Court and cannot be ignored by it ?

17. All the points of determination are being considered and decided together.

18. The pleadings of the defendant no. 1/appellant is that on the basis of lease receipt, paper no. 82-Ga and 83-Ga, he is in possession of 150 square yards of land and he has constructed his house over the same after grant of lease to him on 11.05.1974. He claims that this area of 150 square yard of land is not the part of the property inherited from his father and therefore, after excluding this land 1/5 share of the plaintiff/respondent no. 1 and each of the defendants should be declared. The case of the plaintiff/respondent no. 1 is that the receipt produced by the defendant no. 1/appellant to prove grant of lease by land management committee in his favour is only a receipt of premium and not the copy of lease / allotment certificate itself, therefore, in the absence of the copy of the lease / allotment certificate no rights can accrue to the defendant no. 1/appellant. The submission is that the burden of proving the due allotment and execution of lease of 150 square yards of land in favour of defendant no. 1/appellant was on him and in case he failed to prove the same by way of primary evidence he cannot be granted any rights on its basis.

19. This court finds that the defendant no. 1/appellant in his Written Statement as well as in his examination in chief, had taken only one ground to resist the claim of partition viz., a portion of suit property, (about 150 square yards), which lies on the western side of the suit property as exclusive property which he had acquired by means of a residential lease dated 11.05.1974, and thus the same could not form a part of the subject matter of partition.

20. Section 103 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 provides that the burden of proof of any particular fact lies on the party who alleges it and who wishes the Court to believe in its existence. Section 103 of the Evidence Act is reproduced herein below for ready reference of this Hon'ble Court:

103. Burden of proof as to particular fact.--The burden of proof as to any particular fact lies on that person who wishes the Court to believe in its existence, unless it is provided by any law that the proof of that fact shall lie on any particular person.

21. In Woodroffe & Amir Ali: Law of Evidence (21st Edition), the relevant law is stated thus:-

"When, however, the defendant, or either litigant party, instead of denying what is alleged against him, relies on some new matter which if true, is an answer to it, the burden of proof changes sides; and he, in his turn, is bound to show a prima facie case at least and, if he leaves it imperfect, the court will not assist him, Reus excipendo fit actor"

22. Since, the defendant no. 1/appellant had asserted the fact of sole ownership of a portion of suit property on the basis of a lease, Section 103 of the Evidence Act casted an obligation upon the defendant no. 1/appellant to prove the particular fact about grant of lease. The documentary evidence filed by the defendant no. 1/appellant in support of claim of grant of lease, was not the lease/Allotment Certificate itself but a receipt of premium.

23. This court finds that a receipt of premium was produced before the trial Court and the trial Court has not ascribed any value to the receipt of premium, and has returned the finding that the defendant no. 1/appellant has not been able to prove the fact of issuance of grant of lease in his favour. Another important fact of the matter which is based purely on law is that the receipt of premium, which has been filed by the defendant no. 1/appellant is not the same as Lease/Allotment Certificate and on its basis the exclusive rights claimed by defendant no. 1/appellant cannot be sustained and court below has rightly held so.

24. The case of the defendant / appellant that prior to 1.11.1975 permission of Assistant Collector / Sub-Divisional Officer was not required for execution of lease such an amendment came into force on 01.11.1975 when the lease was granted to the defendant/appellant on 11.05.1974. He has relied upon the notification no. 605/ Rajaswa 1-2 (8) - 75 dated 01.11.1975 which shows that Rule 115-N of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules, 1952 was incorporated on 01.11.1975 in the rules. The case of the plaintiff/respondent no. 1 is that the civil court cannot ignore the lease executed in favour of the defendant/appellant since as per Full Bench judgment of the court in the case of Similesh Kumar vs. Gaon Sabha, Uskar, Ghazipur and Others, AIR 1977 All 360, the lease granted by land management committee / gaon sabha can only be cancelled by Revenue Court cannot even consolidation authorities have no jurisdiction to cancel the same. On the contrary, the case of the plaintiff/respondent no. 1 is that the substantive provision for grant of lease is contained in Sections 122-C(2), 195, 197, 198 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and in the aforesaid provisions there is requirement of previous approval of lease by Assistant Collector much prior in time than 11.05.1974. Section 122-C(2) was inserted in the act aforesaid on 22.07.1971 and it provides for obtaining previous approval of the Assistant Collector before making allotment. The relevant part of the U.P. Land Laws (Amendment) Act, 1971, is being quoted below:-

In pursuance of the provisions of clause (3) of Article 348 of the Constitution of India, the Governor is pleased to order the publication of the following English translation of the Uttar Pradesh Bhoomi-Vidhi (Sanshodhan) Adhiniyam, 1971 (Uttar Pradesh Adhiniyam Sankhya 21 of 1971) as passed by the Uttar Pradesh Legislature and assented to by the President on August 22, 1971.

UTTAR PRADESH LAND LAWS (AMENDMENT) ACT, 1971

(U.P. Act No. 21 of 1971)

(As passed by the Uttar Pradesh Legislature)

An

further to amend the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 and the Uttar Pradesh Urban Areas Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1956.

It is hereby enacted in the Twenty-Second Year of the Republic of India as follows:-

CHAPTER I

Preliminary

1. .....

CHAPTER II

2. .....

3. After section 122-B of the principal Act, the following sections shall be inserted, namely ;

"122-C, (1) The Assistant Collector In-charge of the sub- division, of his own motion or on the resolution of the Land Management Committee, may ear-mark any of the following classes of land for the provision of abadi sites for the members of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes and agricultural labourers allotment of land for housing sites for members of Scheduled Castes, agricultural labourers, etc., and village artisans –

(a) lands referred to in clause (i) of sub-section (I) of section 117 and vested in the Gaon Sabha under that section ;

(b) lands coming into possession of the Land Management Committee under Section 194 or under any other provision of this Act;

(c) any other land which is deemed to be or becomes vacant under section 13, section 14, section 163, section 186 or section 211;

(d) where the land ear-marked for the extension of abadi and reserved as abadi site for Harijans under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, is considered by him to be insufficient and land ear-marked for other public purpose under that Act is available, then any part of the land so available.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in sections 122-A, 195, 196, 197 and 198 of this Act, or in Section 4, 15, 16, 28-B and 34 of the United Provinces Panchayat Raj Act, 1947, the Land Management Committee may with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector In-charge of the sub-division*, allot, for the purpose of* building of houses, to persons referred to in sub-section (3) –

(a) any land ear-marked under sub-section (1);

(b) any land ear-marked for the extension of abadi sites for Harijans under the provisions of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953;

(c) any abadi site referred to in clause (vi) of section (i) of section 117 and vested in the Gaon Sabha;

(d) any land acquired for the said purpose under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

25. The defendant no. 1/appellant in Paragraph 20 of his Written Statement had averred that the Lease/Allotment Certificate had been granted to him on 11.05.1974. At the relevant point in time, i.e. on 11.05.1974, the substantive provision for grant of lease was contained in Section 122-C, 195, 197 and 198 of the UP Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as "U.P.Z.A & L.R Act"). The aforesaid provisions provided for grant of lease "with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector".

26. The procedural aspect of grant of Lease/Allotment Certificate is governed by Rule 115-L to Rule 115-T of the Zamindari Abolition and Land Reform Rules, 1952.

27. Vide Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (Ninth Amendment) Rules, 1972, published in the Official Gazette on 25.03.1972, the previous existing Rules 115-L to Rule 115-R were amended and were substituted by Rule 115-L to Rule 115-T. The aforesaid amendment remained in vogue till 01.11.1975 when further amendment was carried out in the said Rules. As the date of grant of alleged Lease/Allotment Certificate is 11.05.1974, the Rules 115-L to Rule 115-T as introduced by Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (Ninth Amendment) Rules, 1972, is the relevant Rules on the basis of which the validity of the argument of the plaintiff/respondent No. 1 is to be tested.

28. Rule 115 N of the UPZALR Rules as it existed then is reproduced herein below:

115N (1) Whenever the Land Management Committee proceeds to allot housing sites under Rule 115-L or 115-M it shall announce by beat of drum in the village the exact location of the sites to be allotted, the time, the date and venue of allotment.

(2) All documents shall be made by the Land Management Committee in a meeting held for the purpose on the date announced under the preceding sub-rule. Where more than one person belonging to the same order of preference express their desire to be allotted a particular site, the said committee shall draw of lots to determine the person to whom the site should be allotted.

(3) The allottee of the housing site shall be given receipt for the premium, if any, paid by him to the Land Management Committee and a certificate of allotment. The certificate shall be in Z.A. Form, 49-F which shall be prepared in two parts, the main certificate being given to the allottee and its counter-part remaining with the Land Management Committee for record.

29. A bare perusal of Clause 3 of Rule 115-N of the then existing Rules reveals that the receipt for premium has no semblance to the Allotment Certificate and is not the same as the Allotment Certificate itself.

30. Moreover, Clause 3 of Rule 15-N of the then existing Rules makes it evident that the allottee of the housing site shall be given a certificate of allotment which shall be in Z.A. Form, 49-F and which shall be prepared in two parts, the main certificate being given to the allottee and its counter-part remaining with the Land Management Committee for record.

31. Thus it becomes evident that the factum of grant of lease can be proved by adducing the allotment certificate which shall be in Z.A. Form 49-F and not by adducing receipt of premium, which at best can prove the payment of some premium to the Land Management Committee but cannot establish the factum of grant of Lease/Allotment Certificate.

32. Further the particulars of Allotment Certificate, Z.A. Form 49-F , clearly reveals that it must apart from the Signature of Chairman of Land Management Committee also bear the signatures of Assistant Collector-in-charge of Sub-Division. However the document that had been filed before the trial court by the defendant no. 1/appellant, cannot by any stretch of imagination be said to be an allotment certificate which is required to be issued in Z.A. Form 49-F.

33. Document filed by the defendant no. 1/ appellant in support of his claim that he has been granted a Lease/Allotment Certificate does not classify as a Allotment Certificate contemplated in Section 122-C of the U.P.Z.A.L.R Act read with Rule 115-N of the Rules in vogue then.

34. Moreover, Section 64 of the Evidence Act provides that documents must be proved by primary evidence, which as per Section 62 of the Evidence Act means the document itself. Thus, for proving the factum of grant of Lease/Allotment Certificate, the statutory requirement as per Section 64 read with Section 62 of the Evidence Act was of adducing of Allotment Certificate and not any other document.

35. Further, as the defendant no. 1/appellant has not laid any foundational basis for proving the factum of grant of Lease / Allotment Certificate by way of secondary evidence, no secondary evidence can be lead to prove the same.

36. It is trite law that secondary evidence is inadmissible until the non production of the original is accounted for so as to bring it within one or other of the cases provided for in Section 65 of the Evidence Act. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in H. Siddiqui v. A . Ramalingam, AIR 2011 SC 1492 held thus:

10. Provisions of Section 65 of the Act 1872 provide for permitting the parties to adduce secondary evidence. However, such a course is subject to a large number of limitations. In a case where original documents are not produced at any time, nor, any factual foundation has been led for giving secondary evidence, it is not permissible for the court to allow a party to adduce secondary evidence. Thus, secondary evidence relating to the contents of a document is inadmissible, until the non production of the original is accounted for, so as to bring it within one or other of the cases provided for in the section. The secondary evidence must be authenticated by foundational evidence that the alleged copy is in fact a true copy of the original. Mere admission of a document in evidence does not amount to its proof. Therefore, the documentary evidence is required to be proved in accordance with law. The court has an obligation to decide the question of admissibility of a document in secondary evidence before making endorsement thereon.

37. As the defendant no. 1/appellant could not adduce the copy of Allotment Certificate, which alone could have proved the fact of grant of lease in his favour, the necessary corollary is that the defendant no. 1/appellant failed to prove his special pleaded fact.

38. The plaintiff/respondent No.1 had moved an Application dated 25.04.2011 before the Trial Court, which is marked as Exhibit 22 Ga 2 and is also available on Trial Court's record, asking the defendant/ appellant to produce the Original Copy of the Lease/Allotment Certificate. However, despite the demand of production of Original Copy of Lease/Allotment Certificate the defendant/appellant did not produce the same, but filed a photo-copy of receipt of premium.

39. The aforesaid action of the defendant no. 1/ appellant warrants drawing an adverse inference against the defendant/appellant as per Clause g of Section 114 of the Evidence Act.

40. Reliance in the aforesaid regard can be placed upon the dictum of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India v. Ibrahim Uddin, 2012 (5) AWC 5003 (SC). The relevant extract of the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India v. Ibrahim Uddin, 2012 (5) AWC 5003 (SC), is reproduced herein below,

6. Generally, it is the duty of the party to lead the best evidence in his possession, which could throw light on the issue in controversy and in case such material evidence is withheld, the Court may draw adverse inference under Section 114(g) of the Evidence Act notwithstanding, that the onus of proof did not lie on such party and it was not called upon to produce the said evidence.

.16. Thus, in view of the above, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that, issue of drawing adverse inference is required to be decided by the court taking into consideration the pleadings of the parties and by deciding whether any document/evidence, withheld, has any relevance at all or omission of its production would directly establish the case of the other side. The court cannot loose sight of the fact that burden of proof is on the party which makes a factual averment. The court has to consider further as to whether the other side could file interrogatories or apply for inspection and production of the documents etc. as is required under Order XI CPC. Conduct and diligence of the other party is also of paramount importance. Presumption or adverse inference for non-production of evidence is always optional and a relevant factor to be considered in the background of facts involved in the case. Existence of some other circumstances may justify non-production of such documents on some reasonable grounds. In case one party has asked the court to direct the other side to produce the document and other side failed to comply with the court's order, the court may be justified in drawing the adverse inference. All the pros and cons must be examined before the adverse inference is drawn. Such presumption is permissible, if other larger evidence is shown to the contrary.

41. The plaintiff/respondent no. 1 had vide Letter dated 26.03.2012, under the provisions of Right to Information Act, 2005 (hereinafter referred to as "RTI Act") sought information from the Office of Assistant Collector, Tehsil Dadri, on the point as to whether any Lease/ Allotment Certificate was issued in the name of some Shri Amar Singh son of Shri Ramphal Singh.

42. Vide letter dated 03.04.2012 the Tehsildar, Dadri, pursuant to the information sought by the plaintiff/respondent No. 1 under the provisions of Right to Information Act, informed the plaintiff/respondent No. 1 that there exists no record in the Office with respect to allotment of residential lease for the year 1974.

43. It is also notable that the response by the Public Information Officer under the provisions of RTI Act is a public document. Reliance in this regard is placed upon Section 74 of the Evidence Act. Section 74 of the Evidence Act is reproduced hereinbelow:

74. Public documents.--The following documents are public documents :--

(1) Documents forming the acts, or records of the acts-- =

(i) of the sovereign authority,

(ii) of official bodies and tribunals, and

(iii) of public officers, legislative, judicial and executive, of any part of India or of the Commonwealth, or of a foreign country;

(2) Public records kept in any State of private documents.

44. Amongst others, Sub-clause (iii) of Sub-Section 1 of Section 74 of the Evidence Act provides that documents forming the acts or records of acts of public officers, legislative, judicial, or executive are considered public documents.

45. The definition of public documents under Section 74 does not specify the form of the document. It merely states that any document which forms an act or a record of an act of a ''public officer', whether of the executive, legislature, or judiciary, must be considered a public document.

46. It is undeniable that a Public Information Officer is a "public officer' as per Clause 17 of Section 2 of C.P.C. The response letters, moreover, are issued under a statutory duty. The response of a Public Information Officer issued in the course of his duty under, the RTI Act on a bare perusal falls within the ambit of a document forming an act of a public officer and thus is a public document, which could be proved either by adducing the original copy of the same as per Section 64 of the Evidence Act, or by filing a certified copy of the same as per Section 77 of the Evidence Act.

47. The Hon'ble Punjab and Haryana High Court in Munshi Ram v. Balkar

Singh, 2016 SCC Online P&H 11166 held thus:

8. ..... At the Appellate Court, the owner has filed an application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC that has elicited through RTI a response to say the license number had been wrongly given as 18690/Ag/2003 when it was actually 16690/Ag/2003 and that it had been issued in the name of Balkar Singh. A response through RTI is of a public officer and it is a public document and would require no further corroboration in the manner contemplated under Section 77 of the Evidence Act. The document must be taken to be true of what its recitals state.

48. In the Cross-Examination the defendant no. 1/appellant has stated that he has no knowledge about the existence of records in the Office of the Revenue Authorities pertaining to allotment of lease in his favour.

49. The defendant no.1/appellant has very categorically admitted that (i) a possession certificate has never been issued in his favour (ii) he never got the lease registered (iii) the receipt of lease does not specify the duration for which the lease has been granted.

50. The defendant/appellant has further stated in his cross examination that he is not aware about the fact as to whether any previous approval of the Assistant Collector was taken or not before grant of lease.

51. The relevant extract of the Cross Examination of the defendant / appellant is reproduced hereinbelow:-

52. Though the defendant no. 1/appellant has in evidence filed a receipt of premium which is not the same as Allotment Certificate but even if, for the sake of argument the receipt of premium, is assumed to be an Allotment Certificate itself, the same bears no endorsement of approval of the Assistant Collector much less previous approval.

53. The defendant no. 1/appellant never asserted that the Assistant Collector had accorded previous approval to his lease, but has rather chosen to assert that at the relevant point in time i.e on 11.05.1974 there was no requirement of seeking prior approval of the Assistant Collector and that the said requirement was brought for the first time on 01.11.1975, when Rule 115-N of the UPZALR Rules was amended and a specific provision in this regard was inserted.

54. Substantive provision for grant of lease is contained in Section 122-C, 195, 197 and 198 of the U.P.Z.A.L.R Act and the aforesaid provisions of the Act contained provision of previous approval of Assistant Collector much prior in time than 11.05.1974.

55. Section 122-C of the U.P.Z.A.L.R Act was inserted for the first time, vide Uttar Pradesh Land (Laws) Amendment Act, 1971 which was published in the Official Gazette on 22.08.1971. Sub-Section 2 of Section 122-C which was inserted vide the aforesaid amendment specifically required obtaining of previous approval of the Assistant Collector before making allotment.

56. Likewise Section 195, 197 and 198 of the UPZALR Act also much prior to 01.11.1975 contained provision requiring previous approval of the Assistant Collector before grant of lease. Section 195, 197 and 198 of the UPZA & SLR Act was amended by Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (Amendment) Act, 1968, and by the aforesaid Act and by its Sections 6, 7 and 8, the following words "with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector-in-charge of the sub division" were inserted in Section 195, 197 and 198 of UPZALR Act. A Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Lal Bhadur v. Additional Commissioner, Writ C No. 30114 of 2016, was confronted with an identical argument. It was contended, as herein contended, that the procedure for grant of an approval to a resolution of the Land Management Committee by the Assistant Collector was introduced for the first time on 01.11.1975 and thus prior to this date there was no requirement of obtaining previous approval of the Assistant Collector. This Hon'ble Court rejecting the argument observed thus:

Upon receipt of the instructions, a supplementary affidavit has been filed by the petitioner. In Paragraph No. 2 of this affidavit, it has been stated that the procedure, for grant of an approval to a resolution of the Land Management Committee by the S.D.O., was introduced by Notification No. U.O. 605/Rajaswa-1-2(8)-75 dated November 1, 1975.

This Court is not satisfied that the provisions for grant of an approval by the S.D.O., were incorporated from November, 1975 as is the stand of the S.D.M., Phoolpur as also the petitioner. Sections 195, 197 and 198 of the UP ZA & LR Act, 1950 were amended by Presidents Act, 17 of 1968 and the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (Amendment) Act, 1968. By the aforesaid Act and by its Sections 6, 7 and 8, the following words "with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector-in-charge of the sub division" were inserted in each of the aforesaid three sections.

The stand, taken in the letter of the Sub-Divisional Officer, Phoolpur, Allahabad, that the previous approval of the SubDivisional Officer, was required only after 1974, therefore, cannot be accepted.

Even, the contention, raised on behalf of the petitioner that approval of the Sub-Divisional Officer, was required only after Notification No. U.O. 605/Rajaswa-1-2(8)-75 dated November 1, 1975, is also without substance.

This notification will not over-ride the amendment in the Principal Act itself, especially, Sections 195, 197 and 198 of the Act, wherein the words "with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector-incharge of the sub division" were added much prior in time. It necessarily follows that even in 1974, when the petitioner is alleged to have been allotted the land in question, the previous approval of the Sub-Division Officer was mandatorily required.

57. Thus it becomes evident that the provision requiring previous approval of the Assistant Collector before grant of allotment under Sections 195, 197 and 198 of U.P.Z.A.L.R, was brought into force by the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (Amendment) Act, 1968 and the provision of previous approval of Assistant Collector before grant of allotment under Section 122-C was brought into force by the Uttar Pradesh Land Laws (Amendment) Act, 1971. As the provisions contained in the UPZALR Act prescribed for previous approval of the Assistant Collector before allotment and the same was very much in force prior to 11.05.1974, i.e. the date of grant of alleged lease, the contention of the defendant no. 1/appellant that the same was introduced for the first time on 01.11.1975 by amending Rule 115-N, can be of no help as it is settled law that Rules cannot override or control the provisions contained in the Parent Act.

58. Hence in light of the provisions contained in Section 122-C, Section 195, 197 and 198 of UPZALR Act, as it stood at the relevant point in time as also the dictum of this Hon'ble Court in Lal Bhadur v. Additional Commissioner, Writ C No. 30114 of 2016, there remains no iota of doubt that the requirement of obtaining previous approval of the Assistant Collector was mandatory.

59. A Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Abdul Rauf Khan v. Abdul Samad, 1999 (2) AWC 939 held that previous approval of the Assistant Collector is mandatory and any allotment made without his previous approval would be rendered void ab-initio and the Civil Court has sufficient powers to ignore it. The relevant extract of the judgment of this Hon'ble Court in Abdul Rauf Khan v. Abdul Samad, 1999 (2) AWC 939 is reproduced hereinbelow:-

8. A perusal of the aforesaid statutory provisions reveals that without prior approval of the Assistant Collector incharge of the Sub-Division, no allotment of the land could be made by the land management committee. In the present case, it was pleaded and proved that no approval was ever accorded by the Assistant Collector, incharge of the Sub-Division, what to say of prior approval. Resolution of the Land Management Committee alleged to have been passed in favour of the plaintiff-appellant was thus non-est and void ab initio.

9. It is well-settled in law that the civil court has got jurisdiction to consider and decide the legality of the allotment, if it is called upon to decide the same. Reference in this regard may be made to the decision in Chikhuri Bollu Koen v. Santoo Koeri and another 1983 ALJ 687. wherein it was ruled as under :

"What is made final by subsection (7) of Section 122C is the order of the Assistant Collector subject to the provisions of subsection (6), and the provisions of Section 333 of the Act, that is to say the Assistant Collector's order is subject to the order of the Collector under sub-section (6) of Section 122C and the order of the Collector is subject to the order of the Board of Revenue under Section 333, U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, and the orders so passed are final. Under sub rule (5) of rule 115P, it is the order of the Collector which is made final. In the present case, no application for cancellation of the allotment was ever made. The result is that there is no order of the Assistant Collector or the Collector or the Board of Revenue. Under the circumstances, these provisions do not operate to bar the Jurisdiction of the civil court to go into the question whether the allotment of land made by the Gaon Sabha was incompetent and, therefore, non est in law. I may here observe that the Schedule II to the Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act read with Section 331 thereof does not exclude the jurisdiction of the civil court in the matter of applications covered by Section 122C or Rule 115P. The civil court could always see whether the land belonged to the plaintiff or not, and if it came to the finding that the land was settled with the plaintiff under Section 9, U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, and did not, therefore, belong to the Gaon Sabha and was not open to allotment as an abadi site under Section 122C, it could hold or declare the allotment to be invalid and ineffective in law and ignore it."

60. It is also fairly settled in law that if a transaction is void ab initio, for avoiding the same no declaration or cancellation is required, as law does not take notice of the same and it can be disregarded in collateral proceedings. Reliance in this regard is placed upon the dictum of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dhurandar Prasad Singh v. Jai Prakash University, AIR 2001 SC 2552, wherein it was held that:

21. Thus the expressions void and voidable have been subject matter of consideration on innumerable occasions by courts. The expression void has several facets. One type of void acts, transactions, decrees are those which are wholly without jurisdiction, ab initio void and for avoiding the same no declaration is necessary, law does not take any notice of the same and it can be disregarded in collateral proceeding or otherwise.....

61. Reiterating the aforesaid principle the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Prem Singh v. Birbal Singh, (2006) 5 SCC 353 held thus:

16..... When a document is void ab initio, a decree for setting aside the same would not be necessary as the same is non-est in the eye of law, as it would be a nullity.

62. An echo of the aforesaid principle resonates in the dictum of the Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in Rajasthan State Industrial Development and Investment Corporation v. Subhash Sindhi Co-operative Housing Society, Jaipur, (2013) 5 SCC 427, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that:

15. In Kalawati v. Bisheshwar, AIR 1968 SC 261, this Court held:

".....Void means non-existent from its very inception....."

16. In State of Kerala v. M.K. Kunhikannan Nambiar Manjeri Manikoth, Naduvil (dead) & Ors., AIR 1996 SC 906, this Court held:

"7.....The word "void" has a relative rather than an absolute meaning. It only conveys the idea that the order is invalid or illegal. It can be avoided. There are degrees of invalidity, depending upon the gravity or the infirmity, as to whether it is, fundamental or otherwise....."

17. The word, "void" has been defined as: ineffectual; nugatory; having no legal force or legal effect; unable in law to support the purpose for which it was intended. (Vide: Black's Law Dictionary). It also means merely a nullity, invalid; null; worthless; sipher; useless and ineffectual and may be ignored even in collateral proceeding as if it never were.

18. The word "void" is used in the sense of incapable of ratification. A thing which is found non-est and not required to be set aside though, it is sometimes convenient to do so. There would be no need for an order to quash it. It would be automatically null and void without more ado. The continuation orders would be nullities too, because no one can continue a nullity.

63. An overview of the aforesaid facts clearly reveal that Firstly, the defendant no. 1/appellant has failed to adduce Allotment Certificate and hence could not prove the factum of grant of Lease /Allotment in his favour. Secondly, even if for the sake of arguments, the receipt for premium is taken to be the Allotment Certificate itself, in absence of previous approval of the Assistant Collector the same is void-ab initio and is liable to be ignored for which no separate proceedings are required to be initiated. Finally, the document dated 11.05.1974 was not a lease / allotment certificate. It never required cancellation or declaration as a void document from revenue court.

64. All the points of determination are decided thus, (1) defendant no. 1/appellant has failed to prove that disputed area of 150 square yards in plot no. 120 in dispute was his exclusive property on the basis of residential lease dated 11.05.1974. (2) Even prior to 09.11.1975 permission of Assistant Collector/ Sub-Divisional Officer was required for execution of residential lease. (3) The receipt dated 11.05.1974 was not a lease / allotment letter and not binding on civil court. It required no cancellation / declaration from court as void document and has rightly been ignored by the court below.

65. In view of the above answers to the points of determination, judgment and decree of the trial court deserves to be confirmed.

66. This appeal is accordingly, dismissed with costs.

(Review Application No. 28351 of 2018)

1. Heard Sri Sudhir Pande along with Sri Lalit Kishore Pandey, learned counsels for the review-applicant.

2. This review application has been filed by the defendant-appellant in the second appeal.

3. Regular suit no. 465 of 2002 (Mahaveer vs. Gokaran and Ors.) filed by the plaintiff-respondent no. 1, was dismissed by the learned Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division), court no. 3, Sitapur, vide judgment and decree dated 07.04.2015. The regular civil appeal No. 40 of 2015 filed by the plaintiff-respondent was allowed and the suit was decreed by the learned Additional District Judge, court no. 10, Sitapur vide judgment and decree dated 11.10.2017.

4. Challenging the appellate decree, the defendant-appellant filed second appeal No. 518 of 2017, which was dismissed by this Court at the admission stage, vide judgment & decree dated 24.11.2017.

5. In the second appeal, the question for consideration was "whether the lower appellate court has committed any illegality in allowing the appeal and not considering the provisions of Section 331 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act while deciding the appeal, which was the sole contention raised before the learned Single Judge.

6. This Court, held that no such objection regarding maintainability on the basis of Section 331 of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act was taken by the defendant-appellant and placed reliance on the full Bench decision of this Court in Ram Padarath and Ors. vs. Second Addl. District Judge, Sultanpur and Ors. [1989 AWC 290 All.], wherein it was held that the defendant-appellant cannot be permitted to raise the issue of maintainability in the second appeal because no such objection was raised before the courts below. In view thereof, the second appeal was dismissed as involving no substantial question of law.

7. Vide order dated 25.08.2021, the defendant-appellant/review applicant, on his prayer, was granted time to file supplementary affidavit to bring on record the written statement, which was filed along with C.M. Application No. 112182/2021

8. Sri Sudhir Pande, learned counsel for the review-applicant, submits that the plea of bar of jurisdiction in the civil court was raised before the trial court. In this respect, he has referred to para 9 of the written statement and consequently submits that the judgment dated 24.11.2017 under review suffers from apparent error of law.

9. Para 9 of the written statement is in reply to para 9 of the plaint. Para 9 of the written statement reads as under:-

"धारा 9 - गलत है I दावा गलत दायर किया गया है I"

10. Para 9 of the plaint reads as under:-

"धारा 9 - यह कि वाद का कारण दिनांक 22.07.02 व 29.07.02 को तथा उसके पश्चात प्रत्येक दिन जब प्रतिवादी सं० 1 मृतक ता 3 द्वारा वादी की अ.ब.स.द. भूमि पर निर्माण कार्य करके कब्ज़ा करने के उद्देश्य से क्रमशः नपाई की गयी तथा नींव खोदने का प्रयास किया गया स्थान ग्राम कंजा शरीफपुर परगना व तहसील लहरपुर जिला सीतापुर न्यायालय की अधिकारिकता में उत्पन्न हुआ I"

11. From perusal of the plaint and the written statement, it is evident that any plea regarding bar of the suit in the civil court being barred by Section 331 of the U.P.Z.A & L.R. Act was not raised.

12. On specific query put to Sri Sudhir Pande, during arguments, if there was any material on the record of the Second Appeal before the learned Single Judge, which evidenced that the plea of bar of jurisdiction in the civil court was raised in the trial court, as provided by Section 331 of the U.P.Z.A & L.R. Act, he fairly submitted that there was no such material.

13. Sri Sudhir Pande has further submitted that the dispute being with respect to agriculture property, suit was not maintainable in the civil court which ought to have been filed in the revenue court. The suit was barred by Section 331 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. Consequently, the decree passed by the civil court being without jurisdiction is nullity and the plea of nullity can be raised at any stage, even in execution of proceedings, and as such, such an objection deserved consideration in Second Appeal even if the objection to the jurisdiction of the civil court was not taken in the trial court. He has placed reliance in judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Pyarelal vs. Shubhendra Pilania (Minor) [(2019) 3 SCC 692], National Institute of Technology vs. Niraj Kumar Singh [(2007) 2 SCC 481] & Kiran Singh and Ors. vs. Chaman Paswan and Ors. [AIR 1954 SCC 340].

14. Sri Sudhir Pande has further placed reliance on Order 7 Rule II(d) and Order 14 Rule 2(2) of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 to submit that the question of jurisdiction should have been decided as preliminary issue and the burden of proof was wrongly placed on the appellant, on the point of possession.

15. On specific query made to Sri Sudhir Pande, as to whether any argument, as is being sought to be raised in review application and noted in above paragraphs was advanced before the learned Single Judge, in second appeal, he fairly admitted that those submissions were not made before the learned Single Judge in the second appeal.

16. The basic principles in which review application can be entertained and cannot be entertained have been eloquently laid down by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Kamlesh Verma vs. Mayawati [(2013) 8 SCC 320]. Paragraph 20 under the heading "summary of principles" is being reproduced hereunder:-

20. Thus, in view of the above, the following grounds of review are maintainable as stipulated by the statute:

20.1. When the review will be maintainable:

(i) Discovery of new and important matter or evidence which, after the exercise of due diligence, was not within knowledge of the petitioner or could not be produced by him;

(ii) Mistake or error apparent on the face of the record;

(iii) Any other sufficient reason.

The words "any other sufficient reason" have been interpreted in Chhajju Ram v. Neki [(1921-22) 49 IA 144 : (1922) 16 LW 37 : AIR 1922 PC 112] and approved by this Court in Moran Mar Basselios Catholicos v. Most Rev. Mar Poulose Athanasius [AIR 1954 SC 526 : (1955) 1 SCR 520] to mean "a reason sufficient on grounds at least analogous to those specified in the rule". The same principles have been reiterated in Union of India v. Sandur Manganese & Iron Ores Ltd. [(2013) 8 SCC 337 : JT (2013) 8 SC 275]

20.2. When the review will not be maintainable:

(i) A repetition of old and overruled argument is not enough to reopen concluded adjudications.

(ii) Minor mistakes of inconsequential import.

(iii) Review proceedings cannot be equated with the original hearing of the case.

(iv) Review is not maintainable unless the material error, manifest on the face of the order, undermines its soundness or results in miscarriage of justice.

(v) A review is by no means an appeal in disguise whereby an erroneous decision is reheard and corrected but lies only for patent error.

(vi) The mere possibility of two views on the subject cannot be a ground for review.

(vii) The error apparent on the face of the record should not be an error which has to be fished out and searched.

(viii) The appreciation of evidence on record is fully within the domain of the appellate court, it cannot be permitted to be advanced in the review petition.

(ix) Review is not maintainable when the same relief sought at the time of arguing the main matter had been negatived.

17. In the case of Perry Kansagra v. Smriti Madan Kansagra [(2019) 20 SCC 753], the Hon'ble Apex Court on the scope and power of review has reiterated the same principles. It is apt to reproduce paragraph nos. 14 to 16, which are as under:-

14. The issues that arise for our consideration can broadly be put under two heads:

14.1. (a) Whether the High Court was justified in exercising review jurisdiction and setting aside the earlier judgment?

14.2. (b) Whether the High Court was correct in holding that the reports of the Mediator and the Counsellor in this case were part of confidential proceedings and no party could be permitted to use the same in any court proceedings or could place any reliance on such reports?

15. As regards the first issue, relying on the decisions of this Court in Inderchand Jain v. Motilal [Inderchand Jain v. Motilal, (2009) 14 SCC 663 : (2009) 5 SCC (Civ) 461] , Ajit Kumar Rath v. State of Orissa [Ajit Kumar Rath v. State of Orissa, (1999) 9 SCC 596 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 192] and Parsion Devi v. Sumitri Devi [Parsion Devi v. Sumitri Devi, (1997) 8 SCC 715], it was submitted by the appellant that the exercise of review jurisdiction was not warranted at all.

15.1. In Inderchand Jain [Inderchand Jain v. Motilal, (2009) 14 SCC 663 : (2009) 5 SCC (Civ) 461] it was observed in paras 10, 11 and 33 as under: (SCC pp. 669 & 675)

"10. It is beyond any doubt or dispute that the review court does not sit in appeal over its own order. A rehearing of the matter is impermissible in law. It constitutes an exception to the general rule that once a judgment is signed or pronounced, it should not be altered. It is also trite that exercise of inherent jurisdiction is not invoked for reviewing any order.

11. Review is not appeal in disguise. In Lily Thomas v. Union of India [Lily Thomas v. Union of India, (2000) 6 SCC 224 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 1056] this Court held: (SCC p. 251, para 56)

'56. It follows, therefore, that the power of review can be exercised for correction of a mistake but not to substitute a view. Such powers can be exercised within the limits of the statute dealing with the exercise of power. The review cannot be treated like an appeal in disguise.'

33. The High Court had rightly noticed the review jurisdiction of the court, which is as under:

"The law on the subject--exercise of power of review, as propounded by the

Apex Court and various other High Courts may be summarised as hereunder:

(i) Review proceedings are not by way of appeal and have to be strictly confined to the scope and ambit of Order 47 Rule 1 CPC.

(ii) Power of review may be exercised when some mistake or error apparent on the fact of record is found. But error on the face of record must be such an error which must strike one on mere looking at the record and would not require any long-drawn process of reasoning on the points where there may conceivably be two opinions.

(iii) Power of review may not be exercised on the ground that the decision was erroneous on merits.

(iv) Power of review can also be exercised for any sufficient reason which is wide enough to include a misconception of fact or law by a court or even an advocate.

(v) An application for review may be necessitated by way of invoking the doctrine actus curiae neminem gravabit.'

In our opinion, the principles of law enumerated by it, in the facts of this case, have wrongly been applied."

15.2. In Ajit Kumar Rath [Ajit Kumar Rath v. State of Orissa, (1999) 9 SCC 596 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 192] , it was observed: (SCC p. 608, para 29)

"29. In review proceedings, the Tribunal deviated from the principles laid down above which, we must say, is wholly unjustified and exhibits a tendency to rewrite a judgment by which the controversy had been finally decided. This, we are constrained to say, is not the scope of review under Section 22(3)(f) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985...."

15.3. Similarly, in Parsion Devi [Parsion Devi v. Sumitri Devi, (1997) 8 SCC 715] the principles were summarised as under: (SCC p. 719, para 9)

"9. Under Order 47 Rule 1 CPC a judgment may be open to review inter alia if there is a mistake or an error apparent on the face of the record. An error which is not self-evident and has to be detected by a process of reasoning, can hardly be said to be an error apparent on the face of the record justifying the court to exercise its power of review under Order 47 Rule 1 CPC. In exercise of the jurisdiction under Order 47 Rule 1 C.P.C. it is not permissible for an erroneous decision to be "reheard and corrected". A review petition, it must be remembered has a limited purpose and cannot be allowed to be "an appeal in disguise".

16. On the other hand, reliance was placed by the respondent on the decision in BCCI v. Netaji Cricket Club [BCCI v. Netaji Cricket Club, (2005) 4 SCC 741] to submit that exercise in review would be justified if there be misconception of fact or law. Para 90 of the said decision was to the following effect: (SCC p. 765)

"90. Thus, a mistake on the part of the court which would include a mistake in the nature of the undertaking may also call for a review of the order. An application for review would also be maintainable if there exists sufficient reason therefor. What would constitute sufficient reason would depend on the facts and circumstances of the case. The words

"sufficient reason" in Order 47 Rule 1 of the Code are wide enough to include a misconception of fact or law by a court or even an advocate. An application for review may be necessitated by way of invoking the doctrine actus curiae neminem gravabit."

18. From the aforesaid judgment, it is evident that review proceedings are not by way of appeal. It cannot be treated like an appeal in disguise. A rehearing of the matter is not permissible in law. It is not for an erroneous decision to be "reheard and corrected' in review jurisdiction.

19. In the case of B.H. Prabhakar and Others vs. M.D. Karnataka State Cooperative Apex Bank Ltd. [(2000) 9 SCC 482], Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the contention which was not canvassed before the Court when the impugned decision was rendered cannot be made the subject-matter of review proceedings. It is relevant to reproduce the said judgment as follows:-

"We have carefully gone through the common judgment sought to be reviewed in these petitions. In our view, no error, much less any patent error, of law could be demonstrated by the review petitioners for supporting these petitions. The resolution of 07th August 1985 was held not to be operative on the facts of the case. In the Review Petitions an attempt is made to show that resolution of 07th August 1985 was the basis of the appointment of the petitioners. That has not been accepted by the Court. An attempt to re-argue this aspect does not fall within the scope of the review proceedings. So far as the affidavit of Manager, Legal Cell dated 10th August 1996 is concerned it was never pressed in service before the Court when the impugned judgment was rendered. Hence, non-consideration thereof cannot be treated to be an error apparent on the record as tried to be suggested. Policy adopted by the Respondent-bank alleged to be anti-labor for which reliance is placed on the decision of this Court in the case of Dharwad Distt. P.W.D. Literate Daily Wage Employees Assn. v. State of Karnataka also cannot be made subject-matter of review proceeding as no such contention was canvassed before the Court when the impugned decision was rendered*. On the other hand the petitioners were absorbed as Clerks by the Respondent-bank after their temporary tenure ended on completion of earlier project. That may be the reason why no allegation was made about anti-labor policy of the Respondent-bank when appeals were argued before the Court. For all these reasons, the Review Petitions are dismissed on merits."*

20. In view of the aforesaid, the review applicant cannot be permitted to raise the new grounds/arguments in review jurisdiction, which was not canvassed in the second appeal.

21. The judgment dated 24.11.2017, does not suffer from any apparent error of law or on any other ground legally permissible for exercise of review jurisdiction.

22. For the aforesaid reasons, the review application is devoid of merit and is rejected.

THE HON'BLE JASPREET SINGH, J.

Second Appeal No. 554 of 1979

Satish Kumar ...Appellant

Versus

Ram Kishore ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
R.S. Tripathi, Mohammad Aslam Khan, R.S. Tripathi, Rakesh Srivastava, Randheer Singh, Ravi Nath Tilhari, Sanjay Verma

Counsel for the Respondent:
A,K, Bajpai,J.C. Srivastava

A. Civil Law-Code of Civil Procedure, 1908-Section 100-land dispute-plaintiff instituted a suit seeking joint possession of the property in question-during the pendency of second appeal plaintiff died and substituted by his heirs-the appeal was allowed holding that the plaintiff was not entitled to get possession of the property in suit-thereafter, the defendant preferred an application u/s 144 C.P.C. seeking restituition of possession as well as damages and mesne profit-Trial court allowed the application in favour of defendant-While the only issue remaining was regarding damages/compensation which was not decided by the Trial court in view of absence of evidence-two appeal were preferred, in which the appeal of defendant was allowed and the matter was remanded permitting him to lead evidence regarding his claim for damages while the appeal of plaintiff was dismissed-trial court ought to have taken up the application for impleadment separately and thereafter ought to have decided the application u/s 144 C.P.C. separately-the core question for determination of compensation would require the determination of the date from which date to what date the compensation is to be paid but in absence of evidence,no such finding has been recorded and it requires evidence for both parties to establish their respective case-in absence of any clear finding by the two courts, it would be travesty of justice if some facts is assumed without being proved and even wors.e without providing an opportunity to the parties concerned to lead evidence-The Appellate court ought to have exercised its appellate powers taking note of the aforesaid aspect which has not been done.(Para 1 to 46)

The appeal is allowed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the instant second appeal, the Court will have to travel back in time to trace the genesis of the dispute. The record indicates that Sri Badri Prasad as plaintiff had instituted a suit against Sri Ram Kishor seeking joint possession of the property in question situated in Village Parishar Khas, Tehsil and District Unnao. The said suit seeking joint possession was instituted in the Court of Munsif, North, Unnao registered as Regular Suit No. 7 of 1966. The said suit was decreed by the Court of Munsif, North, Unnao for joint possession over the plots as mentioned in para 1 of the plaint by means of judgment and decree dated 23.05.1968.

2. Sri Ram Kishore, the defendant of Regular Suit No. 7 of 1966 being aggrieved from the judgment and decree dated 23.05.1968 preferred a Regular Civil Appeal under Section 96 C.P.C. which was registered as Regular Civil Appeal No. 75 of 1968. The said appeal was dismissed by the Lower Appellate Court by means of a judgment dated 13.10.1969. Thereafter Sri Ram Kishore escalated the matter and filed a Second Appeal under Section 100 C.P.C. before this Court registered as Second Appeal No. 355 of 1969. During the pendency of the aforesaid Second Appeal Sri Badri Prasad died and he was substituted by his legal heir and widow Smt. Phoolkali. The aforesaid second appeal was allowed by a coordinate Bench of this Court by means of judgment and decree dated 26.04.1973 holding that the plaintiff (Badri Prasad) was not entitled to get possession of the property in suit. The judgment and decree of the two courts was set aside and the suit was dismissed with cost.

3. It is in this backdrop, that once the suit of Badri Prasad was dismissed, thereafter Ram Kishore preferred an application under Section 144 C.P.C. seeking restitution of possession as well as damages and mesne profit from Smt. Phoolkali (widow of Sri Badri Prasad) as by then Badri Prasad had died. This application was moved before the Court of Munsif North, Unnao and was registered as Misc. Case No. 53 of 1974.

4. The aforesaid application was contested by Smt. Phoolkali by filing her objections. It was contended that all the legal heirs of late Sri Badri Prasad has not been impleaded and for the said reason, the application under Section 144 C.P.C. was not maintainable and consequently was liable to be dismissed. Another objection of Smt. Phoolkali was that she nor her predecessor-in-interest namely Sri Badri Prasad were in possession of the property in question apart from the fact that since the possession was with Ram Kishore as he being a co-tenure-holder, hence, the application was not maintainable.

5. The record would indicate that during the pendency of the aforesaid application, two persons namely Bhagwat Prasad and Ram Narayan had also moved their objections seeking their impleadment on the ground that they are the legal heirs of late Badri Prasad and they are in possession of the property in question, hence, they are necessary and proper parties as their rights are also involved, accordingly, they may be impleaded and be allowed to contest the proceedings.

6. The Court of Munsif, North, Unnao by means of its order dated 27.04.1978 partly allowed the application under Section 144 C.P.C. The Court held that in so far as the relief for possession is concerned, the application was allowed but in absence of any evidence on the issue of damages/compensation/mesne profit, the said relief was refused. The Court also found that the application moved by the third parties namely Bhagwat Prasad and Prem Narayan was not maintainable and the same was also rejected.

7. Being aggrieved against the aforesaid judgment dated 27.04.1978, two appeals under Section 96 C.P.C. came to be filed. One appeal bearing No. 101 of 1978 was filed by Smt. Phoolkali against the judgment dated 27.04.1978 by which the Court had ordered the possession to be restored to Sri Ram Kishore. The other appeal was filed by Sri Ram Kishore registered as Civil Appeal No. 23 of 1978 against the part of the judgment dated 27.04.1978 in so far as it rejected the relief of compensation/mesne profit/damages on the ground that no evidence was led.

8. Significantly, after the order dated 27.04.1978 was passed, in pursuance of order of Munsif, North, Unnao, a warrant of possession was issued and in execution of the said warrant, the possession is said to be delivered to Sri Ram Kishore by the Court Amin.

9. After due contest, the appeal of Smt. Phoolkali bearing No. 101 of 1978 was dismissed while Civil Appeal No. 231 of 1978 filed by Sri Ram Kishore was allowed and the matter was remanded to the Trial Court to permit Sri Ram Kishore to lead evidence in so far as his claim of compensation/mesne profit was concerned. Liberty was also granted to Smt. Phoolkali to lead her evidence in rebuttal against the claim of Sri Ram Kishore for mesne profit.

10. Being aggrieved against the order of the First Appellate Court dated 12.02.1979, the instant second appeal has been preferred. It will be noted that during the pendency of the instant second appeal, both Smt. Phoolkali and Sri Ram Kishore have expired and they are now represented by their legal heirs who have been substituted in their place. The Court has made a reference to the original parties namely Badri Prasad, Phoolkali and Ram Kishore for ease, however, it shall also include their legal heirs and representatives who are parties before this Court.

11. A coordinate Bench of this Court by means of order dated 31.08.1979 had admitted the aforesaid appeal on the following substantial questions of law which reads as under:-

"Whether the Lower Appellate Court having held that the Trial Court had wrongly recorded that the parties did not want to adduce any oral evidence fell into error of not remanding the case for setting aside the remaining issue as well viz. whether possession had been transferred under the Court's order in the previous litigation."

12. Heard Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Counsel along with Sri Deepankar Kumar for the appellant. None responded on behalf of the respondents despite opportunity having been provided, hence, the appeal was heard in their absence.

13. The submission of learned counsel for the appellant is that the Lower Appellate Court had erred in dismissing the appeal preferred by Smt. Phoolkali especially when it had already arrived at a conclusion that the Trial Court was not justified in recording that the parties did not wish to lead evidence. Once, such a finding was recorded and the appeal of Ram Kishore was remanded permitting him to lead evidence, in the same earnestness, the appeal of Smt. Phoolkali was also liable to be allowed permitting her to lead the evidence as well.

14. He further urged that from the perusal of the order passed by the Trial Court would indicate that there is no mention regarding the fact whether the possession was delivered to Sri Ram Kishore as was contended by Smt. Phoolkali in her objections so also there is no consideration of the other objections raised by Smt. Phoolkali that either the application under Section 144 C.P.C. could be allowed as a whole and not in part. It is also urged that the issue regarding the other legal heirs of Sri Badri Prasad who were not impleaded and were necessary parties but this has also not been considered in the correct earnestness and all these issues were germane to the controversy to be resolved.

15. It is also urged by the learned Senior Counsel that the Lower Appellate Court by remanding the matter has only permitted Sri Ram Kishore to lead evidence on the question of compensation/mesne profit with liberty to the appellant to file the evidence in rebuttal but has erred in dismissing the appeal of Smt. Phoolkali since her objections regarding the fact that Ram Kishore was already in possession would not be permitted to be agitated and she would not be permitted to lead evidence, despite noticing that the Trial Court had erroneously prevented the parties from leading their respective evidence, thus, the order of remand in so far as the appeal of Ram Kishore is concerned and dismissal of the appeal of Smt. Phoolkali is an erroneous exercise of jurisdiction also resulting in substantial injustice, hence, the appeal deserves to be allowed.

16. The Court has heard the learned Senior Counsel for the appellant and also perused the material available on record.

17. At the outset, it may be noticed that the instant second appeal arises out of a decision rendered on an application under Section 144 C.P.C. It will be necessary to notice the aforesaid provision and Section 144 C.P.C. reads as under:-

*"Section 144. Application for restitution.

(1)Where and in so far as a decree 1 [or an order] is 2 [varied or reversed in any appeal, revision or other proceeding or is set aside or modified in any suit instituted for the purpose, the Court which passed the decree or order] shall, on the application of any party entitled to any benefit by way of restitution or otherwise, cause such restitution to be made as will, so far as may be, place the parties in the position which they would have occupied but for such decree 1 [or order] or 3 [such part thereof as has been varied, reversed, set aside or modified]; and for this purpose, the Court may make any orders, including orders for the refund of costs and for the payment of interest, damages, compensation and mesne profits, which are properly 4 [consequential on such variation, reversal, setting aside or modification of the decree or order].

5[Explanation.--For the purposes of sub-section (1), the expression "Court which passed the decree or order" shall be deemed to include,*

(a) where the decree or order has been varied or reversed in exercise of appellate or revision jurisdiction, the Court of first instance;

(b) where the decree or order has been set aside by a separate suit, the court of first instance which passed such decree or order.

(c) where the Court of first instance has ceased to exist or has ceased to have jurisdiction to execute, it, the Court which, if the suit wherein the decree or order was passed were instituted at the time of making the application for restitution under this section, would have jurisdiction to try such suit.]

(2) No suit shall be instituted for the purpose of obtaining any restitution or other relief which could be obtained by application under sub-section (1)."

18. The aforesaid provision has been amended in the State of U.P. by means of U.P. Amendment Act No. 24 of 1954.

19. It will also be relevant to notice that the provisions of C.P.C. have undergone major amendments in the year 1976 which came into effect from 01.02.1977. Section 2 (2) of the C.P.C. after the amendment reads as under:

"2. (1). ********

(2) "decree" means the formal expression of an adjudication which, so far as regards the Court expressing it, conclusively determines the rights of the parties with regard to all or any of the matters in controversy in the suit and may be either preliminary or final. It shall be deemed to include the rejection of a plaint and the determination of any question within 2  section 144, but shall not include—

(a) any adjudication from which an appeal lies as an appeal from an order, or

(b) any order of dismissal for default.

Explanation.--A decree is preliminary when further proceedings have to be taken before the suit can be completely disposed of. It is final when such adjudication completely disposes of the suit. It may be partly preliminary and partly final;"

20. From the perusal of the aforesaid provisions, Section 2 (2), it would indicate that any determination of a question within Section 144 C.P.C. is deemed to be a decree, consequently, an order passed under Section 144 C.P.C. is appealable as a Regular Civil Appeal under Section 96 C.P.C. and so also the order of the Appellate Court is open to be assailed in a second appeal under Section 100 C.P.C.

21. The expression "restitution' has not been defined in the C.P.C., however, it is a doctrine founded on a Maxim "Actus Curiae Neminem Gravavit'. The maxim explains that the 'Act of the Court shall harm no one'.

22. In a Halsbury's Law of England 4th Edition, it has been stated "Any civilized system of law is bound to provide remedies for cases of what has been called unjust enrichment or unjust benefit, i.e. to prevent a man from retaining the money of, or some benefit derived from, another which is against functions that he should keep. Such remedies in English Law are generally different from remedies in contract and are now recognized to fall within a third category of the common law which has been called quasi contract restitution".

23. The principles underlying the doctrine of restitution is that on a reversal of a decree, the law imposes an obligation on the party to the suit who receives any unjust benefit of the erroneous decree to make restitution to the other party for what he has lost. The obligation arises automatically on the reversal or modification of the decree and necessarily carries with it the right to restitution of all that has been done under the erroneous decree and the Court in making restitution is bound to restore the parties so far as they can be restored to the same position they were in at the time when the Court by its erroneous action had displaced them from.

24. Thus, it would be seen that it is not only the duty of the Court of restoring the things to its proper owner but that also encompasses with it to make such other order including orders for refund of costs or for payment of interests damages and mesne profits which are properly consequential on such variation, reversal, setting aside or modification of the decree or order.

25. It is in this backdrop if the submissions of the learned Senior Counsel for the appellant are tested, it would be discernible from the record that initially Sri Badri Prasad (predecessor-in-interest of Smt. Phoolkali, the predecessors-in-interest of the present appellants) had instituted a suit for joint possession. The suit was decreed and Sri Ram Kishore, the defendant's appeal was dismissed. In the second appeal preferred before this Court bearing No. 355 of 1969 decided on 26.04.1973, the judgment and decree passed by the two Courts were set aside and the suit of Sri Badri Prasad was dismissed holding that Badri Prasad was not entitled to possession.

26. It is in the aforesaid backdrop that Sri Ram Kishore thereafter had moved an application seeking restitution as well as mesne profit. Apparently, the prayer made by Sri Ram Kishore seeking compensation and mesne profit is within the scope of Section 144 C.P.C. as evidenced and noticed hereinabove first.

27. The record further indicates that the ground of objection raised by Smt. Phoolkali before the Trial Court opposing the application for restitution, she had raised a plea that Badri Prasad was not in possession rather the possession was with Sri Ram Kishore himself. It was also stated that Badri Prasad did not remain in possession throughout and moreover that he was also entitled to a sum of Rs. 1,000/- which he had spent on sowing of the crop. Another objection was to the effect that the other heirs of Badri Prasad were not impleaded. This came to be decided by the Trial Court by means of order dated 27.04.1978.

28 . From the perusal of the said order, it would indicate that primarily the Trial Court had framed two points for determination i.e. (i) Whether the appellant was entitled to the relief as prayed for ; (ii) the other as to whether Sri Bhagwat Prasad and Prem Narayan were entitled to be impleaded as a party in the said litigation.

29. The Trial Court found that the possession was with Badri Prasad who had died during the pendency of the earlier second appeal and was now represented by Smt. Phoolkali, hence, it permitted the prayer of possession in favour of Sri Ram Kishore against Smt. Phoolkali. As far as the other issue regarding the claim of compensation/mesne profit is concerned, the Trial Court noticed that the parties agreed not to lead any evidence, hence, the said issue regarding compensation was decided in the negative in absence of any evidence. It also rejected the application of Sri Bhagwat Prasad and Prem Narayan holding that they were not the parties to be impleaded.

30. Apparently, from the perusal of the order passed by the Trial Court, it would indicate that it has not discussed the issue regarding the possession and whether Ram Kishore was entitled to possession or not. The Trial Court has merely stated that since no evidence has been led by the plaintiff in support of his plea regarding mesne profits, hence, it cannot be ascertained as to how much damage or compensation can be awarded, hence, the said prayer was refused. The Trial Court thereafter concentrated mainly on the issue regarding the application of Prem Narayan and Bhagwat Prasad and abruptly ended by holding that the application of Ram Kishore for restitution of possession is liable to be allowed whereas the application for impleadment by Sri Bhagwat Prasad and Prem Narayan was rejected.

31. The record further indicates that by the same order dated 27.04.1978, the Trial Court had issued a warrant of possession which came to be executed and the same can be verified by means of document bearing Paper No. Ga-89 in the record of the Trial Court. However, the said document has not been considered by the Trial Court or the First Appellate Court nor there is any mention of the said document in the two impugned orders dated 27.04.1982 and 12.02.1979.

32. As already noticed above, two appeals were preferred and the Lower Appellate Court while considering the appeal of Smt. Phoolkali bearing No. 101 of 1978 has noticed that the learned Trial court did not properly decide the application under Section 144 C.P.C. It also noticed that neither the counsel for Ram Kishore namely Sri C.B. Tiwari, Advocate nor the counsel for Smt. Phoolkali made any such statement that they did not wish to lead evidence and the fact recorded by the Munsif in its order that the parties did not wish to lead evidence was not corroborated from the record and noticing the aforesaid, it found that the Trial Court ought to have taken up the application for impleadment separately and thereafter ought to have decided the application under Section 144 C.P.C. separately. It also noticed that since the possession has been restored to Sri Ram Kishore, hence, the only issue remaining was regarding the damages/compensation and mesne profit which was not decided by the Trial Court in view of absence of evidence and as noticed above that the very fact that neither counsel for the parties made any such submissions that they did not wish to lead evidence, hence, the appeal of Sri Ram Kishore was allowed an the matter was remanded permitting him to lead evidence regarding his claim for damages/compensation/mesne profit and dismissed the appeal of Smt. Phoolkali.

33. The record further indicates that in the memo of appeal preferred by Smt. Phoolkali which is on record bearing paper no. Ka 2/1. The grounds raised were that the application under Section 144 C.P.C. of Ram Kishore ought to have been dismissed in Toto. The other ground was that the Trial Court had erred in not impleading the other heirs of Sri Badri Prasad and the other was that the Lower Appellate Court did not give her an opportunity to lead oral evidence in respect of her case.

34. As already referred in the preceding paragraphs that after the order was passed by the Trial Court on 27.04.1978, a warrant of possession was issued in pursuance whereof Sri Ram Kishore was put in possession and the said paper bearing No. Ka-89/2 is on record. There is no finding recorded upon the aforesaid document. It will also be relevant to notice that if at all the possession was taken in pursuance of the order dated 27.04.1978 then there ought to have been a mention in the order including the date on which the said possession was delivered. The document does not mention any such date.

35. It is not disputed that both the parties were prevented from leading their respective evidence before the Trial Court. This fact has been affirmed by the Lower Appellate Court too. However, it has remanded the matter in so far as the appeal of Ram Kishore is concerned for determination of the mesne profits, if any, but dismissed the appeal of Smt. Phoolkali.

36. The question as to the quantum of compensation/mesne profits also necessarily involves the determination of the date from when such compensation/mesne profit would be payable and up to what date. This would be dependent on the finding from which date the possession of Sri Badri Prasad would be termed to be unlawful and liable to be restituted and the date on which the said restitution did actually take place.

37. The document bearing Paper No. Ga- 89/2 as referred to hereinabove would indicate that it only states that the possession has been received by Ram Kishore in pursuance of a warrant of possession issued by the Trial Court on 27.04.1978, however, there is no specific date mentioned. Apparently, there is no material on record to indicate that on what date the possession of the property was received by Ram Kishore. It has been stated in paragraph 3 that Sri Badri Prasad had taken the possession on 18.05.1970 and further in paragraph 7 of the said application bearing Paper No. Ga-3/1, it is stated that the appellant namely Ram Kishore is entitled to receive the exclusive possession of the property and has sought mesne profit from 18.05.1970 till the date the possession is to be delivered.

38. Thus, the issue regarding the quantum of compensation as indicated above, is inter-linked with the fact as to when the possession was with Badri Prasad and when it has reverted back to Sri Ram Kishore, this fact needs to be ascertained clearly and for this fact the parties are required to lead evidence. It is admitted that the Trial Court did not permit the parties to lead evidence. The Lower Appellate Court has found that the application under Section 144 C.P.C. has not been properly decided and the parties have been deprived from leading their evidence.

39. Once such a finding was recorded and even if noticing that the possession has been restored to Ram Kishore, the core question for determination of compensation as noticed above would require the determination of the date from which date to what date the compensation is to be paid but in absence of evidence, no such finding has been recorded and it requires evidence for both parties to establish their respective case.

40. The Lower Appellate Court while dismissing the appeal of Smt. Phoolkali as noticed that Smt. Phoolkali shall be given an opportunity to rebut the evidence of Ram Kishore on his claim of damages while the appeal of Ram Kishore has been allowed for the purpose of ascertain the amount of damages, if any, and then decide the application under Section 144 C.P.C. In the operative portion it has been mentioned that the order of Munsif in so far as it relates to restitution of possession is maintained, the Munsif shall give an opportunity to the appellant Ram Kishore to lead evidence on his claim for compensation or damages and Smt. Phoolkali shall be given opportunity to rebut the evidence of Sri Ram Kishore on this point then the Munsif shall ascertain the amount of damages and thereafter decide the application under Section 144 C.P.C. in accordance with law after giving opportunity to the parties to lead evidence.

41. Once such a direction was issued, it would be most unfair that Sri Ram Kishore would be entitled to lead evidence in so far as the quantum of compensation/mesne profit is concerned and Smt. Phoolkali would be entitled only to lead her evidence in rebuttal. As already noticed above, the quantum of mesne profit would be interlinked and dependent on the date and period when Sri Badri Prasad and thereafter Smt. Phoolkali remained in possession. It is not a case where it is admitted to the parties regarding the aforesaid dates nor the Trial Court or the First Appellate Court have recorded any finding in respect thereto.

42. In absence of any clear finding by the two courts, it would be a travesty of justice if some fact is assumed without being proved and even worse without providing an opportunity to the parties concerned to lead evidence. The Appellate Court ought to have exercised its appellate powers taking note of the aforesaid aspect which has not been done.

43. In this view of the matter, this Court is of the opinion that the order of the Lower Appellate Court dismissing the appeal of the appellant Smt. Phoolkali is erroneous. Merely by permitting her to lead evidence in rebuttal is not going to solve the purpose since the period for which the property remained in possession of Sri Badri Prasad and with Smt. Phoolkali was also required to be determined. This necessarily requires the parties to lead evidence especially when it was a disputed fact and there is no finding given by the two courts and the mention of the fact in the order that possession has been given to Ram Kishore, does not indicate when and what is the basis of such finding has also not been mentioned. Hence, in this view of the matter, this Court holds that the Lower Appellate Court has committed an error in dismissing the appeal of Smt. Phoolkali especially when it found that the parties were prevented from leading their evidence so also for the reason that the Lower Appellate Court found that the application under Section 144 C.P.C. has not been decided properly.

44. For the reasons aforesaid, this second appeal is allowed. The impugned order/judgment and decree passed by the Lower Appellate Court dated 12.02.1979 dismissing the appeal No. 101 of 1978 is erroneous and is set aside and since the appeal of Sri Ram Kishore bearing No. 23 of 1978 has been remanded by the same impugned judgment and order, that part of the order shall be maintained. This Second Appeal No. 554 of 1979shall stand allowed and it the matter of Smt. Phoolkali shall also be remanded to the Trial Court where the application under Section 144 C.P.C. shall be decided afresh by permitting the respective parties to lead their evidence. However, in so far as the issue of compensation/mesne profit is concerned while determining the same, the Court shall also record a finding as to from which date till when the possession remained with Sri Badri Prasad and when it was restored to Sri Ram Kishore strictly in light of the evidence led by the parties.

45. Since the instant appeal remained pending before this Court since 1979 and an application under Section 144 C.P.C. is of the year 1974, hence, the Trial Court is directed that it shall make an earnest endevour to decide the aforesaid application most expeditiously without granting any unnecessary adjournments to either of the parties, however, ensuring full opportunity of hearing as well as permitting the parties to lead their evidence so that the entire proceedings can be decided preferrably within a period of 8 months from the date a copy of this order is placed before the Court concerned.

46. The instant second appeal is allowed in the aforesaid terms. In the facts and circumstances, there shall be no order as to costs. The record of the Court concerned shall be remitted forthwith.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE DR. KAUSHAL JAYENDRA THAKER, J.
THE HON'BLE SUBASH CHAND, J.

First Appeal No. 627 of 2019

Smt. Shruti Bhatnagar ...Appellant
Versus
Sri Mayank Bhatnagar ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Ashok Shankar Bhatnagar, Sri Harsh Bhatnagar

Counsel for the Respondent:

A. Civil Law-Code of Civil Procedure, 1908-Section 96 & Hindu Marriage Act, 1955-Section 13(1)(i-a)-challenge to-dismissal of divorce petition by Family court-wife subjected to cruelty, both physical and mental, under the guise of the demand of cash-respondent remained absent for three years though served-husband has not come forward to contest the appeal nor stepped into the witness box-adverse inference not drawn by the trial court against the respondent/husband caused injury to the appellant/wife-no animus of cohabitation-no endeavour for reconciliation which clearly establish animus deserendi-conduct adopted by husband proved cruelty-it amounted to wilful neglect of wife-decree of divorce granted.(Para 1 to 14)

B. Once the parties have separated and the separation has continued for a sufficient length of time and one of them has presented a petition for divorce, it can well be presumed that the marriage has broken down. The Court, no doubt, should seriously make an endeavour to reconcile the parties, yet, if it is found that the breakdown is irreparable, then divorce should not be withheld. The consequences of preservation in law of the unworkable which has long ceased to be effective are bound to be a source of greater misery for the parties.(Para 9, 10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon'ble Subash Chand, J.)

1. Heard Shri Harsh Bhatnagar, learned counsel holding brief of Shri Ashok Shankar Bhatnagar, learned counsel for the appellant. Though served respondent for three years has absented here as also before the family court

2. This appeal, has been filed by the appellant to set aside the judgment dated 29.07.2019 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghaziabad in O.S. No. 158 of 2018 and allow the petition of the appellant under Section 13(1)(i-a) of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955.

3. The short brief facts as culled out from the record are that the appellant was married with respondent on 11.02.2012 by performing all the Hindu rituals. There is no dispute to this fact. Immediately after the wedding, the husband and his family members started harassing the appellant who was at the matrimonial home in Udaipur in the State of Rajasthan. The husband lost his job and therefore, started demanding money from the father of the appellant who showed his inability to pay a sum of Rs. 20 lakhs. After this incident the husband and the family members started abusing and insulting the appellant, however, she tolerated all this so as to save her matrimony, during this period she conceived a child but because of the unhappiness and because her parents was unable to pay Rs. 20 lakhs, she was forced to abort the child and the child aborted. Looking to this unhappy incident, the father of the appellant paid a sum of Rs. 10 lakhs. The husband after procuring the money from the appellant he was in debt and was running here and there. The appellant herein gave birth to a female child which infuriated the respondent more than what he was before the incident. He was indebted to people to the tune of Rs. 40 lakhs, his cruelty day and day out had started physically assaulting her. The appellant's father who lived in a rented house in Ghaziabad and therefore in the year 2017 when she was driven out of the house and when the husband went away and absconded, she was also thrown out of the house with her daughter. All this was tolerated by the wife and much later in the year 2018 she filed the suit for divorce which was conducted ex-parte. The judgement spells out in:

4. याचनी को एकपक्षीय साक्ष्य का अवसर दिया गया, जिस पर याचनी द्वारा साक्ष्य में अपना साक्ष्य शपथ-पत्र दाखिल किया गया है। अन्य किसी साक्षी का साक्ष्य शपथ-पत्र दाखिल नहीं किया गया है। दस्तावेजी साक्ष्य के रूप में शादी की फोटो, शादी का कार्ड, आधार हेतु किये गये आवेदन की फोटोप्रति, एककिता रेंट एग्रीमेंट व शादी व पुत्री के जन्म के समय दिये गये सामान की सूची दाखिल की गयी है।

6. अब देखना यह है कि क्या याचनी अपनी केस एकपक्षीय रूप से साबित करने में सफल रही है? अपने केस के समर्थन में याचनी द्वारा अपना साक्ष्य शपथ-पत्र दाखिल किया गया है। अन्य किसी साक्षी का साक्ष्य शपथ-पत्र दाखिल नहीं किया गया है। प्रतिवादी द्वारा की गयी क्रूरता की बाबत कोई अभिलेख साक्ष्य याचनी द्वारा प्रस्तुत नहीं की गयी है।"

4. Despite this the learned Judge dismissed the application for decree for divorce on the ground that:-

".... प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में याचनी की साक्ष्य से यह कतई स्पष्ट नहीं होता है कि याचनी का प्रतिवादी के साथ रहने की स्थिति में जीवन खतरे में है। अतः केस के तथ्यों एवं परिस्थितयों के आलोक में मयंक भटनागर ने कोई भी क्रूरता याचनी के प्रति की हो ऐसा आरोप याचनी साबित करने में पूरी तरह से असफल रहा है।

याची के द्वारा जनपद गाजियाबाद में निवास के संबंध में केवल नोटेरी किरायानामा दाखिल किया है, परन्तु उक्त किरायानामा को

सम्पत्ति मालिक को न्यायालय में परीक्षित कर सत्यापित नहीं कराया है।...." and has rejected the application. It is this order which has given rise to this appeal.

5. By way of this appeal the appellant who had moved the Family Court for seeking divorce from her husband has moved this Court contending that despite the above mentioned facts the matter was not contested by the respondent-husband. The court on two counts dismissed the Family Court petition for divorce, one of the grounds on which the petition was dismissed that the appellant herein could not prove that she was resident of Ghaziabad. For that the appellant has contended that she had applied for Aadhar Card after been thrown away from the matrimonial home she was moved to Ghaziabad and was residing there when Family Court when the application for divorce was filed, she has filed the application in Ghaziabad. She is daughter of late. Sanjay Bhatnagar and she used to stay in tehsil " 710C Pinakel Towers Ahinsa Khand, Dwitiya Tehsil, Ghaziabad" which she has maintained also in 2021, this is the submission of the learned counsel of the appellant and the appellant has not changed the address.

6. The provisions of Section 19 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 relates to jurisdiction. The petition was filed under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act and Section 19 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 reads as follows:-

"19. Court to which petition shall be presented.- Every petition under this Act shall be presented to the district court within the local limits of whose ordinary original civil jurisdiction-(iiia) in case the wife is the petitioner, where she is residing on the date of presentation of the petition, or..."

7. The facts reveal that at the time of filing of the petition the appellant proved that the residence was falling in territorial jurisdiction of the family court , as per provisions of Act the petition can be filed where the residence of petitioner was disclosed and no rebuttal evidence came on record to contend that the petitioner was not giving correct facts. The another ground to dismiss the petition is that petitioner failed to prove cruelty by cogent evidence that husband had perpetuated mental cruelty though she has condoned the same once the court has lost sight of the fact that cruelty has to be decided on facts it might have been condoned once but that is not conclusive that it was not revisited and was again repeated. The learned counsel for the appellant has taken us to the record and has referred to, page 15 which narrates the genesis of all the events which the learned counsel for the appellant has requested us to go through which would go to show that the chain is complete and the behaviour of the husband has been such which shows that he has not only deserted but before deserting the wife he has forced her to leave Rajasthan and move to Ghaziabad disowning the wife after the birth of a female child is the highest kind of cruelty and therefore in the case on hand the matter will have to be decided based on the facts emerging are (a) desertion (b)as well as cruelty. We are fortified by the judgements in the case of V. Bhagat Vs. D. Bhagat, (1994) 1 SCC 337, G.Padmini Vs. G.Sivananda Babu, AIR 2000 Andhra Pradesh 176 and Jitendra Kumar Vs. Ankita Sharma @ Thakur, on which heavy reliance is placed by the learned counsel for the appellant.

8. There is not even a whisper on record to show that ever the husband tried to carry the wife and maintain her. The evidence of the wife clearly shows that on account of subjecting cruelty, both physical and mental, under the guise of the demand of cash, ornament etc.The respondent husband has persistently remained absent for more than 3 years though he have been served with summons of both the courts namely the family court and court of appeal namely in this appeal . The respondent has not appeared before this Court. The evidence reveals three facts: (1) that the husband has no animus of cohabitation; (2)the petitioner has substantiated her say with evidence and even she has in her oral testimony proved the facts alleged . Moreover, the petitioner has proved the facts averred about residential proof . Even if the decree be not granted on the ground of desertion but on the ground of irretrievably breaking down of marriage and on the ground of cruelty a decree was required to be passed in favour of the petitioner appellant as the facts also shows that the respondent and his family members have caused mental cruelty to the petitioner.

9. We would take assistance from a the judgment reported in 2006 (3) GLR 2182 between Naveen Kohli vs. Neelu Kohli, wherein it has been held as follows:

"Irretrievable breakdown of marriage is not a ground for divorce under the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. Because of the change of circumstances and for covering a large number of cases where the marriages are virtually dead and unless this concept is pressed into service, the divorce cannot be granted. Ultimately, it is for the legislature whether to include irretrievable breakdown of marriage as a ground of divorce or not, but the legislature must consider irretrievable breakdown of marriage as a ground for grant of divorce under the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955.

Once the parties have separated and the separation has continued for a sufficient length of time and one of them has presented a petition for divorce, it can well be presumed that the marriage has broken down. The Court, no doubt, should seriously make an endeavour to reconcile the parties, yet, if it is found that the breakdown is irreparable, then divorce should not be withheld. The consequences of preservation in law of the unworkable marriage which has long ceased to be effective are bound to be a source of greater misery for the parties."

It would be necessary to refer to the provisions of Section 13 (1) (i-a) and (iii) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 which reads as under:-

"13 Divorce - (1) Any marriage solemnized, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, may, on a petition presented by either the husband or the wife, be dissolved by a decree of divorce on the ground that the other party

(i) XXX XXX XXX

(i-a) has after the solemnization of the marriage, treated the petitioner with cruelty; or

(i-b) XXX XXX XXX

(ii) XXX XXX XXX

(iii) has been incurably of unsound mind, or has been suffering continuously or intermittently from mental disorder of such a kind and to such an extent that the petitioner cannot reasonably be expected to live with the respondent.

XXX XXX XXX

10. So considering the above provisions of Section 13 (1) of the Hindu Marriage Act, and in light of the facts and in light of the findings that the marriage is not only irretrievably broken, the wife was treated by the husband with mental cruelty without any reason and there was no animus of cohabiting shown by the husband .We find support In decision titled K. Srinivas Rao Vs. D.A. Deepa A.I.R. 2013 SC 2176 where the Court held "cruelty is evident where one spouse has so treated the other and manifested such feelings towards her or him as to cause in her or his mind reasonable apprehension that it will be harmful or injurious to live with the other spouse.Cruelty may be physical or mental. A sustained course of abusive and humiliating treatment calculated to torture, discommode orrender miserable life of the spouse is cruelty. Mental cruelty is a state of mind. The feeling of deep anguish, disappointment,frustration in one spouse caused by the conduct of other for a long time may lead to mental cruelty. Accusations of unchastity and indecent familiarity with a neighbour were made in the written statement support the allegation of mental cruelty caused to husband by wife. Humiliation by leveling allegation o fillicit relations of husband with some other ladies that too unproved and unsubstantiated, humiliation of parents of husband, complaint to police authorities against husband for such unfounded allegations collectively do constitute a clear case of mental cruelty justifying divorce under Section 13 of Act,1955."

11. As stated earlier, the respondent-husband has not come forward before this Court to contest this appeal and has chosen to remain absent.The respondent has not cross-examined the petitioner before the trial court and has not stepped into the witness box. The say of the petitioner in her petition as well as in her affidavit, has therefore, remained unchallenged and uncontroverted and stands proved and adverse inference should have been drawn against the respondent but non considering by trial court has caused injury to appellant wife . This Court has also no reason to disbelieve the say of the petitioner/appellant on oath as she has proved her averments by stepping into the witness-box. The petitioner has categorically stated in the way in which she was treated with mental and physical cruelty and was deserted by the respondent.It is an admitted position of fact that there is a desertion of more than two years. Thus it goes without saying that the ingredients of the Section 13 of Hindu Marriage Act 1955 have been proved by the wife. The averments of the plaint and the facts proved by the wife shows that the husband has perpetrated cruelty on the wife. The averments of the wife stated in the petition and this appeal have gone uncontroverted and unchallenged and from the evidence it emerges that the petitioner has been subjected to the cruelty and is deserted, and therefore, this is a clear case of cruelty and desertion for the following reasons:

11. There is no cohabitation by and between the parties. The petitioner's allegations are not refuted or controverted by the respondent, as he has not stepped into the witness box;

12. The respondent has not made any endeavour of reconciliation and has also not appeared before this Court and has chosen to remain absent though served.

13. The petitioner was subjected to the mental and physical cruelty as alleged in the petition. So, from the above said reasons, the marriage seems to have turned into deadlock as they have no cohabitation with each other since last more than two years. Therefore, the petitioner has been successful in establishing that she was treated with cruelty and has been deserted by the husband and hence the petitioner/appellants entitled to a decree of divorce as prayed for therefore, in view of the above, a decree of divorce requires to be granted to this petitioner/appellant. .It is proved that she was driven out of the matrimonial house and neglected by the husband, which is obviously proved and thus, she is entitled to divorce.We are also fortified in our view by placing relence on the decision in The judgment reported in AIR 2005 SC 3508 in the case of Geeta Jagdish Mangtani v. Jagdish Mangtani,which also helps the petitioner's case as there where thefacts show " the wife left matrimonial home in Mumbai only after about 4 months of marriage and started living with her parents in Gujarat where she gave birth to child and then continued with her teaching job. No attempt was made by her to stay with husband which clearly established animus deserendi. The course of conduct adopted by the respondent proved desertion on her part without reasonable cause. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that it amounted to willful neglect of husband and he, is therefore, entitled to divorce decree".

14. The appeal is allowed.

15. The marriage dated 11.02.2012 are ordered to be dissolved. The Marriage Petition No. 518 of 2018 (Smt. Shruti Bhatnagar Vs. Mayank Bhatnagar) under Section 13 (1)(A)of Hindu Marriage Act1955 is allowed .The judgment and decree are reversed. The family court to draw modified decree in consonance with this judgment within eight weeks from today. Record be sent to the concerned Family Court.

16. We are thankful to young counsel who argued the matter and has assisted the Court ably.

2. Collector,Land Acquisition, Ananantnag & anr. Vs Mst. Katiji & ors. (1987) 2 SCC 107

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J)

1. This second appeal is directed against an order of the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 15, Allahabad in Miscellaneous Case No. 475 of 2017, rejecting an application to condone the delay in preferring an appeal from the judgment and decree of the Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No. 12, Allahabad dated 14.08.2013 passed in O.S. No. 485 of 1989.

2. Looking to the limited issue that is involved in this appeal, an elucidation of facts giving rise to the suit or the merits of the parties' case is not required.

3. The plaintiff-appellants instituted a suit for partition of the suit property, subject matter of O.S. No. 485 of 1989, against the defendant-respondents. The Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No. 12, Allahabad tried the suit and dismissed it vide her judgment and decree dated 14.08.2013. This decree was challenged belatedly by an appeal under Section 96 C.P.C. preferred to the learned District Judge of Allahabad on 17.05.2017. The appeal was accompanied by an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act also dated 17.05.2017, seeking the delay in preferring the appeal to be condoned. The application was duly supported by an affidavit. This delay condonation application bearing Paper No. 5-C was registered as Miscellaneous Case No. 453 of 2017 on the file of the learned District Judge, Allahabad. The belated appeal, along with the delay condonation application, was assigned to the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 15, Allahabad, where it was numbered as Miscellaneous Case No. 475 of 2017. It is this application for condonation of delay that has come to be rejected by the order impugned, and with it, the accompanying appeal, as time barred.

4. It is said in the affidavit filed in support of the delay condonation application that upon dismissal of the appellants' suit by the Trial Court, they sought advice from their Counsel about the steps to be taken against the said decree. It is stated that the learned counsel advised them that since a second appeal was already pending before this Court relating to the same property, no appeal was required to be filed from the Trial Court's decree. It is further stated that from the judgment and decree passed in O.S. No. 128 of 1990, an appeal was carried and further, a second appeal to this Court, being Second Appeal No. 1765 of 1999, which was said to be pending. It is stated that it was in connection with briefing the learned Counsel in the second appeal that the Counsel in the High Court came across the judgment and decree dated 27.04.2017 passed by the Trial Court, that is in question here. The learned Counsel asked the appellants whether the said decree has been appealed, to which the appellants responded by disclosing that the earlier Counsel had advised them that it was not required. The appellants were thereupon advised to forthwith appeal the judgment and decree passed by the Trial Court under reference.

5. Upon receipt of the said advice, the appellants got an application made for the inspection of records through Mr. Uma Shankar Tiwari, Advocate on 28.04.2017. The inspection was made on 04.05.2017. There was in between a strike called for by the Counsel of the District Court, that led to some delay in presentation of the application for a certified copy of the judgment and decree passed by the Trial Court. The application for a certified copy was made on 09.05.2017. The appeal was presented on 17.05.2017.

6. It has been averred specifically that the delay in preferring the appeal is not deliberate, but proceeds from the wrong legal advice given by Mr. Santosh Kumar Srivastava, Advocate earlier engaged by the appellants, which they bona fide believed to be true and did not appeal earlier. It is stated that as soon as the appellants received advice on 27.04.2020 during briefing on the pending second appeal under reference by the learned Counsel appearing in the High Court, they have acted without delay to prefer the appeal. The defendant-respondents contested the application for condonation of delay and said that the delay has been deliberately made. The defendant-respondents, in answer to the delay condonation application, did not file any objections, or affidavits. They have objected orally. It is recorded by the learned Judge in the order impugned that the defendant-respondents have said that there is no good ground shown in the application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act that may make out a case for the condonation of delay.

7. This appeal was admitted to hearing vide order dated 15.11.2018 with reference to the substantial questions of law nos. 1, 2 and 4 formulated in the memorandum of appeal, but without the Court actually formulating any substantial question of law in the order of that date. Accordingly, when the appeal came up for hearing on 02.09.2021, this Court has proceeded to formulate the following substantial questions of law:

(1) Whether legal advice not to file an appeal bona fide believed to be correct, would constitute 'sufficient cause' to condone the delay as postulated under Section 5 of the Limitation Act?

(2) Whether the Court while considering a plea for condonation of delay ought to lean in favour of hearing on merits, particularly, in the case of a first appeal, rather than shutting out hearing?

8. Since the respondents have not appeared despite service being held good vide order dated 09.08.2021, this appeal has been heard ex parte and judgment was reserved on 02.09.2021.

9. The first substantial question of law noted by the learned counsel for the appellants is about bona fide belief in the genuineness of a legal advice received to qualify for "sufficient cause" to condone delay, as postulated under Section 5 of the Limitation Act. What may constitute sufficient cause and what may not, is indeed a substantial question of law. In support of the submission that delay occasioned on account of bona fide belief in the soundness of legal advice received, that may be found to be incorrect, is a ground in law 'sufficient' to condone delay, the learned counsel for the appellant Mr. Kunal Ravi Singh relies on a decision of this Court in Allah Tala vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and others, 1993 AWC 155 All. The said decision involved choosing of a wrong forum by the petitioner to file a revision before the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Jalaun at Orai, whereas the jurisdictional Deputy Director was the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Kanpur Dehat. It was in those circumstances that the order of the Deputy Director of Consolidation, who had jurisdiction, declining to condone delay on account of wrong legal advice in preferring the earlier revision before a territorially incompetent Tribunal was held to be a "sufficient cause".

10. It is true that in the last mentioned case, it was not a case of inaction, but steps taken in the wrong forum, based on wrong legal advice that was bona fide believed to be true. Here, this Court finds that there is a previous litigation pending between parties, where the defendants had instituted a suit against the plaintiffs, seeking to recover possession on ground that they were licensees in the suit property. This has figured in the judgment of the Trial Court, whereagainst the appeal has been scuttled on the ground of delay. The appellants have stated with full particulars as to what advice they received, particularly, nominating the learned Counsel from whom they received it and how and under what circumstances, they realized that it was incorrect. These assertions have not been rebutted on behalf of the defendant-respondents on affidavit. Therefore, these remain un-rebutted entirely.

11. The Lower Appellate Court has also not assigned reasons why it has disbelieved the explanation offered by the defendant-appellants. Rather, there is a cryptic remark carried in the impugned judgment with reference to the defendant-appellants' case for condonation to the effect that : "इसप्रकार प्रार्थी के प्रार्थनापत्र एवं शपथपत्र में वर्णित कथनों के आधार पर विलम्ब को क्षमा किये जाने पर कोई समुचित आधार दर्शित नहीं है।". There is no reason why the Appellate Court has reached its conclusions to disbelieve the defendant-appellants' explanation. But, that is not the substance of the substantial question of law under consideration. What is of relevance is that whatever explanation for the delay the appellants have furnished in the affidavit filed in aid of the delay condonation application, carries facts and urges a ground to the effect that the delay was occasioned by incorrect legal advice bona fide believed to be true. A wrong legal advice which a party bona fide believes to be true generally constitutes, though not always, sufficient cause to condone delay within the meaning of Section 5 of the Limitation Act. The substantial question of law no. 1 is, therefore, answered in the affirmative.

12. So far as the other substantial question is concerned, it is mooted by Mr. Kunal Ravi Singh that condonation of delay is a matter where the Court should lean in favour of hearing on merits. It is true for a principle that there is high authority that says that the Court should, as far as may be opt to decide on merits, rather than shutting out parties on the technicality of limitation. Reference is to be made in this connection to the decision of the Supreme Court in Collector, Land Acquisition, Ananantnag and Another v. Mst. Katiji and Others, (1987) 2 SCC 107, where, it has been held:

"3. The legislature has conferred the power to condone delay by enacting Section 5 of the Indian Limitation Act of 1963 in order to enable the courts to do substantial justice to parties by disposing of matters on 'merits'. The expression "sufficient cause" employed by the legislature is adequately elastic to enable the courts to apply the law in a meaningful manner which subserves the ends of justice—that being the life-purpose for the existence of the institution of courts. It is common knowledge that this Court has been making a justifiably liberal approach in matters instituted in this Court. But the message does not appear to have percolated down to all the other courts in the hierarchy. And such a liberal approach is adopted on principle as it is realized that:

1. Ordinarily a litigant does not stand to benefit by lodging an appeal late.

2. Refusing to condone delay can result in a meritorious matter being thrown out at the very threshold and cause of justice being defeated. As against this when delay is condoned the highest that can happen is that a cause would be decided on merits after hearing the parties.

3. "Every day's delay must be explained" does not mean that a pedantice approach should be made. Why not every hour's delay, every second's delay? The doctrine must be applied in a rational common sense pragmatic manner.

4. When substantial justice and technical considerations are pitted against each other, cause of substantial justice deserves to be preferred for the other side cannot claim to have vested right in injustice being done because of a non-deliberate delay.

5. There is no presumption that delay is occasioned deliberately, or on account of culpable negligence, or on account of mala fide. A litigant does not stand to benefit by resorting to delay. In fact he runs a serious risk.

6. It must be grasped that judiciary is respected on on account of its power to legalize injustice on technical grounds but because it is capable of removing injustice and is expected to do so."

13. There could be a situation, where the delay is indeed not condonable in the sense that circumstances show gross negligence, or the litigant may be demonstrated to be one who has slept over his rights. Those are cases, where the other side contests the claim, rebuts the facts and disputes what the party seeking condonation asserts or urges. Here, the defendant-respondents have not cared to file a written objection to the delay condonation application, let alone an affidavit rebutting the allegations made on affidavit in support of the delay condonation application.

14. It is also to be remembered that the proceedings where delay is sought to be condoned, though not in themselves very material, may not be irrelevant altogether. The delay here is sought to be condoned in a first appeal. It is well acknowledged that a First Appeal is about a very valuable right of the litigant, inasmuch as it is an appeal of right, both on facts and law. This is what Section 96 C.P.C. makes it to be. This right of appeal is not subject to any limitation, such as the demonstrable involvement of a substantial question of law or it being subject to discretion of the Court. This being the nature of the appeal envisaged under Section 96 C.P.C., a prayer for condonation of delay must necessarily be viewed in the context of the right that the appellants have at stake. The nature of the jurisdiction, therefore, would all the more require a relatively liberal exercise of the discretion to condone delay, once the explanation comes within what the law understands as "sufficient cause". Here, as remarked elsewhere in this judgment, the Lower Appellate Court has done a short shrift of the matter to conclude, without assigning any reason that the cause shown is not sufficient.

15. This Court is of opinion that the substantial question of law no. 2 should also be answered in the affirmative.

16. In the circumstances, this Court is of opinion that this appeal must succeed. The appeal succeeds and is hereby allowed. The impugned judgment dated 31.07.2018 passed by the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 15, Allahabad in Miscellaneous Case No. 475 of 2017 is hereby set aside and reversed. The Delay Condonation application stands allowed.

17. The Lower Appellate Court shall now proceed to hear the appeal, if there is no other defect, under Order XLI Rule 11 C.P.C.

18. Costs easy.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.

Hon'ble Subhash Chand, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and perused the judgment and order impugned.

2. There is nobody to oppose the appeal though U.P.S.R.T.C. and the owner have been sent notices and duly served. It is also brought to our notice that U.P.S.R.T.C. had also preferred an appeal.

3. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 08.11.2017 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/District Judge, Gautam Budh Nagar (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C.P. No.86 of 2016.

4. As far as the appeal is concerned, all other aspects except the compensation awarded, has attained finality. It is the appeal filed by claimants. The issue of negligence has been decided in favour of the claimants and that issue is not raised in this appeal and the issue that is required to be decided is compensation awarded by the Tribunal, which has not granted any amount under the head of future loss of income despite the law provided for the same.

5. By way of this appeal, the claimants have lost a young son (student) studying in class VIII. The Tribunal has considered his notional income to be Rs. 2400/- per month. The Tribunal relied on the IInd schedule of the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988, did not grant any amount towards future loss of income. It is submitted by Sri Pankaj Rai, learned counsel for the appellants that as per Rules of Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles (Eleventh Amendment) Rules, 2011, which is recently interpreted by the Apex Court in case of New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Urmila Shukla and others passed in Civil Appeal No. 4634 of 2021 decided on 06.08.2021 and held that the rules are beneficial and given effect. In our view, the Tribunal has not granted any amount though the rules provides, which reads as follows:-

"220A. Determination of compensation. (1) The multiplier for determination of loss of income payable as compensation in all the claims cases shall be applied as per Second Schedule provided in the Act.

(2((i) The deduction towards personal expenses of a deceased unmarried shall be 50% where the family of a bachelor is large and dependent on the income of the deceased, the deduction shall be 1/3.

(3) The future prospects of a deceased, shall be added in the actual salary or minimum wages of the deceased."

6. For the purpose of future prospects of the deceased it shall be added in actual salary and or the minimum wages of the deceased, as under these rules came into force before deciding the matter, therefore, 50% of the salary and or minimum wages will have to be added, which would mean that the order of the Tribunal requires to be modified. It is further submitted by Sri Rai that the multiplier of 15 granted by the Tribunal has to be 18. It is next submitted that the Tribunal has granted Rs. 9000/- towards funeral purposes whereas no amount under non-pecuniary damages for the parents has granted. It is submitted by Sri Rai that the bus of the U.P.S.R.T.C. was not insured.

7. It is contended that as far as the interest is concerned though the rules specify 7% as rate of interest and less and as far as the amount under non-pecuniary head is concerned, the judgment of Sarla Verma and National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 would be applicable. Dictation The deceased was survived by his parents therefore, 1/2 is ordered to be deducted for personal expenses. The multiplier for the death of boy below the age of 14 is 15 hence, we maintain the same. As far as the compensation for loss of love and affection, loss of future prospects and consortium are concerned, we award Rs. 50,000/- with 10% increase for three years. The rate of interest would be 7.5%.

i. Income Rs.6,000/-

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40% namely Rs.2400/-

iii. Total income : Rs. 6,000 + 2400 = Rs. 8400/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/2 : Rs. 4200/- (rounded up)

v. Annual income : Rs.4200 x 12 = Rs. 50,400/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 15

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.50400 x 15 = Rs.7,56,000/- viii. Amount under filial consortium and other non pecuniary heads : Rs. 85,000/-

x. Total compensation : Rs. 8,41,000/-

9. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

10. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

11. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma Vs. Venugopal reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC) 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants/claimants are neither illiterate nor rustic villagers.

12. Record, if any be sent back to the Tribunal.

Order on Correction Application

Correction as prayed for be made in paragraph-2 of the judgment by substituting the word 'not' in place of 'also' and further in paragraph-10 of the judgment by substituting the word 'U.P.S.R.T.C.' in place of 'Insurance Company'.

The application is allowed, accordingly.

We are thankful to Sri Pankaj Rai, Advocate, for pointing out typographical error under our order dated 11.08.2021.

4. Jang Singh Vs Brij Lal, AIR 1966 SC 1631

1. Heard Sri Dilip Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Asit Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. "Supplementary Reply to the Supplementary Objection filed by the opposite parties' filed by Sri Dilip Kumar Pandey and "Additional Supplementary Affidavit/objection by the respondents/defendants filed by Sri Asit Srivastava are taken on record.

3. This First Appeal From Order under Order 43 Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1976 (C.P.C.) has been filed against the order dated 09.08.2021 passed by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Fast Track Court, Lucknow, in Original Suit No. 1018 of 2021 (Akhilesh Kumar Jaiswal and others Vs. Karunesh Kumar Jaiswal and others) on the application of the defendant-respondents, under Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C.. By order dated 09.08.2021, the order dated 30.07.2021 granting ad interim temporary injunction on the appellants' application 6-C, has been set aside.

4. The plaintiff-appellants filed regular Suit No. 1018 of 2021 for permanent injunction in which they filed an application for grant of temporary injunction under Order 39 Rule 1 of C.P.C.. The suit was instituted in the Court of Civil Judge (Junior Divisoin), South, Lucknow on 30.07.2021. As the valuation of the Suit was Rs. 20,00,000/- (Twenty Lacs), beyond the pecuniary jurisdiction of the Civil Judge (Junior Division), South, Lucknow, the Suit was transferred to the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Fast Track, Lucknow on 30.07.2021, itself, where an order of ad interim temporary injunction dated 30.07.2021 was passed ex-parte after hearing the plaintiff-appellant only.

5. On 02.08.2021, the defendant-respondents moved an application before learned District Judge, Lucknow stating that they had filed caveat on 29.07.2021 but without giving notice and affording an opportunity of hearing to them the order dated 30.07.2021 was passed. Upon the said application the learned District Judge, Lucknow by order dated 2.8.2021 called for the comments of both the court concerned.

6. On 2.08.2021 the respondent-defendant filed another application C-10 supported with affidavit C-11 upon which the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division) Fast Track, Lucknow fixed 3.8.2021 for disposal of temporary injunction application pre-poning the date 06.08.2021 which was earlier fixed vide order dated 30.07.2021. On 03.08.2021, the matter was fixed for 4.08.2021 and then for 06.08.2021 and thereafter for 09.08.2021 on which date the order, under challenge in appeal was passed.

7. This Court, considering the seriousness of the allegations and the counter-allegations as regards filing and reporting of the caveat, in view of the submissions advanced, on 13.09.2021 had passed the following order:-

"1. Heard Sri Dilip Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Asit Srivastava,learned counsel for the respondents.

2. C.M.Application No. 116790 of 2021 along with the appellant's reply to the objection of the respondents is taken on record.

3. Supplementary affidavit/objection filed along with an application dated 13.09.2021 in Court filed by the respondents is also taken on record. The office shall allot number to this application.

4. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that in the Suit for permanent injunction being original Suit No. 1018/2021: Akhilesh Kumar Jaiswal and others Vs. Karunesh Jaiswal and others, filed by the plaintiff-appellants, learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Fast Track, Lucknow on 30.07.2021, granted ad interim temporary injunction. On 02.08.2021 the defendent-respondents filed an application before the District Judge, Lucknow that they had filed caveat but the copy of the plaint of the suit and the application for temporary injunction was not served upon them and the ad interim order was granted, upon which learned District Judge, Lucknow asked for comments. The defendant-respondents also filed an application under Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. upon which the order dated 30.07.2021 has been set aside on 09.08.2021, on the ground that the copy of plaint etc. was not served on the caveator-defendant-respondents. Against this order dated 09.08.2021 the present appeal has been filed.

5. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that no caveat was filed as it was not registered nor any copy thereof was served to the appellants prior to filing of the suit.

6. Learned counsel for the respondents, however, submits that the caveat was filed on 29.07.2021 in both the courts below i.e. Civil Judge (Junior Division), Lucknow as well as Civil Judge (Senior Division), Fast Track, Lucknow. The suit considering its pecuniary jurisdiction ought to have been filed before Civil Judge (Senior Division) Lucknow, but it was filed before Civil Judge (Junior Division), Lucknow, from where it was sent to the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Fast Track, Lucknow on 30.07.2021 itself. However, at neither place the caveat was reported by the concerned.

7. From the submissions advanced by the learned counsels for the respective parties what transpires is that there is dispute on the point of filing of the caveat, the date of its filing i.e. whether it was filed on 29.07.2021 or on 30.07.2021 as also service of the caveat on the plaintiff-appellants prior to filing of the suit on 30.07.2021.

8. In view of the aforesaid, it is considered necessary to see the copy of the caveat application as also the document C 24/1 mentioned in the order dated 09.08.2021 at internal page No.2 thereof.

9. Learned counsels for the parties pray for and are granted 3 days time to file copy of the aforesaid documents along with affidavit.

10. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the learned District Judge, Lucknow vide order dated 02.08.2021, had called for comments from both the Courts concerned i.e. Civil Judge (Junior Division), Lucknow as well as Civil Judge (Senior Division), Fast Track, Lucknow and directed to put up the matter with comments of the courts concerned.

11. In view of the order dated 02.08.2021 passed by the learned District Judge, Lucknow as also the seriousness of the allegations and the counter-allegations, it is also considered appropriate that the learned District Judge, Lucknow shall submit his report on the aforesaid and in particular the date of filing of caveat; the date of its registration in the records where caveats are lodged; if there are different dates in filing and registering caveat, the reason therefore, with respect to both the caveats filed before the two courts mentioned above. He shall also submit report as to what is the procedure if a case filed in one court is transferred to another court, as in the present case, whether in the transferred court, the caveat is required to be checked.

12. Learned District Judge, Lucknow shall submit the report in a sealed cover to the Court on the next date through Senior Registrar of this Court.

13. Let a copy of this order be sent through Special messenger to the District Judge, Lucknow, within 24 hours.

14. List on 17.09.2021 as fresh."

8. By means of the order dated 13.09.2021, the learned District Judge, Lucknow was asked to submit the report in a sealed cover and in compliance the District Judge, Lucknow has sent the report dated 15.09.2021 in sealed cover to this Court, which has been opened in the Court.

9. In the report dated 15.09.2021, paragraphs 8 and 9, the learned District Judge, Lucknow has returned the following findings:

"8. From the aforesaid facts and circumstances, it transpires that the caveat was filed in the Court on 29.07.2021 and it was sent to computer center for registration and it got registered on e-portal as caveat No. 83/2021 on 29.07.2021. Thereafter, file got transferred to Civil Judge (S.D.)/F.T.C., Lucknow and due to mistake of clerk concerned i.e. Sri Ram Prasad Gupta, the same could not be enclosed alongwith the Suit. The transferee court having not received caveat, issued ex-parte ad-interim injunction on 30.07.2021. It is noteworthy that when a case is transferred from one Court to another Court, the Transferee Court should check for Munsarim Report where caveat, if filed, is endorsed by Munsarim.

9. The final departmental inquiry was initiated vide No. 15/2021 dated 02.08.2021 was initiated against the concerned clerk Sri Ram Prasad Verma and Sri Yogendra Ram Gupta, learned A.D.J.-3, Lucknow has been nominated as Inquiry Officer and in the said Final Departmental Inquiry, charge has been framed against the delinquent employee."

10. From the above report it is clear that the caveat was filed in Court on 29.07.2021 and it was sent to the Computer Center for registration and it was got registered on e-portal as caveat No. 83/2021 on 29.07.2021. Thereafter, the file was got transferred to the Civil Judge (S.D.)/F.T.C., Lucknow and due to mistake of Clerk concerned the caveat could not be enclosed along with the plaint and the transferee court having not received caveat, issued ex-parte ad-interim injunction on 30.07.2021. The report states that when a case is transferred from one Court to another Court, the transferee Court should check for Munsarim Report, whether caveat if filed is endorsed by Munsarim.

11. Sri Dilip Kumar Pandey submits that on 06.08.2021, due to the lawyers abstaining from judicial work, no one appeared from the side of the respondents and on the next date 09.08.2021, the case was called out in the morning but on the request on behalf of the respondents, it was fixed at 2.30 p.m.. The lawyers were abstaining from judicial work on that date also, but the strike was suddenly called off from noon at 1.00 p.m. on the resolution of the Bar Association of the District Court, and the order dated 09.08.2021 was passed in the afternoon.

12. Sri Dilip Kumar Pandey, submits that the appellants have filed application under Section 24 C.P.C./Order 39 Rule 2A C.P.C. No. 80 of 2021, in this Court, in view of the misuse of power and position by the certain office bearers/members of the Bar Association of the District Court, for transfer of the suit to nearby district, in which this Court passed the following order on 10.08.2021.

"Heard Sri Virendra Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners.

This is an application for transfer of the suit proceedings.

It is vehemently argued that the office bearers with the support of members of the bar are not allowing the court to proceed in the matter. The demands made by the members of the bar are no less than an obstruction in the process of law.

This is a sad state of affairs.

It is submitted that the objectionable behaviour of the members of the bar is influenced by the defendants in the suit proceedings who are private parties.

Issue notice.

The District Judge is directed to submit a report for the reason that the grievance raised in the present application filed under Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure is exceptional and serious.

List in the week commencing 06.09.2021."

13. Sri Dilip Kumar Pandey further submits that even if caveat was filed on 29.07.2021 but as it was not reported and as copy thereof was not served on the plaitiff/appellants, there was no fault on the part of the plaintiff/appellants in filing Suit without serving copy of the plaint etc and consequently the ex-parte order of ad-interim injunction dated 30.07.2021 could not be set aside on the ground that in spite of caveat the defendent-respondent was not heard. He submits that in terms of the proviso to Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. if a party has knowingly made a false or misleading statement in relation to a material particular and consequent thereupon the injunction was granted, without giving notice to the opposite party, then only the Court shall vacate the injunction. He further submits that even in such a case, it is not always mandatory for the Court to vacate the injunction, as, if the Court considers it is not necessary to do so, in the interest of justice, the Court shall not vacate the injunction order for the reasons to be recorded.

14. In support of his submission, Sri Dilip Kumar Pandey placed reliance upon Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. which is being reproduced as under:

"4. Order for injunction may be discharged, varied or set aside.-Any order for an injunction may be discharged, or varied, or set aside by the Court, on application made thereto by any party dissatisfied with such order:

[Provided that if in an application for temporary injunction or in any affidavit supporting such application a party has knowingly made a false or misleading statement in relation to a material particular and the injunction was granted without giving notice to the opposite party, the Court shall vacate the injunction unless, for reasons to be recorded, it considers that it is not necessary so to do in the interests of justice:

Provided further that where an order for injunction has been passed after giving to a party an opportunity of being heard, the order shall not be discharged, varied or set aside on the application of that party except where such discharge, variation or setting aside has been necessitated by a change in the circumstances, or unless Court is satisfied that the order has caused undue hardship to that party.]

(i) after the words "by the Court", insert the words "for reasons to be recorded, either or its own motion, or";

(ii) at the end, insert the following proviso, namely:-

"Provided that if at any stage of the suit it appears to the Court that the party in whose favour the order of injunction exists is delaying the proceedings or is otherwise abusing the process of Courts, it shall set aside the order of injunction."

15 . Sri Asit Srivastava relying on Section 148A C.P.C. submits that it provides for filing of caveat and in view of sub-section (3) thereof, where, after a caveat has been lodged if any application is filed in any suit or proceeding, the court shall serve a notice of the application on the caveator. He submits that it is the duty of the Court to serve notice of the application on the caveator and if in spite of filing of the caveat, the same was not endorsed and consequently notice of the plaint etc. was not served to the defendant-respondents, it was the mistake on the part of the Court for which the defendant-respondents cannot be made to suffer. He has placed reliance on the judgments of this Court in the case of Raj Bahadur and another: Civil Judge (J.D.) Musafirkhana Sultanpur and three others in Writ Petition No. 6380 (MS) of 2014 decided on 20.11.2014 and Maharaja Dharmendra Prasad Singh and another Vs. Vivek Agarwal and others in Civil Misc. Application No. 31058 of 2009 in First Appeal From Order No. 303 of 2009, decided on 06.04.2009 (DB).

16. I have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsels for the parties and perused the material on record.

17. So far as the submissions of learned counsel for the appellants, as noted in paragraphs 11 and 12 are concerned, this Court in Application under Section 24 and/or 39 Rule 2 A C.P.C. No. 80 of 2021 is already seized of the matter in which a report has also been called from the District Judge, Lucknow, and as such this Court is not entering into that controversy. But, is expressing its concern for administration of justice in view of the facts that though the caveat was registered on 29.07.2021 it was not reported by the Munsarim of the Court concerned when the suit was filed on 30.07.2021. Again, the suit itself was filed in the Court having no pecuniary jurisdiction. The valuation of the suit as valued by the plaintiff-appellant was Rs. 20,00,000/- (Twenty Lacs). It should have been filed in the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Lucknow, but, the suit was filed in the Court of Civil Judge (Junior Division), (South), Lucknow, from where it was transferred, on the same date i.e. 30.07.2021, and even in the transferee Court the Munsarim of the Court concerned did not notice about the caveat. The exparte ad interim injunction was passed on 30.07.2021. The report of the learned District Judge, Lucknow, dated 15.09.2021 reproduced above, notes that when the case is transferred from one Court to another Court, the transferee Court should check for Munsarim report where caveat if filed is endorsed by the Munsarim.

18. Without observing anything further, the Court confines itself to the legal issue involved in view of the submissions advanced, with respect to the legality or otherwise of the order dated 09.08.2021 under challenge.

19. It is clear that the caveat was filed on 29.07.2021. The Suit was filed thereafter on 30.07.2021. The notice of the Suit/plaint etc. was not served on the defendant-respondents and the ad-interim injunction was granted ex-parte, without providing any opportunity of hearing to the defendant-respondents.

20. Section 148A of the C.P.C. deals with right of a person to lodge a caveat. It provides as under:

"148A. Right to lodge a caveat.- (1) Where an application is expected to be made, or has been made, in a suit or proceeding instituted, or about to be instituted, in a Court, any person claiming a right to appear before the Court on the hearing of such application may lodge a caveat in respect thereof.

(2) Where a caveat has been lodged under sub-section (1), the person by whom the caveat has been lodged (hereinafter referred to as the caveator) shall serve a notice of the caveat by registered post, acknowledgment due, on the person by whom the application has been, or is expected to be, made under sub-section (1).

(3) Where, after a caveat has been lodged under sub-section (1), any application is filed in any suit or proceeding, the Court, shall serve a notice of the application on the caveator.

(4) Where a notice of any caveat has been served on the applicant, he shall forthwith furnish the caveator at the caveator's expense, with a copy of the application made by him and also with copies of any paper or document which has been, or may be, filed by him in support of the application.

(5) Where a caveat has been lodged under sub-section (1), such caveat shall not remain in force after the expiry of ninety days from the date on which it was lodged unless the application referred to in sub-section (1) has been made before the expiry of the said period.]"

21. A bare reading of Section 148A C.P.C. shows that any person claiming a right to appear before the Court on the hearing of an application, expected to be made or has been made in a Suit or other proceeding instituted or about to be instituted in a Court may lodge a Caveat for such appearance and hearing of the application before the Court. Sub-Section (3) of Section 148A provides that if any application is filed in any Suit or proceeding, after the caveat has been lodged, the Court shall serve a notice of the application on the caveator.

22. Section 148A, C.P.C. thus provides for an opportunity of hearing to any person claiming such right to defend himself before passing of any order, from which he might be affected, and to ensure it, where the person files caveat, the Court has to serve a notice of the application on the caveator, which is a duty cast upon the Court.

23. Section 148-A (4) also cast duty on the applicant, who has been served with a notice of caveat, to forthwith furnish copy of the application with complete documents filed in support of the application to the caveator.

24. The duty cast under sub-Section (3) is on the Court where caveat has been lodged and the duty cast under Sub-section (4) is on the applicant, filing application in a Court, who has been served with a notice of caveat. Sub-Section (2) provides for service of notice of caveat on the applicant by the caveator.

25. In S.S.Barathokey Vs. Chairman U.P.Seed and Tarai Development Corporation Limited and another 1993(11) LCD 486, where, a caveat was filed but notice of the writ petition was not served upon the caveator's counsel before filing the writ petition and an ex-parte interim order was passed, upon the application for recall of that order on the very ground of no service of notice of the writ petition in spite of caveat, this Court, after considering the provisions of Chapter XXII Rule 1 (4) of the Allahabad High Court Rules, Section 148A of C.P.C. and various authorities on the point, held that the ex-parte interim order without hearing the caveator's counsel deserved to be recalled and the opposite parties were entitled to be given a right of hearing on the application for interim relief.

26. It is appropriate to reproduce paragraphs 7 and 10 to 15 of S.S.Barathokey (supra) as under:

"7. A perusal of the above Rule 5 will go to show that where an application is expected to be filed, the person claiming the right to oppose such an application, may file a caveat in the Court. Sub-rule (2) provides that the service of the notice of the caveat shall be made upon the other side by registered post acknowledgment due. Sub-rule (3) provides that after the caveat has been filed and the notice thereof has been served on the applicant's counsel, the applicant shall forthwith furnish to the caveator or his counsel copy of the application as well as any miscellaneous application for interim relief. The date of motion is also necessary to be indicated to the caveator's counsel.

10. A reference has also been made to Section 148-A of the Code of Civil Procedure. In the case of Chandrajit v. Ganeshiya (AIR 1987 All 360) a Division Bench of this Court has held that the provisions of Section 148-A can be applied to appeals, first, second, execution or any other appeal filed under the Code of Civil Procedure or any other enactment. The caveats would be entitled to be entertained at the time an appeal is submitted for reporting. The Stamp Reporter will make a note, if the caveat has already been filed before him, about the same. In para 8 of this case the intention as to why caveat is filed has been made clear as under:-

"8. A caveat is only an intimation to a Judge or officer notifying that the opposite party be given an opportunity to be heard before any action is taken on the application or proceeding initiated by the other side. It is a request which, if attended to, will help the court in doing justice in between parties."

11. In the case of G. C. Siddalingappa v. G C. Veeranna (AIR 1981 Karnataka 242) after considering the provisions of Section 148-A of the Code of Civil Procedure that Court came to the conclusion that the provision regarding service of notice as contained in sub-section (3) is mandatory and non-compliance with it defeats the very object of introducing Section 148-A. Consequently it follows that the breach of sub-section (3) vitiates the order passed thereof. Once is caveat a filed, it is a condition precedent for passing an interim order to serve a notice of the application on the caveator who is going to be affected by the interim order. Once a caveat is filed it becomes the duty of the Stamp Reporter to report that such and such counsel for the opposite parties or one of the opposite parties has filed a caveat and it becomes the duty of the Court to hear that counsel before an interim order is passed in the case.

12. This question was also raised for consideration in the case of Pashupati Nath Arora v. The Registrar, Cooperative Societies Jaipur and other (AIR 1983 Rajasthan 191*). In that case the provisions of Section 148-A of the Code of Civil Procedure and the Rajasthan High Court Rules, (Rule 159), were interpreted. In that case the High Court held that in order to make the caveat effective, the analogy of provisions 148-A,CPC can be applied to the caveats which are filed before the Court.*

13. A single Judge of this Court in the case of Nainital Bank Limited V. Munsif, Nainital and others (1992(1) LDR 70) has held that an interim order which has been passed in absence of a party who has put in appearance, is to be recalled. In that case also the power had been filed in the Court by the counsel for the opposite parties. The filing of caveat in the court is equivalent to filing of power on behalf of opposite parties and once it is known that a caveat has been filed the office should report this fact.

14. The Hon ble Supreme Court in Jang Singh v. Brij Lal (AIR 1966 SC 1631), has observed in para 6 as under :-

"It is, therefore, quite clear that if there was an error the Court and its officers largely contributed to it. It is no doubt true that a litigant must be vigilant and take care but where a litigant goes to Court and asks for the assistance of the Court so that his obligations under a decree might be ful-filled by him strictly, it is incumbent on the Court, if it does not leave the litigant to his own devices, to ensúre that the correct information is furnished. If the Court in supplying the information makes a mistake the responsibility of the litigant, though it does not altogether cease, is at least shared by the Court. If the litigant acts on the faith of that information the Courts cannot hold him responsible for a mistake which it itself caused. There is no higher principle for the guidance of the Court than the one that no act of Courts should harm a litigant and it is the bounden duty of Courts to see that if a person is harmed by a mistake of the Court he should be restored to the position he would have occupied but for that mistake. This is aptly summed up in the maxim: "Actus curiae neminem gravabit."

15. Thus from the perusal of these cases and the Rules of the Courts and Section 148-A of the Code of Civil Procedure it becomes quite apparent that in the present case when a caveat had already been filed it was the duty of the Stamp Reporter to make an endorsement to this effect on the writ petition. In the present case it was not the fault of the opposite parties. At the same time it was also the duty of the learned counsel for the petitioner to have served the notice of the writ petition before filing it in the Court because Sri D. P. Singh, Advocate was the Standing Counsel of the U. P. Seeds and Tarai Development Corporation, the opposite party in the present case. As the petitioner did not serve copy of the writ petition on the counsel for the opposite parties the exparte interim order passed in the present case is liable to be recalled and the matter to be heard again. In this case the exparte interim order has been passed by the Court on the fault of the learned counsel for the petitioner for not serving Sri D. P. Singh, learned counsel for the opposite parties who was also their Standing Counsel. The office of the Stamp Reporter is also to be blamed equally for not reporting about the filing of the caveat in the above case. It is a serious matter which requires consideration. The Stamp Reporter should be vigilant while making reports and see whether a caveat has been filed by the other party while reporting on the writ petitions. Dereliction of duty on the part of the Stamp Reporter and his office has resulted in harassment of the parties and wastage of precious time of the Court."

27. In S.S.Barathokey (supra) this Court placed reliance on the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the Case of Jang Singh Vs. Brij Lal, AIR 1966 SC 1631, in which it was held that "there is no higher principle for the guidance of the Court than the one that no act of Courts should harm a litigant and it is the bounden duty of Courts to see that if a person is harmed by a mistake of the Court he should be restored to the position he would have occupied but for that mistake. This is aptly summed up in the maxim: "Actus curiae neminem gravabit.".

28. In the case of Maharaja Dharmendra Prasad Singh (supra), the Division Bench of this Court, held that once a caveat is filed, it shall always be incumbent upon the Stamp Reporter to verify the facts with regard to filing of the caveat, go throughout the record not only on the basis of names of the parties but also on the basis of case number of regular suit, the date of order passed by the subordinate Courts/Tribunals and quasi judicial authorities, or other identifying numbers, if any. It also referred that no one should suffer for the fault of the Court as any act of the Court of law shall prejudice no man in the basic concept of administration of justice.

29. In Maharaja Dharmendra Prasad Singh (supra), where also there was negligence on the part of the Stamp Reporter, who failed to make an endorsement with regard to filing of the caveat, such slackness or negligence on the part of the Stamp Reporter or Registry of the Court was considered as amounting to negligence on the part of the Court.

30. In the Case of Raj Bahadur (supra), this Court held that "the provisions for giving a notice or for providing a copy of the application and document to the caveator are in conformity with the principles of natural justice. Any violation thereof renders any judicial process adopted by any authority, specially by a judicial authority, nugatory. The relevant part of Raj Bahadur (supra) reads as under:

"The provisions for lodging a caveat are found in Section 148-A of the C.P.C. Sub-Section (3) of Section 148-A specifically provides that where, after a caveat has been lodged under sub-section (1), if any application is filed in any suit or proceeding, the court shall serve a notice of the application on the caveator. Sub-section (4) casts a duty on the applicant to forthwith furnish a copy of the application to the caveator and also copies of any paper or document which has been, or may be, filed by the applicant in support of the application. Sub-sections (3) and (4) of Scction 148-A of the C.P.C. are quoted below:

"(3) Where, after a caveat has been lodged under sub- section (1), any application is filed in any suit or proceeding, the Court shall serve a notice of the application on the caveator.

(4) Where a notice of any caveat has been served on the applicant on the applicant, he shall forthwith furnish the caveator, at the caveator's expense, with a copy of the application made by him and also with copies of any paper or document which has been, or may be, filed by him in support of the application."

Sub-section (3) of Section 148-A, CPC thus makes it mandatory for the Court to serve a notice on the caveator.

Right to lodge caveat under Section 148-A of the C.P.C. has been conferred on a person who apprehends or expects any impending legal action against him. The provisions for giving a notice or for providing a copy of the application and document to the caveator are in conformity with the principle of natural justice. Any violation thereof renders any judicial process adopted by any authority, specially by a judicial authority, nugatory".

31. In view of the above, the order dated 30.7.2021 has rightly been set aside by the learned court below vide order dated 09.08.2021.

32. The submission of Sri Dilip Kumar Pandey that there was no fault on the part of the plaintiff-appellant as neither caveat was reported nor copy thereof was served on the appellants and as such "they had not knowingly made a false and misleading statement in relation to a particular matter' and therefore, the condition under Order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. for vacating the injunction order dated 30.07.2021 was not fulfilled, cannot be accepted in view of the law laid down in Maharaja Dharmendra Prasad Singh (supra), where due to fault on the part of the Stamp Reporter the caveat was not reported. Here also, the Munsarim did not report caveat which had already been registered on 29.07.2021.

33. It is the right of the caveator of being heard if a caveat is filed and it is the duty of the Court to afford him opportunity of hearing and not passing any order without affording opportunity of hearing to the caveator which needs be protected it being a right recognized by the statute, even if there is no fault on the part of the applicant. If due to some negligence, mistake or otherwise of the registry/Munsarim, caveat is not reported and without affording opportunity of hearing order is passed, the order shall be liable to be recalled and the caveator would be entitled to be restored to the position of hearing of the application afresh, on the principle that an act of Court of law, in administration of justice should prejudice no man.

34. While considering an application for vacation of the order of temporary injunction under order 39 Rule 4 C.P.C. or any other provision, the Courts can not ignore the mandate of Section 148-A (3) C.P.C.

35. Before, concluding, this court deems it appropriate as also a duty in the interest of proper administration of justice to issue following directions as well:

1) In every Civil Court, Munsarim is the Chief Ministerial Officer. He is appointed to receive plaints or other papers under the Code and to see that the actual date of presentation is entered upon the plaint, memorandum of appeal, cross-objection or any other paper filed and also upon the labels on such papers.

2) It shall be incumbent as also the duty upon the Munsarim of the Court concerned to verify the facts on the basis of case number of regular suit, date of the order passed by the subordinate court, the name of the parties or other identifying numbers, if any with regard to the filing of a caveat;

3) When an application/plaint or/and is filed in Civil Court the Munsarim of that court shall mandatorily make an endorsement on such plaint/application, if any caveat has been filed or not.

4) If caveat has been filed the same shall be reported without any failure;

5) If a plaint/application is filed in one Court but is transferred to another Court, for any reason either at the time of institution or thereafter, the Munsarim of the transferee Court shall also ensure if there is reporting of the caveat or not and in the absence of any such reporting the Munsarim of the transferee Court, shall submit his report to the transferee Court about the caveat and if required, report to that affect shall also be asked from the Munsarim of the Court from where the case has been received on transfer, which report shall be submitted by the Munsarim of the Court from where the file has been received from transfer without any delay so that in cases of urgency, the disposal of the application may not be unnecessarily delayed.

6) Any slackness, negligence or mistake on the part of the Munsarim of the Court concerned for any reason whatsoever would amount to interference in the administration of justice, rendering him liable for appropriate action being taken in addition to the disciplinary proceedings.

7) The above directions are in addition to any other provision or directions etc, if exist, on the above subject.

8) learned District Judges of the District Courts in the State of Uttar Pradesh shall ensure that the caveat lodged is reported and is not missed by any slackness or negligence or mistake or otherwise on the part of the Munsarim and to ensure it necessary order shall be issued as per the above directions.

36. In view of the aforesaid the appeal lacks merit and deserves to dismissed at the admission stage.

37. The appeal is dismissed.

38. The report of the learned District Judge, Lucknow dated 15.09.2021 shall again be kept in the sealed cover in the records of this appeal.

39. The Registrar General of this Court shall send/circulate copy of this judgment to all the District Judges of the State of Uttar Pradesh, for necessary action at their end.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
&

1. Heard Shri Ankur Mehrotra, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Amit Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-insurance company.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment dated 03.01.2020 passed by Presiding Officer Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Ghaziabad (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in Claim Petition No.464 of 2010 awarding a sum of Rs.27,19,838/- with interest at the rate of 7% as compensation.

3. The accident is not in dispute. The respondents concerned have not challenged the liability imposed on them. The issues to be decided are the quantum of compensation awarded and whether deceased was also negligent in causing the accident. The deceased along with the claimants were going for worshipping at the temple of Kaila Devi on the fateful day i.e. 7.7.2010 when the deceased who was driving the Maruti Wagon R No UP 14 R 5355 was driving the vehicle on its correct side at about 11 hours when the vehicle reached Village Bada Gaon, Vehicle No.RJ 34 G 0950 being driven on wrong-side rashly and negligently dashed with the Maruti Car. The driver due to accidental injuries was in critical condition and no local hospital admitted him, he was shifted to Appolo Hospital Delhi where he succumbed to the injuries. The claimants contended that the accident occurred due to the negligence of driver of the other vehicle. The FIR was lodged against the driver of the offending vehicle. The deceased was an Engineer by profession in LG Electronic India Private Limited and was having a salary of Rs.31,184/- per month. The deceased was a bachelor and was 26 years of age. The deceased left behind him his father, mother and sister. The driver and the owner of the other vehicle involved in the accident did not appear before the tribunal nor they have appeared before this Court.

4. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that the Tribunal has not granted any amount towards future loss of income which is required to be granted in view of the decision in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and in view of U.P. Motor Vehicles Rules, 1998 (hereinafter referred to as the U.P. Rules, 1998). It is further submitted that amount under non-pecuniary heads which is granted and the interest awarded by the Tribunal are on the lower side and requires enhancement. It is submitted that the issue of negligence also requires to be redetermined. The tribunal considered the deceased to be contributor of accident have taken place despite the fact that the driver who is the author of the accident against whom the charge sheet had been laid did not appear nor stopped into witness box. It is further submitted that as the deceased was survived by his parents and sister, the deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased should be 1/3rd as per U.P. Rules, 1998 and not half and other pecuniary benefits should not have been reduced from income of deceased. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the appellants has relied on the judgment of the Supreme Court titled Vimal Kanwar and others v. Kishore Dan and others, AIR 2013 SC 3830. It is submitted that the Supreme Court's decision was cited before the tribunal but tribunal has deducted bonus, maintenance allowance, PF and gratuity from commuptable income holding that they are not part of the salary and, therefore, the tribunal held that the same cannot be considered to be part of the income. The tribunal added 40% to the salary, which should be 50%. It is submitted by learned counsel for appellant that most unfortunately, the tribunal has considered the judgment of Sandeep

Khanduja v. Atul Dande and Ors., (2017) 3 SCC (Crl) 178. The claim petition was not filed under Section 163-A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (referred as the Act) Act but was filed under Section 166 of the Act and hence, it appears that the learned tribunal has granted multiplier of 18. The tribunal deducted 30% holding the deceased to be also negligent.

5. Learned counsel for the respondent submitted that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal is just and proper and does not call for any enhancement rather the multiplier awarded by the Tribunal is on higher side and it is required to be reduced.

6. It is submitted by learned counsel for appellants that the learned Tribunal should have gone by the judgment in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and the decision circulated in FAFO No.199 of 2017, National Insurance Company Limited v. Luv Kush and another. It is submitted that the tribunal has relied on the Rules whereas the judgment of the Apex Court in Sandeep Khanduza is for petitions under Section 163-A of the Act. The Tribunal has granted multiplier of 18 and therefore the same may be not disturbed. The non pecuniary compensation could not have been granted as per the schedule to the Act which has been found to be faulty by the Apex Court. It has to be as per the judgments of Supreme Court decision in Pranay Sethi (Supra) where it is held that parents are entitled to filial consortium, funeral charges and for love and affection. The judgment in Pranay Sethi (Supra) though has been considered by the learned tribunal has misguided itself by relying on Rule 4 of the U.P. State Motor Vehicle Rules, 2011 which could not be done as the tribunal is under an obligation that it should have considered grant of filial consortium and other pecuniary benefits, no doubt the rule if they provide for a better compensation and provide for beneficial and liberal interpretation they can be relied on but if the benefit is less compared to the judicial pronouncement, they will not prevail and, therefore, also the judgment of the tribunal requires modification.

7. Heard the learned counsels for the parties.

8. The issue of negligence has to be decided from the perspective of the law laid down by the Courts.

9. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which can also be accidental. More particularly, term negligence connotes reckless driving and the injured of claimants must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

10. The principle of contributory negligence has been discussed time and again. A person who either contributes or is author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place.

11. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under :

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330*. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.*

20. These provisions (sec.110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

*21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

emphasis added

12. The latest decision of the Apex Court in Khenyei (Supra) has laid down one further aspect about considering the negligence more particularly composite/contributory negligence. The deceased or the person concerned should be shown to have contributed either to the accident and the impact of accident upon the victim could have been minimised if he had taken care. In this case the deceased was driver of vehicle. The learned tribunal has lost the sight of one aspect that the truck came on the wrong side which is clear from the deposition of eye witness. The tribunal has considered the sight plan which is not contradictory to the version given by the eye-witness. The tribunal believed the eye witness, the FIR and charge sheet is filed against the driver of the other vehicle. The driver of the other vehicle did not sustain any injury. The statement recorded on 17.7.2010 of one of the claimants is also very clear who has categorically mentioned that accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the other vehicle driver.

13. We hold that the driver of the other vehicle came on the wrong side. The site plan shows and has stated that the son was driving his vehicle at normal speed but they also told to drive the vehicle at a moderate speed. We hold the driver namely deceased to be 20% was travelling negligence we modify the findings to the said effect.

Compensation:-

14. Having heard the counsels for the parties and considered the factual data, the accident occurred on 07.07.2010 causing death of Abhishek Gupta who was 26 years of age and left behind him, parents and unmarried sister. The Tribunal has assessed the income of the deceased to be Rs.25,462/- per month. The deceased was Senior Engineer in LG Electronics. PW-1 who is the father of deceased stated that the deceased was working as Senior Engineer in LG Electronics India Private Ltd,

Greater NOIDA at a very young age. PW-2, Panchgopal who is the Assistant Manager Department HR of LG Electronics Private Ltd. stated that deceased was employed on the post of Senior Engineer-11 from 19.9.2007 to 7.7.2010. On 7.7.2010 that is on the faithful day when the accident occurred, the deceased succumbed to the injuries. The deceased was in the pay band of Rs.37,4212/- and he was also entitled for bonus. His income tax was also deducted. At the time of his initial appointment, his basic salary was Rs.10,100/- per month and bonus was depending on performance of his work, HRA was Rs.5,050/- per month. Medical Allowance was Rs.1250/- per month, Maintenance Allowance was Rs.3200/- per month, LTA was Rs.10,000/- per month, PF was Rs.1212/- per month and gratuity deduction was Rs.412/- per month, when the deceased passed away his basic salary was Rs.15,558/- per month. The income according to counsel for appellant has not properly been calculated. The submission that the deceased was Senior Engineer in LG Electronics is not in dispute even if we consider the income of the deceased in the year 2010 and even if we go by the judgments of the Apex Court wherein it has been held that income as on date of accident would be applicable. It is submitted that income be considered to be Rs.30,000/- per month. The tribunal has considered the income to be Rs.25,000/- and has misdirected itself and has misinterpreted the judgment titled Raghuvir Singh Matolya & Ors. v. Hari Singh Malviya & Ors., Law 2009 (2) ACCD 1120 SC.

15. The recent judgement of Vimal Kanwar (Supra) wherein para 19 & 20 of the said judgment the Apex Court has held as follows:-

"19. The first issue is "whether Provident Fund, Pension and Insurance receivable by claimants come within the periphery of the Motor Vehicles Act to be termed as "Pecuniary Advantage" liable for deduction." The aforesaid issue fell for consideration before this Court in Helen C. Rebello (Mrs) and others vs. Maharashtra State Road Transport Corporation & Anr. reported in (1999) 1 SCC 90. In the said case, this Court held that Provident Fund, Pension, Insurance and similarly any cash, bank balance, shares, fixed deposits, etc. are all a "pecuniary advantage" receivable by the heirs on account of one's death but all these have no correlation with the amount receivable under a statute occasioned only on account of accidental death. Such an amount will not come within the periphery of the Motor Vehicles Act to be termed as "pecuniary advantage" liable for deduction. The following was the observation and finding of this Court:

"35. Broadly, we may examine the receipt of the provident fund which is a deferred payment out of the contribution made by an employee during the tenure of his service. Such employee or his heirs are entitled to receive this amount irrespective of the accidental death. This amount is secured, is certain to be received, while the amount under the Motor Vehicles Act is uncertain and is receivable only on the happening of the event, viz., accident, which may not take place at all. Similarly, family pension is also earned by an employee for the benefit of his family in the form of his contribution in the service in terms of the service conditions receivable by the heirs after his death. The heirs receive family pension even otherwise than the accidental death. No correlation between the two. Similarly, life insurance policy is received either by the insured or the heirs of the insured on account of the contract with the insurer, for which the insured contributes in the form of premium. It is receivable even by the insured if he lives till maturity after paying all the premiums. In the case of death, the insurer indemnifies to pay the sum to the heirs, again in terms of the contract for the premium paid. Again, this amount is receivable by the claimant not on account of any accidental death but otherwise on the insured's death. Death is only a step or contingency in terms of the contract, to receive the amount. Similarly any cash, bank balance, shares, fixed deposits, etc. though are all a pecuniary advantage receivable by the heirs on account of one's death but all these have no correlation with the amount receivable under a statute occasioned only on account of accidental death. How could such an amount come within the periphery of the Motor Vehicles Act to be termed as "pecuniary advantage" liable for deduction. When we seek the principle of loss and gain, it has to be on a similar and same plane having nexus, inter se, between them and not to which there is no semblance of any correlation. The insured (deceased) contributes his own money for which he receives the amount which has no correlation to the compensation computed as against the tortfeasor for his negligence on account of the accident. As aforesaid, the amount receivable as compensation under the Act is on account of the injury or death without making any contribution towards it, then how can the fruits of an amount received through contributions of the insured be deducted out of the amount receivable under the Motor Vehicles Act. The amount under this Act he receives without any contribution. As we have said, the compensation payable under the Motor Vehicles Act is statutory while the amount receivable under the life insurance policy is contractual."

20. The second issue is "whether the salary receivable by the claimant on compassionate appointment comes within the periphery of the Motor Vehicles Act to be termed as "Pecuniary Advantage" liable for deduction." "Compassionate appointment" can be one of the conditions of service of an employee, if a scheme to that effect is framed by the employer. In case, the employee dies in harness i.e. while in service leaving behind the dependents, one of the dependents may request for compassionate appointment to maintain the family of the deceased employee dies in harness. This cannot be stated to be an advantage receivable by the heirs on account of one's death and have no correlation with the amount receivable under a statute occasioned on account of accidental death. Compassionate appointment may have nexus with the death of an employee while in service but it is not necessary that it should have a correlation with the accidental death. An employee dies in harness even in normal course, due to illness and to maintain the family of the deceased one of the dependents may be entitled for compassionate appointment but that cannot be termed as "Pecuniary Advantage" that comes under the periphery of Motor Vehicles Act and any amount received on such appointment is not liable for deduction for determination of compensation under the Motor Vehicles Act."

16. The judgement of Vimal Kanwar (Supra) will permit us to upturn the said finding. The amount to be added would be 50% as he was below the age of 40 years and though may not be in government job. The deceased was bachelor as direction of the Apex Court 50% has been deducted. To which as the deceased was in the age bracket of 26-30 years, 50% of the income will have to be added as future loss of prospects in view of the decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and U.P. Rules, 1998. As far as deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased is concerned, it should be 1/2 as the deceased was a bachelor. The Tribunal considered the multiplier of 18 which is bad as per the decision in Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121 will have to be followed. The judgment of Sandeep Khanduja (supra) can't be made applicable, hence multiplier of 17 would be admissible. The amount for non pecuniary damages would be Rs.15,000/- for loss of funeral expenses, Rs.40,000/- for loss of filalial consortium with 10% increase every three years. The rounded figure would be Rs.50,000/- for the mother and father both as per Section 140 of the Motor Vehicles Act.

17. The total compensation payable to the appellants in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra) read with and U.P. Rules, 1998 is computed herein below:

i. Income Rs.30,000/- p.m.

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 50% namely Rs.15,000/-

iii. Total income : Rs. 30,000 + Rs.15,000 = Rs.45,000-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/2 : Rs.22,500/-

v. Annual income : Rs.22,500 x 12 = Rs.2,70,000/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 17 (as the deceased was in the age bracket of 26-30 years)

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.2,70,000 x 17 = Rs.45,90,000/-

viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs.50,000/-

ix. Total compensation : Rs.46,60,000/-

18. The amount will stand reduced by 20% as we have considered the negligence of the driver of car. Fresh award widhdrawn by the tribunal in the Claim Petition No. 464 of 2010.

19. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

20. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount along with additional amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

21. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or restic villagers.

22. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansaguti P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

23. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount along with additional amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

24. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and not blindly apply the judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

25. This Court is thankful to both the counsels to see that the matter is disposed of.

2. New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Vs Smt. Somwati & ors. (2020) 9 SCC 644,

3. United India Insurance Co. Ltd.Vs Satinder Kaur @ Satvinder Kaur & ors. (2020) SCC online 410

1. Heard Sri Zafar Aziz, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Ravindra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for claimant-respondent Nos. 1 to 8.

2. As per service report dated 07.05.2019, service upon respondent No. 9 is sufficient, but nobody appears on her behalf.

3. This appeal has been filed by the New India Assurance Company Limited under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (in short "the Act, 1988") challenging the judgment and award dated 31.07.2018 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No. 05, Barabanki (in short "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No. 29/2013 in Re Smt. Renu and others Vs. Smt. Meena Dixit.

4. The claimant-respondent Nos. 1 to 8 filed claim petition, claiming compensation against the owner of the offending vehicle/opposite party No. 9 and the Insurance Company-the appellant, on account of death of Ayodhya Prasad Yadav, their predecessor, in the accident dated 05.10.2012 caused on account of rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle Maruti Car No. U.P.32-CQ-0456.

5. After contest, the Tribunal vide judgment and award dated 31.07.2018 allowed the claim petition and awarded compensation amount of Rs. 42, 05,038/- in total, with interest @ 7 % thereon from the date of filing of the claim petition up to the date of payment.

6. The Tribunal recorded finding that the accident was caused due to rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle, being driven by its driver. The offending vehicle, at the time of accident had valid and effective documents and was insured with the appellant herein. The driver at the time of accident, was having valid and effective driving licence. Accordingly, the compensation, as mentioned above, was awarded in favour of the claimants.

7. The appeal was filed challenging the award on different grounds, but at the time of arguments Sri Zafar Aziz, learned counsel for the appellant confines the challenge to the quantum of compensation awarded and that too without challenging the findings of the Tribunal on the age and income of the deceased. The multiplier as applied by the Tribunal has also not been challenged.

8. The only submission of Sri Zafar Aziz is that the Tribunal erred in making one- fifth (1/5th) deduction towards the personal and living expenses of the deceased, which should have been one-fourth (1/4th); and the amount of Rs. 15,000/- under the head of "loss of love and affection" could not have been awarded at all, as in view of the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 (4) TAC 673 (SC); (2017) 16 SCC 680, any such head, for grant of compensation is not mentioned. The compensation could be awarded under the conventional heads of "loss of consortium", "loss of estate" and "funeral expenses" and the amount under those heads could only be awarded.

9. Sri Ravindra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the claimant-respondents submits that the deduction of one- fifth (1/5th) towards personal and living expenses of the deceased is perfectly justified, which is as per the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra), as there are 8 dependant family members of the deceased.

10. Sri Ravindra Pratap Singh further submits that the amount of Rs. 15,000/- has been rightly awarded, under the head of "loss of love and affection", as the amount of compensation under the head of "loss of consortium" has not been awarded to all the claimants but to only one claimant as the amount under the head of "loss of consortium" is only 40,000/-. The amount of Rs. 15,000/- awarded under the head of "loss of love and affection" is in fact also for "loss of consortium" to the claimants. He submits that all the claimants would be entitled for compensation for loss of consortium @ 40,000/- per head and considering this aspect, the award of Rs. 15,000/- though mentioned under the head of "loss of love and affection" need not be interfered.

11. I have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsels for the parties and perused the record.

12. The points which arise for consideration are:

i) Whether the deduction of 1/5th made by the Tribunal towards the personal and living expenses of the deceased is legal or it should be one - fourth (1 / 4th) ?

ii) Whether grant of compensation of Rs. 15,000/- under the head of "loss of love and affection" calls for any interference ?

13. So far as the first point is concerned, the Tribunal has made deduction of one - fifth (1 / 5th) in view of the number of dependant family members of the deceased, being eight.

14. In the case of Pranay Sethi (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under, in paragraph 37 of SCC report:

"37. Before we proceed to analyse the principle for addition of future prospects , we think it seemly to clear the maze which is vividly reflectible from Sarla Verma , Reshma Kumari , Rajesh and Munna Lal Jain . Three aspects need to be clarified . The first one pertains to deduction towards personal and living expenses . In paragraphs 30 , 31 and 32 , Sarla Verma lays down :

"30. Though in some cases the deduction to be made towards personal and living expenses is calculated on the basis of units indicated in Trilok Chandra, the general practice is to apply standardised deductions . Having considered several subsequent decisions of this (2003) 3 SLR (R) 601 Court, we are of the view that where the deceased was married , the deduction towards personal and living expenses of the deceased , should be one - third (1 / 3rd) where the number of dependent family members is 2 to 3 , one - fourth (1/ 4th) where the number of dependent family members is 4 to 6, and one- fifth (1/5th) where the number of dependent family members exceeds six .

31. Where the deceased was a bachelor and the claimants are the parents, the deduction follows a different principle. In regard to bachelors, normally, 50% is deducted as personal and living expenses, because it is assumed that a bachelor would tend to spend more on himself. Even otherwise, there is also the possibility of his getting married in a short time, in which event the contribution to the parent(s) and siblings is likely to be cut drastically. Further, subject to evidence to the contrary, the father is likely to have his own income and will not be considered as a dependant and the mother alone will be considered as a dependant. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, brothers and sisters will not be considered as dependants, because they will either be independent and earning, or married, or be dependent on the father.

32. Thus even if the deceased is survived by parents and siblings, only the mother would be considered to be a dependant, and 50% would be treated as the personal and living expenses of the bachelor and 50% as the contribution to the family. However, where the family of the bachelor is large and dependent on the income of the deceased, as in a case where he has a widowed mother and large number of younger non-earning sisters or brothers, his personal and living expenses may be restricted to one-third and contribution to the family will be taken as two-third.".

15. It has thus been clearly laid down in Pranay Sethi (supra) that the deduction towards personal and living expenses of the deceased should be one-fifth (1/5th) where the number of dependent family members exceeds six.

16. The number of the dependents being 8, has not been disputed by the learned counsel for the appellant.

17. In view of the aforesaid, I do not find any illegality in the judgment of the Tribunal in making deduction of one - fifth (1 / 5th), towards personal and living expenses of the deceased, which is as per the settled law.

18. Point No. 1 is answered accordingly in terms of paragraph 17.

19. Now I proceed to consider Point No. 2 i.e. whether grant of compensation of Rs. 15,000/- under the head of "loss of love and affection" calls for any interference.

20. The above aspect on the point "loss of consortium" has been considered by Hon'ble Supreme Court, inter alia, in the following cases.

21. In Pranay Sethi (supra), in paragraph 52, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"52. As far as the conventional heads are concerned, we find it difficult to agree with the view expressed in Rajesh Vs. Rajbir Singh (2013) 9 SCC 54. It has granted Rs 25.000 towards. funeral expenses, Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of consortium and Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of care and guidance for minor children. The head relating to loss of care and minor children does not exist. Though Rajesh (supra) refers to Santosh Devi Vs National Insurance Co. Ltd (2012) 6 SCC 421, it does not seem to follow the same. The conventional and traditional heads, needless to say, cannot be determined on percentage basis because that would not be an acceptable criterion. Unlike determination of income, the said heads have to be quantified. Any quantification must have a reasonable foundation. There can be no dispute over the fact that price index, fall in bank interest, escalation of rates in many a field have to be noticed. The court cannot remain oblivious to the same. There has been a thumb rule in this aspect. Otherwise, there will be extreme difficulty in determination of the same and unless the thumb rule is applied, there will be immense variation lacking any kind of consistency as a consequence of which, the orders passed by the tribunals and courts are likely to be unguided. Therefore, we think it seemly to fix reasonable sums. It seems to us that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs 15,000, Rs 40,000 and Rs 15,000 respectively. The principle of revisiting the said heads is an acceptable principle. But the revisit should not be fact-centric or quantum-centric. We think that it would be condign that the amount that we have quantified should be enhanced on percentage basis in every three years and the enhancement should be at the rate of 10% in a span of three years. We are disposed to hold so because that will bring in consistency in respect of those heads.

22. Paragraph Nos. 59 and 59.8 of Pranay Sethi (supra) are also being reproduced as under :

" 59. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we proceed to record our conclusions:

"59.8 Reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs. 15,000, Rs. 40,000 and Rs. 15,000 respectively. The aforesaid amounts should be enhanced at the rate of 10 % in every three years."

23. In the case of New India Assurance Company Limited Versus Smt. Somwati and others (2020) 9 SCC 644, the Hon'ble Supreme Court after considering Pranay Sethi (supra) and United India Insurance Company Limited Vs. Satinder Kaur alias Satvinder Kaur and others (2020) SCC online 410, held that "loss of love and affection" is comprehended in "loss of consortium", hence, there is no justification to award compensation towards "loss of love and affection" as a separate head. Paragraph Nos. 32 and 33 of Smt. Somwati (supra) are being reproduced as under:

"32. A three-Judge Bench in United India Insurance Company Ltd. versus Satinder Kaur alias Satvinder Kaur and others, (2020) SCC Online 410, had reaffirmed the view of two-Judge Bench in Magma General insurance Company Ltd. Three-Judge Bench from paragraph 53 to 65, dealt with three conventional heads.

The entire discussion on three conventional heads of three-Judge Bench is as follows: -

"53. In Pranay Sethi (supra), the Constitution Bench held that in death cases, compensation would be awarded only under three conventional heads viz. loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses.

54. The Court held that the conventional and traditional heads, cannot be determined on percentage basis, because that would not be an acceptable criterion. Unlike determination of income, the said heads have to be quantified, which has to be based on a reasonable foundation. It was observed that factors such as price index, fall in bank interest, escalation of rates, are aspects which have to be taken into consideration. The Court held that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs. 15,000/-, Rs. 40,000/- and Rs. 15,000/- respectively. The Court was of the view that the amounts to be awarded under these conventional heads should be enhanced by 10% every three years, which will bring consistency in respect of these heads.

a) Loss of Estate - Rs. 15,000 to be awarded

b) Loss of Consortium

55. Loss of Consortium, in legal parlance, was historically given a narrow meaning to be awarded only to the spouse i.e. the right of the spouse to the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, society, solace, affection and sexual relations with his or her mate. The loss of companionship, love, care and protection, etc., the spouse is entitled to get, has to be compensated appropriately. The concept of nonpecuniary damage for loss of consortium is one of the major heads for awarding compensation in various jurisdictions such as the United States of America, Australia, etc. English courts have recognised the right of a spouse to get compensation even during the period of temporary disablement.

56. In Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. V. Nanu Ram and Ors (supra) this Court interpreted "consortium" to be a compendious term, which encompasses spousal consortium, parental consortium, as well as filial consortium. The right to consortium would include the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, solace and affection of the deceased, which is a loss to his family. With respect to a spouse, it would include sexual relations with the deceased spouse.

57. Parental consortium is granted to the child upon the premature death of a parent, for loss of parental aid, protection, affection, society, discipline, guidance and training.

58. Filial consortium is the right of the parents to compensation in the case of an accidental death of a child. An accident leading to the death of a child causes great shock and agony to the parents and family of the deceased. The greatest agony for a parent is to lose their child during their lifetime. Children are valued for their love and affection, and their role in the family unit.

59. Modern jurisdictions world-over have recognized that the value of a child's consortium far exceeds the economic value of the compensation awarded in the case of the death of a child.

Most jurisdictions permit parents to be awarded compensation under loss of consortium on the death of a child. The amount awarded to the parents is the compensation for loss of love and affection, care and companionship of the deceased child.

60. The Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 is a beneficial legislation which has been framed with the object of providing relief to the victims, or their families, in cases of genuine claims. In case where a parent has lost their minor child, or unmarried son or daughter, the parents are entitled to be awarded loss of consortium under the head of Filial Consortium.

61. Parental Consortium is awarded to the children who lose the care and protection of their parents in motor vehicle accidents.

62. The amount to be awarded for loss consortium will be as per the amount fixed in Pranay Sethi (supra).

63. At this stage, we consider it necessary to provide uniformity with respect to the grant of consortium, and loss of love and affection. Several Tribunals and High Courts have been awarding compensation for both loss of consortium and loss of love and affection. The Constitution Bench in Pranay Sethi (supra), has recognized only three conventional heads under which compensation can be awarded viz. loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses.

64. In Magma General (supra), this Court gave a comprehensive interpretation to consortium to include spousal consortium, parental consortium, as well as filial consortium. Loss of love and affection is comprehended in loss of consortium.

65. The Tribunals and High Courts are directed to award compensation for loss of consortium, which is a legitimate conventional head. There is no justification to award compensation towards loss of love and affection as a separate head.

c) Funeral Expenses - Rs. 15,000 to be awarded"

33. The Three-Judge Bench in the above case approved the comprehensive interpretation given to the expression "consortium' to include spousal consortium, parental consortium as well as filial consortium. Three-Judge Bench however further laid down that "loss of love and affection' is comprehended in "loss of consortium', hence, there is no justification to award compensation towards "loss of love and affection' as a separate head."

24. In Smt. Somwati (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court found the impugned judgments of High Court awarding consortium to each of the claimants in accordance with the law but found no justification for award of compensation under separate head "loss of love and affection". It would be appropriate to refer paragraph Nos. 37, 38 and 39 of Smt. Somwati (supra), which are as under:

"37. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that Pranay Sethi has only referred to spousal consortium and no other consortium was referred to in the judgment of Pranay Sethi, hence, there is no justification for allowing the parental consortium and filial consortium. The Constitution Bench in Pranay Sethi has referred to amount of Rs.40,000/- to the "loss of consortium' but the Constitution Bench had not addressed the issue as to whether consortium of Rs.40,000/- is only payable as spousal consortium. The judgment of Pranay Sethi cannot be read to mean that it lays down the proposition that the consortium is payable only to the wife.

38. The Three-Judge Bench in United India Insurance Company Ltd. (Supra) has categorically laid down that apart from spousal consortium, parental and filial consortium is payable. We feel ourselves bound by the above judgment of Three Judge Bench. We, thus, cannot accept the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that the amount of consortium awarded to each of the claimants is not sustainable.

39. We, thus, found the impugned judgments of the High Court awarding consortium to each of the claimants in accordance with law which does not warrant any interference in this appeal. We, however, accept the submissions of learned counsel for the appellant that there is no justification for award of compensation under separate head "loss of love and affection'. The appeal filed by the appellant deserves to be allowed insofar as the award of compensation under the head "loss of love and affection'."

25. In view of the aforesaid judgments it is clear that:

i) Reasonable figure on conventional heads, namely, "loss of estate", "loss of consortium", and "funeral expenses" should be Rs. 15,000/-, Rs. 40,000/- and Rs. 15,000/- respectively, which amounts should be enhanced at the rate of 10 % in every three years. [para 59.8 of Pranay Sethi (supra)].

(ii) Consortium, in legal parlance is a compendious term which encompasses "spousal consortium", "parental consortium" and "filial consortium". The right to consortium would include the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, solace and affection of the deceased, which is a loss to his family. With respect to a spouse, it would include sexual relations with the deceased spouse. "Parental consortium" is granted to the child upon the premature death of a parent, for loss of parental aid, protection, affection, society, discipline, guidance and training. "Filial consortium" is the right of the parents to compensation in the case of an accidental death of a child which causes great shock and agony to the parents and family of the deceased. [Satinder Kuar alias Satvinder Kaur (supra)].

(iii) The judgment of Pranay Sethi (supra) cannot be read to mean that it lays down the proposition that the consortium is payable only to the wife. [para 37 of Smt. Somwati (supra)]

(iv) Grant of compensation under the head of "loss of consortium" to all the claimants @ 40,000/- each, was held as according to law. [Satinder Kuar alias Satvinder Kaur (supra)]

(v) "loss of love and affection" is comprehended in "loss of consortium" and hence there is no justification to award compensation towards "loss of love and affection" as a separate head.

26. In Smt. Somwati (supra), each of the claimants were awarded compensation under the head of loss of consortium @ 40,000/- each and also compensation under separate head of "love and affection". While maintaining the grant of compensation to each claimant for loss of consortium, the compensation granted under separate head for "loss of love and affection" was set aside.

27. In the present case, each of the claimants has not been awarded compensation under the head "loss of consortium". Grant of Rs. 40,000/- only, under the head "loss of consortium" would be only for one dependent member of the deceased. The compensation for "loss of consortium" to all the claimants has not been awarded. In view of the judgments in Pranay Sethi (supra), Smt. Somwati (supra) and Satinder Kaur @ Satvinder Kaur (supra) if the compensation @ 40,000/- to all the 8 claimants had been awarded, the total amount of compensation would have been on the much higher side than the awarded amount. Although the claimants have not filed any appeal for enhancement of the amount of compensation by grant of compensation to all the claimants under "loss of consortium" but considering the aforesaid fact and also that Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial legislation, the total awarded amount deserves not be reduced and the amount of Rs. 15,000/- awarded under the head of loss of love and affection is held to be also towards "loss of consortium".

28. If, all the claimants had been awarded compensation under "loss of consortium" and also under separate head of "loss of love and affection" the matter would have been otherwise.

29. On point No.2 it is held that the grant of compensation of Rs. 15,000/- shall also be towards "loss of consortium". The award does not call for interference with respect to that amount of Rs. 15,000/-.

30. The appeal is dismissed.

9. A.Vs Padma Vs Venugopal, [2012(1) GLH (SC), 442]

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Chand, J.)

1. Heard Sri A.T. Pandey, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri N.K. Srivastava, learned counsel appearing for National Insurance Company Limited and perused the judgment and order impugned.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 17.01.2020 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Court No.4, Aligarh (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C.P. No.318 of 2016 awarding a sum of Rs.3,20,256/-.

3. The claimants are the widow, mother, daughter and son of the deceased. The Tribunal has considered the annual income of the deceased as Rs.65, 412/-. The income of the deceased was claimed as Rs.1,30,824/- per year but the Tribunal has decided that the income of the deceased would be Rs.87, 216 for six months and Rs.43,608/- for another six months when the sugar mill was closed and hence has held that income would be Rs.65,412/- per year.

4 . It is further submitted that the incident is of the year 2015 and at that time the deceased was in the employment of Sugar Mill, therefore, the Tribunal has erred in assessing the annual income of the deceased and has awarded less compensation to the claimant-appellants.

5. The counsel for respondent has contended that this figure cannot be clubbed together with the income of the deceased as Rs.87,216/- (for a period of six months when the mill was functional) plus Rs.43, 608/- for another six months when the mill remain closed. The average income will have to be considered, which would be Rs.87,216/-.

6. The income of the deceased was Rs.87,216/- for the first six months and for the later six months when Sugar Mill was closed was Rs.43,608/- but the Tribunal has clubbed Rs.87,216/- with Rs.43,608/- and has divided the same by two, which could not have been done, the reason, even the income of the deceased cannot be said to be Rs.65,412/- per year. His income has to be added. We are adding the amount, namely, Rs.87216/- plus Rs.43,608/- as income as was paid to the deceased. The deceased was having employment and therefore as per judgment of Pranay Sethi and the judgment cited by the counsel for the appellant i.e. National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Indira Srivastava 2008(2) SCC 763 wherein the term income has been defined in paras 18, 19 and 20, which are reproduced as under:

"18. The term 'income' in P. Ramanatha Aiyar's Advanced Law Lexicon (3rd Ed.) has been defined as under :

"The value of any benefit or perquisite whether convertible into money or not, obtained from a company either by a director or a person who has substantial interest in the company, and any sum paid by such company in respect of any obligation, which but for such payment would have been payable by the director or other person aforesaid, occurring or arising to a person within the State from any profession, trade or calling other than agriculture."

It has also been stated :

'INCOME' signifies 'what comes in' (per Selborne, C., Jones v. Ogle, 42 LJ Ch.336). 'It is as large a word as can be used' to denote a person's receipts '(per Jessel, M.R. Re Huggins, 51 LJ Ch.938.) income is not confined to receipts from business only and means periodical receipts from one's work, lands, investments, etc. AIR 1921 Mad 427 (SB). Ref. 124 IC 511 : 1930 MWN 29 : 31 MLW 438 AIR 1930 Mad 626 : 58 MLJ

19. If the dictionary meaning of the word 'income' is taken to its logical conclusion, it should include those benefits, either in terms of money or otherwise, which are taken into consideration for the purpose of payment of income-tax or profession tax although some elements thereof may or may not be taxable or would have been otherwise taxable but for the exemption conferred thereupon under the statute.

20. In N. Sivammal & Ors. v. Managing Director, Pandian Roadways Corporation & Ors. [(1985) 1 SCC 18], this Court took into consideration the pay packet of the deceased."

7. The word net income will have to be considered, therefore, the argument of the respondent that the income of the deceased Rs.1,30,824/- per year cannot be considered to be the income of the deceased cannot be accepted.

8. The appellants had to be granted future loss of income, which has not been granted by the Tribunal without assigning any reason. The Tribunal in its judgment deducted 1/3rd for personal expenses. The deceased was working in the Sugar Mill since 1996. The salary of the deceased was Rs.14,536/- per month. The salary slip was proved by P.W.4. The crushing season of the Sugar Mill was from November to May only. The Mill when it was not working the salary was remained the same but he would be paid half of the amount.

9. The Tribunal deducted 50% of Rs.1,30,824/- as income tax, GPF, insurance, gratuity, which could not have been done as in the year 2015 the income of the deceased was Rs.1,30,824/- per year, which was non taxable income. The Supreme Court in the case of Vimal Kanwar and others Vs. Kishore Dan and others, 2013 (3) T.A.C. 6 (S.C.), 2013(3) T.A.C. 6(SC) held that the certain amounts cannot be deducted, hence we hold that Rs.1,30,824/- was the annual income of the deceased, to which 30% will have to be added as the deceased died at the age of 43 years (age bracket of 41-45 years will apply). He was survived by two minor children, mother and his widow, hence he deduction of 1/4th cannot be granted as requested by learned counsel for the appellant but it would have to be 1/3rd and not 1/4th.

10. The deceased died at the age of 43 years (age bracket of 41-45 years), therefore, the multiplier would be 14.

11. The Tribunal has held that the deceased too negligent also in driving the vehicle. The reasoning given by the Tribunal to hold the deceased negligent and that he had contributed to 50% of the accident is perverse, just because there was collusion of two vehicles, and that the driver of the car was having valid driving license and the registration of the vehicle was there and just because the the license of the deceased was not produced before the Tribunal, it cannot mean that he was negligent. The ocular evidence of P.W.3 on the contrary goes to show that the deceased was driving his motorcycle on his correct side. Thus, the finding on facts is not only bad in law but is perverse, therefore, we hold that the Tribubal has committed an error in holding the deceased to have contributed negligence and due to which accident had taken place. The vehicle involved in the accident is Car and motorcycle. The Tribunal has given its finding just because of the fact that the driving license of the deceased was nor produced and only this fact will not permit us to hold that there was contributory negligence on the part of the deceased.

12. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, let us consider the negligence from the perspective of the law laid down.

13. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

14. The principle of contributory negligence has been discussed time and again. A person who either contributes or author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place.

15. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under :

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence.

It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330*. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.*

20. These provisions (sec.110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

*21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

16. The Apex Court in Khenyei Vs. New India Assurance Company Limited & Others, 2015 LawSuit (SC) 469 has held as under:

"4. It is a case of composite negligence where injuries have been caused to the claimants by combined wrongful act of joint tort feasors. In a case of accident caused by negligence of joint tort feasors, all the persons who aid or counsel or direct or join in committal of a wrongful act, are liable. In such case, the liability is always joint and several. The extent of negligence of joint tort feasors in such a case is immaterial for satisfaction of the claim of the plaintiff/claimant and need not be determined by the by the court. However, in case all the joint tort feasors are before the court, it may determine the extent of their liability for the purpose of adjusting inter-se equities between them at appropriate stage. The liability of each and every joint tort feasor vis a vis to plaintiff/claimant cannot be bifurcated as it is joint and several liability. In the case of composite negligence, apportionment of compensation between tort feasors for making payment to the plaintiff is not permissible as the plaintiff/claimant has the right to recover the entire amount from the easiest targets/solvent defendant.

14. There is a difference between contributory and composite negligence. In the case of contributory negligence, a person who has himself contributed to the extent cannot claim compensation for the injuries sustained by him in the accident to the extent of his own negligence;whereas in the case of composite negligence, a person who has suffered has not contributed to the accident but the outcome of combination of negligence of two or more other persons. This Court in T.O. Anthony v. Karvarnan & Ors. [2008 (3) SCC 748] has held that in case of contributory negligence, injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong doer separately. It is only in the case of contributory negligence that the injured himself has contributed by his negligence in the accident. Extent of his negligence is required to be determined as damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries have to be reduced in proportion to

"6. 'Composite negligence' refers to the negligence on the part of two or more persons. Where a person is injured as a result of negligence on the part of two or more wrong doers, it is said that the person was injured on account of the composite negligence of those wrong-doers. In such a case, each wrong doer, is jointly and severally liable to the injured for payment of the entire damages and the injured person has the choice of proceeding against all or any of them. In such a case, the injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong-doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong-doer separately. On the other hand where a person suffers injury, partly due to the negligence on the part of another person or persons, and partly as a result of his own negligence, then the negligence of the part of the injured which contributed to the accident is referred to as his contributory negligence. Where the injured is guilty of some negligence, his claim for damages is not defeated merely by reason of the negligence on his part but the damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries stands reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence.

7. Therefore, when two vehicles are involved in an accident, and one of the drivers claims compensation from the other driver alleging negligence, and the other driver denies negligence or claims that the injured claimant himself was negligent, then it becomes necessary to consider whether the injured claimant was negligent and if so, whether he was solely or partly responsible for the accident and the extent of his responsibility, that is his contributory negligence. Therefore where the injured is himself partly liable, the principle of 'composite negligence' will not apply nor can there be an automatic inference that the negligence was 50:50 as has been assumed in this case. The Tribunal ought to have examined the extent of contributory negligence of the appellant and thereby avoided confusion between composite negligence and contributory negligence. The High Court has failed to correct the said error."

18. This Court in Challa Bharathamma &Nanjappan (supra) has dealt with the breach of policy conditions by the owner when the insurer was asked to pay the compensation fixed by the tribunal and the right to recover the same was given to the insurer in the executing court concerned if the dispute between the insurer and the owner was the subject-matter of determination for the tribunal and the issue has been decided in favour of the insured. The same analogy can be applied to the instant cases as the liability of the joint tort feasor is joint and several. In the instant case, there is determination of inter se liability of composite negligence to the extent of negligence of 2/3rd and 1/3rd of respective drivers. Thus, the vehicle - trailor-truck which was not insured with the insurer, was negligent to the extent of 2/3rd. It would be open to the insurer being insurer of the bus after making payment to claimant to recover from the owner of the trailor-truck the amount to the aforesaid extent in the execution proceedings. Had there been no determination of the inter se liability for want of evidence or other joint tort feasor had not been impleaded, it was not open to settle such a dispute and to recover the amount in execution proceedings but the remedy would be to file another suit or appropriate proceedings in accordance with law.

What emerges from the aforesaid discussion is as follows :

(i) In the case of composite negligence, plaintiff/claimant is entitled to sue both or any one of the joint tort feasors and to recover the entire compensation as liability of joint tort feasors is joint and several.

(iii) In case all the joint tort feasors have been impleaded and evidence is sufficient, it is open to the court/tribunal to determine inter se extent of composite negligence of the drivers. However, determination of the extent of negligence between the joint tort feasors is only for the purpose of their inter se liability so that one may recover the sum from the other after making whole of payment to the plaintiff/claimant to the extent it has satisfied the liability of the other. In case both of them have been impleaded and the apportionment/ extent of their negligence has been determined by the court/tribunal, in main case one joint tort feasor can recover the amount from the other in the execution proceedings.

(iv) It would not be appropriate for the court/tribunal to determine the extent of composite negligence of the drivers of two vehicles in the absence of impleadment of other joint tort feasors. In such a case, impleaded joint tort feasor should be left, in case he so desires, to sue the other joint tort feasor in independent proceedings after passing of the decree or award."

17. The latest decision of the Apex Court in Khenyei (Supra) has laid down one further aspect about considering the negligence more particularly composite/contributory negligence. The deceased or the person concerned should be shown to have contributed either to the accident and the impact of accident upon the victim could have been minimised if he had taken care. In this case the deceased was not the author or the co-author of the accident. On facts, the deceased was not plying the vehicle. Hence, the deduction of 50% from the compensation awarded is bad and is set aside.

18. This takes this Court to the issue of compensation. The income of the deceased in the year of accident and looking to his profession can be considered to be Rs.130,824/- per year to which as the deceased was in the age bracket of 41 to 45 years, 30% as future loss of income requires to be added in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra). As far as amount under the head of non-pecuniary damages are concerned, it should be Rs.70,000/- in stead of Rs.15,000/-. As far as multiplier is concerned, it would be 14.

i. Income Rs.1,30,824/-

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 30% namely Rs.39.247/-

iii. Total income : Rs. 130,824 + 39247 = Rs.17,0071x1/3=56690/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3rd : Rs. 113381/- (rounded up)

v. Annual income : Rs.113381/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 14

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.113381 x 14 = Rs.1587334/- viii. Amount under non-pecuniary head : 70,000/-

ix. Total compensation : 16,57,334/-

20. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

21. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard.

22. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and award passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall calculate the compensation and deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

INCOME TAX DEDUCTION

23. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291 and this High Court, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimants in their proportion for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceed Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, the deduction is not permissible, registry of the Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount, without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No.2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma v. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.3.2021 while disbursing the amount.

24. As far as disbursement is concerned the Tribunal before passing orders of fix deposit or investment follow the guidelines issued in A.V. Padma Vs. Venugopal, [2012(1) GLH (SC), 442].

25. We request the Registrar General to forward this judgment to the concerned Tribunal (Sri Narendra Singh, HJS.) whenever he is posted with a request to be more careful as he has not considered the judgments of Apex Court.

26. This Court is thankful to both the learned Advocates for getting this matter disposed of during this pandemic.

27. Let record of court below be sent back to the Tribunal concerned.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.

1 . Heard Sri N.K. Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Manish Tandon, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This appeal, at the behest of Insurance Company, challenges the judgment and award dated 07.02.2019 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/12th Additional District Judge, Kanpur Nagar (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C.P. No.461 of 2017 awarding a sum of Rs.78,83,928/- with interest at the rate of 7% as compensation.

3. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the deceased was in the age bracket of 35-40, therefore, multiplier to be applied would be 16. The fact that the Tribunal has gone by schedule is bad. The schedule has been found faulty and Tribunal ought to have relied on judgment of National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050, which it has referred but not allowed.

4. It is submitted by learned counsel for the claimants that the claimants can raise objection as far as the question of quantum is concerned, as the appeal is in continuation of the proceedings. He has relied on the provisions of Order 41 rule 33 of the Code of Civil Procedure and has contended that as held by this Court in the case of National Insurance Comnpany Limited Vs. Smt. Vidyawati Devi and others, F.A.F.O. No. 2389 of 2016 the oral cross objection can be raised and it is submitted that the calculations made by the Tribunal are erroneous as the Tribunal has considered the income to be Rs. 37451/- added 50% i.e. Rs. 18726/- and deducted Rs. 9913/-, which was given as personal expenses, income tax and other amounts, which could not be done. It is submitted that the Tribunal has not considered the grant of compensation in its proper perspective.

5. Sri Manish Tandon, learned counsel for the respondents submits that the entire calculation of compensation requires recalculation in view of judgment in case of Manasvi Jain Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation Limited and others (2014) 13 SCC 22 and Vimal Kanwar and others Vs. Kishore Dan and others (2013) 7 SCC 476 as well as Pranay Sethi (supra), whereby special allowances could not have been deducted by the Tribunal. As far as income tax is concerned, we are obliged to accept the submissions of Sri Srivastava that deduction of Rs. 7000/- towards income tax from the salary of Rs. 37451/- per month was erroneous and it has to be at least in the slab of 10% which would mean that we would deduct 10% per annum. It is proved that the salary was Rs. 37451/- per month, hence 37451 x 12 and also add 50% of the amount for future loss as per rule 220 A and 220A(i) and decision in Pranay Sethi (supra), we do not disturb the same, but recalculate the same, as the deceased was survived by four people, the deduction of 1/4 is not disturbed. The multiplier of 15 as per judgment of Pranay Sethi is maintained. The rate of interest is maintained. We have perused the salary slip of the deceased as given by Sri Tandon.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant has contended that the Tribunal has deducted only Rs. 7000/- as tax. It is submitted that tax would be in the slab of 20% and not Rs. 7000/- per annum. It is submitted that income has not been properly calculated. The second ground of argument is that there was breach of policy condition as RC book was not valid and, therefore, the Insurance Company should be exonerated. The issue of negligence is not raised by the Insurance Company and it was not pleaded before the Tribunal. However, going by the facts it is clear that the validity of license of the driver is also not under challenge. The Tribunal has perused and returned a findings that the RC book fitness is produced, which was not found to be fabricated or false, therefore, the Tribunal decided the issue nos. 2 and 3 against the Insurance Company. We also concur with the same. The only issue which requires reconsideration is quantum. The deceased was 40 years of age. He has left behind him his widow, two daughters, son and father. The salary record is also produced, which shows that his gross salary was Rs. 37188/- in the month of January and in the month of February it was Rs. 37451/-. He was working in Ircon International Limited, which is Central Government Organization under the Railway Ministry. The deceased has left over a period of 20 years of job. The Tribunal added 50% for future loss of income and as there were five members in his family, deducted ¼ and that is how the Tribunal came to the figure of Rs. 5,05,596/- per year. The Tribunal deducted Rs. 16913/- and that is how it calculated Rs. 4,88,683/- to be the annual income and multiplied the same by 16 and granted what is known as Rs. 25000/- for funeral expenses and Rs. 40,000 as consortium with 7% interest.

7. As per the submission of Sri Tandon this amount will have to be recalculated as the deductions of Rs. 9000/- is bad. We will have to deduct only Rs. 12000/- per year as income tax as he was in the slab of more than five lac, but he would at the same time entitled what is known as tax deductions.

8. Hence, the judgment and order passed by the Tribunal would stand re-modified and the total compensation payable to the appellants is computed herein below:

i. Income Rs. 36500/- (Rs. 37451/- per month - Rs. 1000/- income tax)

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 40%, namely Rs. 14,600/-

iii. Total income : 36500+14600 = Rs. 51,100/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3rd towards personal expenses : Rs. 17033/-

v. Annual income : (51,100 - 17033 =34,467) 34,467 x 12 = 4,13,604/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 16

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.4,13,604 x 16 = Rs. 66,17,664/- viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs. 70,000 + Rs. 30,000 (10% per year due to pendency of appeal)

ix. Total compensation : Rs. 67,17,664/-

9. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. The oral cross objection of the Insurance Company is also partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The amount be deposited by the respondent-Insurance Company within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest as awarded by Tribunal. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

10. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court in case of Smt. Hansagori P. Ladhani Vs. The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007 (2) GLH 291, the total amount of interest, accrued on the principle amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs. 50,000/-, Insurance Company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of "Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A(3)(ix) of the Income Tax At, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs. 50,000/- in any financial year, registry of the Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income-Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No. 23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) and in First Appeal From Order No. 2871 of 2016 (Tej Kumari Sharma Vs. Chola Mandlam M.S. General Insurance Co. Ltd.) decided on 19.03.2021 while disbursing the amount.

11. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma Vs. Venugopal reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC) 442, the order of investment is not passed because respondents are neither illiterate nor rustic villagers.

12. We are thankful for both the counsels for getting the appeal decided without record and ably assisting the Court.

1. Heard Sri Amit Manohar, learned counsel for the appellants, Sri S.D.Ojha, learned counsels for the respondent and perused the judgment and order impugned.

2. This appeal has been preferred against the judgment and award dated 21.4.2010 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No.4, Mirzapur (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in M.A.C.No.52 of 2006 awarding a sum of Rs.6,21,500/- with interest at the rate of 5% as compensation.

3. On the last occasion, we have requested Sri Amit Manohar, learned counsel for appellant to keep the officer present as we are of the opinion that judgment of Jitendra Khimshankar Trivedi and Others Vs. not granted any amount under the head of future loss of income.

4. It is further submitted by learned counsel for appellant Sri Amit Manohar relying on the decision of Apex Court that multiplier of 17 was taken with the help of Second Schedule to the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 is not sustainable in view of the decision of Supreme Court in The Managing Director, T.N.S.T.C. 5. Sri S.D. Ojha, learned counsel for claimants has submitted that he would like to argue for enhancement and Sri Amit Manohar, learned counsel for appellant had contended that he would like to argue for contributory negligence of the driver and also argue that the jeep driver, owner and Insurance company are not joined as parties.

6. We have tried for conciliation in this matter on the basis of decision in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050 and also perused the record. We are thankful to Sri Amit Manohar who has taken assistance of Sri N.K. Srivastava on the panel Advocate of National Insurance Company, Sri S.D. Ojha, learned counsel for respondent and also Sri F.H. Rizvi who has deputed by the Insurance Company is present before this Court today for amicable resolution of the dispute so that insurance company can save interest as the grounds raised are now covered by the judgment in Pranay Sethi (Supra).

7. It is submitted by learned counsel for the respondent counsel that the deceased was 34 years of age at the time of accident and was in the profession of selling the fruits. His income was considered by the Tribunal to be Rs.4,500/- which is not just and proper. It is further submitted that the Tribunal has not granted any amount towards future loss of income as the judgment in Sarla Verma Vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, (2009) 6 SCC 121 was applicable in those times but now the compensation has to be considered in light of the judgment in Pranay Sethi (Supra). It is submitted that the judgment in Pranay Sethi (Supra) was not available in those time and in the alternative it is submitted that even if the judgment of Pranay Sethi (Supra) has not to be applied the compensation be redetermined.

8. The income of the deceased considered at Rs.4500/- per month has been considered by the Tribunal without any proof and is on higher side. The multiplier applicable is also on the higher side. It is further submitted that the deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased should be 1/3rd as he was survived by widow, one minor son, one minor daughter and parents. It is also submitted that interest should be 6% and not 12%. It is further submitted by Sri Amit Manohar that no fitness certificate was produced.

9. As far as the issue of negligence is concerned, we have perused the record. The learned Tribunal has considered this issue threadbare. As far as the deceased was concerned the vehicle- Marshal in which the deceased was travelling has rammed into by Truck No. UP-53 T-2115 and because of this the deceased suffered injury and died on the spot. The driver of the truck fled away from the place of accident. The national insurance company with which the vehicle was insured has filed reply. The Tribunal came to the definite conclusion with the accident occurred due to sole negligence of the driver of the truck. The evidence of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 were also against the driver of truck.

10. The issue of negligence has been decided against the driver of the truck as the truck rammed into stationary marshal jeep and the impact was such that Satish Kumar and Vishnu Kumar sustained injuries. Deceased, Dhanajay Kumar Jaiswal, and Satish Chandra Jaiswal died on the spot. Raj Kumar Gupta was not driving the vehicle. The eye witnesses who had gone for answering in nature call have categorically stated in their oral testimony that Marshal jeep was being driving by Satish Chandra Shamra. The way the truck driver came from the opposite direction, the impact was such the three people in the jeep died on the spot. The FIR, site plan and the charge sheet will not permit us to take a different view than that taken by the Tribunal.

11. The contention is that the truck did not have valid permit, did not have licnece to ply and was covered by the judgment in National Insurance Company Limited Challa Bharatamma and others AIR 2004 SC 4882 . The fact as decided in issue no. 2 and 3 will also not permit us to accept this submission as it was never contested before the Tribunal below and therefore we are unable to grant what is known as recovery rights.

12. This takes us to the submission that the driver did not have a effective driving licence. The issue no. 2 and the driving licence no.9800/1993 was for LMV and HTV (PE) and was valid from 11.11.2005 to 10.11.2008. The accident occurred on 25/26.1.2006. The vehicle was insured on the said date and now to contend that there was no fitness certificate which was not proved before the Court below and therefore the said aspect also cannot be accepted.

13. We are unable to accept the submission of learned counsel for the appellant that the accident occurred due to contributory / composite negligence of the driver of both the vehicles.

14. As the matter is taken for conciliatory disposal, we recalculate the compensation payable to the claimants. Normally the Courts grant 7.5/% or 9% interest considering the year of accident but we were suggested that we should not grant the interest at the rate of 7.5% as the insurance company has agreed for conciliation.

15. Heard the counsels for the parties and considered the factual data, this Court finds that the accident occurred on 25/26.01.2006 causing death of Dhananjay who was 32 years of age at the time of accident. To which as the deceased was in the age bracket of 31-35, 25% of the income will have to be added in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra). The amount under non-pecuniary heads should be at least Rs.70,000/- in view of the decision in Pranay Sethi (Supra). In view the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court feels that the amount of compensation requires to be recalculated and no interference is called for as far as deduction of personal expenses of the deceased is concerned.

16. Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants is computed herein below:

i. Annual Income Rs.54,000/- (Rs.4500 x 12)

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : 25% namely Rs.13,500/-

iii. Total income : Rs.54000/- + 13,500 = Rs.67,500/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3rd towards personal expenses : Rs.22,500/-

v. Multiplier applicable : 16

vi. Loss of dependency: Rs.45000 x 16 = Rs.7,20,000/-

vii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs.70,000/- viii. Total compensation : Rs.7,90,000/-.

17. It is agreed that the rate of interest even in the year 2009 was not 5% and as the parties have decided to bury their dispute, we enhance interest to 6%.

18. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The appellant -Insurance Company shall deposit the remaining amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 6% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Tribunal forthwith.

19. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers.

20. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansaguti P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

21. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and not blindly apply the judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker,J.
Hon'ble Vivek Varma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Deepak Singh, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Amaresh Sinha and Sri Saurabh Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent insurance companies none for owner or driver of truck. perused the judgment and order impugned.

2. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment and award dated 22.8.2007 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Varanasi in M.A.C.P. No.151 of 2004 awarding a sum of Rs.14,08,000/- with interest at the rate of 6% as compensation for death of four family members of the claimants who lost their family members in the fateful accident .

3. The accident is not in dispute. The issue of negligence decided by the Tribunal is in dispute. The respondent has not challenged the liability imposed on them. The issues to be decided are, the quantum of compensation awarded and whether the deduction of 25% for negligence of driver of maruti car could be deducted from the compensation awarded to the heirs of non tort feasor. The legal heirs have lost mother and father and appellant no.4 has lost her son and daughter-in-law and, therefore, even if we consider the matter from the angle of negligence of driver to the tune of 25 % for other deceased who have passed away, it would not be a case of contributory negligence but it would be a case of composite negligence and, therefore, no amount could have deducted by the Tribunal from the compensation awarded for the death of non tort feasors, namely, passengers. The fact that the provisions of Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as the Act) has been interpreted to take within its sweep the term "legal representative' and not dependent. A person would be legal representative/legal heirs even if he is not dependent on the deceased. A person may be dependent as also legal heir (legal representative). This distinction will have to be decided by us as for the death of one of deceased, the Tribunal has rejected the claim. Unfortunate part of this litigation is that the legal heirs, i.e, aged mother and mother-in-law of the deceased, two minor children and one adolescent sister were advised to file one claim petition for death of four people. These aspects will have to be looked into as though it may appear very simple but there is complexity weaved into this litigation. The question is could the Tribunal dismiss the claim petition if separate claim petitions were filed for four deaths by legal representative whether they were dependent or not. Thus, we have to decide two issues compensation awarded and liability based on negligence.

4. Facts in brevity as per claim petition are that on 13.6.2004 at about 5.30 am Ram Dular Dubey, Pravin @ Pintu Dubey, Vidyawati Devi and Manju Devi boarding in Maruti Van bearing Registration No. UP 65 Y 4968 were going to offer prayers to Vindhyavasini Devi and when they reached near Village Khodhwa, P.S. Mirzamurad, driver of truck bearing Registration No. UP 78 A N 0069 driving rashly and negligently came from the opposite side and dashed with the said maruti van on account of which Ram Dular Dubey and Pravin Kumar Dubey died on the spot while Vidyawati Devi and Manju Devi died during the treatment in Kabir Chaura Hospital. At the time of accident, age of deceased Ram Dular Dubey was about 47 years; age of deceased Smt. Vidyawati was about 45 years; deceased Pravin Dubey and Manju Dubey were aged about 25 years.

5. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellants that though it was head on collusion it was due to rash and negligent driving of the driver of the truck in which four persons traveling in maruti van died leaving behind them mother of the deceased namely Ramwanti Devi (old widow lady), Pramod Kumar Dubey, second son of deceased (minor) and another minor son Sandip Kumar Dubey aged about 12 years and unmarried daughter of deceased being Anju Dubey aged about 20 years who were the legal representatives of all the four deceased . The tribunal found driver of the truck to be negligent and fixed liability of 75%. It is submitted that the Tribunal wrongly recorded contributory negligence of the driver of the maruti van to the tune of 25%. In fact no evidence was led in defense to prove contributory negligence.It is further submitted that at the time of accident, deceased Ram Dular Dubey was working on the post of Manager, Kashi Gramin Bank, Branch Lahartara and his income was RS 21,014.60 per mensem. Deceased Vidyawati was a skilled housewife whose income was assessed by the tribunal to be Rs.2,000/- per mensem. Approximate income deceased Pravin Kumar Dubey, who was said to have been selected for B.T.C. was assessed to be earning Rs.7,000/- per mensem. Income of deceased Manju Devi, who was pursuing Ph.D. was assessed to be Rs.12,000/- per mensem. It is submitted that the Tribunal wrongly assessed the income and awarded meagre amount which may be enhanced. It also did not grant any amount under the head of future prospects

6. As against this, learned counsel for the Insurance Company has submitted that the award does not require any interference. The Tribunal has not committed any error in not granting the future loss of income.It is further submitted that the tribunal has been liberal in considering the negligence as the impact and site plan would show that the van was driven rashly and negligently.

7. The Apex Court in Sudarsan Puhan Vs Jayanta K Mohanty and Another Etc. AIR2018 SC 4662 and U.P.S.R.T.C. Vs. Km Mamta and Others AIR2016 SCC 948, wherein it has been held that that all the issues raised will have to be decided. Having heard the learned counsels for the parties, issue of negligence and compensation will have to be considered from the perspective of the law laid down.

In view of the questions raised by the claimants, issue of negligence would have to be decided.

8. The term negligence means failure to exercise care towards others which a reasonable and prudent person would in a circumstance or taking action which such a reasonable person would not. Negligence can be both intentional or accidental which is normally accidental. More particularly, it connotes reckless driving and the injured must always prove that the either side is negligent. If the injury rather death is caused by something owned or controlled by the negligent party then he is directly liable otherwise the principle of "res ipsa loquitur" meaning thereby "the things speak for itself" would apply.

9. The principle of contributory negligence has been discussed time and again. A person who either contributes or is author of the accident would be liable for his contribution to the accident having taken place.

10. The Division Bench of this Court in First Appeal From Order No. 1818 of 2012 (Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Co.Ltd. Vs. Smt. Renu Singh And Others) decided on 19.7.2016 has held as under :

"16. Negligence means failure to exercise required degree of care and caution expected of a prudent driver. Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon the considerations, which ordinarily regulate conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. Negligence is not always a question of direct evidence. It is an inference to be drawn from proved facts. Negligence is not an absolute term, but is a relative one. It is rather a comparative term. What may be negligence in one case may not be so in another. Where there is no duty to exercise care, negligence in the popular sense has no legal consequence. Where there is a duty to exercise care, reasonable care must be taken to avoid acts or omissions which would be reasonably foreseen likely to caused physical injury to person. The degree of care required, of course, depends upon facts in each case. On these broad principles, the negligence of drivers is required to be assessed.

17. It would be seen that burden of proof for contributory negligence on the part of deceased has to be discharged by the opponents. It is the duty of driver of the offending vehicle to explain the accident. It is well settled law that at intersection where two roads cross each other, it is the duty of a fast moving vehicle to slow down and if driver did not slow down at intersection, but continued to proceed at a high speed without caring to notice that another vehicle was crossing, then the conduct of driver necessarily leads to conclusion that vehicle was being driven by him rashly as well as negligently.

18. 10th Schedule appended to Motor Vehicle Act contain statutory regulations for driving of motor vehicles which also form part of every Driving License. Clause-6 of such Regulation clearly directs that the driver of every motor vehicle to slow down vehicle at every intersection or junction of roads or at a turning of the road. It is also provided that driver of the vehicle should not enter intersection or junction of roads unless he makes sure that he would not thereby endanger any other person. Merely, because driver of the Truck was driving vehicle on the left side of road would not absolve him from his responsibility to slow down vehicle as he approaches intersection of roads, particularly when he could have easily seen, that the car over which deceased was riding, was approaching intersection.

19. In view of the fast and constantly increasing volume of traffic, motor vehicles upon roads may be regarded to some extent as coming within the principle of liability defined in Rylands V/s. Fletcher, (1868) 3 HL (LR) 330. From the point of view of pedestrian, the roads of this country have been rendered by the use of motor vehicles, highly dangerous. 'Hit and run' cases where drivers of motor vehicles who have caused accidents, are unknown. In fact such cases are increasing in number. Where a pedestrian without negligence on his part is injured or killed by a motorist, whether negligently or not, he or his legal representatives, as the case may be, should be entitled to recover damages if principle of social justice should have any meaning at all.

20. These provisions (sec.110A and sec.110B of Motor Act, 1988) are not merely procedural provisions. They substantively affect the rights of the parties. The right of action created by Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 was 'new in its species, new in its quality, new in its principles. In every way it was new. The right given to legal representatives under Act, 1988 to file an application for compensation for death due to a motor vehicle accident is an enlarged one. This right cannot be hedged in by limitations of an action under Fatal Accidents Act, 1855. New situations and new dangers require new strategies and new remedies.

*21. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that even if courts may not by interpretation displace the principles of law which are considered to be well settled and, therefore, court cannot dispense with proof of negligence altogether in all cases of motor vehicle accidents, it is possible to develop the law further on the following lines; when a motor vehicle is being driven with reasonable care, it would ordinarily not meet with an accident and, therefore, rule of res-ipsa loquitor as a rule of evidence may be invoked in motor accident cases with greater frequency than in ordinary civil suits (per three-Judge Bench in Jacob Mathew V/s. State of Punjab, 2005 0 ACJ(SC) 1840).

22. By the above process, the burden of proof may ordinarily be cast on the defendants in a motor accident claim petition to prove that motor vehicle was being driven with reasonable care or that there is equal negligence on the part the other side."

11. The Apex Court in Khenyei Vs. New India Assurance Company Limited & Others, 2015 LawSuit (SC) 469 has held as under:

"4. It is a case of composite negligence where injuries have been caused to the claimants by combined wrongful act of joint tort feasors. In a case of accident caused by negligence of joint tort feasors, all the persons who aid or counsel or direct or join in committal of a wrongful act, are liable. In such case, the liability is always joint and several. The extent of negligence of joint tort feasors in such a case is immaterial for satisfaction of the claim of the plaintiff/claimant and need not be determined by the by the court. However, in case all the joint tort feasors are before the court, it may determine the extent of their liability for the purpose of adjusting inter-se equities between them at appropriate stage. The liability of each and every joint tort feasor vis a vis to plaintiff/claimant cannot be bifurcated as it is joint and several liability. In the case of composite negligence, apportionment of compensation between tort feasors for making payment to the plaintiff is not permissible as the plaintiff/claimant has the right to recover the entire amount from the easiest targets/solvent defendant.

14. There is a difference between contributory and composite negligence. In the case of contributory negligence, a person who has himself contributed to the extent cannot claim compensation for the injuries sustained by him in the accident to the extent of his own negligence;whereas in the case of composite negligence, a person who has suffered has not contributed to the accident but the outcome of combination of negligence of two or more other persons. This Court in T.O. Anthony v. Karvarnan & Ors. [2008 (3) SCC 748] has held that in case of contributory negligence, injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong doer separately. It is only in the case of contributory negligence that the injured himself has contributed by his negligence in the accident. Extent of his negligence is required to be determined as damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries have to be reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence. The relevant portion is extracted hereunder :

"6. 'Composite negligence' refers to the negligence on the part of two or more persons. Where a person is injured as a result of negligence on the part of two or more wrong doers, it is said that the person was injured on account of the composite negligence of those wrong-doers. In such a case, each wrong doer, is jointly and severally liable to the injured for payment of the entire damages and the injured person has the choice of proceeding against all or any of them. In such a case, the injured need not establish the extent of responsibility of each wrong-doer separately, nor is it necessary for the court to determine the extent of liability of each wrong-doer separately. On the other hand where a person suffers injury, partly due to the negligence on the part of another person or persons, and partly as a result of his own negligence, then the negligence of the part of the injured which contributed to the accident is referred to as his contributory negligence. Where the injured is guilty of some negligence, his claim for damages is not defeated merely by reason of the negligence on his part but the damages recoverable by him in respect of the injuries stands reduced in proportion to his contributory negligence.

7. Therefore, when two vehicles are involved in an accident, and one of the drivers claims compensation from the other driver alleging negligence, and the other driver denies negligence or claims that the injured claimant himself was negligent, then it becomes necessary to consider whether the injured claimant was negligent and if so, whether he was solely or partly responsible for the accident and the extent of his responsibility, that is his contributory negligence. Therefore where the injured is himself partly liable, the principle of 'composite negligence' will not apply nor can there be an automatic inference that the negligence was 50:50 as has been assumed in this case. The Tribunal ought to have examined the extent of contributory negligence of the appellant and thereby avoided confusion between composite negligence and contributory negligence. The High Court has failed to correct the said error."

This Court in Challa Bharathamma &Nanjappan (supra) has dealt with the breach of policy conditions by the owner when the insurer was asked to pay the compensation fixed by the tribunal and the right to recover the same was given to the insurer in the executing court concerned if the dispute between the insurer and the owner was the subject-matter of determination for the tribunal and the issue has been decided in favour of the insured. The same analogy can be applied to the instant cases as the liability of the joint tort feasor is joint and several. In the instant case, there is determination of inter se liability of composite negligence to the extent of negligence of 2/3rd and 1/3rd of respective drivers. Thus, the vehicle - trailor-truck which was not insured with the insurer, was negligent to the extent of 2/3rd. It would be open to the insurer being insurer of the bus after making payment to claimant to recover from the owner of the trailor-truck the amount to the aforesaid extent in the execution proceedings. Had there been no determination of the inter se liability for want of evidence or other joint tort feasor had not been impleaded, it was not open to settle such a dispute and to recover the amount in execution proceedings but the remedy would be to file another suit or appropriate proceedings in accordance with law.

What emerges from the aforesaid discussion is as follows :

7. (i) In the case of composite negligence, plaintiff/claimant is entitled to sue both or any one of the joint tort feasors and to recover the entire compensation as liability of joint tort feasors is joint and several.

9. (iii) In case all the joint tort feasors have been impleaded and evidence is sufficient, it is open to the court/tribunal to determine inter se extent of composite negligence of the drivers. However, determination of the extent of negligence between the joint tort feasors is only for the purpose of their inter se liability so that one may recover the sum from the other after making whole of payment to the plaintiff/claimant to the extent it has satisfied the liability of the other. In case both of them have been impleaded and the apportionment/ extent of their negligence has been determined by the court/tribunal, in main case one joint tort feasor can recover the amount from the other in the execution proceedings.

10. (iv) It would not be appropriate for the court/tribunal to determine the extent of composite negligence of the drivers of two vehicles in the absence of impleadment of other joint tort feasors. In such a case, impleaded joint tort feasor should be left, in case he so desires, to sue the other joint tort feasor in independent proceedings after passing of the decree or award."

12. The decision of the Apex Court in Khenyei (Supra) has laid down one further aspect about considering the negligence more particularly composite and contributory negligence.

13. The judgments of Pramodkumar Rasikbhai Jhaveri Vs. Karmasey Kunvargi Tak and others decided on 05.08.2002 in Appeal (Civil) No. 5436 of 1994, (2) Raj Rani and others Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited and others decided on 06.05.2009 in Civil Appeal No. 33-3318 of 2009 (Arising out of SLP (C) Nos. 2792-27793 of 2008) and (3) Archit Saini Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. And others, 2018) AIR (SC) 1143, will also permit us to revaluate the percentage of the negligence of the deceased. The Tribunal has held that the deceased too was negligent in driving the vehicle.

14. It is an admitted position of fact that two vehicles involved in accident, i.e., car and truck. Accident occurred at 5.30 a.m. which proved fatal to Ram Dulare and Pravin Kumar Dubey who succumbed to the injuries on the spot while Vidyawati and Manju Devi died during the treatment.

15. Factual data as culled out from the Judgment of the Tribunal goes to show that the Tribunal has given its reasoning on issue nos. 1 and 2. The driver and owner of the truck have not disputed the accident having taken place but they have come out with a new plea that the truck was stationary and Maruti car was being plied and coming from Varanasi at an exorbitant speed. Claimant Anju-PW1 was not an eye witness. The accident occurred at 5.30 a.m is also not in dispute. P.W. 2 Rakesh Kumar Upadhyay has been examined who has opined that he, Ram Dular Dubey, Pravin, Vidyawati and Manju Devi were in the car and were going to worship at the temple. The driver of the truck drove the vehicle rashly and negligently, first dashed one Indica car and then came and dashed maruti car on front side whereby death of Ram Dular and Pravin was caused. He was also injured as he was in the said vehicle and he was admitted in BHU under Dr. Lahri but he has not filed any claim petition. Unfortunately, police has not shown him as a witness. It is an admitted position of fact that the driver of the truck after filing reply did not step into the witness box. The learned Tribunal has held the driver of the truck negligent 75 per cent. Though the witnesses have conveyed that the truck dashed with Indica car after trying to overtake the Indica car. Unfortunately, as the site plan did not show from where Indica car was procured. The learned Judge observed at page 35 as under:-

ष्इन परिस्थितियों में जबकि आमने सामने से सुबह से 5.30 बजे वाहन जा रहे थे तो यदि मारूती कार चालक भी सावधानी बरतता तो ट्रक को जो इण्डिका कार से बड़ी गाड़ी है यदि इण्डिका कार के पीछे जा रही थी तो मारूती कार चालक को दूर से ही दिख सकती थी और वह सावधानी बरतकर कथित दुर्घटना को बचा सकता था''

16. It is nobody's case, hence, we re-evaluate negligence at 10 per cent of the driver. Deceased Pravin was the driver of the car who is the brother of Anju. Pradeep Kumar and Sandeep Kumar, were children of Ram Dular Dubey and Ramvanti Devi aged about 65 years were the mother of Ram Dular Dubey who died in the accident. Therefore, as far as the claim of age of Ram Dular Dubey, the matter would be of a person who can be said to have not contributed the accident having taken place. The heirs of Vidyawati Devi would also be heirs of a non contributor. Vidyawati and Ram Dular Debey were husband and wife. Manju Devi was the widow of Pravin Dubey and appellants are claimants who are sister-in-law, brother-in-law, brother-in-law and grandmother-in-law. It would be a case of non contributor. Pravin if at all he is held liable for the accident, their compensation would stand depleted to that much extent as qua other three. It is a case of composite negligence.

17. The reasoning given by the Tribunal to hold the deceased negligent and that he had contributed to 25% of the accident is perverse, just because there was head on collusion of two vehicles. We hold that the driver of the maruti car was plying his car on the correct side but its impact was such that we hodl that he was negligent to the effect of 10 per cent.

18. The deceased or the person concerned should be shown to have contributed either to the accident and the impact of accident upon the victim could have been minimised if he had taken care. In this case the deceased were not the authors or the co-authors of the accident. On facts, the deceased was not plying the vehicle. Hence, the deduction of 25%from the compensation awarded to heirs of non tortfessors will have to be considerd on the basis of well settled legal principles governing contributory and composite negligence as both aspects are present in this vehicular accident The driver of the Truck did not appear before the Tribunal despite that the learned Tribunal has returned the finding that driver of van was also negligent.

Computation of compensation for death of four persons:-

19. Learned counsel for appellant has relied on the decision of the Apex Court titled as Montford Brothers of St. Gabriel and another Vs. United India Insurance and another, 2014 1 ACC 461 and on the judgment of Gujarat State Road Transport Corporation, Ahmedabad Vs. Ramanbhai Prabhatbhai to contend that legal representative is considered and not dependent and the learned counsel for respondent has relied on the decision of Apex Court in National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Birender and others, 2020 LawSuit (SC) 26, so as to contend that the dependents of the deceased, who has received benefits would not be entitled for the same. The learned counsel for the appellant has also relied on the said judgment.

20. Learned counsel for appellant has further relied on the authoritative pronouncements of this High Court in Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Mangey Ram and others (Supra), Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation Vs. Tara Devi, 1995 LawSuit (All) 13, and Padma Devi Vs. .P. State Road Transport Corporation, 1988 LawSuit (All) 235, to contend that non grant of compensation except non pecuniary damages is against mandate of this Court.

21. We would place reliance on the decisions in Malarvizhi & Ors Vs. United India Insurance Company Limited and Another, 2020 (4) SCC 228 and United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Indiro0 Devi & Ors, 2018 (7) SCC 715. and in The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Mangey Ram and others, 2019 0 Supreme (All) 1067 and the recent judgment of the Apex Court in New India Assurance Company Vs. Urmila Shukla decided by the Apex Court on 6.8.2021 reported in MANU/ SCOR/24098/2021 and Kirti and others vs oriental insurance company ltd reported in 2021(1) TAC 1 for commputing the compensation payable to the heirs legal representative of all four deceased on what basis, the Tribunal has disregarded the income and cannot deduct the amounts as deducted by Tribunal as income would increase unless proved otherwise. The factors to be considered for evaluating quantum of compensation reads as follows:

i. To give present value, a reasonable deduction or reduction is required as lump sum amount is given at a stretch under the head of prospective economic loss.

ii. The tax element is also required to be considered as observed in the Gourley's case (1956 AC 185).

iii. The resultant impairment/death on the earning capacity of the claimant/deceased .iv. That the amount of interest is awarded also on the prospective loss of income. v. That the amount of compensation is not exemplary or punitive but is compensatory in nature .

22. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted with regard to the compensation on account of death of all four deceased and submitted as under:-

(a) As far as the deceased Ram Dular is concerned, the Tribunal considered income of the deceased Ram Dular to be Rs.15,000/-. Unfortunately, the Tribunal did not award any amount under the head of future loss of income. It deducted 1/3rd amount out of Rs.15,000/- which was considered to be his income. His salary certificate of 30.6.2004 and document 71/c go to show that his income was Rs.21,014/-. The Tribunal granted multiplier of only 10 and 6% rate of interest. Learned counsel for the appellant has contended that the income should be considered to be Rs.21,014/- as per the salary certificate paper no. 71C and at the most after all deductions it should be Rs.16,876/-.It is submitted that the deceased left behind him legal heirs four in number, i.e, two juvenile sons, one dauther and mother and, therefore, the personal expenses should be 1/4th and not 1/3rd. Age of the deceased was in the age bracket of 45 to 50 years, hence, multiplier applicable would be 13 and not 10 and even in the year of accident, the pecuniary damages to be awarded would be 1 lakh as both the parents are lost by the minors.

(b) As far as his wife late Vidyavati is concerned, she was a home maker and aged about 45 years at the time of accident. The Tribunal has considered her income to be Rs.15,000/- without granting any future loss of income. It deducted 1/3rd. Under the head of total loss of dependency it granted Rs.1,0000/-; for funeral expenses, it granted Rs.2,000/-

(c) For the death of Pravin Dubey, who has left behind his minor brothers has not considered his income not even notional income though he was expected to earn Rs.7,000 per month as he was selected as BTC teacher as per paper 46C. No amount except Rs.1,000 towards loss of love and affection and Rs.2,000/- for funeral expenses are granted.

(d) As far as late Manju Devi, who has left behind sister-in-law, two brother-in-law and grand mother-in-law, is concerned, the Tribunal has not granted any amount except Rs.2,000/- for funeral expenses holding that they are no dependents and, therefore, no amount under the other head has been granted by the Tribunal. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the Judgment of the Tribunal requires modification.

23. We have heard the learned counsels for the parties and considered the factual data far as compensation is concerned. Hence, we now propose to calculate the compensation payable to the legal heirs of the deceased,who were four in number and hence compensation will have to be recalculated in case of all four individually though the claimants could have filed different claim applications as there is no conflict of interest joint claim petition is held maintainable .

We consider the income of the deceased (A) Ram Dular to be Rs.17,000/- per mensem to which as the deceased was aged about 47 years at the time of accident, 30% has to be added under the head of future prospect. 1/4 th have to be deducted towards his personal expenses. Multiplier applicable to him is 13. We grant Rs.1,00,000/- under the head of non-pecuniary damages.

Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra) for death of Ram Dular Dubey is computed herein below:

i. Income Rs.17,000/- p.m.

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : Rs.5,100/-

iii. Total income : Rs.17,000+Rs.5,100= Rs.22,100/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/4th towards personal expenses : Rs.16,575/-

v. Annual income : Rs.16,575 x 12 = Rs.1,98,900

vi. Multiplier applicable : 13

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.1,98,900 x 13= Rs.25,85,700/-

viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs.1,00,000/-

ix. Total compensation: Rs.26,85,700/-

We consider the monthly income of the deceased (B) Vidyavati to be Rs.2,000/- to which as the deceased was aged about 45 years, 25% has to be added under the head of future prospect as she was home maker. 1/3rd is required to be deducted. Multiplier applicable to her is 14. We grant Rs.70,000/- under the head of non-pecuniary damages.

Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra) for death of Vidyawati is computed herein below:

i. Income Rs.2000/- p.m.

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : Rs.500/-

iii. Total income : Rs.2000+Rs.500= Rs.2,500/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3rd towards personal expenses : Rs.1,666/- (rounded figure)

v. Annual income : Rs.1,666 x 12 = Rs.19,992

vi. Multiplier applicable : 14

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.19,992 x 14= Rs.2,79,888/-

viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs.70,000/-

ix. Total compensation: Rs.3,49,888/-

We consider the monthly notional income of the deceased (C) Pravin Dubey to be Rs.2,000/- to which as the deceased was aged about 25 years, 40% has to be added under the head of future prospect. As he was not a bachelor but had a wife namely Manju Devi, 1/3rd is required to be deducted. Multiplier applicable to her is 18. We grant Rs.70,000/- under the head of non-pecuniary damages.

Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra) for death of Pravin Dubey is computed herein below:

i. Income Rs.2000/- p.m.

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : Rs.800/-

iii. Total income : Rs.2000+Rs.800= Rs.2,800/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3rd towards personal expenses : Rs.1,866/- (rounded figure)

v. Annual income : Rs.1,866 x 12 = Rs.22,392/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 18

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.22,392 x 18= Rs.4,03,056/-

viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs.70,000/-

ix. Total compensation: Rs.4,73,056/-

We consider the monthly notional income of the deceased (D) Manju Devi to be Rs.2,000/- to which as the deceased was aged about 25 years, 40% has to be added under the head of future prospect. 1/3rd is required to be deducted. Multiplier applicable to her is 18. We grant Rs.70,000/- under the head of non-pecuniary damages.

Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra) for death of Manju Devi is computed herein below:

i. Income Rs.2000/- p.m.

ii. Percentage towards future prospects : Rs.800/-

iii. Total income : Rs.2000+Rs.800= Rs.2,800/-

iv. Income after deduction of 1/3rd towards personal expenses : Rs.1,866/- (rounded figure)

v. Annual income : Rs.1,866 x 12 = Rs.22,392/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 18

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.22,392 x 18= Rs.4,03,056/-

viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs.70,000/-

ix. Total compensation: Rs.4,73,056/-

Hence, the total compensation to the claimants for the death of four persons would be Rs.39,81,700/-.

24. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

25. No other grounds are urged orally when the matter was heard

26. On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012 (1) GLH (SC), 442, the further order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or rustic villagers and must by now attained majority the tribunal shall follow the directions .

27. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansaguti P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291,total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to each claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceed Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of the Tribunal is directed to allow the claimants to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income-Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.The insurance company shall follow the said direction and shall not deduct flat TDS without considering the proportionate share of each claimant individually .

28. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till award and 6% thereafter till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

29. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein.

30. It is hoped that the Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and apply the judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

Hon'ble Subhash Chand, J.)

1. Heard Shri Udit Chandra, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Sudhanshu Behari Lal Gour, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The written submission of learned counsel for appellants is also taken on record.

3. This appeal, at the behest of the claimants, challenges the judgment dated 5.8.2008 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Pilibhit (hereinafter referred to as 'Tribunal') in Claim Petition No.63 of 2006 awarding a sum of Rs.6,50,000/- with interest at the rate of 6% as compensation.

4. The accident is not in dispute. The issue of negligence decided by the Tribunal is not in dispute. The respondent concerned has not challenged the liability imposed on them. The only issue to be decided is, the quantum of compensation awarded.

5. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the Tribunal has not granted any amount towards future loss of income of the deceased which is required to be granted in view of the decision in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050. It is further submitted that amount under non-pecuniary heads granted and the interest awarded by the Tribunal are on the lower side and require enhancement. It is also submitted that as the deceased was survived by his parents and hence the deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased should be 1/3 and not 1/2 as by tribunal under challenge. The multiplier has to be as per age of deceased. To which as the deceased was in age bracket of 26-30 years, 50% of the income will have to be added as future prospects in view of the decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi and Others, 2017 0 Supreme (SC) 1050. Learned counsel for the appellant in his favour he has relied on the following judgments to substantiate his submissions for enhancement.

(i) National insurance Company Limited v. Pranay Sethi and others, Special Leave Petition (Civil) No.25590 of 2014, decided on 31.10.2017.

(ii) P.S. Somanathan and others v. District Insurance Officer and another, Civil Appeal No.1891 of 2011, decided on 17.2.2011.

(iii) Munna Lal Jain and another v. Vipin Kumar Sharma and others, Civil Appeal No.4497 of 2015, decided on 15.5.2015.

(iv) Smt. Neeta w/o Kallappa Kadolkar and others v. The Div. Manager, MSRTC, Kolhapur, Civil Appeal Nos. 348-349 of 2015.

(v) Sanobanu Nazirbhai Mirza and others v. Ahmedabad Municipal Transport Service, Civil Appeal No.8251 of 2013, decided on 3.10.2013.

(vi) Chandan Singh and another v. S.E.W. Construction Co. Ltd and others, Misc. Appeal No.296 of 2002, decided on 3.1.2003.

(vii) Smt. Kesh Kumari Verma and another v. Om Narain Shukla and another, First Appeal From Order No.319 of 2011, decided on 4.3.2014.

6. Learned counsel for the respondent, has vehemently submitted that the contentions raised by the learned counsel for the appellants cannot be accepted and has submitted that the compensation awarded by the Tribunal is just and proper and does not call for any enhancement. The deduction can't be 1/3 but has to be 1/2 as deceased was bachelor and survived by parents.

7 . Having heard learned counsels for the parties and considered the factual data. The accident occurred on 28.1.2006 causing death of Anupam Gupta who was 26 years of age and left behind him, parents. The Tribunal has assessed the income of the deceased to be Rs.10,000/- per month, this assessment is wrong. There are three reasons for us to disagree with the learned Tribunal; (i) the post mortem report mentions the address of the deceased to be that of Rajasthan and he had purchased a motorcycle at Rajasthan, but he had not been working there; (ii) As held by the learned Judge, there was no accident having taken place in the Rajasthan which was the place of his service; (iii) The post mortem not only shows his place of service, but also shows that he was residing in the Colony which is maintained by Hindustan Zinc Limited. All these will permit us to interfere with the findings of the tribunal as far as service of deceased is considered. As far as non proving of the job of the petitioner, further the decisions cited by the counsel for the appellants more particularly of the Madhya Pradesh High Court, titled National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Brijlata Insurance Co. Ltd., 2009 ACJ 791 would enure from the benefit of the appellants also.

8. The finding of the tribunal on income of deceased are perverse for the following reasons; (i) the deceased was IIT Graduate and he had shifted to Rajasthan, he had purchased the motorcycle in the year 2005. The deceased was Management Trainee in Starliet Industries Subsidiary of Hindustan Zinc Ltd. The judgments of the Apex Court in the case of Anita Sharma and others versus New India Insurance Company Limited and another, (2021) 1 SCC 171 will not permit us to concur with the learned tribunal contending that as the author of the salary was not examined, it cannot be believed that he was a salaried person. This is a perverse findings of fact. The trappings of civil jurisdiction would and should not be adhered to indicative the compensation, non grant of future prospects is also without any reasons. The Apex Court in Kirti v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd, (2021) 2 SCC 166 will also not permit us to concur with the findings of tribunal. The approach to be adopted by the tribunal. Thus, the approach is irregularities and requires to be interfered and was alleged to be earning Rs.33,360/- per month, which we feel is just and proper. As far as deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased is concerned, it should be 1/2 as the deceased was a bachelor and his mother was dependent.

9. The submission that the Tribunal has not granted any amount towards future loss of income. Grant of future prospects will have to be traced back and reference can be had to the decision in General Manager, Kerala S.R.T.C., Trivandrum v. Susamma Thomas & Ors.,(1994) 2

SCC 176 wherein addition of future prospects was also calculated. The decision in Susamma Thomas (Supra) was referred in U.P.S.R.T.C. & Ors. v. Trilok Chandra & Ors.(1996) 4 SCC 362 which have been considered by the Apex Court in Sarla Dixit Versus Balwant Yadav AIR 1996 SC 1274 and the Apex Court has considered decision in Hardeo Kaur V/s. Rajasthan State Transport Corporation, 1992 2 SCC 567. The decision in Sarla Dixit has been considered to be good law in (1) Puttamma Vs. K.L.Narayana Reddy, AIR 2014 SC 706 (2) Raman Vs. Uttar Haryana Bijli Vitran Nigam Limited, Bijoy Kumar Dugar Vs. Bidyadhar Dutta, 2006 (3) SCC 242 : (3) Sarla Verma (supra)(4)R.K.Malik Vs. Kiran Pal, AIR 2009 SC 2506 (5)National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Pranay Sethi, AIR 2017 SC 5157 Raj Rani Vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited, 2009 (13) SCC 654. We have gone through the decisions in those days referred to herein above and the judgment of Gujarat high court in Ritaben alias Vanitaben Wd/o. Dipakbhai Hariram and Anr. v/s.Ahmedabad Municipal Transport Service & Anr., 1998 (2) G.L.H. 670, wherein, the Court has observed as under:

"para-7: It is settled proposition of that the main anxiety of the Tribunal in such case should be to see that the heirs and legal representatives of the deceased are placed, as far as possible, in the same financial position, as they would have been, had there been no accident. It is therefore, an action based on the doctrine of compensation.

para-8: It may also be mentioned that perfect determination of compensation in such tortuous liability is, hardly, obtainable. However, the Tribunal is required to take an overall view of the facts and the relevant circumstances together with the relevant proposition of law and is obliged to award an amount of compensation which is just and reasonable in the circumstances of the case.

para-10: Even in absence of any other evidence an able bodied young man of 25 years, otherwise also presumed to earn an amount of Rs.1000/- or more per month, on that basis the prospective income could be calculated by doubling the one prevalent on the date of the accident, which is required be divided by half, so as to reach the correct datum figure which is required to be multiplied by appropriate multiplier. Even taking a conservative view in the matter, the deceased would be earning not less than an amount of Rs.1000/- per month and considering the prospective average income of Rs.2000/- and divided by half, would, obviously come to Rs.1500/."

10. Thus even in year 1990 to 2005, the addition of future prospects was not ruled out, just because tribunals in Uttar Pradesh were not granting future loss, it cannot hold field where the decision of Apex Court is otherwise as demonstrated with decision though of persuasive value of Gujarat High Court referred herein above wherefore, the submission of Sri Shukla that no amount under the head of future loss of income was admissible in those days, will have to be considered. The decision of the Apex Court in New India Assurance Company Ltd. Vs. Urmila Shukla and others, LL 2021 SC 359 will have to be looked into. Therefore, we will have to consider the same in the light of the recent decisions as well as the decisions of the Apex Court prevailing.

11. In Malarvizhi & Others and Indiro Devi & Others (Supra), it has been held that Income Tax is the mirror of one's income unless proved otherwise. Even in the earlier days, the factors to be considered for issuing quantum of compensation reads as follows:

i. To give present value, a reasonable deduction or reduction is required as lump sum amount is given at a stretch under the head of prospective economic loss;

ii. The tax element is also required to be considered as observed in the Gourley's case (1956 AC 185).

iii. The resultant impairment/death on the earning capcity of the claimant/claimants .

iv. That the amount of interest is awarded also on the prospective loss of income.

v. That the amount of compensation is not exemplary or punitive but is compensatory.

12. Hence, the total compensation payable to the appellants in view of the decision of the Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (Supra) is computed herein below:

i. Income Rs.33,360/- p.m.

ii. Annual income : Rs.33,360 x 12 = Rs.400320/-

iii. Percentage towards future prospects : 50% namely Rs.200160/-

iv. Total income : Rs. 400320 + 200160 = Rs.600480/-

v. Income after deduction of 1/2 : Rs.300240/-

vi. Multiplier applicable : 17 (as the deceased was in the age bracket of 26-30 years)

vii. Loss of dependency: Rs.300240 x 17 = Rs.51,04,080/-

viii. Amount under non pecuniary heads : Rs.70,000/-

ix. Total compensation : Rs.51,74,080/-

13. As far as issue of rate of interest is concerned, it should be 7.5% in view of the latest decision of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Mannat Johal and Others, 2019 (2) T.A.C. 705 (S.C.) wherein the Apex Court has held as under :

"13. The aforesaid features equally apply to the contentions urged on behalf of the claimants as regards the rate of interest. The Tribunal had awarded interest at the rate of 12% p.a. but the same had been too high a rate in comparison to what is ordinarily envisaged in these matters. The High Court, after making a substantial enhancement in the award amount, modified the interest component at a reasonable rate of 7.5% p.a. and we find no reason to allow the interest in this matter at any rate higher than that allowed by High Court."

14 . On depositing the amount in the Registry of Tribunal, Registry is directed to first deduct the amount of deficit court fees, if any. Considering the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.V. Padma V/s. Venugopal, Reported in 2012

(1) GLH (SC), 442, the order of investment is not passed because applicants /claimants are neither illiterate or restic villagers.

15. In view of the ratio laid down by Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Smt. Hansaguti P. Ladhani v/s The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., reported in 2007(2) GLH 291, total amount of interest, accrued on the principal amount of compensation is to be apportioned on financial year to financial year basis and if the interest payable to claimant for any financial year exceeds Rs.50,000/-, insurance company/owner is/are entitled to deduct appropriate amount under the head of 'Tax Deducted at Source' as provided u/s 194A (3) (ix) of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and if the amount of interest does not exceeds Rs.50,000/- in any financial year, registry of this Tribunal is directed to allow the claimant to withdraw the amount without producing the certificate from the concerned Income- Tax Authority. The aforesaid view has been reiterated by this High Court in Review Application No.1 of 2020 in First Appeal From Order No.23 of 2001 (Smt. Sudesna and others Vs. Hari Singh and another) while disbursing the amount.

16. In view of the above, the appeal is partly allowed. Judgment and decree passed by the Tribunal shall stand modified to the aforesaid extent. The respondent-Insurance Company shall deposit the amount along with additional amount within a period of 12 weeks from today with interest at the rate of 7.5% from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited. The amount already deposited be deducted from the amount to be deposited.

17. Record and proceedings be remitted to tribunal.

18. Fresh Award be drawn accordingly in the above petition by the tribunal as per the modification made herein. The Tribunals in the State shall follow the direction of this Court as herein aforementioned as far as disbursement is concerned, it should look into the condition of the litigant and the pendency of the matter and apply the judgment of A.V. Padma (supra). The same is to be applied looking to the facts of each case.

19. This Court is thankful to both the counsels to see that the matter is disposed of.

(A) Habeas Corpus - writ of habeas corpus - prerogative writ - an extraordinary remedy - festinum remedium - habeas corpus would be dependent on the jurisdictional fact - It is only where the jurisdictional fact is established that the applicant becomes entitled to the writ as of right - issuance of a writ of habeas corpus at the behest of a husband to regain his wife may not be available as a matter of course and the power in this regard may be

4. Manjita Devi & anr. Vs St. of U.P. & ors. , 2021 (2) AWC 1055

1. Heard Sri Avinash Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioners and Ms. Rachna Tiwari, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing for the State-respondents.

2. The undisputed facts as reflected from the pleadings on record are that the petitioner no.2, wife of the petitioner no.1, left her matrimonial home sometime in the month of June, 2019 on account of some serious differences with her husband (petitioner no.1) and an application for restitution of conjugal rights was filed by the petitioner no.1 which was registered as Case No. 772 of 2019 (Mohd. Ahmad vs. Arshi) and the same is stated to be pending before the court of the Principal Judge, Family Court, Saharanpur.

3. Counsel for the petitioners has sought to contend that subsequent thereto sometime in the month of November, 2020 an information was received by him suggesting that petitioner no.2 was being detained at her parental home and in regard to the same certain applications are also stated to have been moved by him before the respondent authorities.

4. Learned Additional Government Advocate submits that once it has been admitted that the petitioner no.2 (wife) left her matrimonial home sometime in the month of June, 2019 on account of serious differences with her husband (petitioner no.1), it is not a case of illegal detention and a writ of habeas corpus would not be entertainable. This would be moreso for the reason that an application seeking restitution of conjugal rights is stated to have been filed by the petitioner no.1 and the same is pending.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioners has not disputed the factual position with regard to the petitioner no.2 having left her matrimonial home in the month of June, 2019 and also that she has not returned back thereafter.

6. There is no material on record to suggest that the petitioner no.2 was forcibly taken away; rather the facts indicate that the petitioner no.2 left her matrimonial home on her own accord on account of some serious differences with her husband (petitioner no.1). The application seeking restitution of conjugal rights, filed by the petitioner no.1-husband, contains a clear narration of facts in this regard.

7. The writ of habeas corpus is a prerogative writ and an extraordinary remedy. It is writ of right and not a writ of course and may be granted only on reasonable ground or probable cause being shown, as held in Mohammad Ikram Hussain v State of U.P. and others1 and Kanu Sanyal v District Magistrate Darjeeling2.

8. The writ of habeas corpus has been held as a festinum remedium and accordingly the power would be exercisable in a clear case. The remedy of writ of habeas corpus at the instance of a person seeking to obtain possession of someone whom he claims to be his wife would therefore not be available as a matter of course. The observations made in the decision in Mohammad Ikram Hussain (supra) in this regard are as follows:-

"13. Exigence of the writ at the instance of a husband is very rare in English Law, and in India the writ of habeas corpus is probably never used by a husband to regain his wife and the alternative remedy under S. 100 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is always used. Then there is the remedy of civil suit for restitution of conjugal rights. Husbands take recourse to the latter when the detention does not amount to an offence and to the former if it does. In both these remedies all the issues of fact can be tried and the writ of habeas corpus is probably not demanded in similar cases if issues of fact have first to be established. This is because the writ of habeas corpus is festinum remedium and the power can only be exercised in a clear case. It is of course singularly inappropriate in cases where the petitioner is himself charged with a criminal offence in respect of the very person for whose custody he demands the writ."

9. The exercise of the extraordinary jurisdiction for issuance of a writ of habeas corpus would be dependent on the jurisdictional fact where the applicant establishes a prima facie case that the detention is unlawful. It is only where the aforementioned jurisdictional fact is established that the applicant becomes entitled to the writ as of right.

10. In view of the other remedies available for the purpose under criminal and civil law, issuance of a writ of habeas corpus at the behest of a husband to regain his wife may not be available as a matter of course and the power in this regard may be exercised only when a clear case is made out.

11. The aforementioned legal position has been stated in recent decision of this Court in Soniya and Another vs. State of U.P. and Others3 and subsequently reiterated in Manjita Devi and another vs. State of U.P. and Others4.

12. In the facts of the present case, the petitioner no.2 having left her matrimonial home on her own on account of a matrimonial discord, the present petition seeking a writ of habeas corpus at the behest of the petitioner no.1 (husband) would not be entertainable.

13. Proceedings for restitution of conjugal rights being pending between the parties before the Family Court, it is open to the petitioner no.1 to pursue the said remedy.

14. Subject to the aforesaid observation the petition stands dismissed.

Habeas corpus petition dismissed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mahendra Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, learned AGA for the State and Sri Sarvajeet Singh, learned counsel for respondent no.4.

2. This habeas corpus writ petition has been filed with the following prayer:

"Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of habeas corpus directing the respondent no.4 to produce the petitioner no.1 before this Hon'ble Court and set her free from illegal detention of respondent no.4."

3. Learned counsel for respondent no.4 submits that in compliance of the order dated 4.8.2021 passed by this Court, petitioner no.1 Netrawati Yadav is present before this Court along with his father Sri Tejpal respondent no.4, resident of village Saidola, P.S. Faijganj Behta District Budaun. Both of them have been identified by Sri Sarvajeet Singh, Advocate.

4. Petitioner no.1 Netrawati Yadav has been brought before this Court by lady constable 691-Neeraj (PNO 112530626), P.S. Faijganj Behta, District Budaun.

5. On being asked from petitioner no.1 as to whether she has solemnized marriage with petitioner no.2, she has refused the same and states that she has not solemnized marriage with him. She further states that the present writ petition has been filed only with the intention to defame her image in the society. She has already married with one Banti, who has also come with her and is present in the campus of High Court. She has further stated that petitioner no.2 Dharmendra was regularly teasing her in her village because his sister is married in the village of Netrawati Yadav and he used to come there only with the intention to defame her. The father of Netrawati Yadav namely Sri Tejpal has also stated that he solemnized the marriage of his daughter with Banti as per Hindu rites and rituals.

6. On the other hand, learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the marriage of petitioner no.1 Netrawati Yadav took place with petitioner no.2 Dharmendra in Arya Samaj Vivah Trust, Delhi on 12.7.2021. When this Court asked from petitioner no.1 Netrawati Yadav regarding the marriage certificate, she has stated that this marriage certificate is forged and no marriage took place.

7. Learned AGA also supports the contention of learned counsel for respondent no.4 and submits that prima facie the marriage certificate appears to be forged.

8. Considering the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of the record, this Court finds that petitioner no.2 wants to defame the image of petitioner no.1 in the society and only with the said intention the present petition has been filed before this Court so that he may be able to succeed in his plan to anyhow get the custody of petitioner no.1, whereas no marriage took place as stated by petitioner no.1 Netrawati Yadav before this Court. The action of petitioner no.2 is illegal and against the norms of society in which we are living. As per the statement of petitioner no.1 and her father Sri Tejpal, she is married with one Banti who also accompanied her in the High Court campus.

9. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed with cost of Rs.50,000/- (rupees fifty thousand) which shall be paid by petitioner no.2 Dharmendra to petitioner no.1 Netrawati Yadav by way of bank draft within one month from today. In case the cost is not paid by petitioner no.2 to petitioner no.1, the same shall be recovered as arrears of land revenue.

10. The copy of the order be sent by the office to the concerned CJM for necessary compliance

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J.)

1. Heard Sri Daya Shankar Mishra, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Chandrakesh Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Rishi Chaddha, learned A.G.A. for the State-respondents and Sri Ajay Singh, learned Central Government Counsel for the respondent no.1.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following relief :

"(i) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature certiorari quashing the impugned order of detention dated 2.11.2020 passed by District Magistrate District Basti/ respondent no.3 in Order no.5176/J.A.(NSA)/2020 by exercising of power U/s 3(3) of National Security Act, 1980.

(ii) Issue a Habeas Corpus writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to release the petitioner forthwith from detention U/s 3(3) of National Security Act,1980."

3. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that by the impugned order dated 02.11.2020, under Section 3(2) of the National Security Act, 1980 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act 1980"), passed by the District Magistrate, Basti, the petitioner was detained for the grounds/reasons mentioned in the impugned order. The petitioner was informed about the grounds of detention and his right to make representation. The petitioner submitted an objection dated 12.11.2020 before the concerned respondents.

4. As per paragraph No. 4 of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the respondent no.1 i.e. Union of India, dated 18.01.2021 (filed on 03.02.2021), the representation of the detenu/petitioner was rejected and he was informed about it vide wireless message dated 06.01.2020. In paragraph No. 4 of the supplementary counter affidavit dated 23.07.2021 (filed on 26.07.2021) respondent no.1 has explained the time taken in passing the order, as under :

"That, in continuation of para 4 of the affidavit dated 18.01 2021, it is submitted that the representation dated 12.11.2020 of the detenu along with parawise comments of the detaining authority was forwarded by the Under Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh vide letter no. 84/2/77/2020-C.X-5 dated 01.12.2020. The same was received in the section concerned in the Ministry of Home Affairs on 10.12.2020. Despite of unprecedented situation of COVID-19 the representation along with parawise comments of the detaining authority was processed for the consideration of Union Home Secretary on 17.12.2020. The matter was thoroughly examined by Under Secretary with Section Officer and section staff and after satisfying all the facts, the Under Secretary (NSA) with her comments forwarded the file to the Deputy Legal Advisor (DLA) on 23.12.2020. The Deputy Legal Advisor (DLA) forwarded the file to the Joint Secretary (IS-II) on 24.12.2020. Thereafter, there was a intervening period 25h, 26th, 27th December, 2020 due to Saturday, Sunday and Christmas Eve. On 28th December, 2020, the matter was discussed with Joint Secretary (IS-II) and the Deputy Legal Advisor (DLA). Thereafter, the Joint Secretary (IS-II) with his comments forwarded the file to the Union Home Secretary on 02.01.2021. Thereafter, the Union Home Secretary having carefully gone through the material on record, including the order of detention, the grounds for detention, the representation of the detenu and the comments of the detaining authority thereon concluded that the detenu had failed to put forth any material cause or grounds in his representation to justify the revocation of the order by exercise of the powers of the Central Government under Section 14 of the National Security Act, 1980. He, therefore, rejected the representation on 04.01.2021 and sent the file back to the Joint Secretary (Internal Security-II). The file reached the section through the aforesaid levels of officers on 06.01.2021. Accordingly, the detenu and the authorities concerned were informed vide Wireless Message No. II/15028/197/2020-NSA dated 06.01.2020. It is pertinent to mention there were intervening period of 9 days on 12th, 13th, 19th, 20th, 25th, 26th, 27th December, 2020; and 02nd and 03rd January, 2021 due to Saturday, Sunday and Christmas Eve. It is further submitted that the representation was examined with utmost care and caution with promptitude."

5. In paragraph Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10 and 11 of the counter affidavit of the respondent no.2, i.e. the State of U.P., has stated as under :

"3. That, it is submitted that the detention order dated 02-11-2020, grounds for detention and all other connected documents, forwarded by the District Magistrate, Basti vide his letter dated 02.11.2020 were received by the State Government on 05.11.2020. After examining every aspect of the case of petitioner in detail, the State Government approved the order of detention on 11-11-2020. The approval of the detention order was communicated to the petitioner through the district authorities by the State Government radiogram and letter, both dated 12-11-2020, that is within 12 days from the date of the detention order as required under section 3(4) of the Act.

4. That it is further stated a copy of detention order, grounds of detention and all other connected documents, received from the District Magistrate, Basti were also sent to the Central Government by Speed Post on 13-11-2020 within seven days from the date of approval by the State Government as required under section 3(5) of the Act. Hence, the facts mentioned above goes to show that the provisions of section 3(4) and 3(5) of the Act, have been fully complied with.

5. That, it is submitted that the petitioner was detained under the Act on 02-11-2020, i.e. on the date of service of detention order upon the petitioner. The case of the petitioner was referred to the U.P. Advisory Board (Detentions), Lucknow by the State Government by forwarding the detention order, grounds of detention and all other connected papers on 13-11-2020, well within three weeks from the date of his actual detention as required under section 10 of the Act.

6. That it is submitted that a copy of petitioner's representation dated 12.11.2020 alongwith parawise comments was received in the concerned Section of State Government on 01.12.2020 alongwith letter of District Magistrate, Basti dated 27.11.2020. The State Government sent copies of the representation and parawise comments thereon to the Central Government, New Delhi and to the U.P. Advisory Board (Detentions) vide its separate letters both dated 01.12.2020. Thereafter, the concerned section, that is Home (Gopan) Anubhag-5 of the State Government examined the representation on 02.12.2020.

7. That it is further stated the deponent examined the representation on 03.12.2020. The Deputy Secretary examined the representation on 03.12.2020. The Special Secretary examined the representation on 04.12.2020. The Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow examined the same on 04.12.2020. The Additional Chief Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, examined the representation on 04.12.2020. Dates 05.12.2020 and 06.12.2020 were holiday Saturday and Sunday. Thereafter the file was submitted to the highter authorities for final orders of the State Government. After due consideration, the said representation was finally rejected by the State Government on 07.12.2020.

10. That it is further stated that on receipt thereof, the State Government once again examined afresh the entire case of the petitioner alongwith the opinion of the U.P. Advisory Board and took a decision to confirm the detention order and also for keeping the petitioner under detention for a period of three months tentatively from the date of actual detention of the petitioner i.e. since 02.11.2020. Accordingly, orders of confirmation and for keeping the petitioner under preventive detention of 3 months tentatively from the date of his actual detention under the said Act, were issued by the State Government through radiogram and letter, both dated 21.12.2020 (Annexure no.1 of this counter affidavit).

11. That, it is further stated that on the report/recommendation dated 25.01.2021 received from the District Magistrate, Basti and after consideration of the facts and circumstances of the case the State Government satisfied that it is necessary to extend the above detained period 3 months. So the State Government amended the above order and extended it for 6 month from the actual date of detention order that is, since 02.11.2020. Accordingly the above detention order dated 21.12.2020 was amended and the order was issued on date 29.01.2021 tentatively for 6 months from the actual date of detention that is, since 02.11.2020 (Annexure No.2)."

6. The contents of the aforequoted paragraph Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 have been replied by the petitioner in paragraph No. 4 of the rejoinder affidavit and contents of aforequoted paragraph Nos. 10 & 11 of the counter affidavit have been replied by the petitioners in paragraph No. 6 of the rejoinder affidavit. Paragraph Nos. 4 & 6 of the rejoinder affidavit are reproduced below :

"4. That the contents of paragraphs no.3, 4, 5, 6, 7 of the counter-affidavit are matter of records same can be verify from the records.

6. That the content of paragraphs' no. 10, 11 of the counter affidavit are matter of records same can be verify from the records."

7. Thus, from perusal of the aforequoted paragraph Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10 & 11 of the counter affidavit clearly reveals sufficient explanation for time taken in passing the order by the respondent No.2, which has not been disputed by the petitioner in paragraphs Nos. 4 & 6 of the rejoinder affidavit. Thus, the only ground of attack of non explanation of time taken in passing the order, by the respondent No.2, has no substance on the admitted facts stated in paragraph Nos.3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10 & 11 of the counter affidavit of the respondent No.2 and its reply in paragraph Nos. 4 & 6 of the rejoinder affidavit filed on behalf of the petitioner.

8. A detailed counter affidavit by the respondent No.3, i.e. District Magistrate, Basti, and a counter affidavits on behalf of the respondent no.5, i.e. Superintendent of District Jail, Basti, have been filed and the petitioner has filed rejoinder affidavit to the aforesaid counter affidavits which all are on record.

9. The only submission made by learned counsel for the petitioner before this Court, as has also been noted in the order dated 27.07.2021; is that the delay of 57 days in deciding the representation by the respondent no.1 is unexplained and, therefore, further detention of petitioner is wholly illegal and unwarranted and consequently the writ petition should be allowed.

10. In support of his contention learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Rajammal Vs. State of Tamil Nadu and another, AIR 1999 SC 684, with specific reliance, the relevant portion of which has been quoted in the order dated 27.07.2021, and the same is reproduced below :-

"It is for the authority concerned to explain the delay, if any, in disposing the representation. It is not enough to say that the delay was very short. Even longer delay can as well be explained. So the test is not the duration or range of delay, but how it is explained by the authority concerned. It was further held that delay from 09.02.1998 to 14.02.1998 remains unexplained and such unexplained delay has vitiated the further detention of the detenue. The corollary thereof is that further detention must necessarily be disallowed".

11. There is no quarrel on the aforequoted principle of law stated by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Rajammal (supra) that the test is not the duration or range of delay, but how it is explained by the authority concerned.

12. The only thing that needs to be tested in the present writ petition is as to whether the time taken in deciding the representation has been properly explained by the respondent No.1. For this purpose, we have to look at the explanation offered by the respondent no.1. The order of detention dated 02.11.2020, under Section 3(3) of the National Security Act, 1980 was passed by the District Magistrate, Basti, against the petitioner. The petitioner submitted an objection/representation to it dated 12.11.2020. As per paragraph No.6 of the counter affidavit of the respondent no.2, a copy of the representation dated 12.11.2020 alongwith parawise comment was received in the concerned section of the State Government on 01.12.2020 alongwith letter of the District Magistrate dated 27.11.2020 and thereupon the State Government sent copies of the representation and parawise comments to the Central Government i.e. the respondent no.1 and to the U.P. Advisory Board (detention) vide separate letters both dated 01.12.2020.

13. The aforesaid representation of the petitioner sent by the respondent no.2 to the respondent no.1 was received in the concerned section of the Ministry of Home Affairs on 10.12.2020. Despite unprecedented situation due to COVID 19, the representation of the petitioner alongwith parawise comments of the detaining authority was processed for consideration of the Union Home Secretary on 17.12.2020, as has been stated in paragraph no.4 of the supplementary counter affidavit of the respondent No.1 which portion has not been disputed or denied by the petitioner in paragraph no.3 of the rejoinder affidavit.

14. The fact of unprecedented situation due to Pandemic COVID 19 is also reflected from the averments made by the petitioner in paragraph No. 3 of the writ petition sworn on personal knowledge, wherein the counsel for the petitioner has himself declared that due to Pandemic COVID 19, it is impossible for the deponent to come at Allahabad High Court to swear the affidavit, in view of the order dated 11.04.2020, passed by the High Court.

15. The deponent of the affidavit accompanying the writ petition is Krishna Kumar Singh who is elder brother of the petitioner, has stated in paragraph No. 4 of the writ petition that he is filing this habeas corpus writ petition on behalf of the petitioner. In the declaration accompanying the writ petition filed by the Sri Raj Kumar Singh, Advocate (counsel for the petitioner/applicant), it has been stated that "due to Corona Virus (COVID -19) Pandemic and Nation Wide lock-down and due to close of Photo I.D. center, the deponent unable to swear the Affidavit filed in support of the present Habeas Corpus Writ Petition." Thus, the petitioner/deponent of the affidavit accompanying the writ petition as well as the petitioner's counsel have admitted on record the unprecedented situation created due to Pandemic COVID 19. Therefore, the explanation offered with reference to the unprecedented situation created due to Pandemic COVID 19, is well acceptable.

16. The petitioner has also not denied the averments of paragraph No.4 of the supplementary counter affidavit that the matter was thoroughly examined by the under Secretary with Section Officer and Section Staff and after satisfying all the facts, the National Security Advisor (NSA) with her comments forwarded the file to the Deputy Legal Advisor (DLA) on 23.12.2020, who forwarded the file to the Joint Secretary on the very next day i.e. 24.12.2020. The petitioner in his rejoinder affidavit has also not disputed the averments of paragraph No. 4 of the supplementary counter affidavit of the respondent no.1 to the effect that the intervening period 25th , 26th and 27th December 2020 were Saturday, Sunday and Christmas Eve and on 28th December 2020, the matter was discussed with the Joint Secretary (I.S. -II) and the Deputy Legal Advisor (DLA) and immediately thereafter the Joint Secretary (IS-II) with his comment forwarded the file to the Union Home Secretary on 02.01.2021 who rejected the representation of the detenu on 04.01.2021 and sent the file back to the Joint Secretary (Internal Security - II). The file reached to the Section through the aforesaid levels of Officer on 06.01.2021 and accordingly the detenu and the authorities concerned were informed vide wireless message dated 06.01.2021. It has also been stated in paragraph No. 4 of the supplementary counter affidavit by the respondent No.1 that 12th , 13th , 19th , 20th , 25th , 26th and 27th December 2020 and 2nd and 3rd January 2021 of the intervening period were Saturday, Sunday and Christmas Eve. The specific averments as stated in paragraph No. 4 of the supplementary counter affidavit by the respondent no.1 and briefly noted above have not been specifically disputed by the petitioner in paragraph No. 3 of the rejoinder affidavit. Thus, the only submission of learned counsel for the petitioner that there occurred an unexplained delay of 57 days is wholly without substance. The judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Rajammal (supra) is of no help to the petitioner on the facts of the present case, inasmuch as in the case of Rajammal (supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down the law that the test is not the duration or range of delay but how it is explained by the authority concerned. Therefore, the delay as alleged by the petitioner in paragraph No. 3 of the rejoinder affidavit, is wholly without substance.

17. Thus, the only point argued and pressed before us by the learned counsel for the petitioner to challenge the impugned detention order, has no substance. No other point has been argued before us by learned counsel for the petitioner.

18. In Hetchin Haokip Vs. State of Manipur, (2018) 9 SCC 562 (Paragraph Nos. 9 to 15), Hon'ble Supreme Court explained the meaning of the word "forthwith" used in Section 3(4) of the National Security Act, 1980, in the context of statute providing for preventive detention and after referring to the Constitution Bench judgment in Keshav Tilak Nilkantah Joglekar Vs. Commissioner of Police, AIR 1957 SC 28, Vidya dev Verma Vs. District Magistrate, Agartala, AIR 1969 SC 323 and the Division Bench judgment in Salim Vs. State of West Bengal (1975) 1 SCC 653, held that the word "forthwith" used in Section 3 does not mean instantaneous but without undue delay and within a reasonable time which is to be ascertained from the facts of the case.

19. The facts of the present case as briefly discussed above would reveal that the respondent Nos. 1 & 2 have not caused undue delay in deciding the representation of the petitioner. Both the said respondents well explained the time taken in deciding the representation.

20. In case of preventive detention no offence is proved nor any charge is formulated and the justification of such detention is the suspicion or reasonability. There is no criminal conviction in matters of preventive detention which can only be warranted by legal evidence. Therefore, preventive justice requires an action to be taken to prevent apprehended objectionable activity, but at the same time the greatest human freedoms i.e. personal liberty of a person is deprived. Therefore, the law of preventive detention are construed strictly and a meticulous compliance with procedural safeguard, however, technical, is mandatory. Therefore, preventive detention is also described as "jurisdiction of suspicion". These principles have been discussed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kubic Darusz Vs. Union of India (1990) 1 SCC 568, Ayya Vs. State of U.P. (1989) 1 SCC 374 and Union of India Vs. Yumnam Anand M. (2007) 10 SCC 190.

21. In Rajindra Vs. Commissioner of Police (1994) Suppl. (2) SCC 716, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that once a representation is made, the detenu is entitled to the representation being dealt with expeditiously and if there is some ex facie delay, the obligation is on the State to explain that delay by filing a proper counter affidavit and the Court should insist that each day's delay must be explained. It is obligatory on the part of the Government to show by filing a counter affidavit that it had acted promptly in dealing with the representation. Thus, what is essential is that the Court must be satisfied that the Officers dealing with the representation were not indifferent to the urgency of the situation of the detenu being in jail. On the facts of the present case, as discussed above, we find that the Government has acted promptly in the prevailing situation and also looking into the urgency of the situation of the detenu being detained in jail.

22. In Union of India and others Vs. Laishram Lincola Singh @ Nicolai (2008) 5 SCC 490 (paragraph Nos. 7 & 8) Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under :-

"7. In Vinod K.Chawla v. Union of India and Ors. (2006)7 SCC 337, it was observed as under:

"13. The contention raised cannot be judged by any straitjacket formula divorced from facts. This has to be examined with reference to the facts of each case having regard to the volume and contents of the grounds of detention, the documents supplied along with the grounds, the inquiry to be made by the officers of different departments, the nature of the inquiry, the time required for examining the various pleas raised, the time required in recording the comments by the authorities of the department concerned, and so on.

14. In L.M.S. Ummu Saleema v. B.B. Gujaral (1981) 3SCC 317 it was held that there can be no doubt that the representation made by the detenu has to be considered by the detaining authority with the utmost expedition but as observed in Frances Coralie Mullin v. W.C. Khambra(1980) 2 SCC 275 (SCC p. 279, para 5, "the time-imperative can never be absolute or obsessive". In Madan Lal Anand v. Union of India(1990) 1 SCC 81 the representation dated 17-1-1989 of the detenu who was detained under COFEPOSA was rejected after more than a month on 20-2-1989. After referring to L.M.S. Ummu Saleema it was held that the detaining authority had explained the delay in disposal of the representation and accordingly the order of detention cannot be faulted on that ground. In Kamarunnissa v. Union of India (1991) 1 SCC 128 the representation made by the detenu on 18-12-1989 was rejected on 30-1-1990 and it was contended that there was inordinate delay in consideration of the representation. In the explanation given in the counter-affidavit filed in reply, it was submitted that considerable period of time was taken by the sponsoring authority in forwarding its comments. It was contended on behalf of the detenu that the views of the sponsoring authority were totally unnecessary and the time taken by that authority could not be taken into consideration. The contention was repelled by this Court and it was observed that consulting the authority which initiated the proposal can never be said to be an unwarranted exercise. It was further emphasised that whether the delay in considering the representation has been properly explained or not would depend upon the facts of each case and cannot be judged in vacuum. Similarly, in Birendra Kumar Rai v. Union of India (1993) 1 SCC 272 the petitioner made a representation against his detention on 22-12-1990 which was rejected by the Central Government after a month on 25-1-1991. It was observed that the explanation offered for the delay in consideration of the representation was not such from which an inference of inaction or callousness on the part of the authorities could be inferred and accordingly the challenge on the ground of delay was rejected. The subsequent decisions of this Court are also on the same lines and we do not consider it necessary to refer to them as the principle is well settled that there should be no inaction or lethargy in consideration of the representation and where there is a proper explanation for the time taken in disposal of representation, even though it may be long, the continued detention of the detenu would not be rendered illegal in any manner.

15. The grounds of detention in the present case are a long one running into 35 paragraphs which were accompanied by 82 documents running into 447 pages. The representation made by the appellant was also a fairly long one. The representation made by the appellant on 24-3-1998 was received by the Ministry on 27-3-1998. The comments of the sponsoring authority were called on 30-3- 1998 which were received on 17-4-1998. The comments were placed before the Secretary (R) through the ADG on 22-4-1998 (18th and 19th being holidays). The decision of the Central Government was taken and communicated on 29-4-1998 (25th and 26th being holidays). The representation was also considered by the detaining authority in the meantime and was rejected on 21-4-1998. In the additional affidavit filed on behalf of the sponsoring authority before the High Court, it was stated that the representation was received by them on 2-4-1998 and the comments were dispatched on 17-4-1998. During this period, there were holidays on 4th, 5th, 8th to 12th April, and only seven working days were available. Again there were holidays on 18th, 19th, 25th and 26th April. Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, we are clearly of the opinion that the entire time taken in consideration and disposal of the representation made by the appellant has been fully explained and it cannot be said by any stretch of imagination that there was any inordinate delay or unexplained delay in considering the representation made by the appellant. The challenge to the detention order made on the ground of delay in consideration of the representation made by the appellant has no substance and deserves to be rejected."

8. The order of the High Court is clearly unsustainable and is set aside. The period of detention fixed by the order of detention being over, it is open to the detaining authority to consider whether there is any need for detaining the respondent as the situation stands now."

23. Thus, for all the reasons stated above the time taken by the respondent no. 1 and the respondent no.2 in deciding the representation of the petitioner/detenu on facts of the present case can not be said to suffer from undue delay or inordinate delay.

24. Thus, for all the reasons aforestated, we do not find any merit in the present writ petition. Therefore, the writ petition is dismissed. However, there shall be no order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.)

(1) The instant writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed by the detenue/petitioner, Mohd. Faiyyaz Mansuri, through his next friend/brother Mohd. Siraj, challenging the order of detention dated 17.09.2020 passed by the District Magistrate, Lakhimpur Kheri under Section 3 (2) of the National Security Act, 1980 (hereinafter referred to as "N.S.A."), the order of approval dated 25.09.2020 passed by the Under Secretary, Home (Confidential) Department, Government of Uttar Pradesh under Section 3(4) of the N.S.A. and the order of confirmation dated 28.10.2020 passed by the Under Secretary, Home (Confidential) Department, Government of Uttar Pradesh under Section 12(1) of the N.S.A.

(2) During pendency of the instant writ petition, the State Government has extended the detention of the detenue/ petitioner for a further period of six months from the date of detention i.e. 17.09.2020, vide order dated 08.12.2020, which is also challenged by the detenue/petitioner by means of amendment.

(3) The prejudicial activities of the petitioner/detenue impelling the third respondent (District Magistrate, Lakhimpur Kheri) to clamp the impugned detention order against him are contained in grounds of detention. Facts relating to the detention of the detenue/petitioner as given in the grounds of detention (Annexure 8) accompanying the impugned detention order 17.09.2020 are that one Sagar Kapoor, s/o Brijesh Kapoor, resident of Bazarganj, Police Station Mohammadi, District Kheri made a written report to the effect that on 05.08.2020, at 8:39 P.M., the detenue/petitioner had posted provocative post with the intention of provoking the sentiments of Hindu society through his Facebook I.D., to which one Samreen Bano made indecent comment on 5.8.2020, which was supported by Mohd. Arif, Mohd. Shadab and other three-four persons by attacking the Hindu religious sentiments and tried to increase religious fervor and threatened to kill and also tried to disturb the peace in the area. On the basis of the said written report, F.I.R. No. 0595 of 2020, under Sections 153A, 292, 505 (2), 506, 509 I.P.C. and 67 of the Information Technology (Amendment) Act, 2008, at Police Station Mohammadi, District Kheri was registered on 06.08.2020 at 12:46 P.M. During the investigation, Sections 292/509 I.P.C. were dropped, however, Section 295-A I.P.C. was added. On 08.08.2021, the detenue/ petitioner was arrested in connection with the aforesaid F.I.R. and sent to jail. The said incident was published in daily newspaper "Hindustan' and "Amar Ujala'. On account of the act of the detenue/petitioner in posting inflammatory post of offending material through his facebook, various Hindu organizations and local persons were angry and gathered in the area and raised slogans against the inflammatory post of offending material and also blocked the road, because of which, the flow of normal life, peace and discharge were disturbed and the atmosphere of the area was very tense. After deploying the additional police force and after serious efforts, the public order could be restored.

(4) It has also been mentioned in the grounds that the detenue/ petitioner was confined to Jail but his Pairokars were trying for his release on bail and in this regard, a bail application on behalf of the detenue/petitioner was filed before the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Outline Court, Mohammadi, Kheri, which was rejected by the Court on 08.09.2020. Subsequently, again a bail application on behalf of the detenue/petitioner was filed before the Sessions Court, Kheri, on which 18.09.2021 was fixed for hearing. Therefore, there was a possibility that the detenue/petitioner if released on bail, shall again indulge in similar crime, which shall be prejudicial to the maintenance of the public order. Further, there is strong possibility for violence between two communities, which could disturb the public order. It has further been stated that on the basis of the aforesaid incident, the detaining authority felt satisfied that in order to prevent the detenue/petitioner from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order, it became necessary to pass orders for detention of the petitioner. The detenue/petitioner was also informed that he has a right to make a representation under Section 8 of the N.S.A. to the detaining authority and the State Government through the Jail Superintendent. In respect of Sections 9 and 10 of the N.S.A., he was also informed that he may also move a representation to the Chairman, U.P. Advisory Board (Detention) through Jail Superintendent. He was further informed that he may also make a representation to the Central Government through Superintendent of the Jail.

(5) The detention order along with the grounds of detention dated 17.09.2020 was served to the petitioner/detenue on 17.09.2020. The true copy of the detention order and the grounds of detention have been annexed as Annexure no.1 and 8, respectively, to the writ petition. The impugned order of detention was approved by the State Government on 25.09.2020 under Section 3 (4) of the N.S.A. and communicated to the petitioner on 26.09.2020. On 25.09.2020, the order of detention, grounds of detention and all other relevant papers received from the District Magistrate, Lakhimpur Kheri were sent to the Central Government under Section 3 (5) of the N.S.A. by the State Government. On 28.10.2020, the State Government had confirmed the order of detention dated 17.09.2020 under Section 12 (1) of the N.S.A for a period of three months tentatively from the date of his actual detention under N.S.A. i.e. w.e.f. 17.09.2020. On 28.09.2020, the case of the detenue/petitioner was referred to the U.P. Advistory Board (Detention), Lucknow. On 29.09.2020, the detenue/petitioner has submitted his representation to the District Magistrate, Lakhimpur Kheri, Secretary (Home), State of U.P., Lucknow and Secretary, Ministry of Home Affairs, Government of India, New Delhi and the U.P. Advisory Board (Detention), Lucknow, to the Superintendent, District Jail, Lakhimpur Kheri, who, vide letter dated 29.09.2020 forwarded the petitioner's representation dated 29.09.2020, to the District Magistrate, Lakhimpur Kheri. On 01.10.2020, the District Magistrate, Lakhimpur Kheri had sent the detenue/petitioner's representation dated 29.09.2020 along with para-wise comments to the State Government, which was received by the State Government on 05.10.2020. On 06.10.2020, the State Government has sent the petitioner's representation dated 29.09.2020 along with parawise comments to the Central Government, New Delhi and the U.P. Advisory Board (Detentions), Lucknow vide separate letters dated 06.10.2020, which was received by the Central Government, Ministry of Home Affairs, New Delhi on 12.10.2020. On 08.10.2020, the State Government rejected detenue/ petitioner's representation dated 29.09.2020, which was communicated to the detenue/petitioner on 09.10.2020. On 22.10.2020, the U.P. Advisory Board (Detention), Lucknow examined the matter and also heard the detenue/petitioner in person. Opinion of the U.P. Advisory Board (Detention), Lucknow dated 23.10.2020 was received by the State Government on 26.10.2020. The State Government, thereafter, considered the matter again and confirmed the detention of the detenue/petitioner for a further period of three months tentatively by the order dated 28.10.2020, which was duly communicated to the detenue/petitioner on 28.10.2020. On 13.11.2020, the Central Government, Ministry of Home Affairs, New Delhi rejected the detenue/petitioner's representation dated 29.09.2020, which was communicated to the detenue/ petitioner on 17.11.2020 through wireless message.

(6) Feeling aggrieved by the aforesaid, the detenue/petitioner has filed the instant habeas corpus petition through his next friend/brother Mohd. Siraj, with the prayer, as mentioned in paragraph-1 herein-above.

(7) During pendency of the instant habeas corpus petition, the State Government, vide order dated 08.12.2020, extended the period of detention for a further period of three months, which has been challenged by the detenue/petitioner by means of the amendment in the instant habeas corpus petition. On 12.03.2021, the State Government again extended the period of detention for further three months and then on 03.06.2021 the State Government extended the period of detention for further three months, but it transpires from the record that the extension order dated 12.03.2021 and 03.06.2021 has not been challenged by the detenue/petitioner in the instant habeas corpus petition.

(8) Heard Sri Sushil Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the detenue/petitioner, Ms. Pooja Singh, learned Counsel for the Union of India/respondent no.1 and Sri S.N. Agnihotri, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State/respondents no. 2 to 4 and perused the material brought on record.

(9) Challenging the impugned order of detention as well as consequential orders, Mr. Sushil Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the detenue/petitioner has argued that it has been alleged in the F.I.R. No. 0595 of 2020 registered against the detenue/ petitioner at Police Station Mohammadi, District Kheri that the petitioner/detenue had posted one derogatory message on the Facebook wall through his I.D., on which one Samreen Bano had made indecent comment on God and Goddess of the Hindu community. It has also been alleged in the F.I.R. that some other people, namely, Mohd. Arif, Mohd. Shadab and 3-4 other persons have also hurt the sentiments of the Hindu Community. The detenue/petitioner was arrested in connection with the aforesaid F.I.R. on 08.08.2020. He argued that the police, while registering the F.I.R. and implicating the detenue/petitioner in the said incident, could not verify and identify the verification report from Facebook Company to ascertain the fact that by which mobile I.M.E.I. number, the offending material was uploaded on Facebook as mandated under Section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act. He also argued that the police has filed the charge-sheet against the detenue/petitioner in the aforesaid F.I.R without verifying the factum or collected evidence as mandated under Section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act to connect a person with information technology crime. He also argued that in the F.I.R., four persons were named as accused and the main person, namely, Samreen Bano, who is allegedly said to have made abusive comments, has not been arrested till date and similarly, Mohd. Arif, Mohd. Shadab have also not been arrested by the police, which clearly establishes that it was not a stringent situation inasmuch as there was no reason to invoke the stringent provisions of N.S.A. by the District Magistrate solely against the detenue/petitioner. He argued that subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority is vitiated as the impugned order of detention has been passed on irrelevant facts which have been considered in the impugned order and there was no public order situation but it may be only a normal law and order situation, if any.

(10) Learned Counsel for the detenue /petitioner has further submitted that the extension orders dated 08.12.2020, 12.03.2021, 03.06.2021 were passed on the basis of the beat report of the Constable, who manufactured and created it without any substantive piece of evidence that who were the persons feeling apprehensive about the release of the detenue /petitioner. His submission is that artificial beat report by Station House Officer dated 02.12.2020 has been made the basis for the grant of extension, which is not sustainable in the eyes of law for want of basic material for extension. He pointed out that the first extension order dated 08.12.2020 was not supplied to the detenue/petitioner, hence the valuable right of the detenue /petitioner as guaranteed under Article 22 (5) of the Constitution of India has been infringed rendering the continued detention of the petitioner to be illegal. He submits that when the extension order dated 08.02.2021 has been filed by the District Magistrate, Lakhimpuer Kheri through supplementary counter affidavit, then, the detenue/petitioner has challenged the second extension order by way of amendment application. He further submitted that the petitioner /detenue was detained under N.S.A on 17.12.2020 without being informed about any extension order, however, when the Court intervened in the matter, the order of extension dated 08.12.2020 was supplied to the detenue/petitioner on 19.02.2021 by the Jail Authorities and further the supplementary counter affidavit was filed by annexing the order on 22.02.2021.

(11) Learned Counsel for the detenue/petitioner has argued that the proviso to Section 3 (2) of the N.S.A. provides that no order passed under Section 3 (2), shall, in the first instance, exceed six months and if the State Government is satisfied that the order is required to be passed for a further period, it may extend the period of detention by such period not exceeding three months at any one time and in no case, the period of detention would exceed the period of 12 months in total. He argued that in the present case, perusal of the impugned order of detention dated 17.09.2020 passed by the detaining authority as well as impugned order of affirmation passed by the State Government dated 25.09.2020 reveals that it does not specify the period for which detention has been ordered and, therefore, in view of the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Lahu Shrirang Gatkal Vs. State of Maharashtra through the Secretary and others : (2017) 13 SCC 519, the impugned detention order and consequential order are illegal and the same are liable to be quashed.

(12) The next submission of the learned Counsel for the detenue/petitioner is that there was undue delay in the disposal of the representation of the detenue/petitioner on the part of the Central Government, Ministry of Home Affairs, New Delhi as the petitioner's representation dated 29.09.2020 was received by the Central Government on 12.10.2020 but it was rejected on 13.11.2020 i.e. after one month and the said order rejection dated 13.11.2020 was communicated to the petitioner through wireless message on 17.11.2020 i.e., after four days from the date of passing the order of rejection. He argued that there is no plausible explanation in deciding the petitioner's representation after one month and communicating the same to the petitioner after four days. He argued that delay and latches committed by the Central Government in considering the detenue/petitioner's representation has infringed fundamental rights of the detenue enshrined under Articles 21 and 22 (5) of the Constitution of India. He argued that on this count alone, the impugned order of detention is liable to be quashed.

(13) To strengthen his submission, learned Counsel for the detenue/ petitioner has placed reliance upon Rajammal Vs. State of Tamil Nadu and another : (1991) 1 SCC 417, Mohinuddin @ Moin Master Vs. District Magistrate, Beed : AIR 1987 SC 1977, Satyapriya Sonkar Vs. Superintendent, Central Jail : 2000 Cr.L.J. Allahabad (D.B), Kundanbhai Dulabhai Shaikh Vs. Distt. Magistrate, Ahmedabad : 1996 (3) SCC 194, K.M. Abdulla Kunhi Vs. Union of India : (1991) 1 SCC 476 and Harish Pahwa Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & others : A.I.R. 1981 SC 1126.

(14) While supporting the impugned order of detention and the impugned consequential orders, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State/respondents No. 2 to 4 has vehemently argued that the complete procedure as provided in the N.S.A. has been adopted. The detenue /petitioner was served the orders promptly. The State Government approved the detention order well within 12 days as provided under Section 3 (4) N.S.A. The State Government forwarded the copy of the detention order etc. to the Central Government within 7 days from the date of approval as required under Section 3 (5) of the N.S.A.. The State Government forwarded the detention order and ground of detention etc. to U.P. Advisory Board (Detentions), Lucknow well within 3 weeks from the date of actual detention as required under Section 10 of the N.S.A. The U.P. Advisory Board heard the detenue in person and sent its report alongwith the opinion that there is sufficient cause for preventive detention of the petitioner well within 7 weeks from the date of detention of the petitioner as provided under Section 11 (1) of the N.S.A. The detention order was confirmed tentatively for 3 months from the date of actual detention and was served upon the detenue. Thereafter, the detention order was extended time to time in the manner as mentioned above.

(15) Elaborating his submission, learned AGA has further submitted that in exercise of powers under Section 3 (3) of the N.S.A., the State Government is empowered to pass the detention order at the first instance for 3 months and if satisfied to extend such period from time to time by any period not exceeding 3 months at any one time. The maximum period of detention for which any person may be detained in pursuance of any detention order which has been confirmed under Section 12 of N.S.A. shall be twelve months from the date of detention (subject to the proviso). Thus, in view of Article 22 (4) of the Constitution of India read with Sections 3 (3) and Section 13 of the N.S.A., the detention of the petitioner for 12 months from the date of actual detention is completely justified and legal and there is no illegality in extending the period of detention time to time for a total period of 12 months.

(16) Learned A.G.A. has further argued that the State Government has rejected the petitioner's representation without any delay. The act/offence committed by the detenue is in nature of effecting public order. The District Magistrate, after having gone through the report of Sponsoring Authorities and after being satisfied that to prevent the detenue from acting prejudicial to maintenance of public order, passed the order of detention after recording its subjective satisfaction. He also argued that a single act in the nature of effecting public order is sufficient for the Detaining Authority to exercise its power given under the NSA. It is not the number of acts matters but what has to be seen is the effect of the act on even tempo of life, the extent of its reach upon society and its impact as has been held by the Apex Court in State of U.P. vs. Sanjay Pratap Gupta :2004 (8) SCC 591.

(17) Learned AGA has further argued that the Act/offence committed by the detenue/petitioner clearly violates the rights of other religion and is in the nature of insulting the religious sentiments of one community. The calculated tendency of this aggravated form of insult is clearly to disrupt the public order and the section. The act committed by the detenue/petitioner is in the nature of insulting the religion with deliberate and malicious intention of outraging the religious feelings of one class. He has placed reliance upon Ramji Lal Modi vs. State of U.P.: AIR 1957 (SC) 620 and argued that nobody can exercise the fundamental rights by putting the public order in jeopardy. The maintenance of the public order is paramount in the larger interest of the society.

(18) Learned AGA has also placed reliance upon Gulam Abbas and others vs. State of U.P. and others : 1984 (1) SCC 81) and argued that the tweet/post and the comments of different persons against Hindu Goddess cannot be said to be any religious right of the petitioner and others rather it is an offence provoking the sentiments of another religion. The petitioner is seeking his right given under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, who himself is not having faith in the Constitution and the judicial system of the country. He argued that after the verdict of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in respect of Ram Janam Bhumi dispute, it is law of land and that giving an open challenge to the verdict of the Hon'ble Supreme Court by posting a tweet, clearly shows the deliberate and malicious intention against one religion and against the highest Court of the Nation. The intention is very clear that the petitioner does not have faith in the laws of the land. He also argued that the extension of detention period is well within the jurisdiction of the Detaining Authority/State Government. At the time of further extension of detention order, it is not necessary to furnish the grounds of extension to the detenue, each and every time. The detention period was extended on the grounds, which were already communicated to the petitioner and no prejudice was likely to be caused to the petitioner. In support of his submission, he has placed reliance upon Rakesh Singh Vs. Union of India and 3 others : 2021 Law Suit (All 159).

(19) Learned AGA has further argued that there is no illegality in the order of detention. The petitioner's activities are prejudicial to the maintenance of the public order. The subjective satisfaction of the Detaining Authority is well founded, based on clinching material on record. Hence, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

(20) Ms. Pooja Singh, learned Counsel for the Union of India/respondent no.1 has submitted that the representation of the detenue/petitioner was considered with all promptness and there was no negligence or delay in this regard.

(21) Having heard the learned Counsel for the parties and gone through the impugned order of detention as well material brought on record, the main thrust of arguments of the learned Counsel for the detenue/petitioner while challenging the impugned order of detention and consequential impugned orders are as under :-

(1) The sponsoring authority, without ascertaining the fact from the Facebook Company that the alleged material is posted with the petitioner's I.D. or not as mandated under Section 65 B of the Indian Evidence Act, has recommended to slap N.S.A. upon the detenue/petitioner.

(2) The Detaining Authority i.e. District Magistrate, Lakhimpur Kheri has passed the impugned detention order in a routine manner without application of mind on the report submitted to him by the sponsoring/police authority and that the District Magistrate has failed to record any real subjective satisfaction in the impugned order of detention;

(3) The first extension order dated 08.12.2020 was not supplied to the detenue/petitioner but after the order passed by this Court, the order of extension dated 08.12.2020 has been supplied to the detenue/petitioner on 19.02.2021;

(4) In the impugned order of detention dated 17.09.2020 passed by the detaining authority as well as impugned order of affirmation passed by the State Government dated 25.09.2020, the period for which detention has been ordered, does not specify, hence, in view of the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Lahu Shrirang Gatkal Vs. State of Maharashtra through the Secretary and others (Supra), the impugned order of detention and consequential affirmation order are illegal.

(5) There was undue delay in the disposal of the representation of the detenue/petitioner on the part of the Central Government, Ministry of Home Affairs, New Delhi.

(22) With regard to first and second point of challenge by the detenue/petitioner, learned Additional Government Advocate has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in Ramji Lal Modi Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (Supra) and Gulam Abbas and others Vs. State of U.P. and others (Supra) and has contended that the act/offence committed by the detenue clearly violates the right of other religion and is in the nature of insulting the religious sentiments of one community. Thus, the calculated tendency of this aggravated form of insult is clearly to disrupt the public order and the act committed by the petitioner is in the nature of insulting the religion with deliberate and malicious intention of outraging the religious feelings of one class. He argued that the Detaining Authority has considered the entire material placed before him by the sponsoring authority, particularly the fact that the material posted by the detenue/petitioner through his Facebook I.D. has absolutely disturbed the communal harmony of the society and more so the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., the detenue/petitioner has himself admitted the fact that he has posted the alleged material from his facebook I.D., rightly satisfies that after being released on bail, the detenue/petitioner shall again indulge in activities prejudicial to the public order. Hence, there is no illegality or infirmity in passing the impugned order of detention by the Detaining Authority.

(23) A perusal of the grounds of detention reveals that a provocative post "Babri maszid ek din dubara banai Jayegi, jis tarah Turki ki Sofiya maszid banai gai thi' alleged to have been posted by the detenue/petitioner on his Facebook Wall on 5.8.2020 was taken into consideration by the detaining authority while coming to the subjective satisfaction that the petitioner should be detained under the N.S.A. On careful perusal of the grounds of detention dated 17.09.2020, particularly para-1, it would indicate that the detenue/petitioner had been charged for posting aforesaid provocative message/tweet on his Facebook Wall on 17.09.2020, which amounts to causing fear or alarm in the public, or to any section of the public whereby any person may be induced to commit offence against the State and also disturb the communal harmony. For that offence, one Sri Sagar Kapoor lodged an FIR, which was registered as F.I.R. No. 595 of 2020, under Sections 153A, 292, 505 (2), 506, 509 I.P.C. and Section 67 of the Information Technology (Amendment) Act, 2008, at Police Station Mohammadi, District Kheri on 06.08.2020, at 12:46 P.M. During the investigation, Sections 292/509 I.P.C. were dropped, however, Section 295-A I.P.C. was added. On 08.08.2020, the petitioner was arrested in connection with the aforesaid F.I.R. and was sent to jail. After his arrest, confessional statement of the detenue/petitioner was recorded and in his statement, the detenue/petitioner has confessed his guilt in posting the aforesaid provocative message on his Facebook. The grounds of detention further shows that in view of communal tension and enmity, people at different places gathered and raised slogans against the said message, by which communal harmony was disturbed and, therefore, additional police force was deployed and after serious efforts, the public order could be restored. It has also been mentioned in the grounds of detention that after arrest of the petitioner, he has moved an application for bail, which was rejected by the Court concerned and thereafter, the detenue/petitioner has moved an application for bail before the Sessions' Court. Therefore, the Detaining Authority, after considering the entire material on record, satisfied that in order to prevent the detenue/petitioner from acting in a any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order, it became necessary to pass order of detention of the petitioner.

(24) Observing that aim of preventive detention is not to punish a man for having done something but to intercept and to prevent him from doing so, the Supreme Court in the case of Naresh Kumar Goyal v. Union of India and others, (2005) 8 SCC 276, and ingeminated in Union of India and another v. Dimple Happy Dhakad, AIR 2019 SC 3428, has held that an order of detention is not a curative or reformative or punitive action, but a preventive action, avowed object of which being to prevent antisocial and subversive elements from imperilling welfare of the country or security of the nation or from disturbing public tranquility or from indulging in smuggling activities or from engaging in illicit traffic in narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, etc. Preventive detention is devised to afford protection to society. The authorities on the subject have consistently taken the view that preventive detention is devised to afford protection to society. The object is not to punish a man for having done something but to intercept before he does it, and to prevent him from doing so.

(25) To sum up, a law of preventive detention is not invalid because it prescribes no objective standard for ordering preventive detention, and leaves the matter to subjective satisfaction of the Executive. The reason for this view is that preventive detention is not punitive but preventive and is resorted to with a view to prevent a person from committing activities regarded as prejudicial to certain objects that the law of preventive detention seeks to prescribe. Preventive detention is, thus, based on suspicion or anticipation and not on proof. The responsibility for security of State, or maintenance of public order, or essential services and supplies, rests on the Executive and it must, therefore, have necessary powers to order preventive detention. Having said that, subjective satisfaction of a detaining authority to detain a person or not, is not open to objective assessment by a Court. A Court is not a proper forum to scrutinize the merits of administrative decision to detain a person. The Court cannot substitute its own satisfaction for that of the authority concerned and decide whether its satisfaction was reasonable or proper, or whether in the circumstances of the matter, the person concerned should have been detained or not. It is often said and held that the Courts do not even go into the question whether the facts mentioned in grounds of detention are correct or false. The reason for the rule is that to decide this, evidence may have to be taken by the Courts and that is not the object of law of preventive detention. This matter lies within the competence of Advisory Board. While saying so, this Court does not sit in appeal over decision of detaining authority and cannot substitute its own opinion over that of detaining authority when grounds of detention are precise, pertinent, proximate and relevant.

(26) It is apt to mention here that our Constitution undoubtedly guarantees various freedoms and personal liberty to all persons in our Republic. However, it should be kept in mind by one and all that the constitutional guarantee of such freedoms and liberty is not meant to be abused and misused so as to endanger and threaten the very foundation of the pattern of our free society in which the guaranteed democratic freedom and personal liberty is designed to grow and flourish. The larger interests of our multi-religious nation as a whole and the cause of preserving and securing to every person the guaranteed freedom peremptorily demand reasonable restrictions on the prejudicial activities of individuals which undoubtedly jeopardize the rightful freedoms of the rest of the society. Main object of Preventive Detention is the security of a State, maintenance of public order and of supplies and services essential to the community demand, effective safeguards in the larger interest of sustenance of peaceful democratic way of life.

(27) In the instant case, on examining the grounds of detention, briefly referred to herein-above, on the touchstone of the legal position as emerging from the aforementioned decisions, we are of the considered view that the activities relied upon by the Detaining Authority to come to the conclusion that in order to prevent the petitioner from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order, it became necessary to pass order for detention of the detenue/petitioner, cannot be said to be mere disturbance of law and order. As mentioned in the ground of detention, the activities of the detenue/petitioner pertains to disturb the communal harmony of the Society. The posting of the provocative message through his Facebook wall, as referred to herein-above, strikes at the root of the State's authority and is directly connected to "public order'. This act of the detenue/petitioner was not directed against a single individual, but against the pubic at large having the effect of disturbing the even tempo of life of the community and thus breaching the "public order'.

(28) This Court, therefore, has no hesitation in holding that the instance of petitioner's activities enumerated in the grounds of detention, clearly show that his activities cover a wide field and fall within the contours of the concept of "public order' and the Detaining Authority was justified in law in passing the impugned order of detention. Hence, there is no substance on the plea of the petitioner in this regard.

(29) So far as the argument relating to non-supply of the first order of extension dated 08.12.2020 to the detenue/petitioner is concerned, it transpires from the record that the order of extension dated 08.12.2020 has been challenged by the detenue/petitioner by means of amendment and further as per own submission of the petitioner that the order of extension dated 08.12.2020 has been supplied to the detenue on 19.02.2021, therefore, it is immaterial at this stage to raise the issue of non-supply of the first order of extension dated 08.12.2020. Moreso, there was no such requirement to furnish grounds of extension to the detenue because the grounds of detention were the same, so no any prejudice was likely to be caused to the petitioner.

(30) So far as the argument of the learned Counsel for the petitioner that the detention order does not specify the period for which detention has been ordered, hence in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in Lahu Shrirang Gatkal Vs. State of Maharashtra through the Secretary and others (supra), the impugned detention order is illegal, it is relevant to mention here that this Court, while adjudicating this issue in Habeas Corpus No. 24213 of 2020 : Kanhaiya Awasthi Thru Next Friend Shivangi Awasthi Vs. Union of India Thru Secy. Home Affairs New Delhi & Ors, decided on 16.08.2021, has taken note of the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in T. Devaki Vs. Government of Tamil Nadu and others : 1990 (2) SCC 456, which has subsequently been followed in State of Maharashtra & others vs. Balu S/o Waman Patole (Criminal Appeal No. 1681 of 2019, decided on 13.11.2019) as well as the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Secretary to Government of Tamil Nadu Public (Law and Ordre) Revenue Department and others Vs. Kamala and others : (2018) 5 SCC 322 and held that there is no substance in the plea of the detenue/petitioner that the impugned detention order and the impugned order confirming the detention order, both are bad in law as they do not mention the period of detention at the first instance. Hence, the plea of the detenue/petitioner in this regard has no force and the same is rejected.

(31) The next submission of the learned Counsel for the detenue/ petitioner is that there is undue delay in the disposal of the representation of the detenue/petitioner on the part of the Central Government, Ministry of Home Affairs, New Delhi.

(32) For appreciating the aforesaid submission of the detenue/petitioner, we deem it appropriate to reproduce para-4 of the supplementary counter affidavit filed by Smt. Meena Sharma, Under Secretary, Ministry of Home Affairs, Government of India, New Delhi, in which details of dealing of the petitioner's representation have been narrated. Para-4 of the aforesaid affidavit reads as under :-

"That, in addition to para 4 of the counter affidavit dated 07.01.2021, it is further submitted that a copy of the representation dated 29.09.2020 of the detenue along with parawise comments of the detaining authority was forwarded by the Under Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh to the Central Government in the Ministry of Home Affairs vide letter no. 84/2/59/2020-C.X-5 dated 06.10.2020. The same was received in the section concerned in the Ministry of Home Affairs on 12.10.2020. It is pertinent to mention that after relaxation of few COVID norms, the section received 72 nos. of receipts including 12 nos of representations from various State Governments. Also, as per guidelines of DOPT, a roaster system was there as preventive measures to contain the spread of Novel Coronavires (COVID-19). Unfortunately, the dealing hand fell ill on 14th and was on leave on 15th October, 2020. On 16th , he somehow manages to come to office for dealing urgent receipts. There was an intervening period of two holidays i.e. Saturday and Sunday on 17th and 18th October, 2020. After that on 19th and 20th, the facts were consolidated and a note was prepared after going through records received from the detaining authority and State Government. Thereafter, the file was put up for the consideration of Union Home Secretary on 21.10.2020. The file reached the Under Secretary (NSA) on 21.10.2020. The Under Secretary (NSA) with her comments forwarded the same to the Deputy Legal Advisor (DLA) on 22.10.2020. The Deputy Legal Advisor (DLA) forwarded the same to the Joint Secretary (IS-II) on 22.10.2020. The file reached the office of Joint Secretary (IS-II) on 23.10.2020. It is pertinent to mentione that the officer of Deputy Legal Advisor is at Major Dhyan Chand National Stadium and the office of Joint Secretary (IS-II) is at North Block. The Joint Secretary (IS-II) with his comments forwarded the same to the Union Home Secretary on 24.10.2020. Thereafter, it was felt that an independent report from the Central Agency is also needed to ascertain detenu's involvement in the case and as to whether his release has the potential to further disturb the peace and public order in the area. There was an intervening period on 25th October, 2020 being Sunday. The file reached the section concerned from aforesaid level of officers on 27.10.2020. Accordingly, the same report was sought on 27.10.2020. The report from the Central Agency was received in the section concerned on 06.11.2020. Thereafter, there was an intervening period of 2 holidays on 07th and 8th November, 2020 being Saturday and Sunday. After receiving input from the Central Agency, the case was again processed for consideration of the Union Home Secretary on 09.11.2020. The Under Secretary with her comments forwarded the same to the Deputy Legal Advisor on 10.11.2020. The Deputy Legal Advisor forwarded the same to the Joint Secretary (IS-II) on 11.11.2020. The file reached the Joint Secretary on 12.11.2020. The file was further examined by the Joint Secretary (IS-II) and then he, with the comments; forwarded the file to the Union Home Secretary on 13.11.2020. The Union Home Secretary having carefully gone through the material on record, including the order of detention, the grounds of detention, the representation of the detenu, the comments of the detaining authority thereon and the input from central agency concluded that the detenu had failed to bring forth any material cause or grounds in his representation to justify the revocation of the order by exercise of the powers of the Central Government under Section 14 of the National Security Act, 1980. He, therefore, rejected the representation on 13.11.2020. The file reached the section concerned through aforesaid level on 17.11.2020. During the intervening period, 14th and 15th November were holidays being Saturday and Sunday. Accordingly, the detenu was informed vide Wireless Message No. II/15028/163/2020-NSA dated 17.11.2020. It is further submitted that the representation was examined with utmost care and caution with promptitude. Hence, there was no bonafide or deliberate delay in disposal of the representation on part of the Respondent No. 01 i.e. the Union of India."

(33) From the affidavit submitted by the Under Secretary, Ministry of Home Affairs, Government of India, it transpires that the petitioner's representation dated 29.09.2020, which was forwarded by the State Government vide letter dated 06.10.2020, has been received in the second concerned of the Ministry of Home Affairs on 12.10.2020 but it could not be processed between 13.10.2020 to 20.10.2020 due to 72 numbers of receipts including 12 numbers of the representations from various State Governments have been received after relaxation of few Covid norms and further the dealing hand fell ill on 14th October, 2020 and was on leave on 15th October, 2020 and on 17th and 18th October, 2020 were Saturday and Sunday. We have given out anxious consideration whether this could have been a proper explanation for withholding the representation. In our considered opinion, the Central Government were at fault. It appears that the Central Government though has received the petitioner's representation on 12.10.2020 but it could only be processed on 21.10.2020 when it has been placed before the Under Secretary and day-to-day process of the file w.e.f. 13.10.2020 to 21.10.2020 has not been properly explained in the affidavit. Moreso, the file relating to the petitioner's representation had reached to the office of Joint Secretary (IS-II) on 23.10.2020 and the same was forwarded by the Joint Secretary (IS-II) to the Union Home Secretary on 24.10.2020. Thereafter, report was sought from Central Agency and the required report of Central Agency was received by section concerned on 06.11.2020. It transpires that the report of the Central Agency was received on 06.11.2020 but it only processed for consideration of the Union Home Secretary on 09.11.2020. The day-to-day explanation while dealing with the petitioner's representation between 25.10.2020 to 05.11.2020 have not been made by the Central Government. Furthermore, the petitioner's representation was rejected on 13.11.2020 but it was communicated to the detenue/petitioner on 17.11.2020 only via wireless message. Again, there is no day-to-day explanation between 14.11.2020 to 16.11.2020 on behalf of the Central Government. Thus, there was delay in disposal of the representation of the petitioner by the Central Government and having regard to the nature of detention and rigor of law, we are of the view that there was disproportionate delay at the end of the Central Government.

(34) For the reasons aforesaid, we are of the view that the plea of the detenue/petitioner that there is delay in forwarding the petitioner's representation on the part of the respondent no.1 (Union of India), has substance and on this count alone, the impugned detention order is liable to be quashed.

(35) In the result, the instant Habeas Corpus Petition is allowed. The impugned order of detention dated 17.09.2020 and the consequential orders are hereby quashed. The detenue/petitioner is ordered to be set at liberty by the respondents forthwith unless required in connection with any other case.

(36) For the facts and circumstances of the case, there is no order as to costs.

2. Ram Naik Misra & anr. Vs Km. Gauri & ors. , First Appeal No.53 of 2018

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Samarth Saxena, learned counsel for petitioner, learned Additional Government Advocate for opposite parties 1 to 3 and Mr. Anil Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for opposite parties 4 to 7.

2. This petition for a writ in the nature of Habeas Corpus has been filed for a direction to opposite parties concerned to produce Garv Mishra, minor son of petitioner and for his custody to be handed over to petitioner.

3. Learned counsel for petitioner submits that the detenu Garv Mishra is only one and half years old with his date of birth being 05.09.2018. It is submitted that opposite parties 4 and 5 are the parents of wife of petitioner who passed away on 10.08.2019. Opposite parties 6 & 7 are her brothers with opposite party no.6 being married and having his own family and opposite party no.7 being unmarried as yet.

4 . It is noticed from the order sheet that the issue pertaining to maintainability of a writ petition for habeas corpus seeking custody of child had been framed earlier. With regard to the issue of maintainability of a petition for habeas corpurs seeking custody of a minor child has been dealt with by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Tejaswini Gaud and others v. Shekhar Jagdish Prasad Tewari and others reported in (2019) 7 SCC 42.

5. In the aforesaid case, the issue was with regard to maintainability of a writ of habeas corpus for custody of minor when efficacious alternative remedy is available under the Hindu Minority & Guardianship Act, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as the Act of 1956). Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the aforesaid case thereafter has held that in child custody matters, a writ in the nature of habeas corpus is maintainable where it is proved that detention of minor child by a parent or others was illegal and without authority of law. It has subsequently also been held that the welfare of the child is of paramount interest and where the court is of the view that a detailed enquiry is required, the court would decline to exercise the extra-ordinary jurisdiction and direct the parties to approach Civil Court. It has been further held that it is only in exceptional cases, that rights of the parties to the custody of minor will be determined in a petition for habeas corpus. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid decision are as follows:-

"19. Habeas corpus proceedings is not to justify or examine the legality of the custody. Habeas corpus proceedings is a medium through which the custody of the child is addressed to the discretion of the Court. Habeas corpus is a prerogative writ which is an extraordinary remedy and the writ is issued where in the circumstances of the particular case, ordinary remedy provided by the law is either not available or is ineffective; otherwise a writ will not be issued. In child custody matters, the power of the High Court in granting the writ is qualified only in cases where the detention of a minor by a person who is not entitled to his legal custody. In view of the pronouncement on the issue in question by the Supreme Court and the High Courts, in our view, in child custody matters, the writ of habeas corpus is maintainable where it is proved that the detention of a minor child by a parent or others was illegal and without any authority of law."

"20. In child custody matters, the ordinary remedy lies only under the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act or the Guardians and Wards Act as the case may be. In cases arising out of the proceedings under the Guardians and Wards Act, the jurisdiction of the court is determined by whether the minor ordinarily resides within the area on which the court exercises such jurisdiction. There are significant differences between the enquiry under the Guardians and Wards Act and the exercise of powers by a writ court which is summary in nature. What is important is the welfare of the child. In the writ court, rights are determined only on the basis of affidavits. Where the court is of the view that a detailed enquiry is required, the court may decline to exercise the extraordinary jurisdiction and direct the parties to approach the civil court. It is only in exceptional cases, the rights of the parties to the custody of the minor will be determined in exercise of extraordinary jurisdiction on a petition for habeas corpus."

"21. In the present case, the appellants are the sisters and brother of the mother Zelam who do not have any authority of law to have the custody of the minor child. Whereas as per Section 6 of the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, the first respondent father is a natural guardian of the minor child and is having the legal right to claim the custody of the child. The entitlement of father to the custody of child is not disputed and the child being a minor aged 1½ years cannot express its intelligent preferences. Hence, in our considered view, in the facts and circumstances of this case, the father, being the natural guardian, was justified in invoking the extraordinary remedy seeking custody of the child under Article 226 of the Constitution of India."

6. Following the aforesaid judgment, a coordinate Bench of this Court in its judgment and order dated 17.09.2020 rendered in Reetu & another v. State of U.P. and others, Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No.406 of 2020 has also held that a writ of habeas corpus can be issued in matters relating to custody of a child where the child is in custody of a relative or a person, who is not the lawful guardian, though not an utter stranger. The relevant paragraph is as follows:-

"13. A writ of habeas corpus can certainly be issued in matters relating to custody of a child where the child is in custody of a relative or a person, who is not the lawful guardian, though not an utter stranger. A kinsman or a relative of the child, who holds the child in custody back from the lawful guardian, would entitle the lawful guardian to seek restoration of custody through a writ of habeas corpus. The question, whether the person who applies for the writ is the lawful guardian or not, is generally to be determined with reference to the personal law, applicable to parties. However so, the Court may also inquire into for the purpose of determining the legality of the custody, from which liberation is sought, vis-a-vis the right of the person asking for the writ, the question of welfare of the minor. "

7. Upon applicability of the aforesaid judgments in the present case, it is admitted between the parties that petitioner is the father of minor Garv Mishra. It is also undisputed that the minor in question is in custody of opposite parties 4 to 7 since the time when mother of the child was undergoing treatment and subsequently passed away.

8. In view of aforesaid judgments, it is apparent that writ petition in the nature of habeas corpus would be maintainable with regard to custody of child who is in the custody of a person who is not a natural lawful guardian but is also not an utter stranger, as in the present case, while opposite parties 4 to 7 are related to the minor through mother. Since it is admitted between the parties that petitioner is father of the minor child, naturally in terms of the Act of 1956, father is the natural guardian of the minor.

9. In view of aforesaid facts, and upon applicability of aforesaid judgments, it is apparent that writ petition for habeas corpus in the present case seeking custody of the minor child is maintainable.

10. In the aforesaid judgments, it has also been held that welfare of the minor would be of paramount consideration even if writ for habeas corpus is maintainable. In the present case, learned counsel for petitioner has drawn attention to his financial and social standing with the submission that the answering opposite parties do not have the financial capability to look after the minor child and it would be in the interest of minor in case custody is given to petitioner who admittedly has the financial wherewithal to take care of the interest of the minor.

11. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite parties 4 to 7 on the other hand has contended that petitioner did not take care of his wife when she was diagnosed with cancer and has in fact left her at the mercy of her parents and brothers. It is submitted that due to ill-treatment by petitioner of his wife, a first information report was also lodged against him under Section 498-A, 323, 504 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 and, therefore, interest of the minor would not be served in case custody is handed over to petitioner. Learned counsel has also placed reliance on a Division Bench decision of this Court in the case of Ram Naik Misra and another v. Km. Gauri and others rendered in First Appeal No.53 of 2018 in which considering the paramount consideration of welfare and interest of the minor child, the Court declined to provide custody to father of the minor.

12. In paragraph 4 of the writ petition, it has been stated that petitioner belongs to a respected family and is running business of a general store in his neighbourhood. Father of petitioner has superannuated from Forest Department and is getting his pension while his mother is a house wife. It has also been stated that petitioner resides with his parents in own house in Lakhimpur Kheri. The aforesaid contents of writ petition with regard to financial and social standing of petitioner have not been denied by the answering opposite parties in their counter affidavit but it has been merely stated that conduct and behaviour of father of the child and his family was never been good towards mother of the child and petitioner has not cared for the minor. In paragraph 19 of the counter affidavit, it has also been stated that a petition under Section 125 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the maternal grand father of the minor (arrayed as opposite party no.4 to the present petition) before the Principal Judge, Family Court, Lakhimpur Kheri, registered as Case No.834 of 2019.

13. A perusal of the petition under Section 125 Cr.P.C. indicates that in paragraph 5, it has been stated that the maternal grand father is not in a financial position to take care of the minor. In paragraph 6, it has been stated that father of the minor, i.e. the petitioner herein has the financial wherewithal to take care of the minor. It has also been stated that petitioner herein is the owner of a general store and does not earn less than Rs.50,000/- per month and is, therefore, in a better financial position to take care of the minor.

14. Considering the fact that the opposite parties have not denied the good financial condition of petitioner while at the same time indicating their precarious financial position, it is evident from the material on record that petitioner being not only the natural guardian of the minor in terms of Section 6 of the Act of 1956 would also be in a better position to take care of the minor rather than the answering opposite parties.

15. With regard to said submission, it is apparent from a perusal of the first information report brought on record as Annexure 6 to the petition that the same has been lodged at the instance of opposite party no.4 (who is father in law) and not the wife. The treatment prescriptions on record annexed to the petition indicates treatment of wife of petitioner, Arti Misra having taken place at the instance of the petitioner. From a perusal of the documents on record, it is apparent that the dispute with regard to custody of minor had cropped up after demise of Arti Misra, between the petitioner and his in-laws, which has also resulted in acrimonious litigation.

16. From the aforesaid, it is evident that the opposite parties have not denied the fact that petitioner is the father and, thus, the natural guardian of the minor. Similarly, his better financial condition vis-a-vis opposite parties 4 to 7 has also been admitted by the opposite parties in their counter affidavit, which is also evident from the averments made in the petition under Section 125 Cr.P.C. As such, in the considered opinion of this Court, since petitioner is admittedly the natural guardian of the minor and is in a better financial condition than opposite parties 4 to 6, he would, thus, be better placed to look after the interest and welfare of the minor, particularly in the absence of any pleading by opposite party that petitioner has misbehaved with the minor.

17. So far as the judgment relied upon by learned counsel for answering opposite parties is concerned, a perusal of the same in Ram Naik Misra(supra) indicates that the court refused to grant custody of minor children to the father on the ground that the minors therein who were aged about 15 years and 13 years categorically stated before the court that they did not want to live with their father. Even in the said judgment, it has been held that it is the settled position of law that the father is the natural guardian of minor children and, therefore, he has preferential rights to custody of a minor. As is evident, the facts and circumstances of aforesaid case are clearly distinguishable and are not applicable in the present case.

18. In view of aforesaid, this Court is of the considered opinion that petitioner being father of the minor and natural guardian in terms of Section 6 of the Act of 1956 would be entitled to custody of the minor particularly since it is admitted that he has a better financial condition to look after the minor himself.

19. In view of aforesaid, the petition for habeas corpus succeeds and is allowed. Consequently, it is ordered that the minor be set at liberty by opposite parties 4 to 7 who shall deliver custody of the minor, Garv Mishra to petitioner Anurag Mishra within four weeks from the date of this judgment. In case custody of the minor is not delivered by opposite parties 4 to 7 or anyone claiming through them, the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lakhimpur Kheri shall cause the minor to be delivered to petitioner Anurag Mishra by employment of necessary force through the Superintendent of Police, Lakhimpur Kheri, who is directed to act in the aid of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lakhimpur Kheri in the matter. It is further directed that on the first Sunday of every month, between 10.00 a.m. to 2.00 p.m., petitioner Anurag Mishra shall permit opposite parties 4 to 7 to meet the minor Garv Mishra at his residence and during each such visit, petitioner Anurag Mishra shall extend all due courtesies to opposite parties 4 to 7 and will facilitate the meeting between them.

20. Let this order be communicated forthwith by the Registrar to learned District Judge, Lakhimpur Kheri, learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lakhimpur Kheri and the Superintendent of Police, Lakhimpur Kheri for consequential action.

A. Civil Law - Small Causes Court Act, 1887: Section 17 - The Court held that on reading proviso to Section 17 of the Act it is observed that if the deposit made by the tenant falls short of amount required to deposited, the tenant will be deprived of the benefit, even if shortfall in such deposit was because of tenant's ignorance or without any malafide intention. Thus, due to the aforesaid reason application for setting aside the ex parte decree will not be maintainable. (Para 27)

The petitioner had deposited Rs. 19,200 only and had made no application to the court saying that they were ready and willing to deposit security for any amount which was further found due on them. (Para 28)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ghufran Hussain, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Sudeep Seth, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Pankaj Kumar Verma, learned counsel appearing for landlord.

2. This writ petition has been filed challenging the order dated 20.10.2020 passed by opposite party no.1/ Additional District Judge, Court no.2, Barabanki in Small Causes Revision No.1 of 2019 .

3. It is the case of the petitioners that the petitioners were the initially tenant of one shop situated at Malgodam Road, Haidergarh, District Barabanki of Sri Baldev Prasad Khare. Thereafter wife of petitioner no.1 bought the shop in question from the grandson of Beldav Prasad Khare, the original landlord. The mother of respondent nos. 2 and 3 filed a suit for eviction before the Civil Judge (J.D.), Court No.13, Barabanki on the ground that she is the owner of the disputed shop without disclosing the source of title and also mentioning the wrong boundaries of the tenanted premises.Petitioners appeared and filed the written statement denying the ownership of plaintiff and saying that they are not the tenants of the shop but had bought the property for Rs.50,000/- from Sri Arind Khare, the legal heir of the earlier owner and landlord. The opposite party no.2 admitted the existence of sale-deed dated 16.01.2013 executed by Arivind Khare, grandson of Sri Baldev Prasad Khare in favour of the wife of petitioner no.1 when they filed the Suit for cancellation of sale-deed before learned Civil Judge (S.D.) Court no.20 , Barabanki. The Said suit is pending for disposal where the petitioner had filed written statement and order of maintenance of status quo has been passed therein on 08.03.2017.

4. It is the case of the petitioners, as argued by learned counsel for the petitioners that the petitioner no.1 was doing parivi of SCC case and he became ill and was unable to contact his lawyer and the SCC Suit proceeded ex parte on 25.09.2017 and was ultimately decreed on 18.12.2017.

5. It has been argued by learned counsel for the petitioners that respondent nos.2 and 3 was duty bound to reveal before the Small Causes Court about the proceedings of Regular Suit no. 27 of 2015 and interim order granted therein on 08.03.2017 passed for maintenance of status quo. However, they concealed the interim order from the learned trial court as a result whereof the SCC suit was decreed in their favor.

6. It has been argued by learned counsel for the petitioners that SCC suit was not maintainable as the Court of Small Causes has no power to decide the intricate question of title and ownership and once the title and ownership was denied and tenancy was also specifically denied then SCC Court had no jurisdiction to decide the case. Also an interim order had been passed in Regular Suit No.27 of 2015 and the suit for cancellation of sale-deed of was pending before civil court.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance Section 23 of the provisions of Small Causes Court Act (herein after referred to as "Act'). To substantiate his arguments, it has been submitted that respondent nos. 2 has initiated criminal proceedings by filing an F.I.R. under Sections 406,419,420, 452,504, 506 I.P.C. Police Station Kotwali, against petitioner no.1 and wife of petitioner no.1 Smt. Sita Singh, who had bought the property in question. This fact shows that there was technical question of fact involving ownership and civil and criminal litigation were going on. The Small Causes Court should have returned the plea under section 23 of the Act.

8. It has been submitted that after the suit was decreed ex-parte, execution case was filed by respondent no.2 and 3 and on receipt of summons of the execution case on 22.01.2019, the petitioners moved an application under Order IX Rule 13 of C.P.C. alongwith application for condonation of delay under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and also moved a separate application under Section 17 of the Act praying for recall of the order. It has been submitted that learned trial court after hearing the parties rightly allowed the three applications in favour of the petitioner on 06.09.2019.Thereafter petitioners deposited an amount of Rs.21161/-on 07.09.2019. However, respondent nos. 2 and 3 filed SCC Revision No. 1 of 2019 which was allowed on hyper technical ground without considering the facts that SCC Court has no jurisdiction to entertain the suit and pass the decree ex parte.

9. It has been argued by learned counsel for the petitioners that opposite party no.1 has failed to appreciate that it was not a simple tenant and landlord dispute, rather it was a dispute relating to title and declaration as to who was the real owner of the property in question.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioners has also argued that opposite party no.1 failed to appreciate the provisions of Section 17 of the Act when it opined that application under section 17 of the Act should be moved within 30 days from the date of knowledge of decree passed ex-parte, and the decreetal amount alongwith interest should be deposited before under Order IX Rule 13 C.P.C. application is considered by the learned trial court.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance upon the judgment rendered by coordinate Bench of this Court in SCC Revision No. 39 of 2016 (Shakeel Ahmad Vs. Zameer Ahmad Siddiqui and another) decided on 05.04.2016 wherein this Court considered the provisions of Section 17 of the Act and also the law settled by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of K*edar Nath Vs. Mohan Lal Kesarwari and others AIR 2002 SC 582* wherein the Court had interpreted the scope of the proviso of sub- section (1) of Section 17 read with provision of Order IX Rule 13 C.P.C. as well as Section 20 (2) of the U.P. Act no.13 of 1972 and held that the proviso is mandatory, the application seeking to set aside decree or review must be accompanied by a deposit of decretal amount in Court. The application for dispensation of deposit can be filed upto the date of filling the application for setting aside the decree, and the proviso does not provide for extension of time. The court considered that the Order IX Rule 13 C.P.C. application had been moved by the tenant/ revisionist for setting aside ex parte decree before depositing the decretal amount as provided under Section 17 of the Act, therefore, Misc Case No. 2C of 2008 was rejected. However since the parties had agreed before the revisonal court. The Court had directed that if the revisionist deposits entire decreetal amount, the application under Order IX Rule 13 C.P.C. may be considered in accordance with law.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance upon a judgment rendered by me in the matter under Article 227 No. 4089 of 2018 (Smt. Sushma Agarwal Vs. District Judge, Agra and 2 others) decided on 30.05.2018 wherein this Court after considering the Division Bench's judgment of Supreme Court in Raj Kumar Makhija and others Vs. M/s SKS and Co. and others, 2000 (3) ARC 117 observed that it is duty of the applicant to calculate the correct decretal amount as per the decree and Court is not required to get the decretal amount calculated for the applicant. The Court can ignore the shortfall in deposit of a negligible amount on the principle of deminiuis. The Court had observed the bonafide intent of the tenant had undoubtedly been established in depositing the decreetal amount alongwith cost and interest and in compliance of the Section 17 of the Act and it is the relevant factor that has to be considered by the Court while allowing the application under Section 17 of the Act and the section itself was added to avoid possibility of a litigant taking advantage of recall application being moved without first establishing his bonafide to pursue the litigation further, and to avoid the decree holder from being prejudiced due to the pendency of the litigation. The tenant cannot be non-suited on a hyper technical ground.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioner to substantiate his arguments that subsequent event ought to have been brought to the notice of the learned Small Causes Court has referred the judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ramesh Kumar Vs. Kesho Ram, AIR 1992 SC 700 wherein para-4 it has been observed that the normal rule is that in any litigation the rights and obligations of the parties are adjudicated upon as they obtained at the commencement of the lis. But this is subject to an exception that whenever subsequent documents of fact or law which have a material bearing on the entitlement of the parties to relief or on aspects which bear on the molding of the relief occur, the court is not precluded from taking a "cautious cognizance' of the subsequent changes to mold the relief.

14. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondents however, has pointed out the plaint in suit filed by Gulab Devi mother of respondent no.2 wherein Smt. Gulab Devi has stated clearly that she had bought tenanted premises on 29.06.2009 and became its owner and landlord and the tenant had not given any rent to her till the date of filing of SCC suit for eviction in August, 2012. It has also been stated in the plaint that notice under section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act was served upon the tenant on 16.08.2012 till date they did not deposit any rent in favour of landlady. In the plaint, it was also stated that that defendant no.1/Pradeep Kumar Singh was initially tenant but later on he sub-let the shop in question to defendant no.2/ Ram Gopal Singh .

15. It has been argued by Sudeep Senth that in the written statement that was fled by defendant They stated in para-15 that the owner and landlord of the shop in question was initially Babu Baldev Prasad Khare Advocate, and after his death his son and grand sons became owners of the property and defendant no.2 had bought the property from Arvind Khare son of late Satyadav Prasad Khare for a sum of Rs. 50,000/- and that before sale-deed was executed, defendant no.1 was the tenant of the property in question and that plaintiff/ Smt. Gulab Devi was not landlord or owner of the disputed shop. The written argument was filed by both the defendants jointly on 21.05. 2013, while the sale-deed they had relied upon was executed by Sri Arvind Khare on 16.01.2013 after filing of the SCC Suit in August, 2012. The sale-deed was made out by Sri Arvind Khare in favour of Sita Singh , wife of defendant no.1,and not in favour of defendant no.2 and a misleading reply had been given in the written statement filed by the defendant nos. 1 and 2 in SCC Suit .

16. Learned counsel for the respondent nos. 2 and 3 has also referred to a Will executed by Sri Baldev Prasad Khare dated 16/17.12.1985 in favour of his five sons and daughter of Krishna Dev Khare and his sister Sobha Srivastava children of Baldev Prasad Khare had inherited the disputed shops. It has been argued that sale deed of respondent no.2 and 3 is of a prior date i.e. 29.06.2009, whereas sale deed of the petitioners is of a later date i.e. 16.01.2013.

17. It has been argued by Sri Sudeep Seth that a perusal of the application filed under section 17 of the Act as well as an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and Order IX Rule 13 C.P.C. filed by the petitioner on 15.03.2018 would show that the knowledge of the ex parte decree dated 18.10.2017 was derived by the petitioners on 22.01.2018 or when the summons of execution case was served upon them on 18.01.2018 However, the petitioners did not file any application for recall nor deposit the amount under Section 17 of the Act within 30 days from the knowledge of ex parte decree. They waited till 15.03.2018 to file three applications simultaneously. Respondent nos. 2 and 3 raised an objection regarding maintainability of the application under Section 17 of the Act before the Small Causes Court which also noticed that shortfall was there in the amount that the petitioners had offered to deposit, yet the application was allowed. In the order passed by District Judge had correctly appreciated the law with regard to Section 17 of the Act and Order IX Rule 13 C.P.C. on the basis of judgment rendered by this Court by a Division Bench in Raj Kumar Makhija and others (supra) and Vijay Kumar Agarwal Vs. Subhash Chandra and another, 2018 (141) RD 273 and also the Supreme Court's Judgment rendered in Parimal Vs. Veena, AIR 2011 SC 1150 that "sufficient cause' has to be shown for condonation of delay and allowing the application for recall.

18. Learned counsel for the respondent has argued that on the basis of provisions of Article 123 of the Schedule attached to the Limitation Act, that limitation for filing an application for setting aside ex parte decree, is 30 days and,therefore, application under Section 17 of the Act should also be filed within 30 days from the date either of the decree, or from the date of knowledge of ex parte decree.

19. It has been submitted that petitioners did not deposit the decretal amount alongwith interest as directed by learned Small Causes Court in decree dated 18.10.2017.They only offered to deposit through challan the decretal amount regarding arrears of rent to the tune of Rs. 14400/- and cost of litigation to the tune of Rs. 4800/- i.e. total Rs.19200/- without taking into account 12% interest incurred thereon from the date of decree till the date of offer to deposit. Learned counsel has read out various paragraphs of the Judgment of Raj Kumar Makhija and others (supra) and also of the judgment rendered by by this Court in Vijay Kumar Agarwal (supra) to say that there is limitation of 30 days of filing of application under Section 17 of the Act which has to be respected.

20. He has also argued that learned District Judge was considering only the legality of the order dated 06.09.2019, allowing the application under Section 17, Order IX Rule 13 and Section 5 of the Limitation Act. He was not supposed to go into the merit of the decree and the decree was also not challenged before the writ petition.The arguments raised by learned counsel for the petitioners with regard to merit of their case and that the learned trial court should have returned the plaint under section 23 of the Act are irrelevant the controversy being decided by this Court in this writ petition.

21. Learned counsel for the respondents has also pointed out that sufficient cause as has been explained in the judgment rendered in the case of Parimal and others (supra) judgments of this Court relating to of bonafide attempt by the defendant who appeared later and they do not give any relaxation to a defendant, who having knowledge of the proceedings deliberately avoids appearing in the case. He has pointed out from the Medical Certificate issued by doctor concerned to the petitioner no.1 on page 91 and page 93 of the paper book that they have been issued referring to future dates and also that this fact has been considered by the District Judge to come to the conclusion that medical certificates are apparently fabricated documents .

22. Learned counsel for the respondents have also pointed out that in regular suit filed for cancellation of sale-deed the defendants continued to appear. The petitioner no.1 in fact appeared on three dates during the time when he was allegedly ill in between 16.07.2017 to 14.01. 2018.

23. In Parimal versus Veena AIR 2011 Supreme Court 1150 Supreme Court was considering a case where summon was tried to be served upon the wife of the Appellant twice. Each time the process server reported that she read the summons but refused to accept it. The court thereafter directed publication in the newspaper which was sent to her address. The newspaper was placed on record and not rebutted by the wife in any manner. After service by publication as well as by affixation the case was proceeded ex parte in the divorce proceedings. The marriage was dissolved by the Learned trial court. Two years after passing of the decree the appellant got married. He had children from the second marriage. After expiry of four years of passing of the ex parte decree the wife moved an application under Order IX rule 13 of the CPC along with an application under Section 5 of the Indian limitation Act for condonation of delay in moving the same. The trial court examined the issues at length and came to the conclusion that the respondent wife had miserably failed to establish the grounds taken by her in her application to set aside ex parte decree. The application was rejected. However the Delhi High Court allowed the First Appeal. Against such order, the appellant approached the Supreme Court.The Supreme Court considered the language of Order IX Rule 13 and the proviso thereof and then observed in paragraphs 8,9 and 12 as follows :-

"8. Shri M.C. Dhingra, learned counsel appearing for the appellant has submitted that the service stood completed in terms of statutory provisions of CPC by the refusal of the respondent to take the summons. Subsequently, the registered post was also not received by her as she refused it. It was only in such circumstances that the trial court entertained the application of the appellant under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC for substituted service. The summons were served by publication in the daily newspaper National Herald published from Delhi which has a very wide circulation and further service of the said newspaper on the respondent wife by registered post. The High Court committed a grave error by taking into consideration the conduct of the appellant subsequent to the date of decree of divorce which was totally irrelevant and unwarranted for deciding the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC. More so, the High Court failed to take note of the hard reality that after two years of the ex parte decree the appellant got married and now has two major sons from the second wife. Therefore, the appeal deserves to be allowed and the judgment impugned is liable to be set aside.

9. On the contrary, Ms Geeta Dhingra, learned counsel appearing for the respondent wife has vehemently opposed the appeal, contending that once the respondent wife made the allegations of fraud and collusion of the appellant with the postman, etc. as he succeeded in procuring the false report, the burden of proof would be upon the appellant and not upon the respondent wife to establish that the allegations of fraud or collusion were false. The conduct of the appellant even subsequent to the date of decree of divorce i.e. not disclosing this fact to the respondent wife during the proceedings under Section 125 CrPC, disentitles him from any relief before this Court of equity. No interference is required in the matter and the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

12. It is evident from the above that an ex parte decree against a defendant has to be set aside if the party satisfies the court that summons had not been duly served or he was prevented by sufficient cause from appearing when the suit was called on for hearing. However, the court shall not set aside the said decree on mere irregularity in the service of summons or in a case where the defendant had notice of the date and sufficient time to appear in the court. The legislature in its wisdom, made the second proviso mandatory in nature. Thus, it is not permissible for the court to allow the application in utter disregard of the terms and conditions incorporated in the second proviso herein."

It then observed that the Delhi High Court should not have interfered in the Trial Court order and allowed the appeal.

24. In Rajkumar Makhija (supra), the Division Bench of this Court was considering whether the proviso to section 17 of the Provincial Small causes Court Act completely bars any rectification or removal of a bona fide error after the expiry of the period of limitation when substantial compliance by way of deposit of the decretal amount and furnishing security has been made within the period of limitation particularly when Section 5 of the Limitation Act 1963 has been made applicable to Order IX Rule 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure?

25. The Division Bench was considering a case where the cash amount deposited by the applicant towards pendante lite and future damages covered only 117 months whereas the actually 125 months rent was liable to be deposited under the Proviso to Section 17 of the Act. The amount was found to be short for eight months. The case of the applicant was that monthly rent was Rs.700/- but the ex-parte decree had wrongly decided the rate of pendente lite and future rent as Rs.1000 per month. The court observed on the basis of judgement rendered by the Supreme Court in the case of Kedarnath versus Mohanlal Kesarwani (supra) that the defendant did not file any application for permission to furnish security instead of cash deposit. The defendant applicant deposited rent at the rate of Rs.700/- per month along with the cost of the suit. The Court considered the language of the Proviso to Section 17 of the Act and observed that the applicant must either deposit in the Court the amount due from him under the decree, or in pursuance of the judgement give a security for the performance of the decree for compliance with the judgement as the Court may on a previous application made by him in this behalf, have directed.

26. The Division Bench observed that a Full Bench of Allahabad High Court in Ram Bharose versus Ganga Singh 1931 ALJR 1049, was considering a case where the application was accompanied with security bond which was large enough to cover the decretal amount. The Court held that the application was filed within time and the order for furnishing the security was passed after 30 days, the proviso to section 17 stood complied with. However where shortfall in cash deposit was not accompanied with any application for depositing security large enough to cover the decretal amount, such an application should be rejected as the proviso to section 17 of the act is mandatory. The Supreme Court in the case of Kedarnath (supra) had observed the Objects and Reasons of the 1935 Amendment to the Act, and observed that the proviso was couched in such language which could not be treated to be directory. The Court observed that the proviso does not provide for the extension of time by which an application for dispensation of deposit in cash may be filed along with an application for furnishing security, however, it should be filed at any time up to the time of presentation of the application for setting aside ex parte decree, or for review, and the Court may treat it as a previous application. The obligation of the applicant is to move a previous application for dispensation. It is then for the Court to make a prompt order. The compliance of the proviso has to be made by a person within a specified time, that is prior to the filing of the application for setting aside the ex parte decree. The applicant is required to deposit the entire amount due under the decree and also to apply for furnishing security which will cover the entire decretal amount in case of any shortfall. If there is a shortfall, the consequence would be that the proviso to section 17 which is mandatory has not been complied and the application would be rejected. The court also considered the applicability of Section 5 of the Limitation Act to late deposit of the decretal amount. It observed in paragraph 22 that it does not apply to such deposit. The proviso to section 17 talks about filing of a previous application for furnishing security prior to the application for setting aside the ex parte decree. The period for limitation for filing such application has been provided under the said proviso.

27. The Division Bench considered the observations made by the Supreme Court in the case of Naseeruddin and others versus Sitaram Aggarwal JT 2003(2)SC 56, and observed that a similar controversy was being dealt with by the Supreme Court and while considering the Rajasthan Rent Control Act it was observed that if there is a provision giving power to the court to extend the prescribed period of limitation and condone the delay in default of payment of rent, the court can condone the delay, but not otherwise. A clear line of distinction has been drawn between the provisions providing applicability of Section 5 of the Limitation Act to the deposits and the legal provisions bereft of applicability of section 5 of the Limitation Act, to such deposits. It was held that where the statute does not provide either for extension of time or to condone the default in depositing the rent within the stipulated period, the court does not have power to do so. Where the Statute prescribes a specific period within which the deposit has to be made, provision of Section 5 of the Limitation Act cannot be extended if the default takes place. The Court observed that there is no provision under section 17 of the Act conferring power on the Court to condone the delay in complying with its conditions. It is not correct to say that Section 5 of the Limitation Act would still be available to such person who has committed default in making the full deposit and the Court can condone the delay in making the deposit. The Court considered the argument raised regarding substantial compliance of the proviso to section 17 of the Act but observed that as per the language of the proviso if the deposit made by the tenant falls short of amount required to be deposited, the tenant will be deprived of the benefit, even if shortfall in such deposit was because of tenant's ignorance or without any malafide intention. There being a shortfall of the amount required to be deposited, the application for setting aside the ex parte decree will not be maintainable, for want of compliance of the proviso to section 17 of the Act. In such a case even the bonafides of the tenant are not relevant. What is required to be seen is the amount that is not paid or deposited on the due date. If the amount is found to be small, which is of no Consequence, the Court would be justified in ignoring the said mistake by extending the doctrine of "de minimis non curat lex' to such a case. As to what is the case deserving to benefit of the aforesaid Rule is again a question of fact to be decided on a case to case basis. The Court considered that the applicant before it had taken a conscious decision to deposit the amount at a lower rate, than the amount specified in the ex-parte degree itself. This being so, it could not be said by any stretch of imagination that there was a compliance of the proviso to section 17 of the Act in any manner, or it is a case of bonafide mistake or mistake in calculation. The applicant had a duty to calculate the correct decretal amount as per the decree and the Court was not required to get the decretal amount calculated for the applicant.

28. In the instant writ petition the decretal amount had to be deposited along with 12% interest incurred thereon from the date of decree till the date of offer to deposit. The writ petitioners had deposited Rs.19,200 only and had made no application to the court saying that they were ready and willing to deposit security for any amount which was further found due on them. The Munsarim put up a report that the amount that was offered by way of application by the tenants was short by two thousand rupees. The application should have been rejected on this ground alone.

29. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having gone through the order impugned, this Court is of the opinion that learned District Judge has correctly appreciated the fact as well as the law, and there is no legal and factual infirmity in the order impugned.

30. The writ petition is dismissed as devoid of merit.

31. Costs made easy.

Shishir Patel ...Petitioner
Versus
U.O.I. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sharad Pathak, Gaurav Shukla, Piyush Pathak

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Words & phrases - legitimate expectation - The law is settled that a legitimate expectation, even wehn made out, does not always entitle the expectant to a relief. Public interest, change in policy, conduct of the expectant or any other valid or bonafide reason given by the decision-maker, may be sufficient to negative the legitimate expectation. (Para 23)

In pursuance to an advertisement issued by the Indian Oil Corporation (IOC) for award of Regular Retail Outlet Dealership, the petitioner was given the opportunity to provide suitable piece of land at the advertised location vide letter dated 04.09.2019. Thereafter, the petitioner entered into a lease agreement for 20 years on rent/premium with a private person. The Brochure classified the applicants into three categories based on the land offered or land not offered by them in the application. After perusing the clauses of the brochure, The Court is of the view that mere offer of land to the IOC by the applicant may be in Group 1, 2 or 3 does not give rise to any legitimate expectation to get the dealership of the Retail Outlet as the offered land must be a suitable land confirming to the specified criteria and also satisfying other conditions with respect to offering of land. Moreover, the company reserve the right to cancel/withdraw the advertisement, as it is sole discretion. (Para 22)

Furthermore, the Court find the reasoning given by the Corporation to be valid and bona fide for cancelling the subject location i.e., wrong description and publication of the name of district in the advertisement. The error in the advertisement with respect to subject location contravenes the principles of fairness and transparency in the matter of grant of dealership of the Retail Outlet. (Para 24)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sharad Pathak, learned counsel for the petitioner. Learned A.S.G. and Sri Kumar Sambhav, learned counsels appearing for the opposite parties and perused the material on record.

2. This writ petition has been filed for the following main relief:

"i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 18.05.2021 issued by opposite party No.4 for cancellation of location between Kilometer Stone No. 45 and 48 at NH-128 Sultanpur Akbarpur Road (Annexure No.1).

ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 13.01.2021 (Annexure No.2).

iii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamous commanding the opposite parties to take steps including issuing letter of intent to petitioner for awarding of Retail Outlet Dealership on location in between Kilometer Stone No. 45 and 48, NH-128, Sultanpur Akbarpur Road."

3. Facts of the case are that in pursuance to an advertisement dated 24.11.2018 issued by the Indian Oil Corporation (10C) for award of Regular Retail Outlet Dealership, the petitioner had applied for one of the locations, location No. 268 between Kilometer Stone No. 45 and 48 at NH-128 Sultanpur-Akbarpur Road, District Ambedkar Nagar which district was erroneously published in the advertisement, correct being District Sultanpur. As the petitioner had not offered any land in terms of item No. 4 (v) of the Brochure on selection of dealers for Regular and Rural Retail outlets (in short "the Brochure"), he was placed in Group 3 and one Mahima Gupta was selected to whom a letter of intent dated 12.01.2019 was issued, but as the Initial Security Deposit (ISD) and the documents for further selection process were not submitted her candidature was cancelled and her name was placed in Group 3. The petitioner was then given the opportunity to provide suitable piece of land at the advertised location/stretch vide letter dated 04.06.2019. To offer the land, the petitioner entered into a lease agreement with one Ram Charitra for 20 years and informed the opposite parties through e-mail on 04.09.2019. However, the letter of intent was not issued and vide communication letter dated 13.01.2020 it was informed that the subject location No. 268 was cancelled against which the petitioner filed Writ Petition No. 6632 (MB) of 2020: Shishir Patel Vs. Union of India and others, but in the meantime, as the Indian Oil Corporation vide letter dated 04.03.2020, kept the letter dated 13.01.2020 in abeyance, the writ petition was disposed of finally vide order dated 05.03.2020 providing that no further direction was required, however, granting liberty to the petitioner to assail the order, if any adverse action was taken against him. On 29.01.2021 the petitioner submitted a representation for decision being taken in the matter and also filed Writ Petition No. 5366 (MB) of 2021, but as the opposite party No.4-Deputy General Manager (RS) Allahabad Divisional Office, by order dated 18.05.2021 decided the representation giving the reasons for cancellation, the petitioner challenging the orders dated 13.01.2020 and 18.05.2021 filed the present petition.

4. Sri Sharad Pathak, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the cancellation of the location after more than two and half years of the advertisement at this belated stage is illegal and arbitrary. The reason assigned for cancellation i.e. the error in publication of district Ambedkar Nagar, instead of correct district Sultanpur was a typographical error and was not material. He submitted that in pursuance of the letter of the Indian Oil Corporation dated 04.06. 2019 the petitioner having entered into a lease agreement, to offer land to the Indian Oil Corporation, acquired a legitimate expectation of getting the Retial Outlet dealership which could not, now, be denied.

5. Learned counsel for the opposite parties submitted that the order dated 18.05.2021 is speaking one and assigns the reasons for cancellation of the location, which is error in the publication of the name of district Ambedkar Nagar, whereas the location falls in district Sultanpur and on noticing this mistake the subject location was cancelled and communication dated 13.01.2020 was made as the land should be in the advertised area/stretch and wrong description of the district must have deprived many eligible prospective candidates from participating in the selection process which is required to be fair and transparent and under the circumstances the plea of legitimate expectation is not open to the petitioner.

6. We have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsels for the parties and perused the material on record.

7. The reason assigned in the order dated 18.05.2021 for cancellation of the subject location, is that it falls in district Sultanpur and not in district Ambedkar Nagar which was erroneously advertised. It has not been disputed by the petitioner that the subject location falls in district Sultanpur but in the advertisement district Ambedkar Nagar was published.

8. The procedure for selection, as per Clause 14 of the Brochure, with respect to the advertisement reads as under:

"14. Selection Procedure

Selection will be basically made through draw of lots or bidding process depending upon the type of Retail outlet site as defined in Clause 3. This will also be indicated against each location in the advertisement.

A. Draw of Lots

Selection through draw of lots amongst eligible candidates will be made for:

.Corporation Owned Dealer operated outlets under Corpus Fund Scheme (CFS sites)

.Dealer Owned Dealer Operated outlets ("B" / "DC" sites)

B. Bidding Process

Selection through Bidding process will be made for Corporation Owned Dealer Operated Sites ("A" / "CC" sites) except for Corpus fund locations mentioned above. However, in case of tie in bid amount, selection will be made through Draw of Lots amongst tied up bidders.

C Advertisement :*

Advertisements will be released in Newspapers intimating selection of RO dealerships.

All details in this regard like name of RO location, District, State, Category etc. will be hosted in website www.petrolpumpdealerchayan.in

*Guidelines for selection (Brochure) will also be hosted in websitewww.petrolpumpdealerchayan.in

Brochure for Selection of Retail Outlet dealerships can be down loaded from the website OMCS/ www.petrolpumpdealerchayan.in free of cost.

Interested applicants should go through the Brochure carefully for filling up their application form."

9. Thus Clause 14 C of the Brochure clearly provides for release of advertisements in newspapers intimating selection of Retail Outlet dealership, filling all the details like name of the Retail Outlet location, district, State, Category etc.

10. T he error in the advertisement with respect to the district in which the subject location falls would also not be in consonance with the principles of fairness and transparency in the matter of grant of dealership.

11. Clause 14C of the Brochure provides that advertisements will be "released". One of the meanings of "release" is to publish. In the context of release of an advertisement in the newspapers, it would mean the publication of the advertisement in the newspapers. In State of Madhya Pradesh and another Vs. Shri Ram Ragubir Prasad Agarwal and others (1979) 4 SCC 686, it has been held that "Contextually speaking, we are satisfied that 'Publication' means more than mere communication to concerned officials or departments. To publish a news item is to make known to people in general; "an advising of the public or making known of something to the public for a purpose". In our view, the purpose of Section 3 animates the meaning of the expression "publish'. "Publicaiton' is "the act of publishing anything; offering it to public notice, or rendering it accessible to public scrutiny.....an advising of the public; making known of something to them for a purpose".

12. "Advertisement" in common parlance means to make publicly known an information by some device and to draw or attract attention of public/individual concerned to such information. In ICICI Bank and another Vs. Municipal Corporation of Greater Bombay and others (2005) 6 SCC 404, the Hon'ble Apex Court, held that an advertisement is a matter that draws attention of the public or segment of public to a product, service, person, organization or line of conduct in a manner calculated to promote or oppose directly or indirectly that product, service, person, organization or line of conduct intended to promote sale or use of product or range of products. Paragraphs, 14 and 15 of the ICICI Bank (supra) are quoted as under:

"14. .....The dictionary definitions of the word 'advertisement' are as under :-

BLACK'S LAW DICTIONARY, 8TH EDITION

Advertising -1. The action of drawing the public's attention to something to promote its sale. 2 The business of producing and circulating advertisements

LAW AND COMMERCIAL DICTIONARY

Advertisement - Notice given in a manner designed to attract public attention. Edwards v. Lubbock Country, Information communicated to the public, or to an individual concerned, as by handbills, newspaper, television, bill-boards, radio. First Nat. Corporation v. Perrine.

NEW ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITTANICA VOLUME-I

Advertising.- the techniques used to bring products. services, opinions, or causes to public notice for the purpose of persuading the public to respond in a certain way toward what is advertised. Most advertising involves promoting a good that is for sale, but similar methods are used to encourage people to drive safely, to support various charities, or to vote for political candidates, among many other examples.

COLLINS DICTIONARY OF ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Advertisement- any public notice, as a printed display in a newspaper, short film on television, announcement on radio, etc designed to sell goods, publicize an event, etc.

Advertising -(1) the action or practice of drawing public attention to goods, services, events etc., as by the distribution of printed notices, broadcasting. etc. 2) the business that specializes in creating such publicity, 3) advertisements collectively: publicity.

THE CHAMBERS DICTIONARY

Advertisement - the act of advertising; a public notice with the purpose of informing and / or changing public attitudes and behaviour; a short performance recorded for radio, T.V. etc. to advertise goods or services; news.

15. An advertisement is a matter that draws attention of the public or segment of public to a product, service, person, organization or line of conduct in a manner calculated to promote or oppose directly or indirectly that product, service, person, organization or line of conduct intended to promote sale or use of product or range of products. An advertisement is an information that producer provides about its products or services. An advertisement tries to get consumers to buy a product or a service. An advertisement is generally of goods and services and is an information intended for the potential customers and not a mere display of the name of the company unless the same happens to be a trade mark or trade name."

13. Thus, release of advertisement in newspaper is not an empty formality. The purpose is to make publicly known an information and to attract the attention of the public/individual concerned to such information for the purposes for which such advertisement is published or released. In the context of the selection for the Retail Outlet Dealership, the purpose of the advertisement is to make publicly known that at a particular location the dealership of Retail Outlet is to be granted, inviting and attracting the attention of the public to such information to enable the willing persons to apply for the same. The information, therefore, must be correct and complete. Incomplete information or incorrect information defeats the object of the publication as in such a case the attention of the public shall not be drawn to the correct information which may result in depriving many willing and eligible persons to respond to the information published.

14. We now proceed to consider the submission of the petitioner's counsel based on the doctrine of legitimate expectation. His submission is that the petitioner entered into lease agreement with a private person to offer the land to the Corporation in pursuance of letter of the Corporation dated 04.06.2019 and once, the petitioner, acting upon the said letter, entered into twenty years lease agreement with the private person, the petitioner cannot be denied the dealership of Retail Outlet.

15. In order to consider the above submission we proceed to consider the doctrine of legitimate expectation and whether in the facts and circumstances of the case, the petitioner had any legitimate expectation based upon which the relief as prayed can be granted to the petitioner.

16. The doctrine of legitimate expectation has been elaborately discussed; its dimensions explained and law laid down in the leading case of Union of India Vs. Hindustan Development Corporation reported in (1993) 3 SCC 499 followed in the subsequent judgments, We would refer to the Case of Ram Pravesh Singh Vs. State of Bihar (2006) 8 SCC 381 in which the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under in paragraphs 15 to 20 :

"15. What is legitimate expectation? Obviously, it is not a legal right. It is an expectation of a benefit, relief or remedy, that may ordinarily flow from a promise or established practice. The term 'established practice' refers to a regular, consistent predictable and certain conduct, process or activity of the decision-making authority. The expectation should be legitimate, that is, reasonable, logical and valid. Any expectation which is based on sporadic or casual or random acts, or which is unreasonable, illogical or invalid cannot be a legitimate expectation. Not being a right, it is not enforceable as such. It is a concept fashioned by courts, for judicial review of administrative action. It is procedural in character based on the requirement of a higher degree of fairness in administrative action, as a consequence of the promise made, or practice established. In short, a person can be said to have a 'legitimate expectation' of a particular treatment, if any representation or promise is made by an authority, either expressly or impliedly, or if the regular and consistent past practice of the authority gives room for such expectation in the normal course. As a ground for relief, the efficacy of the doctrine is rather weak as its slot is just above 'fairness in action' but far below 'promissory estoppel'. It may only entitle an expectant : (a) to an opportunity to show cause before the expectation is dashed; or (b) to an explanation as to the cause for denial. In appropriate cases, courts may grant a direction requiring the Authority to follow the promised procedure or established practice. A legitimate expectation, even when made out, does not always entitle the expectant to a relief. Public interest, change in policy, conduct of the expectant or any other valid or bonafide reason given by the decision-maker, may be sufficient to negative the 'legitimate expectation'.

The doctrine of legitimate expectation based on established practice (as contrasted from legitimate expectation based on a promise), can be invoked only by someone who has dealings or transactions or negotiations with an authority, on which such established practice has a bearing, or by someone who has a recognized legal relationship with the authority. A total stranger unconnected with the authority or a person who had no previous dealings with the authority and who has not entered into any transaction or negotiations with the authority, cannot invoke the doctrine of legitimate expectation, merely on the ground that the authority has a general obligation to act fairly.

16. In Union of India V. Hindustan Development Corporation [1993 (3) SCC 499], this Court explained the nature and scope of the doctrine of 'legitimate expectation' thus : (SCC P. 540, para 28)

"For legal purposes, the expectation cannot be the same as anticipation. It is different from a wish, a desire or a hope nor can it amount to a claim or demand on the ground of a right. However earnest and sincere a wish, a desire or a hope may be and however confidently one may look to them to be fulfilled, they by themselves cannot amount to an assertable expectation and a mere disappointment does not attract legal consequences. A pious hope even leading to a moral obligation cannot amount to a legitimate expectation. The legitimacy of an expectation can be inferred only if it is founded on the sanction of law or custom or an established procedure followed in regular and natural sequence. Again it is distinguishable from a genuine expectation. Such expectation should be justifiably legitimate and protectable. Every such legitimate expectation does not by itself fructify into a right and therefore it does not amount to a right in the conventional sense."

17. This Court also explained the remedies flowing by applying the principle of legitimate expectation : (SCC pp. 546-47, para 33)

"it is generally agreed that legitimate expectation gives the applicant sufficient locus standi for judicial review and that the doctrine of legitimate expectation is to be confined mostly to right of a fair hearing before a decision which results in negativing a promise or withdrawing an undertaking is taken. The doctrine does not give scope to claim relief straightaway from the administrative authorities as no crystallized right as such is involved. The protection of such legitimate expectation does not require the fulfillment of the expectation where an overriding public interest requires otherwise. In other words where a person's legitimate expectation is not fulfilled by taking a particular decision then decision-maker should justify the denial of such expectation by showing some overriding public interest. Therefore even if substantive protection of such expectation is contemplated that does not grant an absolute right to a particular person. It simply ensures the circumstances in which that expectation may be denied or restricted. A case of legitimate expectation would arise when a body by representation or by past practice aroused expectation which it would be within its powers to fulfil. The protection is limited to that extent and a judicial review can be within those limits. But as discussed above a person who bases his claim on the doctrine of legitimate expectation, in the first instance, must satisfy that there is a foundation and thus has locus standi to make such a claim. In considering the same several factors which give rise to such legitimate expectation must be present. The decision taken by the authority must be found to be arbitrary, unreasonable and not taken in public interest. If it is a question of policy, even by way of change of old policy, the courts cannot interfere with a decision. In a given case whether there are such facts and circumstances giving rise to a legitimate expectation, it would primarily be a question of fact. If these tests are satisfied and if the court is satisfied that a case of legitimate expectation is made out then the next question would be whether failure to give an opportunity of hearing before the decision affecting such legitimate expectation is taken, has resulted in failure of justice and whether on that ground the decision should be quashed. If that be so then what should be the relief is again a matter which depends on several factors." (emphasis supplied).

18. In Punjab Communication Ltd. v. Union of India- 1999 (4) SCC 727, this Court observed : (SCC pp. 729-30)

"The principle of legitimate expectation is still at a stage of evolution. The principle is at the root of the rule of law and requires regularity, predictability and certainty in the Governments dealings with the public The procedural part of it relates to a representation that a hearing or other appropriate procedure will be afforded before the decision is made."

"However, the more important aspect is whether the decision maker can sustain the change in policy by resort to Wednesbury principles of rationality or whether the court can go into the question whether the decision-maker has properly balanced the legitimate expectation as against the need for a change.. In sum, this means that the judgment whether public interest overrides the substantive legitimate expectation of individuals will be for the decision-maker who has made the change in the policy. The choice of the policy is for the decision-maker and not for the court. The legitimate substantive expectation merely permits the court to find out if the change in policy which is the cause for defeating the legitimate expectation is irrational or perverse or one which no reasonable person could have made."

19. Recently, a Constitution Bench of this Court in Secretary, State of Karnataka v. Umadevi [2006 (4) SCC 1] referred to the circumstances in which the doctrine of legitimate expectation can be invoked thus : (SCC pp.38-39, para 46)

"The doctrine can be invoked if the decisions of the administrative authority affect the person by depriving him of some benefit or advantage which either (i) he had in the past been permitted by the decision-maker to enjoy and which he can legitimately expect to be permitted to continue to do until there have been communicated to him some rational grounds for withdrawing it on which he has been given an opportunity to comment; or (ii) he has received assurance from the decision-maker that they will not be withdrawn without giving him first an opportunity of advancing reasons for contending that they should not be withdrawn."

20. Another Constitution Bench, referring to the doctrine, observed thus in Confederation of Ex-servicemen Associations vs. Union of India: (SCC pp. 416-17, paras 33 & 35)

"33.....No doubt, the doctrine has an important place in the development of Administrative Law and particularly law relating to 'judicial review'. Under the said doctrine, a person may have reasonable or legitimate expectation of being treated in a certain way by an administrative authority even though he has no right in law to receive the benefit. In such situation, if a decision is taken by an administrative authority adversely affecting his interests, he may have justifiable grievance in the light of the fact of continuous receipt of the benefit, legitimate expectation to receive the benefit or privilege which he has enjoyed all throughout. Such expectation may arise either from the express promise or from consistent practice which the applicant may reasonably expect to continue."

35. "In such cases, therefore, the Court may not insist an administrative authority to act judicially but may still insist it to act fairly. The doctrine is based on the principle that good administration demands observance of reasonableness and where it has adopted a particular practice for a long time even in absence of a provision of law, it should adhere to such practice without depriving its citizens of the benefit enjoyed or privilege exercised."

17. Recently, in Kerala State Beverages (M and M) Corporation Limited and others Vs. P.P. Suresh and others (2019) 9SCC710 the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under in paragraphs 15 to 20 and 23 to 25, which are being reproduced as under:-

14. .....

15. The principle of legitimate expectation has been recognized by this Court in Union of India v. Hindustand Development Corporation & Ors. If the promise made by an authority is clear, unequivocal and unambiguous, a person can claim that the authority in all fairness should not act contrary to the promise.

16. M. Jagannadha Rao, J. elaborately elucidated on legitimate expectation in Punjab Communications Ltd. v. Union of India and Ors . He referred (at SCC pp. 741-42, para 27) to the judgment in Council of Civil Service Unions and Ors. v. Minister for the Civil Service in which Lord Diplock had observed that for a legitimate expectation to arise, the decisions of the administrative authority must affect the person by depriving him of some benefit or advantage which,

" 27.....(i) he had in the past been permitted by the decision- maker to enjoy and which he can legitimately expect to be permitted to continue to do until there has been communicated to him some rational grounds for withdrawing it on which he has been given an opportunity to comment; or

(ii) he has received assurance from the decision-maker that they will not be withdrawn without giving him first an opportunity of advancing reasons for contending that they should not be withdrawn.

17. Rao, J. observed in this case, that the procedural part of legitimate expectation relates to a representation that a hearing or other appropriate procedure will be afforded before the decision is made. The substantive part of the principle is that if a representation is made that a benefit of a substantive nature will be granted or if the person is already in receipt of the benefit, that it will be continued and not be substantially varied, then the same could be enforced.

18. It has been held by R. V. Raveendran, J. in Ram Pravesh Singh v. State of Bihar that legitimate expectation is not a legal right. Not being a right, it is not enforceable as such. It may entitle an expectant (SCC p. 391, para 15)

"(a) to an opportunity to show cause before the expectation is dashed;

(b) to an explanation as to the cause of denial. In appropriate cases, the Courts may grant a direction requiring the authority to follow the promised procedure or established practice.

Substantive Legitimate Expectation

19. An expectation entertained by a person may not be found to be legitimate due to the existence of some countervailing consideration of policy or law. Administrative policies may change with changing circumstances, including changes in the political complexion of governments. The liberty to make such changes is something that is inherent in our constitutional form of government.

20. The decision makers' freedom to change the policy in public interest cannot be fettered by applying the principle of substantive legitimate expectation. So long as the Government does not act in an arbitrary or in an unreasonable manner, the change in policy does not call for interference by judicial review on the ground of a legitimate expectation of an individual or a group of individuals being defeated.

22. .....

23. In case of a complaint that an administrative authority has reneged from a promise without giving an opportunity of hearing which was the past practice, a claim of legitimate expectation can be raised. In other words, if the policy or practice was to give an opportunity before the benefit is withdrawn, the non-compliance of such a practice would result in defeating the legitimate expectation of an individual or group of individuals. In Attorney General of Hong Kong v. Ng Yuen Shiu, the Privy Council was concerned with a dispute relating to an assertion of legitimate expectation of hearing, by an illegal immigrant. The Respondent in that case entered Hong Kong illegally and remained for a long period of time without being detected. He became part owner of a factory which employed several workers. A change in immigration policy was announced whereby illegal immigrants would be interviewed in due course, but no guarantee was given that they would not be removed from Hong Kong. The Respondent approached the immigration authorities for interview and after being interviewed he was detained until a removal order was made by the Director of Immigration. His appeal was dismissed by the Immigration Tribunal. The Court of Appeal of Hong Kong granted the Respondent an order of prohibition till an opportunity was given to him to explain the circumstances of his case before the Director. The Appeal filed by the Attorney General of Hong Kong was dismissed by the Privy Council. The only question raised by the Respondent in the Appeal was whether he was entitled to have a fair inquiry under common law, before a removal order was made against him. Without expressing any opinion on violation of principles of natural justice, the right of hearing of the Respondent in the peculiar facts of the case was adjudicated upon. It was held that the Respondent had a ''legitimate expectation' of being accorded a hearing before an order of removal was passed.

24. We have referred to the above judgment to demonstrate that there can be situation where the very claim made can be with regard to an opportunity not being given before withdrawing a promise which results in defeating the ''legitimate expectation'.

25. The principle of procedural legitimate expectation would apply to cases where a promise is made and is withdrawn without affording an opportunity to the person affected. The imminent requirement of fairness in administrative action is to give an opportunity to the person who is deprived of a past benefit. In our opinion, there is an exception to the said rule. If an announcement is made by the Government of a policy conferring benefit on a large number of people, but subsequently, due to overriding public interest, the benefits that were announced earlier are withdrawn, it is not expedient to provide individual opportunities to such innominate number of persons. In other words, in such cases, an opportunity to each individual to explain the circumstances of his case need not be given. In Union of India v. Hindustan Devlopment Corporation and Ors. (supra) it was held that in cases involving an interest based on legitimate expectation, the Court will not interfere on grounds of procedural fairness and natural justice, if the deciding authority has been allotted a full range of choice and the decision is taken fairly and objectively."

18. In view of the aforesaid, some of the following principles of law on legitimate expectation may be summarized as under:-

(1) Legitimate expectation is an expectation of a benefit, relief or remedy, that may ordinarily flow from a promise or established practice. The term 'established practice' refers to a regular, consistent predictable and certain conduct, process or activity of the decision-making authority. The expectation should be legitimate, that is, reasonable, logical and valid. Any expectation which is based on sporadic or casual or random acts, or which is unreasonable, illogical or invalid cannot be a legitimate expectation. The expectation cannot be the same as anticipation. It is different from a wish, a desire or a hope, however earnest and sincere a wish, a desire or a hope may be.

(2) A person can be said to have a 'legitimate expectation' of a particular treatment, if any representation or promise is made by an authority, either expressly or impliedly, or if the regular and consistent past practice of the authority gives room for such expectation in the normal course.

(3) It is not a legal right and as such a legitimate expectation, even if made, does not entitle the expectant to relief straightaway from the administrative authorities.

(4) It is procedural in character based on the requirement of a higher degree of fairness in administrative action, as a consequence of the promise made, or practice established.

(5) Legitimate expectation if made may only entitle an expectant : (a) to an opportunity to show cause before the expectation is dashed; or (b) to an explanation as to the cause for denial.

(6) However, the requirement of fairness in administrative action by giving an opportunity of hearing to the expectant is not in all cases but is where such person is deprived of a past benefit.

(7) If some policy is announced conferring benefit on a large number of people but is subsequently withdrawn or changed due to overriding public interest, an opportunity to each individual to explain the circumstances of his case need not be given.

(8) Public interest, change in policy, conduct of the expectant or any other valid or bonafide reason given by the decision-maker, may be sufficient to negative the legitimate expectation, even if made out.

(9) So long as the Government does not act in an arbitrary or in an unreasonable manner interference by judicial review on the ground of legitimate expectation is not called for. The Court will not interfere on grounds of procedural fairness and natural justice, if the deciding authority has been allotted a full range of choice and the decision is taken fairly and objectively.

(10) A person who bases his claim on the doctrine of legitimate expectation, in the first instance, must satisfy that there is a foundation and thus he has locus standi to make such a claim. The decision taken by the authority must be found to be arbitrary, unreasonable and not taken in public interest.

(11) Whether there are such facts and circumstances giving rise to a legitimate expectation, it would primarily be a question of fact in each case.

19. Keeping in view the aforesaid principles on legitimate expectation, we now proceed to consider the petitioner's case to determine if the petitioner can be said to have legitimate expectation.

20. The only ground on which the petitioner claims legitimate expectation is that he entered into a lease agreement for 20 years on rent/premium with a private person pursuant to the Corporation's letter dated 04.09.2019 asking him to offer suitable land, and if such a letter had not been given, he would not have entered into the lease agreement.

21. So far as the offering of land by the applicant for Retail Outlet dealership is concerned, the Brochure provided that all the applicants meeting the eligibility criteria will qualify for further selection process. Clause 4 of the Brochure provided for the eligibility criteria for individual applicants-proprietorship/partnership. Sub-Clause (v) of Clause 4 deals with the land (applicable to all categories). It provides that the applicants would be classified into three groups based on the land offered or land not offered by them in the application form. The applicants having suitable piece of land in the advertised location/area either by way of ownership/long term lease for a period of minimum 19 years 11 months or as advertised by the Corporation were classified in Group 1. The applicants having Firm Offer for a suitable piece of land for purchase or long term lease for a period of minimum 19 years 11 months or as advertised by the Corporation were classified in Group 2 and the applicants who had not offered the land were classified in Group 3. The applicants in Group 3 would be processed/advised to offer land, only in case no eligible applicant is found or no applicant gets selected under Group 1 and 2. The applicants under Group 3, who did not offer land along with application, would be advised by the Corporation to provide suitable land in the advertised location/stretch within a period of three months from the date of issuance of intimation letter to them and in case, such applicant fails to provide suitable land within the prescribed period or the land provided is found not meeting the satisfied criteria, the application would be rejected.

22. These provisions of the Brochure make it clear that mere offer of land to the Corporation by the applicant may be in Group 1, Group 2 or Group 3 does not give rise to any legitimate expectation to get the dealership of the Retail Outlet as the offered land must be a suitable land confirming to the laid down/ specified criteria and also satisfying other conditions with respect to offering of land as mentioned in the Brochure, under which the company reserved the right to cancel/withdraw the advertisement, at it is sole discretion. So it cannot be said that any such promise was made as alleged for grant of the dealership of Retail Outlet, if the petitioner provided any land. The expectation of the petitioner, in view of the letter of intimation issued to him for offering the land, that if he offers the land after entering into lease agreement, he would get the dealership, cannot be a reasonable or a logical expectation flowing from any promise made or established practice that the applicant offering the land would necessarily be granted the dealership.

23. As aforesaid the law is settled that a legitimate expectation, even when made out, does not always entitle the expectant to a relief. Besides, public interest, change in policy, conduct of the expectant any other valid or bona fide reason given by the decision-maker, may be sufficient to negative the legitimate expectation. As a ground for relief, the efficacy of this doctrine of legitimate expectation is weak one. The decision maker has to justify the public interest or any other valid or bona fide reason.

24. We find that the Corporation has given valid and bona fide reasons for cancelling the subject location i.e. wrong description and publication of the name of district in the advertisement. The error in the advertisement with respect to the subject location, contravenes the principles of fairness and transparency in the matter of grant of dealership of the Retail Outlet.

25. In view of the aforesaid, we are not convinced with the submission of Mr. Sharad Pathak that the error in publication of the district name could not be corrected after two and half years of the publication. It could not be shown to us that in the mean time the petitioner acquired any indefeasible right by lapse of time and particularly when the petitioner had yet not been selected and the Indian Oil Corporation under the Brochure reserved the right to cancel/withdraw/amend the advertisement at its sole discretion, which right of the Corporation has neither been disputed nor challenged.

26. We are of the further considered view that the Corporation cannot be directed to proceed for the subject location in pursuance of the advertisement, it being erroneous, which gives incorrect information about the subject location.

27. We do not find any illegality in the orders under challenge. The writ petition is devoid of merits and is hereby dismissed.

A. Civil Law - The Executive Engineer, sultanpur has given work to M/s Variegate Project private limited, Hyderabad ("the firm"). The firm entered into a rental agreement with the petitioner and took on lease the petitioner's premises for storing electrical goods subject to the terms and conditions mentioned in the rental agreement. In the meantime, firm was blacklisted. On blacklisting the official opposite party stationed the guards at the premises for safety and paid off the rent for that relevant period. However, as far as the dues i.e., rent payable by the firm are concerned, this Court failed to comprehend as to how the official party will be held liable when the agreement was between the petitioner and the firm. (Para 17)

The issue involved in the instant writ petition is purely based on the question of fact therefore, this Court directed the petitioner to avail other civil remedies as may be prescribed by the law. (para 19)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ved Prakash Yadav, learned counsel for petitioner, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for State-opposite party No.1 and Shri Manish Jauhari, learned counsel for opposite parties no. 2 & 3.

2. This petition has been filed seeking a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Department of Energy-opposite party No.1 and the Managing Director, Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Khand-4A, Lucknow-opposite party No.2 to direct the Executive Engineer, Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Khand-2, Sultanpur, opposite party No.3 to give the admitted amount being the total remaining rental amount with interest to the petitioner as well as to direct the Managing Director, Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Khand, Lucknow to consider and take appropriate decision in pursuance of Annexure Nos. 6 and 7 submitted before him by the District Magistrate, Sultanpur.

3. The facts of the case as submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner are that for electrification in Rural areas of District Sultanpur, under the "Rajiv Gandhi Gramin Vidyutikaran Scheme", the Executive Engineer, Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Khand-2 Sultanpur had given work to M/s Variegate Projects Private Limited, Hyderabad (herein after called as "the Firm"). The Firm entered into a rental agreement dated 01.03.2015 with the petitioner and took on lease the petitioner's premises for storing electrical goods subject to the terms and conditions mentioned in the rental agreement. The Firm was later on blacklisted and consequently when the opposite party No.3 tried to take possession of the electrical goods stored by the Firm, to shift it to its departmental store, the petitioner raised objection that the Firm had not made payment of rent and unless the payment was made, the petitioner would not let the electrical goods to be lifted and shifted from her premises. It has been submitted that the Executive Engineer apprised the District Magistrate, Sultanpur about the said situation vide letter dated 06.08.2016 and in pursuance thereof, the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Lambhua was directed to resolve the dispute. Thereafter on 08.08.2016 the Executive Engineer assured the petitioner for payment of the entire arrears of rent due against the Firm out of which payment of Rs. 1,10,000/- vide Cheque No. 039028 and of Rs. 3,97,767/- vide cheque No. 87174, drawn on Punjab National Bank, District Sultanpur, in total amounting to Rs. 5,07,767/-, was paid to the petitioner by the opposite party No.3 with promise to make payment of the balance of Rs. 5,32,707/- after shifting of the electrical goods. However, despite repeated request as the payment was not made, the petitioner submitted representation to the Managing Director-opposite party No.2 before whom the District Magistrate Sultanpur had also submitted its reports vide letters dated 17.11.2020, 02.01.2021 and 25.02.2021, but till date neither any decision has been taken by the Managing Director nor the payment has been made.

4. On our specific query to the petitioner's counsel, whether opposite party Nos. 1 to 3 are party to the rental agreement he submitted that the agreement is only between the petitioner and M/s Variegate Projects Private Limited, Hyderabad. However, he further submitted that in view of the assurance given and the promise made by the Executive Engineer-opposite party No.3, to make payment of the entire outstanding rent amount the opposite parties made themselves liable for payment of the entire rent amount.

5. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submitted that the District Magistrate, Sultanpur has already sent letters to the Managing Director, Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Khand-

Lucknow-opposite party No.2 and the payment, if any, is to be made by the opposite party Nos. 2 and 3.

6. Sri Manish Jauhari, learned counsel for opposite party Nos. 2 and 3 submitted that the rental agreement was between the petitioner and the Firm. There is no liability of the opposite party Nos. 2 and 3 for payment of the arrears of rent due against the Firm. He submitted that the payment of Rs. 5,07,767/- was made by the Executive Engineer-opposite party No.3 for the period with effect from 18.01.2016 up to August, 2016, during which, the opposite parties had deputed its personnel for the safety and security of the electrical goods stored in the petitioner's premises by the firm. He further submitted that there is no statutory or any contractual liability of the opposite parties for payment as prayed by the petitioner, and any promise or assurance, even if given by the Executive Engineer, cannot bind the opposite party Nos. 2 and 3 as nothing has been brought on record to show that any such promise was made or/and the Executive Engineer had been authorized to make any such promise to bind the opposite party Nos. 2 and 3.

7. We have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsels for the parties and perused the material on record.

8. A perusal of the rental agreement, Annexure 1 to the writ petition, shows that it is only between the petitioner and M/s Variegate Projects Private Limited, Hyderabad. On this point there is no dispute. Any statutory or even any contractual liability of the opposite party Nos. 1 to 3 for payment of the arrears of rent of the M/s Variegate Projects Private Limited could not be shown to us.

9. The Sheetanchor of the petitioner is the letter dated 18.05.2017 and the letter dated 17.11.2020, Annexure No.6, in support of the submission that the promise was made by the Executive Engineer-opposite Party No.3 to the petitioner to make the payment of the entire outstanding amount of rent of the firm.

10. We have perused the aforesaid documents. By letter dated 18.05.2017 the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Lambhua, District Sultanpur had directed the then Executive Engineer (Second), Electricity Distribution Division, Sultanpur to ensure payment of the balance amount of Rs. 532707/- to the petitioner mentioning in the said letter that on 08.08.2016 the said Executive Engineer, in presence of the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Lambhua, the Circle Officer, Lambhua and the Station House Officer Kotwali Dehat had given assurance to the petitioner that the payment of the balance amount of Rs. 5,32,707/- would be made without delay as it was not possible at that time to make full payment of arrears of rent amounting to Rs. 1040474/- out of which an amount of Rs. 5,07,767/- was paid vide two cheques.

11. The letter No. 283 dated 17.11.2020 of the District Magistrate, Sultanpur, to the Managing Director although refers to the letter dated 18.05.2017, but also mentions about the letter of the Superintending Engineer dated 07.10.2020 to the effect, inter alia, that on 08.08.2016 a consensus was arrived at between the petitioner and the electricity distribution division for payment of rent for the period the electricity distribution division deputed its Guard for security and safety of the electrical goods stored in petitioner's premises upto the date i.e. 08.08.2016 at the rate of the same rent as was settled between the petitioner and the firm, of which full payment was made to the petitioner. The letter dated 17.11.2020 further mentions that the petitioner had denied any such agreement dated 08.08.2016 to have been signed by her.

12. Thus from the perusal of the record before us, we find that there is a serious dispute between the parties as regards promise made or assurance given by the Executive Engineer-opposite party No.3 for payment of the entire outstanding arrears of rent as also that the payment of Rs. 5,07,767/- was part payment or it was full payment for the period w.e.f. 18.01.2016 up to 08.08.2016 in pursuance of the alleged agreement dated 08.08.2016 which agreement itself is disputed by the petitioner.

13. In a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the High Court has jurisdiction to try issues both of fact and law and merely because in considering the petitioner's right to relief, question of fact may fall to be determined, the High Court is not deprived of its jurisdiction to entertain a writ petition under Article 226. However, exercise of jurisdiction is discretionary and the discretion is to be exercised on sound judicial principles. When the petition raises a question of fact of complex nature requiring the oral evidence for determination or the nature of claim is such that it cannot be conclusively determined on the basis of material available on the record of the writ petition or that it would be inappropriate to try such issues in the writ jurisdiction for analogous reasons, the High Court may refuse to exercise its discretionary writ jurisdiction.

14. It will be apt to refer the case of Hari Krishna Mandir Trust vs. State of Maharashtra and Ors. [(2020) 9 SCC 356], wherein in paragraphs 104 & 105, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"104. The High Court is not deprived of its jurisdiction to entertain a petition under Article 226 merely because in considering the petitioner's right to relief questions of fact may fall to be determined. In a petition under Article 226 the High Court has jurisdiction to try issues both of fact and law. Exercise of the jurisdiction is, it is true, discretionary, but the discretion must be exercised on sound judicial principles. Reference may be made inter alia to the judgments of this Court in Gunwant Kaur v. Municipal Committee, Bhatinda 11 and State of Kerala v. M. K. Jose, this Court held : (SCC pp. 442-43, para 16)

"16. Having referred to the aforesaid decisions, it is obligatory on our part to refer to two other authorities of this Court where it has been opined that under what circumstances a disputed question of fact can be gone into. In Gunwant Kaur v. Municipal Committee, Bhatinda, it has been held thus: (SCC p. 774, paras 14-16)

"14. The High Court observed that they will not determine disputed question of fact in a writ petition. But what facts were in dispute and what were admitted could only be determined after an affidavit-in-reply was filed by the State. The High Court, however, proceeded to dismiss the petition in limine. The High Court is not deprived of its jurisdiction to entertain a petition under Article 226 merely because in considering the petitioner's right to relief questions of fact may fall to be determined. In a petition under Article 226 the High Court has jurisdiction to try issues both of fact and law. Exercise of the jurisdiction is, it is true, discretionary, but the discretion must be exercised on sound judicial principles. When the petition raises questions of fact of a complex nature, which may for their determination require oral evidence to be taken, and on that account the High Court is of the view that the dispute may not appropriately be tried in a writ petition, the High Court may decline to try a petition. Rejection of a petition in limine will normally be justified, where the High Court is of the view that the petition is frivolous or because of the nature of the claim made dispute sought to be agitated, or that the petition against the party against whom relief is claimed is not maintainable or that the dispute raised thereby is such that it would be inappropriate to try it in the writ jurisdiction, or for analogous reasons.

15. From the averments made in the petition filed by the appellants it is clear that in proof of a large number of allegations the appellants relied upon documentary evidence and the only matter in respect of which conflict of facts may possibly arise related to the due publication of the notification under Section 4 by the Collector.

16. In the present case, in our judgment, the High Court was not justified in dismissing the petition on the ground that it will not determine disputed question of fact. The High Court has jurisdiction to determine questions of fact, even if they are in dispute and the present, in our judgment, is a case in which in the interests of both the parties the High Court should have entertained the petition and called for an affidavit-in reply from the respondents, and should have proceeded to try the petition instead of relegating the appellants to a separate suit." (emphasis supplied)

105. In ABL International Ltd. v. Export Credit Guarantee Corporation of India Ltd., this Court referring to previous judgments of this Court including Gunwant Kaur (supra) held: (ABL International Ltd. Case, SCC pp. 568-69 & 572, paras 19 & 27)

"19. Therefore, it is clear from the above enunciation of law that merely because one of the parties to the litigation raises a dispute in regard to the facts of the case, the court entertaining such petition under Article 226 of the Constitution is not always bound to relegate the parties to a suit. In the above case of Gunwant Kaur this Court even went to the extent of holding that in a writ petition, if the facts require, even oral evidence can be taken. This clearly shows that in an appropriate case, the writ court has the jurisdiction to entertain a writ petition involving disputed questions of fact and there is no absolute bar for entertaining a writ petition even if the same arises out of a contractual obligation and/or involves some disputed questions of fact.

27. From the above discussion of ours, the following legal principles emerge as to the maintainability of a writ petition:

a) In an appropriate case, a writ petition as against a State or an instrumentality of a State arising out of a contractual obligation is maintainable.

b) Merely because some disputed questions of fact arise for consideration, same cannot be a ground to refuse to entertain a writ petition in all cases as a matter of rule;

c) A writ petition involving a consequential relief of monetary claim is also maintainable."

15. In view of the complex nature of the disputed question of fact as aforesaid, we consider it not appropriate to try this question in exercise of our writ jurisdiction.

16. With respect to the submission of the petitioner's counsel based on the doctrine of promissory estoppel we are of the considered view that where the person acting upon the promise made by the Government or the public authority has changed his position, this doctrine can be pressed into aid to compel the Government or the public authority to carry out a representation or promise made, but there are also well recognized exceptions and as this doctrine is equitable one it must yield when the equity so demands, if it can be shown, having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case that it would be inequitable to hold the Government or the public authority to its promise, assurance or representation. Most importantly the doctrine of promissory estoppel cannot be invoked in the abstract. To invoke this doctrine clear, sound and positive foundation must be laid in the petition itself by the party invoking the doctrine. We may refer the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India and Another Etc. Etc. vs. V.V.F. Limited and Another Etc. Etc. [2020 SCC Online SC 378] in which, in paragraph 41 it has been held as under:

"41. In the case of Kasinka Trading (supra), in paragraphs 12, 20 and 23, it is observed and held as follows:

"12. It has been settled by this Court that the doctrine of promissory estoppel is applicable against the Government also particularly where it is necessary to prevent fraud or manifest injustice. The doctrine, however, cannot be pressed into aid to compel the Government or the public authority to carry out a representation or promise which is contrary to law or which was outside the authority or power of the officer of the Government or of the public authority to make. There is preponderance of judicial opinion that to invoke the doctrine of promissory estoppel clear, sound and positive foundation must be laid in the petition itself by the party invoking the doctrine and that bald expressions, without any supporting material, to the effect that the doctrine is attracted because the party invoking the doctrine has altered its position relying on the assurance of the Government would not be sufficient to press into aid the doctrine. In our opinion, the doctrine of promissory estoppel cannot be invoked in the abstract and the courts are bound to consider all aspects including the results sought to be achieved and the public good at large, because while considering the applicability of the doctrine, the courts have to do equity and the fundamental principles of equity must for ever be present to the mind of the court, while considering the applicability of the doctrine. The doctrine must yield when the equity so demands if it can be shown having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case that it would be inequitable to hold the Government or the public authority to its promise, assurance or representation.

20. The facts of the appeals before us are not analogous to the facts In Indo-Afghan Agencies [(1968) 2 SCR 366 : AIR 1968 SC 718] or M.P. Sugar Mills [(1979) 2 SCC 409 : 1979 SCC (Tax) 144 : (1979) 2 SCR 641]. In the first case the petitioner therein had acted upon the unequivocal promises held out to it and exported goods on the specific assurance given to it and it was in that fact situation that it was held that Textile Commissioner who had enunciated the scheme was bound by the assurance thereof and obliged to carry out the promise made thereunder. As already noticed, in the present batch of cases neither the notification is of an executive character nor does it represent a scheme designed to achieve a particular purpose. It was a notification issued in public interest and again withdrawn in public interest. So far as the second case (M.P. Sugar Mills case [(1979) 2 SCC 409 : 1979 SCC (Tax) 144 : (1979) 2 SCR 641]) is concerned the facts were totally different. In the correspondence exchanged between the State and the petitioners therein it was held out to the petitioners that the industry would be exempted from sales tax for a particular number of initial years but when the State sought to levy the sales tax it was held by this Court that it was precluded from doing so because of the categorical representation made by it to the petitioners through letters in writing, who had relied upon the same and set up the industry.

23. The appellants appear to be under the impression that even if, in the altered market conditions the continuance of the exemption may not have been justified, yet, Government was bound to continue it to give extra profit to them. That certainly was not the object with which the notification had been issued. The withdrawal of exemption "in public interest" is a matter of policy and the courts would not bind the Government to its policy decisions for all times to come, irrespective of the satisfaction of the Government that a change in the policy was necessary in the "public interest". The courts, do not interfere with the fiscal policy where the Government acts in "public interest" and neither any fraud or lack of bona fides is alleged much less established. The Government has to be left free to determine the priorities in the matter of utilisation of finances and to act in the public interest while issuing or modifying or withdrawing an exemption notification under Section 25(1) of the Act."

Thus, it can be seen that this Court has specifically and clearly held that the doctrine of promissory estoppel cannot be invoked in the abstract and the courts are bound to consider all aspects including the objective to be achieved and the public good at large. It has been held that while considering the applicability of the doctrine, the courts have to do equity and the fundamental principles of equity must forever be present to the mind of the court, while considering the applicability of the doctrine. It is further held that the doctrine must yield when the equity so demands if it can be shown having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case that it would be inequitable to hold the Government or the public authority to its promise, assurance or representation. It is further held that an exemption notification does not make items which are subject to levy of customs duty etc. as items not leviable to such duty. It only suspends the levy and collection of customs duty, etc., wholly or partially and subject to such conditions as may be laid down in the notification by the Government in "public interest". Such an exemption by its very nature is susceptible of being revoked or modified or subjected to other conditions. The supersession or revocation of an exemption notification in the "public interest" is an exercise of the statutory power of the State under the law itself. It has been further held that under the General Clauses Act an authority which has the power to issue a notification has the undoubted power to rescind or modify the notification in a like manner. It has been observed that the withdrawal of exemption "in public interest" is a matter of policy and the courts would not bind the Government to its policy decisions for all times to come, irrespective of the satisfaction of the Government that a change in the policy was necessary in the "public interest". It has been held that where the Government acts in "public interest" and neither any fraud or lack of bonafides is alleged, much less established, it would not be appropriate for the court to interfere with the same."

17. The rent agreement was between the petitioner and the firm. Admittedly, official opposite parties were not party to it. The official opposite parties i.e. Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited and its officials entered into an agreement with the firm naming Variegate Projects Private Limited for rural electrification. Petitioner was not a party to it. It appears in pursuance to the said contract between the firm and official opposite parties the firm took the premises of the petitioner for storing electrical goods etc, but did not pay the rent. In the meantime, the firm was blacklisted. On such blacklisting the official opposite parties stationed guards at the premises for safety of the electrical goods kept in the rental premises as they belonged to them. For that period rent or consideration whatever it may be called was paid by the official opposite parties to the petitioners. In so far as other dues i.e. rent payable by the firm, it is a dispute between the petitioner and firm. We fail to comprehend as to how official opposite parties can be made liable in this regard. There in nothing on record to show that the Executive Engineer was ever authorized by the Corporation to give any such assurance, even if given, on which aspect we are not recording any finding, for payment of such rent.

18. We have already considered above that the writ petition involves disputed questions of fact and consequently what we find is that a clear, sound and positive foundation has not been laid in the writ petition for invoking the doctrine of legitimate expectation.

19. We are of the opinion that such matters are not amenable to writ jurisdiction merely because the official opposite parties are instrumentalities of State, as, essentially, it is a dispute pertaining to rent involving a money claim and complicated as also disputed question of fact as also pinciples of civil law are involved. The petitioner may therefore pursue other civil remedies as may be prescribed in law.

20. Observation made herein are only for purpose of these proceedings and shall not have any bearing on such other proceedings, if initiated by the parties herein.

21. In view of the aforesaid, the writ petition is dismissed, but with the aforesaid observations.

A. Land Law - U.P. Revenue Code - Sections 67 & 230 - U.P. Zamindari abolition & Land Revenue Act, 1950: Section 122-B - Section 230 of the Code clearly shows that all the notifications and powers conferred under the earlier Act, which are not in conflict with the Code, will continue to be in force. Under Section 122-B of the Act of 1950 similar provisions existed and powers of the Assistant Collector under the Acts were delegated to the Tehsildar. In absence of any conflict, and Sections being parallel to the earlier Acts, the conferment of power is saved under Section 230 of the Code. (Para 8-10) (E-10)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Chaudhary, J.)

1. Present writ petition is filed by the petitioner, challenging the order dated 14.10.2020 passed by the Collector, District Amethi in Case No.652 of 2020 "Bhupendra Singh vs. Tehsildar, Gauriganj and others".

2. The facts of the case are that the Tehsildar, Gauriganj, District Amethi initiated proceedings under Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code (for short 'the Code') against the petitioner for his eviction on the ground that he is on wrongful and unauthorized occupation of the property of the Gaon Sabha and by an order dated 15.09.2020, eviction order was passed by the Tehsildar, Gauriganj, District Amethi. Against the said order, the petitioner preferred an appeal under Section 67 of the Code before the Collector, District Amethi. After hearing the appeal, the Collector, District Amethi, by his order dated 14.10.2020, finding that proper opportunity of hearing was not given to the petitioner, remanded the matter back to the Tehsildar, Gauriganj, District Amethi with a direction that the matter may be decided expeditiously on merits, after giving proper opportunity of evidence and hearing to the petitioner. Present writ petition is filed against the aforesaid order dated 14.10.2020 passed by the Collector, District Amethi.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has raised a ground that proceedings under Section 67 of the Code can be initiated and decided by an Assistant Collector and, therefore, the Tehsildar would not have any jurisdiction to hear the said proceedings. He further submits that there is no delegation of power made under the Code and, therefore, in absence of any such delegation, the Tehsildar cannot exercise the power of Assistant Collector.

4. Learned Standing Counsel has filed a counter affidavit and submitted that on 29.12.2020, such a notification has been issued by the State Government, whereby the powers of the Assistant Collector with regard to Section 67 of the Code are delegated to the Tehsildar and Tehsildar (Judicial) w.e.f. 11.2.2016 and, therefore, the Tehsildar and Tehsildar (Judicial) can exercise power of the Assistant Collector.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that there cannot be any retrospective delegation of power by a notification and such power can be exercised by the Tehsildar only with effect from the date of notification i.e. 29.12.2020. He submits that since the present proceedings were initiated much before that, therefore, the same are not maintainable.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the petitioner Sri Girish Chandra Sinha, learned Standing Counsel for the State Sri V.P. Nag, Sri Pankaj Gupta for the private respondent and perused the record.

7. Section 230 of the Code reads as follows:

"230. Repeal- (1) The enactments specified in the First Schedule are hereby repealed.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), the repeal of such enactments shall not affect-

(a) the continuance in force of any such enactment in the State of [Uttarakhand] "Uttaranchal" by U.P. Act No.4 of 2016 (w.e.f. 16.12.2015);

(b) the previous operation of any such enactment or anything duly done or suffered thereunder; or

(c) any other enactment in which such enactment has been applied, incorporated or referred to; or

(d) the validity, invalidity, effect or consequences of anything already done or suffered, or any right, title or obligation or liability already acquired, accrued or incurred (including, in particular, the vesting in the state of all estates and the cessation of all rights, title and interest of all the intermediaries therein), or any remedy or proceeding in respect thereof, or any release or discharge of or from any debt, penalty, obligation, liability, claim or demand, or any indemnity already granted or the proof of any past act or thing; or

Provided that anything done or any action taken (including any rules, manuals, assessments, appointments and transfers made, notifications, summonses, notices, warrants, proclamations issued, powers conferred, leases granted, boundary marks fixed, records of rights and other record prepared or maintained, right acquired or liabilities incurred) under any such enactment shall, in so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Code, be deemed to have been done or taken under the corresponding provisions of this Code, and shall continue to be in force accordingly, unless and until they are superseded by anything done or action taken under this Code." (Emphasis added)*

8. A perusal of proviso to Section 230 of the Code, clearly shows that all the notifications and powers conferred under the earlier Act, which are not in-conflict with the U.P. Revenue Code, continue to be in force.

9. Admittedly, under Section 122-B of the U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act, 1950, similar provisions existed and powers of the Assistant Collector under the said Acts were delegated to the Tehsildars. In State of U.P., since the very initial stage, such powers are exercised by the court of Tehsildar.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner could not point out any conflict between the provisions of U.P. Revenue Code with the earlier notifications or power conferred upon the Tehsildar. In absence of any conflict, and Sections being parallel to the earlier Acts, the conferment of power is saved under Section 230 of the Code.

11. The Notification dated 29.12.2020 issued by the State Government, at best, is only clarificatory and reconfirms the position which always existed under law. Therefore, there is no force in the ground raised by learned counsel for the petitioner.

12. In view of aforesaid, present writ petition is dismissed.

13. However, respondent no.2-Tehsildar, Gauriganj, District Amethi, is directed to decide the proceedings as directed by the Collector, District Amethi, by his order dated 14.10.2020, as expeditiously as possible.

14. It is made clear that the Tehsildar, Gauriganj, District Amethi, shall not grant any unnecessary adjournments including on the ground of strike of lawyers.

15. The other connected matters i.e. Writ Petition Nos.25301 (MS) of 2020 and 894 (MS) of 2021 are delinked from this writ petition.

A. Cooperative Societies - U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 - Sections 128, 98 & 99 - U.P. Cooperative Societies Rule, 1968 - Rule 269 - The Court held that there is no power of review in the Registrar against its order passed under Section 128 of the Co-operative Societies Act, 1965, but if the order has been passed under an erroneous assumption of its own power going to the root of the matter, or, if, inter alia, it is found that there was willful suppression of material fact or fraud was practiced the Registrar will have the power to review its earlier order.

The scope of Rule 269 of the Rules, 1968 is only for correction of clerical or arithmetical mistakes in judgments or orders or errors arising therein from any accidental slip or omission and any error or omission which goes to the merits of the case is beyond the scope of rule 269 of the Rules, 1968. Therefore the order dated 11.11.2019 is illegal and without jurisdiction.(Para 26)

4. St.of Pun. Vs Darshan Singh (2004) 1 SCC 328

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Brijesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned standing counsel for opposite party Nos. 1 and 2 and Sri S.G.Singh, learned counsel for opposite party No.3 and perused the material on record.

2. This petition has been filed for the following main reliefs:

(i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari, to quash the ex parte order dated 11.11.2019 passed by opposite party No.2 as contained in Annexure No.1 to this writ petition.

(ii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus, thereby commanding and directing the opposite parties to allow the petitioner on the post of deligate, as he was working earlier.

3. No counter affidavit has been filed, filing of which is also dispensed with as only legal question is involved and the parties counsels are ad idem that there is no factual dispute.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner made a complaint to the Joint Commissioner and Joint Registrar, Cooperative Society, Ayodhya Mandal, Ayodhya-opposite party No.2 regarding corruption/misuse of public money in the contruction of cooperative bank building. The matter was investigated in which finally the opposite party No.2 vide order dated 26.02.2019 directed that at the time of payment for construction work, an amount of Rs. 3.19 lakhs shall be deducted and if payment had already been made the same amount shall be recovered. The petitioner started receiving threats from the Contractor and the Chairman of the co-operative society due to which the petitioner submitted an application for withdrawal from the membership on the post of delegate on 18.04.2019, upon which the Committee of Management of the District Cooperative Bank Limited, Faizabad-opposite party No.3 vide resolution No. 23 dated 31.07.2019 accepted the petitioner's application, but without following the due procedure. The Vice Chairman of the society and seven other delegates filed application dated 01.08.2019 before the Joint Commissioner and Joint Registrar of the co-operative society to annul the resolution dated 31.07.2019 upon which finally the Joint Commissioner and Joint Registrar passed order dated 01.11.2019 (Annexure 8) under Section 128 of the U.P. Co-operative Societies Act, 1965, and annuled the resolution No. 23, providing that the said resolution shall be void and inoperative and be deleted from the records of the co-operative society. Liberty was, however, granted to the Committee of Management to take fresh decision as per the majority. Later on, the opposite party No.3 filed an application dated 05.11.2019, upon which an ex parte order dated 11.11.2019 without any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner was passed and thereby the earlier order dated 01.11.2019 has been stayed. The writ petition has been filed challenging the order dated 11.11.2019.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the Joint Commissioner and Joint Registrar has passed the order dated 11.11.2019 reviewing the order dated 01.11.2019 and in exercise of power under Rule 269 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Rules, 1968, which is mentioned in the order itself. His submission is that there is no power of review with the Commissioner and Joint Registrar, Cooperative Societies and further as any clerical or arithmetical error or accidental slip or omission in the order dated 1.11.2019 has not been pointed out, Rule 269 of the Rules, 1968 is not attracted.

6. Learned counsel for opposite party No.3 has supported the order dated 11.11.2019 on the ground that the Committee of Management vide application dated 05.11.2019 assured the opposite party No.2 that the meeting of the Committee of Management shall be convened at the earliest pursuant to the earlier letter of the opposite party No.2 dated 02.08.2019, by which the Committee of Management/ Chief Executive Officer was directed to reconsider the resolution dated 31.07.2019.

7. We have heard the submissions advanced by the learned counsels for the parties and perused the material on record.

8. A perusal of the order dated 11.11.2019 shows that it has been passed specifically mentioning to be under Rule 269 of the Rules, 1968. It has also been recorded in the order that the application dated 05.11.2019 of the opposite party No.3 deserved review.

9. The points which arise for our consideration are:

1) Whether the Registrar, Co-operative Societies has the power of review under the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 to review an order passed by him under Section 128 of the Act, 1965 ?

2) What is the scope of Rule 269 of the Rule 1968 ? and

3) Whether the impugned order dated 11.11.2019 is without jurisdiction and deserves to be quashed ?

10. To consider the above aspects it would be appropriate to refer to the provisions of Sections 128, 98 and 99 of the Act, 1965 and Rule 269 of the Rules,1968.

11. Section 128 of the U.P. Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 reads as under:-

"128. Registrar's power to annul resolution of a co-operative society or cancel order passed by an officer of a co-operative society in certain cases.-

The Registrar may-

(i) annul any resolution passed by the Committee of Management, or the general body of any co-operative society; or -

(ii) cancel any order passed by an officer of a co-operative society

if he is of the opinion that the resolution or the order, as the case may be, is not covered by the objects of the society or is in contravention of the provisions of this Act, the rules or the bye-laws of the society, whereupon every such resolution or order shall become void and inoperative and be deleted from the records of the society :

'[Provided that, the Registrar shall, before making any order, require the Committee of Management, general body or officer of the co-operative society to reconsider the resolution, or as the case may be, the order, within such period as he may fix but which shall not be less than fifteen days, and if he deems fit may stay the operation of that resolution or the order during such period.]

12. Section 98 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 reads as under:-

"98. Appeal against the award, orders and decisions.- (1) An appeal against-

"(a) an order of the Registrar made under sub-section (2) of Section 7 refusing to register a co-operative society ;

[(b) an order of the Registrar under sub- section (3) of Section 12 refusing to register, or under sub - section (2) of Section 14 registering an amendment in the bye - laws of a co-operative society :

(c) a decision of co- operative society refusing to admit any person as a member of the society under sub- section (2) of Section 26 or expelling any member of the society under sub-section (1) of Section 27 [or an order passed under sub- section (1) of Section 38 for removal of an officer from the office held by him or to disqualify him from holding any office] ;

(d) an order of the Registrar under sub- section (2) of Section 27 expelling or removing a member or under sub- section (2) of Section 38 removing or disqualifying any officer of a co- operative society;

(e) an order of the Registrar superseding the Committee of Management of a co- operative society under Section 35;

(f) an order made by the Registrar, under Section 67 apportioning the cost of an enquiry held under Section 65 or an inspection made under Section 66 ;

(g) an order of surcharge made by the Registrar under Section 68 ;

(h) an award made by an arbitrator or Board of Arbitrators under sub - section (1) or sub - section (2) of Section 71;

(i) an order made by the Registrar under Section 72 directing the winding up of a co- operative society;

(j) any order made by the liquidator of a co-operative society in exercise of the powers conferred on him by clauses (b) and (g) of Section 74 ;

(k) any order made by the Registrar on a question arising between the parties or proceedings under clause (b) of Section 92 and of the nature referred to in Section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act V of 1908);

(1) an order for attachment of any property made by the Registrar under Section 94 ;

(m) an order of the Registrar under Section 125 directing amalgamation or merger, or under Section 126 directing division;

(n) an order passed by the Registrar under Section 128 annulling any resolution or cancelling any order, may, within thirty days of the communication of the order, decision or award to be appealed against, be preferred by the aggrieved party to the authorities mentioned in sub-section (2) in the manner prescribed.

*(2) An appeal under [clauses (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (k) and (I)] of sub-section (1) shall be preferred to the Tribunal, and an appeal under [clauses (a), (b), (h),

(i),(j), (m) and (n) of the said sub-section shall be preferred-

(a) if the decision or the order was made by the Registrar, to the State Government, or

(b) if the decision or order or award was made by any other person or authority, to the Registrar;

(c) if the order or award was made on a dispute relating to an election , to the Tribunal .

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (b) of sub- section

(2) the State Government may by notification in the Gazette, direct that appeals against awards mentioned in clause (h) of sub - section (1) shall , in respect of such cases or class of cases, as may be specified in the said notification lie to the Tribunal, and thereupon any person aggrieved by such award, may appeal to the Tribunal.

(4) The appellate authority after hearing an appeal under this section may pass such orders as it may deem fit .

13. Section 99 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 reads as under:-

"99. Review of order of appellate authority- (1) The appellate authority under Section 97 or Section 98, as the case may be, may on the application of any party, review its order in any case and pass in reference thereto such order as it thinks fit :

Provided that no such application shall be entertained unless the appellate authority is satisfied that there has been a discovery of new and important matter of evidence which, after exercise of due diligence, was not within the knowledge of the applicant or could not be produced by him at the time when the order was made or that there has been some mistake or error apparent on the face of the record or for any other sufficient reason :

Provided further that no such order shall be made under this sub- section unless notice has been given to all interested parties and they have been afforded a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

(2) An application for review under sub-section (1) by any party shall be made within thirty days from the date of communication of the order of the appellate authority sought to be reviewed.

14. Rule 269 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Rules, 1968 reads as under:-

"269. Clerical or arithmetical mistake in orders, decisions, or awards made by the Registrar, Arbitrator or the Board of Arbitrators or in the orders made by the appellate authority or errors arising in such orders (including the orders of appellate authority), decisions or awards from any accidental slip or omission may at any time be corrected by the authority concerned, either of its own motion or the application moved by any of the parties to the dispute."

15. The aforesaid provisions make it clear, from a bare reading thereof, that under Section 128 of the U.P. Co-operative Societies Act, 1965, the Registrar has the power to annual any resolution passed by the Committee of Management, or the general body of any co-operative society, or to cancel any order passed by an officer of a co-operative society, if he is of the opinion that the resolution or the order, as the case may be, is not covered by the objects of the society or is in contravention of the provisions of the Act, 1965, the rules, 1968 or the bye-laws of the society. An order passed under Section 128 by the Registrar is appealable under Section 98(1) (n) of the Act, 1965, before the State Government under Section 98(2) (a). Section 99 of the Act, 1965, provides for review which is against the order passed by the appellate authority under Section 97 or Section 98, by the appellate authority of its orders.

16. Section 99 of the Act, 1965 does not, therefore, provide for review against the order passed by the Registrar under Section 128. Any provision conferring the power of review on the Registrar against the order passed by him under Section 128 of the Act could not be brought to our notice by the learned counsels appearing in the case.

17. The power of review is not an inherent power. In Patel Narshi Thakershi And Ors. vs Shri Pradyumansinghji, AIR 1970 SC 1273, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that "It is well settled that the power to review is not an inherent power. It must be conferred by law either specifically or by necessary implication." In Lily Thomas, Etc. vs Union Of India & Ors (2006) SCC 224 also it has been held that "the dictionary meaning of the word "review" is "the act of looking; offer something again with a view to correction or improvement. It cannot be denied that the review is the creation of a statute. Therefore, the power of review unless conferred by the statue cannot be exercised by a Court, Tribunal or authority".

18. We have considered above, that the Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 does not confer any power of review on the Registrar with respect to the order passed under Section 128 of the Act, 1965. However, in cases where the appeal lies to the Registrar under Section 98 (2) (b) of the Act, the Registrar as appellate authority may review its order passed in exercise of appellate jurisdiction under Section 99 of the Act.

19. We are not oblivious of the concept of procedural review, which inheres in every judicial, quasi judicial or even an administrative authority, if the order is passed under an erroneous assumption of one's own power going to the root of the matter or if it is found that a fraud has been practiced or there was willful suppression, which is not the case here, as, the order dated 11.11.2019 does not contain any such ground for reviewing the order dated 01.11.2019.

20. A bare reading of Rule 269 of the Rules, 1969 shows that it gives power for correction of clerical or arithmetical mistakes in the orders, decisions, or award made by the Registrar, Arbitrator or the Board of Arbitrators or in the orders made by the appellate authority or error arising in such orders, decisions or awards from any accidental slip or omission which can be corrected by the authority concerned at any time either of its own motion or on the application of any of the parties to the dispute. The condition precedent for exercise of power under Rule 269 of the Rules, 1968 is that there must be a clerical or arithmetical mistake in the order or an error from any accidental slip or omission. If no such error exists the power under Rule 269 would not be available at all.

21. Rule 269 of the Rules, 1968 is analogous to Section 152 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1976 (C.P.C.). Section 152 C.P.C. is being reproduced as under:

"152. Amendment of judgments, decrees or orders- Clerical or arithmetical mistakes in judgments, decree or orders or errors arising therein from any accidental slip or omission may at any time be corrected by the Court either of its own motion or on the application of any of the parties."

22. While considering the scope of Section 152 C.P.C., the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dwaraka Das Vs. State of M.P. and others (1999) 3 SCC 500 has held that the exercise of this power contemplates the correction of mistakes by the Court of its ministerial actions and does not contemplate of passing effective judicial orders after the judgment, decree or order. The settled position of law is that after the passing of the judgment, decree or order, court or the tribunal becomes functus officio and thus being not entitled to vary the terms of the judgments, decrees and orders earlier passed. The correction contemplated are of correcting only accidental omission or mistakes and not all omissions and mistakes which might have been committed by the Court while passing the judgment, decree or order. The omission sought to be corrected which goes to the merits of the case is beyond the scope of Section 152 for which the proper remedy for the aggrieved party is to file appeal or review application. It implies that the Section cannot be pressed into service to correct an omission which is intentional, how erroneous that may be. No Court can under the cover of the sections 151 and 152 C.P.C. modify, alter or add to the terms of its original judgment, decree or order. It is appropriate to quote paragraph 6 of the Dwaraka Das (supra) as under:

"Section 152 CPC provides for correction of clerical or arithmetical mistakes in judgments, decrees or orders of errors arising therein from any accidental slip or omission. The exercise of this power contemplates the correction of mistakes by the court of its ministerial actions and does not contemplate of passing effective judicial orders after the judgment, decree or order. The settled position of law is that after the passing of the judgment, decree or order, the court or the tribunal becomes functus officio and thus being not entitled to vary the terms of the judgments, decrees and orders earlier passed. The corrections contemplated are of correcting only accidental omissions or mistakes and not all omissions and mistakes which might have been committed by the court while passing the judgment, decree or order. The omission sought to be corrected which goes to the merits of the case is beyond the scope of Section 152 for which the proper remedy for the aggrieved party is to file appeal or review application. It implies that the section cannot be pressed into service to correct an omission which is intentional, however erroneous that may be. It has been noticed that the courts below have been liberally construing and applying the provisions of Sections 151 and 152 of the CPC even after passing of effective orders in the lis pending before them. No court can, under the cover of the aforesaid sections, modify, alter or add to the terms of its original judgment, decree or order. In the instant case, the trial court had specifically held the respondent- State liable to pay future interest only despite the prayer of the appellant for grant of interest with effect from the date of alleged breach which impliedly meant that the Court had rejected the claim of the appellant insofar as pendente lite interest was concerned. The omission in not granting the pendente lite interest could not be held to be accidental omission or mistake as was wrongly done by the trial court vide order dated 30-11-1973. The High Court was, therefore, justified in setting aside the aforesaid order by accepting the revision petition filed by the State."

23. The law as laid down in Dwaraka Das (supra) would apply with equal force to an order passed under Rule 269 of the Rules, 1968 which is in pari materia with Section 152 C.P.C. but with the difference that the omission etc. contemplated in rule 269 and sought to be corrected occurring in an order passed under Section 128 of the Act, which goes to the merits of the case the proper remedy would be to file an appeal under Section 97 or 98 of the Act, 1965, as the case may be, and not the remedy of review. In Dwaraka Das (supra) the remedy of appeal or review was held to be proper remedy as C.P.C. confers the power of review on the courts, which power of review is not with the Registrar to review an order passed under Section 128 of the Act.

24. In State of Punjab Vs. Darshan Singh (2004) 1 SCC 328 also the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that "the power under Section 152 of the Code are neither to be equated with the power of review nor can be said to be akin to review or even said to clothe the court concerned under the guise of invoking after the result of the judgment earlier rendered, in its entirety or any portion or part of it."

25. The order dated 11.11.2019, as is evident has not been passed on any such ground of clerical or arithmetical mistake or errors from accidental slip or omission in the order dated 01.11.2019.

26. We therefore hold, on points 1 to 3 as framed in paragraph 9 above, as under:

1) There is no power of review in the Registrar against its order passed under Section 128 of the Co-operative Societies Act, 1965, but if the order has been passed under an erroneous assumption of its own power going to the root of the matter, or, if, inter alia, it is found that there was willful suppression of material fact or fraud was practised the Registrar will have the power to review its earlier order.

2) The scope of rule 269 of the Rules, 1968 is only for correction of clerical or arithmetical mistakes in judgments or order or errors arising therein from any accidental slip or omission and any error or omission which goes to the merits of the case is beyond the scope of rule 269 of the Rules, 1968.

3) The order dated 11.11.2019 is illegal and without jurisdiction.

27. In view of the aforesaid, the order dated 11.11.2019 cannot be sustained and is hereby quashed. The order dated 01.11.2019 stands revived in terms thereof.

28. The writ petition is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ram Jatan Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner and Ms. Sushma Soni, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing for the State-Respondents.

2. The present petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been filed principally for the following prayers:

"(i) To set aside the judgment order dated 19.10.2020 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Room No.20, Agra in Criminal Revision No.408 of 2019 (Prem Das Vs. State of U.P. and Others) as well as order dated 31.05.2019 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Room No.6, Agra in Misc. Case No.24928 of 2019 (Prem Das vs. Sandeep Agrawal) under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., Police Station -Hariparvat, District Agra. (Annexure Nos. 4 and 2 of this Petition).

(ii) To direct the respondent nos. 2 and 3 to register the first information report against the respondent nos. 4 to 6 and investigate the matter and submit the police report before the court concern in accordance with law."

3. The records of the case indicate that upon an application dated 4.2.2019 under section 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 19731, the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 6 Agra by means of an order dated 31.5.2019 has treated the same as a complaint and directed it to be registered as complaint case.

4. Learned Magistrate while passing the aforesaid order has noticed that the entire facts of the case are within the knowledge of the complainant and the necessary material evidence in regard to the same can be placed before the court by the complainant and in view thereof, there was no reason to direct investigation of the case by the police.

5. Aggrieved, against the aforesaid order the applicant preferred a revision being Criminal Revision No. 408/2019 which has also been rejected by order dated 19.10.2020, after recording similar reasons. Both the courts below have relied upon the legal proposition that the Magistrate is not bound to allow the application under section 156(3) of the Code and direct an investigation; in appropriate cases the Magistrate has a discretion to treat the application under section 156(3) of the Code as a complaint.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has referred to the factual aspects of the case, as stated in the complaint, in order to assail the orders passed by the courts below.

7. Learned Additional Government Advocate has supported the order passed by the learned Magistrate as well as the Revisional Court by contending that a bare reading of the complaint would disclose that the necessary facts are within the knowledge of the applicant and accordingly, the view taken by the courts below that the case does not require any investigation by the police cannot be said to suffer from any illegality so as to call for interference.

8. The scope and parameters for exercise of discretionary powers by a Magistrate in dealing with a complaint on an application under section 156(3) of the Code, are fairly well settled.

9. The Magistrate upon receiving a complaint or an application under Section 156(3) of the Code, with regard to facts disclosing commission of an offence, "may take cognizance", which in the context of Section 190 of the Code, cannot be read as "must take cognizance". The use of the expression "may" under Section 190 of the Code gives a discretion to the Magistrate to either take cognizance or to forward the complaint to the police and order investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code.

10. The question as to whether it is mandatory for the Magistrate to order registration of a criminal case and direct the officer in charge of the concerned police station to hold a proper investigation, is no longer res integra and it has been consistently held that where a Magistrate receives an application under Section 156(3) of the Code, he is not bound to take immediate cognizance even if the alleged facts disclose commission of an offence.

11. In the case of Gopal Das Sindhi and others v State of Assam and another2, while considering the provisions of Section 190 of the Code it was held that once a complaint is filed a Magistrate is not bound to take cognizance as the word "may" cannot be construed so as to be "must" and it would be within the discretion of the Magistrate to send the complaint to the police for investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code or to exercise his discretion and take cognizance and thereafter proceed. It was stated thus:-

"7. ...We cannot read the provisions of S. 190 to mean that once a complaint is filed, a Magistrate is bound to take cognizance if the facts stated in the complaint disclose the commission of any offence. We are unable to construe the word 'may' in section 190 to mean 'must'. The reason is obvious. A complaint disclosing cognizable offences may well justify a Magistrate in sending the complaint, under S. 156 (3) to the police for investigation. There is no reason why the time of the Magistrate should be wasted when primarily the duty to investigate in cases involving cognizable offences is with the police. On the other hand, there may be occasions when the Magistrate may exercise his discretion and take cognizance of a cognizable offence. If he does so then he would have to proceed in the manner provided by Chapter XVI of the Code..."

12. T he question whether the Magistrate is bound to pass an order on each and every application under Section 156(3) of the Code containing allegations of commission of a cognizable offence for registration of the F.I.R. and its investigation by the police, even if those allegations, prima facie, do not appear to be genuine and do not appeal to reason, or he can exercise discretion in the matter and can pass an order for treating the same as "complaint" or to reject it in suitable cases, was referred for consideration before a Division Bench in Sukhwasi v State of U.P3, and the Division Bench answered the reference by holding that there is no legal mandate under which the Magistrate is bound to allow an application under Section 156(3) of the Code and he has a discretion to treat an application under Section 156(3) of the Code as a complaint. The observations made by the Division Bench are as follows:-

"23. The reference is, therefore, answered in the manner that it is not incumbent upon a Magistrate to allow an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and there is no such legal mandate. He may or may not allow the application in his discretion. The second leg of the reference is also answered in the manner that the Magistrate has a discretion to treat an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint."

13. The power conferred upon the Magistrate to order investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code again came up for consideration before a Full Bench of this Court in Jagannath Verma and others v State of U.P. and another4, and taking note of the provisions contained under Section 190 of the Code which uses the expression "the Magistrate may take cognizance" and not "the Magistrate must take cognizance", it was held that under Section 190 a Magistrate is not bound, once a complaint is filed, to take cognizance even though the complaint may disclose a cognizable offence and he may well be justified in sending the complaint under Section 156(3) to the police for investigation.

14. The powers of the Magistrate, upon receiving complaint with regard to a cognizable offence again came up for consideration in the case of Madhao and another v State of Maharashtra and another5, and amongst the courses open, it was held that the Magistrate concerned can on the one hand invoke power under Section 156(3) of the Code, direct investigation in such matter and on the other hand he may take cognizance and embark upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV. The relevant extracts from the judgment are as follows:-

"15. Chapter XIV of the Code speaks about conditions requisite for initiation of proceedings. Section 190 deals with cognizance of offences by Magistrates. In terms of sub-section (1) subject to the provisions of the said Chapter, any Magistrate of first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub-section (2), may take cognizance of any offence:

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

16. Sub-section (3) of Section 156 of the Code enables any Magistrate empowered under Section 190 to order such an investigation in terms of sub-section (1) of that section.

17. In CREF Finance Ltd. vs. Shree Shanthi Homes (P) Ltd., (2005) 7 SCC 467, while considering the power of a Magistrate taking cognizance of the offence, this Court held: (SCC p.471, para 10)

"10. ...Cognizance is taken at the initial stage when the Magistrate peruses the complaint with a view to ascertain whether the commission of any offence is disclosed. The issuance of process is at a later stage when after considering the material placed before it, the court decides to proceed against the offenders against whom a prima facie case is made out. It is possible that a complaint may be filed against several persons, but the Magistrate may choose to issue process only against some of the accused. It may also be that after taking cognizance and examining the complainant on oath, the court may come to the conclusion that no case is made out for issuance of process and it may reject the complaint. It may also be that having considered the complaint, the court may consider it appropriate to send the complaint to the police for investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure."

It is clear that any judicial magistrate before taking cognizance of the offence can order investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code. If he does so, he is not to examine the complainant on oath because he was not taking cognizance of any offence therein.

18. When a Magistrate receives a complaint he is not bound to take cognizance if the facts alleged in the complaint disclose the commission of an offence. The Magistrate has discretion in the matter. If on a reading of the complaint, he finds that the allegations therein disclose a cognizable offence and the forwarding of the complaint to the police for investigation under Section 156(3) will be conducive to justice and save the valuable time of the Magistrate from being wasted in enquiring into a matter which was primarily the duty of the police to investigate, he will be justified in adopting that course as an alternative to taking cognizance of the offence itself. As said earlier, in the case of a complaint regarding the commission of cognizable offence, the power under Section 156(3) can be invoked by the Magistrate before he takes cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(a). However, if he once takes such cognizance and embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he is not competent to revert back to the pre-cognizance stage and avail of Section 156(3)."

15. It may be apposite to refer to the case of Gulab Chand Upadhyaya v State of U.P. and others6, wherein considering the question whether the Magistrate was justified in directing that an application under Section 156(3) of the Code seeking for registration of an F.I.R. and investigation, be registered as complaint, certain guidelines were formulated for exercise of discretion by the Magistrate in regard to such cases. The relevant observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"22. The scheme of Cr.P.C. and the prevailing circumstances require that the option to direct the registration of the case and its investigation by the police should be exercised where some "investigation" is required, which is of a nature that is not possible for the private complainant, and which can only be done by the police upon whom statute has conferred the powers essential for investigation, for example

(1) where the full details of the accused are not known to the complainant and the same can be determined only as a result of investigation, or

(2) where recovery of abducted person or stolen property is required to be made by conducting raids or searches of suspected places or persons, or

(3) where for the purpose of launching a successful prosecution of the accused evidence is required to be collected and preserved. To illustrate by example cases may be visualised where for production before Court at the trail (a) sample of blood soaked soil is to be taken and kept sealed for fixing the place of incident; or (b) recovery of cases property is to be made and kept sealed; or (c) recovery under Section 27 of the Evidence Act; or (d) preparation of inquest report; or (e) witnesses are not known and have to be found out or discovered through the process of investigation.

23. But where the complainant is in possession of the complete details of all the accused as well as the witnesses who have to be examined and neither recovery is needed nor any such material evidence is required to be collected which can be done only by the police, no "investigation" would normally be required and the procedure of complaint case should be adopted. The facts of the present case given below serve as an example. It must be kept in mind that adding unnecessary cases to the diary of the police would impair their efficiency in respect of cases genuinely requiring investigation. Besides even after taking cognizance and proceeding under Chapter XV the Magistrate can still under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. order investigation, even thought of a limited nature..."

16. It is therefore seen that upon an application received under Section 156(3) of the Code disclosing a cognizable offence, the Magistrate may direct the police to register the F.I.R. and investigate or alternatively the Magistrate can take cognizance of the complaint, register it as complaint case and follow the procedure under Chapter XV of the Code. While exercising this discretion and taking either of the courses, it would be incumbent upon the Magistrate to apply judicial mind and the exercise of discretion would have to be guided by interest of justice, depending upon the facts of the case. In a situation where the investigation required is of a nature which can only be made by a police officer upon whom the statute has conferred the powers of investigation, the Magistrate may be well within his discretion to direct the registration of an F.I.R. and its investigation by the police officer. In a case where the complainant is in possession of the complete details of the case and also the material evidence, such that 'investigation' by the police may not be required, the Magistrate may follow the procedure of a complaint case.

17. The aforementioned legal position with regard to the exercise of discretion by the Magistrate upon receiving an application under section 156(3) of the Code has been considered in a recent judgment of this Court in Kailash Nath Dwivedi Vs State of U.P. and Others7.

18. Learned counsel for the petitioner has not been able to dispute the aforesaid settled legal position with regard to the ambit and scope of exercise of discretionary powers by a Magistrate under section 156(3) of the Code with regard to issuing a direction for registration of an F.I.R. and its investigation or in a case where the complainant is in possession of the complete details of the case and also the material evidence, issuing a direction for registration of the case as a complaint case.

19. The courts below having followed the aforestated principles with regard to the exercise of powers under section 156(3) of the Code, the orders, which are sought to be assailed by means of the present petition cannot be said to suffer from any infirmity so as to warrant interference in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

20. The petition stands accordingly, dismissed.

Maurya, learned Chief Standing Counsel and Sri Sudhanshu Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing counsel; and Sri Amrendra Nath Singh, learned senior advocate, assisted by Sri Ajay Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioners.

2. Sri Manish Goyal, learned Additional Advocate General submits as under :

i. The writ petition was filed by the petitioners concealing material facts of the case with respect to FIR being Case Crime No.222/2021, dated 08.06.2021, under Section 364 IPC, P.S. Narkhi, District - Firozabad, against petitioner Nos. 1,2 & 3, Case Crime No. 68/2021, dated 07.04.2021, under Sections 147, 188, 341, 353, 171 E, 171 H, I.P.C. read with Section 7 of the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1932 against the petitioner No.4 and rejection of his anticipatory Bail Application No.1802 of 2021 by the Additional Sessions Judge Fast Track Court No.1 Firozabad, vide order dated 30.06.2021, rejection of anticipatory bail application No.292 of 292 of 2021 arising out of case crime no.222 of 2021, under Section 364 I.P.C. by the Court of Additional District Judge/Specal Judge POSCO Court No.2, Firozabad, vide order dated 02.07.2021 and Case Crime No.73/2021, under Sections 341, 323, 504, 506 and 307 I.P.C., P.S. Basai, Mohamadpur, District - Firozabad (FIR dated 09.05.2021) against the petitioner No.6.

ii. Since against the petitioners F.I.Rs. were registered, therefore, the petitioners even though elected members of Zila Panchayat; have no right to vote in the election of President, Zila Panchayat of Firozabad, in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Chief Election Commissioner and others Vs. Jan Chaukidar (Peoples Watch) and others (2013) 7 SCC 507 (paras 6 & 7) inasmuch as persons in lawful custody have no right to vote and they shall not be deemed to be electors.

iii. The writ petition was not maintainable in view of the provisions of Article 243 O of the Constitution of India which provides that no election of any Panchayat shall be called in question except by an election petition presented to such authority and in such manner as is provided for by or under any law made by the legislature of a State. Reliance is placed on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in (1996) 3 SCC 416 (para 7,8, 9, and 11) Boddula Krishnaiah Aiyar and another Vs. State Election Commissioner A.P. and others. Since the facts regarding criminal cases as stated above have been concealed by the petitioners, the petitioners can not be said to have approached the Court with clean hands which shall dis-entitle them to any relief under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

iv. The effect of the order dated 02.07.2021, passed by this Court is that the petitioners' arrest have been stayed.

3. Sri Amrendra Nath Singh, learned senior counsel representing the petitioners, opposed the Review Application and submits as under :

i. A review application can be entertained only if the order sought to be reviewed suffers from patent error of law, glaring omission of facts and apparent mistake which neither exists nor has been alleged in the review application nor has been argued. Therefore, the review application itself is not maintainable. Reliance is placed upon a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Northern India Caterers (India) Ltd. v. Lt. Governor of Delhi AIR 1980 SC 674.

ii. The submissions made by the learned Additional Advocate Generals and the allegations made in the Review Application are false inasmuch as the petitioners have disclosed in paragraphs 13 and 14 about the Case Crime No.73 of 2021, under Sections 341, 323, 504, 506 and 307 I.P.C., P.S. - Basai, Mohamadpur, District - Firozabad and Case Crime No. 68/2021, dated 7.4.2021, under Section 147, 188, 341, 353, 171E, 171 H, I.P.C. read with Section 7 of the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act 1932, P.S. - Eka, District - Firozabad. The petitioners have also disclosed in paragraph 7 of the writ petition the fact regarding FIR being Case Crime No.222/2021, under Section 364 IPC, P.S. Narkhi, District - Firozabad, lodged against unknown persons and also annexed as Annexure 3 to the writ petition.

iii. The respondents have not disputed at all the facts stated in paragraphs 8,9,10,11 and 12 of the writ petition which clearly proves that ruling political party and members in collusion with the police authorities and District Administration are bent upon to ensure that the candidate of the ruling party wins as President of Zila Panchayat. For that purpose alone, petitioners have been falsely implicated which is nothing but a political vendetta.

iv. The conduct of the respondents is in contrast to their constitutional duty for free and fair election. In fact the respondents are destroying the democracy.

v. Bare perusal of the order dated 02.07.2021, passed by this court leaves no manner of doubt that the order was passed with the consent of learned counsels for the parties. The factum of consent has not been disputed. Therefore, the review application is not entertainable. All the petitioners have casted their votes today. Therefore, no cause of action survives for filing the review application.

vi. This court while passing the order dated 02.07.2021 neither stayed the arrest of the petitioners nor made any comment with respect to the FIRs. lodged against the petitioners nor interfered with the FIRs. in any manner and for this reason the petitioners, after they casted their votes today; have been arrested by the police.

vii. The petitioners shall take legal recourse against the criminal cases in which they have been falsely implicated.

viii. The petitioners have neither been disqualified as elected members of Zila Panchayat nor they have been declared disqualified to cast their vote in the election of President Zila Panchayat, Firozabad.

Therefore, the order dated 02.07.2021 does not suffer from any manifest error of law.

ix. The Review Application is wholly groundless, misconceived and frivolous and deserves to be dismissed with exemplary cost.

4. Before we proceed to examine the rival contentions of the parties, it would be appropriate to reproduce the order dated 02.07.2021 passed by this Court, against which the State-respondents have filed the present review application. The aforesaid order dated 02.07.2021 passed by this Court, is reproduced below:

"Heard Sri Amrendra Nath Singh, learned senior advocate assisted by Sri Ajay Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Ajeet Kumar Singh, learned Additional Advocate General for the State-respondents.

Petitioners claim that they are elected members of Zila Panchayat and have a right to vote in the election of President of Zila Panchayat, District Firozabad scheduled for 03.07.2021 but the respondents are attempting not to allow the petitioners to cast their votes on the basis of a First Information Report No.0222 of 2021, dated 08.06.2021 under Section 364, I.P.C., P.S. Narkhi, District Firozabad with respect to an alleged incident dated 06.05.2021. The aforesaid FIR is against unknown persons. The petitioners are not named in it. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that the petitioners have a right to cast their votes but they are being prevented by the respondents from doing so, so as to help another candidate. He further submits that a direction may be issued to the respondents to ensure that the petitioners may cast their vote safely.

Sri Ajeet Kumar Singh, learned Additional Advocate General for the State-respondents submits that if the petitioners are members of Zila Panchayat and have a right to cast vote in the election of President of Zila Panchayat, Firozabad, the State is under constitutional duty for free and fair election.

Considering the submissions of the learned counsels for the parties and with their consent, this writ petition is being finally disposed off without calling for a counter affidavit, directing the respondents to ensure that the petitioners may cast their votes safely in the election of President, Zila Panchayat, Firozabad, scheduled to be held on 03.07.2021.

Sri Ajeet Kumar Singh, learned Additional Advocate General for the State-respondents shall intimate this order in writing today itself to the respondent Nos.2 to 6 for compliance.

It is made clear that we have not expressed any opinion with respect to the criminal case, if any, either registered against the petitioners or in which they are wanted.

With the aforesaid directions, the writ petition is disposed off."

5. Perusal of the aforesaid order would clearly reveal that the aforesaid order was passed with the consent of the learned counsels for the parties and on the statement of the learned Additional Advocate General that if the petitioners are members of Zila Panchayat and have a right to cast vote in the election of President of Zila Panchayat, Firozabad, the State is under constitutional duty for free and fair election. Nothing has been brought before us even by the aforesaid review application that either the petitioners are not members of Zila Panchayat, Firozabad or their memberships have been discontinued by a competent authority or that they have no right to vote. In the absence of these basic facts, there does not arise any question for review of the afore-quoted order dated 02.07.2021.

6. During course of hearing of review application, Sri Amrendra Nath Singh, learned senior advocate has stated that the petitioners have casted their votes today in the election of President, Zila Panchayat, Firozabad. We requested learned Additional Advocate Generals to verify the statement and to state as to whether the petitioners have casted their votes today? After seeking instructions, learned Additional Advocate Generals assisted by Sri Sudhanshu, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel confirmed and stated before this court that the petitioners have casted their votes today in the election of President, Zila Panchayat, Firozabad. This statement of fact is recorded in our order dated 03.07.2021 by means of the order dated 02.07.2021, we have merely directed the respondents to ensure that the petitioners may cast their votes safely in the election of President, Zila Panchayat, Firozabad scheduled to be held on 03.07.2021. We have also made it clear that in the said order, we have not expressed any opinion with respect to the criminal cases, if any, either registered against the petitioners or in which they are wanted. Thus, after the petitioners casted their votes as admitted by learned Additional Advocate Generals appearing for the applicants/ State-respondents, no cause of action survived to press the review application, yet the learned Additional Advocate Generals pressed it and argued the matter.

Scope of Review:-

7. It is well settled that a party is not entitled to seek review of a judgment or order of this court merely for rehearing and a fresh decision. A review application for review of a judgment or order of this court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, can be justified only when circumstances of a substantial and compelling character make it necessary to do so. Review may be justified if a manifest wrong has been done and it is necessary to pass an order to do full and effective justice. Review proceeding cannot be equated with the original hearing of the case. A judgment and order can be reviewed only where a glaring omission or patent mistake or like grave error has crept in earlier by judicial fallibility. An order can also be reviewed on the ground of discovery of new and important matter for evidence which even after exercise of due diligence was not within the knowledge of the applicant or could not be produced by him at the time of hearing.

8. Principles for review of a judgment or order have been summarised by the Apex Court in Kamlesh Verma vs. Mayawati, (2013) 8 SCC 320 (paras 20, 20.1 and 20.2), as under:

"20. Thus, in view of the above, the following grounds of review are maintainable as stipulated by the statute:

20.1. When the review will be maintainable:

(i) Discovery of new and important matter or evidence which, after the exercise of due diligence, was not within knowledge of the petitioner or could not be produced by him;

(ii) Mistake or error apparent on the face of the record;

(iii) Any other sufficient reason.

The words "any other sufficient reason" have been interpreted in Chhajju Ram v. Neki (1922) 16 LW 37 and approved by this Court in Moran Mar Basselios Catholicos v. Most Rev.Mar Poulose Athanasius, AIR 1954 SC 526 to mean "a reason sufficient on grounds at least analogous to those specified in the rule". The same principles have been reiterated in Union of India v. Sandur Manganese & Iron Ores Ltd., (2013) 8 SCC 337.

20.2. When the review will not be maintainable:

(i) A repetition of old and overruled argument is not enough to reopen concluded adjudications.

(ii) Minor mistakes of inconsequential import.

(iii) Review proceedings cannot be equated with the original hearing of the case.

(iv) Review is not maintainable unless the material error, manifest on the facts of the order, undermines its soundness or results in miscarriage of justice.

(v) A review is by no means an appeal in disguise whereby an erroneous decision is reheard and corrected but lies only for patent error.

(vi) The mere possibility of two views on the subject cannot be a ground for review.

(vii) The error apparent on the face of the record should not be an error which has to be fished out and searched.

(viii) The appreciation of evidence on record is fully within the domain of the appellate Court, it cannot be permitted to be advanced in the review petition.

(ix) Review is not maintainable when the same relief sought at the time of arguing the main matter had been negatived."

9. The power of review can be exercised for correction of a mistake but not to substitute a view. In the case of Sarla Mudgal vs. Union of India, (1995) 3 SCC 635, Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down the law that mistake or error apparent on the face of record may require review. Error apparent on the face of the proceeding is an error which is based on clear ignorance or disregard of the provisions of law. In a review petition, it is not open to re-appreciate the evidence and to reach to a different conclusion even if that is possible. Conclusions arrived at by appreciation of facts cannot be assailed in a review petition unless there is an error apparent on the face of the record or for some reason akin, vide Kerala State Electricity Board vs. Hitech Electrothermics & Hydropower Ltd.and others, (2005) 6 SCC 651. The principles summarised in foregoing paragraphs have also been reiterated by Apex Court in M/S Jain Studios Limited vs Shin Satellite Public Co. Ltd, (2006) 5 SCC 501, Moran Mar Basselios Catholicos vs The Most Rev. Mar Poulose Athanasius AIR 1954 SC 526, T. C. Basappa vs T. Nagappa and Another, AIR 1954 SC 440, Hari Vishnu Kamath vs Syed

Ahmad Ishaque and Others, AIR 1955 SC 233, Union of India vs. Sandur Manganese and Iron Ores Ltd. and others, (2013) 8 SCC 337, Kamlesh Verma vs. Mayawati, (2013) 8 SCC 320 and Akshay Kumar Singh vs. State (N.C.T. of Delhi) (2020) 3 SCC 431 (Para-11).

10. The submissions made by learned counsel for the applicants as afore-quoted would reveal that the applicants have merely stated that first information report has been registered against the petitioner just before the Election of President, Zila Panchayat, Firozabad. The petitioners have fully disclosed in the writ petition the criminal cases lodged against them. The State applicants have not disputed the allegations made in the paragraphs- 8, 9, 11 and 12 of the writ petition, which are reproduced below:

"8. That on this First Information Report which was lodged as Case Crime No.222 of 2021, the victim Pravesh Kumar also filed an affidavit before the Superintendent of Police Firozabad which was not considered and Investigating Officer recorded the statement of two persons and four petitioners made as an accused. For kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court, A Photo copy of the Affidavit filed by Victim Pravesh Kumari is being filed herewith and Marked as Annexure-No.4 to this writ petition.

9. That the Police on the basis of criminal case wants to arrest the petitioners and restrain to cost their votes an election of President of Zila Panchayat, which was going-on 3.7.2021.

11. That the Constitution of India also provides to petitioners as well as Citizen of India to cost their votes for his free will in Election, but the Ruling party in State (Bhartiya Janta Party) with collusion of local administration want to restrain the petitioners to cast their votes, hence Lordship kindly permit to petitioners to cast their votes an election of Zila Panchayat of President which is going on 3.7.2021, otherwise the petitioners shall suffer irreparable loss and injury, which was not compensated in any manner.

*12. That in District Firozabad total members of Zila Panchayat are 33, the Six Members of Zila Panchayat (They are petitioners in the present writ petition) were falsely implicated in C*riminal case due to they are not cost their votes in favour of ruling party candidate."

11. Since the petitioners are elected members of Zila Panchayat and have not been disqualified to cast their votes in election of President of Zila Panchayat, Firozabad. Therefore, there was no apparent error either in the statement of the learned Additional Advocate General as noted in the order or in the direction of this court to allow the petitioner to cast their votes. The submissions of learned Additional Advocate General or the Review Application neither discloses any manifest error/ glaring omission/ patent mistake in the order dated 02.07.2021 nor discloses discovery of any new facts requiring review of the order. None of the circumstances requiring review of the order dated 02.07.2021, as paer settled principles; exists in the present set of facts.

12. From the facts as narrated above and the contents of review application, it may be safely observed that the present review application has been filed by the State-respondents merely to avoid the order dated 02.07.2021 so that somehow the petitioners who are lawfully elected members of Zila Panchayat, may not cast their votes for the election of President, Zila Panchayat, Firozabad. A review filed for such purpose is not maintainable and deserves rejection with exemplary cost.

13. For all the reasons afore-stated, we are of the view that the applicants/ State-respondents have filed a frivolous review application, which deserves to be dismissed with costs.

14. In view of the aforesaid, the review application is dismissed with costs.

Hon'ble Mrs. Saroj Yadav, J.)

(Application No.98887 of 2021)

1. The application seeks condonation of delay in filing the review application.

2. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that due to pandemic of Covid-19 (Corona virus) all over the country, resulting into lockdown and closure of High Court, the appeal could not be filed within the limitation period.

3. It is next submitted that the Apex Court in Suo Motu Writ Petition (Civil) No. 3 of 2020 has also extended the limitation considering the spread of Covid-19 (Corona Virus).

4. Considering the circumstances of Covid-19 (Corona Virus) as well as order dated 23.03.2020 passed by the Apex Court in Suo Motu Writ Petition (Civil) No. 3 of 2020, the delay in filing the review application is condoned.

1. This application seeks review of judgment dated 27.2.2020 passed in Writ Petition No.5554 (S/B) of 2020 (State of U. P. Vs. Rajit Singh and another) whereby writ petition has been dismissed by Division Bench of this court.

2. Notices to respondent nos. 1 and 2 are dispensed with.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners while arguing the case could not point out any error in the impugned judgment which is apparent on the face of record, rather it is admitted case of the State, as has been rightly considered by learned Tribunal, that the admission made by the State in para 5 of the reply in the application dated 13.6.2014, which was filed before the enquiry officer, has come to the conclusion that the doctrine of equality will be applicable in the case of the petitioners because regarding the same incident several other engineers and officers were not found guilty and have been exonerated of the charges during the course of enquiry and only the petitioner has been found guilty. Thus, on the ground of equal treatment, his claim petition was allowed.

The writ petition filed before the High Court has been dismissed upholding the judgment and order passed by learned tribunal as it is admitted case of the State that all the other officers who are involved in respect of the same incident have been exonerated and only the respondent has been found guilty thus the order of the learned tribunal quashing the punishment order was found to be just and proper.

4. Learned counsel for the review petitioner could not show any error apparent on the face of record.

5. The law is settled that review can be entertained against the order only on two grounds:-

(a) The impugned order suffers from any error apparent on the face of the record, and

(b) permitting the order to stand will lead to failure to justice.

6. In Rajendra Kumar Vs. Rambai, AIR 2003 SC 2095, the Apex Court has observed about limited scope of judicial intervention at the time of review of the judgment and said:

"The limitations on exercise of the power of review are well settled. The first and foremost requirement of entertaining a review petition is that the order, review of which is sought, suffers from any error apparent on the face of the order and permitting the order to stand will lead to failure of justice. In the absence of any such error, finality attached to the judgement/order cannot be disturbed.".

7. In Zahira Habibullah Sheikh vs. State of Gujarat reported in (2004) 5 SCC 353, Hon'ble Apex while referring its earlier judgements on the ground has observed that review application are not to be filed for the pleasure of the parties or even as advice for ventilating remorseless, but ought to be resorted to with a great sense of responsibility as well.

8. Review is also by no means an appeal in disguise whereby an erroneous decision is reheard and corrected, but lies only for patent error (vide Thungabhadra Industries Ltd. Vs. The Government of Andhra Pradesh AIR 1964 SC 1372).

9. In Parsion Devi and others Vs. Sumitri Devi and others 1997 (8) SCC 715 the Apex court held that an error, which is not self evident and has to be detected by process of reasoning, can hardly be said to be error apparent on the face of the record justifying the court to exercise powers of review in exercise of review jurisdiction.

10. Thus, Review is not an appeal in disguise. Rehearing of the matter is impermissible in the garb of review. It is an exception to the general rule that once a judgment is signed or pronounced, it should not be altered. In Lily Thomas Vs. Union of India AIR 2000 SC 1650, the Court said that power of review can be exercised for correction of a mistake and not to substitute a new. Such powers can be exercised within limits of the statute dealing with the exercise of power. The aforesaid view is reiterated in Inderchand Jain Vs. Motilal (2009) 4 SCC 665.

11. In view of the above, we do not find any error in the judgment under challenge, hence, dismissed.

1. Heard Sri Avadhesh Kumar, learned counsel for the review petitioner and Sri Chandra Bhooshan, learned counsel for opposite parties/respondents.

2. This review petition has been filed by the defendant appellants for review of the judgment and decree dated 14.08.2003 passed by this Court in Second Appeal no. 224 of 1986 in Re: Chandra Bhan and others versus Aditya Prakash and others, by which the defendant-appellants' appeal was dismissed.

3. The review was admitted and the execution of the decree was stayed till the next date of listing, vide order dated 02.11.2006.

4. Sri Avadhesh Kumar, learned counsel for the review- applicant submits that the second appeal was an admitted second appeal, which could not be decided without framing any substantial question of law which is a mandatory requirement for decision of second appeal under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure. He has placed reliance on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Nazir Mohammad vs. J. Kamala and Ors. [2020 (38) LCD 1969 (SC)].

5. The second appeal was admitted by order dated 02.04.1986, however, any substantial question of law was not framed, neither at the time of admission nor at any time thereafter. Judgment dated 14.08.2003 also does not frame any substantial question of law. In Nazir Mohammad (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that a condition precedent for entertaining and deciding of second appeal is the existence of a substantial question of law. In Kondiba Dagadu Kadam vs. Savitribai Sopan Gujar [(1999) 3 SCC 722], the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the High Court is oblized to satisfy itself regarding the existence of a substantial question of law. If satisfied, the High Court has to formulate the substantial question of law involved in the case. The appeal is required to be heard on the question, so formulated.

6. The basic principles in which review application can be entertained and cannot be entertained have been eloquently laid down by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Kamlesh Verma vs. Mayawati [(2013) 8 SCC 320]. Paragraph 20 under the heading "summary of principles" is being reproduced hereunder:-

20. Thus, in view of the above, the following grounds of review are maintainable as stipulated by the statute:

20.1. When the review will be maintainable:

(i) Discovery of new and important matter or evidence which, after the exercise of due diligence, was not within knowledge of the petitioner or could not be produced by him;

(ii) Mistake or error apparent on the face of the record;

(iii) Any other sufficient reason.

The words "any other sufficient reason" have been interpreted in Chhajju Ram v. Neki [(1921-22) 49 IA 144 : (1922) 16 LW 37 : AIR 1922 PC 112] and approved by this Court in Moran Mar Basselios Catholicos v. Most Rev. Mar Poulose Athanasius [AIR 1954 SC 526 : (1955) 1 SCR 520] to mean "a reason sufficient on grounds at least analogous to those specified in the rule". The same principles have been reiterated in Union of India v. Sandur Manganese & Iron Ores Ltd. [(2013) 8 SCC 337 : JT (2013) 8 SC 275]

20.2. When the review will not be maintainable:

(i) A repetition of old and overruled argument is not enough to reopen concluded adjudications.

(ii) Minor mistakes of inconsequential import.

(iii) Review proceedings cannot be equated with the original hearing of the case.

(iv) Review is not maintainable unless the material error, manifest on the face of the order, undermines its soundness or results in miscarriage of justice.

(v) A review is by no means an appeal in disguise whereby an erroneous decision is reheard and corrected but lies only for patent error.

(vi) The mere possibility of two views on the subject cannot be a ground for review.

(vii) The error apparent on the face of the record should not be an error which has to be fished out and searched.

(viii) The appreciation of evidence on record is fully within the domain of the appellate court, it cannot be permitted to be advanced in the review petition.

(ix) Review is not maintainable when the same relief sought at the time of arguing the main matter had been negatived.

7. In the case of Perry Kansagra v. Smriti Madan Kansagra [(2019) 20 SCC 753], the Hon'ble Apex Court on the scope and power of review has reiterated the same principles. It is apt to reproduce paragraph nos. 14 to 16, which are as under:-

14. The issues that arise for our consideration can broadly be put under two heads:

14.1. (a) Whether the High Court was justified in exercising review jurisdiction and setting aside the earlier judgment?

14.2. (b) Whether the High Court was correct in holding that the reports of the Mediator and the Counsellor in this case were part of confidential proceedings and no party could be permitted to use the same in any court proceedings or could place any reliance on such reports?

15. As regards the first issue, relying on the decisions of this Court in Inderchand Jain v. Motilal [Inderchand Jain v. Motilal, (2009) 14 SCC 663 : (2009) 5 SCC (Civ) 461] , Ajit Kumar Rath v. State of Orissa [Ajit Kumar Rath v. State of Orissa, (1999) 9 SCC 596 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 192] and Parsion Devi v. Sumitri Devi [Parsion Devi v. Sumitri Devi, (1997) 8 SCC 715], it was submitted by the appellant that the exercise of review jurisdiction was not warranted at all.

15.1. In Inderchand Jain [Inderchand Jain v. Motilal, (2009) 14 SCC 663 : (2009) 5 SCC (Civ) 461] it was observed in paras 10, 11 and 33 as under: (SCC pp. 669 & 675)

"10. It is beyond any doubt or dispute that the review court does not sit in appeal over its own order. A rehearing of the matter is impermissible in law. It constitutes an exception to the general rule that once a judgment is signed or pronounced, it should not be altered. It is also trite that exercise of inherent jurisdiction is not invoked for reviewing any order.

11. Review is not appeal in disguise. In Lily Thomas v. Union of India [Lily Thomas v. Union of India, (2000) 6 SCC 224 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 1056] this Court held: (SCC p. 251, para 56)

"56. It follows, therefore, that the power of review can be exercised for correction of a mistake but not to substitute a view. Such powers can be exercised within the limits of the statute dealing with the exercise of power. The review cannot be treated like an appeal in disguise.'

33. The High Court had rightly noticed the review jurisdiction of the court, which is as under:

"The law on the subject--exercise of power of review, as propounded by the Apex Court and various other High Courts may be summarised as hereunder:

(i) Review proceedings are not by way of appeal and have to be strictly confined to the scope and ambit of Order 47 Rule 1 CPC.

(ii) Power of review may be exercised when some mistake or error apparent on the fact of record is found. But error on the face of record must be such an error which must strike one on mere looking at the record and would not require any long-drawn process of reasoning on the points where there may conceivably be two opinions.

(iii) Power of review may not be exercised on the ground that the decision was erroneous on merits.

(iv) Power of review can also be exercised for any sufficient reason which is wide enough to include a misconception of fact or law by a court or even an advocate.

(v) An application for review may be necessitated by way of invoking the doctrine actus curiae neminem gravabit.'

In our opinion, the principles of law enumerated by it, in the facts of this case, have wrongly been applied."

15.2. In Ajit Kumar Rath [Ajit Kumar Rath v. State of Orissa, (1999) 9 SCC 596 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 192] , it was observed: (SCC p. 608, para 29)

"29. In review proceedings, the Tribunal deviated from the principles laid down above which, we must say, is wholly unjustified and exhibits a tendency to rewrite a judgment by which the controversy had been finally decided. This, we are constrained to say, is not the scope of review under Section 22(3)(f) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985...."

15.3. Similarly, in Parsion Devi [Parsion Devi v. Sumitri Devi, (1997) 8 SCC 715] the principles were summarised as under: (SCC p. 719, para 9)

"9. Under Order 47 Rule 1 CPC a judgment may be open to review inter alia if there is a mistake or an error apparent on the face of the record. An error which is not self-evident and has to be detected by a process of reasoning, can hardly be said to be an error apparent on the face of the record justifying the court to exercise its power of review under Order 47 Rule 1 CPC. In exercise of the jurisdiction under Order 47 Rule 1 C.P.C. it is not permissible for an erroneous decision to be "reheard and corrected". A review petition, it must be remembered has a limited purpose and cannot be allowed to be "an appeal in disguise".

16. On the other hand, reliance was placed by the respondent on the decision in BCCI v. Netaji Cricket Club [BCCI v. Netaji Cricket Club, (2005) 4 SCC 741] to submit that exercise in review would be justified if there be misconception of fact or law. Para 90 of the said decision was to the following effect: (SCC p. 765)

"90. Thus, a mistake on the part of the court which would include a mistake in the nature of the undertaking may also call for a review of the order. An application for review would also be maintainable if there exists sufficient reason therefor. What would constitute sufficient reason would depend on the facts and circumstances of the case. The words "sufficient reason" in Order 47 Rule 1 of the Code are wide enough to include a misconception of fact or law by a court or even an advocate. An application for review may be necessitated by way of invoking the doctrine actus curiae neminem gravabit."

8. It has thus been settled in law that;

(i) the power of review may be necessitated by way of invoking the doctrine "actus curiae neminem gravabit' which means that no act of the court in the course of whole of the proceedings does an injury to the suitors in the court. It has been held in Food Corporation of India and Another vs. M/s Seil Ltd. & Ors. [(2008) 3 SCC 440] that a writ court exercises its power of review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India itself and while exercising the jurisdiction it not only acts as a court of law but also as a court of equity. A clear error or omission on the part of the court to consider a justifiable claim would be subject to review, amongst others, on the "actus curiae neminem gravabit'.

(ii) The mistake or error must be apparent on the face of record i.e. that it must strike one on more looking at the record and would not require any long drawn process of reasoning. It should not be an error which has to be fished out and searched. Such an error must also be material which undermines the soundness of the judgment or results in miscarriage of justice. An error which may be apparent but is of inconsequential import, that would not furnish a ground for review.

9. It would also be apt to refer the judgment in the case of S. Nagraj vs. State of Karnataka [(1993) Supp. 4 SCC 595], wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that it is the duty of the Court to rectify, revise and recall its orders as and when it is brought to its notice that certain of its orders were passed on a wrong or mistaken assumption of facts and that implementation of those orders would have serious consequences. Again in the case of M.M. Thomas vs. State of Kerala & Another [(2000) 1 SCC 666] the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that the High Court, as a Court of record, has a duty to itself to keep all the records correctly and in accordance with law. Hence, if any apparent error is noticed by the High Court in respect of any orders passed by it, the High Court has not only power, but a duty to correct it.

10 . In view of the aforesaid, there is an error apparent on the face of record of the judgment dated 14.08.2003.

11. The review petition is allowed. The judgment dated 14.08.2003 is recalled. The second appeal is restored to its original number for fresh decision.

12. The review applicant has also filed some supplementary affidavits along with applications as also application for permission to file additional evidence, annexing certain documents against which the respondent has raised certain objections.

13. As the review has been allowed, the Court does not enter into the controversy as to whether the application under Order 41 Rule 27 C.P.C. is maintainable in review application or not, leaving it open to the applicants, if so advised, to file appropriate application under Order 41 Rule 27 C.P.C. or such other provisions as may be open to them, in the second appeal itself.

14. List this second appeal before appropriate Bench in the next month, as the appeal pertains to the year 1986.

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Section 378 (3),313,164 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 363, 366, 376D - leave to appeal against order of acquittal -The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 - Section 3/4 - ocular evidence - in an appeal against the acquittal the Court has to examine the evidence keeping in mind that accused has been found not guilt by the trial court which gives force to the principle that accused is considered innocent until proved guilty, beyond reasonable doubt except where the law provides otherwise - in case of acquittal, there is a double presumption in favour of the accused - it cannot be disputed that there can be a conviction solely based on the evidence of the prosecutrix - evidence must be reliable and trustworthy.(Para-22,23)

(B) Evidence Law - sterling witness - What would be more relevant - consistency of the statement right from the starting point till the end, namely, at the time when the witness makes the initial statement and ultimately before the Court - Should be natural and consistent with the case of the prosecution qua the accuse .(Para - 25)

First Information Report registered in Crime - disclosing therein - daughter of the informant - aged about 15 years - disappeared while she was sleeping with her family - after enquiring it has been told to the informant - one resident of same village with the help of his brothers enticed his daughter and took her away. (Para - 4)

HELD:-There are material contradictions and change of the version by the prosecutrix at every stage, made the evidence of prosecutrix unreliable and untrustworthy. In these circumstances the deposition / evidence of prosecutrix does not inspire the confidence to place implicit reliance to act on its basis to record the conviction of the respondents. No perversity and reasonable ground to interfere with the acquittal recorded by the trial court.(Para - 26,27)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. This Criminal Appeal has been filed by the appellant-State of Uttar Pradesh against the judgment and order dated 22.09.2020 passed by Additional Sessions Judge (POCSO Act and Created for adjudication of Rape Cases), Court No.14, Hardoi in Sessions Trial No.451 of 2016, Crime No.592 of 2016, registered under Section 363, 366, 376D I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 (in shourt POCSO Act), in Police Station - Kotwali Sahar, District - Hardoi, whereby the Court acquitted the accused- respondents Prem, Rameshwar, Ramteerth and Parmeshwar.

2. In compliance of this Court's order dated 08.01.2021, the notices have been issued and as per office report dated 27.08.2021, notices have been served personally upon Respondent Nos. 1. Prem, 2. Rameshwar and 4. Parmeshwar, whereas served upon Respondent No.3 Ramteerth through heir.

3. Heard Smt. Smriti Sahai, learned A.G.A. for the State -appellant and perused the impugned judgement and order passed by the trial court and the lower court record.

4. The brief facts necessary for disposal of this appeal as culled out from the case of prosecution are :-

i. On 26.10.2016 a First Information Report (in short F.I.R) was registered in Crime No.592 of 2016 under Section 363 and 366 I.P.C. disclosing therein, that daughter of the informant aged about 15 years had disappeared while she was sleeping with her family and after enquiring it has been told to the informant that one Prem, resident of same village with the help of his brothers Rameshwar, Ramteerth and Parmeshwar enticed his daughter and took her away.

ii. After investigation the chargesheet was filed under Section 363, 366, 376D I.P.C. and Section 3/4 POCSO Act, in the Court against the accused persons. The concerned Magistrate after taking cognizance committed the case to the Sessions Court for trial.

iii. The trial court framed charges against the accused Prem, Rameshwar, Ramteerth and Parmeshwar under Section 363, 366, 376D I.P.C. and Section 3/4 POCSO Act. The accused persons denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

iv. The prosecution in order to prove its case examined P.W.1 Gopal (informant), PW.2 the Prosecutrix (X), PW. 3 Dr. Smita Singh, PW.4 Dr. Indu Singh, Radiologist, PW.5 S.I. Javed Akhtar, PW.6 Lady Constable Harjit Kaur and PW.7 S.I. Rajkishor Kanaujiya.

v. As a documentary evidence, the prosecution has proved copy of F.I.R. Ext. Ka -1, statement of prosecutrix recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. Ext. Ka-2, Medical Examination Report of the prosecutrix Ext. Ka-3, Supplementary Medical Examination Report of the prosecutrix Ext. Ka-4, X-ray report Ext. Ka-5, Site Plan Ext. Ka-6, Chargesheet Ext. Ka-7 , Chick F.I.R. Ext. Ka-8, Mukadama Kaymi/ General Diary Ext. Ka-9, Student Admission Register Ext. Ka-10, Fard Baramadgi Ext. Ka-11, and Fard Supurdginama Ext. Ka 12.

vi. Thereafter the statements of the accused persons were recorded under Section 313 of Code of Criminal Procedure (in short Cr.P.C.), wherein, they denied the commission of crime and stated that the case has been registered falsely.

5. The trial court after hearing the arguments of both the parties and analyzing the evidence came to the conclusion that the F.I.R. has been lodged with the delay of four days without assigning any reason particularly, when the informant on the very next day of the incident came to know that his daughter was enticed and taken away by Prem and his two brothers. Neither in the F.I.R. nor in the statements / depositions, examination-in-chief and cross-examination the informant had never disclosed that from whom he got the information that the accused persons enticed his daughter and took her away.

6. It is further observed by the trial court that there are contradictions in the statement of the prosecutrix recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and the deposition during examination-in-chief and cross-examination and at every stage the version has been changed. In her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., the prosecutrix has stated that in the night of 21-22.10.2016 at about 12-01 AM Prem, Rameshwar and Ramteerth enticed her on the pretext of taking her for a ride and gagged her by using clothes and all these three persons took her on a motorcycle and Permeshwar joined them later on.

7. It is also observed by the trial court that it is highly improbable that four persons would go on one motorcycle.

8. The trial court has further observed that in her cross-examination, the prosecutrix has stated that four accused persons came to her house and gagged her and took her away and after coming out from the village, Parmeshwar also met them on his motorcycle.

9. The trial court further observed that as per version by the prosecutrix that she was sleeping with her mother, brother and sister and in her cross-examination at Page No.7, she has admitted that her father was sleeping in the courtyard, so it is naturally not possible to gag her and take her away while she was sleeping in between her mother, brother and sister. In her cross-examination at Page No.7, the prosecutrix has stated that Prem had called her then she came out and while she was going to wake up her father, Prem gagged her, so she introduced a new story. It is also not believable when she was sleeping with her other family members, instead of waking up her mother, brother and sister, she tried to woke up her father, who was sleeping in the courtyard.

10. The trial court further observed that in her cross-examination at Page No.5, the prosecutrix has stated that she went to the terrace through stairs, but the same has not been shown in the site plan i.e. Ext. Ka-6.

11. The trial court has also observed that there is a delay in lodging of the F.I.R. for the reason as per the prosecution case the prosecutrix was recovered after lodging of the F.I.R., whereas as per defence, the F.I.R. was lodged after the recovery of the prosecutrix and in support thereof it has been argued that no time has been mentioned in the recovery memo of "X" i.e. Ext. Ka-11 except the time has been mentioned of handing over of the prosecutrix to the police constable i.e. at 4.00 PM and that too by putting an arrow.

12. The trial court has further observed that the informant in her application has written that one month ago Vimlesh Pradhan had threatened him as his father was contesting the election against him, that is why, due to election of Pradhan, Vimlesh enticed his daughter through Prem, whereas as per the prosecution story, the prosecutrix was brought to the police station by Vimlesh and called the informant to reach the police station but at no point of time Vimlesh Pradhan was examined by the prosecution. How it could be believed that the person who is keeping enmity with the informant could come alongwith the prosecutrix i.e. daughter of the informant to the police station and intimate the informant and roped his friend Prem, who is accused in the present case specially when the case of the informant is that on the directions of the Vimlesh Pradhan, Prem had took his daughter.

13. The trial court has further observed that on the very same day the medical examination of the 'X' (prosecutrix) was conducted, in which neither any internal nor any external injury was found and no sperm has been found in the vaginal smear and pregnancy test reported was negative. The hymen was old torn and healed.

14. PW.3 Dr. Smita Singh -Medical Officer in her deposition has stated that no sign of rape has been found. The hymen was old torn and healed. The hymen healed within 15 days. She has specifically opined that she has not found any violence marks on the body of the prosecutrix. She has also categorically stated that there is no physical or pathological evidence of rape. It is true that thereafter she has stated that possibility of rape cannot be ruled out.

15. Learned A.G.A. assailed the judgement of the trial court and submitted that :

i. The judgement of the trial court is against the evidence produced by the prosecution, all the accused persons are guilty beyond any reasonable doubt and the offence is proved.

ii. The prosecutrix was forcibly took by gagging by all the four accused persons to an unknown place and outraged her modesty for four days.

iii. The trial court has taken into consideration that the minor contradictions in the statements / depositions of the prosecutrix, which have been at different stages, which is not proper.

iv. For an offence of rape, motive is not necessary. The trial court has acquitted the accused persons on the basis of surmises and conjecture.

16. After hearing the learned A.G.A. and as per the settled law that in an appeal against the acquittal the Court has to examine the evidence keeping in mind that accused has been found not guilt by the trial court which gives force to the principle that accused is considered innocent until proved guilty, beyond reasonable doubt except where the law provides otherwise.

17. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Achhar Singh Vs. State of Homachal Pradesh reported in 2021 SCC Online HP 870 in this regard has laid down as under:

"13. It is fundamental in criminal jurisprudence that every person is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty, for criminal accusations can be hurled at anyone without him being a criminal. The suspect is therefore considered to be innocent in the interregnum between accusation and judgment. History reveals that the burden on the accuser to prove the guilt of the Accused has its roots in ancient times. The Babylonian Code of Hammurabi (1792-1750 B.C.), one of the oldest written codes of law put the burden of proof on the accuser. Roman Law coined the principle of actori incumbit (onus) probatio (the burden of proof weighs on the Plaintiff) i.e., presumed innocence of the Accused. In Woolmington v. Director of Public Prosecutions [1935] AC 462 (HL), the House of Lords held that the duty of the prosecution to prove the prisoner's guilt was the "golden thread" throughout the web of English Criminal Law. Today, Article 11 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, Article 14 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights all mandate presumption of innocence of the Accused.

14. A characteristic feature of Common Law Criminal Jurisprudence in India is also that an Accused must be presumed to be innocent till the contrary is proved. It is obligatory on the prosecution to establish the guilt of the Accused save where the presumption of innocence has been statutorily dispensed with, for example, Under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act, 1872. Regardless thereto, the 'Right of Silence' guaranteed Under Article 20(3) of the Constitution is one of the facets of presumed innocence. The constitutional mandate read with the scheme of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 amplifies that the presumption of innocence, until the Accused is proved to be guilty, is an integral part of the Indian criminal justice system. This presumption of innocence is doubled when a competent Court analyses the material evidence, examines witnesses and acquits the Accused. Keeping this cardinal principle of invaluable rights in mind, the appellate Courts have evolved a self-restraint policy whereunder, when two reasonable and possible views arise, the one favourable to the Accused is adopted while respecting the trial Court's proximity to the witnesses and direct interaction with evidence. In such cases, interference is not thrusted unless perversity is detected in the decision-making process.

15. It is thus a well crystallized principle that if two views are possible, the High Court ought not to interfere with the trial Court's judgment. However, such a precautionary principle cannot be overstretched to portray that the "contours of appeal" against acquittal Under Section 378 Code of Criminal Procedure are limited to seeing whether or not the trial Court's view was impossible. It is equally well settled that there is no bar on the High Court's power to re-appreciate evidence in an appeal against acquittal1. This Court has held in a catena of decisions (including Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka (2007) 4 SCC 415, p. 42, State of Andhra Pradesh v. M. Madhusudhan Rao (2008) 15 SCC 582, p. 20-21 and Raveen Kumar v. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2020 SCC Online SC 869, 11.) that the Code of Criminal Procedure does not differentiate in the power, scope, jurisdiction or limitation between appeals against judgments of conviction or acquittal and that the appellate Court is free to consider on both fact and law, despite the self-restraint that has been ingrained into practice while dealing with orders of acquittal where there is a double presumption of innocence of the Accused."

18. In Chaman Lal Vs. The State of Himachal Pradesh reported in 2020 SCC online SC 988, the Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard has expressed the similar views.

19. Now in the present case having examined the rationale behind the conclusion arrived at by the trial court while acquitting the accused persons after analyzing the judgement and evidence available on record, it appears that the contentions of the learned A.G.A. have no force for the reason that the F.I.R. has been lodged with the delay of four days without explaining the reason for the same, particularly when the informant on the very next day in the morning came to know about the persons behind the offence alleged in the F.I.R. Neither in the F.I.R. nor in the statement, the informant had ever taken the name of a person from whom he came to know that her daughter was taken away by the present accused persons.

20. There are contradictions in the statements / deposition of the prosecutrix recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., in her examination-in-chief and her cross-examinations, at all the stages she came with a different story. At one place, she has stated that she was kidnapped by three accused persons namely, Prem, Ramteerth and Rameshwar, but at other place she came with a story that Prem called her while she was sleeping. At one place she has stated that Rameshwar took her at his motorcycle to an unknown place and at other place she has come with a case that Prem, Rameshwar and Ramteerth took her on their motorcycle and Parmeshwar joined them later on, but how it can be possible that four persons had gone on one motorcycle. At one place, she has come with a case that all had come to her house and gagged her and took her from terrace and when reached outside the village, there Parmeshwar came with a motorcycle. It is also unbelievable that she was sleeping alongwith her mother, brother and sister but instead of waking them, she tried to wake up her father who was sleeping in the courtyard when Prem had called her. At one place, she has stated that Prem had asked her let us go for a ride to his Jijaji's place. At one place, she has stated that she reached terrace by using staircase of her house, whereas no stairs were shown in site plan prepared by the Investigating Officer Ext. Ka-6.

21. From the medical examination report of the prosecutrix and the statement of the PW.3 Dr. Smita Singh, the offence of outraging the modesty of the prosecutrix has not been found, as the medical examination of the prosecutrix was conducted on the very same day of her recovery and as per her statement she was raped by four persons from last four days, then somthing should have come in the medical examination report, but nothing in the medical examination report, so the ocular evidence of the prosecutrix does not corroborate with the medical evidence.

22. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Batcu Venkateshwarlu and others Vs. Public Prosecutor High Court of Andhra Pradesh reported in (2008) 16 SCC 256 has held as under: -

"12. It cannot, however, be forgotten that in case of acquittal, there is a double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person should be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved to be uilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured an acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is certainly not weakened but reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court."

23. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in its judgement dated 14.02.2020 passed in Criminal Appeal No.264 of 2020, arising out of SLP (Criminal) No.3780/2018; Santosh Prasad @ Santosh Kumar vs. The State of Bihar, has held that it cannot be disputed that there can be a conviction solely based on the evidence of the prosecutrix. However, the evidence must be reliable and trustworthy.

24. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Rajoo and others vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2008) 15 SCC 133 has held as under:

" 11. It cannot be lost sight of that rape causes the greatest distress and humiliation to the victim but at the same time a false allegation of rape can cause equal distress, humiliation and damage to the accused as well. The accused must also be protected against the possibility of false implication, particularly where a large number of accused are involved. It must, further, be borne in mind that the broad principle is that an injured witness was present at the time when the incident happened and that ordinarily such a witness would not tell a lie as to the actual assailants,but there is no presumption or any basis for assuming that the statement of such a witness is always correct or without any embellishment or exaggeration.

12. Reference has been made in Gurmit Singh's case to the amendments in 1983 to Sections 375 and 376 of the India Penal Code making the penal provisions relating to rape more stringent, and also to Section 114A of the Evidence Act with respect to a presumption to be raised with regard to allegations of consensual sex in a case of alleged rape. It is however significant that Sections 113A and 113B too were inserted in the Evidence Act by the same amendment by which certain presumptions in cases of abetment of suicide and dowry death have been raised against the accused. These two Sections, thus, raise a clear presumption in favour of the prosecution but no similar presumption with respect to rape is visualized as the presumption under Section 114A is extremely restricted in its applicability. This clearly shows that in so far as allegations of rape are concerned, the evidence of a prosecutrix must be examined as that of an injured witness whose presence at the spot is probable but it can never be presumed that her statement should, without exception, be taken as the gospel truth. Additionally her statement can, at best, be adjudged on the principle that ordinarily no injured witness would tell a lie or implicate a person falsely. We believe that it is under these principles that this case, and others such as this one, need to be examined."

25. In the case of Rai Sandeep @ Deepu Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) (2012) 8 SCC 21, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"22. In our considered opinion, the 'sterling witness' should be of a very high quality and caliber whose version should, therefore, be unassailable. The Court considering the version of such witness should be in a position to accept it for its face value without any hesitation. To test the quality of such a witness, the status of the witness would be immaterial and what would be relevant is the truthfulness of the statement made by such a witness. What would be more relevant would be the consistency of the statement right from the starting point till the end, namely, at the time when the witness makes the initial statement and ultimately before the Court. It should be natural and consistent with the case of the prosecution qua the accused. There should not be any prevarication in the version of such a witness. The witness should be in a position to withstand the cross-examination of any length and strenuous it may be and under no circumstance should give room for any doubt as to the factum of the occurrence, the persons involved, as well as, the sequence of it. Such a version should have co-relation with each and everyone of other supporting material such as the recoveries made, the weapons used, the manner of offence committed, the scientific evidence and the expert opinion. The said version should consistently match with the version of every other witness. It can even be stated that it should be akin to the test applied in the case of circumstantial evidence where there should not be any missing link in the chain of circumstances to hold the accused guilty of the offence alleged against him. Only if the version of such a witness qualifies the above test as well as all other similar such tests to be applied, it can be held that such a witness can be called as a 'sterling witness' whose version can be accepted by the Court without any corroboration and based on which the guilty can be punished. To be more precise, the version of the said witness on the core spectrum of the crime should remain intact while all other attendant materials, namely, oral, documentary and material objects should match the said version in material particulars in order to enable the Court trying the offence to rely on the core version to sieve the other supporting materials for holding the offender guilty of the charge alleged."

26. Having gone through the evidence and considered the deposition of the prosecutrix, we find that there are material contradictions and change of the version by the prosecutrix at every stage, made the evidence of prosecutrix unreliable and untrustworthy. In these circumstances the deposition / evidence of prosecutrix does not inspire the confidence to place implicit reliance to act on its basis to record the conviction of the respondents.

27. In the light of the above discussions and the principles of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court cited above, there is no perversity and reasonable ground to interfere with the acquittal recorded by the trial court.

28. Hence the application for leave to appeal against the acquittal moved under Section 378(3) Cr.P.C. is rejected, therefore no order requires to be passed on the memo of appeal filed alongwith the application to grant leave to file the appeal.

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Ashok Kumar & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Shri Arunendra, Additional Government Advocate

Counsel for the Respondents:

(A) Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 378 (3),313 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C. - leave to appeal against order of acquittal - murder - plea of alibi - surmises and conjectures - illicit relations - circumstantial evidence - In a case based on circumstantial evidence, the court has to examine the evidence more cautiously and more carefully - To record a conviction on the basis of circumstantial evidence, it is necessary that all the links of the circumstantial evidence should be intact - Absence of notice in a case based on circumstantial evidence weakens the case of prosecution and goes in favour of the accused .(Para - 10,15)

(B) Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - No bar on the High Court's power to re-appreciate evidence in an appeal against acquittal - Cr.P.C does not differentiate in the power, scope, jurisdiction or limitation between appeals against judgments of conviction or acquittal - appellate Court is free to consider on both fact and law, despite the self-restraint that has been ingrained into practice while dealing with orders of acquittal where there is a double presumption of innocence of the accused.(Para - 21)

Complainant mentioned in F.I.R. - his brother left the house in the night - received phone call from someone - did not come back - used to sit on the Tea shop daily - dead body of his brother found in morning - lying on the roadside near the tea shop - doubt that somebody killed his brother - kept body on the roadside - accused not named as an author of the crime - prosecution failed to prove the charges against the accused persons beyond reasonable doubts - trial court acquitted accused persons - appellant State preferred this appeal.(Para - 7,9)

HELD:-No factual or legal error in the appreciation of evidences by the trial court for the reasons that there is no direct evidence of the offence and the chain of circumstantial evidence is not complete. Motive of the crime has not been established. Nothing on record to connect the accused persons with crime. Mobile numbers from which call was given and on which call was received have not been disclosed. Weapon of offence i.e. axe allegedly recovered at the pointing out of accused persons has not been produced and proved in court. No injury of 'axe' was found on cadaver. View taken by the court below is a possible view. Court below has given cogent, convincing and satisfactory reasons while passing the order of acquittal.(Para - 22)

1. This appeal alongwith application under Section 378 (3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973(in short 'Cr.P.C.') has been filed by the State/appellant with the prayer that leave to appeal may be granted against the judgement and order dated 8.12.2020 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Ambedkar Nagar in Sessions Trial No.211 of 2011, under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code (in short 'I.P.C.'), Police Station Kotwali Akbarpur, District Ambedkar Nagar whereby the trial court acquitted the accused persons/ respondents.

2. Heard Shri Arunendra, learned Additional Government Advocate (in short 'A.G.A.') for the appellant-State of U.P., perused the impugned judgement and order and record of the trial court.

3. Shorn of unnecessary details, the facts necessary for the disposal of this appeal are as under :-

4. A First Information report (in short 'F.I.R.') was registered on the basis of a written report presented by Awadh Bihari, at Case Crime No.350 of 2011, under Section 302 I.P.C., Police Station Kotwali Akbarpur, District Ambedkar Nagar. In the written report, it was stated that on the previous night at about 10.00 p.m., somebody gave a ring on the mobile phone of his elder brother Jitendra Kumar, on it he (Jitendra Kumar) said that he was reaching in five minutes. He left the house and did not come back. On the next day i.e. 5.6.2011 at about 5-6 O' Clock in the morning, when the complainant went to defecate, he saw a crowd of some persons near the road at Tea Shop of Ashok Kumar. When the complainant reached there, he saw that the dead body of his brother Jitendra was lying on the roadside. His brother Jitendra used to go on the shop of Ashok everyday. He had doubt that his brother was killed and dead body kept on the roadside. On the basis of these allegations, investigation was made and a chargesheet under Section 302 I.P.C. was submitted in the court against Ashok Kumar and Agya Ram. The court concerned took cognizance of the crime and committed the same to the court of Sessions for trial. The learned Sessions Court framed charges against the accused/ respondents under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C. The accused persons denied the charge and claimed to be tried.

5. In order to prove the charges against the accused persons, the prosecution examined Awadh Bihari the complainant as P.W.-1, Shakuntala Devi, the mother of the deceased as P.W.-2, Shri Santoshi Ram as P.W.-3,Shri Ram Shakal as P.W.-4, Shri Raj Narayan as P.W.-5 and Dr. Pradeep as P.W.-6.

6. The statements of the accused persons were recorded under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C.. They denied the crime and stated that they have been implicated falsely due to enmity. The accused Agya Ram also took the plea of alibi and he got examined himself as D.W.-1 and Vinod Kumar as D.W.-2 in order to prove that he was elsewhere on the date of the incident.

7. After analysing the evidences available on record, the learned trial court came to the conclusion that the prosecution has failed to prove the charges against the accused persons beyond reasonable doubts. The case is based on circumstantial evidence and the prosecution could not prove all the links to connect the accused persons with the crime. Hence, the trial court acquitted the accused persons. Being dissatisfied with this acquittal, the appellant State has preferred this appeal.

8. The learned A.G.A. has assailed the impugned judgement and order by submitting that the learned trial court has not appreciated the evidence in a right perspective and the impugned judgment and order is legally not sustainable as it is based on surmises and conjectures. The learned A.G.A. also submitted that the witnesses have stated that the accused Ashok had doubt that his wife had illicit relations with the deceased and the wife of Ashok Kumar called the deceased to eat fish by giving ring on his mobile phone. The wife of Ashok Kumar had illicit relations with Agya Ram co-accused and the deceased is becoming a hurdle. So both the accused killed the deceased. P.W.-4 Ram Shakal had stated that he heard the accused persons talking that they killed Jitendra. Learned trial court has ignored this evidence. Learned A.G.A. has further submitted that all the six witnesses have supported the prosecution case. Postmortem report also corroborates the same. The weapon of the crime was recovered at the pointing out of the accused persons. The prosecution has also proved all the documents filed on the record hence the prosecution has proved the case beyond reasonable doubt yet the learned trial court has acquitted the accused persons and committed a grave error.

9. Admittedly, the case is based on circumstantial evidence. There is no eye witness of the crime. In the F.I.R., the complainant has mentioned that his brother left the house in the night when he received a phone call from someone and did not come back. He used to sit on the Tea shop of Ashok Kumar, daily. In the morning he found that dead body of his brother was lying on the roadside near the shop of Ashok. He had doubt that somebody killed his brother and kept the body on the roadside. Even in the F.I.R., the accused was not named as an author of the crime or the complainant did not even averred that he has doubt that Ashok killed his brother and put the body on roadside.

10. In a case based on circumstantial evidence, the court has to examine the evidence more cautiously and more carefully. To record a conviction on the basis of circumstantial evidence, it is necessary that all the links of the circumstantial evidence should be intact. There should be no gap in the links.

11. Recently, in the case of Shivaji Chintappa Patil Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in (2021) 5 SCC 626, the Hon'ble

Supreme Court has laid down as under (para 12) :-

"12. The law with regard to conviction on the basis of circumstantial evidence has been very well crystalised in the judgment of this Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra :-(SCC p.185, paras 153-54)

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra where the observations were made : [SCC p. 807 : para 19, SCC (Cri) p. 1047]

"19. .....Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between "may be" and "must be" is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

12. Now in the light of these principles, we have to examine the facts and evidences of the case and also the impugned judgement.

13. First of all, if we peruse the F.I.R., it comes out that in the F.I.R., nobody was named as author of the crime, only it was written that the deceased used to go on the tea shop of Ashok everyday. He left the house on getting a phone call of someone and on the next day in the morning, when the complainant the brother of the deceased, went to defecate, he saw a crowd of some people near the tea shop of Ashok. When he reached there, he found the dead body of his brother, the deceased, was lying on the roadside. In the F.I.R., there is no mention about the fact as to who called his deceased brother on his mobile phone. There is no mention of motive of the crime even there is no mention about the alleged illicit relations of the deceased with the wife of the accused Ashok. The complainant has been examined as P.W.-1.

In his examination-in-Chief, he has stated that the incident took place on 4.6.2011. In the night at about 10.00 O' Clock, Kesha Devi (wife of Ashok) called on mobile phone of his deceased brother. He has stated that at that time, he had no knowledge that Kesha Devi called his brother. Next day, he came to know about the phone call. He has also stated that his brother used to sell milk on the shop of Ashok Kumar. He started selling the milk about 12 days prior to the incident. In the night of incident, his brother went there and in the morning, he came to know that his brother was killed and his dead body is lying just 50 metres away from the tea shop on the roadside. He also saw that there was injury on the head of his deceased brother. He has also stated that his brother might be murdered by Ashok Kumar and Agya Ram because Ashok Kumar had doubt that his deceased brother had illicit relations with the wife of Ashok Kumar. This witness has lodged the F.I.R. on the next date and he did not mention that Kesha Devi called on the mobile phone of his deceased brother. Even any mobile phone has not been disclosed in the F.I.R. from which mobile no., call was made and on which mobile no. the call was received. In his statement before the court, this witness has stated that he came to know about the phone call made by Kesha Devi on the next date in the morning. The report was lodged on the next day at 7.45 a.m. but in the F.I.R., it was not there that Kesha Devi called his brother. In the F.I.R., even there was no whisper about the motive of the crime which has been stated in the court by the complainant that the accused Ashok had doubt that the deceased had illicit relations with his wife. The F.I.R. was lodged when the dead body was found. In such circumstances, it was expected from the complainant that he mentioned the phone number from which call was made and also the mobile number of his brother on which the call was received. Even the investigating officer did not try to do that as there is nothing on the record to show that any attempt was made to connect the links of the alleged call made on the mobile number of the deceased.

14. In the cross examination, the complainant has stated that nobody informed him about the murder of his brother but he himself went there and he was alone. No family member came there on the road alongwith him.

The mother of the deceased has been examined as P.W.-2. She has also stated that Kesha Devi the wife of Ashok Kumar called his son to eat fish but there is nothing in her statement how she came to know that Kesha Devi called her son because P.W.-1 has not mentioned the name of Kesha Devi in his F.I.R.

P.W.-2 has also stated in her cross examination that she went to the spot after getting the information of the murder of her son and remained there alongwith her family members till 10-11 O'Clock. There is no eye witness of the crime.

P.W.-4 Ram Shakal has been examined who has stated that he knows accused persons very well as they all belong to his village. He has further stated that Kesha Devi, the wife of Ashok had illicit relations with Agya Ram. The deceased Jitendra used to work on the shop of Ashok Kumar. Jintendra had no relations with the wife of Ashok. Agya Ram was feeling inconvenient due to presence of Jitendra, so Agya Ram and Ashok killed Jitendra. He has further stated that Agya Ram and Ashok told him that everything has gone messed as it is open now that they have killed Jitendra. By examining this witness, the prosecution has tried to prove extra judicial confession of the accused persons but the motive disclosed by this witness and also the complainant in itself is very shaky. The complainant has stated that Ashok had doubt that the deceased had illicit relations with his wife while this witness has stated that the wife of Ashok had illicit relations with Agya Ram and the deceased is creating hurdles so Ashok and Agya Ram killed Jitendra. There is no cogent and reliable evidence to prove this motive.

15. No doubt, to prove a motive is not a sine qua non, but if the case is based on circumstantial evidence, then a strong motive should be established for commission of the crime. In the present case, the motive disclosed and the evidence to prove that motive is of very weak type that too has not been proved. Absence of notice in a case based on circumstantial evidence weakens the case of prosecution and goes in favour of the accused.

16. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Anwar Ali and another Vs. The State of Himanchal Pradesh :(2020) 10 SCC 166, has held as under (Paragraph 24) :-

"24. Now so far as the submission on behalf of the accused that in the present case the prosecution has failed to establish and prove the motive and therefore the accused deserves acquittal is concerned, it is true that the absence of proving the motive cannot be a ground to reject the prosecution case. It is also true and as held by thisCourt in Suresh Chandra Bahri v. State of Bihar 1995 Supp (1) SCC 80 that if motive is proved that would supply a link in the chain of circumstantial evidence but the absence thereof cannot be a ground to reject the prosecution case. However, at the same time, as observed by this Court in Babu (supra), absence of motive in a case depending on circumstantial evidence is a factor that weighs in favour of the accused. In paras 25 and 26, it is observed and held as under (Babu's case SCC pp.200-01) :

"25. In State of U.P. v. Kishanpal, this Court examined the importance of motive in cases of circumstantial evidence and observed: (SCC pp. 87-88, paras 38 -39)

"38. ... the motive is a thing which is primarily known to the accused themselves and it is not possible for the prosecution to explain what actually promoted or excited them to commit the particular crime.

39. The motive may be considered as a circumstance which is relevant for assessing the evidence but if the evidence is clear and unambiguous and the circumstances prove the guilt of the accused, the same is not weakened even if the motive is not a very strong one. It is also settled law that the motive loses all its importance in a case where direct evidence of eyewitnesses is available, because even if there may be a very strong motive for the accused persons to commit a particular crime, they cannot be convicted if the evidence of eye witnesses is not convincing. In the same way, even if there may not be an apparent motive but if the evidence of the eyewitnesses is clear and reliable, the absence or inadequacy of motive cannot stand in the way of conviction."

26. This Court has also held that the absence of motive in a case depending on circumstantial evidence is a factor that weighs in favour of the accused. (Vide Pannayar v. State of T.N."

Further prosecution has stated that the weapon of offence i.e. an axe was recovered at the pointing out of the accused persons. The alleged recovered weapon has neither been presented in the court nor proved as required.

Furthermore, no injury of axe was found on the cadaver by the doctor conducting postmortem. In the cross-examination, the doctor has stated that no injury found on the body was caused by axe.

17. There is nothing on record to show that the investigating officer had tried to trace mobile phone number of the deceased on which call was received and the phone number from which the call was made on the mobile phone of the deceased but how the accused persons were connected with the crime has not been established. It has not been proved that Kesha Devi called the deceased on his mobile phone number. The person before whom the extra judicial confession was allegedly been made i.e. P.W.-4 has stated in his cross examination that he lives in Delhi since 1983. He came to the village after hearing about the incident. It is noteworthy that when the alleged extra judicial confession was made the accused persons were already enlarged on bail. So it is unnatural that a person after getting the bail, will make extra judicial confession to a person who was residing in Delhi at the time of the incident that the accused persons have committed the crime. There is no last seen evidence and no evidence to connect the accused persons with the crime.

18. In short, the prosecution has failed to prove the motive to commit the crime, to prove the fact that there was illicit relations between the deceased and the wife of accused Ashok or the illicit relations between Agya Ram and the wife of Ashok. Even if it is assumed that Agya Ram and the wife of Ashok had illicit relations and Jitendra is creating hurdles, then why Ashok would have killed the deceased.

The alleged recovery of weapon also appears to be false as no injury of the recovered weapon was found on the dead body of the deceased and the recovered weapon has not been presented and proved before the court.

19. Furthermore, the mother of the deceased has admitted in her cross examination that her son used to consume liquor. He developed the habit of consuming liquor due to the bad company. She has also admitted that she did not know in what circumstances, her son died. As far as accused Agya Ram is concerned, he has examined himself as D.W.-1 and stated that he was in the village Dalpatpur on the date of the incident as there was some function in the house of the sister of his wife. He alongwith his wife, went to Dalpatpur to attend the function and came back to his own village on 6.6.2011. On 9.6.2011, police called him and sent to jail. As D.W.-2, the brother-in-law of Agya Ram has been examined, he has also proved the fact that Agya Ram alongwith his wife was at his place on the date of incident.

20. There is no evidence on record to establish the guilt of the accused persons. The chain of circumstance is not only incomplete but can be said as broken at many points. In fact no evidence is there to connect the accused persons with the crime. In order to convict an accused person, it is necessary that prosecution has to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

21. In this regard, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Achhar Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh reported in (2021) 5 SCC 543, has laid down as under (para 16) :-

"16. It is thus a well crystalized principle that if two views are possible, the High Court ought not to interfere with the trial Court's judgment. However, such a precautionary principle cannot be overstretched to portray that the "contours of appeal" against acquittal under Section 378 CrPC are limited to seeing whether or not the trial Court's view was impossible. It is equally well settled that there is no bar on the High Court's power to re-appreciate evidence in an appeal against acquittal. This Court has held in a catena of decisions (including Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka, State of Andhra Pradesh v. M. Madhusudhan Rao, And Raveen Kumar v. State of Himachal Pradesh) that the Cr.P.C does not differentiate in the power, scope, jurisdiction or limitation between appeals against judgments of conviction or acquittal and that the appellate Court is free to consider on both fact and law, despite the self-restraint that has been ingrained into practice while dealing with orders of acquittal where there is a double presumption of innocence of the accused".

22. In the light of the above discussions and the law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court referred above, we do not find any factual or legal error in the appreciation of evidences by the trial court for the reasons that there is no direct evidence of the offence and the chain of circumstantial evidence is not complete. The motive of the crime has not been established. There is nothing on record to connect the accused persons with crime. The mobile numbers from which call was given and on which call was received have not been disclosed. The weapon of offence i.e. axe allegedly recovered at the pointing out of accused persons has not been produced and proved in court. Furthermore, no injury of 'axe' was found on cadaver. Moreover, the view taken by the court below is a possible view. The court below has given cogent, convincing and satisfactory reasons while passing the order of acquittal.

23. We therefore, do not consider it to be a fit case for grant of leave to appeal to the appellant. The application seeking leave to appeal is, accordingly rejected and the appeal is also dismissed.

4. Achhar Singh Vs St. of H.P. , 2021 SCC Online HP 870

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Saroj Yadav, J.)

1. This appeal along with application under Section 378(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 (in short "Cr.P.C.") read with Section 14-A of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (in short "SC/ST Act") has been filed by the State-appellant against the judgment and order passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, SC/ST Act, Lakhimpur Kheri in Special Sessions Trial No. 106 of 2017, Crime No. 264 of 2017, under Section 376-D of The Indian Penal Code, 1860 (in short "IPC") and Section 3(2)(V) SC/ST Act, Police Station Fardhan, District Lakhimpur Kheri, whereby the accused-respondents have been acquitted.

2. Heard Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State-appellant.

3. Shorn off unnecessary details, the facts necessary for disposal of this appeal are:-

A First Information Report (in short "F.I.R.") was lodged by the victim/complainant against the accused-respondents on 13.09.2017 stating that on 09.09.2017 at about 7.00 PM, while she had gone to ease herself in the field of sugarcane near her village, the accused persons namely Chhote Verma and Hemnath, who were ambushing in the field of sugarcane, caught her and gagged her mouth and committed rape on her one by one. When the victim did not return home, her husband reached at the spot, then accused persons Chhote Verma and Hemnath ran away from the spot. Thereafter, the victim narrated the entire incident to her husband.

4. The case was investigated and charge sheet submitted against the accused persons/respondents. The Magistrate concerned after taking cognizance of the offence committed the case to Sessions Court for trial. The Sessions Court framed charges against the accused persons. They denied the charges and claimed to be tried. The prosecution in order to prove charges levelled against the accused respondents examined the victim as P.W. 1, Sushil Kumar (husband of the victim) as P.W. 2, Dr. Yamini Badal as P.W. 3, Constable Sarita as P.W. 4 and Ravindra Verma, Investigating Officer/Circle Officer, Sadar as P.W. 5. Necessary documents were also proved by the prosecution i.e. Exhibits 1 to 5.

5. Learned A.G.A. assailed the impugned judgment submitting that learned Trial Court discarded the evidence of the victim and her husband without any proper and legal reason. The prosecution has proved charges levelled against the accused persons by the evidence of P.W. 1-victim. The victim is a married lady and she belongs to the scheduled caste. The trial Court has committed a grave error in not relying on the statement of the victim. The medical evidence has also corroborated the version of prosecution. Hence the impugned judgment and order is illegal, not sustainable in the eyes of law and liable to be set aside.

6. Considered the submissions advanced by learned A.G.A., perused the impugned judgment and order and the record of the Trial Court.

7. It is settled law that conviction can be made in case of rape on the basis of sole testimony of the victim but the testimony should be such as to raise confidence of the Court and the Court finds that genuine and reliable. If the evidence of victim sufferes from contradictions and not of high quality, then it shall not be just and legal to convict the accused relying upon her evidence. In such situation, the Court should look for corroboration. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Krishna Kumar Malik Versus State of Haryana (2011) 7 SCC page-130 has held as under:-

"No doubt, it is true that to hold an accused guilty for commission of an offence of rape, the solitary evidence of prosecutrix is sufficient provided the same inspires confidence and appears to be absolutely trustworthy, unblemished and should be of sterling quality."

The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rai Sandeep Alias Deepu Versus State (NCT of Delhi) (2012) 8 Supreme Court Cases 21 has laid down as under:-

"In our considered opinion, the ''sterling witness' should be of a very high quality and caliber whose version should, therefore, be unassailable. The Court considering the version of such witness should be in a position to accept it for its face value without any hesitation. To test the quality of such a witness, the status of the witness would be immaterial and what would be relevant is the truthfulness of the statement made by such a witness. What would be more relevant would be the consistency of the statement right from the starting point till the end, namely, at the time when the witness makes the initial statement and ultimately before the Court. It should be natural and consistent with the case of the prosecution qua the accused. There should not be any prevarication in the version of such a witness. The witness should be in a position to withstand the cross- examination of any length and howsoever strenuous it may be and under no circumstance should give room for any doubt as to the factum of the occurrence, the persons involved, as well as, the sequence of it. Such a version should have co-relation with each and everyone of other supporting material such as the recoveries made, the weapons used, the manner of offence committed, the scientific evidence and the expert opinion. The said version should consistently match with the version of every other witness. It can even be stated that it should be akin to the test applied in the case of circumstantial evidence where there should not be any missing link in the chain of circumstances to hold the accused guilty of the offence alleged against him. Only if the version of such a witness qualifies the above test as well as all other similar such tests to be applied, it can be held that such a witness can be called as a ''sterling witness' whose version can be accepted by the Court without any corroboration and based on which the guilty can be punished. To be more precise, the version of the said witness on the core spectrum of the crime should remain intact while all other attendant materials, namely, oral, documentary and material objects should match the said version in material particulars in order to enable the Court trying the offence to rely on the core version to sieve the other supporting materials for holding the offender guilty of the charge alleged."

This view has again rehashed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Santosh Prasad Alias Santosh Kumar Versus State of Bihar (2020) 3 Supreme Court Cases 443.

8. The incident allegedly took place on 09.09.2017 and the F.I.R. was lodged on 13.09.2017. P.W. 1- victim/complainant in her statement has stated that while she had gone to ease herself in the field of sugarcane of Awadhesh Mishra, the accused respondents Chhote Verma and Hemnath Pasi, who were ambushing in the field of Sugarcane, caught her and after gagging her mouth, dragged in the field of sugarcane and committed rape on her, at the same time, her husband reached at the spot and on seeing him the accused respondent run away. The witness Sushil Kumar, the husband of the victim/complainant, has been examined as P.W. 2. He has stated that the victim is his wife and on the fateful day, while her wife had gone to ease herself in the field and when she did not come back, he tried to search her carrying a torch and reached at the field of sugarcane and witnessed that the accused respondents were committing rape on her. On flashing torch light, the accused respondents ran away leaving her wife.

9. Learned Trial Court did not find the statement of the victim of the standard to place reliance for convicting the accused respondents. Perusal of the record shows that there are major contradictions in the statement of P.W. 1 (victim). In her cross-examination, the victim has stated that the accused dragged her in "Khanti" (trench) near the sugarcane field and committed rape there but there is no mention of "Khanti" (trench) in the F.I.R. or statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. or in the site plan prepared by the Investigating Officer. The accused respondent Chhote Verma has been named in the F.I.R. and the victim in her examination-in-chief has stated that he committed rape upon her but in her cross-examination, she has stated that she did not know how the name of Chhote Verma was written in the FIR and further stated that it might be possible that the name of Chhote Verma mentioned by Kulwant Singh- ex-Pradhan of the village. Her signature was taken on the written report. She has also stated that she never met Chhote Verma @ Sanjay on the way, which goes "Guthna Bujurg" to "Khutna Khurd".

10. The medical evidence also does not corroborate the prosecution version or the statement of the victim. P.W. 3- Dr Yamini Badal, who examined the victim/complainant (P.W. 1), has stated that neither any external nor internal injury was found on the private parts or the person of the victim and as per the report of Forensic Science Laboratory, Lucknow, no spermatozoa were found in the vaginal smear of the victim. In her cross-examination, she has further stated that at the time of examination, no sign of rape was found.

11. P.W. 2-Sushil Kumar (husband of the victim), who has been produced as eye-witness of the crime, has also given contradictory statement. In his examination in chief, he has stated that he saw Chhote Verma was committing rape on her wife but in his cross-examination, he has stated that he did not see Hemnath committing rape.

12. The accused respondents Chhote Verma and Hemnath have stated in their statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that they have been falsely implicated in the case and they further stated that they have no concern with the alleged incident and they are innocent.

13. The aforesaid analysis makes it clear that prosecution failed to prove charges levelled against the accused persons beyond reasonable doubt.

14. Learned A.G.A. could not evince that the findings given by the Court below while acquitting the accused-respondents were factually or legally incorrect.

15. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Achhar Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh reported in 2021 SCC Online HP 870 in this regard has laid down as under:-

trial Court's judgment. However, such a precautionary principle cannot be overstretched to portray that the "contours of appeal" against acquittal under Section 378 CrPC are limited to seeing whether or not the trial Court's view was impossible. It is equally well settled that there is no bar on the High Court's power to re-appreciate evidence in an appeal against acquittal11. This Court has held in a catena of decisions (including Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415, 42. State of Andhra Pradesh v. M. Madhusudhan Rao, (2008) 15 SCC 582 20-21 and Raveen Kumar v. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2020 SCC Online SC 869*, 11.) that the Cr.P.C does not differentiate in the power, scope, jurisdiction or limitation between appeals against judgments of conviction or acquittal and that the appellate Court is free to consider on both fact and law, despite the self-restraint that has been ingrained into practice while dealing with orders of acquittal where there is a double presumption of innocence of the accused".*

16. We do not find any factual or legal error in the appreciation of evidence by the trial Court while acquitting the accused-respondents because there are material contradictions in the evidence of the victim. Medical evidence does not support the prosecution version. The statement of the victim is not of 'sterling' quality. There is no corroboratory evidence on record. Even P.W. 2, the husband of the victim, has given contradictory statements. Moreover, the view taken by the trial Court is a possible view. The trial Court has given valid, convincing and satisfactory reasons while passing the order of acquittal for not relying on the evidence of victim. For the aforesaid reasons, there appears no ground to disturb the acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

17. We, therefore, do not consider it to be a fit case for grant of leave to appeal to the appellant. The application seeking leave to appeal is, accordingly, rejected and the appeal is also dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Sri Onkar Singh, learned counsel for the applicants, Sri Dheeraj Singh (Bohra), learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 as well as learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. This application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed with the prayer to quash the entire proceedings in Case No.14943 of 2020 (Pramod Kumar and others vs. State) in view of the charge sheet dated 9.9.2020 arising out of case crime no.29 of 2020, under Sections 498A, 323, 504, 506, 354, 354B, 376, 511 IPC and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, P.S. Mahila Thana District Meerut.

3. In compliance of the order dated 22.7.2021 passed by this Court, applicant no.1-Pramod Kumar and his son Vipin Kumar has brought two drafts before this Court. The first draft is of Rs.9,00,000/- dated 24.8.2021 bearing Draft No.911254 in the name of Tanu Sharma (opposite party no.2) and the second draft is of Rs.6,00,000/- dated 24.8.2021 bearing Draft No.911253 in the name of Tanu Sharma (opposite party no.2). The total sum of two drafts is Rs.15,00,000/-. The same has been handed over to opposite party no.2 Tanu Sharma by the applicants before this Court which was acknowledged by Sri Dheeraj Singh (Bohra), learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and Sri Arunendra Kumar Singh, learned AGA. The photostat copy of both the drafts is being kept on the record in the file of the case as well as in the file of learned AGA.

4. Opposite party no.2 Tanu Sharma has stated before the Court that she will withdraw all criminal and civil cases filed against Vipin Kumar, his father Pramod Kumar (applicant no.1) and his family members pending before any court of law and in future also she will not file any case against them.

5. The same assurance has been given by the father of Tanu Sharma namely Sri Satya Prakash Sharma.

6. Sri Pramod Kumar and his son Vipin Kumar have also stated before this Court that from today they will also not file any criminal or civil case against Tanu Sharma and her father Sri Satya Prakash Sharma or against any family members before any court of law and withdraw all criminal and civil cases filed against Tanu Sharma, Satya Prakash Sharma and other family members in any court of law.

7. Vipin Kumar and Tanu Sharma jointly state before the Court that from today they will live separately and live their independent life and nobody will interfere in any manner in their peaceful life and they will be free to live independently on their own sweet will anywhere they wants.

8. Learned counsel for the parties has drawn the attention of this Court and placed reliance on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in support of their case.

(i) B.S. Joshi Vs. State of Haryana & Others 2003 (4) ACC 675.

(ii) Gian Ssingh Vs. State of Punjab 2012 (10) SCC 303.

(iii) Dimpey Gujral And Others Vs. Union Territory Through Administrator 2013 (11) SCC 697.

(iv) Narendra Singh And Others Vs. State of Punjab And Others 2014 (6) SCC 466.

(v) Yogendra Yadav And Others Vs. State of Jharkhand 2014 (9) SCC 653.

9. Summarizing the ratio of all the above cases the latest judgment pronounced by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur & Ors. Vs. State of Gujarat & Anr,; reported in (2017) 9 SCC 641 and in paragraph no.16, the Hon'ble Apex Court has summarized the broad principles with regard to exercise of powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in the case of compromise/settlement between the parties. Which emerges from precedent of the subjects as follows:-

i. "Section 482 preserves the inherent powers of the High Court to prevent an abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. The provision does not confer new powers. It only recognizes and preserves powers which inhere in the High Court.

ii.The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a First Information Report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.

iii. In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power;

iv. While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court;

v. The decision as to whether a complaint or First Information Report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated;

vi. In the exercise of the power under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are truly speaking not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences;

vii. As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing in so far as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned;

viii. Criminal cases involving offences which arises from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute;

ix. In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding if in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and

x. There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions (viii) and (ix) above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the state have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanour. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance."

10. The Apex Court has also laid down the guidelines where the criminal proceedings could be interfered and quashed in exercise of its power by the High Court in the following cases:-(i) R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866, (ii) State of Haryana Vs. Bhajanlal, 1992 SCC (Crl.)426, (iii) State of Bihar Vs. P.P. Sharma, 1992 SCC (Crl.)192 and (iv) Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another, (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cri.) 283.

11. From the aforesaid decisions the Apex Court has settled the legal position for quashing of the proceedings at the initial stage. The test to be applied by the court is to whether uncontroverted allegation as made prima facie establishes the offence and the chances of ultimate conviction is bleak and no useful purpose is likely to be served by allowing criminal proceedings to be continue. In S.W. Palankattkar & others Vs. State of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule. The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C itself envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised:-(i) to give effect an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court ; (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. The power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists.

12. With the assistance of the aforesaid guidelines, keeping in view the nature and gravity and the severity of the offence which are more particularly is matrimonial private dispute and differences it is deem proper and meet to the ends of justice. The proceeding of the aforementioned case be quashed.

13. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application stands allowed. Keeping in view the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the above referred judgment and in view of the statement/compromise made by Vipin Kumar as well as opposite party no.2 and the observation made above, the entire proceedings of Case No.14943 of 2020 (Pramod Kumar and others vs. State), arising out of case crime no.29 of 2020, under Sections 498A, 323, 504, 506, 354, 354B, 376, 511 IPC and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, P.S. Mahila Thana District Meerut is hereby quashed and both the parties are free to live their independent life.

14. The party shall file computer generated copy of such order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad or certified copy issued from the Registry of the High Court, Allahabad.

15. The concerned Court/ Authority/ Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

2004 CRI. L.J. 2329 ,Parminder Kaur & ors. Vs Jaginder Kaur & anr.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2.Notice is dispensed with to respondent no. 2.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that in this case, the F.I.R. has been lodged by the brother of the alleged husband of the petitioner under Section 494/495/416/420/504/506 I.P.C., Police Station Bazaar Khala, District Lucknow.

4. It is further submitted that these are illegal proceedings and the same cannot be permitted to continue in view of the specific bar provided under Section 198 Cr.P.C.

5. It is next submitted that while filing charge sheet, Section 495 I.P.C. has been dropped by the investigating officer and the informant in this case is not a person aggrieved so as to lodge an F.I.R. or complaint under Section 494 I.P.C.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner in support of his contention has relied on judgment reported in 2004 CRI. L.J. 2329 "Parminder Kaur and others Vs. Jaginder Kaur and another" and also on the judgment reported in "1964 SCC Online Kar 148" "State Vs. Gangaram and others".

7. Per contra learned A.G.A. has submitted that when the first information given to the police having contents of both cognizable and non-cognizable i.e. two or more offence out which at least one is cognizable, the case shall be deemed to be a cognizable case irrespective of the fact that the other offences are non-cognizable and thus, the F.I.R. can certainly be lodged by the brother of the deceased husband and there is no illegality in the same.

8. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that law in this regard has been settled. When the accused commits other offences apart from the offence under Section 494 I.P.C. and they are cognizable and if the police files a charge sheet, the magistrate can definitely take cognizance of Section 494 I.P.C. along with other cognizable offences in view of the specific provisions of Section 155(4) of Criminal Procedure Code.

9. On due consideration to the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties so also the perusal of the record, this Court finds that in the present case the accused who is alleged wife of the deceased husband has committed the offences under Section 494/495/416/420/504/506 I.P.C. and allegedly she had solemnized the second marriage with the complainant's brother/deceased by concealing her first marriage and after his death it is alleged that she fraudulently obtained all the service benefits including job and pension. Charge sheet in the case has been filed under Sections 494/416/420/504/506 I.P.C and upon that learned magistrate has taken the cognizance and issued the process. Since the petitioner has also committed the offence punishable under Sections 420/504/506/467/468/471 I.P.C. apart from the offence under Section 494 I.P.C., therefore, this case relates to more than two offence, out of which at least one is cognizable and therefore, in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Criminal Appeal No. 1428/2011 "Subhash Babu Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and another", the case must be deemed to be cognizable case notwithstanding that the other offences are non-cognizable. The relevant paras of the said judgment is extracted as under:-

"Even if it is assumed for the sake of argument that in view of Section 198(1)(c) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the Magistrate is disentitled to take cognizance of the offences punishable under Section 494 and 495 IPC despite the State amendment making those offences cognizable, this Court notices that in Mavuri Rani Veera Bhadranna (supra), the Division Bench has considered effect of Section 155(4) of the Criminal Procedure Code and thereafter held that the bar under Section 198 would not be applicable as complaint lodged before police for offence under Section 494 IPC also related to other cognizable offences and if police files a charge sheet, the Court can take cognizance also of offence Reportable under Section 494 along with other cognizable offences by virtue of Section 155(4) of the Criminal Procedure Code.

15. Section 155(4) of the Code inter alia provides that:-

"Where a case relates to two or more offences of which at least one is cognizable, the case shall be deemed to be a cognizable case, notwithstanding that the other offences are non-cognizable"

Here in this case in the charge sheet it is mentioned that the appellant has also committed offence punishable under Section 420 of the Indian Penal Code which is cognizable and therefore this is a case which relates to two or more offences of which at least one is cognizable and therefore the case must be deemed to be cognizable case notwithstanding that the other offences are non- cognizable.

This is not a case in which the FIR is exclusively filed for commission of offences under Section 494 and 495 IPC.

The case of the respondent no. 2 is that the appellant has committed offences punishable under Sections 417, 420, 494, 495 and 498A of the IPC. A question may arise as to Reportable what should be the procedure to be followed by a complainant when a case involves not only non-cognizable offence but one or more cognizable offences as well. It is somewhat anomalous that the aggrieved person by the alleged commission of offences punishable under Section 494 and 495 IPC should file complaint before a Court and that the same aggrieved person should approach the police officer for alleged commission of offences under Sections 417, 420 and 498A of the Indian Penal Code. Where the case involves one cognizable offence also alongwith non-cognizable offences it should not be treated as a non- cognizable case for the purpose of sub-section 2 of Section 155 and that is the intention of legislation which is manifested in Section 155(4) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Therefore, the argument that the learned Magistrate could not have taken cognizance of the offences punishable under Section 494 and 495 IPC on the basis of submission of charge sheet, cannot be accepted and is hereby rejected."

10. Hence, in view of the settled position of law, the magistrate in this case has committed no illegality while taking cognizance as the charge sheet discloses the commission of more than two offences out of which at least one is cognizable, hence, the case shall be treated to be a cognizable case notwithstanding that the other offences are non-cognizable.

11. In view of the above, it cannot be said that there is any illegality committed by the leaned Magistrate while taking cognizance. The petition lacks merits and is accordingly dismissed.

1. Applicants- Om Prakash Jaiswal and M/s Shankar Cable Industries through its Proprietor Om Prakash Jaiswal has moved application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 8150 of 2019 and revisionist Satyendra Narayan Soni has preferred Criminal Revision No. 1593 of 2019 with the prayer to quash the order dated 27.09.2019 passed by learned Special Judge Anti-Corruption C.B.I., (West), Lucknow in Criminal Case No. 400 / 2016, pertaining to FIR No. R.C. 0062014 A000027 dated 29.8.2014, Case No.1/2016, under Sections 120-B, 420 IPC and Section 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) P.C. Act, 1988, whereby the application for discharge of the applicants and revisionist has been rejected by the Special Judge by passing common order dated 27.09.2019, as well as to quash the entire proceedings of the instant case .

2. As the aforementioned application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 8150 of 2019 and Criminal Revision No. 1593 of 2019 have been preferred against the same order dated 27.9.2019 passed by the Special Judge Anti corruption C.B.I., whereby the discharge application of the applicants no.1 and 2 of petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 8150 of 2019 and revisionist in Criminal Revision No. 1593 of 2019 have been rejected by passing common order dated 27.9.2019, for convenience and to avoid repetition of facts, law and discussion both cases i.e. petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 8150 of 2019 and Criminal Revision No. 1593 of 2019 are being disposed of by passing this common order.

3. In the judgment, now onwards applicants/ petitioners of 482 Cr.P.C. No. 8150 of 2019 will be called applicants and revisionist of Criminal Revision No. 1593 of 2019 will be called as revisionist.

4. Heard Shri Jyotindra Mishra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Pramod Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the applicants in petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 8150 of 2019 and Shri Purnendu Chakarvarty in Crl. Revision No. 1593 of 2019 and Shri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel appearing for C.B.I. as well as perused the record.

5. Learned Senior advocate submits that mere availability of some other remedy in the Code of Criminal Procedure will not circumcise the powers of this Court in entertaining an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. when the abuse of the process of the Court is apparent on the face of record. Learned counsel in support of his submissions has relied on Sajjan Kumar Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2010)3 SCC (Cri) 1371 .

6. Learned Senior Advocate appearing for the applicants as well as Shri Purnendu Chakarvarty, learned counsel for the revisionist, while referring to the order dated 27.9.2019 passed by the Special Judge submits that the special court has not considered the submissions and grounds taken in discharge application by the applicants and revisionist in right perspective and without adverting to the material and evidence available on record has rejected the discharge application of the applicants and revisionist.

7. It is also submitted by them that the applicants in respect of a purchase order had supplied 65 Drums of of 2 Core PVC Insulated Railway Signaling power cable and the supply was made only after the inspection of officer of RDSO, Lucknow.

8. It is further submitted by Shri Jyotindra Mishra Ld. Senior Advocate and Shri Purenendu Chakarvarty that before the supply was made the cables were thoroughly inspected and after receiving the inspection certificate were dispatched on 18.1.2013 and 19.1.2013 and on 15.10.2013 a team of CBI Officers, Railway Vigilance and RDSO Officials alleged to have conducted a search operation and allegedly collected the samples of some cables supplied by the applicants, and other firm in their absence and got them tested in the lab of RDSO, Lucknow, which were allegedly failed in some parameters.

9. Highlighting the above factual matrix it is vehemently submitted by them that there are certain guidelines issued in the manual of signal engineering which provides the terms of storage and transportation of the cables by the Indian Railways but the cable supplied by the applicant firm was transported and kept against the guidelines issued in this regard and there is possibility that due to these reasons the quality of cables may be deteriorated by the efflux of time.

10. It is also submitted by them that the trial court had not taken care of this aspect of the matter that the cables supplied by the applicants were stored in open sky for 9 months and therefore the same has been deteriorated due to wear and tear caused by the weather.

11. It is also submitted by them that no complaint of any kind has ever been raised by the railways with regard to the alleged inferior quality of the cable supplied by the applicants and the whole quantity of cable supplied by the applicants has been consumed by them, therefore by any stretch of imagination it could not be said that the cable supplied by the applicants was of inferior quality.

12. It is further submitted by them that the equipments which were used for testing of the cables prior to it supply to the railways by the RDSO officials for pre supply inspection were of the applicants and the testing of samples alleged to have been conducted by the CBI in the lab of RDSO, Lucknow and therefore minor differences in the parameters are bound to take place in the testing result values and the same could not attract criminal consequences.

13. It is also submitted by them that experts who were given the charge of evaluating the quality of the cable supplied by the applicants were not qualified enough to assess the defect and the parameters which have been mentioned in the charge sheet filed by the Central Bureau of Investigation are such which in any case could not attract any criminal liability.

14. It is further submitted by them that after the supply of the cable no communication with regard to the alleged inferior quality of the cable was ever made by the railways and the other suppliers who supplied the inferior quality of the cables and whose cables were also failed in the test have not been prosecuted and it is only the applicants who have been targeted.

15. It is further submitted by them that RTI answers procured by the revisionist placed at page 367 and 375 of the paper book of the criminal Revision No. 1593 of 2019 would reveal that it is admitted to the railways that all the cables supplied by Ms/ Shankar Cable Industries(applicants) have been consumed by the railways in different projects.

16. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicants as well as learned counsel for revisionist has relied on following case laws:-

(I) State of Rajasthan Vs. Fatehkaran Mehdu (2017)3 Supreme Court Cases 198.

(II) Sajjan Kumar Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2010)3 SCC (Cri) 1371.

(III) Sanjay Kumar Rai Vs. State of U.P. and another, Criminal Appeal No. 472 of 2021 dated 7.5.2021 passed by Hon?ble Supreme Court.

17. Shri Anurag Kumar Singh Learned counsel for Central Bureau of Investigation submits that the submissions of learned Senior Counsel appearing for the applicants and learned counsel appearing for revisionist are against the factual position of the case and the cable which was supplied by the applicants has been found to be of inferior quality in the testing done at RDSO Lab and the experts were also of the opinion that the inferior quality of the cable could not be a result of in adequate storage or due to the cable stored in an open place.

18. It is also submitted that the samples of the cables were taken in the presence of the RDSO Officers and railway vigilance officials and as the cable supplied by the applicants has been found to be of inferior quality and has failed in vital parameters, thus the first information report was lodged against the applicants/Revisionist and during the course of investigation it is revealed that on 11.1.2013 and 12.1.10213 the two core cable supplied by the applicants was tested by revisionist Shri S.N. Soni, J.E. R.D.S.O. and the check test was performed by Shri Silas Minz, the then Deputy Director, RDSO, on 13.1.2013 at the premises of applicants at Gorakhpur. However, it is revealed that revisionist Shri S.N. Soni who alleged to have conducted the test on 13.1.2013 did not get his tour program approved and has not booked any ticket for that purpose. Similarly Shri Silas Minz also did not get his tour programme approved and has also not claimed any T.A. nor had booked any ticket, which shows that both these officers had in fact had not gone to Gorakhpur for the purpose of pre-inspection of the cables and as per the report of the experts there is huge difference in the quality of the cable (two core) assessed before and after the supply and this deterioration could not be the result of improper storage or due to wear and tear. The experts have also doubted the pre-supply inspection report and the Investigating Officer has found that in furtherance of a conspiracy, by supplying inferior quality cable to the railways the applicants have caused heavy monetary loss to the railways and the same has been done in connivance with the above mentioned officers of the R.D.S.O., Lucknow and thus no illegality has been committed by the Special Judge while rejecting the applications of the revisionist and applicants as there was sufficient material available for the purpose of framing charge against the applicants and revisionist.

20. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, it is evident that so far as the maintainability of proceeding under 482 Crpc and 397 /401 Crpc is concerned, suffice is to quote the following paragraphs from Madhu Limaye vs. The State of Maharashtra (31.10.1977 - SC) : MANU/SC/0103/1977;

"9. At the outset the following principles may be noticed in relation to the exercise of the inherent power of the High Court which have been" followed ordinarily and generally, almost invariably, barring a few exceptions:

(1) That the power is not to be resorted to if there is a specific provision in the Code for the redress of the grievance of the aggrieved party ;

(2) That it should be exercised very sparingly to prevent abuse of process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice;

(3) That it should not be exercised as against the express bar of law engrafted in any other provision of the Code.

10. In most of the cases decided during several decades the inherent power of the High Court has been invoked for the quashing of a criminal proceeding on one ground or the other. Sometimes the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court has also been resorted to for the same kind of relief by challenging the order taking cognizance or issuing processes or framing charge on the grounds that the Court had no jurisdiction to take cognizance and proceed with the trial, that the issuance of process was wholly illegal or void, or that no charge could be framed as no offence was made out on the allegations made or the evidence adduced in Court. In the background aforesaid we proceed to examine as to what is the correct position of law after the introduction of a provision like Sub- section (2) of Section 397 in the 1973 Code.

11. As pointed out in Amar Nath's case (supra) the purpose of putting a bar on the power of revision in relation to any interlocutory order passed in an appeal, inquiry, trial or other proceeding is to bring about expeditious disposal of the cases finally. More often than not, the revisional power of the High Court was resorted to in relation to interlocutory orders delaying the final disposal of the proceedings. The Legislature in its wisdom decided to check this delay by introducing Sub-section (2), in Section 397. On the one hand, a bar has been put in the way of the High Court (as also of the Sessions Judge) for exercise of the revisional power in relation to any interlocutory order, on the other, the power has been conferred in almost the same terms as it was in the 1898 Code.

21. On a plain reading of Section 482, however, it would follow that nothing in the Code, which would include Sub-section (2) of Section 397 also, "shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court". But, if we were to say that the said bar is not to operate in the exercise of the inherent power at all, it will be setting at naught one of the limitations imposed upon the exercise of the revisional powers.

22. In such a situation, what is the harmonious way out ? In our opinion, a happy solution of this problem would be to say that the bar provided in Sub-section (2) of Section 397 operates only in exercise of the revisional power of the High Court, meaning thereby that the High Court will have no power of revision in relation to any interlocutory order. Then in accordance with one of the other principles enunciated above, the inherent power will come into play, there being no other provision in the Code for the redress of the grievance of the aggrieved party. But then, if the order assailed is purely of an interlocutory character which could be corrected in exercise of the revisional power of the High Court under the 1898 Code, the High Court will refuse to exercise its inherent power.But in case the impugned order clearly brings about a situation which is an abuse of the process of the Court or for the purpose of securing the ends of justice interference by the High Court is absolutely necessary, then nothing contained in Section 397(2) can limit or affect the exercise of the inherent power by the High Court. But such cases would be few and far between.

23. The High Court must exercise the inherent power very sparingly.

24. One such case would be the desirability of the quashing of a criminal proceeding initiated illegally, vexatiously or as being without jurisdiction.

25. The answer is obvious that the bar will not operate to prevent the abuse of the process of the Court and/or to secure the ends of justice. The label of the petition filed by an aggrieved party is immaterial. The High Court can examine the matter in an appropriate case under its inherent powers."

26. Following paragraphs of Sanjay Kumar Rai vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Ors. (07.05.2021 - SC) : MANU/SC/0346/2021 are also relevent ;

"15. The correct position of law as laid down in Madhu Limaye (supra), thus, is that orders framing charges or refusing discharge are neither interlocutory nor final in nature and are therefore not affected by the bar of Section 397(2) of Code of Criminal Procedure. That apart, this Court in the above-cited cases has unequivocally acknowledged that the High Court is imbued with inherent jurisdiction to prevent abuse of process or to secure ends of justice having regard to the facts and circumstance of individual cases. As a caveat it may be stated that the High Court, while exercising its afore-stated jurisdiction ought to be circumspect. The discretion vested in the High Court is to be invoked carefully and judiciously for effective and timely administration of criminal justice system. This Court, nonetheless, does not recommend a complete hands off approach. Albeit, there should be interference, may be, in exceptional cases, failing which there is likelihood of serious prejudice to the rights of a citizen. For example, when the contents of a complaint or the other purported material on record is a brazen attempt to persecute an innocent person, it becomes imperative upon the Court to prevent the abuse of process of law."

27. Thus without entering into the academic question of maintainability of the petitions , keeping in view the aforesaid law, I intend to proceed to decide the lis on merits.

28. The case of the prosecution in nut shell is that on receipt of a reliable information joint surprise check was conducted by a team of Central Bureau of Investigation, Railways Vigilance and RDSO Official on 15.10.2013 at Gaghra Ghat, Choaka Ghat Section of N.E.R.,

Lucknow Division and also at the store of senior section Engineer (S.S.D.)/ Signal / CON/NER Aishbagh, Lucknow.

29. The FIR was lodged and after investigation the charge sheet was filed against revisionist Satyendra Narayan Soni, Silas Minz and applicants- Om Prakash Jaiswal and Ms/ Shankar Cable through its proprietor. It is stated in the charge sheet that in pursuance of the purchase order dated 28.9.2012 issued by the Chief Material Manager, N.E.R. Gorakhpur Ms Shankar Cable Industries has supplied (65 Drums) of 2 Core PVC Insulated Railway Signaling power cable and the supply was made on the basis of inspection certificate issued by RDSO, Lucknow. Subsequently on the basis of further demand 7 Drums out of 65 drums were provided to the SSE Aishbagh vide issue note dated 6.9.2013. On 15.10.2013 a surprise check was conducted by the CBI along with the officers of Railways and RDSO Vigilance and samples of the cables supplied by the applicants as well as by the other firm were collected in the presence of the railway officials as well as RDSO Officers and the samples so collected were forwarded to RDSO, Lucknow Lab for its testing and quality analysis and as per the summary of test results the first sample of 2 Core Cable was found failed in six parameters and sample of six Core 1.5 Sq. m.m., Railway signaling cable was found failed in 4 parameters while first sample of 12 Core x 1.5 sq. m.m. Railway signaling cable was found failed in 8 parameters Thereafter 2nd and 3rd out of above types were tested by signal lab of RDSO, Lucknow and they were also found failed in 6 parameters.

30. During the course of investigation it was also found that the accused Silas Minz and revisionist accused S.N. Soni had not conducted the pre supply testing and has given report without visiting the firm of the applicants. During the course of investigation the statement of technical experts e.g. Shri M.P. Singh, Senior Provisional Signal Tel. Com. Engineer (Works) N.E.R., Lucknow, Sarvada Nand Pandey, Senior Section Engineer (Signal) complainant, NER Lucknow and Dr. Gauthama, Associate Professor IIT, Kanpur, Dr. Pradeep Maji, Assistant Professor IIT, Rurki and Shri Modit Anand, Joint Director Signal Lab RDSO, Lucknow and others were recorded by the Investigating Officer who had specifically stated that the reading recorded by the accused RDSO Officials (accused persons) pertaining to pre inspection of the cables are unlikely to be the result of a genuine laboratory test and difference in parameters found in the sample report prepared by RDSO Lab in respect of failed parameters with regard to 2 Core cable supplied by the applicants, vis a vis pre inspection parameters, could not be the result of environmental effect or due to man handling in transportation.

31. It is also stated in the charge sheet that all the cables supplied by the applicants and other company were kept in similar conditions and therefore Investigating Officer had concluded that the applicants had conspired with accused revisionist Satyendra Narayan Soni, J.E. RDSO, Lucknow , accused Silas Minz., Deputy Director to cheat railways by supplying the sub standard cable , who have also issued certificate of pretesting without actually testing the cable at the premises of Shankar Cable Industries at Gorakhpur and in furtherance of the criminal conspiracy had caused a huge monetary loss to the railways and monetary gain to the accused persons.

32. Perusal of the order of the subordinate court would also reveal that Special Judge was of the view that the allegation as has been levelled in the charge sheet filed by the CBI could only be tested during the course of trial having regard to the quality of evidence which will be produced by the prosecution. The trial court was also of the view that as to whether proper samples have been collected at the time of inspection is the subject matter of evidence. It is also opined by the Special Judge that during the course of investigation the opinion of the experts has also been recorded wherein it is revealed that the quality of cables supplied by applicants, as is evident by the parameters recorded in the lab, could not be deteriorated due to improper storage of the cables or due to man handling during transportation. The Special Judge also opined that the fact as to whether the inspection certificates were issued by the co-accused persons revisionist Shri S.N. Soni and Silas Minz after testing the cable or as claimed by the prosecution without visiting the site of the applicants could only be determined after full fledged trial and also that at the stage of framing of charge only a prima facie case is to be seen and the charge could also be framed even on the basis of strong suspicion founded upon the material presented before the court and thus discharge application moved on behalf of the applicants was dismissed.

33. Keeping in view the submissions of learned Counsel for the applicants and revisionist that the Court below has materially erred in rejecting their applications of discharge which has also occasioned failure of justice, the facts of the instant case are required to be seen in the background of various submissions made by learned Counsel for the applicants/ revisionist in the backdrop of settled law on this point. It is fruitful at this stage to recall the settled law on the subject.

"...the evidence which the Prosecutor proposes to adduce are not to be meticulously judged. Nor is any weight to be attached to the probable defence of the accused. It is not obligatory for the Judge at that stage of the trial to consider in any detail and weigh in a sensitive balance whether the facts, if proved, would be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or not. The standard of test and Judgment which is to be finally applied before recording a finding regarding the guilt or otherwise of the accused is not exactly to be applied at the stage of deciding the matter under Section 227 or Section 228 of the Code. At that stage the Court is not to see whether there is sufficient ground for conviction of the accused or whether the trial is sure to end in his conviction.

Strong suspicion against the accused, if the matter remains in the region of suspicion, cannot take the place of proof of his guilt at the conclusion of the trial. But at the initial stage if there is a strong suspicion which leads the Court to think that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence then it is not open to the Court to say that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The presumption of the guilt of the accused which is to be drawn at the initial stage is not in the sense of the law governing the trial of criminal cases in France where the accused is presumed to be guilty unless the contrary is proved. But it is only for the purpose of deciding prima facie whether the Court should proceed with the trial or not.

If the evidence which the Prosecutor proposes to adduce to prove the guilt of the accused even if fully accepted before it is challenged in cross-examination or rebutted by the defence evidence, if any, cannot show that the accused committed the offence, then there will be no sufficient ground for proceeding with the trial.

An exhaustive list of the circumstances to indicate as to what will lead to one conclusion or the other is neither possible nor advisable. We may just illustrate the difference of the law by one more example. If the scales of pan as to the guilt or innocence of the accused are something like even at the conclusion of the trial, then, on the theory of benefit of doubt the case is to end in his acquittal. But if. on the other hand, it is so at the initial stage of making an order under Section 227 or Section 228, then in such a situation ordinarily and generally the order which will have to be made will be one under Section 228 and not under Section 227."

35. Hon?ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Supt. And Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, West Bengal Vs. Anil Kumar Bhunja and others (1979) 4 SCC 274 has held as under:-

"18. It may be remembered that the case was at the stage of framing charges; the prosecution evidence had not yet commenced. The Magistrate had therefore, to consider the above question on a general consideration of the materials placed! before him by the investigating police officer. At this stage, as was pointed out by this Court in State of Bihar v. Ramesh Singh MANU/SC/0139/1977 : 1977Cri LJ 1606*, the truth, veracity and effect of the evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce are not to be meticulously judged. The standard of test, proof and judgment which is to be applied finally before finding the accused guilty or otherwise, is not exactly to be applied at the stage of Section 227 or 228 of the CrPC, 1973. At this stage, even a very strong suspicion founded upon materials before the Magistrate, which leads him to form a presumptive opinion as the existence of the factual ingredients constituting the offence alleged; may justify the framing of charge against the accused in respect of the commission of the offence.?*

36. Hon?ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India (UOI) vs. Prafulla Kumar Samal and Ors. (06.11.1978 - SC) : MANU/SC/0414/1978 held as under:-

"10. Thus, on a consideration of the authorities mentioned above, the following principles emerge :

(1) That the Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 of the Code has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out:

(2) Where the materials placed before the Court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained the Court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(3) The test to determine a prima facie case would naturally depend upon the facts of each case and it is difficult to lay down a rule of universal application. By and largo however if two views are equally possible and the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before him while giving rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion against the accused, he will be fully within his right to discharge the accused.

(4) That in exercising his jurisdiction under Section 227 of the Code the Judge which under the present Code is a senior and experienced Judge cannot act merely as a Post Office or a mouth-piece of the prosecution, but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the Court, any basic infirmities appearing in the case and so on. This however does not mean that the Judge should make a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial."

37. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of R.S. Nayak v. A.R. Antulay MANU/SC/0198/1986(para 44) : (1986) 2 SCC 716. opined as follows:

?44...The Code contemplates discharge of the accused by the Court of Sessions under Section 227 in a case triable by it; cases instituted upon a police report are covered by Section 239 and cases instituted otherwise than on police report are dealt with in Section 245. The three sections contain some what different provisions in regard to discharge of the accused. Under Section 227, the trial Judge is required to discharge the accused if he 'considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.' Obligation to discharge the accused under Section 239 arises when "the Magistrate considers the charge against the accused to be groundless." The power to discharge is exercisable under Section 245(1) when "the Magistrate considers, for reasons to be recorded, that no case against the accused has been made out which, if unrebutted, would warrant his conviction." It is a fact that Sections 227 and 239 provide for discharge being ordered before the recording of evidence and the consideration as to whether charge has to be framed or not is required to be made on the basis of the record of the case, including documents and oral hearing of the accused and the prosecution or the police report, the documents sent along with it and examination of the accused and after affording an opportunity to the two parties to be heard. The stage for discharge under Section 245, on the other hand, is reached only after the evidence referred to in Section 244 has been taken.

Notwithstanding this difference in the position there is no scope for doubt that the stage at which the magistrate is required to consider the question of framing of charge under Section 245(1) is a preliminary one and the test of "prima facie" case has to be applied. In spite of the difference in the language of the three sections, the legal position is that if the Trial Court is satisfied that a prima facie case is made out, charge has to be framed."

38. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State- Anti Corruption Bureau, Hyderabad and another Vs. P. Suryaprakasam reported in 1999 Supreme Court Cases (Cri) 373 has held as under:

"5. .....we are constrained to say that the settled law is just the reverse of what the High Court has observed in the above- quoted passage as would be evident from even a cursory reading of Sections 239 and 240Cr.P.C.,which admittedly govern the case of therespondent.According to the above sections, at the time of framing of a charge what the trial court is required to, and can, consider are only the police report referred to under Section 173 Cr.P.C. and the documents sent with it. The only right the accused has at that stage is of being heard and nothing beyond that.....”

39. Hon?ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Orissa Vs. Debendra Nath Padhi (2005) 1 SCC 568 has held as under:

“6. At the stage of framing charge, the trial court is required to consider whether there are sufficient grounds to proceed against the accused. Section 227 of the Code provides for the eventuality when the accused shall be discharged. If not discharged, the charge against the accused is required to be framed under Section 228. ..

7. Similarly, in respect of warrant cases triable by Magistrates, instituted on a police report, Sections 239 and 240 of the Code are the relevant statutory provisions. Section 239 requires the Magistrate, to consider 'the police report and the documents sent with it under Section 173' and, if necessary, examine the accused and after giving accused an opportunity of being heard, if the Magistrate considers the charge against the accused to be groundless, the accused is liable to be discharged by recording reasons thereof.

8. What is to the meaning of the expression 'the record of the case' as used in Section 227 of the Code. Though the word 'case' is not defined in the Code but Section 209 throws light on the interpretation to be placed on the said word. Section 209 which deals with the commitment of case to Court of Session when offence is triable exclusively by it, inter alia, provides that when it appears to the Magistrate that the offence is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall commit 'the case' to the Court of Session and send to that court 'the record of the case' and the document and articles, if any, which are to be produced in evidence and notify the Public Prosecutor of the commitment of the case to the Court of Session. It is evident that the record of the case and documents submitted therewith as postulated in Section 227 relate to the case and the documents referred in Section 209. That is the plain meaning of Section 227 read with Section 209 of the Code, No provision in the Code grants to the accused any right to file any material or document at the stage of framing of charge. That right is granted only at the stage of the trial.

9. Further, the scheme of the Code when examined in the light of the provisions of the old code of 1898, makes the position more clear. In the old code, there was no provision similar to Section 227. Section 227 was incorporated in the Code with a view to save the accused from prolonged harassment which is a necessary concomitant of a protracted criminal trial. It is calculated to eliminate harassment to accused persons when the evidential materials gathered after investigation fall short of minimum legal requirements. If the evidence even if fully accepted cannot show that the accused committed the offence, the accused deserves to be discharged. In the old Code, the procedure as contained in Sections 207 and 207(a) was fairly lengthy. Section 207, inter alia, provided that the Magistrate, where the case is exclusively triable by a Court of Session in any proceedings instituted on a police report, shall follow the procedure specified in Section 207(a). Under Section 207(a) in any proceeding instituted on a police report the Magistrate was required to hold inquiry in terms provided under Sub-section (1), to take evidence as provided in Sub-section (4), the accused could cross-examine and the prosecution could re- examine the witnesses as provided in Sub-section (5), discharge the accused if in the opinion of the Magistrate the evidence and documents disclosed no grounds for committing him for trial, as provided in Sub-section (6) and to commit the accused for trial after framing of charge as provided in Sub-section (7), summon the witnesses of the accused to appear before the court to which he has been committed as provided in Sub-section (11) and send the record of the inquiry and any weapon or other thing which is to be produced in evidence, to the21 Court of Session as provided in Sub-section (14). The aforesaid Sections 207 and 207(a) have been omitted from the Code and a new Section 209 enacted on the recommendation of the Law Commission contained in its 41st Report. It was realised that the commitment inquiry under the old Code was resulting in inordinate delay and served no useful purpose. That inquiry has, therefore, been dispensed with in the Code with the object of expeditious disposal of cases. Instead of committal Magistrate framing the charge, it is now to be framed by Court of Session under Section 228 in case the accused is not discharged under Section 227. This change brought out in the code is also required to be kept in view while determining the question. Under the Code, the evidence can be taken only after framing of charge."

40. Thereafter Honble Apex Court by referring to the ratio laid down in State of Bihar v. Ramesh Singh MANU/SC/0139/1977:1977CriLJ1606, State of Delhi v. Gyan Devi and Ors.MANU/SC/0649/2000 , State of Madhya Pradesh v. S.B. Johari and Ors. MANU/SC/0025/2000 Maharashtra v. Priya :Sharan Maharaj MANU/SC/1146/1997: 1997CriLJ2248 Corruption Bureau, Hyderabad 2000CriLJ944 and State of and Ors. State Anti- and Anr. v. P. Suryaprakasam 1999 SCC (Crl.) 373 wherein the Supreme Court reiterated that at the stage of framing of charge the trial court is not to examine and assess in detail the materials placed on record by the prosecution nor is it for the court to consider the sufficiency of the materials to establish the offence alleged against the accused persons and also held that the charge can be quashed if the evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce to prove the guilt of the accused, even if fully accepted, can not show that the accused committed the particular offence. In that case, there would be no sufficient ground for proceeding with the trial and at the stage of framing of charge there can only be limited evaluation of materials and documents on record and sifting of evidence to prima facie find out whether sufficient ground exists or not for the purpose of proceeding further with the trial, have so held with reference to materials and documents produced by the prosecution and not the accused. The above mentioned decisions proceed on the basis of settled legal position that the material as produced by the prosecution alone is to be considered and not the one produced by the accused. The latter aspect relating to the accused though has not been specifically stated, yet it is implicit in the decisions. It seems to have not been specifically so stated as it was taken to be well settled proposition. This aspect, however, has been adverted to in where considering the scope of Sections 239 and 240 of the Code it was held that at the time of framing of charge, what the trial court is required to, and can consider are only the police report referred to under Section 173 of the Code and the documents sent with it. The only right the accused has at that stage is of being heard and nothing beyond that. The Supreme Court further held that judgment of the High Court quashing the proceedings by looking into the documents filed by the accused in support of his claim that no case was made out against him even before the trial had commenced was reversed by the Supreme Court.

41. It was thus concluded that at Sections 227 and 228 stage the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. The court may, for this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

42. Hon?ble Supreme Court in the case of Sajjan Kumar Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2010) 9 SCC 368 has held as under:

"Exercise of jurisdiction under Sections 227 & 228 of Cr.P.C.

On consideration of the authorities about the scope of Section 227 and 228 of the Code, the following principles emerge:

(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 of the Cr.P.C. has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

(ii) Where the materials placed before the Court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the Court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(iii) The Court cannot act merely as a Post Office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the Court, any basic infirmities etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

(iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the Court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

(v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the Court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

(vi) At the stage of Sections 227 and 228, the Court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value discloses the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

(vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal."

43. In the case of Asim Sharif Vs. National Investigation Agency, MANU/SC/0863/2019 : (2019) 7 SCC 149, the Supreme Court has again reiterated the principle that while considering the application for discharge, the court has power to sift and weigh the evidence only for limited purpose to find out whether or not prima facie case exists against the accused. If the material placed before this Court raises strong suspicion against the accused, the Court is wholly justified in framing of the charge.

44. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Tarun Jit Tejpal Vs. State of Goa and other: MANU/SC/1121/2019 held as under;-

"9.2. In the subsequent decision in the case of (State by the Inspector of Police, Chennai v. S. Selvi and Ors. MANU/SC/1663/2017) this Court has summarised the principles while framing of the charge at the stage of Section 227/228 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. This Court has observed and held in paragraph 6 and 7 as under:

6. It is well settled by this Court in a catena of judgments including Union of India v. Prafulla Kumar Samal [Union of India v. Prafulla Kumar Samal, MANU/SC/0414/1978 : (1979) 3 SCC 4 : 1979 SCC (Cri.) 609], Dilawar Balu Kurane v. State of Maharashtra [Dilawar Balu Kurane v. State of Maharashtra, MANU/SC/0005/2002 : (2002) 2 SCC 135: 2002 SCC (Cri.) 310], Sajjan Kumar v. CBI [Sajjan Kumar v. CBI, MANU/SC/0741/2010 : (2010) 9 SCC 368: (2010) 3 SCC (Cri.) 1371], State v. A. Arun Kumar [State v. A. Arun Kumar, MANU/SC/1174/2014 : (2015) 2 SCC 417: (2015) 2 SCC (Cri.) 96: (2015) 1 SCC (L&S) 505], Sonu Gupta v. Deepak Gupta [Sonu Gupta v. Deepak Gupta, MANU/SC/0127/2015 : (2015) 3 SCC 424: (2015) 2 SCC (Cri.) 265], State of Orissa v. Debendra Nath Padhi [State of Orissa v. Debendra Nath Padhi, MANU/SC/0077/2003 : (2003) 2 SCC 711: 2003 SCC (Cri.) 688], Niranjan Singh Karam Singh Punjabi v. Jitendra Bhimraj Bijjaya [Niranjan Singh Karam Singh Punjabi v. Jitendra Bhimraj Bijjaya, MANU/SC/0337/1990 : (1990) 4 SCC 76: 1991 SCC (Cri.) 47] and Supt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Anil Kumar Bhunja [Supt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Anil Kumar Bhunja, MANU/SC/0266/1979 : (1979) 4 SCC 274: 1979 SCC (Cri.) 1038] that the Judge while considering the question of framing charge Under Section 227 of the Code in sessions cases (which is akin to Section 239 Code of Criminal Procedure pertaining to warrant cases) has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the Accused has been made out; where the material placed before the court discloses grave suspicion against the Accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing the charge; by and large if two views are equally possible and the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before him while giving rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion against the Accused, he will be fully within his rights to discharge the Accused. The Judge cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution, but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the statements and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities appearing in the case and so on. This however does not mean that the Judge should make a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the materials as if he was conducting a trial."

45. In State of Rajasthan vs. Ashok Kumar Kashyap, MANU/SC/0275/2021 Hon?ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"9.1. In the case of P. Vijayan (supra), this Court had an occasion to consider Section 227 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. What is required to be considered at the time of framing of the charge and/or considering the discharge application has been considered elaborately in the said decision. It is observed and held that at the stage of Section 227, the Judge has merely to sift the evidence in order to find out whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the Accused. It is observed that in other words, the sufficiency of grounds would take within its fold the nature of the evidence recorded by the police or the documents produced before the Court which ex facie disclose that there are suspicious circumstances against the Accused so as to frame a charge against him. It is further observed that if the Judge comes to a conclusion that there is sufficient ground to proceed, he will frame a charge Under Section 228 Code of Criminal Procedure, if not, he will discharge the Accused. It is further observed that while exercising its judicial mind to the facts of the case in order to determine whether a case for trial has been made out by the prosecution, it is not necessary for the court to enter into the pros and cons of the matter or into a weighing and balancing of evidence and probabilities which is really the function of the court, after the trial starts.

9.2. In the recent decision of this Court in the case of M.R. Hiremath (supra), one of us (Justice D.Y. Chandrachud) speaking for the Bench has observed and held in paragraph 25 as under:

25. The High Court ought to have been cognizant of the fact that the trial court was dealing with an application for discharge under the provisions of Section 239 Code of Criminal Procedure. The parameters which govern the exercise of this jurisdiction have found expression in several decisions of this Court. It is a settled principle of law that at the stage of considering an application for discharge the court must proceed on the assumption that the material which has been brought on the record by the prosecution is true and evaluate the material in order to determine whether the facts emerging from the material, taken on its face value, disclose the existence of the ingredients necessary to constitute the offence. In State of T.N. v.

N. Suresh Rajan [State of T.N. v. N. Suresh Rajan, MANU/SC/0011/2014 : (2014) 11 SCC 709*, adverting to the earlier decisions on the subject, this Court held: (SCC pp. 721-22, para 29)*

29. ... At this stage, probative value of the materials has to be gone into and the court is not expected to go deep into the matter and hold that the materials would not warrant a conviction. In our opinion, what needs to be considered is whether there is a ground for presuming that the offence has been committed and not whether a ground for convicting the Accused has been made out. To put it differently, if the court thinks that the Accused might have committed the offence on the basis of the materials on record on its probative value, it can frame the charge; though for conviction, the court has to come to the conclusion that the Accused has committed the offence. The law does not permit a mini trial at this stage."

46. Having heard learned counsel for the applicants as well as the revisionist, it is evident that the applicants as well as the revisionist is aggrieved by the order of the Special Judge whereby their application for discharge has been rejected on the score that Special Jduge has not taken care of this fact that cable which was supplied to the railways was first tested by the officials of the RDSO, at the premises of the company and thereafter supply was made and the testing of the samples by the CBI has been done in the lab of RDSO Lucknow and the difference of values found in the testing report is within permissible limits and it is normal that the test results of two different labs on different equipments may differ with each other even if performed by the same persons. The parties are also aggrieved that Special Judge has not considered that simply by not buying any ticket or not sending any tour program or by not claiming TA it could not be inferred or presumed that the revisionist S.N.Soni and co-accused Silas Minz has not inspected the cable at the site of the supplier company and thus the trial court has materially erred in not considering this aspect of the matter.The applicants and revisionist are also aggrieved that the Special Judge has also not considered that difference of values/ parameters in the pre- supply report and the testing report of the RDSO Lab wherein the samples allegedly collected by the CBI were tested is very negligible and thus in any case the criminal liability is not attracted as the difference in parameters may be the result of wear and tear occurred due to inappropriate storage or due to the placing of cables under open sky or also due to poor transportation.

47. It is also hammered that the experts whose statements were recorded by the Investigating Officer are not having any expertize in the field and therefore their evidence was not sufficient to frame charge against the revisionist and the applicants. The applicants and revisionist are also aggrieved that the railways has never made any complaint about the alleged poor quality of cable and the whole supply of cable has been consumed by them and it could not be believed that the cable was of poor quality and also that the biasness of the investigating agency towards the applicants company is apparent as despite the samples of other company S.P.M. were also found failed in vital parameters but that company was neither charge sheeted nor the testing results of the cables supplied by that company were made part of the charge sheet.

48. It is not in dispute that ordinarily for the purpose of framing charge the material submitted by the investigating agency is to be taken into consideration and it is not a stage where defense of the accused persons will be taken into consideration or minute scrutiny of the material/evidence is done as is required for assessing the guilt of the accused persons. The charge sheet contains the fact that on the joint surprise check conducted by a team of CBI officials, railways vigilance and RDSO officials on 15.10.2013 at Ghaghra Ghat and Choaka Ghat Section of N.E.R. Division, Lucknow and at the Store Senior Section Engineer Signal, Aishbagh, Lucknow three samples each of 6 Core 1.5 Sq. m.m., PVC Insulated Railway Signaling Cable, 12 Core x 1.5 Sq. m.m. PVC, Insulated Railway Signaling Cable and 2 Core x 25 Sq. m.m. PVC Insulated Railway Signaling power cable were collected from the above sites and were sent by the CBI for quality analysis at the signal lab of RDSO, Lucknow. As per the sample test report given by the signal lab RDSO, Lucknow these cables were found failed in certain vital parameters and did not meet standards specifications.

49. It is also found during the investigation that 65 drums of 2 Core x 25 Sq. m.m. of PVC Insulated Power Cable was supplied by Ms. Shankar Cable Industries (applicants) of 482 Cr.P.C. This supply was made on the basis of inspection certificate issued by the RDSO, Lucknow vide demand note dated 5.9.2013. 7 Drums out of these 65 Drums were sent from SSE Aishbagh, Lucknow to SSE Gorakhpur. As per the results of the RDSO lab the 2 Core x 25 Sq. m.m. Railway Signaling Power Cable was found failed in 6 parameters. Perusal of the summary of test results which has been made part of the charge sheet would reflect that 2nd & 3rd samples of 2 Core x 25 Sq. m.m. Power Cable supplied by the applicants were also found failed in 6 parameters.

50. It is also a case of prosecution that as per the established procedure the supplier company used to send a call letter to RDSO for inspection and approval of the manufactured material. The test is done by the RDSO Inspector as per a sampling plan and thereafter a test check is required to be done by an officer of RDSO on the cable and inspection certificate is issued by the RDSO. It is also evident that acceptance test was done with regard to the 2 Core x 25 Sq. m.m. Cable at the site of the applicants by Shri S.N. Soni (revisionist) who was the J.E. of RDSO at that point of time on 11.1.2013 to 12.1.2013 and the test check was conducted by Silas Minz, Deputy Director on 13.10.2013.

51. During the investigation it was also found that Shri Silas Minz did not get his tour program approved and did not claim TA for his visit to Gorakhpur for conducting these tests and also did not book any ticket on his metal pass to visit M/s Shankar Cable Industries for the purpose of checking the cable and there is no proof that they actually visited Gorakhpur, where M/s. Shankar Cable Industries is situated, while with regard to Shri S.N. Soni (revisionist) it was found that though he got his tour program approved but travelled without booking a ticket, thus according to the Investigating Officer of Central Bureau of Investigation this suggests that both these officials have not visited the site of M/s. Shankar Cable Industries and prepared the report without pre-inspecting the cables meant to be supplied to the Railways. Certain experts of the subject, namely, Shri M.P. Singh, Senior Divisional Signal and Telecom Engineer (Works), NER, Lucknow, Sarvadanand Pandey, Senior Section Engineer (Signal), NER, Lucknow, Dr. Gouthama, Associate Professor, IIT,Kanpur, Dr. Pradeep Maji, Assistant Professor, IIT, Roorkee and Sh. Mudit Anand, Joint Director, Signal Lab, RDSO etc. have been examined on the aspect of degradation in the quality of cable due to storage conditions and their statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. have stated to be recorded by the Investigating Officer. Experts viz. S/Sh. M.P. Singh, Sarvadanand Pandey, Dr. Gouthama and Dr. Pradeep Maji, have confirmed that there is a significant difference between the standard specifications as compared to the readings obtained during sample test as well as between the acceptance test readings given by accused RDSO officials compared with sample test readings in respect of failed parameters of 2 core x 25 Sq. mm Cable supplied by the applicants and this cannot happen due to environmental effect or improper transportation or man handling. The experts from IIT have also confirmed that the readings recorded by the accused RDSO official during Acceptance Test/ Pre-supply inspection are unlikely to be the result of a genuine laboratory test as the readings of acceptance report are unbelievably close to the standard specifications.

52. Thus the quantum of values between the Pre-supply test result and the test conducted by the CBI at RDSO Lab., Lucknow were found differred in vital parameters pertaining to 2 core power cable supplied by the applicants M/s Shankar Cable Industries, Gorakhpur. The truthfulness of the statements of these experts and other evidence collected during investigation could only be tested during the trial when they will be produced as witnesses. The procedure of collection of samples and testing of cables at RDSO, Lucknow or at the site of M/s Shankar Cable Industries at Gorakhpur could also be questioned and established during the trial and also that sub standard values are not the result of poor storage conditions and are due to wear and tear from weather could also be established when the prosecution will produce its witnesses before the trial court. The accused persons could also question the prosecution witnesses about the authenticity of the values of lab report of the RDSO, Lucknow. The burden to prove all the facts necessary to establish the guilt of the accused persons is definitely on the prosecution during trial. The fact that the test check report prepared by the accused RDSO officials was genuine and was given after inspecting the cable, could also be established during the course of trial by the revisionist and whether the defects of the cables(if any) were known to M/s Shankar Cable Industries from before the supply and also that whether there was a conspiracy between the accused persons to cheat the Railways are all facts which could only be established during the course of trial and the accused persons could impeach the prosecution witnesses in order to show that the case of the prosecution is not achieving the required standard i.e. proof beyond reasonable doubt, but at this stage i.e. the stage of framing of charges, it could not be said that there is no sufficient material on the basis of which charges against accused could be framed. All the submissions made by learned Senior Counsel, Shri Jyotindra Mishra, appearing for the applicants in petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 8150 of 2019 and Shri Purnendu Chakravarty in the Criminal Revision No. 1593 of 2019 are pertaining to the factual aspect of the case and the veracity of claims and counter claims by the applicants/ revisionist and the Central Bureau of Investigation could only be tested during the trial but at this stage it is not a case where the proceedings should have been culminated by discharging the accused persons. I have gone through the whole record and have perused the material within the permissible limits as required for the purpose of framing of charge, including the material/ documents, which have been relied on by learned counsels for the parties but I am not inclined to accept the submission that there are no sufficient grounds in this case to proceed further. Culmination of trial at the stage of framing of charge, requires very strong and cogent grounds and inherent weaknesses in the version of prosecution apparent on the face to demonstrate that trial will either result in failure of justice or will be a futile exercise or will operate as engines of oppression or no ingredients of alleged penal offences are existing. Law leans in favour of trial unless there are strong, compelling and substantial grounds to culminate the same. Needless to say that the falsehood or the truthfulness of the allegations can only be tested in the trial. The trial of a criminal case is nothing but a journey to unearth the truth and this course can only be disrupted when some strong, compelling grounds and material is available, which uproots the prosecution from its roots and nothing is left for the prosecution. Unfortunately that is not a case here. Further discussion of the facts of the case may effect the fate of trial and suffice is to say that material available before the Special Judge was sufficient enough, on the basis of which charges under appropriate sections could be framed against accused persons. The case laws relied on by applicants and revisionist are also not helpful to them for the reasons mentioned herein before.

53. Thus in the considered opinion of this Court keeping in view all the facts, circumstances and evidence, as well as the law placed above, no illegality appears to have been committed by the Special Judge by rejecting the prayer of the applicants/ revisionist of their discharge and resultantly the revision as well as application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. moved by the applicants Om Prakash Jaiswal and M/s Shankar Cables Industries through its Proprietor and revisionist Shri S. N. Soni is liable to be dismissed and dismissed accordingly.

54. Trial court is directed to proceed with the trial and conclude the same strictly in accordance with law, with expedition.

55. The observations made herein above are made only for the purpose of disposal of these cases and the same shall not be construed as opinion of this Court on merits of the case.

56. A copy of this judgment be placed on record of the Criminal Revision No. 1593 of 2019.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rahul Kumar Tyagi, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Pankaj Saxena, learned AGA-I appearing for the State-opposite party.

2. The present application under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure1 has been filed to quash the judgment and order dated 27.02.2018 passed by the First Additional Session Judge, Baghpat in Application 28-B in Sessions Trial No. 41 of 2014 (State vs. Jahangir) arising out of Case Crime No. 417 of 2013, under Section 489-B Indian Penal Code2, P.S. Khakera, District Baghpat.

3. The proceedings of the case were initiated pursuant to an FIR dated 22.11.2013 registered as Case Crime No. 419 of 2013, under Section 489-B of the Penal Code at P.S. Khakera, District Baghpat. The said FIR was lodged by the Branch Manager, State Bank of India, Khakera, Baghpat. Among the two accused named in the FIR the applicant's name was mentioned as accused No.2. The incident as described in the FIR is that on 22.11.2013 at about 3:00 p.m. the accused no.1 submitted certain currency notes at the cash counter of the Bank which upon being checked by the cashier were found to be counterfeit and upon an inquiry from the said accused no.1 he stated in writing that the currency notes had been handed over to him by the accused no.2, applicant herein.

4. Upon investigation, a charge sheet dated 10.01.2014 was submitted against the accused no.1, whereupon cognizance was taken on 16.01.2014. During the course of trial, the first informant (Bank Manger) examined himself as PW-1 and reiterated the FIR version by stating that upon the currency notes having been found to be counterfeit, the accused no.1 was questioned and he stated that the said counterfeit currency notes had been handed over to him by the accused no.2.

5. The cashier of the Bank, who appeared as PW-2, during the course of trial also corroborated the FIR version by stating that upon the currency notes having been found to be counterfeit the matter was inquired from the accused no.1 who clearly stated that the currency notes had been handed over to him by the accused no.2.

6. An application dated 31.08.2017 was moved by the prosecution before the trial court stating that despite the two prosecution witnesses having taken the name of the applicant herein in their examination in chief and also the name of the said accused having specifically been mentioned in the FIR, the police report did not mention his name and accordingly on the basis of evidence available on record it was necessary that the said accused be also tried together with the other accused. The aforesaid application came to be allowed by the Additional Sessions Judge First, Baghpat by order dated 27.02.2018, wherein upon noticing the FIR version and also the statements of the two prosecution witnesses and the necessary legal provisions under Section 319 of the Code the application has been allowed and the applicant herein has been summoned for trial.

7. Learned counsel for the applicant has sought to assail the aforesaid order passed by the trial judge summoning the applicant in exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code by referring to the statements recorded during the course of investigation to contend that since the Investigating Officer did not find sufficient material against the applicant and no charge sheet was submitted against him, there was no further material on the basis of which the trial court could have summoned the applicant in exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code. He placed reliance upon the Constitution Bench judgment of the Supreme Court in Hardeep Singh and others vs. State of Punjab3, to support his submission.

8. Learned A.G.A.-I has controverted the submissions made by the counsel for the applicant by drawing attention to the fact that the applicant herein was named in the FIR and looking to the facts as narrated in the FIR, the applicant would be the prime accused. It is further pointed out that the testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 during the course of trial made it imperative for the court below to invoke the powers under Section 319 of the Code to summon the applicant for trial. It is also contended that the testimony before the trial judge would be required to be given more weight than the statements recorded by the investigating officer during the course of investigation. Learned A.G.A.-I has also sought to place reliance upon the Constitution Bench judgment in the case of Hardeep Singh (supra).

9. In order to appreciate the rival contentions the provisions of Section 319 of the Code are required to be referred to. Section 319 of the Code reads as follows :-

"319.Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence.-

(1) Where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

(2) Where such person is not attending the Court, he may be arrested or summoned, as the circumstances of the case may require, for the purpose aforesaid.

(3) Any person attending the Court, although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of the inquiry into, or trial of, the offence which he appears to have committed.

(4) Where the Court proceeds against any person under sub-section (1), then-

(a) the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh, and witnesses re-heard;

(b) subject to the provisions of clause (a), the case may proceed as if such person had been an accused person when the Court took cognizance of the offence upon which the inquiry or trial was commenced."

10. The ambit and scope of the powers of the Magistrate under Section 319 of the Code were considered in the Constitution Bench judgment of the Supreme Court in Hardeep Singh (supra). Referring to the object of the provision it was held that the object of the provision is that the real culprit should not get away unpunished and in a situation where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. It was stated thus :-

"8.The constitutional mandate under Articles 20 and 21 of the Constitution of India, 1950 provides a protective umbrella for the smooth administration of justice making adequate provisions to ensure a fair and efficacious trial so that the accused does not get prejudiced after the law has been put into motion to try him for the offence but at the same time also gives equal protection to victims and to society at large to ensure that the guilty does not get away from the clutches of law. For the empowerment of the courts to ensure that the criminal administration of justice works properly, the law was appropriately codified and modified by the legislature under CrPC indicating as to how the courts should proceed in order to ultimately find out the truth so that an innocent does not get punished but at the same time, the guilty are brought to book under the law. It is these ideals as enshrined under the Constitution and our laws that have led to several decisions, whereby innovating methods and progressive tools have been forged to find out the real truth and to ensure that the guilty does not go unpunished.

9.The presumption of innocence is the general law of the land as every man is presumed to be innocent unless proven to be guilty. Alternatively, certain statutory presumptions in relation to certain class of offences have been raised against the accused whereby the presumption of guilt prevails till the accused discharges his burden upon an onus being cast upon him under the law to prove himself to be innocent. These competing theories have been kept in mind by the legislature. The entire effort, therefore, is not to allow the real perpetrator of an offence to get away unpunished. This is also a part of fair trial and in our opinion, in order to achieve this very end that the legislature thought of incorporating provisions of Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure. It is with the said object in mind that a constructive and purposive interpretation should be adopted that advances the cause of justice and does not dilute the intention of the statute conferring powers on the court to carry out the abovementioned avowed object and purpose to try the person to the satisfaction of the court as an accomplice in the commission of the offence that is the subject matter of trial.

12. Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure springs out of the doctrine judex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur (Judge is condemned when guilty is acquitted) and this doctrine must be used as a beacon light while explaining the ambit and the spirit underlying the enactment of Section 319 CrPC.

13. It is the duty of the court to do justice by punishing the real culprit. Where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. The question remains under what circumstances and at what stage should the court exercise its power as contemplated in Section 319 CrPC.

17. Section 319 CrPC allows the court to proceed against any person who is not an accused in a case before it. Thus, the person against whom summons are issued in exercise of such powers, has to necessarily not be an accused already facing trial. He can either be a person named in Column 2 of the chargesheet filed under Section 173 Code of Criminal Procedure or a person whose name has been disclosed in any material before the court that is to be considered for the purpose of trying the offence, but not investigated. He has to be a person whose complicity may be indicated and connected with the commission of the offence.

18. The legislature cannot be presumed to have imagined all the circumstances and, therefore, it is the duty of the court to give full effect to the words used by the legislature so as to encompass any situation which the court may have to tackle while proceeding to try an offence and not allow a person who deserves to be tried to go scot free by being not arraigned in the trial in spite of possibility of his complicity which can be gathered from the documents presented by the prosecution.

19. The court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency. The desire to avoid trial is so strong that an accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or inquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence."

11. As regards the degree of satisfaction required for invoking the powers under Section 319 of the Code, it was held that the test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. It was observed as follows :-

"105. Power under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure is a discretionary and an extra-ordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court not necessarily tested on the anvil of Cross-Examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure. In Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure the purpose of providing if "it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence" is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused." The words used are not "for which such person could be convicted". There is, therefore, no scope for the Court acting under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused.

12. The question as to in what situations the power under the section can be exercised in respect of persons not named in the FIR or named in the FIR, but not charge-sheeted or discharged was also considered, and it was held that a person whose name does not appear even in the FIR or in the charge-sheet or whose name appears in the FIR and not in the charge-sheet, can still be summoned by the court provided the conditions under the section stand fulfilled. It was observed as follows :-

"111. Even the Constitution Bench in Dharam Pal (CB) has held that the Sessions Court can also exercise its original jurisdiction and summon a person as an accused in case his name appears in Column 2 of the chargesheet, once the case had been committed to it. It means that a person whose name does not appear even in the FIR or in the chargesheet or whose name appears in the FIR and not in the main part of the chargesheet but in Column 2 and has not been summoned as an accused in exercise of the powers under Section 193 Code of Criminal Procedure can still be summoned by the court, provided the court is satisfied that the conditions provided in the said statutory provisions stand fulfilled.

117.6 A person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been chargesheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure provided from the evidence it appears that such person can be tried along with the accused already facing trial. However, in so far as an accused who has been discharged is concerned the requirement of Sections 300 and 398 Code of Criminal Procedure has to be complied with before he can be summoned afresh. "

13. The word 'evidence' as used under Section 319(1) of the Code was also considered and it was held as follows :-

"84. The word "evidence" therefore has to be understood in its wider sense both at the stage of trial and, as discussed earlier, even at the stage of inquiry, as used under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure.The court, therefore, should be understood to have the power to proceed against any person after summoning him on the basis of any such material as brought forth before it. The duty and obligation of the court becomes more onerous to invoke such powers cautiously on such material after evidence has been led during trial.

85. In view of the discussion made and the conclusion drawn hereinabove, the answer to the aforesaid question posed is that apart from evidence recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319 Code of Criminal Procedure. The "evidence" is thus, limited to the evidence recorded during trial. "

14. The principles with regard to exercise of power by the court to summon an accused under Section 319 of the Code were reiterated in S. Mohammed Ispahani Vs. Yogendra Chandak and others4, and it was held that the power under Section 319 to summon even those persons who are not named in the charge-sheet to appear and face trial, is unquestionable. It was observed thus:-

"28.Insofar as power of the Court Under Section 319 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, to summon even those persons who are not named in the charge sheet to appear and face trial is concerned, the same is unquestionable. Section 319 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is meant to rope in even those persons who were not implicated when the charge sheet was filed but during the trial the Court finds that sufficient evidence has come on record to summon them and face the trial. In Hardeep Singh's case, the Constitution Bench of this Court has settled the law in this behalf with authoritative pronouncement, thereby removing the cobweb which had been created while interpreting this provision earlier. As far as object behind Section 319 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is concerned, the Court had highlighted the same as under:

19.The court is sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the Rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency. The desire to avoid trial is so strong that an Accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or inquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence. '

15. The power to proceed against persons named in FIR with specific allegations against them, but not charge-sheeted, was reiterated in Rajesh and others Vs. State of Haryana,5 and it was held that persons named in the FIR but not implicated in charge-sheet can be summoned to face trial, provided during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused.

16. The exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code for summoning an additional accused again came up for consideration in Saeeda Khatoon Arshi Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another6 and it was held that it is the duty of the court to give full effect to the words used by the legislature so as to encompass any situation which the court may have to tackle while proceeding to try an offence and not allow a person who deserves to be tried to go scot-free by being not arraigned in the trial inspite of the possibility of his complicity which can be gathered from the documents presented by the prosecution.

17. In the case at hand the FIR was registered with regard to an offence under Section 489-B of the Penal Code which relates to using forged or counterfeit currency notes, and the applicant herein was named as an accused. The FIR version shows complicity of the applicant inasmuch as the currency notes, which were presented at the cash counter of the bank, are stated to have been handed over to the accused no. 1 by the applicant herein, named as accused no. 2 in the FIR. The accused no. 1, who is stated to have brought the currency notes to the bank, in fact submitted a statement in writing to the bank cashier stating therein that the currency notes had been handed over to him by the applicant. Upon investigation the police submitted a charge-sheet against accused no. 1 under Section 489-B of the Penal Code. During the course of trial, the Bank Manager and the cashier appeared as witnesses, PW-1 and PW-2 respectively, and in their testimony corroborated the FIR version by stating that upon the currency notes having been found to be counterfeit, when the accused no. 1 was questioned, he stated that the said currency notes had been handed over to him by the accused no. 2.

18. The charge in respect of which trial is proceeding is an offence under Section 489-B of the Penal Code, which relates to using forged or counterfeit currency notes and in view thereof the source of the currency notes or the person from whom the said notes had been received would be relevant. The FIR version as well as the testimony of two witnesses having indicated that the accused no. 1 i.e. the person who had presented the currency notes at the cash counter of the bank had specifically stated that currency notes had been handed over to him by the accused no. 2, the complicity of the said accused could not be ruled out. The evidence before the trial judge being indicative of the complicity of the applicant, though not arraigned as an accused in the charge-sheet, it was open to the trial court to form a view that the applicant be tried together with the accused, and for the said purpose summon the applicant in exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code.

19. The broad principles which have been laid down for exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code underline the object of the enactment that the real perpetrator of the offence should not get away unpunished and in a situation where the investigating agency for any reason does not array the real culprit as an accused the court would not be powerless in calling the accused to face trial; rather it would be duty of the court to do justice by punishing the real culprit.

20. The test which has been laid down with regard to the degree of satisfaction required for invoking the powers under Section 319 is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction.

21. The power to proceed under Section 319 has also been held to be exerciseable in respect of persons though named in the FIR but not charge-sheeted provided the court is satisfied that the conditions provided under the section stand fulfilled.

22. The only ground which has been canvassed on behalf of the applicant to raise a challenge to the order of summoning under Section 319 of the Code, is that the statements recorded by the investigating officer during the course of investigation did not indicate any material against the applicant and that no charge-sheet was submitted against the applicant.

23. Section 319 (1) of the Code envisages that where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

24. The word evidence used under Section 319 (1) of the Code has been held to be understood to refer to the evidence recorded during trial, and also any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, to be utilized for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court.

25. The evidence recorded by the court during trial is thus to be accorded primacy and for the purpose of exercise of power under Section 319 of the Code would have to be given weight over the material which was collected during the course of investigation. The contention which has been sought to be raised placing reliance upon the material collected by the investigating officer during the course of investigation, for the purpose of exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code, thus cannot be accepted.

26. The power under Section 319 of the Code to summon even those persons who are not named in the charge-sheet to appear and face trial, being unquestionable and the object of the provision being not to allow a person who deserves to be tried to go scot-free by being not arraigned in the trial inspite of possibility of his complicity which can be gathered from the evidence during the course of trial, the order passed under Section 319 of the Code summoning the applicant does not contain any material error so as to warrant inference.

27. Counsel for the applicant at this stage submits that he does not dispute the aforementioned legal position with regard to the exercise of powers under Section 319 of the Code and states that the applicant would submit to the jurisdiction of the court below and seek bail.

28. It goes without saying that in case any such application is moved, the court below would be expected to dispose it of in accordance with the settled principles of law.

29. Subject to the aforesaid observation, the application stands dismissed.

डा0 कफील के विरूद्ध अभियोग पंजीकृत करने की कृपा करें।"

4— उक्त प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट की विवेचना विवेचक द्वारा की गयी तथा प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में लिखाए गए आरोप सही पाते हुए विवेचक द्वारा डा0 कफील के विरूद्ध मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट, अलीगढ़ के न्यायालय में आरोप पत्र सं0 055 सन 2020, दिनांकित 16—3—2020 प्रेषित किया गया, जिस पर न्यायालय द्वारा संज्ञान का आदेश पारित करते हुए दर्ज रजिस्टर करने एवं तलब करने संबंधित आदेश दि0 28—7—2020 पारित किया गया, जिससे क्षुब्ध होकर आवेदक की ओर से धारा 482 दं0प्र0सं0 के अन्तर्गत यह आवेदन पत्र प्रस्तुत किया गया है।

5— आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्तागण का कथन है कि आवेदक बी0 आर0 डी0 मेडिकल कालेज, गोरखपुर में लेक्चरर के पद पर कार्यरत है। दि0 10/11 अगस्त, 2017 को बी0 आर0 डी0 मेडिकल कालेज, गोरखपुर में अचानक लिक्विड आक्सीजन की सप्लाई बाधित हुयी, जिसके कारण बहुत से बच्चों की मृत्यु हो गयी, उस दिन आवेदक अवकाश पर था, किन्तु एक डाक्टर होने के नाते उसने आक्सीजन सिलेन्डर की व्यवस्था अपने खर्चे पर प्राइवेट किया तथा 3—4 सौ बच्चों की जान उसने बचाई, तथा वह प्राइवेट सप्लायर्स एवं प्राइवेट हास्पिटल के संपर्क में रहा। इसके बावजूद भी उसे दि0 22—8—2017 को निलंबित कर दिया गया तथा चिकित्सा शिक्षा एवं प्रशिक्षण, उ0 प्र0, लखनउ द्वारा थाना कोतवाली हजरतगंज, जिला लखनउ मे उसके एवं अन्य अधिकारियों के विरूद्ध दि0 23—8—2017 को प्राथमिकी दर्ज करा दी गयी। आवेदक के विरूद्ध आक्सीजन की कमी के संबंध में कोई विश्वसनीय साक्ष्य नहीं था। इसके बाद आवेदक को दि0 2—9—2017 को गिरफ्तार कर लिया गया, आवेदक को दि0 12—9—2017 को आरोप पत्र मिला, आवेदक कई माह कारागार में निरूद्ध रहा तथा जमानत पर मुक्त होने के बाद आवेदक विभागीय जॉच करने वाले संबंधित अधिकारी के पास लगाए गए आरोपों की जानकारी करने गया, इसके बाद आवेदक ने निलंबन आदेश के खिलाफ उच्च न्यायालय आया तथा माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय भी गया एवं इस मध्य कोविड—19 का दौर भी आ गया, जिसके बाद उसने तथाकथित मु0अ0सं0—700 सन् 2019, अन्तर्गत धारा 153—ए, 153—बी, 505 ;2द्ध, 109 भा0दं0वि0, थाना सिविल लाइन्स, जिला अलीगढ़ में प्रेषित आरोप पत्र सं0 055 सन 2020, दिनांकित 16—3—2020 से उद्भूत वाद सं0 3250 सन 2020, स्टेट वर्सेस डा0 कफील, जो मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट, अलीगढ़ के न्यायालय में लम्बित है तथा इसमें पारित प्रसंज्ञान आदेश दि0 28—7—2020 के विरूद्ध धारा 482 दं0प्र0सं0 के अन्तर्गत यह आवेदन पत्र प्रस्तुत किया।

7— आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने अपने तर्क के समर्थन में मान्नीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा Manoj Rai Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh 1999 (1) SCृ 728 में प्रतिपादित विधि व्यवस्था के प्रस्तर 2 की ओर न्यायालय का ध्यान आकृष्ट किया, जो निम्नवत् है :—

"2. Since the learned counsel for the State fairly states, on instructions, that no sanction was given in accordance with Section 196(1) of the Criminal Procedure Code to prosecute the appellants for the offence under Section 295-A of the Indian Penal Code, we allow this appeal and quash the impugned proceedings. Let the written instructions received by the learned counsel for the respondent-State in this regard be kept on record as desired by him."

8– इस सम्बन्ध में आवेदक के विद्वान अधिवक्तागण ने उच्च न्यायालय, इलाहाबाद की द्वय–न्यायपीठ द्वारा Mohd. Waris @ Raza Vs. State, Jail Appeal No. 8326 of 2007 decided on 5.8.2019 के प्रस्तर 33, 34, 35, 36 एवं 37 की ओर न्यायालय का ध्यान आकृष्ट किया, जो कि निम्नवत् है :–

"33. A perusal of Section 196 Cr.P.C., clearly shows that it contemplates a prior sanction from Central Government or State Government before cognizance is taken of any offence punishable under Chapter-VI I.P.C. Therefore, apparently, it cannot be disputed and learned AGA has also fairly stated that as per requirement of Section 196 Cr.P.C., no cognizance could have been taken of offence punishable under Chapter-VI I.P.C. unless prior sanction from Central Government or State Government is obtained.

34. In the present case, opportunity was granted to State to show whether such sanction was given of categorical statement has been made by learned AGA before this Court that no such sanction was granted or even sought to be obtained, hence, question of grant by competent authority does not arise. Prosecution, in fact, strangely proceeded in complete and absolute ignorance of Section 196 Cr.P.C. It is really surprising that prosecution was not aware that for offences punishable under Chapter-VI I.P.C., there was/is a statutory requirement of obtaining prior sanction of Competent Authority. No efforts at all were made to obtain the same.

35. Proceeding further now we have to examine, "whether requirement of "prior sanction' under Section 196 Cr.P.C. is mandatory" and secondly, if no such issue was raised before Magistrate, who committed proceedings to Court of Sessions/Trial Court, whether it will stop appellants from raising issue for the first time in appeal, or flaw is so inherent it goes to the root of the matter and even in appeal, it can be taken for the first time and may vitiates Trial and conviction.

36. The object of Section 196 Cr.P.C. is to ensure prosecution after due consideration by appropriate authority so that frivolous or needless prosecution is avoided. To appreciate the nature of "sanction" contemplated under Section 196 Cr.P.C., in correct perspective, it would be appropriate to bear in mind and examine Section 465 Cr.P.C., which reads as under :-

465. Finding or sentence when reversible by reason of error, omission irregularity.

(1) Subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, no finding, sentence or order passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction shall be reversed or altered by a Court of appeal, confirmation or revision on account of any error, omission or irregularity in the complaint, summons, warrant, proclamation, order, judgment or other proceedings before or during trial or in any inquiry or other proceedings under this Code, or any error, or irregularity in any sanction for the prosecution, unless in the opinion of that Court, a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned thereby.

(2) In determining whether any error, omission or irregularity in any proceeding under this Code, or any error, or irregularity in any sanction for the prosecution has occasioned a failure of justice, the Court shall have regard to the fact whether the objection could and should have been raised at an earlier stage in the proceedings.

37. A perusal of Section 465 Cr.P.C. shows that it runs into two parts; (i) "on any error, omission or irregularity", and three words have been used and it is said that the same will not justify setting aside of conviction in appeal or revision etc. but with reference to "sanction" only two words "error or irregularity" have been used and the word "omission" has not been mentioned. Meaning thereby, in the cases where sanction is required, if there is an error or irregularity in the "sanction", then conviction or finding will not be reversed in appeal or revision. It contemplates that sanction is there but there is some error or irregularity in granting sanction. If there is a complete "omission" of sanction, then in our view, Section 465 Cr.P.C. will not come into picture and will not help prosecution. It, therefore, leads to irrestible inference that if there is no sanction, whatsoever, by competent authority as contemplated in Section 196 Cr.P.C., it will be a serious flaw and an illegality and would vitiate the entire proceedings."

Swaraj Thackeray Vs. State of Jharkhand & Ors. 2008 CRI. L. J. 3780 में पारित निर्णय का प्रस्तर 14 एवं 15 निम्नवत है :–

"14. Regarding the points raised by the petitioner that prior sanction under Section 196, CrPC was must before taking cognizance of the offences under Sections 153-A and 153-B IPC, I find that from a bare perusal of Section 196(1)(a) and (1-A)(a), quoted herein above, it is absolutely clear that there is complete bar for taking cognizance of the offences punishable under Sections 153-A, 153-B, Section 295-A or Sub-sections (1), (2) and (3) of Section 505,IPC.

In the present case, the cognizance of the offences under Sections 153-A, 153-B and 504 IPC has been taken by the learned Magistrate. There is no dispute of the fact that prior to taking cognizance of the offences alleged under Sections 153-A and 153-B IPC, no sanction either of the Central Government or of the State Government was taken. The decision cited by the counsel for the petitioner in the case of Shailbhadra Shah and Ors. v. Swami Krishna Bharati and Anr. of Gujarat High Court reported in 1981 Cr LJ 113, supports his contention that prior sanction either of the State Government or of the Central Government is necessary before taking cognizance of the offences under Sections 153-A and 153-B of the Indian Penal Code. Therefore, in such a situation, it is held that the learned Magistrate had no jurisdiction to take cognizance of the offences under Sections 153-A and 153-B of the Indian Penal Code against the petitioner in absence of any sanction as envisaged under Section 196(1)(a)(1-A)(a) CrPC. Consequently, that part of the impugned order taking cognizance for the aforesaid two offences, i.e., under Sections 153-A and 153-B, IPC only by the learned Magistrate cannot be sustained and, as such, is hereby quashed.

15. So far as for taking cognizance of the offence under Section 504 IPC, taken by the learned Magistrate, there is no such legal bar for taking cognizance of the aforesaid Section 504 IPC, and I find that the learned Magistrate after full application of mind and on consideration of the materials on record has taken cognizance of the offences under Section 504 IPC also and, therefore, the same does not require any interference by this Court."

Sarfaraz Sheikh Vs. The State of Madhya Pradesh में पारित निर्णय का अन्तिम प्रस्तर निम्नवत है :–

"The offence under sections 153-A and 153-B IPC are of the nature of promoting enmity between different groups on the ground of religion, race, place of birth, residence, language, caste or community or any other ground whatsoever, disharmony or feelings of enmity etc; or any act which is imputation, assertions THE HIGH COURT OF MADHYA PRADESH MCRC. No.174/2017 (Sarfaraz Sheikh vs. The State of M.P.) prejudicial to national-integration in place of public worship the maintenance of harmony between different religious, racial, language or regional groups or castes or communities and as such are offence against the public at large and State. The inclusion of offence under sections 147and 149 of IPC, in the charge-sheet, in fact, are in conjunction with such offence under section 153 A and 153 B IPC are inseparable. Consequently, for want of sanction for offence under sections 153 A and 153 B of IPC as on the date of cognizance on 05.03.2016, the prosecution continued pursuant to the impugned order cannot be sustained. It is accordingly quashed. However, based on subsequent sanction on 16.08.2016, the respondent/State is always at liberty to take recourse to law for filing supplementary charge-sheet."

"4. There are rival versions involved in this case. The question was whether without the sanction under section 197 of the Code of Criminal Procedure the proceedings could go on. It is quite apparent that as a result of the alleged search and raid, which was conducted by the petitioner in discharge of his official duties certain injuries, which are described as grievous, injuries had been inflicted on the complainant and one of the alleged offenders had died. In this case, admittedly, the petitioner is a Government servant. Admittedly, there was no sanction under section 197 of the Cr. P.C. had been taken. The trial in this case is one of the offences mentioned under section 196 of the Cr. P.C. The contention of the petitioner was that under section 196 of the Cr. P.C. the cognizance of the offence could not be taken nor the trial proceeded without the sanction of the appropriate authorities. The learned Additional Sessions Judge, Kapurthala after consideration of the facts and circumstances of the case in view of the observations of this Court in Pukhraj v. State of Rajasthan and another, [1974] 1 S.C.R. S59 that unless cognizance is taken and the facts and in the circumstances and the nature of the allegations involved in this case are gone into the question whether the raiding party exceeded its limits or power while acting in the official duties cannot be determined. The learned Judge observed after gathering the materials and some evidence, it would be possible to determine whether the petitioner while acting in the discharge of his duties as a police officer had exceeded the limit of his official capacity in inflicting grievous injuries on the accused and causing death to the other accused."

"39.8. Question of sanction may arise at any stage of proceedings. On a police or judicial inquiry or in course of evidence during trial. Whether sanction is necessary or not may have to be determined from stage to stage and material brought on record depending upon facts of each case. Question of sanction can be considered at any stage of the proceedings. Necessity for sanction may reveal itself in the course of the progress of the case and it would be open to accused to place material during the course of trial for showing what his duty was. Accused has the right to lead evidence in support of his case on merits."

15– इस प्रकरण के निस्तारण हेतु धारा 196 को अवतरित किया जाना आवश्यक है, जो निम्नवत है :–

"196. Prosecution for offences against the State and for criminal conspiracy to commit such offence.

(1) No Court shall take cognizance of-

(a) any offence punishable under Chapter VI or under section 153A, (Section 295 A or sub section (1) of section 505] of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) or

(b) a criminal conspiracy to commit such offence, or

(c) any such abetment, as is described in section 108A of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), except with the previous sanction of the Central Government or of the State Government.

(1A) No Court shall take cognizance of-

(a) any offence punishable under section 153B or sub- section (2) or sub- section (3) of section 505 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), or

(b) a criminal conspiracy to commit such offence, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government or of the State Government or of the District Magistrate.]

(2) No Court shall take cognizance of the offence of any criminal conspiracy punishable under section 120B of the Indian Penal code (45 of 1860), other than a criminal conspiracy to commit [an offence] punishable with death, imprisonment for life or rigorous imprisonment for a term of two years or upwards, unless the State Government or the District Magistrate has consented in writing to the initiation of the proceedings:

Provided that where the criminal conspiracy is one to which the provisions of section 195 apply, no such consent shall be necessary.

(3) The Central Government or the State Government may, before according sanction [under sub- section (1) or sub- section (1A) and the District Magistrate may, before according sanction under sub- section (1A) and the State Government or the District Magistrate may, before giving consent under sub-section (2), order a preliminary investigation by a police officer not being below the rank of Inspector, in which case such police officer shall have the powers referred to in sub-section (3) of section 155."

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - extra ordinary jurisdiction - The Negotiable instruments Act, 1981 - Section 138 - Dishonour of cheque for insufficiency of funds - Section 139 - Presumption in favour of holder - "stop payment instructions" - where there existed any outstanding liability or not are questions of facts and theses issues can only be determined by the trial court after recording evidence - once a cheque is issued and on presentation is dishonored, penal provision is attracted as stopping of payment will not preclude an action under Section 138 N.I. Act. (Para - 10,11,22)

Cheque bounce - applicant lost a cheque - lodged report with SSP - certificate issued by the Branch Manager - applicant made request to stop payment of cheque - criminal complaint - summoning order- Quashing of - present application.

HELD:-Thus, in view of the judicial scrutiny and legal proposition of law, though the presumption under Section 139 is rebuttable but it is for the trial court to examine after evidence is led before it and this is not a fit case to exercise extra ordinary jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C.(Para - 23)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Agarwal, J.)

1. Sri Amit Daga, learned counsel for the applicant and learned AGA for the State.

2. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant is seeking quashing of the criminal complaint dated 08.04.2019 as well as entire proceedings registered in its pursuance as Criminal Complaint Case No.927 of 2019 (Brajendra Kumar Vyas vs. Naveen Saxena) under Section 138 of NI Act, Police Station Sipra Bazar, District Jhansi, including summoning order dated 15.02.2021 passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.2, Jhansi.

3. Grounds which have been put forth by learned counsel for the applicant to assail the impugned order are that applicant has been falsely implicated in a case of cheque bounce. It is submitted that the applicant had lost a cheque bearing no. 740500 issued by Dena Bank, Jhansi on account of applicant's account no.114010001415, which had slipped out of his pocket, though it was signed but blank alongwith a hundred rupee stamp paper bearing no. DA498435 dated 21.12.2016. Applicant had lodged a report with the SSP, Jhansi by sending him an application through registered post on 06.12.2017, copy of complaint is enclosed as annexure no.8 to the application. It is submitted that thereafter a certificate was issued by the Branch Manager of Dena Bank on 29.11.2018 to the affect that on 01.11.2017 on request so made by the applicant to stop payment of cheque no.740500 (annexure no.6) was noted. It is submitted that on 09.02.2018 intimation in this regard of loss of cheque was published in Daily News Paper, copy of which has been enclosed as annexure no.9 to the application, for which Amar Ujala Publications Limited issued a receipt on 07.02.2018. It is further submitted that applicant had obtained a certificate from the office of the Senior Post Master, Jhansi that registered article sent on 06.12.2017 and addressed to SSP, Jhansi was delivered on 07.12.2017. This certificate was issued in pursuance to the complaint made by the present applicant on 20.02.2019.

4. It is further submitted that the complainant lodged a complaint by misappropriating a lost cheque and filled huge sum of Rs.80,00,000/- in the name of money transaction made earlier whereas according to the applicant, there was no occasion for such huge transaction and never ever any such amounts as have been claimed by the complainant were transferred to his account and, therefore, on this ground also, complaint is liable to be quashed.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance on the judgment of Karnataka High Court in case of Amzad Pasha vs. H.N. Lakshmana, 2011 Cri. L.J. 552, wherein it is held that when complainant has not placed any evidence to show that he had financial capacity to lend substantial amount of Rs.4,50,000/-, and admittedly when no document evidencing the loan transaction has come into existence, then case of the complainant becomes highly improbable and not acceptable. It has been held that when none of the witnesses, in the presence of whom, loan was paid by the complainant were examined, then adverse inference can be drawn against the complainant and accused is liable to be acquitted.

6. Reliance is also placed on the judgment of Supreme Court in case of Raj Kumar Kh urana vs. State of (NCT of Delhi) & Another; (2009) 6 SCC 72, wherein it is held that if cheque is returned by Bank on ground, then report of loss of cheque was filed by drawer, then Section 138 of N.I. Act, is not attracted. It is submitted that a complaint under Section 138 of N.I. Act will be maintainable only when cheque is returned by the bank unpaid. Such non-payment made either be; (i) because of the amount of money standing to the credit of that amount is insufficient to honor the cheque, or (ii) it exceeds the amount arranged to be paid from that account by an agreement made with that bank.

7. Applicant has also placed reliance on the judgment of Co-ordinate Bench of this High Court dated 22.01.2020 passed in an application under Section 482 No.33953 of 2013, where the application filed on behalf of applicant- Rahisuddin Saifi, accused in the matter of Complaint Case No.145 of 2013 (Javed Akhtor vs. Rahisuddin Saifi), has been allowed because it was averred before the co-ordinate Bench that the cheque was not encashed on the ground that account holder i.e. applicant had stopped payment.

8. Learned AGA could not dispute the proposition of law laid down in case of Raj Kumar Khurana (supra), so also in case of R. Kalyani vs. Janak C. Mehta and Ors., 2009(1) SCC 516 and DCM Financial Services Ltd. vs. J.N. Sareen and Ors. 2008 (8) SCC 1.

9. Learned AGA for the State on the other hand opposes the prayer made by learned counsel for the applicant and submits that it is matter of trial where it will be determined that whether factual defences taken by the present applicant/accused are entertainable or not.

10. After hearing learned counsel for the parties and going through the record, it is evident that in case of HMT Watches Limited vs. M.A. Abida and Another, (2015) 11 SCC 776, in paragraph 14, it is held that in case of Modi Cements Limited vs. Kuchil Kumar Nandi, (1998) 3 SCC 249 so also in case of Pulsive Technologies (P) Limited vs. State of Gujrat and Others, 2014 (13) SCC 18, it has been held that if a cheque is dishonored because of stop payment instruction, even then the offence punishable under Section 138 of N.I. Act gets attracted.

11. It is further held that where there existed any outstanding liability or not are questions of facts and theses issues can only be determined by the trial court after recording evidence. High Court erred in giving its finding on disputed questions of fact, therefore, it is held that interference of High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is unsustainable as the High Court travelled beyond its jurisdiction. This aspect and the case law on the subject has not been considered by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court while delivering its order in case of Rahisuddin Saifi (supra) and, therefore, if an order has been obtained by not presenting the correct and up to date legal position before the Court concerned, then that order of Co-ordinate Bench is not binding on this Court. Therefore, as the law laid down in case of Rahisuddin Saifi (supra) is contrary to the principles of law reiterated by the Supreme Court, it is neither a binding precedent nor binding on a Co-ordinate Bench.

12. In fact a Three Judge Bench of Supreme Court in case of Modi Cements Limited (supra) has held that stop payment instructions cannot obviate the offence under Section 138 if otherwise made out. It has been further held that neither the said liability could have been avoided by giving notice to the payee or holder in due course prior to presentation of the cheque wherein the payee or holder in due course was advised not to present the same in encashment and he thus presented it and the cheque is returned with stop payment instructions. It further held that the ruling in case of Electronics Trade and Technology Development Corpn. Ltd., Secunderabad vs. Indian Technologists and Engineers (Electronics) Pvt. Ltd. and Ors (1996) 2 SCC 739 and followed in K.K. Sidharthan vs. T.P. Praveena Chandran and Ors. (1996) 6 SCC 369 being contrary to the object and purpose of Sections 138-142 overruled.

13. It is held that presumption under Section 139 is attracted to such situation and this was wrongly ignored. Drawer of the cheque will have opportunity to rebut the presumption at the trial and, thereafter, High Court was not justified on facts in quashing the complaint under Section 482 Cr.P.C. at the threshold.

14. In case of Rangappa vs. Mohan (2010) 11 SCC 441, again a Three Judge Bench of Supreme Court held that presumption mandated by Section 139 includes a presumption that there exists a legally enforceable debt or liability however such presumption is rebuttable in nature. It outlines the manner in which defence can be raised by accused and further held that dishonor of post dated cheque on account of stop payment instructions, sent by drawer to his bank will attract the provisions of Section 138 irrespective of insufficiency of funds in his account.

15. This judgment of Supreme Court overrules the judgment in case of Krishna Janardhan Bhat vs. Dattatraya G. Hegde (2008) 4 SCC 54 and affirmed the law laid down in case of Goaplast Pvt. Ltd. vs. Chico Ursula D'Souza and Ors. (2003) 3 SCC 232. Again this issue came up for consideration before a Division Bench of Supreme Court in case of Pulsive Technologies Private Limited (supra) and it is held that dishonor of cheque on "stop payment instructions" are sufficient to prosecute accused under Sections 138, 139 and 142 of N.I. Act. It is held that quashment of proceedings without invoking presumption under Section 139 ; drawing conclusions in absence of any evidence; and on ground that contents of reply sent by accused not pleaded in complaint are unsustainable. It held that High Court exercising its inherent power, drew certain conclusions on facts and quashed the proceedings holding that "stop payment" instruction did not attract Section 138 N.I. Act is unsustainable. It is held that if cheque is dishonored relying on "stop payment" instruction, then also penal provision under Section 138 is attracted. It reversed the judgment in case of Acer India (P) Limited vs. State of Gujrat, Criminal Misc. Application No.1757 of 2007, decided on 08.09.2011 (GUJ).

16. As discussed above, this issue again came up before Supreme Court in case of HMT Watches Limited (supra), where again it is held that High Court should not exercise its inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on disputed question of fact, they can be determined only by trial court after recording evidence. It is further held that High Court erred in deciding validity or otherwise of demand notice issued under Section 138 of N.I. Act and authenticity of signature thereon.

17. Similar matter had cropped up before of High Court of Madhya Pradesh, Bench at Gwallior in MCRC No.247/2011, Ramswaroop Tyagi vs. Omkarnath Pandey (2015) 4 MP LJ 237 when drawer of the cheque had invoked the jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to assail the order whereby the court below had rejected the application preferred under Section 245 Cr.P.C. The factual backdrop of that case is that non applicant complainant filed a complaint under Section 138 of N.I. Act and the cheque was returned by bank with an endorsement that applicant had asked for "stop payment" complainant had sent a legal notice and ultimately filed a complaint. Summons were issued, charges were framed. Applicant-accused preferred an application under Section 245 Cr.P.C. seeking dropping of charges against him. It was averred that applicant's cheque book was not traceable. He had immediately informed that fact to the police and bank authorities and had requested for stop payment. Accordingly bank had stopped payment on the instructions of the applicant. In this backdrop, applicant had placed reliance on judgment of Supreme Court in case of Raj Kumar Khurana (supra).

18. Placing reliance on the judgment of Supreme Court in case of Goaplast (P) Limited (supra), learned Single Judge of Madhya Pradesh High Court held that the provisions of the N.I. Act were introduced in order to discourage people from not honoring their commitments by way of payment through cheques and it is a trite law that Court should lean in favour of an interpretation which serves the object of the statute. After dealing with the provisions contained in Section 139 of N.I. Act and the law laid down in case of M.M.T.C. Ltd. and Ors. vs. Medchl Chemicals and Pharma (P) Ltd. and Ors., (2002) 1 SCC 234, the Apex Court opined that when cheque is dishonored by reason of stop payment instructions, then by virtue of Section 139, Court has to presume that the cheque was received by the holder for the discharge, in whole or in a part of any debt or liability. Of course, this is rebuttable presumption.

19. Reliance is also placed on the judgment of Three Judge Bench of Supreme Court in case of Rangappa (supra) and Pulsive Technologies Private Limited (supra) and HMT Watches Private Limited (supra) and held that law laid down by a Division Bench judgment in case of Raj Kumar Khurana (supra) is of no assistance to the applicant, more so when, the view taken in MMTC Limited (supra) and Rangappa (supra) is consistently followed by the Supreme Court in subsequent judgments vis Pulsive Technologies (supra) and HMT Watches Private Limited (supra) and in this backdrop held that since a great deal of caution is required in its exercise of extra ordinary jurisdiction under Section 482, a defence of an accused although may appear to be plausible should not be taken into consideration for exercise of such jurisdiction.

20. In the present case, facts are similar and, therefore, when there are judgments of Supreme Court rendered by Three Judges in case of Modi Cements Private Limited (supra) and Rangappa (supra), which have been consistently followed and Supreme Court in case of Raj Kumar Khurana (supra) has not taken into consideration, law laid down in case of Modi Cements Private Limited (supra), judgment in case of Modi Cements Private Limited (supra) will be a binding precedent. Therefore, law laid down in case of Raj Kumar Khurana will be no assistance to the applicant and similarly law laid down by Karnatak High Court in case of Amzad Pasha (supra) ignoring judgment of Supreme Court in case of Rangappa (supra) whereby judgment and order dated 16.10.2005 of the High Court Karnataka Bengaluru has been upheld, whereby High Court of Karnataka reversed the finding of acquittal made by learned JMFC, judgment of High Court passed oblivious of the law laid down in case of Rangappa (supra), which is a Supreme Court judgment too will be of no assistance to the applicant.

21. Needless to say that judgment of co-ordinate Bench in case of Rahisuddin Saifi (supra) will also be of no assistance to the applicant, inasmuch as, it has failed to take into consideration law prior to and subsequent to Raj Kumar Khurana (supra) rendered by Three Judges' Bench of Supreme Court having a binding precedent.

22. Allahabad High Court in case of Deepak Goel v. State of U.P., (2013) 82 ACC 210 also held that in view of the judgment of Supreme Court in case of Modi Cements Private Limited (supra), once a cheque is issued and on presentation is dishonored, penal provision is attracted as stopping of payment will not preclude an action under Section 138 N.I. Act. A co-ordinate Bench of this Court considered law laid down in case of Raj Kumar Khurana (supra) and held it to be distinguishable on facts.

23. Thus, in view of the above judicial scrutiny and legal proposition of law, though the presumption under Section 139 is rebuttable but it is for the trial court to examine after evidence is led before it and this is not a fit case to exercise extra ordinary jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

24. Application fails and is dismissed.

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Inherent power - Section 125 - interim maintenance - Provisions of Section 125 of Cr.P.C are beneficial provisions which are enacted to stop the vagrancy of a destitute wife and provide some succour to them, who are entitled to get the maintenance which has been wrongly denied. (Para -6)

Opposite party no.2 (wife) living separately from applicant (Husband) - application of interim maintenance - allowed by family court - awarded Rs.2000/- per month to the wife - Rs.1000/- per month to each children.(Para - 3)

HELD:-There is no illegality, impropriety and incorrectness in the impugned order and also there seems to be no abuse of court's process. To meet the ends of justice, does not require any interference. (Para - 7)

Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. dismissed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sanjeev Kumar Khare, learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. This application under Sections 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicant (husband) against the impugned judgement and order dated 14.01.2020 passed by Additional Principal Judge, Family Court No.01, Varanasi, in Case No.332 of 2015 (Smt. Mala Sahani Vs. Puttul Sahani), under Section 125 of Cr.P.C., Police Station Bhelpur, District Varanasi, whereby the application of the interim maintenance has been allowed by the court below and awarded Rs.2000/- per month to the wife and Rs.1000/- per month to each children from the date of order.

3. Submission made by the counsel for the applicant is that the applicant is an illiterate person and daily wager labour. He is working as sailor and as such he is unable to pay Rs.6000/- per month to the wife and children. He further submitted that the court below has not considered that the opposite party no.2 (wife) is living separately from the applicant without any reasonable reason so she is not liable to take maintenance from the applicant. After recording the statements of the contesting parties and without considering the facts and evidence on record, the court below allowed the application of opposite party no.2 and awarded maintenance to the opposite party no.2. The applicant made several attempt to settle the dispute but all in vain. He further submits that the applicant is still ready to keep her wife and children but she has not co-operated.

4. Per contra learned AGA has stated that the court below has passed the impugned order after considering the facts and circumstances of the case and the statements of the applicant and opposite party no.2, in such circumstances to meet the ends of justice does not required any interference. There is no illegality, impropriety and incorrectness in the impugned order and also there seems to be no abuse of court's process.

5. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has not been able to point out any such illegality or impropriety or incorrectness in the impugned order which may persuade this Court to interfere in the same. The amount fixed for maintenance was Rs.2000/- for the wife and Rs.1000/- for the each child, which in the present days of high price rise cannot be said to be either excessive or disproportionate. The provisions of Section 125 of Cr.P.C are beneficial provisions which are enacted to stop the vagrancy of a destitute wife and provide some succour to them, who are entitled to get the maintenance which has been wrongly denied. The fact that the applicant is the husband of respondent no.2 has not been denied.

7. In such circumstances to meet the ends of justice, does not require any interference. There is no illegality, impropriety and incorrectness in the impugned order and also there seems to be no abuse of court's process.

8. In view of the above, the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. lacks merit and stands dismissed.

Emperor Vs Khwaja Nazir Ahmed, AIR 1945 PC 18

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Raj Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the applicant and Ms. Sushma Soni, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing for the State-opposite party.

2. The present application under section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 19731 has been filed with a prayer to quash the order dated 25.03.2021 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, District Kanpur Nagar in Case No.1167 of 2020 (Apurva Saxena v. Smt. Vartika Chitravanshi), in proceedings under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 19552, whereby a direction was issued to proceed ex parte and a date was fixed for evidence.

3. The previous order dated 04.08.2021 indicates that a preliminary objection had been raised by the learned Additional Government Advocate to the effect that provisions of section 482 of the Code cannot be invoked to quash proceedings of a civil nature, and accordingly the relief sought by means of the present application to quash the order passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, in proceedings under section 9 of the HMA, cannot be granted.

4. In order to examine as to whether the inherent powers of the High Court under section 482 of the Code, may be invoked to seek quashing of the order passed in proceedings under the HMA, the provisions contained under section 482 of the Code are required to be adverted to. Section 482 of the Code reads as follows:

"482. Saving of inherent powers of High Court. Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice."

5. Section 482 of the Code envisages three situations under which the inherent powers of the High Court may be exercised, namely: (i) to give effect to any order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the Court, or (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice.

6. The inherent jurisdiction under the section though wide, is to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself. The powers are to be exercised ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone the Courts exist.

7. Section 482 of the Code provides for saving of the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under the Code or prevent abuse of process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice.

8. The invocation of inherent powers of the High Court, therefore, can be made in respect of proceedings pending before or disposed of by Criminal Courts and such powers cannot ordinarily be exercised in relation to orders passed by an authority not functioning under the Code or in respect of proceedings which are not criminal proceedings in a Court.

9. Referring to Section 561-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (which corresponds to Section 482 of the new Code) the Privy Council in Emperor vs. Khwaja Nazir Ahmed3, held that the said section does not give to the High Court any increased powers, it only provides that those which the Court already inherently possess, shall be preserved. It was stated thus :-

"It has sometimes been thought that Section 561A has given increased powers to the Court which it did not possess before that section was enacted. But this is not so. The section gives no new powers, it only provides that those which the Court already inherently possess shall be preserved and is inserted, as their Lordships think, lest it should be considered that the only powers possessed by the Court are those expressly conferred by the Criminal Procedure Code and that no inherent power had survived the passing of that Act."

10. It is, therefore, seen that the inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 can be invoked only to make such orders, as may be necessary, to give effect to any order under the Code or to prevent abuse of process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. The inherent powers are coextensive with the text of the Code and may be exercised only in respect of any of the matters covered by the Code. The expression "any Court" under the section would refer to a Criminal Court. The language and the phraseology used under the section make it clear that the powers are to be exercised in relation to proceedings pending before or disposed of by a Criminal Court and such powers would not be exercisable in relation to an order passed by an authority not functioning under the Code or in respect of proceedings which are not criminal proceedings.

11. Applying the aforestated principles, in the facts of the present case, the order dated 25.03.2021 having been passed in proceedings under section 9 of the HMA, it would not be open to the applicant to invoke the inherent powers of this Court under section 482 of the Code, seeking quashing of the aforesaid order.

12. Learned counsel for the applicant has fairly submitted that he does not dispute to the aforesaid legal position with regard to the ambit and scope of exercise of jurisdiction under section 482 of the Code. He accordingly submits that he does not wish to press the application.

13. The application stands accordingly dismissed.

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Inherent power - Section 451- Order for custody and disposal of property pending trial in certain cases - Section 452 - Order for disposal of property at conclusion of trial - Section 457 - Procedure by police upon seizure of property - The Uttar Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 (PCSA) - Sections 3/5-A/8 , The

Prevention of Cruelty to Animal Act, 1960 (PCAA) - Section 11(Para - 3)

Vehicle carrying animals seized - applicant claimed to be owner of vehicle - application before magistrate (ACJM-I) - release of vehicle - application rejected - Criminal Revision - held - no illegality or irregularity in the order passed by the Magistrate - dismissed the revision - Hence present application. (Para - 3)

HELD:-Vehicle in question having been confiscated and seized in exercise of powers under Section 5-A of the PCSA, which is in the nature of a special Act and a local law under Section 5 of the Code, the same would clearly have the effect of denuding the Magistrate of his power to pass any order under Sections 451, 452 and 457 of the Code for release of the vehicle seized for alleged violation of the provisions of the Act. View taken by the courts below in declining to entertain the application of the applicant for release of the vehicle during the pendency of proceedings under the PCSA cannot be said to suffer from illegality so as to warrant interference. 4. Vikki Vs St. of U.P. & anr., Application U/S 482 No. 17735 of 2020

1. Heard Sri Ramesh Kumar Chaurasia, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Vinod Kant, learned Additional Advocate General appearing along with Sri Pankaj Saxena, learned Additional Government Advocate-I for the State-opposite party.

2. The present application under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 19731 has been filed with a prayer to set-aside the order dated 18.03.2021 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, F.T.C-1, Ballia in Criminal Revision No. 28 of 2021 (Yash Mohammad Vs. State), arising out of order dated 09.02.2021 passed in Case Crime No. 360 of 2020 under Sections 3/5-A/8 of The Uttar Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 19552 and Section 11 of The Prevention of Cruelty to Animal Act, 19603, Police Station-Bairiya, District Ballia.

3. The pleadings of the case indicate that pursuant to proceedings initiated with lodging of an F.I.R. dated 21.9.2020 under section 3/5-A/8 of the PCSA and Section 11 of the PCAA registered as Case Crime No. 360 of 2020 at Police Station-Bairiya, District-Ballia, the vehicle stated to be carrying the animals was seized under section 5-A of the PCSA. The applicant claiming to be the owner of the vehicle in question, filed an application before the court of ACJM-I, Ballia, seeking release of the vehicle. The learned Magistrate upon taking into consideration the scheme of the Act and in particular, sub-section (7) of Section 5-A, which has been inserted by U.P. Act No. 20 of 2020, rejected the application. Aggrieved, against the order the applicant preferred a revision being Criminal Revision No. 28 of 2021 (Yash Mohammad Vs. State) and the learned Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-1, Ballia held that there was no illegality or irregularity in the order passed by the Magistrate and accordingly, dismissed the revision by order dated 18.03.2021.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant has sought to assail the orders passed by the revisional court and the Magistrate by seeking to contend that since the vehicle of the applicant had been confiscated, the courts below have committed an error in rejecting the application for release, ignoring the powers exercisable under section 451 and 457 of the Code. He submits that the property in question i.e. the vehicle which is lying with the authorities is liable to be released. Reliance is sought to be placed on the judgement in the case of Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai v. State of Gujarat4

5. Learned Additional Government Advocate-I has controverted the aforesaid contention by submitting that the proceedings have been initiated under the PCSA, which is a Special Act, and provides a separate procedure with regard to confiscation and seizure under Section 5-A thereof, and in view of the provisions contained under Section 5 of the Code, the powers under Sections 451 to 457 relating to disposal of property would not be applicable. Accordingly, he submits that the orders passed by the Magistrate and the revisional court cannot be said to be faulted with.

6. In order to appreciate the rival contentions the provisions as contained under Sections 5, 451, 452 and 457 of the Code may be adverted to, and the same are as under :-

"5. Saving.-Nothing contained in this Code shall, in the absence of a specific provision to the contrary, affect any special or local law for the time being in force, or any special jurisdiction or power conferred, or any special form of procedure prescribed, by any other law for the time being in force.

451. Order for custody and disposal of property pending trial in certain cases.-When any property is produced before any Criminal Court during an inquiry or trial, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the proper custody of such property pending the conclusion of the inquiry or trial, and, if the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, or if it is otherwise expedient so to do, the Court may, after recording such evidence as it thinks necessary, order it to be sold or otherwise disposed of.

Explanation.-For the purposes of this section,"property" includes-

(a) property of any kind or document which is produced before the Court or which is in its custody,

(b) any property regarding which an offence appears to have been committed or which appears to have been used for the commission of any offence.

452. Order for disposal of property at conclusion of trial.-(1) When an inquiry or trial in any Criminal Court is concluded, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal, by destruction, confiscation or delivery to any person claiming to be entitled to possession thereof or otherwise, of any property or document produced before it or in its custody, or regarding which any offence appears to have been committed, or which has been used for the commission of any offence.

(2) An order may be made under sub-section (1) for the delivery of any property to any person claiming to be entitled to the possession thereof, without any condition or on condition that he executes a bond, with or without sureties, to the satisfaction of the Court, engaging to restore such property to the Court if the order made under sub-section (1) is modified or set aside on appeal or revision.

(3) A Court of Session may, instead of itself making an order under sub-section (1), direct the property to be delivered to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, who shall thereupon deal with it in the manner provided in Sections 457, 458 and 459.

(4) Except where the property is livestock or is subject to speedy and natural decay, or where a bond has been executed in pursuance of sub-section (2), an order made under sub-section (1) shall not be carried out for two months, or when an appeal is presented, until such appeal has been disposed of.

(5) In this section, the term" property" includes, in the case of property regarding which an offence appears to have been committed, not only such property as has been originally in the possession or under the control of any party, but also any property into or for which the same may have been converted or exchanged, and anything acquired by such conversion or exchange, whether immediately or otherwise.

457. Procedure by police upon seizure of property.-(1)Whenever the seizure of property by any police officer is reported to a Magistrate under the provisions of this Code, and such property is not produced before a Criminal Court during an inquiry or trial, the Magistrate may make such order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property or the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, or if such person cannot be ascertained, respecting the custody and production of such property.

(2) If the person so entitled is known, the Magistrate may order the property to be delivered to him on such conditions (if any) as the Magistrate thinks fit and if such person is unknown, the Magistrate may detain it and shall, in such case, issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which such property consists, and requiring any person who may have a claim thereto, to appear before him and establish his claim within six months from the date of such proclamation."

7. The provisions contained under the PCSA, would also be required to be adverted to.

8. The PCSA is an Act to prevent the slaughter of cow and its progeny in the State of Uttar Pradesh. Section 5-A of the Act which is with regard to regulation on transport of cow, etc., and is relevant for the purposes of the controversy involved in the present case, is being extracted below:-

"5-A. Regulation on transport of cow, etc. - (1) No person shall transport or offer for transport or cause to be transported any cow, or bull or bullock, the slaughter whereof in any place in Uttar Pradesh is punishable under this Act, from any place within the State to any place outside the State, except under a permit issued by an officer authorised by the State Government in this behalf by notified order and except in accordance with the terms and conditions of such permit.

(2) Such officer shall issue the permit on payment of such fee not exceeding [five hundred rupees] for every cow, bull or bullock as may be prescribed :

Provided that no fee shall be chargeable where the permit is for transport of the cow, bull or bullock for a limited period not exceeding six months as may be specified in the permit.

(3) Where the person transporting a cow, bull or bullock on a permit for a limited period does not bring back such cow, bull or bullock into the State within the period specified in the permit, he shall be deemed to have contravened the provision of sub-section (1).

(4) The form of permit, the form of application therefor and the procedure for disposal of such application shall be such as may be prescribed.

(5) The State Government or any officer authorised by it in this behalf by general or special notified order, may, at any time, for the purpose of satisfying itself, or himself, as to the legality or propriety of the action taken under this section, call for and examine the record of any case and pass such orders thereon as it or he may deem fit].

(6) Where the said conveyance has been confirmed to be related to beef by the competent authority or authorised laboratory under this Act, the driver, operator and owner related to transport, shall be charged with the offence under this Act, unless it is not proved that the transport medium used in crime, despite all its precautions and without its knowledge, has been used by some other person for causing the offence.

(7) The vehicle by which the beef or cow and its progeny is transported in violation of the provisions of this Act and the relevant rules, shall be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers. The concerned District Magistrate/ Commissioner of Police will do all proceedings of confiscation and release, as the case may be.

(8) The cow and its progeny or the beef transported by the seized vehicle shall also be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers. The concerned District Magistrate/ Commissioner will do all proceedings of the confiscation and release, as the case may be.

(9) The expenditure on the maintenance of the seized cows and its progeny shall be recovered from the accused for a period of one year or till the release of the cow and its progeny in favour of the owner thereof whichever is earlier.

(10) Where a person is prosecuted for committing, abetting, or attempting to an offence under Sections 3, 5 and 8 of this Act and the beef or cow-remains in the possession of accused has been proved by the prosecution and transported things are confirmed to be beef by the competent authority or authorised laboratory, then the Court shall presume that such person has committed such offence or attempt or abatement of such offence, as the case may be, unless the contrary is proved.

(11) Where the provisions of this Act or the related rules in context of search, acquisition, disposal and seizure are silent, the relevant provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 shall be effective thereto."

9. It would be pertinent to note that sub-sections (6), (7), (8), (9), (10) and (11) have been inserted after sub-section (5) of Section 5-A in terms of the Uttar Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter (Amendment) Act, 2020. [U.P. Act no. 20 of 2020].

10. A plain reading of the provisions contained under Section 5-A of the PCSA would indicate that the transportation of cow, etc., is regulated in terms thereof. Sub-section (1) of Section 5-A contains a clear prohibition on transportation of any cow or bull or bullock, the slaughter whereof in any place in Uttar Pradesh is punishable under the Act, from any place within the State to any place outside the State, except under a permit to be issued by an officer authorised by the State Government in this behalf by notified order and except in accordance with the terms and conditions of such permit. Sub-section (4) mandates that the form of permit, the form of application therefor and the procedure for disposal of such application shall be such as may be prescribed.

11. In exercise of powers under Section 10 of the PCSA read with Section 21 of the U.P. General Clauses Act, 1904, and in supersession of Uttar Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Rules, 1956, the Uttar Pradesh Prevention of Cow Slaughter Rules, 19645 were made. Rule 16 of the Rules, 1964 provides for issuance of a permit in a prescribed form to any person intending to transport or to offer for transport or to cause to transport any cow, bull or bullock, the slaughter whereof is punishable under the Act in any place in Uttar Pradesh from any place within the State to any place outside the State. For ease of reference, Rule 16 of the Rules, 1964 is being reproduced below:-

"16. (1) Any person intending to transport or the offer for transport or to cause to transport any cow, bull or bullock, the slaughter whereof is punishable under this Act in any place in Uttar Pradesh from any place within the State to any place outside the State shall apply for a permit to the officer authorised under Section 5-A of the Act on prescribed Form "G"."

12. In terms of Section 2 of the Amending Act i.e. U.P. Act No. 20 of 2020 by means of which sub-sections (6), (7), (8), (9), (10) and (11) have been inserted in Section 5-A, the powers with regard to confiscation and seizure of which vehicle used in transportation of the beef or cow and its progeny, in violation of the provisions of this Act and the relevant rules have been delineated.

13. As per terms of sub-section (7) of Section 5-A, the vehicle by which the beef or cow and its progeny are being transported in violation of the Act and the relevant rules is to be confiscated and seized by the law enforcement officers and concerned District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police are to undertake proceedings of confiscation and release, as the case may be.

14. Sub-section (11) of Section 5-A provides that where the provisions of Act or the related rules in context of search, acquisition, disposal and seizure are silent, the relevant provisions of the Code shall be effective thereto. The provisions inserted under Section 5-A in terms of the aforesaid Amending Act, i.e. U.P. Act No. 20 of 2020 in respect of confiscation and release of vehicle would therefore, go to show that the scheme of the Act provides a complete procedure with regard to proceedings relating to confiscation and release. The necessary provisions with regard to confiscation, seizure and release of vehicle used for transportation in violation of the provisions of PCSA and the Rules made therein, having being provided for, and the Act and the Rules not being silent in regard thereto as per the stipulation under sub-section (11) of Section 5-A, the provisions of the Code would not be invocable in matters relating to confiscation, seizure and release under the PCSA.

15. Section 5 of the Code contains a saving clause and as per terms thereof nothing contained in the Code shall, in the absence of a specific provision to the contrary, affect any special or local law for the time being in force, or any special jurisdiction or power conferred, or any special form of procedure prescribed, by any other law for the time being in force.

16. The applicability of the provisions of the Code in an area covered by a special or local law, in the context of the saving clause under section 5 of the Code was considered in the Constitution Bench judgment in the case of Maru Ram Vs. Union of India6 and also in State (Union of India) Vs. Ram Sharan7, and it was held that the section consists of three components: (i) the Code covers matters covered by it; (ii) if a special or local law exists covering the same area, the said law is saved and will prevail; (iii) if there is a special provision to the contrary, that will override the special or local law.

17. The PCSA is a "local law" within the meaning of Section 5 of the Code and in view thereof, the general provisions contained under Sections 451 of the Code with regard to custody and disposal of the property pending trial or the power for making an order for disposal of property at the conclusion of trial under Section 452 or the procedure under Section 457 would therefore, be subject to the powers exercisable under Section 5-A of the PCSA which makes a special provision with regard to confiscation and seizure of the vehicle used for transport in contravention of the provisions of the Act.

18. The provisions under Section 451 to 457 of the Code are in the nature of general provisions whereas the provisions relating to seizure, confiscation and release as contained under Section 5-A of the PCSA which expressly deal with these matters would be in the nature of special provisions contained under a special Act and in view thereof, the normal rule of interpretation that the special provision must prevail over the general and if a case is covered by a special provision, the general provision would not be attracted, would be applicable.

19. In the case of Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai (supra), which is sought to be relied upon on behalf of the applicant, the subject matter of consideration was a challenge which had been raised to an order of police remand granted to the prosecuting agency for the petitioners therein, who were police personnel involved in offences punishable under Sections 429, 420, 465, 468, 477-A and 114 of the Indian Penal Code, 18608 on allegations that they had committed offences during a period of time by replacing of valuable articles retained as case property by other spurious articles, misappropriation of the amount which was kept at the police station, unauthorised auction of the property which was seized and kept in the police custody pending trial and tampering with the records of the police station. The offences which were subject matter of the case were under the penal code and not under a special Act, and accordingly, the provisions under Sections 451 and 457 were applicable. The judgment in the case Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai (supra), which is an authority relating to release of vehicles seized in connection with criminal proceedings under general law would not be applicable under the facts of the present case which relate to proceedings under a special Act, particularly in view of the provisions under Section 5 of the Code.

20. A similar question as to whether the Magistrate would have jurisdiction to exercise powers under Sections 451, 452 and 457 of the Code to direct release of any property which was subject matter of confiscation proceedings under Section 72 of the U.P. Excise Act, 19109 before the Collector, was considered in a recent judgement of this Court in the case of Vikki Vs State of U.P. and Another10 and taking into consideration that the Excise Act is a local law within the meaning of Section 5 of the Code, it was held that the provisions contained under Section 72 of the Excise Act would have the effect of denuding the Magistrate of his power to pass any order under Section 457 of the Code for release of any article seized in connection with an offence purporting to have been committed under the Act.

21. Applying the aforesaid principle to the facts of the present case, the vehicle in question having been confiscated and seized in exercise of powers under Section 5-A of the PCSA, which is in the nature of a special Act and a local law under Section 5 of the Code, the same would clearly have the effect of denuding the Magistrate of his power to pass any order under Sections 451, 452 and 457 of the Code for release of the vehicle seized for alleged violation of the provisions of the Act.

22. Having regard to the aforesaid, the view taken by the courts below in declining to entertain the application of the applicant for release of the vehicle during the pendency of proceedings under the PCSA, cannot be said to suffer from illegality so as to warrant interference.

23. The application under section 482 of the Code is thus, dismissed.

1. These Applications U/S 482 Cr.P.C. have been connected and are being decided by a common judgement.

2. The application registered as Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 16310 of 2020 (Hasae @ Hasana Wae and Others Vs. State of U.P. and another) is directed against the chargesheet dated 07.06.2020 filed by the investigating agency in Case Crime No. 198 of 2020 under Sections 188, 269, 270, 271 I.P.C. and Section 3 of the Epidemic Diseases Act,1897, and Section 14B Foreigners Act, Police Station Sadar Bazar, District Shahjahanpur and the proceedings before the trial court taken out in pursuance thereof.

3. The application registered as Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No. 14919 of 2020 (Daha Dasai and Others Vs. State of U.P and another) is directed against the chargesheet dated 10.05.2020 filed by the investigating agency in Case Crime No. 138 of 2020 under Sections 188, 269, 270 I.P.C. and Section 3 of the Epidemic Diseases Act, 1897 and Section 14B of the Foreigners Act, 1946 Police Station Pilkhuwa, District Hapur, against the applicants and the proceedings before the trial court initiated in pursuance thereof.

4. The matter had acquired certain urgency since most of the applicants are foreigners. There is also a request of the Supreme Court to expedite the hearing of the matter. The matters were connected and placed before me after nomination for the first time on 08.06.2021. Certain impediments were created in the hearing of the matter which are evident from the perusal of the ordersheet. Lack of assistance and accountability from the State side was delaying the hearing.

5. Learned counsels for the applicants contended with credibility that the capacity of the judicial process to show that justice will be seen to be done will be impaired in case such conduct goes unnoticed and unaccounted for.

6. When no answer whatsoever was forthcoming from the State side, the Court was compelled to direct the personal appearance of the Principal Secretary/Legal Remembrancer, Department of Law, Government of U.P., Lucknow to explain the stand of the State.

7. The order of summoning was resisted by State counsels, albeit in respectful undertones. Reference to the latest holding of the Supreme Court in point was alluded to. The question being relevant is being decided on its merits.

8. The Allahabad High Court has a history of more than 155 years which predates most constitutional courts in the country. Rectitude of conduct of the judges, adherence to ethical norms by lawyers, and professional achievements which set standards of excellence form the quintessence of its storied reputation and animates the Court even today. The Allahabad High Court has thus earned the abiding trust of the people of the State by dispensing fair and impartial justice and by the probity of conduct of the Bar and the Bench alike.

9. The Bar of this Court was in the frontline of the freedom struggle and the Court has been at the vanguard of protection of rights and liberties of citizens in times of maximum peril.

10. The paradox of the Allahabad High Court is that the unconditional trust of the citizens is its most precious asset but also poses the most pressing challenge. The people of the State of U.P. approach this Court with full confidence and no constraint. The result of the people of the State approaching the Court in huge numbers is the largest docket size in the country. The workload on Judges in the Allahabad High Court is the highest in the country.

11. Unremitting the toil of judges and unsurpassed industry of lawyers has allowed the Court to keep the faith and confidence of the people in its ability to deliver justice.

12. The distant vision of the founding fathers was reflected in the creation of the comity of constitutional courts which included the High Courts of the States and the Supreme Court of India. The High Courts and the Supreme Court have been vested with analogous powers by the Constitution of India. Constitutional autonomy of the High Courts is paired with the attribute of finality to the holdings of the Supreme Court as the highest appellate court in the country. These features are integral to the scheme of judicial federalism in the Constitution of India.

13. The High Courts possess supervisory powers over the District Courts under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. However it is noteworthy that no such powers of superintendence over the High Courts are vested in the Supreme Court by the Constitution of India. The reasons are not far to seek.

14. Considering the unique circumstances of our country, most citizens are not likely to go beyond the High Court in search of justice.

15. An overwhelming majority of the citizens make the Allahabad High Court the final temple in their pursuit of justice. Primarily it is the quality of justice and trust in the institution which persuades the majority of our citizens to accept the finality of the judgements of the Allahabad High Court. High Court is the litigative terminus for other reasons as well, including litigation fatigue, financial burden and desire for closure. The Allahabad High Court is final because of the citizens' choice as the court of last resort.

16. Absent powers equivalent and analogous to that of the Supreme Court or sans the constitutional autonomy, the High Courts will not be able to effectively and faithfully discharge these constitutional functions and will be unable to retain the confidence of the people in their capacity to do justice.

17. Judicial federalism unequivocally contemplates full and equal autonomy to all constitutional courts; with the unconditional understanding that the Supreme Court is the final court of appeal in the country. To effectuate the latter part, there are other provisions in the Constitution like Article 142 and Article 144. The foremost constitutional aim of dispensing fair and impartial justice to all citizens and evolution of just laws in a country as vast and variegated as India cannot be achieved without a credible structure and effectively functioning system of judicial federalism.

18. Judicial federalism is distinct, in the sense, that unlike federations of States and legislatures, subjects are not divided into separate lists. Judicial federalism envisages congruent areas of responsibility of the High Courts and the Supreme Court.

19. The balance in judicial federalism is delicate. The concept of judicial federalism has to be shepherded with care in judicial pronouncements and restraint in conduct for it to thrive. Judicial federalism shall prosper or perish depending upon mutual respect between constitutional courts, and the quality of the constitutional dialogues between them.

20. Constitutional autonomy of the High Courts and comity of the constitutional courts are concepts on which there is substantial consensus of judicial authorities. However, at times the agreement of authorities in point is disturbed. Words like "superior" (as understood in Indian English) which occasionally enter the lexicon do not manifest ambiguity in the constitutional scheme. These constitutional debates mostly reflect the dilemma of a hierarchical society with an egalitarian constitution.

21. Dilution of constitutional autonomy of the High Courts would threaten the concept of judicial federalism envisaged in the Constitution and affirmed by judicial precedents. The consequences of High Courts denuded of their constitutional autonomy would be a decline in the quality of justice to the people of the country and weakening in the implementation of law. A failure to realise the preambled aim of securing justice to all its citizens would stare us in the face, and loss of faith of the common citizen in the judiciary will surely follow.

22. The constitutional autonomy of the High Courts may be diminished by various factors. Construing appellate jurisdiction as conferring supervisory powers may compromise the constitutional autonomy of the High Courts.

23. Acknowledging the powers of both constitutional courts namely the High Courts and the Supreme Court to issue writs, but also noticing that powers of High Courts under Article 226 of the Constitution of India are wider, the Supreme Court in Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar and others Vs State of Maharashtra and another1 :

"53. It is well-settled that the powers of this Court to issue writs of certiorari under Art. 32(2) as well as the powers of the High Courts to issue similar writs under Art. 226 are very wide. In fact, the powers of the High Courts under Art. 226 are, in a sense, wider than those of this Court, because the exercise of the powers of this Court to issue writs of certiorari are limited to the purposes set out in Art. 32(1) "

24. Writs issued in exercise of inherent powers of the High Court were not open to challenge by writ proceedings before the Supreme Court according to Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar (supra) wherein it was held:

"59. If a judicial order like the one with which we are concerned in the present proceedings made by the High Court binds strangers, the strangers may challenge the order by taking appropriate proceedings in appeal under Art 136. It would, however, not be open to them to invoke the jurisdiction of this Court under Art. 32 and contend that a writ of certiorari should be issued in respect of it. The impugned order is passed in exercise of the inherent jurisdiction of the Court and its validity is not open to be challenged by writ proceedings."

25. Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar (supra) stating the attributes of a superior court of record, including the entitlement to determine for itself questions about its own jurisdiction by holding:

" 60. There is yet another aspect of this matter to which it is necessary to refer. The High Court is a superior Court of Record and under Art. 215, shall have all powers of such a Court of Record including the power to punish contempt of itself. One distinguishing characteristic of such superior courts is that they are entitled to consider questions of their jurisdiction raised before them. This question fell to be considered by this Court in Special Reference No. 1 of 1964 (1965) 1 S.C.R. 413. In that case, it was urged before this Court that in granting bail to Keshav Singh, the High Court had exceeded its jurisdiction and as such, the order was a nullity. Rejecting this argument, this Court observed that in the case of a superior Court of Record, it is for the court to consider whether any matter falls within its jurisdiction or not. Unlike a court of limited jurisdiction, the superior court is entitled to determine for itself questions about its own jurisdiction. That is why this Court did not accede to the proposition that in passing the order for interim bail, the High Court can be said to have exceeded its jurisdiction with the result that the order in question was null and void. In support of this view, this Court cited a passage from Halsbury's Laws of England where it is observed that

"prima facie, no matter is deemed to be beyond the jurisdiction of a superior court unless it is expressly shown to be so, while nothing is within the jurisdiction of an inferior court unless it is expressly shown on the face of the proceedings that the particular matter is within the cognizance of the particular Court." (Halsbury's Laws of England, Vol. 9, p. 349).

If the decision of a superior Court on a question of its jurisdiction is erroneous, it can, of course, be corrected by appeal or revision as may be permissible under the law; but until the adjudication by a superior Court on such a point is set aside by adopting the appropriate course, it would not be open to be corrected by the exercise of the writ jurisdiction of this Court. "

26. Exploring various facets of the relationship of the Supreme Court with the High Courts, the Supreme Court in Tirupati Balaji Developers (P) Ltd. and others Vs State of Bihar and others2 stated:

"8. Under the constitutional scheme as framed for the judiciary, the Supreme Court and the High Courts both are courts of record. The High Court is not a court 'subordinate' to the Supreme Court. In a way the canvass of judicial powers vesting in the High Court is wider Inasmuch as it has jurisdiction to issue all prerogative writs conferred by Article 226 of the Constitution for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution and for any other purpose while the original jurisdiction of Supreme Court to issue prerogative writs remains confined to the enforcement of fundamental rights and to deal with some such matters, such as Presidential election or inter-state disputes which the Constitution does not envisage being heard and determined by High Courts. The High Court exercises power of superintendence under Article 227 of the Constitution over all subordinate courts and tribunals; the Supreme Court has not been conferred with any power of superintendence. If the Supreme Court and the High Courts both were to be thought of as brothers in the administration of justice, the High Court has larger jurisdiction but the Supreme Court still remains the elder brother. There are a few provisions which give an edge, and assign a superior place in the hierarchy, to Supreme Court over High Courts. So far as the appellate jurisdiction is concerned, in all civil and criminal matters, the Supreme Court is the highest and the ultimate court of appeal. It is the final interpreter of the law. Under Article 139-A, the Supreme Court may transfer any case pending before one High Court to another High Court or may withdraw the case to itself. Under Article 141 the law declared by the Supreme Court shall be binding on all courts, including High Courts, within the territory of India. Under Article 144 all authorities, civil and judicial, in the territory of India -- and that would include High Court as well -- shall act in aid of the Supreme Court.

9. In a unified hierarchical judicial system which India has accepted under its Constitution, vertically the Supreme Court is placed over the High Courts. The very fact that the Constitution confers an appellate power on the Supreme Court over the High Courts, certain consequences naturally flow and follow. Appeal implies in its natural and ordinary meaning the removal of a cause from any inferior court or tribunal to a superior one for the purpose of testing the soundness of decision and proceedings of the inferior court or tribunal. The superior forum shall have jurisdiction to reverse, confirm, annul or modify the decree or order of the forum appealed against and in the event of a remand the lower forum shall have to re-hear the matter and comply with such directions as may accompany the order of remand. The appellate jurisdiction inherently carries with it a power to issue corrective directions binding on the forum below and failure on the part of latter to carry out such directions or show disrespect to or to question the propriety of such directions would -- it is obvious -- be destructive of the hierarchical system in administration of justice. The seekers of justice and the society would lose faith in both. "

27. Tirupati Balaji Developers (supra) explained the word "superior court" in the following terms:

"24. The Supreme Court, exercising its appellate jurisdiction, is called upon to issue directions which is not only its privilege as appellate forum but often a necessity for meeting the demands of justice and effective exercise of appellate power. Yet, it cautiously abstains from issuing any 'directions' as such and rather uses the alternative and polite expressions like -- "we request the High Court", "the High Court is expected to", "we trust and hope that the High Court will/shall", spelled out by courtesy and the respect and regards which the Supreme Court has -- and must have -- for High Courts. The practice has developed and gained ground as tradition. Barring may be an instance or two, which too must have been avoidable, there has been no occasion either for any disrespect having been shown by the Supreme Court to the High Court or vice versa or for this Court having been called upon to take cognizance of any instance of disrespect shown to it by any High Court."

"29. While quoting the several authorities and references as hereinabove we should not be misunderstood as calling 'the Supreme Court a superior Court and the High Court an inferior court'; all that we wish to say is that jurisdictionally, and in the hierarchical system, so far as the exercise of appellate jurisdiction is concerned, undoubtedly the Supreme Court is a superior forum and the High Court an inferior forum in the sense that the latter is subjected to jurisdiction, called 'appellate jurisdiction', of the former."

28. Further the importance of collegiality and the relationship between the collegiality and independence as spelt out by Harry T. Edwards, Chief Judge, US Court of Appeals for the DC Circuit was invoked to support the narrative in Tirupati Balaji Developers (supra):

"25. Harry T. Edwards, Chief Justice, U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit emphasises self-restraint as helping build up the Courts constitutional legitimacy overtime inasmuch as judicial self-restraint helps both to generate and to preserve judicial independence. In the context of dealing of judges by judges, he uses the term 'collegiality' and then he mentions the relationship between collegiality and independence by saying-

" ... an aspect of judicial practice that has seemed increasingly important to me over the last decade: the practice of collegiality. By collegiality I mean an attitude among judges that says, we may disagree on some substantive issues, but we all have a common interest and goal in getting the law right. We are, in a word, one another's colleagues. An attitude of collegiality means, in practice, that we respect one another's views, listen to one another, and, where possible, aim to identity areas of agreement... Collegiality does mean, however, that, even when I disagree with another judge, I recognize that we are part of a common endeavor, and that each of us is, almost always, acting in good faith according to his or her own view of what the law requires... Because I see myself as engaged in a common endeavor with my judicial colleagues, it follows that I have the interest of the judiciary as a whole at heart. .. When there is little or no judicial collegiality, there is less incentive for judges to exercise self-restraint. ... collegiality is important not only for working together effectively, but also at a deeper structural level. An attitude of judicial collegiality helps reinforce judges' incentives to behalf in a principled and responsible fashion. I think that any discussion of judicial independence, either at the level of institutions or individuals, should take this practice of collegiality into account". (See - Judicial Norms: A Judge's Perspectives - Washington University School of Law)."

29. The doctrine of precedents is another feature which predates the Constitution. Under Article 141 of the Constitution of India the law declared by the Supreme Court is binding on all courts. Binding nature of the law laid down by the Supreme Court would exist even if Article 141 was not incorporated in the Constitution. Article 141 of the Constitution of India is a constitutional acknowledgment of the preexisting tradition of binding nature of judicial precedents. What constitutes a binding precedent in a judgment has long been settled by ancient but constant authorities of high standing. Cases in point hold that a judgement is a precedent for what it decides.

30. The binding force of the judgement depends upon the facts which were in issue and the point which was decided. (Ref: Royal Medical Trust Vs. Union of India3). It is in light of said authorities that the doctrine of binding precedents has to be applied. Deviation from said authorities would not be in conformity with Article 141 of the Constitution of India and inconsistent with the concept of constitutional autonomy of the High Courts.

31. A constitutional dialogue happens in the comity of constitutional Courts by rendering of judgments and use of judicial precedents. The tone and terms of this dialogue, have to be marked by civility, leavened with mutual respect, and powered by honest convictions. This is predicated with the certain understanding that the final word in the controversy rests with Supreme Court. The dialogue between the constitutional courts is one of reason and purpose, and not of power and authority.

32. The High Courts are best placed to understand and respond to the local problems of the State and the special needs of its people. Upholding the law and dispensing justice on a day to day basis in this setting provides an acute insight to the High Court judges and imparts great value to their judgements. Legal practices evolved by the High Courts from the experience gained by proximity to ground realities of the State and which have eminently served the cause of justice should not be readily reversed.

33. Participation in the judicial process is restricted. Consequences of judicial verdicts can be widespread. Judicial federalism by enlarging participation in legal debates and deepening sensitivity in judicial approach enables constitutional courts to effectively address myriad facets of justice in a diverse society. A culture which accords equal respect to the judgements of the High Courts will foster rich legal debate across the comity of constitutional courts, give enduring foundations to the holdings of the Supreme Court, and strengthen judicial fedaralism. When all High Courts have a share in creating common constitutional values, it will add a judicial content to the unity of India. Unity of judicial values contributes to the inherent oneness of India.

34. The judgement of the Supreme Court in Santhini Vs. Vijaya Venketesh4 is one instance where the decisions of the High Courts were given full weight in the dissenting view rendered by Hon'ble Dr. D. Y. Chandrachud, J. After a comprehensive survey of the judgements of the various High Courts in the country allowing use of video conferencing in the judicial process, Hon'ble Dr. D. Y. Chandrachud, J. (speaking for himself) held as under:

"100. These are words of wisdom and perspicacity across the spectrum. Voices from within the judiciary in a federal structure should merit close listening by the Supreme Court."

This statement of law mirrors the vision of the Constitution makers and also shines some light on the path to the future.

35. The dissentient view in Santhini (supra) concludes by finding:

"115. There is, in my view, no basis either in the Family Courts Act, 1984 or in law to exclude recourse to videoconferencing at any stage of the proceedings. Whether videoconferencing should be permitted must be determined as part of the rational exercise of judgment by the Family Court."

Prescience of the minority view in Santhini (supra) which had the advantage of the judgements of the High Courts is being borne out during Covid-19 pandemic.

36. The Supreme Court has consistently emphasized the importance of tempered and civil language in the judgments rendered by all courts and has set its face against employing strong or disparaging language in judicial speech. Civility in judicial speech is the precursor to judicial wisdom.

37. Untempered language often gives the impression that it is not the lis which is being judged but the author of the judgment who is on trial. Consequences of derogatory and unrestrained language in the process of courts transcend the facts of the case. The damage is of a lasting nature. It sullies the name of the judge who is in no position to defend himself. It also brings the entire institution into disrepute which takes the blow silently. The overall environment of independent judicial decision making too is adversely affected.

38. A greater cause of concern is the consequent reluctance of judges to exercise lawfully vested constitutional or inherent powers in the service of justice. The latter hesitancy is attended by the subtle danger of losing justice in procedures. This would imperceptibly but in a certain manner weaken the constitutional autonomy of the High Courts, and mark a shift away from the constitutional vision of comity of constitutional courts. The result will be High Courts which are a pale shadow of a luminous constitutional vision and an ecosystem which will occasion failure of justice.

39. The narrative will be fortified by authorities in point.

40. The issue regarding use of temperate language in judicial pronouncements even in the face of strongly divergent judicial opinion arose early in the evolution of constitutional law in Ishwari Prasad Vs. Mohd. Isa5. The Supreme Court in Ishwari Prasad (supra) discussed various aspects of judicial decision making process and emphasized the use of temperate language in judicial pronouncements :

"27.... Judicial experience shows that in adjudicating upon the rival claims brought before the courts it is now always easy to decide where the truth lies. Evidence is adduced by the respective parties in support of their conflicting contentions and circumstances are similarly pressed into service. In such a case, it is , no doubt, the duty of the Judge to consider the evidence objectively and dispassionately, examine it in the light of probabilities and decide which way the truth lies. The impression formed determine of conclusion which he reaches. But it would be unsafe to overlook the fact that all judicial minds may not react in the same way to the said evidence and it is not unusual that evidence which appears to be respectable and trustworthy to one Judge may not appear to be respectable and trustworthy to another Judge. That explains why in some court on its appreciation of oral evidence. The knowledge that another factor and leads to the use of temperate language and recording judicial conclusions. Judicial approach in such cases [would] always be based on the consciousness that one may make a mistake; that is why the use of unduly strong words in expressing conclusions or the adoption of unduly strong intemperate, or extravagant criticism, against the contrary view, which are often founded on a sense of infallibility should always be avoided."

41. A similar controversy regarding the unconditional necessity of employing civil phraseology even while expressing deep disagreement arose before the Constitutional Bench in Alok Kumar Roy Vs. Dr. S. N. Sarma And Anr6. In this case the learned Chief Justice of a High Court while disagreeing with the order passed by an Hon'ble Judge of the High Court observed that the order was passed "in unholy haste and hurry". Certain other adverse observations were also made in that case.

42. The Supreme Court in Alok Kumar Roy (supra) held against employing such language or making such remarks in a judgment against a colleague and observed:

" 8... It is necessary to emphasise that judicial decorum has to be maintained at all times and even where criticism is justified it must be in language of utmost restraint, keeping always in view that the person making the comment is also fallible.... Even when there is justification for criticism, the language should be dignified and restrained." (emphasis supplied)

43. Reiterating the use of language of utmost restraint and the impact of scathing remarks against judicial officers in K.P. Tiwari Vs. State of M.P.7 Supreme Court set forth:

"4....A judge tries to discharge his duties to the best of his capacity. While doing so, sometimes, he is likely to err. It is well said that a judge who has not committed an error is yet to be born. And that applies to judges at all levels from the lowest to the highest. Sometimes, the difference in views of the higher and the lower courts is purely a result of a difference in approach and perception. On such occasions, the lower courts are not necessarily wrong and the higher courts always right. It has also to be remembered that the lower judicial officers mostly work under a charged atmosphere and are constantly under a psychological pressure with all the contestants and their lawyers almost breathing down their necks - more correctly up to their nostrils. They do not have the benefit of a detached atmosphere of the higher courts to think coolly and decide patiently. Every error, however gross it may look, should not, therefore, be attributed to improper motive. It is possible that a particular judicial officer may be consistently passing orders creating a suspicion of judicial conduct which is not wholly or even partly attributable to innocent functioning. Even in such cases, the proper course for the higher court to adopt is to make note of his conduct in the confidential record of his work and to use it on proper occasions. The judges in the higher courts have also a duty to ensure judicial discipline and respect for the judiciary from all concerned. The respect for the judiciary is not enhanced when judges at the lower level are criticised intemperately and castigated publicly. No greater damage can be done to the administration of justice and to the confidence of the people in the judiciary than when the judges of the higher courts publicly express lack of faith in the subordinate judges for one reason or the other. It must be remembered that the officers against whom such strictures are publicly passed, stand condemned for ever in the eyes of their subordinates and of the members of the public. No better device can be found to destroy the judiciary from within. The judges must, therefore, exercise self-restraint. There are ways and ways of expressing disapproval of the orders of the subordinate courts but attributing motives to them is certainly not one of them. That is the surest way to take the judiciary downhill.

44. In Brij Kishore Thakur Vs. Union of India8 the Supreme Court held that disparaging language against judges will damage the administration of justice and impair the confidence of people in the judicial system. Restraint in judicial language and humility in judicial functioning was advocated in A.M. Mathur Vs. Pramod Kumar Gupta9. Departure from norms of sobriety, moderation and reserve was not countenanced by the Supreme Court in ''K' A Judicial Officer In re case10 and State of U.P. Vs. Mohd. Naim11.

45. Degrading remarks were made against the dignity of an Hon'ble Judge of the Patna High Court in a judgement of the Supreme Court. The Hon'ble High Court Judge was compelled to approach the Supreme Court for expunction of said remarks, to redeem his honour and to restore the prestige of his institution in State of Bihar Vs. Neelmani Sahu12. The Supreme Court expunged the remarks by holding:

"1... When this Court uses an expression against the judgment of High Court it must be in keeping with the dignity of the person concerned."

46. Position of law discussed in the preceding paragraphs was reiterated in Amar Pal Singh Vs. State of U.P.13 and in S.N. Dhingra Vs. State (NCT of Delhi)14. The regularity of authorities shows constancy of the problem.

47. The damage to the cause of justice by use of intemperate language in the judicial process is yet to be fully assessed but the impact can be felt.

48. Inherent powers are conferred under Section 482 Cr.P.C. upon the High Court. Wide ambit of powers are vested in the High Courts by virtue of Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The inherent powers are the cornerstones of the constitutional autonomy granted to the High Courts and comprise the basic structure of the Constitution.

49. The understanding of particularized circumstances of the society and the facts of the case is essential to dispense justice in a State like Uttar Pradesh. The richness of the State of U.P. is reflected in the diversity of its heritage. The disparities in the society are manifested in the challenges faced by the State and the complex issues arising before the High Court.

50. Apathy of the bureaucracy and at times of citizens, poverty, inequalities, prejudices, environmental degradation and above all the need to give hope for justice are some of the local circumstances which make the process of law and administration of justice vibrant and evolutionary concepts in the State of U.P. In this diverse setting the High Court often have to evolve procedures and apply novel approaches by invoking plenary or inherent powers to serve the ends of justice. Special facts and circumstances may cause deviation from the routine procedure and a nuanced application of law to dispense justice.

51. At times an interdisciplinary engagement has to be made by the High Courts. In such situations for the High Courts to adhere to a fail safe approach in all matters or to adopt rote responses in unique facts of a case may lead to miscarriage of justice. Procedure should always remain the handmaiden of justice. Adherence to procedure imparts credibility to the process of law. Subservience to procedure may occasion failure of justice. Establishing the primacy of the courts while the litigation is still on foot is an important aspect in the process of administering justice and implementing the law. The process cannot be confined to mere exchange of affidavits or defined in terms of rigid procedures alone.

52. Among the plenary powers or inherent powers to which resort is had by the High Courts in the service of justice are those vested under Article 226 of the Constitution of India or under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Summoning of officers or other parties to the court are at times required in the facts and circumstances of a case. The power of summoning officials or other parties is exercised from time to time in the Allahabad High Court solely for the high purpose for which it is vested namely in the interests of justice.

53. In an individual case or even cases there may be an error of judgement or two views regarding an order to summon an official. The appellate court can always take a view on the facts of a case. Errors in judgements are the perils of confiding the divine function of dispensing justice in mortal hands.

54. The orders of the High Courts requiring personal presence of officers have been considered in various judicial authorities. The locus classicus in point is the judgment of the Supreme Court in State of U.P. and others Vs Jasvir Singh and others15. Acknowledging the breadth of the powers of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the well settled norms and procedures for exercise of such power were thus stated in Jasveer Singh (supra):

"14. It is a matter of concern that there is a growing trend among a few Judges of the High Court to routinely and frequently require the presence, in court, of senior officers of the government and local and other authorities, including officers of the level of Secretaries, for perceived non-compliance with its suggestions or to seek insignificant clarifications. The power of the High Court under Article 226 is no doubt very wide. It can issue to any person or authority or government, directions, orders, writs for enforcement of fundamental rights or for any other purpose. The High Court has the power to summon or require the personal presence of any officer, to assist the court to render justice or arrive at a proper decision. But there are well settled norms and procedures for exercise of such power.

15. This Court has repeatedly noticed that the real power of courts is not in passing decrees and orders, nor in punishing offenders and contemnors, nor in summoning the presence of senior officers, but in the trust, faith and confidence of the common man in the judiciary. Such trust and confidence should not be frittered away by unnecessary and unwarranted show or exercise of power. Greater the power, greater should be the responsibility in exercising such power.

16. The normal procedure in writ petitions is to hear the parties through their counsel who are instructed in the matter, and decide them by examining the pleadings/affidavit/evidence/ documents/material. Where the court seeks any information about the compliance with any of its directions, it is furnished by affidavits or reports supported by relevant documents. Requiring the presence of the senior officers of the government in court should be as a last resort, in rare and exceptional cases, where such presence is absolutely necessary, as for example, where it is necessary to seek assistance in explaining complex policy or technical issues, which the counsel is not able to explain properly. The court may also require personal attendance of the officers, where it finds that any officer is deliberately or with ulterior motives withholding any specific information required by the court which he is legally bound to provide or has misrepresented or suppressed the correct position.

17. Where the State has a definite policy or taken a specific stand and that has been clearly explained by way of affidavit, the court should not attempt to impose a contrary view by way of suggestions or proposals for settlement. A court can of course express its views and issue directions through its reasoned orders, subject to limitations in regard to interference in matters of policy. But it should not, and in fact, it cannot attempt to impose its views by asking an unwilling party to settle on the terms suggested by it. At all events the courts should avoid directing the senior officers to be present in court to settle the grievances of individual litigants for whom the court may have sympathy. The court should realize that the state has its own priorities, policies and compulsions which may result in a particular stand. Merely because the court does not like such a stand, it cannot summon or call the senior officers time and again to court or issue threatening show cause notices. The senior officers of the government are in-charge of the administration of the State, have their own busy schedules. The court should desist from calling them for all and sundry matters, as that would amount to abuse of judicial power. Courts should guard against such transgressions in the exercise of power. Our above observations do not of course apply to summoning of contemnors in contempt jurisdiction."

55. More importantly in Jasvir Singh (supra) it was emphasized that the observations made thereunder did not limit the exercise of the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Courts under Article 226 of the Constitution of India:

"18. We have made the above observations rather reluctantly. Our observations should not be construed as restricting or limiting the exercise of the extraordinary jurisdiction of High Courts under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The observations are intended to be guidance for self-regulation and self-restriction by courts. It became necessary as we have noticed that the learned Presiding Judge of the Bench has been frequently making such orders directing senior officers of the Government to be present and settle claims. It is a coincidence that another case where a similar procedure was adopted by the learned Presiding Judge of the bench, came up before us today Lake Development Authority, Nainital v. Heena Khan (CA No. 10087-10090 of 2010 decided on 26.11.2010). We have no doubt that the learned Judge bona fide believes that by requiring the presence of senior officers, he could expedite matters and render effective justice. But it is not sufficient that the object of the Judge is noble or bonafide. The process of achieving the object should be just and proper, without exceeding the well recognised norms of judicial propriety. "

56. Similarly in State of Gujarat Vs Turabali Gulamhussain Hirani and another16 , the power of the High Court to summon officials remained unquestioned but it was stated that the power should be exercised in rare and exceptional circumstances and not in a routine manner:

"7. There is no doubt that the High Court has power to summon these officials, but in our opinion that should be done in very rare and exceptional cases when there are compelling circumstances to do so. Such summoning orders should not be passed lightly or as a routine or at the drop of a hat.

8. Judges should have modesty and humility. They should realize that summoning a senior official, except in some very rare and exceptional situation, and that too for compelling reasons, is counter productive and may also involve heavy expenses and valuable time of the official concerned.

9. The judiciary must have respect for the executive and the legislature. Judges should realize that officials like the Chief Secretary, Secretary to the government, Commissioners, District Magistrates, senior police officials etc. are extremely busy persons who are often working from morning till night. No doubt, the ministers lay down the policy, but the actual implementation of the policy and day to day running of the government has to be done by the bureaucrats, and hence the bureaucrats are often working round the clock. If they are summoned by the Court they will, of course, appear before the Court, but then a lot of public money and time may be unnecessarily wasted. Sometimes High Court Judges summon high officials in far off places like Director, CBI or Home Secretary to the Government of India not realizing that it entails heavy expenditure like arranging of a BSF aircraft, coupled with public money and valuable time which would have been otherwise spent on public welfare."

57. In a more recent judgment in State of U.P. and others Vs Dr. Manoj Kumar Sharma17, Civil Appeal no. 2320 of 2021, the Supreme Court deprecated in strong terms the practice in certain High Courts of summoning officials to pressurize them and reiterated the need to exercise this power with restraint by holding:

"17. A practice has developed in certain High Courts to call officers at the drop of a hat and to exert direct or indirect pressure. The line of separation of powers between Judiciary and Executive is sought to be crossed by summoning the officers and in a way pressurizing them to pass an order as per the whims and fancies of the Court.

18. The public officers of the Executive are also performing their duties as the third limbs of the governance. The actions or decisions by the officers are not to benefit them, but as a custodian of public funds and in the interest of administration, some decisions are bound to be taken. It is always open to the High Court to set aside the decision which does not meet the test of judicial review but summoning of officers frequently is not appreciable at all. The same is liable to be condemned in the strongest words.

20. Thus, we feel, it is time to reiterate that public officers should not be called to court unnecessarily. The dignity and majesty of the Court is not enhanced when an officer is called to court. Respect to the court has to be commanded and not demanded and the same is not enhanced by calling public officers. The presence of public officer comes at the cost of other official engagement demanding their attention. Sometimes, the officers even have to travel long distance. Therefore, summoning of the officer is against the public interest as many important tasks entrusted to him gets delayed, creating extra burden on the officer or delaying the decisions awaiting his opinion. The Court proceedings also take time, as there is no mechanism of fixed time hearing in Courts as of now. The Courts have the power of pen which is more effective than the presence of an officer in Court. If any particular issue arises for consideration before the Court and the Advocate representing the State is not able to answer, it is advised to write such doubt in the order and give time to the State or its officers to respond."

58. The position of law which can be distilled from the immediately preceding narrative is this.

59. The power to summon an official or any other person is inherent in the constitutional courts. The powers have been vested in constitutional courts to empower them to achieve the foremost constitutional goal of securing justice to the citizens. The power is too sacrosanct to be blighted by any oblique motives or extraneous considerations. The power has to be used sparingly and regulated by self-discipline. Comprehensive guidelines containing the manner of exercise of inherent powers is an elusive goal. Constitutional courts have not attempted to confine the exercise of such inherent powers in a fixed formula to be applied irrespective of the facts of the case. Judicial authorities give illustrative examples of use of such power but do not provide an exhaustive scheme. Inherent powers cannot be ringed fenced by narrow definitions. Narrow definitions will militate against the very purpose of vesting inherent powers in constitutional courts, denude their constitutional autonomy, and will impede the quest for justice.

60. In summation, inherent powers for summoning of officials or any other person should be exercised as an exceptional measure to achieve the high end of securing justice. It is in the nature of things that this will always depend on the facts and circumstances of the case and the better judgement of the Court.

61. In this case for reason as stated earlier the personal presence of the officer was necessitated to retain the faith of the litigants in judicial process, to remove the impediments in the hearing, and for the State to account for its actions and omissions.

62. Shri Pramod Kumar Srivastava, Legal Remembrancer, Department of Law, Government of U.P., Lucknow, was present in Court on 02.08.2021. Shri M. C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General for the State requested that the proceedings may be conducted in camera because some confidential facts and documents had to be placed before the Court.

63. In the proceedings held in camera, Shri Pramod Kumar Srivastava, Legal Remembrancer, Department of Law, Government of U.P., Lucknow, stated that the State Government is cognizant of the concerns of the Court and is committed to the principle of accountability. Relevant processes have been initiated. The Court was also assured that no impediment will be caused in the hearing and that the Court shall be assisted with full honesty in the matters.

64. Certain confidential documents were produced which depict governmental processes and also attest to the sincerity of the statement made on behalf of the State before this Court. Once the government is seized of the matter, the Court does not deem it appropriate to say anything which may fetter the lawful discretion of the State. Statements made by high officials on behalf of the Government in Court have highest sanctity and full weight have to be given to the same.

65. With these observations the matter relating to the personal presence of the Legal Remembrancer in person is finally disposed of.

66. On merits in Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C No. 16310 of 2020 (Hasae @ Hasana Wae and 11 others Vs. State of U.P. and another) it is submitted by Shri M. C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General, Shri A.K. Sand, Additional Government Advocate for the State that the trial has almost concluded and the statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was made before the trial court on 03.08.2021. Thereafter the matter is liable to be posted for final hearing on 06.08.2021.

67. Learned counsels for the applicants do not dispute the contention on behalf of the State that since the trial has concluded and all evidences have been tendered, the cause of instituting this Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. does not survive.

68. Similarly on merits in Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C No. 14919 of 2020 (Daha Desai and 12 others vs. State of U.P. and another) it is submitted by Shri M. C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General, Shri A.K. Sand, Additional Government Advocate for the State that the trial has almost concluded and the statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was made before the trial court on 03.08.2021. Thereafter the matter is liable to be posted for final hearing on 10.08.2021.

69 . Learned counsels for the applicants do not dispute the contention on behalf of the State that since the trial has concluded and all evidences have been tendered, the cause of instituting this Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. does not survive.

70. The applicants can take up various objections on facts, law and evidence before the learned trial court.

71. In wake of the preceding discussion, these Applications Under Section 482 Cr.P.C. are being disposed of with the direction to the learned trial court to decide the trial proceedings expeditiously.

72. The Applications U/S 482 Cr.P.C. are disposed of finally.

Counsel for the Intervener:
Sri Rajiv Upadhyay, Sri Rahul Misha

(A) Criminal Law - The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 482 - Inherent power - Domestic Violence Act, 2005

Intervention application - question of maintenance of a married woman and her small daughter - husband of a woman (applicant and opposite party no.2 herein) not available - her mother-in-law and father-in-law, who are like her father and mother become their responsibility - question of peaceful life, safety and education of a girl child.

HELD:- Commissioner of Police to file his affidavit on or before next date and appear before this Court for explaining as to why the applicant is not traceable by the Police, despite the fact that a first information report about the missing of the applicant has been lodged and various orders have been passed by this Court for production of the applicant before the Court - On the next date, the District Judge as well as the Commissioner of Police shall inform the Court of the similar cases, where the maintenance has been awarded by the courts but the same has not been executed, as summons have not been served till date. (Para - 10,11,13)

Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. pending. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. On the matter being taken up, Mr. J.K. Upadhyay, learned A.G.A. assisted by Mr. Gaurav Pratap Singh, brief holder for the State and Mrs. Priyanka Upadhyaya, opposite party no.2 (in person) are present. Mr. Rajiv Upadhyay, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Rahul Mishra, Advocate who has filed an intervention application on behalf of one Laxmi Prasad Upadhyay, who happens to be the father of the applicant is also present. However, neither Mrs. Alka Singh and nor Mr. Vipin Kumar Singh, Advocates who have filed the present application on behalf of the applicant and also appeared before the Court earlier, are not present in the Court today, even in the revised reading of the list.

2. At this stage, this case has turned into a strange case, in which, being wife i.e. opposite party no.2 filed a case against her husband i.e. the applicant herein under the provisions of Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 before the court below and the court below passed order dated 4th November, 2016 directing the husband to provide a separate living room to wife and daughter as also to give Rs. 1000/- for their maintenance. On the application filed by wife i.e. opposite party no.2, the court below passed another order dated 8th November, 2016 that if the husband i.e. applicant does not comply the order dated 4th November, 2016, the Station House Officer, Sarnath shall ensure the compliance of the said order. Against both the orders, the present application has been filed by the husband i.e. applicant, who obtained an interim order dated 5th December, 2016 ex parte, whereby the orders dated 4th and 8th November, 2016 were stayed till the next date of listing. Thereafter the wife i.e. opposite party no.2 appeared in the present case to defend her case in the present application. When the Court asked the learned counsel for the applicant to ensure production of the applicant before the Court, it has been informed by the learned counsel for the applicant that he is missing since 9th April, 2017 and a first information report about his missing has also been lodged on 16th May, 2018 at Police Station-Sarnath, District-Varanasi. Learned counsel for the applicant has further informed the Court that now he has no instruction on behalf of the applicant, as he is not in his contact. Thereafter Court passed various orders directing the learned counsel for the applicant as well as District Police Varanasi to ensure the production of the applicant before the Court but the applicant has not been produced before this Court either by the learned counsel for the applicant or by the District Police, Varanasi.

3. In compliance of the order of the Court dated 28th March, 2021, an affidavit sworn by Mr. Vikrant Vir, Deputy Commissioner of Police, Varuna Zone, Varanasi has been filed today in the Court on behalf of the State, which is taken on record. In paragraph nos. 4 to 6, it has been stated as follows:

"4. That in compliance of the order passed by this Hon'ble Court the earlier Incharge of Police D.I.G./Senior Superintendent of Police, Varanasi has constituted a team for the search of applicant namely Arvind Upadhyay vide order dated 26.02-2021.

5. That the team constituted vide order dated 26.2.201 has with great effort tried to search the whereabouts of the applicant on various dates and places, which has been entered in G.D. record and the same can be produced before this Hon'ble Court as and when the Court wishes to peruse, however, the entire gist with regard to the efforts made by the searching team is being placed before this Hon'ble Court by way of progress report dated 02.04.2021 through the answering respondent. A Photostat copy of the progress report dated 02.04.2021 is being annexed herewith and marked as ANNEXURE-2 to this affidavit.

6.That the police team constituted earlier is still searching the applicant namely Arvind Upadhyay with serious efforts and the same will be produced as and when recovered without wasting any time in compliance of the orders of this Hon'ble Court."

4. This Court is sorry to record that the affidavit filed on behalf of the District Police of Varanasi is too flimsy to be accepted by this Court. The story made out in the affidavit from the side of Police is highly improbable, which is nothing else but a scene of drama. A person, who is missing since 9th April, 2017 and whose missing report has been lodged on 16th May, 2018, is not traceable inspite of all the efforts of the police. The same appears to be fishy as stated by the wife of the applicant i.e. opposite party no.2 herein. In today's modern era, where the policemen have got all the facilities, yet the police is not able to find out a person, despite several orders of this Court. This creates a doubt in the mind of a common ordinary person. Either the police can say that they have not got full powers or facilities or they are not able to find out the person, who is missing since 9th April, 2017 and this case should be given to some other agency.

5. The opposite party no.2, wife of the applicant, who is present, states before this Court that she has disclosed to the Police regarding whereabouts of the applicant but the Police reaches the place after giving space to the applicant to flee from there. It has also been brought to the knowledge of the Court that several cases, wherein maintenance has been awarded by the orders of the court, are pending and even notices have not been served upon the parties due to which women are suffering, as in the present case, which is the best example of harassment faced by the women even after passage of nearly five years from the date of orders in her favour.

6. An Intervention Application has been filed by Mr. Rahul Mishra, Advocate on behalf of one Laxmi Prasad Upadhyay, who happens to be the father of the applicant. In the affidavit filed in support of the intervention application, it has been stated that it is only because of the applicant's mental imbalance induced due to long standing acrimony, differences, disputes with opposite party no.2 that he went missing and could not be found till date despite Gumshudagi Report lodged in the year 2017 itself. It is further stated that neither he nor any of his relatives have any knowledge about the whereabouts of the applicant-Arvind Kumar Upadhyay and therefore, he and his wife who are ailing senior citizens may be rescued from the police authorities, who are harassing and victimising them on the pretext of complying with various orders of the Hon'ble Court. In the intervention application, it has also been stated that during the pendency of the present application, the applicant-Arvind Kumar Upadhyay suffered with mental imbalance and was subjected to treatment at Mental Hospital, Varanasi and while he was receiving treatment, he left the house and went missing since 9th April, 2017, true copies of medical treatment from Mental Hospital, Varanasi has been enclosed as Annexure-1 to the affidavit accompanying the Intervention Application.

7. To the averments made in the affidavit accompanying the Intervention Application, opposite party no.2 submits before this Court that the applicant is not missing anywhere, he has deliberately left his house and is hidden somewhere. The father and other family members of the applicant have also helped him only in order to disobey the orders of the court below dated 4th November, 2016 and dated 8th November, 2016. Opposite party no.2 further submits that after the orders of the court below dated 4th and 8th November, 2016, father of the applicant (Intervenor before this Court) has deliberately sold his properties only for harassing opposite party no.2 and her female child as well as to disobey the orders of the court below and this Court. Opposite party no.2 further submits that the averment made in the intervention application that the applicant was suffering from some mental imbalance for which his treatment was going on in Mental Hospital Varanasi, is also incorrect, because the medical prescriptions, which have been enclosed along with the affidavit accompanying the intervention application, do not establish as to the exact mental ailment of the applicant. Lastly, opposite party no.2 submits that the conduct of the father of the applicant (Intervenor) and other family members of the applicant is doubtful.

8. Prima facie, the submissions made by opposite party no.2 appears to be correct.

9. Opposite party no.2 may file response, if any, to the aforesaid intervention application on or before the next date.

10. In this case, there is a question of maintenance of a married woman and her small daughter in these hard days. Now when the husband of a woman (applicant and opposite party no.2 herein) is not available, then her mother-in-law and father-in-law, who are like her father and mother, also become their responsibility. After marriage, a woman's husband and in-laws are everything. In this case, there is a question of peaceful life, safety and education of a girl child, who is none other but grand-daughter of the parents of the applicant. In-laws of a woman or grand parents of a girl child cannot leave her daughter-in-law or grand daughter alone if the husband of said woman or father of the said girl child, is missing.

11. In view of the present facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is left with no option but to direct the Commissioner of Police, Varanasi to appear before this Court for explaining the fair conduct of the Police of District Varanasi. However, seeing the intricacies, this Court constrains itself in passing such orders without affording one opportunity to such a Senior Officer of the Police Department at Varanasi. This Court, therefore, directs the Commissioner of Police, Varanasi to file his personal affidavit categorically explaining as to why the applicant is not traceable by the Police, despite the fact that a first information report about the missing of the applicant has been lodged on 16th May, 2018 at Sarnath Police Station, Varanasi and various orders have been passed by this Court for production of the applicant before the Court. In the affidavit it shall also be disclosed about the prima facie observations made by this Court herein above. In the affidavit, it shall also be indicated as to how many days, the applicant shall be traceable by the Police. The affidavit shall be filed on or before the next date i.e. 29th September, 2021.

12. Seeing this pitiable predicament of a woman, who has been grappling from pillar to post and getting hoodwinked by multifarious impediments, which are purportedly for the objective of harbouring the applicant from the shrewdness of this Court, excogitated by the family of the husband, is an archetype illustration of the loopholes in way of our criminal justice system. To counteract and proscribe kindred occurrences in future and to safeguard the right to maintenance of wives, this Court directs the Commissioner of Police, Varanasi also to find out properties/whereabouts of the applicant as well as in-laws of opposite party no.2 promptly and after searching the same, in any one of the property/whereabout, he shall ensure that opposite party no.2 and her daughter are permitted to stay, so that the orders of the court below dated 4th and 8th November, 2016 may be complied with, as interim order granted earlier by this Court staying the operation of the same has not been extended and same stood discharged earlier. He shall also take assistance of opposite party no.2 i.e. wife of the applicant in tracing him as well as finding out the properties of the applicant and his father.

13. On the next date, the District Judge, Varanasi as well as the Commissioner of Police Varanasi, shall inform the Court of the similar cases, where the maintenance has been awarded by the courts but the same has not been executed, as summons have not been served till date.

14. On earlier occasions, the Court has been informed that the applicant is not missing and he is in contact with his counsels, who are not present in the Court today. On the last occasion also i.e. 1st March, 2021, learned counsels for the applicant were not present.

15. The appearance of Mrs. Alka Singh and Mr. Vipin Kumar Singh, Advocates, who have filed their vakalatnama on behalf of the applicant in the present application and also appeared earlier, before the Court on his behalf, are necessarily required in the present strange case.

16. The Secretary, Allahabad High Court Bar Association, Allahabad shall ensure that Mrs. Alka Singh (A/A-0060/16) and nor Mr. Vipin Kumar Singh, Advocates, (En. No.-04687105, AOR No.-A/V.-0438/12, Mobile No. 9415630302), resident of 148A, N.B. H.C., Allahabad, appear in the Court on the next date i.e. 29th September, 2021.

17. Put up this case on 29th September, 2021 at 02:00 p.m.

18. A copy of this order shall be provided to the learned A.G.A., who shall communicate the same to the District Judge, Varanasi, Commissioner of Police, Varanasi as well as to the Secretary, Allahabad High Court Bar, Association for necessary compliance by Wednesday i.e. 15th September, 2021.

19. The party shall file computer generated copy of this order downloaded from the official website of the High Court, Allahabad, self attested by the party concerned along with a self attested identity proof of the said person(s) (preferably Aadhar Card) mentioning the mobile number(s) to which the said Aadhar Card is linked.

20. The concerned Court/Authority/ Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court, Allahabad and shall made a declaration of such verification in writing.

A. Service Law – UP Basic Education Act, 1972 – Section 12 – UP Junior High Schools (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and other Employees) Act, 1978 – Appointment on the post of Headmaster/ Assistant Teacher – Cancellation – Inquiry set up by the Commissioner – Jurisdiction – Held, report that was forwarded by the Commissioner, though may not form the basis for the action as directed, but it could very well be treated as an information justifying initiation of an enquiry and consequential action that is otherwise permissible under the statutory scheme – Held, further the learned Single Judge while allowing the writ petitions has not left it open for the educational authorities empowered under the 1972 Act and 1978 Act to examine the validity of the appointments under the provisions of the Act – Division Bench modified the writ order. (Para 18 and 19)

B. Service Law – Appointment on the post of Headmaster/Assistant Teacher – Approval granted – Power of Review, when can be exercised – Held, there is no power of review of the order of approval once accorded – But, it is well settled, where an appointee does not possess the minimum qualifications prescribed by a statutory rule, the appointment would be void and can be questioned at any stage – Similarly, where appointments are obtained by a procedure not known to law or by following a procedure which is in flagrant violation of the statutory provisions, it can be questioned at any stage. (Para 18)

C. Rule of Law – Power under law must be exercised in its true spirit – Held, when the administration is governed by a statutory scheme, it has to be carried in the manner provided therein and through such authorities who have been conferred powers thereunder – If the law requires that a particular thing should be done in a particular manner it must be done in that way and none other. (Para 16)

D. Interpretation of Statute – Word 'Otherwise' – Meaning and Scope – Term 'otherwise' as it occurs in Sections (2) of Section 12 of the Act of 1972 is of wide import and it can include information which may have been received from sources other than inspection. (Para 18)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Misra, J.)

1. These six intra-court appeals arise from a common judgment and order dated 14.10.2020 of a learned Single Judge passed in six connected writ petitions, namely, Writ A No. 5540 of 2020; Writ A No. 5795 of 2020; Writ A No. 5831 of 2020; Writ A No. 5743 of 2020; Writ A No. 5592 of 2020; and Writ A No. 5582 of 2020.

2. As the aforementioned writ petitions were decided by a common order, with the consent of the learned counsel for the parties, these appeals were heard together and are being decided by a common judgment and order.

3. Briefly stated the facts giving rise to these intra-court appeals are that in the district of Azamgarh, appointments on the post of Headmaster/Assistant Teacher in various Junior High Schools on the grant-in-aid list of the State were made and approved by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Azamgarh (for short BSA). Questioning their appointment on various grounds, complaints made to the Commissioner of Azamgarh Division (for short the Commissioner) were entertained and the Commissioner set up a four-member Inquiry Committee that prepared a report on 28.1.2020 which was forwarded to the Commissioner by letter dated 29.01.2020 of the Additional Commissioner (Administration) i.e., the Chairman of the Inquiry Committee. The report was thereafter sent to the State Government. The Special Secretary of the State Government, vide letter/order dated 17.02.2020 addressed to the Assistant Director of Education (Basic), Azamgarh Division, Azamgarh, directed that a first information report be lodged against the officers, employees (teachers) and managers of the concerned institutions. Acting on the letter/order dated 17.02.2020, the BSA separately issued show cause notices to the management of the institutions calling upon them to submit a reply as to why the selection/approval with regard to the appointments be not cancelled. In addition to above, on 27.06.2020 letters were issued by the BSA to the Finance and Accounts Officers (for short the Accounts Officer) attached to its office to stop payment of salary to all those appointees whose appointment procedure was found faulty in the report dated 28.01.2020.

4. Writ A Nos. 5540 of 2020; 5743 of 2020; 5795 of 2020; and 5831 of 2020 giving rise to Special Appeal Nos. 25 of 2021; Special Appeal (Defective) No. 238 of 2021; Special Appeal (Defective) No. 255 of 2021; and Special Appeal (Defective) No. 241 of 2021, respectively, were filed by the management of those Junior High Schools who were aggrieved with the Enquiry Report dated 28.01.2020 (forwarded on 29.1.2020), the order dated 17.02.2020 and the show cause notice. Whereas, Writ A Nos. 5582 of 2020 and 5592 of 2020 giving rise to Special Appeal (Defective) No. 225 of 2021 and Special Appeal (Defective) No. 234 of 2021, respectively, were filed by those teachers who were aggrieved with the direction seeking stoppage of their salary.

5. The common ground taken in all the six writ petitions before the learned Single Judge was that basic education including recruitment and payment of salary of teachers related thereto, particularly, those working in institutions on grant in aid list of the State, is governed by statutes and the rules framed thereunder. It was urged that appointment of teachers in a recognized junior high school, receiving grant-in-aid from the State, is to be made in accordance with the provisions of U.P. Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Services of Teachers) Rules, 1978 (for short 1978 Rules) which are framed and notified by the State Government in exercise of its power under Section 19 of the Basic Education Act, 1972 (for short 1972 Act) and the salary of such teachers is paid under the provisions of U.P. Junior High Schools (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and other Employees) Act, 1978 (for short 1978 Act). Neither in the 1978 Rules nor under the 1972 Act or 1978 Act, the Commissioner has a role to play. In the statutory scheme, the Commissioner has no supervisory role over the institutions including their staff/teachers/management and, therefore, the enquiry set up by him was without jurisdiction. Thus, the consequential report is of no consequence and could not be made basis of any further action. Similarly, the order passed by the Commissioner appointing an enquiry committee in respect of appointment of teachers, duly approved by the BSA under the provisions of the 1978 Rules, was completely void and any action flowing from the report of such an Inquiry Committee is void and liable to be quashed.

6. The learned Single Judge after examining the scheme of 1972 Act, 1978 Rules and 1978 Act concluded that the provisions of the aforesaid Acts and the Rules conferred powers on specified authorities other than the Commissioner or other administrative officers therefore, setting up an enquiry committee by the Commissioner, the report of the Inquiry Committee and the consequential direction of the State Government based on that report being in the teeth of the provisions of the Acts and the Rules were all liable to be quashed. Likewise, the show cause notice and salary stoppage order, not being an outcome of independent exercise of power but the dictate of officers not falling in the hierarchy of educational authorities contemplated by the Act and the Rules, were also liable to be quashed. Thus, all the six petitions were allowed by the learned Single Judge.

7. Aggrieved by the decision of the learned Single Judge, the State is in appeal.

8. We have heard Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned senior counsel, assisted by Sri Rajiv Singh, learned Standing Counsel, in all the appeals, for the appellants; Sri R.K. Ojha, learned senior counsel, assisted by Sri Kunwar Bhaskar Parihar and Sri Shivendu Ojha for the respondents in Special Appeal No. 25 of 2021, Special Appeal (Defective) No. 255 of 2021, Special Appeal (Defective) No. 241 of 2021 and Special Appeal (Defective) No. 238 of 2021; Sri Indraraj Singh for the respondents in Special Appeal (Defective) No. 234 of 2021; and Sri H.P. Shahi for the respondents in Special Appeal (Defective) No. 225 of 2021.

9. The submissions of the learned counsel for the appellants is that assuming that the Commissioner of a Division does not have a place in the hierarchy of educational authorities as per the scheme of the Acts (supra) and the Rules (supra) but, section 12 of the 1972 Act confers power on the Director to inspect or cause to be inspected any basic school and, under sub-section (2) thereof, he may direct the management of a basic school to remove any defect/deficiency found on inspection or 'otherwise'. The term 'otherwise' used in sub-section (2) is of significance and enables the Director to take information from various other sources also, to initiate and take action contemplated under the Acts and the Rules. Sub-section (3) of section 12 of the 1972 Act empowers the Director to refer the case to the Board for withdrawal of recognition of such school if management of basic school fails to comply with the direction made under sub-section (2). It is submitted that section 13 of the 1972 Act envisages control by the State Government by providing that the Board shall carry out such directions as may be issued to it from time to time by the State Government for the efficient administration of the Act. As 1978 Rules are framed and notified in exercise of power conferred upon the State Government by section 19 of 1972 Act, any information received by the State Government in respect of violation of the provisions of 1972 Act or 1978 Rules, could be passed on to the authorities to ensure proper administration of the provisions of the 1972 Act therefore, it cannot be said that the Commissioner held no jurisdiction to direct for an enquiry. It is submitted that even assuming that Commissioner held no jurisdiction to bind the educational authorities with the report submitted by the Inquiry Committee set up under its directions, even then the educational authorities were empowered to take notice of the report and proceed further in accordance with law. It was urged that by quashing the report, the notice issued in pursuance of the report and the order issued by the State Government, the learned Single Judge has closed the doors to scrutinize the legality and validity of the appointment that is, whether the appointments were made by following the procedure prescribed by the 1978 Rules.

10. In addition to above, it was urged on behalf of the appellants that section 4 of the 1978 Act empowers the Education Officer to inspect or cause to be inspected any institution or call for such information and records from its management with regard to payment of salaries to its teachers or employees or give its management any direction for the observance of such canons of financial propriety including any direction for retrenchment of any teacher or employee for prohibition of any wasteful expenditure, as he thinks fit. It is urged that the BSA is the Education Officer as per the definition under Section 2 (b) of the 1978 Act. Thus, the show cause notices impugned in the writ petitions, issued by the BSA, were referable to Section 4 of the 1978 Act and were not liable to be quashed at the threshold. More so, when the BSA was authorised to issue notice to the management calling for its explanation in respect of irregularity in the appointment of teachers in the institutions concerned. It is submitted that the impugned judgment and order of the learned Single Judge fails to take notice of the relevant provisions of the 1972 Act, the 1978 Act and the 1978 Rules therefore, the same is liable to be set aside.

11. Per contra, on behalf of the management, it was urged by Sri R.K. Ojha that neither the 1972 Act nor the 1978 Act contemplates a role for the Commissioner to examine the validity of the appointments approved by the Basic Education Officer. Thus, the setting up of an enquiry committee by him is a void act with no statutory backing. Accordingly, the learned Single Judge was justified in quashing the order/notice impugned in the writ petition. In the alternative, it was submitted on behalf of the respondents that if any irregularity in appointments had been noticed, the same could be reported to the Director or to the Board to act in accordance with the provisions of law. But, issuance of notice at the dictates of the State authorities, having no place in the statutory scheme governing basic education, is completely unjustified and has rightly been quashed by the learned Single Judge.

12. On behalf of teachers (respondents in Special Appeal (Defective) Nos. 225 of 2021 and 234 of 2021), it was urged by Sri Indraraj Singh and Sri H.P. Shahi that the appointments were made in accordance with the 1978 Rules and had received approval of the BSA and so long the appointments are not cancelled by a procedure known to law there could be no stoppage of salary. Therefore, the judgment of the learned Single Judge in that regard calls for no interference.

13. We have considered the rival submissions and have perused the record carefully.

14. Before we proceed to weigh the rival submissions, we may notice the reasoning of the learned Single Judge in the impugned judgment.

15. The learned Single Judge placed reliance on a decision of the Apex Court in Manohar Lal (Dead) By Lrs. vs Ugrasen (Dead) By Lrs. & Ors (2010) 11 SCC 557, wherein, after noticing various decisions, the apex court had concluded as follows:

"Therefore, the law on the question can be summarised to the effect that no higher authority in the hierarchy or an appellate or revisional authority can exercise the power of the statutory authority nor can the superior authority mortgage its wisdom and direct the statutory authority to act in a particular manner. If the appellate or revisional authority takes upon itself the task of the statutory authority and passes an order, it remains unenforceable for the reason that it cannot be termed to be an order passed under the Act."

16. The legal principle forming the basis of the decision of the Apex Court in Manohar Lal's case (supra) is well settled. The principle is that when the administration is governed by a statutory scheme, it has to be carried in the manner provided therein and through such authorities who have been conferred powers thereunder. That is, if the law requires that a particular thing should be done in a particular manner it must be done in that way and none other. Following this principle in Dipak Babaria V. State of

Gujarat, (2014) 3 SCC 502, the Apex Court, in paragraph 72, observed:

"The State cannot ignore the policy intent and procedure contemplated by the statute...It is not merely the end but the means which are of equal importance, particularly if they are enshrined in the legislative scheme. The minimum that was required was an enquiry at the level of the Collector who is the statutory authority. Dictating him to act in a particular manner on the assumption by the Minister that it is in the interest of industrial development would lead to a breach of the mandate of statute framed by the legislature."

17. Applying the above legal principle and upon finding that in the scheme of the 1972 Act and 1978 Rules a separate set of authorities have been conferred powers and the Commissioner finds no place in that statutory scheme, the learned Single Judge justifiably held that the Commissioner exceeded its jurisdiction and powers by directing an enquiry and, similarly, the Secretary Education, without independently applying his mind, erred in issuing a command to the educational authorities to straight away lodge a first information report and to act in a particular manner. To this extent, the order of the learned Single Judge being well founded on settled legal principles calls for no interference. However, what has been overlooked by the learned Single Judge is, whether the impugned report doubting the validity of the appointments on the ground that the procedure prescribed for appointments was not followed, could be treated as an information to form basis for initiation of a proper enquiry within the framework of the Acts (i.e. 1972 Act and 1978 Act) and the Rules. In this context, the learned counsel for the State has submitted that the doors to examine irregularities in the appointment ought not to have been closed. We find substance in this submission of the appellant's counsel. We, therefore, now proceed to examine the statutory scheme of the 1972 Act and the 1978 Act to find out as to in what manner the validity of such appointments could be tested once approval to them was accorded by the BSA.

18. The 1972 Act is an Act to provide for the establishment of a Board of basic education and for the matters connected therewith. Section 2 (b) defines basic education as education up to class eighth. Section 19 empowers the State Government to make rules for carrying out the purposes of the Act. Clause (c) of sub-section (2) of Section 19 of the 1972 Act specifically provides that rules may provide for the recruitment, and the conditions of service of the persons appointed, to the posts of teachers and other employees of basic schools recognised by the Board. 1978 Rules framed under the 1972 Act provide for the procedure as well as qualification for appointment of teachers to such schools. Sub -rule (5) of Rule 10 casts a duty upon the BSA, before granting approval to the appointment, to be satisfied that the candidates recommended by the Selection Committee possess the minimum qualifications prescribed for the post and that the procedure laid down in the Rules for the selection of Head Master or Assistant Teacher, as the case may be, has been duly followed. No doubt, there is no power of review of the order of approval once accorded. But, it is well settled, where an appointee does not possess the minimum qualifications prescribed by a statutory rule, the appointment would be void and can be questioned at any stage. Similarly, where appointments are obtained by a procedure not known to law or by following a procedure which is in flagrant violation of the statutory provisions, it can be questioned at any stage. More over, the BSA, under section 4 of the 1978 Act, is empowered to inspect or cause to be inspected any institution or call for records from its management with regard to the payment of salaries to its teachers or employees or give its management any direction for the observance of such canons of financial propriety (including any direction for retrenchment of any teacher or employee for prohibition of any wasteful expenditure) as he thinks fit. For enforcement of a direction issued under section 4 of the 1978 Act, procedure is prescribed under section 6 thereof. Likewise, section 12 of the Act, 1972 envisages control of the Director over Basic Schools. As a junior high school is a basic school within the meaning of section 2(b) of the 1972 Act, it cannot be said that the Director has no control over it. Further, sub-section (2) of section 12 provides that the Director may direct the management of a basic school to remove any defect or deficiency found on inspection or otherwise. The term 'otherwise' in P. Ramanatha Aiyar's Advanced Law Lexicon has been attributed different meaning in different contexts. One of them is "by other like means; contrarily; different from that to which it relates; in a different manner; in another way; in any other way; differently in other respects in different respects; in some other like capacity." The above meaning attributed to the term otherwise has been adopted by the Apex Court in its decision in the case of R & B Falcon (A) Pvt Ltd. V Commissioner of Income Tax, (2008) 12 SCC 466. What we find from the above is that the term "otherwise" as it occurs in sub-section (2) of section 12 of the 1972 Act is of wide import and it can include information which may have been received from sources other than inspection. Hence, in our view, the report that was forwarded by the Commissioner, though may not form the basis for the action as directed, but it could very well be treated as an information justifying initiation of an enquiry and consequential action that is otherwise permissible under the statutory scheme of the 1972 Act and 1978 Act.

19. As the learned Single Judge while allowing the writ petitions has not left it open for the educational authorities empowered under the 1972 Act and 1978 Act to examine the validity of the appointments under the provisions of the Act and the Rules framed thereunder, we are of the view that the judgment and order of the learned Single Judge is liable to be modified to that extent.

20. We, therefore, partly allow Special Appeal No. 25 of 2021; Special Appeal (Defective) No. 238 of 2021; Special Appeal (Defective) No. 255 of 2021; and Special Appeal (Defective) No. 241 of 2021 and modify the judgment and order of the learned Single Judge dated 14.10.2020 to the extent indicated below:-

"The enquiry report dated 28/29.01.2020 as well as the order of the State Government dated 17.02.2020 though, would not be binding on the educational authorities but may be taken as an information to initiate a fresh proceeding within the framework and the scheme of the 1972 Act and 1978 Act. Similarly, the order dated 17.02.2020 will not be treated as a binding direction to lodge the FIR but if the educational authority by applying its own independent mind is of the opinion that there is sufficient material reflecting commission of cognizable offence then it would be free to report such offence."

21. The order of the learned Single Judge quashing the orders stopping the payment of salary is affirmed subject to the liberty to examine the legality/propriety of the appointments given above. Special Appeal (Defective) No. 225 of 2021 and Special Appeal (Defective) No. 234 of 2021 are disposed off accordingly.

A. Service Law – UP Road Transport Corporations Act, 1950 – 34 – GO dated 10.10.2012 and Circular dated 25.10.2012 – Pension – Entitlement – Initially appointed against non-pensionable post; however, subsequently promoted against pensionable post – Exclusion from the benefit of departmental pension – Permissibility – Held, there cannot be any doubt about the power of the State Government emanating from Section 34 of 1950 Act to issue instructions or give directions to the Corporation in respect of conditions of service of the employees of the Corporation – GO dated 10.10.2012 does not differentiate between the employees who were getting pension under the EPF Pension Scheme and those who were not getting such benefit. However, contrary to the stipulation available in the GO dated 10.10.2012, the Corporation while issuing the circular dated 25.10.2012 has drawn such a distinction – Division Bench found no illegality in writ order quashing circular dated 25.10.2012. (Delivered by Hon'ble Devendra Kumar Upadhyay, J.

1. These special appeals filed by the appellant-U.P. State Road Transport Corporation (hereinafter referred to as the Corporation) raise similar questions of law and facts and are therefore being decided by the common judgment, which follows as under :

2. Special Appeals No.177 of 2019 and 178 of 2019 assail the judgment and order dated 22.02.2019 passed by Hon'ble Single Judge whereby Writ Petition Nos.385 (SB) of 2014 and Writ Petition No.728 (SB) of 2014 were allowed, the orders dated 05.12.2013 and 19.02.2013 whereby the benefit of departmental pension to the petitioners of the said writ petition was denied, have been quashed and a portion of circular dated 25.10.2012 issued by the Corporation sofar as it excludes the employees getting the benefit of pension under the EPF Pension Scheme from being paid the departmental pension, has also been quashed. Learned Single Judge, accordingly, while allowing the writ petitions by the said judgment dated 22.02.2019 has further directed the Corporation to fix the pension of the petitioners and make payment thereof after adjusting the amount of employer's share in the EPF Pension Scheme which had been received by the petitioners. The learned Single Judge has further provided that neither the petitioners nor the Corporation shall claim any interest either on pension amount or on amount of employer's share in the EPF Pension Scheme.

3. In Special Appeal No.183 of 2019, the order under challenge has been passed by learned Single Judge, dated 22.02.2019 whereby the Writ Petition No.1530 (SS) of 2014 has been allowed and the benefits made available to the petitioners in Writ Petition No.385 (SB) of 2014 and 728 (SB) of 2014 vide judgment and order dated 22.02.2019 have been extended to the petitioner of Writ Petition No.1530 (SS) of 2014 as well.

4. We have heard Shri Ratnesh Chandra along with Shri Abhinav Singh, learned counsel representing the U.P. State Road Transport Corporation and Shri Gaus Beg, learned counsel representing the respondents (who shall hereinafter be referred to as the petitioners for convenience) in all the special appeals and have also perused the record available before us.

5. U.P. State Road Transport Corporation was established on 01.06.1972 under Section 3 of Road Transport Corporations Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as the 1950 Act) and has accordingly been incorporated as a body corporate having its own perpetual succession and a common seal. Prior to incorporation of the Corporation, in the State of U.P., Public Transport was being taken care of by a government department which was commonly known as U.P. Government Roadways Organization. On establishment and incorporation of the Corporation under Section 3 of the Act, 1950 in the State of Uttar Pradesh, under a government arrangement the assets, liabilities and even the employees working in the erstwhile Government Roadways Organization were transferred to the newly established Transport Corporation.

6. All the employees working in the Government Roadways Organization were required to submit their options, if they wanted their services to be transferred to and subsequently absorbed in the newly created Corporation. That is how initially the human resource in the newly established Corporation was inducted/created.

7. By means of a Government Order dated 05.07.1972, it was also provided that service conditions of the employees working in Government Roadways Organization, who gave their options for being absorbed in the services of the Corporation, would not in any manner be inferior to the service conditions, which they had enjoyed while working in the Government Roadways Organization. However, for governing the condition of service of the employees of the Corporation no service rules or regulations were framed prior to framing of the U.P. State Road Transport Corporation (Other than Officers) Service Regulations, 1981, which were notified on 19.06.1981. The concept of retirement benefits was accordingly introduced by promulgating the said 1981 regulations as Regulation 39 provided that an employee of the Corporation shall not be entitled to pension but he shall be entitled to retirement benefits mentioned in Sub-Regulation 2 of Regulation 39. Thus, the employees of the Corporation were not made available the benefit of pension ; rather certain retirement benefits provided in Regulation 39 were made available to them. However, the said provision carves an exception in respect of those employees who were earlier working with the State Government in the Government Roadways Organization and were subsequently absorbed in the services of the Corporation and such employees were, thus, made entitled to pension and other retirement benefits in terms of the Government Order dated 05.07.1972. This exception has a rationale as the Government Order dated 05.07.1972 specifically provided that those government employees who were to opt to be absorbed in the services of the Corporation shall not be given benefits, which may be inferior to the benefits they would have got had they continued to work and discharge their duties as government employees.

8. It has been stated at the Bar that prior to incorporation of the Corporation, in the Government Roadways Organization there were two categories of posts generally and the classification based on payment of pension did exist, according to which certain posts were pensionable and certain other posts were non-pensionable. On transfer/merger of assets and liabilities and other ancillary things which earlier belonged to U.P. Government Roadways Organization with the newly created Corporation, the posts of both these categories, namely, pensionable and non-pensionable got transferred to the Corporation as well. Accordingly, even after establishment of the Corporation appointments were made both against pensionable and non-pensionable posts.

9. All three petitioners in these matters were initially appointed in the Corporation against non-pensionable posts, however, they were subsequently promoted in pensionable posts. The details of service rendered by the petitioners are given below :

1.Subhash Chandra Gautam

Srl. No.	Date	Appointed/Promoted	Post	Nature of Post

10. It appears that on a proposal submitted by the Corporation, the State Government issued an order on 20.10.2004, which provides that the employees of the Corporation who were appointed between the period commencing on 01.06.1972 and ending on 19.06.1981 will also be entitled to grant of pension provided they were appointed on a pensionable posts. These two dates, namely, 01.06.1972 and 19.06.1981 have some significance. On 01.06.1972, the Corporation was established under Section 3 of the 1950 Act whereas on 19.06.1981, the Regulations of

1981 came into force which inter alia provide that the employees of the Corporation will not be paid pension rather they shall be entitled to certain retirement benefits with the exception that those who were appointed prior to 01.06.1972 with the State Government Roadways Organization and whose services were later on merged with the Corporation shall be entitled to pension. This was clearly in conformity with the earlier Government Order dated 05.07.1972 which in a manner made a representation or a promise to the employees of erstwhile State Government Roadways Organization that if they opted for absorption in the services of the Corporation the service benefits available to them would not be in any manner

11. Based on the said Government Order dated 20.10.2004, the UPSRTC issued a circular on 26.12.2005 which inter alia provided that since the Board of Directors of the Corporation has resolved in its 160th meeting to give effect to the Government Order dated 20.10.2004, as such, benefit of pension be made available to those employees who are covered by the Government Order dated 20.10.2004.

12. Thereafter in respect of the employees, who were appointed in the Corporation against non-pensionable posts and were, however, subsequently promoted on a pensionable post, the State Government issued another Government Order dated 10.10.2012 which provided that such employees shall also be eligible to pension in terms of the Government Order dated 20.10.2004. After issuance of the said Government Order dated 10.10.2012, the Managing Director of the Corporation issued a circular dated 25.10.2012 in pursuance of the said Government Order dated 10.10.2012. However, the circular provides that those retired employees who are getting pension/family pension from EPF Pension Scheme will not be eligible to the benefit of the pension in terms of Government Order dated 10.10.2012. It is this stipulation, which excludes the retired employees from the benefit of pension in terms of the Government Order dated 10.10.2012, that became subject matter of challenge in the writ petitions filed by the petitioners which have been decided by the learned Single Judge.

13. It is not in dispute that the petitioners herein were initially appointed against non-pensionable post, however, they were subsequently promoted against pensionable posts in the Corporation. It is also not in dispute that all the petitioners had retired from the service of the Corporation prior to issuance of the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 and issuance of the circular by the Corporation, dated 25.10.2012.

14. The only question which thus needs to be considered and answered by us is as to whether the exclusion from the benefit of departmental pension of such retired employees who were being benefited by the EPF related pension is vitiated and erroneous and such employees could or could not be excluded from the benefit emanating from the Government Order dated 10.10.2012.

15. Lengthy arguments have been made by learned counsel representing the respective parties and we have given our anxious consideration to the same.

16. Learned counsel appearing for the appellant-Corporation has argued that the circulars dated 25.10.2012 and 26.12.2005 only contained guidelines which in fact were policy decisions taken by the Corporation, as such, legally no interference in such policy decisions was permissible by learned Single Judge while the writ petitions filed by the petitioners were decided by the orders which are under appeal in this case.

17. It has further been argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 has to be read in conjunction with Government Order dated 20.10.2004 which only provided no objection of the State Government for making available the benefit of pension to particular class of employees and in fact right to seek benefit of pension actually flows from the circular dated 25.10.2012 wherein considering the financial health of the Corporation, a conscious decision was taken not to make available the benefit of the departmental pension to those retired employee of the Corporation who were already getting pension under the EPF Scheme.

18. It has further been contended by learned counsel appearing for the appellant that in terms of the circular dated 25.10.2012, no option was ever exercised by the petitioners and as such in accordance with the stipulations available in the said circular dated 25.10.2012 itself, it would be deemed that the petitioners did not opt for the benefit of the pension on the basis of the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 and the circular dated 25.10.2012. Thus, the claim to the petitioner is barred by their non-exercise of the option as was required by the circular dated 25.10.2012.

19. It has further been argued that there exists a reasonable classification permissible under Article 14 of the Constitution of India between the retired employees who were getting pension under the EPF Pension Scheme and those who were not getting such benefit under the said EPF Pension Scheme and accordingly, since this classification has a rational basis, it is not open to the learned counsel for the petitioners to argue that the petitioners have been subjected to any kind of discrimination, much less any hostile discrimination.

20. Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that in fact the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 does not direct the Corporation to make payment of pension, rather it only expresses its no objection if pension is paid to the employees of the Corporation and, thus, it was well within the authority and jurisdiction of the Corporation to have framed the guidelines which are contained in the circular dated 25.10.2012 and exclude a particular category of employees from the benefit of the departmental pension.

21. Further submission is that intention of the State Government while issuing the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 was not to cover each and every employee of the Corporation with the benefit of the departmental pension, instead it was left open to the Corporation to take a decision, depending on the contingencies and exigencies of the Corporation, to cover or not to cover with the benefit of departmental pension scheme any set of employees or even to exclude them.

22. Certain other arguments have also been made by learned counsel for the appellant, who has attempted to point out certain flaws in the judgment under appeal.

23 . On behalf of the appellant-Corporation heavy reliance has been placed on the judgment in the case of Krishena

Kumar vs. Union of India and others reported in (1990) 4 SCC 207 wherein, according to the learned counsel for the appellant, the ratio laid down by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of D. S. Nakara and others vs. Union of India reported in (1983) 1 SCC 305 has been diluted. It has been submitted that the facts of the present case are similar to the facts in the case of Krishena Kumar (supra) and in view of what has been decided by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid case of Krishena Kumar (supra) the writ petitions ought to have been dismissed and accordingly, this appeal deserves to be allowed.

24. On the other hand, Sri Gaus Beg, refuting the submissions made by learned counsel for the appellant, has argued that the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 is referable to Section 34 of the Act, 1950, which clearly provides that any such direction issued by the State Government shall be binding upon the Corporation. He has, thus, contended that in fact right of getting benefit of departmental pension flows from the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 which does not differentiate between two sets of employees, namely, the employees who were getting pension from the EPF Pension Scheme and those who were not getting such pension. He has further submitted that any deviation in the circular dated 25.10.2012 from the stipulations and prescriptions available in the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 would not be permissible in view of the mandate of Section 34 of the 1950 Act. The submission is that in fact the circular dated 25.10.2012 could not over ride the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 and thus exclusion of those employees from the benefit of departmental pension who were getting pension under the EPF Pension Scheme is absolutely arbitrary and has, thus, rightly been quashed by learned Single Judge while passing the judgment and order under appeal.

25. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, what we notice is that there is no dispute between the parties that petitioners are those employees who were initially appointed in the Corporation against non-pensionable post, however, were subsequently promoted on pensionable posts in the Corporation. It is also not in dispute that at the time of initial appointment of the petitioners against non-pensionable post there were no statutory service rules or regulations governing the conditions of their service. It is only in the year 1981 that the service conditions of the employees of the Corporation were sought to be regulated by framing the service regulations in terms of the provision contained in Section 45 of 1950 Act. It is also not in dispute that all the petitioners retired before issuance of the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 followed by the circular of the Corporation, dated 25.10.2012. The parties also do not dispute the fact that while in service the employer's contribution to the EPF Pension Scheme was also made, however, the bone of contention between the parties is as to whether the exclusion of the petitioners and other similarly circumstanced employees from operation of the pension scheme introduced by the Government Order 10.10.2012 read with the circular dated 25.10.2012 is lawful.

26. As observed above, U.P. State Roadways Corporation has been established and incorporated under Sections 3 and 4 of the 1950 Act. It is, thus, a statutory Corporation having an entity distinct from that of a Government department. The affairs of the Corporation are, thus, to be governed by the scheme of the 1950 Act and the prescriptions available therein.

27. Section 44 of the 1950 Act empowers the State Government to make rules by way of a notification to be published in the official gazette, to give effect to the provisions of the said Act.

28. Section 45 empowers the Corporation to make regulations, of course, with the previous sanction of the State Government which may be not inconsistent with the provisions of 1950 Act and the rules made, if any, under Section 44.

29. Section 34 contains a provision which is very significant and relevant to decide the controversy which has arisen in this case. It empowers the State Government to give general instructions to the Corporation which are to be followed by the Corporation. Section 34 further provides that such directions can be issued after consultation with the Corporation and such instructions or directions relate to recruitment, condition of service and training of employees, wages to be paid and reserves to be maintained and further disposal of the profits and stocks of the Corporation. Section 34 of the 1950 Act is extracted herein below for ready reference :-

"Section 34. Directions by the State Government.--(1) The State Government may, after consultation with a Corporation established by such Government, give to the Corporation general instructions to be followed by the Corporation, and such instructions may include directions relating to the recruitment, conditions of service and training of its employees, wages to be paid to the employees, reserves to be maintained by it and disposal of its profits or stocks.

(2) In the exercise of its powers and performance of its duties under this Act, the Corporation shall not depart from any general instructions issued under sub-section (1) except with the previous permission of the State Government."

30. From a bare perusal of the above quoted provision contained in Section 34 of 1950 Act, it is abundantly clear that the State Government has been statutorily empowered to issue mandatory directions to the Corporation on certain subjects including the conditions of service. It is not in dispute that payment of pension forms a condition of service and, accordingly, there cannot be any doubt about the power of the State Government emanating from Section 34 of 1950 Act to issue instructions or give directions to the Corporation in respect of conditions of service of the employees of the Corporation.

31. So far as the petitioners in these matters are concerned, the Government Order dated 20.10.2004 and the related circular dated 26.12.2005 do not have any application, rather these petitioners would be governed by the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 and circular dated 25.10.2012. Thus we would discuss the nature of the directions issued in the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 and the prescriptions available in the circular dated 25.10.2012.

32. From a perusal of the Government Order dated 10.10.2012, it is clear that the same was issued in consultation with the Corporation as the said Government Order itself makes a reference of a letter of the Finance Controller of the Corporation. It appears that some proposal was made by the Finance Controller of the Corporation, on which the government issued the order dated 10.10.2012. The said government order, as observed above, provides that those employees of the Corporation who were initially appointed against non-pensionable post but were further promoted on a pensionable post between 01.06.1972 to 19.06.1981 shall be eligible for grant of pension and on this the State Government gives its no objection. The Government Order clearly states that further action may be taken by the Corporation according to the stipulation made in the Government Order dated 10.10.2012. Under the scheme of the 1950 Act, there is no other provision which empowers the State Government to give direction to the Corporation except Section 34 which empowers the State Government to give general instructions which are to be followed by the Corporation.

33. The language in which the provisions of Section 34 are couched does not leave any doubt in our mind that any such instruction referable to Section 34 of the 1950 Act are binding on the Corporation. In fact the Corporation does not have any escape of not following or not abiding by any instructions issued or directions given by the State Government to it under Section 34 of the Act, 1950.

34. Sub Section 2 of Section 34 mandatorily prohibits the Corporation from departing or deviating from instruction issued by the Government except with the previous permission of the State Government.

35. The submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 only expresses its no objection for the reason that it is to be read along with the prescriptions available in the Government Order dated 20.10.2004, in our considered opinion, is highly misconceived for the reason that the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 clearly directs the Corporation to take further action in terms of the stipulations made therein. Further, learned counsel for the appellant has failed to show any provision to us which requires no objection of the State Government in case of any policy decision. If the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 was to be mandatorily followed as per the mandate of Section 34 of 1950 Act, it was not open to the Corporation to provide anything other than what is provided in the Government Order dated 10.10.2012. The Government Order dated 10.10.2012 does not differentiate between the employees who were getting pension under the EPF Pension Scheme and those who were not getting such benefit. However, contrary to the stipulation available in the Government Order dated 10.10.2012, the Corporation while issuing the circular dated 25.10.2012 has drawn such a distinction which in our considered opinion was legally impermissible for what has been provided under Section 34 of the 1950 Act.

36. It is worth noticing here that nothing has been shown to us from where we can infer that any permission by the State Government was ever accorded to the Corporation, as contemplated in Section 34 (2) of the Act. In absence of any such permission the Corporation could not have deviated in any manner from the stipulations available in the Government Order dated 10.10.2012.

37. What we have observed about the mandatory nature of Section 34 of 1950 Act is fortified by a decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of S. P. Dubey vs. Madhya Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation and another reported in 1991 Supp (1) SCC 426.

38. So far as the submission made by learned counsel for the appellant that the circular dated 25.10.2012 was a policy decision in the form of guidelines is concerned, we may state that even such guidelines or the policy decision could not go beyond the mandate of the State Government contained in the Government Order dated 10.10.2012. Any decision of any nature to be taken by the Corporation has to be subservient to the directions or instructions given or issued by the State Government which are referable to Section 34 of the 1950 Act. It is also noticeable at this juncture itself that circular dated 25.10.2012 clearly makes a mention of what has been provided for in the Government Order dated 10.10.2012. Hence, having noticed the stipulations and prescriptions available in the Government Order dated 10.10.2012, it was not open to the Corporation to have provided anything other than what has been provided by the Government Order dated 10.10.2012.

39. So far as the submission of learned counsel for the appellant that in absence of any option having been exercised by the petitioners pursuant to the circular dated 25.10.2012 it will be deemed that the petitioners were not covered by the said benefit, we may only notice that the circular dated 25.10.2012 was issued at a time when the petitioners had retired from the service of the Corporation. There is nothing on record to show that these petitioners were ever required by the Corporation by any written or even oral notice to them to exercise their options as per the stipulations made in the circular dated 25.10.2012. The submission by the learned counsel for the appellant that the circular was general in nature and it was not required to be served individually on each and every employee will have no application or bearing in this case for the reason that such a contention may be true (though even this is argueable) in respect of serving employees but for the employees who had retired from the service of Corporation, this refuge to the appellant is not available. This issue has, in fact, been elaborately dealt with by learned Single Judge in his judgment and order under appeal.

40. Drawing attention of the Court to a paragraph mentioned by Hon'ble Single Judge, it has been stated that it was never an admitted fact that the petitioners were entitled to get regular departmental pension. The said paragraph, we are afraid, has not been read by the appellant in conjunction with the discussions made in rest of the judgment and accordingly no flaw worth the name can be found therein.

41. The submission made by learned counsel for the appellant in this regard thus merits rejection, which is hereby rejected.

42. As regards the judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the appellant in the case of Krishena Kumar (supra) it is observed that there cannot be any dispute as regards the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the said case that the dependent on the fact situation even pension retirees may not necessarily form a homogeneous class, however, the facts of the present case are that though the State Government while issuing the Government Order dated 10.10.2012 did not differentiate between two separate groups of employees but it is only the Corporation which created a separate class of employees who were paid pension form EPF Pension scheme. As already observed above, it was not open to the Corporation to have deviated from what has been provided by the State Government in its order dated 10.10.2012 and, thus, the reliance placed by learned counsel for the appellant on the case of Krishena Kumar (supra) does not come to the rescue of the appellant.

43. In view of the discussions made and the reasons given herein above, in our considered opinion, special appeals are highly misconceived, which are hereby dismissed.

44. However, we provide that benefit of the judgment and order passed by learned Single Judge, shall, thus now be made available within a period of two months from the date a certified copy of this order is presented before the authority concerned.

45. In the facts of the case, cost is made easy.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Suresh Chandra Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Manjeev Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for opposite parties.

2. The writ petition has been filed challenging inter alia the judgment and order dated 06.02.2020 passed by the State

Public Service Tribunal, Lucknow in reference No. 896 of 2019: Devendra Kumar Mishra Vs. State of U.P. and others, by which the reference/claim petition filed by the petitioner was rejected being barred by limitation. The prayers made in the petition are as under:

"i. Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 6.2.2020 passed by State Public Service Tribunal Lucknow as well as punishment order dated 5.5.2012 passed by Additional Superintendent of Police Traffic Lucknow and order dated 29.09.2012 passed by appellate authority and order dated 14.03.2013 passed by revisional authority contained in Annexure no.1,5,7 and 8 to the writ petition in the interest of justice.

ii. Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding and directing opposite parties to consider the case of the petitioner for promotion on the post of Head Constable in the interes of justice.

iii. Issue a writ order or direction which deemed fit and proper may kindly be passed in favour of the petitioners.

iv. Allow the writ petition with costs. "

3. The petitioner was appointed on the post of Constable Civil Police on 01.01.1987 and during his posting at Lucknow Police Line, a preliminary enquiry was held and in view of the preliminary inquiry report dated 03.11.2021, the petitioner was served with a Show Cause Notice dated 23.12.2011 under Rule 14 (2) of the U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 (herein after referred to as "Rules, 1991") for imposing the penalty of "censure' under Rule 4 (1) (b) (iv) of the Rules, 1991. The petitioner filed reply dated 09.01.2012.

4. Another Show Cause Notice dated 24.01.2012 was issued on the same charges for imposing fine equivalent to one month salary under Rule 4 (1) (b) (ii) of the Rules, 1991 against which the petitioner filed reply dated 08.02.2012. The Additional Superintendent of Police, Traffic, Lucknow vide order dated 05.05.2012 imposed the penalty of fine equivalent to one month salary. The petitioner preferred departmental appeal, which was dismissed on 29.09.2012 and his revision against this order was also rejected on 14.03.2013 by the Inspector General of Police, Lucknow Zone, Lucknow. Thereafter, the petitioner had filed a representation dated 10.01.2019 under Rule 25 of the Rules, 1991 and during its pendency, the petitioner filed Reference No. 896 of 2019 which has been rejected by the U.P. State Public Service Tribunal, as barred by limitation.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that as the petitioner had preferred representation on 10.01.2019 as provided by rule 25 of the Rules, 1991, the claim petition filed on 27.05.2019 was within the period of limitation of one year as provided under Section 5 (1) (b) (i) of the U.P. Public Services (Tribunals) Act, 1976 (in short "Act, 1976) and as such the Tribunal erred in rejecting the reference as barred by limitation.

6. Sri Manjeev Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has submitted that the claim petition was filed on 27.05.2019 whereas the petitioner's revision was dismissed on 14.03.2013 and as such the claim petition was preferred after more than six years. The claim petition was highly time barred and has been rightly rejected by the Tribunal. He further submitted that mere filing of representation under Rule 25 of the Rules, 1991 would not extend the period of limitation nor would it revive a stale claim. The representation, itself, was filed in the year 2019 and was also not maintainable nor permissible under Rule 25 of the Rules, 1991, as the petitioner had already availed the remedy of appeal which was rejected way back in the year 2012. He submitted that the Tribunal did not commit any illegality in rejecting the claim petition as barred by limitation.

7. We have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsels for the parties and perused the material on record.

8. It would be appropriate to refer the provisions of Sections 4 and 5 of the U.P. Public Services (Tribunals) Act, 1976, at this very stage.

9. Section 4 of the U.P. Public Services (Tribunals) Act, 1976 reads as under:

"4. Reference of claim to Tribunal.-(1) Subject to the other provision of this Act, a person who is or has been a public servant and is aggrieved by an order pertaining to a service matter within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal, may make a reference of claim to the Tribunal for the redressal of his grievance.

Explanation.-For the purpose of this sub-section "order" means an order or omission or in-action of the State Government or a local authority or any other Corporation or company referred to in clause (b) of Section 2 or of an officer, committee or other body or agency of the State Government or such local authority or Corporation or company:

Provided that no reference shall, subject to the terms of any contract, be made in respect of a claim arising out of the transfer of a public servant.

Provided further that in the case of the death of a public servant, his legal representative, and where there are two or more such representatives, all of them jointly, may make a reference to the Tribunal for payment of salary, allowances, gratuity, provident fund, pension and other pecuniary benefits relating to services due to such public servant.

(2) Every reference under sub-section (1) shall be in such form and be accompanied by such documents or other evidence and by such fee in respect of the filling of such reference and by such other fees for the services or execution of processes, as may be prescribed.

(3) On receipt of a reference under sub-section (1), the Tribunal shall, if satisfied after such inquiry as it may deem necessary that the reference is fit for adjudication or trial by it, admit such reference and where the Tribunal is not so satisfied, it shall summarily reject the reference after recording its reasons.

(4) Where a reference has been admitted by the Tribunal under sub-section (3), every proceeding under the relevant service rules or regulation or any contract as to redressal of grievances in relation to the subject-matter of such reference pending immediately before such admission shall abate, and save as otherwise directed by the Tribunal, no appeal or representation in relation to such matter shall thereafter be entertained under such rules, regulations or contract.

(5) The Tribunal shall not ordinarily admit a reference unless it is satisfied that the public servant has availed of all the remedies available to him under the relevant service rules, regulations or contract as to redressal of grievances.

(6) For the purposes of sub-section (5) a public servant shall be deemed to have availed of all the remedies available to him if a final order has been made by the State Government, an authority or officer thereof or other person competent to pass such order under such rules or regulations or contract rejecting any appeal preferred or representation made by such public servant in connection with the grievance:

Provided that where no final order is made by the State Government, authority officer or other person competent to pass such order with regard to the appeal preferred or representation made by such public servant within six months from the date on which such appeal was preferred or representation was made, the public servant may, by a written notice by registered post, require such competent authority to pass the order and if the order is not passed within one month of the service of such notice, the public servant shall be deemed to have availed of all the remedies available to him.

(7) For the purposes of sub-section (5) and(6) any remedy available to the public servant by way of submission of a memorial to the Governor or to any other functionary shall not be deemed to be one of the remedies, which are available unless the public servant had elected to submit such memorial.

10. Section 5 of the U.P. Public Services (Tribunals) Act, 1976 reads as under:

5. Powers and procedure of the Tribunal.-(1)(a) The Tribunal shall not be bound by the procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (Act 5 of 1908), or the rules of evidence contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872(Act 1 of 1872), but shall be guided by the principles of natural justice, and subject to the provisions of this section and of any rules made under Section 7, the Tribunal shall have power to regulate its own procedure (including the fixing of places and times of its sittings and deciding whether to sit in public or in private):

Provided that where, in respect of the subject- matter of a reference, a competent court has already passed a decree or order or issued a writ or direction, and such decree, order, writ or direction has become final, the principle of res judicata shall apply;

(b) The provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 (Act 36 of 1963) shall mutatis mutandis apply to reference under section 4 as if a reference were a suit filed in civil court so, however, that:-

(i) notwithstanding the period of limitation prescribed in the Schedule to the said Act, the period of limitation for such reference shall be one year;

(ii) in computing the period of limitation the period beginning with the date on which the public servant makes a representation or prefers an appeal, revision or any other petition (not being a memorial to the Governor), in accordance with the rules or orders regulating his conditions of service, and ending with the date on which such public servant has knowledge of the final order passed on such representation, appeal, revision or petition, as the case may be, shall be excluded:

Provided that any reference for which the period of limitation prescribed by the Limitation Act, 1963 is more than one year, a reference under Section 4 may be made within the period prescribed by that Act, or within one year next after the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Tribunals) (Amendment) Act, 1985, whichever period expires earlier :

Provided further that nothing in this clause as substituted by the Uttar Pradesh Public Service (Tribunal) (Amendment) Act, 1985, shall affect any reference made before and pending at the commencement of the said Act.

(2) The Tribunal shall decide every reference expeditiously and ordinarily, every case shall be decided by it on the basis of perusal of documents and representations, and of oral or written arguments, if any.

(3) The Tribunal may admit in evidence in lieu of any original document, a copy thereof attested by a gazetted officer or by a notary.

(4) The Tribunal shall not ordinarily call for or allow to be adduced oral evidence, and may, if necessary, require any party to file an affidavit.

(5) The Tribunal shall, for the purpose of holding any inquiry under this Act, have, subject to the provisions of sub-section (1), the same powers as are vested in a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908(Act V of 1908), while trying a suit, in respect of the following matters:-

(a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath;

(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents;

(c) receiving evidence on affidavits;

(d) subject to the provisions of Sections 123 and 124 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872(Act I of 1872), requisitioning any public record or copy thereof from any office;

(e) issuing commission for the examination of witnesses or documenstes;

(f) recording a lawful agreement, compromise or satisfaction and making an order in accordance therewith;

(g) reviewing its decision;

(h) dismissing a reference for default or deciding it ex parte;

(i) setting aside an order of dismissal for default or an order passed by it ex parte;

(j) passing interlocutory orders pending final decision of any reference on such terms, if any, as it thinks fit to impose;

(k) any other matter which may be prescribed.

(5-A) No interim order (whether by way of injunction or stay or in any other manner) shall be passed by the tribunal on or in any proceedings relating to any reference unless--

(a) copies of such reference and application for interim order, along with all documents in support of the plea for such interim order are furnished to the party against whom such petition is filed, and

(b) at least fourteen days' time is given to such party to file a reply and opportunity is given to it to be heard in the matter:

Provided that the Tribunal may dispense with the requirements (a) and (b) and may, for reasons to be recorded, make an interim order, as an exceptional measure, if it is satisfied that it is necessary so to do for preventing any loss to the petitioner which cannot be adequately compensated in money, but any such interim order shall, if it is not vacated earlier, cease to have effect on the expiry of the period of 14 days from the date on which it is made unless the said requirements have been complied with before the expiry of the said period and the Tribunal has continued the operation of that order.

(5-B) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing sub-sections, the Tribunal shall have no power to make an interim order (whether by way of injunction or stay or in any other manner) in respect of an order made or purporting to be made by an employer for the suspention, dismissal, removal, reduction in rank, termination, compulsory retirement or reversion of a public servant, and every interim order (whether by way of injunction or stay or in any other manner), in respect of such matter, which was made by a Tribunal before the date of commencement of this sub-section and which if in force on that day, shall stand vacated.

(5-C) Notwithstanding anything in the forgoing sub-sections, the Tribunal shall have no power to make an interim order (whether by way of injunction or stay or in any other manner) in respect of an adverse entry made by an employer against a public servant, and every interim order (whether by way of injunction or stay or in any other manner) in respect of an adverse entry, which was made by a Tribunal before the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Tribunal) (Amendment) Act, 2000 and which is in force on the date of such commencement shall stand vacated.

(6) A declaration made by the Tribunal shall be binding on the claimant and his employer as well as on any other public servant who has, in respect of any claim affecting his interest adversely, been given an opportunity of making a representation against it, and shall have the same effect as a declaration made by a court of law.

(7) The order of the Tribunal finally disposing of a reference shall be executed in the same manner in which any final order of the State Government or other authority or officer or other person competent to pass such order under the relevant service rules as to redressal of grievances in any appeal preferred or representation made by the claimant in connection with any matter relating to his employment to which the reference relates would have been executed.

(8)(a) The employer may appoint a public servant or a legal practitioner, to be known as the Presenting Officer, to present its case before the Tribunal.

(b) The public servant may take the assistance of any other public servant to present his case before the Tribunal on his behalf, but may not engage a legal practitioner for the purpose unless either (i) the Presenting Officer appointed by the employer is a legal practitioner, or (ii) the Tribunal, having regard to the circumstances of the case, so permits.

(9) Any proceeding before the Tribunal shall be deemed to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of Sections 193, 219 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code(Act XLV of 1860).

(10) A reference or a reply to a reference or an application may be singed either by the appointing authority or by the Presiding Officer or, where the appointing authority is the Governor, by an officer not below the rank of Deputy Secretary authorized by the State Government in this behalf, and in the case of a local authority, corporation or company by the Chief Executive Officer or Secretary thereof, as the case may be.

11. A perusal of Section 4 of the Act, 1976 shows that the Tribunal shall not ordinarily admit a reference unless it is satisfied that the public servant has availed of all the remedies available to him under the relevant service rules, regulations or contract as to redressal of grievances, meaning thereby, that if the public servant is aggrieved by an order pertaining to a service matter he may make reference to the Tribunal for the redressal of his grievances, but for making such reference, the public servant has to first avail of all the remedies available under the service rules, regulation or contract as to redressal of grievances, otherwise, the Tribunal shall not ordinarily admit such a reference.

12. Section 4 of the Act, 1976, which speaks of the public servant to avail of all the remedies available before filing the claim petition, refers to those remedies which are provided by the relevant service rules, regulations or the contract for redressal of grievances. If a remedy is not provided by the service rules, regulations or the contract governing the public servant then such other remedy is not contemplated by Section 4. Further, such statutory remedies are to be availed of within the period of limitation prescribed therefor.

13. Section 5 (1) (b) of the Act, 1976 makes applicable the provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 (Act 36 of 1963) mutatis mutandis, to reference under Section 4 of the Act, 1976 as if the reference was a suit filed in civil court, but the period of limitation for such reference shall be one year, notwithstanding the period of limitation prescribed in the schedule of the Limitation Act.

14. In S. S.Rathore Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (1989) 4 SCC 582 the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the context of Section 20 of the Administrative Tribunals Act,1985, wherein also, the public servant was required to avail of all the remedies available to him under the relevant service rules as to redressal of grievances before approaching the Central Administrative Tribunal, held that the cause of action shall be taken to arise not from the date of the original adverse order but on the date when the order of the higher authority, where a statutory remedy is provided entertaining the appeal or representation, is made and where no such order is made, though the remedy has been availed of, a six months' period from the date of preferring of the appeal or making of the representation shall be taken to be the date when cause of action shall be taken to have first arisen, but, made it clear that this principle may not be applicable when the remedy availed of has not been provided by law and the repeated unsuccessful representations not provided by law are not governed by this principle.

It is appropriate to refer paragraphs 15 to 20 of the S.S.Rathore (supra) as under:

"15. In several States the Conduct Rules for government servants require the administrative remedies to be exhausted before the disciplinary orders can be challenged in court. Section 20(1) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 provides:

"20. (1) A Tribunal shall not ordinarily admit an application unless it is satisfied that the applicant had availed of all the remedies available to him under the relevant service rules as to redressal of grievances."

16. The Rules relating to disciplinary proceedings do provide for an appeal against the orders of punishment imposed on public servants. Some Rules provide even a second appeal or a revision. The purport of Section 20 of the Administrative Tribunals Act is to give effect to the Disciplinary Rules and the exhaustion of the remedies available thereunder is a condition precedent to maintaining of claims under the Administrative Tribunals Act. Administrative Tribunals have been set up for government servants of the Centre and several States have already set up such Tribunals under the Act for the employees of the respective States. The law is soon going to get crystallized on the line laid down under Section 20 of the Administrative Tribunals Act.

17. In this background if the original order of punishment is taken as the date when cause of action first accrues for purposes of Article 58 of the Limitation Act, great hardship is bound to result. On one side, the claim would not be maintainable if laid before exhaustion of the remedies; on the other, if the departmental remedy though availed is not finalised within the period of limitation, the cause of action would no more be justiciable having become barred by limitation. Redressal of grievances in the hands of the departmental authorities take an unduly long time. That is so on account of the fact that no attention is ordinarily bestowed over these matters and they are not considered to be governmental business of substance. This approach has to be deprecated and authorities on whom power is vested to dispose of appeals and revisions under the Service Rules must dispose of such matters as expeditiously as possible. Ordinarily, a period of three to six months should be the outer limit. That would discipline the system and keep the public servant away from a protracted period of litigation.

18. We are satisfied that to meet the situation as has arisen here, it would be appropriate to hold that the cause of action first arises when the remedies available to the public servant under the relevant Service Rules as to redressal are disposed of.

19. The question for consideration is whether it should be disposal of one appeal or the entire hierarchy of reliefs as may have been provided. Statutory guidance is available from the provisions of sub-sections (2) and (3) of Section 20 of the Administrative Tribunals Act. There, it has been laid down:

"20.(2) For the purposes of sub-section (1), a person shall be deemed to have availed of all the remedies available to him under the relevant service rules as to redressal of grievances,-

(a) if a final order has been made by the government or other authority or officer or other person competent to pass such order under such rules, rejecting any appeal preferred or representation made by such person in connection with the grievance; or

(b) where no final order has been made by the government or other authority or officer or other person competent to pass such order with regard to the appeal preferred or representation made by such person, if a period of six months from the date on which such appeal was preferred or representation was made has expired.

3) For the purposes of sub-sections (1) and (2), any remedy available to an applicant by way of submission of a memorial to the President or the Governor of a State or to any other functionary shall not be deemed to be one of the remedies which are available unless the applicant had elected to submit such memorial."

20. We are of the view that the cause of action shall be taken to arise not from the date of the original adverse order but on the date when the order of the higher authority where a statutory remedy is provided entertaining the appeal or representation is made and where no such order is made, though the remedy has been availed of, a six months' period from the date of preferring of the appeal or making of the representation shall be taken to be the date when cause of action shall be taken to have first arisen. We, however, make it clear that this principle may not be applicable when the remedy availed of has not been provided by law. Repeated unsuccessful representations not provided by law are not governed by this principle."

15. In C. Jacob Vs. Director of Geology and Mining and another 2008 (10) SCC 115, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the representation with respect to the matters which have become stale or barred by limitation even if considered and rejected would not give a fresh cause of action or revive a stale claim. Paragraph Nos. 10 and 11 of C. Jacob (supra) are being quoted as under:

"10. Every representation to the Government for relief, may not be replied on merits. Representations relating to matters which have become stale or barred by limitation, can be rejected on that ground alone, without examining the merits of the claim. In regard to representations unrelated to the Department, the reply may be only to inform that the matter did not concern the Department or to inform the appropriate Department. Representations with incomplete particulars may be replied by seeking relevant particulars. The replies to such representations, cannot furnish a fresh cause of action or revive a stale or dead claim.

11. When a direction is issued by a court / tribunal to consider or deal with the representation, usually the directee (person directed) examines the matter on merits, being under the impression that failure to do so may amount to disobedience. When an order is passed considering and rejecting the claim or representation, in compliance with direction of the court or tribunal, such an order does not revive the stale claim, nor amount to some kind of "acknowledgment of a jural relationship" to give rise to a fresh cause of action."

16. In Union of India Versus Har Dayal 2010 (1) SCC 394 also the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that merely giving representation will neither extend the limitation nor wipe out the delay and laches.

17. In State of U.P. and another Vs. Vivekanand Singh and another 2015 (4) AWC 4130 (LB) (DB), this Court held that on a conjoint reading of Sections 4 and 5 (1) (b) of the Act, it is evident that if a remedy has been availed under the statutory service rules and final orders are passed therein, the limitation will be counted from the date of passing of final order, subject of course to the remedy having been availed within the period of limitation prescribed, if any for the said purpose prior to filing of the claim petition. It is appropriate to refer paragraph 19 of Vivekanand Singh (supra) as under:

" 19. Thus, on a conjoint reading of Sections 4 and 5 (1) (b) of the Act it is making evident that if a remedy has been availed under the statutory service the rules and final orders are passed therein, the limitation will be counted from the date of passing of final order, and not from the date of passing of the original order. If the remedy has been availed, but no final order has been passed and a period of six months has expired from the date of availing such remedy, a one month's written notice may be given and on expiry of the said period it is to be deemed that the remedy as provided under the Rules had been availed by the public servant and a claim petition would be maintainable and the same would be treated within the limitation prescribed under Section 5 (1) (b) (i) subject of course to the remedy having been availed within the period of limitation prescribed, if any, for thė said purpose, prior to filing of the claim petition."

18. In Prem Swaroop Singhal Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2017(4) AWC 3915 (LB) (DB) this Court has held that the period consumed in decision of an appeal, revision, representation will be excluded only when such remedy is provided under Rules or Orders regulating conditions of service and availed by public servant and not otherwise. When there is no such provision under Rules or Orders regulating conditions of service, Section 5 (1) (b) (ii) will have no application and hence limitation will be only one year from that date when cause of action arose.

19. From the aforesaid, it is well settled that in order to raise the plea that the claim petition is within the period of limitation and not barred by it, it must be shown that the remedy been followed or availed of was a statutory remedy i.e. provided by the relevant service rules, regulations or the contract relating to public servant and such remedy was availed of within the period of limitation prescribed, if any.

20. Keeping in view the settled principles as aforesaid, we now proceed to consider the merit of the submission of the petitioner's counsel that as representation was filed under rule 25 of the Rules, 1991 on 10.01.2019 the claim petition filed on 27.05.2019 was not barred by limitation.

21. The question which requires consideration is as to whether the remedy of representation under rule 25 of the Rules, 1991 was a statutory remedy available to the petitioner before filing of the claim petition. If the answer is in the negative and the claim petition had become time barred on the date of its filing or even before filing of the representation under rule 25, such representation would not revive the time barred claim of the petitioner.

22. Now, it would be appropriate to reproduce Rule 25 of the Rules, 1991 which reads as follows:

*"25. Powers of Government. - Notwithstanding anything contained in these Rules, the Government may, on its own motion or otherwise call for and examine the records of any case decided by an authority, subordinate to it in the exercise of any power conferred on such authority by these rules and against which no appeal has been preferred under these rules and

(a) confirm , modify or revise the order passed by such authority , or

(b) direct that a further inquiry be held in the case ; or (c) reduce or enhance the penalty imposed by the order ; or

(d) make such other order in the case as it may deem fit :

Provided that where it is proposed to enhance the penalty imposed by any such order the Police Officer concerned shall be given an opportunity of showing cause against the proposed enhancement ."

23. A perusal of Rule 25 of the Rules, 1991 shows that notwithstanding anything contained in the Rules, 1991 the Government may on its own motion or otherwise call for and examine the records of any case decided by authority subordinate to it in the exercise of any power conferred on such authority by the Rules, 1991 and against which no appeal has been preferred under these Rules. We emphasize the expression "against which no appeal has been preferred under the Rules, 1991". So the power of the Government under Rule 25, can be invoked by the public servant if the appeal has not been preferred under the Rules, 1991 against the order of punishment pertaining to his service matter. Rule 20 of the Rules, 1991 provides for appeal against the order of punishment mentioned in sub-clauses (i) to (iii) of Clause (a) and sub-clauses (i) to (iv) of Clause (b) of Rule 4, to the authorities mentioned in Rule 20. The order of punishment in the petitioner's case was passed under Rule 4 (1) (b) (ii) which is appealable under Rule 20 and undisputedly the petitioner preferred such appeal, which was dismissed on 29.09.2012. Even the revision preferred under Rule 23 against the said order was dismissed on 14.03.2013. In view thereof the remedy by way of representation to approach the Government under Rule 25 of the Rules, 1991, was not available to the petitioner. Such a remedy cannot be said to be a remedy available under the service rules, so far as the petitioner is concerned, to have been availed of before filing the claim petition.

24. The petitioner's revision was dismissed on 14.03.2013, which is the final order under the Rules, 1991. The period of limitation of one year to file the claim petition would therefore be counted from this date and on expiry of one year the claim petition became barred, in view of the settled proposition of law that period of limitation once starts running would not stop in the absence of any statutory provision, and would run it's full course. Filing of representation under Rule 25 on 10.01.2019, which representation was even not maintainable, would not revive the petitioner's claim, which had already become time barred in view of the law laid down in the cases of S.S. Rathore (supra) and C. Jacob (supra) that by filing representation any fresh cause of action can not arise nor it revives stale or dead claim.

25. In view of the aforesaid, we are of the considered view that the remedy under Rule 25 of the Rules, 1991 not being available to the petitioner, the claim petition, admittedly filed after six years of the order of rejection of the petitioner's revision, was barred by limitation under Section 5 (1) (b) of the Act, 1976.

26. The claim petition has rightly been rejected by the Tribunal. The order of the Tribunal is perfectly justified and calls for no interference.

27. The writ petition is dismissed.

A. Service Law – Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 – National Council for Teacher Education Act, 1993 – Section 12-A – Post of Assistant Teacher – Compassionate appointment cancelled – Qualification of having TET certificate, non-fulfillment thereof – Its effect – Applicability of Act of 2009 – Held, Section 12-A of the Act of 1993 cannot to operate in conflict to the provisions of the Act of 2009 and notification issued therein. The field is now occupied by the Act of 2009 to provide educational qualification for appointment of teachers – Compassionate appointment cannot be given dehors the statutory provisions only in reference to the GO dated 04.09.2000. (Para 21, 24 and 25)

B. Interpretation of Statute – Statutory provision and administrative order – Conflict – Overriding effect – Held, Act of 1993 has no overriding effect over the Act of 2009 – Section 12-A of the Act of 1993 cannot govern the provisions of the Act of 2009 in absence of non-obstante clause rather protection is in reference to their Regulation to provide qualification – Held further, Administrative order cannot stand in conflict with statutory provisions.(Para 15 and 25)

3. State of U.P. & ors. Vs Bhupendra Nath Tripathi & ors. (2010) 13 SCC 203

(Delivered by Hon'ble Munishwar Nath Bhandari, A.C.J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioner-appellants and Sri Gopal Chandra Saxena, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. By this batch of appeals, the challenge is made to the judgment dated 25th July, 2012 whereby the writ petitions preferred by the petitioner-appellants were dismissed. The writ petitions were preferred to challenge the order dated 12th June, 2012 whereby Secretary, Basic Education Board, U.P. Allahabad directed for disengagement of Assistant Teachers appointed on compassionate ground. The appointments to the petitioner-appellants were on the terms and conditions contained in the Government Order dated 4th September, 2000. The petitioner-appellants were to acquire the BTC training qualification to get regular appointments. Some of the petitioner-appellants were sent for BTC training but pursuant to the order dated 12th June, 2012 of the Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board, all the petitioner-appellants were disengaged on the ground that untrained teachers could not have been appointed after enforcement of the Uttar Pradesh Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Rules, 2011 (for short "Rules of 2011").

3. The controversy raised in these appeals mainly rests on the Rules of 2011 and the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 (for short "Act of 2009"). After the enactment of Act of 2009, and Notification dated 23rd August, 2010 under Section 23 of the Act of 2009, the appointment on the post of teachers could not have been given unless one has passed the Teachers Eligibility Test (for short "TET"). It is an admitted fact that none of the petitioner-appellants were possessing TET certificate prior to their appointment or giving effect to the Rules of 2011.

4. The learned Single Judge had considered the issue in detail and after referring to the provisions of Act of 2009 so as the Rules of 2011 apart from consideration of U.P. Basic Education Ordinance, 1972 and U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981, dismissed the writ petitions.

5. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that the learned Single Judge has referred to the Rules of 2011 given effect from 27th July, 2011 and the Act of 2009 but failed to take note of Section 12-A of the National Council for Teacher Education Act, 1993 (for short "Act of 1993"). It is submitted that Amendment in the Act of 1993 by the Act No. 18 of 2011 was given effect since 1st June, 2012. The appointments of those teachers engaged in pre- primary, primary, upper primary, secondary and senior secondary etc. were saved even if they were not qualified prior to Amending Act of 2011 but has been ignored by the learned Single Judge. He submits that the petitioner-appellants were given appointment on compassionate basis knowing it well that they have not passed out TET, therefore, subsequently they could not have been disengaged either in reference to the Rules of 2011 or the Act of 2009. Their appointments were otherwise saved by Section 12-A of the Act of 1993.

6. Coming to the facts of this case, it is submitted that on earlier occasion special appeals were dismissed by the Division Bench but on a review petition, the judgment was recalled and matters were transmitted for fresh hearing. The judgment of the learned Single Judge is in ignorance of Section 12-A of the Act of 1993, brought by Amendment of 2011 with effect from 1st June, 2012. Accordingly, the case of the petitioner-appellants should have been governed by the said provision. The proviso to Section 12-A has given protection to all appointments made prior thereto despite such appointments not being in conformity with the qualifications specified in that regard.

7. It is submitted that in exercise of the powers given under Section 23(1) of the Act of 2009, the Central Government designated National Council for Teacher Education as academic authority for laying down qualifications of the teachers. The National Council for Teacher Education issued a notification on 23rd August, 2010 specifying the qualification for the teachers which includes TET. The TET is to be conducted by the State Government or Central Government as was made one of the qualification for the teachers. Section 12-A of the Act of 1993 was brought to save all those appointments made prior to Amendment which include even the requirement of TET certificate.

8. A reference of circular dated 12th June, 2012 issued by the State Government has been given to show requirement of TET with effect from 27th July, 2011 that is the date of enforcement of the Rules of 2011. The reference of the appointments made between 23rd August, 2010 to 27th July, 2011 and subsequently between 27th July, 2011 to 12th June, 2012 has been given. The compassionate appointments given prior to 27th July, 2011 were not affected rather incumbents were continued without the TET certificate while it was given effect on the appointments made subsequent 27th July, 2011. The circular was issued ignoring Section 12-A of the Act of 1993.

9. Learned counsel for the appellants has made reference of the judgment of the Apex court in the case of Basic Education Board, U.P. Vs. Upendra Rai and others, (2008) 3 SCC 432 and also in the case of Irrigineni Venkata Krishna Vs. Government of Andhra Pradesh, (2010) 15 SCC 319 to support his argument. He has also submitted that compassionate appointments are governed by the Government Order dated 4th September, 2000 which permits appointments of untrained teachers also. The appointment of the petitioner-appellants were in consonance to the aforesaid Government Order as otherwise U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981 are totally silent with regard to compassionate appointment. The field of compassionate appointment is occupied by the Government Order dated 4th September, 2000 thus, the learned Single Judge should have considered the case in reference to the aforesaid apart from Section 12-A of the Act of 1993.

10. The appeals have been contested by the counsel for the non-appellants/respondents. It is submitted that learned Single Judge has considered all the issues in reference to the provisions applicable to the case. There is no error therein so as to cause interference rather the judgment of the learned Single Judge may be upheld. It has not only considered the provisions of the Act of 2009 but the provisions of the Act of 1993 apart from other provisions. The prayer is accordingly to dismiss the appeals.

11. We are not elaborately discussing the argument of the learned counsel for the non-appellants/respondents at this stage rather it would be discussed during the course of discussion of the arguments of the learned counsel for the appellants.

12. The judgment of the learned Single Judge was earlier tested by the Division Bench of this Court in the batch of appeals. The judgment of the learned Single Judge was upheld finding no infirmity therein. The judgment however reviewed and accordingly listed again for fresh consideration. The writ petition was filed involving various questions for consideration. However, the present appeals were pressed only in reference to Section 12-A of the Act of 1993.

13. The brief facts of the case shows that all the appellants were appointed in the month of August, 2011 on temporary basis. It was in terms of the Government Order where there was a condition to undergo BTC training. The Secretary, Basic Education Board, U.P. Allahabad however issued a circular on 12th June, 2012 and in pursuance to which an order was issued on 29th June, 2012 by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari for cancellation of appointment. It was challenged in bunch of writ petitions which were dismissed by the judgment dated 25th July, 2012. The case of the appellants is that they were appointed as untrained Assistant Teachers on temporary basis with a condition to undergo BTC training. The order of cancellation of appointment came while few appellants were sent for training. The circular dated 12th June, 2012 was not issued in reference to the BTC training but the Act of 2009 and the Rules of 2011. The appointment on the post of teachers was made subject to possession of certificate of TET. Finding appointments dehors the Act and Rules, the order was issued for their cancellation.

14. The issue now raised by the learned counsel for the appellants is in reference to Section 12-A of the Act of 1993 which, according to them, saves all the appointments made on or before giving effect to the Amendment of year 2011 in the Act of 1993. The provision aforesaid is quoted herein for ready reference:

"12-A. Power of Council to determine minimum standards of education of school teachers. - For the purpose of maintaining standards of education in schools, the Council may, by regulations, determine the qualifications of persons for being recruited as teachers in any pre-primary, primary, upper primary, secondary, senior secondary or intermediate school or college, by whatever name called, established, run, aided or recognised by the Central Government or a State Government or a local or other authority;

Provided that nothing in this section shall adversely affect the continuance of any person recruited in any pre-primary, primary, upper primary, secondary, senior secondary or intermediate school or colleges, under any rule, regulation or order made by the Central Government, a State Government, a local or other authority, immediately before the commencement of the National Council for Teacher Education (Amendment) Act, 2011 solely on the ground of non-fulfilment of such qualifications as may be specified by the Council;

Provided further that the minimum qualifications of a teacher referred to in the first proviso shall be acquired within the period specified in this Act or under the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 (35 of 2009)]."

15. The main provision gives power to the Council to determine the qualification by a Regulation. It is to maintain the standard of the schools. The first proviso to Section 12-A of the Act of 1993 protect those recruited as teachers under any rule, regulation or order of the Central Government, State Government or local or other authority, immediately before the commencement of the Amendment Act of 2011. It is despite non-fulfilment of the qualifications specified by the Council under its Regulation. The protection under the first proviso is to the qualification specified by the Council in the Regulation and obviously it should be under the Act of 1993 and the Regulation made thereunder. The Act of 1993 has no overriding effect on the Act of 2009. Section 12-A of the Act of 1993 cannot govern the provisions of the Act of 2009 in absence of non-obstante clause rather protection is in reference to their Regulation to provide qualification.

16. A Notification dated 23rd August, 2010 was issued by the Council to provide qualification under Section 23 of the Act of 2009 and not under the Act of 1993. Section 23 of the Act of 2009, as was existing in the year 2011 is quoted hereunder for ready reference:

"23. Qualifications for appointment and terms and conditions of service of teachers. - (1) Any person possessing such minimum qualifications, as laid down by an academic authority, authorised by the Central Government, by notification, shall be eligible for appointment as a teacher.

(2) Where a State does not have adequate institutions offering courses or training in teacher education, or teachers possessing minimum qualifications as laid down under sub-section (1) are not available in sufficient numbers, the Central Government may, if it deems necessary, by notification, relax the minimum qualifications required for appointment as a teacher, for such period, not exceeding five years, as may be specified in that notification:

Provided that a teacher who, at the commencement of this Act, does not possess minimum qualifications as laid down under sub-section (1), shall acquire such minimum qualifications within a period of five years:

(3) The salary and allowances payable to, and the terms and conditions of service of, teacher shall be such as may be prescribed."

17. Sub-section (1) requires possession of the minimum qualifications for appointment as teacher. It is as laid down by the academic authority authorized by the Central Government.

18. It is a fact that in pursuance to the powers given to the Central Government, the NCTE was nominated as academic authority and notification dated 23rd August, 2010 was issued thereunder to provide the minimum qualification for appointment of teachers. The qualification of TET was provided under the said notification. Section 12-A of the Act of 1993 does not supersede the provisions of the Act of 2009 or the Rules made thereunder. The Act of 1993 is for maintaining standards of the education in the school. The Council under the Act of 1993 is to govern the training course and regulate the institution for the teachers training. The minimum qualification for the appointment of the teachers is now governed by the Act of 2009 and the Rules made thereunder. The Notification dated 23rd August, 2010 was published under the Act of 2009 to provide minimum qualification for the teachers.

19. The Notification issued on 23rd August, 2010 was made applicable without exception to provide minimum qualification for the teachers. The State of U.P. come out with the Rules of 2011 to provide the minimum qualification for the teachers. It was given effect from 27th July, 2011. It is admitted case of the petitioner-appellants that they were appointed on the post of Assistant Teachers subsequent to it. According to Rules of 2011 also one was required to be in possession of the certificate of TET which the petitioner-appellants were not possessing. The qualification prescribed under the Act of 2009 by the notification dated 23rd August 2010 has been enforced by all the States.

20. The first proviso to Section 23 of the Act of 2009 gives protection of five years to the teachers, who at the commencement were not possessing the qualification. It is not for those to be appointed after commencement. Section 12-A of the Act of 1993 cannot be read in conflict to the substantive provisions of the Act of 2009. It is also a fact that appellants have not qualified TET even now, as admitted by their counsel.

21. In view of the above, a candidate was not eligible to be appointed as Assistant Teacher, if he was not in possession of the certificate of TET.

22. The learned Single Judge has elaborately discussed the issue in regard to the operation of the Act of 2009 and the Act of 1993. Both the Acts operate separately. The Act of 1993 was enacted with an object to achieve planned and coordinated development for teacher education system throughout the country. It was to come out with the norms and standards for teachers education system and for the matters connected therewith. The functions of the Council are enumerated in Section 12 of the Act of 1993. The Act of 1993 contemplates recognition and permission of NCTE for running the courses or training for teachers education. Section 17 governs the course and training of teacher education with a stipulation that in violation thereof, grant of the degree/certificate would not be a valid qualification. The Council thus operate for recognition and all other related issues pertaining to the institutions for the training courses. The Act of 1993 does not operate in reference to the qualification of teachers for appointment though the Rules were brought to provide minimum qualification. The Apex Court in the case of State of U.P. and Others Vs. Bhupendra Nath Tripathi and Ors., (2010) 13 SCC 203 however clarified the aforesaid.

23. Article 41 in Part IV read with Article 45 of the Constitution of India provides for State endeavour to come out with free and compulsory education for the children and accordingly by Constitutional (86th Amendment) Act, 2002, the Parliament also recognized "Right to Education' and after inserting Clause (k) in Article 51A vide Section 4 of Constitution (86th Amendment) Act, 2002, it enacted the Act of 2009 which was given effect from 1st April, 2010.

24. The qualification for appointment of teachers is now governed by the Act of 2009 and Rules made thereunder. Section 12-A of the Act of 1993 cannot to operate in conflict to the provisions of the Act of 2009 and notification issued therein. The field is now occupied by the Act of 2009 to provide educational qualification for appointment of teachers. Section 12-A of the Act of 1993 would not apply only for the reason that notification dated 23rd August, 2010 was issued by the Council. It was not under the Act of 1993 but the Act of 2009. It is by the Council as an academic authority. Under Section 23 of the Act of 2009, the Government of India had nominated Council as academic authority to lay down the qualification for appointment under the Act of 2009. The proviso to Section 12-A cannot apply dehors the Act of 2009 and Rules made thereunder. Therefore, we are not inclined to accept the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner-appellants that even if the appellants were not possessing TET certificate, their appointments should not have been cancelled in reference to the circular of the Government.

25. t this stage, it is to be clarified that even compassionate appointment cannot be given dehors the statutory provisions only in reference to the Government Order dated 4th September, 2000. The administrative order cannot stand in conflict with statutory provisions.

26. The elaborate discussion of all other issues has been made by the learned Single Judge and is not being challenged other than argument in reference to Section 12-A of the Act of 1993. Finding no merit in the arguments, appeals fail and are dismissed accordingly.

A. Service Law – Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation University Act, 2013 – Termination order – Nature – Simplicitor or punitive, how it can be determined – Held, the language of the impugned order of termination would establish the nature of termination order, whether it is simplicitor or punitive. (Para 30)

B. Service law – Termination order – Opportunity of hearing – Principle of Natural Justice – Held, the language of the impugned orders in the present case imputes something over and above mere unsuitability for the job and, therefore, such impugned order should have not been issued against the petitioner without affording him an opportunity of hearing in conformity of principles of natural justice – High Court set aside the impugned order. (Para 31 and 37)

C. Service Law – Termination – Order passed during probation period – Validity – Held, services of the probationer during probation period can be terminated by the order of 'simplicitor' and to indicate that the services of the petitioner were not satisfactory during the probation period is not ex-facie stigmatic. (Para 33)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Jitendra Singh, who has appeared in person and Sri S.B. Pandey, learned Senior Advocate and Assistant Solicitor General of India assisted by Sri Raj Kumar Singh for the Union of India.

2. By means of this petition the petitioner has prayed following relief :

"i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the order of competent authority dated 26.12.2019, contained as Annexure No.1, to the present writ petition with all consequential benefits.

ii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the proposal letter dated 17.12.2019 referred in the order of competent authority, contained as Annexure No. 2, to the present writ petition with all consequential benefits.

iii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the letter dated 09.01.2020 issued by under Secretary to the Government of India Ministry of Civil Aviation (opposite party no.3), contained as Annexure No. 3, to the present writ petition with all consequential benefits.

iv) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the advertisement for filing up the post Registrar of University in the month of 04.05.202 contained as Annexure No.4, to the present writ petition, with all consequential benefits."

3. The questions to be considered in this writ petition are :

(i) as to whether the services of the probationer during the probation period can be terminated by the order of 'simplicitor' or by the punitive order?

(ii) what should be the nature of simplicitor order?

(iii) If only this much has been indicated by the employer that the services of the probationer were not satisfactory during the probation period, as to whether, in that case, the opportunity of hearing would be required or not ?

(iv) If the services of the probationer is terminated leveling serious allegation against him / her as to whether, in that case, the opportunity of hearing should be provided to him / her or not? and

(v) As to whether the order passed by the President of India as an ex-officio visitor of the University can be interfered with by the writ Court or not?

4. So as to appreciate the aforesaid questions of law, ignoring the exhaustive facts of the issue in question, some relevant facts which are directly touching the issue are being considered.

5. The petitioner applied for the post of Registrar, Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation University (hereinafter referred to as University in short) on 14.8.2018. The petitioner was interviewed by the competent authority on 23.10.2018. On the basis of satisfactory interview the offer of appointment was issued to the petitioner on 1.3.2019 and the petitioner submitted his joining on the post of Registrar of the University on 8.4.2019. The petitioner has informed that since he had submitted his joining on the post of Registrar of the University on 8.4.2019 so that period would be expiring on 8.4.2022.

6. As per the offer of appointment dated 1.3.2019 such appointment of the petitioner was on contract basis for the period of three years as per Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation University Act No. 26 of 2013 (hereinafter referred to as Act, 2013 in short). Further, as per aforesaid offer of appointment the probation period was of one year from the date of appointment subject to further extension at the discretion of competent authority as per prevailing rules. However, the services of the petitioner might have been terminated during the period of probation by giving one months notice or by making payment of one months salary in lieu thereof.

7. Appointment, terms and condition of service of employees of the Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation University Fursatganj Raebareilly now District Amethi (hereinafter referred to as University) governed by the Act, 2013 and Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation University first Statutes. 2016 (hereinafter referred as to First Statutes).

8. Section 2 (y) of the Act. 2013 provides that "University" means the National Aviation University Established under this Act. Act.

9. Section 9 (1) of the Act, 2013 says that the President of India shall be the Visitor of the University.

10. Provided that the President may, by order, nominate any person to be the visitor and such person so nominated shall hold office for such term, not acceding five years as may be specify in the order and the person so nominated shall exercise the powers and discharge duties of the visitor.

11. Section 46(b) of the Act, 2013 says that the First Registrar of the University shall be appointed by the visitor and shall hold office for a term of three years.

12. Clause 28 of the first statute of the University deals with the removal of the employees of the University.

13. Section 2(l) defines 'employee' which means any person appointed by the University and includes teachers and other staff of the University.

14. Clause 28 further provides that on the allegation of misconduct the Executive Council of the University, in respect of teachers and other academic staff and the appointing authority in respect of other staff shall have the power to remove such employee by affording them a reasonable opportunity of showing cause against the action proposed to be taken.

15. The petitioner has drawn attention of this Court towards Annexure no. 1 which is an I.D. letter dated 26.12.2019 issued from the Secretariat of President of India (Rastrapati Sachivalaya), which reads as under :

"PRESIDENT'S SECRETARIAT

(Rashtrapati Sachivalaya)

Subject: Termination of Incumbent Registrar Shri Jitendra Singh of Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation University reg.

The Ministry of Civil Aviation may kindly refer to their I.D. Note No. AV-28060/16/2019-ER(NAU)(Pt) dated 17.12.2010 on the subject cited above.

2 The President, In his capacity as the Visitor of Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation University (RGNAU), is pleased to approve the proposal contained in para 2 of the summery note.

(Pawan Kumar Sain)
Director"

16. Since one I.D. Note dated 17.12.2019 has been referred in the letter dated 26.12.2019 (Annexure no. 1), therefore, the petitioner has drawn attention of this Court towards such I.D. Note dated 17.12.2019, which is contained as Annexure no. 2 to the writ petition, which reads as under :

"CONFIDENTIAL

Government of India
Ministry of Civil Aviation

Subject : Termination of incumbent Registrar, Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation

This is regarding the proposal for termination of incumbent Registrar, Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation Uversity (RGNAU) Shri Jitendra Singh. The following points have been noticed against the Registrar, RGNAU, Shri Jitendra Singh:

a) Indiscipline

b) Gross insubordination

c) Breach of protocol (including while dealing with the office of the President of India)

d) Discourtesy and disobedience

e)Making unsubstantiated allegations and use of derogatory language against superior officers

f) Continued defiance of official orders

g) Obstructing an officer from discharging his duties

h) Conduct highly unbecoming of an officer,

i) Wrongful claim of transport allowance

j) Substandard performance

Based on the above tests and evidences, it is proposed that

(i) The probation of Shri Jitendra Singh, Registrar, RGNAU may be terminated and that he may be removed from his position with immediate effect.

(ii) Smt Garima Singh Director, Ministry of Civil Aviation may be appointed as Acting Registrar till the new Registrar is appointed or until further orders, whichever is earlier

(iii) The selection process for the new Registrar of RGNAU may be initiated at the earliest.

3. The relevant file along with all the documents is enclosed herewith

4. This issues with the approval of Hon'ble Minister of State for Civil Aviation (I/c)

sd/- Illegible
(Amber Dubay)
Joint Secretary to the Government of India

17. Pursuant to the letter dated 26.12.2019 (Annexure no. 1) the Under Secretary, Government of India, Ministry of Civil Aviation, issued an order dated 8.1.2020 which is contained as Annexure no. 7 to the writ petition, which reads as under :

"ORDER

Order of the Competent Authority hereby conveyed for the termination of probation of Shri Jitendra Singh, Registrar, Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation University (RGNAU) with immediate effect, Shri Jitendra Singh, Registrar, RGNAU accordingly stands removed and relieved from the position of the Registrar, RGNAU with immediate effect.

2. Shri Jitendra Singh is directed to vacate the office of the Registrar, RGNAU immediately and also vacate the official residence within 7 (seven) days of the issue of a order. Shri Jitendra Singh is further directed to surrender the official IDs and other items issued to him immediately.

Sd/- Illegible
(Kameshwar Mishra)
Under Secretary to the Govt. of India"

18. The said authority has intimated the order dated 8.1.2020 to the petitioner vide letter dated 9.1.2020 which is contained as Annexure no. 3 to the writ petition, which reads as under :

"Shri Jitendra Singh,
Dated 9th January 2020

Ex-Registrar,
RGNAU,
Fursatganj, Amethi (UP), Reabareli

it is hereby informed that as per order No AV 26000/16/2016-ER(P) dated 8.01 2020, your probation as Registrar, Rajiv Gandhi National Aviation University (RGNAU) was terminated Further, the Order dated 8.01.2020 directed for your removal and relieving from the position of Registrar, RGNAU with immediate effect.

2. You may please note that your services were terminated on the following grounds

i) Obstructing an officer appointed by the Government from discharging his duties.

ii) Fabricating a complaint of sexual harassment by involving two girl students of the university. The girl students were called by you on 30.11.2019 on Saturday in your office. The complaint was drafted by you and the two students were made to append their signatures to the complaint.

iii) For willful insubordination and indiscipline by exhibiting defiance to the official orders.

3. As per clause (ii) of the offer of appointment dated 01.03.2019, payment of sum equivalent to the emoluments of a month will be made to you, in lieu of the notice period of one month.

Sd/- Illegible
(Kameshwar Mishra)
Under Secretary to the Government of India

19. Referring the aforesaid enclosures the petitioner has submitted that the President of India being the appointing authority of the petitioner as a visitor of the University was pleased to approve the para 2 of the proposal bearing I.D. Note dated 17.12.2019 which is stigmatic in nature inasmuch as para 2 of the I.D. Note dated 17.12.2019 clearly indicates that the allegation / imputations against the petitioner vide 'a' to 'j' which are serious allegations and before accepting those allegations, the petitioner has not been afforded an opportunity of hearing of any kind whatsoever. If the services of the petitioner being probationer has been terminated on the basis of facts and evidences relating to 'a' to 'j' of I.D. Note dated 17.12.2019 without affording any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner, then the impugned orders / letter dated 26.12.2019 (Annexure no. 1) would be punitive order and such punitive order cannot be passed even against the probationer without affording an opportunity of hearing in conformity with the principles of natural justice.

20. Besides, the letter dated 9.1.2020 (Annexure no. 3) is addressed to the petitioner whereby in para 2 it has been categorically indicated that the services of the petitioner have been terminated on three grounds and all three grounds are casting stigma against the petitioner and such stigmatic order has been passed without even conducting any fact finding enquiry as the petitioner has not been associated with any fact finding enquiry nor any opportunity has been given to the petitioner to submit his bona fide, therefore, it may not be doubted that on account of serious allegations and expressions the services of the petitioner have been terminated.

21. The simple inference from aforesaid orders may not likely tobe drawn as if the services of the petitioner were not satisfactory during his period of probation but the serious allegation and aspersions against the petitioner as per I.D. Note dated 17.12.2019 (Annexure no. 2) and letter dated 9.1.2020 (Annexure no. 3) were having far reaching effect inasmuch as after the termination of the services of the petitioner vide letter dated 9.1.2020, the petitioner has not been given any appointment at anywhere.

22. The petitioner has lastly submitted that the University has issued an employment notification advertising the post of Registrar, Finance Officer and Consultant in the month of June, 2020 which is contained in Annexure no. 4 to the writ petition. He has submitted that since the services of the petitioner has been terminated illegally, therefore, he may be permitted to discharge his duties of Registrar in the University till expiry of the period of his employment i.e. up to 8.4.2022, ignoring the employment notification.

23. Per contra, Sri S.B. Pandey, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Raj Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the opposite parties has submitted that since the order impugned has been passed from the Secretariat of the President of India, therefore, the said order is not amenable under the writ jurisdiction. He has further submitted that for terminating the services of the probationer the full fledged departmental enquiry would not be required and the services of such probationer may be terminated by giving one months notice or one months salary in lieu thereof and such exercise has been carried out in this case, therefore, the order impugned may not be interfered with. In support of his aforesaid argument Sri Pandey has drawn attention of this Court towards the dictum of Apex Court in re: Pavanendra Narayan Verma vs. Sanjay Gandhi PGI of Medical Sciences and another reported in (2002) 1 Supreme Court Cases 520 referring para 31 which reads as under :

31. Returning now to the facts of the case before us. The language used in the order of termination is that the appellant's "work and conduct has not been found to be satisfactory. These words are almost exactly those which have been quoted in Dipti Prakash Banerjee case as clearly falling within the class of non-stigmatic orders of termination. It is, therefore, safe to conclude that the impugned order is not ex facie stigmatic."

24. As per Sri Pandey in the aforesaid judgment the Apex Court has considered almost all relevant judgment of the Apex Court relevant for the issue in question right from Purshottam Lal Dhingra vs. Union of India reported in AIR 1958 SC 36, Radhey Shyam Gupta vs. U.P. State Agro Industries Corpn. Ltd. reported in (1999) 2 SCC 21, Dipti Prakash Banerjee vs. Satyendra Nath Bose National Centre for Basic Sciences, Calcutta reported in (1999) 3 SCC 60 and Chandra Prakash Shahi vs. State of U.P. reported in (2000) 5 SCC 152.

25. Sri Pandey has further submitted that the Apex Court has observed that when the probationer's appointment is terminated it means that the probationer is unfit for the job whether by the reason of misconduct or ineptitude, whatever the language used in the termination order may be.

26. Further, in the case of Pavanendra Narayan Verma (supra) the term used to terminate the services of the probationer was 'work and conduct has not been found to be satisfactory' and the Apex Court has held that it can, therefore, safely be held that the impugned order is not ex-facie stigmatic.

27. Therefore, even if the work and conduct of the petitioner has been considered by the competent authority being not satisfactory, that order cannot be treated as stigmatic, so the termination of the services of the petitioner should not be interfered with.

28. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material available on record, at the very outset, I am going through the dictum of Apex Court in re: Pavanendra Narayan Verma (supra) being referred by Sri S.B. Pandey, learned Senior Advocate.

The Apex Court in re: Pavanendra Narayan Verma (supra) has considered the cases in re:

1. (2001) 9 SCC 319 2002 SCC (L&S) 53 : (2001) 1 Scale 196, Kishnadevaraya Education Trust v. L.A. Balakrishna

2. (2001) 3 SCC 117 2001 SCC (L&S) 534, H.F. Sangati v. Registrar General High Court of Kamataka

5. (1999) 3 SCC 60 : 1999 SCC (L&S) Dipti Prakash Banerjee v. Satyendra Nath Bose National Centre for Basic Sciences, Calcutta.

6. (1999) 2 SCC 21 : 1999 SCC (L&S) 439, Radhey Shyam Gupta v. UP State Agro Industries Corpon. Ltd.

8. (1978) 1 SCC 405 AIR 1976 DC 851, Mohinder Singh Gill v. Chief Election Commr., New Delhi

10. (1974) 2 SCC 831: 1974 SCC (L&S) 500, Samsher Singh v. State of Punjab

11. (1967) 1 LLJ 718 (SC), Benjamin (A.G.) v. Union of India

13. AIR 1958 SC 36, Parshotam Lal Dhingra v. Union of India

14. AIR 1956 Bom 455 : 58 Bom LR 673, Shrinivas Ganesh v. Union of India

29. After considering all the aforesaid cases the Apex Court vide para 28 to 30 has observed that in order to amount a stigma an order must be in a language which imputes something over and above mere unsuitability for the job. Para 28 to para 30 reads as under :

28. Therefore, whenever a probationer challenges his termination the court's first task will be to apply the test of stigma or the "form" test. If the order survives this examination the "substance" of the termination will have to be found out

29. Before considering the facts of the case before us one further, seemingly intractable, area relating to the first test needs to be cleared viz. what language in a termination order would amount to a stigma? Generally speaking when a probationer's appointment is terminated it means that the probationer is unfit for the job, whether by reason of misconduct or ineptitude, whatever the language used in the termination order may be. Although strictly speaking, the stigma is implicit in the termination, a simple termination is not stigmatic. A termination order which explicitly states what is implicit in every order of termination of probationer's appointment, is also not stigmatic. The decisions cited by the parties and noted by us earlier, also do not hold so. In order to amount to a stigma, the order must be in a language which Imputes something over and above mere unsuitability for the job.

30. As was noted in Dipti Prakash Banerjee v. Satyendra Nath Bose National Centre for Basic Sciences (SCC p. 73, para 28)

"28. At the outset, we may state that in several cases and in particular in State of Orissa v. Ram Narayan Das it has been held that use of the word 'unsatisfactory work and conduct' in the termination order will not amount to a stigma."

30. The bare perusal of the aforesaid paras make it crystal clear that the language of the impugned order of termination would establish the nature of termination order, whether it is simplicitor or punitive. In the case in re: Pavanendra Narayan Verma (supra) the services of that petitioner was terminated saying that the 'work and conduct has not been found to be satisfactory' but in the present case the facts considered against the petitioner are that he committed 'indiscipline, gross insubordination, breach of protocol, discourtesy and disobedience' making unsubstantiated allegations and use of derogatory language against the superior officers, continued defiance of official orders, obstructing the officer from conducting duty, conduct highly unbecoming of an officer, wrongful claim of transport allowance and substandard performance. Not only the above the impugned order dated 9.1.2020 (Annexure no. 3) addressed to the petitioner clearly says that 'petitioner may please note that his services were terminated on the ground indicated in para 2 of that letter whereby the stigma has been casted against the petitioner.

31. Therefore, the language of the impugned orders in the present case imputes something over and above mere unsuitability for the job and, therefore, such impugned order should have not been issued against the petitioner without affording him an opportunity of hearing in conformity of principles of natural justice.

The Apex Court in re: Dipti Prakash Banerjee (supra) in para 19 has observed as under :

"19. As to in what circumstances an order of termination of a probationer can be said to be punitive or not depends upon whether certain allegations which are the cause of the termination are the motive or foundation. In this e area, as pointed out by Shah, J. (as he then was) in Madan Gopal v. State of Punjab1 there is no difference between cases where services of a temporary employee are terminated and where a probationer is discharged. This very question was gone into recently in Radhey Shyam Gupta v. U.P. State Agro Industries Corpn. Ltd.2 and reference was made to the development of the law from time to time starting from Parshotam Lal Dhingra v. Union of India3 to the concept of "purpose of enquiry" introduced Shah, J. (as he then was) in State of Orissa v. Ram Narayan Das and to the seven-Judge Bench decision in Samsher Singh v. State of Punjab and to post-Samsher Singh case-law. This Court had occasion to make a detailed examination of what is the "motive" and what is the "foundation" on which the innocuous order is based."

32. The Apex Court in re : Nehru Yuva Kendra Sangathan vs. Mehbub Alam Laskar reported in (2008) 2 Supreme Court Cases 479 has observed that there exists a distinction between motive and foundation. If misconduct is foundation of such order, the same would be bad in law even if appears to be innocuous one. The Apex Court has further observed that only in the event of unsatisfactory performance by the employee the termination of probation would have been held to be justified. However, when the foundation for such an order is not unsatisfactory performance on the part of the employee but overt acts amount to misconduct, an opportunity of hearing to the employee concerned is imperative. In other words if the employee is found to have committed misconduct although an order terminating probation would appear to be innocuous on its face, the same would be vitiated if in effect and substance it is found to be stigmatic in nature.

33. In view of what has been considered above the reply to the question no. 3(i), (ii) and (iii) would be the services of the probationer during probation period can be terminated by the order of 'simplicitor' and to indicate that the services of the petitioner were not satisfactory during the probation period is not ex-facie stigmatic. However, for question no. 3(iv), I am of the opinion that in order to amount a stigma an order must be in a language which imputes something over and above, mere unsuitability for the job. In the present case the language of the impugned order imputes something over and above a mere unsuitability for the job and the alleged misconduct of the petitioner is a foundation of such order which is not limited to the unsatisfactory performance on the part of the petitioner but alleged overt acts of the petitioner amounts to misconduct, therefore, an opportunity of hearing must be provided to the petitioner. Therefore, all the questions are answered accordingly.

34. Now, I am considering the argument of Sri Pandey, learned A.S.G. that the order impugned has been passed by the President of India, therefore, on account of immunity granted to such office the impugned order may not be interfered.

35. Article 361 of the Constitution of India provides that the President or the Governor shall not be answerable to any court for the exercise and performance of the power and duties of his office or for any act done or purported to be done by him in exercise and performance of those powers and duties. This Article further provides that nothing in this clause shall be construed as restricted right of any person to bring appropriate proceedings against the Government of India or the Government of State.

36. Section 9(1) of the Act, 2013 provides that the President of India shall be the visitor of the University, therefore, such appointment of the petitioner has been made under the Act. For the University he acts as a statutory authority not as the President of India. The law is trite that the action of any statutory authority shall be subjected to the judicial review, therefore, the impugned order dated 26.12.2019 passed by the Visitor of the University under the statute may be subjected to judicial review and for that order no immunity may be granted for the reason that such order has been passed by the President as an ex-officio Visitor of the University. Therefore, the question no. 3(v) is answered in affirmative.

37. In view of the facts and circumstances and case laws so considered above, I hereby set aside / quash the letter dated 26.12.2019 (Annexure no. 1), I.D. Note dated 17.12.20129 issued by the Joint Secretary, Government of India, Ministry of Civil Aviation, New Delhi (Annexure no. 2), letter dated 9.1.2020 issued by Under Secretary, Government of India, Ministry of Civil Aviation, New Delhi (Annexure no. 3).

38. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the opposite parties to reinstate the petitioner on the post of Registrar of the University with all consequential service benefits in terms of his offer of appointment dated 1.3.2019 ignoring the employment notification for making appointment on the post of Registrar etc. in the University.

39. Since the services of the petitioner has been terminated by means of punitive and stigmatic orders, therefore, the petitioner shall be treated in service with back wages. However, his term of appointment shall be governed with the offer of appointment of the petitioner dated 1.3.2019.

40. Compliance of the aforesaid order shall be made with promptness preferably within a period of one month from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order, failing which the petitioner shall be entitled for the interest on the dues as per the current market rate.

41. Accordingly, writ petition is allowed.

42. No order as to costs.

Writ C No. 494 of 2021

M/s Fiserv India Private Ltd., Noida ...Petitioner

The Assist. Director, Directorate of Enforcement, Zonal Office, Lucknow, Govt. of India & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Company Law - Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 - Section 13 - Foreign Exchange Management (Adjudication Proceedings and Appeal) Rules, 2000: Rule 4

Initially, in the present case, the company was incorporated as M/s Results India Systems Private Limited and later on acquired by Fiserv Group. To which the Court observed that it is not the case that the M/s Results India stood liquidated and changed its name and therefore the control of the company was taken over by different group. The company is a body corporate notwithstanding change of its management its existence continues. Therefore, in the eyes of the law, the legal person committed the contravention of the provisions of the FEMA with continued even after changing its name. (Para 18)

The proceedings against the petitioner company have been initiated in respect of not utilizing, within stipulated period, certain export advances. As utilization of those advances might have to be proved by submitting information and documents to the authorized dealer i.e., the Bank, whether any export advance has been utilized or not, within the prescribed period, might not, on expiry of the stipulated period, automatically come in the knowledge of the enforcement directorate or the prosecuting agency as it would depend on the mode and the manner in which the information is shared with the relevant authorities. Thus, whether the enforcement directorate was lethargic in prosecuting the defaulter is pure question of fact and cannot be the basis of quashing a show-cause notice at the threshold, which otherwise discloses all the ingredients necessary for initiated proceedings under FEMA. 5. M/s Keshav Marble and Granites Vs U.O.I. S.B. Civil Writ Petition No. 12937of 2020

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Misra, J.)

1. By this petition the petitioner has sought quashing of a show cause notice dated 30th September 2020 issued by the Assistant Director, Directorate of Enforcement, Zonal Office, Lucknow (first respondent) thereby calling for an explanation from the noticee (the petitioner) as to why adjudication proceeding as contemplated in Section 13 of the Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 (for short FEMA) be not held against it in the manner as provided in Rule 4 of the Foreign Exchange Management (Adjudication Proceedings and Appeal) Rules, 2000 (as amended), read with rules and regulations made thereunder and as to why penalty as provided under Section 13 (1) of FEMA be not imposed for the contraventions as brought under the complaint.

2. Before noticing and addressing the issues raised it would be apposite to briefly notice the background facts of the case, as could be elicited from the petition –

(i) The petitioner is a private limited company incorporated under the Companies Act with its registered office at NOIDA.

(ii) The company had been engaged in the business of software development and export of computer & business support services. Initially, the company was incorporated as M/s. Results India Systems Private Limited but as it was acquired by Fiserv Group (based in U.S.A.) in the year 2004, with effect from 24.11.2005, the name of the company was changed to Fiserv India Private Limited.

(iii) On 17.08.2017, under Section 37 of FEMA, 1999, read with Section 133(6) of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, a notice was issued to the petitioner requiring it to furnish information along with documentary evidence for not utilising certain export advances within the stipulated period which the petitioner received through its authorised dealer i.e. ICICI Bank Ltd. According to the petitioner, this notice was never served upon it but, subsequently, the petitioner got it as an annexure with the impugned show cause notice.

(iv) On 05.12.2017, the first respondent sent another letter to the petitioner requiring the petitioner to furnish information along with documentary evidence in respect of not utilising, within stipulated period, 16 export advances that were received by the petitioner through its authorised dealer during financial years 2003-04 and 2004-05.

(v) The petitioner acknowledged the said notice vide letter dated 19.12.2017 and sought two months time to collate relevant documents and information required by the first respondent.

(vi) On 07.03.2018, the petitioner received a reminder letter dated 26.02.2018 from the first respondent, by way of last opportunity, to submit the required information/documents to which, vide letter dated 14.03.2018, the petitioner replied by claiming that there were no export advances outstanding in the books of accounts of the petitioner at the end of financial year 2003-04 and 2004-05. However, as the documents and information sought were from a period 13 years ago, further time was sought to substantiate the defence and make further submissions.

(vii) Thereafter, on 12.04.2018, the petitioner vide letter to the first respondent reiterated its position that there were no non-utilised advances outstanding in petitioner's books of accounts. The petitioner also submitted that the details sought by the first respondent related to a very old period and as relevant employee/officers of the petitioner were no more in petitioner's employment, hence, the petitioner was handicapped in providing details/information of such old transactions. The petitioner also cited certain judicial pronouncements so as to contend that where no period of limitation is provided for initiation of proceedings, the proceedings could only be initiated within a reasonable time.

(viii) On 30.09.2020, in exercise of power under section 16(3) FEMA, a complaint was filed against the petitioner. As per paragraph 2 thereof, the basis of the complaint was a report received from ICICI Bank (authorised dealer) giving details of 10 export advances, amounting to Rs. 1,83,52,635, which were pending utilisation beyond stipulated period and with respect to which inward remittances were received into the account of the petitioner, but requisite documents were not submitted to the authorised dealer to substantiate actual export of goods/ services/ software. In paragraph 5 of the complaint it was mentioned that vide letter dated 18.10.2017 an updated list was provided by the ICICI Bank of 16 export advances (including the 10 reported initially) pending utilisation by the petitioner bringing the total amount of un-utilised advances to Rs.1,96,98,815.67. Thus, alleging that the company had contravened the provisions of FEMA and the person responsible is liable to be punished under section 7(3) of FEMA read with Regulations 10 and 16 of Foreign Exchange Management (Export of Goods and Services) Regulation, 2000, complaint was filed.

(ix) On filing of the said complaint, the first respondent issued impugned show cause notice bearing No. T-4/18/FEMA/LKZO/2020/AD(RV)/2717 dated 30.09.2020, annexing the complaint therewith and calling upon the petitioner to show cause in writing, within 30 days from the date of receipt of the notice, as to why adjudication proceedings as contemplated in Section 13 of FEMA should not be held against the petitioner, in the manner as provided in Rule (4) of the Foreign Exchange Management (Adjudication Proceedings and Appeal) Rules, 2000 (as amended) read with rules and regulations made thereunder, and as to why penalty as provided under Section 13(1) of FEMA be not imposed on him for the contraventions as set out in the complaint.

3. Sri Shashi Nandan, learned senior counsel, assisted by Sri Rahul Agarwal, appearing for the petitioner, urged that although section 7 of FEMA requires every exporter of goods to furnish certain information as specified therein and non furnishing of that information may result in a penalty under Section 13 of FEMA but for initiating proceeding for imposition of such penalty, a complaint has to be filed before the Adjudicating Authority, under Section 16(3) of FEMA, within a reasonable period of such contravention, even though no specific period of limitation for filing such complaint has been provided by FEMA. He submitted that the notice dated 17.08.2017 and the subsequent notice dated 05.12.2017 issued to the petitioner company by the first respondent does not disclose the date as to when the Directorate of Enforcement came to know of non-utilisation of export advances taken by the petitioner company. It has been urged that in absence of disclosure of the date as to when information with regard to non-utilisation of export advances taken by the petitioner company was received by the Directorate of Enforcement, the notice is defective as it fails to disclose as to when the cause of action arose to initiate the proceeding, under the circumstances, considering that the notice deals with alleged contravention that took place more than ten years ago, it is much beyond the reasonable period for commencement of the adjudication proceedings, resulting in serious prejudice to the right of the petitioner to defend itself, hence, the show cause notice, initiating penal proceeding, at such a belated stage, is liable to be quashed.

4. To support the aforesaid submissions, the learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on the following decisions:-

(i) Adjudicating Officer, Securities and Exchange Board of India v. Bhavesh Pabari : (2019) 5 SCC 90;

(ii) Joint Collector Ranga Reddy District and another v. D. Narsingh Rao and others : (2015) 3 SCC 695 (paragraph 32 thereof);

(iii) Sanghvi Reconditioners Pvt. Ltd. v. Union of India and Ors., decided on 12.12.2017 by High Court of Bombay, reported in MANU/MH/3805/2017;

(iv) Shirish Harshavadan Shah v. Deputy Director, E.D., decided on 28.01.2020 by High Court of Bombay, reported in MANU/MH/0635/2010 Equivalent to 2010 (254) ELT 259 (Bom.); and

(v) An interim order dated 20.11.2020 passed by Jaipur Bench of Rajasthan High Court in S.B. Civil Writ Petition No. 12937 of 2020 (M/s. Keshav Marble and Granites v. Union of India and another).

5. We have considered the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner and have perused the petition carefully.

6. Before we address the submissions advanced, it would be apposite to notice the relevant provisions of FEMA. FEMA was enacted as an Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to foreign exchange with the objective of facilitating external trade and payments and for promoting the orderly development and maintenance of foreign exchange market in India.

7 . Section 3 of FEMA, 1999, inter alia, provides that save as otherwise provided in the Act, rules or regulations made thereunder, or with the general or special permission of the Reserve Bank, no person shall deal in or transfer any foreign exchange or foreign security to any person not being an authorised person. Clause (c) of section 3 of FEMA, 1999 further mandates that no person shall receive otherwise through an authorised person, any payment by order or on behalf of any person resident outside India in any manner.

8. Section 2 (c) defines authorised person as follows:-

"Authorised person" means an authorised dealer, money changer, off-shore banking unit or any other person for the time being authorised under sub-section (1) of section 10 to deal in foreign exchange or foreign securities."

9. Section 7 casts certain obligations on exporters of goods and services. Sub-section (3) of section 7 provides that every exporter of services shall furnish to the Reserve Bank or to such other authorities a declaration in such form and in such manner as may be specified, containing the true and correct material particulars in relation to payment for such services. Sub-section (1) of section 7 casts a similar duty on exporter of goods.

10. Section 10 of FEMA, 1999, inter alia, provides in respect of authorisation of any person to be known as authorised person to deal in foreign exchange or in foreign securities, as an authorised dealer, money changer or off-shore banking unit or in any other manner as it deems fit. Sub-section (2) of section 10 confers power on the Reserve Bank to make such authorisation subject to conditions laid down therein and sub-section (4) thereof, inter alia, casts a duty on the authorised person to comply with such general or special directions or orders as the Reserve Bank may, from time to time, think fit to give.

11. Sub-section (5) of section 10, inter alia, enables an authorised person, before undertaking any transaction in foreign exchange on behalf of any person, to require that person to make such declaration and to give such information as will reasonably satisfy him that the transaction will not involve, and is not designed for the purpose of any contravention or evasion of the provisions of this Act or of any rule, regulation, notification, direction or order made thereunder.

12. Sub-section (6) of section 10, inter alia, provides that any person, other than an authorised person, who has acquired or purchased foreign exchange for any purpose mentioned in the declaration made by him to authorised person under sub-section (5) does not use it for such purpose or does not surrender it to authorised person within the specified period or uses the foreign exchange so acquired or purchased for any other purpose for which purchase or acquisition of foreign exchange is not permissible under the provisions of the Act or the rules or regulations or direction or order made thereunder shall be deemed to have committed contravention of the provisions of the Act for the purpose of this section.

13. Section 11 of FEMA, 1999, inter alia, empowers the Reserve Bank to issue directions to authorised person for the purpose of securing compliance with the provisions of the Act and of any rules, regulations, notifications or directions made thereunder. Sub-section (2) of section 11 empowers the Reserve Bank to direct any authorised person to furnish such information, in such manner, as it deems fit for the purpose of ensuring compliance of the provisions of the Act or of any rule, regulation, notification, direction or order made thereunder. Sub-section (3) of section 11 confers power on Reserve Bank of India to impose penalty on the authorised person in the event of contravention of any such direction. Section 12 empowers Reserve Bank of India to inspect the authorised person.

14. Section 13 of FEMA, 1999 provides for the penalties. It, inter alia, provides that if any person contravenes any provision of the Act, or contravenes any rule, regulation, notification, direction or order issued in exercise of the powers under the Act, or contravenes any condition subject to which an authorisation is issued by the Reserve Bank, he shall, upon adjudication, be liable to penalty.

15. Section 16 of the Act deals with appointment of Adjudicating Authority and the process of adjudication on any complaint in writing made by any officer authorised by a general or special order by the Central Government.

16. We have neither been taken through nor we could find any provision in FEMA which may provide a limitation for initiation of the adjudicatory proceeding for imposition of penalty. No doubt, where no provision of limitation is provided then the action is to be taken within a reasonable period. But as to what would be the reasonable period is to depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case, the nature of the Statute, prejudice caused and whether third party rights have been created, etc.

17. In the instant case, the proceedings are against a company. Section 42 of FEMA specifically provides that where a person committing a contravention of any of the provisions of the Act or of any rule, direction or order made thereunder is a company, every person who, at the time the contravention was committed, was in charge of, and was responsible to, the company for the conduct of the business of the company as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the contravention and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly. Provided that nothing contained in that section would render any such person liable to punishment if he proves that the contravention took place without his knowledge or that he exercised all due diligence to prevent such contravention.

18. From the averments made in the petition, it does not appear that erstwhile company, namely, M/s. Results India Systems Pvt. Ltd., stood liquidated or dissolved though it appears from the pleadings that the control of the company was taken over by a different group and consequent thereto its name was changed. As the company is a body corporate notwithstanding change of its management its existence continues. Thus, in the eyes of law, the legal person that committed contravention of the provisions of the FEMA continues to exist albeit with a changed name. As to who had been responsible for the affairs of the company at the given time is a matter of evidence and that issue can be raised and even set up as a defence in the proceedings pursuant to the complaint.

19. The proceedings against the petitioner company have been initiated in respect of not utilising, within stipulated period, certain export advances. As utilisation of those advances might have to be proved by submitting information and documents to the authorised dealer i.e the Bank, whether any export advance has been utilised or not, within the prescribed period, might not, on expiry of the stipulated period, automatically come in the knowledge of the enforcement directorate or the prosecuting agency as it would depend on the mode and the manner in which the information is shared with the relevant authorities. Thus, whether the prosecuting agency or the enforcement directorate had been unduly lethargic in prosecuting the defaulter is a pure question of fact which cannot be made basis to quash a show-cause notice at the threshold, which, otherwise, coupled with the complaint, discloses all the necessary ingredients with regard to contravention of the provisions of FEMA warranting adjudicatory proceedings. More so, when the primary duty of furnishing information is on the person who takes export advance and secondary duty, might perhaps be, of the authorised dealer to share the information with the relevant authorities. Only when information is received by the prosecuting agency, which in the present case would be the Directorate of Enforcement, that proceedings for penalty might be initiated.

20. The contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that neither in the investigation process nor in the show cause notice, the date of receipt of information with regard to contravention of the provisions of FEMA has been mentioned, therefore, the show cause notice is liable to be quashed because it fails to disclose a jurisdictional fact, cannot be accepted because FEMA and the Rules and Regulations framed thereunder do not fix a time limit within which the proceeding is to be initiated. Under the circumstances, it cannot be said that the show cause notice fails to disclose a jurisdictional fact necessary to commence adjudicatory proceeding. Rather, the jurisdictional facts necessary to bring adjudicatory proceedings under FEMA, for imposition of penalty, have been adequately disclosed in the impugned notice coupled with the complaint by alleging that the fact of utilisation of specified export advances within the specified period was not provided by the noticee by furnishing requisite information within the stipulated period. Hence, in our considered view, the notice does not suffer from any such fundamental defect which may warrant its quashment at the threshold.

21. Now, we shall examine the decisions cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner. In Sanghvi Reconditioners Pvt. Ltd.(supra), in a matter arising out of Customs Act, the Bombay High Court had closed the proceedings by taking notice of the fact that the Revenue/Department was not able to justify its failure to adjudicate upon a show cause notice for more than 15 years. In that case, a show cause notice was issued on 28th March 2002. The same was replied by the petitioner on 14th September 2002. The petitioner was called for personal hearing in the year 2004 but, thereafter, there was no communication from the respondents. As the respondents had slept over their right and took no steps for as long as 15 years, despite submission of reply, the proceedings were closed.

22. In the instant case, information was sought from the petitioner in the year 2017 and when, despite letters, information was not provided and a prima facie case with regard to contravention of the provisions of FEMA, 1999 was made out, a complaint was filed in the year 2020 on which the impugned notice has been issued. The facts of the present case are therefore totally distinguishable from those which were there before the Bombay High Court in the case of Sanghvi Reconditioners Pvt. Ltd. (supra).

23. Similarly, in the case of Shirish Harshavadan Shah (supra), which arose out of Foreign Exchange Regulation Act, 1947 and FEMA, 1999, the facts before the Bombay High Court were that consequent to search operations in the month of March, 1990, a memorandum dated 18th March 1991 relating to acts and omission chargeable under the Acts was drawn arising out of certain work carried out by the company in the year, 1982, whereas, notice for hearing on the memorandum was issued to the company and its Director in the month of January, 2004. In those facts, the Bombay High Court took the view that as for a period of 12 years no steps were taken by the respondent to proceed with the adjudication, such a belated proceeding was liable to be quashed.

24 . The facts of the instant case are clearly distinguishable from that case inasmuch as here, after receipt of information in respect of contravention of the provisions of FEMA, 1999, notice was issued calling for information and, thereafter, within 3 years, a complaint was filed and impugned notice was issued soon thereafter.

25 . In Adjudicating Officer, Securities and Exchange Board of India (supra), the apex court in paragraph 35 of its judgment had not taken any specific decision to close the proceeding on the ground of delay but it only reiterated the general legal principle that when for taking certain action the period of limitation is not prescribed, then such action must be taken within a reasonable time. As to what would be the reasonable time would depend upon the facts and circumstances of the case, nature of the default/statute, prejudice caused, whether the third party rights had been created, etc.

26. In the instant case, as we have already noticed, the information in respect of default by the petitioner company cannot be deemed to be with the Directorate of Enforcement, that is the prosecuting agency, therefore, the reasonable period to commence the adjudicatory proceeding would be counted from the date when that information was received by the prosecuting agency. As this is a pure question of fact and it is not shown to us that the default had been in the knowledge of the prosecuting agency far in excess of the reasonable period, the issue whether there had been an unreasonable delay in drawing adjudicatory proceeding would have to be raised and dealt with at the appropriate stage of the adjudicatory proceeding and not at this stage, while addressing a challenge to the show cause notice because the show cause notice, by disclosing the institution of the complaint and specifying the contravention of the provisions of FEMA, discloses all the necessary requirements to warrant initiation of adjudicatory proceeding against the petitioner.

27. Another submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that in Joint Collector Ranga Reddy District and another (supra), the apex court in paragraph 32 of its judgment had observed that the notice to initiate proceeding for correction of fraudulent entries ought to have disclosed as to when the alleged fraud was discovered by the State therefore, applying that principle, the impugned show cause notice, which fails to disclose the date of receipt of information with regard to contravention of the provisions of FEMA, 1999, is liable to be quashed.

28. Upon a careful perusal of the judgment of the apex court in Joint Collector Ranga Reddy District and another (supra), it appears that the apex court in that case was dealing with a case where the entries in revenue records were long standing and in public domain and made by Government employees therefore it could be presumed that the entries were made in ordinary course of official business. But, by exercising revisional power suo-motu, long standing entries were sought to be corrected. In that fact scenerio, the Apex Court finding the delay inordinate, in absence of any explanation in the notice, held the delay fatal to the proceeding. In our view, the decision of the apex court in Joint Collector Ranga Reddy District and another (supra) is on entirely different set of facts because there the information of incorrect entries was in public domain and with the authorities, as custodian of the records, who sought their correction, whereas in the instant case the information with regard to non-reconciliation of the export advances was either with the authorised dealer or with the noticee itself and not with the Enforcement Directorate or the complainant, therefore the principle of law laid down by the apex court in Joint Collector Ranga Reddy District and another (supra) would not come to the aid of the petitioner in maintaining a challenge to the show cause notice.

29. In view of the discussion made above, as we find that the complaint discloses all the necessary ingredients to make out a prima facie case with regard to contravention of the provisions of FEMA, the impugned show cause notice issued for adjudication of that complaint does not suffer from any legal infirmity which may justify its quashing, as has been prayed for. The petition is dismissed.

30. It is made clear that dismissal of this petition and any observation made in this order will not prejudice the right of the petitioner to set up its defence, as may be advised, to the notice and in the adjudicatory proceeding.

Order on Impleadment Application

2. With the consent of the learned counsels for the parties, the Impleadment Application No.2 of 2021 is partly allowed and the proposed respondent Nos. 6 and 7 are allowed to be impleaded.

This writ petition has been filed praying for the following relief:-

3. (I) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari, quashing the impugned order dated 24.12.2020 (Annexure-10 to the writ petition) passed by the respondent no.3.

4. Order on writ petition

With the consent of the learned counsels for the parties, this writ petition is being finally heard without calling for a counter affidavit.

5. Facts

Briefly stated facts of the present case are that according to the petitioner, he owns and runs a Hospital under the name and style of "Dayal Nursing Home, having its registered office A-1 H.I.G., Mundera, Prayagraj". The aforesaid hospital is empanelled under the scheme of Central Government called as "Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (PMJAY)". Earlier the aforesaid scheme was known as Ayushman Bharat Jan Arogya Yojana. According to the respondents, on receipt of certain information from National Anti Fraud Unit (NAFU) with respect to the working of the petitioner's hospital, the petitioner's hospital was put on "Watch-List" of the State Anti Fraud Unit (SAFU). Super specialist was hired by the State Health Agency (SHA) i.e. Avighna Mednet (OPC) Pvt. Ltd, which submitted its analysis report. On the basis of alleged prima facie fraudulent activity, the empanelment of the petitioner's hospital was suspended by order dated 04.12.2020 with immediate effect, by the State Health Agency.

6. According to the respondents, after the hospital was suspended from the empanelment, certain investigations were made, the statement of the petitioner was recorded on 09.12.2020 and certain evidences were collected. The field investigation was allegedly conducted on 09.12.2020. The field investigation report and comparative analysis (Desk Audit vs Case Sheets allegedly found in the hospital at the time of Hospital Audit) was submitted on 15.12.20202. Based on the aforesaid material, the empanelment of the petitioner's hospital was cancelled, three times of the disputed amount was imposed as penalty and the entire amount was directed to be recovered by the impugned order dated 24.12.2020 passed by the Chief Executive Officer-SHA (Uttar Pradesh), Lucknow. Aggrieved with this aforesaid order, the petitioner has filed the present writ petition.

7. Discussion and Findings

It is admitted by the learned counsels for the parties that empanelment as well as action for de-empanelment is governed by the guidelines issued by the Central Government with respect to Ayushman Bharat Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (ABPMJAY). Copy of the aforesaid guidelines has been produced before us by both the learned counsels for the parties, which is kept on record. The copy of instructions as produced by learned counsel for the respondent Nos. 3,6 and 7 is also kept on record.

8. The process for disciplinary proceeding of the de-empanelment is provided in Para 1.10 of the aforesaid guidelines. Part-A of para 1.10 of the aforesaid guidelines provides for institutional mechanism. Part-B provides for steps for disciplinary proceedings, which is relevant for the purposes of the present case and is reproduced below:-

B. Steps for Disciplinary Proceedings

Pradhan Mantri Rashtriya Swasthya Suraksha Mission (PMRSSM)- Guideline

Step 1 - Putting the provider on "Watch-list"

Based on the claims, data analysis and/or the provider visits, if there is any doubt on the performance of a Provider, the SEC on the request of the IC or the SHA or on its own findings or on the findings of the DEC, can put that hospital on the watch list. The data of such hospital shall be analyzed very closely on a daily basis by the SHA/SEC for patterns, trends and anomalies and flagged events/patterns will be brought to the scrutiny of the DEC and the SEC as the case may be. The IC shall notify such service provider that it has been put on the watch-list and the reasons for the same.

Step 2 - Issuing show-cause notice to the hospital

Based on the activities of the hospital if the insurer/ trust believes that there are clear grounds of hospital indulging in wrong practices, a show cause notice shall be issued to the hospital. Hospital will need to respond to the notice within 7 days of receiving it.

Step 3 - Suspension of the hospital

A Provider can be temporarily suspended in the following cases:

(i) For the Providers which are on the "Watch-list" or have been issued show cause notice if the SEC observes continuous patterns or strong evidence of irregularity based on either claims data or field visit of the hospital or in case of unsatisfactory reply of the hospital to the show cause notice, the hospital may be suspended from providing services to beneficiaries under the scheme and a formal investigation shall be instituted*.*

(ii) If a Provider is not in the "Watch-list", but the SEC observes at any stage that it has data/ evidence that suggests that the Provider is involved in any unethical Practice/ is not adhering to the major clauses of the contract with the Insurance Company / Involved in financial fraud related to health insurance patients, it may immediately suspend the Provider from providing services to policyholders/insured patients and a formal investigation shall be instituted. A formal letter shall be send to the concerned hospital regarding its suspension with mentioning the time frame within which the formal investigation will be completed.

Step 4 - Detailed Investigation

The detailed investigation shall be undertaken for verification of issues raised in disciplinary proceedings and may include field visits to the providers, examination of case papers, talking with the beneficiary/ policyholders/insured (if needed), Pradhan Mantri Rashtriya Swasthya Suraksha Mission (PMRSSM) - Guideline

Examination of provider records etc. If the investigation reveals that the report/ complaint/ allegation against the provider is not substantiated, the Insurance Company/SHA would immediately revoke the suspension (in case of suspension) on the direction of the SEC. A letter regarding revocation of suspension shall be sent to the provider within 24 hours of that decision.

Step 5 - Presentation of Evidence to the SEC

The detailed investigation report should be presented to the SEC and the detailed investigation should be carried out in stipulated time period of not more than 7 days. The insurance company (Insurance mode)/SHA (Trust Mode) will present the findings of the detailed investigation. If the investigation reveals that the complaint/allegation against the provider is correct, then the following procedure shall be followed:

i) The hospital must be issued a "show-cause" notice seeking an explanation for the aberration.*

*ii) In case the proceedings are under the SEC, after receipt of the explanation and its examination, the charges may be dropped or modified or an action can be taken as per the guidelines depending on the severity of the malafide/error. In cases of de-empanelment, a second show cause shall be issued to the hospital to make a representation against the order and after considering the reply to the second show cause, the SEC can pass a final order on de-empanelment. If the hospital is aggrieved with actions of SEC/SHA, the former can approach the SHA to review its decision, following which it can request for redressal through the Grievance Redressal Mechanism as per guidelines.

iii) In case the preliminary proceedings are under the DEC, the DEC will have to forward the report to the SEC along with its findings and recommendations for a final decision. The SEC may ask for any additional material/investigation to be brought on record and to consider all the material at hand before issuing a final order for the same.

The entire process should be completed within 30 days from the date of suspension. The disciplinary proceedings shall also be undertaken through the online portal only.*

Step 6 - Actions to be taken after De- empanelment*

Once the hospital has been de-empanelled, following steps shall be taken:

i) A letter shall be sent to the hospital regarding this decision.

ii) A decision may be taken by the SEC to ask the SHA/Insurance Company to lodge an FIR in case there is suspicion of criminal activity.

iii) This information shall be sent to all the other Insurance Companies as well as other regulatory bodies and the MoHFW/ NHA.

(iv) The SHA may be advised to notify the same in the local media, informing all policyholders/insured about the de-empanelment ensuring that the beneficiaries are aware that the said hospital will not be providing services under PMRSSM.

(v) A de-empanelled hospital cannot re-apply for empanelment for at least 2 years after deempanelment. However, if the order for de-empanelment mentions a longer period, such a period shall apply for such a hospital.

9. From a bare perusal of the Step-3 of Part-B of para 1.10 of afore- quoted guidelines, it is evident that where the provider who was on the "Watch- List" or has been issued show cause notice if the SEC observes continuous patterns or strong evidence or irregularity based on either claims data or field visit of the hospital or in case of unsatisfactory reply of the hospital to the show cause notice, the hospital may be suspended from providing services to beneficiaries under the scheme and a formal investigation shall be instituted.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner and learned counsels for the respondents both jointly stated before us that the procedure has been followed till the stage of suspension and, therefore, that may not be interfered at this stage. Accordingly, we hold that the suspension of empanelment of the petitioner's hospital dated 04.12.2020 shall continue and shall be subject to the final decision as may be taken by the competent authority in accordance with law.

11. Breach of principles of natural justice is an important issue involved in the present writ petition. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that the impugned order has been passed without show cause notices and thus the principles of natural justice has been violated.

Law of Natural Justice

12. In the case of Uma Nath Pandey & Ors. vs State of U.P.& Anr. [(2009) 12 SCC page 40 para 3], the Hon'ble Supreme Court noted the concept of natural justice and observed that it is another name of common sense justice. The adherence to principles of natural justice as recognized by all civilized States is of supreme importance when a quasi-judicial body embarks on determining disputes between the parties, or any administrative action involving civil consequences is in issue.

13. The first and foremost principle of natural justice is commonly known as audi alteram partem rule. It says that no one should be condemned unheard. Notice is the first limb of this principle. It must be precise and unambiguous. It should appraise the party determinatively the case he has to meet. Time given for the purpose should be adequate so as to enable him to make his representation. In the absence of a notice of the kind and reasonable opportunity, the order passed becomes wholly vitiated. Thus, it is but essential that a party should be put on notice of the case before any adverse order is passed against him. It is an approved rule of fair play.

14. The principles of natural justice are those rules which have been laid down by the Courts as being the minimum protection of the rights of the individual against the arbitrary procedure that may be adopted by a judicial, quasi-judicial and administrative authority while making an order affecting those rights. These rules are intended to prevent such authority from doing injustice. Even an administrative order which involves civil consequences must be consistent with the rules of natural justice.

15. Expression `civil consequences' encompasses infraction of not merely property or personal rights but of civil liberties, material deprivations, and non-pecuniary damages. In its wide umbrella comes everything that affects a citizen in his civil life.

16. Natural justice has been variously defined by different Judges, for instance a duty to act fairly, the substantial requirements of justice, the natural sense of what is right and wrong, fundamental justice and fair-play in action. Over the years by a process of judicial interpretation two rules have been evolved as representing the principles of natural justice in judicial process, including therein quasi-judicial and administrative process. They constitute the basic elements of a fair hearing, having their roots in the innate sense of man for fair-play and justice which is not the preserve of any particular race or country but is shared in common by all men. The first rule is `nemo judex in causa sua' or `nemo debet esse judex in propria causa sua' that is no man shall be a judge in his own cause. The second rule is `audi alteram partem', that is, `hear the other side'. A corollary has been deduced from the above two rules and particularly the audi alteram partem rule i.e. 'he who shall decide anything without the other side having been heard, although he may have said what is right, will not have been what is right' or in other words, as it is now expressed, `justice should not only be done but should manifestly be seen to be done'. Natural justice is the essence of fair adjudication, deeply rooted in tradition and conscience, to be ranked as fundamental. The purpose of following the principles of natural justice is the prevention of miscarriage of justice.

17. Whenever an order is struck down as invalid being in violation of principles of natural justice, there is no final decision of the case and fresh proceedings are left upon. All that is done is to vacate the order assailed by virtue of its inherent defect, but the proceedings are not terminated.

18. Step-5 of Part-B of para 1.10 of the guidelines specifically requires issuance of two show cause notices. Learned counsel for the respondent Nos. 3,6 and 7 has stated before us on instruction that no show cause notice was issued to the petitioner's hospital before passing the impugned final order of De-empanelment and the imposition of the penalty. Thus, we find that non issuance of show cause notice to the petitioner's hospital before passing the final order , has resulted in breach of principle of natural justice.

19. Since it is admitted case of the respondents that neither any show cause notice was issued nor any opportunity of hearing was afforded to the petitioner confronting with the material available in the hands of the respondents, therefore, the impugned order dated 24.12.2020 passed by the Chief Executive Officer of State Health Agency (SHA), U.P. Lucknow cannot be sustained and is hereby quashed. The writ petition is disposed of with the following directions:-

(i) The concerned authority shall follow the procedure as provided in Step-5 of Part-B of Para 1.10 of the guidelines and pass a final order within 30 days after affording a reasonable opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

(ii) The order of suspension dated 04.12.2020 shall remain subject to the final order as may be passed by the competent authority regarding De-empanelment and penalty, if any.

(iii) The competent authority shall take decision in accordance with law without being influenced by any of the observations on merits of the case made by this Court in the body of this order.

1. A Notice Advertisement was published on 13.09.2018 by District Magistrate, Banda for the settlement of mining leases of sand/moram under the U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 1963 for 5 mining Blocks, by e-tendering and as per Condition No. 13 (6) of the Government Order dated 14.08.2017 respective applicants had to deposit Rs.15,000/- as application fee and 25% of the bid amount as earnest money separately for each area. That term and condition no.19 and 22 (1) of the Advertisement stipulated that within three days from the date of acceptance of bid, the successful bidder shall deposit the requisites mentioned therein and that before participating in the bid the bidders were first require to satisfy themselves by physically verifying the determined quantity of mineral and the approach road to the site. These clauses are reproduced for ready reference:

19ण ई–निलामी समाप्त होने के पश्चात 03 कार्य दिवस के अन्दर सफल बोलीदाता को अपने मूल अभिलेख का सत्यापन उस जनपद के जिलाधिकारी जहॉ क्षेत्र स्थित है, के द्वारा अथवा निदेशक, भूतत्व एवं खनिकर्म, निदेशालय के द्वारा कराना होगा। निदेशक द्वारा मूल अभिलेख के सत्यापन की स्थिति में अभिलेख–सत्यापन की आख्या ई–मेल के माध्यम से सम्बन्धित जिलाधिकारी को प्रेषित की जायेगी। अभिलेख–सत्यापन के पश्चात ही जिलाधिकारी द्वारा लेटर ऑफ इन्टेंट जारी किया जायेगा। सत्यापन में यदि कोई अभिलेख अथवा प्रमाण–पत्र कूटरचित, असत्य अथवा गलत पाया जाता है तो लेटर ऑफ इन्टेंट जारी नहीं किया जावेगा तथा बयाने की धनराशि (अर्नेस्ट मनी) जब्ज कर ली जायेगी।

(1) ई–निविदा सह ई–नीलामी में भाग लेने से पूर्व क्षेत्र में आंकलित उपखनिज की मात्रा एवं खनन स्थल के लिए पहुॅच मार्ग आदि के सम्बन्ध में मौके का निरीक्षण कर बिडर स्वयं आश्वस्त हो लें। ई–निविदा सह ई–निलामी में भाग लेने के पश्चात इस सम्बन्ध में किसी भी प्रकार का दावा स्वीकार नहीं किया जायेगा।

2. The petitioner after visiting the area participated in the bid by getting himself registered with all formalities with MSTC and after transfer of earnest money and application fee Rs.15,000/-, and the earnest money Rs.1,57,50,000/- through RTGS applied online on MSTC Portal for grant of mining lease for the area in question, viz Gata No.3/1/1, Khand-1, Area 21 hectares of Village Barsanamanpur, Tehsil Narayani, District Banda. The bid of the petitioner @ Rs.207/ cubic meter being highest, was accepted. And as per Condition No.17 of the Government Order dated 14/08/2017 which was Condition No.19 of the Advertisement the petitioner was under an obligation to get the original documents verified within three days from the date of completing of e-tender. The petitioner however did not comply the said condition which led the respondent to issue Letter No.2698/Khanij-30, Banda dated 22/10/2018. However, as the petitioner did not comply the same, the District Magistrate vide order dated 24/1/2019 forfeited the earnest money.

3. In the interregnum i.e. between the period of acceptance of bid and the passing of order dated 24/1/2019, the petitioner visited this Court vide Writ-C No. 36068/2018 for the following directions:

"i. issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no. 2 to accept the request of the petitioner with regard to the withdrawal of site for mining operation on plot no. 3/1/1 (Part-I) situated at Barsana Manpur, Tehsil Naraini, District Banda;

ii. issue an appropriate writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no. 2 to refund the earnest money deposited by the petitioner in pursuance of the advertisement dated 13.09.2018 along with the interest @ 9% per annum;

iii. issue an appropriate writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no. 2 to decide the representation dated 25.10.2018 of the petitioner (Annexure No. 4 to the writ petition);

iv. issue an appropriate writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no. 2 to issue a survey panel to examine the exact quantity of mineral available on the site."

4. With the contention that since there was no minerals as advertised, the respondents be directed to look into the grievance before issuing the letter of intent.

The petitioner was however non-suited by order dated 30/10/2018 whereon the petition was dismissed in the following terms:

"4. We have considered the submissions raised and find that Clause 22 (1) of the Advertisement dated 13.09.2018 reads as under:

22ण शर्तें:–

(1) ई–निविदा सह ई–नीलामी में भाग लेने से पूर्व क्षेत्र में आंकलित उपखनिज की मात्रा एवं खनन स्थल के लिए पहुँच मार्ग आदि के सम्बन्ध में मौके का निरीक्षण कर बिडर स्वयं आश्वस्त हो लें। ई–निविदा सह ई–निलामी में भाग लेने के पश्चात इस सम्बन्ध में किसी भी प्रकार का दावा स्वीकार नहीं किया जायेगा।ष

5. In view of the aforesaid clause, the aforesaid relief cannot be granted as the petitioner had made the offer with open eyes."

5. The order being not assailed by the petitioner has attained finality.

6. The petitioner thereafter preferred an appeal against the order dated 24/1/2019 passed by the District Magistrate before the Commissioner, Division Chitrakoot Dham, wherein on 26/04/2019 by an interim order Commissioner directed for spot inspection whereas certain report was furnished on 28/05/2019 stating that approximately in 18 hect. area mixed minerals were found deposited in crevices at the base of river Ken. The report led the Commissioner pass an order on 20/12/2019 whereby he set aside the order dated 24/01/2019 and remanded the matter with a direction to the Collector to take action as per the report.

7. Evidently, the Commissioner did not dwell on the aspect of non compliance of the stipulation contained in Condition No.17 of the Government Order dated 14/08/2017, nor of the fact that the claim of the petitioner for waiver was negatived in Writ -C No.36068/2018.

8. Be that as it may. Revision under Rule 78 of the Rules, 1963 was preferred by the Collector against the order dated 20.12.2019 before the State Government with an application for condonation of delay on 19/06/2020. The petitioner besides raising an objection against condonation of delay also filed the counter affidavit on merit. However, as evident therefrom there was no whisper as to non compliance of Condition No.17 nor was there denial of dismissal of Writ-C No.36068/2018. However it was stated that the issue raised in the Writ Petition had no relation with the order dated 24/1/2019 passed in Appeal.

9. The Revisional Authority vide order dated 28/9/2020 while condoning the delay set aside the order passed by Commissioner and upheld the order of Collector on the findings:

10. Aggrieved, the petitioner has filed this petition. It is contended that the Revision under Rule 78 of the Rules, 1963 was highly belated and it was beyond the Revisional Authority to have entertained the same after the expiry of Ninety Days and that the benefit of the order dated 23.3.2020 passed by Supreme Court in Suo Motu Writ Petition (Civil) No. 3/2020 was not available as the same was applicable only to the Courts and Tribunals.

11. Contradicting these contentions, it is urged on behalf of the respondent that by virtue of order dated 23.03.2020 in Suo Motu Writ Petition (Civil) No(s) 3/2020 In Re: Cognizance For Extension of Limitation the Supreme Court to obviate the difficulty faced in filling due to COVID-19 Virus directed that a period of Limitation prescribed under the general law on special law whether condonable or not stood extended w.e.f. 15th March, 2020 till further order. It is urged that in the instant Case the Revision was to be filed on or before 19.3.2020 could be filed on 19.6.2020 and as the limitation stood extended w.e.f. 15.3.2020, the Revisional Authority was within his right in condoning the delay.

12. In SLP (C) No(s) 3/2020 it was held on 23.3.2020:

"This Court has taken Suo Motu cognizance of the situation arising out of the challenge faced by the country on account of Covid-19 Virus and resultant difficulties that may be faced by litigants across the country in filing their petitions/applications/suits/appeals/all other proceedings within the period of limitation prescribed under the general law of limitation or under Special Laws (both Central and/or State).

To obviate such difficulties and to ensure that lawyers/litigants do not have to come physically to file such proceedings in respective Courts/Tribunals across the country including this Court, it is herby ordered that a period of limitation in all such proceedings, irrespective of the limitation prescribed under the general law or Special Laws whether condonable or not shall stand extended w.e.f. 15th March 2020 till further order/s to be passed by this Court in present proceedings.

We are exercising this power under Article 142 read with Article 141 of the Constitution of India and declare that this order is a binding order within the meaning of Article 141 on all Courts/Tribunals and authorities.

This order may be brought to the notice of all High Courts for being communicated to all subordinate Courts/Tribunals within their respective jurisdiction.

Issue notice to all the Registrars General of the High Courts. Returnable in four weeks."

13. The said SLP has now been finally disposed of on 8/3/2021 in the following terms.

"1. Due to the onset of COVID-19 pandemic, this Court took suo motu cognizance of the situation arising from difficulties that might be faced by the litigants across the country in filing petitions/applications/suits/appeals/all other proceedings within the period of limitation prescribed under the general law of limitation or under any special laws (both Central or State). By an order dated 27.03.2020 this Court extended the period of limitation prescribed under the general law or special laws whether compoundable or not with effect from 15.03.2020 till further orders. The order dated 15.03.2020 was extended from time to time. Though, we have not seen the end of the pandemic, there is considerable improvement. The lockdown has been lifted and the country is returning to normalcy. Almost all the Courts and Tribunals are functioning either physically or by virtual mode. We are of the opinion that the order dated 15.03.2020 has served its purpose and in view of the changing scenario relating to the pandemic, the extension of limitation should come to an end.

2. We have considered the suggestions of the learned Attorney General for India regarding the future course of action. We deem it appropriate to issue the following directions:

1. In computing the period of limitation for any suit, appeal, application or proceeding, the period from 15.03.2020 till 14.03.2021 shall stand excluded. Consequently, the balance period of limitation remaining as on 15.03.2020, if any, shall become available with effect from 15.03.2021.

2. In cases where the limitation would have expired during the period between 15.03.2020 till 14.03.2021, notwithstanding the actual balance period of limitation remaining, all persons shall have a limitation period of 90 days from 15.03.2021. In the event the actual balance period of limitation remaining, with effect from 15.03.2021, is greater than 90 days, that longer period shall apply.

3. The period from 15.03.2020 till 14.03.2021 shall also stand excluded in computing the periods prescribed under Sections 23 (4) and 29A of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, Section 12A of the Commercial Courts Act, 2015 and provisos (b) and (c) of Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 and any other laws, which prescribe period(s) of limitation for instituting proceedings, outer limits (within which the court or tribunal can condone delay) and termination of proceedings.

4. The Government of India shall amend the guidelines for containment zones, to state.

"Regulated movement will be allowed for medical emergencies, provision of essential goods and services, and other necessary functions, such as, time bound applications, including for legal purposes, and educational and job-related requirements."

3. The Suo Motu Writ Petition is disposed of accordingly."

14. Though a contention is raised on behalf of the petitioner that the order passed by Supreme Court in the SLP applied only to the Courts and Tribunals and not to the Authorities like the Revisional Authority under Rule 78 of the Rules, 1963 who are quasi-judicial in nature. The contentions are taken note of and rejected at the outset. In Shivji Nathubhai v. Union of India and Others, AIR 1960 SC 606 it is held:

"6. This Court had occasion to consider the nature of the two kinds of acts, namely, judicial which includes quasi-judicial and administrative, a number of times. In Province of Bombay v. Kushaldas S. Advani 1950 SCR 621: (AIR 1950 SC 222), it adopted the celebrated definition of a quasi-judicial body given by Atkin L. J. in R. v. Electricity Commissioners 1924-1KB 171 which is as follows:-

"Whenever any body of persons having legal authority to determine questions affecting rights of subjects, and having the duty to act judicially act in excess of their legal authority they are subject to the controlling jurisdiction of the King's Bench Division exercised in these writs. " This definition insists on three requisites each of which must be fulfilled in order that the act of the body may be a quasi-judicial act, namely, that the body of persons (1) must have legal authority, (2) to determine questions affecting the rights of subjects, and (3) must have the duty to act judicially. After analysing the various cases, Das J. (as he then was) laid down the following principles as deducible therefrom in Kushaldas S. Advani's case (supra) at p.725 of SCR: (at p. 260 of AIR):

"(i) That, if a statute empowers an authority, not being a Court in the ordinary sense, to decide disputes arising out of a claim made by any party under the statute which claim is opposed by another party and to determine' the respective rights of the contesting parties who are opposed to each other, there is a lis and prima facie and in the absence of anything in the statute to the contrary it is the duty of the authority to act judicially and the decision of the authority is a quasi-judicial act; and (ii) that if a statutory authority has power to do any act which will prejudicially affect the subject, then, although there are not two parties apart from the authority and the contest is between the authority proposing to do the act and the subject opposing it, the final determination of the authority will yet be a quasi-judicial act provided the authority is required by the statute to act judicially.

7. It is on these principles which are now well-settled that we have to see whether the Central Government when acting under R. 54 is acting in a quasi-judicial capacity or otherwise. It is not necessary for present purposes to decide - whether State Government when it grants a lease is acting merely administratively. We shall assume that the order of the State Government granting a lease under the Rules is an administrative order. We have, however, to see what the position is after the State Government has granted a lease to one of the applicants before it and has refused the lease to others.

8. Mr. Pathak contends that even in such a situation there is no right in favour of the person to whom the lease has been granted by the State Government till the Central Government has passed an order on a review application if any. Rule 55, however, makes it clear that the order of the State Government is final subject to any order on review by the Central Government under R. 54. Now when a lease is granted by the State Government, it is quite possible that there may be no application for review by those whose applications have been refused. In such a case the order of the State Government would be final. It would not therefore be in our opinion right to say that no right of any kind is created in favour of a person to whom the lease is granted by the State Government. The matter would be different if the order of the State Government were not to be effective until confirmation by the Central Government; for in that case no right would arise until the confirmation was received from the Central Government. But R. 54 does not provide for confirmation by the Central Government. It gives power to the Central Government to act only when there is an application for review before it under R. 54. That is why we have not accepted Mr. Pathak's argument that in substance the State Government's order becomes effective only after it is confirmed; R. 54 does not support this. We have not found any provision in the Rules or in the Act which gives any power to the Central Government to review suo motu the order of the State Government granting a lease. That some kind of right is created on the passing of an order granting a lease is clear from the facts of this case also. The order granting the lease was made in December 1952. In April 1953 the appellant was put in possession of the areas granted to him and actually worked them thereafter. At any rate, when the statutory rule grants a right to any party aggrieved to make a review application to the Central Government it certainly follows that the person in whose favour the order is made has also a right to represent his case before the authority to whom the review application is made. It is in the circumstances apparent that as soon as R. 52 gives a right to an aggrieved party to apply for review a lis is created between him and the party in whose favour the grant has been made. Unless therefore there is anything in the statute to the contrary it will be the duty of the authority to act judicially and its decision would be a quasi-judicial act."

15. In Harinagar Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Shyam Sunder Jhunjhunwala and others, AIR 1961 SC 1669 it is held:

"(30) The orders which the Central Government passes, certainly fall within the words "determination" and "order". The proceeding before the Central Government also falls within the wide words "any cause or matter". The only question is whether the Central Government, when it hears and decides an appeal, can be said to be acting as a Court or tribunal. That the Central Government is not a Court was assumed at the hearing. But to ascertain what falls within the expression "Court or tribunal", one has to begin with "Courts". The word "Court" is not defined in the Companies Act, 1956. It is not defined in the Civil Procedure Code. The definition in the Indian Evidence Act is not exhaustive, and is for the purposes of that Act. In the Now English Dictionary (Vol. II, pp. 1090, 1091), the meaning given is:

"an assembly of judges or other persons legally appointed and acting as a tribunal to hear and determine any cause, civil, ecclesiastical, military or naval."

All tribunals are not Courts, though all Courts are tribunals. The word "Courts" is used to designate those tribunals which are set up in an organised State for the administration of justice. By administration of justice is meant the exercise of judicial power of the State to maintain and uphold rights and to punish "wrongs". Whenever there is an infringement of a right or an injury, the Courts are there to restore the vinculum juris, which is disturbed. Judicial power, according to Griffith, C. J. in Huddart, Parker & Co. Proprietary Ltd. v. Moorehead (1909) 8 CLR 330 (357) means:-

"the power which every sovereign authority must of necessity have to decide controversies between its subjects, or between itself and its subjects, whether the rights relate to life, liberty or property. The exercise of this power does not begin until some tribunal which has power to give a binding and authoritative decision (whether subject to appeal or not) is called upon to take action."

(31) When rights are infringed or invaded, the aggrieved party can go and commence a querela before the ordinary Civil Courts. These Courts which are instrumentalities of Government, are invested with the judicial power of the State, and their authority is derived from the Constitution or some Act of legislature constituting them. Their number is ordinarily fixed and they are ordinarily permanent, and can try any suit or cause within their jurisdiction. Their numbers may be increased or decreased, but they are almost always permanent and go under the compendious name of "Courts of Civil Judicature". There can thus be no doubt that the Central Government does not come within this class.

(32) With the growth of civilisation and the problems of modern life, a large number of administrative tribunals have come into existence. These tribunals have the authority of law to pronounce upon valuable rights; they act in a judicial manner and even on evidence on oath, but they are not part of the ordinary Courts of Civil Judicature. They share the exercise of the judicial power of the State, but they are brought into existence to implement some administrative policy or to determine controversies arising out of some administrative law. They are very similar to Courts, but are not Courts. When the Constitution speaks of 'Courts' in Art. 136, 227 or 228 or in Arts. 233 to 237 or in the Lists, it contemplates Courts of Civil Judicature but not tribunals other than such Courts. This is the reason for using both the expressions in Arts. 136 and 227.

By "Courts" is meant Courts of Civil Judicature and by "tribunals", those bodies of men who are appointed to decide controversies arising under certain special laws. Among the powers of the State is included the power to decide such controversies. This is undoubtedly one of the attributes of the State, and is aptly called the judicial power of the State. In the exercise of this power, a clear division is thus noticeable. Broadly speaking, certain special matters go before tribunals, and the residue goes before the ordinary Courts of Civil Judicature. Their procedures may differ, but the functions are not essentially different. What distinguishes them has never been successfully established. Lord Stamp said that the real distinction is that Courts have "an air of detachment". But this is more a matter of age and tradition and is not of the essence. Many tribunals, in recent years, have acquitted themselves so well and with such detachment as to make this test insufficient. Lord Sankey, L.C. in Shell Company of Australia v. Federal Commissioner of Taxation (1931) A.C. 275 (296) observed:

"The authorities are clear to show that there are tribunals with many of the trappings of a Court, which, nevertheless, are not Courts in the strict sense of exercising judicial power.... In that connection it may be useful to enumerate some negative propositions on this subject: 1. A tribunal is not necessarily a Court in this strict sense because it gives a final decision. 2. Nor because it hears witnesses on oath. 3. Nor because two or more contending parties appear before it between whom it has to decide. 4. Nor because it gives decisions which affect the rights of subjects. 5. Nor because there is an appeal to a Court. 6. Nor because it is a body to which a matter is referred by another body.

(36) Now, in its functions Government often reaches decisions, but all decisions of Government cannot be regarded as those of a tribunal. Resolutions of Government may affect rights of parties, and yet, they may not be in the exercise of judicial power. Resolutions of Government may be amenable to writs under Arts. 32 and 226 in appropriate cases, but may not be subject to a direct appeal under Art. 136 as the decisions of a tribunal. The position, however, changes when Government embarks upon curial functions, and proceeds to exercise judicial power and decide disputes. In those circumstances, it is legitimate to regard the officer who deals with the matter and even Government itself as a tribunal. The officer who decides, may even be anonymous; but the decision is one of a tribunal, whether expressed in his name or in the name of' the Central Government. The word "tribunal" is a word of wide import, and the words "Court" and "tribunal" embrace within them the exercise of judicial power in all its forms. The decision of Government thus falls within the powers of this Court under Art. 136. (Emphasis supplied)"

16. In view whereof the contention that the Revisional Authority which is a quasi-judicial Authority cannot be brought within the ambit of Tribunal is negatived. It is held that the respondents were entitled for the benefit under order passed in SLP and it was within the competence of the Revisional Authority to condone the delay and entertain the Revision on merit. The first contention therefore fails.

17. It is next contended that the Appellate Authority i.e. Commissioner, Banda, Division Chitrakoot Dham since remitted the matter, a revision under Rule 78 of 1963 Rule was not tenable. Rule 78 of the Rules, 1963 mandates:

"78. The State Government may, either suo moto at any time or on an application made within ninety days from the date of communication of the order, call for the examine the record relating to any order passed or proceeding taken by the District Officer, committee, Director or the Divisional Commissioner under these rules and pass such orders as it may think fit."

18. Thus Revision lies even against an order remitting the matter. The second contention accordingly fails.

19. The next contention that the Revisional Order suffers from the vice of perversity. It is observed that the Appellate Authority glossed over the vital facts, viz that in Writ-C No.36068/2018 the claim of petitioner for waiver was negatived on the anvil of Clause 19 and 22 (1) of the Advertisement and secondly, the petitioner who was under an obligation to deposit the credentials within 3 days from date of closing the bid proceeding; having failed to comply the same, it was not within the right of the petitioner to have questioned the tendering of the sand mine. In view whereof, in our considered opinion, the Revisional Authority was well justified in interfering with the Appellate Order and restore the order passed by District Magistrate.

20. Considering this we do not perceive any merit in the petition.

21. Consequently, petition fails and is dismissed. No costs.

A. Railways Act, 1989 - Section 20A, D, E - Land Acquisition - Opportunity of Hearing –

In the present case, the issue before the Court was whether the land once acquired in the district of Gautam Budh Nagar for special railway project i.e., Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor, can be acquired again by way of notification dated 11.02.2019 under Section 20A for execution of the special railway project. To which the Court held that notwithstanding the earlier acquisition made vide declaration dated 30.07.2010, the Central Government had the power to issue fresh notification under Section 20A (1) of the 1989 Act by virtue of Section 14 of the General Clauses Act, 1897. It is clear that the acquisition in question was to align the track of the freight corridor in a manner that it gets straightened, shortened and, in turn, also save land of Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority from getting landlocked or wasted. (Para 21 & 22)

The Court opined that once the written objection to the proposed acquisition has been filed within 30 days of the publication of the notification before the competent authority, it under an obligation to offer opportunity of hearing to the objector, either in person or through a legal practitioner. (Para 30)

The Court has taken into consideration that inspite of filing the objection to the proposed acquisition before the competent authority within time, their objections were neither entertained nor decided and they were nt heard on their objections. But the project being near completion, it would be result in huge wastage of public money as the entire alignment of the freight corridor would have to be redone. Therefore, the Court denied o quash the notification and directed to award compensation in accordance with the law, subject to the proof of their right. (Para 37)

1. As these four petitions question the acquisition of land under a common notification, they have been clubbed together. Writ petition (Group C) numbers 2959 of 2020; 42537 of 2019; and 42577 of 2019 seek quashing of notifications dated 11.02.2019 and 06.11.2019 issued under Sections 20-A and 20-E, respectively, of the Railways Act, 1989 (for short the 1989, Act) to acquire land for a Special Railway Project i.e. Eastern Dedicated Freight

Corridor (for short Freight Corridor) in district Gautam Budh Nagar. Whereas, Writ C No. 43014 of 2019 has been filed by persons who claim themselves to be aggrieved with the impugned notifications though their land is not included in the impugned notification. The petitioners of Writ C No. 2959 of 2020 have their land at village Chamrawali - Boraki, Tehsil Dadri, District Gautam Budh Nagar whereas the petitioners in the remaining three petitions have their land at village Rithauri in the same district.

2. As in Writ C No. 2959 of 2020 pleadings are elaborate and parties have exchanged their affidavits, the same is taken as the leading petition. However, we shall refer to the facts of the other three petitions also, wherever necessary.

3. The case of the petitioners in the leading Writ C No. 2959 of 2020 is that, to acquire land for the Special Railway Project - Freight Corridor in district Gautam Budh Nagar in the State of Uttar Pradesh, a notification under Section 20-A of the 1989 Act was issued on 24 August 2009, which was followed by declaration, dated 30 July, 2010, under Section 20-E of the 1989 Act. Pursuant thereto, an award was passed on 30 August 2011, under sub-section (2) of Section 20-F of the 1989 Act, and physical possession of 5.0844 hectare of land falling in village Chamrawali - Boraki was taken. Despite having taken possession of that land, the land was not utilised. Later, in a mala fide manner, on request of Greater Noida Authority (for short GNIDA), the impugned notifications were issued even though, for the purpose of the Special Railway Project, need for land stood satisfied by the earlier acquisition proceeding. Accordingly, by exercising statutory right available under sub-section (1) of section 20-D of the 1989 Act, an objection to the notification was taken. But, without addressing the objection as per sub-section (2) of Section 20-D of the 1989 Act, straight away the impugned declaration under sub-section (1) of Section 20-E of the 1989 Act was made by making an incorrect declaration that no objection was taken under sub-section (1) of Section 20-D of the 1989 Act. Similar, is the case of the petitioners in Writ C Nos. 42537 of 2019 and 42577 of 2019 though their pleadings are not as elaborate as is in the lead petition i.e. Writ C No. 2959 of 2020.

4. In the leading petition i.e. Writ C No. 2959 of 2020, several counter-affidavits have been filed. It would be useful to refer, in brief, to the contents of those counter-affidavits. These counter affidavits are as follows:

(A) Two counter affidavits dated 18.11.2020 and 12.02.2021 have been filed on behalf of Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor Corporation of India Ltd. (for short the Corporation) by Sri Ram Manohar Agarwal. It is stated therein that the Corporation was incorporated as a government company under the provisions of the Companies Act, 1956 on 30.10.2006 as a Special Purpose Vehicle (SPV) in the form of Public Sector Undertaking (PSU) of the Ministry of Railways. It is stated that for completion of the Freight Corridor, land though was acquired earlier but more land was required for its completion and therefore, efforts to acquire the same began through agreement/consent of affected persons. But as the exercise could not be completely successful, as few persons, like the petitioners, refused to give consent, GNIDA, vide letter dated 06.12.2018, requested acquisition of 1.966 Ha land in 24 Khasras of village Chamrawali Boraki and, vide letter dated 25.09.2018, requested acquisition of 0.7279 Ha land of Khasra Nos. 45 and 112 at village Hazratpur. It is stated that the Freight Corridor is a project of national importance and would be the lifeline of the economy. Moreover, it would reduce carbon emission as well as burden on the existing infrastructure for transportation of goods. It is stated that the competent authority had submitted a report that no objections were received in his office to the notification under Section 20-A; acting on the said report, the declaration under Section 20-E (1) of the 1989 Act was made, consequent to which, the land vested in the Central Government. In the counter-affidavit, dated 12.02.2021, it has been demonstrated that the project has been completed substantially. In that context, paragraph 35 thereof, is extracted below:

" In furtherance to the above, a perusal of another annexed table clearly reveals that as against an estimated cost of Civil Engineering Works of Rs. 824 Crores, the latest figures (upto 29th January 2021) show expenditure to the tune of Rs. 614 crores (approximately 74% of financial progress). Only 1.36 kms of linear length of land remains to be acquired out of total requirement of 54.38 kms. The various physical assets created upto date include completion of formation (earth foundation for laying of tracks and associated fittings) for 51.24 kms (76%) out of 54.38 Kms., completion of all 5 major bridges (above 12.2 meters), completion of 47 (92%) minor bridges out of a total of 51,32 (84%) out of 38 Railway under bridges and a whole range of associated works are in full swing as is evident from the bare perusal of the table which is marked and annexed as Annexure 3."

By annexing tables and map, an effort has been made to demonstrate that the work of the Freight Corridor has reached an advanced stage and that a minuscule part of the project remains, due to unavailability of land on account of resistance offered by some persons including the petitioners. Along with counter-affidavit, dated 12.02.2021, vide annexure 4, a table has been placed on record to indicate that the hindrance in the acquisition of land is limited to an area of 2.0783 Ha in a stretch of only 1.150 Kms. of the corridor. Out of which, 0.300 Km falls in village Rithori, which relates to Writ C No. 42537 of 2019 and Writ C No. 42577 of 2019 whereas 0.300 Km falls in village Hazaratpur and 0.550 Km falls in village Chamrawali Boraki, which relates to Writ C No. 2959 of 2020.

In the counter affidavit dated 12.2.2021, while giving para-wise reply to the averments made in Writ C No. 2959 of 2020, in paragraph ("l') it is stated: ".....that the instant acquisition proceedings are for a project of great national importance and over 95% of the project has already been developed and compensation to about 22 persons concerned has already been paid. It is only 300 meters running patch length of corridor and 550 meters running patch length of corridor in Hazratpur village and Chamrawali Boraki village, respectively, that have been unnecessarily and illegitimately hindered on account vexatious petitions based on false and frivolous grounds and for which the entire public purpose has come to a halt for so long.....".

In counter-affidavit dated 18.11.2020 more or less same narration of facts, as noticed above, is there. However, in addition thereto, the respondents have enclosed copy of the award, dated 27.07.2020, passed under Section 20-F(2) of the 1989 Act. The award reflects that the objection of the petitioner no.1 (Jaiveer Singh) was dealt with at serial no. 5 whereas the objection of petitioner no.2 (Tejpal) was dealt with at serial no. 7 and objection of petitioner no.3 (Shyam Singh) was dealt with at serial no. 17. A perusal of the award would reveal that they had participated in proceedings relating to determination of compensation. Jaiveer Singh had claimed resettlement in a developed area and if the Railways held no land, compensation at the rate of Rs.28,000/- per square meter was claimed. Tejpal's and Shyam Singh's objections are similar except that they have demanded compensation at the rate of Rs.28,500/- per square meter.

(B). Counter-affidavit, dated 11.12.2020, sworn by Akhilesh Kumar, Tehsildar (J), Jewar, Gautam Budh Nagar. He states that he has been authorized to file counter-affidavit on behalf of respondent no.4 i.e. the Competent Authority. In paragraph 16 of the counter-affidavit, which is a reply to the averments made by the petitioners in respect of filing of written objections under Section 20-D (1), it is stated as follows:-

".....it is submitted that the petitioners did not file objection within time before the answering respondent and as such notification u/s 20E of the Act was issued in accordance with law there is no illegality at all. However, land in dispute is in the linear way to complete Dedicated Freight Corridor and is required for the completion of project of national level therefore fresh notification was issued in accordance with law."

In paragraph 18 of the counter-affidavit, which is a reply to the averments made by the petitioners that their objections were not considered and no hearing was afforded to them on their objections, it is stated as follows:-

"..... In reply, it is submitted that no any objection of petitioners was received in the office of answering respondent after notification of Section 20A of the Act, therefore answering respondent proceeded in accordance with law there is no illegality at all. "

In paragraph 20 of the counter-affidavit, which is a reply to the averments made in the writ petition that the notification fraudulently stated that no objection was filed in the office of the competent authority within the stipulated period, it is stated as follows:-

"..... In reply, it is submitted that no objection was received by (should be read as from) any of the land holders within the time after publication of notification U/S 20A of the Act therefore report was forwarded in accordance with law and in furtherance thereof notification U/S 20E was published on 28.11.2019 there is no illegality at all. "

In paragraph 22 of the counter-affidavit, which is a reply to the averments made in the petition that written objections were filed before the competent authority/fourth respondent within 30 days from the date of publication of the notification under sub-section (1) of Section 20A but no opportunity of hearing was provided to the petitioners by the competent authority, it is stated as follows:-

"....The contents of paragraph no. 29 of the writ petition are totally false as stated hence strongly denied. In reply, it is submitted that competent authority/KALA/DFCC was City Magistrate Greater Noida and not at all S.D.M. Sadar Gautam Budh Nagar in the year 2019 therefore application which was annexed in the writ petition is not at all given in the office of competent authority/D.F.C.C./KALA and same is given in the office of S.D.M. Sadar Collectorate Gautam Budh Nagar and also application is not at all in accordance with provisions of Railway Act 1989 and as such no objection is filed by the any of the petitioners before competent authority which itself proved the report forwarded by the answering respondent. Therefore report forwarded by the answering respondent is in accordance with law there is no illegality at all. "

In paragraph 24 of the counter-affidavit, which is a reply to the averments made in the writ petition that the petitioners were deprived of the opportunity of hearing on their objections to the notification under Section 20A (1), it is stated as follows:-

".....The contents of paragraph no.31 of the writ petition are totally false as stated hence strongly denied. In reply, it is submitted that objection was not at all filed in the office of competent authority/KALA notified for this purpose and so called application which was not at all in the form of objection as per the procedure laid down in the Railway Act 1989 in the office of Sub Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, which was not at all competent authority therefore on the ground writ petition deserved to be dismissed."

Likewise, in paragraphs 26 and 27, which contains reply of paragraphs 33, 34, 35, 36, 37 and 38 of the writ petition wherein it is averred that in a mala fide manner it was reported that no objections under Section 20D(1) of the 1989 Act were filed, it is stated as follows:-

"26.....the contents of paragraph nos. 33 and 34 of the writ petition are totally false as stated hence strongly denied. In reply, it is submitted that from bare perusal of so called objection filed by the petitioners Annexure -8 to the writ petition it is crystal clear that objection is not at all in accordance with prescribed proforma as per the Railway Act 1989 and none of the objection by the petitioners in the office of competent authority/KALA/DFCC same is filed in the office of S.D.M., Sadar who has no any concern with the acquiring in the land in dispute therefore it is crystal clear from the Annexure 8 of the writ petition that no any objection filed by the petitioner after notification of 20A of the Act before the competent authority/KALA/DFCC hence writ petition is misconceived and is liable to be dismissed on the ground alone.

27. That the contents of paragraphs 35, 36, 37 and 38 of the petition are totally false as stated hence strongly denied. In reply, it is submitted that competent authority/KALA/DFCC forwarded the report in accordance with law after considering all facts and circumstances and evidence on record and after adopting due procedure and there is no any illegality as there was no any objection of any of the petitioners before competent authority/KALA/DFCC which itself is clear from the Annexure 8 of the writ petition as same is filed in the office of S.D.M. Sadar not at all in the office of competent authority/KALA/DFCC Gautam Budh Nagar, therefore answering respondent has taken action in accordance with law after following the due procedure as prescribed in the Railway Act and it is totally wrong to say that no work on the earlier acquired land is going on, work on the earlier acquired land is in progress and only for completion of the project land in dispute along with other land is required as consent with the land holders is not at all settled with the acquiring body therefore the acquisition proceeding in accordance with law there is no illegality at all."

5. In Writ C No. 42537 of 2019, a counter-affidavit has been filed by Sri Ram Manohar Agarwal on behalf of Union of India as well as the Corporation raising similar pleas as were taken in the counter-affidavit filed in Writ C No. 2959 of 2020. In addition to above, it was pleaded that the petitioners had not enclosed record of rights to disclose that they held any right over the land proposed to be acquired. It was pleaded that the extract of record of rights annexed by them did not disclose entry of their name. It was specifically pleaded that the right to file an objection under Section 20D of 1989 Act is limited to the purpose of acquisition mentioned in sub-section (1) of section 20A of the 1989 Act. It was stated that the objection raised by the petitioners of Writ C No. 42537 of 2019 was not in respect of the purpose of acquisition mentioned in sub-section (1) of Section 20A but was in respect of compensation and rehabilitation. The stand therefore is that the objection taken by the petitioners of Writ C No 42537 of 2019 is not an objection contemplated by sub-section (1) of Section 20D of the 1989 Act, hence, it is no objection in the eyes of law. In the rejoinder affidavit, the petitioners of this petition submitted that against Abadi land name of the tenure holder is not entered but their long standing possession and existing structures establish their ownership.

6. Likewise, in Writ C No. 42577 of 2019 on behalf of Union of India as well as Corporation, counter-affidavit was filed by Sri Ram Manohar Agarwal in which similar case as in Writ C No.42537 of 2019 was set up. The petitioners also, in rebuttal, took similar pleas. Thus, the stand of the respondents in Writ C No. 42577 of 2019 and Writ C No. 42537 of 2019 is that the alleged objections were no objection as contemplated by sub-section (1) of Section 20D of 1989 Act; and that the petitioners name was not recorded in revenue records. In rejoinder, the stand of the petitioners was that it was Abadi land where they held possession and had their structures therefore, mere absence of their name in the revenue records is not sufficient to defeat their claim.

7. In Writ C No. 43014 of 2019, the stand of the respondents is that the land of the petitioners is not notified for acquisition and therefore, their petition is misconceived.

8. Having noticed, in brief, the pleadings of the parties in this bunch of petitions, we, now, proceed to notice the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties.

9. We have heard Sri N.P. Singh for the writ petitioners in the leading Writ C No. 2959 of 2020 and Sri Mukesh Kumar for the petitioners in connected Writ C Nos. 42577 of 2019, 42537 of 2019 and 43014 of 2019. In all the petitions we have heard Sri Manish Goyal, Additional Advocate General, assisted by Ms. Akansha Sharma, and Sri Abhishek Kumar for the Union of India as well as the Corporation; Sri A.K. Goyal and the learned standing counsel for the competent authority; Sri Anoop Trivedi, learned senior counsel, assisted by Sri Abhinav Gaur, also appeared for the Corporation; and Sri Alok Singh, holding brief of Sri Ramendra Pratap Singh, appeared for Greater Noida.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONERS

10. Sri N.P. Singh, who led the arguments on behalf of the petitioners, submitted as follows:-

(a) A notification under Section 20A of the 1989 Act could be issued where the Central Government is satisfied that for a public purpose any land is required for execution of a Special Railway Project. Section 2 (37A) of 1989 Act provides that a Special Railway Project means a project, notified as such by the Central Government from time to time, for providing national infrastructure for a public purpose in a specified time frame, covering one or more States or the Union Territories. Since, by notification dated 24 August 2009, the Central Government through the Ministry of Railways notified its intention to acquire land for execution of the Freight Corridor, a special railway project, within the district of Gautam Budh Nagar in the State of Uttar Pradesh, and, in pursuance thereof, had issued notification on 30 July, 2010, under Section 20E of 1989 Act, the requirement of land for execution of that project stood satisfied and, therefore, there could be no further acquisition for that project. He submits that the impugned notification is, therefore, beyond the scope of the provisions of the 1989 Act and is mala fide.

(b) Under the earlier notification of the year 2010, an award was passed and physical possession of the land was taken yet, that land was not utilised even though it was agricultural land and, now, unnecessarily, a fresh notification has been brought, at the request of GNIDA, not to serve the purpose for which acquisition could be made under the 1989 Act but to benefit GNIDA. It was urged that the acquisition therefore, is not to serve the purpose contemplated under the 1989 Act but to serve GNIDA, which vitiates the notification.

(c) That even assuming that the notification could have been issued under the provisions of the 1989 Act, the procedure provided by the 1989 Act for making an acquisition under the Act was not followed inasmuch as the objections taken by the petitioners, under sub-section (1) of section 20 D of the 1989 Act, to the notification under sub-section (1) of Section 20A were not addressed; no date for personal hearing was fixed as is contemplated by the provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 20D of the 1989 Act; and it was wrongly reported that no objections were taken. The stand of the respondents that no objection was taken is in the teeth of the record because from the affidavit of Tehsildar it is clear that the objection was filed though, according to him, it was not before the competent authority because the competent authority was the City Magistrate, Greater Noida and not the S.D.M.(Sadar), Gautam Budh Nagar which is incorrect inasmuch as in the notification dated 11.2.2019, under Section 20A of 1989 Act, the competent authority was specified as Up Zila Adhikari, Gautam Budh Nagar, U.P. which is none other than the S.D.M. (Sadar), Gautam Budh Nagar and, otherwise also, the objection was titled in a manner that it was addressed to both S.D.M. (Sadar) as well as Up-Zila Adhikari, Gautam Budh Nagar therefore, by no stretch of imagination it could be stated that there was no objection filed. Hence, the notification under Section 20E is liable to be quashed.

11. On behalf of the petitioners in Writ C Nos. 42577 of 2019 and 42537 of 2019, the learned counsel representing those petitioners, apart from adopting the above submissions made by Sri N.P. Singh, urged that the stand of the respondents that the objection taken by these writ petitioners were no objection, as contemplated by sub-section (1) of Section 20D of the 1989 Act, and were justifiably ignored, cannot be accepted inasmuch as sub-section (2) of section 20 D of the 1989 Act casts a duty on the competent authority to give the objector an opportunity of being heard. Therefore, once objections are taken, whether they relate to the purpose mentioned in sub-section (1) of section 20A of the 1989 Act, the competent authority has to invite the objector for personal hearing. In absence whereof, the declaration under sub-section (1) of Section 20E of the 1989 Act gets vitiated.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioners cited a number of decisions to demonstrate that the right to file an objection to a preliminary notification proposing to acquire land is a valuable right akin to a fundamental right; and that hearing on the objections must be effective and not a mere formality and a violation of that right vitiates the notification of declaration. The citation of those decisions are:-

(a) (2005) 7 SCC 627 : Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. v. Darius Shapur Chennai and others;

(b) (2014) 6 SCC 564 : Union of India v. Shiv Raj;

(c) (2013) 1 SCC 403 : Surinder Brar V. Union of India

(d) (2013) 4 SCC 210 : Usha Stud & Agricultural Farms (P) Ltd. v. State of Haryana.

13. To contend that the merit of the objections is to be considered by the competent authority and not the High Court, apex court decision in the case of Gojer Bros. (P) Ltd. v. State of W.B., (2013) 16 SCC 660, was cited.

14. To contend that failure to observe audi alteram partem rule at pre-decisional stage would vitiate the decision, apex court decision in Swadeshi Cotton Mills v. Union of India, (1981) 1 SCC 664, was cited. Apex court decision in Kesar Enterprises Ltd. v. State of U.P and others, (2011) 13 SCC 733, was cited to contend that the underlying purpose of the principles of natural justice is to check arbitrary exercise of power by State and its functionaries. Decisions of Apex Court in State of West Bengal v. Debasish Mukherjee and others, (2011) 14 SCC 187, and B.P. Singhal v. Union of India, (2010) 6 SCC 331, were cited to contend that in a democratic country, governed by rule of law, no authority has absolute discretion and even prerogative power is subject to judicial review; and that even the doctrine of pleasure cannot be a licence to act arbitrarily, whimsically, or capriciously with unfettered discretion/unaccountable action. Thus, where reasons given for exercise of such power are irrelevant or where the exercise of power is vitiated by self-denial on wrong appreciation of the full amplitude of the power or where the decision is arbitrary, discriminatory or mala fide, judicial review would be warranted.

15. Reliance on the judgment of the apex court in K.T. Plantation (P) Ltd. v. State of Karnataka, (2011) 9 SCC 1, was placed to urge that rule of law is one of the most important aspects of the doctrine of basic structure and any interference with the peaceful enjoyment of possession should be lawful - public purpose is a condition precedent for applicability of Article 300-A of the Constitution and its violation is amenable to judicial review - whether the purpose is primarily public or private, has to be decided by the legislature on the basis of object of the Statute and policy of legislation. The decision of apex court in the case of Manohar Joshi v. State of Maharastra, (2012) 3 SCC 619 was cited to contend that town planning is to be done after elaborate planning keeping in mind the difficulties of public and that there should not be arbitrary shifting of plans - once a plan is formulated, the same has to be implemented as it is only in the rarest of rare case that a departure from it could be had. Decision in the case of Kalinga Mining Corporation v. Union of India, (2013) 5 SCC 252, was cited to contend that though the scope of judicial review with regard to the actual decision taken is limited but where the decision making process is vitiated, the power of judicial review could be exercised. Decision in the case of Kalpana Mehta v. Union of India and others, (2018) 7 SCC 1, was cited to urge that the constitutional courts cannot sit in oblivion when fundamental rights of individuals are in jeopardy - the Constitution is about empowerment and that indian society must move "from the culture of authority and submission to the law, to one of justification and rights under the law. Decision of Gujarat High Court reported in (2013) SCC Online Guj 6083 in the case of Railway Corridor Virodh Kishan Sangh V. Union of India was cited to urge that where the declaration under Section 20E of the 1989 Act is made without consideration of objections under section 20D not only the declaration is to be quashed but also the preliminary notification under section 20-A (1) if the statutory period prescribed by sub section (3) of Section 20E of the 1989 Act from the date of notification under section 20A (1) has expired.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

16. On behalf of respondents, Sri Manish Goyal, who led the arguments, as well as other counsels including Sri Anoop Trivedi, appearing for the respondents, submitted as follows:-

(a) The Special Railway Project as contemplated by section 2 (37A) of the 1989 Act was notified on 19.02.2008 by the Central Government as follows:-

"NOTIFICATION

New Delhi, the 19th February, 2008

S.O. 360(E)---- In exercise of the powers conferred by clause (37A) of Section 2 of the Railways Act, 1989, the Central Government hereby notifies the following projects as special railway project, as mentioned in column (2) of the table below in the State mentioned in column (3) of the said table, with effect from the date of publication of this notification in the Official Gazette.

TABLE

Special Railway Project

Sl.No.	Name of Project	State/UT
(1)	(2)	(3)
1.	Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor	Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Haryana, Punjab
2.	Western Dedicated Freight Corridor	Maharastra, Gujarat , Rajasthan, Haryana, Delhi, Uttar Pradesh

[F. No. 2008/LML/13/5]
MATHEWJOHN, Secy."

It was urged that from the above notification it is clear that the Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor runs through four States, namely, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Haryana, Punjab. The project is not limited to any particular district or an area therefore, even if the land in the district of Gautam Budh Nagar was notified in the year 2009 for the Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor (for short the Freight Corridor), the power to acquire further land for the Freight Corridor in the same district would not come to an end as that power can be exercised under Section 20A, read with Section 2 (37A) of the 1989 Act, from time to time, depending upon the need for the land for creating appropriate infrastructure for the Freight Corridor. It was urged, by inviting our attention on the site plan of the Freight Corridor project in the district of Gautam Budh Nagar, that earlier contemplated Freight Corridor line had a detour from the existing Indian Railway Track which was causing problem as a large chunk of land of Greater Noida was getting landlocked, therefore to straighten the Freight Corridor by aligning it and making it run parallel to the existing Indian Railway Track, after being informed that, except a few, a large number of tenure holders were ready to offer their land for transfer, the acquisition proceeding was initiated therefore, the acquisition proceeding cannot be said to be beyond the scope of Section 20A of the 1989 Act.

(b) It was contended that the plea that the competent authority was City Magistrate and, therefore, filing of the objections before some other authority can not be taken as filing of an objection, is not to be understood as an admission that objections to the notification under section 20-A (1) were filed. Because, in the first part of the counter-affidavit filed in Writ C No.2959 of 2020, it was clearly stated that no objection was filed within the time specified. Thus, the above plea should be understood as plea in the alternative and not as an admission regarding filing of the objection. It was urged that even if the objections, annexed by the petitioners in Writ C No. 2959 of 2020, are taken to have been filed, they do not specifically claim that the purpose of the acquisition is not what is contemplated by sub-section (1) of Section 20A of the 1989 Act. Rather, they only question the need for further acquisition. It was urged that in so far as the objection of Jaiveer Singh is concerned that does not even mention the notification to which objection has been taken and therefore the same cannot be treated as an objection to the notification. In the alternative, it was urged that the scope of the objection under Section 20D is limited to raising an objection with regard to the purpose mentioned in sub-section (1) of Section 20A whereas, none of the objections purports to question that, hence, the objection is no objection in the eyes of law. Lastly, it was contended that 95% of the project is complete, the petitioners have participated in making of the award and have demanded compensation at the market value therefore, at this stage, there would be no justification to interfere with the acquisition notification when the land holders can be appropriately compensated with money. With regard to writ petition No. 42537 of 2019 and 42577 of 2019 it was submitted that in those petitions, firstly, the objectors are not recorded in the record of rights and, secondly, the objection taken by them is not that the acquisition did not subserve the purpose contemplated under sub-section (1) of Section 20A of the 1989 Act.

17. The learned counsel for the respondents placed reliance on the following authorities:-

(a) (2010) 10 SCC 282 : Nand Kishore Gupta v. State of U.P. and others

This authority was cited to contend that where a large project is undertaken and the majority of the farmers receive compensation and only a handful of them raise objection, the court can take into account that aspect for not interfering with the acquisition, particularly, when the project is of immense public importance like an express way and its alignment cannot be changed.

(b) (2019) 7 SCC 342 : State of Tamil Nadu vs. Vasanthi Veerasekaran

This authority was cited to contend that where the acquisition is for a project of MRTS (Railways) on behalf of Ministry of Railway, Government of India and, under the law of acquisition, there is no provision for rehabilitation or for providing alternative sites to the landlosers, a direction by the High Court in providing alternative land would not be appropriate and compensation alone could be awarded.

(c) (2019) 15 SCC 1 : Nareshbhai Bhagubhai and others v. Union of India

Reliance on this judgment was placed to contend that under Section 20D of the 1989 Act, the scope of the objection is limited to the purpose for which acquisition is made and it is not a general right to file objections as is under Section 5-A of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (for short the 1894 Act). This judgment was also relied upon to urge that even where notification under Section 20E gets vitiated in absence of an order passed on the objection under Section 20D of the 1989 Act, if the court finds that the Special Railway Project is on the verge of completion and only a minuscule part remains, in respect of which objections have been taken by the land-owners, the Court need not set aside the notification but may direct payment of compensation at the current market rate.

(d) (2015) 7 SCC 21 : Savitri Devi vs. State of U.P.

Paragraph 46 of this judgment was relied upon to contend that where developments have taken place and third party rights have been created even if the court finds acquisition to have vitiated, a workable solution could be arrived at by the Court by adequately compensating the landowners in the form of compensation etc.

(e) (2021) 3 SCC 572 : Project Director, Project Implementation Unit v. P.V. Krishnamoorthy

This was cited to contend that in matters relating to national highways and economic corridor, the decision taken by experts with regard to the route is not amenable to judicial review.

(f) (2011) 11 SCC 100 : Dedicated Freight Corridor Corporation of India V. Subodh Singh and others

This judgment was cited to contend that the period of limitation to pass an award would be counted from the date of the gazette notification and not from the date of publication in the newspaper.

ISSUES

18. Having noticed the rival submissions and having perused the record, in our view, the following issues arise for our consideration:-

(i) Whether the notification dated 11 February 2019 under Section 20A of the 1989 Act could have been issued to serve the public purpose for the special railway project as land had already been acquired for the project vide notification dated 30 July 2010 followed by an award and taking of possession?

(ii) Whether the petitioners of Writ C Nos. 2959 of 2020; 42537 of 2019; and 42577 of 2019 filed their objection under sub-section (1) of Section 20D of the Railways Act, 1989?. If so, whether in absence of consideration of their objection, the declaration notification dated 06 November 2019, under Section 20 E of the 1989 Act, stood vitiated?.

(iii) If the declaration notification dated 06 November 2019, under section 20-E of the 1989 Act, is vitiated, to what relief the petitioners are entitled to?

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

19. Issue No.1: In respect of the validity of notification dated 11.02.2019, under Section 20A of Railways Act, 1989, the thrust of the submissions of the learned counsel for the writ petitioners is that once land was acquired in the district of Gautam Budh Nagar for the special railway project i.e. Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor, there existed no public purpose for acquisition of land for execution of the special railway project and therefore, the notification, under Section 20A, dated 11.02.2019, is liable to be quashed. To buttress the above submission, the learned counsel for the petitioners placed reliance on the provisions of sub-section (37A) of Section 2 of the 1989 Act which defines a special railway project as a project notified as such by the Central Government from time to time, for providing national infrastructure for public purpose in a specified time-frame, covering one or more States or the Union Territories. It was urged that the notification dated 19 February 2008, under sub-section (37A) of Section 2, notified Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor as a special railway project covering the State of Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Haryana and Punjab. The notification under section 20-A of the 1989 Act of the year 2009 was specific for the Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor in the district of Gautam Budh Nagar and it was followed by declaration and award with transfer of possession therefore, it would be deemed that the need for land for the Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor in the district of Gautam Budh Nagar stood satisfied. Under the circumstances, the impugned notification dated 11 February 2019 does not serve the public purpose contemplated by the Act but some collateral purpose, such as releasing landlocked land of GNIDA, which is not permissible under the 1989 Act.

20. Per contra, on behalf of the respondents, the stand taken in their counter-affidavits is that a large chunk of land of GNIDA was to get landlocked on account of the circuitous route of the earlier proposed freight corridor and therefore, a decision was taken to properly align the freight corridor so as to run it parallel to the existing Indian Railway track. This was in larger public and national interest. Hence, the process of acquisition started. More than 75% of the land required for that end was acquired through sale-deeds and when resistance was offered by a handful of persons, notification was issued to acquire the land. It was urged on behalf of the respondents that for a special railway project, land can be acquired from to time dependent on the need that may arise. Aligning the freight corridor with the existing Indian Railway Track is a genuine need, relatable to public purpose, based on expert decision and the same is not amenable to judicial review.

21. We have given our anxious consideration to the rival submissions on the issue and have carefully examined the pleadings of the parties. No doubt, earlier also, the power vested in the Central Government under section 20A (1) was exercised to acquire land in the district of Gautam Budh Nagar for the Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor but there is nothing in the Act which may lead us to infer that once the power is exercised the same cannot be exercised again, if need so arises. In this regard, it would be apposite to notice Section 14 of the General Clauses Act, 1897 which provides that where, by Central Act, any power is conferred, then unless a different intention appears, that power may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires. Thus, notification to acquire land for Eastern Dedicated Freight Corridor in the district of Gautam Budh Nagar issued in the year 2010 would not place an embargo on fresh acquisition of land in the district for the Freight Corridor, if there exists a public purpose.

22. From the averments made in the counter-affidavit including the own case of the writ petitioners, the earlier proposed freight corridor took a detour from the existing Indian Railway Track which resulted in large chunk of GNIDA land getting landlocked. GNIDA therefore, requested review of the route by offering land to align the freight corridor with existing Indian Railway track. It appears that 75% of the land could be garnered through sale deeds and the remaining was proposed to be acquired. This way, the route not only gets shortened but gets aligned with the existing railway tracks. Such a decision, in our view, would fall in the realm of an expert decision which, in our opinion, is not amenable to judicial review, particularly, in the light of the decision of the apex court in the case of Project Director, Project Implementation Unit v. P.V. Krishnamoorthy (supra) wherein, after examining the material brought on record, the Court had not interfered with the acquisition to cater to the altered plan upon finding that the alteration in the plan for the project necessitating acquisition was taken consciously on the basis of material available on record to ensure a shorter and a direct route. The apex court had also observed that such decision being based on expert opinion is beyond the purview of judicial review. Here also, from the counter-affidavit, it appears, on 01.03.2013, the Chief Executive Officer, GNIDA, wrote a letter to the Managing Director, Dedicated Freight Corridor Corporation of India Ltd. explaining the difficulty that would arise if the Freight Corridor takes a detour as proposed. This letter has been brought on record as Annexure 6 to the counter-affidavit dated 12.02.2021 filed on behalf of respondents 1 and 2 in Writ C No. 2959 of 2020. The said letter apprises the Managing Director of the Dedicated Freight Corridor Corporation of India Ltd. that if the alignment is not changed, then 200-250 acres of land of Greater Noida would get wasted and would have adverse impact on the proposed Boraki railway station. The letter thus proposes alignment of the freight corridor with existing railway track and it also assures cooperation in providing land for the purpose. It is stated in paragraph "P' of the counter-affidavit, dated 12.02.2021, which is reply to paragraphs 37 and 38 of the writ petition, as follows:-

" .....The detour alignment of DFCCIL Track was changed on the request of GNIDA from detour to parallel of IR Track to avoid land locking of approx. 200-250 acre land as per GNIDA request vide Letter from CEO/GNIDA dated 01.03.2013.....

It was agreed during the meeting under the Chairmanship of Chief Secretary, IDC, UP Govt on dated 20.05.2013 to handover the land to DFCCIL by 30.06.2013 after straightening the alignment which was passing through the Abadi of Boraki village.....

The land coming under the Parallel Alignment of EDFC in village ChamrawaliBoraki (6.5167 Hac.) was to be handed over to DFCCIL (Ministry of Railways) by Greater Noida Industrial Devlopment Authority (GNIDA) after purchasing the same on mutual consent from People/Residents. GNIDA started the process and most of the land in village Boraki was purchased by GNIDA from the residents through mutual consent."

From the above, it is clear that the acquisition in question was to align the track of the freight corridor in a manner that it gets straightened, shortened and, in turn, also save land of GNIDA from getting landlocked or wasted. An acquisition exercise to serve such a purpose, based on review of the earlier proposed route, after examining its workability, cannot be said to serve no public purpose for execution of a special railway project as contemplated by sub-section (1) of Section 20-A of the 1989 Act. We, therefore, hold that notwithstanding the earlier acquisition made vide declaration dated 30 July 2010, the Central Government had the power to issue a fresh notification under section 20A (1) of the 1989 Act by virtue of Section 14 of the General Clauses Act, 1897 upon a review of the workability of the earlier proposed route. Such power having been exercised consciously, after taking into account the request of GNIDA and the practicality of the altered plan, is for a public purpose relatable to execution of a special railway project of economic importance and calls for no interference in exercise of the power of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The issue no.1 is decided accordingly.

23. Issue No.2 : In respect of this issue, the stand of the petitioners had been categorical that upon publication of notification under Section 20A they had submitted their objection under Section 20 D within the period specified in the publication. The petitioners have also enclosed copy of their objections which are addressed to the Up Zila Adhikari (Sadar), / S.D.M. (Sadar), Gautam Budh Nagar. The objection filed by Jaiveer (petitioner no.1 in Writ C No.2959 of 2020) is dated 12.3.2019; of Tejpal (petitioner no.2 in Writ C No.2959 of 2020) is dated 15.03.2020; and of Shyam Singh (petitioner no.3 in Writ C No.2959 of 2020) is dated 13.03.2020. These objections raise a question with regard to the justification for the acquisition by claiming that for the freight corridor, land had already been acquired in the past in the district of Gautam Budh Nagar. These objections were admittedly not decided.

24. The respondents contested the issue by taking the following pleas:-

(a) that the objections were not filed within the prescribed time;

(b) that the objections were not filed before the competent authority inasmuch as the competent authority was the City Magistrate, Greater Noida and not SDM (Sadar), Gautam Budh Nagar; and

(c) even if it is assumed that the objections were taken, they were not of the kind envisaged by section 20D of 1989 Act inasmuch as they do not specifically claim that the acquisition served no public purpose.

25. A perusal of Annexure 3 to Writ C No.2959 of 2020, which is typed copy of the impugned notification dated 11 February 2019, would reveal that it invited objections, under sub-section (1) of Section 20 D, within 30 days from the date of publication in the official gazette. As per the notification, objections were to be filed before competent authority, that is, the Up - Zila Adhikari Gautam Budh Nagar. If we count 30 days by excluding the date of the publication of notification in the gazette, keeping in mind that the month of February 2019 had 28 days, objections taken by Jaiveer, dated 12.3.2019, and Shyam Singh @ Shyamveer, dated 13.3.2019, were within the period of 30 days. Whereas, objection of Tej Pal would be beyond 30 days. But, from Annexure CA-2 filed along with counter-affidavit dated 18.11.2020 of respondent no.5 in Writ C No. 2959 of 2020, which is copy of the award dated 27.07.2020, it appears that the notification dated 11.2.2019, under section 20A (1), was published in newspapers Dainik Jagran and Amar Ujala on 26.02.2019. Under sub-section (1) of Section 20D of the 1989 Act, an objection is to be filed within a period of 30 days from the date of publication of the notification under sub-section (1) of Section 20A. Sub-section (4) of Section 20 A of the 1989 Act provides for the procedure for publication of notification under sub section (1) of section 20A by stating that the competent authority shall cause the substance of the notification to be published in two local newspapers, one of which shall be in a vernacular language. By contrast, Section 20-E of 1989 Act does not require publication of notification in newspapers therefore, the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Dedicated Freight Corridor Corporation of India V. Subodh Singh and others (supra) that the period within which award is to be passed, under Section 20F (2) of the 1989 Act, is to counted from the date of gazette notification, under section 20E (1), is of no help to the respondents. Rather, the period for filing an objection under sub-section (1) of section 20-D of the 1989 Act will have to be counted from the last date of publication of the notification as is required by sub-section (4) of section 20-A of the 1989 Act. Since the notification under sub section (1) of section 20 A of the 1989 Act was published in the newspaper, under sub-section (4) of Section 20A of the 1989 Act, on 26.02.2019 and all the objections were filed by the petitioners within 30 days, when counted from 26.02.2019, they were all within time, therefore the stand taken by the respondents that objection was not within time is not correct. Similarly, in Writ C No. 42537 of 2019, objections were filed within time. One set of objections were filed on 28.02.2019 and the other set of objections were filed on 05.03.2019. Likewise, in Writ C No. 42577 of 2019, the petitioners filed objections in two sets. One set of petitioners filed objections on 28.02.2019 and the other set filed objections on 05.03.2019. Thus, the stand taken in the counter-affidavit that the objections were not filed within time is incorrect. We, therefore, hold that the objections were taken within time i.e. within 30 days of the publication of the notification, dated 11.02.2019, under Section 20A (4) of the 1989 Act.

26. The other stand of the respondents that the objections were not taken before the competent authority, which was the City Magistrate, Greater Noida and not the SDM (Sadar), Gautam Budh Nagar, is on the face of the record misconceived. Indisputably, the notification under Section 20A had specified the competent authority as Up Zila Adhikari, Gautam Budh Nagar, Uttar Pradesh. All the objections were addressed to Up-Zila Adhikari, Gautam Budh Nagar/ Sub Divisional Magistrate (Sadar), Gautam Budh Nagar. Thus, the stand taken by the respondent no.4, namely, the Tehsildar (J.), Jewar, Gautam Budh Nagar that it was the City Magistrate, Greater Noida, who was the competent authority, is outright rejected. Noticeably, the counter affidavit does not specifically state that no such objection is traceable in the office of the Up-Zila Adhikari / S.D.M. (Sadar), Gautam Budh Nagar. Another stand taken by the learned counsel for the respondents that the objections did not specify the notification against which they were made is too hyper technical and has no merit for the following reasons: (a) when objection is taken before the authority concerned pursuant to a publication, from the context, the authority can easily correlate to which it relates to; and (b) ordinarily, land losers are rustic villagers or the like, expecting them to draft an objection like a plaint would not be appropriate.

27. The third stand taken by the counsel for the respondents is a bit interesting. The learned counsel for the respondents urged that under sub-section (1) of section 20D of the 1989 Act, objection is limited to the purpose mentioned in the notification of sub-section (1) of section 20A and unless the objection questions the purpose, it cannot be treated as an objection and, therefore, even if there is a failure to consider the objections taken by the petitioners it would not vitiate the notification under Section 20E of the 1989 Act.

28. To examine the merit of the aforesaid contention, it would be useful for us to extract the provisions of Section 20A, Section 20D and Section 20E of the 1989 Act. These sections are extracted below:-

"20A. Power to acquire land, etc.-- (1) Where the Central Government is satisfied that for a public purpose any land is required for execution of a special railway project, it may, by notification, declare its intention to acquire such land.

(2) Every notification under sub-section (1), shall give a brief description of the land and of the special railway project for which the land is intended to be acquired.

(3) The State Government or the Union territory, as the case may be, shall for the purposes of this section, provide the details of the land records to the competent authority, whenever required.

(4) The competent authority shall cause the substance of the notification to be published in two local newspapers, one of which shall be in a vernacular language.

20D. Hearing of objections, etc.-- (1) Any person interested in the land may, within a period of thirty days from the date of publication of the notification under sub-section (1) of section 20A, object to the acquisition of land for the purpose mentioned in that sub-section.*

(2) Every objection under sub-section (1), shall be made to the competent authority in writing, and shall set out the grounds thereof and the competent authority shall give the objector an opportunity of being heard, either in person or by a legal practitioner, and may, after hearing all such objections and after making such further enquiry, if any, as the competent authority thinks necessary, by order, either allow or disallow the objections.

Explanation.-- For the purposes of this sub-section, "legal practitioner" has the same meaning as in clause (i) of sub-section (1) of section 2 of the Advocates Act, 1961(25 of 1961).*

(3) Any order made by the competent authority under sub-section (2) shall be final.

20E. Declaration of acquisition.-- (1) Where no objection under sub-section (1) of section 20D has been made to the competent authority within the period specified therein or where the competent authority has disallowed the objections under sub-section (2) of that section, the competent authority shall, as soon as may be, submit a report accordingly to the Central Government and on receipt of such report, the Central Government shall declare, by notification, that the land should be acquired for the purpose mentioned in sub-section (1) of section 20A.*

(2) On the publication of the declaration under sub-section (1), the land shall vest absolutely in the Central Government free from all encumbrances.

(3) Where in respect of any land, a notification has been published under sub-section (1) of section 20A for its acquisition, but no declaration under sub-section (1) of this section has been published within a period of one year from the date of publication of that notification, the said notification shall cease to have any effect:

Provided that in computing the said period of one year, the period during which any action or proceedings to be taken in pursuance of the notification issued under sub-section (1) of section 20A is stayed by an order of a court shall be excluded.

(4) A declaration made by the Central Government under sub-section (1) shall not be called in question in any court or by any other authority."

29. A perusal of the extracted provisions reflect that for a notification declaring intention to acquire the land, under sub-section (1) of Section 20A of the 1989 Act, the Central Government must be satisfied that for a public purpose any land is required for execution of a special railway project. Sub-section (1) of section 20D of the 1989 Act provides that any person interested in the land may, within a period of thirty days from the date of publication of the notification under sub-section (1) of section 20A, object to the acquisition of land for the purpose mentioned in that sub-section. Sub-section (2) of Section 20D provides that every objection, under sub-section (1), shall be made to the competent authority in writing, and shall set out the grounds thereof and the competent authority shall give the objector an opportunity of being heard, either in person or by a legal practitioner, and may, after hearing all such objections and after making such further enquiry, if any, as the competent authority thinks necessary, by order, either allow or disallow the objections.

30. From a plain reading of the aforesaid provisions, it is clear that the scope of the objection is set out in sub-section (1) of section 20 D of the 1989 Act whereas, the mode and manner in which the objection is to be taken and dealt with is laid down in sub-section (2). Importantly, sub-section (2) does not specify the grounds that are necessarily to be taken in the written objection. It merely states that the grounds for the objection must be set out. Once an objection is taken in writing, the competent authority has to give opportunity to the objector of being heard, either in person or through a legal practitioner. Importantly, sub-section (2) of section 20D does not state that if the grounds of objection are not proper, the competent authority may deny opportunity of hearing. Thus, taking into account that the provision to raise an objection is for the benefit of the landowner who is to lose his land, a construction that enables it to serve its purpose fully is to be preferred. Such purpose is best served by allowing the objector to be heard once he takes an objection. Accordingly, we are of the view that once written objection to the proposed acquisition is taken and submitted before the competent authority, the competent authority is under an obligation to offer opportunity of hearing to the objector, either in person or through a legal practitioner. No doubt, thereafter, it is open to the competent authority to reject the objection on the ground that the objection does not question the purpose of the acquisition as set out in sub-section (1) of section 20A of the 1989 Act. But, the competent authority cannot treat the objection as a waste paper, before hearing the objector, on the ground that the written objection is not worth consideration.

31. The decisions that have been cited before us are clear that wherever the statute provides for an opportunity to a person to oppose the acquisition of his land then that person should not be deprived of that opportunity except in rare circumstances. Even in cases where acquisition notifications were coupled with dispensation clause i.e. sub-section (4) of Section 17 of the 1894 Act to deprive a person of his right to object under section 5 A of the 1894 Act, the courts had been strict in allowing invocation of such dispensation power and have consistently deprecated the practice of casual dispensation of the requirement of hearing. Here, under the 1989 Act, there is no provision to dispense with the requirement of hearing on objections under Section 20D of the 1989 Act therefore, in our considered view, once a written objection, under Section 20D, to the acquisition is taken, a duty is cast on the competent authority to take a decision on the objection after hearing the objector or his legal practitioner.

32. The decision of the apex court in Nareshbhai Bhagubhai and others v. Union of India (supra), on which reliance has been placed by the learned counsel for the respondents, though holds that the scope of the objection under section 20D of the 1989 Act is limited to the purpose for which acquisition is made and is not a general right to file objections as under Section 5A of the 1894 Act but, it simultaneously holds that the statute mandates that the order is required to be passed by the competent authority after hearing the land owners. The order cannot precede the hearing of objections. If an order is passed prior to the personal hearing, and enquiry by the Competent Authority, it would be contrary to the statute, invalid, and vitiated by a predetermined disposition. Thus, what is important is that once an objection is taken to the proposed acquisition, an obligation is cast upon the competent authority to hear the objector or his legal practitioner. It is only after hearing, that the merit of the objection can be examined and if the grounds for the objection are not germane to the statutory provisions, the same could be rejected.

33. In this case, from the affidavit dated 12.02.2021 filed by Ram Manohar Agarwal on behalf of respondents 1 and 2, it is clear that the Deputy Collector/Competent Authority, Gautam Budh Nagar reported to the Secretary, Ministry of Railways, Govt. of India, vide letter dated 24.09.2019, that no objection was taken by the land owners despite publication of the notification under Section 20A (4) on 26.02.2019 whereafter the declaration under section 20-D(1) was made. From this, it is clear that there was no adjudication on the objection taken by the land owners.

34. Based on the analysis above, we arrive at the following conclusions: (a) that the petitioners did take written objection to the notification under Section 20 A of the 1989 Act; (b) the objections were taken before the competent authority within the time specified by Section 20D (1) of the 1989 Act; and (c) that their objections were neither entertained nor decided and they were also not heard on their objections, despite the mandate of sub-section (2) of Section 20D of the 1989 Act.

35. As we have found that the mandate of sub-section (2) of Section 20D was not followed, in view of the clear statutory mandate of sub-section (1) of section 20 E that the declaration under sub section (1) of Section 20E could be made only where no objection under sub-section (1) of Section 20D has been taken before the competent authority within the period specified or where the competent authority has disallowed the objections under sub-section (2) thereof, the logical consequence that follows is that the impugned notification, dated 6 November 2019, under sub-section (1) of section 20E of the 1989 Act, is vitiated. The issue no. 2 is decided accordingly.

36. Issue no.3. As we have already found that the impugned declaration under sub-section (1) of section 20E of the 1989 Act stood vitiated, the question that now arises for our consideration is whether on that ground the entire acquisition be invalidated, particularly when the Corporation on assumption that there were no objections had proceeded to substantially complete the project. At this stage, the decision of the Apex Court in Nareshbhai Bhagubhai and others v. Union of India (supra) be noticed wherein, the apex court upon finding that the project was almost complete and quashing of the declaration would result in wastage of public money, instead of quashing the notification, directed payment of compensation at the market rate. The relevant part of the judgment of the apex court in Nareshbhai Bhagubhai and others v. Union of India (supra) is extracted below:-

"34. The issue which remains to be decided is that in the absence of an order passed on the objections under Section 20-D, should the consequential steps be invalidated. We find that the challenge before this Court has been made by the Appellants with respect to a stretch of land admeasuring approximately 6 kms, out of the total stretch of 131 kms. The remaining stretch of land comprising of 125 kms has been acquired, and stands vested in the Government. The Respondents have stated on Affidavit that pre-construction activity and earth work has been completed on most parts of the stretch. Furthermore, most of the bridges are either in progress, or have already been completed.

35. The Senior Counsel representing the Appellants in all the present Civil Appeals, after taking instructions from his clients, submitted that since the land was being acquired for a public utility project, his clients would be satisfied if they were granted compensation by awarding the current rate for acquisition of land. Admittedly, no mala fides have been alleged by the Appellants against the Respondents in the acquisition proceedings. The larger public purpose of a railway project would not be served if the Notification under Section 20A is quashed. The public purpose of the acquisition is the construction and operation of a Special Railway Project viz. the Western Dedicated Freight Corridor in District Surat, Gujarat. In these extraordinary circumstances, we deem it fit to balance the right of the Appellants on the one hand, and the larger public purpose on the other, by compensating the Appellants for the right they have been deprived of. The interests of justice persuade us to adopt this course of action.

36. In Savitri Devi v. State of U.P., this Court held that : (SCC p. 53, para 46)

"46. Thus, we have a scenario where, on the one hand, invocation of urgency provisions under Section 17 of the Act and dispensing with the right to file objection under Section 5-A of the Act, is found to be illegal. On the other hand, we have a situation where because of delay in challenging these acquisitions by the land owners, developments have taken in these villages and in most of the cases, third party rights have been created. Faced with this situation, the High Court going by the spirit behind the judgment of this Court in Bondu Ramaswamy and Others (supra) came out with the solution which is equitable to both sides. We are, thus, of the view that the High Court considered the ground realities of the matter and arrived at a more practical and workable solution by adequately compensating the land owners in the form of compensation as well as allotment of developed Abadi land at a higher rate i.e. 10% of the land acquired of each of the land owners against the eligibility and to the policy to the extent of 5% and 6% of Noida and Greater Noida land respectively." (emphasis supplied)

37. In the present case, the relief is being moulded by granting compensation to the Appellants, to be assessed under Section 20G of the said Act as per the current market value of the land. The Competent Authority is directed to compute the amount of compensation on the basis of the current market value of the land, which may be determined with reference to Section 20-G(2) of the Act.

38. With respect to the remaining 125 kms stretch of land, the landowners were satisfied with the amount awarded, and have not approached this Court. Under these circumstances, despite our finding that the Respondents have breached the mandatory provisions of the Act, we do not think this is a fit case to set aside the entire acquisition proceedings. The relief granted in the present case is confined to the Appellants herein, and would not become a precedent for other land-owners who have not challenged the acquisition proceedings before this Court."

37. In this case also, as we have noticed earlier, out of a total cost of Rs.824 crores of the project, Rs. 614 crores have been spent up to 29.01.2021 and, out of total length of 54.38 kms, only 1.36 kms linear length remains to be completed due to resistance offered by few land-owners. Importantly, the completion of the project to the extent indicated above has been set out in the counter affidavits of which there is no specific denial. In these circumstances, if we set aside the declaration now, it would result in huge wastage of public money as the entire alignment of the freight corridor would have to be redone. Thus, following the decision of the Apex Court in Nareshbhai Bhagubhai and others v. Union of India (supra) prayer of the petitioners for quashing the notifications dated 11.02.2019 and 06.11.2019 is denied. It is however directed that the petitioners of Writ C Nos. 2959 of 2020; 42537 of 2019; and 42577 of 2019 shall be awarded compensation in accordance with the law, subject to proof of their right, calculated at the current market rate. To that extent Writ C Nos.2959 of 2020; 42537 of 2019; and 42577 of 2019 are partly allowed. But as the land of writ petitioners in Writ C No. 43014 of 2019 is not subject matter of acquisition and they have also not challenged the notification, Writ C No.43014 of 2019 is dismissed. The interim orders passed in all these petitions stand discharged.

38. Before parting, we deem it appropriate to require the respondents to hold an inquiry against the person responsible for submission of an incorrect report to the Central Government that no objection was taken by the land owners to the notification under sub-section (1) of Section 20 A of the 1989 Act.

39. Let a copy of this order be sent to the Chief Secretary, Government of U.P. to ensure an enquiry as directed above.

THE HON'BLE ROHIT RANJAN AGARWAL, J.

Writ C No. 4340 of 2021

Maulana Mohammad Ali Jauhar Trust, Lucknow ...Petitioner

Versus

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Syed Safdar Ali Khazmi

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Land Law - U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 - Sections 89, 98, 104/105 & 230 - U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 - Sections 154, 157-A, 157-C, 166 & 167

The Court observed that the Trust had purchased land from the members of the Scheduled Caste without taking any prior permission from the Collector, which is a clear violation of Section 157-A of the Act of 1950. Further, any order passed in proceedings under Section 104/105 of Code cannot be interfered and the land has rightly been vested with the State Government. (para 25)

As per Section 154(2) of the Act of 1950 the State is empowered to grant permission for transfer of land in excess of the prescribed limit in favour of registered co-operative society or institution established for charitable purpose, subject to a limitation, which, if violated, the same stands withdrawn. Moreover, the conditions laid in permission dated 07.11.2005 has not been complied with. The Trust has also violated the conditions laid down by the State by not completing the construction within stipulated period and did not submit the statement in regard to acquisition of land and construction made thereupon annually as well as construction of 'mosque' over the acquired land. (Para 28)

In addition to this, a case has been filed under Section 134 of the Code as the Trust has forcibly encroached upon the land of numbe rof tenure holders whose land was adjoining the Trust. The Chak Road, which is land of Gaon Sabha and land adjoining the river belt has also been included. (Para 33)

The declaration under Section 143 of the Act, 1950 will not save the case of the petitioner-Trust from being hit by provisions of Section 157-A and the violation of conditions of permission granted on 07.11.2005. Once the transfer is viod, subsequent proceedings under Section 143 woul dnot save the transfer made in favour of Trust by members of Scheduled Caste. (Para 35)

1. Kripa Shanker Vs Director Consolidation 1979 ALJ 693 (SC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rohit Ranjan Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Syed Safdar Ali Kazmi, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Ajeet Kumar Singh, learned Additional Advocate General along with Sri Sudhanshu Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The present petition has been preferred for quashing of report dated 16.03.2020 submitted by Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Rampur as well as for quashing the order dated 16.01.2021 passed by Additional District Magistrate (Administration) Rampur/respondent No.2 in proceedings initiated under Section 104/105 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 (hereinafter called as "the Code").

3. The facts, in nutshell, as disclosed in the petition are that petitioner is a Society registered under the provisions of Societies Registration Act, 1860 (hereinafter called as "Act, 1860") in the year 1995. It was in the year 2005 that State of Uttar Pradesh enacted U.P. Act No.19 of 2006 and thus came into existence the Mohammad Ali Jauhar University Act, 2005 (hereinafter called as "Act, 2005"). The preamble of the Act, 2005 was as under :

"An Act to establish and incorporate a Teaching University sponsored by Maulana Mohammad Ali Jauhar Trust at Rampur in Uttar Pradesh and to provide for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto."

4. Pursuant to the enactment of Act, 2005, the State Government in exercise of power under Section 154(2) of U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 (hereinafter called as "Act, 1950") on 07.11.2005 granted permission to Maulana Mohammad Ali Jauhar Trust (hereinafter called as "Trust") to acquire 400 acres of land against ceiling of 12.5 acres (5.0586 hectare) for establishment of University. The said permission was granted with certain restrictions/conditions, which are as under :

''(1) उक्त भूमि धारित करने हेतु किया गया संक्रमण प्रचलित अधिनियमों, नियमों, विनियमों आदि एवं समय≤ पर जारी किए गये शासनादेशों के अधीन होगा।

(2) उक्त ट्रस्ट द्वारा भूमि का उपयोग अंकित शैक्षणिक संस्थाओ की स्थापना/निर्माण हेतु यह आदेश जारी होने के 05 वर्ष के भीतर कर लिया जायेगा एवं किसी भी दशा में उक्त प्रयोजन से भिन्न प्रयोजन के लिए नहीं किया जायेगा।

(3) संस्था/उसके किसी भी पदाधिकारी द्वारा भूमि का कोई भी भाग किसी संस्था/व्यक्ति को किसी भी रूप में शासन की पूर्वानुमति के बिना हस्तान्तरण नहीं किया जायेगा, लेकिन ऋण प्राप्त करने के उद्देश्य से उक्त ट्रस्ट को प्रश्नगत भूमि बिना कब्जा दिए वित्तीय संस्थाओं के पक्ष में बन्धक रखने का अधिकार रहेगा।

(4) ट्रस्ट द्वारा प्रत्येक वित्तीय वर्ष के अन्त तक क्रय/धारित की गई भूमि/निर्माण आदि का विस्तृत विवरण जिलाधिकारी, रामपुर द्वारा शासन की प्रत्येक अप्रैल मास में प्रस्तुत किया जायेगा।

(5) उपर्युक्त किसी भी शर्त का उल्लंघन होने पर 12.50 एकड से, जो भी भूमि अधिक होगी, उसे राज्य सरकार में निहित कर लिया जायेगा तथा ऐसे निहितन के बदले कोई प्रतिकर नहीं दिया जाएगा, लेकिन ऐसे निहितन के पूर्व ट्रस्ट को सुनवाई को एक अवसर प्रदान किया जायेगा।

(6) ट्रस्ट द्वारा स्थापित किये जाने वाले शिक्षण संस्थानों/संकायों हेतु निर्धारित मानक के अनुसार भूमि तथा उससे सम्बन्धित एन0ओ0सी0 प्रशासनिक विभाग के निर्धारित मानक के अनुसार प्राप्त किया जाना होगा।''

5. Thereafter, on 17.01.2006, the State Government further permitted the petitioner-Trust to purchase 45.91 acres (18.587 hectare) land. The said permission was in continuation with earlier order dated 07.11.2005 with the same condition. Thereafter, on 16.9.2006, an additional permission for purchase of 25 acres land was granted by the State Government to the Trust with the same conditions as was laid down in the earlier order dated 7.11.2005. Copies of permission granted by the State Government have been brought on record as Annexures 3, 4 and 5 to the writ petition.

6. According to the petitioner-Trust, an inspection was made by Sub-Divisional Officer, Tanda, District Rampur on 28.4.2009 and a report was submitted to the District Magistrate, Rampur wherein it was stated that construction was going on over 24000 Sq.Mts. of land. Details of construction being carried out by the Trust was given in the said report.

7 . It was in the year 2020, on report submitted by Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar to the District Magistrate under Section 10(2) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 (hereinafter called as "Act, 1960") that matter was assigned to the Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue) Rampur. On 28.02.2020, the Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue) directed the Sub-Divisional Magistrate to prepare a report observing that Section 10(2) of Act, 1960 was not applicable and was wrongly invoked. On 02.03.2020, the District Magistrate directed the Sub-

Divisional Magistrate to prepare report in accordance with the observation of Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue) pursuant to which a detailed report was submitted by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate to respondent No.2 i.e. District Magistrate, Rampur on 16.03.2020. On 17.03.2020, the matter was referred to respondent No.3 by District Magistrate directing him to adjudicate the matter on merits under Section 104/105 of the Code.

8. The report dated 16.03.2020 contain four major allegations against the petitioner-Trust i.e.

(i) Violation of Condition No.1 of the permission granted by State Government in the year 2005 specially by violating Section 157-A of the Act, 1950 and also wrongfully acquiring the chak road.

(ii) Condition No.2 was also violated as the completion time fixed in the permission i.e. 5 years was also not adhered to by the petitioner-Trust and a mosque was constructed within the premises of University.

(iii) Condition No.4, which was in regard to the submission of annual report, the status of purchase and acquisition of land and construction thereon was to be reported to the District Administration annually but the Trust failed to adhere to the said condition.

(iv) The Trust was not doing any work in public interest.

9. Taking cognizance on the report, a notice was issued on 18.03.2020 by respondent no.3 to the Trust. On 14.08.2020, the petitioner Trust through an advocate had submitted an application before respondent No.3 that Chairman of the Trust was languishing in Sitapur Jail and no notice was served upon the petitioner-Trust and it came to the knowledge only through the media reports. It was further brought to the notice of respondent No.3 that as the Chairman and Secretary both are in Sitapur Jail, proper reply could not be filed. However, on 17.09.2020, a reply was filed on behalf of the Trust before respondent No.3 stating that report dated 16.03.2020 was an ex parte report.

10. The Additional District Magistrate (Administration) Rampur (respondent No.3), after hearing the State as well as the petitioner-Trust, vide order dated 16.01.2021 held that the petitioner-Trust had violated the condition laid down in the permission granted on 07.11.2005, as such land in excess of 12.50 acre stood vested in the State in view of Section 104/105 of the Code.

11. Sri Syed Safdar Ali Kazmi, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that all the active members of the Trust such as Mohammad Azam Khan (President), Dr. Tazeen Fatima (Secretary) and Abdullah Azam Khan (Member) are in Sitapur Jail since 26.02.2020 and no notice was served upon them in jail. The objection was filed only on behalf of the Trust on 17.09.2020 and preliminary objection regarding jurisdiction was filed which was wrongly rejected on 14.10.2020. The said order is under challenge before the Board of Revenue. He further contended that written submission, which was submitted by the State was not served upon the petitioner and they were not granted time to rebutt the same.

12. Learned counsel emphasised that once the Trust was granted permission under Section 154(2) of the Act, 1950, the land purchased from different tenure holders, details of which have been given in para 16 of the writ petition and declaration under Section 143 of the Act, 1950 was made for large part of the land. Further, the inspection report dated 28.4.2009 fortifies the fact that condition No.2 was fulfilled by the Trust as construction was made over 24000 Sq.Mts. of land.

13. Sri Kazmi further submitted that no land has been purchased in contravention of Section 157-A of the Act of 1950 and the proceedings, which was initiated, was turned down by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Rampur and Commissioner, Moradabad on 17.7.2013 and 7.11.2013, and the said orders were challenged before the Board of Revenue after considerable delay and the Board of Revenue, on 14.01.2020, reversed the orders of Sub-Divisional Magistrate and Commissioner, which is pending consideration before this Court.

14. As far as finding recorded for violation of Condition No.4 of the permission is concerned, he submitted that the District Authorities are well aware of the sale deeds executed in favour of the Trust and the report dated 28.4.2009 is ample proof for the said charge. He further tried to impress upon, that University was doing a great public work by imparting education in 23 different streams and was catering to large area of population. Lastly, it was contended that if the land was acquired in excess of permission granted under Section 154(2) of the Act, 1950, the same is saved by provisions of Section 154(3), which provides for approval of the State Government, if any application is filed and the approval is made after deposit of fine, as contained in the explanation to the said section.

15. Opposing the writ petition, learned Additional Advocate General Sri Ajit Kumar Singh, submitted that the order impugned under Section 104/105 of the Code was revisable under Section 210 of the Code and writ petition was not maintainable.

16. However, on merits, he contended that the permission granted on 07.11.2005 was very specific and it provided that any land, which was acquired, was subject to the provisions of the Act and Rules. In the present case, land was acquired from members of Scheduled Caste community such as Laxman Singh, Bhagwan Das, Rajveer, Mahesh, Chandrawati, Ram Prasad and Ram Chandra Singh, all resident of Village Seegankhera as well as Bansi Singh, who is a lease holder under Section 4-A of the Act, 1960, without obtaining mandatory permission under Section 157-A of the Act, 1950 i.e. Section 89 of the Code. Not only the land of Scheduled Caste community was taken without permission, but also the Chak Road and the land adjoining the river, which is a public utility land of Gaon Sabha, was also taken over by the Trust. Further, the land of number of tenure holders had been forcibly taken by the Trust and the proceedings under Section 134 of the Code is pending before the Revenue Authorities. It was further contended that not only this, the tenure holders had lodged first information report against the Trustees. It is also contended that the petitioner-Trust had taken over the land of enemy property. About 26 farmers had lodged a first information report against the Chairman of the Trust Mohammad Azam Khan for land grabbing.

17. Replying to the argument of petitioner that no land from the Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe was purchased by the Trust without consent of District Magistrate, it was contended that after the order of Board of Revenue dated 14.01.2020 petitioner -Trust preferred Writ -B No.437 of 2020 (Maulana Mohammad Ali Jauhar Trust vs. State of U.P. and Another) and this Court on 21.10.2020 had dismissed the petition filed by the Trust in which the counsel, after filing the writ petition, did not appear before the Court. Once the writ was dismissed, and it was held that the sale deed executed by person belonging to Scheduled Caste in favour of the member of general category being hit by provision of Section 157-A, the condition No.1 stands violated.

18. Secondly, the permission granted on 7.11.2005 was specific in regard to completion of work within five years, while the report dated 28.4.2009 only takes note of the fact that certain constructions were in progress over certain part of land and the petitioner has not brought any material on record to prove that construction was completed within the time fixed by the State Government and the intimation was given. Sri Singh further contended that construction of a mosque inside the University premises was against the spirit of sanction granted by the State Government on 07.11.2005 which categorically provided that the land was strictly to be used for educational Trust and not otherwise.

19. I have heard rival submissions of the parties and perused the material available on record.

20. Before proceeding to decide the issue in hand, a necessary glance of certain provisions of Act, 1950 as well as Code is necessary. Relevant Sections 154, 157-A, 157-C, 166 and 167 of the Act, 1950 and Sections 89, 98, 104, 105 and 230 of Code are extracted hereasunder:

Provisions of Act, 1950

"154. Restriction on transfer by a bhumidhar.- (1) Save as provided in sub-section (2), no bhumidhar shall have the right to transfer by sale or gift, any land other than tea garden to any person where the transferee shall, as a result of such sale or gift, become entitled to land which together with land, if any, held by his family will in the aggregate, exceed 5.0586 hectares (12.50 acres) in Uttar Pradesh.

Explanation.- For the removal of doubt it is hereby declared that in this sub-section the expression "person" shall include and be deemed to have included on June 15, 1976 a "Co-operative Society" :

Provided that where the transferee is a Co-operative Society, the land held by it having been pooled by its members under Clause (a) of sub-section (1) of Section 77 of the Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 shall not be taken into account in computing the 5.0586 hectares (12.50 acres) land held by it.

(2) Subject to the provisions of any other law relating to the land tenures for the time being in force, the State Government may, by general or special order, authorise transfer in excess of the limit prescribed in sub-section (1), if it is of the opinion that such transfer is in favour of a registered cooperative society or an institution established for a charitable purpose, which does not have land sufficient for its need or that the transfer is in the interest of general public.

Explanation- For the purposes of this section, the expression "family" shall mean the transferee, his or her wife or husband (as the case may be) and minor children, and where transferee is a minor also his or her parents.

(3) For every transfer of land in excess of the limit prescribed under subsection (1) prior approval of the State Government shall be necessary :

Provided that where the prior approval of the State Government is not obtained under this sub-section, the State Government may on an application give its approval afterward in such manner and on payment in such manner of an amount, as fine, equal to twenty five per cent of the cost of the land as may be prescribed. The cost of the land shall be such as determined by the Collector for stamp duty.

Provided further that where the State Government is satisfied that any transfer has been made in public interest, it may exempt any such transferee from the payment of fine under this sub-section"

"157A. Restrictions on transfer of land by members of Scheduled Castes. - (1) Without prejudice to the restrictions contained in Sections 153 to 157, no bhumidhar or asami belonging to a Scheduled Caste shall have the right to transfer any land by way of sale, gift, mortgage or lease to a person not belonging to a Scheduled Caste, except with the previous approval of the Collector:

Provided that no such approval shall be given by the Collector in case where the land held in Uttar Pradesh by the transferor on the date of application under this section is less than 1.26 hectares or where the area of land so held in Uttar Pradesh by the transferor on the said date is after such transfer, likely to be reduced to less than 1.26 hectares.

(2) The Collector shall, on an application made in that behalf in the prescribed manner, make such inquiry as may be prescribed."

"157C. Mortgage of holdings by members of Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe in certain circumstances. - Notwithstanding anything contained in Sections 157-A and 157-B, a bhumidhar or asami belonging to a Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe may mortgage without possession his holding or part thereof in the circumstances specified in sub-section (3) of Section 152.

Explanation.- In. this chapter, the expressions 'Scheduled Castes' and 'Scheduled Tribes' shall mean respectively the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes specified in relation to Uttar Pradesh under Articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution."

"166. Transfer made in contravention of the Act to be void.- Every transfer made in contravention of the provisions of this Act shall be void."

"167. Consequences of void transfers- (1) The following consequences shall ensue in respect of every transfer which is void by virtue of Section 166, namely-

(a) the subject-matter of transfer shall with effect from the date of transfer, be deemed to have vested in the State Government free from all encumbrances;

(b) the trees, crops and wells existing on the land on the date of transfer shall, with effect from the said date, be deemed to have vested in the State Government free from all encumbrances; and

(c) the transferee may remove other moveable property or the materials of any immovable property existing on such land on the date of transfer within such time as may be prescribed.

(2) Where any land or other property has vested in the State Government under sub-section (1), it shall be lawful for the Collector to take over possession over such land or other property and to direct that any person occupying such land or property be evicted therefrom. For the purposes of taking over such possession or evicting such unauthorised occupants, the Collector may use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary."

Provisions of Code

"89. Restrictions on transfer by bhumidhar.-(1) No bhumidhar shall have the right to transfer any holding or part thereof where such transfer contravenes or is likely to contravene the provisions of sub-section (2) or sub-section (3).

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), no person shall have the right to acquire by purchase or gift any holding or part thereof from a bhumidhar with transferable rights, where the transferee shall, as a result of such acquisition, become entitled to land which together with land, if any, held by such transferee and where the transferee is a natural person, also together with land, if any, held by his family shall exceed 5.0586 hectares in Uttar Pradesh.

(3) The State Government or an officer authorized for this purpose under this Act may approve an acquisition or purchased done or propose to be done, in excess of the limits specified in sub-section (2), if such acquisition or purchase is in favour of a registered firm, company, partnership firm, limited liability partnership firm, trust, society or any educational or a charitable institution; and if it is of opinion that the acquisition or purchase would be in public interest and likely to generate economic activities (other than agricultural) and provide employment. In such case, the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 shall not apply to such acquisition :

Provided that where the land has been acquired or purchased by a registered firm, company, partnership firm, limited liability partnership firm, trust, society or any educational or a charitable institution, without obtaining prior approval under this sub-section the State Government or an officer authorized for this purpose under this Act, may give its approval for regularizing such acquisition or purchase afterwards on payment of an amount as fine, which shall be five percent of the cost of the land in excess of the limit prescribed under sub-section (2), calculated as per the circulated as per the circle rate prevailing at the time of making the application.

(4) Permission under sub-section (3) for acquisition or purchase of land by a registered firm, company, partnership firm, limited liability partnership firm, trust, society or any educational or a charitable institution in excess of limits prescribed under sub-section (2) shall be granted, on the conditions and in the manner prescribed, by:-

(i) the Collector concerned for acquisition or purchase of land upto 20.2344 hectares ;

(ii) the Commissioner concerned for acquisition or purchase of land more than 20.2344 hectares and upto 40.4688 hectares ;

(iii) the State Government for acquisition or purchase of land more than 40.4688 hectares:

Provided that if the applicant fails to set up the project within a period of five years from the date of grant of permission under sub section (3), the same shall lapse and the land acquired or purchased in excess of the limit prescribed under sub-section (2) shall vest in the State and the consequences of section 105 shall become applicable:

Provided further that the State Government may extend the period of permission granted under sub section (3) for a further period of maximum three years, after recording reasons for the same."

"98. Restrictions on transfer by bhumidhars belonging to a scheduled caste- (1) Without prejudice to the provisions of this Chapter, no bhumidhar belonging to a scheduled caste shall have the right to transfer, by way of sale, gift, mortgage or lease any land to a person not belonging to a scheduled caste, except with the previous permission of the Collector in writing:

Provided that the permission by the Collector may be granted only when-

(a) the bhumidhar belonging to a scheduled caste has no surviving heir specified in clause (a) of sub-section (2) of Section 108 or clause (a) of Section 110, as the case may be; or

(b) the bhumidhar belonging to a scheduled caste has settled or is ordinarily residing in the district other than that in which the land proposed to be transferred is situate or in any other State for the purpose of any service or any trade, occupation, profession or business; or

(c) the Collector is, for the reasons prescribed, satisfied that it is necessary to grant the permission for transfer of land.

(2) For the purposes of granting permission under this section, the Collector may make such inquiry as may be prescribed."

"104. Every Lease or transfer of interest in any holding or part thereof made by a bhumidhar or any asami in contravention of the provisions of this Code shall be void."

105. Consequences of transfer by bhumidhar in contravention of the Code.- (1) Where transfer of interest in any holding or part made by a bhumidhar is void under Section 104, the following consequences shall, with effect from the date of such transfer, ensue, namely—*

(a) the subject matter of such transfer shall vest in the State Government free from all encumbrances;

(b) the trees; crops, wells and other improvements; existing on such holding or part shall vest in the State Government free from all encumbrances;

(c) the interests of the transferor and the transferee in the properties specified in clauses (a) and (b) shall stand extinguished;

(d) the extinction of interest of the transferor under clause (c) shall operate to extinguish the interest of any asami holding under him;

(e) the provisions of this section shall not apply to any lease made under section 94.

(2) Where any land or other property has vested in the State Government under subsection (1) it shall be lawful for the Collector to take over possession of such land and other property, and to direct that any person occupying such land or property be evicted therefrom, and for that purpose, the Collector may use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary and the provisions of Section 59 mutatis mutandis shall apply to such property."

230. Repeal.- (1) The enactments specified in the First Schedule are hereby repealed.*

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), the repeal of such enactments shall not affect—

(a) the continuance in force of any such enactment in the State of Uttarakhand;

(b) the previous operation of any such enactment or anything duly done or suffered thereunder; or

(c) any other enactment in which such enactment has been applied, incorporated or referred to; or

(d) the validity, invalidity, effect or consequences of anything already done or suffered, or any right, title or obligation or liability already acquired, accrued or incurred (including, in particular, the vesting in the State of all estates and the cessation of all rights, title and interest of all the intermediaries therein), or any remedy or proceeding in respect thereof, or any release or discharge of or from any debt, penalty, obligation, liability, claim or demand, or any indemnity already granted or the proof of any past act or thing; or

(e) any principle or rule of law or established jurisdiction, form or course of pleading practice or procedure or existing usage, custom, privilege, restriction, exemption, office or appointment:

Provided that anything done or any action taken (including any rules, manuals, assessments, appointments and transfers made, notifications, summonses, notices, warrants, proclamations issued, powers conferred, leases granted, boundary marks fixed, records of rights and other records prepared or maintained, right acquired or liabilities incurred) under any such enactment shall, in so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Code, be deemed to have been done or taken under the corresponding provisions of this Code, and shall continue to be in force accordingly, unless and until they are superseded by anything done or action taken under this Code."

21. The provisions of Section 89 of Code is corresponding to Section 154 of Act, 1950. Similarly, Section 98 of Code is corresponding Section 157-A of the Act, 1950. Further, Section 104 and 105 of the Code are corresponding to Sections 166 and 167 of the Act, 1950 while Section 230 of the Code was introduced on 11.2.2016 repealing the enactment enlisted in the First Schedule and Act of 1950 finds place at Serial No.19. Thus, from 11.2.2016, Act, 1950 stood repealed.

22. The proceedings, which had commenced in the year 2020 on the basis of report of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Rampur was registered under Section 104/105 of the Code. The report indicated that the land purchased by the Trust pursuant to the permission granted on 07.11.2005, 17.01.2006 and 16.09.2006 was in contravention to the provisions contained in Section 157-A of Act of 1950, which is pari materia to Section 89 of the Code. The opening words lay a restriction upon bhumidhar or asami, belonging to Schedule Caste, to transfer any land by way of sale, gift, mortgage or lease to a person not belonging to a Scheduled Caste, except with the previous approval of the Collector. Thus, the mandatory requirement contained in Section 157-A of Act, 1950 has to be adhered to before any transaction is entered into between the parties in respect of any land belonging to members of Scheduled Caste. Explanation to Section 157-C defines the expression "Scheduled Castes' and "Scheduled Tribe', which means Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes specified in relation to Uttar Pradesh under Articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution.

23. Learned Additional Advocate General had pointed out from the order impugned the names of various persons such as Laxman Singh, Bhagwan Das, Rajveer, Mahesh, Chandrawati, Ram Prasad, Ram Chandra Singh and Banshi Singh, belonging to Scheduled Caste category and no prior permission was taken from Collector by the Trust before entering into transaction, as contemplated under Section 157-A of the Act, 1950. The argument of petitioner's counsel to the extent that once permission was granted by the State Government on 07.11.2005, the Trust proceeded to purchase the land cannot be accepted. Furthermore, reliance upon the order of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Rampur and Commissioner, Moradabad dated 17.7.2013 and 07.11.2013 regarding permission being granted by District Magistrate cannot be accepted as the said orders were quashed by the Board of Revenue on 14.01.2020 and writ petition filed before this Court was dismissed on 21.10.2020, wherein following order was passed :

"Case called out in the revised list. None has appeared to press this writ petition.

Similar has been the situation on earlier occasions.

I have perused the impugned orders and do not find any illegality, therein.
Land, which was subject matter of sale deed executed by a person belonging to the scheduled caste in favour of member of the general category has been found to be hit by Section 157-A of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act having been executed without having obtained prior approval/ permission for the same.

As a consequence and in view of Section 167 and 166 of the said Act, the land subject matter of this illegal sale deed has been ordered to vest in the State free from all encumbrances.

No evidence or order granting permission for executing the sale deed is filed with the writ petition, apart from the document which has been discarded by the Courts below for cogent reasons.

Accordingly, this Court finds that the impugned orders are perfectly justified and call for no interference.

The writ petition is accordingly, dismissed."

24. Once the order of Board of Revenue became final and the writ petition was dismissed, the stand of the petitioner looses ground that transfer of land was not in contravention to Section 157-A of Act, 1950.

25. The finding recorded by respondent No.3 as to the transfer made by members of Scheduled Caste has not been denied by the petitioner-Trust in the writ petition to the extent that they have not purchased the land from the persons mentioned in the said judgment. Bare averment that provisions of Section 157-A of Act, 1950 is not violated will not suffice, as order clearly mentions the name of members of Scheduled Caste and the area of land, which was transferred by them. Once such finding has come and the same having not been assailed in the writ petition, the order passed in proceedings under Section 104/105 of Code cannot be interfered and the land has rightly been vested with the State Government.

26. Now coming to the argument of the petitioner' counsel as to compliance of condition laid in permission dated 07.11.2005 and of year 2006, which is reflected from the report of Sub-Divisional Magistrate dated 28.4.2009 appears to be not convincing as the condition laid down in permission granted on 07.11.2005 specifically provided for construction to be completed within five years.

27. The report of the year 2009 only indicates that construction work was in progress over 24,000 Sq.Mts. of land. Moreover, no document was either produced before the authorities, nor placed before this court to sustantiate that the condition was fulfilled. Finding recorded by respondent No.3 as to the construction constrution of "Mosque' is also in violation of condition of sanction/permission as the Trust was required to use land only for educational purpose. The argument that the campus had residential premises for teaching as well as non-teaching staff, a "Mosque' was constructed for them cannot be accepted as it goes against the permission granted by the state.

28. As Section 154(2) of Act, 1950 clearly empowers the State to grant permission for transfer of land excess of the prescribed limit in favour of registered co-operative society or institution established for charitable purpose, the said permission comes with certain restriction/condition, which, if violated, the same stands withdrawn.

29. In the present case, permission for transfer of land in excess to 12.50 acres was granted solely for establishing an educational institution. The establishment of a "mosque' was against the permission granted on 07.11.2005 thus the Trust violated the conditions and Condition no.5 clearly provided that in case of violation of any of the condition, land excess of 12.50 acres will vest in the State Government after affording opportunity of hearing. Neither in the reply before respondent No.3 nor before this court petitioner-Trust could justify the action for establishing a "mosque' which was in clear violation of the condition laid down in the permission order dated 07.11.2005.

30. Coming to the next argument which relates to submission of annual reports and information in regard to the land and construction to the District Magistrate in the month of April every year, the petitioner-Trust could not place any document to substantiate that compliance of Condition No.4 was made. From bare reading of permission granted on 07.11.2005, it appears that Condition no.2 and 4 are quite inter-related as the intention of the State in granting permission was clear that the construction was to be made within five years and the Trust was required to submit annual report regarding status of purchase of land as well as construction made over it before the Collector in the month of April.

31. From perusal of reply filed before respondent no.3 as well as averment in this writ petition nothing has been brought on record to justify the cause of the petitioner- Trust and compliance made to the conditions laid down by the State Government while granting permission. The finding recorded by respondent No.3 that condition no.4 has been violated holds ground in view of the fact that apart from report of Sub-Divisional Magistrate dated 28.4.2009, no material has been brought on record regarding information to the Collector, as envisaged in the permission granted by the State Government.

32. The purpose and object of granting permission under Section 154(2) of Act, 1950 is that cooperative societies and charitable institution could acquire land by purchase above the ceiling limit of 12.50 acres, but this is subject to the restriction imposed by the State Government so that permission is not misused by the person in favour of whom the same is granted. The object of imposing condition is to prevent fraudulent transfer in garb of the permission granted under Section 154(2) of Act, 1950 and in case it is found that such transfer is in contravention, the land in excess of the prescribed limit will vest in the State as held by the Apex Court in case of Kripa Shanker vs. Director Consolidation 1979 ALJ 693 (SC).

33. The respondent No.3 has recorded finding to the effect that not only the Trust violated the provisions of Section 157-A of Act, 1950, condition Nos.2 and 4, but has forcibly encroached upon the land of number of tenure holders, whose land was adjoining the Trust and they had filed case under Section 134 of the Code. Furthermore, Chak Road, which is land of Gaon Sabha and land adjoining the river belt has also been included. A finding has been recorded that a first information report had been lodged against the former Cabinet Minister Mohammad Azam Khan, under Sections 342, 384, 447, 506 IPC for land grabbing.

34. Sri Kazmi while replying to the argument of State, submitted that 26 first information reports, as alleged in the order impugned, has been challenged before this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.20665 of 2019 wherein this Court on 25.9.2019 had granted interim protection to the extent that Mohd. Azam Khan and Aley Hasan Khan shall not be arrested provided both of them cooperate in the investigation and appear in the concerned police station as and when required for the purpose of investigation.

35. Coming to the argument raised by the petitioner in regard to maintainability of the proceedings, it was contended that once the declaration was made under Section 143 of the Act, 1950, the proceedings under the Code could not have been initiated. It is not in dispute that the Trust had acquired total of 70.005 hectare land which comprises of 18.074 hectare agricultural and 51.931 hectare non-agricultural land. Section 143 (2) of Act of 1950 though provides that upon grant of declaration mentioned in sub-section (1) the provisions of Chapter-VIII of Act, 1950 shall cease to apply to the bhumidhar with transferable rights, with respect to such land. Section 81 of Code is a pari materia to Section 143 of the Act, 1950. However, in the present case, the revenue authorities proceeded to declare the land surplus on the ground that transfer was made in contravention to Section 157-A of Act, 1950. The argument of Sri Kazmi does not hold ground that once the declaration was made under Section 143, Section 143(2) places an embargo and no proceedings can be initiated under Section 104/105 of Code, 2006, as the transfer of land had taken place prior to the declaration made under Section 143, which is hit by Section 157- A of Act, 1950. Once the transfer was void, subsequent proceedings under Section 143 would not save the transfer made in favour of the Trust by members of Scheduled Caste.

36. Moreover, the authorities had proceeded that the Trust had violated condition nos.2 and 4 by not completing the construction within the stipulated period and did not submit the statement in regard to acquisition of land and construction made thereupon annually as well as construction of "mosque' over the acquired land.

37. The declaration under Section 143 of Act, 1950 will not save the case of the petitioner- Trust from being hit by provisions of Section 157-A and the violation of conditions of permission granted on 07.11.2005. Had it been a simple transfer of land, not hit by provisions of Section 157-A, then the Trust could have raised the objections that revenue authorities could not have proceeded once declaration was made and was saved by sub-section (2) of Section 143 of Act, 1950.

38. It is a case where large part of land has been purchased as well as certain part of land belonging to tenure holders and Gaon Sabha has been encroached upon by a former Cabinet Minister of State for establishing an educational institution pursuant to an Act which has come up in the year 2005. The finding has not been assailed by placing documentary proof that the plots in question were purchased by the Trust and does not belong to Gaon Sabha or the tenure holders who have initiated proceedings under Section 134 of the Code.

39. From the order impugned, I find that the revenue authority, after considering not only the report dated 16.3.2020 but also the reply of the petitioner, as well as the representation of the State, had in depth recorded finding as to the violation of law and condition by the Trust in setting up the educational institution. The order impugned has rightly been passed in the proceedings under Section 104/105 of Code and the land except 12.50 acres vest in the State Government.

40. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, I find that once this Court on 06.8.2021 took cognizance in the matter and directed the Standing Counsel to seek instructions in the matter, no question arises for relegating the matter under Section 210 of the Code on the ground of alternative remedy.

41. After hearing the counsel for the parties and on perusal of record, I find that no case for interference has been made out by the petitioner-Trust as the transfer of land by the Trust is hit by Section 157-A of Act, 1950 and further the conditions of the permission granted by the State on 7.11.2005 had been violated, which had required the institution to strictly follow the same and any contravention would lead to the land vesting in the State Government except 12.5 acres.

42. No interference is required in the order impugned dated 16.01.2021 and report dated 16.03.2020 submitted by Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Rampur.

43. Writ petition stands dismissed.

List of Cases cited :

Tirath Vs Joint Director of Consolidation & ors. 1985 RD 276

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard Sri R.C. Singh, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Narayan Dutt Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Rudreshwari Prasad and Sri Chaudhary Subhash Kumar, learned counsel for respondent nos.2/1 and 2/2 and learned Standing Counsel representing respondent no.1 and perused the record.

2. In view of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the order proposed to be passed hereinunder as well as with the consent of the parties, this Court proceeded to finally decide this matter at the admission stage, without calling for their respective affidavits, i.e. counter affidavit and rejoinder affidavit, with liberty to the contesting respondents to move a recall application, in case, any fact is found incorrect.

3. Under challenge in the present writ petition is order dated 30.10.2020 (Annexure-18) passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation (in brevity "D.D.C.') (respondent no.1) in Revision No.2019530633000004 (Jagram vs. Balram) under Section 48 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (in brevity "U.P.C.H. Act').

4. Present writ petition is arising out of a proceeding under Section 12 of the U.P.C.H. Act. Land in dispute was recorded in the name of Balle, who died on 14.02.1978. Smt. Bhura wife of Balle has moved an application dated 05.04.1978 (Annexure-3) for recording name of her son Balram (respondent no.3) in place of recorded tenure holder, Balle. Aforesaid application moved by Smt. Bhura (mother of respondent no.3) was allowed vide order dated 26.07.1978 (Annexure-4) passed by Consolidation Officer (in brevity 'C.O.') directing to record the name of Balram (respondent no.3) under the guardianship of his mother Smt. Bhura alias Badi Bahu. At a belated stage, Jagram (predecessor in interest of respondent nos.2/1 and 2/2) have filed an appeal dated 26.07.1994 (Annexure-6) before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation (in brevity "S.O.C.') on the ground that he is also one of the son of recorded tenure holder Balle, but his mother has deliberately ignored him in mutating his name in the Revenue Record along with his brother Balram in place of his deceased father. Aforesaid appeal was dismissed vide order dated 07.10.1998 (Annexure-7) on the ground of laches. Feeling aggrieved, Jagram has preferred revision before respondent no.1, who has dismissed the same vide its order dated 12.02.2019 (Annexure-16). Respondent nos.2/1 and 2/2 (heirs and legal representatives of Jagram) have filed a writ petition before this Hon'ble Court against the order dated 12.02.2019, which was registered as Writ B no.950 of 2019 (Ramu Kushwaha and another vs. Balram and others). Aforesaid writ petition was allowed vide order dated 30.05.2019 (Annexure-17) remitting the matter back before respondent no.1 to decide the revision afresh. After remand, respondent no.1 has allowed the revision vide order dated 30.12.2020 (Annexure-18), which is under challenge in the present writ petition.

5. Present petitioner is claiming his right and title over the property in question being a bonafide purchaser from Balram (respondent no.3) who has executed the registered sale deed in favour of present petitioner. On the basis of aforesaid sale deed, mutation order dated 22.02.1989 was passed in favour of petitioner.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that respondent no.1 has illegally allowed the revision and remitted the matter before the "C.O.' for deciding it afresh, whereas the limited question was involved in the revision with respect to the merits of delay condonation application, which was rejected by the S.O.C. It is further submitted that respondent no.1 has illegally entered into the merits of the case and accidentally given some observation with respect to genuineness of Jagram, being son of Balle which can affect the merits of the case before the C.O. It is further submitted that Notification under section 4 of the U.P.C.H. Act was promulgated on 10.02.1973 with respect to the aforesaid land in question and the same was denotified under section 52 of the U.P.C.H. Act on 07.06.1980. During this period, name of respondent no.3 (vendor of petitioner) was recorded in the Revenue Record, who had executed the registered sale deed after denotification and, on the basis thereof, mutation order was passed in favour of present petitioner.

7. Per contra, learned counsel for the contesting respondent nos.2/1 and 2/2 has contended that respondent no.1 has rightly allowed the revision remitting the matter before the C.O. to decide right and title of the parties afresh. Claim of Jagram, on the basis of succession being son of recorded tenure holder Balle, has illegally been discarded by the C.O. and affirmed by the S.O.C. Dismissing the appeal on the ground of laches, the S.O.C. was influenced with several litigation which were going on between the parties before Civil Court and Revenue Court, whereas legal right of Jagram being son of Balle has never been adjudicated upon at any stage of litigation before any competent court. He has further contended that opportunity is still open to the parties to get their right and title decided before the court competent in pursuance of impugned order passed by respondent no.1. There is no illegality or perversity in the order passed by the respondent no.1 to be interfered by this Hon'ble Court.

8. Perused the record on board and considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties.

9. From the record it emerges that the dispute arose with respect to the property belonging to one Balle. At an initial stage, respondent no.3 has got his name recorded in revenue record in place of Balle, being his only son. Subsequently, Jagram (predecessor in the interest of respondent nos.2/1 and 2/2) while came to know about the aforesaid fact, has filed an appeal claiming his right and title over the property in question, being second son of Balle. He came up with a case that, in fact, Balle had two sons namely, Balram and Jagram. Under mischievous play, his mother has got the name of respondent no.3 only, recorded in the Revenue Record and left the name of Jagram, to be recorded for the reasons best known to her.

10. The limited question, which arose for consideration before this Court is, as to whether respondent no.1 is justified in remitting the matter before the C.O. after considering the merits of the original case with respect to the genuineness of claim made by Jagram, whereas the S.O.C. has examined only merits of application for condonation of delay.

11. Order passed by the S.O.C. clearly reveals that he has not applied his mind with respect to the merits of the right and title of the parties. It has simply dismissed the appeal on the ground of laches. No sufficient ground was found by the S.O.C. for condoning delay in filing the appeal. Challenge in revision was limited qua merits of delay condonation application.

Respondent no.1, ought have discussed the sufficiency of grounds for condoning the delay in filing the appeal but, accidentally, he has given finding qua genuineness of Jagram, justifying his claim, being son of Balle. Record reveals that validity and genuineness of the claim of Jagram was not in question before respondent no.1, inasmuch as, same has not been scrutinized by the S.O.C. in its order dated 07.10.1988, which was challenged in revision before respondent no.1. Grounds of condoning the delay, in case, found sufficient by respondent no.1, he should have remitted the matter before the S.O.C. to decide the appeal on merits.

12. In my opinion, respondent no.1 has exceeded its jurisdiction in remitting the matter before the C.O. to decide the objection under Section 9 A(2) of the U.P.C.H. Act afresh, without examining the legality and correctness of dismissal of appeal being barred by time. Respondent no.1 is not justified in travelling beyond the scope and merits of order, what has been challenged before him. Merits of right and title of the parties was not in question before respondent no.1, therefore, he should not have responded in this regard.

13. In the matter of Tirath vs. Joint Director of Consolidation and other reported in 1985 RD 276, a Divison Bench of this Court has expounded that appeal, in case, dismissed being barred by limitation, revision petition cannot be allowed on merits without examining the legality and correctness of order under challenge. In the aforesaid cited case, following question was referred for determination :

"whether the revisional authority under Section 48 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act can allow revision petition without indicating whether the appeal filed by the applicant in revision having been dismissed on the ground of limitation was illegally, incorrectly and improperly decided or the appellant had sufficient cause for condonation of delay in preferring the appeal."

14. Aforesaid question was replied in negative by Division Bench of this Court, which is reproduced below:

"We venture to think that the proper course for the Revisional Authority would have been to interfere with the order of the Appellate Authority- set aside the order of the dismissal of the appeal (as time barred) and in directing the Appellate Authority to decide the appeal on the merits, instead of doing so himself. The Appellate Authority, after hearing the parties, could very well pass appropriate orders in accordance with law. In case the order passed by the Consolidation Officer called for any interference it would be open to the Appellate Authority to do so. In case the appeal was rejected on the merits the Revisional Authority could examine the record to see if it should exercise its power under Section 48(1) of the Act."

15. In this conspectus, as above, I am fully satisfied that the subject matter of revision, challenging the order of the S.O.C. was limited up to the merits of delay condonation application. Respondent no.1 has exceeded its jurisdiction in discussing the merits of original case and remitting the matter before the C.O. to examine the right and title of the parties afresh. Order dated 30.12.2020 (Annexure-18) passed by respondent no.1 is not sustainable in the eyes of law, to that extent.

16. Resultly, present writ petition is partly allowed and the order dated 30.12.2020 passed by the respondent no.1 is modified to the extent that matter is remitted before the S.O.C. for deciding the appeal, filed before him by Jagram, on its own merits. Benefit given by respondent no.1 under section 5 of Limitation Act, 1963 by condoning the delay in filing the appeal is, accordingly, affirmed.

2. U.O.I. Vs Ananto (Dead) & anr.(2007) 10 SCC 748

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Balram Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner, Dr. Krishna Singh, learned Standing Counsel for opposite party no. 1 and Ms. Shikha Sinha, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2/1.

2. The writ petition has been filed with the following main reliefs:-

"(a) issue a writ of certiorari quashing the order dated 20.05.1998 vide annexure no. 6 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Faizabad holding the Lok Adalat at Kuchera Bazar in District Faizabad illegally modifying the chak of the petitioner;

(b) issue any other appropriate writ, direction or order as may seem to be expedient in the ends of justice."

3. By the order dated 16.07.1998, notices were issued to the opposite party no. 2 and it was provided that in the meantime, the operation of the order dated 20.05.1998 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Faizabad shall remain stayed and the possession of the petitioner over half of the plot no. 555/1 shall not be disturbed in pursuance of the said order.

4. By the order dated 08.09.2021, the learned Standing Counsel was directed to inform the Court on the basis of record as to whether (i) the revision was heard on 17.05.1998 in Lok Adalat; (ii)What happened on 17.05.1998; (iii) Whether 20.05.1998 was the date fixed in the revision and; (iv) if the petitioner was heard on 17.05.1998 and/or 20.05.1998.

5. Supplementary affidavit has been filed today in Court by the learned Standing Counsel on behalf of opposite party no. 1, copy of which has been served on the learned counsels for the petitioner as also for opposite party no. 2/1.

6. As copies of the orders dated 17.05.1998 & 20.05.1998 have been annexed with respect to which there is no dispute, any rejoinder affidavit is not called for nor has been asked for.

7. Sri Balram Yadav submits that the facts of the case are that one Hanuman Deen (opposite party no. 2), now deceased had filed an objection under Section 20 of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (in short 'the Act, 1953') along with a prayer for condonation of delay in filing the objection. The objection was rejected by the Consolidation Officer by order dated 21.03.1998 (Annexure no. 4) against which he filed revision under Section 48 of the Act, 1953. In the said revision, a notice was issued on 16.05.1998 by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Faizabad for holding Lok Adalat on 17.05.1998. The notice dated 16.05.1998 could not be served on the petitioner as he was not present being posted at District Ganga Nagar in the State of Rajasthan. The Lok Adalat was held on 17.05.1998 in which the matter was heard by the Deputy Director of Consolidation on merits and the judgment was reserved for being pronounced on 20.05.1998, on which date the revision of the opposite party no. 2 was allowed.

8. Sri Balram Yadav submits that the order dated 20.05.1998 was passed without affording any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner. His further submission is that in Lok Adalat, the matter can be decided only with the compromise or settlement between the parties and in the absence of any compromise or settlement arrived at by the petitioner with the opposite party, the Deputy Director of Consolidation exceeded its jurisdiction in deciding the revision on merits. His further submission is that if no settlement takes place in Lok Adalat then the matter should be sent to the court concerned, for decision. He has placed reliance on Section 20 of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 (in short 'the Act, 1987').

9. Ms. Shikha Sinha, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2/1 submits that after hearing the petitioner's counsel, the Deputy Director of Consolidation had passed the order dated 20.05.1998 on merits and in view thereof, the petitioner's contention that the notice was not served upon him and he was not heard, is no ground to challenge the order dated 20.05.1998. She further submits that the order does not suffer from any illegality and, therefore, it calls for no interference in exercise of writ jurisdiction. With respect to Section 20 of the Act, 1987, she submits that although sub-Section (1) provides for filing of joint application in the court or Tribunal where the matter is pending by the parties indicating their intention to compromise the matter or to arrive at a settlement, the matter shall be transferred to the Lok Adalat for arriving at a compromise or settlement, but in view of sub-Section (2) of Section 20 of the Act, 1987, the District Authority may on receipt of an application from any person that any dispute or matter pending for a compromise or settlement, needs to be determined by the Lok Adalat, refer such dispute or matter to the Lok Adalat for determination.

10. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsels for the parties and perused the material on record.

11. The controversy involved in the writ petition mainly is as to whether the impugned order dated 20.05.1998 is an order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation in Lok Adalat held on 17.05.1998, and if the answer is in affirmative, whether the Deputy Director of Consolidation had jurisdiction to decide the revision on merits, which was a contested matter without there being any settlement or compromise between the parties.

12. From the facts on record, it is undisputed that the revision filed by the opposite party no. 2 was transferred to the Lok Adalat. Perusal of the notice issued on 02.05.1998 by the Deputy Director of Consolidation shows that the top of the notice mentions "Lok Adalat at Kuchera Bazar' fixing 17.05.1998 in the Lok Adalat. The order-sheet dated 17.05.1998 of the revision, Annexure no. SA-1 to the supplementary affidavit filed by opposite party no. 1 also shows that on 17.05.1998, the revision was heard in Lok Adalat, Kuchera Bazar and 20.05.1998 was fixed for orders. The order-sheet dated 17.05.1998 reads as under:-

"आज यह पत्रावली लोक अदालत कैम्प कुचेरा में सुनवाई हेतु प्रस्तुत हुई I पक्षकारों के तर्कों को सुना गया I अतः आदेश हुआ कि पत्रावली दिनांक 20.05.98 को आदेशार्थ प्रस्तुत हो I"

13. From the aforesaid, it is evident that the revision was heard in Lok Adalat on 17.05.1998 and 20.05.1998 was fixed for orders, on which date, the order under challenge was passed. The order dated 20.05.1998 was not passed on the day the Lok Adalat was held but as the matter was heard in Lok Adalat on 17.05.1998 and 20.05.1998 was fixed for orders, the order dated 20.05.1998 is in effect, an order passed in Lok Adalat inasmuch as a court, tribunal or quasi-judicial authority may after hearing the matter pass orders then and there or may fix a future date, for delivery or dictation of order or judgment. Therefore, the order dated 20.05.1998 cannot be considered, ignoring the order dated 17.05.1998 passed in Lok Adalat.

14. Section 20 of the Act, 1987 reads as under:-

"20. Cognizance of Cases by Lok Adalats

(1) Where in any case referred to in clause (i) of sub-section (5) of Section 19-

(i)

(i) (a) The parties thereof agree or

(i) (b) One of the parties thereof makes an application to the court, for referring the case to the Lok Adalat for settlement and if such court is prima facie satisfied that there are chances of such settlement or

(ii) The court is satisfied that the matter is an appropriate one to be taken cognizance of by the Lok Adalat, the court shall refer the case to the Lok Adalat: Provided that no case shall be referred to the Lok Adalat under sub-clause (b) of clause (i) or clause (ii) by such court except after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard to the parties.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the Authority or Committee organising the Lok Adalat under sub-section (1) of Section 19 may, on receipt of an application from any, one of the parties to any matter referred to in clause (ii) of sub-section (5) of Section 19 that such matter needs to be determined by a Lok Adalat, refer such matter to the Lok Adalat, for determination; Provided that no matter shall be referred to the Lok Adalat except after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard to the other party.

(3) Where any case is referred to a Lok Adalat under sub-section (1) or where a reference has been made to it under sub-section (2), the Lok Adalat shall proceed to dispose of the case or matter and arrive at a compromise or settlement between the parties.

(4) Every Lok Adalat shall, while determining any reference before it under this Act, act with utmost expedition to arrive at a compromise or settlement between the parties and shall be guided by the principles of justice equity, fair play and other legal principles.

(5) Where no award is made by the Lok Adalat on the ground that no compromise or settlement could be arrived at between the parties, the record of the case shall be returned by it to the court, from which the reference has been received under sub-section (1) for disposal in accordance with law.

(6) Where no award is made by the Lok Adalat on the ground that no compromise or settlement could be arrived at between the parties, in a matter referred to in sub-section (2), that Lok Adalat shall advice the parties to seek remedy in a court.

(7) Where the record of the case is returned under sub-section (5) to the court, such court shall proceed to deal such reference under sub-section (1)."

15. A bare reading of Section 20 (3) of the Act, 1987, makes it clear that where any case is transferred to a Lok Adalat under sub-Section (1) or where a reference has been made to it under sub-Section (2), the Lok Adalat shall proceed to dispose of the suit, proceeding, dispute or matter and arrive at a compromise or settlement between the parties. As per sub-Section (4), every Lok Adalat shall while determining any proceedings before it under the Act, 1987, act with utmost expedition to arrive at a compromise or settlement between the parties and shall be guided by legal principles and the principles of justice, equity and fair play. Sub-Section (5) clearly mentions that where no award is made in the Lok Adalat on the ground that no compromise or settlement can be arrived at between the parties, it shall be open to the parties to the suit or proceeding transferred from the court or Tribunal under sub-Section (1) but continue such suit or proceeding before such court or Tribunal or if it is a dispute or matter referred to the Lok Adalat under sub-Section (2), any of the person may institute a proceeding in an appropriate court. Sub-section (6) also provides very clearly that where under sub-Section (5), the parties to a suit or proceeding intend to continue the proceeding in such suit or proceeding before the court or Tribunal from which it was transferred, such court or Tribunal shall proceed to deal with such suit or proceeding from the stage at which it was, before the suit or proceeding was transferred to the Lok Adalat.

16. Therefore, it is evident from the statutory provisions that in Lok Adalat, the proceedings can be decided only on compromise or settlement between the parties, if arrived, and if no award can be made by the Lok Adalat because no compromise or settlement could be arrived at between the parties, the matter shall be continued before the court or Tribunal from where it was transferred to the Lok Adalat, which court shall proceed to deal with the suit or proceeding from the stage where it was before that court before its transfer to the Lok Adalat.

17. In State of Punjab and Ors. vs. Mohinderjit Kaur [(2005) 2 SCC 743], in para 4, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:-

"4. This Court held that the course adopted by the High Court was not proper. In State of Punjab and Ors. v. Phulan Rani and Anr. [(2004) 7 SCC 555] it was indicated as to which matters can be taken up by the Lok Adalat for disposal. It was inter alia held as follows:

"The matters which can be taken up by the Lok Adalat for disposal are enumerated in Section 20 of the Act which reads as follows:-

"Cognizance of cases by Lok Adalats:-

(1) Where in any case referred to in clause

(i) of sub-section (5) of section 19

(i)(a) the parties thereof agree; or

(b) one of the parties thereof makes an application to the court, for referring the case to the Lok Adalat for settlement and if such court is prima facie satisfied that there are chances of such settlement; or

(ii) the court is satisfied that the matter is an appropriate one to be taken cognizance of by the Lok Adalat,

The Court shall refer the case to the Lok Adalat.

Provided that no case shall be referred to the Lok Adalat under sub-clause (b) of clause (i) or clause (ii) by such court except after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard to the parties.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the Authority or Committee organizing the Lok Adalat under sub-section (1) of Section 19 may, on receipt of an application from any one of the parties to any matter referred to in clause (ii) of sub-section (5) of section 19 that such matter needs to be determined by a Lok Adalat, refer such matter to the Lok Adalat, for determination:

Provided that no matter shall be referred to the Lok Adalat except after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard to the other party.

(3) Where any case is referred to a Lok Adalat under sub-section (1) or where a reference has been made to it under sub-section (2), the Lok Adalat shall proceed to dispose of the case or matter and arrive at a compromise or settlement between the parties.

(4) Every Lok Adalat shall, while determining any reference before it under this Act, act with utmost expedition to arrive at a compromise or settlement between the parties and shall be guided by the principles of justice, equity, fair play and other legal principles.

(5) Where no award is made by the Lok Adalat on the ground that no compromise or settlement could be arrived at between the parties, the record of the case shall be returned by it to the Court, from which the reference has been received under sub- section (1) for disposal in accordance with law.

(6) Where no award is made by the Lok Adalat on the ground that no compromise or settlement could be arrived at between the parties, in a matter referred to in sub-section (2), that Lok Adalat shall advice the parties to seek remedy in a Court.

(7) Where the record of the case is returned under sub-section (5) to the Court, such Court shall proceed to deal with such case from the stage which was reached before such reference under sub-section (1)."

The specific language used in sub-section (3) of Section 20 makes it clear that the Lok Adalat can dispose of a matter by way of a compromise or settlement between the parties. Two crucial terms in sub-sections (3) and (5) of Section 20 are "compromise" and "settlement". The former expression means settlement of differences by mutual concessions. It is an agreement reached by adjustment of conflicting or opposing claims by reciprocal modification of demands. As per Termes de la Ley, "compromise is a mutual promise of two or more parties that are at controversy. As per Bouvier it is "an agreement between two or more persons, who, to avoid a law suit, amicably settle theeir differences, on such terms as they can agree upon". The word "compromise" implies some element of accommodation on each side. It is not apt to describe total surrender."

18. In Mohinderjit Kaur (supra), it has clearly been held that the Lok Adalat can dispose of the matter by way of compromise or settlement between the parties.

19. The same principle has been reiterated in Union of India vs. Ananto (Dead) and Another [(2007) 10 SCC 748].

20. Neither the order dated 17.05.1998 nor 20.05.1998 mentions that any compromise or settlement was arrived at between the parties in Lok Adalat. It is also not a case of the opposite parties that any compromise or settlement taken place in Lok Adalat between the parties.

21. Reading of the judgment dated 20.05.1998 clearly shows that the contested matter was decided on merits accepting the submissions of the party and rejecting the submission of the other side.

22. As the impugned order deserves to be quashed on the aforesaid ground, the court has not entered into the controversy as to whether there was service of notice on the petitioner and as to whether the petitioner was heard in Lok Adalat or only his brother was heard, inasmuch as this Court is of the considered view that even if the order dated 20.05.1998 was passed after hearing the petitioner or his counsel on 17.05.1998, the impugned order could not be passed on merits, in the absence of their being any settlement or compromise between the parties.

23. Submission of Ms. Shikha Sinha that the application for transfer to Lok Adalat can be filed by any of the parties does not require any consideration in the present case, as no such issue is involved, whether the transfer was made on the application of one party or the other, and as the fact remains undisputed that the case was transferred to the Lok Adalat. The transfer of case to the Lok Adalat from the court of Deputy Director of Consolidation is also not under challenge.

24. For the aforesaid reasons, the impugned order dated 20.05.1998 cannot be sustained and is hereby quashed.

25. The revision filed by opposite party no. 2 stands restored to its original number before the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Faizabad, which shall be proceeded with and decided in accordance with law after affording opportunity of hearing to all the parties concerned, expeditiously, as the matter pertains to the year 1998, preferably within a period of six months from the date of production of copy of this judgment before the said authority.

26. In the interest of justice, it is further provided that for a period of six months or till decision of the revision by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, whichever is earlier, the possession of the petitioner over half of the plot no. 555/1 shall not be disturbed.

27. The writ petition is allowed with the aforesaid observation/direction.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard, Shri Dwijendra Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners and Shri Ashish Jaiswal, learned counsel for the legal heirs of opposite party no.3 i.e. opposite parties no.3/1/1 to 3/4/7. Notice on behalf of opposite parties no.1 and 2 has been accepted by learned Chief Standing Counsel.

2. This petition has been filed challenging the orders dated 05.11.1981 and 22.05.1984 passed by Assistant Settlement Officer of Consolidation and order dated 28.11.1985 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Sitapur.

3. The dispute in the instant writ petition relates to Khata No.123, consisting of Plot Nos. 2100/2, 2101/1 measuring 0.70, 2113 measuring 0.5 and 244 measuring 0.46, which was recorded in the basic year Khatauni in the name of Kallu, the father of the petitioner Mohd. Hussain @ Ghamar, who has now been substituted by his legal heir after his death. Mohd. Hussain @ Ghamar had filed an objection during consolidation that he was the son of Kallu, therefore his name be recorded on the plots in dispute. One Sukai filed an objection claiming rights on the basis of adverse possession but later on he gave a statement and his objection was rejected by the Consolidation Officer. No appeal or revision was filed by him. The opposite party no.3 Rasool now deceased and substituted by his legal heirs in the present writ petition had filed an objection claiming the plots in dispute on the basis of adverse possession. The Consolidation Officer, after considering the oral and documentary evidence, rejected the objections of the opposite party no.3 holding that he has failed to prove his continuous adverse possession on the plots in dispute and directed to record the name of the petitioner being the son and legal heir of the deceased Kallu. The opposite party no.3 filed an appeal which was allowed ex-parte by means of the order dated 05.11.1981 and the order passed by the Consolidation Officer was set-aside. It was recorded in the order that the notice of appeal has been returned with the refusal of the petitioner. The petitioner moved an application for recall of the order. The said application was rejected in absence of the petitioner on 19.03.1984. Therefore, the petitioner moved an application for restoration on 20.03.1984 on the ground that the train of the petitioner was delayed therefore he reached the court at about 05:00 P.M., when he came to know that his application has been rejected and his counsel had not come to court. The opposite party no.2 rejected the application for restoration filed by the petitioner by means of the order dated 22.05.1984. Thereafter the petitioner filed a revision before the Deputy Director of Consolidation i.e. opposite party no.1 challenging the order of rejection of the restoration application. Another revision was filed by the petitioner challenging the original order dated 05.11.1981 passed by the opposite party no.2 in appeal alongwith an application under Section 5 and 14 of the Limitation Act. The Consolidation Officer, after hearing the parties, dismissed the revisions by means of the order dated 28.11.1985. Hence the present writ petition has been filed.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner had submitted that after death of father of the petitioner Mohd. Hussain @ Ghamar, the name of the petitioner was liable to be recorded in the revenue records. Therefore, he had filed the objection during consolidation proceedings which was allowed after considering the pleadings and evidence holding that the petitioner is the legal heir of deceased Kallu and the opposite party no.3 has failed to prove his adverse possession in accordance with law. The appeal filed by the opposite party no.3 was allowed ex-parte because he, in collision with the post man, had got the notice of the appeal returned as refused. On coming to know, the petitioner had filed an application for recall but the same was dismissed in absence of the petitioner because he could not reach in time and his counsel had not appeared in the court. But the application filed by the petitioner, on the very next date for recall of the order, was arbitrarily and illegally rejected. Therefore, the petitioner had filed the revisions against the order passed on the application for recall and the original order passed in appeal. The revisions have also been dismissed without considering the grounds raised by the petitioner in arbitrary and illegal manner recording perverse findings.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner had further submitted that the name of the opposite party no.3 has been directed to be recorded on the basis of adverse possession under clause-9 on the basis of PA-10. While the same was not issued in accordance with law and served on the original tenure holder therefore it was without following the procedure prescribed under Land Records Manual and not tenable in the eyes of law. Therefore, the impugned orders are not sustainable and liable to be quashed and the writ petition is liable to be allowed.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite parties had submitted that the possession of the opposite party no.3 was found in the basic year Khatauni on the basis of adverse possession. The opposite party no.3 had given evidence that he had plowed the field treating his own but the Consolidation Officer had allowed the objection without considering the evidence adduced by the opposite party no.3. The petitioner had not appeared before the appellate court despite sufficient service. Therefore, the appeal was rightly decided ex-parte in accordance with law. The Appellate Authority has held that the possession of the opposite party no.3 is recorded in accordance with PA-10. The application for recall filed by the petitioner was rightly rejected by opposite party no.3 as despite knowledge the opposite party no.3 had not appeared, the revision filed by the opposite party no.3 also has rightly been dismissed considering grounds/pleadings of the parties and evidence. There is no illegality or infirmity in the impugned orders. The writ petition is misconceived and it is liable to be dismissed.

7. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

8. The father of the petitioner "Kallu' was the recorded tenure holder in the basic year Khatauni. The petitioner had filed an objection for recording the name being legal heir. The objection filed by Sukai claiming right on the basis of adverse possession was rejected on his statement. The opposite party no.3 Rasool (now deceased) had filed an objection claiming the plots in dispute on the basis of adverse possession. After considering the pleadings of the parties, two issues were framed. One; as to whether Rasool son of Badlu is Bhumidhar on the basis of adverse possession on the land in dispute, second; as to whether Ghamar @ Mohd Hussaun is heir of the deceased Kallu. The issue no.2 has been decided holding Ghamar @ Mohd. Hussain as legal heir of the deceased Kallu as it was accepted by the parties and no objection was raised. The issue no.1 was decided in favour of the petitioner holding that there is no reference of PA-10, though the possession of Rasool is recorded in Khana Kaifiyat of 12 years 1368 Fasli.

9. It has also been recorded that Rasool had not stated in his statement that he had got PA-10. The entry in favour of the opposite party no.3 in the copy of Khatauni from 1371-73 Fasli is without reference of date and year of PA-24. Therefore the recording has no relevance. It has also been recorded that the witness Sri Ram had stated that Rasool had forcibly plowed 25 years ago while the quarrel was about 10-12 years old and it used to happen daily, whereas Rasool had stated that the quarrel had happened one or two days. Accordingly, the Consolidation Officer found that the opposite party no.3 has failed to prove his adverse possession. Therefore, he directed to record the name of the petitioner namely Ghamar @ Mohd. Hussain in place of his father Kallu and directed to expunge the possession of the opposite party no.3 Rasool son of Badlu by means of the order dated 17.06.1981.

10. The opposite party no.3 had filed the appeal, which was decided ex-parte on a report of postal department that the petitioner has refused to receive the summon. The appeal was allowed on the ground that the name of the opposite party no.3 was recorded under clause-9 on the basis of PA-10 in Khasra 1368 Fasli and in the Khatauni 1371-73 Fasli in accordance with PA-24 and by the oral evidence it is also proved that the opposite party no.3 is in possession from a long time. He has matured his titled on the basis of adverse possession and since Ghamar is not present it is apparent that he has no objection to the possession of Rasool. But without setting aside the findings recorded by the Consolidation Officer and considering as to whether the entry of the opposite party no.3, under clause-9, on the basis of PA-10 is in accordance with the Land Records Manual or not held that the order passed by the Consolidation Officer is not proper and just and set-aside the same. Therefore the findings recorded in the appellate order are not in accordance with law and not tenable.

11. The para-89-A, 89-B and 102-B of the Land Records Manual (here-in-after referred as 'the manual'), relevant for the purpose, are extracted below:-

"89-A. List of changes.-After each Kharif and rabi portal of a village the Lekhpal shall prepare in triplicate a consolidated list of new and modified entries in the Khasra in the following form:

Form No.P-10

Khasra No. of Plot	Area	Details of entry in the last year	Details of entry made in the current year	Verification report by the Revenue Inspector	Ramarks
1	2	3	4	5	6

(ii) The Lekhpal shall fill in the first four Columns and hand over a copy of the list to the Chairman of the Land Management Committee. He shall also prepare extract from the list and issue to the person or persons concerned recorded in Columns 3 and 4 to their heirs, if the person or persons concerned have died, obtaining their signature in the copy of the list retained by him. Another copy shall be sent to the Revenue Inspector.

(iii) The Revenue Inspector shall ensure at the time of his partial of the village the extract have been issued in all the cases and signatures obtained of the recipients.

89-B. Report of changes.- The copy of the list with the Lekhpal containing the signatures of the recipients of the extracts shall be attached to the Khasra concerned and filed with the Registrar (Revenue Inspector) alongwith it on or before 31st July, of the following year (sub-paragraph (iv) of the paragraph 60).*

102-B. Entry of possession (Column 22) (Remarks column).- (1) The Lekhpal shall while recording the fact of possession in the remarks Column of the Khasra, write on the same day the fact of possession with the name of the person in possession in his diary also, and the date and the serial number of the dairy in the remarks Column of the Khasra against the entry concerned.*

(2) As the list of changes in Form p-10 is prepared after the completion of the patal of village, the serial number of the list of changes shall be noted in red ink below the entry concerned in the remarks column of the Khasra in order to ensure that all such entries have been brought on the list.

(3) If the Lekhpal fails to comply with any of the provisions contained in paragraph 89-A, the entry in the remarks Column of the Khasra will not be deemed to have been made in the discharge of his official duty."

12. Reading of the aforesaid provisions makes it clear that if any entry is made in PA-10, the same shall be communicated to the person or persons concerned recorded in columns 3 and 4 or their heirs and obtain their signatures. Records on being submitted to the Revenue Inspector, he shall ensure at the time of Padtal i.e. verification of the village that it has been issued in all the cases and the signatures obtained by the recipients. Therefore, in case,any entry made on the basis of adverse possession the same was to be communicated to the person concerned and the person claiming is required to prove that it was in accordance with the manual and as to what was nature of possession and when it started in the knowledge of the tenant and the possession was continuous and how long it continued.

13. This Court considered this issue in the case of Mohd. Raza Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and Another; R.D. 1997 (R.D.) 276 and held that the entries in the revenue papers not prepared by following the procedure prescribed under the Uttar Pradesh Land Records Manual and PA-10 notice was not served on the main tenant, such entries are of no evidentiary value and would not confer any right.

14. This court, in the case of Gurumukh Singh and Others Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Nainital and Others; 1997 (80) RD 276, has also held that the entries will have no evidentiary value if they are not in accordance with the provisions of Land Records Manual and the burden to prove is on the person who is asserting the possession on the basis of adverse possession. Relevant paragraphs 6 and 7 are extracted below:-

"6. It is clear from Para A-102C of the Land Records Manual that the entries will have no evidentiary value if they are not made in accordance with the provisions of Land Records Manual. There is presumption of correctness of the entries provided it is made in accordance with the relevant provision of Land Records Manual and secondly, in case where a person is claiming adverse possession against the recorded tenure-holder and he denies that he had not received any P.A. 10 or he had no knowledge of the entries made in the revenue records, the burden of proof is further upon the person claiming adverse possession to prove that the tenure-holder was duly given notice in prescribed Form P.A. 10. Para A-81 itself provides that the notice will be given by the Lekhpal and he will obtain the signature of the Chairman, Land Management Committee as well as from the recorded tenure-holder. It is also otherwise necessary to be provided by the person claiming adverse possession. The law of adverse possession contemplates that there is not only continuity of possession as against the true owner but also that such person had full knowledge that the person in possession was claiming a title and possession hostile to the true owner. If a person comes in possession of the land of another person, he cannot establish his title by adverse possession unless it is further proved by him that the tenure-holder had knowledge of such adverse possession.

7. In Jamuna Prasad v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Agra and Others, this Court repelled the contention that the burden of proof was upon the person who challenges the correctness of the entries. It was observed:

"Learned counsel for the Petitioner argued that there was a presumption of correctness about the entries in the revenue records and the onus lay upon the Respondent to prove that the entries showing the Petitioner's possession had not been in accordance with law. This contention is untenable Firstly, it is not possible for a party to prove a negative fact. Secondly, the question as to whether the notice in Form P.A. 10 was issued and served upon the Petitioner also is a fact which was within his exclusive knowledge."

"Petitioner's contention that the burden lay on the Respondents to disprove the authenticity and destroy the probative value of the entry of possession cannot be accepted. In my opinion, where possession is asserted by a party who relies mainly on the entry of adverse possession in his favour and such possession is denied by the recorded tenure-holder, the burden is on the former to establish that the entries in regard to his possession was made in accordance with law."

15. This Court, in the case of Sadhu Saran and Another Vs. Assistant Director of Consolidation, Gorakhpur and Others; 2003 (94) RD 535, has held that it is well settled in law that the illegal entry does not confer title. Therefore even if the entry has been made, it does not confer right title or interest if it is not in accordance with law and the prescribed procedure. This Court and the counsel for the parties also could not get the same in the Lekhpal diary. The provision of PA-24 has come vide notification dated 03.07.1965, therefore it is also of no assistance because entry could not have been made on the basis of PA-24 in Khatauni of 1373 fasli and it is also without number and year.

16. This Court, in the case of Putti and Others Vs. Assistant Director of Consolidation, Bahraich and Others; (2007) 2 All ALJ 43, has held that the court should be slow to declare the right on the basis adverse possession otherwise it may become a weapon in the hands of mighty persons to acquire the property of the weaker sections of society. It has further held that there shall not be presumption of continuous possession to declare right and title on the basis of adverse possession unless year to year entries made in accordance with law in the Khasra or Khatauni and proved by cogent and trustworthy evidence, the burden to prove which is on the person who claims Sirdari or Bhumidhari rights on the basis of adverse possession. Relevant paragraph-41 is extracted below:-

"41. Right to claim title on the basis of adverse possession is a legacy of British law. Courts should be slow to declare right on the basis of adverse possession. In case liberal approach is adopted to extend right and title on the basis of adverse possession then it may become a weapon in the hands of mighty persons to acquire the property of the weaker sections of the society. Accordingly, it shall always be incumbent upon the Courts to do close scrutiny of the evidence and material on record within the four corners of law as settled by Apex Court, discussed herein above. Even little reasonable doubt on the evidence relied upon by a party to claim right and title on the basis of adverse possession may be sufficient to reject such claim under a particular fact and circumstance.

There shall not be presumption on continuous possession to declare right and title on the basis of adverse possession unless year to year entries made in accordance to law in the Khasra or Khatauni are proved by cogent and trust worthy evidence. burden of proof of such entries shall lie, as discussed herein above, on the person who claims Sirdari or bhumidhari right on the basis of adverse possession. In the absence of any such proof, presumption shall be in favour of recorded tenure-holder whose name has been recorded in column-1 of the Khatauni."

17. The Hon'ble Apex Court, in the case of P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy and Others Vs. Revamma and Others; 2008 (26) LCD 15, has held that in case of adverse possession, communication to the owner and his hostility towards the possession is must. The relevant paragraphs 19 to 23 are extracted below:-

"19. Thus, there must be intention to dispossess. And it needs to be open and hostile enough to bring the same to the knowledge and plaintiff has an opportunity to object. After all adverse possession right is not a substantive right but a result of the waiving (willful) or omission (negligent or otherwise) of right to defend or care for the integrity of property on the part of the paper owner of the land. Adverse possession statutes, like other statutes of limitation, rest on a public policy that do not promote litigation and aims at the repose of conditions that the parties have suffered to remain unquestioned long enough to indicate their acquiescence.

20. While dealing with the aspect of intention in the Adverse possession law, it is important to understand its nuances from varied angles.

21. Intention implies knowledge on the part of adverse possessor. The case of Saroop Singh v. Banto and Others; (2005) 8 SCC 330 in that context held:

*"29. In terms of Article 65 the starting point of limitation does not commence from the date when the right of ownership arises to the plaintiff but commences from the date the defendants possession becomes adverse. (*See Vasantiben Prahladji Nayak v. Somnath Muljibhai Nayak, (2004) 3 SCC 376).

30. Animus possidendi is one of the ingredients of adverse possession. Unless the person possessing the land has a requisite animus the period for prescription does not commence. As in the instant case, the appellant categorically states that his possession is not adverse as that of true owner, the logical corollary is that he did not have the requisite animus. (See Mohd Mohd. Ali v. Jagadish Kalita, SCC para 21)"

22. A peaceful, open and continuous possession as engraved in the maxim nec vi, nec clam, nec precario has been noticed by this Court in Karnataka Board of Wakf v. Government of India and Other; (2004) 10 SCC 779 in the following terms:

"Physical fact of exclusive possession and the animus possidendi to hold as owner in exclusion to the actual owner are the most important factors that are to be accounted in cases of this nature. Plea of adverse possession is not a pure question of law but a blended one of fact and law. Therefore, a person who claims adverse possession should show: (a) on what date he came into possession, (b) what was the nature of his possession, (c) whether the factum of possession was known to the other party, (d) how long his possession has continued, and (e) his possession was open and undisturbed. A person pleading adverse possession has no equities in his favour. Since he is trying to defeat the rights of the true owner, it is for him to clearly plead and establish all facts necessary to establish his adverse possession"

23. It is important to appreciate the question of intention as it would have appeared to the paper-owner. The issue is that intention of the adverse user gets communicated to the paper owner of the property. This is where the law gives importance to hostility and openness as pertinent qualities of manner of possession. It follows that the possession of the adverse possessor must be hostile enough to give rise to a reasonable notice and opportunity to the paper owner."

18. In view of above, the judgment passed by the Appellate Authority without considering the law of adverse possession is not sustainable. Application for recall of ex-parte order was moved, which was dismissed for non-prosecution. Therefore an application for recall was filed. The applications were rejected by means of the order dated 22.05.1984. The first application for recall of the main order was rejected on the ground that the petitioner had knowledge of summon and the registered notice was returned with the report that the petitioner had refused to receive. A plea was taken that the report of refusal has been got submitted by the opposite party no.3 in collusion with the post man. A counter affidavit was filed by the opposite party no.3; Rasool stating that the post man had gone to the place of the petitioner from 24.07.1982 to 27.07.1982 and he had submitted a report of refusal. But it has not been considered as to how the opposite party no.3 had knowledge that the post man had gone to the place of the petitioner from 24.07.1984 to 27.07.1984 and as to when the petitioner refused to receive the same. The second application for recall filed on 20.03.1984 has been rejected on the ground that the petitioner had knowledge of the order passed by the court, which has not been disputed by the petitioner, but the ground taken by him that his train had left from Mahmudabad therefore he reached Sitapur at 05:00 PM and his counsel had not appeared in the Court has not been considered. Therefore, this Court is of the view that the application for recall filed by the petitioner was dismissed without considering the grounds raised by the petitioner in accordance with law and correctly.

19. The revisions filed by the petitioner against the rejection of application for recall and the appellate order on merit have also been dismissed. The first revision has been dismissed on the ground that the petitioner used to file revision against the interim orders, therefore, the petitioner used to linger on the proceedings and the Appellate Authority had not committed any mistake by deciding the appeal on merit by means of the order dated 05.11.1981 and accordingly the application for recall has rightly been rejected. But failed to consider the grounds raised by the petitioner which were sufficient and the ground taken by the revisional authority is not tenable because an aggrieved person has a right to file revision in accordance with law.

20. The other revision filed against the original order dated 05.11.1981 has been dismissed holding that the entry of the opposite party no.3 under clause-9 has rightly been made after issuance of the PA-10 in accordance with law, therefore the possession of the opposite party no.3 has rightly been found from 1368 Fasli and no evidence has been adduced by the petitioner which may indicate that the petitioner has ever evicted the opposite party no.3 from the land in dispute and the petitioner has failed to produce any constructive, oral and written evidence, accordingly held that the opposite party no.3 has matured his right on the basis of adverse possession and dismissed the revision. But the revisional court failed to consider the legal position in regard to the entry under clause-9 on the basis of PA-10 as discussed above. In case the entry was made in the name of the opposite party no.3 under clause-9 on the basis of PA-10 it was incumbent upon the opposite party no.3 to prove by adducing cogent evidence that the same was made in accordance with law and the PA-10 was served on the original tenure holder. It was also required to be proved as to when the opposite party no.3 entered into the possession in the knowledge of the petitioner and continued his possession for the required period. But it has not been proved by the opposite party no.3 and no finding has been recorded in this regard.

21. In the present case, as per the findings, recorded by the Consolidation Officer, there was contradiction in the evidence in regard to the possession of the petitioner and the entry, which finding has not been set aside by the appellate or revisional authority. None of the courts have recorded the finding in regard to adverse possession in accordance with law and Land Records Manual and the service of PA-10 on the original tenure holder, which was mandatory. Therefore this Court is of the view that the opposite party no.3 has failed to prove his adverse possession on the land in dispute, therefore his claim was not sustainable, so no fruitful purpose would be served by remanding the case and it will be a futile exercise.

22. In view of above and considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the view that the impugned orders are not sustainable in the eyes of law and liable to be quashed and the writ petition is liable to be allowed.

23. The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed. The impugned orders dated 05.11.1981 and 22.05.1985 passed by Assistant Settlement Officer of Consolidation and order dated 28.11.1985 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Sitapur are hereby quashed. No order as to cost.

24. The Lekhpal diary be returned forthwith.

A. Civil Law - U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act,1950 - Sections 229-B & 331 - Sale Deed - Cancellation of Sale Deed - whether suit cognizable by the civil court or the revenue court - Held - suit for cancellation of sale deed, on the ground of impersonation, can be filed only before the civil court & the civil court has only jurisdiction to decide the suit for cancellation of sale deed - same can not be cancelled under Section 229-B - suit u/s 229-B can be filed for a declaration of rights against the State Government and Gaon Sabha, if the State Government or the Gaon Sabha disputes the title of the claimant as Bhumidhar or Sirdar - in case title is denied by a person other than State Government or Gaon Sabha the Revenue Court will have no jurisdiction and the jurisdiction will lie before the civil court - as the civil court has jurisdiction of all civil suits of civil nature except those which are ignored or barred under any law - a decree for declaration is not an effective or alternative relief which may be claimed in substitution of the relief for cancellation of sale deed (Para 13, 14)

B. Sale Deed - Cancellation of Sale Deed when required - if the sale deed is void on the face of it, it requires no cancellation or declaration as being void, the Revenue Court, in such a case, could proceed to determine the rights of the parties - But when a deed is not void and it becomes void only on proof of certain facts, the intervention of the civil court is necessary for a decision declaring it void (Para 15)

C. Sale Deed - Sale deed questioned on ground of impersonation before Consolidation Officer - unless sale deed is set aside by a competent civil court after evidence, the same cannot be treated to be ineffective - the right, title and interest cannot be denied - it cannot be set aside or ignored by the revenue or consolidation courts (Para 21)

1. Heard Shri S.C. Sitapuri, learned counsel for the petitioners and Shri Sudhir Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the opposite parties.

2. This writ petition has been filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India for a Writ of Certiorari for quashing the judgment and order dated 05.07.2005 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Sitapur (here-in-after referred as DDC, Sitapur) in Revision No.302/283/270/266/204/80//66, Cheddu and Others Vs. Bharat and Others, under Section 48 of the Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 and for a writ of mandamus to the opposite parties not to disturb the petitioners' possession over the disputed land i.e. Gata No.408 (Khata No.120).

3. The land in dispute was originally owned by late Aziz Khan S/o Pahelwan

Khan .He sold the land to the petitioners namely Bharat Prasad, Ram Pal, Bhagwan Deen, Ramhetu and Raja Ram through a registered sale deed on 03.09.1982. In pursuance thereof the petitioners filed a mutation case which was decided in their favour and the names of the petitioners were recorded. One Israr, claiming him to be nephew of late Aziz Khan, filed a suit bearing no.423 of 1982 for cancellation of sale deed dated 03.09.1982 before the Munsif, Sitapur. The suit was dismissed by means of the order dated 29.05.1984. Israr filed a Civil Appeal No.83 of 1984 against the said order which was dismissed by means of the order dated 13.03.1985 holding that the suit was not triable by the civil court and it could have only been instituted before the Revenue Court. It was also held that the findings drawn by the learned Munsif will have no effect on the right, title and interest of the parties of the suit as the same was without jurisdiction. It appears that Israr had not filed any suit thereafter before the Revenue Court. However, one late Cheddu filed an objection under Section-9A(2) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (here-in-after referred as the Act) before the Assistant Consolidation Officer in the year 1993 stating that the suit was filed under Section 229-B by him for declaration. The suit was abated on account of start of the consolidation proceedings. The objection was allowed by the Consolidation Officer, Sitapur by means of the order dated 26.11.1998. The petitioners filed an appeal under Section 11(1) of the Act before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation which was allowed by means of the order dated 06.02.1999. Hence the opposite parties no.2 to 5 filed a revision under Section-48 of the Act before the D.D.C., Sitapur. The revision was allowed by means of the order dated

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners had submitted that the petitioners are the recorded tenure holders of the land in dispute on the basis of registered sale deed executed by late Aziz Khan. In mutation proceedings, on the basis of said sale deed, no objection was filed by the opposite parties. Israr or anybody else had not filed any application for mutation on the basis of succession. The suit filed by Israr was dismissed by the civil court on merit after considering the pleadings and evidence adduced before it. The appeal was dismissed on the ground that the suit can be filed before the Revenue Court. The said order was not challenged. There is no evidence that any suit was filed before the Revenue Court. He further submitted that the sale deed in favour of the petitioners has been questioned on the ground of impersonation by some other person in place of late Aziz Khan, therefore the Revenue Court has no jurisdiction to cancel it or declare void. It can be cancelled or declared void only by the civil court.

5. He further submitted that the objection under the Act was filed during consolidation proceedings by late Cheddu, father of all the opposite parties no.2 to 6 but no objection was filed by Israr. There is no evidence that the father of the opposite parties no.2 to 6 was the nephew of late Aziz Khan, though he has been treated by the criminal court but that can not have been relied without any proof in view of the fact that Israr had claimed himself the only nephew of late Aziz Khan in the proceedings before the civil court. There is no finding on possession but the revision was allowed. He further submitted that Israr had claimed that his father has only two brothers, late Aziz Khan and Ali Sher Khan and he was son of Ali Sher Khan whereas in the proceedings before the Consolidation Officer, five brothers have claimed but the pedigree was not proved.

6. On the basis of above, learned counsel for the petitioners had submitted that the impugned order has been passed without application of mind in an arbitrary and illegal manner. Therefore it is not sustainable in the eyes of law and liable to be quashed. Learned counsel for the petitioners relied on Indra Pal & Others Vs. Jagannath & Others; 1993 (11) LCD P.45, Sumesar & Others Vs. Smt. Mangla; 1993 (11) LCD P.533 and Tej Bhan Singh & Others Vs. II Additional District Judge, Jaunpur; ACJ 1994 P.911.

7. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite parties had submitted that the sale deed, on the basis of which the petitioners are claiming, was a void document as it was got executed by some other person in place of late Aziz Khan therefore it was a void document and the same could have been challenged and declared void by the Revenue Court. It is settled proposition of law that after publication of notification under Section-4 of the Act all the powers vest in the consolidation courts who can consider all the questions including the void document. Accordingly, considering the same the Consolidation Officer and the revisional court have rightly decided the case in favour of the opposite parties by concurrent finding. There is no illegality or error in the impugned orders.

8. On the basis of above, learned counsel for the opposite parties had submitted that the writ-petition is misconceived and lacks merit and is liable to the dismissed. Learned counsel for the opposite parties relied on Smt. Dularia Devi Vs. Janardan Singh & Others; 1990 AIR 1173, Kamla Prasad and Others Vs. Sri Krishna Kant Pathak and Others; (2007) 4 SCC 213 and Smt. Ramdei (Dead) through LRs & Others Vs. Rampati @ Rupa Devi and Another; 2005 (23) LCD 829.

9. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

10. The name of the petitioners was recorded on the basis of sale deed executed by late Aziz Khan by the order dated 17.01.1983 passed by the Naib Tehsildar. There is no evidence that any appeal was filed against the said order. One Israr had filed a suit for cancellation of sale deed dated 03.09.1982 executed in favour of the petitioners. Israr had given a pedigree in suit in which he had shown that the Pahelwan Khan had two sons namely Aziz Khan and Ali Sher Khan and Israr was the son of Ali Sher Khan. However, it appears that during evidence he had stated that Pahelwan Khan had three other successors but he could not prove that he was nephew of late Aziz Khan. The suit was dismissed on merit after evidence by means of the judgment and order dated 29.05.1984. The civil appeal filed by Israr was dismissed by the District Judge on the ground that the remedy lies before the Revenue Court. Israr had not filed any suit before the Revenue Court because no evidence was adduced at any stage in this regard or filing of suit by any body else. Only an assertion was made during consolidation proceedings in the objection filed on 15.03.1993 by the father of the opposite parties no.2 to 6 late Cheddu and one another showing a different pedigree but no objection was filed by Israr or any body else. The pedigree was also not proved. The Consolidation Officer allowed the objection by means of the order dated 26.11.1998. The said order has not been filed before this Court.

11. The petitioners filed an appeal before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. The Appellate Authority recorded that the main issue in the case to be decided is as to whether the name of the petitioners, on the basis of sale deed, has rightly been recorded or not. The Appellate Authority held that unless the sale deed is cancelled by the competent court, the same can not be treated to be ineffective. No evidence has been filed which may prove that the sale deed has been cancelled by the competent court. The name of the petitioners has been mutated on the basis of sale deed. The sale deed was proved by the marginal witnesses therefore it could not be disbelieved. It has further been recorded that the order passed by the civil court will have no bearing on this case because it has been held by the Additional District Judge that the civil court has no jurisdiction to cancel the sale deed. Therefore, the expert opinion of thumb impression given therein has no relevance. The appeal was allowed and the order passed by the Consolidation Officer was set-aside and it was provided that the entries made in the revenue record in favour of the petitioners shall continue.

12. The Revisional Authorities, on the basis of evidence of late Cheddu Khan and Salik Ram, held that late Aziz Khan had put his thumb impression on Takabi Register while taking loan which was not tallied by the thumb impression of late Aziz Khan on Register No.8 of the Sub-Registrar's office by the finger print expert, who found that they are different and also on the basis of findings recorded by the Civil Court and Criminal Court held that the sale deed was got executed by impersonation therefore they are not entitled for title, right and interest on the basis of said sale deed. However it appears that the said registers were neither produced nor got proved by the person competent i.e. who keeps it and before whom the thumb impressions were put in due course of functioning. The revisional court recorded a finding that the Consolidation Officer has not committed any error or illegality in recording the name of the revisionist who are the nephew of late Aziz Khan without any evidence or proof that they are the nephew of late Aziz Khan. It is also apparent that the original file of civil court was summoned, perused and considered because after writing it, the same was deleted, while in view of order of Additional District Judge the same could not have been considered. Therefore the findings recorded by the revisional court are not sustainable.

13. The name of the petitioners was recorded on the basis of registered sale deed, which has been questioned by the opposite parties on the ground that it is void document because it was got executed by impersonation. But the sale deed was not challenged by late Aziz Khan and it was challenged only by Israr showing the pedigree in which his father had only two brothers, whereas before the consolidation court five brothers have been claimed but nothing could be shown before this Court that the pedigree was proved by the opposite parties in any manner and it was also not proved that the opposite parties were the nephew of late Aziz Khan. The objection was also filed by only late Cheddu and one another. The civil court had also in the suit for cancellation found that Israr had failed to prove that he was nephew of late Aziz Khan though the Additional District Judge in civil appeal held that the finding drawn by the learned

Munsif will have no effect on the title, right and interest of the parties to the suit as the findings are without jurisdiction. But in such situation it was required to be proved by cogent evidence that the objectors were the nephew and legal heirs of late Aziz Khan. The said order was not challenged whereas the suit for cancellation of sale deed, on the ground of impersonation, can be filed only before the civil court and the civil court has only jurisdiction to decide the suit for cancellation of sale deed. The same can not be cancelled under Section 229-B because the suit under Section 229-B can be filed for a declaration of his rights against the State Government and Gaon Sabha whereas the civil court has jurisdiction of all civil suits of civil nature except those which are ignored or barred under any law. Therefore if the State Government or the Gaon Sabha disputes the title of the claimant as Bhumidhar or Sirdar the suit under Section 229-B can be filed. But in case the title is denied by a person other than State Government or Gaon Sabha the Revenue Court will have no jurisdiction and the jurisdiction will lie before the civil court.

14. This Court considered the issues in the case of Indra Deo and Others Vs. Ram Pyari; Manu/UP/1126/1982, 1982 (8) ALR 517 and held that a decree for declaration is not an effective or alternative relief which may be claimed in substitution of the relief for cancellation of sale deed because the suit under Section 229-B would be necessary only if the State Government or Gaon Sabha dispute the title of plaintiff but if some other person disputes, the remedy would be before the civil court. The paragraph-21 is extracted below:-

"21. From the above it is clear that Section 229-B(3) contemplates a suit for declaration by a Bhumidhar or Sirdar against the State Government and the Gaon Sabha. Such a suit would be necessary when the plaintiffs' title is not recognised either by the State Government or by the Gaon Sabha. The occasion for filing such a suit will not arise when the title of the plaintiff is denied by a person other than the State Government and the Gaon Sabha. Therefore, under the provisions of the Act itself, the jurisdiction of the Civil Court would not be barred when declaration is sought against a person who has transferred agricultural property which the plaintiff comes to be his. Section 229-B does not compete all / oil kinds of declaratory suits. It deals with declaratory suits of the specific type herein before mentioned. The section came up for interpretation before a Division Bench of this Court in Parsottam v. Narottam and Another MANU/UP/0255/1970; 1970 R.D. 2016. The Division Bench observed as follows:--

"Section 229-B of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act is the only section which deals with declaratory suits relating to agricultural land. The question arises as to whether this section covers declaratory suits of all kinds or is limited only to suits of a particular category. Sub-Section (1) of Section 229-B provides for a suit for declaration by an Asami against the land holder and says in Sub-section (2) that in such a suit any other person claiming Asami rights in the land in suit shall be impleaded as a defendant, sub-section (3) of that section makes the provision of sub-sections (1) and (2) applicable mutatis mutandis to a suit by a Bhumidhar or Sirdar with the amendment that instead of the land holder "State Government and Gaon Sabha" shall be substitutes in other words a suit for the declaration of Bhumidhari or Sirdari rights is to he filed against the State Government and the Gaon Sabha and any other person who claims Bhumidhari or Sirdari rights in such land has also to be impleaded as a party. The suit contemplate by the provisions of Section 229-B is directed primarily against the State Government and the Gaon Sabha. Now such a suit would be necessary only if the State Government of the Gaon sabha disputes the plaintiff's title as a Bhumidhar or Sirdar. If the State Government or the Gaon Sabha does not dispute the claim of the plaintiff such a suit would not lie under Section 229-B of the Act merely because some other person disputes the plaintiff's claim."

15. This Court, in the case of Smt. Rasheedan Vs. Amar Singh and Others; 1997 (3) AWC 1695, has held that if the deed is void on the face of it, it requires no cancellation or declaration as being void, the Revenue Court, in such a case, could proceed to determine the rights of the parties. But when a deed is not void and it becomes void only on proof of certain facts, the intervention of the civil court is necessary for a decision declaring it void because it can be made by the civil court only. In the present case the validity of the sale deed executed in favour of the petitioners has been questioned on the ground of impersonation which can be examined only by the civil court after evidence. In the case of impersonation, it is required to be proved by cogent evidence that the sale deed has not been executed by person, having right, title or interest and by any other person. In the present case the registered sale deed has been proved by the marginal witnesses in the mutation proceedings which was not challenged by anybody.

16. In the case of Indra Pal and Others Vs. Jagannath and Others (Supra), it has been held that the essence of matter in deciding whether the suit is cognizable by the civil court or the revenue court is whether Section 331 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act is attracted to the facts of the case. If in substance, the main question involved relates to declaration of right or title, then the suit would lie in the revenue court and not in the civil court. But it is not the case in the present case.

17. This Court, in the case of Sumesar and Others Vs. Smt. Mangla (Supra), has held that a suit for cancellation of sale deed did lay in civil court. The relevant paragraph nos.16 to 18 are extracted below:-

"16. Considering the provisions of Section 31 Specific Relief Act and Section 331 of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, this court, in the cases of Indra Deva V. Ram Pyari, reported in (1982 ALJ 1308) and the case of Ram Padarath v. II Additional. District Judge (1988 (6) LCD 565) has laid down the law to the effect that the suit for cancellation of sale deed whether void or voidable is maintainable in the Civil Court. Their Lordships in Ram Padarath (Supra) have laid down the law to the following effect:

"We are of the view that the case of Indra Deva v. Smt. Ram Pyari, 1982 ALJ 1308 has been correctly decided and said decision requires no consideration, while Division Bench Case in Dr. Ayodhya Prasad V. Gangotri is regarding the jurisdiction of consolidation authorities but so far as it holds that suit in respect of void documents will lie in Revenue Court it does not lay down a god law. Suit and Action for cancellation of void documents will generally lie in Civil Court and a party cannot be deprived of his right getting this relief permissible under law except when a declaration of right of status is necessarily needed in which even relief for cancellation will be surplusage and redundant . A recorded tenure holder having prima-facie title in his favour can hardly be directed to approach the Revenue Court in seeking relief for cancellation of void document which made him to approach the Court of law and in such case he can also claim ancillary relief even though the same can be granted by the Revenue Court."

17. In t*he case of* Mst. Bismillah v. Janeshwar Prasad reported in [1990 (11) LCD 536 (SC)] the Supreme Court has followed with affirmance the view and law laid down in Ram Padarath's case.

*18. In this view of the matter there is no substance in this contention of the learned counsel for the appellant, and I hold that the suit for cancellation of sale deed did lay in Civil court and that section 331 of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act did not bar it. Learned counsel further contended that the finding of the court below that the deed has been obtained by misrepresentation and fraud and that the plaintiff did not execute the sale-deed with full understanding is incorrect and is liable to be set aside and that learned court below wrongly held that the sale deeds were without consideration and further that they were not read over a*nd explained to the plaintiff vendor. This is a question of appreciation of evidence.

18. This Court, in the case of Tej Bhan Singh and Others Vs. II Additional District Judge, Jaunpur (Supra), has also passed order relying on the judgment of full Bench in the case of Ram Padarath and Others v. II Additional District Judge, Sultanpur; 1988 (6) LCD 565. Similar view has been taken by this Court in the case of Smt. Ramdei (dead) through Lrs and Others Vs. Rampati @ Rupa Devi and Others (Supra). The relevant paragraph 14 is extracted below:-

14. There are two kinds of deeds, whose validity is normally challenged, namely, void and voidable. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dhurandhar Prasad Singh v. Jai Prakash University and Ors.2001 (Suppl) RD 342, has elaborately dealt with distinction in two types of deeds. In Paragraph 20 of the said judgment the expression 'void' has been said to have several facets, amongst which one type is of those void acts, transactions, decrees which are wholly without jurisdiction. Such acts and transactions etc are void ab initio and for avoiding them no declaration is necessary as it can be disregarded in collateral proceeding as the law does not take notice of it. Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that there may be other type of void acts which may not be nullity but for avoiding the same a declaration has to be made. An example has also been cited. The relevant portion of Para 20 is extracted herebelow for ready reference:

"The expression "void" has several facets. One type of void acts, transactions, decrees are those which are wholly without jurisdiction, ab-initio void and for avoiding the same no declaration is necessary, law does not take any notice of the same and it can be disregarded in collateral proceeding or otherwise. The other type of void act, e.g., may be transaction against a minor without being represented by a next friend. Such a transaction is good transaction against the whole world. So far the minor is concerned, if he decides to avoid the same and succeeds in avoiding it by taking recourse to appropriate proceeding the transaction becomes void from the very beginning. Another type of void act may be which is not nullity but for avoiding the same a declaration has to be made. Voidable act is that which is a good act unless avoidable, e.g., if a suit is filed for declaration that a document is fraudulent and/or forged and fabricated. It is voidable as apparent state of affairs is real state of affairs and a party who alleges otherwise is obliged to prove it. If it is proved that the document is forged and fabricated and a declaration to that effect is given a transaction becomes void from the very beginning. There may be a voidable transaction which is required to be set aside and the same is avoided from the day, it is so set aside and not any day prior to it. In cases, where legal effect of a document cannot be taken away without setting aside the same, it cannot be treated to be void but would be obviously voidable."

19. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Kamla Prasad and Others Vs. Sri Krishna Kant Pathak and Others (Supra), has held in paragraph 14, 15 and 16 as under:-

"14. In this connection, the learned counsel for the appellant rightly relied upon a decision of this Court in Shri Ram & Anr. v. Ist Addl. Distt. Judge & Ors., (2001) 3 SCC 24. In Shri Ram, A, the original owner of the land sold it to B by a registered sale deed and also delivered possession and the name of the purchaser was entered into Revenue Records after mutation. According to the plaintiff, sale deed was forged and was liable to be cancelled. In the light of the above fact, this Court held that it was only a Civil Court which could entertain, try and decide such suit. The Court, after considering relevant case law on the point, held that where a recorded tenure holder having a title and in possession of property files a suit in Civil Court for cancellation of sale deed obtained by fraud or impersonation could not be directed to institute such suit for declaration in Revenue Court, the reason being that in such a case, prima facie, the title of the recorded tenure holder is not under cloud. He does not require declaration of his title to the land."

20. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Smt. Dulariya Devi Vs. Janardhan Singh and Others (Supra) has held that a voidable document is one which remains in force until set aside and such a document can be set aside only by a competent civil court. A suit for that purpose would, therefore, be maintainable. A claim that a transaction is void is, however, a matter which can be adjudicated upon by the consolidation court.

21. In view of above and considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case, this court is of the view that unless the sale deed is set aside by a competent civil court the right, title and interest can not be denied and it cannot be set aside or ignored by the revenue or consolidation courts. Therefore the impugned order is not sustainable and liable to be quashed with a direction to the revisional court to reconsider and pass a fresh order in accordance with law on the basis of pleadings and evidence adduced before it.

22. The writ petition is, accordingly, partly allowed. The judgment and order dated 05.07.2005 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Sitapur in Revision No.302/283/270/266/204/80//66 is quashed. The Deputy Director of Consolidation, Sitapur i.e. the opposite party no.1 is directed to pass a fresh order in accordance with law and the observations made here-in-above in this order. No order as to costs.

Civil Law - Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 - Section 48(1) - Revision against interlocutory order is not maintainable - 'Interlocutory order' means such order deciding any matter arising in such case or proceeding or collateral thereto as does not have the effect to finally disposing of such case or proceeding

Consolidation Officer after hearing parties on 06.02.2021 fixed date for disposal on the point of limitation - against which opposite parties filed revision - D.D.C. admitted the revision and stayed further proceedings before Consolidation Officer - Held - by order dated 06.02.2021 nothing was decided by Consolidation Officer, only date was fixed for disposal on the matter of limitation - order dated 06.02.2021 does not decide any lis nor touches on any important right or liability of any of the parties - order dated 06.02.2021, being interlocutory revision against it was not maintainable under S. 48 (1) of the Act, 1953 (Para 13, 14)

Allowed.(E-5)

List of Cases cited :

1.Veeresh Singh Vs Deputy Director of Consolidation, Farrukhabad & ors. 2013 (3) ADJ 702

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Himanshu Kumar Bachhil, learned counsel for the petitioner, Dr. Krishna Singh, learned Standing Counsel for opposite party nos. 1, 2 & 6, Sri Mohiuddin Khan, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 4. Sri Mohan Singh has accepted notice on behalf of the Gram Sabha-opposite party no. 5.

2. For the order proposed to be passed, issuance of notice to opposite party no. 3 is dispensed with.

3. The petitioner filed an application under Rule 109-A (1) of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Rules, 1954, which was time barred and, as such, an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act was filed for condonation of delay.

4. The Consolidation Officer after hearing the learned counsels for both the sides on 06.02.2021, fixed 11.02.2021 for disposal on the point of limitation, against which the private opposite parties filed revision in which the Deputy Director of Consolidation by order dated 10.02.2021 admitted the revision and stayed the further proceedings before the Consolidation Officer.

5. Sri Himanshu Kumar Bachhil submits that the revision against the order dated 10.02.2021, was not maintainable, the order dated 10.02.2021 being an interlocutory order, in view of Section 48 (1) of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (in short 'the Act, 1953'), and therefore the order dated 10.02.2021 is without jurisdiction.

6. Sri Mohiuddin Khan, submits that the order dated 10.02.2021 has been passed with due opportunity of hearing to the parties which does not call for any interference. He fairly submits that Revision under Section 48 of the Act, 1953 does not lie against interlocutory order.

7. In view of the questions involved upon which legal position is settled and as the Court is not entering into the factual dispute, if any, the counter affidavit is not being called.

8. I have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsels for the parties and perused the material on record.

9. Section 48 of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, reads as under:-

"Revision and reference.- (1) The Director of Consolidation may call for and examine the record of any case decided or proceedings taken by any subordinate authority for the purpose of satisfying himself as to the regularity of the proceedings; or as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any order [other than an interlocutory order] passed by such authority in the case or proceedings, may, after allowing the parties concerned an opportunity of being heard, make such order in the case or proceedings as he thinks fit.

(2) Powers under sub-section (1) may be exercised by the Director of Consolidation also on a reference under sub-section (3).

(3) Any authority subordinate to the Director of Consolidation may, after allowing the parties concerned an opportunity of being heard, refer the record of any case or proceedings to the Director of Consolidation for action under sub-section (1).

[Explanation- [(1)] For the purposes of this section, Settlement Officers, Consolidation, Consolidation Officers, Assistant Consolidation Officers, Consolidator and Consolidation Lekhpals shall be subordinate to the Director of Consolidation.]

Explanation (2) - For the purposes of this section the expression 'interlocutory order' in relation to a case or proceeding, means such order deciding any matter arising in such case or proceeding or collateral thereto as does not have the effect to finally disposing of such case or proceeding.

[Explanation (3). - The power under this section to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of any order includes the power to examine any finding, whether of fact or law, recorded by any subordinate authority, and also includes the power to re-appreciate any oral or documentary evidence.]?

10. A bare perusal of Section 48 (1) of the Act, 1953 shows that the revision is not competent against the interlocutory order.

11. In Veeresh Singh vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Farrukhabad and Ors. [2013 (3) ADJ 702], this Court, after considering the meaning of the word "interlocutory order" as also in Section 48(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 has held that the revision against the interlocutory order under Section 48 of the Act is not maintainable.

12. It is apt to reproduce paragraph nos. 7, 8 & 9 of the Veeresh Singh (supra) as under:-

"7. From the bare reading of the aforesaid Section it would transpire that the revision would be maintainable against any order except the interlocutory order. The interlocutory order has been explained in Explanation (2) of the aforesaid Section, where it is provided that for the purposes of this Section the expression interlocutory order in relation to a case or proceeding, means such order deciding any matter arising in such case or proceeding or collateral thereto as does not have the effect to finally disposing of such case or proceeding.

8. The literal meaning of the word interlocutory order has been defined in various dictionaries as under:

(1) Law Lexicon (P. Ramanath Ayer) 1997 Edition: Interlocutory order: An interlocutory order is one which is made pending the case and before a final hearing on the merits.

An interlocutory order is made to secure some end and purpose necessary and essential to the progress of the suit, and generally collateral to the issues formed by the pleadings and not connected with the final judgment.

(2) Halsburys Law of England, 4th Edition, Vol. 26, Paragraph 506:

Interlocutory order: An order which does not deal with the final rights of the parties, but either - (1) is made before judgment and gives no final decision on the matters in dispute, but is merely on a matter of procedure, or (2) is made after judgment, and merely directs how the declarations of right already given in the final judgment are to be worked out, is termed Interlocutory. An interlocutory order, even though not conclusive of the main dispute, may be conclusive as to the subordinates matter with which/ideals.

(3) Concise Oxford English Dictionary, 11th Edition:

Interlocutory: (of a decree or judgment) given provisionally during the course of a legal action.

On bare perusal of the meaning of the word interlocutory order, it would transpire that an order, which does not have the effect of finality of the proceedings and it is an order in a pending proceeding, which is made during the progress of an action and which does not finally dispose of the rights of the parties.

9. The word interlocutory order has also been used in Section 397 of Code of Criminal Procedure and the same came up for consideration before the Apex Court in the case of Amar Nath and Others Vs. State of Haryana and Another, , where the Apex Court has held that the term interlocutory order merely denotes orders of a purely interim or temporary nature which do not decide or touch the important rights or the liabilities of the parties. In the case of V.C. Shukla Vs. State through

C.B.I., , the Apex Court held that the interlocutory order has to be construed in contradiction to or in contrast with final order, it means not a final order, but an intermediate order. It is made between the commencement of an action and the entry of the judgment. Reverting back to the facts of this case, as would appear from the record that here, in this case, nothing has been decided. The order accepting or refusing the evidence, impugned in the revision, in my considered view, would not fall in the ambit of a final order, as the matter is still subjudice before the Consolidation Officer, if anything turns on the statements filed on affidavit, the petitioner is at liberty to challenge the same before the higher Court by way of filing appeal/revision."

13. From perusal of the order dated 06.02.2021 (annexure no. 14), it is evident that by this order, nothing was decided by the Consolidation Officer. Only the date 11.02.2021, was fixed for disposal on the matter of limitation. The order dated 06.02.2021 does not decide any lis nor touches on any important right or liability of any of the parties.

14. In view of the aforesaid, this Court is of the considered view that the order dated 06.02.2021, being interlocutory, the revision there-against was not maintainable under Section 48 (1) of the Act, 1953. The order dated 10.02.2021 impugned in the petition is without jurisdiction.

15. Consequently, the order dated 10.02.2021 is quashed. The order dated 06.02.2021 passed by the Consolidation Officer is revived.

16. The Consolidation Officer, Ayodhya, shall proceed to decide the matter pending before him, as per law, after affording opportunity of hearing to all the parties concerned, including opposite party no. 3, with due notice to them, if there is no other legal impediment.

17. Writ petition is allowed with the aforesaid observations and directions.

3. Satya Narain Vs Dhuja Ram & ors. (1994) 4 SCC 247

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Heard Shri Manoj Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondent.

2. An election petition was instituted by the petitioner on 02.06.2021 which came to be registered as Case No. 03345 of 2021, Computerized Case No. T202115510103345 (Anil Kumar Vs. Kanhaiya Lal and others) which is pending before the election tribunal/respondent no.2, Prescribed Authority/Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, District Mau.

3. The only prayer made by Shri Manoj Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner that the election petition be decided within a stipulated period of time. Reliance is placed on the law laid down in Anita Devi and others Vs. Prescribed Authority, Panchayat Raj and others1*.

4. Learned Standing Counsel submits that the election petition can only be decided after all parties to the lis have been duly noticed.

5. This Court in Anita Devi (supra) set its face against an inordinate delay or unnecessary prolongation of election petitions. Further in the same judgement after a survey of various provisions of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947, including Section 12C(5) of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947, it was held:

"8. In exercise of powers for nominating the prescribed authority and regulating the method and procedure for presentation and hearing of election petition State of Uttar Pradesh has framed "Uttar Pradesh Panchayat Raj (Settlement of Election Disputes) Rules, 1994." The Rules provide that an application under Section 12-C Rule-3 has to be filed within ninety days from the date the result is declared. Rule-4 provides for the Sub-Divisional Magistrate being the competent authority to hear such election disputes. Rule-4 declare that while deciding such election petitions the Sub-Divisional Magistrate shall summarily follow the procedure applicable under the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 for trial of suits. Such applications can be dismissed, without giving notice to the opposite parties. It shall not be necessary to record the evidence in full and he may only maintain a memorandum of the evidence produced by the parties before him.

9. The Sub-Divisional Magistrate may only allow such evidence be produced as he may deem relevant for the purpose of deciding the election petitions. From the aforesaid rules regulating the procedures for hearing of the election petitions read with Section 12 C sub-rule (5) the intentions of the State Legislature is, that there must be early disposal of the election petitions and if required the rules may provide for summary hearing and disposal of the said election petition.

10. The election petitions must be heard in an expeditious manner and there should not be uncalled for adjournment of such petitions. This is more necessary because of the fact that the elections are for a fixed term and every attempt must be made to settle the disputes pertaining to such elections within reasonable time and nobody should be permitted to linger the proceedings so as to frustrate the election petition or to create a situation where the relief to be granted to the election petitioner may be rendered illusionary.

11. We are of the considered opinion that the Sub-Divisional Magistrate who is appointed as the Election Tribunal under the provisions of Section 12 C of the Panchayat Raj Act must proceed with the election petitions in a business like manner. There should not be any uncalled adjournment on the mere asking of the parties. The time frame provided for in the matter of filing of the written statement must be strictly adhered to. For avoiding adjournment,of the election petitions on the ground that the Sub-Divisional Magistrate is busy with other work or has been assigned other duties, the State Government must issue directions to ensure that the Sub-Divisional Magistrate/Election Tribunal fix at least one particular day in a week on which they shall necessarily hear the election petitions. Adjournment of the election petition on the ground that the election officer is busy with other work has to be avoided except in extremely unavoidable circumstances.

12. In our opinion a general direction must be issued by the State Government to Sub-Divisional Magistrate to make all attempts to decide the election petition filed under Section 12 C preferably within six months of their institution and only in exceptional cases the time limit fixed be extended and that to for reasons to be recorded."

6. The importance of a timely decision of election petitions has been consistently made in judicial authorities of high standing. The Supreme Court in Pukhrem Saratchandra Singh v. Mairembam Prithviraj2 propounded:

"20. A voter casts his vote as a responsible citizen to choose the masters for governing the country. That being the trust of the electorate in an elected candidate, when he faces an assail to his election, it should be his sanguine effort to become free from the assail in the election petition and work with attainment and not take shelter seeking adjournments with the elated hope that he can be triumphant in the contest by passage of time. This kind of attitude has to be curbed from all angles because law does not countenance it."

7. Similarly an early decision or an expeditious conclusion of election petitions was found to be imperative for the functioning of democracy in Satya Narain Vs. Dhuja Ram and others3.

8. There is also merit in the submission of learned Standing Counsel that in the anxiety to conclude the election proceedings, norms of fair justice and procedural fairness should not be given a go by. All parties to the lis should be duly noticed.

9. The respondent no. 7-newly elected Gram Pradhan is directed to cooperate in the said proceeding and will not seek any unnecessary adjournment before the election tribunal.

10. In wake of the preceding discussion, the writ petition is being disposed of with a direction to the election tribunal to decide the election petition within a period of six months stipulated in Anita Devi (supra).

11. The writ petition is disposed of finally.

(Para 18)

Allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Heard Shri Harish Chandra Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondent and Shri Deepak Gaur, learned counsel for the Gaon Sabha.

2. The impugned order dated 30.11.2018 passed by the respondent No.3-Tehsildar/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Moth, District-Jhansi, rendered in proceedings registered as Case No.T201806370201602 (Gaon Sabha Vs. Govind Singh) under Section 67 of the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Code'), finds that the petitioner had illegally encroached over the disputed parcels of land, and accordingly it was directed that the petitioner be evicted from the disputed parcel of land. Damages and other charges were also imposed upon the petitioner.

3. The learned trial court in the impugned order dated 30.11.2018 has noticed that the Lekhpal in his cross examination had admitted that the disputed parcels of land were not demarcated and the house appeared to be of old vintage.

4. The learned appellate court/Additional Collector (Judicial), Jhansi by the impugned order dated 30.06.2021 agreed with the findings of the learned trial court/Tehsildar/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Moth, District-Jhansi, and affirmed its judgement dated 30.11.2018.

5. Shri Harish Chandra Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the defence of Section 67A of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 taken by the petitioner was not adverted to by both the courts below. Further without proper demarcation of the lands, a finding of illegal encroachment cannot be returned.

6. Learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondent as well as Shri Deepak Gaur, learned counsel for the Gaon Sabha could not satisfactorily dispute the aforesaid submissions on fact and law.

7. All relevant facts for just adjudication of the controversy can be prised out from the impugned orders. Exchange of affidavits shall unnecessarily delay the disposal of the controversy. With consent of parties the matter is being decided finally.

8. To make a finding of illegal encroachment upon any disputed parcel of land in proceedings taken out under Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, the demarcation of the boundaries of the disputed parcel of land is an essential prerequisite. Admittedly, the same has not been done in this case. Infact the Lekhpal had admitted before the court below that the disputed plots were not demarcated. On this count alone the finding of illegal encroachment made by the learned court below is vitiated.

9. The petitioner claimed entitlement to the protection of Section 67A of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006. It is noteworthy that the Lekhpal had also deposed that the house is of old vintage. The learned courts below have clearly neglected to consider the aforesaid issue. This reflects non application of mind.

10. Section 67 as well as Section 67(A) of the Code reflect the composite intent of legislature. The legislature by enacting the aforesaid provision has recognized the vulnerability of the State land to illegal encroachment and the need for urgent corrective measures. Simultaneously the legislature has also acknowledged the reality of a large number of persons who have erected dwelling units on lands which are not reserved for any public purposes. The legislature has protected their rights in the manner prescribed in the provision. For ease of reference the provisions are extracted hereunder:

"67 Power to prevent damage, misappropriation and wrongful occupation of Gram Panchayat property.- (1) Where any property entrusted or deemed to be entrusted under the provisions of this Code to a Gram Panchayat or other local authority is damaged or misappropriated, or where any Gram Panchayat or other authority is entitled to take possession of any land under the provisions of this Code and such land is occupied otherwise than in accordance with the said provisions, the Bhumi Prabandhak Samiti or other authority or the Lekhpal concerned, as the case may be, shall inform the Assistant Collector concerned in the manner prescribed.

(2) Where from the information received under sub-section (1) or otherwise, the Assistant Collector is satisfied that any property referred to in sub-section (1) has been damaged or misappropriated, or any person is in occupation of any land referred to in that sub-section in contravention of the provisions of this Code, he shall issue notice to the person concerned to show cause why compensation for damage, misappropriation or wrongful occupation not exceeding the amount specified in the notice be not recovered from him and why he should not be evicted from such land.

(3) If the person to whom a notice has been issued under sub-section (2) fails to show cause within the time specified in the notice or within such extended time as the Assistant Collector may allow in this behalf, or if the cause shown is found to be insufficient, the Assistant Collector may direct that such person shall be evicted from the land, and may, for that purpose, use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary, and may direct that the amount of compensation for damage or 34 misappropriation of the property or for wrongful occupation, as the case may be, be recovered from such person as arrears of land revenue.

(4) If the Assistant Collector is of opinion that the person showing cause is not guilty of causing the damage or misappropriation or wrongful occupation referred to in the notice under sub-section (2), he shall discharge the notice.

(5) Any person aggrieved by an order of the Assistant Collector under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4), may within thirty days from the date of such order, prefer an appeal to the Collector.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provision of this Code, and subject to the provisions of this section every order of the Assistant Collector under this section shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (5) be final.

(7) The procedure to be followed in any action taken under this section shall be such as may be prescribed.

Explanation. - For the purposes of this section, the word 'land' shall include the trees and buildings standing thereon

11. 67-A Certain house sites to be settled with existing owners thereof.-

(1) If any person referred to in sub-section (1) of section 64 has built a house on any land referred to in section 63 of this Code, not being land reserved for any public purpose, and such house exits on the November 29, 2012, the site of such house shall be held by the owner of the house on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed.

(2) Where any person referred to in sub-section (1) of section 64, has built a house on any land held by a tenure holder (not being a government lessee) and such house exits on November 29, 2000, the site of such house, notwithstanding anything contained in this Code, be deemed to be settled with the owner of such house by the tenure holder on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed.

Explanation. - For the purpose of sub-section (2), a house existing on November 29, 2000, on any land held by a tenure holder, shall, unless the 35 contrary is proved, be presumed to have been built by the occupant thereof and where the occupants are members of one family by the head of that family. "

12. Section 67(A) of the Code confers rights on certain people who have encroached upon public land. The conditions precedent for invoking the protection of Section 67(A) of the Code are these. The person against whom proceedings are taken out has built his house on any land referred to in Section 63 of the Code, the person who seeks protection of Section 67(A) of the Code should be in the category of persons referred to in Section 63 of the Code. The land should not be reserved for any public purpose. The date of the construction of the house should be prior to 29 November, 2012. The house of such persons should be existing on the disputed parcels of land on or before 29 November 2012.

13. In many instances, as in the present case, a noticee under Section 67 of the Code may invoke the protection of Section 67(A) of the Code to resist the proceedings under Section 67 of the Code.

14. The authority/ court having jurisdiction to decide the proceedings taken out under Section 67 of the Code or Section 67(A) of the Code is the same. When the defence of Section 67(A) of the Code is taken in proceedings of Section 67 of the Code, the same issues will be directly and substantially in issue in both the proceedings. Usually in such matters pleadings, defence, and evidence of the parties are same in both the proceedings. In case proceedings under Section 67 and 67(A) of the Code are conducted separately and in isolation to one another, it would lead to multiplicity of litigation and inconsistent judgments. There will also be an avoidable delay in decision of the controversy and may even result in miscarriage of justice.

15. The courts in proceedings under Section 67 of the Code are under obligation of law to decide the eligibility of the noticee for protection under Section 67(A) of the Code. In case defence under Section 67(A) of the Code is taken by the noticee, the said proceedings shall be registered separately. But both cases will be consolidated and heard and decided together.

16. This procedure would faithfully implement the legislative intent and also serve the interest of justice.

17. In the facts and circumstances of this case, the failure of the learned courts below to enquire into the validity of the defence of the petitioner under Section 67(A) of the Code has resulted into a miscarriage of justice.

18. In wake of preceding discussion, the impugned orders dated 30.06.2021 passed by the Additional Collector (Judicial), Jhansi and 30.11.2018 passed by the respondent No.3-Tehsildar/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Moth, District-Jhansi, are vitiated and contrary to law. The orders dated 30.06.2021 and 30.11.2018 are liable to be set aside and are set aside.

19. The matter is thus remitted to the respondent No.3-Tehsildar/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Moth, District-Jhansi, for a fresh determination consistent with the observation made in this judgment.

20. The following directions are being passed to serve the interest of justice in this case:

(1) The petitioner shall file a fresh application under Section 67(A) of the Code before the respondent No.3-Tehsildar/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Moth, District-Jhansi, within a period of one month from the date of production of a computer generated copy of this order downloaded from the official website of the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad. The concerned Court/Authority/Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

(2) The respondent No.3-Tehsildar/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Moth, District-Jhansi, shall register the proceedings under Section 67(A) of the Code upon submission of such application.

(3) Proceedings under Section 67(A) of the Code so instituted shall be consolidated and heard with proceedings under Section 67 of the Code registered as Case No.T201806370201602 (Gaon Sabha Vs. Govind Singh) and decided by a common order, consistent with the observations made in this judgement.

(4). Prior to entering a final judgement the court below shall ensure that demarcation of disputed parcels of lands is completed as per law.

21. The writ petition is allowed to the extent indicated above.

Ram Khelawan @ Bachcha Vs St. of u.p. and Prashant Shukla son of Sushil Chand Shukla, reported at 2005 (2) AWC 1087

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kamal Shankar Ojha, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Sanjay Goswami, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the respondents-State.

2. The petitioner has assailed the order dated 21.06.2011 passed by the learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamp), Sonebhadra, determining the stamp liability of the petitioner on the instrument in issue as well as the order dated 22.03.2012 passed by the learned appellate authority/Commissioner, Vindhyachal Mandal, Mirzapur, affirming the order of the learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamp), Sonebhadra.

3. The learned adjudicating authority/ District Magistrate/Collector (Stamp), Sonebhadra in the impugned order dated 21.06.2011 has placed exclusive reliance on a report submitted by the Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), Sonebhadra, after the inspection of the disputed premises. The report dated 30.09.2009 was submitted in the aftermath of the sale-deed. The sale-deed was executed on 20.04.2009. The petitioner had tendered his objection to the aforesaid inspection report. While finding against the petitioner, the adjudicating authority held that insufficient evidence was adduced by the petitioner against the offending report. On this footing, the findings of the report dated 30.09.2009 of the learned Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), Sonebhadra in regard to the valuation of the property was upheld. The objection of the petitioner that the constructions were raised and the crushing operations begun subsequent to the date of purchase was accordingly invalidated.

4. The learned appellate authority/Commissioner, Vindhyachal Mandal, Mirzapur, agreed with the findings of the learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/ District Magistrate/Collector (Stamp), Sonebhadra, and affirmed its order by the impugned order dated 22.03.2012.

5. Sri Kamal Shankar Ojha, learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the learned authorities below erred in law by relying on the report submitted by the learned Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), Sonebhadra dated 30.09.2009. The learned authorities below illegally failed to make an enquiry under Rule 7 of the Uttar Pradesh Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997. The reliance is placed on the law laid down by this Court in Ram Khelawan Alias Bachcha son of Ram Ratan Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh Through Collector and Prashant Shukla son of Sushil Chand Shukla, reported at 2005 (2) AWC 1087.

6. The applicability of the law laid down by this Court in Ram Khelawan (supra) could not be disputed on behalf of the State.

7. Learned Standing Counsel could not dispute the applicability of Ram Khelawan (supra) to the facts of this case.

8. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

9. A perusal of the impugned orders passed by the learned courts below discloses that sole and exclusive reliance was placed on the report submitted by the learned Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue), Sonebhadra on 30.09.2009 while finding against the petitioner.

10. The intendment of such inspection report is only to assist the adjudicating authority to record a prima facie satisfaction on the correctness of the valuation of the property as disclosed in the instrument. The said report merely becomes the basis of initiating proceedings under Section 47-A of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899. Once the report is disputed by the noticee, the stamp authorities cannot place reliance on the same to determine stamp liability. The adjudicating authority will have to make an independent enquiry as prescribed in Rule 7 of the Uttar Pradesh Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997 to determine the valuation of the property and on that basis assess the stamp liability payable on the instrument.

11. This narrative is supported by good authority in point. In Ram Khelawan (supra), this Court while construing the purpose of the inspection report [Such as one made by the learned Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue) in this case], held as under:

"25. It has been found in several cases like the present one that the entire basis of determination of market value for the purpose of stamp duty is ex-parte report of Tehsildar or other officer. Ex-parte inspection report may be relevant for initiating the proceedings under Section 47-A of Stamp Act. However, for deciding the case no reliance can be placed upon the said report. After initiation of the case inspection is to be made by the Collector or authority hearing the case after due notice to the parties to the instrument as provided under Rule-7(3) (c) of the Rules of 1997. Moreover in the inspection report distance of the property from other residential or commercial properties and road must be shown and wherever possible sketch map must also be annexed alongwith the report so that correct valuation may be ascertained with reasonable certainity."

12. The proposition of law is squarely applicable to the facts of this case. On this footing alone, the orders passed by the learned authorities below are vitiated.

13. There is another aspect to the matter. Upon receipt of the report the District Magistrate/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamp), Sonebhadra, is under an obligation of law to carry out an independent enquiry to determine the valuation of the property and the property comprised in the instrument and then determine the stamp liability. A comprehensive procedure in that regard is set out in Rule 7 of the Uttar Pradesh Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997. The said provision is being extracted hereunder for ease of reference:

"7. Procedure on receipt of a reference or when suo motu action is proposed under Section 47-A.-(1) On receipt of a reference or where action is proposed to be taken suo motu under Section 47-A, the Collector shall issue notice to parties to the instrument to show cause within thirty days of the receipt of such notice as to why the market value of the property set forth in the instrument and the duty payable thereon be not determined by him.

(2) The Collector may admit oral or documentary evidence, if any, produced by the parties to the instrument and call for and examine the original instrument to satisfy himself as to the correctness of the market value of the subject-matter of the instrument and for determining the duty payable thereon.

(3) The Collector may-

(a) Call for any information or record from any public office, officer or authority under the Government or a local authority;

(b) Example and record the statement of any public officer or authority under the Government or the local authority; and

(c) Inspect the property after due notice to parties to the instrument.

(4) After considering the representation of the parties, if any and examining the records and other evidence, the Collector shall determine the market value of the subject-matter of the instrument and the duty payable thereon.

(5) If, as a result of such inquiry, the market value is found to be fully and truly set forth and the instrument duly stamped according to such value, it shall be returned to the person who made the reference with a certificate to that effect. A copy of such certificate shall also be sent to the Registering Officer concerned.

(6) If, as a result of inquiry, the instrument is found to be under valued and not duly stamped, necessary action shall be taken in respect of it according to relevant provisions of the Act."

14. The District Magistrate/Collector (Stamps), Sonebhadra has failed to cause an enquiry in the manner prescribed under Rule 7 of the Uttar Pradesh Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997 to determine the valuation of the property. It is beyond the pale of dispute that the District Magistrate/Collector (Stamps), Sonebhadra has evidently fettered his jurisdiction for no good cause.

15. The learned appellate authority/Commissioner, Vindhyachal Mandal, Mirzapur in its order dated 22.03.2012 failed to redeem the error committed by the learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamp), Sonebhadra.

16. In wake of the preceding narrative, the order dated 21.06.2011 passed by the learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamps), Sonebhadra as well as the order dated 22.03.2012 passed by the learned appellate authority/Commissioner, Vindhyachal Mandal, Mirzapur, are liable to be set aside and are set aside.

17. The matter is remitted to the learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamps), Sonebhadra, with the following directions:

I. The learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamps), Sonebhadra, shall decide the matter afresh, consistent with the manner stated in this judgement.

II. The controversy shall be adjudicated by the learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamps), Sonebhadra, within a period of three months from the date of production of a computer generated copy of this order, downloaded from the official website of the High Court Allahabad. The Authority/Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

III. The petitioner undertakes to cooperate in the enquiries before the learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamps), Sonebhadra, and shall not seek any unnecessary adjournment.

IV. If necessary, the learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamp), Sonebhadra, shall conduct the proceedings on day to day basis to ensure that the above stipulated timeline of three months is strictly adhered to.

V. The amount already deposited by the petitioner shall remain subject to the final adjudication by the learned adjudicating authority/District Magistrate/Collector (Stamps), Sonebhadra in accordance with the above directions.

18. Before parting, this Court deems it appropriate to highlight another important issue. The law laid down by this Court in Ram Khelawan (supra) is now well settled. This Court in several cases had noticed the stamp authorities had been erring by relying an ex parte inspection reports which are to be used solely for the purposes of initiation of proceedings under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899. The authorities are not any the wiser today. This Court also comes to the conclusion independently that the same error is being repeated by the authorities in several cases including the instant case. This aspect needs to be redressed.

19. The Principal Secretary, Stamp and Registration, Government of U.P., Lucknow, shall ensure that appropriate training programmes and workshops/seminars for the adjudicating authorities as well as appellate authorities are regularly held to enable them to acquire knowledge of the laws including the body of judicial precedents which govern the interpretation of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899. The distilled wisdom of the judgements handed down by constitutional courts should constantly guide the actions of the revenue authorities.

20. Sri Sanjay Goswami, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel shall communicate this order to the Principal Secretary, Stamp and Registration, Government of U.P., Lucknow, along with his suggestions.

21. The Principal Secretary, Stamp and Registration, Government of U.P., Lucknow is expected to take appropriate measures in this regard within a period of four months from today.

22. Such regular workshops will help the authorities to remain abreast of the laws and empower them to faithfully implement the intendment of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 and protect the interests of the Revenue while respecting the rights of common citizens. It will also prevent unnecessary litigation.

23. The writ petition is allowed to the extent indicated above.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. The petitioner has assailed the award passed by the Lok Adalat in this writ petition.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner Shri Shesh Kumar Srivastava submits that the award is beyond jurisdiction. The Utter Pradesh Industrial Disputes Act is not applicable to the facts of this case. He relies on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank Ltd. Vs. Addl. Labour Commissioner and others1, and the judgment of this Court rendered in Sikta Mahoogarh Sadhan Sahkari Samiti Ltd. Vs. Prescribed Authority under the Payment of Wages Act, 1936 and others2.

3. Shri Saroj Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the respondent contends that the respondent no.5 is a workman within the meaning of Uttar Pradesh Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

4. The facts material to the adjudication of this case lie in a narrow compass and are undisputed.

5. The respondent no. 5 was appointed as Class IV employee in the petitioner Institution. The petitioner Institution is an intermediate college which is under the grant-in-aid of the Government of U.P. The conditions of service and payment of salary of all employees and staff of the Institution including the petitioner are governed and regulated by the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 as well as the Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other employees) Act, 1971.

6. The aforesaid enactments are a complete code. The enactments are special legislations covering a specific field of law.

7. I see merit in the contention of Shri Shesh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioners that the labour court exceeded its jurisdiction by entertaining the industrial dispute even though its jurisdiction was ousted by the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and the Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other employees) Act, 1971.

8. The ouster of jurisdiction of the labour court and the Uttar Pradesh Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, in matters governed by special laws fell for consideration in Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank (supra).

9. The issue in Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank (supra) was whether the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965, being a special enactment ousted the jurisdiction of Uttar Pradesh Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 in matters covered by the former enactment. Invoking the well settled principles of interpretation of statues which contemplate that a special Act shall prevail over a general Act was held:

"61. The general legal principle in interpretation of statutes is that "the general Act should lead to the special Act". Upon this general principle of law, the intention of the U.P. Legislature is clear, that the special enactment U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 alone should apply in the matter of employment by cooperative societies to the exclusion of all other labour laws. It is a complete code in itself as regards employment in cooperative societies and its machinery and provisions. The general Act, the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 as a whole has and can have no applicability and stands excluded after the enforcement of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act. This is also clear from necessary implication that the legislature could not have intended head-on conflict and collision between authorities under different Acts."

10. The narrative in Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank (supra) placed reliance on the judgment rendered in Co-operative Central Bank Ltd. and others Vs. The Additional Industrial Tribunal, Andhra Pradesh and others3, wherein it was observed:

"7. Applying these tests, we have no doubt at all that the dispute covered by the first issue referred to the Industrial Tribunal in the present cases could not possibly be referred for decision to the Registrar under Section 61 of the Act. The dispute related to alteration of a number of conditions of service of the workmen which relief could only be granted by an Industrial Tribunal dealing with an industrial dispute. The Registrar, it is clear from the provisions of the Act, could not possibly have granted the reliefs claimed under this issue because of the limitations placed on his powers in the Act itself. It is true that Section 61 by itself does not contain any clear indication that the Registrar cannot entertain a dispute relating to alteration of conditions of service of the employees of a registered society; but the meaning given to the expression "touching the business of the society", in our opinion, makes it very doubtful whether a dispute in respect of alteration of conditions of service can be held to be covered by this expression. Since the word "business" is equated with the actual trading or commercial or other similar business activity of the society, and since it has been held that it would be difficult to subscribe to the proposition that whatever the society does or is necessarily required to do for the purpose of carrying out its objects, such as laying down the conditions of service of its employees, can be said to be a part of its business, it would appear that a dispute relating to conditions of service of the workmen employed by the society cannot be held to be a dispute touching the business of the society. Further, the position is clarified by the provisions of sub-section (4) of Section 62 of the Act which limit the power to be exercised by the Registrar, when dealing with a dispute referred to him under Section 61, by a mandate that he shall decide the dispute in accordance with the provisions of the Act and the Rules and bye-laws. On the face of it, the provisions of the Act, the rules and the bye-laws could not possibly permit the Registrar to change conditions of service of the workmen employed by the society. For the purpose of bringing facts to our notice in the present appeals, the rules framed by the Andhra Pradesh Government under the Act, and the bye-laws of one of the appellant Banks have been placed on the Paper-books of the appeals before us. It appears from them that the conditions of service of the employees of the Bank have all been laid down by framing special bye-laws. Most of the conditions of service, which the workmen want to be altered to their benefit, have thus been laid down by the by-laws, so that any alteration in those conditions of service will necessarily require a change in the bye-laws. Such a change could not possibly be directed by the Registrar when, under Section 62(4) of the Act, he is specifically required to decide the dispute referred to him in accordance with the provisions of the bye-laws. It may also be noticed that a dispute referred to the Registrar under Section 61 of the Act can even be transferred for disposal to a person who may have been invested by the Government with powers in that behalf, or may be referred for disposal to an arbitrator by the Registrar. Such person or arbitrator, when deciding the dispute, will also be governed by the mandate in Section 62(4) of the Act, so that he will also be bound to reject the claims of the workmen which is nothing else than a request for alteration of conditions of service contained in the bye-laws. It is thus clear that, in respect of the dispute relating to alteration of various conditions of service, the Registrar or other person dealing with it under Section 62 of the Act is not competent to grant the relief claimed by the workmen at all. On the principle laid down by this Court in the case of Deccan Merchants Cooperative Bank Ltd., therefore, it must be held that this dispute is not a dispute covered by the provisions of Section 61 of the Act. Such a dispute is not contemplated to be dealt with under Section 62 of the Act and must, therefore, be held to be outside the scope of Section 61"

11. Elaborating further exclusion of the jurisdiction of a general Act in matters covered by the special Act in Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank (supra), it was concluded:

"63. Also if we refer to the general principles of statutory interpretation as discussed by G.P. Singh, in his treatise on Principles of Statutory Interpretation, we can observe that, a prior general Act may be affected by a subsequent particular or special Act if the subject-matter of the particular Act prior to its enforcement was being governed by the general provisions of the earlier Act. In such a case the operation of the particular Act may have the effect of partially repealing the general Act, or curtailing its operation, or adding conditions to its operation for the particular cases. The distinction may be important at times for determining the applicability of those provisions of the General Clauses Act, 1897, (the Interpretation Act, 1889 of UK, now the Interpretation Act, 1978) which apply only in case of repeals.

64. A general Act's operation may be curtailed by a later special Act even if the general Act will be more readily inferred when the later special Act also contains an overriding non obstante provision. Section 446(1) of the Companies Act, 1956 (Act 1 of 1956) provides that when the winding-up order is passed or the Official Liquidator is appointed as a provisional liquidator, no suit or other legal proceeding shall be commenced, or if pending at the date of winding-up order shall be proceeded with against the company except by leave of the court. Under Section 446(2), the Company Court, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force is given jurisdiction to entertain any suit, proceeding or claim by or against the company and decide any question of priorities or any other question whatsoever, whether of law or fact, which may relate to or arise in the course of the winding-up. The Life Insurance Corporation Act, 1956 (Act 31 of 1956) constituted a tribunal and Section 15 of the Act enabled Life Insurance Corporation to file a case before the tribunal for recovery of various amounts from the erstwhile Life Insurance Companies in certain respects. Section 41 of the LIC Act conferred exclusive jurisdiction on the tribunal in these matters. On examination of these Acts, it was held [Damji Valji Shah v. LIC of India, AIR 1966 SC 135] that the provisions conferring exclusive jurisdiction on the tribunal being provisions of the special Act i.e. the LIC Act prevailed over the aforesaid provisions of the general Act viz. the Companies Act which is an Act relating to companies in general and, therefore, the tribunal had jurisdiction to entertain and proceed with a claim of Life Insurance Corporation against a former insurer which had been ordered to be wound up by the Company Court. This case [Damji Valji Shah v. LIC of India, AIR 1966 SC 135] was followed [(2000) 4 SCC 406] in giving to the provisions of the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 (the RDB Act) overriding effect over the provisions of the Companies Act, 1956. The RDB Act constitutes a tribunal and by Sections 17 and 18 confers upon the tribunal exclusive jurisdiction to entertain and decide applications from the banks and financial institutions for recovery of debts (defined to mean any liability which is claimed as due). The Act also lays down the procedure for recovery of the debt as per the certificate issued by the tribunal. The provisions of the RDB Act, which is a special Act, were held [(2000) 4 SCC 406] to prevail over Sections 442, 446, 537 and other sections of the Companies Act which is a general Act, more so because Section 34 of the RDB Act gives overriding effect to that Act by providing that the provisions of this Act shall have effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other law for the time being in force.

65. We are therefore of the view that the Assistant Labour Commissioner's (ALC) jurisdiction was wrongly invoked and his order dated 15-3-2003 under Section 6-H, U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 is without jurisdiction and hence null and void and it can be observed that, in view of the said general legal principle, it is immaterial whether or not the Government has enforced Section 135 (U.P. Cooperative Societies Act) because, in any case the said provision (Section 135) had been included in the Act only by way of clarification and abundant caution."

12. Similarly, the jurisdiction of the prescribed authority under the Payment of Wages Act, 1936, to entertain the claims of an employee of the Co-operative Society who is governed by the U.P. Co-operative Societies Act, 1965, was ousted in Sikta Mahoogarh Sadhan Sahkari Samiti Limited Vs. Prescribed Authority under the Payement of Wages Act, 1936 and others4, in view of the law laid down in Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank (supra), this Court opined as under:

"19. Be that as it may, I am clearly of the opinion that issue in question stands covered by judgment of Apex Court in Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank (supra) and therefore, since no Labour Laws would be applicable in respect to service dispute of an employee and cooperative society inter se, Prescribed Authority, under Act, 1936, had no jurisdiction to entertain an application under Section 15 and therefore, impugned orders are patently illegal and without jurisdiction."

13. In this case the services and rights of the respondent no. 5 are governed exclusively by the provisions of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and the Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other employees) Act, 1971. Both the enactments are comprehensive in nature and squarely cover the dispute before the labour court. The law laid down in Ghaziabad Zila Sahkari Bank (supra) as well as Sikta Mahoogarh (supra) will be squarely applicable to the facts to this case. The jurisdiction of the labour court and the Uttar Pradesh Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 in the facts of this case was ousted by virtue of the operation of the UP Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and the Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other employees) Act, 1971.

14. In wake of the preceding discussion, the labour court exceeded its jurisdiction by passing the impugned award dated 27.04.2015. The award dated 27.04.2015 and the consequential proceedings taken out under Section 6H(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, are liable to be set aside and are set aside.

15. The writ petition is allowed.

Accordingly, petitioner has submitted an application on 10.6.2014 for taking his Institution in grant-in-aid list as per aforesaid Government Orders. The Regional Level Committee recommended the name of petitioner's Institution at serial no. 7 to State Level Committee on 25.11.2014 for being brought the Institution in grant-in-aid list. The State Level Committee consider the application of petitioner and found certain deficiencies for which through D.I.O.S., letter dated 9.2.2015 was issued to petitioner to remove deficiency. Deficiency mentioned against the petitioner's Institution is that endowment fund was not arranged. For removal of that, petitioner was granted three days time and accordingly petitioner has submitted reply on 24.2.2015 removing the deficiency so pointed out. After receiving the reply, State Level Committee made its recommendation. Recommendation was made into two parts, in the first part 84 institutions were recommended and in the second part, 71 institutions were recommended wherein the name of petitioner's Institution has been mentioned at serial no.23, but even after that, no decision was taken on the application of the petitioner. Therefore, petitioner filed Writ-C No. 20817 of 2016 before this Court, which was disposed of vide order dated 6.5.2016 with direction to respondents to take appropriate decision within three months. Even after order of the Court, no decision was taken and petitioner has no option, but to file contempt petition. Upon which, to show compliance of the order passed by the writ Court, order dated 5.8.2016 has been passed by Joint Director of Education, Gorakhpur Region, Gorakhpur on the ground that as per report dated 9.6.2016, State Level Committee has not recommended the petitioner's Institution to bring on grant-in-aid list. Thereafter, petitioner has again challenged the order dated 9.6.2016 by filing Writ-C No. 9603 of 2017 (C/M Purvanchal Prachaya Ved Vidyalaya Thru' Its Manager Vs. State of U.P. & 4 others). After hearing the writ petition, Court has directed for personal appearance of Director of Education (Secondary) alongwith supplementary counter affidavit on the next date fixed. On the date fixed, in the presence of Director of Education (Secondary), supplementary counter affidavit was perused by the Court and Court is of the view that contention raised in the impugned order dated 9.6.2016 is not correct. There is nothing like not recommending the petitioner's Institution by the State Level Committee rather recommended the Institution.

5. This Court has set aside the order dated 5.8.2016 and remanded the matter back for passing fresh order. Petitioner has served the order and thereafter, impugned order has been passed. He next submitted that impugned order has been passed only on the ground that petitioner has not submitted the endowment fund within the time prescribed in Government Order. He also submitted that it is nothing but an attempt to frustrate the order of this Court. After submission of application very first time, very same deficiency was pointed out by the D.I.O.S. for the letter dated 9.2.2015 and same was also removed by the petitioner vide order letter 24.2.2015. After that, recommendation was made by the State Level Committee vide order dated 24.3.2015. Earlier, the very same issue as to whether the State Level Committee recommended the case of petitioner or not, was very well considered by this Court in Writ-C No. 9603 of 2017 and Court is of the view that it was a recommendation, which also includes the removal of deficiency so pointed out in present impugned order. Therefore, at this stage, once the time was granted to petitioner to remove the deficiency, he has removed the same and after considering the same matter was recommended, very same deficiency cannot be raised again as it will be treated to be removed within the time otherwise it was required on the part of petitioner to reject the application instead of issuing the letter dated 9.2.2015 granting three days time to remove the same. He lastly submitted that under such facts and circumstances, order may be quashed and writ petition be allowed with heavy costs as petitioner is being harassed for no reason time and time again.

6. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the case of C/M Pt. Janardhan Mani Sri Krishnadeo Mani Sri Durga Maa vs. State of U.P. and 4 others passed in Writ- C No. 13179 in which educational Institution for grant-in-aid was rejected on three grounds and one of the ground was endowment fund with the recognized University was not available. This Court after considering the facts allowed the petition with the observation that once the endowment fund is provided, proposal for taking the Institution in grant-in-aid list cannot be rejected.

7. He also placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the matter of Shishu Vidya Mandir Koiripur, Block Pratappur Kamaicha, District Sultanpur through its Manager Vs. State of U.P. And others in Writ Petition No. 5704 (M/S) of 2016. In that case too, issue of grant-in-aid was involved and respondents are taking new grounds on every occasion. Ultimately, Court after taking note of this, allowed the petition.

8. Learned Standing Counsel though vehemently opposed, but could not dispute the facts raised as well as judgment relied by the learned counsel for the petitioner. He only submitted that petitioner has submitted the endowment fund only after issuance of letter dated 9.2.2015 and not alongwith application form before the cut off date i.e. 30.4.2014 provided in Government Order.

9. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record as well as judgment relied by the learned counsel for the petitioner. The contention raised by learned counsel for the petitioner is getting full support from the record and could not be disputed by the learned standing counsel. It is apparent that on the first occasion, application of petitioner was not considered for which he has approached this Court by filing Writ- C No. 20817 of 2016 and in haste manner, an order dated 5.8.2016 has been passed on non existent ground as it was not found correct in second writ petition i.e. Writ- C No.9603 of 2017 filed by the petitioner challenging the order dated 5.8.2019. Relevant portions of said judgment are being quoted below:-

"A perusal of the letter/report dated 9th June, 2016 (Annexure-SCA'1' to the supplementary affidavit), which is at page 10, would reveal that there appears nothing specific in the report which may indicate that the Institution was not liable to be taken on grant-in-aid list although there is a statement that the teaching staff of the Institution up to the extent of Principal and five Assistant Teachers could be brought on grant-in-aid whereas the remaining staff would have to be paid salary from the management's own sources. But there appears no adverse comment which may enable the authority to conclude that there was a negative report against the Institution in respect of its claim for being brought on grant-in-aid list.

That apart there is no consideration of the State Level Committee report dated 27th July, 2016, which finds mention in the document which has been appended at page 95 of the paper book.

In view of the above, this Court is of the view that the order dated 5th August, 2016 (Annexure-'13' to the petition) has been passed by the State Government in hurry without properly applying its mind to various reports which were there on record.

Accordingly, the order dated 5th August, 2016 is liable to be set aside and is accordingly set aside. The State Government shall shall accord fresh consideration to the request of the petitioner Institution for being brought on grant-in-aid list in accordance with law keeping in mind all the relevant reports including one that has been noticed here-in-above. Fresh exercise shall be completed preferably within a period of two months from the date of furnishing certified copy of this order upon the first respondent.

The petition stands allowed to the extent indicated above."

10. It is also undisputed that at the time of submission of application, petitioner was granted three days time to remove the deficiency of endowment fund, which was very well removed by the petitioner and after that State Level Committee recommended the petitioner's Institution for having in grant-in-aid list.

11. Therefore, at this stage, there is no occasion to reiterate ground of deficiency of endowment fund with intention to reject the petitioner application again, therefore, order is bad and liable to be set aside.

12. I have perused the judgment of this Court in the matter of C/M Pt. Janardhan Mani Sri Krishnadeo Mani Sri Durga Maa (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner. In that case too, the application of petitioner was rejected on three grounds: (i) the applicant Institution had to be a recognized Institution; (ii) it had to see that the endowment fund with the recognising University was there and (iii) the Committee of Management which was running the Institution had given its consent that the college be included in grant-in-aid. Relevant portions of the said judgment are being quoted hereinbelow:-

"So far as the defect with regard to the endowment fund was concerned, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the College had submitted the endowment fund of Rs.3000/- and, therefore, the defect had very much been removed. Further the consent of the Committee of Management of the Institution was also very much there on record.

Under such circumstances, the order dated 4.3.2016 passed by the State of Uttar Pradesh is quashed and a writ of mandamus is being issued that petitioner-Institution be brought in grant-inaid list forthwith and the grant be provided to the College within three months from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order.

The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed."

13. Court after returning the finding that deficiency of endowment fund was removed by the College concerned and allowed the writ petition with direction to respondent-authority to take petitioner's Institution in grant-in-aid list forthwith.

14. I have also considered and perused the judgment of this Court in the matter of Shishu Vidya Mandir, Koiripur (supra). This matter was also related to the grant-in-aid and Court after considering the same allowed the petition. Relevant portion of the said judgment is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"I find that on every occasion new grounds have been taken which were only to be discarded and rejection after examination by this Hon'ble Court. Through present counter affidavit the opposite parties have not been able to stand the test of fairness and judicial scrutiny....."

15. In the present case too, situation is same for one reason or other, respondents are rejecting the application of petitioner for grant-in-aid, which is getting full support from this judgment. Therefore, in light of judicial pronouncements made by this Court, order impugned is bad and liable to be set aside.

16. In such matters, where application is invited fixing a last date for submission and after receiving the application, notices were issued to remove deficiencies, if any, within certain time. In case, deficiencies so pointed out, has been removed by the person/Institution concerned within the time given, application cannot be rejected on the ground that deficiencies are removed after last date of submission of form, otherwise purpose of issuance of notice for removing the deficiencies would be frustrated and it would be a futile exercise only.

17. Further, once an application is rejected on one or more grounds by the Competent Authority. After challenge, rejection order is set aside by the Appellate Authority/Court and matter is remanded back to pass fresh order. Competent Authority would have no right to reject the same again on a different ground/grounds which were available at the time of first rejection order. It is required on the part of Competent Authority to take all such grounds of rejection in its rejection order available at the time of passing rejection order, otherwise it would be unending process resulting into the harassment of applicant.

18. Therefore under such facts and circumstances of the case as well as legal position settled by this Court, the writ petition is allowed and order dated 24.5.2018 passed by the respondent no.1 is hereby quashed. In usual course, matter may be remanded back for passing fresh order, but considering this fact that it is fourth round of litigation as well as in light of judgment of this Court in the matter of Shishu Vidya Mandir, Koiripur (supra), respondent no.1 is directed to bring the petitioner's Institution in grant-in-aid list forthwith and grant be provided within three months from the date of production of computer generated copy of this order after verifying the same from the official website of Allahabad High Court.

19. No order as to costs.

A. Criminal Law – Caste naming - Insult - SC/ST Act: Sections 3(1)(r), 3(1)(s), 3(2)(va), 3(1)(Da) & 3(1)(Dha) - Indian Penal Code,1860 - Sections 452, 149, 323& 506 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 156(3), 200 & 202 - If alleged offence has been committed inside a building then it cannot be said that offence was committed within public view. (Para 10)

Complainant Gajendra in his statement has specifically stated that on 30.5.20219 at 4:00 PM, appellants forcibly entered into his house and beaten him and uttered words naming his caste and also threatened to kill him. Accused Mahesh tried to strangulate him. But no injury report of the complainant is on record. (Para 12, 15)

Alleged offences under Section 3(1)(r) and 3(1)(s) of SC/ST Act have been committed inside the house of complainant. Therefore, it cannot be said that offences were committed within public view. Moreover, one more case relating to SC/ST Act has been admitted to be pending in the Court between the parties. (Para 14)

Appeal allowed. Matter remitted. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Swaran Singh & ors. Vs State Through Standing Counsel & another (2009 All. C.J. 751) (Para 10, 14)

Present appeal is against order dated 09.02.2021, passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (SC/ST) Amroha.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anil Kumar Ojha, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellants, learned counsel for respondent no.2, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the records.

2. Appellants have preferred this criminal appeal against the order dated 9.2.2021 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (SC/ST) Amroha in Complaint Case No. 45 of 2019 (Gajendra Vs. Munnu and others) whereby learned Special Judge (SC/ST Act) has summoned the appellants under Section 452 read with Section 149 I.P.C., 323 read with Section 149 I.P.C., 506 read with Section 149 I.P.C. and Sections 3(2)(va), 3(1)(Da), 3(1)(Dha) SC/ST Act, to face the trial.

3. Shorn of unnecessary details, the case of appellants is that respondent no.2 Gajendra filed an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before Special Judge, Amroha to register a case against appellants at P.S.-Naugawan Sadat, District- Amroha. It was alleged in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. that accused persons belong to his village and are 'Yadav' by caste. They are pressuring the complainant to entered into compromise in Crime No. 131 of 2019. When complainant refused to do so then Mannu, Gajendra, Ashok, Tejpal, Dinesh, Shekhar, Kaluwa, Priyanshu on 30.5.2019 at about 4:00 P.M. in the evening, armed with sticks, barged into the house of complainant and started insulting him by naming caste 'Chamar/Chamatte' and beaten him by kicks and fists. Accused Mahesh tried to strangulate him.

4. Learned Special Judge, SC/ST Act instead of registering the case, passed the order treating the application as complaint.

5. Statement of complainant Gajendra was recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. Statements of witnesses C.W.-1 Sompal and C.W.2 Mahipal were recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C.

6. After hearing the complainant, the learned Special Judge, SC/ST Act summoned the appellants to face the trial in the offences stated above.

7. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that offences have been allegedly said to have been committed within the four walls of the house of complainant. Hence, offences under Section 3(1)(r) & 3(1)(s) of SC/ST Act are not made out. As offences have been committed within the house of complainant so it cannot be said that offences have been committed within public view. He further submitted that the case against appellants is malafide. One more case relating to SC/ST Act is already pending in the court. Appeal be allowed and summoning order dated 9.2.2021 be set aside.

8. Per contra, learned A.G.A. and learned counsel for respondent no.2 Gajendra opposed the above submission and contended that appellants are committing scuffle(marpeet) with complainant and insulting him again and again. Appeal has no merits and should be dismissed.

9. Learned counsel for the appellants drew attention of court towards Section 3(1(r) & 3(1)(s) of SC/ST Act which are as follows:

"3(1)(r): intentionally insults or intimidates with intent to humiliate a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe in any place within public view;

3(1)(s): abuses any member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe by caste name in any place within public view; "

10. In Swaran Singh & Ors. Vs. State Through Standing Counsel & Anr. (2009 All. C.J. 751), the Hon. Apex Court has held that if alleged offence has been committed inside a building then it cannot be said that offence was committed within public view.

11. Para 28 and 34 of the aforesaid Hon. Authority of the Apex Court is quoted below:

"28. It has been alleged in the FIR that Vinod Nagar, the first informant, was insulted by appellants 2 and 3 (by calling him a 'Chamer') when he stood near the car which was parked at the gate of the premises. In our opinion, this was certainly a place within public view, since the gate of a house is certainly a place within public view. It could not have been a different matter had the alleged offence been committed inside a building, and also was not in the public view. However, if the offence is committed outside the building e.g. in a lawn outside a house, and the lawn can be seen by someone from the road or lane outside the boundary wall, the lawn would certainly be a place within the public view. Also, even if the remark is made inside a building, but some members of the public are there (not merely relatives or friends) then also it would be an offence since it is in the public view. We must, therefore, not confuse the expression 'place within public view' with the expression 'public place'. A place can be a private place but yet within the public view. On the other hand, a public place would ordinarily mean a place which is owned or leased by the Government or the municipality (or other local body) or gaon sabha or an instrumentality of the State, and not by private persons or private bodies.

34. However, a perusal of the F.I.R. shows that Swaran Singh did not not use these offensive words in the public view. There is noting in the F.I.R. to show that any member of the public was present when Swaran Singh uttered these words, or that the place where he uttered them was a place which ordinarily could be seen by the public. Hence in our opinion no prima facie is made out against appellant no.1."

12. Complainant Gajendra in his statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. has specifically stated that on 30.5.20219 at 4:00 PM, appellants forcibly entered into his house and beaten him and uttered words naming his caste and also threatened to kill him. Accused Mahesh tried to strangulate him.

13. Witnesses C.W.-1 Sompal and C.W.-2 Manipal have also deposed the same fact.

14. As in view of the authority of Hon. Apex Court in Swaran Singh & Ors. Vs. State Through Standing Counsel & Anr. (2009 All. C.J. 751) alleged offences under Section 3(1)(r) and 3(1)(s) of SC/ST Act have been committed inside the house of complainant. So, I am of the considered opinion that it cannot be said that offences were committed within public view.

15. So far as the allegation of strangulation is concerned, no injury report of the complainant is on record. It has also been admitted that one more case relating to SC/ST Act is pending in the court between the parties.

16. Learned counsel for respondent no.2 and learned A.G.A. for the State could not give satisfactory answer of the aforesaid argument relating to commission of offence within public view.

17. The upshot of the above discussion is that the impugned order dated 9.2.2021 passed by learned Special Judge, SC/ST Act, is not within the four-corners of law, therefore cannot be sustained.

18. Accordingly, appeal succeeds and is allowed.

19. Order dated 9.2.2021 passed by learned Special Judge, SC/ST Act is set aside.

20. Matter is remitted to the lower court concerned to pass orders afresh, after providing opportunity of hearing to both the parties, in the light of observations made in the body of judgment.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Dhari Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri S.P. Singh, learned counsel for the applicant no. 2, Sri Om Prakash Nag, learned counsel for the complainant and Sri Rajesh Kumar Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State.

2. This anticipatory bail application has been moved seeking bail in Case Crime No. 326 of 2020, under section 498-A, 323, 504, 506, 313, 377 IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act, Police Station Choauk, District Lucknow, during the pendency of trial.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant no. 2 submitted that applicant no. 2 is father-in-law of the opposite party no. 2. It is submitted in the F.I.R. that general allegation has been levelled against the accused applicant no. 2. It is submitted that the entire story has been cooked up on the basis of false and fabricated facts. He has been falsely implicated in the said case. It is submitted that he has great apprehension of imminent arrest in the instant case by the police. Offences under Sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506, 313, 377 IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act are non-bailable offences. It is submitted that there is matrimonial dispute going on between the husband and wife i.e. Kapil Chanchal Gupta and Smt. Shalinin gupta and due to which, complainant/opposite party no. 2 has falsely implicated the entire family of the applicant no. 1 including the applicant no. 2. It is submitted that investigation has been completed and charge sheet has been filed by the investigating officer in which offences levelled against the applicant no. 2 under Sections 313 and 377 IPC have already been dropped as no evidence has been gathered against the applicant in that regard. Husband of the opposite party no. 2 has filed the divorce petition before the Family Court, Shahjahanpur in which notice had been issued to the opposite party no. 2 on 4.9.2020. Thereafter, opposite party no. 2 has lodged a false case against the applicant no. 1 and his entire family on 11.9.2020. It is further submitted that opposite party no. 2 has also filed a transfer petition i.e. Transfer Application No. 8 of 2021 in the High Court, Allahabad in which vide order dated 18.1.2021, the Hon'ble High Court has stayed the proceedings in the divorce petition pending before the Family Court, Shahjahanpur.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that instant case has been initiated against the applicant no. 2 is nothing but a gross misuse of process of law. The opposite party no. 2 has falsely implicated the applicant no. 2 as well as entire family of the applicant in this case for creating pressure to settle the entire matrimonial dispute.

5. It is submitted that applicant has approached this Court directly in extraordinary circumstances that the present application has been filed before the court below when the learned court below was not functioning properly during Covid-19 pandemic. It is also submitted that applicant no. 2 is the resident of District Shahjahanpur, as such, he was under threat of arrest and in such circumstances he has approached this Court directly. It is vehemently submitted that there is no violation of conditions which has been made by the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Ankit Bharti v. State of U.P. & Anr. - 2020 (3) ADJ 575 (F.B.) for filing the anticipatory bail directly before this Court.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that vide order dated 9.8.2021 of this Court, applicant had been granted interim relief and since then he is cooperating in the investigation, therefore, charge sheet has been filed and during investigation, he has not been arrested.

7. Learned Senior Counsel has contended that during the course of investigation, the applicant was not arrested by the CBI and now the charge-sheet has been filed, therefore, the applicant is entitled for anticipatory bail in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Siddharth vs The State of Uttar Pradesh and another; 2021 SCC Online SC 615 and Aman Preet Singh vs. CBI through Director CBI (Criminal Appeal No.929 of 2021).

8. Learned Additional Government Advocate has opposed the prayer for anticipatory bail but has not contradicted the aforesaid facts as stated by learned counsel for the applicant.

9. Learned counsel for the complainant has vehemently opposed the prayer for grant of anticipatory bail and has submitted that applicant no. 2 has committed grievous offence, therefore, anticipatory bail should not be granted.

10. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

11. I have perused the F.I.R., contentions made in bail application, counter affidavit filed by the State & complainant as well as rejoinder affidavit filed by the applicant.

12. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and without entering into the merits of the case and material available on record, It is admitted fact that charge sheet has been filed by the investigating officer in which offences levelled against the applicant no. 2 under Sections 313 and 377 IPC have been dropped as no evidence has been gathered against the applicant in that regard. Applicant has no criminal history. It is not disputed by the learned counsel for the complainant as well as learned A.G.A. that applicant no. 2 is cooperating in the investigation. Applicant no. 2 has not been arrested during the investigation.

13. Accordingly, the present anticipatory bail application is allowed.

14. In the event of arrest, the applicant no. 2- Vijay Gupta @ Vijay Kumar Gupta involved in the aforesaid case, shall be released on anticipatory bail on furnishing a personal bond with two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions:-

(i) That the accused-applicant no. 2 shall not leave India during pendency of the investigation/trial without prior permission from the concerned Court and shall also surrender his passport, if any, before the concerned Court forthwith;

(ii) That the accused-applicant no. 2 shall not, directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the court or to any police officer; and

(iii) The applicant no. 2 shall file an undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek any adjournment on the dates fixed for evidence and the witnesses are present in court. In case of default of this condition, it shall be open for the trial court to treat it as abuse of liberty of bail and pass orders in accordance with law.

(iv) The applicant no. 2 shall remain present before the trial court on each date fixed, either personally or through his counsel. In case of his absence, without sufficient cause, the trial court may proceed against him under Section 229-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(v) In case, the applicant no. 2 misuses the liberty of bail and in order to secure his presence proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is issued and the applicant fails to appear before the court on the date fixed in such proclamation, then, the trial court shall initiate proceedings against him, in accordance with law, under Section 174-A of the Indian Penal Code.

(vi) The applicant no. 2 shall remain present, in person, before the trial court on the dates fixed for (i) opening of the case, (ii) framing of charge and (iii) recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. If in the opinion of the trial court default of this condition is deliberate or without sufficient cause, then it shall be open for the trial court to treat such default as abuse of liberty of his bail and proceed against him in accordance with law.

A. Arbitration Law – Appointment of arbitrator - Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - Section 11(6) & 15(2) - Procedure after termination of mandate for appointment of the substitute arbitrator - The parties are free to choose and save the purpose of arbitration clause by their own conduct failing which the judicial forum for appointment of arbitrator once resorted to assumes certainty and the substitute arbitrator is to be appointed by the same forum so as to avoid adjudicatory delays and that is why the special mechanism is recognised by law. The Court may explore an opportunity of mutual consent at the very first opportunity which in the event of failure, as is the case at hand, leads to the above interpretation. (Para 19)

The extinguishment of the right of parties as per agreement except for invoking the jurisdiction of the Court, recognising statutory waiver on principle, must be the rule for appointment of the substitute arbitrator. In the case at hand, the Court did offer an opportunity of mutual consent to the parties once again but was of no avail. The shortened course restricting the parties not to undergo the agreed independent procedure tending to delay, is the purpose of procedural brevity embodied u/s 15(2) of the Act. (Para 20)

In present case, mutual conduct of the parties by subscribing to the proceedings of arbitration under the judicial order passed by this Court on 12.7.2002 has attained certainty, therefore, the procedure under S. 15(2) would be referable to the same procedure as was involved to serve the purpose of arbitration clause at the initial stage. The option vested in the parties to constitute the arbitration tribunal through ICA stood exhausted and became obsolete after passing of the order by this Court on 12.7.2002, therefore, the record of pending proceedings deserves to be retrieved by this Court and transferred to the Tribunal of the sole arbitrator constituted as per law. (Para 17)

B. The failure of parties to constitute the Tribunal once experienced would extinguish the right embodied in the agreement and confer an exclusive jurisdiction upon the court to appoint substitute arbitrator as and when the situation arises. There may be a situation where the parties at the initial stage invoke the arbitration clause successfully and the same procedure may fail at the time of the appointment of substitute arbitrator. Even in such a situation, the jurisdiction u/s 11 of the Act, nevertheless, remains open. (Para 21)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Attau Rahman Masoodi, J.)

1. Heard Shri B.K. Saxena learned counsel and Sri O.P. Srivastava learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Anurag Verma learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri D.K. Srivastava learned counsel who has put in appearance on behalf of the respondent no. 1.

2. Attaching primacy to the domain of parties for constitution of the Arbitral Tribunal, this Court passed an order on 6.8.2021, which reads as under:

"Heard Sri.O.P. Srivastava, learned senior counsel and Sri B.K.Saxena, learned counsel assisted by Sri Anurag Verma learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Dhirendra Kumar Srivastav, learned counsel for the opposite parties.

There is a hope of some mutual agreement insofar as the appointment of the arbitrator in the present case is concerned.

List this case on 11.08.2021 in terms of the order already passed."

3. The hope ultimately failed. The arbitration clause contained in the agreement giving rise to the dispute reads as under:

"All disputes or differences whatever arising between the parties out of or relating to the construction, meaning and operation or effect of this agreement or the breach thereof shall be settled by arbitration in accordance with the rules of arbitration of the Indian Council of Arbitration and the award in pursuance thereof shall be binding on the parties. The award will be speaking order."

4. At the time when dispute within the scope of agreement arose in the year 2002, the opposite party no. 1 approached this Court under Section 11 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 for appointment of the arbitrator. The application so filed registered as Arbitration Application No. 7 of 2002 was disposed of by order dated 12.7.2002 reproduced as under:

"Hon'ble Mr. M.M. Dutt, a retired Judge of the Supreme Court of India, is appointed sole Arbitrator under Section 11(5) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. The Arbitrator shall be paid Rupees 15,000/- per sitting to be borne by the parties equally."

5. It is pursuant to this order that both the parties subscribed to the arbitral proceedings before the Tribunal of sole Arbitrator until his demise on 15.7.2009.

6. Parties concede to the extent that a claim was raised before the Arbitral Tribunal by the opposite party no. 1 to which a written statement was also filed by the petitioners. It is also admitted to both the parties that as many as 104 sittings of the sole Arbitrator took place, however, the stage to which the proceedings progressed is not clearly stated in the present application or the objections filed by the opposite party. The proceedings before the Arbitral Tribunal of sole Arbitrator also remained unquestioned by either of the parties.

7. The present petition instituted in 2019 under Section 11(6) read with Section 15(2) of the Act has come up for hearing after about eleven years of the termination of mandate. An exhaustive exercise of correspondence prior to the filing of this application seems to have taken place between the parties but of no consequence.

8. The factual position that emerges from the averments made in the application and the counter affidavit filed in response thereto is that prior to filing of the present application, the petitioners seem to have constituted the Arbitral Tribunal of sole Arbitrator by appointing one Rajesh Saha, General Manager(F&A), FCI on 20.12.2017 but the opposite party no. 1 for the reasons best known did not subscribe to the proceedings.

9. The opposite party no. 1 instead chose to proceed in accordance with the agreement by making an application on 1.10.2017 to the Indian Council of Arbitration (ICA) pursuant to which the Arbitral Tribunal of three members was constituted notwithstanding the objection raised by the petitioners as to the procedure. According to the petitioners, the appointment of substitute arbitrator would not be legitimate unless he is appointed in the same manner in which the Tribunal as a result of the conduct of the parties, was appointed at the initial stage. It is urged that the parties of their own volition rendered the mutually agreed procedure obsolete and the rights once waived would not revive contrary to the mandate of Section 15(2) of the Act.

10. Section 15(2) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act is extracted below:

"15. Termination of mandate and substitution of arbitrator-.(1) .....

(2) Where the mandate of an arbitrator terminates, a substitute arbitrator shall be appointed according to the rules that were applicable to the appointment of the arbitrator being replaced."

11. Admittedly the Arbitral Tribunal of sole arbitrator at the initial stage was constituted under Section 11 of the Act. The procedure for appointment of substitute arbitrator on termination of mandate is traceable to Section 15(2) of the Act. The mechanism for appointment of the arbitrator being replaced thus assumes significance for lawful adjudication of the pending proceeding.

12. The Arbitral Tribunal constituted by Indian Council of Arbitration in the meantime passed an order on 18.2.2019 and the same is reproduced below:

"This is an arbitration which has been pending for almost 18 years now. Late Justice M.M.Dutt Former Judge of the supreme Court of India was appointed as an arbitrator by the Hon'ble Allahabad High Court on 12th July 2002 in arbitration application no.7 of 2002. We are told that Justice Dutt commenced the arbitration proceedings after his aforesaid appointments and held 104 sittings till his demise. We are told he passed away long back. In the aforesaid background, as contended by the Ld. Counsel for the Claimant, there being an arbitration clause in the contract between the parties which clothes ICA with the jurisdiction to appoint the arbitrator, in exercise of the said jurisdiction the ICA has constituted the present Arbitral Tribunal. We are also told that in this case after the completion of the pleadings in all respects, framing of issues and filing of evidence affidavits of both the including the recording of depositions in the Tribunal of the witnesses whose evidence affidavits had been filed, arguments at the final stage of hearing were addressed by the Counsel for both the parties but unfortunately due to his failing health and ultimate demise, the proceedings could not be concluded and Award Could not be passed.

In the aforesaid background, this arbitration case has now been referred to this Tribunal.

Today, the Ld. Counsel for the Claimant has filed the copies of the following:

1. Statement of Claim;

2. Counter Claim of the Respondent, which includes the Statement of Defence as well as the Counter claim

3. Rejoinder of the Claimant

4. Evidence affidavit of the witness No. 1 of the Claimant;

5. Evidence affidavit of the witness No. 2 of the Claimant

6. Evidence affidavit of one witness of the Respondent;

7. Minutes of the meetings (Vol.1)

8. Minutes of the meetings (Vol.2)

Copies of the aforesaid 8 volumes have been handed over today to the three members of the arbitral tribunal as well as to Sh. M .L. Sharma, Ld. Counsel for the Respondent. Since Sh. M.L. Sharma contends that he has been engaged only today and is not at all aware about the facts of the case or its background, he would need reasonably sufficient time to check up with is clients and revert on the next date.

Copies of the aforesaid 8 volumes have been handed over today to the three members of the arbitral tribunal as well as to Sh. M.L. Sharma,Ld Counsel for the Respondent. Since Sh. M.L. Sharma contends that he has been engaged only today and is not at all aware about the facts of the case or its background, he would need reasonably sufficient time to check up with his clients and revert on the next date.

We expect the Respondent to sincerely and faithfully report to us on the next date about the following:

1. Whether the copies of the aforesaid 8 volumes filed today by the Claimant are correct;

2. Whether in addition to the aforesaid, the Respondent is in possession of any additional documents which have not been filed by the Claimant today and which are relevant for the disposal of this case. If Respondent indeed finds that there are such documents, it shall be filing the copies thereof on the next date;

3. We expect both the parties to cooperate with us in the expeditious disposal of this almost two decades old arbitration case. We also expect both the parties to inform us on the next date whether they would intend to lead any evidence in addition to what was already recorded and file any additional documents or pleadings.

Mr. Sharma submitted that this arbitration is not maintainable because according to him this Tribunal has not been properly constituted. The Tribunal advised Mr. Sharma that the Respondent is at liberty to move appropriate application under the relevant provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 questioning the jurisdiction of this Tribunal. If he intends to do so, he must file such an application within three weeks from today with an advance copy to the ICA. The Claimant may file reply thereto in two weeks thereafter.

*The ne*xt date of hearing is fixed for 18th April, 2019 at 12:00 noon at the same venue."

13. The present application under Section 11(6) read with Section 15(2) of the Act came to be filed after passing of the above order on 18.2.2019 by the three member Tribunal constituted by ICA. This Court at the very initial stage has passed an interim order on 31.5.2019, whereby the proceedings before the Tribunal constitute by ICA were stayed.

14. Sri Brijesh Kumar Saxena, learned counsel for the petitioners has argued that it is a case for appointment of substitute Arbitrator in the surviving proceedings, therefore, the procedure under Section 15(2) read with Section 11(6) of the Act would be the same as was applied for appointment of the Tribunal at the first instance. The procedure for constitution of the Tribunal in accordance with the rules of ICA as embodied in the arbitration clause became obsolete with the passing of judicial order on 12.7.2002 which has remained unchallenged througout. The principle of waiver incorporated statutorily has eclipsed the option of parties to constitute the Tribunal as per agreement which would not revive at this stage when the substitute arbitrator is liable to be appointed in accordance with the procedure provided under Section 15(2) of the Act.

15. Referring to sub-section (2) of Section 15 of the Act it has been argued that the position of law is well settled under various pronouncements including the judgement of a coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Tirath Ram Sumer Kumar versus Rakesh Kumar Mishra and others reported in 2017(2) ADJ 71 which has elaborately dealt with the relevant case law applicable in this behalf.

16. Per contra, Sri D.K. Srivastava appearing for opposite party no. 1 has argued that the application filed by the petitioner is not maintainable for the reason that the petitioner has an opportunity of filing objections before the Tribunal already constituted as per the terms of the arbitration clause. It is argued that parties are not bound by the principle underlying Section 11 CPC irrespective of the fact that it was a motion on behalf of the opposite party no. 1 itself that enabled the High Court to step in under Section 11 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. Hence, the initial constitution of the tribunal by order dated 12.7.2002 does not bind the parties on their mere participation to follow a procedure other than the one as provided in the arbitration clause extracted above. In support of the arguments putforth, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 1 has cited the case laws noted below.

17. Having regard to the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and on a thoughtful consideration of judicial pronouncements cited by them, this Court is of the considered opinion that the mutual conduct of the parties by subscribing to the proceedings of arbitration under the judicial order passed by this Court on 12.7.2002 has attained certainity, therefore, the procedure under Section 15(2) would be referable to the same procedure as was involved to serve the purpose of arbitration clause at the initial stage. Enough time has already gone by to revive the proceedings as per law and the parties would not capitalise any gain by prolonging the proceedings. Any further delay would be against the very spirit of the arbitration clause and this Court is duty bound to honour the mandate of law to serve the purpose. The option vested in the parties to constitute the arbitration tribunal through ICA stood exhausted and became obsolete after passing of the order by this Court on 12.7.2002, therefore, the record of pending proceedings deserves to be retrieved by this Court and transferred to the Tribunal of the sole arbitrator constituted as per law.

18. The Court may, however, note that the parties have not raised any objection against any of the members of the Tribunal constituted by ICA.

19. As to what would be the procedure after termination of mandate for appointment of the substitute arbitrator, this Court is convincingly persuaded by a meaningful interpretation of Section 15(2) of the Act by Calcutta High Court in the case reported in (2009) 2 Arb LR 625 (Ramjee Power Construction Ltd v. Damodar Valley Corporation) for the reason that the provisions of law in this regard have not undergone any substantial legislative change. This Court may reiterate that the parties are free to choose and save the purpose of arbitration clause by their own conduct failing which the judicial forum for appointment of arbitrator once resorted to assumes certainty and the substitute arbitrator is to be appointed by the same forum so as to avoid adjucatory delays and that is why the special mechanism is recognised by law. The Court may explore an opportunity of mutual consent at the very first opportunity which in the event of failure, as is the case at hand, leads to no other interpretation except what has been held in the judgement cited above. It is for this reason Section 15(2) of the Act steps in to aid the parties strengthen the essence of arbitration for settlement of disputes. The insurmountable delays must be curtailed by applying a pragmatic approach as is the object of Section 15(2) of the Act to approach the forum straight.

20. In the case at hand, the Court did offer an opportunity of mutual consent to the parties once again but of no avail. These clinical tests are discretionary which invariably prove fruitless. Therefore, the extinguishment of the right of parties as per agreement except for invoking the jurisdiction of the Court, recognising statutory waiver on principle, must be the rule for appointment of the substitute arbitrator. The shortened course restricting the parties not to undergo the agreed independent procedure tending to delay, in my humble view, is the purpose of procedural brevity embodied under Section 15(2) of the Act.

21. There may be a situation where the parties at the initial stage invoke the arbitration clause successfully and the same procedure may fail at the time of the appointment of substitute arbitrator. Even in such a situation, the jurisdiction under Section 11 of the Act, nevertheless, remains open. The failure of parties to constitute the Tribunal once experienced would extinguish the right embodied in the agreement and confer an exclusive jurisdiction upon the court to appoint substitute arbitrator as and when the situation arises.

22. In view of what has been recorded above, the present application is allowed and the Court proposes Hon'ble Mr. Justice V.K. Gupta (Retired CJ) resident of E-31, Jangpura Extension, New Delhi-110014 to be the sole arbitrator in the present case, subject to his consent in terms of Section 11(6) read with Section 12(1) of the Act on the terms and conditions of fee as per schedule. The Senior Registrar of this Court is directed to retrieve the record of the arbitration proceedings for being sent to the substitute arbitrator expeditiously and preferably within one month. The record already made available, if any, may be retained by the proposed arbitrator and apprised to the Court alongwith the consent letter. The order passed by this Court alone shall bind the parties to subscribe to the further arbitral proceedings in continuity of the arbitration commenced in furtherance of the order dated 12.7.2002 passed earlier.

23. List this case on 6.10.2021 for further orders.

Writ Tax No. 434 of 2021

M/s RM Dairy Products LLP, Sultanganj, Agra ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Nishant Mishra, Ms. Yashonidhi Shukla

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., A.S.G.I., Sri Manu Ghildyal, Sri Ashok Singh

A. Tax Law – Input Tax Credit - UP GST Act, 2017 - Sections 74, 78 & 79 - State GST Rules, 2017 - Rules 142 & 161 - State/Central Goods and Services Tax Rules, 2017: Rule 86A(1) - The Rule does not contemplate any recovery of tax due from an assessee. It only provides, in certain situations and upon certain conditions being fulfilled, specified amount may be held back and be not allowed to be utilized by the assessee towards discharge of its liabilities on the outward tax or towards refund. It creates a lien without actual recovery being made or attempted. (Para 12)

B. Words & Phrases – 'input tax available' - The words 'input tax available' used in the first part of sub-rule (1) of Rule 86-A have to be read only in the context of the infringement being alleged by the revenue, i.e. fraudulent availment or availment dehors eligibility to the same. They cannot be read as actual input tax available on the date of the order passed under that Rule. (Para 13, 14)

'available', 'has been' - The word 'available' used in the first part of sub-Rules of Rule 86-A would always relate back in time when the assessee allegedly availed input tax credit either fraudulently or which he was not eligible to avail. It does not refer to and, therefore, it does not relate to the input tax credit available on the date of Rule 86-A being invoked. The phrase "has been" used in Rule 86-A(1) leaves no manner of doubt in that regard. (Para 15)

'ineligible' - The word 'ineligible' has been clarified by means of Rule 86-A(1)(a)(i) to include a transaction performed with a registered dealer who may be found to be non-existent or to have not conducted any business etc. (Para 16)

Plain reading of the impugned order reveals that it is the revenue's allegation that M/s. Darsh Dairy & Food Products, Agra products was found to be non-existent at the disclosed place of business. (Para 16)

C. 'Reason to believe' - For a valid exercise of power, the authorized officer must have 'reasons to believe' that any credit of 'input tax available' (i.e. that was available in the electronic credit ledger of an assessee) had either been fraudulently availed or the assessee was not eligible to avail the same. (Para 13)

The correctness or otherwise or the sufficiency of the 'reason to believe' is not subject-matter of dispute in the instant proceedings. It is the relevancy of that reason to believe. Thus, at present, the 'reason to believe' is based on material with the competent authority indicating non-existence of the selling dealer. It is thus alleged the petitioner was not eligible to avail input tax credit as the seller M/s. Darsh Dairy & Food Products, Agra was a non-existent dealer. (Para 17, 18)

D. 'Not allow debit' - To 'not allow debit' and to appropriate the same are two different things in the context of the Statute. They lead to different consequences. While the first only creates a lien in favour of the revenue by blocking utilization of that amount, appropriation of an amount would necessarily involve transfer of title over the money with the revenue. Plainly, the Rule does not contemplate or speak of such a consequence. (Para 19, 22)

Adjustment or appropriation may arise only upon an adjudication order attaining finality or after lapse of three months from the date of it being passed if there is no stay granted in appeal etc. that too as a consequence of the recovery provisions but not under Rule 86-A of the Rules. (Para 23)

E. The provision of Rule 86-A is not a recovery provision but only a provision to secure the interest of revenue, to be exercised upon the fulfillment of the conditions. (Para 24)

Words 'such credit' do not refer only to any existing amount of positive credit in the electronic credit ledger or that it must be credit arising from the same seller. (Para 20)

If there is no positive credit standing in the electronic credit ledger on the date of the order passed u/Rule 86-A, that order would be read to create a lien upto limit specified in the order passed as per Rule 86-A of the Rules. As and when the credit entries arise, the lien would attach to those credit entries upto the limit set by the order passed u/Rule 86-A of the Rules. The debit entry recorded in the electronic credit ledger would be read accordingly. However, the same shall not be adjusted in favour of the revenue except in accordance with law. Any further credit that may arise over and above that amount would be allowed to be utilized without objection by the revenue. (Para 21, 25, 26)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Present petition assails order dated 25.06.2021.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Naheed Ara Moonis, J.
Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Nishant Mishra along with Ms. Yashonidhi Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Manu Ghildyal, learned counsel representing respondent nos. 1 to 3 and Mr. Ashok Singh, learned counsel for respondent no.4.

2. The present writ petition has been filed against the order dated 25.06.2021 passed by respondent no.3 under Rule 86A(1)(a)(i) of the State/Central Goods and Services Tax Rules, 2017 (hereinafter referred as the "Rules").

3. Four fold submissions have been advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner. First, relying on Rule 86A (1) of the Rules, it has been submitted that the respondents had no jurisdiction or authority to block any input tax credit over and above any amount that may have been actually available on the date of the order (in this case 25.6.2021).

4. Second, it has been submitted that Rule 86A of the Rules obliges the respondents to record a positive 'reason to believe' that credit of input tax had been fraudulently availed by the petitioner or the petitioner was wholly ineligible to avail the same. Inasmuch as the petitioner had not committed any fraud and it was otherwise eligible to avail the input tax credit, the action taken by the respondents is wholly without jurisdiction.

5. Third, it has been submitted that the input tax credit in dispute arose on account of the purchases made by the petitioner from M/s Darsh Dairy & Food Products, Agra with respect to which, adjudication proceedings are underway against the petitioner in accordance with Section 74 of the UP GST Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as the Act). Till those proceedings are concluded, no amount would become recoverable from the petitioner and, therefore, the impugned order passed by respondent no.3 under Rule 86A is wholly premature. In that context, it has also been submitted that Section 78 of the Act provides the manner and mode of recovery. An amount may be recovered only after lapse of three months time from the date of service of the adjudication order. Since the adjudication proceedings are still pending, it has been submitted, the impugned order is wholly premature and without basis.

6. Last, it has been submitted the Act clearly provides for the manner in which an amount may be determined to be due and recoverable from the petitioner. No other procedure may be adopted, as it would violate the settled principle of law, if the legislature requires an act to be done in a particular manner, it must be done in that manner or not at all.

7. The writ petition has been vehemently opposed by learned counsel for the revenue.

8. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, plainly, there can be no dispute that the Act prescribes the manner for determination of any tax not paid or short paid. Section 74 of the Act provides for determination of input tax credit wrongly availed or utilized by reason of fraudetc through the process of adjudication. Section 78 of the Act further mandates that any amount that may be determined under Section 74 of the Act may not be recovered for a period of three months from the date of service of the adjudication order.

9. Here, it may be seen that the recovery provision are contained in Section 79 and the enabling Rules. The recovery Rules fall under Chapter XVIII of the State GST Rules 2017 being Rules 142 to 161. On the other hand, Rule 86-A falls under the Chapter heading IX of the Rules regarding payment of tax.

10. Besides the Chapter heading being different, we may record that it is not that difference that prevails in our mind. It is the ambit and purpose of the Rule 86A that appears to be inherently different and independent of the recovery provisions. For that reason we are not inclined to accept the contentions advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

11. Rule 86-A of the Rules reads as below:

"86A. (1) The Commissioner or an officer authorised by him in this behalf, not below the rank of an Assistant Commissioner, having reasons to believe that credit of input tax available in the electronic credit ledger has been fraudulently availed or is ineligible in as much as-

a) the credit of input tax has been availed on the strength of tax invoices or debit notes or any other document prescribed under rule 36-

(i) issued by a registered person who has been found non-existent or not to be conducting any business from any place for which registration has been obtained; or

(ii) without receipt of goods or services or both; or

b) the credit of input tax has been availed on the strength of tax invoices or debit notes or any other document prescribed under rule 36 in respect of any supply, the tax charged in respect of which has not been paid to the Government; or

c) the registered person availing the credit of input tax has been found non-existent or not to be conducting any business from any place for which registration has been obtained; or

d) the registered person availing any credit of input tax is not in possession of a tax invoice or debit note or any other document prescribed under rule 36,

may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, not allow debit of an amount equivalent to such credit in electronic credit ledger for discharge of any liability under section 49 or for claim of any refund of any unutilised amount.

(2) The Commissioner, or the officer authorised by him under sub-rule (1) may, upon being satisfied that conditions for disallowing debit of electronic credit ledger as above, no longer exist, allow such debit.

(3) Such restriction shall cease to have effect after the expiry of a period of one year from the date of imposing such restriction."

12. Plainly, the Rule does not contemplate any recovery of tax due from an assessee. It only provides, in certain situations and upon certain conditions being fulfilled, specified amount may be held back and be not allowed to be utilized by the assessee towards discharge of its liabilities on the outward tax or towards refund. It creates a lien without actual recovery being made or attempted.

13. The words 'input tax available' used in the first part of sub-rule (1) of Rule 86-A cannot be read as actual input tax available on the date of the order passed under that Rule.Those words are relevant for the purpose of laying down the first condition for the exercise of power by the Commissioner or the authorized officer. Thus, for a valid exercise of power, the authorized officer must have 'reasons to believe' that any credit of 'input tax available' (i.e. that was available in the electronic credit ledger of an assessee) had either been fraudulently availed or the assessee was not eligible to avail the same.

14. The words 'input tax available' have to be read only in the context of the infringement being alleged by the revenue. i.e. fraudulent availment or availment dehors eligibility to the same. Consequently, if an assessee is found to have either fraudulently availed or to have availed such 'input tax credit' that he was ineligible to avail, he may expose himself to action under the Rule, in future, when such an event may come to the knowledge of the authorized officer, subject of course to the rule of limitation.

15. Thus the word 'available' used in the first part of sub-Rules of Rule 86-A would always relate back in time when the assessee allegedly availed input tax credit either fraudulently or which he was not eligible to avail. It does not refer to and, therefore, it does not relate to the input tax credit available on the date of Rule 86-A being invoked. The word "has been" used in Rule 86-A (1) leave no manner of doubt in that regard.

16. Prima facie, in the facts of the present case, the revenue alleges fraudulent utilization of input tax credit.Even otherwise, what may fall within the ambit of the word 'ineligible' has been clarified by means of Rule 86-A (1)(a)(i) to include a transaction performed with a registered dealer who may be found to be non-existent or to have not conducted any business etc. Plain reading of the impugned order reveals that it is the revenue's allegation that M/s Darsh Dairy & Food Products, Agra products was found to be non-existent at the disclosed place of business.

17. The recital of that 'reason to believe', is contained in the impugned order. The correctness or otherwise or the sufficiency of the 'reason to believe' is not subject matter of dispute in the instant proceedings. It is the relevancy of that reason to believe with which we are in agreement with Mr. Ghildiyal. Thus, at present, the 'reason to believe' is based on material with the competent authority indicating non-existence of the selling dealer. It is thus alleged the petitioner was not eligible to avail input tax credit as the seller M/s Darsh Dairy & Food Products, Agra was a non-existent dealer.

18. In such facts, purely on a prima facie basis and leaving it open to the adjudicating authority to draw its own final conclusion in that regard, for the purpose of the present writ petition, it cannot be denied that, at present, their exist 'reason to believe' with the revenue authorities that the assessee had fraudulently availed or was ineligible to avail 'input tax credit' with respect to which the impugned order has been passed.

19. As to the third submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, the provision of Rule 86-A is not a recovery provision. In fact, it does not allow the revenue to reverse or appropriate any part of the credit existing in the electronic credit ledger of an assessee or to adjust that credit againstany outstanding demand or likely demand. It is at most a provision to secure the interest of revenue, to be exercised in the presence of the relevant 'reasons to believe', as recorded.

20. The Rule only enables the authorized officer to not allow debit of an amount equivalent to 'such credit'. The submission of Shri Mishra that the words 'such credit' refers only to any existing amount of positive credit in the electronic credit ledger or that it must be credit arising from the same seller, cannot be accepted as that intent is clearly non-existing in the Rule.

21. The operative portion of sub-rule (1) of Rule 86-A limits the exercise of power (by the authorized officer), to the amount that would be sufficient to cover the input tax that, according to the revenue, had either been fraudulently availed or to which the assessee was not eligible. It is an amount equal to that amount which has to be kept unutilised.

22. To that effect, the legislature has chosen the words 'not allow debit'. To not allow debit and to appropriate the same are two different things in the context of the Statute. They lead to different consequences. While the first only creates a lien in favour of the revenue by blocking utilization of that amount, appropriation of an amount would necessarily involve transfer of title over the money with the revenue. Plainly, the Rule does not contemplate or speak of such a consequence.

23. Thus, if the petitioner was to earn any further input tax credit in its electronic credit ledger upto the tune of Rs.7,06,66,700.00/-, the same would be retained by way of a lien in favour of the revenue, so however, that the revenue may not appropriate it under that Rule. Adjustment or appropriation may arise only upon an adjudication order attaining finality or after lapse of three months from the date of it being passed if there is no stay granted in appeal etc. that too as a consequence of the recovery provisions but not under Rule 86-A of the Rules.

24. Since, according to us, the provision of Rule 86-A is not a recovery provision but only a provision to secure the interest of revenue and not a recovery provision, to be exercised upon the fulfillment of the conditions, as we have discussed above, we are not inclined to accept the further submission advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner that there is any violation of the principle when a legislative enactment requires an act to be performed in a particular way it may be done in that manner or not at all.

25. It also stands to reason, if there is no positive credit standing in the electronic credit ledger on the date of the order, passed under Rule 86-A, that order would be read to create a lien upto limit specified in the order passed as per Rule 86-A of the Rules. As and when the credit entries arise, the lien would attach to those credit entries upto the limit set by the order passed under Rule 86-A of the Rules. The debit entry recorded in the electronic credit ledger would be read accordingly.

26. Therefore should the assessee earn further credit of 'input tax' the revenue would be entitled to a lien upto the limit of Rs.7,06,66,700.00/-. However, the same shall not be adjusted in favour of the revenue except in accordance with law, as discussed above. Any further credit that may arise over and above that amount would be allowed to be utilized without objection by the revenue.

27. Writ petition is dismissed. No order as to costs.

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Recruitment - Uttar Pradesh Police Constable and Head Constable Service Rules, 2015 - Rule 15(g) - Scope of Interference - Unless and until the candidate demonstrates by placing genuine and authentic material that the opinion of the Medical Board or Review Medical Board is erroneous or capricious or vague and smacks of mala fide, the Court should refrain from interfering with the opinion of Medical Board and Review Medical Board which is a body constituted of experts to assess the fitness of candidate as per the norms and standards prescribed in respect of fitness of a candidate who is supposed to work in the police force. Opinion of the Medical Board is to be given due weight, credence, and value. (Para 26, 27, 33)

This Court has power u/Article 226 of the Constitution of India to interfere with the opinion of the Medical Board or Review Medical Board, but such power has to be exercised cautiously and sparingly in exceptional circumstances only in a given case where it is demonstrated that the opinion of the Medical Board or Review is palpably erroneous. (Para 34)

In the present case, it is not in dispute that the petitioner has been found medically unfit by the Medical Board constituted by the Appointing Authority. The petitioner, thereafter, submitted representation against his rejection by the Medical Board, and the petitioner was sent for the re-medical examination before the Review Medical Board. The Review Medical Board also concurred with the opinion of the Medical Board. (Para 28)

There is no pleading in the writ petition as to how the reports of two doctors procured by the petitioner are authentic and correct to create a doubt about the opinion of the Medical Board and Review Medical Board declaring the petitioner medically unfit. (Para 29, 35)

If the report of the private doctor or from any Government Hospital is relied upon to doubt the veracity of the opinion of the Medical Board, then that would derail the selection process, and if such process is allowed to be continued, it would be very difficult for the recruiting body to bring the selection process to the logical end. 4. Diwakar Paswan Vs St. of U.P. & ors., (2021) ILR 2All 192 (Para 14, 27)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri R.S. Umrao, learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. The petitioner by means of the present writ petition has prayed for a writ of mandamus commanding respondents to conduct his re-medical examination for the post of Constable in Uttar Pradesh Police/Constable, Civil Police, and Constable P.A.C. Direct Recruitment-2018.

3. The brief facts of the case are that a notification dated 16.11.2018 was published by the U.P. Recruitment and Promotion Board, Lucknow inviting applications for recruitment of 49,568 posts for U.P. Police/Constable, Civil Police and Constable, P.A.C. Direct Recruitment-2018.

4. Pursuant to the aforesaid advertisement, the petitioner submitted an online application for being considered for appointment on the post of Constable in U.P. Police. The petitioner was called to appear in the physical efficiency test for the post of Constable in U.P. Police at 8th Batallion P.A.C., Bareilly in which he was found fit.

5. Thereafter, the documents of the petitioner relating to his qualification were checked and verified by the Recruitment Board. Subsequently, the petitioner was called for medical examination on 12.03.2021 at Police Lines by Senior Superintendent of Police, Etah. The petitioner appeared before the Medical Board on 12.03.2021 and was found unfit due to impaired ears.

6. Against the report of the Medical Board, the petitioner submitted a representation for a re-medical examination. The petitioner presented himself for a re-medical examination in which he was again found unfit due to dysfunctional ears. After the result of the re-medical examination, the petitioner got his ears checked by one Dr. Ashwani Kumar ENT Specialist, and according to his report dated 21.03.2021, the ears of the petitioner are fine, copy of the said report is annexed as Annexure 9 to the writ petition.

7. The petitioner also filed a prescription issued by Government District Hospital, Etah to demonstrate that his ears are fine. The prescription issued by Government District Hospital, Etah states that there is no dysfunction in the petitioner's ear.

8. Relying upon the aforesaid two medical reports issued by Dr. Ashwani Kumar and Government District Hospital, Etah, the petitioner has stated that the Medical Board did not examine him properly and he was wrongly declared unfit.

9. In the aforesaid backdrop, he has prayed for a writ of mandamus commanding respondents to conduct the re-medical examination.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner has contended that two medical reports issued by Dr. Ashwani Kumar ENT Specialist and medical report of Government District Hospital, Etah suggest that there is no dysfunction in the ears of the petitioner. Accordingly, he submits that the petitioner has been illegally declared medically unfit. The petitioner in support of his case has relied upon an interim order dated 23.07.2021 in Writ-A No.6681 of 2021. Accordingly, he prays for parity of the interim order dated 23.07.2021 in Writ-A No.6681 of 2021. Thus, he submits that action of the respondents in declaring the petitioner medically unfit is arbitrary and amounts to deny an opportunity of employment to the petitioner illegally.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in Special Appeal Defective No.639 of 2020 to contend that in the said appeal, identical interim order which has been passed in Writ-A No.1680 of 2020 was assailed, and this Court dismissed the Special Appeal. Thus, he submits that it is a fit case where the Court should command respondents to conduct the re-medical examination of the petitioner.

12. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel would contend that the Medical Board is a body consisting of experts, and keeping in view the need and requirement of the police force about the physical fitness of a candidate, certain parameters have been laid down within which doctors of the Medical Board conduct the medical examination of a candidate and determine as to whether the candidate is medically fit or not. He submits that unless it is pointed out that Medical Board has conducted the medical examination of the petitioner malafidely or capriciously with an intent that the candidate does not get selected, the Court should refrain from supplanting its opinion over the report of the Medical Board.

13. He contends that in the present case, the petitioner has been found medically unfit by the Medical Board and also on re-medical examination by the Review Medical Board, and there is nothing on record to demonstrate that medical examination, as well as review medical examination of the petitioner conducted by the Medical Board, smacks of malafide with a motive to keep the petitioner out of selection. Accordingly, he submits that the writ petition lacks merit and deserves to be dismissed.

14. He submits that the report of Dr. Ashwani Kumar, ENT Specialist and Government District Hospital, Etah cannot be relied upon in the absence of proof of its authenticity, and further perusal of the two medical reports do not disclose the procedure which had been adopted by the two doctors in examining the petitioner and concluding that the petitioner's ears are fine. In support of his aforesaid contentions, he has placed reliance upon the following judgments of this Court:-

(i). Vivek Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and Others 2020 ADJ Online 0073;

(ii). Union of India and Others Vs. Parul Punia 2016 (2) ADJ 14;

(iii). Md. Arshad Khan Vs. The State of U.P. Through Additional Chief Secretary, Principal Secretary, Home and Others 2020 (9) ADJ 457;

iv. Diwakar Paswan Vs. State of U.P. and Others 2021 (0) Supreme (All) 47.

15. I have considered the rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

16. Before dealing with the contention advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner, it would be apt to refer to Rule 15 (g) of Uttar Pradesh Police Constable and Head Constable Services Rules, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as 'Rules, 2015') and Appendix 3 which are being extracted herein-below:-

"15. Procedure for Direct Recruitment to the post of Constable.-

(g) Medical Examination.-The candidates whose name are in the select list sent as per clause (e), will be required to appear for Medical Examination by the Appointing authority. Medical Examination will be conducted in the Police Line of the concerned District or at the place mentioned by the Appointing authority. Medical Examination will be conducted as per Appendix 3. The candidates found unsuccessful in Medical Examination shall be declared unfit by the Appointing authority and such vacancies shall be carried forward for next selection."

"APPENDIX 3

[See Rule 15g]

Medical Examination for direct recruitment

The Appointing authority will request the Chief Medical Officer of the concerned District to constitute Medical Board for conducting Medical Examination. The Medical Board will consist of three Doctors, who will conduct Medical Examination as per "Police Recruitment Medical Examination Forms" as prescribed and codified by Head of Department in consultation with Director General of Medical Health. This form will be available on U.P. Police website and also displayed at the place of Medical Examination. Medical Board may take services of any expert as per requirements.

(1) The doctors will examine the candidates in accordance with the Medical Manual, if any, and announce the result on the day of the Medical Examination.

(2) The result of the Medical Examination will be displayed on the notice board outside the premises at the end of the day.

(3) Any candidate not satisfied by his Medical Examination, may file an appeal on the day of examination itself. Any appeal in regard to Medical Examination will not be considered if the candidate fails to file appeal on the date of Medical Examination and declaration of its result itself. The appeal should be disposed of by the Medical Board, constituted for the same purpose within two weeks of the appeal being filed. The Medical Board constituted for appeal shall have expert regarding Medical deficiency of the applicant.

(4) The members of the Medical Board who are found to give wrong report wilfully will be liable for criminal proceedings.

(5) The Medical Examination is only qualifying in nature and it has no effect on the merit list.

Note.- The Medical Board will examine the candidates and their deficiencies such as knock knee, bow legs, flat feet, varicose veins, distant and near vision, colour blindness, hearing test comprising of Rinne's Test, Webber's Test and tests for vertigo etc. as notified by the government from time to time. The Medical Board may get conducted other examinations after obtaining opinion of experts.".

17. According to Rule 15(g) of the Rules, 2015, a candidate is required to undergo medical examination for ascertaining whether the candidate is medically fit for the post of Constable. The said rule provides that medical examination will be conducted as per Appendix 3.

18. A reading of Appendix 3, extracted above, discloses that the appointing authority will request the Chief Medical Officer of the concerned District to constitute Medical Board for conducting the medical examination. The Medical Board will consist of three doctors, who will conduct medical examination as per "Police Recruitment Medical Examination Forms" as prescribed and codified by the Head of Department in consultation with Director General of Medical Health.

19. Paragraph 1 of Appendix 3 further stipulates that doctors will examine the candidates in accordance with the Medical Manual, if any, and announce the result on the same day.

20. Paragraph 4 of Appendix 3 provides that members of the Medical Board who are found to give wrong report willfully will be liable for criminal proceedings.

21. A reading of Rule 15(g) of Rules, 2015 read with Appendix 3 discloses that the procedure for medical examination has been provided in Appendix 3 and according to which, Medical Board shall consist of three doctors constituted by the Chief Medical Officer of the concerned district. The medical examination of a candidate is to be conducted as per the medical manual, and if any member of the Medical Board is found to have given wrong report willfully, he/she will be liable for criminal proceedings.

22. Thus, it can be safely culled out that legislature has taken every care in constituting the Medical Board to conduct medical examination of a candidate fairly and without any bias. It is apt to notice that paragraph 4 of Appendix 3 provides that if members of the Medical Board give wrong report wilfully, they will be liable for criminal prosecution.

23. At this point, it would be apposite to consider when this court can interfere with the opinion of the Medical Board and Review Medical Board in the exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

24. In the case of Parul Punia (supra), this Court has set aside the judgment of Single Judge whereby learned Single Judge has allowed the writ petition of a candidate holding that respondent was wrongly disqualified in the medical examination by the appellant. In this respect, paragraphs 6, 9 & 10 of the said judgment are being extracted herein below:-

"6. The first reason which weighed with the learned Single Judge was that the representation had been rejected in a 'casual manner without assigning convincing reasons' in support of the order. This reading of the learned Single Judge of the order disposing of the representation is not correct. The Chief Security Commissioner in his order dated 8 June 2015 recorded that once the respondent had been found not to meet the prescribed norms in the course of the medical examination and was categorized in category B-1, her name could not be included in the select list. This cannot in our view be regarded as an order which has been passed in a casual manner and without convincing reasons. The second reason which weighed with the learned Single Judge was that the respondent had produced a report of a Doctor from the All India Institute of Medical Sciences, Dr Rajendra Prasad. Without casting aspersions on the expertise of the Doctor whose report was produced by the respondent, we must emphasize the inherent danger in the Court following such a line of inquiry. In a number of such cases, candidates who have been invalidated on medical grounds produce expert opinions of their own to cast doubt on the credibility of the official medical report constituted by the recruiting body. In such cases, the Court may not have any means of verifying the actual identity of the person who was examined in the course of the medical examination by the Doctor whose report is relied upon by the candidate. Hence, even though the authority whose medical report was produced by the candidate may be an expert, the basic issue as to whether the identity of the candidate who was examined, matches the identity of the person who has applied for the post is a serious issue which cannot be ignored. The third reason which weighed with the learned Single Judge in passing the interim order was that in a judgment of a Division Bench dated 21 November 2007 (Arvind Kumar Sonkar vs. State of U.P. and Ors.)3, such a course of action had been followed of having the candidate examined by a substitute Board. What the learned Single Judge while passing the interim order failed to notice was the fact that the order dated 21 November 2007 of the Division Bench was passed by consent. In that case, a learned Single Judge had directed the authorities to get the petitioners examined by a special medical Board. The petitioners had challenged an order of termination which had been passed on the ground that they had failed to fulfill the minimum eligibility requirement for the post of constables. When the appeal filed by the constables came up for hearing before the Division Bench, the order of the learned Single Judge was modified by consent so as to provide for separate Boards, one for the purpose of an eye test and the other for a physical test. The Boards were to consist of a Doctor each from a Government Hospital, Sanjay Gandhi Post Graduate Institute and KGMC. This order which was passed by consent would therefore not be of precedential value. Hence, the considerations which weighed with the learned Single Judge in issuing an interim direction of 16 September 2015 would not sustain such an order being passed.

9. We also note that by the interim order of the learned Single Judge dated 16 September 2015, the Principal, KGMC was required to inform the Inspector General-cum-Chief Security Commissioner of the Railway Protection Force who could depute an officer to be present at the time of examination. The grievance of the appellants is that no such communication was issued by the Principal, KGMC to the Chief Security Commissioner and hence, no representative could be even deputed for the purpose of verifying the identity of the respondent. We are highlighting this aspect to emphasize the danger when the Court takes upon itself the process of reassessing findings which are contained in the medical examination conducted in the course of the recruitment process. Undoubtedly, in a suitable case, the powers of the Court under Article 226 are wide enough to comprehend the issuance of appropriate directions but such powers have to be wielded with caution and circumspection. Matters relating to the medical evaluation of candidates in the recruitment process involve expert determination. The Court should be cautious in supplanting the process adopted by the recruiting agency and substituting it by a Court mandated medical evaluation. In the present case the proper course would have been to permit an evaluation of the medical fitness of the respondent by a review medical board provided by the appellants. Otherwise, the recruitment process can be derailed if such requests of candidates who are not found to be medically fit for reassessment on the basis of procedures other than those which are envisaged by the recruiting authority are allowed. This would ordinarily be impermissible.

10. For these reasons, we are of the view that the line of approach which was followed at the interlocutory stage by the learned Single Judge while passing the interim order dated 15 September 2015 and which ultimately merged in and formed the basis of the final direction dated 26 November 2015 is unsustainable.

25. This Court in the case of Vivek Kumar (supra) held that subsequent medical examination reports submitted by a candidate will not override or set at naught the opinion of the medical board. Paragraphs 7, 8, 11 & 12 of the said judgment are being extracted herein below:-

"7. The scope of interference in matters relating to assessment of fitness by a Medical Board constituted under the statutory rules in exercise of powers under writ jurisdiction, in our opinion, would be extremely limited.

8. The Courts have, time and again, emphasised the need for caution when candidates seek to assail the correctness of the findings of a Medical Board constituted under a recruitment process adopted by the State authorities, on the basis of some medical report obtained by them.

11. In a case where a recruitment process has been carried out as per prescribed statutory rules whereunder a procedure has been prescribed for testing the medical fitness of candidates by a duly constituted Medical Board, the report of the Medical Board is not to be normally interfered with, and that too, solely on the basis of a claim sought to be set up by a candidate on the basis of some subsequent report(s) procured by him from a private practitioner(s).

12. It is not the case of the petitioner that the decision of the Medical Board was arbitrary, capricious or not in accordance with the procedure under the relevant statutory recruitment rules."

26. In the case of Md. Arshad Khan (supra), this Court placing reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the case of Vivek Kumar (supra) dismissed the appeal holding that in the absence of any material on record to suggest that the opinion of the Medical Board or Appellate Medical Board in any manner is casual, inchoate, perfunctory or vague, the report of Medical Board and Appellate Medical Board are not to be interfered with. It is further held that the opinion of the Medical Board is to be given due weight, credence, and value.

27. In the case of Diwakar Paswan (supra) this Court held that the opinion of the Medical Board and experts should not be lightly interfered with unless it is shown to be contrary to the standards prescribed or smacks of malafide. Paragraphs 8 & 9 of the said judgment are being extracted herein below:-

"8. It becomes pertinent to note that the opinions formed by the Medical and Review Boards have not been assailed by the petitioner on the ground of mala fides. A review of those decisions is sought solely on the basis of a contrary opinion rendered by a doctor of a government hospital. Permitting a reopening of a medical examination conducted by the respondents solely on that basis would set a dangerous precedent especially when the Court by virtue of its inherent limitations would be wholly unequipped to undertake a comparative analysis or evaluation of competing medical opinions. Medical fitness is a subject best left for determination by experts and should not be lightly interfered with unless it be shown to be contrary to the standards prescribed or otherwise be liable to be assailed on other judicially manageable parameters.

9. Quite apart from the consistent view taken by Courts on this question regard must also be had to the fact that the medical examination in the present case was undertaken in accordance with the provisions made in the statutory rules. Those Rules confer finality upon the opinions formed by the Medical Boards subject to an appeal against the same before a Review Medical Board. Those Rules do not envisage or contemplate a challenge to those reports based upon reports and opinions privately obtained by candidates. Permitting such a course of action would not only be contrary to the Rules which apply and bind the candidate but also result in derailing the recruitment process itself."

28. Now the case of the petitioner is analyzed in the light of Rule 15(g) of Rules, 2015 read with Appendix 3 and on the anvil of principles of law propounded by this Court in the aforesaid cases. In the present case, it is not in dispute that the petitioner has been found medically unfit by the Medical Board constituted by the Appointing Authority. The petitioner, thereafter, submitted representation against his rejection by the Medical Board, and the petitioner was sent for the re-medical examination before the Review Medical Board. The Review Medical Board also concurred with the opinion of the Medical Board.

29. The material which has been placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner is the report of Dr. Ashwani Kumar, ENT Specialist, and Government District Hospital, Etah to contend that the report of the Medical Board, as well as Review Medical Board, is not correct. There is no pleading in the writ petition as to how the reports of two doctors procured by the petitioner are authentic and correct to create a doubt about the opinion of the Medical Board and Review Medical Board declaring the petitioner medically unfit.

30. At this point, it is worth mentioning that legislature has taken due care that Medical Board should conduct the medical examination fairly without any bias. To ensure fairness in the medical examination, it is provided in paragraph 4 of Appendix 3 that members of the Medical Board, if found to have given wrong reports willfully, will be liable for criminal proceedings. As the legislature has taken due care that Medical Board should conduct the medical examination of a candidate fairly, it would be unjust to doubt the veracity and authenticity of the report of the Medical Board as well as Review Medical Board declaring the petitioner medically unfit on the basis of prescription of an outside Doctor produced by the petitioner.

31 . Further, the law enunciated by this Court, as noted above, has consistently held that the opinion given by the Medical Board as well as Review Medical Board should not be taken lightly and should be given due credence and it should not be annulled or set aside on the basis of the report of some private doctor or by a government hospital obtained by a candidate from outside. If the report of the private doctor or from any Government Hospital is relied upon to doubt the veracity of the opinion of the Medical Board, that would derail the selection process, and if such process is allowed to be continued, it would be very difficult for the recruiting body to bring the selection process to the logical end.

32. Further, it is also pertinent to mention that in the absence of any material on record to substantiate that the private doctor or doctor of a government hospital who investigated the petitioner had adopted the correct process to conclude that the petitioner does not suffer any disability, it would be improper and unwarranted to doubt the report of the Medical Board and Review Medical Board by relying upon the report obtained by a candidate from outside. If such a process is adopted, that would not only derail the selection process but would also cast suspicion on the selection process.

33. Thus, in this view of the fact, this Court believes that unless and until the candidate demonstrates by placing genuine and authentic material that the opinion of the Medical Board or Review Medical Board is erroneous or capricious or vague and smacks of malafide, the Court should refrain from interfering with the opinion of Medical Board and Review Medical Board which is a body constituted of experts to assess the fitness of candidate as per the norms and standards prescribed in respect of fitness of a candidate who is supposed to work in the police force.

34. It is no doubt true that this Court has power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India to interfere with the opinion of the Medical Board or Review Medical Board, but such power has to be exercised cautiously and sparingly in exceptional circumstances only in a given case where it is demonstrated that the opinion of the Medical Board or Review is palpably erroneous.

35. In the case in hand, there is no such material placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner to doubt the correctness of the opinion of the Medical Board and Review Medical Board.

36. So far as the reliance placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner on an interim order passed by this Court, it is worth noticing that the interim order has not considered any of the aforesaid judgments on the said issue.

37. Further, the judgment of this Court in Special Appeal Defective No.639 of 2020 has also not noticed any of the aforesaid judgments dealing with the issue at hand. The perusal of the said judgment does not disclose that it has laid down any law. The said judgment has been rendered in the peculiar facts and circumstances, therefore, the judgment of this Court in Special Appeal Defective No.639 of 2020 does not come in aid to the petitioner.

38. Thus, for the reasons given above, the writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed with no order as to costs.

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Shantanu Khare, Sri Siddharth Khare, Sri Alok Khare

A. Service Law – Appointment - U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 - Chapter XII, Regulation 20 - Where the petitioner has filled in wrong marks to secure selection anyhow, his candidature deserves to be rejected. (Para 22)

Object of awarding grace marks - The award of grace marks is in the nature of a concession, and there can be no doubt that it does result in diluting academic standards. The object underlying the grant of grace marks is to remove the real hardship to a candidate who has otherwise shown good performance in the academic field but is losing one year of his scholastic career for the deficiency of a mark or so in one or two subjects, while on the basis of his overall performance in other subjects, he deserves to be declared successful. (Para 15)

However, a rule for the award of grace marks must be construed strictly so as to ensure that the minimum standards are not allowed to be diluted beyond the limit specifically laid down by the appropriate authority. It is only in a case where the language of the statute is absolutely clear that the claim for the award of grace marks can be sustained. (Para 15)

The grace marks are only notional and are not added in the aggregate to change the percentage - The contention of the petitioner that Regulation 20 of Chapter XII of the Act, 1921 does not put any bar of adding grace marks awarded to the petitioner in the actual marks obtained by him is misconceived as the purpose of awarding grace mark to a candidate is to give him the benefit of promotion in the next class. The grace marks have not been secured by the petitioner on merit and therefore, they cannot be included in the actual marks obtained by him in the subjects in which the grace mark has been awarded to him. Moreover, petitioner never objected the Board for not including the grace marks awarded to him, therefore, he cannot be allowed to raise this contention at this stage that the Board has committed an error. (Para 13, 14, 16)

Contention of the petitioner that the advertisement does not stipulate that grace marks are to be excluded while filling total marks secured by a candidate is misconceived for two reasons; there is no pleading in the writ petition w.r.t the said contention nor the advertisement has been enclosed by the petitioner with the writ petition to buttress the aforesaid submission. Secondly, the grace marks are notional and have been awarded with an object that a candidate should not lose one year. (Para 23)

The petitioner has not stated about the quality point marks secured by the last selected candidate. Strangely, the petitioner without knowing the actual quality point marks secured by the last selected candidate has made the statement that the petitioner's aggregate is much more than the last selected candidate. (Para 17 to 21)

1. Heard Sri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for respondent nos.1 & 2, and Sri Arun Kumar learned counsel for respondent no.3.

2. The petitioner by means of the present writ petition has prayed for the following relief:-

"(a). a writ, order or direction of a suitable nature commanding the respondents to forthwith grant appointment to the petitioner as an Assistant Teacher in a Junior Basic School in pursuance to his selection in Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination-2019, within a period to be specified by this Hon'ble Court, in accordance with the district allotted to the petitioner;

(b). a writ, order or direction of a suitable nature commanding the respondents to permit the petitioner to function as an Assistant Teacher in a Junior Basic School under the respondents and to pay the petitioner his regular monthly salary on the said post regularly every month;

(c). any other writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case;

(d). award cost of the petition to be paid to the petitioner."

3. The petitioner has appeared in the selection of Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination-2019. The petitioner was selected in the written examination and was called for counseling. The petitioner appeared in the counseling. According to the petitioner, his candidature was rejected on the ground that he has given wrong marks of the High School in the application form. In the aforesaid backdrop, he has prayed for the aforesaid relief.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that in the marks sheet downloaded from the website of Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj, it is evident that the grace marks which has been awarded to the petitioner in the subjects of Mathematics and Science have been included in the actual marks obtained by him in those subjects. Accordingly, he submits that if the grace marks are added in actual marks, he has secured 328 marks which have been correctly filled in by him in the application form. He submits that Regulation 20 of Chapter XII of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 1921') does not preclude the grace marks awarded to a candidate to be added in the marks secured by a candidate in a subject, therefore, in the original marks sheet issued by the Board of High School & Intermediate Education, U.P., the grace marks ought to have been added in the marks secured by petitioner in the subjects of Mathematics and Science.

5. He further submits that petitioner has correctly filled in the marks secured by him in the application form. He further contends that even if the quality point marks are calculated treating the petitioner to have secured 325 marks, the aggregate of the petitioner would be 67.30 which is much more than the last selected candidate who is allotted district Sitapur. Thus, he submits that the authorities have acted illegally in rejecting the candidature of the petitioner.

6. He lastly contends that there is no stipulation in the advertisement that grace marks are not to be included while filling up the marks obtained in High School, and therefore, for this reason also, the respondents-authorities have acted illegally in rejecting the candidature of the petitioner.

7. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents would contend that the marks sheet which has been relied upon by the petitioner, Annexure 8 to the writ petition, is a provisional marks sheet wherein, in paragraph 1 under the heading 'DISCLAIMER', it is mentioned that this is not the original marks sheet. He has further placed reliance upon paragraph 3 of the 'DISCLAIMER' clause to contend that it is clearly mentioned that neither Board of High School & Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj nor service provider is responsible for any inadvertent error that may have crept into the scoreboard/result being published on the website of Uttar Pradesh Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad. He further submits that this is a provisional marks sheet and the marks recorded therein are not final and conclusive.

8. He submits that the marks recorded in the original marks sheet, Annexure 3 to the writ petition, are conclusive and final. He submits that there is no pleading in the writ petition that petitioner has ever objected that grace marks awarded to him in mathematics & science subjects be added in actual marks secured by him or has submitted an application for correction in the original marks sheet, therefore, the petitioner cannot contend now that there is discrepancy in the original marks sheet issued by the Board of High School & Intermediate Education, U.P. He further placed reliance upon paragraph 4 of the Government Order dated 04.12.2020 to contend that in the instant case, petitioner has filled in more marks than obtained i.e. 328 instead of 325 marks with a purpose to obtain selection anyhow; he submits that paragraph 4 of the Government Order dated 04.12.2020 is explicit and provides that in such a case, the candidature of a candidate shall be rejected.

9. He submits that in this view of the fact, this is not a fit case where this Court should exercise its power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

10. I have considered the rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the marks sheet downloaded from the website of Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj, Annexure 8 to the writ petition in support of his contention that petitioner has supplied correct marks of High School in the application form. At this point, it would be apt to refer to the 'DISCLAIMER' clause of the mark sheet which is being extracted hereinbelow:-

"DISCLAIMER

1. This is a Computer Generated Provisional Score Card. This result has been provisionally announced. The results published on website are not immediate information to the examinees. These cannot be treated as original mark sheets. Original mark sheets are to be issued by the Board separately.

2. Date provided by Board of High School & Intermediate Education Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj.

3. Neither Board of High School & Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj nor service provider is responsible for any inadvertent error that may have crept in the score board/results being published on UTTAR PRADESH MADHYAMIK SHIKSHA PARISHAD (UPMSP) Website.

4. In case of any Clarification, Please contact UTTAR PRADESH MADHYAMIK SHIKSHA PARISHAD."

12. Paragraph 1 of the DISCLAIMER clause unequivocally declares that computer-generated provisional scorecard cannot be treated as original marks sheet. The original marks sheet is to be issued by the Board separately. Paragraph 3 of the DISCLAIMER clause provides that neither Board of High School & Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj nor service provider is responsible for any inadvertent error that may have crept in the score board/result being published on the website of UTTAR PRADESH MADHYAMIK SHIKSHA PARISHAD (UPMSP).

13. A perusal of paragraph 3 of the DISCLAIMER clause clearly shows that the marks sheet, Annexure 8 to the writ petition, which has been uploaded from the website of Uttar Pradesh Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Prayagraj was not uploaded by the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj. It is also clear from paragraph 1 of the DISCLAIMER clause that the computer-generated marks sheet is provisional and not a final marks sheet. The marks which have been mentioned in the mark sheet issued by the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj in respect of Mathematics and Science subject do not include the grace marks. There is nothing on record to show that petitioner has ever objected the Board for not including the grace marks awarded to him in the subjects of Mathematics and Science, therefore, the petitioner cannot be allowed to raise this contention at this stage that the Board has committed error in not including the grace marks awarded to him in Mathematics and Science subjects.

14. So far as the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner to Regulation 20 of Chapter XII of Intermediate Education Act, 1921 is concerned, it is worth mentioning that the object of the grace marks is to give certain benefit to a candidate to promote him to the next class. The grace marks have not been secured by the petitioner and therefore, they cannot be included in the actual marks obtained by him in the subjects in which the grace mark has been awarded to him. The grace marks are only notional and are not added in the aggregate to change the percentage.

15. The Apex Court in the case of Maharashtra State Board of Secondary & Higher Secondary Education Vs. Amit (2002) 6 SCC 153 has elaborated the object for awarding grace marks. The relevant extract of paragraph 6 of the said judgment is being reproduced hereinbelow:-

"6...However, before adverting to the provisions of the aforesaid Regulation, we consider it appropriate to notice the principles which the court has to keep in mind while dealing with a case of this nature where grace marks are claimed under the relevant Regulations. It cannot be disputed that the academic standards are laid down by the appropriate authorities which postulate the minimum marks that a candidate has to secure before the candidate can be declared to have passed the examination. The award of grace marks is in the nature of a concession, and there can be no doubt that it does result in diluting academic standards. The object underlying the grant of grace marks is to remove the real hardship to a candidate who has otherwise shown good performance in the academic field but is losing one year of his scholastic career for the deficiency of a mark or so in one or two subjects, while on the basis of his overall performance in other subjects, he deserves to be declared successful. The appropriate authorities may also provide for grant of grace marks to a candidate who has taken part in sports events etc., considering the fact that such candidates who have obtained a level of proficiency in any particular game or event may have devoted considerable time in pursuit of excellence in such game or event. However, a rule for the award of grace marks must be construed strictly so as to ensure that the minimum standards are not allowed to be diluted beyond the limit specifically laid down by the appropriate authority. It is only in a case where the language of the statute is absolutely clear that the claim for the award of grace marks can be sustained. Normally the court shall be slow to extend the concession of grace marks and grant a benefit where none is intended to be given by the appropriate authority. (See Board of School Education, Haryana Vs. Arun Rathi 1994 (2) SCC 526).

16. Therefore, the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that Regulation 20 of Chapter XII of the Act, 1921 does not put any bar of adding grace marks awarded to the petitioner in the actual marks obtained by him is misconceived for the reason that the purpose of awarding grace mark to a candidate is to give him the benefit of promotion in the next class. Accordingly, the aforesaid contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is misconceived.

17. So far as the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that if the merit is calculated based on marks mentioned in the original High School marks sheet i.e. 325 even then, petitioner would qualify as his quality point marks would be 67.30, and therefore, it is wrong to say that petitioner has filled in wrong marks in the application form with an object to obtain selection by any means.

18. Learned counsel for the petitioner has invited the attention of the Court to paragraph 20 of the writ petition which is being extracted hereinbelow:-

"20. That even in case 3 marks are reduced from the total of the marks secured by the petitioner in High School Examination even then the quality point marks secured by the petitioner aggregate 67.30 which is much more than the last candidate selected and allotted district Sitapur as a district of his appointment."

19. A perusal of paragraph 20 of the writ petition shows that a bald averment has been made about the fact that even if three marks are reduced from the actual marks secured by the petitioner in the High School, the aggregate quality point marks of the petitioner would be 67.30 which is more than the last selected candidate.

20. The petitioner has not stated in the writ petition about the quality point marks secured by the last selected candidate. Strangely, the petitioner without knowing the actual quality point marks secured by the last selected candidate has made the statement in paragraph 20 of the writ petition that the petitioner's aggregate is much more than the last selected candidate.

21. Since the averments made in paragraph 20 of the writ petition are bald and vague, therefore, no reliance can be placed upon it.

22. It is further relevant to mention that Apex Court in the case of Rahul Kumar Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Others in Writ Petition (Civil) No.378 of 2021 while interpreting Government Order dated 04.12.2020 has held that where the petitioner has filled in wrong marks to secure selection anyhow, his candidature deserves to be rejected.

23. So far as the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that the advertisement does not stipulate that grace marks are to be excluded while filling total marks secured by a candidate, the said contention is misconceived for two reasons; there is no pleading in the writ petition in respect of the said contention nor the advertisement has been enclosed by the petitioner with the writ petition to buttress the aforesaid submission. Secondly, the grace marks are notional and have been awarded with an object that a candidate should not lose one year and therefore, the concession given by the examination body to the candidate for promotion cannot be added to the actual marks obtained by the candidate as the grace marks are not secured by the petitioner on merit. It is worth pointing out that if the grace marks are allowed to be added to the actual marks obtained by a candidate, that would put other candidates at disadvantage, who have secured and maintained high educational standards by securing higher marks by their sheer hard work and determination.

24. Thus, for the reasons given above, the writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE YASHWANT VARMA, J.

WRIT A No. 7806 of 2021

Sunita Kumari Patel ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Amit Dubey

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Rajesh Yadav

A. Service Law – Appointment – Benefits of reservation cannot be obtained by virtue of marriage - The recognition of a lady as a member of a backward community in view of her marriage would not be relevant for the purpose of entitlement to reservation under Article 16(4) of the Constitution for the reason that she as a member of the forward caste, had an advantageous start in life and a marriage with a male belonging to a backward class would not entitle her to the facility of reservation given to a backward community. (Para 6)

Significance of requiring a caste certificate bearing the name of the parent of a candidate - There cannot be any dispute that the caste is determined by birth and the caste cannot be changed by marriage with a person of Scheduled Caste. (Para 6)

In present case, the petitioner had participated in a recruitment exercise initiated by the respondents for appointment of Assistant Teachers. The petitioner also sought the extension of the benefits of reservation by virtue of belonging to a backward class. However, in support of the aforesaid she submitted a caste certificate which bore the name of her husband. On 04 December 2020, the respondents had issued a clarification providing that all caste certificates must be issued and bear a date prior to the cutoff date namely 28 May 2020. Additionally, it was provided that it should be ensured that the caste certificate bears the name of the parent of the applicant. (Para 3)

When the petitioner initially appeared at the counselling session, she was apprised that the caste certificate submitted by her alongwith the online application would be treated as invalid since it bore the name of her husband and she was accordingly directed to obtain a fresh caste certificate. (Para 4)

B. Significance of cut-off date – The relevance of a cut-off date is not just to test the eligibility of all candidates but also ensures that a definitive date is fixed by which all prospective candidates may ensure compliance with the terms and conditions of the advertisement. The last date so prescribed cannot be one which may shift or be amended based on the requests of individual candidates: If that were permitted, it may not only derail the entire recruitment process but also raise the spectre of allegations being made of illegal exercise of discretion by the recruitment agency. (Para 8)

In any case the Court bears in mind the element of public interest and the imperatives bearing upon the respondents to ensure that a public examination and selection process is brought to an end within specified timelines. (Para 11)

Petitioner's caste certificate came to be issued in her name on 02 June 2020. The stipulation of last date as reiterated under GO dated 04 December 2020, that reemphasized that all candidates would have to furnish and obtain a caste certificate by 28 May 2020, was clearly breached with the petitioner submitting a caste certificate issued after the said date. The candidature of the petitioner could not be processed further as direction had been issued for according closure to the selection process initiated in 2019, (Para 4, 7)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Suman Vs St. of U.P. & ors. [Writ-A No. 8312 of 2021 decided on 03.08.2021] (Para 6)

2. Gaurav Sharma Vs St. of U.P. & ors. [2017 (5) ADJ 494] (Para 7)

Precedent distinguished:

1. Bindresh Singh Vs St. of U.P. & ors. [2021 (1) ADJ 269] (Para 5, 9)

2. Ram Kumar Gijoriya [(2016) 4 SCC 754] (Para 9)

Present petition assails order dated 28.04.2021, passed by District Basic Education Officer, Baghpat, District Baghpat.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Yashwant Varma, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel and Sri Rajesh Yadav, learned counsel who appears for District Basic Education Officer.

2. This petition has been preferred seeking the following reliefs:-

"i. issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 28.04.2021 passed by respondent No.3 i.e. District Basic Education Officer Baghpat, District Baghpat regarding the appointment of the petitioner on the post of Assistant Teacher (Annexure No.8 to the writ petition).

ii. issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent No.3 i.e. District Basic Education Officer Baghpat, District Baghpat to appoint the petitioner on the post of Assistant Teacher on the basis of her eligibility.

3. The petitioner had participated in a recruitment exercise initiated by the respondents for appointment of Assistant Teachers. The selection process was undertaken against 69,000 vacancies. The petitioner also sought the extension of the benefits of reservation by virtue of belonging to a backward class. However, in support of the aforesaid she submitted a caste certificate which bore the name of her husband. On 04 December 2020, the respondents had issued a clarification providing that all caste certificates must be issued and bear a date prior to the cut-off date namely 28 May 2020. Additionally, it was provided that it should be ensured that the caste certificate bears the name of the parent of the applicant. The relevant stipulations in the order of 04 December 2020 read thus:-

ष्1द्ध बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद द्वारा आवेदन पत्र प्रस्तुत करने की निर्धारित की गयी अन्तिम तिथि दिनांक 28–05–2020 तक निर्गत किये गये निवास प्रमाण पत्र एवं जाति प्रमाण पत्र को ही स्वीकार किया जाय।

;2द्ध मा0 उच्चतम न्यायालय ने वलसम्मा पाल बनाम कोचीन विश्व–विद्यालय 1996 ैण्ब्ण्ब्545 एवं रामेश भाई दभार नायका बनाम गुजरात राज्य एवं अन्य सिविल अपील नं0654/2012 में यह स्वीकार किया है कि किसी महिला का दूसरी जाति में शादी कर लेने मात्र से उसकी जाति का स्टेटस नहीं बदल जायेगा, बल्कि जिस जाति में उसने जन्म लिया है, वही मानी जायेगी। अतः ऐसी महिला अभ्यर्थी जिसके द्वारा प्रस्तुत जाति प्रमाण पत्र के आधार पर आरक्षण का लाभ प्राप्त करते हुए चयन प्राप्त किया गया है, उसका चयन निरस्त कर दिया जाय।

;3द्ध निवास प्रमाण पत्र अन्य प्रदेश का होने का प्रकरण माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश से अच्छादित है तथा इस सम्बन्ध में शासनादेश संख्या–588/68–5–2019, दिनांक 07–06–2019 निर्गत है। इस सम्बन्ध में उक्त शासनादेश के आलोक में कार्यवाही की जाय।ष

4. When the petitioner initially appeared at the counselling session, she was apprised that the caste certificate submitted by her along with the online application would be treated as invalid since it bore the name of her husband and she was accordingly directed to obtain a fresh caste certificate. That caste certificate came to be issued in her name on 02 June 2020. Upon noticing the aforesaid facts, the respondents taking into consideration the government orders of 31 March 2021 and 04 May 2021 have held that since the caste certificate had come to be issued after 28 May 2020 and a direction had been issued for according closure to the selection process initiated in 2019, the candidature of the petitioner could not be processed further.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the original caste certificate which was submitted by the petitioner as well as the caste certificate obtained now show that both her husband as well as her father belong to the same backward class. It was in this context submitted that the insistence of the respondents upon the petitioner obtaining a caste certificate in the name of her father was clearly superfluous and in any case could not have resulted in the denial of extension of reservation benefits to the petitioner. It was further submitted that the petitioner pursuant to the advice given by the respondents had applied for the grant of a fresh caste certificate bearing the name of her father on 19 May 2020. However, according to the petitioner, the respondents themselves delayed the issuance of that certificate which ultimately came to be issued on 02 June 2020. In view of the aforesaid it was submitted that the petitioner cannot be held liable for the delay on the part of the respondents. Learned counsel has lastly placed reliance upon a judgment rendered by a learned Judge in Bindresh Singh vs. State of U.P. and others [2021(1) ADJ 269] to submit that bearing in mind the social objectives underlying the grant of reservation, the respondents were obliged to consider the candidature of the petitioner and therefore prays for the impugned order being set-aside.

6. Dealing with the significance of requiring a caste certificate bearing the name of the parent of a candidate, this Court in Suman vs. State of U.P. and others [Writ-A No.8312 of 2021 decided on 3.8.2021] held thus:-

"Insofar as the OBC certificate bearing the name of the husband of the petitioner is concerned, the Court finds that the stipulation of the caste certificate bearing the name of a parent serves a salutary and significant purpose. Caste as is well settled is determined by birth. The identification of a person as belonging to a particular caste or social class has an unbroken and undeviating connect with the family of the individual. The candidate must therefore necessarily establish that he or she was born into a family which belongs to a backward class duly recognised as such by the appropriate government. A certificate bearing the name of the parent thus serves the purposes of enabling the respondents to ascertain and verify the actual caste of the holder thereof as existing at the time of birth.

While it is well settled that benefits of reservation cannot be obtained by virtue of marriage, the Court may only extract the following passage from the decision of the Supreme Court in Sobha Hymavathi Devi v. Setti Gangadhara Swamy:-

"10. What then remains is the fact that the appellant though assigned the caste of her father Murahari Rao, namely, the Sistu Karnam community, had married a tribal belonging to the Bhagatha community. On the basis of this marriage, it is argued that she must be taken to have acquired membership in the community of her husband and consequently treated as a member of that community. It is in that context that the decision in Horo [(1972) 1 SCC 771 : AIR 1972 SC 1840] was relied on. It is also contended that the decision in Horo [(1972) 1 SCC 771 : AIR 1972 SC 1840] related to an election dispute and consequently, the ratio of that decision should govern the present case. We have already indicated that there is nothing to show that the marriage of the appellant with Appala Raju was sanctioned or approved by the elders of the Bhagatha community or the Panchayat concerned or was in tribal form or that the formalities attending such a tribal marriage were observed and the marriage was performed after obtaining the approval of the elders of the tribe. Even otherwise, we have difficulty in accepting the position that a non-tribal who marries a tribal could claim to contest a seat reserved for tribals. Article 332 of the Constitution speaks of reservation of seats for Scheduled Tribes in Legislative Assemblies. The object is clearly to give representation in the legislature to Scheduled Tribe candidates, considered to be deserving of such special protection. To permit a non-tribal under cover of a marriage to contest such a seat would tend to defeat the very object of such a reservation. The decision of this Court in Valsamma Paul v. Cochin University [(1996) 3 SCC 545 : 1996 SCC (L&S) 772 : (1996) 33 ATC 713] supports this view. Neither the fact that a non-backward female married a backward male nor the fact that she was recognised by the community thereafter as a member of the backward community, was held to enable a non-backward to claim reservation in terms of Article 15(4) or 16(4) of the Constitution. Their Lordships after noticing Bhoobum Moyee Debia v. Ram Kishore Acharj Chowdhry [(1865) 10 MIA 279] and Lulloobhoy Bappoobhoy Cassidass Moolchund v. Cassibai [(1879-80) 7 IA 212 : ILR 5 Bom 110] held that a woman on marriage becomes a member of the family of her husband and thereby she becomes a member of the caste to which she has moved. The caste rigidity breaks down and would stand as no impediment to her becoming a member of the family to which the husband belongs and to which she gets herself transplanted. Thereafter, this Court noticed that recognition by the community was also important. Even then, this Court categorically laid down that the recognition of a lady as a member of a backward community in view of her marriage would not be relevant for the purpose of entitlement to reservation under Article 16(4) of the Constitution for the reason that she as a member of the forward caste, had an advantageous start in life and a marriage with a male belonging to a backward class would not entitle her to the facility of reservation given to a backward community. The High Court has applied this decision to a seat reserved in an election in terms of Article 332 of the Constitution. We see no reason why the principle relating to reservation under Articles 15(4) and 16(4) laid down by this Court should not be extended to the constitutional reservation of a seat for a Scheduled Tribe in the House of the People or under Article 332 in the Legislative Assembly....."

Reiterating the aforesaid position in law in Sunita Singh v. State of U.P4., the Supreme Court succinctly observed:-

5. There cannot be any dispute that the caste is determined by birth and the caste cannot be changed by marriage with a person of Scheduled Caste. Undoubtedly, the appellant was born in "Agarwal" family, which falls in general category and not in Scheduled Caste. Merely because her husband is belonging to a Scheduled Caste category, the appellant should not have been issued with a caste certificate showing her caste as Scheduled Caste. In that regard, the orders of the authorities as well as the judgment of the High Court cannot be faulted.

Regard must be had to the fact that in Sunita Singh, the Supreme Court was dealing with a caste certificate which came to be issued based on the caste of the husband. It was in the aforesaid backdrop that it held that the caste certificate was invalid. It is thus evident that it was to avoid such situations and claims that the respondents insisted upon the caste certificate bearing the name of the parent of the candidate. The aforesaid stipulation has neither been challenged by the petitioner nor can it be described as being arbitrary or superfluous.

` The Court additionally shudders to imagine the enormous burden that would stand placed upon a recruiting body before whom caste certificates such as the one produced by the petitioner here were placed in support of claims for extension of reservation benefits. In all such cases, the recruiting agency would then have to independently verify the family origins of each such candidate in order to ascertain whether the individual was born in a social class to which benefits under Article 16 of the Constitution stand conferred. Ms. Archana Singh, learned counsel, apprises the Court that the present recruitment was undertaken to fill up 69,000 posts of Assistant Teachers. Learned counsel informs the Court that 146060 candidates participated in the selection process. The facts as noticed above underscore the enormity of the avoidable and unnecessary obligation which would stand placed on the recruitment agency. In fact, placing such an onus on the recruiting body may also have a deleterious effect on the paramount requirement of completing a selection process connected with appointment to public posts within a defined timeline. The Court in view of the aforesaid facts is of the considered view that there is no justification for such an additional responsibility being legally foisted upon the respondents."

7. Having noticed the salutary and significant objective which underlies the requirement of a caste certificate bearing the name of a parent, the Court further takes note of the last date as reiterated under the Government Order dated 04 December 2020. That reemphasized that all candidates would have to furnish and obtain a caste certificate by 28 May 2020. That stipulation was clearly breached with the petitioner submitting a caste certificate issued after the said date. The significance of a cut-off date as fixed by respondents in a large scale public examination was duly emphasized and underlined by a Full Bench of the Court in Gaurav Sharma vs. State of U.P. and others [2017 (5) ADJ 494] in the following terms:-

"The second aspect which must necessarily be noted is the significance of a last date prescribed in an advertisement and its impact. A last date comes to be prescribed in an advertisement or recruitment notice to seek certain well established objectives. It firstly puts all prospective candidates on notice with regard to the eligibility qualifications that the employer desires a particular candidate to hold. The prescription of the last date also acts as information to the prospective candidates to test and ascertain whether they are eligible to participate in the selection process. There are therefore, upon the prescription of such a last date in the advertisement no shifting timelines or uncertainty. The prescription of such a condition in the advertisement also eschews any arbitrary action and denudes the authority from wielding a discretion which may be abused. One may in this connection usefully refer to the judgment of the Supreme Court in Rakesh Kumar Sharma Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) and others 7 which noticed the earlier precedents on the subject and observed as follows:....."

8. As is manifest from the aforesaid principles as enunciated in Gaurav Sharma, the relevance of a cut-off date is not just to test the eligibility of all candidates but also ensures that a definitive date is fixed by which all prospective candidates may ensure compliance with the terms and conditions of the advertisement. The last date so prescribed cannot be one which may shift or be amended based on the requests of individual candidates. If that were permitted, it may not only derail the entire recruitment process but also raise the spectre of allegations being made of illegal exercise of discretion by the recruitment agency.

9. Significantly the aforesaid observations do not appear to have been brought to the attention of the learned Judge who rendered judgment in Bindresh Singh. The decision of the Full Bench was brushed aside with the learned Judge simply observing that it did not apply to the facts of that case. In Bindresh, the learned Judge proceeded to draw sustenance from the decision in Ram Kumar Gijoriya [(2016) 4 SCC 754] a decision which was duly noticed by the Full Bench in Gaurav Sharma and explained as follows: -

19. We then proceed to address the second question framed for our consideration and which pertains to the correctness or otherwise of the judgment of the Division Bench in Arvind Kumar Yadav. As noted above, the sheet anchor of the case of the appellant and the writ petitioners was the judgment of the Supreme Court in Ram Kumar Gijroya. It becomes relevant to note that in the said case, the Supreme Court was called upon to consider the correctness of a judgment rendered by the Delhi High Court which had overturned a judgment rendered by a learned Single Judge of the said Court who had followed two earlier precedents to hold that the candidature of a Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes candidate could not be turned down only on the ground that the caste certificate was submitted after the last date prescribed in the advertisement. The two prior precedents which the Delhi High Court considered were Pushpa v. Government (NCT of Delhi), 2009 SCC OnLine Del 281, and Tej Pal Singh v. Government (NCT of Delhi), 1999 SCC OnLine Del 1092. In the appeal of Ram Kumar Gijroya, the learned Single Judge of the Delhi High Court following the two precedents referred to above had directed the respondents therein to accept the OBC certificate of the appellant. One of the significant and distinguishing features of Ram Kumar Gijroya, which immediately springs to light is that the advertisement did not prescribe a cut off date at all. The requirement of submitting the OBC certificate was introduced only by a notice issued by the Delhi Subordinate Services Selection Board while declaring the final results.

24. We are therefore of the considered view that the Division Bench in Arvind Kumar Yadav rightly noted the distinct factual backdrop in which Ram Kumar Gijroya came to be rendered. The aspect of there being no consideration of the impact of a negative stipulation in an advertisement in the said judgment of the Supreme Court clearly escaped the Division Benches which pronounced judgments in Pravesh Kumar and Shubham Gupta."

10. In view of the aforesaid, this Court finds itself unable to tread the line as adopted in Bindresh.

11. In any case the Court bears in mind the element of public interest and the imperatives bearing upon the respondents to ensure that a public examination and selection process is brought to an end within specified timelines. It was these factors which were emphasized in the government orders of 31 March 2021 and 04 May 2021. For all the aforesaid reasons, the Court finds no ground to interfere with the impugned orders.

12. The writ petition fails and shall stand dismissed.

THE HON'BLE ASHWANI KUMAR MISHRA, J.

WRIT A No. 10634 of 2021

Mahendra Kumar, Constable ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Atiprita Gautam, Sri Vijay Gautam (Senior Adv.), Vinod Kumar Mishra

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Cancellation of selection – Misrepresentation - Cancellation of appointment has been affirmed where it gets established that appointment had been obtained on the strength of misrepresentation. (Para 7)

B. No violation of principles of natural justice - It is only where facts are disputed that an enquiry in the manner contemplated in law would be necessary – No further enquiry is required on the admitted facts - Before passing the order impugned an opportunity of hearing has been given to petitioner. Petitioner has admitted that he claimed appointment as dependent of freedom fighter whereas he does not belong to such category. Grant of reservation as dependent of freedom fighter is thus admitted. There is no charge of misconduct against petitioner to be proved in disciplinary enquiry. The charge against petitioner is of obtaining appointment on the strength of misrepresentation and petitioner has admitted facts w.r.t. this. Holding of disciplinary enquiry in the circumstances of the present case is thus not warranted nor the cancellation of petitioner's selection/appointment would be illegal only because disciplinary enquiry was not held in the matter. (Para 8, 9)

C. No equity would arise in favour of the employee merely because he has worked for certain time. In the event petitioner's appointment is sustained it would cause grave injustice to thousands of those who have secured marks above the petitioner but have not been appointed. No equity is created in favour of the petitioner to continue in employment on account of his working for the last about 5 years since the appointment has been obtained by misrepresentation. (Para 7, 10)

D. Law is settled that fraud and justice do not dwell together. Petitioner having made misrepresentation in his application and having derived advantage not due to him in law would not be entitled to grant of protection u/Art. 226 of the Constitution of India. (Para 11)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. U.O.I. Vs M. Bhaskaran, (1995) Suppl. (4) SCC 100 (Para 7)

Present petition assails order dated 01.06.2021, passed by Superintendent of Police, Unnao, whereby petitioner's selection has been cancelled.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order dated 1.6.2021, passed by Superintendent of Police, Unnao, whereby petitioner's selection on the post of Constable in U.P. Police has been cancelled on the ground of misrepresentation. It is observed in the order that petitioner secured appointment by claiming benefit of reservation meant for dependent of Freedom Fighter but upon verification it has transpired that he does not belong to such category. U.P. Police Recruitment and Promotion Board (hereinafter referred to as the 'Board') recommended cancellation of petitioner's appointment on the ground of misrepresentation. A notice accordingly was issued to petitioner in reply to which the petitioner admits that he is not a dependent of Freedom Fighter and that by mistake of Computer Operator, who had filled petitioner's application form, such reservation was claimed. Since petitioner has otherwise not secured marks above the cut off in the respective category therefore appointment obtained on the strength of misrepresentation has been cancelled. Thus aggrieved the petitioner is before this Court.

2. It is urged that petitioner has not made any misrepresentation and having worked for five years without any complaint his appointment cannot be cancelled without holding any disciplinary enquiry. Reliance is also placed upon interim orders passed by this Court in Writ Petition Nos.9937 of 2021 and 9928 of 2021.

3. While entertaining the writ petition time was granted to learned Standing Counsel to obtain instructions. Written instructions signed by the Additional Secretary of the Board are placed before the Court and are taken on record. This Court on 26.8.2021 directed learned Standing Counsel to furnish a copy of the instructions to the counsel for the petitioner also.

4. Appointment to the post of Constable has been offered to petitioner pursuant to his application made against the advertisement published on 14.5.2013. Petitioner was an applicant in the OBC category and his application has been placed before the Court alongwith instructions in which it is apparent that petitioner claimed benefit of reservation meant for dependent of Freedom Fighter. Petitioner in his reply to the show cause notice has also admitted the fact that reservation meant for dependent of Freedom Fighter was claimed in his application form. It is also admitted to petitioner that he is not a dependent of Freedom Fighter and such reservation is not admissible to him. The misrepresentation in falsely claiming reservation of dependent of Freedom Fighter, however, is sought to be explained by contending that petitioner was not aware of such incorrect disclosure and that it was due to mistake on part of the Computer Operator that such error occurred.

5. The appointment on the post of Constable was to be offered on the basis of merit secured by a candidate. The petitioner belongs to OBC category and has secured 290.2119 marks in the selection. The last selected candidate in OBC category has secured 310.6374 marks for appointment in Civil Police; 309.3608 marks for appointment as Constable in P.A.C. and 308.5096 marks for appointment as Fireman. It is, therefore, undisputed that petitioner has not secured sufficient marks to secure appointment on the post of Constable. No appointment could have been offered to him on the basis of his merit. His marks could qualify him for selection only in the category of dependent of Freedom Fighter. His appointment is thus based only on false misrepresentation that he is a dependent of Freedom Fighter.

6. Petitioner's defence before the authority that he was unaware of the fact that in his application he had claimed reservation as dependent of Freedom Fighter is not liable to be accepted for two reasons. Firstly, in the absence of reservation claimed in sub-category of dependent of Freedom Fighter the petitioner could not be selected as his marks were below the cut off marks secured by the last selected OBC candidate. Secondly, petitioner having taken advantage of false disclosure in the application form cannot claim immunity by shifting the guilt upon the Computer Operator since the Computer Operator was his agent and the petitioner is responsible for his acts particularly as he himself is the beneficiary of such false disclosure.

7. In Union of India vs. M. Bhaskaran, (1995) Suppl. (4) SCC 100, the Supreme Court has affirmed cancellation of appointment where it was established that appointment had been obtained on the strength of misrepresentation. The Court further observed that no equity would arise in favour of the employee merely because he has worked for certain time. Para 6 of the aforesaid judgment is reproduced hereinafter:

"6. It is not necessary for us to express any opinion on the applicability of Rule 3(1)(i) and (iii) on the facts of the present cases for the simple reason that in our view the railway employees concerned, respondents herein, have admittedly snatched employment in railway service, maybe of a casual nature, by relying upon forged or bogus casual labourer service cards. The unauthenticity of the service cards on the basis of which they got employment is clearly established on record of the departmental enquiry held against the employees concerned. Consequently, it has to be held that the respondents were guilty of misrepresentation and fraud perpetrated on the appellant-employer while getting employed in railway service and had snatched such employment which would not have been made available to them if they were not armed with such bogus and forged labourer service cards. Learned counsel for the respondents submitted that for getting service in railway as casual labourers, it was strictly not necessary for the respondents to rely upon such casual service cards. If that was so there was no occasion for them to produce such bogus certificates/service cards for getting employed in railway service. Therefore, it is too late in the day for the respondents to submit that production of such bogus or forged service cards had not played its role in getting employed in railway service. It was clearly a case of fraud on the appellant-employer. If once such fraud is detected, the appointment orders themselves which were found to be tainted and vitiated by fraud and acts of cheating on the part of employees, were liable to be recalled and were at least voidable at the option of the employer concerned. This is precisely what has happened in the present case. Once the fraud of the respondents in getting such employment was detected, the respondents were proceeded against in departmental enquiries and were called upon to have their say and thereafter have been removed from service. Such orders of removal would amount to recalling of fraudulently obtained erroneous appointment orders which were avoided by the employer-appellant after following the due procedure of law and complying with the principles of natural justice. Therefore, even independently of Rule 3(1)(i) and (iii) of the Rules, such fraudulently obtained appointment orders could be legitimately treated as voidable at the option of the employer and could be recalled by the employer and in such cases merely because the respondent-employees have continued in service for a number of years on the basis of such fraudulently obtained employment orders cannot create any equity in their favour or any estoppel against the employer. In this connection we may usefully refer to a decision of this Court in Distt. Collector & Chairman, Vizianagaram Social Welfare Residential School Society v. M. Tripura Sundari Devi [(1990) 3 SCC 655 : 1990 SCC (L&S) 520 : (1990) 14 ATC 766] . In that case Sawant, J. speaking for this Court held that when an advertisement mentions a particular qualification and an appointment is made in disregard of the same, it is not a matter only between the appointing authority and the concerned appointee. The aggrieved are all those who had similar or even better qualifications than the appointee or appointees but who had not applied for the post because they did not possess the qualifications mentioned in the advertisement. It amounts to a fraud on public to appoint persons with inferior qualifications in such circumstances unless it is clearly stated that the qualifications are relaxable. No court should be a party to the perpetuation of the fraudulent practice. It is of course true as noted by the Tribunal that the facts of the case in the aforesaid decision were different from the facts of the present case. And it is also true that in that case pending the service which was continued pursuant to the order of the Tribunal the candidate concerned acquired the requisite qualification and hence his appointment was not disturbed by this Court. But that is neither here nor there. As laid down in the aforesaid decision, if by committing fraud any employment is obtained, such a fraudulent practice cannot be permitted to be countenanced by a court of law. Consequently, it must be held that the Tribunal had committed a patent error of law in directing reinstatement of the respondent-workmen with all consequential benefits. The removal orders could not have been faulted by the Tribunal as they were the result of a sharp and fraudulent practice on the part of the respondents. Learned counsel for the respondents, however, submitted that these illiterate respondents were employed as casual labourers years back in 1983 and subsequently they have been given temporary status and, therefore, after passage of such a long time they should not be thrown out of employment. It is difficult to agree with this contention. By mere passage of time a fraudulent practice would not get any sanctity. The appellant authorities having come to know about the fraud of the respondents in obtaining employment as casual labourers, started departmental proceedings years back in 1987 and these proceedings have dragged on for a number of years. Earlier, removal orders of the respondents were set aside by the Central Administrative Tribunal, Madras Bench and proceedings were remanded and after remand, fresh removal orders were passed by the appellant which have been set aside by the Central Administrative Tribunal, Ernakulam Bench and which are the subject-matter of the present proceedings. Therefore, it cannot be said that the appellants are estopped from recalling such fraudulently obtained employment orders of the respondents subject of course to following due procedure of law and in due compliance with the principles of natural justice, on which aspect there is no dispute between the parties. If any lenient view is taken on the facts of the present case in favour of the respondents, then it would amount to putting premium on dishonesty and sharp practice which on the facts of the present cases cannot be permitted."

8. Before passing the order impugned an opportunity of hearing has been given to petitioner. In his reply, the petitioner has admitted facts which clearly goes to show that appointment has been obtained by petitioner on the strength of misrepresentation. Petitioner has admitted that he claimed appointment as an dependent of freedom fighter whereas he admits that he does not belong to such category. Grant of reservation as dependent of freedom fighter is thus admitted. No further enquiry is required on the admitted facts since petitioner himself states that such benefit was wrongly claimed. It is only where facts are disputed that an enquiry in the manner contemplated in law would be necessary. Contention that principles of natural justice are violated, therefore, is not liable to be accepted.

9. Further argument that without holding disciplinary enquiry petitioner's appointment could not be cancelled also cannot be accepted. There is no charge of misconduct against petitioner to be proved in disciplinary enquiry. The charge against petitioner is of obtaining appointment on the strength of misrepresentation in respect of which facts are admitted to the petitioner. Opportunity to petitioner in this regard is given. Holding of disciplinary enquiry in the circumstances of the present case is thus not warranted nor the cancellation of petitioner's selection/appointment would be illegal only because disciplinary enquiry was not held in the matter.

10. In the event petitioner's appointment is sustained it would cause grave injustice to thousands of those who have secured marks above the petitioner but have not been appointed. No equity is created in favour of the petitioner to continue in employment on account of his working for the last about 5 years since the appointment has been obtained by misrepresentation. The interim orders relied upon by the petitioner do not appear to have any applicability on facts since no misrepresentation was admitted on record of those cases, unlike the fact here. Even otherwise those orders are on facts of those cases and do not constitute any binding precedent. In Writ Petition No.9928 of 2021 the Freedom Fighter Certificate was doubted as not being genuine, whereas in the facts of the present case petitioner admits that he is not a dependent of Freedom Fighter.

11. having made misrepresentation in his application and having derived advantage not due to him in law would not be entitled to grant of protection under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Writ petition accordingly fails and is dismissed. Law is settled that fraud and justice do not dwell together. Petitioner having made misrepresentation in his application and having derived advantage not due to him in law would not be entitled to grant of protection under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Writ petition accordingly fails and is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr.. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
&
Hon'ble Subash Chand, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

2. In the morning, we have been conveyed by Shri Vivek Kumar Rai, learned counsel for respondents that Central Administrative Tribunal order rather judgment is under challenge and petitioners are directed to approach the authorities as per the impugned order and have also directed him to seek instructions as we are convinced that the issue can be resolved by the present petitioner who are before this Court to approach

3. From the authorities concerned that the impugned order dated 11.8.2020 as indicated is fact in notice though it is understood by employees and the tribunal order of recovery. We, at this juncture, substitute the order of the Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad Branch, Allahabad dated 2nd March, 2021 that this writ petition would be considered by the authorities concerned as a reply/representation quo. The order/notice dated 11.8.2020 and 25.8.2020, the copy of which is annexed as Annexure-2 to the writ petition.

4. We are not going into the factual matrix nor discussing the details but we are pained to note that the Central Administrative Tribunal have gone much beyond the scope and, therefore, we are required to set aside all the reasoning given by it more particularly in paras '26'-'131'. The tribunal had directed the petitioners to approach the authorities and observed against the petitioners which has made them approach this Court. The order dated 23.2.2021 is quashed. The impugned orders dated 11.8.2020 and 25.8.2020 will be considered to be noticed and not deduction of salary without hearing the parties. There cannot be any deductions, The tribunal could have simply remanded the matter as the Loco-pilot who were before it were already relegated to the concerned authority by its order. The respondents shall not re-fix the pay scale of the petitioners till decide the representations and also considered the matter on merits.

5. May that as it may be as a model Government, the respondent No.1, Union of India through the General Manager, North Central Railway will direct the respondent No.2, Divisional Railway Manager, North Central Railway, Jhansi-U.P. will in term directed respondent No.3, Divisional Railway Manager (Personnel), North Central Railway Manager, Jhansi to look into the grievance of the petitioners herein and till they decide the representation, if it is shown that there was not fraud committed cannot be deducted. May that as it may be, we substitute the tribunals order by this order.

6. This petition and O.A. will be considered to be reply of the petitioners and other affected parties may also file their representations within four weeks from today. The petitioners may supplement the same also with additional material if they so chose.

7. The judgment in WRIT - A No. - 6083 of 2021, Ramesh Chandra Raikwar And 14 Others v. Central Administrative Tribunal And 3 Others is not countenanced at present by us practical view and, therefore, we do not place reliance on the same. There are factual data also which are different from the judgment of Ramesh Chandra (Supra) for which we are not delving at the present.

8. We hope that the authorities concerned will go through the judicial pronouncements of the Apex Court regarding recovery from salary.

9. With these observations, this petition is disposed of.

10. We are thankful to counsels for ably assisting us and in case of difficulty, the parties to seek revival of this petition

A. Service Law – Appointment - Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Services Selection Commission Act, 2014 - Sections 15, 17 & 18(2); Uttar Pradesh Direct Recruitment To Group 'C' Posts (Mode And Procedure) Rules, 2015 - Rule 5, 7 & 8; Guidelines adopted by the Commission in exercise of powers under Section 15 - Guideline 16, 22, 23, 24.

The withheld result is not a separate exercise undertaken by the Commission but a part of the same selection process. Merely for the reason that verification was pending would not mean that the withheld candidates were not in the select list declared by the Commission on 18 July 2018. There is no such prohibition restraining the Commission from issuing select list in respect of the post in first instance alone and thereafter, the Commission, is denuded of its power to process the withheld result of otherwise selected candidates pending verification. (Para 17)

In the facts of the instant case, 3133 post of Village Development Officer (Group 'C') was sent by the Government to the Commission for initiating the process of selection. The Commission after following the selection procedure recommended 2947 candidates, the result of 116 candidates was withheld pending verification of the documents. Thereafter, 98 were sent to the Government, finally, the list of remaining 18 candidates were duly recommended and notified by the Commission on 26 June 2020. Prior to that it is informed that 70 candidates under the ex-serviceman quota were notified. The total recommended candidates, thus, were equivalent to the notified post 3133 (2947+116+70). (Para 15)

The State Government has declined to accept the select list of the candidates notified by the Commission on 26 June 2020, for the reason that the Commission lacks power and authority to issue any supplementary select list. According to the State Government, selection process came to an end after the Commission had notified the select list of 2947 candidates. (Para 15)

B. The State cannot discriminate against the petitioners by taking a plea that the Commission has no power to declare a supplementary select list. The final supplementary list of 18 candidates is a part of the list of 116 withheld candidates to have been cleared by the Commission subsequently. The 18 candidates are part of the same select list and not beyond the notified vacancy. Their results were notified after verification as was the case of other withheld candidates and were otherwise found fit on merit. (Para 16, 20)

The Commission has a right to withhold the result pending verification of the original certificate relating to qualification. It is not the case of State Government that candidates recommended by the Commission exceed the total number of vacancies notified i.e. 3133. It is also not a case of exhaustion of the select list of recommended candidates but preparation and declaration of the complete select list by the Commission of the notified vacancy pursuant to the same advertisement. (Para 19)

C. Words & Phrases – 'withheld', 'supplementary' – As per Webster Dictionary the expression, 'withheld', would mean, 'refuse to give (something that is due or desired by another)'; 'to hold back; to keep back,' and, 'supplementary' would mean 'the result has not been revealed or published', 'Once certain criteria are fulfilled or certain investigation/enquiry are completed.' (Para 18)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri K.S. Kushwaha, along with Sri Mujib Ahmad, learned counsels appearing for the petitioner, Shri Siddharth Singhal, learned counsel appearing for the second respondent and learned standing counsel appearing for the State-respondent.

2. For the sake of convenience, the facts set out in Writ-A No. 12102 of 2020 is being referred to for deciding both the petitions.

3. The facts, inter se, parties are not in dispute. The second respondent, Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Service Selection Board, Lucknow1, issued an advertisement No. 03/2016, inviting application from eligible candidates for the post of Village Development Officer, 3133 posts were advertised. As per advertisement, eligible candidates were to appear for written examination, physical efficiency test, followed by interview. The candidates in ratio of 3:1 were to be called for interview i.e. three candidates per post. Petitioner qualified the written examination, physical efficiency test and appeared for interview. The Selection Board declared the final result for the post on 18 July 2018. The select list comprised of 2947 candidates, as against the notified 3133 vacancies. The Commission withheld the result of 116 candidates for several reasons, including, verification of their educational qualification and other documents. It appears that some of the candidates approached this Court in two petitions bearing Writ-A No. 18049 of 2019 (Vivek Kumar Srivastava and 4 others vs. State of U.P. and another) and Writ-A No. 18798 of 2019 (Avesh Kumar and 5 others vs. State of U.P. and another), which came to be disposed of on 26 November 2019, directing the Commission to consider the representation to prepare a revised list on account of 29 posts of the candidate securing marks next to the final cut off marks. It appears that the Commission declared a supplementary select list for 18 post on 26 June 2020. The petitioners found their names in the supplementary select list of the 18 candidates. It appears that Commission did not send the list of selected candidates to the concerned department for issuing appointment letters.

4. Aggrieved, by the conduct of the second respondent, Commission, petitioners have filed the instant writ petition seeking a direction in the nature of mandamus directing the second respondent, Commission to send the select list of the supplementary result, published on 26 June 2020, for the post of Village Development Officer (General Selection) Examination/2016, to the first respondent, Principal Secretary, Rural Development U.P., at Lucknow. It is further prayed that the first respondent be directed to issue appointment letter to the petitioners, pursuant to the recommendation of the Commission.

5. The Commission is supporting the case of the petitioners. Learned counsel for the second respondent, submits that against 3133 vacancies, select list in the first instance was declared for 2947 candidates, results of 116 candidates were withheld due to the pending verification pertaining to their documents and qualification. Thereafter, Commission cleared 98 candidates. In respect of 18 candidates, after enquiry and verification, their names was cleared by the Commission in its meeting dated 23 June 2020, and duly notified on the official website of the Commission. In other words, the select list of 18 candidates are as per merit and are eligible for appointment. The second respondent undertakes to forward their names to the Government.

6. The first respondent has filed counter affidavit sworn by the Joint Secretary, Rural Development, U.P., wherein, the facts have not been disputed but a stand has been taken that after declaration of the final result by the Commission on 6 August 2018, the Commission had no power or authority to have issued the supplementary select list as the process of selection came to an end. There is no provision for declaration/publication of supplementary result or waiting list, hence, supplementary list of 18 candidates, including that of the petitioners declared by the Commission on 26 June 2020 is legally not acceptable.

7. Para-6 of the counter affidavit is extracted:

"That, it is further respectfully submitted that in compliance of order dated 13.07.2021, passed by this Hon'ble Court the Addl. Chief Secretary, Rural Development, U.P. Sashan filed his personal affidavit, stating therein that after publication of final select list of 2943 candidates, dated 06.08.2018 by the U.P. Subordinate Service Selection Commission said selection process came to an end and as such there is no such provision of declaration/publication of Supplementary result or waiting list hence the supplementary list of 18 candidates, declared by the U.P. Subordinate Service Selection Commission on 26.06.2020 is legally not acceptable. In this regard the answering deponent is also filing the copy of Office Memorandum No. 28/5/80-Ka-04-1999, Lucknow dated 15 November, 1999 issued by Personnel Department of State Government, whereby the State Government has banned on publication of waiting list and in view thereof the Supplementary result declared by the Commission legally not acceptable. For kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court a photo copy of Office Memorandum No. 28/5/80-Ka-04-1999, Lucknow dated 15 November, 1999 issued by Personnel Department of State Government is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No. C.A.-1 to this affidavit."

8. In this backdrop, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submits that the petitioners are not entitled to seek appointment on the strength of the supplementary select list. There is no provision for preparation of waiting list. In other words, it is sought to be urged that the selection process culminated after the declaration of the select list by the Commission on 6 August 2018. Reliance has been placed on the decisions rendered in Secretary, Kerala Public Service Commission v. Sheeja P.R. and another2 and Ajay Prakash Mishra and others v. State of U.P. and others3.

9. Submissions fall for consideration.

10. The Commission has been constituted under the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Services Selection Commission Act, 20144. Chapter-II of the Act provides for establishment of the Commission. Chapter-III provides for power and duties of the Commission and allocation of business. Section-15 confers upon the Commission powers and duties to prepare guidelines on the matter relating to the method of recruitment; to conduct examinations, hold interview and make selection of candidates; to select and invite experts and to appoint examiners for the purposes of selection; to perform such other duties and exercise such other powers as may be prescribed. Sub-section (2) of Section-15 mandates that the Commission in exercising the powers or performing the duties referred to in Sub section-(1), Commission shall be guided by such rules or regulations as may be made in this behalf. Section-15 reads thus:

15.(1) The Commission shall have the powers and duties -

(a) To prepare guidelines on mattes relating to the method of recruitment;

(b) To conduct examinations, hold interview and make selection of candidates;

(c) To select and invite experts and to appoint examiners for the purposes specified in clause (b);

(d) To perform such other duties and exercise such other powers as may be prescribed.

(2) In exercising the powers or performing the duties referred to in sub-section (1) the Commission shall be guided by such rules or regulations as may be made in this behalf.

11. Chapter -IV of Selection Commission Act provides for notification of vacancies and appointment. Section-17 mandates that the appointing authority shall determine and intimate to the Commission the number of vacancies to be filled through the Commission during the course of the year of recruitment; the vacancies shall be notified to the Commission in such manner as may be prescribed. Sub section-(2) of Section-18 provides that the Commission shall forward to the appointing authority a list of candidates who are found suitable and the appointing authority shall make appointments from the list so forwarded to it in the order mentioned therein. Section-17 and 18 are extracted:

17. (1) The appointing authority shall determine and intimate to the Commission the number of vacancies to be filled through the Commission during the course of the year of recruitment as also the number of the vacancies to be reserved for the candidates belonging to the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes and other categories in accordance with the law for the time being in force in this behalf.

(2) The vacancies shall be notified to the Commission in such manner as may be prescribed.

18. (1) The Commission shall, as soon as possible after the intimation of vacancies under section 17, hold examination or interview or both and prepare in such manner as may be prescribed a list of the candidates who are found suitable.

(2) The list referred to in sub-section (1) shall be forwarded to the appointing authority and the appointing authority shall make appointments from the list so forwarded to it in the order mentioned therein.

12. The Government in exercise of the powers conferred by the proviso to Article-309 of the Constitution of India, framed the Uttar Pradesh Direct Recruitment To Group "C' Posts (Mode And Procedure) Rules, 2015. Rule-5 provides the mode of direct recruitment to Group "C' posts to be made through Commission. Rule-7 mandates the appointing authority to determine and intimate to the Commission in the prescribed Form, the number of vacancies to be filled during the course of the year of recruitment, as also the number of vacancies to be reserved for the various class of candidates. Rule-8 provides the procedure for direct recruitment, the syllabus, marks of written examination/interview and the rules relating thereof shall be such as prescribed by the Commission from time to time with the approval of the Government. Sub rule-(2) of Rule-8 provides the procedure for direct recruitment to be made on the basis of written examination and interview. Clause-(iv) of sub rule-(2) of Rule-8 mandates that the Commission shall prepare a list of candidates in order of their proficiency as disclosed by the aggregate of marks obtained by each candidate at the written examination and interview and recommend such number of candidates as they consider fit for appointment. Rule 7 and 8 are extracted:

"7. The appointing authority shall determine and intimate to the Commission, in the prescribed Requisition Form, the number of vacancies to be filled during the course of the year of recruitment, as also the number of vacancies to be reserved for the candidates belonging to the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other categories under rule 6.

8.(1) The procedure for direct recruitment, the syllabus, marks of written examination/interview and the rules relating thereof shall be such as prescribed by the Commission from time to time with the approval of the Government.

(2) When, in accordance with the provisions of sub-rule (1) direct recruitment is to made on the basis of written examination and interview, the following procedure shall be followed:-

(i) Application for permission to appear in the competitiveexamination shall be invited by the Commission in the form published in the advertisement issued by the Commission.

(ii) No candidate shall be admitted to the examination unless he holds a certificate of admission, issued by the Commission.

(iii) After the results of the written examination have been received and tabulated, the Commission shall, having regard to the need for securing due representation of the candidates belonging to the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and others under rule 6, summon for interview such number of candidates as, on the result of the written examination, have come up to the standard fixed by the Commission in this respect. The marks awarded to each candidate at the interview shall be added to the marks obtained by him in the written examination.

(iv) The Commission shall prepare a list of candidates in order of their proficiency as disclosed by the aggregate of mark obtained by each candidate at the written examination and interview and recommend such number of candidates as they consider fit for appointment. If two or more candidates obtain equal marks in the aggregate, the name of the candidate obtaining higher marks in the written examination shall be placed higher in the list. If two or more candidates obtain equal marks in the written examination also, the name of the candidate senior in age shall be placed higher in the list. The Commission shall forward the list to the appointing authority.

13. The Guidelines adopted by the Commission in exercise of powers under Section 15 of the Selection Commission Act, for the purposes of the examination, written test, proficiency/physical test and interview that govern the selection process of the posts. Guideline-16 provides for selection procedure. The candidates in ratio of 3:1 are to be invited for interview on qualifying written examination. Guideline-21 provides for preparing the merit list on the strength of the marks obtained in the written examination and proficiency test. Guideline-22 provides for interview. Guideline-23 mandates that after verification of the document and upon satisfying itself, the Commission, thereafter, would declare the select list. Guideline-24 mandates that the select list shall be notified by the Commission and the Secretary of the Commission shall pursue/monitor as to whether the appointment letter to all the candidates notified in the select list has been issued. Paragraphs 16 (1), 21, 22, 23 & 24 of the Guidelines are extracted:

16- चयन प्रक्रिया के सम्बन्ध में कुछ विशिष्ट मामलों के बारे में मार्गदर्शक सिद्धान्त :–

(1) सामान्य रूप से लिखित परीक्षा के परिणाम के आधार पर साक्षात्कार में बुलाये जाने वाले अभ्यर्थियों की संख्या उपलब्ध रिक्त पदों की संख्या का तीन गुना होगी। लेकिन यदि रिक्त पदों की संख्या अत्यधिक है, तो आयोग में विचार विमर्श के उपरान्त साक्षात्कार में बुलाये जाने वाले अभ्यर्थियों की संख्या में परिवर्तन किया जा सकता है।

21. ऐसे मामलों में जब चयन लिखित परीक्षा तथा साक्षात्कार दोनों के आाधार पर किया जाना है:–

प्रत्येक दिन साक्षात्कार के पश्चात प्रत्येक साक्षातकार बोर्ड के अध्यक्ष द्वारा अंकतालिका की सूची (जिसकी केवल एक ही प्रति बनायी जायेगी) सचिव को सील्ड लिफाफे में उपलब्ध करायी जायेगी। गोपन अनुभाग में इन सूचियों तथा लिखित परीक्षा के परिणाम के आधार पर सेवा नियमावली के प्राविधानों के अनुसार श्रेष्ठता सूची तैयार कर यथा सम्भव उसी कार्यदिवस को आयोग की बैठक आयोजित कर अन्तिम परिणाम पर यथानियम/विनियम, अध्यक्ष/आयोग का अनुमोदन प्राप्त किया जायेगा।

22. साक्षात्कार के पूर्व यदि कोई अथ्यर्थी शैक्षिक योग्यता अथवा अनुभव से सम्बन्धित मूल प्रमाण्–पत्र, परीक्षण हेतु प्रस्तुत नहीं कर पाते हैं तो ऐसे अभ्यर्थियों का साक्षात्कार औपबन्धिक रूप से लिया जा सकता है, परन्तु इससे पूर्व सम्बन्धित साक्षात्कार बोर्ड के अध्यक्ष का अनुमोदन प्राप्त करना आवश्यक होगा। ऐसे अभ्यथियों से यह लिखित रूप में लिया जाना चाहिए कि वह अपेक्षित मूल प्रमाण–पत्र साक्षात्कार की तिथि से निर्धारित अवधि (यथासम्भव 15 दिन) में प्रस्तुत कर देंगे अन्यथा उनका अभ्यर्थन स्वतः समाप्त समझा जायेगा।

23. प्रत्येक मामले में परीक्षा परिणाम घोषित करने हेतु आयोग की संस्तुति प्राप्त करने से पूर्व सफल अभ्यर्थियों के अभ्यर्थन के सम्बन्ध में कार्यालय द्वारा पुनः सूक्ष्मता से जांच की जायेगी।

24. चयन सम्बन्धी संस्तुतियां संबंधित विभाग/विभागों को प्रेषित करने के पश्चात कार्यालय/सचिव का यह कर्तव्य होगा कि वे प्रकरण का अनुश्रवण तब तक करते रहें जब तक संस्तुत किये गये अभ्यर्थियों द्वारा संबंधित पद पर कार्यभार ग्रहण न कर लिया जाये। इस संबंध में द्विवार्षिक मूल्यांकन रिपोर्ट भी प्राप्त की जायेगी। 5

14. I have perused and carefully gone through the provisions of the Act, Rules framed thereunder, and the Guidelines, with the assistance of the learned counsel for the parties.

15. The Rules and Guidelines nowhere provide for preparation of wait list. The Commission under the Rules and Guidelines is mandated to recommend a select list for the posts notified by the Government to the Commission. In other words, in the facts of the instant case, 3133 post of Village Development Officer (Group "C') was sent by the Government to the Commission for initiating the process of selection. The Commission after following the selection procedure recommended 2947 candidates, the result of 116 candidates was withhold pending verification of the documents. Thereafter, 98 were sent to the Government, finally, the list of remaining 18 candidates were duly recommended and notified by the Commission on 26 June 2020. Prior to that it is informed that 70 candidates under the ex-serviceman quota were notified. The total recommended candidates, thus, were equivalent to the notified post 3133 (2947+116+70). The State Government has declined to accept the select list of the candidates notified by the Commission on 26 June 2020, for the reason that the Commission lacks power and authority to issue any supplementary select list. According to the State Government, selection process came to an end after the Commission had notified the select list of 2947 candidates. Reliance has also been placed on the notification dated 15 November 1999 (Annexure CA-1), wherein, it has been provided that there is no provision for preparation of waiting list. The notification pertains to the Public Service Commission, U.P. On specific query, learned counsel appearing for the State fairly submits that the said notification would not apply to the Commission, which is governed under a separate statute.

16. In any case, it is not in dispute between the parties that there is no provision under the Rules/Guidelines for preparation of waiting list. In other words, the Commission is required to prepare a select list of candidates against the vacancies notified by the State Government to the Commission. In the instant case, 3133 vacancies were notified, though the select list was declared/notified intermittently on three occasions pending verification of the credentials of the withheld candidates. It is not the case of the State that they have declined appointment to all such candidates notified by the Commission after declaration of the select list of 2947 candidates. To put it in other words that the subsequent supplementary select list of withheld candidates was honoured. The final supplementary list of 18 candidates is a part of the withheld candidates to have been cleared by the Commission subsequently. The 18 candidates are part of the same select list and not beyond the notified vacancy. Their result were notified after verification as was the case of other withheld candidates. The State cannot discriminate against the petitioners by taking a plea that the Commission has no power to declare a supplementary select list.

17. Learned counsel appearing for the State is unable to show either from the Rules or Guidelines that there is any such prohibition restraining the Commission from issuing select list in respect of the post in first instance alone. Thereafter, the Commission, is denuded of its power to process the withheld result of otherwise selected candidates pending verification. The withheld result is not a separate exercise undertaken by the Commission but a part of the same selection process. Merely for the reason that verification was pending would not mean that the withheld candidates were not in the select list declared by the Commission on 18 July 2018.

18. The expression, "withheld', would mean, "refuse to give (something that is due or desired by another)'; "to hold back; to keep back,' and, "supplementary' -- "the result has not been revealed or published.' "Once certain criteria are fulfilled or certain investigation/enquiry are completed.'6

19. The objection of the State lacks merit for the reasons that it is not the case of the State Government that the candidates recommended for the post are otherwise not qualified or lack merit. It is admitted that the Commission had withheld result of 116 candidates as their credentials pertaining to their qualification and other documents were under verification. As and when the verification was concluded to the satisfaction of the Commission the supplementary result was declared. Guideline 23 clearly mandates that the office shall minutely re-examine the candidature of each successful candidates before obtaining the approval of the Commission. Guideline 22 confers right upon the Commission to take interview of such candidates "provisionally' if a candidate is unable to produce original certificates relating to qualification. To put it differently the Commission has a right to withhold the result pending verification of the original certificate relating to qualification. It is also not the case of the State Government that the candidates recommended by the Commission exceed the total number of vacancies notified i.e. 3133. It is also not a case of exhaustion of the select list of recommended candidates but preparation and declaration of the complete select list by the Commission of the notified vacancy pursuant to the same advertisement. The authorities relied upon by the State counsel would not apply to the facts of the instant case. In Sheeja P.R. (supra), the respondent/petitioner, therein, was seeking appointment as his name featured in the supplementary list of reserved candidates prepared by the Commission after exhaustion of the main select list. The Supreme Court held that when the main (select) list exhausted or expired, supplementary list cannot be allowed to operate. In the case of Ajay Prakash Mishra (supra), the petitioners, therein, were seeking appointment on vacant posts that could not be filled as some of the aspirant candidates were found unfit in proficiency physical test or on verification of their documents. The court was of the view that since in the rules there was no provision of wait list, the petitioners cannot claim as a matter of right on the vacant post.

20. In the case at hand, the proposition of law noted in the cited decisions by the State counsel would not apply. It is not the case of the petitioners and/or the Commission that a wait list was prepared. It is further not the case of the Commission and/or the State that the petitioners are seeking appointment upon exhaustion of the select list of 3133 posts. As per the Commission, 18 candidates are the remaining candidates of the 116 withheld result. Their results were declared after verification of their documents and were otherwise found fit on merit.

21. Learned counsel for the second respondent informs that the names of the petitioners have been duly forwarded by the Commission on 18 December 2020, it is urged that it is for the concerned department of the State Government to issue appointment letter to the petitioners.

22. Having due regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, writ petitions are allowed directing the first respondent, Principal Secretary, Rural Development U.P., at Lucknow, to issue appointment letter to the petitioners pursuant to the recommendation dated 26 June 2020 of the Commission for the post of Village Development Officer. It is expected that the appointment letters shall be duly issued within four weeks from the date of filing of this order.

23. No costs.

THE HON'BLE RAJESH SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Service Single No. 17450 of of 2020

Dr. Bharat Sah ...Petitioner
Versus
S.G.P.G.I. of Medical Sciences, Lko & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sunil Sharma, Kusharga Sah

Counsel for the Respondents:
A N Trivedi

A. Service Law – Grant and extension of lien - Voluntary retirement - SGPGIMS Act, 1983- Section 11; Schedule I of First Regulations 2011 read with the Order dated 02.07.2019; General Rules of SGPGI: Regulation 95; Rule 7 of 1999 Rules; Constitution of India: Article 14, 16, 21 - The petitioner was granted extension of service for three years w.e.f. 16.1.2019 for holding post of Campus Director, NIFT by the President, SGPGI subject to the approval of the Governing Body. However, the Governing Body has refused such extension. The petitioner in a bonafide manner continued on the post of Campus Director, NIFT, Raebareli legitimately expecting that since the President of SGPGI is also President / Chairman of the Governing Body of SGPGI, therefore, the said decision of the President would be upheld by the Governing Body. There is no doubt that the decision of the Governing Body would be binding over the opinion or permission of an individual member including the Chairman / President of the statutory body but at the same time it may not be said to be any lapse on the part of the petitioner to continue on the post of Campus Director, NIFT pursuant to the permission being granted by the President for holding the post for further three years w.e.f. 16.1.2019. Therefore, the conduct of the petitioner continuing on the post of Campus Director, NIFT, Raebareli is bona fide conduct in view of the facts and circumstances of the present case. (Para 41)

B. The proceedings of departmental inquiry start when the charge-sheet is provided to the incumbent seeking his explanation / defense reply. The rationale behind it is very clear that the disciplinary authority can take any decision on the conduct of an employee or can absolve him considering his / her bona fide, or could pass any alternative or substitute order instead of issuing charge-sheet for conducting full fledged disciplinary inquiry. However, as soon as the charge-sheet is provided to the incumbent indicating the charges then it would be the very first stage of initiation of departmental inquiry. (Para 44)

Therefore, the impugned order dated 23.4.2020 could not be treated as if the departmental inquiry has been initiated against the petitioner. It was, at the best, a warning to the effect that if the petitioner does not obey the direction of the competent authority the departmental inquiry against the petitioner for awarding major punishment may likely to be initiated. (Para 45)

The letter dated 9.10.2020 provides that the departmental inquiry has been initiated against the petitioner and inquiry officer has been appointed with the direction to conclude the departmental inquiry within a period of two months. However, by that time no charge-sheet was provided to the petitioner and before this, the petitioner had already submitted his application dated 05.05.2020 for seeking voluntary retirement. (Para 46)

C. Voluntary retirement - General Rules of SGPGI: Regulation 95 - The petitioner submitted an application for voluntary retirement on 5.5.2020 when no departmental inquiry was pending against him. Therefore, the petitioner was fulfilling both the conditions of concerning general rule for accepting voluntary retirement inasmuch as the petitioner has already attained the required age and has completed the requisite period of service and no disciplinary inquiry was initiated or pending against the petitioner at that point of time. (Para 42)

The departmental inquiry can be said to have been initiated or pending w.e.f. the date when the charge-sheet is issued against an employee and there is no doubt that on 5.5.2020 no departmental inquiry / disciplinary proceedings was initiated or pending against the petitioner. The petitioner was being forced to submit his joining on such post which has been declared as 'Dying Cadre' and none was posted on such post after 15.1.2014 when the petitioner submitted his joining at NIFT, Raebareli nor any person would be holding such post after 3.11.2023, the date of superannuation of the petitioner. (Para 48)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. UCO Bank & anr. Vs Rajinder Lal Capoor reported in (2007) 6 SCC 694 (Para 48)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sunil Sharma assisted by Sri Kushagra Sah, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Abhinav Trivedi, learned counsel for the S.G.P.G.I.

By means of this petition the petitioner has prayed following relief :

"(i) Issue a writ of certiorari setting aside the impugned order dated 04.07.2020 and 23.04.2020 passed by respondent No.2, and the order dated 17.04.2020 passed by the respondent No.4. [as contained in annexure no. 1 to 3]

(ii) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of Mandamus to the Respondents commanding them to consider the Petitioner's application dated 05.05.2020 for voluntary retirement afresh as per SGPGI Regulations, within the stipulated time and after its acceptance, the consequential service benefits admissible to the petitioner under rules be also released thereafter expeditiously.

(iii) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of Mandamus restraining the respondents from compelling the petitioner to join back in SGPGI, and to take any disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner.

(iv) Issue any other suitable writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case in favour of the petitioner alongwith the cost of the petition."

2. The brief facts of the case are that the petitioner was appointed on the post of Assistant Superintendent (House Keeping) at Sanjay Gandhi Post Graduate Institute of Medical Science, Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as S.G.P.G.I.) on 28.7.1988. The petitioner was subsequently promoted on the post of Associate Superintendent (Non-Medical) in S.G.P.G.I. in 2013.

3. The petitioner applied for the post of Campus Director, National Institute of Fashion Technology, Raebareli, Ministry of Textile, Government of India (hereinafter referred to as NIFT) through proper channel for an open selection. No objection certificate has been issued by the competent authority of S.G.P.G.I. on 29.8.2013 in favour of the petitioner to apply on the post of Director, NIFT.

4. The petitioner thereafter appeared in interview and was subsequently selected and was offered appointment on the post of Campus Director, NIFT on contract basis vide letter dated 25.11.2013 for an initial period of one year from the date of assuming charge with the condition that on satisfactory performance during the period of probation, the period of contract for a further period of four years may be extended. Therefore, it was a contract appointment of five years.

5. On receipt of the aforesaid order dated 25.11.2013 the petitioner applied for grant of lien to his post of Associate Superintendent (Non-Medical) S.G.P.G.I. and the Chief Administrative Officer with the approval of President, S.G.P.G.I., Lucknow issued office order dated 13.1.2014 allowing the petitioner to maintain lien on his post for a period of two years.

6. Thereafter, the petitioner joined at NIFT as Campus Director on 15.1.2014.

7. However, the petitioner was informed by the Chief Administrative Officer, S.G.P.G.I. vide letter dated 25.1.2016 that on the petitioner's request of extension of lien of his post of Associate Superintendent (Non-Medical), S.G.P.G.I. such lien has been granted for a period of three years w.e.f. 16.1.2016 by the President, S.G.P.G.I.. Therefore, the tenure of the petitioner as Campus Director, NIFT was expiring on 14.1.2019. The Board of Governors, NIFT in its 44th meeting took a decision to extend the term of the petitioner for a further period of three years w.e.f. 15.1.2019 and the said extension was conveyed to the petitioner vide order dated 10.12.2018.

8. The petitioner thereafter moved an application on 12.12.2018 to the Director, S.G.P.G.I. requesting for further extension of his lien on the post of Associate Superintendent (Non-Medical) for a period of three years w.e.f. 16.1.2019. The petitioner was informed by the Chief Administrative Officer vide letter dated 3.5.2019 that the President, S.G.P.G.I. has granted permission to the petitioner for extension of service on his post of Associate Superintendent (Non-Medical), S.G.P.G.I. for three years w.e.f. 16.1.2019 for holding the post of Campus Director, NIFT. However, in this order it has been indicated that this order is being issued subject to the approval of the Governing Body.

9. Thereafter, the petitioner was informed on 2.7.2019 that the office order dated 3.5.2019 is being amended to the extent that the extension of lien period of the petitioner for a further period of three years under the special circumstances will be put up before the forthcoming Governing Body Meeting for decision. It was further informed that if the approval is granted by the Governing Body then this case will not be treated as precedent. Pursuant to the extension of lien by the opposite parties the petitioner continued with NIFT.

10. On 17.4.2020 the 91th Governing Body Meeting took place wherein at Agenda No. 91.17 was ' Extension of lien of Mr. Bharat Sah, Associate Superintendent for another three years' wherein it was categorically mentioned that the Agenda is for appraisal and post facto approval. The Governing Body in the same meeting decided that lien cannot be granted to the petitioner and passed the impugned decision.

11. On 23.4.2020 the respondent no. 3, the Director, S.G.P.G.I. issued a letter to the petitioner on his official e-mail ID of Director, NIFT whereby the petitioner was informed that his case for extension of lien was put up before the Governing Body i.e. opposite party no. 4 at its meeting dated 17.4.2020 and after due deliberation it has been decided that the lien cannot be granted to the petitioner and he should immediately join at S.G.P.G.I. latest by 30.4.2020 otherwise disciplinary proceedings will be initiated against him.

12. As per learned counsel for the petitioner since the petitioner was discharging his duties of Campus Director at NIFT, therefore, he could have, all of sudden, not given up his duties at NIFT for submitting his joining at S.G.P.G.I. The petitioner has, however, replied the aforesaid letter on 28.4.2020 to the respondent no. 3 informing his inability to join at S.G.P.G.I. in such a short notice, therefore, requested some time to rejoin at S.G.P.G.I. by 15.6.2020. When the petitioner did not receive any response of his letter dated 28.4.2020, under the compelling circumstances he submitted a letter dated 5.5.2020 before the respondent no. 3 seeking his voluntary retirement from service w.e.f. 5.5.2020. When the petitioner did not receive any response he again preferred letter dated 9.6.2020 pressing his application for voluntary retirement and for making payment of his post retiral dues.

13. On 7.7.2020 the petitioner received a letter dated 4.7.2020 wherein he was informed that his request dated 5.5.2020 of voluntary retirement from service has been rejected by the President, S.G.P.G.I. and the direction has been issued to submit his joining at S.G.P.G.I. forthwith.

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that though the petitioner fulfills all requisite conditions for grant of voluntary retirement but no reason has been assigned while rejecting his request.

15. Therefore, the petitioner has prayed that this Court may kindly be pleased to quash the order dated 17.4.2020 passed by the respondent no. 4 (Annexure no. 3 to the writ petition), 23.4.2020 and 4.7.2020 both passed by respondent no. 2 & annexed as Annexure nos. 2 & 1 respectively. He has also prayed that the opposite parties be directed to consider the petitioner's application dated 5.5.2020 as fresh as per S.G.P.G.I. Regulations and the petitioner be paid all consequential service benefits. It has also been prayed that the authorities of S.G.P.G.I. be directed not to compel the petitioner to join back at S.G.P.G.I. and no disciplinary proceedings be initiated / conducted / concluded against him.

16. Per contra, Sri A.N. Trivedi, learned counsel for the S.G.P.G.I. has submitted that when a statutorily constituted body is entrusted with the power to take a decision in respect of a particular matter then a collective decision of statutory body is binding over the opinion or permission of an individual member, which is included even the Chairman / President of the statutory body who is required to chair the meeting.

17. Sri Trivedi has submitted that in terms of Section 11 of SGPGIMS Act of 1983 the Chief Secretary of the Government of U.P, is an ex officio President of the Institute who has been bestowed with certain specified functions. Section 11 of the Act of 1983 is extracted here under:

11(1) The Chief Secretary to the Government of UP shall be President of the Institute and shall also be Chairman of the Governing Body.

(2) The President shall, when present, preside at the Meetings of the Institute and shall have the following powers and duties, namely:

a) to ensure that the administration of the affairs of the Institute are conducted in accordance with this Act and the Rules and Regulations made there under and to take such steps: as he deems fit for the achievement of this object.

(b) to call for such information or records relating to the administration of the affairs of the Institute as he thinks fit.

(c) to exercise such other powers and perform such other duties as are assigned to him by this Act or as may be prescribed by Rules or laid down in the Regulations."

18. From perusal of the provision, it is apparent that the President is entitled to discharge certain statutory functions. However, in terms of provisions contained under Sl. No.5 in Schedule I of First Regulations 2011, the sole domain of considering the extension of lien beyond Two Years has been vested with the Governing Body of SGPGI.

19. In terms of the communication dated 02.07.2019, the Petitioner's request was placed before the Governing Body in its Meeting dated 16/17.04.2020 and vide, Agenda Item No.91.17, the Petitioner's request for extending his lien was rejected with direction to join by 30.04.2020 otherwise Disciplinary Proceedings shall be initiated. The decision of the Governing Body was communicated to the Petitioner, vide Letter dated 23.04.2020. The Resolution of the Governing Body dated 16/17.04.2020 against Agenda Item No.91.17 is extracted here under:

Agenda Item No.	Particulars	Deliberations & Resolutions
91.17	Extension of lien of Mr. Bharat Shah, Associate Superintendent for another 3 years	"The Governing Body was apprised that Mr. Bharat Shah Associate Superintendent had been relieved wef 15.01. 2014 (forenoon) to join on the post of Campus Director at National Institute of Fashion Technology (NIFT), Ministry of Textiles, Government of India Rae-bareli on contract for which lien for the period of 02 years had been allowed after approval of President and 81" Governing Body dated 27.06.2014

		After completion of 02 years of lien period Mr. Bharat Shah had again requested to extend the lien for another 03 years w.ef. 16.01.2016.The matter was placed before the 85 Governing Body dated 10.03.2016 and after due deliberation Governing Body had approved the extension of lien of Mr. Bharat Shah for another 03 years i.e. upto 15.01.2019. Thus he had been given the lien of 05 years in totality. Mr Bharat Shah had again requested for extension of lien for another period of 03 years on expiry on 15.01.2019 which the President had directed that the proposal should be placed before the Governing Body for approval. The Governing Body deliberated on the matter and decided this lien cannot be granted and he should join back latest by 30th April 2020 otherwise disciplinary proceeding will be initiated against him for termination" Action: Chief Medical Superintendent

20. The Petitioner, vide Letter dated 28.04.2020 requested for extending the joining time uptil 15.06.2020 and in response thereof, the Petitioner was required to join back with immediate effect vide letter dated 08.05.2020. However, vide another Letter dated 05.05.2020 the Petitioner requested for Voluntary Retirement.

21. The Institute, vide letter dated 08.05.2020 directed the petitioner to join at SGPGI with immediate effect otherwise the disciplinary proceedings would be initiated in terms of the Resolution of the Governing Body dated 16/17.04.2020. Eventually, vide Order dated 04.07.2020 the Petitioner was communicated with the decision of the Competent Authority with regard to rejection of his request for Voluntary Retirement as the 'process' of initiating disciplinary proceedings have already begun.

22. Feeling aggrieved with the decision of the Governing Body dated 16/17.04.2020, its communicated dated 23.04.2020 and the rejection of his request for Voluntary Retirement dated 04.07.2020, the aforesaid Writ Petition has been filed with a further request for commanding the Respondents to consider the Petitioner's request dated 05.05.2020 with regard to Voluntary Retirement which has already been rejected.

23. The petitioner has not challenged the Office Order dated 09.10.2020, vide which the disciplinary proceedings have been initiated by suitably amending the Writ Petition. However, an Application for Interim Relief dated 09.11.2020 has been filed inter-alia praying for staying the impugned orders dated 04.07.2020 and 23.04.2020 passed by respondent No.2.

24. Sri Trivedi has further submitted that provisions contained at Sl. No. 5 of Schedule I of First Regulations 2011 empowers Governing Body of SGPGI to consider the extension of lien of an Employee beyond Two years. Section 11 of the SGPGI Act of 1983 provides for limited power of the President of Governing Body. The alleged extension of Three Years with effect from 16.01.2019, vide Office Order dated 03.05.2019 issued by the Chief Administrative Officer of SGPGI as recorded by the Petitioner is misconceived in terms of its amendment of the clarification, vide Order dated 02.07.2019 whereby the Office Order dated 03.05.2019 has been amended to the effect that instead of granting permission for extension of service of the Petitioner for Three Years with effect from 16.01.2019 is substituted with "Placing the Petitioner's request before the Competent Authority i.e. the Governing Body".

25. In terms of Schedule I of First Regulations 2011 read with the Order dated 02.07.2019, the Governing Body having resolved not to extend the Petitioner's lien and rather directed him to join the Institute by 30.04.2020 failing which the disciplinary proceedings would be initiated, the Petitioner was under obligation to comply the directions of his Employer.

26. The Petitioner has failed to substantiate as to how the Resolution of the Governing Body dated 16/17.04.2020 is allegedly erroneous or arbitrary, either a perusal thereof would indicate that the issue of the Petitioner's request for extending his lien for Three Years beyond 16.01.2019 was deliberated after considering the President's Note and consequently a conscious decision was taken for not extending the Petitioner's lien.

27. The continuation of Petitioner's lien with effect from 16.01.2019 up till 30.04.2020 i.e. when he was required to submit his joining, the Petitioner has neither been penalized nor any adverse decision has been taken for the period when his lien had expired i.e. 16.01.2019 up till the date when he was required to submit his joining at SGPGI i.e. 30.04.2020.

28. The Resolution of the Governing Body dated 16/17.04.2020 against Agenda Item No.91.17 with regard to initiation of disciplinary proceedings of termination of his service in case he fails to join his services on 30.04.2020 are not conclusive as the same is dependent upon the Enquiry Report and the decision of the Disciplinary Authority. Even otherwise, the disciplinary proceedings initiated, vide Office Order dated 09.04.2020 having not been challenged in the main Writ Petition, the same could not be the subject matter of the dispute raised by means of the instant Writ Petition. Accordingly, it is apparent that the Resolution of Respondent No.4 1.e. the Governing Body of SGPGI is neither arbitrary nor mechanical but the same have been passed with total application of mind strictly in accordance with Rules and Regulations of the SGPGI.

29. The General Rule for accepting the Voluntary Retirement is basically in two folds viz. (a) the incumbent having attained a particular age or have completed the requisite period of service; AND (b) no disciplinary proceedings having been initiated or pending.

30. The General Rule of Law would not be applicable on the Petitioner who is governed by Service Regulations of SGPGI namely First Regulations of 2011 and Regulation 95 whereof, categorically provides that the request for Voluntary Retirement can be rejected if disciplinary proceeding is pending or in process against the employee. Regulation 95 reads as under :

95(1) "A faculty member, officer or employee may seek voluntary retirement by giving notice of three months to the appointing authority after attaining the age of fifty years or after completing a qualifying service of twenty years;

Provided that the appointing authority may refuse such request for voluntary retirement within the period of notice if a disciplinary proceeding is pending or in process against the employee.

31. According to Oxford Dictionary, the word "Process" has been defined as "a continuous and regular action or succession of actions taking place or carried on in a definite manner and leaving to accomplishment of some results". The synonym of the word "succession" is "sequence".

32. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, although in case involving the question of process of manufacturing pertaining the revenue of the Government (Excise) in the case CCE Vs Rajasthan State Chemical Work, reported (1991) 4 SCC 473; has held that the "Process" include any activity or operation which is an essential requirement and is so related to the further operation for the end result would also be a process....."

33. The Petitioner's reliance on the decision of the SGPGI with regard to accepting the resignation of various Doctors in the recent past, itself cannot be a ground to maintain the instant Writ Petition as request of Voluntary Retirement of every Employee/ Officer is to be considered on its peculiar facts and circumstances.

34. There is a conscious decision of the Statutory Authority i.e. the Governing Body of SGPGI for rejecting the Petitioner's request for extension of his lien after due deliberations and after considering the entire facts and circumstances including the note of then President of the Governing Body, the Petitioner's contention that the same is non speaking is patently misconceived as in terms of the Judgment of this Hon'ble Court in the case of Aditya Swarup Pandey Vs Srawasthi Gramin Bank and Others reported in (2019) (37) LCD 2327 the reasoning of every individual member is not to be necessarily reproduced in the decision of a Statutory Body Corporate.

35. It is further no more res-integra that when a decision has to be taken by a Statutory Body consisting of various Members, any opinion/ approval/permission of an individual member which includes the Chairman/ President of the Statutory Body without approval of the Statutory Body i.e. the Governing Body of S.G.P.G.I. as a whole Body Corporate would not vest any right on an employee. Further, the notings are mere expression of opinion of an individual and shall not vest any right on the incumbent.

36. While replying the aforesaid contention of Sri A.N. Trivedi, Sri Sunil Sharma has reiterated his earlier submissions and further submitted that, however, the disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner has been initiated but no charge-sheet has been issued and the disciplinary proceedings can only be said to be pending on the service of charge-sheet. Therefore, in the present case it may not be presumed that any departmental proceeding is pending against the petitioner. Therefore, Sri Sunil Sharma has submitted that the impugned orders are patently illegal, arbitrary and uncalled for and the same are liable to be set aside.

37. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

38. One of the questions before the Court is that as to whether if any decision is taken by the Chairman / President of the Statutory Body as an individual capacity and pursuant to that decision if the employee acts upon further and later on if such decision is not accepted by the statutory body the conduct of an employee acting upon the decision of an individual authority would be a mis-conduct or a bona fide act?

39. Further, as to whether the information provided to the employee that if he would not follow the direction of the superior authority the departmental inquiry for awarding major punishment would be initiated may be treated as initiation of departmental inquiry or the departmental inquiry is said to have been initiated after service of charge-sheet upon the incumbent?

40. Further more, as to whether the initiating the departmental inquiry and appointing the inquiry officer directing him to conclude the departmental inquiry within stipulated time, however, without issuing the charge-sheet, after the application of the petitioner seeking voluntary retirement may be treated as bar in view of the Regulation 95 of the General Rules of the SGPGI for accepting the voluntary retirement in the light of twin conditions of such Regulation viz.

(a) the incumbent having attained the particular age or having completed the requisite period of service i.e. 20 years; and

(b) no disciplinary proceedings having been initiated or pending.

41. There is no quarrel on the point that the petitioner was granted extension of service for three years w.e.f. 16.1.2019 for holding post of Campus Director, NIFT by the President, SGPGI subject to the approval of the Governing Body. However, the Governing Body has refused such extension. The petitioner in a bonafide manner continued on the post of Campus Director, NIFT, Raebareli legitimately expecting that since the President of SGPGI is also President / Chairman of the Governing Body of SGPGI, therefore, the said decision of the President would be upheld by the Governing Body. There is no doubt that the decision of the Governing Body would be binding over the opinion or permission of an individual member including the Chairman / President of the statutory body but at the same time it may not be said to be any lapse on the part of the petitioner to continue on the post of Campus Director, NIFT pursuant to the permission being granted by the President for holding the post for further three years w.e.f. 16.1.2019. Therefore, the conduct of the petitioner continuing on the post of Campus Director, NIFT, Raebareli is bona fide conduct in view of the facts and circumstances of the present case.

42. Admittedly, the petitioner submitted an application for voluntary retirement on 5.5.2020 when no departmental inquiry was pending against him. Therefore, the petitioner was fulfilling both the conditions of concerning general rule for accepting voluntary retirement inasmuch as the petitioner has already attained the required age and has completed the requisite period of service and no disciplinary inquiry was initiated or pending against the petitioner at that point of time.

43. As a matter of fact, the departmental inquiry can be said to have been initiated against the petitioner vide office order dated 9.10.2020 (Annexure C.A.-1 to the counter affidavit dated 11.11.2020) which provides that the departmental inquiry is being initiated against the petitioner under Rule 7 of 1999 Rules appointing the inquiry officer with the direction that the said inquiry be concluded within a period of two months. The impugned order dated 23.4.2020 (Annexure no. 2 to the writ petition) is a sort of warning to the effect that if the petitioner does not submit his joining at SGPGI on or before 30.4.2020 the departmental inquiry for awarding major punishment would be initiated against him.

44. The law is trite on the point that the proceedings of departmental inquiry starts when the charge-sheet is provided to the incumbent seeking his explanation / defense reply. The rationale behind it is very clear that the disciplinary authority can take any decision on the conduct of an employee or can absolve him considering his / her bona fide, or could pass any alternative or substitute order in stead of issuing charge-sheet for conducting full fledged disciplinary inquiry. However, as soon as the charge-sheet is provided to the incumbent indicating the charges then it would be the very first stage of initiation of departmental inquiry.

45. Therefore, the impugned order dated 23.4.2020 (Annexure no. 2) could not be treated as if the departmental inquiry has been initiated against the petitioner. It was, at the best, a warning to the effect that if the petitioner does not obey the direction of the competent authority the departmental inquiry against the petitioner for awarding major punishment may likely to be initiated. Therefore, the said letter may not be treated that the departmental inquiry was initiated against the petitioner and in the meantime the petitioner had submitted his application dated 5.5.2020 for seeking voluntary retirement. Therefore, his case was fit to accept the voluntary retirement in terms of Regulation 95 of General Rules of SGPGI.

46. Besides, the letter dated 9.10.2020 (Annexure no. C.A.-1 to the counter affidavit dated 11.11.2020) is providing that the departmental inquiry has been initiated against the petitioner and inquiry officer has been appointed with the direction to conclude the departmental inquiry within a period of two months. However, by that time no charge-sheet was provided to the petitioner. The said office order may also not to be treated as initiation of departmental inquiry but if the intention of the competent authority is considered to the effect that the authority has made up its mind to initiate the departmental inquiry against the petitioner appointing inquiry officer, even then the petitioner had already submitted his application dated 05.05.2020 for seeking voluntary retirement. Therefore, there was no legal impediment with the disciplinary authority not to accept the application of the petitioner dated 5.5.2020 seeking voluntary retirement in terms of Regulation 95 of General Rules of SGPGI and rejecting the said request of the petitioner on the pretext that the departmental inquiry against the petitioner was initiated, is per se illegal.

47. During the course of the arguments, I have considered one relevant aspect which has been indicated in para 33 of the writ petition whereby it has been categorically indicated that the post of the petitioner i.e. Associate Superintendent (Non-Medical) has been declared as 'Dying Cadre' and after his joining at NIFT, Raebareli on 15.1.2014 none has been posted on that post and that post will not exist after the retirement of the petitioner on 3.11.2023, the date of superannuation of the petitioner. By means of para 35 of the counter affidavit dated 11.11.2020, the opposite party replied the contents of para 33 of the writ petition submitting that merely because the petitioner's post at SGPGI has been declared as 'Dying Cadre', it does not give a right to the petitioner to disobey the direction of the superior. However, it is also clear from para 35 of the counter affidavit that neither anyone has been posted on the post of Associate Director (Non-Medial) at SGPGI after 15.1.2014 when the petitioner submitted his joining at NIFT, Raebareli nor any person would be appointed on such post after the superannuation of the petitioner and admittedly such post has been declared as 'Dying Cadre'.

48. Considering the facts and circumstances of the issue in question in entirety, I do not find any cogent reason for not accepting the application of the petitioner dated 5.5.2000 whereby the petitioner has sought voluntary retirement when he was fulfilling the twin conditions of Regulation 95 of General Rules of SGPGI i.e. he has already completed the required age and completed the requisite period of service and no disciplinary inquiry was initiated or pending against him at that point of time. For the repetition sake I again say that the departmental inquiry can be said to have been initiated or pending w.e.f. the date when the charge-sheet is issued against an employee and there is no doubt that on 5.5.2020 no departmental inquiry / disciplinary proceedings was initiated or pending against the petitioner. I also fail to understand as to why the petitioner was being forced to submit his joining on such post which has been declared as 'Dying Cadre' and none was posted on such post after 15.1.2014 when the petitioner submitted his joining at NIFT, Raebareli nor any person would be holding such post after 3.11.2023, the date of superannuation of the petitioner.

Apex Court in re: Uco Bank & Another vs. Rajinder Lal Capoor reported in (2007) 6 SCC 694 has held as under :

"The aforementioned Regulation, however, could be invoked only when the Disciplinary Proceedings had clearly been initiated prior to the respondent's ceases to be in service. The terminologies used therein are of seminal importance. Only when a disciplinary proceeding has been initiated against an officer of the bank despite his attaining the age of superannuation, can the disciplinary proceeding be allowed on the basis of the legal fiction created thereunder, i.e., continue "as if he was in service. Thus, only when a valid departmental proceeding is initiated by reason of the legal fiction raised in terms of the said provision, the delinquent officer would be deemed to be in service although he has reached his age of superannuation. The departmental proceeding, it is trite law, is not initiated merely by issuance of a show cause notice. It is initiated only when a chargesheet is issued (See Union of India etc. etc. v. K.V. Jankiraman, etc. etc. reported in AIR 1991 SC 2010). This aspect of the matter has also been considered by this Court recently in Coal India Limited & others v. Saroj Kumar Mishra [2007 (5) SCALE 724] wherein it was held that date of application of mind on the allegations levelled against an officer by the Competent Authority as a result whereof a chargesheet is issued would be the date on which the disciplinary proceedings said to have been initiated and not prior thereto. Pendency of a preliminary enquiry, therefore, by itself cannot be a ground for invoking Clause 20 of the Regulations. Albeit in a different fact situation but involving a similar question of law in Coal India Ltd. (supra) this Court held :

"13. It is not the case of the appellants that pursuant to or in furtherance of the complaint received by the vigilance department, the competent authority had arrived at a satisfaction as is required in terms of the said circulars that a chargesheet was likely to be issued on the basis of a preliminary enquiry held in that behalf or otherwise.

14. The circular letters issued by the appellants put restrictions on a valuable right of an employee. They, therefore, are required to be construed strictly. So construed there cannot be any doubt. whatsoever that the conditions precedent contained therein must be satisfied before any action can be taken in that regard."

It was further more observed that:

"20. A departmental proceeding is ordinarily said to be initiated only when a chargesheet is issued."

49. In view of what has been considered above the impugned orders dated 4.7.2020 whereby the request of the petitioner for voluntary retirement from service has been turned down, the decision of opposite party no. 4 dated 17.4.2020 communicated to the petitioner on 23.4.2020, whereby the petitioner has been informed that if the petitioner does not submit his joining pursuant to the impugned resolution taken in 91st meeting of the Board of Governors, SGPGI by 30.4.2020 the disciplinary proceedings shall be initiated against the petitioner for terminating his services, which are contained as Annexure nos. 1, 2 and 3 to the writ petition are patently illegal, arbitrary, discriminatory and violative of Article 14,16 and 21 of the Constitution of India so those are not sustainable in the eyes of law.

50. Accordingly the writ petition is allowed.

51. The order dated 4.7.2020, 23.4.2020 passed by the opposite party no. 2 and the resolution of 91st Governing Body meeting of SGPGI, Lucknow dated 17.4.2020 as contained in Annexure nos. 1 to 3, so far as it relates to the petitioner are hereby set aside / quashed.

52. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the opposite parties to reconsider the application of the petitioner dated 5.5.2020 whereby the petitioner has sought voluntary retirement within a period of two months ignoring the earlier impugned orders, as aforesaid, and intimate the petitioner such decision forthwith.

53. The petitioner shall also be entitled for all consequential service benefits admissible as per law.

54. Till the appropriate decision is taken the petitioner shall neither be compelled to submit his joining at S.G.P.G.I. nor any coercive action shall be taken against him.

55. Before parting with, I put a note of appreciation for Ms. Shama Parveen, Law Clerk of this Court, for her useful assistance.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

THE HON'BLE SARAL SRIVASTAVA, J.

WRIT A No. 20277 of 2019

Sushil Kumar Gautam & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri B.S.Pandey

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Upgrade and arrears of grade pay – Government order dated 16.11.2011 - Where all things are equal i.e. where all relevant considerations are the same, persons holding identical posts may not be treated differentially in the matter of their pay merely because they belong to different departments. (Para 17)

Constitution of India: Article 14, 39B - It is the bounden duty of the State to treat similarly situated employees equally, and if it discriminates similarly situated employees then that will frustrate the object of equality that is enshrined in Article 14 of the Constitution of India. (Para 13, 20)

The Apex Court also has recognized that though Article 39B is not part of Chapter III of the Constitution of India which deals with fundamental rights, the principles enshrined under Article 39B which is directive principle has assumed the status of the fundamental right, and hence are enforceable by the courts. (Para 21)

The action of respondents in not granting the benefit of grade pay of Rs. 1900/- to the petitioners is violative of Art. 14 of the Constitution since such benefit has been extended to Mate of PWD by GO dated 16.11.2011 and also employees of Irrigation Department working in Meerut, Ghazipur and Lucknow divisions. (Para 22)

B. Scope of Judicial Review - It is settled in law that pay fixation is purely executive function and should be left to the expert to decide on it, but in a case where it emanates from the record that the action of the State is arbitrary and discriminatory to its employees in denying their rightful claim, this Court is not denuded of the power to issue a command to the State under Article 226 of the Constitution of India to treat all similarly situated employees equally. (Para 23, 24)

The nature and duty performed by Mate of Irrigation Department are similar to Mate of PWD and, therefore, they are also entitled to benefit of grade pay of Rs. 1900/-. (Para 14, 25)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Randhir Singh Vs U.O.I. & ors., 1982 (1) SCC 618 (Para 17)

2. State of Kerala Vs B. Renjith Kumar & ors., (2008) 12 SCC 219 (Para 18)

3. F.C.I. & ors. Vs Ashis Kumar Ganguly & ors., 2009 (7) SCC 734 (Para 19)

4. K.T. Veerappa & ors. Vs State of Karnataka & ors., (2006) 9 SCC 406 (Para 23, 26)

5. Haryana State Minor Irrigation Tubewells Corporation & ors. Vs G.S. Uppal & ors., 2008 (7) SCC 375 (Para 24, 26)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. The petitioners by means of present writ petition have prayed for the following relief:-

"(i) Issue writ, order or direction the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to grant sanction upgrading the petitioners' grade pay from Rs.1800/- to Rs.1900/- w.e.f. 16.11.2011 when the Mates of P.W.D. and other departments were extended the benefits of grade pay Rs.1900/-.

(ii) Issue writ, order, or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to pay the arrears of upgraded grade pay since 16.11.2011 with interest till date of its actual payment and revise their pay/pension accordingly."

2. The case of the petitioners is that petitioner no.1 was appointed as Beldar on compassionate ground in January 1993 and was promoted on the post of Mate in the year 1999 and since then he is continuing in Muzafar Nagar Division Ganga Canal, Muzaffar Nagar. Petitioner no.2 was appointed as Mate on compassionate ground on 04.06.1990 in Tubewell Division. The petitioners no.3 to 13 were appointed as Mate on 21.02.2009, 20.01.1990, 09.05.1989, 10.02.2009, 22.01.2006, 05.02.2009, 30.07.2003, 20.02.2009, 11.02.2009, 09.06.2003 and 19.06.1995 respectively in Muzaffar Nagar. The petitioners no.14 and 15 were appointed on 01.08.2003 and 26.11.1999 in Muzaffar Nagar while petitioners no.16 and 17 were appointed in Etah on 06.02.1980 and 08.01.1981. Petitioner no.17 has retired on 31.01.2019 from Irrigation Division, Etah and he is getting the pension on grade pay of Rs.1800/-. Thus, all the petitioners are working in Irrigation Department in the State of U.P.

3. It is stated that a Government Order dated 16.11.2011 was issued by Special Secretary, UP Government, Lucknow in respect of class IV employees of Public Works Department (hereinafter referred to as 'PWD') of State of U.P. providing grade pay of Rs.1900/- with amended pay scale of Rs.5200-20200/- on the basis of the report of 6th Pay Commission and recommendation of Pay Committee (2008) under G.O. dated 08.09.2010.

4. The State of U.P. issued another Government Order dated 30.03.2016 based on the Pay Committee recommendation with an amendment in the pay scale for the post of Daftari, Jamadar (Orderly), Cyclostyle Operator, Photostat Operator, and Head Gardner, etc. granting them grade pay of Rs.1900/-.

5. Further, the case of petitioners is that on 26.07.2016, Pramukh Abhiyanta (Engineer-in-Chief), Irrigation Department, U.P., Lucknow sent a letter to Deputy Secretary, Irrigation and Water Resources, UP, Lucknow requesting him to approve upgrading the grade pay from Rs.1800/- to Rs.1900/- on the basis of Government Order dated 30.06.2016 which has provided the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- to class IV employees.

6. It is also stated that the State Government issued another Government Order dated 29.05.2017 providing grade pay of Rs.1900/- to class IV employees working in Drainage & Tubewell Divisions at Meerut, Ghazipur, and Lucknow and in various other districts which are part of irrigation department and accordingly, grade pay of Rs.1900/- to class IV employees working in aforesaid divisions has been fixed.

7. It is also stated that Executive Engineer wrote a letter to Finance Controller in the office of Engineer-in-Chief, Irrigation, and Water Resources, UP, Lucknow requesting him to clarify as to whether class IV employees of Muzaffar Nagar Division be also extended the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/-. The State Government on 29.05.2018 sought a report from the office of Engineer-in-Chief and Head of Department, Irrigation and Water Resources, UP, Lucknow for extending the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/-.

8. Pursuant to the said letter, Senior Staff Officer on behalf of Engineer-in-Chief, Irrigation, and Water Resources, UP, Lucknow sent a report on 09.07.2018 recommending for grant of grade pay of Rs.1900/- to the petitioners. Similar, recommendations have been made by Senior Staff Officer to Deputy Secretary, Irrigation and Water Resources, UP, Lucknow on 02.11.2018, 10.12.2018, and 18.12.2018 but the State Government did not pay any heed to the recommendations of Engineer in Chief for extending the benefit of grade pay to the petitioners.

9. In the aforesaid backdrop, the petitioners have prayed for the above relief.

10. In the counter affidavit, respondents have not denied the fact that by Government Order dated 16.11.2011, the benefit of grade pay has been extended to the employees of PWD for the post of Mate and other posts like Carpenter, Mistri, Plumber, Painter, Pump Operator, Welder, Fitter and Turner, and other employees. The respondents have also not denied the averments made in paragraph 9 of the writ petition that the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- has been extended to the employees of the Irrigation Department in respect to Meerut, Ghazipur, and Lucknow divisions. Paragraphs 5 and 6 of the counter affidavit are extracted herein-below:-

"5. That in reply to the contents of paragraphs nos.6 and 7 of the writ petition it is stated that the Government Order dated 16.11.2011 was issued by the State Government for Public Works Department by which the pay band has been fixed for the post of Mate and other posts like Carpenter, Mistri, Plumber, Painter, Pump Operator, Welder, Fitter, Turner, etc. The aforesaid Government Order does not apply to the petitioners because the petitioners are working in Irrigation Department and governed by separate rules. Similarly, the Government Order dated 30.03.20169 is also not applicable in the case of the petitioners.

6. That in reply to the contents of paragraphs nos.8 and 9 of the writ petition it is stated that the Senior Staff Officer of the Department has recommended the case of the petitioners to provide the pay scale of Rs.1900 but the same is still pending before the State Government and on the mere recommendation the petitioners have no right to claim the aforesaid pay scale. It is further stated that the Government Order dated 29.05.2017 is only applicable to Class-IV employees of the Irrigation Department particularly holding the post of Daftari, Zildsaaj, Machine Operator, Jamadar, and Pradhan Mali."

11. Learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the benefit of grade pay has been extended to Mate of PWD who are employees of State Government by order dated 16.11.2011 on the basis of the report of 6th Pay Commission and recommendation of Pay Committee (2008) under G.O. dated 08.09.2010. The action of the respondents in not extending the same benefit to the petitioners is illegal and arbitrary.

12. He further submits that the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- has been extended to employees of Irrigation Department for Meerut, Ghazipur, and Lucknow divisions, and the petitioners are identically situated as they are also employees of Irrigation Department, posted at Muzaffar Nagar, therefore, they cannot be denied the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- which has been extended to the employees of the same department. He further submits that several recommendations have been made by Engineer in Chief to Deputy Secretary, Irrigation Department recommending for grant of grade pay of Rs.1900/- to the petitioners but respondents are sleeping over the matter and have not yet extended the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- which the petitioners are entitled to w.e.f. 16.11.2011 i.e. from the date such benefit has been extended to class IV employees of PWD.

13. Thus, the submission in nutshell is that the action of respondents in not extending grade pay of Rs.1900/- to the petitioners is arbitrary and discriminatory and defeats the very object of the right to equality enshrined in Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

14. Learned Standing Counsel has contended that the Government Order dated 16.11.2011 has been issued in respect of Mate of PWD, and since the petitioners are employees of Irrigation Department which is different from PWD, therefore, the petitioners cannot claim parity with employees of PWD. He further submits that recommendation made in favour of petitioners by Engineer-in-Chief for grant of benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- is pending with State Government. He further submits that fixation of pay is the domain of State Government and, various considerations are involved for extending the benefit of grade pay, therefore, this Court should refrain from issuing any direction for granting the benefit of grade pay to the petitioners.

15. I have heard learned counsel for the petitioners and learned Standing Counsel for respondents no.1 to 3.

16. The facts as emanates from the record is that the petitioners are employees of the Irrigation Department which is a department of State of UP. The benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- has been extended to employees of PWD w.e.f. 16.11.2011. Similarly, the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- has been extended to Mate working in Drainage & Tubewell Divisions of Meerut, Ghazipur, and Lucknow by Government Order dated 29.05.2017. The petitioners are identically situated of their counterparts working at Meerut, Ghazipur, and Lucknow Division in Irrigation Department. The Government Order dated 29.05.2017 extending the benefit of grade pay to the irrigation department is extracted herein-below:-

17. At this point, it would be apt to refer few judgments of the Apex Court wherein the Apex Court has held that where all things are equal i.e. where all relevant considerations are the same, persons holding identical posts may not be treated differentially in the matter of their pay merely because they belong to different departments. In the case of Randhir Singh Versus Union of India and Others 1982 (1) SCC 618, the Apex Court allowed the writ petition under Article 32 of the Constitution of India filed by Driver-Constable in Delhi Police Force under Delhi Administration who demanded that his pay scale should at least be the same as the scale of pay of other drivers in the service of the Delhi Administration. Paragraphs 6 and 8 of the said judgment are extracted herein-below:-

"6. The counter-affidavit does not explain how the case of the drivers in the Police Force is different from that of the drivers in other departments and what special factors weighed in fixing a lower scale of pay for them. Apparently in the view of the respondents, the circumstance that persons belong to different departments of the Government is itself a sufficient circumstance to justify different scales of pay irrespective of the identity of their powers duties and responsibilities. We cannot accept this view. If this view is to be stretched to its logical conclusion, the scales of pay of officers of the same rank in the Government of India may vary from department to department notwithstanding that their powers, duties and responsibilities are identical. We concede that equation of posts and equation of pay are matters primarily for the Executive Government and expert bodies like the Pay Commission and not for Courts but we must hasten to say that where all things are equal that is, where all relevant considerations are the same, persons holding identical posts may not be treated differentially in the matter of their pay merely because they belong to different departments. Of course, if officers of the same rank perform dissimilar functions and the powers, duties and responsibilities of the posts held by them vary, such officers may not be heard to complain of dissimilar pay merely because the posts are of the same rank and the nomenclature is the same.

8. It is true that the principle of 'equal pay for equal work' is not expressly declared by our Constitution to be a fundamental right. But it certainly is a Constitutional goal. Article 39(d) of the Constitution proclaims "equal pay for equal work for both men and women" as a Directive Principle of State Policy. 'Equal pay for equal work for both men and women' means equal pay for equal work for everyone and as between the sexes.

Directive principles, as has been pointed out in some of the judgments of this Court have to be read into the fundamental rights as a matter of interpretation. Article 14 of the Constitution enjoins the State not to deny any person equality before the law or the equal protection of the laws and Article 16 declares that there shall be equality of opportunity for all citizens in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State. These equality clauses of the Constitution must mean some thing to everyone. To the vast majority of the people the equality clauses of the Constitution would mean nothing if they are unconcerned with the work they do and the pay they get. To them the equality clauses will have some substance if equal work means equal pay. Whether the special procedure prescribed by a statute for trying alleged robber-barons and smuggler kings or for dealing with tax evaders is discriminatory, whether a particular Governmental policy in the matter of grant of licences or permits confers unfettered discretion on the Executive, whether the take-over of the empires of industrial tycoons is arbitrary and unconstitutional and other questions of like nature, leave the millions of people of this country untouched. Questions concerning wages and the like, mundane they may be, are yet matters of vital concern to them and it is there, if at all that the equality clauses of the Constitution have any significance to them. The Preamble to the Constitution declares the solemn resolution of the people of India to constitute India into a Sovereign Socialist Democratic Republic. Again the word 'Socialist' must mean something. Even if it does not mean 'To each according to his need', it must at least mean 'equal pay for equal work'. "The principle of 'equal pay for equal work' is expressly recognized by all socialist systems of law, e.g, Section 59 of the Hungarian Labour. Code, para 2 of Section 111 of the Czechoslovak Code, Section 67 of the Bulgarian Code, Section 40 of the Code of the German Democratic Republic, para 2 of Section 33 of the Rumanian Code. Indeed this principle has been incorporated in several western labour codes too. Under provisions in Section 31 (g. No. 2d) of Book I of the French Code du Travail, and according to Argentinian law, this principle must be applied to female workers in all collective bargaining agreements. In accordance with Section 3 of the Grundgesetz of the German Federal Republic, and clause 7, Section 123 of the Mexican Constitution, the principle is given universal significance" (vide: International Labour Law by Istvan Szaszy p. 265). The preamble to the Constitution of the International Labour Organisation recognises the principle of 'equal remuneration for work of equal value' as constituting one of the means of achieving the improvement of conditions "involving such injustice, hardship and privation to large numbers of people as to produce unrest so great that the peace and harmony of the world are imperiled". Construing Articles 14 and 16 in the light of the Preamble and Article 39(d), we are of the view that the principle 'Equal pay for Equal work' is deducible from those Articles and may be properly applied to cases of unequal scales of pay based on no classification or irrational classification though these drawing the different scales of pay do identical work under the same employer."

18. In the case of State of Kerala Versus B. Renjith Kumar and Others (2008) 12 SCC 219, the Apex Court dismissed the Civil Appeal filed by the State of Kerala and affirmed the judgment of Kerala High Court who has allowed the writ petition filed by Presiding Officer, Industrial Tribunals claiming pay parity with District Judges. Paragraphs 21 and 22 of the said judgment is reproduced herein-below:-

"21. The principle of "equal pay for equal work" has been considered, explained and applied in a catena of decisions of this Court. The doctrine of "equal pay for equal work" was originally propounded as part of the Directive Principles of State policy in Article 39(d) of the Constitution. Thus, having regard to the Constitutional mandate of equality and inhibition against discrimination in Articles 14 and 16, in service jurisprudence, the doctrine of "equal pay for equal work" has assumed the status of fundamental right. (see Randhir Singh v. Union of India (1982) 1 SCC 618 and D.S. Nakara v. Union of India (1983) 1 SCC 305].

22. In the latest judgment, a two-Judge Bench this Court in the case of Union of India v. Dineshan K.K. (2008) 1 SCC 586 held that if the necessary material on the basis whereof the claim for parity of pay scale is made is available on record with necessary proof and that there is equal work of equal quality and all other relevant factors are fulfilled the decision of the Central Government denying the benefits of same rank and pay structure to a Radio Mechanic in Assam Rifles as was given to other Central Paramilitary Forces was held to be clearly irrational and arbitrary and thus, violative of Article 14 of the Constitution."

19. In the case of Food Corporation of India and Ors. Versus Ashis Kumar Ganguly and Others 2009 (7) SCC 734, the Apex Court dismissed the Civil Appeal filed by Food Corporation of India and affirmed the judgement of Calcutta High Court whereby he directed to grant advance increment to 57 deputationist employees. Paragraph 36 and 37 of the said judgment is reproduced herein-below:-

"36. Submission of the learned Additional Solicitor General that Article 14 of the Constitution of India postulates a valid classification cannot be said to have any application in the instant case. The High Court, in our opinion, has rightly found that in the matter of grant of benefits under the proviso appended to Regulation 81, all the employees were similarly situated.

37. In a case of this nature, legal right of the respondents emanated from violation of the equality clause contained in Article 14. If they were otherwise similarly situated, there was absolutely no reason why having regard to the provisions contained in Article 39-A of the Constitution of India, the respondents should be treated differently. It is, therefore, not a case where persons differently situated are being treated differently as was submitted by Mr. Sharan."

20. Thus, from the aforesaid judgments, it can be safely culled out that the Apex Court has held that it is the bounden duty of the State to treat similarly situated employees equally, and if it discriminates similarly situated employees that will frustrate the object of equality that is enshrined in Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

21. The Apex Court also has recognized that though Article 39B is not part of Chapter III of the Constitution of India which deals with fundamental rights, the principles enshrined under Article 39B which is directive principle has assumed the status of the fundamental right, and hence are enforceable by the courts.

22. Applying the principles enunciated by the Apex Court in the aforesaid judgments, this Court is of the opinion that the action of respondents in not granting the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- to the petitioners is violative of Article 14 of the Constitution since such benefit has been extended to Mate of PWD by Government Order dated 16.11.2011 and also employees of Irrigation Department working in Meerut, Ghazipur and Lucknow divisions.

23. So far as the argument of learned Standing Counsel that fixation of pay is purely the domain of the executive, as various considerations are involved in the fixation of pay, therefore, the Court should refrain from issuing any direction to the State and leave it open to the State to take the appropriate decision. It is settled in law that pay fixation is purely executive function and should be left to the expert to decide on it, but in a case where it emanates from the record that the action of the State is arbitrary and discriminatory to its employees in denying their rightful claim, this Court is not denuded of the power to issue a command to the State under Article 226 of the Constitution of India to treat all similarly situated employees equally. It would be apt to refer to the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of K.T. Veerappa and Others Versus State of Karnataka and Others (2006) 9 SCC 406. Paragraph 13 the said judgment is reproduced herein-below:-

"13. He next contended that fixation of pay and parity in duties is the function of the Executive and financial capacity of the Government and the priority given to different types of posts under the prevailing policies of the Government are also relevant factors. In support of this contention, he has placed reliance in the case of State of Haryana v. Haryana Civil Secretariat Personal Staff Assn. (2002) 6 SCC 72 and Union of India v. S.B. Vohra (2004) 2 SCC 150. There is no dispute nor can there be any to the principles as settled in the case of State of Haryana v. Haryana Civil Secretariat Personal Staff Assn. (2002) 6 SCC 72 that fixation of pay and determination of parity in duties is the function of the Executive and the scope of judicial review of administrative decision in this regard is very limited. However, it is also equally well-settled that the courts should interfere with administrative decisions pertaining to pay fixation and pay parity when they find such a decision to be unreasonable, unjust and prejudicial to a section of employees and taken in ignorance of material and relevant factors."

24. Similarly, in the case of Haryana State Minor Irrigation Tubewells Corporation and Others Versus G.S. Uppal and Others 2008 (7) SCC 375, the Apex Court has held that when the decision of the administrative authority of pay fixation and pay parity is unreasonable, unjust and prejudicial to a section of employees, the Court can interfere with the said decision. Paragraph 21 of the said judgment is reproduced herein-below:-

"21. There is no dispute nor can there be any to the principle as settled in the above-cited decisions of this Court that fixation of pay and determination of parity in duties is the function of the Executive and the scope of judicial review of administrative decision in this regard is very limited. However, it is also equally well-settled that the courts should interfere with the administrative decisions pertaining to pay fixation and pay parity when they find such a decision to be unreasonable, unjust and prejudicial to a section of employees and taken in ignorance of material and relevant factors. [see K.T. Veerappa v. State of Karnataka (2006) 9 SCC 406]"

25. In the case in hand, the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- has been extended to Mate of PWD w.e.f. 16.11.2011. The petitioners are also employees of State. Though the departments are different, but the nature of the job performed by them is similar to the nature of the job performed by Mate working in PWD. This fact is discernible from the record as the benefit of grade pay has been extended by the State of U.P. to Mate working in Irrigation Department in Meerut, Ghazipur and Lucknow Divisions, and also from several recommendations which have been made by Engineer-in-Chief to Deputy Secretary, Irrigation Department by placing reliance upon Government Order dated 16.11.2011 extending the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- to Mate of PWD. Thus, from the facts detailed above, the only conclusion which can be drawn is that the nature and duty performed by Mate of Irrigation Department are similar to Mate of PWD and, therefore, they are also entitled to benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- to the petitioners.

26. Since the State Government is sleeping over the matter since 20 July 2016 when the recommendation was made by Engineer-in-Chief to Deputy Secretary, Irrigation Department, and petitioners are facing financial loss on account of the inaction of the State Government, therefore, applying the principles laid down by the Apex Court in the cases of G.S. Uppal (supra) and K.T. Veerappa (supra), this Court is of the opinion that it is a fit case where the Court should intervene and exercise its power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India commanding the respondents to extend the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- to the petitioners.

27. For the reasons given above, the writ petition is allowed and a writ of mandamus is issued commanding respondents no.1 & 2 to extend the benefit of grade pay of Rs.1900/- to the petitioners w.e.f. 16.11.2011 when such benefit has been extended to Mate of PWD. It is further directed to the respondents to fix the pay of petitioners on the basis of grade pay of Rs.1900/- and also calculate arrears of salary w.e.f. 16.11.2011 and pay the same to the petitioners within three months from the date of production of the copy of this order before them.

Service Law – Transfer - Grievance of the petitioner that by means of impugned order dated 27.7.2021 and 28.7.2021, the earlier transfer orders of the petitioner have been cancelled is misconceived. The said transfer order has been suspended for the time being till any appropriate order is passed by the competent authority, no final decision has yet been taken. (Para 8)

By means of impugned order dated 27.7.2021, all the transfer orders issued for the transfer session 2021-22 have been suspended until further orders. Appropriate orders would be passed by the competent authority, depending upon the report of fact finding enquiry. In case the competent authority finds that the earlier transfer orders issued in favour of the petitioner and other employees are appropriate orders, such employees would be permitted to discharge their respective duties at the transferred place and if it is found that such transfer orders were not passed strictly as per policy or law, those transfer orders would be cancelled and the employees would have to submit their joining at the earlier places. (Para 8)

B. Place of posting remains unchanged – Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that the employee may not insist for particular place of posting. The present petitioner shall remain posted at Farrukhabad in any eventuality i.e., whether the transfer order prevails or is cancelled. Therefore, challenge to the present transfer order is untenable. (Para 9)

Present petition assails order dated 27.07.2021, passed by Special Secretary, Finance (Services) Anubhag-1, Government of U.P. and order dated 28.07.2021, passed by Director, Internal Accounts and Audit Examination, U.P., Lucknow.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Jay Shanker Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner and Ms. Jyoti Sikka, learned Additional Advocate General of U.P. for the State-respondents.

2. By means of this petition, the petitioner has assailed the order dated 27.7.2021 passed by the Special Secretary, Finance (Services) Anubhag-1, Government of U.P. addressing to the Director, Internal Accounts and Audit Examination, Lucknow suspending the operation of all transfer orders of the employees made for the session 2021-22 until further orders. The petitioner has also assailed the office order dated 28.7.2021 passed by the Director, Internal Accounts and Audit Examination, U.P., Lucknow in compliance of the order dated 27.7.2021 staying the transfer orders issued from 22.6.2021 to 15.7.2021.

3. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner, who is serving on the post of Accountant in the office of Superintendent, Central Jail, Fatehgarh, Farrukhabad, has been transferred vide order dated 15.7.2021 (Annexure No.8) in the public interest to the office of Finance Controller (Vittiya Paramarshdata), Zila Panchayat, Farrukhabad. Learned counsel for the petitioner has contended that as soon as the transfer order dated 15.7.2021 was passed, the petitioner submitted his joining at the transferred place, therefore, after submitting his joining at the transferred place, his transfer order may not be suspended by means of impugned order dated 27.7.2021. Further, the consequential order dated 28.7.2021 passed by the Director concerned staying all transfer orders is illegal.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that some identical writ petitions are pending and in some of identical writ petitions, interim orders have been granted. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn attention of this Court towards an order dated 17.9.2021 passed by the Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal No.339 of 2021 whereby the Division Bench of this Court has stayed the order dated 27/28.7.2021 on the basis of principles of parity observing that since the interim order has been passed in favour of some employees, therefore, the appellant before the Division Bench is also entitled for the same benefit in view of the dictum of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Vishnu Traders vs. State of Haryana and others, reported in 1995 Supp. (1) SCC 461. For the convenience, the order dated 17.9.2021 passed by the Division Bench in Special Appeal No.339 of 2021 is being reproduced herein below:-

"This intra-court appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 07.09.2021 passed by learned Single Judge in Writ Petition No.19887 (SS) of 2021 in re: Satya Narayan Gautam vs. State of U.P. and others, whereby the writ petition preferred by the petitioner/appellant has been dismissed.

Heard.

Admit.

Issue notice.

Since the respondents are represented by learned Standing Counsel no steps are required to be taken for issuance of notice.

Learned counsel for the appellant submits that vide order dated 15.07.2021 several persons were transferred on their own request. The petitioner/appellant was also transferred on his request on the post of Accountant. The said transfer order was subsequently suspended by the State Government vide order dated 27.07.2021 after joining of the transferred persons including the appellant on the transferred place. The competent authority through his order dated 28.07.2021 directed to join back at the earlier place of posting. The aforesaid orders were challenged by several persons by filing separate writ petitions namely Writ Petition No.17278 (SS) of 2021 in re: Akansha Tripathi vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ Petition No.9907 (SS) of 2021 in re: Munish Kumar Srivastava vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ Petition No.18115 (SS) of 2021 in re: Gyanendra Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others, and Writ Petition No.19103 (SS) of 2021 in re: Shankar Lal Agrawal vs. State of U.P. and others, wherein the Court had granted indulgence and stayed the impugned order dated 27/28.07.2021. The submission of learned counsel for the appellant is that the appellant/petitioner is also entitled to get parity of the aforesaid orders as he is similarly situated like the others. However, learned Single Judge dismissed the writ petition on the first day itself. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the appellant/petitioner has relief on the case of Vishnu Traders vs. State of Haryana and others reported in 1995 Supp. (1) SCC 461, to emphasize that there should be parity in grant of the interim orders.

We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records.

Once the interim order has been passed in the cases of similarly situated persons, the appellant/petitioner was entitled to get parity. As such, we stay the operation of the impugned judgment and order dated 07.09.2021 as well as the order dated 27/28.07.2021 till further orders of this Court.

However, it would be open for the respondents to pass fresh orders."

5. I have also granted interim order in favour of the employee, who had sought transfer at particular district apprising his grievance and said transfer order was passed on his request and thereafter, such employee submitted his joining at the transferred place, therefore, I was of the opinion that when any transfer order is passed considering the request of an employee and such employee has submitted his joining at the transferred place, such transfer order should not be suspended by way of general order staying all transfer orders.

6. However, I had also an occasion to decide an identical writ petition bearing Writ Petition No.19965 (S/S) of 2021, whereby the transfer of such employee was made in public interest and he submitted his joining pursuant to the earlier transfer order. When his transfer order was suspended by a general orders dated 27.7.2021 and 28.7.2021, he assailed such order placing same analogy that once an employee has submitted his joining at the transferred place, his/ her transfer order may not be suspended or withdrawn. Dismissing that writ petition considering the fact that place of said petitioner was unchanged, therefore, no legal prejudice is being caused to him and even his place of posting is unchanged, no interference was made in that transfer order in terms of order dated 6.9.2021 passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Namrata Verma v. The State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors., Special Leave to Appeal (C) No(s).36717/2017. For the convenience, the order dated 6.9.2021 reads herein below:-

"Heard Mr. Parvez Bashista, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner and Mr. Sanjay Kumar Tyagi, learned counsel appearing for the respondent-State of U.P.

It is not for the employee to insist to transfer him/her and/or not to transfer him/her at a particular place. It is for the employer to transfer an employee considering the requirement.

The Special Leave Petition is dismissed.

Pending applications stand disposed of."

7. Ms. Jyoti Sikka, learned Additional Advocate General has submitted that the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Namrata Verma (supra) might have not been placed for consideration before the Division Bench of this Court and difference of the facts being considered by this Court might have not been apprised properly, therefore, the order dated 17.9.2021 would have been passed. However, she has submitted that the State is willing to file counter affidavit in the said special appeal apprising each facts and circumstances in detail including the order of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Namrata Verma (supra).

8. By means of impugned order dated 27.7.2021 (Annexure No.1), all the transfer orders issued for the transfer session 2021-22 have been suspended until further orders and as per Ms. Sikka, the fact finding enquiry is going on and as soon as the report of fact finding enquiry is received to the competent authority, appropriate orders would be passed. In case the competent authority finds that the earlier transfer orders issued in favour of the petitioner and other employees are appropriate orders, such employees would be permitted to discharge their respective duties at the transferred place and if it is found that such transfer orders were not passed strictly as per policy or law, those transfer orders would be cancelled and the employees would have to submit their joining at the earlier places. In any case, since no final decision has yet been taken, therefore, grievance of the petitioner that by means of impugned order dated 27.7.2021 and 28.7.2021 (Annexure Nos.1 & 2), the earlier transfer orders of the petitioner have been cancelled is misconceived. The said transfer order has been suspended for the time being till any appropriate order is passed by the competent authority.

9. Besides, if the transfer order of the petitioner is permitted to be existed, in that case he shall remain be posted at Farrukhabad and in case his transfer order is cancelled, even in that case he shall remain be posted at Farrukhabad. The present petitioner shall remain be posted at Farrukhabad in any eventuality. Therefore, I wonder as to why the present transfer order has been challenged by the petitioner when his place of posting is unchanged in any circumstance. The Hon'ble Apex Court has time and again and also in re; Namrata Verma (supra) has categorically observed that the employee may not insist for particular place of posting.

10. In view of the above, I do not find any infirmity or illegality in the impugned orders dated 27.7.2021 passed by opposite party no.2 and 28.7.2021 passed by opposite party no.3 (Annexure Nos.1 & 2).

11. Therefore, the writ petition is dismissed being misconceived.

2: By means of the present writ petition, the petitioners have prayed for issuance of writ of mandamus commanding the respondents to count the ad hoc service rendered by the petitioners prior to their regularization towards qualifying service for the grant of pension, gratuity and other retiral benefits and to grant third time pay scale on completion of 26 years of service taking into consideration the ad hoc service, which was made basis of grant of regularization to the petitioners.

3: Facts in brief are that the petitioners were granted appointment following the procedure of selection on the post of Vice Principal, I.T.I. vide order dated 5.10.1988 (petitioner Nos.1 and 2) and 17.12.1988 (petitioner No.3) and on completion of satisfactory service, pay scales were provided to them and ultimately, petitioner Nos.1 and 2 were regularized vide order dated 20.12.2013 and petitioner No.3 was regularized vide order dated 30.12.2014 w.e.f. 14.2.2010. On completion of satisfactory service, benefits of second time bound pay scale was granted to the petitioners w.e.f. 14.10.2010 and thereafter, on attaining the age of superannuation, the petitioners retired from service on 31.12.2019, 30.9.2019 and 30.6.2019 respectively. After retirement of the petitioners, they were not paid the retiral dues and pension, on the ground that they have not completed ten years of service to their credit for consideration of claim for the payment of retiral dues as well as pension. It has also been the ground for non payment of third A.C.P. that the petitioners have not completed regular 26 years of service, thus, they are not entitled for the grant of third A.C.P.

4: Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the law in this regard is settled by this Court as well as by the Hon'ble Apex Court that while calculating the qualifying service, ad hoc service rendered shall be taken into consideration in grant of pension and other retiral dues.

5: In support of his submission, he placed reliance upon the following judgments :-

(i) Hari Shankar Asopa Vs. State of U.P. & Another [1990 LAB I.C. 292]

(ii) Yashwant Hari Katakkar Vs. Union of India & Others [1995 LAB I.C. 718]

(iii) State of U.P. & Another Vs. Dr. Sri Kant Chaturvedi & Others [Service Bench No. 1896 of 2015]

(iv) State of U.P. & Others Vs. Vimal Kumar Shukla [Special Appeal Defective No.1084 of 2020]

(v) Bhanu Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P. & Others [Writ Petition No.6518 (S/S) of 2012]

6: On the basis of the aforesaid, his submission is that the petitioners are entitled for calculation of their service rendered on ad hoc basis for reckoning the qualifying service for the grant of pension and other benefits. Next submission is that the respondents are acting arbitrarily and for no valid justification, they have ignored the ad hoc service of the petitioners and have not released the post retiral dues and pension in favour of the petitioners. Last submission is that the claim setup by the petitioners is fully covered by the judgment relied upon, which are part of the writ petition as Annexure-7 to the writ petition.

7: On the other hand, Sri Chaudhary, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submits that for the payment of pension and other retiral dues, service rendered on ad hoc basis cannot be made a ground for reckoning as a qualifying service. The petitioners have not completed ten years of service, therefore, they are not entitled for pension and other benefits admissible to the post. He next submits that the present petition was filed prior to retirement from the post, therefore, there may not be a prayer to release the post retiral dues and pension in favour of the petitioners. Last submission is that there is no illegality on the part of the respondents in not releasing the said benefit.

Submission advanced by learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel is that the amendment was incorporated under the pension rules, which has not been considered in the judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioners, therefore, the ratio of the judgment are not attracted to the facts and circumstances of the present case.

8: I have considered the submission advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

9: On perusal, it is evident that the petitioners were granted ad hoc appointment by following the procedure prescribed under the applicable rules. They continued for a long spell of time and taking into consideration their ad hoc service, they have been regularized in service.

10: I have also gone through the judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioners in the case of Hari Shankar Asopa (Supra). Relevant paragraph Nos.17 and 18 are quoted below :-

"17. Clause (e) of Rule 56 unequivocally recognises, declares and guarantees retiring pension to every Government servant who retires on attaining the age of superannuation or who is prematurely retired or who retires voluntarily. To be precise, every Government servant (whether permanent or temporary), who retires under Cl. (a) or Cl. (b), or who is required to retire, or who is allowed to retire under Cl. (e) of R.56, becomes entitled for a retiring pension, provided, of course, the first and third conditions stipulated in Art. 361 of the Regulations are satisfied.

18. In the instant case, indisputably, Dr. Asopa, who (was) allowed to retire under Cl. (e) of R. 56 and the first and third conditions envisaged in Art. 361 of the Regulations were satisfied. He, therefore, became qualified for a retiring pension notwithstanding the fact that he was not permanent or any of the posts held by him during the tenure of his continuous services of State Medical Colleges of Uttar Pradesh Government. Denial of retiring pension to Dr. Asopa on the ground of his not being permanent on any post of the Government service was clearly violative of Cl. (e) of R.56 of the Rules. Condition contained in para 2 of the order dt. 21st Feb., 1983 (Annexure 10 to the writ petition), depriving Dr. Asopa of retiring pension cannot, therefore, be sustained. The contention of learned Standing Counsel for the State of Uttar Pradesh that Dr. Asopa was not entitled to any pension lacks merit and has got to rejected."

11: In the aforesaid judgment, Dr. Asopa, whose case was under consideration, was ad hoc employee and continued for several years and retired from service. The Hon'ble Supreme Court after considering the submission of Standing Counsel in the matter that Dr. Asopa was not entitled to any pension, held that the contention of learned Standing Counsel lacks merit and thereafter, direction was issued to release the pension in his favour.

12: Relevant paragraph-3 of the judgment in the case of Yashwant Hari Katakkar (Supra) is quoted below :-

"Dr. Anand Prakash, learned senior Advocate appearing for the Union of India, has contended that on March 7, 1980 when the appellant was pre-maturely retired he had put in 18½ years of quasi-permanent service. According, to him to earn pension it was necessary to have minimum of 10 years of permanent service. It is contended that since the total service of the appellant was in quasi-permanent capacity he was not entitled to the pensionary benefit. There is nothing on the record to show as to why the appellant was not made permanent even when he had served the Government for 18½ years It would be travesty of justice if the appellant is denied the pensionary benefits simply on the ground that he was not a permanent employee of the Government. The appellant having served the Government for almost two decades it would be unfair to treat him temporary/quasi-permanent. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of this case we hold that the appellant shall be deemed to have become permanent after he served the Government for such a long period. The services of the appellant shall be treated to be in permanent capacity and he shall be entitled to the pensionary benefits. We allow the appeal, set aside the judgment of the Tribunal and direct the respondents to treat the appellant as having been retired from service on' March 7, 1980 after serving the Government for 18½ years (more than 10 years as permanent service) and as such his case for grant of pension be finalised within six months from the receipt of this order. The appellant shall be entitled to all the arrears of pension from the date of retirement. No costs."

13: In the case of State of U.P. & Another Vs. Dr. Sri Kant Chaturvedi & Others, the order passed by the State Public Services Tribunal, Lucknow was under challenge, whereby the ad hoc service rendered by respondent Nos.1 and 2 has been directed to be counted towards pensionary benefits and also for allowing the pension to respondent Nos.1 and 2. The Division Bench of this Court, taking into consideration entire facts and circumstances of the case, affirmed the judgment passed by the Tribunal and the petition has been dismissed, which was challenged in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.18622/2016 (State of U.P. & Another Vs. Dr. Srikant Chaturvedi & Another), which has also been dismissed, affirming the order passed by the Tribunal, Lucknow.

14: In the case of State of U.P. & Others Vs. Vimal Kumar Shukla, the relevant paragraph is quoted below :-

"The issue aforesaid is now not open for debate after the judgment of Apex court in Prem Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, 2019 (10) SCC 516. Para 36 of the said judgment covers the issue and for ready reference, is quoted hereunder :

"There are some of the employees who have not been regularized in spite of having rendered the services for 30-40 or more years whereas they have been superannuated. As they have worked in the work-charged establishment, not against any particular project, their services ought to have been regularized under the Government instructions and even as per the decision of this Court in Secretary, State of Karnataka and Ors. v. Umadevi, (2006) 4 SCC 1. This Court in the said decision has laid down that in case services have been rendered for more than ten years without the cover of the Court's order, as one time measure, the services be regularized of such employees. In the facts of the case, those employees who have worked for ten years or more should have been regularized. It would not be proper to regulate them for consideration of regularisation as others have been regularised, we direct that their services be treated as a regular one. However, it is made clear that they shall not be entitled to claiming any dues of difference in wages had they been continued in service regularly before attaining the age of superannuation. They shall be entitled to receive the pension as if they have retired from the regular establishment and the services rendered by them right from the day they entered the work-charged establishment shall be counted as qualifying service for purpose of pension."

The para, quoted above, has otherwise been referred by the learned Single Judge in his judgment. It was found that petitioner was appointed on the post of Assistant Store Keeper in the year 1978 in regular pay scale thus was against substantive vacancy. He continued in service with all due benefits, as are made available to regular employees.

In the circumstances aforesaid, the petitioner's case is covered by para 36 of the judgment of the Apex Court in Prem Singh (supra), as quoted above. Learned Single Judge accordingly allowed the writ petition after noticing that the petitioner/non-appellant was even allowed the revised pay scale from time to time as and when revised pursuant to the recommendation of Pay Commission.

Taking into consideration the facts aforesaid, we do not find any error in the judgment of learned Single Judge rather the matter is squarely covered by the judgment of Apex court in the case of Prem Singh (supra). We therefore, find no merit in the appeal and even no reason to accept the application for condonation of delay.

Accordingly application for condonation of delay as well as appeal are dismissed."

15: In the case of Bhanu Pratap Singh (Supra) passed by the learned Single Judge, the relevant paragraph is quoted under :-

"It is not in dispute between the parties that the petitioner was appointed on ad hoc basis on the post of Principal in the College in question pending availability of a duly selected candidate from the Board of Secondary Education. When the provisions of sub-section 2 of section 18 of the Act, 1982 specifically provide that the senior most lecturer would be appointed as ad hoc principal and he would be entitled to the salary payable to the Principal, the said benefit cannot be denied to the petitioner. It is not in dispute between the parties that the salary of the Principal is Rs. 29,500/- and in case of the petitioner the same has been reduced to Rs. 27,870/- which is wholly illegal and arbitrary being in violation of statutory Rules and therefore the impugned orders dated 07.01.2011 and 31.05.2012, Annexure-2 and Annexure-5 to the writpetition respectively cannot survive.

The order dated 07.01.2011 to the extent it relates to the reduction of salary of the petitioner and the order dated 31.08.2012, Annexure-2 and Annexure-5 are therefore quashed.

The writ petition is allowed. At the time of admission, this Court had been pleased to stay the operation of the impugned order dated 31.05.2012, Annexure-5 to the writ petition and had directed the opposite parties to pay the petitioner's salary which he was being paid on his initial appointment prior to the passing of the impugned order.

A direction is, therefore, issued to the respondent no.2 to ensure thatthe petitioner is paid the salary of a Principal i.e. at the basic pay of Rs.29,500 from the date he was appointed as ad hoc principal i.e. 01.08.2010 alongwith arrears thereof."

15: I have gone through the law report relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioners and came to the conclusion that the issue in regard to the inclusion of ad hoc service rendered by the employee and subsequently regularized, the service is countable for reckoning the qualifying service for the payment of pension.

16: On consideration of the same, the Court is of the opinion that there is no res-integra to consider the submission as advanced by learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel. Once it is settled that the ad hoc service, which has been made basis of regularization, has been considered in catena of judgments and it has been held that the same is countable for reckoning the qualifying service for the payment of pension.

17: In view of the above, I am of the opinion that the petitioners are entitled for calculation of their ad hoc service for reckoning the qualifying service. In view of the reasons recorded above, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

18. In view of the reasons recorded above, the respondents are directed to calculate the ad hoc service rendered by the petitioners for reckoning qualifying service and in case the petitioners fulfill the required qualifying service, it is directed to pay them the pension and other benefits admissible to them and release the same within a period of six weeks from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

19: The parties shall bear their own costs.

THE HON'BLE RAJESH SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Service Single No. 33755 of 2019

Mohd. Naseem Uddin ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Departmental Enquiry - The departmental enquiry should be conducted and concluded within time frame so provided by this Court vide specific order and if such enquiry is not concluded within time stipulated, the disciplinary authority/inquiry officer may file appropriate application before the Court concerned seeking further time to conclude the departmental enquiry. Even this Court may suo moto extend the time to conduct the departmental enquiry, if the charges are so serious. (Para 10)

In the present case an application for grant of time has been filed by the Standing Counsel on 25.1.2020, however, the time was expiring on 26.8.2019. Since this Court at Allahabad had granted time to conclude the departmental enquiry within time frame and the Division Bench of this Court had not extended any further time to conclude the departmental enquiry, therefore, such application could have been filed before this Court at Allahabad in the same writ petition. Even if the opposite parties were serious to conduct departmental enquiry seeking further time the appropriate application could have been filed here at Lucknow in the month of August, 2019 itself. (Para 11)

Moreover, even the charge-sheet has been issued after about two months from expiry of the period so fixed by this Court inasmuch as the period to conclude the departmental enquiry was expiring on 26.8.2019 whereas the charge-sheet has been prepared on 18.10.2019. (Para 11)

B. Suo-moto extension - The suo moto extension can be granted if Court finds that the disciplinary authority/inquiry officer was serious, they responded promptly after the order of the Court, issued the charge-sheet and started departmental enquiry but anyhow the same could not be concluded within time frame. In present case exercise and intent to obey the direction of this Court is absolutely missing. Even the departmental enquiry did not start within time frame so there is no question to extend the time to conduct the departmental enquiry against the petitioner. (Para 13)

C. Post- retirement enquiry - The departmental enquiry against the petitioner after his retirement particularly in view of the present facts and circumstances, cannot be permitted. Petitioner has retired from service on 29.2.2020, therefore, opposite party no. 1 is not permitted to conduct the departmental enquiry against the petitioner pursuant to the charge-sheet dated 18.10.2019 as the aforesaid charge-sheet has been issued beyond the stipulated period so fixed by this Court vide order dated 11.7.2019. (Para 14, 15)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi Vs New India Assurance Company Ltd. passed in W.P. No. (S/S) 7179 of 2009 (Para 7)

Present petition assails charge-sheet dated 18.10.2019, issued by Secretary Vocational Education and Skill Development.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shivam Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Shailendra Kuamr Singh, C.S.C.-III assisted by Sri Shashank Bhasin, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. By means of this petition the petitioner has prayed following relief:

"(i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the Charge-sheet dated 18.10.2019, issued by opposite party No. 1, contained in Annexure No.1 to this writ petition.

(ii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents not to proceed in furtherance of the Charge-sheet dated 18.10.2019, issued by opposite party No. 1, contained in Annexure No.1 to this writ petition.

(iii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to forthwith grant all consequential benefits such as release of salary, upon quashing of the Charge-sheet dated 18.10.2019, and completion of formalities towards settlement of the post-retiral dues of the petitioner."

3. Learned Standing Counsel has opposed the prayers made in the writ petition by submitting that the charge-sheet cannot be assailed before the writ Court and the petitioner should participate in the departmental enquiry.

4. On that Sri Shivam Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that he is assailing the charge-sheet on the ground that no definite charges have been leveled against the petitioner by means of impugned charge sheet dated 18.10.2019 and the relied upon letter dated 16.10.2018 does not disclose any involvement of the petitioner in the issue in question, if any. As a matter of fact, as per Sri Shivam Sharma it cannot be understood as to which exam the petitioner was allegedly involved in committing irregularities, as to who are the persons who were in collusion with the petitioner and as to when the mass copying for particular examination has been detected and who were involved in mass copying at that point of time. He has also drawn attention of this Court towards charge no. 5 which says that after getting the stay order from the Court the petitioner submitted his joining at the place in contravention of the guidelines of government orders.

5. Sri Shivam Sharma has further drawn attention of this Court towards the order dated 18.12.2019 which was passed on the first date of admission which reads as under :

"Heard learned counsel for the parties.

By means of this petition, the petitioner has assailed the charge sheet on the ground that the charges levelled in the charge sheet are vague and the authority concerned has issued charge sheet just to harass the petitioner.

Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the suspension order dated 30.5.2019 was assailed before this Court at Allahabad in Writ-A No.9584 of 2019 and the said writ petition was disposed of on 11.7.2019 directing the opposite parties to expedite the enquiry proceedings and conclude the same within a period of six weeks from 11.7.2019. However, the suspension order was not stayed. The petitioner filed Special Appeal before this Court at Allahabad bearing Special Appeal No.827 of 2019 and the Division Bench of this Court was pleased to admit the said special appeal staying the operation of suspension order dated 30.5.2019 with the further direction that the enguiry against the petitioner may go on and the petitioner shall fully cooperate. It has been clarified in the order dated 28.9.2019 passed by the Division Bench in special appeal that the enquiry may be concluded within the time allowed by the learned Single Judge vide order dated 11.7.2019.

Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that six weeks' period w.e.f. 11.7.2019, the date of order of the Single Judge, has already been expired but the departmental enquiry has not been completed. Sri Shivam Sharma has submitted that what to say about conclusion of departmental enquiry, even the charge sheet has been served upon the petitioner on 20.11.2019 much after expiry of the stipulated time, therefore, in view of the Full Bench judgment of this Court in re; Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi Vs. The New India Assurance Company Limited and others, Service Single No.7179 of 2009, the departmental enquiry may not go on against an employee without seeking leave from the court concerned to that effect.

Sri Shivam Sharma has submitted that till date, no such application has been filed before the Single Judge or before the Division Bench, therefore, departmental enquiry against the petitioner may not be conducted. Sri Sharma has further submitted that as per the Full Bench of this Court, this Court may suo moto grant permission to conduct and conclude departmental enquiry after stipulated period but no such order has yet been passed by this Court.

Matter requires consideration.

Let counter affidavit be filed within a period of two weeks. Rejoinder affidavit, if any, may be filed within a period of one week.

List this petition in the week commencing 13th January, 2020.

If the enquiry officer/ disciplinary authority has not sought leave from the Court to conduct and conclude the departmental enquiry beyond the stipulated time stipulated by the Court vide order dated 11.7.2019, such departmental enquiry against the petitioner may not go on till the next date of listing."

6. Sri Sharma has submitted that on the first date of admission the relevant facts of the issue in question and the law supporting such averments has been indicated in the said order.

7. For the repetition sake Sri Shivam has submitted that this Court at Allahabad in re: Writ A No. 9584 of 2019 while disposing of the writ petition of petitioner vide order dated 11.7.2019 granted six weeks time to conclude the inquiry. The period of six weeks was expiring on 26.8.2019. Sri Sharma has further submitted that law is trite on the point that the departmental inquiries started from the date when the charge-sheet is served upon the employee and in the present case the charge-sheet was prepared on 18.10.2019 and served upon the petitioner later on.

Therefore, the date of initiation of departmental enquiry would be treated on or after 18.10.2019 when the charge-sheet is served upon the petitioner. Before such date no departmental enquiry can be said to have been initiated. Whereas the departmental enquiry should be concluded within a period of six weeks w.e.f. 11.7.2019. Therefore, for all practical purposes the authority concerned has not initiated the departmental enquiry against the petitioner within time so stipulated by this Court vide order dated 11.7.2019. Therefore, in view of the decision of Full Bench of this Court in the case of Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi vs. New India Assurance Company Ltd. passed in W.P. No. (S/S) 7179 of 2009 after expiry of stipulated period the departmental enquiry may not be conducted and concluded against the employee.

8. Two questions were referred before the Full Bench of this Court in re: Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi (supra), reads as under :

"(a) Whether it an inquiry proceeding is not concluded within a time frame fixed by a Court and concluded thereafter, without seeking extension from the Court then on the said ground the entire inquiry proceeding as well as punishment order passed, is vitiated in view of the judgment in the case of P.N. Srivastava; and

(b) Whether the law as laid down by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of P.N. Srivastava that if an inquiry proceeding is not concluded within a time frame as fixed by a Court, it stands vitiated is still a good law in view of the judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in the case of Suresh Chandra as well as a judgment dated 27.7.2009 of a Division Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No. 1056(SB) of 2009 (Union of India and others v. Satendra Kumar Sahal and another)."

9. The Full Bench has answered the aforesaid question vide para 18 of the judgment, which reads as under :

"18. In view of the above discussion, we now proceed to answer the questions which have been referred to the Full Bench.

(A) Question No. (a): We hold that if an enquiry is not concluded within the time which has been fixed by the Court, it is open to the employer to seek on extension of time by making an appropriate application to the Court setting out the reasons for the delay in the conclusion of the enquiry, in such an event, it is for the Court to consider whether time should be extended, based on the facts and circumstances of the case. However, where there is a stipulation of time by the Court, it will not be open to the employer to disregard that stipulation and an extension of time must be sought;

(B) Question No. (b): The judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Suresh Chandra (supra) as well as the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Satyendra Kumar Sahai (supra) clearly indicate that a mere delay on the part of the employer in concluding a disciplinary inquiry will not ipso facto nullify the entire proceedings in every which has fixed a stipulation of time has jurisdiction to extend the time and it is open to the Court, while exercising that jurisdiction, to that a enquiry Court the time the delay has been satisfactorily explained. The Court can suitably extend time for conclusion of the enquiry either in a proceeding instituted by the employee challenging the enquiry on the ground that it was not within the stipulated period or even upon an independent application moved by the employer. The Court has the inherent jurisdiction to grant an extension of time, the original stipulation of time having been fixed by the Court itself. Such an extension of time has to be considered in the interests of justice balancing both the need for expeditious conclusion of the enquiry in the interests of fairness and an honest administration. In an appropriate case, it would be open to the Court to extend time suo motu in order to ensure that a serious charge of misconduct does not go unpunished leading to a serious detriment to the public interest. The Court has sufficient powers to grant an extension of time both before and after the period stipulated by the Court has come to an end.

We, accordingly, dispose of the reference in the aforesaid terms The petition sh now be placed before the regular Court for disposal in light of the observations ma hereinabove."

10. In view of the decision of this Court in Full Bench in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi (supra) the departmental enquiry should be conducted and concluded within time frame so provided by this Court vide specific order and if such enquiry is not concluded within time stipulated, the disciplinary authority / inquiry officer may file appropriate application before the Court concerned seeking further time to conclude the departmental enquriy. Even this Court may suo moto extend the time to conduct the departmental enquiry, if the charges are so serious.

11. In the present case an application for grant of time has been filed by the Standing Counsel on 25.1.2020, however, the time was expiring on 26.8.2019. Since this Court at Allahabad had granted time to conclude the departmental enquiry within time frame and the Division Bench of this Court had not extended any further time to conclude the departmental enquiry, therefore, such application could have been filed before this Court at Allahabad in the same writ petition. Even if the opposite parties were serious to conduct departmental enquiry seeking further time the appropriate application could have been filed here at Lucknow in the month of August, 2019 itself. Not only the above at least some seriousness and carefulness must have been shown by the disciplinary authority / inquiry officer in compliance of order dated 11.7.2019 issuing charge-sheet against the petitioner with promptness and the departmental enquiry should be concluded within stipulated time. In the present case even the charge-sheet has been issued after about two months from expiry of the period so fixed by this Court inasmuch as the period to conclude the departmental enquiry was expiring on 26.8.2019 whereas the charge-sheet has been prepared on 18.10.2019.

12. Therefore, I do not find any good ground to extend further time to conduct the departmental enquiry against the petitioner in view of the decision of Full Bench of this Court in re: Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi (supra).

13. The suo moto extension can be granted if this Court finds that the disciplinary authority / inqiry officer was so serious, they responded promptly after the order of this Court, issued the charge-sheet and started departmental enquiry but anyhow the same could not be concluded within time frame. I wonder the aforesaid exercise and intent to obey the direction of this Court is absolutely missing in this case. For the repetition sake I hereby observe that even departmental enquiry against the petitioner has not been started within time frame so there is no question to extend the time to conduct the departmental enquiry against the petitioner.

14. I have also noted one fact that petitioner has already retired from service on 29.2.2020, therefore, the departmental enquiry against the petitioner after his retirement particularly in view of the facts and circumstances of the issue in question as considered above, cannot be permitted.

15. Considering the facts and circumstances of the issue in question and also considering the decision of Full Bench in re: Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi (supra) I do not permit the opposite party no. 1 to conduct the departmental enquiry against the petitioner pursuant to the charge-sheet dated 18.10.2019 as the aforesaid charge-sheet has been issued beyond the stipulated period so fixed by this Court vide order dated 11.7.2019.

16. Accordingly the writ petition is allowed.

17. A writ in the nature of certiorari is issued quashing the charge-sheet dated 18.10.2019 issued by the opposite party no. 1, as contained in Annexure no. 1 to the writ petition.

18. Consequences to follow.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. By means of this writ petition, a direction has been sought upon the respondent no.2-Commissioner, Gorakhpur Division, Gorakhpur to decide the Revision No. 1440 of 2015, computerized Case No. C-20150500001440 (Ram Narain Vs. Smt. Nirmala Devi), under Section 333 of the U.P.Z.A.&LR.Act1.

2. The revision arises out of proceedings for exchange of private land with land of Gaon Sabha taken out under Section 161 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act. The provision is extracted hereinunder:

"161. Exchange. - [(1) A bhumidhar [* * *] may exchange with-

(a) any other bhumidhar [* * *] land held by him; or

(b) any [Gaon Sabha] or local authority, lands for the time being vested in it under Section 117 [* * *] :

Provided that no exchange shall be made except with the permission of an Assistant Collector who shall refuse permission if the difference between the rental value of land given in exchange and of land received in exchange calculated at hereditary rates is more than 10 per cent of the lower rental value.

(1-A) Where the Assistant Collector permits exchange he shall also order the relevant annual registers to be corrected accordingly.

(2) On exchange made in accordance with sub-section (1) they shall have the same rights in the land so received in exchange as they had in the land given exchange."

3. The provision has to be read with Rules 144 to 146 of the U.P.Z.A.&LR. Rules, 19522 to understand its working. The Rules are extracted hereinbelow:

"144. An application [for permission to make an]exchange shall contain the following particulars and be accompanied by the following documents:-

(1) The khasra number of the plots-

(a) [* * *] which the applicant wishes to receive and of the plots which he offers in exchange of,

(b) [* * *]

(2) certified copies of the khataunis relating'to the khatas in which all such plots are included;

(3) [* * *]

(4) a statement showing the details of any valid deeds mortgage or other encumbrances with which the lands to be exchanged may be burdened, together with the names and addresses of lessees, mortgagees or holders of other encumbrances.

145. On receipt of an application for [permission to make an]exchange of land the Assistant Collector [shall cause to be calculated the rental value of the land proposed to be given in exchange and of the land proposed to be received in exchange at hereditary rates and] if he is satisfied that the exchange is not invalid according to the proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 161, call upon the parties, the lessees, mortgagees or holders of other encumbrances, if any, to show cause why the exchange should not be made. Every such notice shall be accompanied by a copy of the application which shall be supplied by the applicant.

146. The Assistant Collector shall thereupon decide the objections, if any, and pass suitable orders. If he decides that the exchange should be allowed, he shall also make an order for the delivery of possession, if necessary, and for the correction of papers."

4. Section 161 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 read with Rules 144, 145 and 146 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Rules, 1952 together comprise the legislative scheme for exchange of private lands with Gaon Sabha.

5. While interpreting the aforesaid provision, a learned Single Judge of this Court in Shiv Murat Vs. Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad3, held as under:

"8. Section 161 of the Act provides for exchange. A bhumidhar may exchange with (a) any other bhumidhar land held by him or (b) land vesting in any Gaon Sabha or local authority under Section 117. The proviso to Section 161 requires prior permission of the Assistant Collector upon being satisfied that conditions of rental value of the respective land calculated at hereditary rates is not more than 10 percent of the lower rental value. On exchange being made in accordance with sub-section (1) shall confer same rights in the land received in exchange as the bhumidhar had in the land given in exchange.

9. Rule 144 requires that an application for permission to make an exchange shall contain the detail of khasra number of the plots which the applicant wishes to receive and of the plots which he offers in exchange.

Upon receiving such an application, Rule 145 requires that the Assistant Collector shall cause calculation of the rental value of the land proposed to be given in exchange and the land proposed to be received in exchange at hereditary rates and if he is satisfied that the exchange is not invalid according to the proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 161 the Assistant Collector shall call upon the parties, if any, to show-cause why the exchange should not be made. Every such notice shall be accompanied by a copy of the application. If the Assistant Collector decides that the exchange should be allowed, he shall also make an order for delivery of possession, if necessary, and for the correction of papers.

11. On plain reading of Sub-clause (i) of Section 161 and Rule 145, it is apparent that the Assistant Collector upon being satisfied with the conditions of exchange, as a consequence of the Rule he is required to call upon the parties to show-cause why the exchange should not be made and thereafter under Rule 146 the Assistant Collector is to decide the objections, if any, and pass suitable orders. It is, therefore, clear that without notice to the Gaon Sabha and in absence of a resolution recording consent of the Land Management Committee the permission to make an exchange suo moto by the Assistant Collector on a report of the Halka Lekhpal would be void not being mandated under Section 161 of the Act.

14. Section 28B enumerates the functions of the Land Management Committee which, amongest other, is charged with the general management, preservation and control of all property referred to in Section 28-A which includes settling and management of land but does not include transfer of any property for the time being, vested in the Gram Panchayat under Section 117 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act or under any other provisions of the Act.

15. On a plain reading of the provisions of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, it is clear that the report or consent of the Secretary of Land Management Committee (Lekhpal) is certainly not the consent of the Gram Panchayat which is conferred the right and duty to the protection and supervision of management and up-keep of the property belonging to or vesting or held by the Gram Panchayat. Lekhpal in the capacity of a revenue officer submitting a report sought by the Assistant Collector would not reflect the consent of the Land Management Committee for the reason that the Lekhpal performs his duty in two different capacity: (i) Secretary of Land Management Committee and (ii) Officer of the revenue, therefore, the plea of the learned counsel for the petitioner that the consent of the Lekhpal would be the consent of the Gram Panchayat cannot be accepted.

16. From the conjoint reading of Section 161, as well as, the Rules relating thereto, it transpires that the legislature has extended facility upon a bhumidhar to exchange his bhumidhari land from land of another bhumidhar for their convenience upon satisfying the conditions for exchange. Such exchange cannot be valid unless permission of the Assistant Collector has been obtained. An exchange involves the transfer of property by one person to another and reciprocally the transfer of property by that other to the first person. There must be a mutual transfer of ownership of one thing for the ownership of another.

17. On the bare reading of the meaning of the word "exchange" it would transpire that it is not unilateral transaction and is mutual one and it depends on the readiness and willingness of both the parties, i.e., the party which wants to exchange and the party which accepts the exchange proposed by the other party. Therefore, I am of the considered opinion that unless both the parties agree for exchange, the Assistant Collector cannot accord permission merely at the instance of an individual seeking exchange of his land with another individual unless he is willing to exchange. The willingness of the parties to exchange their respective land is condition precedent under Section 161 of the Act. The exchange of the land is not unilateral transaction of a willing party to exchange, there must be consent of the person with whom exchange has been sought and unless there is agreement of exchange between the parties, there is no such power vested with the Assistant Collector under the statute to compel the bhumidhar to exchange land with another bhumidhar/Gaon Sabha against its will."

6. Experience shows that Section 161 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act are often prone to abuse, lands are often exchanged under political considerations much to the detriment of the Gaon Sabha and public interests at large.

7. In Rambali and others v. State of U.P. and others4, this Court declined to mandamus the Assistant Collector to decide the application under Section 161 without finding due compliance of all relevant provisions comprising the scheme of exchange by holding as under:

"12....As I have noticed that the exchange of land belonging to a bhumidhar to another bhumidhar is not unilateral transaction by a willing party to exchange, there must be consent of the person with whom exchange has been sought and unless there is an agreement of exchange between the parties, there is no such power, vested with the Assistant Collector, under the statute, to compel a bhumidhar for exchange of his land with another bhumidhar against his will. I am of the view that conferment of right of exchange of the land under Section 161 of the Act read with relevant rules as detailed is subject to convenience of both the parties to the exchange and in the eventuality the willingness of both the sides to exchange, the Section 161 imposes duty upon the Assistant Collector either to grant permission or to refuse the same if the same is not inconformity with the Section 161 of the Act and the rules 144 to 147 of the Rules."

8. Adherence to the procedure under Rules 144 to 146 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R.Rules,1952, were held to be mandatory in Smt. Badi Dulaiya v. Gaon Sabha5.

9. It is noteworthy that the importance of adherence to Rule 144 to 146 was also emphasized in Shiv Murat (supra) by setting forth as under:

"23. Before disposing of the application for exchange, a duty is cast upon the Assistant Collector to ensure that the provisions of Rule 144 to 146 are literally followed. (Refer-Ashok Kumar v. Mahavir Singh, 1994 RD 136; State of U.P. v. M/s Techno Tower Ltd., 1986 RD 397). The proceedings for exchange are judicial proceeding and therefore, the Assistant Collector should pass complete and self contained order. Where the Assistant Collector finds that parties involved in the exchange have not consented, therefor, or if any of them has withdrawn such consent, he has no option but to reject the application. (Fakir Chand v. Naib Johra Zaidi, 1995 RD 405)." (Emphasis supplied)

10. An exchange without noticing the resolution of the Gaon Sabha regarding full consent and the rational of such exchange cannot be countenanced in law. Reference may be had in this regard to the law laid down in Narain Singh v. Gaon Sabha6, and Gulshan Rai v. Mitra Sen7.

11. The importance of a proper resolution of the Gaon Sabha and not a personal consent of the Lekhpal or Pradhan for purposes of such exchange was stated in Harihar Prasad v. Jagdish8.

12. The manner of application of mind by the Assistant Collector in proceedings under Section 161 U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act was discussed by this Court in Shiv Murat (supra) :

"26. The disputed land of the Gaon Sabha is recorded as manure pit being a public utility land and covered under Section 132 of the Act, no right or interest of a bhumidhar can be acquired in respect thereof, in view of sub-section C (vi) of Section 132. On fulfilling the conditions of exchange the Assistant Collector is not required to mechanically recommend exchange on mere asking of the parties, in particular, Gram Panchayat Land. The Assistant Collector is duty bound to consider whether the land sought for in exchange is a public utility land; or whether the land is being exchanged for a Gram Panchayat land which is situated on the proposed four lane road, thus, having commercial value, etc."

13. In summation an order under Section 161 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 has to be self contained and should duly reflect compliance with all relevant provisions of law as stated in judicial authorities in point discussed above.

14. In the case at hand the order dated 18.05.2011 has been passed by Sub Divisional Officer, Bhatpar Rani, Deoria approving the exchange of land in purported exercise of powers under Section 161 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act, 1950. The said order dated 18.05.2011 does not record compliance of Rules 144 to 146 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Rules, 1952. Further rental value of the lands which are sought to be exchanged and the basis of calculation of such rental value has not been disclosed in the order approving the exchange. This is an imperative requirement of law. Resolution of Gaon Sabha and contents thereof have also not been noticed. The order dated 18.05.2011 is also silent on the nature and utility of lands to be exchanged. These infirmities vitiate the order dated 18.05.2011.

15. The order dated 18.05.2011 fails to carry out the mandate of Section 161 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act read with Rules

141 to 146 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Rules, 1952 and contrary to the law laid down by this Court in the body of judicial precedents discussed earlier.

16. Mandamus is a discretionary remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution of India (Ref:Mansukhlal Vithaldas Chauhan Vs State of Gujrat, 1997 (7) SCC 622). Before exercising the discretion in favour of any petitioner the court would be well advised to examine if an illegal order is sought to be implemented, or advantage is being taken of callous attitude of the land management committees or apathy of officials or collection of parties to the detriment of the State and larger public interests in a manner contrary to law. A mandamus cannot be issued to enforce an illegal order (Ref: Chandrika Prasad and others Vs Settlement Officer Consolidation and others, 2009 (8) ADJ 1619). The court in such matters can mould the relief and pass appropriate orders to ensure faithful implementation of the law and to serve the interests of justice.

17. In fact this Court does not have any hesitation to hold that the aforesaid order dated 08.05.2011 is contrary to law and cannot be executed. Though the order dated 18.05.2011 is not under challenge, the rights conferred by such order are subject matter of this writ petition. In this wake no rights flow to the petitioner from the order dated 18.05.2011. A mandamus cannot be issued to compel the implementation of the order dated 18.05.2011.

18. The preceding findings have been made on the footing of the recitals contained in the order dated 18.05.2011. No affidavit can improve the content of the order dated 18.05.2011. The order has to stand the test of legality on the basis of the recitals contained therein. The above findings could not be disputed by the learned counsel for the petitioner nor by the learned Standing Counsel.

19. It is, however, open to the petitioner to seek fresh proceedings for exchange of land as per law.

20. While sitting in this jurisdiction I have noticed the callous attitude of the land management committees towards litigation in regard to the Gaon Sabha lands. In a sense Gaon Sabha lands are ultimately State lands. The State Government entrusts such lands to the Gaon Sabha. The State Government by adopting the procedure prescribed by law can also resume such lands. Higher public interest demands that the State Government should exercise vigilance over exchange of such lands by the Gaon Sabha with private lands.

21. These observations do not dilute the rights of the Gaon Sabha accruing from entrustment made by the State Government to the Gaon Sabha.

22. Considering the fact that in a large number of cases under Section 161 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act, the interests of the Gaon Sabha and the State lands are compromised, it is directed that the State of U.P. through the District Magistrate shall be made necessary parties in all disputes pertaining to the Gaon Sabha's lands and in particular in proceedings under Section 161. It shall be mandatory for the State through the District Magistrate to file their affidavits in all such disputes.

23. In light of this discussion and subject to the directions to the District

Magistrate and the State Government in the immediately preceding paragraph, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed and is dismissed.

Copy of this order shall be communicated by the Chief Standing Counsel to:

(1) Principal Secretary Panchayat Raj, Government of U.P., Lucknow.

(2) Commissioner Gorakhpur Division, Gorakhpur.

(3) District Magistrate, Deoria.

(4) Sub Divisional Magistrate, Bhatpar Rani, Deoria.

Dismissed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. The proceedings under Section 52 of the Indian Forest Act, 1927 (Uttar Pradesh Amendment Act, 2000) read with Section 5/26 and Section 69 of the Indian Forest Act, 1927 were instituted against the petitioner. By the impugned order dated 15.07.2020, the prescribed authority/Divisional Forest Officer, Obra, Forest Division, Obra, Sonebhadra in proceedings by exercise of powers under Section 52(A)(1) of the Indian Forest Act, 1927 has directed the confiscation of the seized vehicle called 'Tipper' in popular parlance having registration No.UP64AT6465.

2. The cause of action under the aforesaid proceedings against the petitioner arose upon registration of a complaint as Range Case No.52/Dala/2019-20 by a forest official. The complaint was registered by one Sudarshan Prasad, Forest Guard.

3. The case in brief of the forest authority as set out in the said complaint is this. On 02.03.2020, information was received from an informer that a vehicle/Tipper having registration No.UP64AT6465 was illegally transporting sand which was excavated from the forest area. The vehicle was intercepted at Markundi. The driver of the vehicle produced documents which authorized carriage of 5 cubic meter of sand. However, the offending vehicle was loaded with a far excess quantity of the sand. The driver on being asked to accompany the officials to the Chopan Range declined to do so and instead called his adherents, namely, Mangala Prasad Maurya, Ajay Kumar Pathak and others. Ajay Kumar Pathak and Mangala Prasad Maurya are hardened criminals, who brutally assaulted the forest officials. Under physical assault the officials sent a request for reinforcement. The police reinforcement promptly arrived. In the presence of the police force, the complainant/Sudarshan Kumar and his associate/Shiv Kumar proceeded to seize the vehicle. After the inspection, an additional police force was called and with their assistance the offending vehicle was taken to the police station. The quantity of the sand loaded on the vehicle was found to be 12.5 cubic meters after measurements were made. The vehicle was illegally carrying 7.5 cubic meters of sand after excavating it from the prohibited forest area. The recovery memo was created on 03.03.2020. On the aforesaid complaint, the criminal prosecution as well as the proceedings under the Indian Forest Act, 1927 (which are the subject matter of controversy in this writ petition) were set on foot.

4. A show cause notice was issued repeatedly to the petitioner on 13.04.2020, 22.05.2020, 08.06.2020 and 15.07.2020. The petitioner appeared before the noticing authority on 29.06.2020 and submitted his explanation.

5. Principally, the following defence was taken by the noticee/petitioner. The petitioner had a valid lease and had deposited over weight charges. The petitioner was falsely implicated. Simultaneous continuance of criminal prosecution as well as the proceedings under the Act simultaneously is contrary to law.

6. The same arguments are reiterated before this Court by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

7. In response the forest officials refuted the defence of the petitioner. Form M.M.-11 recorded total permissible weight as 5 cubic meters. The form/permit was taken out at 9.38 a.m. at Tehsil-Nagawa, Duddhi. However, the receipt depicting payment of vehicle charges was issued at 6.45 a.m. as per the case of the petitioner. This rendered defence contradictory. The source of 7.50 cubic meters of additional and illegal sand was not disclosed. The sand was illegally excavated on 02.03.2020 from Arazi Gata No.1767Kha/10 in the reserved forest area. The depression created by the excavation of the sand was duly inspected by the forest officials. The credibility of the recovery memo has not been disputed even by the petitioner, and its recitals are consistent with the case of the petitioner. The petitioner was given an opportunity of hearing.

8. On the foot of the preceding discussion, the prescribed authority made these findings. The petitioner was carrying an excess and illegal quantity of 7.50 cubic meters which was not accounted for by him. No documents to justify the aforesaid sand quantity produced by him. The sand was excavated on 02.03.2020 from the reserved forest area. Excess sand of 7.50 cubic meter sand, which was loaded on the offending vehicle is the property of the State. The said quantity of the sand was being transported in the vehicle/Tipper having registration No.UP64AT6465 in the offending vehicle. This act is an offence under the Indian Forest Act, 1927 (hereinafter referred to as the Act).

9. The authority has also found that the petitioner is a repeat offender. He has been constantly deploying his vehicle for illegal excavation from the forest areas. The other aggravating circumstance was the brutal physical assault and consequent injuries on the person of the forest officials, by the petitioner and his adherents. The vehicle was liable to be confiscated.

10. The authority specifically finds on the back of the preceding narrative that a lighter sentence will not subserve the interest of justice and will subvert the legislative intent and would also encourage the petitioner and demoralize the forest officials who perform their duties in most difficult circumstances.

11. Finally, the authority in the impugned order concluded that the vehicle in view of the aforesaid reasons was liable to be confiscated and directed its confiscation under Section 52(A)(1) of the Act.

12. Humanity has long been alerted to the dangerous and reckless destruction of natural wealth including fragile ecology of the forests. Natural resources are the biggest assets of any nation and indeed whole of humanity. However, ecological assets like forests and forest produce are most vulnerable to reckless exploitation by unscrupulous persons. The depletion of such resources is causing irreversible damage to the ecology and the future of all life on earth. Seized with the aforesaid danger the national forest policy was created in the year 1998. Some of the relevant extracts of the national forest policy will guide the interpretation of the statutory provision and also a decision on this controversy.

13. Section 5/26 of the Act create offences and the provisions which are relevant and same are reproduced as under:

"5. Bar of accrual of forest-rights.-After the issue of a notification under section 4, no right shall be acquired in or over the land comprised in such notification, except by succession or under a grant or contract in writing made or entered into by or on behalf of the Government or some person in whom such right was vested when the notification was issued; and no fresh clearings for cultivation or for any other purpose shall be made in such land except in accordance with such rules as may be made by the State Government in this behalf."

26. Acts prohibited in such forests.-(1) Any person who-

(a) makes any fresh clearing prohibited by section 5, or

(b) sets fire to a reserved forest, or, in contravention of any rules made by the State Government in this behalf, kindles any fire, or leaves any fire burning, in such manner as to endanger such a forest; or who, in a reserved forest-

(c) kindles, keeps or carries any fire except at such seasons as the Forest-officer may notify in this behalf,

(d) trespasses or pastures cattle, or permits cattle to trespass;

(e) causes any damage by negligence in felling any tree or cutting or dragging any timber;

(f) fells, girdles, lops, or bums any tree or strips off the bark or leaves from, or otherwise damages, the same;

(g) quarries stone, bums lime or charcoal, or collects, subjects to any manufacturing process, or removes, any forest-produce;

(h) clears or breaks up any land for cultivation or any other purpose;

(i) in contravention of any rules made in this behalf by the State Government hunts, shoots, fishes, poisons water or sets traps or snares; or

(j) in any area in which the Elephants' Preservation Act, 1879 (6 of 1879), is not in force, kills or catches elephants in contravention of any rules so made, shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both, in addition to such compensation for damage done to the forest as the convicting Court may direct to be paid.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prohibit

(a) any act done by permission in writing of the Forest-officer, or under any rule made by the state Government; or

(b) the exercise of any right continued under clause (c) of sub-section (2) of section 15, or created by grant or contract in writing made by or on behalf of the Government under section 23.

(3) Whenever fire is caused wilfully or by gross negligence in a reserved forest, the State Government may (notwithstanding that any penalty has been inflicted under this section) direct that in such forest or any portion there of the exercise of all rights of pasture or to forest produce shall be suspended for such period as it thinks fit."

14. Section 69 of the Act creates a presumption in his favour of the ownership of the government of all forest produce. For ease of reference, Section 69 of the Act is extracted hereunder:

"69. Presumption that forest-produce belongs to Government.-When in any proceedings taken under this Act, or in consequence of anything done under this Act, a question arises as to whether any forest-produce is the property of the Government, such produce shall be presumed to be the property of the Government until the contrary is proved."

15. The legislature equipped the forest authorities with various powers to effectively check the menace of illegal activities, including poaching and excavation of sand and other activities that deplete and destroy the forest resources without due authority of law.

16. For ease of reference, the provision of Section 52-A of the Act is extracted hereunder:

"52-A. Procedure on seizure.- (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act or any other law for the time being in force where a forest offence is believed to have been committed in respect of any forest produce, which is the property of the State Government, the officer seizing the property under sub-section (1) of Section 52 shall, without unreasonable delay, produce it together with all the tools, boats, vehicles, cattle, ropes, chains and other articles used in committing the offence, before an officer, not below the rank of a Divisional Forest Officer, authorised by the State Government in this behalf, who may, for reasons to be recorded, make an order in writing with regard to custody, possession, delivery, disposal or distribution of such property, and in case of tools, boats, vehicles, cattle, ropes, chains and other articles, may also confiscate them."

17. The order impugned has been passed while observing full procedural propriety. The petitioner was given ample opportunity of hearing to tender his defence. The impugned order has also considered the defence of the petitioner in detail. The recovery memo has been found to be credible. Sand was far in excess of the permissible quantity. There was excavation of sand from a prohibited area are of the forest. The defence of the petitioner was considered and disbelieved. The guilt of the petitioner is established on the applicable standard of evidence. The conclusions of the impugned order in the facts of the case are reasonable. No perversity in the order has been shown by the pleadings or any other material in the record nor made out from the arguments.

18. The prerequisites for exercise of the powers under confiscation have been duly established. There are aggravating circumstances which are also undisputed from the records. The petitioner had physically resisted and had grievously assaulted the government servants who were performing their lawful duties from the petitioner and his adherents.

19. The petitioner has not disputed the finding that he is a repeat offender against forest laws.

20. In the wake of this discussion, I find that the order of confiscation of the vehicle was just and proper. Such chronic offenders of law and persons, who recklessly destroy the environment without any care for the future generations have to be dissuaded by the deterrence of lawful penalties. The order of confiscation was proportionate to the offence committed by the petitioner and duly established by law.

21. The writ petition is dismissed.

22. In the facts of this case, it will not be in the interest of justice to compound the aforesaid offence. The deterrent effect of the punishment has to take its course in this case.

Ms. Himadari Batra, Sri Anurag Khanna (Senior Adv.)

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Kaushalendra Nath Singh

U.P. Industrial Area Development Act, (6 of 1976) - U.P. Industrial Area Development (Amendment) Act, 2020 - (U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020) w.e.f. 28.07.2020 - Section 7 Proviso – Cancellation of allotment, if the land not used for the purpose for which it was allotted within a period of one year - inter play of the two parts of the proviso to Section 7 - under the first part of the proviso the lease deed stands cancelled where the land allotted is not utilized for the purpose for which it was allotted within the period of five years from the date of possession or within the period fixed for such utilisation in the conditions of allotment, whichever is longer - But where that period has already expired before the commencement of the amending Act i.e. before 28.07.2020, the second part of the proviso comes into play, under which, the Authority is to give a notice to the allottee, to use the land, for the purpose for which it was allotted, within a period of one year - if within the above period of one year the allottee does not use the land, then the allotment and lease deed stand automatically cancelled - Period of one year, as envisaged in the second part of the proviso, has to be reckoned from the date of service of the notice & not from the date of enforcement of the U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020 i.e. 28.7.2020 (Para 14, 15)

Petitioner could not complete project within time over plot of land allotted by NOIDA - petitioner sought extension of time from 18.04.2019 to 07.04.2020, for construction, on payment of extension charges - NOIDA Authority approved the same - Petitioner again sought extension of time from 08.04.2020 to 07.04.2021 - On 27.5.2021 NOIDA declined the request as NOIDA counted the period of one year for utilization of the land, for which it has been allotted, as envisaged in the second part of the proviso to Section 7, from the date of enforcement of the U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020 i.e. 28.7.2020 & directed that petitioner has time only till 28.7.2021 to complete the construction - Held, impugned notice which refers to the period of one year to be reckoned from 28.7.2020, being the date of commencement of the U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020, is erroneous - Period of one year, has to be reckoned from the date of service of the notice - Impugned notice quashed (Para 4, 15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Misra, J. & Hon'ble Jayant Banerji, J.)

1. Heard Shri Anurag Khanna assisted by Ms. Himadari Batra for the petitioner; the learned Standing Counsel for the respondent no. 1 and Shri Kaushalendra Nath Singh for the respondent nos. 2 to 5.

2. Considering the nature of the order that we propose to pass as also the ground on which the order is proposed, Shri Kaushalendra Nath Singh, who appears for the contesting respondent nos. 2 to 5 and the learned Standing Counsel who represents the first respondent do not propose to file a counter affidavit and are agreeable for final disposal of the petition at this stage itself.

3. At the outset, Shri Anurag Khanna, learned counsel for the petitioner states that he does not wish to press relief (b) in the writ petition. He, therefore, confines his prayer to relief (a), which is to quash the order dated 27.5.2021 passed by the Assistant General Manager (Institutional), NOIDA (respondent no. 5).

4. According to the petitioner, on 24.1.2006, pursuant to an invitation by the New Okhla Industrial Development Authority (for short NOIDA) for setting up Educational/Training/Research and Development Institutions/Software IT Units/IT enabled Services and other allied Services etc. the petitioner submitted an application for allotment of a plot of land. In response thereto, a reservation-cum-allotment letter dated 7.3.2006 was issued to the petitioner allotting an area of 8000 sq. meter land on lease for 90 years. However, the lease deed, dated 28.12.2007, executed by NOIDA was with respect to an area of 5184 sq. meter. Certain clauses of the lease deed required the petitioner to complete the constructions; obtain occupancy certificate from the competent authority of NOIDA within the validity period of approved building plan; and ensure functioning of the unit on the allotted plot, within five years from the actual date of possession. Though, in case of exceptional circumstances, an extension could be allowed by the lessor subject to extension charges at the rate of 4% of the premium for each year on pro-rata monthly basis. Following the execution of lease, on 7.1.2008, a possession certificate was issued to the petitioner in respect of 5184 sq. meter of land. Thereafter, vide letter dated 11.10.2012, the petitioner was informed that though the area allotted was 8000 sq. meters but in measurement it came out to be 8100 sq. meters. Consequently, for additional 100 sq. meters of land additional amount was demanded. Whereafter, on 7.1.2013, a supplementary lease deed was executed by NOIDA in favour of the petitioner for the balance area of 2916 sq. meters of land, which was followed by a possession certificate dated 8.1.2013 in respect of the additional demised land ad-measuring 2196 sq. meters. It is submitted that due to late transfer of possession of the total allotted land, the project could not be completed within time, consequently, on an application made by the petitioner, the NOIDA Authority by its letter dated 1.5.2017 accepted the request of the petitioner for extension of time for construction, on payment of extension charges, from 8.1.2015 to 7.4.2018. Thereafter, on 20.3.2018, an application was moved by the petitioner before the NOIDA Authority for purchasing additional Floor Area Ratio (FAR) and approval of a building plan. It is submitted that the NOIDA Authority approved the request for allocation of additional FAR on 18.6.2018. Whereafter the petitioner obtained no objection certificate from the Fire Department on 17.7.2018 and from the Pollution Control Board on 27.8.2018. The petitioner then, again, applied to the NOIDA Authority for extension of time for construction, which was approved on 2.8.2019. On 12.3.2020, the building plans of the petitioner were approved by the NOIDA Authority and it also issued a no dues certificate dated 29.7.2020. It is submitted that in view of the disruption on account of Covid-19 pandemic, the petitioner again, by means of letter dated 4.8.2020, sought an extension of time from 8.4.2020 to 7.4.2021 for which the due amount was also deposited. However, on 27.5.2021, the NOIDA Authority passed the impugned order declining the request for extension on the basis of the proviso to Section 7 of the U.P. Industrial Area Development Act, 1976 (for short 1976 Act), which was inserted by means of the U.P. Industrial Area Development (Amendment) Ordinance, 2020 (Ordinance

No.16 of 2020). It was stated therein that the time extension application of the petitioner cannot be allowed in terms of the newly inserted proviso to Section 7 of the 1976 Act and that the petitioner has time only till 28.7.2021 to complete the construction, failing which, the Authority shall take further steps.

5. It be noticed that by means of the U.P. Industrial Area Development (Amendment) Act, 2020 (U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020), the aforesaid Ordinance of 2020 was replaced and the proviso came to be inserted in Section 7 of the 1976 Act with effect from 28.07.2020.

6. It has been contended by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the impugned order is absolutely arbitrary inasmuch as adequate and proper notice as contemplated in the aforesaid U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020 has not been given.

7. Shri Kaushalendra Nath Singh, learned counsel for the NOIDA Authority, on the basis of instructions received by him has stated that as per the letter dated 30.7.2021 sent by the State Government to the NOIDA Authority, the period of one year as envisaged in the second part of the proviso to Section 7 of the 1976 Act, inserted by U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020, is to be counted from the date of service of notice and, therefore, the period of one year for utilization of the land, for which it has been allotted, is to be counted from 27.5.2021 i.e. the date of the notice/order.

8. Countering this, the learned counsel for the petitioner has urged that in the impugned notice, dated 27.5.2021, given by the respondent-Authority, the time period of one year has been counted from 28.7.2020, that is from the date on which the U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020 came into force. It is contended that that action of the NOIDA Authority is patently arbitrary and is in the teeth of the second part of the proviso to Section 7 of the 1976 Act. He contends that the second part of the proviso to Section 7 clearly provides that where the period provided in first part for utilization of the land has already lapsed before the commencement of the amending Act, the Authority is to give a notice to the allottee to use the land for the purpose it was allotted within a period of one year and if within the above period of one year the allottee does not use the land, it is then that the allotment and lease deed would stand automatically cancelled. In support of the above contention, the petitioner has relied upon a judgement of this Court dated 2.2.2021 passed in Writ-C No. 2238 of 2021 (M/s. J.M. Housing Limited Vs. State of U.P. and others), copy of which has been enclosed as Annexure- 37 to this petition.

9. Another argument raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the supplementary lease deed was executed on 7.1.2013 and, only thereafter, that the petitioner got possession of the entire area of 8100 sq. meters of land therefore, the petitioner cannot be saddled with the burden imposed by the proviso to Section 7 of the 1976 Act, particularly, when, after receiving the possession of the entire area of 8100 sq. meters of land, the petitioner applied for additional FAR, as also no objection certificate from various authorities, and for sanction of the building plans.

10. Dealing with the second submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner first, which is based on the so-called supplementary lease deed dated 7.1.2013, it is observed that it is not a supplementary lease deed but a correction deed that corrects the area of the plot mentioned in the original lease deed so as to be read as 8100 sq. meters in place of 5184 sq. meters. Similarly, it incorporates necessary corrections regarding the premium, lease rent, etc.. In this correction deed of 7.1.2013 it is specifically mentioned that all other terms and conditions of the original lease deed and allotment letter shall remain unchanged and applicable as well as binding upon the lessee. Therefore, no further benefit in respect of extension of time can enure to the petitioner on the basis of the deed executed on 7.1.2013.

11. As regards the first submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner regarding the impugned notice/order dated 27.5.2021 being arbitrary and in the teeth of the true import of the second part of the proviso to Section 7 of the 1976 Act, on perusal of the record and consideration of the submissions of the respective parties, it appears to us that this contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner has force. It be noticed that to Section 7 of the 1976 Act a proviso was inserted by U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020. The published Statement of Objects and Reasons of U.P. Act No.25 of 2020 is extracted below:

"The Uttar Pradesh Industrial Area Development Act, 1976 (U.P. Act No.6 of 1976) has been enacted to provide for the constitution of an Authority for the development of certain areas in the State into industrial and urban township and for the matters connected therewith. In order to accelerate industrialisation in the State, it was felt necessary to increase the land bank. Hence it was decided that if the industrial unit is not established within a period of five years from the date of possession, or within the period fixed for such utilisation, whichever is longer, the lease deed will stand automatically canceled and the land shall vest with the Industrial Development Authority. Where the aforesaid period has lapsed before the commencement of this Act, the Authority shall give notice to the allottee and if the allottee does not use the land within the period of one year mentioned above, the allotment and lease deed shall be deemed to have been automatically cancelled. In view of the above, it had been decided to amend aforesaid Act.

Since the State legislature was not in session and immediate legislative action was necessary to implement the aforesaid decision, the Uttar Pradesh Industrial Area Development (Amendment) Ordinance, 2020 (U.P. Ordinance No.16 of 2020) was promulgated by the Governor on July 28, 2020.

The Bill is introduced to replace the aforesaid Ordinance."

12. The amended Section 7 of 1976 Act, after insertion of the proviso by U.P. Act No.25 of 2020, reads as follows:

"7. Power to the Authority in respect of transfer of land. - The Authority may sell, lease or otherwise transfer whether by auction, allotment or otherwise any land or building belonging to the Authority in the industrial development area, on such terms and conditions as it may, subject to any rules that may be made under this Act, think fit to impose.

Provided that where any land so allotted is not utilised for the purpose for which it was allotted within the period of five years from the date of possession or within the period fixed for such utilisation in the conditions of allotment, whichever is longer, the lease deed will stand cancelled and the land shall vest with the Authority. Provided further where the aforesaid period has already lapsed before the commencement of this Act, the Authority shall give a notice to the allottee to use the land for the purpose for which it was allotted within a period of one year and if within the above period of one year the allottee does not use the land, then the allotment and lease deed shall stand automatically cancelled.".

13. A coordinate Bench of this Court in its judgment dated 2.2.2021 in M/s. J.M. Housing Limited (supra) has observed as follows:

"5. The 1st part of the proviso provides that where any land so allotted is not utilized for the purpose for which it was allotted within a period of 5 years from the date of possession or within the period fixed for such utilization in the conditions of allotment, whichever is longer, the lease deed will stand cancelled and the land shall vest with the Authority. The 2nd part of the proviso provides that where the aforesaid period has already lapsed i.e. where the allotted land is not utilized within 5 years from the date of possession or within the specified period in the terms of allotment and the said period has expired before the commencement of the Amending Act, the authority is obliged to give a notice to use the land for the purpose for which it was allotted within a period of one year and if within the above period of one year the allottee does not use the land, then the allotment and lease deed shall stand automatically cancelled.

6. Thus, the condition precedent for applicability of the 2nd part of the proviso is that the period for utilization should have expired before the commencement of the Amending Act i.e. 28.7.2020 and the Authority before cancelling the allotment / lease had given a notice to the allottee to utilize the land within a year. Sri Singh, on instructions, does not dispute that no notice as contemplated in the 2nd part of the proviso to Section 7 of the Act was ever issued to the petitioner which is also authenticated in the impugned order as the same does not refer to issuance of any such notice, rendering the order dated 7.1.2021 vulnerable in law."

14. The inter play of the two parts of the proviso inserted to Section 7 of the 1976 Act by the amending Act (U.P. Act No.25 of 2020), as interpreted by a coordinate Bench of this Court (noticed above), is in sync with the statement of objects and reasons of the amending Act and, therefore, we are in respectful agreement with the view taken therein. To put it simply, under the first part of the proviso the lease deed stands cancelled where the land allotted is not utilized for the purpose for which it was allotted within the period of five years from the date of possession or within the period fixed for such utilisation in the conditions of allotment, whichever is longer. But where that period has expired before the commencement of the amending Act, that is before 28.07.2020, the second part of the proviso comes into play. Under which, the Authority is to give a notice to the allottee to use the land for the purpose for which it was allotted within a period of one year and if within the above period of one year the allottee does not use the land, then the allotment and lease deed stand automatically cancelled.

15. A perusal of the notice/order impugned dated 27.5.2021 reveals that the period of one year, as envisaged in the second part of the proviso to Section 7 of the 1976 Act, has been reckoned from 28.7.2020, which is the date of enforcement of the U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020, and not the date of service of the notice. It is the case of the petitioner that the NOIDA Authority approved the time extension sought from the petitioner from 18.4.2019 to 7.4.2020. This period had already lapsed before 28.7.2020 i.e. the commencement of the U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020. Therefore, in our view, the second part of the proviso to Section 7 of the 1976 Act became applicable as per which the Authority (in this case NOIDA) had to give notice to the allottee to use the land for the purpose for which it is allotted within a period of one year. Thus, in our considered view, the impugned notice dated 27.5.2021, which refers to the period of one year to be reckoned from 28.7.2020, being the date of commencement of the U.P. Act No. 25 of 2020, is erroneous.

16. Consequently, the order/notice impugned dated 27.5.2021 passed by the respondent no. 5 is quashed. This petition is disposed of by leaving it open to the NOIDA Authority to take steps for issuance of notice to the petitioner as contemplated in the second part of the proviso to Section 7 of the 1976 Act.

1. Suchita Srivastava & ors. Vs Chandigarh Administration AIR 2010 SC 235

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J.
&
Hon'ble Deepak Verma, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The petitioner is a victim of rape. She has prayed for a mandamus commanding the respondent authorities to permit her to terminate her undesirable pregnancy.

3. In brief, the case set up in the writ petition is that an FIR was lodged by the brother of the petitioner on 1.5.2021, under Section 363, 366, 506 IPC, alleging that she had been abducted by three named accused and two unknown persons. The police after investigation had submitted a charge sheet on 19.6.2021 against accused persons under Section 366, 376 IPC. The trial is stated to be pending. The petitioner has alleged that she is suffering from extreme mental agony caused by unwanted pregnancy. Reliance has been placed upon Section 3 of the Medical Termination of Pregnancy Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act'), in contending that the pregnancy had resulted in great anguish to her and thus involves grave risk to her mental and physical health.

4. On 27.8.2021, after hearing counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel, we passed the following order: -

"On oral mention made by learned counsel for the petitioner that the matter is extremely urgent and shall be rendered infructuous, if not taken immediately, the file was called for.

Heard Sri Manoj Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Mohan Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel and Sri Sandeep Kumar Singh (State Law Officer) on behalf of respondents.

The petitioner claims to be a rape victim. She has approached this Court for a mandamus directing the respondents to permit her to terminate her undesirable pregnancy.

Reliance has been placed on Explanation-I to sub-section (2) of Section 3 of the Medical Termination of Pregnancy Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') in contending that the pregnancy has resulted in such extreme anguish to her that it constitutes grave injury to her mental health.

As per High School mark-sheet, the date of birth is 01.07.1997 and thus, she is a major. Reliance has also been placed on the amendment made to the 'Act' by the Medical Termination of Pregnancy (Amendment) Act, 2021, dated 25.03.2021 whereby the outer limit for abortion has been enhanced to twenty four weeks.

It is submitted that as per report of medical examination held on 20.05.2021 at District Women Hospital, Rampur, the age of fetus was eight weeks and one day at that time and as of date, the age of fetus is around twenty two weeks, two days i.e. less than twenty four weeks.

Section 3 of the 'Act' permitted termination of pregnancy in accordance with the provisions of the said Act. The outer limit prescribed for termination of pregnancy was twenty weeks. The same has been increased to twenty four weeks by the Amendment, Act of 2021. The Explanation-I to Section 3 of the Act, permits termination of pregnancy of a victim of rape by raising a presumption that the anguish caused by pregnancy in such cases constitute a grave injury to her mental health.

Learned counsel for the petitioner states that it would be convenient for the petitioner to get her pregnancy terminated at Aligarh which is near Rampur.

Accordingly, we request the Vice Chancellor, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh to constitute a Board of four experts one each in the field of Gynecology, Psychiatry, Radiology or Sonology and Pediatrics.

The first Additional District Judge, Aligarh shall act as a member cum co-ordinator of the medical Board.

The petitioner shall present herself before the Medical Board for medical examination day after tomorrow i.e. 29.08.2021 at 11 am. The Board after carrying out medical examination of petitioner, shall submit its opinion/recommendation in sealed cover to the First Additional District Judge, Aligarh, who shall forthwith transmit the same to this Court. The opinion/recommendation of the Board shall inter-alia be on the following aspects:

a) Length of pregnancy;

b) Whether continuance of pregnancy would involve any risk to the life of the petitioner;

c) Whether continuance of pregnancy would otherwise result in any grave injury to the petitioner;

d) Whether there is substantial risk that if the child were born, it would suffer from any serious physical or mental abnormality.

The report/recommendation of the Board shall positively be transmitted to this Court by 01.09.2021.

Sri Mohan Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel shall communicate this order to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Rampur, who shall provide full security to the petitioner and person accompanying her to medical college, Aligarh for medical examination. Sri Shashank Shekher Singh, learned counsel for Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh, who on our request is present, has undertaken to communicate the instant order to the Vice Chancellor, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh within 24 hours so that it is duly complied with.

Office is directed to provide a free copy of this order to Sri Mohan Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel and Sri Shashank Shekher Singh, learned counsel for the Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh for due communication to the authorities. The Registrar (Compliance) shall communicate the instant order to Additional District Judge, Aligarh.

Put up as fresh on 01.09.2021.

Office is directed to substitute the name of the petitioner with AB (2021) in the writ petition, in computer database and in certified copy or any other documents that is issued or put in public domain so that the identity of the petitioner does not get disclosed."

5. Pursuant to our above order, the petitioner presented herself for medical examination on 29.8.2021 at Jawahar Lal Nehru Medical College Hospital, AMU, Aligarh, before a Medical Board constituted for such purpose by the Vice Chancellor. The report of the Medical Board has been submitted in a sealed cover through 1st Additional District Judge, Aligarh. The report of the Medical Board is as follows: -

A. Length of pregnancy?

Ans: As per last menstrual period - 20 weeks 4 days

As per USG parameters - 21 weeks 02 days

B. Whether continuance of pregnancy would involve any risk to the life of the petitioner?

Ans. Based on history and examination there are no apparent risk factors that may pose significant risk to her life at present. However, her urine examination shows persistent ketone bodies which is likely to be due to poor oral intake (since she travelled from Rampur to Aligarh and had motion sickness as told by her). For this abnormal lab report she is advised for observation and management.

C. Whether continuance of pregnancy would otherwise result in any grave injury to the petitioner?

Ans: As per history and mental status examination, she had a traumatic experience and is under stress but she doesn't have any diagnosable mental health problem at present.

6. However, she may be at high risk to develop mental health problems (like Depression, Anxiety Disorders) as she does not want to continue her pregnancy. This may lead to mental disorder necessitating medicines with potential harmful effect on her growing fetus and after delivery to her new born child as well.

D. Whether there is a substantial risk that if the child were born it would suffer from any serious physical or mental abnormality?

Ans: Based on the examination and USG report there is no physical abnormality in the fetus at present.

7. As per the evidence in medical literature, children born out of rape are more likely to suffer from physical and mental health problems (like Low Birth Weight Failure to thrive, Depression, Personality Disorders) due to poor mother-child relationship, abusive parenting or neglect by the mother. Also children born out of rape face great social stigma and are other ostracized by families and communities.

Impression: The member of the board concluded that at present there is no risk to the life of the victim or physical abnormality in the fetus. As told to the board, the victim does not want to continue her pregnancy and compelling her to do so may pose a risk for developing mental health problems in her and consequent physical and mental health problems to the child.

8. It is clear from the above report that the length of pregnancy as per last menstrual period was 20 weeks 4 days and as per ultrasonography parameters, 21 weeks 02 days, thus, less than 24 weeks (the outer limit prescribed under Section 3(2) of the Act). The report also clearly states that in case of continuance of pregnancy, the petitioner will be at higher risk of developing mental health problems as she does not want to continue her pregnancy. The child, if born, is likely to suffer from physical and mental health problems due to various reasons mentioned in the report. The report also clearly opines that since the petitioner does not want to continue her pregnancy, compelling her to do so, may pose a risk to her mental health and consequent physical and mental health problems to the child.

9. Section 3 of the Act provides that a pregnancy could be terminated by a registered medical practitioner, if he is of opinion, formed in good faith, that continuance of the pregnancy would involve a risk to the life of pregnant woman, or grave injury to her physical or mental health, or there is a substantial risk of child suffering from physical or mental abnormalities, if born. The first explanation to sub-section 2 of Section 3 creates a legal presumption that pregnancy caused by rape would result in anguish to the pregnant woman and would constitute a grave injury to her mental health.

10. In Suchita Srivastava & Others vs. Chandigarh Administration, AIR 2010 SC 235, the Supreme Court laid down two tests, namely the 'best interests' test and the 'substituted judgment' test for determining whether the pregnancy should be permitted to be continued or not. The 'best interest' test requires the court to ascertain the course of action which would serve the best interest of the person in question. The 'substituted judgment' test requires the court to step into the shoes of a person who is considered to be mentally incapable and attempt to make the decision which the said person would have made, if she was competent to do so.

11. In the instant case, concededly the victim as per high school mark sheet is major and thus the 'best interest' test has to be applied to the facts of the instant case.

12. Applying the said test, we find that apart from the presumption that is engrafted under the first Explanation to sub-section 2 of Section 3 of the Act, the report of Medical Board is unequivocally in favour of fetus being aborted to prevent risk to the life of the petitioner. We accordingly allow and permit termination of the pregnancy.

13. The pregnancy shall be terminated by a registered medical practitioner at a hospital established or maintained by Government or a place for the time being approved for the purpose of this Act by Government, as contemplated under Section 4 of the Act. The hospital where the pregnancy is terminated shall maintain confidentiality, as required under Section 5-A of the Act.

14. We further direct that in terms of the request made by the petitioner by filing supplementary affidavit, the tissues and blood samples of the fetus shall be preserved by the hospital where pregnancy is terminated. It shall be forwarded to the nearest Government approved forensic laboratory for preservation and testing, as may be directed by the trial court seized of the matter.. The permission given hereinabove for termination of pregnancy shall last only until the fetus attains age of 24 weeks and consequently, the petitioner is directed to present herself for termination of pregnancy at recognized medical centre, as stipulated under Section 4 of the Act, well before expiry of 24 weeks, failing which the instant order shall automatically lapse.

15. The Registrar General is directed to preserve the report of Medical Board in sealed cover for future reference, if needed.

16. The petition stands disposed of accordingly.

Civil Law - U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 - Sections 67 & 67A - Illegal Encroachment - If defence of S. 67(A) is taken by the notice in proceedings under S. 67, then proceedings u/s 67(A) should be registered separately but both cases i.e. case u/s 67 as well u/s 67(A) should be consolidated, heard & decided together - courts in proceedings u/s 67 of the Code are under obligation of law to decide the eligibility of the noticee for protection u/s 67(A) of the Code (Para 12)

Petitioner invoked protection of s. 67(A) of the Code on the footing that his residential house was erected 35 years ago on the disputed parcel of land & that a residential patta was granted to his predecessors - courts below held petitioner to be illegal encroacher & regarding petitioner's defence held that it was open to the petitioner to take out separate proceedings u/s 67(A) of the Code for grant of appropriate relief as claimed by him - Held - courts below erred in law by failing to consider that the petitioner is entitled to the protection of Section 67(A) of the Code.

Allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ram Kishore Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned

Standing Counsel for the respondents No.1 to 3-State and Sri Hari Narayan Singh, learned counsel for the respondent No.4-Gaon Sabha.

2. By the impugned order dated 22.01.2021 passed by the respondent No.3-Tehsildar (Judicial)/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Narwal, District-Kanpur Nagar rendered in proceedings registered as Suit No.03064 of 2019, Computerized Suit No.T201903410403064 (State of U.P. Vs. Baburam) under Section 67 of the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Code'), the petitioner was found to be illegal encroachment over the disputed parcels of land. The learned appellate court/Additional District Magistrate (Judicial), Kanpur Nagar by the impugned order dated 20.07.2021 agreed with the findings of the learned trial court/Tehsildar (Judicial)/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Narwal, District-Kanpur Nagar, and affirmed its judgement dated 22.01.2021.

3. Sri Ram Kishore Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the ancestors of the petitioner were allotted a residential patta over the disputed parcels of land. The predecessors in interest of the petitioner had erected a residential house on the disputed parcels of land almost 35 years ago. This fact was confirmed in the report submitted by the Lekhpal which is appended as annexure 4 to the writ petition. The learned courts below erred in law and entered perverse findings by failing to consider the aforesaid defence as well as corroborative evidence in that regard. The petitioner is entitled to the protection of Section 67(A) of the Code.

4. A perusal of the impugned order dated 22.01.2021 and the order dated 20.07.2021 corroborates the submission of Sri Ram Kishore Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner.

5. The aforesaid facts could not be disputed by the learned Standing Counsel for the respondents No.1 to 3-State and Sri Hari Narayan Singh, learned counsel for the respondent No.4-Gaon Sabha

6. The petitioner had clearly invoked the protection of 67(A) of the Code on the footing that his residential house was erected 35 years ago and that a residential patta was granted to his predecessors. The learned courts below neglected to consider the aforesaid facts and defences raised by the petitioner. This reflects non application of mind.

7. Adverting to the eligibility of the petitioner for protection under Section 67(A) of the Code and the rights purportedly accruing to him thereunder, the appellate court held that it was open to the petitioner to take out proceedings under Section 67(A) of the Code for grant of appropriate relief as claimed by him. After noticing the aforesaid facts, the appellate court agreed with the judgment of the trial court and dismissed the appeal. The trial court did not return any finding on this issue.

8. Section 67 as well as Section 67(A) of the Code reflect the composite intent of legislature. The legislature by enacting the aforesaid provision has recognized the vulnerability of the State land to illegal encroachment and the need for urgent corrective measures. Simultaneously the legislature has also acknowledged the reality of a large number of persons who have erected dwelling units on lands which are not reserved for any public purposes.

The legislature has protected their rights in the manner prescribed in the provision. For ease of reference the provisions are extracted hereunder:

"67 Power to prevent damage, misappropriation and wrongful occupation of Gram Panchayat property.- (1) Where any property entrusted or deemed to be entrusted under the provisions of this Code to a Gram Panchayat or other local authority is damaged or misappropriated, or where any Gram Panchayat or other authority is entitled to take possession of any land under the provisions of this Code and such land is occupied otherwise than in accordance with the said provisions, the Bhumi Prabandhak Samiti or other authority or the Lekhpal concerned, as the case may be, shall inform the Assistant Collector concerned in the manner prescribed.

(2) Where from the information received under sub-section (1) or otherwise, the Assistant Collector is satisfied that any property referred to in sub-section (1) has been damaged or misappropriated, or any person is in occupation of any land referred to in that sub-section in contravention of the provisions of this Code, he shall issue notice to the person concerned to show cause why compensation for damage, misappropriation or wrongful occupation not exceeding the amount specified in the notice be not recovered from him and why he should not be evicted from such land.

(3) If the person to whom a notice has been issued under sub-section (2) fails to show cause within the time specified in the notice or within such extended time as the Assistant Collector may allow in this behalf, or if the cause shown is found to be insufficient, the Assistant Collector may direct that such person shall be evicted from the land, and may, for that purpose, use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary, and may direct that the amount of compensation for damage or 34 misappropriation of the property or for wrongful occupation, as the case may be, be recovered from such person as arrears of land revenue.

(4) If the Assistant Collector is of opinion that the person showing cause is not guilty of causing the damage or misappropriation or wrongful occupation referred to in the notice under sub-section (2), he shall discharge the notice.

(5) Any person aggrieved by an order of the Assistant Collector under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4), may within thirty days from the date of such order, prefer an appeal to the Collector.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provision of this Code, and subject to the provisions of this section every order of the Assistant Collector under this section shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (5) be final.

(7) The procedure to be followed in any action taken under this section shall be such as may be prescribed.

Explanation. - For the purposes of this section, the word 'land' shall include the trees and buildings standing thereon

67-A Certain house sites to be settled with existing owners thereof.- (1) If any person referred to in sub-section (1) of section 64 has built a house on any land referred to in section 63 of this Code, not being land reserved for any public purpose, and such house exits on the November 29, 2012, the site of such house shall be held by the owner of the house on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed.

(2) Where any person referred to in sub-section (1) of section 64, has built a house on any land held by a tenure holder (not being a government lessee) and such house exits on November 29, 2000, the site of such house, notwithstanding anything contained in this Code, be deemed to be settled with the owner of such house by the tenure holder on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed.

Explanation. - For the purpose of sub-section (2), a house existing on November 29, 2000, on any land held by a tenure holder, shall, unless the 35 contrary is proved, be presumed to have been built by the occupant thereof and where the occupants are members of one family by the head of that family. "

9. Section 67(A) of the Code confers rights on certain people who have encroached upon public land. The prerequisite conditions for invoking the protection of Section 67(A) of the Code are these. The person against whom proceedings are taken out has built his house on any land referred to in Section 63 of the Code, the person who seeks protection of Section 67(A) of the Code should be in the category of persons referred to in Section 63 of the Code. The land should not be reserved for any public purpose. The date of the construction of the house should be prior to 29 November, 2012. The house of such persons should be existing in the disputed parcels of land on or before 29 November 2012.

10. In many instances, as indeed in the present case, the noticee under Section 67 of the Code may invoke the protection of Section 67(A) of the Code to resist the proceedings under Section 67 of the Code.

11. The authority/ court having jurisdiction to decide the proceedings taken out under Section 67 of the Code or Section 67(A) of the Code is the same. When the defence of Section 67(A) of the Code is taken in proceedings of Section 67 of the Code, the same issues will be directly and substantially in issue in both the proceedings. Usually in such matters pleadings, defence, and evidence of the parties are same in both the proceedings. In case proceedings under Section 67 and 67(A) of the Code are conducted separately and in isolation to one another, it would lead to multiplicity of litigation and inconsistent judgments. There will also be an avoidable delay in decision of the controversy and may even result in miscarriage of justice.

12. The courts in proceedings under Section 67 of the Code are under obligation of law to decide the eligibility of the noticee for protection under Section 67(A) of the Code. In case defence under Section 67(A) of the Code is taken by the noticee, the said proceedings shall be registered separately. But both cases will be consolidated and heard and decided together.

13. This procedure would faithfully implement the legislative intent and also serve the interest of justice.

14. In the facts and circumstances of this case, the failure of the learned courts below to enquire into the validity of the defence of the petitioner under Section 67(A) of the Code has resulted into a miscarriage of justice.

15. In the wake of preceding discussion, the impugned order dated 22.01.2021 and the order dated 20.07.2021 are vitiated and contrary to law.

16. The order dated 22.01.2021 passed by the respondent No.3-Tehsildar (Judicial)/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Narwal, District-Kanpur Nagar and the order dated 20.07.2021 passed by the learned appellate court/Additional District Magistrate (Judicial), Kanpur Nagar, are liable to be set aside and are set aside.

17. The matter is thus remitted to the respondent No.3-Tehsildar (Judicial)/ Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Narwal, District-Kanpur Nagar for a fresh determination consistent with the observation made in this judgment.

18. The following directions are being passed to serve the interest of justice in this case:

(1) The petitioner shall file a fresh application under Section 67(A) of the Code before the respondent No.3-Tehsildar (Judicial)/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Narwal, District-Kanpur Nagar within a period of one month from the date of production of a computer generated copy of this order downloaded from the official website of the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad. The concerned Court/Authority/Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

(2) The respondent No.3-Tehsildar (Judicial)/Assistant Collector 1st Class, Tehsil-Narwal, District-Kanpur Nagar, shall register the proceedings under Section 67(A) of the Code upon submission of such application.

(3) Proceedings under Section 67(A) of the Code so instituted shall be consolidated and heard with proceedings under Section 67 of the Code registered as Suit No.03064 of 2019, Computerized Suit No.T201903410403064 (State of U.P. Vs. Baburam) and decided by a common judgment.

19. The writ petition is allowed to the extent indicated above.

List of Cases cited :

1. Suchita Srivastava & ors. Vs Chandigarh Administration AIR 2010 SC 235

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, J.

Hon'ble Deepak Verma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Nipun Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Manish Goel, learned Additional Advocate General, Sri Suresh Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, assisted by Sri Hari Keshav, learned Standing Counsel, for the respondents.

2. The first petitioner is a victim of gang rape. She has prayed for a mandamus commanding respondent 2 to permit her to terminate her unwanted pregnancy.

3. In brief, the case set up in the writ petition is that petitioner no. 1 while on her way to school, was kidnapped. Petitioner 2, who is father and natural guardian of petitioner no. 1, got registered a FIR (Case Crime No. 0036 of 2021) on 29.1.2021, under Section 363 IPC, against one Manjit. When even after expiry of five months, the police failed to trace out petitioner no. 1, a writ petition bearing number 4571 of 2021 was filed before this Court, wherein direction was given to the police authorities to ensure recovery of the victim girl. On 22.7.2021, petitioner no. 1 was recovered from the custody of named accused. She was produced before Child Welfare Officer, Bulandshahr and after completing legal formalities, her custody was handed over to her parents. It has transpired during investigation that she was ravaged by named accused Manjit and two others. On 24.7.2021, petitioner no. 1 got herself examined at B.B.D. Government Hospital, Bulandshahr and according to ultrasonography report, her pregnancy was of 14 weeks at that time. Her age has been determined to be sixteen years by CMO, Bulandshahr, as is evident from a certificate issued in that regard dated 13.7.2021. The investigating officer upon discovery of evidence regarding rape added Sections 376, 507 IPC and Section 3/4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act 2012. The matter is still under investigation. The petitioner is stated to be suffering from extreme mental agony caused by unwanted pregnancy. Reliance has been placed upon Section 3 of the Medical Termination of Pregnancy Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act'), in contending that the pregnancy had resulted in great anguish to her and thus involves grave risk to her mental and physical health.

4. On 27.8.2021, this Court after hearing counsel for the petitioners and learned Standing Counsel, passed the following order: -

"On oral mention made by learned counsel for the petitioners that the matter is extremely urgent and shall be rendered infructuous, if not taken immediately, the file was called for.

Heard Sri Nipun Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Manish Goel, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Mohan Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel and Sri Sandeep Kumar Singh (State Law Officer) on behalf of respondents.

The petitioner no. 1 claims to be a rape victim. She has approached this Court, through her guardian-petitioner no. 2 (father) for a mandamus directing the respondents to permit her to terminate her undesirable pregnancy.

Reliance has been placed on Explanation-I to sub-section (2) of Section 3 of the Medical Termination of Pregnancy Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') in contending that the pregnancy has resulted in such extreme anguish to her that it constitutes grave injury to her mental health.

As per radiological report of Chief Medical Officer, Bulandshahr, the date of birth of victim is around 16-17 years and thus, she is a minor. Reliance has also been placed on the amendment made to the 'Act' by the Medical Termination of Pregnancy (Amendment) Act, 2021, dated 25.03.2021 whereby the outer limit for abortion permissibility has been enhanced to twenty four weeks.

It is submitted that as per report of medical examination held on 24.7.2021 at B.B.D. Government Hospital, Bulandshahr, the age of fetus at that time was 14.6 weeks meaning thereby that as of date the pregnancy is of about nineteen weeks.

Section 3 of the Act permitted termination of pregnancy in accordance with the provisions of the said Act. The outer limit prescribed for termination of pregnancy was twenty weeks. The same has been increased to twenty four weeks by the Amendment, Act of 2021. The Explanation-I to Section 3 of the Act, permits termination of pregnancy of a victim of rape by raising a presumption that the anguish caused by pregnancy in such cases constitute a grave injury to her mental health.

Learned counsel for the petitioner states that it would be convenient for the petitioner to get her pregnancy terminated at Lala Lajpat Rai Memorial Medical College, Meerut.

Accordingly, we direct the Principal, Lala Lajpat Rai Memorial Medical College, Meerut to constitute a Board of four experts one each in the field of Gynecology, Psychiatry, Radiology or Sonology and Pediatrics.

The first Additional District Judge, Meerut shall act as a member cum co-ordinator of the medical Board.

The petitioner shall present herself before the Medical Board for medical examination on 31.08.2021 at 11 am. The Board after carrying out medical examination of petitioner, shall submit its opinion/recommendation in sealed cover to the First Additional District Judge, Meerut, who shall forthwith transmit the same to this Court. The opinion/recommendation of the Board shall inter-alia be on the following aspects:

a) Length of pregnancy;

b) Whether continuance of pregnancy would involve any risk to the life of the petitioner no. 1;

c) Whether continuance of pregnancy would otherwise result in any grave injury to the petitioner no.1;

d) Whether there is substantial risk that if the child were born, it would suffer from any serious physical or mental abnormality.

The report/recommendation of the Board shall positively be transmitted to this Court by 02.09.2021.

Sri Mohan Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel shall communicate this order to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Bulandshahr, who shall provide full security to the petitioner and person accompanying her to medical college, Meerut for medical examination. Sri Manish Goel, learned Additional Advocate General, who on our request is present, has undertaken to communicate to the instant order to the Principal, Lala Lajpat Rai Memorial Medical College, Meerut within 24 hours so that it is duly complied with.

Office is directed to provide a free copy of this order to Sri Mohan Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for due communication to the authorities. Registrar (Compliance) shall communicate the instant order to Additional District Judge, Meerut.

Put up as fresh on 03.09.2021.

Office is directed to substitute the name of the petitioner with CD (2021) in the writ petition, in computer database and in certified copy or any other documents that is issued or put in public domain so that the identity of the petitioner does not get disclosed."

5. Pursuant to our above order, the petitioner presented herself for medical examination on 31.8.2021 at Lala Lajpat Rai Medical College, Meerut, before a Medical Board constituted for such purpose. The report of the Medical Board has been submitted in a sealed cover through 1st Additional District Judge, Meerut. The report of the Medical Board is as follows: -

A. Length of pregnancy:- on the basis of last menstrual period, examination and ultrasonography period of gestation seems to be 20.3 weeks.

B. Whether continuance of pregnancy would involve any risk to life of the petitioner no. 1: -

As such petitioner is not suffering from any organic disease but indirectly there are risks to life because: -

i. Teenager pregnancies have higher risk of complications like anemia, hypertension, haemorrhage, malnutrition, sexually transmitted infections (STI), cervical cancers, etc.

ii. More prone for depression, psychosis and suicidal tendencies.

C. Whether continuance of pregnancy would otherwise result in any grave injury to petitioner no. 1.

YES, Anguish caused by sexual assault would result in grave injury to her mental health.

D. Whether there is a substantial risk that if the child were born, it would suffer from any serious physical or mental abnormality.

Couldn't be commented.

6. The Medical Board recommends medical termination of pregnancy of petitioner no. 1 CD (2021).

7. It is clear from the above report that the length of pregnancy as per last menstrual period, examination and ultrasonography period of gestation has been reported to be 20.3 weeks, thus, less than 24 weeks (the outer limit prescribed under Section 3(2) of the Act). The report also clearly states that in case of continuance of pregnancy, the petitioner will be at higher risk of developing mental health problems. The report clearly opines that in case the pregnancy is permitted to continue, there is risk to the life of the petitioner and that the unwanted pregnancy had resulted in grave injury to the mental health of the petitioner.

8. Section 3 of the Act provides that a pregnancy could be terminated by a registered medical practitioner, if he is of opinion, formed in good faith, that continuance of the pregnancy would involve a risk to the life of pregnant woman, or grave injury to her physical or mental health, or there is a substantial risk of child suffering from physical or mental abnormalities, if born. The first explanation to sub-section 2 of Section 3 creates a legal presumption that pregnancy caused by rape would result in anguish to the pregnant woman and would constitute a grave injury to her mental health.

9. In Suchita Srivastava & Others vs. Chandigarh Administration, AIR 2010 SC 235, the Supreme Court laid down two tests, namely the 'best interests' test and the 'substituted judgment' test for determining whether the pregnancy should be permitted to be continued or not. The 'best interest' test requires the court to ascertain the course of action which would serve the best interest of the person in question. The 'substituted judgment' test requires the court to step into the shoes of a person who is considered to be mentally incapable and attempt to make the decision which the said person would have made, if she was competent to do so.

10. In the instant case, the petitioner being a minor, the 'substituted judgment' test would apply. As noted above, the petitioner who is only sixteen years of age, does not want to continue with her pregnancy. The medical opinion is unequivocally in favour of fetus being aborted to prevent risk to the life of the petitioner. First Explanation to sub-section 2 of Section 3 of the Act engrafts a presumption that where a pregnancy has resulted on account of rape, the anguish caused by such pregnancy shall be presumed to constitute a grave injury to the mental health of the pregnant woman. The second petitioner who is father and natural guardian of the first petitioner, has consented to the termination of pregnancy, having joined the instant petition as a co-petitioner.

11. In totality of the facts and circumstances of the instant case, we are of considered opinion that petitioner no. 1 should be permitted to terminate the unwanted pregnancy. We accordingly allow and permit the termination of the pregnancy.

12. The pregnancy shall be terminated by a registered medical practitioner at a hospital established or maintained by Government or a place for the time being approved for the purpose of this Act by Government, as contemplated under Section 4 of the Act. The hospital where the pregnancy is terminated shall maintain confidentiality, as required under Section 5-A of the Act.

13. The permission given hereinabove for termination of pregnancy shall last only until the fetus attains age of 24 weeks and consequently, the petitioner is directed to present herself for termination of pregnancy at recognized medical centre, as stipulated under Section 4 of the Act, well before expiry of 24 weeks, failing which the instant order shall automatically lapse.

14. The Registrar General is directed to preserve the report of Medical Board in sealed cover for future reference, if needed.

15. The petition stands disposed of accordingly.

A. Criminal Law – Murder – Right of private defence - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 374(2), 313 & 437-A - Indian Penal Code,1860 -Sections 304 & 103 - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 105- Arms Act,1959 - Section 25/27 - Accused need not raise specific plea of self defence, court can consider its availability even in absence of the plea raised by the accused. (Para 26)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872: Section 105 - S.105 of Evidence Act does not prevent the Court from giving benefit of doubt altogether to an accused under general exceptions. It makes possible both kinds of acquittal (i) by proving his plea fully and another (ii) by raising genuine doubt in the case. The doubt which the law contemplates is certainly not that of a weak or unduly vacillating, capricious, indolent, drowsy, or confused mind. It must be the doubt of the prudent man who is assumed to possess the capacity to "separate the chaff from the grain". (Para 28, 29, 30, 32)

In the present case certainly on behalf of appellant/convict this plea of self defence in general exceptions of IPC is neither raised in the statement u/s 313 of Cr.P.C. of the accused, nor the same has been elucidated to the prosecution witnesses during cross-examination on behalf of accused by the defence counsel. Even no evidence has been adduced on behalf of accused to prove the plea of self defence of general exceptions of IPC. (Para 31)

Hon'ble Apex Court has held that if from the evidence on record as a whole a reasonable consequential doubt is created in the mind of the court whether the accused is really guilty of the offence; the plea of self defence in general exceptions of IPC can be considered. (Para 32)

B. Indian Penal Code,1860 - Section 103 - provides when the right of private defence of property extends to causing death, if the theft, mischief, or house-trespass, under such circumstances as may reasonably cause apprehension that death or grievous hurt will be the consequence, if such right of private defence is not exercised. (Para 33)

The trial court held guilty to the appellant for culpable homicide not amounting to murder u/s 304 of IPC with the finding that the appellant/convict exceeded the right of private defence. (Para 24)

In the present case, from the prosecution evidence on record, it is found that the deceased Indersen had intruded in the house of accused at 1.30 O'clock in the intervening night of 14/15.07.2007 (Amavasaya), the entry at the wee hours is certainly criminal house-trespass, which caused reasonable apprehension in the mind of inmates of the house that some miscreant had intruded in their house. Consequently the inmates of the house of accused raised alarm. P.W. 1-Kallu Ram (informant of this case) and P.W. 2-Surya Pal also attracted immediately at the place of occurrence. The so called miscreant had hidden himself in the Attari of the house and despite raising alarm even in presence of prosecution witnesses P.W. 1 and P.W. 2, he did not appear to disclose his identity. The appellant Amar Singh who was armed with licensee gun of his father, also raised alarm, when so called miscreant did not come out from the Attari, he under the misconception opened fire to avoid any mishap. (Para 32, 34)

Certainly the deceased Indersen was not armed with any weapon, he had not made any threatening and had not made any assault but by hiding himself in the Attari raised reasonable apprehension in the mind of the appellant which seems to be the reasonable consequential apprehension of a prudent man, that his presence inside the house may cause any mishap to any inmate of the house or property as well. A prudent man in the similar circumstances would take such a decision more so; if he had any licensee gun in his house to protect his person and property as well. (Para 34, 35)

Criminal appeal allowed. (E-4)

Present appeal assails the judgment and orders dated 01.03.2019, passed by 3rd Additional Sessions Judge, Chitrakoot.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Chand, J.)

The instant appeal on behalf of accused-appellants under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C. is preferred against the judgment and orders dated 01.03.2019 passed by 3rd Additional Sessions Judge, Chitrakoot, in Sessions Trial No. 2 of 2008, State vs. Amar Singh and another & Sessions Trial No. 3 of 2008 (State Vs. Amar Singh), whereby the appellants have been convicted and sentenced as follows:

Sessions Trial No. 2 of 2008
Appellant -Amar Singh

304 IPC :	Ten years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of payment of fine six months additional simple imprisonment.

Sessions Trial No. 3 of 2008
Appellant -Amar Singh

25/27 Arms Act :	Two years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine two months' additional simple imprisonment.

1. In the present appeal facts of the prosecution case may be summarized as under :-

Brief facts giving rise to the present Criminal Appeal are that the informant Kallu Ram son of Chunkoo, resident of village and post Chillimal, P.S. Rajapur, District Chitrakoot moved written information on 15.07.2007 with these allegations that in the intervening night at 1.30 O'clock, he heard the noise from the house of Gaya Prasad son of Jhurai that some miscreant has intruded in his house. He and the people of the village attracted to the house of Gaya Prasad and it was told that the miscreant had entered in the Attari having crossed the courtyard of the house. Despite alarming, the miscreant did not come out, Amar Singh (appellant herein) the son of Gaya Prasad opened fire with the licensee gun of his father on the miscreant presuming him to be miscreant and that person died on the spot. Thereafter he was brought down from the Attari and it was found that the person was Indersen son of Ram Milan Yadav of their family. Therefore, the murder of cousin brother was committed under misconception that he was miscreant. His dead body is lying on the spot. This written information was given with the police station Rajapur, on which case crime no.80 of 2007, under Section 304 IPC and case crime no.81 of 2007, under Section 25/27 of Arms Act, were registered against the appellant-Amar Singh; while case crime no.82 of 2007, under Section 30 of the Arms Act, was registered against Gaya Prasad. The Investigating Officer after having concluded the investigation filed charge-sheet against acused Amar Singh in case crime no.80 of 2007, under Section 304 IPC, case crime no. 81 of 2007, under Section 25/27 of Arms Act and in case crime no.82 of 2007, under Section 30 of Arms Act filed charge-sheet against accused Gaya Prasad Yadav. The magistrate concerned took cognizance on the charge-sheet of case crime nos.80 of 2007 & 81 of 2007 against Amar Singh and the case being triable by the court of Sessions committed the file to the Court of Sessions for trial.

2. The trial court registered the Sessions Trial No.2 of 2008 (State Vs. Amar Singh) arising out of case crime no. 80 of 2007, under Section 304 IPC, P.S. Rajapur, District Chitrakoot and S.T. No. 3 of 2008 (State Vs. State), arising out of case crime no. 81 of 2007, under Section 25/27 of Arms Act, P.S. Rajapur, District Chitrakoot. The trial court framed the charge against the accused-Amar Singh under Section 304 IPC and 25/27 of Arms Act in the respective Sessions Trial Nos. 2 of 2008 and 3 of 2008. The charge was read over and explained to the accused Amar Singh, who denied the charge and claimed to be tried.

3. On behalf of prosecution to prove the charge against the accused Amar Singh in documentary evidence filed written information Ext. Ka-1, application dated 25.07.2007 Ext. K-2, inquest report Ext. Ka-6, recovery memo of the blood stained and plain clay Ext. Ka-7, recovery memo of one bullet and two spent cartridges 12 bore Ext. Ka-8, Postmortem report of the deceased Ext. Ka-9, police form no.33 Ext. Ka-10, letter to R.I. Ext. Ka-11, letter to CMO Ext. Ka-12, police form no.13 Ext. Ka-13, photocopy of blood stained and plain clay Ext. Ka-14, photocopy of taking in possession of one bullet and two spent cartridges 12 bore Ext. Ka-15, site plan of the occurrence Ext. Ka-16, recovery memo in regard to the DBBL Gun no.8722 along with four live cartridges 12 bore and arrest memo of the accused Ext. Ka-19, charge-sheet against accused-appellant in case crime no.80 of 2007, under Section 304 IPC Ext. Ka-17, charge-sheet against accused Amar Singh in case crime no.81 of 2007, under Section 25/27 Arms Act Ext. Ka-20, check FIR Ext. Ka-21.

4. On behalf of prosecution in oral evidence examined P.W.1-Kallu Ram, P.W.2-Surya Pal, P.W.3-Bhola Nath, P.W.4-Dr. A.K. Mohan, and P.W.5-Sub Inspector Jagjeevan Ram.

5. The statement of accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded, in which he denied the incriminating circumstances against him and stated that he has been falsely implicated in this case and he is innocent.

6. On behalf of accused in defence evidence adduced D.W.1-Nankoo.

7. The trial court after hearing the counsel for rival parties, passed the judgment and order dated 1.3.2019 convicting the accused-appellant under Sections 304 IPC and 25/27 of Arms Act and sentenced him as above.

8. Aggrieved from the impugned judgment the instant criminal appeal has been preferred on behalf of the appellant on the ground that impugned judgment of conviction and sentence passed by the court below is perverse and illegal. The trial court has not appreciated the evidence available on record in proper perspective. The contents of the FIR itself transpires that the appellant opened fire under the impression that the miscreant had entered in his house in late hours of night. There are major contradictions and improvement in the statement of witnesses. No independent witness of the occurrence was examined by the prosecution. Defence version has not been considered by the trial court while convicting the appellant. The impugned judgment of conviction is based on surmises and conjectures.

9. I have heard Sri Saghir Ahmad, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Anil Pathak, learned counsel for the appellant, learned AGA for the State-respondent and perused the lower court record.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that from the evidence on record it is established that there is no mens rea to commit the alleged offence. The appellant had exercised the right of private defence of person and property and the trial court did not consider the reasonable doubt for acquittal of the appellant in view of Section 105 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. The informant for the first time took the new plea in the application dated 25.07.2007 Ext. Ka-2 in regard to the illicit relation of deceased with the wife of accused Amar Singh and source of the same is alleged by P.W.1-Kallu Ram to be known from the ladies of his family and the fact of source of light at the place of occurrence also for the first time was raised in the application dated 25.07.2007. This application was not handed over by the informant P.W.1- Kallu Ram to the Investigating Officer during investigation and the same was not made part of the case diary. Even in the statement under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. Kallu Ram did not disclose this new fact to the Investigating Officer. This improvement was raised for the first time on behalf of prosecution at the stage of trial while the prosecution case is not based on the same. As such, the same cannot be read in evidence. The appellant did not exceed the right of private defence consequently no offence under Section 304 IPC is made out against the appellant. It is further submitted by the learned counsel for appellant; if the plea of self defence under general exceptions of Indian Penal Code is not proved on behalf of appellant, the trial court was bound to consider the same in view of Section 105 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Whether the appellant was entitled to benefit of doubt in view of evidence adduced on behalf of prosecution itself. In support of this contention learned counsel for the appellant relied upon case law Rishikesh Singh Vs. State of U.P., AIR 1970 Alld. 51 (FB).

11. Learned AGA opposed the contentions made by learned counsel for the appellant and contended that the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. There is no infirmity in the judgment of conviction and sentence passed by the court below. The plea of self defence under general exceptions of Indian Penal Code was neither raised on behalf of the appellant in the statement under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. nor the same was elucidated on behalf of accused to the prosecution witnesses during cross-examination. Not only this in defence evidence on behalf of accused D.W.1-Nankoo was examined. This witness also did not adduce any evidence in regard to this plea of self defence under general exceptions of Indian Penal Code rather the D.W.1 was examined to prove the plea of alibi in regard to the accused Gaya Prasad, who is alleged to be at the house of D.W.1-Nankoo, the brother-in-law of accused Gaya Prasad and the licensee gun was also with him, therefore, the appellant is not entitled to get benefit of doubt in view of Section 105 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

12. For disposal of this criminal appeal the only question before the Court is; whether the appellant is entitled to take the benefit of general exceptions of self defence of person and property in view of Section 105 of Indian Evidence Act, 1982 ?

13. Here the provisions of Sections relating the self defence under Indian Penal Code and also under the provisions of Section 105 of Indian Evidence Act are relevant, which are reproduced as under:

96. Things done in private defence.--Nothing is an offence which is done in the exercise of the right of private defence.

97. Right of private defence of the body and of property.--Every person has a right, subject to the restrictions contained in section 99, to defend--

(First) -- His own body, and the body of any other person, against any offence affecting the human body;

(Secondly) --The property, whether movable or immovable, of himself or of any other person, against any act which is an offence falling under the definition of theft, robbery, mischief or criminal trespass, or which is an attempt to commit theft, robbery, mischief or criminal trespass.

100. When the right of private defence of the body extends to causing death.--The right of private defence of the body extends, under the restrictions mentioned in the last preceding section, to the voluntary causing of death or of any other harm to the assailant, if the offence which occasions the exercise of the right be of any of the descriptions hereinafter enumerated, namely:--

(First) -- Such an assault as may reasonably cause the apprehension that death will otherwise be the consequence of such assault;

(Secondly) --Such an assault as may reasonably cause the apprehension that grievous hurt will otherwise be the consequence of such assault;

(Thirdly) -- An assault with the intention of committing rape;

(Fourthly) --An assault with the intention of gratifying unnatural lust;

(Fifthly) -- An assault with the intention of kidnapping or abducting;

(Sixthly) -- An assault with the intention of wrongfully confining a person, under circumstances which may reasonably cause him to apprehend that he will be unable to have recourse to the public authorities for his release.

102. Commencement and continuance of the right of private defence of the body.--The right of private defence of the body commences as soon as a reasonable apprehension of danger to the body arises from an attempt or threat to commit the offence though the offence may not have been committed; and it continues as long as such apprehension of danger to the body continues.

103. When the right of private defence of property extends to causing death.--The right of private defence of property extends, under the restrictions mentioned in section 99, to the voluntary causing of death or of any other harm to the wrong-doer, if the offence, the committing of which, or the attempting to commit which, occasions the exercise of the right, be an offence of any of the descriptions hereinafter enumerated, namely:-

(First) – Robbery;

(Secondly) --House-breaking by night;

(Thirdly) -- Mischief by fire committed on any building, tent or vessel, which building, tent or vessel is used as a human dwelling, or as a place for the custody of property;

(Fourthly) --Theft, mischief, or house-trespass, under such circumstances as may reasonably cause apprehension that death or grievous hurt will be the consequence, if such right of private defence is not exercised.

105. Commencement and continuance of the right of private defence of property.--The right of private defence of property commences when a reasonable apprehension of danger to the property commences. The right of private defence of property against theft continues till the offender has effected his retreat with the property or either the assistance of the public authorities is obtained, or the property has been recovered. The right of private defence of property against robbery continues as long as the offender causes or attempts to cause to any person death or hurt or wrongful restraint or as long as the fear of instant death or of instant hurt or of instant personal resstraint continues. The right of private defence of property against criminal trespass or mischief continues as long as the offender continues in the commission of criminal trespass or mischief. The right of private defence of property against house-breaking by night continues as long as the house-trespass which has been begun by such house-breaking continues.

Section 105 of Indian Evidence Act reads as under:

105. Burden of proving that case of accused comes within exceptions.--When a person is accused of any offence, the burden of proving the existence of circumstances bringing the case within any of the General Exceptions in the Indian Penal Code, (45 of 1860), or within any special exception or proviso contained in any other part of the same Code, or in any law defining the offence, is upon him, and the Court shall presume the absence of such circumstances.

14. On behalf of prosecution in ocular evidence, examined P.W.1-Kallu Ram, P.W.2-Surya Pal, P.W.3-Bhola Nath, as a witness of fact.

P.W.1-Kallu Ram in his examination-in-chief stated that Jhurai is cousin brother and Amar Singh (Accused) is the real grandson of Jhurai. The deceased Indersen is the real grandson of him. On the date of occurrence after hearing the noise when he reached to the house of accused-Amar Singh, he saw Amar Singh was standing in the courtyard armed with licensee gun of his father. His younger brother was also there. Amar Singh was also bearing torch. Amar Singh told him that a miscreant had hidden himself in the Attari. Amar Singh opened two shots after having seen the miscreant in the light of torch and when deceased was brought down on the ground floor, who was grandson of Indersen. He had lodged the FIR on 15.07.2007 having relied what the Amar Singh told him. Written information is in his hand writing and signature, he verified he same Ext. Ka-1. He had also moved the application to the Superintendent of Police through registered post Ext. Ka-2 on 25.07.2007.

In cross-examination P.W.1-Kallu Ram stated that on the date of occurrence it was dark night of Amavashya. He has no enmity with accused person. Between the house of accused and the house of him, there are 6 to 7 houses. He had come to know from the ladies of his house that deceased Indersen had illicit relations with the wife of accused Amar Singh and he cannot tell the name of ladies, who told him in this regard. He did not get the acknowledgment of the application sent to Superintendent of Police Ext. Ka-2 dated 25.07.2007. He did not tell in regard to illicit relations of deceased with the wife of Amar Singh to the Investigating Officer. In regard to the fact that Amar Singh was bearing torch he had mentioned in the second application but nothing was mentioned in the first application. He did not tell to Darogaji that Amar Singh was bearing torch in his hand at the time of occurrence. He was in the courtyard of house of Amar Singh when he heard the sound opening fire. It is wrong to say that on the date of occurrence Amar Singh and his father Gaya Prasad both were not at their house. It is further wrong to say that in absence of accused Amar Singh and his father Gaya Prasad, deceased had intruded in the house in the night and the ladies of he house of Amar Singh made noise of the same and some neighbour had opened fire causing death of Indersen.

15. P.W.2-Surya Pal also corroborates the prosecution story and deposed that he had seen Amar Singh opening fire from his own eyes. He came to know in regard to illicit relations of deceased with the wife of Amar Singh, with the wife of Ram Milan. He has no personal knowledge of the same. P.W.1-Kallu Ram had lodged the FIR about the occurrence told to him by Amar Singh and his father. He did not tell to the Investigating Officer in regard to the illicit relation of deceased with the wife of accused Amar Singh and also in regard to torch that was borne by the accused at the time of occurrence.

16. P.W.3-Bhola Nath proved the recovery in regard to blood stained and plain clay Ext. Ka-7 and also the recovery memo of two cartridges and one bullet Ext. Ka-8 and also two spent cartridge material Ext.1 and 2 and one bullet Ext.3. P.W.3 in his cross-examination by the court deposed that he had no personal knowledge in regard to the illicit relations of the deceased with the wife of accused Amar Singh. He is deposing in this regard only on the basis of rumour spread in the village. The occurrence is of 1.30 O'clock in the night.

17. From the statement of P.W.1-Kallu Ram and P.W.2-Surya Pal it is established that both the witnesses for the first time told in regard to the illicit relations of deceased with the wife of accused Amar Singh and source of knowledge of the same is hearsay. Both the witnesses admit that during investigation they did not depose in this regard to the Investigating Officer and for the first time they are giving statement in this regard before the trial court. Likewise both the witnesses also admit that they did not depose to the Investigating Officer that Amar Singh was bearing torch in his hand at the time of opening fire at the deceased.

18. As such improvement made by the prosecution witnesses during trial court in regard to the illicit relations of deceased with the wife of accused Amar Singh and also that Amar Singh was bearing torch in his hand at the time of opening fire and the same was never told by these witnesses in their statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the Investigating Officer; to that extent the testimony of this witnesses cannot be relied upon.

The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sampath Kumar Vs. Inspector of Police, 2012(77) ACC 251 (SC) held that in criminal trial testimony of a witness in the court that when he woke up, he saw the appellant standing near the head of the deceased - no such statement was given by the witness to the police under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. is wholly unsafe to base the conviction on such testimony in absence of independent witness.

19. From the statement of witness of fact, it is established that the accused Amar Singh opened fire with the licensee gun of his father to the deceased under misconception that the deceased was the miscreant, who had intruded in his house at 1.30 O'clock in dark hours of night and hidden himself in the Attari of the house.

20. This ocular evidence is also corroborated with the medical evidence. P.W.4 Dr. A.K. Mohan deposed that on 15.07.2007 he conducted the postmortem of the deceased Indersen and during examination, there were following ante mortem injuries.

1. Gunshot entry wound present inferior bordering of right Axilla at lateral aspect size 3 cm in diameter. Gunshot tattooing mark present inferior size 15 cm x 6 cm. Margin of wound inverted. Direction downward & towards left side of chest at 6-7 interverted space was fracture of 3rd and 4th ribs of lt. Side. Margin burned and bloodish.

2. Gunshot exit wound present on left side of chest at lateral aspect at 6-7 interverted space. Margin excluded. Soft tissue extruded. Size of wound is 2 ½ cm x 2 cm.

This witness opined that the cause of death was shock and haemorrhage as a result of gunshot injuries. He proved the postmortem report of the deceased as Ext. Ka-9.

21. P.W.5 Sub Inspector Jagjeevan Ram deposed that he took over the investigation of the case and during investigation he recorded the statement of witnesses of fact and also the witness of panchayatnama. He prepared the site plan of the occurrence. He collected the blood stained and plain clay of the place of occurrence. He also took in his possession the licensee DBBL Gun used in the offence and the recovery memo of the same was also prepared by him. He also prepared the site plan, recovery memo of bullet and spent cartridges recovered from the place of occurrence and the witness told him that accused Amar Singh opened fire resulting death of deceased Indersen under misconception that he was miscreant.

22. The Forensic Science Laboratory (in short FSL) report is also on record as paper no.123Ka/6. This FSL report is admissible in evidence under Section 293 of Cr.P.C. As per FSL report, the disputed cartridge was found to be opened with the right barrel of the DBBL Gun No. 8722.

23. Therefore, from the ocular evidence as well as medical and the FSL report this fact is proved that gunshot injury was caused by the licensed DBBL Gun of Gaya Prasad by his son Amar Singh.

24. The trial court held guilty to the appellant for culpable homicide not amounting to murder under Section 304 of IPC with the finding that the appellant/convict exceeded the right of private defence.

25. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Darshan Singh Vs. State of Punjab and another, 2010 (2) SCC 333 held in para-15 that the following principles emerge on scrutiny in regard to private defence of person and property :

"(i) Self-preservation is the basic human instinct and is duly recognized by the criminal jurisprudence of all civilized countries. All free, democratic and civilized countries recognize the right of private defence within certain reasonable limits.

(ii) The right of private defence is available only to one who is suddenly confronted with the necessity of averting an impending danger and not of self-creation.

(iii) A mere reasonable apprehension is enough to put the right of self-defence into operation. In other words, it is not necessary that there should be an actual commission of the offence in order to give rise to the right of private defence is contemplated and it is likely to be committed if the right of private defence is not exercised.

(iv) The right of private defence commences as soon as a reasonable apprehension arises and it is co-terminus with the duration of such apprehension.

(v) It is unrealistic to expect a person under assault to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude.

(vi) In private defence the force used by the accused ought not to be wholly disproportionate or much greater than necessary for protection of the person or property.

(vii) It is well settled that even if the accused does not plead self-defence, it is open to consider such a plea if the same arises from the material on record.

(viii) The accused need not prove the existence of the right of private defence beyond reasonable doubt.

(ix) The Penal Code confers the right of private defence only when that unlawful or wrongful act is an offence.

(x) A person who is in imminent and reasonable danger of losing his life or limb may in exercise of self-defence inflict any harm even extending to death on his assailant either when the assault is attempted or directly threatened."

26. The Hon'ble Apex Court held in Satya Narayan Yadav Vs. Gajanand, AIR 2008 SC 2384, right of private defence-accused need not raise specific plea, court can consider its availability even in absence of the plea raised by the accused.

27. Here it would be relevant to produce the following case law on Section 105 of the Evidence Act while dealing with the contentions made by learned counsel for rival parties.

28. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Laxman Singh Vs. Poonam Singh and others, 2004(10) SCC 94 in para-6 held as under:

"The burden of proof is on the accused, who sets off the plea of self-defence, and, in the absence of proof, it is not possible for the Court to presume the truth of the plea of self-defence. The Court shall presume the absence of such circumstances. It is for the accused to place necessary material on record either by himself adducing positive evidence or by eliciting necessary facts from the witnesses examined for the prosecution. An accused taking the plea of the right of private defence is not required to call evidence; he can establish his plea by reference to circumstances transpiring from the prosecution evidence itself. The question in such a case would be a question of assessing the true effect of the prosecution evidence, and not a question of the accused discharging any burden. Where the right of private defence is pleaded, the defence must be a reasonable and probable version satisfying the Court that the harm caused by the accused was necessary for either warding off the attack or for forestalling the further reasonable apprehension from the side of the accused."

29. The Hon'ble Full Bench of Nine Judges of Allahabad High Court in Rishikesh Singh Vs. State, AIR 1970 Alld 51, the dictum of the majority of learned Judges of this Court in Parbhoo v. Emperor, AIR 1941 All 402 (FB) is still good law. But, it may be elucidated that in a case in which any general Exception in the Indian Penal Code is pleaded by an accused and evidence is adduced to support such a plea, but such evidence fails to satisfy the Court affirmatively that the accused has fully established his plea of the claimed Exception, he will still be entitled to an acquittal, if, upon a consideration of the evidence as a whole (including the evidence given in support of the plea of the said general Exception), a reasonable consequential doubt is created in the mind of the Court as to whether the accused is really guilty of the offence with which he is charged.

30. The Hon'ble Full Bench of Allahabad High Court held in Parbhoo Vs. Emperor, AIR 1941 All 402 (FB), Section 105 of Evidence Act does not prevent the Court from giving benefit of doubt altogether to an accused under general exceptions. It makes possible both kinds of acquittal (i) by proving his plea fully and another by raising genuine doubt in the case. The doubt which the law contemplates is certainly not that of a weak or unduly vacillating, capricious, indolent, drowsy,, or confused mind. It must be the doubt of the prudent man who is assumed to possess the capacity to "separate the chaff from the grain.

31. In the present case certainly on behalf of appellant/convict this plea of self defence in general exceptions of IPC is neither raised in the statement under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. of the accused, nor the same has been elucidated to the prosecution witnesses during cross-examination on behalf of accused by the defence counsel. Even no evidence has been adduced on behalf of accused to prove the plea of self defence of general exceptions of IPC.

32. In view of case law Laxman Singh (Supra) and also the full Bench judgment of this Court in Rishi Kesh Singh (Supra), if from the evidence on record as a whole a reasonable consequential doubt is created in the mind of the court whether the accused is really guilty of the offence; the plea of self defence in general exceptions of IPC can be considered. Certainly this reasonable doubt must be genuine and a doubt of prudent man.

From the prosecution evidence on record, it is found that the deceased Indersen had intruded in the house of accused at 1.30 O'clock in the intervening night of 14/15.07.2007 (Amavashya), the entry at the wee hours is certainly criminal house-trespass.

33. Section 103 of IPC, 1860 provides when the right of private defence of property extends to causing death if the theft, mischief, or house-trespass, under such circumstances as may reasonably cause apprehension that death or grievous hurt will be the consequence, if such right of private defence is not exercised.

34. In the present case from the evidence on record, it is proved that the deceased Indersen had intruded in the house of accused at 1.30 O'clock in wee hours of Amavashya night which caused reasonable apprehension in the mind of inmates of the house that some miscreant had intruded in their house. Consequently the inmates of the house of accused raised alarm. P.W.1-Kallu Ram (informant of this case) and P.W.2-Surya Pal also attracted immediately at the place of occurrence. The so called miscreant had hidden himself in the Attari of the house and despite raising alarm even in presence of prosecution witnesses P.W.1 and P.W.2, he did not appear to disclose his identity. The appellant Amar Singh who was armed with licensee gun of his father, also raised alarm, when so called miscreant did not come out from the Attari, he under the misconception opened fire to avoid any mishappening.

This reasonable apprehension in the mind of the appellant seems to be the reasonable consequential apprehension of a prudent man, who in the similar circumstances would take such a decision more so; if he had any licensee gun in his house to protect his person and property as well.

35. Certainly the deceased Indersen was not armed with any weapon, he had not made any threatening and had not made any assault but by hiding himself in the Attari would raise apprehension in the mind of a prudent man that his presence inside the house may cause any mishappening to any inmate of the house or property as well.

36. In view of the evidence on record a genuine doubt is created in the mind of the Court to hold whether the appellant is guilty of the offence of culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

37. On behalf of prosecution during trial for the first time this plea was raised by the prosecution witness that accused was bearing torch in his hand and in the light of torch he had verified the identity of the deceased to be Indersen and he opened fire with the licensee gun on account of illicit relations of deceased with the wife of accused Amar Singh. This plea was never raised by P.W.1-Kallu Ram, who is the informant of the case and P.W.2-Surya Pal, during investigation. But for the first time the informant stated during cross-examination in trial that he had given an application to that effect to the Superintendent of Police concerned; but the same was never made part of the case diary. Even there is no entry in this regard made by the Investigating Officer in the case diary. Not only this even none of the witnesses, who were interrogated by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. did not tell to the Investigating Officer that accused Amar Singh was bearing torch in his hand and he after having verified the identity of the deceased in the light of torch opened fire with intention to cause death of Indersen. This story was developed later on and same cannot be relied upon more so when the prosecution case is not based upon the same.

38. In view of re-appreciation of evidence on record, this Court finds that the finding recorded by the trial court holding appellant Amar Singh guilty for the offence under Section 304-I of IPC and Section 25/27 of Arms Act deserves to be set aside and this appeal deserves to be allowed.

39. Accordingly, the present criminal appeal is allowed. The judgment and order dated 01.03.2019 passed by 3rd Additional Sessions Judge, Chitrakoot, in Sessions Trial No. 2 of 2008, State vs. Amar Singh and another & Sessions Trial No. 3 of 2008 (State Vs. Amar Singh), under Sections 304 IPC and 25/27 Arms Act, respectively, P.S. Rajapur, District Chitrakoot is set aside. The appellant is acquitted from the charges leveled against him. The appellant is in jail. He be released forthwith, in case, he is not wanted in any other case provided the appellant files a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned in compliance of section 437-A of Code of Criminal Procedure.

40. Office is directed to communicate this order to the court concerned forthwith to ensure compliance and further send back the lower court record.

THE HON'BLE SANJAY KUMAR SINGH, J.

Crl. Misc. Bail Application No. 1623 of 2021

Smt. Aysha Khatoon ...Applicant (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Yogendra Pal Singh, Sri Avnish Kumar Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondent:
A.G.A.

A. Criminal Law – Bail application - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 364, 302, 201-B & 34 - Code of Criminal Procedure,1973 - Section 161 - A criminal conspiracy is generally hatched in secrecy and it is difficult to obtain direct evidence. It is well settled that a man may tell a lie, but circumstances do not. The circumstances of this case are conclusive in nature, which is in proximity to the time and situation. Therefore, the innocence of the applicant cannot be adjudged at pre trial stage. (Para 10)

In present case, nature of offence, the gravity involved therein and the manner in which the crime has been committed, no case for bail is made out. (Para 11)

It is a brutal and heinous double murder case, in which a helpless mother, who blindly trusted upon the co-accused, Shamshad and living with him for the last five years, and her little daughter have been flagitiously killed and their dead bodies had been hid by the co-accused Shamshad with the help of his brother-in-law Dilshad (Sala) in the floor of the room, which were recovered on the pointing out of the co-accused, Shamshad in a decomposed condition.

From the Call Detail Report of the accused persons it is clear that in the intervening night of 28/29.3.2020 (when crime took place) and in day time on 29.3.2021 there were continuous telephonic conversation amongst the accused persons and they also sent messages to each other and the location of their phones were traced at the place of occurrence, therefore, the involvement of the applicant in the crime cannot be ruled out. (Para 10)

Application rejected. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjay Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and Mr. Rabindra Kumar Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate representing the State and perused the record of the case.

2. The instant bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant, Smt. Aysha Khatoon, with a prayer to release her on bail in Case Crime No. 454 of 2020, under Sections 302, 201, 120-B and 34 IPC, police station Partapur, district Meerut, during the pendency of trial.

3. In short compass the facts of the case as unfolded by the prosecution in the first information report are that the complainant, Chanchal Chaudhry, who is friend of one of the deceased-Priya has lodged the first information report on 14.7.2020 at about 10.10 A.M. against the co-accused, Shamshad (husband of the present applicant, Smt. Aysha Khatoon) for the offence under Section 364 IPC, which was registered as Case Crime No. 454 of 2020 at police station Partapur, district M eerut to the effect that the co-accused Shamshad, who is Muslim by caste and was already married with the present applicant had lured and masquerade the deceased-Priya five years ago and had solemnized his second marriage with her. Thereafter, deceased-Priya and her daughter, Kashish (second deceased of this case) were residing with him. After the marriage, the deceased-Priya has telephonically informed the complainant that as she (deceased-Priya) came to know about the first marriage of the co-accused Shamshad, he used to torture and harass and threatened the deceased and her daughter of dire consequence. The Report further mentions that for the last time i.e. on 28.3.2020, the complainant had a conversation with the deceased Priya on phone, and thereafter no telephonic conversation was made between the complainant and deceased. Thereafter, when the accused, Shamshad sold the flat, which was in the name of deceased-Priya and also withdrew the amount from the bank account of the deceased by cheque, then the complainant raised a suspicion that something wrong has happened with both the deceased. The complainant also came to know that scooty of the victim bearing No. UP 14 CY-840 was also lying in the Partapur police station unclaimed. In such a situation, having no option left, the complainant had given a written report (Tehreer) in the Partapur police station, in which no action was taken by the police and on the pressure of the police personnel she had given an application that she does not want to take any action. Thereupon, the complainant has lodged the present first information report raising suspicion that something untoward has happened with her friend-Priya and her daughter-Kashish.

4. After lodging of the instant F.I.R. the statement of complainant was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. On the basis of aforesaid statement of the complainant, the co-accused, Shamshad was arrested by the police. On interrogation, the co-accused confessed to his guilt before the police and thereafter his confessional statement was recorded, in which he disclosed that complainant Chanchal Chaudhrey had brought the deceased-Priya to him to get the job and he provided her job, and thereafter, the deceased-Priya resided with him (co-accused, Shamshad) under live-in relationship and he used to bear all the expenses of both the deceased. He also stated that in the meantime, some altercation took place between the deceased and him, and the deceased also implicated him (Shamshad) in her rape case, in which settlement has taken place between them, and he has given Rs. 3,00,000/- to deceased Priya for compromising in the said case. Co-accused-Shamshad also stated that the deceased was a very high ambitious lady and also spend much money and was leading luxurious life and when he tried to stop her from doing so, she started squabbling with him. In the intervening night of 28/29.3.2020 when the deceased started quarreling with him and demanded money, then he strangulated the victim to death and also killed her daughter (second deceased) by putting the pillow on her face. The co-accused Shamshad also confessed that the dead bodies of Priya and Vanshika were hid by him in the floor of the L.E.D. room of his house. The official of the police after completing necessary formalities exhumed the dead bodies from the floor of the house, as pointed out by the applicant in his confessional statement, and recovered the skeleton and other parts of the bodies in a decomposed condition. After investigation, the case has been converted to one under Sections 302, 201-B and 34 IPC and charge sheet has been submitted by the Investigating Officer against the co-accused, Shamshad, his wife, Ayesha Khatoon (present applicant) and her brother-Dilawar.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that initially the case was registered for the offence under Section 364 IPC and after investigation the same has been converted to one under Sections 302, 201-B and 34 IPC against the three accused including the present applicant. Learned counsel for the applicant also submitted that being the wife of accused-Shamshad, she has falsely been dragged in this case. The applicant is not named in the F.I.R. The name of the applicant has surfaced in the statement of the co-accused-Shamshad and except the said statement of the co-accused there is no evidence against the applicant. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that the co-accused, Shamshad on account of his extra marital relation with the deceased-Priya, ousted the applicant (wife) from his house. The applicant has no concern with the offence in question and in fact the applicant was living in Bihar with her minor son and in the month of February, 2020 the applicant came to Meerut. She has a small boy of four years, who at present is living with his maternal uncle (Mama). There is no direct evidence against the applicant. Nothing has been recovered from the possession or at the pointing out of the applicant. In the present case there is not even an iota of evidence with the prosecution to show that there was any conspiracy between the applicant and co-accused, Shamshad for commission of an offence under Section 302 IPC nor there is any evidence to suggest that they shared any common intention for the murder. There is inconsistency in the statement of the complainant and version of the F.I.R. The complainant in the F.I.R. has not named the applicant. Learned counsel for the applicant also submitted that the co-accused, namely, Kapil and Nakul Sharma have already been enlarged on bail by the court below and by the Coordinate Bench of this Court vide orders dated 25.5.2021 and 17.12.2020 passed in Bail Application No. 2514 of 2021 and Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 47216 of 2020 respectively. The applicant has no criminal history to her credit and is languishing in jail since 20.8.2020 and in case she is enlarged on bail she will not misuse the liberty of bail.

6. On the other hand, Mr. Rabindra Kumar Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate vehemently opposed the prayer for bail and contended that it is a double murder case and the applicant along with his brother, Dilshad and husband-Shamshad hatched a criminal conspiracy, in which a young lady and her small daughter have lost their lives. From perusal of the Call Detail Records of the applicant, her husband Shamshad and her brother Dilawar, it is apparently clear that in the whole night of 28.3.2020 and in a day time on 29.8.2020, they had continuous conversation and sending messages to each other. Learned A.G.A. also submitted that at the behest of the accused, Shamshad, one Krishna Gopal Sharma kept the applicant, Ayesha Khatoon along with her brother-Dilawar in his house on rent.

7. So far as co-accused, Nakul Sharma and Kapil are concerned, it is submitted by learned A.G.A. that they have been enlarged on bail by the Coordinate Bench of this Court and the court below on the ground that in the offence in question the only role assigned to them that they mislead the complainant and police about the whereabouts of both the deceased and in the second statement of the complainant recorded on 24.7.2020 the name of co-accused, Nakul Sharma came into light. The case of the present applicant is distinguishable from them.

8. In strong opposition, learned Additional Government Advocate has drawn the attention of the Court towards the statement of the co-accused, Shamshad, recorded before the police, in which he disclosed that on account of the high expenses of the deceased Priya, he was financially bothered and unable to fulfill her expensive and luxurious hobbies. The co-accused, Shamshad in his statement clearly stated that my wife Ayesha @ Soni has told me that if you don't get rid of deceased Priya, you will not see my face. Thereafter, he made a plan along with the applicant and her brother Dilawar to kill both the deceased and in the intervening night of 28/29.3.2021 he killed both the deceased by strangulating their throat and with the help of his brother-in-law (Sala-Dilawar) he buried the dead bodies of both the deceased in the room of the house.

9. Mr. Singh, learned A.G.A. also submitted that the present applicant has pressurized the co-accused for killing the deceased and in this case she is the main apple of discord and played an active role in hatching a conspiracy. Each conspirator plays his separate part in one integrated and united effort to achieve the common purpose. Each one is aware that he has a part to play in the general conspiracy, to accomplish the common object. In this case the applicant had the knowledge or the reason to believe that the offence had been committed, she has caused disappearance of evidence and such act of disappearance has been done with the intention of screening the offender from legal punishment. Learned A.G.A. lastly submitted that the necessary ingredients to constitute the offence are present in the case, therefore, the applicant does not deserve any indulgence. In case, the applicant is released on bail he will misuse the liberty of bail.

10. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the applicant and learned Additional Government Advocate and the fact that it is a brutal and heinous double murder case, in which a helpless mother, who blindly trusted upon the co-accused, Shamshad and living with him for the last five years, and her little daughter have been flagitiously killed and their dead bodies had been hid by the co-accused Shamshad with the help of his brother-in-law Dilshad (Sala) in the floor of the room, which were recovered on the pointing out of the co-accused, Shamshad in a decomposed condition. The deceased would never have imagined that the place where they lived would become their graveyard. From the Call Detail Report of the accused persons it is clear that in the intervening night of 28/29.3.2020 and in day time on 29.3.2021 there were continuous telephonic conversation amongst the accused persons and they also sent messages to each others and the location of their phones were traced at the place of occurrence, therefore, the involvement of the applicant in the crime cannot be ruled out. The dead bodies of the both the deceased have been buried by the co-accused to destroy the evidence. A criminal conspiracy is generally hatched in secrecy and it is difficult to obtain direct evidence. It is well settled that a man may tell a lie, but circumstances do not. The circumstances of this case as mentioned above are conclusive in nature, which is in proximity to the time and situation. In view of above, the innocence of the applicant cannot be adjudged at pre trial stage.

11. Having considered the facts and circumstances of the case, nature of offence, the gravity involved therein and the manner in which the crime has been committed, no case for bail is made out.

12. The application for bail is hereby rejected.

13. The observation made herein above is only limited for the purpose of disposal of this bail application and will in no way be construed as an expression on the merits of the case. The trial court shall be absolutely free to arrive at its independent conclusions on the basis of evidence led uninfluenced by anything expressed in this order.

14. Office is directed to communicate the facsimile of this order to District Judge, Meerut and the complainant of this case at the earliest.

WRIT A No. 9744 of 2021

Dr. Sushma Chandel ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Shanshank Shekhar Mishra

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Addition of adhoc services for the computation of pensionary benefits - Civil Service Regulations - Regulations 368 & 370 - Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefit Rules, 1961 - Rules 2(3) & 3(8) - U.P. Regularization of Ad hoc Appointments (On Post Within the Purview of the Public Service Commission) (Third Amendment) Rules, 2001- Uttar Pradesh Qualifying Service for Pension and Validation Ordinance 2020 (U.P. Ordinance No. 19 of 2020).

The right to claim pensionary benefits is now and by virtue of the provisions introduced retroactively by the Validating Act made dependent upon it being found that the employee was appointed in accordance with the applicable service rules and held a permanent or temporary post. (Para 31)

Impact of Validating Act - The right of an employee to seek addition of continuous, temporary or officiating service followed by confirmation or regularisation would remain preserved notwithstanding the deletion of Regulation 370. The period prior to regularisation cannot be ignored as long as it is established that it was service rendered against a particular post be it temporary or permanent. The only fetter which now remains in place for the purposes of computing qualifying service is of the service rendered being shown to have been discharged against a permanent or temporary post and the appointment having been made in accordance with the service rules. (Para 33, 34, 35)

Notwithstanding the above, the question of whether the engagement of the officer or employee shown against a work charged establishment was merely an "exploitative measure" [an expression which the Court borrows from Prem Singh itself] and designed to deny benefits of long service would still be open to canvassed. (Para 34)

B. A claim for pensionary benefits cannot be negatived solely on the basis of a mere reiteration of the Validating Act having been introduced. The respondents would have to necessarily evaluate such claims bearing in mind the following questions which would arise:-

1. Whether the service rendered in temporary, ad hoc, or officiating capacity was one which was discharged against a permanent or temporary post;

2. Whether the appointment was made in accordance with the provisions made in the prevalent service rules;

3. Whether such service can be excluded notwithstanding the provisions made in the proviso to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules;

4. Whether the service rendered in a work-charged establishment followed by regularisation can be legally excluded while computing qualifying service;

5. Whether such service was performed in connection with work which was regular and perennial and the engagement in a work charged establishment was a mere ruse to deny benefits of long service. (Para 36)

C. It is a settled position of law that the objective of a proviso is to carve out from the main section a class or category to which the main section does not apply. A proviso must prima facie be read and considered in relation to the principal matter to which it is a proviso. It is not a separate or independent enactment.

Provisions similar to those enshrined in Regulation 370 remain preserved and untouched in the proviso to Rule 3(8). That proviso has neither been amended nor deleted. (Para 29)

D. 'Qualifying service' - The expression "qualifying service" would now have to be interpreted in accordance with the provisions made in the Validating Act notwithstanding anything to the contrary that may be contained in any other act, rule or regulation.

The Validating Act introduces provisions with retrospective effect from 1 April 1961. Consequently, the provisions of the 1961 Rules which came to be promulgated from that date would have to be construed accordingly. (Para 30)

Precedent distinguished:

1. Brahmanand Singh & ors. Vs St. of U.P. & ors., 2018 (3) ALJ 546 (Para 21)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Yashwant Varma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shashank Shekhar Mishra, Sri Siddharth Khare and Sri Jamil Ahamad Azmi learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Govind Krishna who appears for the Nagar Palika Parishad Azamgarh and Sri Ajit Kumar Singh learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Chandan Kumar learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. These three petitions which raise a common question have with the consent of parties been taken up for disposal together.

3. All the petitioners essentially seek the addition of services rendered in an ad hoc or temporary capacity for the purposes of computation of pensionary benefits. It may at the outset be stated that these petitions were taken up for disposal together since the Court was faced with similar writ petitions coming up before it daily. It was thus thought expedient that the basic issues which would need to be borne in mind by the respondents while dealing with such claims would warrant articulation. On the aforesaid view being expressed, Sri Ajit Kumar Singh the learned Additional Advocate General, in his usual fairness, suggested that since the petitions are proposed to be disposed of without the State being invited to file formal replies, issues such as the statutory regimen which would govern and the essential factors which would merit consideration may be enunciated leaving it to the respondents to reevaluate the claims as raised by the petitioners here. The sound counsel of the learned Additional Advocate General was duly accepted and it is on those lines and to the aforesaid extent alone that the Court proceeds to frame its present decision.

4. Before proceeding forth, it would be relevant to advert to the individual facts of the three writ petitions which are proposed to be disposed of by means of this common judgment.

A. FACTS OF THE INDIVIDUAL WRIT PETITIONS

1. Sushma Chandel Vs. State of U.P. and others [Writ A NO. 9396 OF 2021]

5. The petitioner here was initially appointed in May 1990 on daily wage basis. That appointment was brought to an end in November 1990. The order of termination was challenged by way of a writ petition in which an interim order was granted providing that the respondents would not interfere with the working of the petitioner as a Medical Officer. Pursuant to that interim order, she is stated to have continued to function as Medical Officer till 27 November 1998 when she was appointed on ad hoc basis. Various other Medical Officers who were continuing on ad hoc terms under the respondents agitated their claims for regularisation before the respondents. In the litigation which ensued, one writ petition preferred by Dr. Smt. Sudha Tripathi came to be disposed of by a Division Bench calling upon the State to consider her claim for regularisation. Pursuant to the directions issued by the Division Bench on that writ petition and the dismissal of the Special Leave Petition of the State, the services of Dr. Smt. Sudha Tripathi came to be confirmed. In the meanwhile, various other Medical Officers like the petitioner who had initially been engaged on ad hoc basis and had continued to serve under the respondents for years together without being regularized, petitioned the Lucknow Bench of this Court aggrieved by the denial of their claims. The lead matter of the batch which came to be instituted was of Dr. Dhirendra Prakash Tiwari v. State of U.P. And Others1. The Division Bench while rendering judgment on that batch firstly took note of the judgment rendered by the Court in Dr. Yogendra Singh And Others v. State of U.P. And Others2 and the directions issued therein for the claim of regularisation being considered in accordance with the policy decision of the State Government which extended the benefit of regularisation to all ad hoc Medical Officers who had been appointed on or before 17 July 1991. The aforesaid decision in Dr. Yogendra Singh was unsuccessfully assailed by the respondents before the Supreme Court which dismissed the Special Leave Petitions on 02 April 1998. The Division Bench also noticed the provisions made in respect of regularisation in the U.P. Regularisation of Ad hoc Appointments (On Post Within the Purview of the Public Service Commission) (Third Amendment) Rules (2001)3. The Court in Dr. Dhirendra Prakash Tiwari ultimately proceeded to allow the writ petitions in the following terms: -

"We are of the considered opinion that all the petitioners are entitled to be treated as ad hoc medical officers from a date prior to 30.6.1998, leaving it open for the respondents to determine the exact date in the light of pronouncement of this Court dated 21.11.1996 in the earlier proceedings. To this extent the government order dated 27.11.1998 will not come in the way of the petitioners for consideration of their regularisation. Respondent No.1 is directed to reconsider the case of petitioners, including those who have retired from service, for regularisation of their services under the Regularisation Rules of 1979 strictly in accordance with the observations made hereinabove, treating them as ad hoc medical officers, from a date prior to 30.6.1998. Respondent no.1 shall pass requisite orders accordingly, within a period of two months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before him. While considering the case of the petitioners for regularisation, the date of regularisation of their seniors and juniors shall also be kept in mind by the respondents. It is made clear that the case of the petitioners shall not be rejected on the ground that they were not ad hoc medical officers prior to 30.6.1998.

So far as the claim of the petitioners for regularisation of their services with effect from the date of their initial appointment is concerned, we do not find any merit in the same."

6. Following the aforesaid decision, the writ petition preferred by the petitioner here being Writ-A No. 21307 of 2012 was allowed on similar terms on 07 August 2014. The challenge to the judgment rendered on the aforesaid writ petition by the State came to be negatived with the Supreme Court dismissing the Special

Leave Petitions on 27 March 2015. The petitioner was ultimately regularised in service by an order of 24 September 2015. That order provided that she would be deemed to have been regularised in service with effect from 16 March 2005. Before this Court it is not disputed that the regularisation of the petitioner with effect from the aforesaid date was in light of the directions framed by the Division Bench in Dr. Dhirendra Prakash Tiwari which required the respondents to regularise individual ad hoc Medical Officers bearing in mind the date from which their seniors and juniors had been accorded that facility. The respondents while preparing the pension papers of the petitioner here have taken note of her entry into government service as being on 22 December 1998. That admittedly is the date on which the petitioner joined service pursuant to the order of appointment dated 27 November 1998. However, the total length of qualifying service has been computed to be 13 years 4 months and 15 days. The aforesaid computation has essentially been made with the period of service rendered post 16 March 2005 along being liable to be included in qualifying service. The service rendered by the petitioner between December 1998 till 16 March 2005 has not been considered. It is in the aforesaid backdrop that the present writ petition has come to be preferred.

2. Chiraunjilal and 7 others Vs. State of U.P. and others [Writ A NO. 22070 OF 2018]

7. The petitioners here were appointed as part time/ad hoc Tubewell Operators on different dates. All of them were confirmed and regularised in terms of the details which have been set forth in paragraphs 10 to 15 of the writ petition. They have approached this Court aggrieved by the fact that while computing qualifying service, the respondents have only accounted for service rendered by the petitioners post their regularisation. It is in the aforesaid backdrop that they contend that the services rendered by them on part time and ad hoc basis is also liable to be included for the purposes of computation of pensionary benefits.

8. The respondents in the counter which has been filed have referred to the fact that the petitioners were initially engaged as short term Tubewell Operators on consolidated pay. They also allege that their initial appointment was not made in accordance with the relevant rules and regulations framed nor were they appointed against substantive posts. In paragraph-20 it is contended by the respondents that the provisions of Articles 368 and 370 of the Civil Service Regulations can only apply to those who worked on the regular establishment of the State and in view of the aforesaid, the period of service rendered by the petitioners prior to their date of regularisation is not liable to be included for the purposes of pensionary benefits.

3. Ram Chandra Yadav and other Vs. State of U.P. and others [Writ A NO. 9744 OF 2021]

9. The petitioners here were initially appointed on a temporary basis as Pump Attendants on 01 April 1988 and 05 January 1990 respectively. Their services were ultimately regularized with effect from 14 February 2005 and 05 January 2001. Both the petitioners are stated to have retired in June and September 2018. They are essentially aggrieved by the fixation of their pensionary benefits with the respondents excluding the period which was rendered by them prior to their regularisation. It is in the aforesaid factual backdrop that the issues raised are liable to be considered.

B. THE STATUTORY BACKGROUND

10. The Court firstly deems it necessary to advert to the relevant provisions as made in the Civil Service Regulations4. Article 361 reads thus: -

"361. The service of an officer does not qualify for pension unless it conforms to the following three conditions-

First- The service must be under Government.

Second- The employment must be substantive and permanent.

Third- The service must be paid by Government. "

11. Regulations 368 provides that service does not qualify unless the officer holds a "substantive office" on a "permanent establishment" of the Government.

12. Regulation 370 makes the following additional provisions in respect of pension:-

"370. Continuous temporary or officiating service under the Government of Uttar Pradesh followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post shall qualify except-

(i) periods of temporary or officiating service in non-pensionable establishment;

(ii) periods of service in work-charged establishment, and

(iii) periods of service in a post paid from contingencies."

13. On 01 April 1961 the State Government framed and promulgated the Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefit Rules 19615 by virtue of the powers conferred by the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution. The 1961 Rules define the expression "qualifying service" in Rule 3(8) as under:-

"3.

(8) "Qualifying service" means service which qualifies for pension in accordance with the provisions of Article 368 of the Civil Service Regulations:

Provided that continuous temporary or officiating service under the Government of Uttar Pradesh followed without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post except-

(i) periods of temporary or officiating service in a non-pensionable establishment;

(ii) periods of service in work-charged establishment, and

(iii) periods of service in a post, paid from contingencies shall also count as qualifying service.

Note-If service rendered in a non-pensionable establishment, work-charged establishment or in a post paid from contingencies falls between two periods of temporary service in a pensionable establishment or between a period of temporary service and permanent service in a pensionable establishment, it will not constitute an interruption of service.

14. The provisions as made in the CSR as well as in the 1961 Rules fell for consideration before the Supreme Court in the matter of Prem Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh and Others6. Prem Singh was essentially considering the claim of work-charged employees who had been continued in that capacity for decades and ultimately denied pensionary benefits with the respondents taking the position that service rendered in such an establishment is not liable to be included while calculating qualifying service in accordance with the provisions made in the CSR and the 1961 Rules. The Supreme Court in Prem Singh ultimately came to hold:-

"30. We are not impressed by the aforesaid submissions. The appointment of the work-charged employee in question had been made on monthly salary and they were required to cross the efficiency bar also. How their services are qualitatively different from regular employees? No material indicating qualitative difference has been pointed out except making bald statement. The appointment was not made for a particular project which is the basic concept of the work-- charged employees. Rather, the very concept of work-charged employment has been misused by offering the employment on exploitative terms for the work which is regular and perennial in nature. The work-charged employees had been subjected to transfer from one place to another like regular employees as apparent from documents placed on record. In Narain Dutt Sharma & Ors. v. State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors. (CA No._____2019 @ SLP (C) No.5775 of 2018) the appellants were allowed to cross efficiency bar, after "8' years of continuous service, even during the period of work-charged services. Narain Dutt Sharma, the appellant, was appointed as a work-charged employee as Gej Mapak w.e.f 15.9.1978. Payment used to be made monthly but the appointment was made in the pay scale of Rs.200-320. Initially, he was appointed in the year 1978 on a fixed monthly salary of Rs.205 per month. They were allowed to cross efficiency bar also as the benefit of pay scale was granted to them during the period they served as work-charged employees they served for three to four decades and later on services have been regularized time to time by different orders. However, the services of some of the appellants in few petitions/ appeals have not been regularized even though they had served for several decades and ultimately reached the age of superannuation.

31. In the aforesaid facts and circumstances, it was unfair on the part of the State Government and its officials to take work from the employees on the work-charged basis. They ought to have resorted to an appointment on regular basis. The taking of work on the work- charged basis for long amounts to adopting the exploitative device. Later on, though their services have been regularized. However, the period spent by them in the work-charged establishment has not been counted towards the qualifying service. Thus, they have not only been deprived of their due emoluments during the period they served on less salary in work charged establishment but have also been deprived of counting of the period for pensionary benefits as if no services had been rendered by them. The State has been benefitted by the services rendered by them in the heydays of their life on less salary in work-charged establishment.

32. In view of the Note appended to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules, there is a provision to count service spent on work-charged, contingencies or non pensionable service, in case, a person has rendered such service in a given between period of two temporary appointments in the pensionable establishment or has rendered such service in the interregnum two periods of temporary and permanent employment. The work-charged service can be counted as qualifying service for pension in the aforesaid exigencies.

33. The question arises whether the imposition of rider that such service to be counted has to be rendered in-between two spells of temporary or temporary and permanent service is legal and proper. We find that once regularisation had been made on vacant posts, though the employee had not served prior to that on temporary basis, considering the nature of appointment, though it was not a regular appointment it was made on monthly salary and thereafter in the pay scale of work-charged establishment the efficiency bar was permitted to be crossed. It would be highly discriminatory and irrational because of the rider contained in Note to Rule 3(8) of 1961 Rules, not to count such service particularly, when it can be counted, in case such service is sandwiched between two temporary or in-between temporary and permanent services. There is no rhyme or reason not to count the service of work-charged period in case it has been rendered before regularisation. In our opinion, an impermissible classification has been made under Rule 3(8). It would be highly unjust, impermissible and irrational to deprive such employees benefit of the qualifying service. Service of work-charged period remains the same for all the employees, once it is to be counted for one class, it has to be counted for all to prevent discrimination. The classification cannot be done on the irrational basis and when respondents are themselves counting period spent in such service, it would be highly discriminatory not to count the service on the basis of flimsy classification. The rider put on that work-charged service should have preceded by temporary capacity is discriminatory and irrational and creates an impermissible classification.

34. As it would be unjust, illegal and impermissible to make aforesaid classification to make the Rule 3(8) valid and non-discriminatory, we have to read down the provisions of Rule 3(8) and hold that services rendered even prior to regularisation in the capacity of work-charged employees, contingency paid fund employees or non- pensionable establishment shall also be counted towards the qualifying service even if such service is not preceded by temporary or regular appointment in a pensionable establishment.

35. In view of the Note appended to Rule 3(8), which we have read down, the provision contained in Regulation 370 of the Civil Services Regulations has to be struck down as also the instructions contained in Para 669 of the Financial Handbook."

15. The Court firstly held that the continued engagement of the petitioners and showing them as working in a work-charged establishment was clearly exploitative since their continued engagement itself established that the work performed by them was regular and permanent in character. The Court held that the action of the State of continuing to take work from such employees on a work-charged basis was thus unfair and illegal. Turning its attention then to the Note appended to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules, the Supreme Court noted and held that there appeared to be no logical basis for the stipulation of service rendered as work charged followed by regularisation being recognised as qualifying for pension only if such service had fallen between two spells of temporary or in between spells of temporary and permanent service. The Court accordingly read down the Note to hold that services rendered even prior to regularisation albeit in the capacity of a work-charged employee or contingency paid fund employee shall also be counted towards qualifying service even if such service were not sandwiched between spells of service as provided for. In light of the reading down of the Note to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules, the Supreme Court proceeded to strike down Regulation 370 of the CSR.

16. Post the decision rendered in Prem Singh the State promulgated an Ordinance titled the Uttar Pradesh Qualifying Service for Pension and Validation Ordinance 2020 (U.P. Ordinance No. 19 of 2020). That Ordinance introduced the following measures for the purposes of computation of qualifying service: -

"1. (1) This Ordinance may be called the Uttar Pradesh Qualifying Service for Pension and Validation Ordinance, 2020.

(2) It shall extend to the whole of the State of Uttar Pradesh.

(3) It shall be deemed to have come into force on April 1, 1961.

2. Notwithstanding anything contained in any rule, regulation or Government order for the purposes of entitlement of pension to an officer, "Qualifying Service" means the services rendered by an officer appointed on a temporary or permanent post in accordance with the provisions of the service rules prescribed by the Government for the post.

3. Notwithstanding any Judgement, decree or order of any Court, anything done or purporting to have been done and may action taken or purporting to have been taken under or in relation to sub-rule (8) of rule 3 of the Uttar Pradesh Retirement Benefit Rules, 1961 before the commencement of this Ordinance, shall be deemed to be and always to have been done or taken under the provisions of this Ordinance and to be and always to have been valid as if the provisions of this Ordinance were in force at all material times with effect from April 1, 1961.

4. Save as otherwise provided, the provisions of this Ordinance shall have effect, notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other law for the time being in force or in any instrument having effect by virtue of any law for the time being in force other than this Ordinance."

17. The Ordinance was thereafter replaced by an Act7 [U.P. Act No. 01 of 2021] which was notified on 05 March 2021. It becomes relevant to note that both the Ordinance as well as the Validating Act introduced provisions with retrospective effect providing that it shall be deemed to have come into force with effect from 01

April 1961. The aforesaid date as noticed hereinabove is the date when the 1961 Rules were enforced. The Validating Act provides that qualifying service for the purposes of considering the entitlement to pension would mean services rendered by an officer appointed on a temporary or permanent post in accordance with the provisions of the service rules prescribed for the post. The introduction of this definition with retrospective effect from 01 April 1961 bids us to view Rule 3(8) contained in the 1961 Rules accordingly. Article 368 as noticed above had provided that service would not qualify unless it be found that the officer held a substantive office on a permanent establishment. The Validating Act thus lays in place a test which stands retrospectively introduced with only such service liable to be considered when rendered on a temporary or permanent post and with the added qualification of the appointment having been made in accordance with the relevant rules. It essentially lays in place the following twin preconditions for the purposes of computing qualifying service

(a) The officer having rendered service on a temporary or permanent post, and

(b) The appointment being one which was made in accordance with the provisions of the service rules prescribed.

C. DIVISION BENCH JUDGMENTS POST ORDINANCE AND THE VALIDATING ACT

18. The effect of the Ordinance on a claim for pensionary benefits was considered by a Division Bench of the Court firstly in the matter of State of U.P. And Others v. Mahendra Singh8. Noticing the provisions made therein the Division Bench observed: -

"It is clear from perusal of Section 2 of the Ordinance that it would have effect notwithstanding anything contained in U.P. Retirement Benefit Rules, 1961 or Regulation 361 and 370 of the Civil Service Regulation. Though it has been informed at the bar that in certain writ petitions, validity of the aforesaid U.P. Ordinance has been challenged, however, even if for purpose of adjudicating the present appeal the Ordinance is accepted as it is, section 2 thereof would inure to the benefit to the opposite party-petitioner and not to the benefit of appellants. The word "Qualifying Service" has been defined in Section 2 of the aforesaid U.P. Ordinance to mean the services rendered by an officer appointed on a temporary or permanent post in accordance with the provisions of the service rules prescribed by the Government for the post.

As discussed aforesaid, the appellants have admitted the appointment of the opposite party-petitioner on temporary post of Godown Chaukidar from 04.09.1981 till the date of his appointment on a regular post in 1997. Therefore, under this very U.P. Ordinance, the petitioner is entitled to his claim for counting the period of his service from the date of his appointment on 04.09.1981 on a temporary post till his regularisation on the permanent post in the year 1997."

19. In State of U.P. And 4 Others v. Bhanu Pratap Sharma9, the Court was called upon to consider the question whether the period spent by an employee prior to regularisation was liable to be taken into consideration for the purposes of pension. That claim was challenged in light of the provisions made in the Ordinance with the appellants there contending that in light of Sections 2, 3 and 4 thereof, the period spent prior to regularisation would stand excluded. Dealing with the aforesaid contention, the Division Bench held: -

"It is clear from the perusal of section 2 of the Act of 2021 that it would have effect notwithstanding anything contained in U.P. Retirement Benefit Rules, 1961 or Regulation 361 and 370 of the Civil Service Regulation. Careful reading thereof, however, revels that "Qualifying Service" has been defined to mean the services rendered by an officer appointed on a temporary or permanent post in accordance with the provisions of the service rules prescribed by the Government for the post. In the counter affidavit filed by present appellant in the writ petition it was categorically admitted by the appellant that the petitioner was appointed in the office of Executive Engineer, Nalkoop Nirman Khand I, Bareilly on the post of Rig Assistant on work charge basis on 25.04.1979. Subsequently, the petitioner was regularized from work charge basis to regular establishment on the post of helper on 18.03.2006.

Thus admittedly, the petitioner was appointed on a post in work charge establishment. The record reveals that the initial appointment of the petitioner was as helper. Thus the post which is referred to in the counter affidavit is that of Helper on which he was regularized. The post of Helper thus permanently existed. Further more, it is not the case of the appellant that the respondent was not appointed in accordance with the provisions of Service Rules. Thus having been initially appointed on the post of Helper, the appellant were not justified in denying the service benefit."

20. It would also be pertinent to notice yet another decision handed down by a Division Bench of the Court in State of U.P. And 4 Others v. Narayan Singh Sharma10. Dealing with an identical question, the Division Bench there held:-

7. In the case in hand the petitioner/ non-appellant was appointed on ad hoc basis but was against the sanctioned post. Thus, approval as per rules was given to his appointment by the District Inspector of Schools. The regularisation of service may be subsequently by an order issued in the year 2016 but then as per the Ordinance of 2020, the period of service rendered after appointment on temporary basis as per rules could not have been ignored. For that purpose Ordinance of 2020 is quoted hereunder:

...

8. A perusal of Section 2 of the Ordinance of 2020 reveals that service rendered by an officer appointed on a temporary or permanent post in accordance with the provisions of service rules would be counted towards qualifying service.

9. In view of the above, even the Ordinance of 2020 would not affect the claim of the petitioner/non-appellant having been appointed against the sanctioned post, may be initially on ad hoc but as per rules and subsequently his service was regularized. It is not the case of the respondents that initial appointment of the petitioner was against the rules. It is more so when the writ petition was filed with clear statement of fact that petitioner/non- appellant was appointed against the sanctioned post and in accordance with rules. Therefore, even approval to his appointment was given by the District Inspector of Schools.

10. In the light of the discussion made above, we do not find any reason to cause interference in the judgment impugned herein. However, we have given additional reason to allow pensionary benefits to the petitioner/non-appellant by counting his length of service."

D. SUBMISSIONS OF THE STATE

21. Sri Ajit Kumar Singh, the learned Additional Advocate General, has contended that the Validating Act has introduced seminal changes relating to computation of qualifying service. According to the learned Additional Advocate General since the provisions of the Act have come to be introduced with retrospective effect and are to operate notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any rule, regulation or Government Order, it has now become incumbent upon an officer to establish that the service of which inclusion is sought for the purposes of pensionary benefits was one which was rendered on a temporary or permanent post. Additionally, it is also incumbent upon such an officer or employee to establish that his induction into service was in accordance with the provisions made in the relevant service rules. The learned Additional Advocate General also contended that the petitioners here having accepted the terms of their regularisation as set forth in the orders issued in that regard, cannot turn around now and seek inclusion of service rendered prior thereto for the purposes of pension. According to the learned Additional Advocate General, service rendered prior to the date from which the petitioners came to be regularized is neither liable to be included nor can any benefits in respect of that service be claimed. The learned Additional Advocate General has placed reliance upon a decision rendered by a learned Judge in Brahamanand Singh and others v. State of U.P. and others11 to contend that the aforesaid submission finds sustenance from the principles propounded in that decision. Reliance in this regard was placed upon the following passages of the aforesaid decision: -

"9. Though petitioners contended that they are entitled to be regularised from the date of their temporary appointment in the year 1986 to 1989, but no provision in law has been shown whereunder such a right could be claimed..... Even under the Rules of 2001, petitioners could not have been considered for regularisation prior to 7.11.2006. This Court while allowing the petition had not directed consideration of petitioners' claim from any date prior to passing of order itself. Petitioners' have otherwise accepted the order of regularisation passed in the year 2007 and the same was never challenged while they remained in service....."

E. EVALUATION OF THE SUBMISSIONS OF THE STATE

22. Before proceeding to deal with the submissions addressed by the learned Additional Advocate General relating to the terms of the Validating Act and the 1961 Rules, it would be appropriate to firstly deal with the submission advanced based on Brahamanand Singh. The Court in Brahamanand Singh was essentially called upon to consider a situation where an employee came to be regularized post 01 April 2005 and, in that context, whether he would be entitled to claim pensionary benefits. It becomes pertinent to note that Rule 2(3) of the 1961 Rules had come to be amended with effect from 07 April 2005 and provided that they shall not apply to employees entering service on or after 01 April 2005. The Court took into consideration the admitted fact that the services of the petitioner in that case had come to be terminated. The order of termination was ultimately set aside with the writ petition being allowed on 07 November 2006. It was in the aforesaid background that it was held that any period of service falling prior to 7 November 2006 was not liable to be countenanced. It then took into consideration that fact that the order of regularisation which came to be passed in 2007 was never assailed. The Court held that the effective date of regularisation which stands mentioned in that order cannot be questioned after retirement. The aforesaid decision, strictly speaking, does not deal with the questions which arise and fall for our consideration in this batch for more than one reason.

23. Undisputedly, in Brahmanand Singh the employee sought inclusion of a period during which an order of termination operated. It was in the aforesaid context that the learned Judge held that such a claim would not sustain and that the period prior to the order of termination coming to be set aside cannot be included. Secondly, the learned Judge held that it would not be open for the employee to seek modification of the date of his regularisation after attaining the age of superannuation. It was essentially held that once the terms of regularisation come to be accepted, the employee cannot turn around and contend that he should be regularised with effect from a date prior to that mentioned in the order itself. It may only be noted in this respect that none of the petitioners here seek modification of their date of regularisation. The date of regularisation is accepted even in the matter of Sushma Chandel with learned counsel stating at the Bar that the petitioner does not assail her regularisation granted with effect from 16 March 2005. In the considered opinion of this Court the claim for inclusion of services rendered prior to regularisation is not an assertion which can be said to be akin or corresponding to an employee seeking a reopening or review of the effective date of regularisation. The date from which an employee comes to be regularized may have a bearing on myriad service related issues. While not to be understood as seeking to exhaustively record or chronicle such matters, claims relating to calculation of increments or seniority are illustrative facets of service which may be impacted by the date of regularisation. However, the claim for inclusion of service rendered prior to confirmation or regularisation is one which is liable to be considered in light of the provisions of Regulation 370 of the CSR as it stood as well as the Proviso to Rule 3 (8) of the 1961 Rules. These provisions did and even presently envisage the inclusion of period of service spent prior to confirmation or regularisation subject to that service meeting the conditions prescribed therein. In view of the aforesaid conclusion, the Court is of the considered view that the claim of the petitioners here cannot be denied on grounds urged by the learned Additional Advocate General. Having ruled on the validity of the submissions addressed by the learned Additional Advocate General, the Court now proceeds to deal with the merits of the question which has fallen for consideration.

F. DISCUSSION ON THE GOVERNING LEGAL REGIME

(I). THE CSR PROVISIONS

24. It would be beneficial to advert to the provisions made in the CSR insofar as the issue of pensionary benefits is concerned. Regulation 361, as was noted above, puts in place the three primordial conditions which must be satisfied for a government servant to be held entitled to the payment of pension. It postulates that the service rendered by an officer would qualify for pension only if it is established that the same was discharged under the Government, the employment was substantive and permanent and was paid for by the Government. Regulation 368, as it originally stood, provided that service would not qualify for pension unless the officer held a substantive office in a permanent establishment. This statutory position which held the field has now been amended originally by virtue of the Ordinance that was promulgated and thereafter by the Validating Act. The Validating Act provides that qualifying service would mean service rendered by an officer appointed on a temporary or a permanent post in accordance with the provisions of the service rules prescribed. Thus, the concept of "substantive office" has been replaced with the requirement of the employee establishing that he had been appointed on a "permanent or temporary post". The Ordinance and the Validating Act introduce the further requirement of it being established that the appointment had been made in accordance with the prevalent rules as an additional condition for the purposes of evaluating a claim for pensionary benefits. What the Validating Act essentially does is to erase the connect between the concept of qualifying service and the officer holding a substantive office under the Government. The test for determining qualifying service has undoubtedly been fundamentally altered in terms of the Validating Act. A period of service in order to be included in qualifying service now must necessarily be one which was rendered on a permanent or temporary post and it being additionally found that such service was discharged consequent to an appointment made in accordance with the prevalent rules. Since the Ordinance as well as the Validating Act are to operate retroactively with effect from 01 April 1961, it is this definition of "qualifying service" which would be liable to viewed as existing on the statute book from that date. The provisions made in the 1961 Rules which came into force on the same date, consequently, would also have to be understood in the aforesaid light.

25. Of equal significance are the provisions made in Section 3 of the Validating Act which seeks to validate any action taken by the State thus far which would be liable to be adjudged on the anvil of "qualifying service" as introduced as well as Section 4 which confers an overriding and overarching effect on the provisions of the Validating Act notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other act, rule or regulation.

26. The CSR applicable in the State further and in accordance with the provisions made in Regulation 370 prescribed that an officer could count temporary or officiating service under the Government followed by confirmation or regularisation in the same or any other post.

The only exception to the aforesaid rule was the exclusion of periods of temporary or officiating service rendered either in a non-pensionable establishment or a work-charged establishment as well as the period of service against a post which was paid from contingencies. Although Regulation 370 was amended in 1977, the position remained essentially the same with the period of temporary or officiating service followed by confirmation or regularisation being entitled to be counted subject to the exceptions noticed above. It is also pertinent to bear in mind that Regulation 370 was ultimately struck down by the Supreme Court in Prem Singh consequent to the Note to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules being read down. The Court shall deal with the significance of Regulation 370 being struck down in the subsequent parts of this decision.

(II). THE 1961 RULES

27. The Court then turns to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules. The 1961 Rules while defining qualifying service in Rule 3(8) and as it stood prior to the promulgation of the Ordinance and the Validating Act bid one to revert to the provisions made in Article 368 of the CSR. As a consequence of the introduction of the Validating Act with retrospective effect, the expression "qualifying service" would have to necessarily be understood as services rendered against a temporary or permanent post and with the additional rider of the appointment being one which was made in accordance with the relevant service rules. Further it is of seminal importance to bear in mind that the proviso to Rule 3(8) makes provisions identical to those contained in Regulation 370 of the CSR. Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules directly fell for consideration of the Supreme Court in Prem Singh. While the Court in Prem Singh read down the provisions of the Note appended to that rule and also struck down Regulation 370, the proviso was not touched. The reason is neither obscure nor far to seek. The proviso was essentially a statutory measure which reinforced the foundation of Prem Singh namely, that the denial of the fruits of considerable period of service rendered by an employee performing work which was permanent and regular by employing the subterfuge of engagement in a work charged establishment would be wholly arbitrary.

28. Turning then to the Note appended to Rule 3(8), the same was read down by the Supreme Court in Prem Singh with their Lordships holding that service rendered even prior to regularisation would be liable to be counted for the purposes of computing qualifying service. In Prem Singh, the Supreme Court essentially found no justification for discounting the service rendered in a work-charged establishment prior to regularisation or for the aforesaid service being restricted only to a situation where it was found that such service was rendered between two spells of temporary or temporary and permanent service.

(III). JUDICIAL ANNULMENT OF REGULATION 370

29. Having dealt with the substantive parts of Rule 3(8) and how they were interpreted and explained by Prem Singh, it would be appropriate to deal with the inmpact, if any, of Regulation 370 being struck down. Prem Singh essentially held that once an employee is ultimately confirmed or regularized, the long length of service rendered purportedly in a work charged establishment is liable to be included for the purposes of pensionary benefits. The Supreme Court arrived at this conclusion as a consequence of the facts that were noticed in paragraph 30 of the report. Their Lordships noticed that the concept of work charged engagement had been "misused" and persons engaged for decades on "exploitative terms". It was further noted that those employees had been engaged for work which was "perennial" and "regular". Significantly once the learned Judges in Prem Singh found no justification to exclude long periods of service rendered ostensibly in a work charged establishment followed by confirmation or regularisation for the purposes of pension and read down the further restrictions placed by the Note appended to Rule 3(8), the only provision which stood in the way of inclusion of service rendered in a work charged establishment was Regulation 370. It was this aspect which clearly appears to have informed the decision to strike down Regulation 370. However and as was noticed hereinabove, provisions similar to those enshrined in Regulation 370 remain preserved and untouched in the proviso to Rule 3(8). That proviso has neither been amended nor deleted. Regard must be had to the well settled and recognised function of a proviso namely of carving out an exception to what otherwise would stand governed in the principal provision. The Court bears in mind the functionality of a proviso as was explained by the Supreme Court in Durgabai Deshmukh Memorial Sr. Sec. School v. J.A.J. Vasu Sena12:-

"35. It is a settled position of law that the objective of a proviso is to carve out from the main section a class or category to which the main section does not apply. A proviso must prima facie be read and considered in relation to the principal matter to which it is a proviso. It is not a separate or independent enactment."

G. SUMMATION

30. In light of the aforesaid discussion the Court comes to the conclusion that the expression "qualifying service" would now have to be interpreted in accordance with the provisions made in the Validating Act notwithstanding anything to the contrary that may be contained in any other act, rule or regulation. The Validating Act introduces provisions with retrospective effect from 1 April 1961. Consequently, the provisions of the 1961 Rules which came to be promulgated from that date would have to be construed accordingly.

31. The right to claim pensionary benefits is now and by virtue of the provisions introduced retroactively by the Validating Act made dependent upon it being found that the employee was appointed in accordance with the applicable service rules and held a permanent or temporary post. Since the legislative enactment bids us to proceed on the basis that the aforesaid definition of qualifying service existed and held the field since 1 April 1961, all claims would have to be necessarily evaluated and examined accordingly. This conclusion would necessarily be subject to any challenge that may be laid to the provisions of the Validating Act.

32. While the Validating Act fundamentally alters the concept of qualifying service, the right to claim addition of service rendered in a temporary or ad hoc basis is one which is still available to be asserted in light of the proviso to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules.

While Regulation 370 of the CSR may have been annulled by virtue of the declaration in Prem Singh, the proviso to the aforesaid rule enshrines measures which are akin to those which were contemplated in Regulation 370 when it existed. Regard must also be had to the fact that while the provisions of the aforesaid rule directly fell for consideration in Prem Singh, it was the Note to that rule alone which was read down. The proviso remained untouched and continues to exist in the statute whole, unmutilated and effective. In fact and was noticed hereinabove, the Supreme Court in Prem Singh appears to have consciously left the proviso standing since once it had struck down Regulation 370, that was the only statutory provision which reinforced the central beam of Prem Singh of service discharged for decades together was liable to be taken notice of for the purposes of pension once it be found that the attachment of an officer or employee in a work charged establishment was a mere ruse and camouflage to deny benefits.

33. From the above recordal of the statutory scheme which now remains in place, it is manifest that the right of an employee to seek addition of continuous, temporary or officiating service followed by confirmation or regularisation would remain preserved notwithstanding the deletion of Regulation 370. Additionally, and as was explained by the Division Benches in Mahendra Singh, Bhanu Pratap Sharma and Narayan Singh Sharma, the right as inhering in a government servant to seek inclusion of services rendered on a temporary or officiating basis provided the appointment was ultimately regularized has not been impacted by the Validating Act. The three decisions afore noted unambiguously hold that the period prior to regularisation cannot be ignored as long as it is established that it was service rendered against a particular post be it temporary or permanent. This aspect was highlighted with the Court holding that the only fetter which now remains in place for the purposes of computing qualifying service is of the service rendered being shown to have been discharged against a permanent or temporary post and the appointment having been made in accordance with the service rules. It was in the aforesaid background that it was held that there was no imperative to assail the validity of the U.P. Act No. 01 of 2021 in such situations.

34. It may further be noted that the Validating Act makes the right to claim pension dependent upon it being found that service was rendered against a "permanent or temporary post" coupled with it being established that the appointment was made in accordance with the service rules. Notwithstanding the above, the question of whether the engagement of the officer or employee shown against a work charged establishment was merely an "exploitative measure" [an expression which the Court borrows from Prem Singh itself] and designed to deny benefits of long service would still be open to canvassed. As was noted by the Supreme Court in Prem Singh such conduct of the State would clearly fall foul of the constitutional guarantees enshrined in Part III of our Constitution.

35. The question of service discharged in a temporary or ad hoc capacity followed by regularisation and whether such periods are liable to be included would also have to be necessarily examined in the backdrop of whether the engagement had been made against a permanent or temporary post that was available as also whether the procedure as prescribed under the relevant service rules had been adhered to.

36. Ultimately all the issues which are noticed and enunciated above would merit consideration before the respondents evaluate the claims of the individual petitioners here. The Court is of the firm opinion that a claim for pensionary benefits cannot be negatived solely on the basis of a mere reiteration of the Validating Act having been introduced. The respondents would have to necessarily evaluate such claims bearing in mind the following questions which would arise:-

A. Whether the service rendered in temporary, ad hoc, or officiating capacity was one which was discharged against a permanent or temporary post;

B. Whether the appointment was made in accordance with the provisions made in the prevalent service rules;

C. Whether such service can be excluded notwithstanding the provisions made in the proviso to Rule 3(8) of the 1961 Rules;

D. Whether the service rendered in a work-charged establishment followed by regularisation can be legally excluded while computing qualifying service;

E. Whether such service was performed in connection with work which was regular and perennial and the engagement in a work charged establishment was a mere ruse to deny benefits of long service.

37. All these and other aspects would merit further examination by the respondents before ruling upon the claims of the petitioners here for grant of pensionary benefits. For the aforesaid purpose, the matters shall stand remitted to the competent authority under the respondents to reevaluate the claim of the petitioners here in accordance with the observations made hereinabove. The exercise of reconsideration may be concluded with expedition and preferably within a period of 3 months of the date of presentation of a duly authenticated copy of this order.

38. The writ petitions shall stand disposed of in the above terms.

Children to Free and Compulsory Act, 2009 - Section 23(1) - National Council for Teacher Education Regulations, 2014.

The controversy revolves around the prescribed qualification for selection to the post of the Assistant Teachers (T.G.T.) in the subjects Mathematics and Science in the State of U.P. (Para 6)

A comparison of the minimum qualification prescribed for Secondary/High School in Item No. '4' of the table to NCTE Regulations, 2014 and the Appendix-A in Chapter-II of the Regulations framed under the Act, 1921 shows that for being appointed as Assistant Teacher to teach subjects Mathematics and Science for classes IX & X, a candidate has to study upto Graduate or Post-Graduate with Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.) as the training qualification. This reveals that a subject teacher has to be a graduate in the relevant subject, i.e. he or she must have studied the relevant subject (Mathematics or Science) at least upto Graduation. The B.A. or B.Sc. in the relevant subjects Mathematics and Science, as prescribed qualification in the Appendix-A of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Act, 1921, therefore, cannot be said to be inconsistent with the qualification prescribed in the NCTE Regulations, 2014. (Para 11)

B. Uttar Pradesh Intermediate Education Act, 1921 - National Council of Teacher Education Act, 1993 - The repugnancy between two legislations, if is an irreconcilable conflict, only then the State law must yield in favour of the Central law - The NCTE Act, 1993 is a law relatable to Entry '66' of List-I of Schedule-VII of the Constitution of India which empowers the Parliament to legislate for coordination and determination of standards in the institutions for higher education. Whereas the Intermediate Education Act is a legislation which is referable to Entry '25' of List-III-Concurrent List. In respect to the field "education", the State, thus, has power to legislate, subject to the provisions of Entry '66' of List-I. (Para 12)

There is no repugnancy as the subject "Education" falling within the legislative competence of the State is unquestionable. The attempt of the State Legislature is to provide complete measures and methodology to regulate and supervise the system of High School and Intermediate Education in the State. As is seen from the legislative scheme, the Regulations framed under the NCTE Act provide the minimum standards to the extent that a candidate for being appointed to the post of Assistant Teacher at Secondary School level must be at least a Graduate and possess training qualification for teaching. Whereas, the Intermediate Education Act ensures that a candidate to be appointed as Assistant Teacher in a subject must be well versed in the relevant subject/discipline, in which he/she is appointed to teach. (Para 13)

Thus, Keeping in mind the doctrine of pith and substance, having gone through the legislative scheme of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (a State legislature), suffice it to note that the State Act is a self-contained code enacted with a distinct and predominant purpose of regulating and supervising the system of High School and Intermediate Education in the State of Uttar Pradesh. There is no overlapping between two legislations resulting in any repugnancy. (Para 16)

Therefore, qualifications prescribed in Entry '3' and '33' of Appendix 'A' for the post of Assistant Teachers (T.G.T.) in subjects Mathematics and Science are not inconsistent with the qualifications prescribed in Item No. 4 of the Table in the First Schedule of the NCTE Regulations, 2014 and the said entries are not ultra vires to S. 12-A of the NCTE Act read with NCTE Regulations, 2014. (Para 16)

C. Every candidate aspiring to become a teacher has to be possess the qualification needed to teach the subject - As per the NCTE Regulations, 2014, a person who is not a "graduate" cannot be treated as qualified for recruitment to the post of Assistant Teacher in a Secondary School. (Para 18)

Words & Phrases – 'Graduate' – The word "Graduate" incorporated as qualification in the NCTE Regulations is the prescribed minimum standard educational qualification to be possessed by a person for recruitment as Education Teacher in a Secondary School. The word "Graduate" mentioned in the First Schedule of NCTE Regulations being the prescribed qualification cannot be given such a wide meaning to include "all Graduates" including those who possessed B.Tech degree. (Para 18)

D. The comparison of syllabus and determination of equivalence to the two qualifications is within the domain of the subject experts. It is not possible for the Court to hold that the B.Tech degree is equivalent to the "Graduation" "(B.A. or B.Sc. course)" in the subjects Mathematics and Science and that the "Graduates in various disciplines of B.Tech course" which is a technical course, are qualified for appointment to the posts of Assistant Teacher in the subjects Mathematics and Science. (Para 18, 19)

E. Doctrine of pith and substance discussed - One of the settled principles to examine the repugnancy or conflict between the provisions of a law enacted by one legislative constituent and the law enacted by the other under the concurrent list, is to apply the doctrine of pith and substance. The purpose of applying this principle is to examine, as a matter of fact, the nature and character of the legislation in question. (Para 14)

F. With respect to the challenge to the advertisement petitioners cannot be permitted provisionally to participate in the selection in question as the Apex Court has taken strong exceptions to the state of affairs in the matter of appointment of teachers in the state of U.P. The Apex Court had disapproved the practice of making ad hoc appointments for a long time and noted that this had created a mess in the education system. (Para 20)

G. Equivalence of B.Tech course with B.A. or B.Sc. (Mathematics and Science) - An equivalence Committee of experts has been constituted by the State Government and it can examine the said issue. The State Government is directed to place the matter of equivalence before the Expert Committee which has been constituted for the purpose to take an expeditious decision, in accordance with law. (Para 21, 22)

H. Proposal of the Board of High School and Intermediate, Uttar Pradesh forwarded by the letter dated 26.11.2020 - The Column-IV of the said proposal in Parishisth 'Ga' appended as Annexure S.C.A. '1' to the short counter-affidavit filed by the State, refers to three alternative qualifications, prescribed in the First Schedule of the NCTE Regulations, 2014. The qualification in clause 'Ga' of "four years B.A. Ed./B.Sc.Ed. degree" from the institutions recognised by NCTE refers to the degree of an integrated course of "B.A. with B.Ed." or "B.Sc. with B.Ed." and cannot be confused as referring to the four years B.Ed, degree. Moreover, being an alternative qualification, if there is no institution in the State of U.P. imparting integrated course of B.A. Ed./B.Sc.Ed., it is open for the State Government to modify the proposal of the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Prayagraj while making amendments in Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, to bring it in line with the NCTE Regulations, 2014. (Para 23)

3. Sanjay Singh & ors. Vs St. of U.P. & ors., Civil Appeal No. 8300 of 2016 (Para 20)

Present petition challenges vires of Rule 5 of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Rules, 1998 and Appendix 'A' as contained in Chapter II of the Regulations frames under the Uttar Pradesh Intermediate Education Act, 1921. It also challenges the Advertisement No. 01/2021 dated 15.03.2021 publishes by U.P. Secondary Education Service Selection Board, Prayagraj.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sunita Agarwal, J. & Hon'ble Mrs. Sadhna Rani (Thakur), J.)

1. Heard Sri Hari Narain Singh learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Rishabh Srivastava learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri A.K.S. Parihar learned Advocate for the respondent no. 3 and Sri Sudhanshu Srivastava learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents.

2. The petitioners herein have obtained Bachelors Degree in various disciplines of B.Tech (Bachelor of Technical Education) from the technical institutions recognized by All India Council of Technical Education (In short "AICTE"), affiliated with the Technical Universities. They claim of having studied Mathematics and Science as the subjects in the B.Tech course. They also claim to have obtained B.Ed (Bachelor of Education) degree from the institutions recognized by the National Council of Teacher Education (In short "NCTE").

3. The contention is that the petitioners are eligible for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher (Trained Graduate Teachers) (In short "T.G.T") in Mathematics and Science, to teach students upto the Secondary level, i.e. Classes IX & X, being qualified as per the regulations framed by NCTE providing minimum qualification for appointment to the said post.

The vires of the Rule 5 of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board, Rules, 1998 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules, 1998") and Appendix 'A' as contained in Chapter II of the regulations framed under the Uttar Pradesh Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 1921") is sought to be challenged on the ground that the qualifications prescribed therein for selection/appointment of Trained Graduate Teachers in Mathematics and Science is inconsistent with Section 12-A of the National Council of Teacher Education Act, 1993 (In short "NCTE Act") readwith the National Council for Teacher Education (Determination of Minimum Qualifications for persons to be recruited as Education Teachers and Physical Education Teachers in Pre-primary, Primary, Upper Primary, Secondary, Senior Secondary or Intermediate Schools or Colleges) Regulations, 2014 (hereinafter referred to as "the NCTE Regulations, 2014).

Further prayer in the writ petition is to quash the qualification prescribed in Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Act, 1921 for Trained Graduate Teachers in subjects Mathematics and Science and further to incorporate qualifications as provided in Regulations, 2014 framed by NCTE.

4. By means of the amendment application, the petitioners also challenge the Advertisement No. 01/2021 dated 15.3.2021 published by the U.P. Secondary Education Service Selection Board, Prayagraj for the posts of Assistant Teacher (Trained Graduate Grade) in the subjects Mathematics and Science.

5. It is argued by Sri Hari Narain Singh learned Senior Advocate for the petitioners that the challenge raised herein is substantiated from the bare perusal of the statement in the short counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent no. 1. In the said affidavit, respondent no. 1 had admitted that the qualification prescribed in Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act is not in conformity with the prescribed qualifications for the post of Assistant Teachers in the NCTE Regulations 2014. As per the disclosure made therein, the proposal of the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Prayagraj dated 26.11.2020 has been returned back with certain objections and the State requires time (preferably six months) to complete the process to bring the Rule 5 of the Rules, 1998 and Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Act, 1921 in conformity with the NCTE Act, 1993 and NCTE Regulations, 2014.

It is argued that in view of the admission of the State respondents that the prescribed minimum qualifications in Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Act, 1921 is not in conformity with the NCTE Regulations, 2014, the Selection Board cannot proceed for the selection of the Assistant Teachers in various subjects pursuant to the advertisement dated 15.3.2021.

The submission, thus, is that the qualifications prescribed in the Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act be quashed and the State be directed to withhold the selection of the Assistant Teachers (Trained Graduate Grade) till the amendments are made in the existing provision.

The alternative prayer is that all the petitioners herein being qualified as per the minimum qualifications prescribed by the NCTE be permitted to participate in the selection process on provisional basis or else the writ petition would be rendered infructuous.

The supplementary affidavit dated 15.7.2021 has been filed to bring on record the syllabus of B.Tech, B.A./B.Sc. course in the subjects Mathematics and Science to assert that the petitioners are graduates in the relevant disciplines and are eligible for appointment.

6. At the outset, we may note that the complete syllabus of the course concerned for making comparison of the papers of study in Mathematics and Science of B.A./B.Sc. courses has not been brought on record.

The controversy, thus, revolves around the prescribed qualification for selection to the post of the Assistant Teachers (T.G.T.) in the subjects Mathematics and Science in the State of U.P.

7. Sri Sudhanshu Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State respondents, in rebuttal, submits that there is no inconsistency in the prescribed qualification as published in the advertisement dated 15.3.2021. The State is under obligation to complete the selection to the post of Assistant Teacher (T.G.T.) against all the current and future vacancies reported as per the Rules, in view of the directions of the Apex Court in the judgment and order dated 26th August, 2020 in Civil Appeal No. 8300 of 2016 (Sanjay Singh and others vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & others) read as under:-

"12. We end with the hope that we will never be faced with the aforesaid situation again and the State Government and the Commission will also make every endeavour to ensure that the order is complied in its true intent and spirit and specially the aspect of holding examinations for the future taking into consideration all current and future vacancies reported as per rules is followed in times to come. We need not emphasize that education in a very important role performed by a State apart from the area of medical assistance to citizens and thus it is necessary that the full benefit is extended to the students which can only take place if the full strength of teachers is available at the requisite time. This in turn requires compliance with the aforesaid directions for the future.

13. Since there is always hope, we hope for a better future.

14. The aforesaid exercise by the Commission in consultation with the State Government should be completed well in time to ensure that at least in the session commencing in July, 2021 all teachers up to date are in place."

As regards the process of amendment in the Appendix 'A', Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act, it is contended that the proposal of the Board of High School and Intermediate had been considered and it was sent back for clarification in view of the inconsistency in the qualification proposed by the Board. The specific anomaly mentioned in the 'Note' forwarded to the Board has been pointed out from the Annexure "S.C.A.-1" to the short counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State.

It is then argued that the petitioners being B.Tech Graduate cannot seek selection to the post of Assistant Teacher (T.G.T.) in the subjects Mathematics and Science as they are not eligible/qualified. The advertisement dated 15.3.2021 published by the Selection Board, hence, cannot be quashed at the instance of the petitioners.

8. To deal with the controversy at hands, it would be appropriate to first note the relevant provisions pertaining to the field.

The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Act, 2009 (in short "R.T.E. Act, 2009") has been enacted to provide compulsory elementary education to all children of the age of 6 to 14 years. Section 23(1) of the R.T.E. Act, 2009 provides that for being eligible for appointment as a teacher, any person must possess such minimum qualifications as laid down by an Academic Authority, authorised by the Central Government, by notification. After coming into operation of the R.T.E. Act, 2009, by the notification dated 23.8.2010, the Central Government had appointed NCTE (National Council of Teacher Education) as the Academic Authority to determine the qualification for appointment of teachers so as to maintain the norms and standards in the teaching education system. The NCTE Amendment Act, 2011 was enacted by the Parliament on 12th October, 2011 and was promulgated in the Official Gazette on 12th November, 2014. The expression "School" was inserted by Clause (ka) in Section 2 of the Principal Act which reads as under:-

"Section 2 (ka) "school" means any recognised school imparting pre-primary, primary, upper primary, secondary or senior secondary education, or a college imparting senior secondary education and includes-

(i) a school established, owned and controlled by the Central Government, or the State Government or a local authority;

(ii) a school receiving aid or grants to meet whole or part of its expenses from the Central Government, the State Government or a local authority;

(iii) a school not receiving any aid or grants to meet whole or part of its expenses from the Central Government, the State Government or a local authority;"

Section 12-A inserted by Amendment Act 18 of 2011 (w.e.f. 1.6.2012) reads:-

"12-A. Power of Council to determine minimum standards of education of school teachers.- For the purpose of maintaining standards of education in schools, the Council may, by regulations, determine the qualifications of persons for being recruited as teachers in any pre-primary, primary, upper primary, secondary, senior secondary or intermediate school or college, by whatever name called, established, run, aided or recognised by the Central Government or a State Government or a local or other authority:"

Pursuant to the NCTE Amendment Act, 2011, the Regulations had been published in the Official Gazette on 12th November, 2014, known as the "Regulations of National Council for Teacher Education (determination of the qualifications for persons to be recruited as education teachers and physical education teachers in pre-primary, primary, upper primary, secondary, senior secondary or intermediate school or college) Regulations 2014".

Clause (2) of the said Regulations says that these regulations shall be applicable for recruitment of teachers in any recognised school imparting pre-primary, primary, upper primary, secondary, senior secondary or intermediate school or college established and controlled by the Central Government or a State Government or a local or other authority as also the schools which are recognised but not receiving any grant or aid to meet out their expenses.

Clause (4) of the Regulations says that the qualifications for recruitment of teachers in any recognised school (noted above) shall be as given in the First and Second Schedule(s) annexed to these Regulations.

First Schedule provides minimum academic and professional qualifications for Secondary/High School (For Classes IX-X) in Item No. (4) of the table given therein, which provides as under:-

"(a) Graduate/Post Graduate from recognized University with at least 50% marks in either Graduation or Post Graduation (or its equivalent) and Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.) from National Council for Teacher Education recognized institution.

Or

(b) Graduate/Post Graduate from recognized University with at least 45% marks in either Graduation or Post Graduation (or its equivalent and Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.) from National Council for Teacher Education recognized institution [in accordance with the National Council for Teacher Education (From of application for recognition, the time limit of submission of application, determination of norms and standards for recognition of teacher education programmes and permission to start new course or training) Regulations, 2002 notified on 13.11.2002 and National Council for Teacher Education (Recognition Norms and Procedure) Regulations, 2007 notified on 10.12.2007}

Or

(c) 4-years degree of B.A.Ed./B.Sc.Ed. from any National Council for Teacher Education recognized institution".

9. Placing qualifications in Item No. 4(a) of the table in the First Schedule of the Regulations 2014, it is argued by the learned Senior Advocate for the petitioners that the NCTE being the Apex Academic body appointed by the Central Government had determined the qualification for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher (T.G.T.) for Secondary/High School (Classes IX & X) as "Graduate from a recognized University with at least 50% of the marks in Graduation alongwith B.Ed. (Bachelor of Education) degree from the institution recognized by NCTE". The petitioners having Graduate degree in B.Tech and training qualification B.Ed. are, thus, qualified. The Selection Board, however, illegally excluded them from consideration by mentioning specific eligibility qualifications as B.A./B.Sc. in the subjects Mathematics and Science in the advertisement, which is provided in Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921.

Further submission is that the Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulations has to be appropriately amended by the State Government to bring it in conformity with the NCTE Regulations, 2014 as NCTE Regulations will have an overriding effect over the provisions of Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulation framed under the Act, 1921.

10. To deal with the said submissions, we may note that the appointment of teachers in High School and Intermediate institutions in the State of U.P. is governed by the U.P. Intermediate Education Act which has been enacted for the establishment of a "Board of High School and Intermediate Education" to regulate and supervise the system of the High School and Intermediate Education in the State of U.P. and prescribe courses therefor. Section 15 of the said Act empowers the Board of High School and Intermediate Education to frame Regulations for the purpose of carrying into the effect the provisions of the Act, 1921. Section 16 provides that the Regulations framed by the Board under Section 15 of the Act, 1921 shall be made by the Board only with the previous sanction of the State Government and shall be published in the Gazette. The regulations, under the Act, 1921, framed by the Board as contained in Chapter II provide for appointment of teachers and Heads of Institutions. Regulation 1 of Chapter II states that the minimum qualifications for appointment as teachers in any recognized institution, whether by direct recruitment or otherwise, shall be as given in Appendix 'A'.

Appendix 'A' contains the minimum qualifications for appointment of Assistant Teachers for Classes IX & X and Classes XI & XII. Entry '3' of Appendix 'A' provides the minimum qualification for Mathematics teacher for High School (Classes IX-X). The educational training experience prescribed therein is B.A. or B.Sc. (Mathematics) and the desirable qualification is 'Trained'. Similarly Entry '33' provides minimum qualification for Science teacher for High School (Classes IX-X) as B.Sc. in Chemistry and Physics (Educational Training Experience) and trained (desirable qualification).

11. A comparison of the minimum qualification prescribed for Secondary/High School in Item No. '4' of the table to NCTE Regulations, 2014 and the Appendix-A in Chapter-II of the Regulations framed under the Act, 1921 shows that for being appointed as Assistant Teacher to teach subjects Mathematics and Science for classes IX & X, a candidate has to study upto Graduate or Post-Graduate with Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.) as the training qualification. This reveals that a subject teacher has to be a graduate in the relevant subject, i.e. he or she must have studied the relevant subject (Mathematics or Science) at least upto Graduation. The B.A. or B.Sc. in the relevant subjects Mathematics and Science, as prescribed qualification in the Appendix-A of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Act, 1921, therefore, cannot be said to be inconsistent with the qualification prescribed in the NCTE Regulations, 2014.

12. The NCTE Act, 1993 is a law relatable to Entry '66' of List-I of Schedule-VII of the Constitution of India which empowers the Parliament to legislate for coordination and determination of standards in the institutions for higher education. Whereas the Intermediate Education Act is a legislation which is referable to Entry '25' of List-III-Concurrent List, to be noted as under:-

"25. Education, including technical education, medical education and universities subject to the provisions of entries 63, 64, 65 and 66 of List I; vocational and technical training of labour."

In respect to the field "education", the State, thus, has power to legislate, subject to the provisions of Entry '66' of List-I.

13. First contention of the petitioners is that since both the above legislations operate in the same field, the field being covered by the Central law, the qualifications prescribed in the State Act being not in conformity with the Parliamentary Act is void.

Having examined both the provisions, we have noted that there is no repugnancy as the subject "Education" falling within the legislative competence of the State is unquestionable. The attempt of the State Legislature is to provide complete measures and methodology to regulate and supervise the system of High School and Intermediate Education in the State. As is seen from the legislative scheme, the Regulations framed under the NCTE Act provide the minimum standards to the extent that a candidate for being appointed to the post of Assistant Teacher at Secondary School level must be at least a Graduate and possess training qualification for teaching. Whereas, the Intermediate Education Act ensures that a candidate to be appointed as Assistant Teacher in a subject must be well versed in the relevant subject/discipline, in which he/she is appointed to teach.

14. One of the settled principles to examine the repugnancy or conflict between the provisions of a law enacted by one legislative constituent and the law enacted by the other under the concurrent list, is to apply the doctrine of pith and substance. The purpose of applying this principle is to examine, as a matter of fact, the nature and character of the legislation in question. To examine the 'pith and substance' of the legislation, it is required for the Court to examine the legislative scheme, object and purpose of the Act and practical effect of its provisions. After examining the statute and its provisions as a whole, the Court has to determine whether the field is already covered. While examining these aspects, it should be kept in mind that the legislative constituent enacting the law has a legislative competence with respect to Article 246 readwith the lists contained in Schedule-VII to the Constitution. It is the result of this collective analysis which will demonstrate the pith and substance of the legislation and its consequential effects upon the validity of that law. [Reference Offshore Holdings Private Limited vs. Bangalore Development Authority and others1]

15. T he Apex Court in Offshore Holdings Private Limited (supra) has noted its previous decision in Deep Chand v. State of U.P.2, wherein the principles to examine the repugnancy between the two statutes were enunciated as under:-

"101. While examining the repugnancy between the two statutes, the following principles were enunciated in the case of Deep Chand v. State of U.P. [AIR 1959 SC 648]:

29. (1) There may be inconsistency in the actual terms of the competing statutes;

(2) Though there may be no direct conflict, a State law may be inoperative because the Commonwealth law, or the award of the Commonwealth Court, is intended to be a complete exhaustive code; and

(3) Even in the absence of intention, a conflict may arise when both State and Commonwealth seek to exercise their powers over the same subject matter."

It has further been held therein:-

"102. The repugnancy would arise in the cases where both the pieces of legislation deal with the same matter but not where they deal with separate and distinct matters, though of a cognate and allied character. Where the State legislature has enacted a law with reference to a particular Entry with respect to which, the Parliament has also enacted a law and there is an irreconcilable conflict between the two laws so enacted, the State law will be a stillborn law and it must yield in favour of the Central law. To the doctrine of occupied/overlapping field, resulting in repugnancy, the principle of incidental encroachment would be an exception".

16. Thus, the repugnancy between two legislations, if is an irreconcilable conflict, only then the Sate law must yield in favour of the Central law. Keeping in mind the doctrine of pith and substance, having gone through the legislative scheme of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (a State legislature), suffice it to note that the State Act is a self-contained code enacted with a distinct and predominant purpose of regulating and supervising the system of High School and Intermediate Education in the State of Uttar Pradesh. There is no overlapping between two legislations resulting in any repugnancy.

For the above discussion, we are also unable to persuade ourselves to accept the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioners that the qualifications prescribed in Entry '3' and '33' of Appendix 'A' for the post of Assistant Teachers (T.G.T.) in subjects Mathematics and Science are inconsistent with the qualifications prescribed in Item No. 4 of the Table in the First Schedule of the NCTE Regulations, 2014. The challenge to the said entries in Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act being ultra vires to Section 12-A of the NCTE Act readwith NCTE Regulations, 2014 is, therefore, turned down.

17. Furthermore, we may note that the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P. had forwarded a proposal to the State Government for bringing the qualifications prescribed in Appendix 'A' of Chapter-II of the Regulations framed under the Act, 1921 in line with the qualifications prescribed in the First Schedule of the NCTE Regulations, 2014, for appointment to the post of Assistant Teachers in T.G.T. grade. The qualifications prescribed in NCTE Regulations, 2014, once incorporated in Appendix 'A' of Chapter-II of the Regulations framed under the Act, 1921 would result in addition of more qualifications for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher. The qualifications prescribed in Appendix 'A' at present would remain as they are included in the proposed amendment and they can neither be said to be inconsistent nor irrelevant for the appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher in Secondary/High School institutions in the State of Uttar Pradesh.

It would be relevant to note at this juncture that we are not faced with any of such candidate in the present petition who can claim that he has been excluded from consideration though he possessed the qualifications prescribed in the NCTE Regulations, 2014.

18. The prayer of the petitioners herein is to treat the qualifications possessed by them as equivalent to the qualifications prescribed in the NCTE Regulations, 2014. The assertions of the learned Senior Advocate for the petitioners is that the word "Graduate" mentioned in the First Schedule of NCTE Regulations being the prescribed qualification would include "all Graduates" including those who possessed B.Tech degree. We are afraid to give such a wide meaning to the word "Graduate". The reason being that "the Graduate" incorporated as qualification in the NCTE Regulations is the prescribed minimum standard educational qualification to be possessed by a person for recruitment as Education Teacher in a Secondary School. As per the NCTE Regulations, 2014, a person who is not a "graduate" cannot be treated as qualified for recruitment to the post of Assistant Teacher in a Secondary School. For the subject teacher, however, there cannot be a dispute that a person to be recruited as a subject teacher at the secondary school level must be well versed with the subject which he/she is supposed to teach to the students of classes IX & X. A teacher who does not have good knowledge of the subject cannot clear all doubts of his/her students or create interest in his/her pupils about the subject. A teacher's role in the lives of his/her adolescent students cannot be underestimated. He not only teach but also influences the choices of his/her pupils about their career and goal in life. The certification of academic and training qualification of a candidate is to test the attributes of the teacher in him. Every candidate aspiring to become a teacher has to be possess the qualification needed to teach the subject.

As regards Mathematics and Science, the subjects in question in the present writ petition, a candidate having studied B.A. & B.Sc. in the relevant subject cannot but be treated to be qualified to teach the said subjects to the students of classes IX & X level, as per the scheme of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (Appendix 'A' in Chapter-II) as also the NCTE Regulations, 2014.

As regards the B.Tech Course, the petitioners who had completed graduation in various disciplines of Engineering may have studied Mathematics and Science as one or two study papers in the Five years course, but it is not possible for the Court to hold that the B.Tech degree is equivalent to the "Graduation" "(B.A. or B.Sc. course)" in the subjects Mathematics and Science.

19. As noted above, such a comparison is not possible to be made by the Court for the additional reason that the complete syllabus of two courses is not before us. Even otherwise, the comparison of syllabus and determination of equivalence to the two qualifications is within the domain of the subject experts. It is not possible for the Court to hold that the "Graduates in various disciplines of B.Tech course" which is a technical course, are qualified for appointment to the posts of Assistant Teacher in the subjects Mathematics and Science.

We, therefore, cannot grant the prayer in the writ petition to permit the petitioners to participate in the selection in question.

20. We may further note that taking strong exceptions to the State of affairs in the matter of appointment of teachers in the state of Uttar Pradesh, the Apex Court in Civil Appeal No. 8300 of 2016 (Sanjay Singh and others vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & others) had issued directions to the State Government to complete the process of selection of teachers/lectures at T.G.T. and lecture level against all current and future vacancies reported as per the Rules, at least in the session commencing in July, 2021 so that the full strength of teachers is available to extend benefits to the students. The Apex Court had disapproved the practice of making adhoc appointments for a long time and noted that this had created a mess in the education system starting from primary level to the highest education level, causing adverse effect for the students who are in the need to benefit from the best education process.

Consequently, as regards the challenge to the advertisement in question and the alternative prayer of the petitioners to permit them provisionally to participate in the selection in question, we do not find any merit in the contentions of the petitioners.

21. Now on the question of equivalence of B.Tech course with B.A. or B.Sc. (Mathematics and Science), we may note the submissions of the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State that an equivalence Committee of experts has been constituted by the State Government and it can examine the said issue. We may further note that this issue has come up to this Court from time and again and in order to put the controversy at rest, it is necessary that the question of equivalence of B.Tech course with B.A. and B.Sc. in the subjects Mathematics and Science and also other relevant subjects shall be placed before the Equivalence Committee for necessary decision at their end. The said decision would also rule out any kind of confusion in the minds of the youth of the State who aspire to become teacher. We are reminding ourselves that every year whenever selection to the post of Assistant Teachers in Science and Mathematics subjects is initiated, the issue of equivalence crops up and in our considered opinion, the above directed action on the part of the State by getting an expert opinion would bring the controversy to its logical conclusion.

22. In view of the above, we direct the State Government to place the matter of equivalence before the Expert Committee which has been constituted for the purpose to take an expeditious decision, in accordance with law.

23. Now lastly, with regard to the proposal of the Board of High School and Intermediate, Uttar Pradesh forwarded by the letter dated 26.11.2020 and the inaction of the State in keeping it pending for approximately a period of about one year, we may note that the Column-IV of the said proposal in Parishisth 'Ga' appended as Annexure S.C.A. '1' to the short counter affidavit filed by the State, refers to three alternative qualifications, prescribed in the First Schedule of the NCTE Regulations, 2014.

The qualification in clause 'Ga' of "four years B.A.Ed./B.Sc.Ed. degree" from the institutions recognised by NCTE refers to the degree of an integrated course of "B.A. with B.Ed." or "B.Sc. with B.Ed." and cannot be confused as referring to the four years B.Ed. degree. Moreover, being an alternative qualification, if there is no institution in the State of U.P. imparting integrated course of B.A.Ed./B.Sc.Ed., it is open for the State Government to modify the proposal of the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Prayagraj while making amendments in Appendix 'A' of Chapter II of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, to bring it in line with the NCTE Regulations, 2014.

24. We are surprised and at pain to note that in the affidavit of the Special Secretary Secondary Education, U.P., Lucknow filed on behalf of the State of U.P., such a minor issue has been highlighted to give an impression that the State needed much deliberations to remove the discrepancy in the recommendations of the Board of High School and Intermediate in its proposal dated 26.11.2020. We may remind the State of its power to make necessary amendments/suggestions in the proposal of the Board while making amendment in the Regulations, provided under Section 16 of the Intermediate Education Act. For the reasons best known to the officers of the State, the issue has been prolonged unreasonably and unnecessary for a period of approximately one year. The officers sitting at the helm of the affairs are expected to be well versed with the Statutes and their duties and responsibilities in the State matters.

The Court, thus, taking exception to the assertions in the paragraphs '5' and '6' of the short counter affidavit of the Special Secretary, Secondary Education, U.P., Lucknow, is constrained to record that the State could not offer any reasonable explanation for not moving in the matter of amendment of minimum qualifications, for incorporation in the Appendix 'A' in Chapter-II of the regulation framed under the Act, 1921, to bring it in line with the qualifications prescribed under the NCTE Regulations, 2014.

25. Even in the short counter affidavit, six months time sought by the State to complete the process has not been adhered to. More than five months have passed but no concrete action of the State or the Board of High School and Intermediate could be brought before the Court.

In the written instructions provided by the Special Secretary, Government of U.P. in the Court, it is sought to be explained that the process of amendment in the Regulations could not be completed due to the onset of pandemic Covid-19.

26. We are unable to accept the explanation for the delay on the part of the State as it cannot be said or imagined that the State Machinery (specifically the Education Department of the State) was paralyzed during the pandemic.

More so, when the Court has noticed that the proposal of the Board dated 26.11.2020 has been kept pending only because of the confusion in the own minds of the officers of the concerned department.

27. Being the welfare State, it has to keep in mind that any kind of confusion or doubt in the minds of youth of the State created on account of any inaction on its part or uncertainty in the process of selection and appointment not only hampers the progress of the State but also burden this Court with unnecessary load of litigation consuming precious time of the Court proceedings and, thus, add to the mounting pendency in the Court. The State cannot act as an ordinary litigant whenever it presents its stand before the highest Court of the State. It was more appropriate on the part of the officers of the State to remove all discrepancies/confusions and take necessary corrective steps before bringing their stand in this Court. The approach of the officers of the department concerned in filing short counter affidavit in a casual manner without even application of their minds addressing the issue at their own end, is deprecated in the strongest terms.

28. Taking exception to the attitude and casual approach of the State in the present matter, while turning down the prayers of the petitioners herein, we dispose of the present writ petition with the hope and trust that the State will take necessary speedy action to bring the controversy to its logical end by notifying the necessary amendments in the Appendix 'A' in Chapter-II of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and by referring the issue of equivalence before the Expert Committee for its expeditious decision.

Civil Law - Civil Procedure Code,1908 - Order XLI Rule 27 - Additional evidence at the appellate stage - Proceedings under Order XLI Rule 27 CPC are not intended to enable the parties to supply evidentiary defects at the appellate stage as an after thought - Allowance for time to tutor or incentivise a reluctant witness is not a good reason for failure to introduce the witness at the trial stage (Para 5, 6)

Petitioner wants to introduce attesting witness of Will - Petitioner had full liberty to produce witness and get him examined before trial court but petitioner failed to do so - as the said witness was unwilling to depose during trial Court proceedings - However petitioner over a period of time been able to persuade said witness to appear in proceedings - Held - prerequisites for exercise of power in favour of the petitioner not satisfied in the case- Rejection of application, proper (Para 3, 4, 5)

Dismissed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sandeep Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. By the impugned order dated 19.02.2021 the application under Order XLI Rule 27 tendered by the petitioner for adducing additional evidence at the appellate stage has been declined.

3. The petitioner by means of the aforesaid application wants to introduce an attesting witness of the Will. The petitioner had full liberty to produce the witness and get him examined before the trial court. The petitioner failed to do so.

4. It is contended by Sri Sandeep Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner that the aforesaid witness one Jang Bahadur was unwilling to depose during the trial court proceedings. However he has over a period of time been able to persuade the said Jang Bahadur to appear as witness.

5. Proceedings under Order XLI Rule 27 CPC are not intended to enable the parties to supply evidentiary defects at the appellate stage as an after thought. The prerequisites for exercise of power in favour of the petitioner are not satisfied in the case. In this case it is evident that the petitioner had been working on the witness over a long period at times to depose in his favour.

6. Allowance for time to tutor or incentivise a reluctant witnesses is not a good reason for failure to introduce the witness at the trial stage. Attempts to invoke Order XLI Rule 27 CPC for such purpose have to be thwarted.

7. There is no infirmity in the impugned order dated 19.02.2021.

8. The writ petition is dismissed.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following reliefs :-

"i) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order titled as "Recovery Notice" dated 10.07.20020 issued by the District Basic Education Officer, Kaushambi (i.e. Respondent No.3) to the writ petition.

ii) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the District Basic Education Officer, Kaushambi (i.e. respondent No.3) to forthwith, release the salary of the petitioner with effect from April, 2017 till today as and when it falls due and not to cause any interference in the working of the petitioner on the post of Assistant Teacher in Mehewaghat Sarsawan Primary School, Kaushambi."

Facts

3. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that the petitioner obtained appointment as Assistant Teacher in an institution run by U.P. Basic Education Board, vide order of appointment issued by the District Basic Education Officer, Kaushambi. By order dated 14.08.2018, the appointment of the petitioner was cancelled on the ground that the petitioner had obtained public employment on the post of Assistant Teacher on the basis of forged T.E.T. Certificate/marksheet 2011. It appears that against the aforesaid order of cancellation of appointment dated 14.08.2018, the petitioner filed Writ A No. 5185 of 2019 (Malti Devi and another Vs. State of U.P. and others) in which an interim order dated 08.07.2019 was passed staying the effect and operation of the order dated 14.08.2018.

4. It appears that the petitioner has obtained salary from the State-exchequer. Consequently, the impugned recovery notice dated 10.07.2020 was issued by the respondent no.3 to the petitioner, which is reproduced below :-

5. Aggrieved with the aforequoted recovery notice, the petitioner has filed the present writ petition.

Submissions of the Petitioner

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits as under :-

i) Against the order of cancellation of her appointment as Assistant Teacher, the petitioner has filed Writ A No. 5185 of 2019 (Malti Devi and another Vs. State of U.P. and others) in which an interim order dated 08.07.2019, staying the effect and operation of the order dated 14.08.2018, was passed. Therefore, no salary can be recovered from the petitioner.

ii) Similar writ petitions were decided by the Hon'ble Single Judge against which a Special Appeal Defective 240 of 2020 (Kiran Lata Singh Vs. State Of U.P. Through Secretary, Department of Basic Education And 5 others) was filed in which an interim order dated 31.07.2020 has been passed, therefore, salary cannot be recovered from the petitioner.

Submissions on behalf of the State

7. Learned standing counsel submits as under:-

i) The Special Appeal Defective No.240 of 2020 has been finally decided by the Division Bench and the said Special Appeal alongwith all connected Special Appeals have been dismissed. Therefore, the submission of the petitioner on the basis of interim order in Special Appeal Defective 240 of 2020 is wholly misconceived.

ii) The dispute involved in Special Appeal Defective No. 240 of 2020 was with regard to forged B.Ed. Degree and not the forged T.E.T. Certificate. Therefore, in any circumstances, the case of the petitioner being different on the facts, the petitioner is not entitled for any relief.

iii) When salary to the petitioner was not paid after cancellation of appointment, the petitioner filed Writ A No.1148 of 2020 (Malti Devi and another Vs. State of U.P. And 2 others) which was disposed of by order dated 23.01.2020, directing authority concerned to decide claim of the petitioner in regard to payment of salary and the representation was disposed of by order dated 24.04.2020.

iv) The petitioner is not entitled to any relief inasmuch as a direction issued by this Court by order dated 18.03.2021 to obtain verification report of T.E.T. Certificate of the petitioner, the same was verified and it was found that alleged T.E.T. Certificate year 2011 in favour of the petitioner bearing Roll No.15054567 was never issued by the office of the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj.

v) Referring to paragraphs 3 & 4 of the short counter affidavit dated 24.03.2021, it is submitted that the alleged T.E.T. Certificate is forged and manufactured and it has not been issued by the Board of High School and Intermediate Education and in support, a copy of verification report has been filed as an Annexure S.C.A.-1. The verification report filed alongwith the short counter affidavit has not been disputed by the petitioner. Therefore, the petitioner is not entitled for any relief inasmuch as, after undisputed facts have been brought on record by means of the verification report of the Secretary, Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj, dated 23.03.2021, the fact of obtaining public employment by the petitioner on the basis of forged T.E.T. Certificate 2011, is undisputed and, therefore, the petitioner cannot take advantage of her own fraud.

Questions

8 . With the consent of learned counsel for the parties following questions were framed for determination in this writ petition by order dated 24.03.2021 :-

(i) Whether under the facts and circumstances of the case the impugned recovery notice dated 10.7.2020 is valid?

(ii) Whether recovery of salary can be made where the order of appointment is cancelled on the ground that the appointment itself was obtained by forged eligibility educational certificate?

Discussion and Findings

9. Since both the questions are interlinked and, therefore, both the aforementioned questions are taken up together for decision.

Whether TET Certificate Filed by the Petitioner is Forged

10. The sole point of dispute between the parties is as to whether the T.E.T. Certificate 2011 bearing Roll No.15054567, is forged or genuine. Therefore, by order dated 18.03.2021, this Court directed the learned standing counsel to obtain instructions and verification report of the alleged T.E.T. Certificate from the respondent no.2 i.e. the Board of High School and Intermediate Education Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj, which allegedly issued the aforesaid T.E.T. Certificate. Pursuant to the aforesaid direction, Sri Divyakant Shukla,

Secretary, Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj, has filed a short counter affidavit dated 24.03.2021. In paragraphs 3, 4 & 5 of his short counter affidavit he (respondent no.2) stated as under :-

"3. That it is submitted before this Hon'ble Court that TET Certificate-year 2011 in favour of the petitioner namely Malti Devi Roll No.15054567 never issued by the office of the answering respondent.

4. That it appears the aforesaid TET Certificate is forged and manufactured because of it has not been issued by the office of the answering respondent.

5. That in this regard the enquiry has been conducted and record has been verified to assist this Hon'ble Court. For the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court copy of the verification report is being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No.S.C.A.1 to this affidavit."

11. The verification report dated 23.03.2021, filed alongwith the aforesaid short counter affidavit is reproduced below:

12. Thus, it is proved on record that the alleged T.E.T. Certificate 2011 bearing Roll No.15054567 in the name of the petitioner and allegedly issued by the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj, is forged and manufactured. The Board of High School and Intermediate Education has, after due inquiry and verification stated in the short counter affidavit that the aforesaid alleged T.E.T. Certificate is forged and manufactured and it was not issued by the office of the Board. The verification report and relevant paragraphs of the short counter affidavit have been quoted above. Thus, the facts as aforenoted, leave no manner of doubt that the aforesaid alleged T.E.T. Certificate 2011 on the basis of which the petitioner obtained public employment on the post of Assistant Teacher, is forged and manufactured.

Fraud and its consequences

13. Since the public employment was obtained by the petitioner on the basis of forged and manufactured T.E.T. Certificate, therefore, the appointment so obtained was void ab initio. Faced with this situation, this Court cannot consciously follow a wrong path by interfering with the impugned recovery notice and protect the petitioner from the consequences of fraud committed by her or to enable her to take advantage of her own fraud. It is well settled that fraud and justice never dwell together and no one can take advantage of his/her own fraud.

14. In the case of United India Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. B. Rajendra Singh and others, JT 2000 (3) SC 151, considering the fact of fraud, Hon'ble Supreme Court held in paragraph 3 as under:

"Fraud and justice never dwell together." (Frans et jus nunquam cohabitant) is a pristine maxim which has never lost its temper overall these centuries. Lord Denning observed in a language without equivocation that" no judgement of a Court, no order of a Minister can be allowed to stand if it has been obrtained by fraud, for fraud unravels everythin " (Lazarus Estate Ltd. V. Beasley 1956 (1) QB 702).

15. In the case of Vice Chairman, Kendriya Vidyalaya Sangathan and Another Vs. Girdhari Lal Yadav, 2004 (6) SCC 325, Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the applicability of principles of natural justice in cases involving fraud and held in paragraph 12 as under :

"12. Furthermore, the respondent herein has been found guilty of an act of fraud. In opinion, no further opportunity of hearing is necessary to be afforded to him. It is not necessary to dwell into the matter any further as recently in the case of Ram chandra Singh v. Savitri devi this Court has noticed :

"15. Commission of fraud on court and suppression of material facts are the core issues involved in these matters. Fraud as is well-known vitiates every solemn act. Fraud and justice never dwells together.

16. Fraud is a conduct either by letter or words, which induces the other person, or authority to take a definite determinative stand as a response to the conduct of former either by word or letter.

It is also well settled that misrepresentation itself amounts to fraud. Indeed, innocent misrepresentation may also give reason to claim relief against fraud.

18.A fraudulent misrepresentation is called deceit and consists in leading a man into damage by willfully or recklessly causing him to believe and act on falsehood. It is a fraud in law if a party makes representations which he knows to be false, and injury ensues therefrom although the motive from which the representations proceeded may not have been bad."

19. In Derry V. Peek (1889) 14 AC 337 it was held: "In an action of deceit the plaintiff must prove actual fraud. Fraud is proved when it is shown that a false representation has been made knowingly, or without belief in its truth, or recklessly, without caring whether it be true or false.

A false statement, made through carelessness and without reasonable ground for believing it to be true, may be evidence of fraud but does not necessarily amount to fraud. Such a statement, if made in the honest belief that it is true, is not fraudulent and does not render the person make it liable to an action of deceit."

16. In the case of Ram Chandra Singh Vs. Savitri Devi and others, 2003(8) SCC 319, Hon'ble Supreme Court held in paragraphs 15, 16, 17, 18, 25 and 37 as under :

"15. Commission of fraud on court and suppression of material facts are the core issues involved in these matters. Fraud as is well-known vitiates every solemn act. Fraud and justice never dwells together.

16. Fraud is a conduct either by letter or words, which induces the other person, or authority to take a definite determinative stand as a response to the conduct of former either by word or letter.

17. It is also well settled that misrepresentation itself amounts to fraud. Indeed, innocent misrepresentation may also give reason to claim relief against fraud.

18. A fraudulent misrepresentation is called deceit and consists in leading a man into damage by willfully or recklessly causing him to believe and act on falsehood. It is a fraud in law if a party makes representations which he knows to be false, and injury ensues therefrom although the motive from which the representations proceeded may not have been bad.

25. Although in a given case a deception may not amount to fraud, fraud is anathema to all equitable principles and any affair tainted with fraud cannot be perpetuated or saved by the application of any equitable doctrine including res-judicata.

37. It will bear repetition to state that any order obtained by practising fraud on court is also non-est in the eyes of law."

17. In the case of S.P. ChengalVaraya Naidu (dead) by L.Rs Vs. Jagannath (dead) by L.Rs and others, AIR 1994 SC 853, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held in para 7 as under :

"7. The High Court, in our view, fell into patent error. The short question before the High Court was whether in the facts and circumstances of this case, Jagannath obtained the preliminary decree by playing fraud on the court. The High Court, however, went haywire and made observations which are wholly perverse. We do not agree with the High Court that "there is no legal duty cast upon the plaintiff to come to court with a true case and prove it by true evidence". The principle of "finality of litigation" cannot be pressed to the extent of such an absurdity that it becomes an engine of fraud in the hands of dishonest litigants. The courts of law are meant for imparting justice between the parties. One who comes to the court, must come with clean hands. We are constrained to say that more often than not, process of the court is being abused. Property-grabbers, tax-evaders, bank-loan-dodgers and other unscrupulous persons from all walks of life find the court-process a convenient lever to retain the illegal-gains indefinitely. We have no hesitation to say that a person, who's case is based on falsehood, has no right to approach the court. He can be summarily thrown out at any stage of the litigation."

18. In the case of Jainendra Singh Vs. State of U.P., 2012 (8) SCC 748, Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the fact of appointment obtained by fraud and held in para 29.1 to 29.10 as under :

"29.1 Fraudulently obtained orders of appointment could be legitimately treated as voidable at the option of the employer or could be recalled by the employer and in such cases merely because the respondent employee has continued in service for a number of years, on the basis of such fraudulently obtained employment, cannot get any equity in his favour or any estoppel against the employer.

29.2 Verification of the character and antecedents is one of the important criteria to test whether the selected candidate is suitable to the post under the State and on account of his antecedents the appointing authority if find not desirable to appoint a person to a disciplined force can it be said to be unwarranted.

29.3 When appointment was procured by a person on the basis of forged documents, it would amount to misrepresentation and fraud on the employer and, therefore, it would create no equity in his favour or any estoppel against the employer while resorting to termination without holding any inquiry.

29.4 A candidate having suppressed material information and/or giving false information cannot claim right to continue in service and the employer, having regard to the nature of employment as well as other aspects, has the discretion to terminate his services.

29.5 Purpose of calling for information regarding involvement in any criminal case or detention or conviction is for the purpose of verification of the character/antecedents at the time of recruitment and suppression of such material information will have clear bearing on the character and antecedents of the candidate in relation to his continuity in service.

29.6 The person who suppressed the material information and/or gives false information cannot claim any right for appointment or continuity in service.

29.7 The standard expected of a person intended to serve in uniformed service is quite distinct from other services and, therefore, any deliberate statement or omission regarding a vital information can be seriously viewed and the ultimate decision of the appointing authority cannot be faulted.

29.8 An employee on probation can be discharged from service or may be refused employment on the ground of suppression of material information or making false statement relating to his involvement in the criminal case, conviction or detention, even if ultimately he was acquitted of the said case, inasmuch as such a situation would make a person undesirable or unsuitable for the post.

29.9 An employee in the uniformed service pre-supposes a higher level of integrity as such a person is expected to uphold the law and on the contrary such a service born in deceit and subterfuge cannot be tolerated.

29.10 The authorities entrusted with the responsibility of appointing Constables, are under duty to verify the antecedents of a candidate to find out whether he is suitable for the post of a Constable and so long as the candidate has not been acquitted in the criminal case, he cannot be held to be suitable for appointment to the post of Constable."

Equitable Jurisdiction

19. Public employment has been procured by the petitioner on the basis of a forged TET Certificate. This amounts to misrepresentation and fraud on the employer. Fraud vitiates every solemn act. Therefore, it would not create equity in favour of the petitioner so as to get protection from recovery of the amount under the impugned recovery certificate.

20. The writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is an equitable jurisdiction. Facts of the present case reveal that petitioner has no equity in his favour. Therefore, the equitable and discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can not be exercised in favour of the petitioner on the facts of the present case

Recovery

21. Since public employment on the post of Assistant Teacher was obtained by the petitioner on the basis of a forged and manufactured T.E.T. marksheet 2011 which resulted in cancellation of her appointment, therefore, the amount received by the petitioner as salary and other benefits relating to her employment is a fraudulently received amount from the State-exchequer. Therefore, the salary so drawn by the petitioner is liable to be recovered from her. Recovery of excess payment from an employee is refused only where the excess payment is made by the employer by applying a wrong method or principle for calculating the pay/allowance or on a particular interpretation of the applicable rules, which is subsequently found to be erroneous. But where the payment from State-exchequer is made as a result of any misrepresentation, fraud or collusion, courts will not use their discretion to deny the right to recover the excess payment. The view being taken by us is fortified by the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Registrar, Cooperative Societies, Haryana and others Vs. Israil Khan and others (2010) 1 SCC 440 (para 9). In Chandi Prasad Uniyal Vs. State of Uttarkhand and Ors (2012) 8 SCC 417 (paras 13 & 14) Hon'ble Supreme Court held that any amount paid/received without authority of law can always be recovered barring few exceptions of extreme hardships but not as a matter of right, in such situations law implies an obligation on the payee to repay the money, otherwise it would amount to unjust enrichment.

22. In the case of State of Punjab and others Vs. Rafiq Masih (White washer) 2015 4 SCC 334 (para 15) Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under :

".....the right to recover would be sustainable so long as the same was not iniquitous or arbitrary."

23. It is settled principle of law that no one can take advantage of his own wrong or fraud. The amount fraudulently obtained by a person, if allowed to be retained, shall result in unjust enrichment. In the case of Indian Council for Enviro-legal Action Vs. Union of India 2011 8 SCC 161 (para 151, 152, 153, 154, 159, 160, 161 and 197), Hon'ble Supreme Court explained meaning of the word "unjust enrichment" as under :-

"151. Unjust enrichment has been defined as:

"A benefit obtained from another, not intended as a gift and not legally justifiable, for which the beneficiary must make restitution or recompense."

See Black's Law Dictionary, Eighth Edition (Bryan A. Garner) at page 1573. A claim for unjust enrichment arises where there has been an "unjust retention of a benefit to the loss of another, or the retention of money or property of another against the fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscience."

*152. "Unjust enrichment' has been defined by the court as the unjust retention of a benefit to the loss of another, or the retention of money or property of another against the fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscience. A person is enriched if he has received a benefit, and he is unjustly enriched if retention of the benefit would be unjust. Unjust enrichment of a person occurs when he has and retains money or benefits which in justice and equity belong to another.

153. Unjust enrichment is "the unjust retention of a benefit to the loss of another, or the retention of money or property of another against the fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscience." A defendant may be liable "even when the defendant retaining the benefit is not a wrongdoer" and "even though he may have received [it] honestly in the first instance." (Schock v. Nash, 732 A.2d 217, 232-33 (Delaware.1999). USA)

154. Unjust enrichment occurs when the defendant wrongfully secures a benefit or passively receives a benefit which would be unconscionable to retain. In the leading case of Fibrosa v. Fairbairn, [1942] 2 All ER 122, Lord Wright stated the principle thus :

"....(A)ny civilized system of law is bound to provide remedies for cases of what has been called unjust enrichment or unjust benefit, that is, to prevent a man from retaining the money of, or some benefit derived from another which it is against conscience that he should keep. Such remedies in English law are generically different from remedies in contract or in tort, and are now recognized to fall within a third category of the common law which has been called quasi-contract or restitution."

159. Unjust enrichment is basic to the subject of restitution, and is indeed approached as a fundamental principle thereof. They are usually linked together, and restitution is frequently based upon the theory of unjust enrichment. However, although unjust enrichment is often referred to or regarded as a ground for restitution, it is perhaps more accurate to regard it as a prerequisite, for usually there can be no restitution without unjust enrichment. It is defined as the unjust retention of a benefit to the loss of another or the retention of money or property of another against the fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscience. A person is enriched if he has received a benefit, and he is unjustly enriched if retention of the benefit would be unjust. Unjust enrichment of a person occurs when he has and retains money or benefits which in justice and equity belong to another.

160. While the term "restitution' was considered by the Supreme Court in South-Eastern Coalfields 2003 (8) SCC 648 and other cases excerpted later, the term "unjust enrichment' came to be considered in Sahakari Khand Udyog Mandal Ltd vs Commissioner of Central Excise & Customs ((2005) 3 SCC 738). This Court said: (Sahakari Khand case SCC p.748, para 31)

"31.....'Unjust enrichment' means retention of a benefit by a person that is unjust or inequitable. "Unjust enrichment' occurs when a person retains money or benefits which in justice, equity and good conscience, belong to someone else."

161. The terms "unjust enrichment' and "restitution' are like the two shades of green - one leaning towards yellow and the other towards blue. With restitution, so long as the deprivation of the other has not been fully compensated for, injustice to that extent remains. Which label is appropriate under which circumstances would depend on the facts of the particular case before the court. The courts have wide powers to grant restitution, and more so where it relates to misuse or non-compliance with court orders.

197. The other aspect which has been dealt with in great details is to neutralize any unjust enrichment and undeserved gain made by the litigants. While adjudicating, the courts must keep the following principles in view.

1. It is the bounden duty and obligation of the court to neutralize any unjust enrichment and undeserved gain made by any party by invoking the jurisdiction of the court.

2. When a party applies and gets a stay or injunction from the court, it is always at the risk and responsibility of the party applying. An order of stay cannot be presumed to be conferment of additional right upon the litigating party.

3. Unscrupulous litigants be prevented from taking undue advantage by invoking jurisdiction of the Court.

4. A person in wrongful possession should not only be removed from that place as early as possible but be compelled to pay for wrongful use of that premises fine, penalty and costs. Any leniency would seriously affect the credibility of the judicial system.

5. No litigant can derive benefit from the mere pendency of a case in a court of law.

6. A party cannot be allowed to take any benefit of his own wrongs.

7. Litigation should not be permitted to turn into a fruitful industry so that the unscrupulous litigants are encouraged to invoke the jurisdiction of the court.

8. The institution of litigation cannot be permitted to confer any advantage on a party by delayed action of courts."

24. The petitioner has obtained employment by misrepresentation and fraud and thus unauthorisedly and fraudulently received payment of public money. Neither extreme hardship in recovery has been argued before us nor any material has been placed to indicate extreme hardship on recovery of the amount. That apart, the equitable and discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can not be invoked by the petitioner under the facts and circumstances of the present case. The principle laid down in the case of Chandi Prasad Uniyal (supra) have been reiterated by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Punjab and others Vs. Rafiq Masih (White washer) (2014) 8 SCC 883. In the case of Chandi Prasad Uniyal (supra) vide para 16, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that "in such circumstances, we find no reason to interfere with the judgment of the High Court. However, we order the excess payment made be recovered from the appellant's salary in twelve equal monthly installments."

25. Under the facts and circumstances of the present case, the recovery under the impugned order/Recovery Notice is neither iniquitous nor arbitrary. The petitioner has received public money by obtaining appointment on the basis of a forged TET marksheet. Therefore, retention of the public money received by the petitioner as salary is against the fundamental principles of justice, equity and good conscience. It is an unjust retention of public money by the petitioner which amounts to unjust enrichment. Therefore, the impugned recovery notice can not be interfered under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

26. Thus, for all the reasons aforestated, we do not find any good reason to invoke on the facts of the present case, the extraordinary, discretionary and equitable jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

27. For all the reasons aforestated, the writ petition is dismissed. However, there shall be no order as to costs.

Civil Law - Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 - Appeal u/s 67 (5) - Limitation Act, S.5 - Condonation of delay - Delay in filing appeal -Held- in matters before revenue courts, litigants are mostly poor uneducated agriculturists, rarely alerted to their rights & technicalities of law, therefore courts and authorities should adopt a liberal, pragmatic and a justice oriented approach in matters of condonation of delay & a pedantic view should be avoided - unless want of bona fides of such inaction or negligence is proved, delay cannot be refused to be condoned - courts have to be mindful of the consequences of refusal to condone the delay leading to miscarriage of justice - it should be the constant endeavour of the courts and authorities to adjudicate issues on merits and dispense justice on a substantive basis(Para 10, 14, 15, 19)

Delay condonation application dismissed in a cryptic manner with a simplicitor finding that delay was not explained on a day to day basis - Held - Delay occasioned as petitioner was not informed about the order passed by the court by his counsel - petitioner otherwise also have knowledge of the same - Conduct of petitioner was bonafide as after getting knowledge of award, appeal was filed with promptitude - delay liable to be condoned - substantive rights of the petitioner engaged in the controversy which need adjudication on merits in the interest of justice (Para 22)

7. Vedabai @ Vaijayanatabai Baburao Patil Vs Shantaram Baburao Patil & ors. 2001 (44) ALR 577 (SC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. By the impugned order dated 27.01.2021, the learned appellate court/Additional District Magistrate (Judicial), Jhansi has rejected the application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act filed along with the memo of appeal and has accordingly found that the appeal was not maintainable. The appeal was filed under Section 67 (5) of the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006.

2. Sri Vinod Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the appeal of the petitioner has been rejected on grounds of delay. It is submitted that the delay was due to bonafide reasons. The learned appellate authority took a highly technical view of the matter. It is further contended that the impugned order dated 27.01.2021 shows non application of mind.

3. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel for the State - respondents submits that the delay in filing the appeal was not liable to be condoned and the learned appellate authority rightly rejected the appeal.

4. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

5. The facts relevant from the adjudication of the controversy can be prised out from the impugned order.

6. The complete record is thus before this Court and no useful purpose will be served by exchange of pleadings and keeping this writ petition pending.

7. With consent of learned counsels for the parties, this writ petition is being decided finally.

8. The petitioner has meticulously explained the cause of delay in the delay condonation application. It has also been asserted that substantive rights of the petitioner are engaged in this controversy. The aforesaid facts have not been adverted to in the impugned order passed by the learned appellate court.

9. The Courts have consistently set their face against a pedantic approach in matters pertaining to condonation of delay, and insist on a justice oriented approach.

10. It would be apposite to predicate the narrative with good authority in point. The purpose of laws of limitation is to ensure that the parties remain vigilant to their causes and institute their claims in good time. The mandate of laws of limitation is not to shut the doors of justice to the parties or decline adjudication on merits. On the contrary it should be the constant endeavour of the courts and authorities to adjudicate issues on merits and dispense justice on a substantive basis.

11. There is good authority to hold that the courts and authorities should adopt a liberal, pragmatic and a justice oriented approach matters of condonation of delay. Equally a pedantic view should be avoided and servitude to procedure in such matters should be eschewed.

12. In Collector, Land Acquisition V. Mst. Kati Ji and others1, the Supreme Court took a liberal view of the phrase "sufficient cause" and held as follows:

"The legislature has conferred the power to condone delay by enacting section 5 of the Limitation Act of 1963 in order to enable the Courts to do substantial justice to parties by disposing of matters on "merits". The expression "sufficient cause" employed by the Legislature is adequately elastic to enable the Courts to apply the law in a meaningful manner which subserves the ends of justice that being the life-purpose of the existence of the institution of Courts. It is common knowledge that this Court has been making a justifiably liberal approach in matters instituted in this Court. But the message does not appear to have percolated down to all the other Courts in the hierarchy."

And such a liberal approach is adopted on principle as it is realized that:

1. Ordinarily, a litigant does not stand to benefit by lodging an appeal late.

2. Refusing to condone delay can result in a meritorious matter being thrown out at the very threshold and cause of justice being defeated. As against this; when delay is condoned, the highest that can happen is that a cause would he decided on merit after hearing the parties.

3. "Every" day's delay must be explained" does not mean that a pedantic approach should be made. Why not every hour's delay, every second's delay ? The doctrine must be applied in a rational, common sense and pragmatic manner.

4. When substantial justice and technical considerations are pitted against each other, the cause of substantial justice deserves to be preferred, for the other side can not claim to have vested right in injustice being done because of a non-deliberate delay.

5. There is no presumption that delay is occasioned deliberately, or on account of culpable negligence, or on account of mala fides. A litigant does not stand to benefit by restoring to delay. In fact, he runs a serious risk.

6. It must be grapped that the judiciary is respected not on account of its power to legalise injustice on technical grounds but because it is capable of removing injustice and is expected to do so."

13. This view was fortified in N. Balakrishnan Vs M. Krishnamurthy2:-

"The primary function of a court is to adjudicate the dispute between the parties and to advance substantial justice. Time limit fixed for approaching the court in different situations is not because on the expiry of such time a bad cause would transform into a good cause. Rules of limitation are not meant to destroy the right of parties. They are meant to see that parties do not resort to dilatory tactics, but seek their remedy promptly. The object of providing a legal remedy is to repair the damage caused by reason of legal injury. Law of limitation fixes a life-span for such legal remedy for the redress of the legal injury so suffered. Time is precious and the wasted time would never revisit. During efflux of time newer causes would sprout up necessitating newer persons to seek legal remedy by approaching the courts. So a life span must be fixed for each remedy. Unending period for launching the remedy may lead to unending uncertainty and consequential anarchy. Law of limitation is thus founded on public policy."

14. Conduct and vigilance shown by a party are relevant criteria for consideration in an application seeking condonation of delay. In Shakuntala Devi Jain V. Kuntal Kumari3, it was held that unless want of bona fides of such inaction or negligence as would deprive a party of the protection of section 5 is proved, the application must not be thrown out or any delay cannot be refused to be condoned.

15. The expression "sufficient cause" was liberally construed in New India Insurance Co. Ltd. V. Smt. Shanti Misra4, by holding that discretion given by section 5 should not be defined so as to convert a discretionary matter into a rigid rule of law.

16. The courts have to be mindful of the consequences of refusal to condone the delay leading to miscarriage of justice as held in O.P. Kathpalia V. Lakhmir Singh5.

17. The law set its face against an injustice-oriented approach while considering the applications for condonation of delay in

18. A distinction between delay and inordinate delay was made in Vedabai @ Vaijayanatabai Baburao Patil V. Shantaram Baburao Patil and others7:

"In exercising discretion under section 5 of the Limitation Act, the Courts should adopt a pragmatic approach. A distinction must be made between a case where the delay is inordinate and a case where the delay is of a few days. Whereas in the former case the consideration of prejudice to the otherwise will be a relevant factor so the case calls for a more cautious approach...."

19. These holdings are particularly applicable in matters before revenue courts, where the litigants are mostly poor agriculturists, often uneducated and rarely alerted to their rights and technicalities of law.

20. The authorities in the preceding paragraphs are applicable to the facts of this case and shall also govern the fate of the decision.

21. The learned appellate court while passing the impugned order did not advert to the grounds for delay as pleaded in the delay condonation application. The appeal was dismissed in a cryptic manner with a simplicitor finding that the delay was not explained on a day to day basis.

22. The petitioner had stated the cause for the delay in the delay condonation application. The delay was occasioned due to the fact that the petitioner was not informed about the order passed by the learned trial court by his counsel nor did he otherwise have knowledge of the same. The delay was not intentional as after getting knowledge of the award, the appeal was filed with promptitude. The petitioner has shown good and sufficient cause for condonation of delay. The conduct of the petitioner was bonafide. The delay was liable to be condoned.

23. The impugned order shows non application of mind to the facts of the case in the record. The cases in point discussed in the preceding paragraphs are applicable to the facts of the case. The learned appellate court while rejecting the delay condonation application has acted contrary to the aforesaid settled authorities of law.

24. The learned appellate authority overlooked the fact that substantive rights of the petitioner are engaged in this controversy which need adjudication on merits in the interest of justice.

25. I find that the court below has taken a pedantic view of the matter which has led to a miscarriage of justice.

26. The order dated 27.01.2021 passed by the respondent No.2 as well as the order dated 25.10.2018 passed by the respondent No.3 are arbitrary and illegal.

27. The order dated 27.01.2021 passed by the respondent No.2-Additional District Magistrate (Judicial), Jhansi as well as the order dated 25.10.2018 passed by the respondent No.3/Assistant Collector, First Class/Tehsildar-Moth, District-Jhansi are liable to be set aside and are set aside.

28. The delay condonation application is liable to be allowed and is allowed.

29. The matter is remitted to respondent No.2 / appellate authority.

30. A writ in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent No.2 / appellate authority to execute the following directions:

I. The respondent No.2- / appellate authority shall decide the appeal on merits preferably in accordance with law within a period of four months from the date of production of a computer generated copy of this order, downloaded from the official website of the High Court Allahabad. The Authority/Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

31. This order is being passed when the threat of Covid-19 pandemic still exists. In case the court proceedings are held up due to Covid-19 outbreak, the lost working days shall be adjusted and the stipulated period of one year shall accordingly be enhanced.

32. The writ petition is allowed to the extent indicated above.

Civil Law - U.P. Z.A.&L.R. Act,1950 - Sections 176 & 202 - Ejectment of asami - Illegal encroachment over pond (Talab) - disputed parcel of land a pond area -

Petitioner an Asami pattedar - term of the Asami Patta granted to the petitioner/predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner long expired - after expiration of the period of Patta and its non renewal, the petitioner does not have any right to retain possession over the land - Petitioner found to be in illegal occupation and his eviction was rightly ordered from the disputed parcel of land recorded under category 3 in the Khatauni i.e., land belonging to the Gaon Sabha - District Magistrate directed to forthwith resume possession over the disputed parcels of land and restore the pond to its original pristine stage (Para 12, 20)

Dismissed. (E-5)

2. Jagpal Singh Vs St. of Punj. (2011) 11 SCC 396

3. Prem Singh Vs St. of U.P. & ors. 2012 (11) ADJ 404

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ajay Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Sharad Chand Rai, learned counsel for the respondent no. 6 and the learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. By the impugned order dated 04.03.2014 passed by the trial court in proceedings taken out under Section 202 of the U.P. Z.A.&L.R. Act,1950, directions to evict the petitioner from the disputed parcel of land have been issued with a further direction to make the necessary mutations in the revenue records. The appellate court in the impugned judgement dated 24.07.2015 rendered under Section 331(3) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 has agreed with the findings of the trial court and affirmed its judgement.

3. Both the courts below in the impugned orders have returned the following concurrent findings of fact.

4. The disputed parcel of land was recorded under category 3 in the Khatauni. Category 3 is an arrangement of holdings described in the U.P. Land Records Manual as land held by Asamis.

5. The aforesaid entry was examined and upheld in the consolidation proceedings. CH Form 45 issued at the conclusion of the consolidation proceedings testifies that entries which are consistent with the earlier records. Clause 3 category lands, as the provision discloses, belong to the Gaon Sabha. The disputed parcel of land is a pond area.

6. Rights of the petitioner are at best those of an Asami pattedar and no more. The rights of Asami pattedar are described and limited under Section 176 of the U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act, 1950. The term of the Asami Patta granted to the petitioner/predecessor-in-interest of the petitioner has long expired. The courts below have found that after expiration of the period of Patta and its non renewal, the petitioner does not have any right to retain possession over the land. These findings of fact could not be successfully disputed before the courts below.

7. In this manner the petitioner was found to be in illegal occupation and his eviction was ordered under the relevant provisions of law by the impugned order dated 04.03.2014 passed by the learned trial court and the order dated 24.07.2015 passed by the learned appellate court.

8. For ease of reference relevant provisions of the Land Records Manual are extracted as under:

"A-124. Arrangement of holdings- The arrangement of land within each village in the khatuni shall be follows:

Part-I

(1) Land cultivated by Government of Gaon Samaj or any other local authority entrusted with management of land under Section 117-A of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950.

(3) Land held by asamis who occupied or held land-

(a) as non-occupancy tenants of pasture land, or of land covered by water and used for the purpose of growing singhara and other produce, or land in the bed of river and used for casual or occasional cultivation, on the date immediately preceding the date of vesting;

(b) as non-occupancy tenants of land which the State government had, before the date of vesting, declared by the notification in the Gazette as part of a tract of shifting and unstable cultivation;

(c) as non-occupancy tenants of land which the State Government had, before the date of vesting, declared by notification in the Gazette to be intended or set apart for taungia plantation or community orchard or village farm or trenching grounds belonging as such to a local authority;

(d) on being admitted, on or after the date of vesting by the Gaon Samaj, as a lessee of land mentioned in sub-classes (a) to (c) above;

(e) as thekedars who become asamis under the proviso to sub-section (3) of Section 13 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950."

9. The procedure for eviction of illegal occupants is laid out in Section 202 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950. The provision is extracted hereunder for ease of reference:

"202. Procedure of ejectment of asami. - Without prejudice to the provisions of Section 338, an asami shall be liable to ejectment from his holding on the [suit of the[Gaon Sabha] or the land-holder as the case may be] on the ground or grounds-

(a) mentioned in Section[* * *]; 191 or 206,

[(b) that he-

(i) belongs to any of the classes mentioned in Clauses (a), (b), (c), (e), (g) or (i) of sub-section (1) of Section 21 or sub-section (2) of the said section or in Clause (c) or (d) of Section 133; or

(ii) has acquired the rights of an asami under the Uttar Pradesh Land Reforms (Supplementary) Act, 1952; and that he holds the land from year to year or for a period which has expired or will expire before the end of the current agricultural year,]

(c) that he belongs to the class mentioned in[Clause (d) of sub-section (1) of Section 21]and the mortgage has been satisfied or the amount owing under the mortgage has, whether or not it has become payable thereunder, been deposited in Court,

(d) that he[is an asami under Section 11]and the right to maintenance allowance does not any longer subsist;

(e) that he belongs to the class mentioned in clause (j) of sub-section (1) of Section 21 and that the cultivation of agricultural crops has become impossible.

(f) that he belongs to the class mentioned in Clause (h) of[sub-section (1) of Section 21]or Clause (b) of Section 133 and that-

(i) the land-holder wishes to bring the land under his personal cultivation and in cases where the lease is for a fixed term such term as expired; or

(ii) the disability has determined,

(g) that he[is an asami under Section 13]and the period mentioned in Clause (a) of sub-section (2) of[the said section]has expired;

(h) that there is an unsatisfied decree of arrears of rent outstanding against him and such decree can be executed by ejectment."

10. First ground of challenge is that the petitioner has been in possession since the year 1950. The argument has been made to be rejected. The factum of possession of the petitioner since 1950 over the disputed parcel of land was apparently not raised before the consolidation authorities. In any case, the consolidation courts have not found in favour of the possession of the petitioner. Form CH 45 is not in any manner incompatible with the judgement of the consolidation authorities. The consolidation proceedings have been attained finality. Moreover, this is a disputed question of fact which cannot be examined in writ jurisdiction by this Court at this stage, since no perversity has been established in the findings of the courts below.

11. The second fault line in the impugned orders, according to the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the patta is not in the record. In the revenue records asami patta entry has been existing since long. Long standing revenue entries have a presumption of correctness in their favour. Of course, this is a rebuttable presumption, but the petitioner has failed to adduce any credible evidence to refute such presumption. The finding that the disputed parcel was land comprised in an asami patta is thus upheld.

12. Before this Court no perversity in the findings has been pointed out from the records. The learned courts below have observed full procedural propriety. Conclusions reached by the learned courts below are reasonable and achieve the applicable standards of evidence. In fact all relevant facts on the foot of which the impugned orders were passed are admitted by the petitioner. The process for holding the petitioner to be an illegal occupant cannot be faulted. The procedure for directing eviction of the petitioner being an illegal occupant has been strictly followed.

13. Before parting, this Court would like to examine the importance of ponds as part of ecological heritage of an area. Water bodies like ponds are natural resources that comprise the collective wealth of the local population as well as the nation at large. These natural bodies and environmental assets are being subjected to degradation and encroachment. Such encroachment and degradation most often causes irreversible damage to the ecology.

14. The authorities are under an obligation of law to scrupulously maintain the records and measurements of natural assets of the community. It is also the statutory duty of authorities to ensure that any eviction upon such natural assets is vacated promptly in accordance with law.

15. At this stage, it would be apposite to fortify the narrative with judicial authorities in point.

16. In the case of Hinch Lal Tiwari Vs. Kamla Devi and others, reported at (2001) 6 SCC 496, an issue relating to an encroachment over the public lands and official apathy in vacating such encroachment was posed to the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court considering the importance of public ponds and other natural resources and the onerous duty of the state authorities to bestow unbroken vigilance and restore such natural resources to their original state held thus:

"13. It is important to notice that the material resources of the community like forests, tanks, ponds, hillock, mountain etc. are nature's bounty. They maintain delicate ecological balance. They need to be protected for a proper and healthy environment which enables people to enjoy a quality life which is the essence of the guaranteed right under Article 21 of the Constitution. The Government, including the Revenue Authorities i.e. Respondents 11 to 13, having noticed that a pond is falling in disuse, should have bestowed their attention to develop the same which would, on one hand, have prevented ecological disaster and on the other provided better environment for the benefit of the public at large. Such vigil is the best protection against knavish attempts to seek allotment in non-abadi sites.

14. For the aforementioned reasons, we set aside the order of the High Court, restore the order of the Additional Collector dated 25-2-1999 confirmed by the Commissioner on 12-3-1999. Consequently, Respondents 1 to 10 shall vacate the land, which was allotted to them, within six months from today. They will, however, be permitted to take away the material of the houses which they have constructed on the said land. If Respondents 1 to 10 do not vacate the land within the said period the official respondents i.e. Respondents 11 to 13 shall demolish the construction and get possession of the said land in accordance with law. The State including Respondents 11 to 13 shall restore the pond, develop and maintain the same as a recreational spot which will undoubtedly be in the best interest of the villagers. Further it will also help in maintaining ecological balance and protecting the environment in regard to which this Court has repeatedly expressed its concern. Such measures must begin at the grass-root level if they were to become the nation's pride."

17. Concerns over degradation of natural resources and aggressive attempts encroach upon such natural resources in collusion with the state officials was noticed by the Supreme Court in Jagpal Singh v. State of Punjab, reported at (2011) 11 SCC 396. In the case of Jagpal Singh (supra) the Supreme Court deprecating such conduct of the encroachers as well as the state authorities directed the State Government authorities to take efficacious steps to vacate such encroachments and restore the natural resources by setting forth the following holdings:

"19. In this connection we wish to say that our ancestors were not fools. They knew that in certain years there may be droughts or water shortages for some other reason, and water was also required for cattle to drink and bathe in, etc. Hence they built a pond attached to every village, a tank attached to every temple, etc. These were their traditional rainwater harvesting methods, which served them for thousands of years.

20. Over the last few decades, however, most of these ponds in our country have been filled with earth and built upon by greedy people, thus destroying their original character. This has contributed to the water shortages in the country. Also, many ponds are auctioned off at throw away prices to businessmen for fisheries in collusion with authorities/Gram Panchayat officials, and even this money collected from these so-called auctions is not used for the common benefit of the villagers but misappropriated by certain individuals. The time has come when these malpractices must stop.

21. In Uttar Pradesh the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1954 was widely misused to usurp the Gram Sabha lands either with connivance of the Consolidation Authorities, or by forging orders purported to have been passed by Consolidation Officers in the long past so that they may not be compared with the original revenue record showing the land as Gram Sabha land, as these revenue records had been weeded out. Similar may have been the practice in other States. The time has now come to review all these orders by which the common village land has been grabbed by such fraudulent practices.

22. For the reasons given above there is no merit in this appeal and it is dismissed.

23. Before parting with this case we give directions to all the State Governments in the country that they should prepare schemes for eviction of illegal/unauthorised occupants of the Gram Sabha/Gram Panchayat/poramboke/shamlat land and these must be restored to the Gram Sabha/Gram Panchayat for the common use of villagers of the village. For this purpose the Chief Secretaries of all State Governments/Union Territories in India are directed to do the needful, taking the help of other senior officers of the Governments. The said scheme should provide for the speedy eviction of such illegal occupant, after giving him a show-cause notice and a brief hearing. Long duration of such illegal occupation or huge expenditure in making constructions thereon or political connections must not be treated as a justification for condoning this illegal act or for regularising the illegal possession. Regularisation should only be permitted in exceptional cases e.g. where lease has been granted under some government notification to landless labourers or members of the Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes, or where there is already a school, dispensary or other public utility on the land."

18. Similarly, the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Prem Singh v.

State of U.P. and others, reported at 2012 (11) ADJ 404 issued peremptory orders to state authorities to take all necessary action in law and and clear such encroachments expeditiously:

"5.In view of direction noticed in the aforesaid circular, we are of the considered view that if complaints regarding unauthorized occupation over the public ponds or other similar public lands are received by the District Magistrate of a District, he should take all the required actions in view of law already settled in the case of Jagpal Singh and others.

6. In case, the District Magistrate finds some good reasons to seek guidance from the Members Committee indicated in Para-2 of the aforesaid circular, then he may refer the matter and seek guidance in appropriate cases.

7. So far as the present writ petition is concerned, we grant liberty to the petitioner to approach respondents no. 2 and 3 again with a certified copy of this order. The concerned respondents shall get appropriate inquiry made and take required action to protect public ponds as per law laid down by the Apex Court, expeditiously.

8. Let a copy of this order be furnished to the learned Standing Counsel for the State for communication to the Principal Secretary, Revenue, Government of Uttar Pradesh, who shall circulate a copy of this order to all the Divisional Commissioners as well as the District Magistrates so that number of such types of cases coming to this Court may be checked."

19. In wake of the preceding discussion, no interference is called for in the impugned order. The writ petition is liable to be dismissed and is dismissed.

20. The District Magistrate is ordered to forthwith resume possession over the disputed parcels of land and restore the pond to its original pristine stage, within a period of six months from today.

21. Learned Standing Counsel to serve a copy of this order upon the District Magistrate, Kanpur Dehat, for compliance.

1 . Learned counsel for the petitioner remained absent though the matter has been date fixed with his consent. This is a matter arising out of the Election of Member, Kshetra Panchayat Lalai, Ward No. 42, Vikas Khand Hathwant, Firozabad. We have heard learned counsel for the petitioner on 14.7.2021 on the legal issues and postponed the matter only to obtain instructions from the State Election Commission to ascertain the date of the declaration of the result. We, therefore, do not deem it fit to adjourn the matter today.

The written instructions have been supplied by the learned counsel for the respondent-State Election Commission on 14.7.2021. Further instructions in compliance of the order dated 14.7.2021 have also been placed before us today.

The Office is directed to upload the scanned copy of the written instructions and the compilation of cases supplied by the learned counsel for the respondents.

2. Heard Sri Imran Syed learned Advocate holding brief of Sri Tarun Agrawal learned counsel for the respondent-State Election Commission, Sri Ajit Kumar Singh learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Sudhansh Srivastava learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State respondents today.

3. Placing the above instructions before us, it is pointed out by the learned counsel for the respondents that for the election of Member, Kshetra Panchayat concerned, the polling was held on 26.4.2021 at two polling booth nos. 180 and 181. The ballot boxes of both the polling booths were opened under the supervision of the Assistant Returning Officer. On 2.5.2021 when the counting was made, the petitioner Smt. Babita Devi wife of Sri Vimal Kumar had secured 169 votes at polling booth no. 181 whereas Indrapal son of Sri Pati Ram resident of Village Lalai, Block Hathwant got 77 votes and the third candidate Sri Kushalpal son of Sri Hariom resident of the same village got 163 votes. Similarly at polling booth no. 180, the petitioner Smt. Babita Devi secured 114 votes whereas Indrapal received 305 votes and Kushalpal 95 votes. The Assistant Returning Officer had issued the certificate of the elected/returned candidate to Smt. Babita Devi on 3.5.2021 on the basis of the votes of one polling booth No. 181 only. After the counting was completed, on 4.5.2021, respondent no. 7, Sri Indrapal gave a written application raising objection about the result and sought for further verification of the same. Upon verification of the record, it was found that the votes cast at the polling booth no. 181 were not added in the final preparation of the result. By adding the votes of two polling booth nos. 180 & 181, it was found that the respondent no. 7 had received total 382 votes which was the highest whereas the petitioner Smt. Babita Devi was placed at serial no. 2 having received 283 votes.

The mistake committed by the Assistant Returning Officer was corrected by the Returning Officer after issuing a notice to the petitioner herein. The order in this regard had been passed on 4.5.2021. The copies of the Election Return referable to Rules 50(e) and 53 of the U.P. Kshetra Panchayats and Zila Panchayats (Election of Members) Rules, 1994 (In short as "the Rules, 1994") in Form '43' and the counting sheet in Form '47' as per Chapter 9 of the Guide Book for the Panchayat Elections-2021 issued by the State Election Commission, of both the polling booth nos. 180 and 181 prepared on 3.5.2021 have been placed before us alongwith the written instructions to give the details of the votes cast, ballot papers rejected and the total votes cast in favour of each candidate.

Today, an extract of the entries uploaded on the portal of the State Election Commission has also been placed before the Court to demonstrate that the portal of the State Election Commission for declaration of the result was created on 18.4.2021 and the election result was uploaded on the same on 7.5.2021 at about 14:19:59.313 hours.

With the help of the said written instructions, it is submitted by the learned counsel for the State Election Commission that the compliance of Rule 56 of the Rules, 1994 had been made on 7.5.2021 after correction of the clerical/arithmetical mistake in the matter of declaration of the result. As regards the issue of cancellation of the certificate issued in the name of the petitioner, the stand of the Returning Officer is that an effort was made to intimate the petitioner personally about the mistake before the correction of the result. The Returning Officer alongwith the Assistant Returning Officer had personally gone to the house of the petitioner but no one met there. The notice was, therefore, pasted at a conspicuous place of the house of the petitioner, and, thereafter, while cancelling the certificate issued to the petitioner, a correct certificate was issued to the returned candidate/respondent no. 7. It is, then, submitted that after uploading the election result on 7.5.2021, the portal of the State Election Commission stood locked automatically and no changes, thereafter, could have been made. The correction made by the returning officer before the declaration of the election result by the State Election Commission with uploading on the same on its portal, was for removal of an arithmetical mistake. The principle of functus officio will not be attracted in such a situation.

4. Reliance has been placed on the decision of this Court in Smt. Tara Devi vs. State of U.P. and others1 to submit that the opinion of the earlier Division Bench in Smt. Sunita Patel vs. State of U.P.2, relied by the learned counsel for the petitioner, had been held as per incuriam.

5. As regards the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner in the argument dated 14.7.2021 that after issuance of the certificate of elected candidate to the petitioner, the Returning Officer had become functus officio and it was not open for him to make any changes in the election result, and hence the subsequent declaration of respondent no. 7 as elected candidate was beyond the jurisdiction of the Returning Officer, Rule 56 of Rules, 1994 has been pressed into service to contend that after the counting was completed, the result declared by the Returning Officer by issuance of the certificate in accordance with Rule 54 of the Rules, 1994 was only an intermediary stage. The Returning Officer made corrections before the communication of the result to the District Magistrate which was well within his jurisdiction.

6. Considering the above submissions, before we delve on the issues, the relevant provisions of the Rules, 1994 which govern the Election of the Member Kshetra Panchayat are to be noted for ready reference:-

"53. Election return by the Nirvachan Adhikari. -The Nirvachan Adhikari shall then prepare and certify an election return in the specified form setting forth-

(a) the names of candidates for whom valid votes given have been;

(b) the number of valid votes given for each candidate;

(c) the total number of valid ballot papers;

(d) the number of rejected ballot papers;

(e) the number of tendered ballot papers; and

(f) the name of the candidate elected.

He shall then also permit any contesting candidate or his Nirvachan Abhikarta or Ganana Abhikarta to take a copy of or an extract from such return.

54. Declaration of result. - The Nirvachan Adhikari shall declare candidate securing the highest number of votes in their respective constituency to be duly elected.*

55. Equality of votes. - If after the counting of the votes Is completed, an equality of votes is found to exist between- any candidates and the addition of one vote will entitle any of those candidates to be declared elected, the Nirvachan Adhikari shall forthwith decide between these candidates by lot, and proceed as if the candidate on whom the lot falls had an additional vote.*

56. Report of result. - As soon as may be after the result of an election has been declared, the Nirvachan Adhikari shall report the result, to the District Magistrate and shall also inform the Block Development Officer of the Kshettra Panchayat or Chief Executive Officer of Zila Panchayat as the case may be. The District Magistrate shall report the result to the State Election Commission.*

57. Custody of the return and of the ballot papers and other papers relating to election. - (1) The Nirvachan Adhikari shall, after reporting the result of the election under Rule 56 forward the return to the District Panchayat Raj Officer for safe custody.*

(2) The Nirvachan Adhikari shall also forward to the District Panchayat Raj Officer for safe custody the packets of the ballot papers and all other papers relating to the election.

58. Production and inspection of election papers. - (1) While in the custody of the District Panchayat Raj Officer the packet of ballot papers, whether valid, rejected or tendered and of the marked copy of the electoral roll shall not be opened and their contents shall not be inspected by or produced before any person or authority except under the order of a competent court or of a District Judge hearing an election petition. The inspection when ordered shall be subject to the payment of a fee at the rate of rupees two per day on which the inspection is done.*

(2) All other papers relating to the election shall be open to public inspection subject to such condition, if any, as the State Government may specify and subject to the payment of a fee at the rate of rupees twenty per day on which inspection is done.

(3) Copies of the returns forwarded by the Nirvachan Adhikari under sub-rule (1) of Rule 57 shall be furnished by the District Panchayat Raj Officer on payment of a fee of rupees twenty for each copy.

(4) Copy of such papers are allowed to be inspected under sub-rule (2) shall be given to any person applying for the same on payment of a fee at the same rate as is charged in the State for a copy of any order by a Revenue Officer. Application for copies of papers may be preferred on plain paper and no judicial stamps need be affixed.

(5) Certified copy of any paper referred to in sub-rule (6) shall be attested by the District Panchayat Raj Officer concerned and will be issued from his office."

7. As per the contention of the petitioner, the declaration of the result under Rule 54 by the Returning Officer marked culmination of the election and subsequent report of the result under Rule 56 was only a ministerial act. The Returning Officer lost his jurisdiction after the declaration of the result under Rule 54 by issuance of the certificate in the prescribed proforma to the winning candidate, the petitioner herein. For any dispute in the matter of election of the petitioner, only remedy before the respondent no. 7 was to approach the Election Tribunal.

It was, thus, contended that since the question in the writ petition is about the jurisdiction of the Returning Officer to change or cancel the election result, the bar of jurisdiction of the Court in the matter of the election of Panchayats under Article 243-O of the Constitution of India will not be attracted.

8. Before we delve on the issue of the interpretation of Rules 54 and 56 of Rules, 1994, it is pertinent to note that the Apex Court while deciding the cases under the Representation of the People Act had held that the election connotes the entire process culminating in a candidate being declared elected. The election commences from the initial notification and culminates in the declaration of the return of a candidate. The election process, thus, comes to an end on the final declaration of the returned candidates. After the election process has come to an end, the State Election Commission, the District Magistrate and the Election Officer lose their jurisdiction and only authority which can deal with and decide any complaint regarding the election is the Election Tribunal. [Reference N.P. Punnuswami vs. Returning Officer3 and Mohinder Singh Gill vs. Chief Election Commissioner4]

While dealing with a question regarding the jurisdiction of the Returning Officer, in Krishna Ballabh Prasad Singh vs. Sub-Divisional Officer Hilsa-cum-Returning Officer and others5, the Apex Court in the matter of conduct of election to the Bihar Legislative Assembly had examined the impact of Section 66 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951 and the Rules 64 of the Conduct of Election Rules, 1961 (In short as "the Rules, 1961") framed thereunder. It was held therein that Section 66 of the Act provides that when the counting of votes has been completed, the Returning Officer must declare forthwith the result of the election "in the manner provided in the Act or the Rules made thereunder." The Rule 64 of 1961 Rules expressly provides the manner in which the declaration of result of election and return of election has to be prepared. The declaration in Form 21-C referable to Rule 64 of the Rules, 1961 is the final step in the process of election. It was held therein that without declaration in Form 21-C in the manner as prescribed in Rule 64, the announcement of the result by the Returning Officer with the grant of the certificate in Form 22 to the candidate was meaningless and had no legal status. Under the Rules 1961, the grant of certificate of election to the elected candidate in Form 22 is provided under the Rule 66 which contemplates the grant of such certificate only after the candidate has been declared elected under Section 66, which refers back to Rule 66 and therefor to Form 21-C. It was, thus, held that the bar of clause (b) of Article 329 of the Constitution came into operation only after the declaration in Form 21-C was made and, thereafter, the election petition alone was maintainable.

9. The question raised before us is as to whether under the scheme of Rules, 1994, the issuance of the certificate to the winning candidate would amount to the final declaration of the result under Rule 54 by the Returning Officer and, thus, marked the culmination of the election process.

The challenge by the petitioner to the jurisdiction of the returning officer to cancel the certificate and issue fresh certificate in favour of the returned candidate is based on the opinion of the two Division Benches of this Court in Kamlesh vs. Mukhya Nirwachan Ayukt and others6 and Smt. Sunita Patel (supra).

The same issue had been considered by a third Division Bench of this Court in Smt. Tara Devi (supra).

We would like to refer to them in a chronological manner.

The Division Bench of this Court in Kamlesh (supra) in the year 2006 had held that in the matter of election of Member, Kshetra Panchayat under the Rules, 1994, the election comes to an end with the issuance of the certificate to a candidate declaring him successful and all subsequent proceedings taken by the Returning Officer were without any authority/competence.

In Smt. Sunita Patel (supra), the Division Bench while considering the scope of Rules 54 and Rule 56 of the Rules, 1994, taking note of the decision of the Apex Court in Krishna Ballabh Prasad Singh (supra) had held that Rule 54 of the 1994 Rules does not prescribe the declaration to be made by the Returning Officer in any prescribed form before issuing the certificate, as prescribed in the Conduct of Election Rules, 1961, [subject matter of consideration in Krishna Ballabh Prasad Singh (supra)].

10. It was then held that though the Rule, 1994 does not prescribe for issuance of a victory certificate to the winning candidate but such a certificate can be used as an evidence of the declaration of the result under Rule 54 of 1994' Rules. The declaration of the result by the Returning Officer in such a manner, under Rule 54 of the Rules, 1994 concludes the election and communication of the result under Rule 56 is only a consequential formality (a ministerial act); and further communication to the State Election Commission under Rule 56 of the Rules, 1994 cannot be said to be an integral part of the election process. The Returning Officer after issuance of the victory certificate cannot review its decision to get a recounting or retallying the result. The contention of the respondent therein that Rule 56 is an integral part of the election process had been brushed aside giving the reason that the State Election Commission does not have the power to exercise superintendence in violation of the statutory rules, inasmuch as, the election can only be questioned by way of an election petition and not otherwise, by virtue of Article 243-O of the Constitution of India after declaration of the result by the Returning Officer.

The decision of the Division Bench in Kamlesh (supra) had been considered in Smt. Tara Devi (supra) and it was noted that in the said matter the Court had proceeded on the assumption that the issuance of the certificate is the final declaration of the result without even considering the import of Rules 54 and 56 of the Rules, 1994.

This opinion drawn by the Division Bench in Smt. Sunita Patel (supra) had been held to be per incuriam in Smt. Tara Devi (supra) while examining the scope of Rules 54 and 56 of the Rules, 1994. It was held therein that Rule 54 only contemplates for the declaration of the candidate securing highest number of votes, "to be duly elected". The words "to be duly elected" give two inputs; either he has to be elected at once or subject to the reporting of the result as contemplated under Rule 56 of the Rules. It was then noted that admittedly there is no provision for issuance of the victory certificate to the candidate under the Rules, 1994. The issuance of the certificate on the part of the authority was only an additional act which cannot by itself gives any independent cause of action to proceed. In case, the issuance of the certificate in contemplation of Rule 54 is held final, Rule 56 will be nugatory. By reading Rules 54 and 56 of 1994 Rules, it was held that the harmonious reading of the Rules makes it clear that after the declaration of the result under Rule 54, as soon as may be, the Returning Officer has to report the result to the District Magistrate and also the Block Development Officer of the Kshetra Panchayat under Rule 56, who, in turn, shall report the result to the State Election Commission. It was, thus, held that the formal declaration of the result under Rule 54 by the Returning Officer will abide by the Rule 56 of the Rules, 1994 that means, the declaration of the result under Rule 54 becomes final subject to the declaration made under Rule 56.

It was observed in Smt. Tara Devi (supra) that as regards the authority of the State Election Commission, there cannot be a dispute that the Election Commission being creature of the Constitution has the power of superintendence to control and conduct the elections. With the commencement of the elections by the notification till the date of the de-notification with the final declaration of the result, the State Election Commission is the final authority to adjudicate any dispute, if it is called upon. After de-notification, it is open for an aggrieved person to approach the Election Tribunal. Further the Election Commission being the final authority during the continuance of the election process can call upon the Returning Officer to remove the defects which are either minor or formal or inadvertent. Any other officer or authority functioning under the directions of the Election Commission can also issue such direction to the Returning Officer. It was held that till the declaration of the result is made final under Rule 56, neither the Returning Officer can be said to be functus officio nor the jurisdiction of the State Election Commission can be said to have come to an end. Any calculation mistake or administrative lapses can be corrected before finality is attached to the election result under Rule 56. For correction of any inadvertent mistake or formal defect, the application of the aggrieved candidate was clearly maintainable as he cannot be compelled to file an election petition for correction of such mistake.

To deal with the arguments on the question of lack of jurisdiction of the Returning Officer to make correction after declaration made under Rule 54, the Division Bench in Tara Devi (supra) had also considered the law of review as propounded by the Supreme Court in Grindlays Bank Limited vs. Central Government Industrial Tribunal7 to note that inadvertent error or arithmetical mistake must be corrected by the authority to prevent the abuse of its process as the same would amount to review of a procedural defect.

11. In the instant case, the Assistant Returning Officer had committed a mistake apparent on the face of the record in declaring the result on the basis of the votes cast on one polling booth (booth No. 181) only, and thereby in issuing the certificate of the elected candidate to the petitioner on 3.5.2021 on wrong calculation of the total votes.

As soon as the said mistake was brought to the knowledge of the Returning Officer, he after verification of the record of his office found that the votes of the polling booth no. 180 were not added in the result declared by the Assistant Returning Officer. For correction of the said mistake, notice was also sought to be served upon the petitioner but she did not receive the same nor responded to the notice pasted at her house. The writ petition is completely silent about the said notice.

12. So, by means of the memo dated 6.5.2021, the Returning Officer had cancelled the certificate of the petitioner and declared respondent no. 7 as the elected candidate by adding votes of both the polling booths i.e. booth nos. 180 and 181, cast in favour of each candidate. This is not a case of elaborate counting or reopening of the result by any process which could be said to be prohibited after declaration of the result, rather it is a case of correction of the minor mistake or defect in the election result.

13. The procedure for holding election of Member Kshetra Panchayat is governed by 1994 Rules which provides the manner of conduct of election, preparation of the election papers, declaration of the result and maintaining the election record. Rule 53, relevant for our purpose, provides for preparation of the election return containing the details of the names of candidates; the number of valid votes for each candidate; the total number of valid ballot papers; the number of rejected ballot papers; the number of tendered ballot papers and the name of the candidate elected. The election return is to be prepared and certified by the Returning Officer. The copy of the certified election return can be taken by the contesting candidate or his representatives/Nirvachan Abhikarta and Ganana Abhikarta. The manner in which the result has to be declared by the Returning Officer is stated in Rule 54 which provides that the Returning Officer shall declare the candidate securing the highest number of votes to be duly elected. Rule 56 provides for the report of the result to be sent by the Returning Officer to the District Magistrate and the information of the result to the Block Development Officer of the Kshetra Panchayat. The District Magistrate in turn has to report the election result to the State Election Commission.

Under the scheme of the Act, no format is given for declaration of the result, i.e. for declaration of the result or reporting of the result to the State Election Commission.

14. However, in the instructions issued by the State Election Commission as contained in the Guide Book for Panchayat General Elections-2021 for the use of the Returning Officer/Employees, Chapter IX contains the description as to how the result would be declared by the Returning Officer and the prescribed format for the purpose.

15. Relevant extract of Chapter '9' of the Guide Book is to be quoted hereunder:-

" अध्याय-9

मतगणना उपरान्त की प्रक्रिया

निर्वाचन अधिकारी सदस्य ग्राम पंचायत तथा प्रधान ग्राम पंचायत के निर्वाचन परिणाम की घोषणा के पूर्व तुरन्त निर्धारित निर्वाचन परिणाम पंजिका परिशिष्ट-14(प्रपत्र-56) पर विवरण दर्ज करके निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार या उसके निर्वाचन अभिकर्ता के हस्ताक्षर लेगा ओर स्वंय या सहायक निर्वाचन अधिकारी द्वारा हस्ताक्षर किया जाएगा और वही अधिकारी तदन्तर तत्काल निर्वाचन परिणाम की घोषणा करेगा। निर्धारित निर्वाचन परिणाम पंजिका (प्रपत्र-56) में प्रत्येक ग्राम पंचायत के लिए अलग-अलग पृष्ठ निर्धारित रहेंगे जिसमें उस ग्राम पंचायत के सदस्य के निर्वाचन परिणाम के अन्त में प्रधान पद का निर्वाचन परिणाम का विवरण अंकित किया जाएगा और सदस्य ग्राम पंचायत के लिए सहायक निर्वाचन अधिकारी द्वारा प्रमाण पत्र परिशिष्ट-15(प्रपत्र-52) पर तथा प्रधान, क्षेत्र पंचायत सदस्य के लिए निर्वाचन अधिकारी द्वारा प्रमाण पत्र क्रमशः परिशिष्ट-16 एंव 17 (प्रपत्र-53 एंव प्रपत्र-54) पर जारी किया जाएगा।"

16. A careful reading of the instructions in clause '9' indicate that the Returning Officer before declaration of the result of the election would enter all details in the prescribed "Election Result Register" in परिशिष्ट-14 (Form-56) and get the signature of the elected candidate and/or his Nirvachan Abhikarta and also sign it by himself or by the Assistant Returning Officer. Thus, the election result has to be declared only after preparation of Form-56. It further provides that the prescribed Form-56 (Election Result Register) shall contain separate pages for each Kshetra Panchayat and after preparation of the result in Form-56, the certificate in परिशिष्ट-17 (Form-54) shall be issued by the Assistant Returning Officer to the elected candidate. Form-56 in परिशिष्ट-14 and Form-54 in परिशिष्ट-17 prescribed in the Guide Book are relevant to be extracted under:-

From the perusal of the above instructions issued by the State Election Commission, it is evident that the certificate of winning candidate can be issued by the Returning Officer only after the finalization of the election result in Form-56 which is to be sent to the District Magistrate for onward report to the State Election Commission. The issuance of the certificate of elected candidate in Form-54, thus, can only be after the declaration of the result in Form-56. The date of preparation of Form-56 or the details thereof is/are not before us. The column (4) of Form-56 must contain the date and time of the declaration of result. The instant writ petition is completely silent about the preparation of Form-56 which must have been signed by the elected candidate or his Ganana Abhikarta.

The issuance of the certificate in Form-54 by the Assistant Returning Officer without preparation of Form-56 containing the details of the date and time of the declaration of the result will be of no consequence under the scheme of the procedure formulated by the State Election Commission to supplement the Rules' 1994.

17. Moreover, in absence of any detail given by the petitioner herein regarding the preparation of Form-56 containing his signature or of his Ganana Adhikari, we are not inclined to accept her contention that the result of the election was declared with the issuance of the certificate in Form-54 to her on 3.5.2021.

18. On the other hand, as per the details given by the counsel for the State Election Commission, the mistake in the certificate issued by the Assistant Returning Officer was corrected by the Returning Officer on the very next date i.e. 4.5.2021 as soon as it came to his knowledge. Before correction of the mistake, the notice was also sought to be served upon the petitioner. The information about the final result declaring the opposite party no. 7 as elected candidate was uploaded on the portal of the State Election Commission on 7.5.2021 at about 14:19 Hours. The issuance of the certificate by the Assistant Returning Officer in Form-54 to the petitioner herein, therefore, cannot be said to have marked the culmination of the election.

19. Having considered the scheme of the Rules 1994 and the instructions as contained in the Guide Book issued by the State Election Commission for the Panchayat General Elections-2021, we further find that the ratio of the decisions in Kamlesh (supra), Smt. Sunita Patel (supra) and Smt. Tara Devi (supra) will have no application in the facts and circumstances of the instant case.

The reason being that in none of the above decisions, the scheme of the declaration of the election result in the prescribed Form-56 formulated by the State Election Commission was subject matter of consideration.

The reliance placed by the counsel for the petitioner on the decision in Smt. Sunita Patel (supra) to assert that the certificate issued by the Returning Officer marked the culmination of the election, is, thus, of no benefit to the petitioner.

20. Much emphasis has been laid by the counsel for the petitioner on the previous date on the application of the principle of functus officio to assert that the Returning Officer lacked jurisdiction to make any correction in the election result after the certificate was issued declaring the petitioner as elected candidate.

21. To deal with the said submission, we may note that clerical or arithmetical mistake in any decision or errors arising therein from any accidental slip or omission, may, at any time, be corrected by the competent authority on its own motion or as soon as such an error is brought to its notice in any manner whatsoever. The Returning Officer being Incharge of his office on the relevant date was well within his jurisdiction to correct the errors of clerical/arithmetical nature. To hold otherwise would mean that the wrong result of election had to be declared by the Returning Officer even after discovering the mistake which was only of calculation/totaling of the votes cast in favour of each candidate. The accidental slip or omission attributable to the office of the Returning Officer must be corrected at the earliest possible opportunity so as to maintain the sanctity of the election and to ensure free and fair election. The Returning Officer cannot be said to be functus officio with respect to its power to correct its record before sending the same to the District Magistrate for declaration of the election result on the portal of the State Election Commission. The fact that the Returning Officer was holding the charge of his office on 4.5.2021, when the mistake was corrected, is not disputed before us. We, therefore, hold that till the Returning Officer was Incharge of his office under the order of the State Election Commission and the election result was not finalised by uploading the same on the portal of the State Election Commission, the Returning Officer cannot be denuded of his power to make correction of an error which was only clerical or arithmetical in nature, to put the record of his office straight. The Returning Officer is duty bound to ensure that the declaration made by it of the election result is true; and when he had made correction of minor or formal nature for removing inadvertent error he cannot said to have become functus officio nor can it be said that it was outside the scope and jurisdiction of the Returning Officer under the authority given by the Election Commission.

Further, the writ petition is completely silent about the election return of polling booth nos. 180 and 181 having been received by the petitioner or her Nirvachan Abhikarta and Ganana Abhikarta. The copy of the election returns in Form-47 (as per the Guide Book) alongwith the counting sheet (Ganana Parchi) in Form 43 dated 3.5.2021 of the polling booth nos. 180 and 181 placed before us alongwith the written instructions show the description/details of the votes as is required to be noted under Rule 53 of the Rules, 1994. The total number of the votes received by each candidate have been mentioned therein.

The petitioner herein also does not dispute the details or the number of votes indicated in the memo dated 6.5.2021, subject matter of challenge in the present writ petition.

22. For the aforesaid, in the facts and circumstances of the case, we find that the mistake in the computation of the votes of two polling booths was an arithmetical/clerical mistake. The said mistake when brought to the notice of the Returning Officer on 4.5.2021 on the very next day when the certificate of the elected candidate was issued to the petitioner on 3.5.2021, he, as a vigilant officer, after scrutinizing the record of his office when found the mistake being minor/formal in nature proceeded to erase the same at the earliest by issuance of the notice to the petitioner.

It is demonstrated before us that in the process of correction, the petitioner did not participate.

23. From a thread-bare discussion on the issues raised before us, in the light of the legal position and the procedure of the declaration of the election results under Rule' 1994 and the instructions issued by the State Election Commission, we find that the action of the Returning Officer in making correction of such an error by only tallying the votes already shown in the election return Form 47 (prepared under Rule 53) cannot be said to be hit on the plea of lack of jurisdiction. Rather the re-inspection of the records by the Returning Officer was needed to maintain the sanctity and stability in the election process. There was no reason as to why a candidate who had received highest number of votes be asked to approach the Election Tribunal when the mistake could be corrected by the machinery which was operational at the relevant point of time. We may reiterate that the elections were not denotified by then and even the final result had not been declared on the Portal created by the State Election Commission for the purpose.

There is one more aspect of the matter that while exercising equitable discretionary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, we must keep in mind that substantial justice is done in the matter and the High Court would not issue a writ which would revive any illegality. [Reference Maharaja Chintamani Saran Nath Shahdeo vs. State of Bihar and others8].

24. The quashing of the certificate issued in favour of the opposite party no. 7 would result in cancellation of the election of a candidate having attained highest number of votes. We see no reason to upset the election result and relegate the candidate having highest number of votes to approach the Election Tribunal for removal of a minor defect.

25. Moreover, before parting with the judgment, we deem it fit to express our concern on the number of litigations flowed to this Court post declaration of the result of Member, Kshetra Panchayat. In the month of May and June, 2021 soon after the elections of Member, Kshetra Panchayat were concluded, this Court has been flooded with the writ petitions during the peak of second wave of pandemic Covid-19. Most of the writ petitions were raising the issue of the cancellation of the certificates or issuance of the subsequent certificates to the elected candidates by the Returning Officers. In almost all of the cases before us, the mistake was found to be clerical or arithmetical. The candidates whose certificates had been cancelled had vehemently pressed that the Returning Officers lacked jurisdiction to issue another certificate by cancellation of the previous certificate. Such a situation, according to us, arose on account of the language of the Rules 54 and 56 of the Rules, 1994 which give room for doubt. In the 1994 Rules, there is no provision for issuance of a certificate nor any Form for the certificate to be issued to the winning candidate had been prescribed therein.

When we notice the procedure for declaration of the result of the election as set out in the Conduct of Elections Rules, 1961, we find that Rule 64 provides for the declaration of the result in Form 21-C and that the signed copies of those forms to be sent the Election Commission. After declaration of the result in Form 21-C or Form 21-D and sending the copies thereof to the Election Commission, the certificate of the election in Form 22 is issued to the candidate therein, who has been declared elected in accordance with the provisions of Section 66 of the Representation of People Act. The manner in which the declaration is made in the prescribed format by the Returning Officer and the information and the issuance of the certificate of election in Form 22 has been prescribed in the said rule itself.

26. Rule 64 of the Conduct of Elections Rules, 1961 is quoted hereunder:-

"64. Declaration of result of election and return of election.--The returning officer shall, subject to the provisions of section 65 if and so far as they apply to any particular case, then—

(a) declare in Form 21-C or Form 21-D, as may be appropriate, the candidate to whom the largest number of valid votes have been given, to be elected under section 66 and send signed copies thereof to the appropriate authority, the Election Commission and the chief electoral officer; and

(b) Complete and certify the return of election in Form 21-E, and send signed copies thereof to the Election Commission and the chief electoral officer.] "

Similarly, Rule 29 of the Uttar Pradesh Kshettra Panchayats (Election of Pramukhs and Up-Pramukhs and Settlement of Election Disputes) Rules, 1994 prescribes the procedure for declaration of result in the following manner:-

"Rule 29. Declaration of result.- When the counting of the votes has been completed and the result of the voting has been determined, the Returning Officer shall in the absence of any direction by the State Election Commission to the contrary, forthwith-

(a) declare the result to those present;

(b) report the result to the District Magistrate, the State Election Commission and the State Government;

(c) prepare and certify a return of the election in Form VIII; and

(d) seal up in separate packets the valid ballot papers and the rejected ballot papers and record of each such packet a description of its contents."

Earlier having noted both the above rules, the Division Bench in Smt. Tara Devi (supra) had suggested for suitable amendments in Rules 54 and 56 of the Rules, 1994 to be made so as to bring further stability in the election process and to be avoid future litigations.

27. It appears that the State Government did not take note of the said suggestion nor any effort seems to have been made to bring the Rules 1994 at par with the Election Rules framed under the Representation of the People Act to remove all possible anamolies.

28. The apathy on the part of the State Government in making suitable amendment in the 1994 rules has resulted in the flood of avoidable litigation before this Court that too during the peak of second wave of pandemic Covid-19.

29. In our considered opinion, the proformas for preparation of the election papers and the certificate to be issued by the Returning Officer have to be prescribed in the Rules' 1994 itself and certificate to a winning candidate can only be issued after the final declaration of the result after intimation is sent to the State Election Commission as is to be made under Rule 56 of the Rules, 1994 which is also clear from the guiding instructions issued by the State Election Commission for the Panchayat Elections-2021.

30. For the above, we request the Advocate General, High Court, Allahabad to bring this judgment to the notice of the State Government to advise to make suitable amendments in the Rules 1994 in order to avoid future litigation and to bring stability in the Panchayat election process in future.

The Additional Chief Secretary, Panchayat Raj, Government of U.P., Lucknow is directed to take up the issue so as to initiate the necessary exercise at the earliest.

For the above discussion, in the facts and circumstances of the case, we do not find any merit in the challenge before us. The writ petition is, accordingly, dismissed.

No order as to costs.

Civil Law - U.P. Industrial Disputes Act,1947 - Sections 2-A & 4-K - Limitation Act, S.5 - Stale claim seeking re-engagement - stale claims that are dead do not give rise to an industrial dispute - though there is no limitation prescribed under the Act, during which the industrial dispute may be raised, but it does not mean that a stale claim must be entertained by the Government or adjudicated by the Court - principle on which stale claims are said to be not valid for adjudication is the extinguishment of the industrial dispute with passage of time - An industrial dispute is something that threatens industrial peace - However, if the dispute is still alive on the date of reference, even after passage of a considerable period of time, in the sense that it is still a potent peril to industrial peace, the reference cannot be thrown out as a State claim - there has to be evidence aliunde to show that the industrial dispute was alive between parties (Para 19, 21, 25)

Workman terminated in the year 1989 - He belatedly raised Industrial dispute in the year 2004 i.e. after about 15 years - Held - there was no evidence to show that during the period of 15 years workman pursued his claim as there was no evidence about workman applications, seeking re-engagement, being actually delivered to the employer - there was not a solitary document to show that during this long period of 12 years & more, there was anything said by way of an assurance by the employer, on the basis of which the workman might reasonably be held to have thought that some kind of a negotiation about the industrial dispute is underway - difficult to hold that the industrial dispute was alive in all these years - Industrial dispute that was referred for adjudication to the Labour Court was stale and a dead dispute - impugned award quashed (Para 22, 35, 36, 37)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

Heard Mr. Shreeprakash Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the petitioners and Mr. Diptiman Singh, learned Counsel appearing for the respondent-workman.

2. This writ petition is directed against an award of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Lucknow dated 27.01.2012 (published on 12.04.2012) passed in Adjudication Case no.252 of 2005. Also impugned is an order of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Lucknow dated 07.03.2013 passed in Misc. Case no.51 of 2012, rejecting an application by the petitioners, seeking a review of the award.

3. It appears that an application dated 25.09.2003 was made by the second respondent, Ram Chandra1 to the Conciliation Officer, Bareilly, under Section 2-A of the Uttar Pradesh Industrial Disputes Act, 19472. The application aforesaid was made with an acknowledged delay of 12 years, 3 months and 25 days. It was accompanied by an application under Section 5 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1963, seeking condonation of the delay in making it.

4. It was said in the application for conciliation that the workman was employed in the establishment of the Assistant Engineer, Second Head Works Division, Sharda Canal Bifurcation, Pilibhit as a daily-wager, since the month of August, 1987. He was retained by an oral order made by the Assistant Engineer, last mentioned. The Superintending Engineer, 5th Division, Irrigation Works, Bareilly, the Executive Engineer, Head Works Division, Sharda Canal, Bareilly, and the Assistant Engineer, Second Head Works Division, Sharda Canal Bifurcation, Pilibhit, were arrayed as opposite parties to the application under reference. The said opposite parties are represented before this Court by the two petitioners, that is to say, the State of Uttar Pradesh through the Chief Engineer, Irrigation Division, Government of U.P., Lucknow and the Executive Engineer, Head Works Division, Sharda Canal, Bareilly. Be it the three opposite parties arrayed in the conciliation proceedings at Bareilly, or the petitioners here, they shall hereinafter be referred to as the 'employers'.

5. Shorn of unnecessary details, it was said in the application seeking conciliation that the workman discharged his duties with utmost devotion and never gave cause for complaint to the employers. The employers deputed him to do work in the office that was ministerial in nature. He was given an assurance that after some time, his services would be regularized and made permanent as a Clerk. It is also said that believing the said representation by the employers to be true, the workman continued to discharge the duties of a Clerk, in addition to his duties. He did not demand any additional wages. It is the workman's case that he repeated his request orally to the employers, asking them to regularize his services on a permanent post, but the employers would ward off the request. In the month of April, 1991, the workman claims to have forcefully asserted his claim to regularize and to be made permanent, which led the employers to orally terminate his service in the month of May, 1991. He was not served with any notice or paid notice pay or retrenchment allowance. It was also said in the application for conciliation that the workman met the employers time over again and orally requested them to take him back in their employ. However, no heed was paid to his requests. The workman claims that left with no alternative, he got a notice dated 04.07.2003 served by his learned counsel through registered post. There, it was demanded that the workman be taken back in service and his case be considered for regularization with confinement of the status of a permanent employee.

6. There is an assertion in the application seeking conciliation that the workman worked with the employers from the month of August, 1987 to May, 1991 continuously. He functioned for more than 240 days in each calendar year during the aforesaid period of time. On the basis of the aforesaid assertion, the workman said that he was entitled to be regularized in service and declared a permanent employee. It is said in paragraph no.7 of the application that a period of 12 years, 3 months and 25 days had elapsed since his services were dispensed with by the employers. This delay was sought to be explained on the basis that during this period of time, the workman had made repeat requests orally and through written applications to the employers to remit the wrong, but to no avail. It was said that the delay was not intentional or the outcome of laches. The workman requested that for resolution of the industrial dispute between parties, a Conciliation Committee be constituted. The Committee so constituted may ensure that the workman's illegal termination from service, with effect from the month of May, 1991, be declared inoperative and void, and that he may be reinstated with continuity in service together with all consequential benefits. The workman's application seeking conciliation was registered on the file of the Conciliation Officer-cum-Assistant Labour Commissioner, Bareilly as C.P. Case no.1 of 2004.

7. Notice of the said application was issued to the employers, requiring them to attend before the Conciliation Officer-cum-Assistant Labour Commissioner, Bareilly on 13.01.2004 at 11.00 o'clock in the morning hours. The employers filed a reply to the said conciliation application, wherein it was pleaded in paragraph no.1 that the workman was retained as a daily-wager to do the work of a Beldar. He worked from the month of August, 1987 to the month of May, 1991, as per details furnished in a statement accompanying the employers' reply dated 06.02.2004 before the Conciliation Officer, Bareilly. The attached schedule of details about the number of days in each calendar year, month-wise that the workman discharged his duties with the employers, is detailed below:

8. The workman made an application in C.P. Case no.1 of 2004 before the Conciliation Officer, Bareilly dated 12.03.2004 seeking to withdraw/ not press the conciliation application on ground that it had some technical flaws, which the workman wanted to rectify and present a fresh application. The withdrawal application was allowed by the Conciliation Officer vide order dated 12.03.2004 and the conciliation case together with the delay condonation application were directed to be consigned to records.

9. A month later on 12.04.2004, the workman moved a fresh application under Section 2-A of the Act of 1947, on occasion before the Conciliation Officer, Lucknow, again accompanied by an application seeking condonation of delay. Here, it was said that the employers had retained the workman with effect from 01.11.1986 on a monthly/ daily salary of Rs.450/- per month to work as a Beldar. His services were illegally terminated with effect from 01.06.1991. No reason was assigned for dispensing with the workman's service. It was also said that the workman went time over again to the employers asking to be re-engaged, but to no avail. It was also said that the employers' establishment had a work force of about 15000 strong. The workman, time over again, made oral requests and also wrote applications, requesting the employers that the dispute may be amicably resolved, which the employers did not do. It was, therefore, prayed that proceedings under Section 2-A may be drawn and concluded early, ensuring that the workman is reinstated in service with continuity and back wages. The application was registered before the Conciliation Officer-cum-Assistant Labour Commissioner, Lucknow as Application no.141 of 2004.

10. Upon notice of the said application being issued to the employers, they filed a reply dated 06.08.2004. It was pointed on behalf of the employers that the workman had earlier approached the Conciliation Officer-cum-Assistant Labour Commissioner, Bareilly vide C.P. Case no.1 of 2004. There also, he had sought condonation of delay. After the employers had filed the reply in the said case, the workman had withdrawn the conciliation proceedings citing technical flaws in the application, attended with the assertion that after removal of defects, a fresh application would be presented. A copy of the earlier application was appended by the employers to their reply. An objection was raised to the effect that the workman was a resident of Bareilly and was employed with the employers' establishment, comprising the Second Division Bifurcation at Pilibhit. As such, the cause of action did not arise within the territorial jurisdiction of the Conciliation Officer at Lucknow, but was cognizable by the Conciliation Officer, Bareilly. About the other matters, it was said that their stand as the one taken before the Conciliation Officer, Bareilly, remains unchanged.

11. The Conciliation Officer/ Deputy Labour Commissioner, Lucknow vide his order dated 15.12.2005, proceeded to make a reference under Section 4-K of the Act of 1947 to the Labour Court n the following terms (translated into English from Hindi vernacular):

"Whether termination of services of their workman, Sri Ram Chandra son of Daya Ram, a Beldar by the employers with effect from 01.10.1989 is lawful and proper? If not, to what relief the concerned workman is entitled and what are the particulars of his lawful dues?"

12. The aforesaid case was registered on the file of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., Lucknow as Adjudication Case no.252 of 2005. Both parties were put under notice and called upon to file their written statements. The workman filed his written statement dated 27.01.2006, whereas the employers filed their written statement dated 11.05.2006. The employers in written statement said that their stand remains the same as that carried in their reply in C.P. Case no.141 of 2004 before the Conciliation Officer-cum-Assistant Labour Commissioner, Lucknow Region, Lucknow. The reply dated 23.03.2005 submitted in the conciliation proceedings was enclosed with the written statement filed on behalf of the employers. It may be emphasized that in the reply dated 23.03.2005 submitted in the conciliation proceedings on behalf of the employers, a schedule about the period of engagement of the workman with the employers was detailed. It was furnished for the years 1988 and 1989, indicating month-wise break-up of days that the workman had worked with the employers. The total number of days during each of the two calendar years was also detailed. The said figures, detailed with the reply dated 23.03.2005, filed before the Conciliation Officer is relevant. These read:

"वर्ष 1988

13. Rejoinder statements were filed by the employers and the workman. At the hearing before the Labour Court, the workman led both oral and documentary evidence. However, the employers, who sought time on 24.02.2011, 04.05.2011, 01.09.2011 and 15.10.2011 to lead evidence, did not do so. This fact is recorded in the impugned award. It is also recorded there that on 15.10.2011, the employers' opportunity to lead evidence was closed. Both parties were then heard through their various representatives by the Labour Court, which, by its award impugned, held that the workman had worked for more than 240 days and his services had been terminated in breach of Sections 6-N, 6-P and 6-Q of the Act of 1947. The reference was answered in the manner that termination of the workman's services was not lawful or proper, and that he is entitled to reinstatement. It was further awarded that the workman was entitled to reinstatement with effect from 01.10.1989 with continuity in service. However, towards back-wages, 25% was awarded.

14. Aggrieved, the present writ petition has been instituted by the employers.

15. I have heard the learned Counsel for parties and perused the record.

16. The foremost objection that has been raised by Mr. Shreeprakash Singh, the learned Standing Counsel appearing for the petitioners, is that the claim has been raised belatedly, after the passage of about 15 years. It is submitted that it is a stale claim, where, on the own showing of the workman, the first time that he initiated proceedings for conciliation before the Conciliation Officer-cum-Assistant Labour Commissioner, Bareilly, it was with a delay of 12 years, 4 months and 25 days. It is for the said reason that the workman-employee applied for condonation of delay before the Conciliation Officer at Bareilly. The conciliation proceedings initiated at Bareilly were withdrawn on 12.03.2004 and a month later, on 12.04.2004, the Conciliation Officer at Lucknow was moved. It is submitted that according to the reference, the services of the petitioner were terminated w.e.f. 01.10.1989. Therefore, it was about 15 years after the employer removed him, that the workman raised an industrial dispute. It is emphasized that during this period of time, there is no dependable evidence to show that the workman pursued his claim, or the industrial dispute remained alive. It is urged that according to the employers' case, after 30.09.1989, the workman ceased to turn up for work. He was a daily-wager and free to do so. The evidence regarding applications submitted by the workman to the employers, seeking reinstatement in service, that have been brought on record, are dubbed as self-serving documents. It is urged that there is no proof of dispatch or tender of these applications. It is particularly emphasized by Mr. Shreeprakash Singh that the only evidence about postal dispatch of these applications are UPC Certificates, that are no evidence about postal dispatch. The only admissible evidence about postal dispatch is the receipt of dispatch by registered post.

17. For the principle that stale claims that are dead do not give rise to an industrial dispute, the learned Standing Counsel appearing for the petitioner has placed reliance on the decision of Supreme Court in Nedungadi Bank Ltd. v. K.P. Madhavan Kutti3. To the same end, reliance has been placed on another decision of the Supreme Court in Haryana State Corporation Bank Ltd. v. Neelam4. It is submitted on the strength of these decisions that though there is no limitation prescribed under the Act, during which the industrial dispute may be raised, but it does not mean that irrespective of facts and circumstances of the case, a stale claim must be entertained by the Government or adjudicated by the Court. Mr. Shreeprakash Singh emphasizes that going by the principle laid down in the two Authorities under reference, the workman ought to have approached the Court at the earliest as in case of delay, the aim and object of raising an industrial dispute stands defeated. The learned Standing Counsel has further placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in State of U.P. and Another v. Rajesh Kumar Awasthi and Another5. In the said decision, a delay of about 19 years was considered fatal.

18. Mr. Diptiman Singh, the learned Counsel for the workman, on the other hand, submits that a delay condonation application was filed by the workman, giving sufficient explanation for the delay in the initiation of conciliation proceedings. The delay was condoned by an order dated 09.03.2005. It is pointed out by Mr. Singh that a copy of the said order is annexed as Annexure CA-1 to the counter affidavit. This order was never challenged by the petitioner, and has become final. He submits that once reasons for the delay have been explained and the Conciliation Officer has passed a specific order condoning the delay, no objection can be taken to the impugned award on ground of the dispute being raised after a number of years. Mr. Singh submits that there is no limitation prescribed under the Act of 1947 and if it is an industrial dispute that is still alive on the date the reference is made, mere passage of time cannot vitiate the reference or the resultant adjudication. Reliance in this connection has been placed by Mr. Diptiman Singh on the decision of the Supreme Court in Kuldeep Singh v. General Manager, Instrument Design Development and Facilities Centre and Another6 and also on another decision of their Lordships in Prabhakar v. Joint Director, Sericulture Department and Another7.

19. There is no quarrel between parties that there is no limitation prescribed under the Act of 1947, where the passage of a specific time period from a determinate event would act as a temporal bar to the raising of an industrial dispute. The principle on which stale claims are said to be not valid for adjudication is the extinguishment of the industrial dispute with passage of time. While passage of time is in itself no ground to apply the principle of laches to the adjudication of an industrial dispute in the manner it is applied to equitable jurisdictions, where no rule of limitation is applicable, passage of a considerable period of time is in itself a pointer to the industrial dispute having subsided. But again, since claims subject matter of industrial disputes are not to be discarded because of the mere passage of a long period of time, delay cannot be the sole index to infer a bar to the industrial dispute. An industrial dispute that is raised after a long passage of time, but with events in the interregnum to show by tangible evidence that issues had remained alive, about which there was either strife or attempts at settlement, the industrial dispute would still be alive. If the dispute is alive after passage of a considerable period of time in the sense that it is still a potent peril to industrial peace, the reference cannot be thrown out as a State claim. It is here that the principle may be regarded differently from laches where long inaction in the commencement of proceedings by itself would attract disentitlement, unless the delay is satisfactorily explained.

20. Here, the parties have come up with slightly varying dates about the workman's engagement and the time that he was retrenched. But, on the evidence available and that found by the Labour Court, there is no issue that the workman claims to have been removed or retrenched illegally w.e.f. 01.10.1989. During this period of time, the earliest that the workman raised the industrial dispute by moving the Conciliation Officer at Bareilly was through an application under Section 2-A of the Act of 1947, dated 25.09.2003. The said application was accompanied by a delay condonation application. In Paragraph No. 7 of the application seeking conciliation moved at Bareilly, the workman has acknowledged that it was being made 12 years, 3 months and 25 days after the event, that is his retrenchment. This application was later on withdrawn under an order of the Conciliation Officer at Bareilly dated 12.03.2004 with liberty to represent. A second application was moved at Lucknow on 12.04.2004. That may not be of much relevance to the issue about the claim being stale, and, therefore, not worth adjudication. But, it does show that before 25.09.2003, there was no evidence by way of any step taken by the workman under the law, that may evidence the industrial dispute.

21. Again, merely because steps under the law are not taken to raise an industrial dispute or towards it, it cannot be evidence about the industrial dispute being smothered. In the world of industrial relations, it is a potent probability that the workman may be negotiating with the employers individually or bargaining through a union. If there be evidence about a negotiation with the employer in any manner going on, where there is some kind of an assurance to the workman, that his grievance might be redressed, the industrial dispute cannot be taken to be effaced. Nevertheless, there has to be evidence aliunde to show that the industrial dispute was alive between parties, though no steps available under the law were taken or the remedies availed by the workman. If evidence of that kind is there, certainly, the process of resolution of an industrial dispute under the Act of 1947 can be initiated, notwithstanding whatever time has passed.

22. To show that the dispute was alive between parties, Mr. Diptiman Singh has drawn attention of this Court to a list of documents annexed as Annexure CA-3 to the counter affidavit. A perusal of the said list shows that there are some 13 applications dated 30.07.1991 to 10.02.2003, said to be addressed by the workman to the employer regarding his re-engagement. Although, those applications have been filed before the Labour Court and bear Exhibit W3, W4 - W15, there is no dependable evidence about these applications being actually delivered to the employer. There are certificates of posting that have been filed before the Labour Court, relative to these applications. Certificates of posting are highly suspect evidence about dispatch, given the reputed unworthiness of these documents, of which the Court can take judicial notice. Even assuming that the various applications seeking re-engagement from the year 1991 to the year 2003 were made by the workman, there is not a solitary document to show that during this long period of 12 years and more, there was anything said by way of an assurance by the employer, on the basis of which the workman might reasonably be held to have thought that some kind of a negotiation about the industrial dispute is underway or that he must wait for the outcome of some bargain. At best, these applications show unilateral efforts by the workman across a decade and two years and may be more, to seek re-engagement, with the employers consistently turning a deaf ear. This being the best inference that can be drawn from the evidence comprising these applications made to the employer, it is difficult to hold that the industrial dispute was alive in all these years. Mr. Diptiman Singh has then drawn the attention of this Court to the evidence of the workman's witnesses, which includes him. He has testified as D.W.1. On the issue of delay, D.W.2, Narendra Babu Saxena, who was employed with the employers from 26.02.1975 to 30.06.2008 as a Clerk and Senior Assistant, has testified to the fact that after being removed from service, the workman came back to the employers time over again and made applications, but the employer did not re-engage him. This evidence is expressed by D.W. 2 in the following words :

Naukri se nikale jane ke baad yeh baar-2 aate rahe aur prarthna patra dete rahe, lekin unko sahab se nahi rakha.

23. Likewise, D.W.3, Daya Ram, who is said to have been posted with the employers from 15.01.1959 to 31.01.1993 on some post described as a "patrol", has said in his testimony :

Kshramik nikaale jaane ke baad division office me sahab se naukri par rakhne ke liye bar-bar aate rahe, aur prarthna patra aadi bhi naukri par rakhne ka dete rahe.

24. Accepting the said evidence to be true and unrebutted, for the employers have not led any, all that could be inferred is that the workman unilaterally approached the employer during all this period of twelve years and more, endeavouring to be re-engaged. While this evidence may show efforts made by the workman to secure his employment back and denial by the employer, the absence of any further action by the workman, with there being no negotiation underway between him and the employer, cannot lead to an inference about an industrial dispute being alive in all this while. The torpidity of the workman in the face of denial by the employers over a very long period of time is, in fact, a clear evidence of his inaction. It does not show any kind of strife or dispute.

25. An industrial dispute is something that threatens industrial peace. A workman, who, across a period of 12 years and more, is content to visit the employers premises, requesting the latter to re-engage him, without doing anything more, cannot be said to be a party to an industrial dispute. The workman, who does not agitate his rights during this long passage of time, must be held to have accepted his fate and submitted to the retrenchment. The ex-employers' premises, being nothing more than a frequent rendezvous to the workman, with no further action to redress his unlawful retrenchment, shows an industrial dispute, if at all, that has withered away with time. That is precisely the case here. In this connection, reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in Prabhakar (supra). After a survey of authority on the point, their Lordships have summarised the principles thus :

42. On the basis of the aforesaid discussion, we summarise the legal position as under:

42.1. An industrial dispute has to be referred by the appropriate Government for adjudication and the workman cannot approach the Labour Court or Industrial Tribunal directly, except in those cases which are covered by Section 2-A of the Act. Reference is made under Section 10 of the Act in those cases where the appropriate Government forms an opinion that "any industrial dispute exists or is apprehended". The words "industrial dispute exists" are of paramount importance, unless there is an existence of an industrial dispute (or the dispute is apprehended or it is apprehended such a dispute may arise in near future), no reference is to be made. Thus, existence or apprehension of an industrial dispute is a sine qua non for making the reference. No doubt, at the time of taking a decision whether a reference is to be made or not, the appropriate Government is not to go into the merits of the dispute. Making of reference is only an administrative function. At the same time, on the basis of material on record, satisfaction of the existence of the industrial dispute or the apprehension of an industrial dispute is necessary. Such existence/apprehension of industrial dispute, thus, becomes a condition precedent, though it will be only subjective satisfaction based on material on record. Since, we are not concerned with the satisfaction dealing with cases where there is apprehended industrial dispute, discussion that follows would confine to existence of an industrial dispute.

42.2. Dispute or difference arises when one party makes a demand and the other party rejects the same. It is held by this Court in a number of cases that before raising the industrial dispute making of demand is a necessary precondition. In such a scenario, if the services of a workman are terminated and he does not make the demand and/or raise the issue alleging wrongful termination immediately thereafter or within reasonable time and raises the same after considerable lapse of period, whether it can be said that industrial dispute still exists.

42.3. Since there is no period of limitation, it gives right to the workman to raise the dispute even belatedly. However, if the dispute is raised after a long period, it has to be seen as to whether such a dispute still exists? Thus, notwithstanding the fact that law of limitation does not apply, it is to be shown by the workman that there is a dispute in praesenti. For this purpose, he has to demonstrate that even if considerable period has lapsed and there are laches and delays, such delay has not resulted into making the industrial dispute cease to exist. Therefore, if the workman is able to give satisfactory explanation for these laches and delays and demonstrate that the circumstances disclose that issue is still alive, delay would not come in his way because of the reason that law of limitation has no application. On the other hand, if because of such delay dispute no longer remains alive and is to be treated as "dead", then it would be non-existent dispute which cannot be referred.

42.4. Take, for example, a case where the workman issues notice after his termination, questioning the termination and demanding reinstatement. He is able to show that there were discussions from time to time and the parties were trying to sort out the matter amicably. Or he is able to show that there were assurances by the Management to the effect that he would be taken back in service and because of these reasons, he did not immediately raise the dispute by approaching the Labour Authorities seeking reference or did not invoke the remedy under Section 2-A of the Act. In such a scenario, it can be treated that the dispute was live and existing as the workman never abandoned his right. However, in this very example, even if the notice of demand was sent but it did not evoke any positive response or there was specific rejection by the Management of his demand contained in the notice and thereafter he sleeps over the matter for a number of years, it can be treated that he accepted the factum of his termination and rejection thereof by the Management and acquiesced into the said rejection.

42.5. Take another example. A workman approaches the civil court by filing a suit against his termination which was pending for a number of years and was ultimately dismissed on the ground that the civil court did not have jurisdiction to enforce the contract of personal service and does not grant any reinstatement. At that stage, when the suit is dismissed or he withdraws that suit and then involves the machinery under the Act, it can lead to the conclusion that the dispute is still alive as the workman had not accepted the termination but was agitating the same; albeit in a wrong forum.

42.6. In contrast, in those cases where there was no agitation by the workman against his termination and the dispute is raised belatedly and the delay or laches remain unexplained, it would be presumed that he had waived his right or acquiesced into the act of termination and, therefore, at the time when the dispute is raised it had become stale and was not an "existing dispute". In such circumstances, the appropriate Government can refuse to make reference. In the alternative, the Labour Court/Industrial Court can also hold that there is no "industrial dispute" within the meaning of Section 2(k) of the Act and, therefore, no relief can be granted.

43. We may hasten to clarify that in those cases where the court finds that dispute still existed, though raised belatedly, it is always permissible for the court to take the aspect of delay into consideration and mould the relief. In such cases, it is still open for the court to either grant reinstatement without back wages or lesser back wages or grant compensation instead of reinstatement. We are of the opinion that the law on this issue has to be applied in the aforesaid perspective in such matters.

44. To summarise, although there is no limitation prescribed under the Act for making a reference under Section 10(1) of the ID Act, yet it is for the "appropriate Government" to consider whether it is expedient or not to make the reference. The words "at any time" used in Section 10(1) do not admit of any limitation in making an order of reference and laws of limitation are not applicable to proceedings under the ID Act. However, the policy of industrial adjudication is that very stale claims should not be generally encouraged or allowed inasmuch as unless there is satisfactory explanation for delay as, apart from the obvious risk to industrial peace from the entertainment of claims after long lapse of time, it is necessary also to take into account the unsettling effect which it is likely to have on the employers' financial arrangement and to avoid dislocation of an industry." (Emphasis by Court)

26. Incidentally, in Prabhakar, reference against the order of termination made after 14 years was held not to give rise to an industrial dispute, that was alive and worth adjudicating.

27. The other decision relied upon by Mr. Diptiman Singh does not lay down any principle that may come to the workman's rescue on the facts and evidence obtaining in this case. In Kuldeep Singh, it was held by their Lordships :

28. The view expressed in Sapan Kumar Pandit [(2001) 6 SCC 222 : 2001 SCC (L&S) 946] which is identical to our case has been considered and followed in the subsequent decision, namely, S.M. Nilajkar v. Telecom District Manager [(2003) 4 SCC 27 : 2003 SCC (L&S) 380] . In both the decisions, the principles laid down in Nedungadi Bank [(2000) 2 SCC 455 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 283] have been considered and distinguished. We have already mentioned that in Sapan Kumar

Pandit [(2001) 6 SCC 222 : 2001 SCC (L&S) 946] , this Court followed the principles enunciated in a three-Judge Bench decision of Western India Match Co. [(1970) 1 SCC 225 : AIR 1970 SC 1205]

29. At this juncture, it is useful to remind and reiterate the finding rendered by the Labour Court on Issues 1, 5 and 6 holding that the termination of the services of the workman/the appellant herein without complying with the provisions of Section 25-F is illegal, null and void and deserves to be set aside. Undoubtedly, the management has to follow the provisions of the Act while effecting termination, in fact, which was accepted by the Labour Court and the management has not challenged the same before any forum.

30. In view of the above, law can be summarised that there is no prescribed time-limit for the appropriate Government to exercise its powers under Section 10 of the Act. It is more so in view of the language used, namely, if any industrial dispute exists or is apprehended, the appropriate Government "at any time" refer the dispute to a board or court for enquiry. The reference sought for by the workman cannot be said to be delayed or suffering from a lapse when law does not prescribe any period of limitation for raising a dispute under Section 10 of the Act. The real test for making a reference is whether at the time of the reference dispute exists or not and when it is made it is presumed that the State Government is satisfied with the ingredients of the provision, hence the Labour Court cannot go behind the reference.

31. It is not open to the Government to go into the merit of the dispute concerned and once it is found that an industrial dispute exists then it is incumbent on the part of the Government to make reference. It cannot itself decide the merit of the dispute and it is for the appropriate court or forum to decide the same. The satisfaction of the appropriate authority in the matter of making reference under Section 10(1) of the Act is a subjective satisfaction. Normally, the Government cannot decline to make reference for laches committed by the workman. If adequate reasons are shown, the Government is bound to refer the dispute to the appropriate court or forum for adjudication.

32. Even though, there is no limitation prescribed for reference of dispute to the Labour Court/Industrial Tribunal, even so, it is only reasonable that the disputes should be referred as soon as possible after they have arisen and after conciliation proceedings have failed, particularly, when disputes relate to discharge of workman. If sufficient materials are not put forth for the enormous delay, it would certainly be fatal. However, in view of the explanation offered by the workman, in the case on hand, as stated and discussed by us in the earlier paragraphs, we do not think that the delay in the case on hand has been so culpable as to disentitle him any relief. We are also satisfied that in view of the details furnished and the explanation offered, the workman cannot be blamed for the delay and he was all along hoping that one day his grievance would be considered by the management or by the State Government.

28. Now, the facts in Kuldeep Singh show that the services of the workman in that case were terminated w.e.f. 26.05.1992. He claimed that he had worked as Data Entry Operator with the employers from 08.10.1990 to 28.11.1991 and thereafter on ad hoc basis from 28.11.1991 to 26.05.1992. It was his case that he had worked for more than 240 days in the twelve preceding months of the calendar. His juniors had been retained in service and fresh hands hired, after termination of his services. The employers were claimed to have violated Section 25-F to 25-H of the Industrial Disputes Act, 19478 (for short, "Central Act'). It appears from the report of the decision in Kuldeep Singh that after prolonged correspondence, the Government made a reference to the Labour Court on 22.11.1999. There was, thus, a period of more than five and a half years that elapsed between the workman's termination from service and the reference under Section 10(1)(c) of the Central Act. The Labour Court appears to have found the termination of services of the workman in violation of the Central Act, but answered the reference against him on the ground of delay alone. The Labour Court held that there was a delay of more than five and a half years between the termination of services of the workman, subject matter of the reference, and the time when demand for reference was raised. This delay was held to be fatal. The High Court affirmed the Labour Court.

29. It has also figured in the decision of their Lordships that the finding of the Labour Court on merits of the adjudication by the Labour Court were not impugned in the writ petition preferred by the employers. The decision in Kuldeep Singh further shows that the representations made by the workman during the period of five and a half years of delay, that were held to have kept the industrial dispute alive, were made in the context and circumstances best detailed in paragraph no. 13 of the report in Kuldeep Singh, which reads:

"16. The appellant workman has furnished the following information to show that after termination, he made several representations to various authorities. They are:

(i) Representation dated 10-6-1992 to the Hon'ble Minister of the respondents' Department.

(ii) Representation dated 11-5-1993 to the Chief Secretary of Haryana State.

(iii) Representation dated 7-12-1994 to the General Manager, IDDC, Ambala.

(iv) Representation dated 4-10-1995 to the General Manager, IDDC, Ambala.

(v) Representation dated 16-7-1996 to the Manager, Harton, Chandigarh.

Besides that, he attempted for the same job twice as under:

(i) Applied and interviewed for the same post out of 4 vacancies advertised in The Tribune dated 19-9-1992.

(ii) Applied and interviewed for the same post out of 60 vacancies in The Sunday Tribune dated 14-5-1995.

The factual details have not been seriously denied by the management."

(Emphasis by Court)

30. The decision in Kuldeep Singh, holding the workman to have explained the delay of five and a half years by representing his cause to the employers and the other Authorities, including the Hon'ble Minister in the appropriate Department, has clear distinguishing features with the present case. For one, the period of five and a half years involved in Kuldeep Singh though in itself not relevant and decisive about the industrial dispute being alive, the period of time, given a man's short life, and that too, the working part of it, where representations were made by the workman to the Authorities and the Government may still be inferred to have kept the industrial dispute alive.

31. In the present case, by contrast, the period of time stretches to 15 years or at least more than 12 years, during which nothing more than representations to the employers and oral requests were made. During this period of 12 or 15 years, there is no case of the workman representing his grievance to the Government or any Authority, unlike in Kuldeep Singh. If a workman, given the limitation and the short time of a man's working life, rests content with unilaterally representing his cause just to the employers with no reasonable expectation of a possible relief or settlement, an inference about the industrial dispute being eclipsed with time has to be drawn. In the present case, decidedly, the workman has waited too long before he made the first move before the Conciliation Officer.

32. That apart, the evidence about the workman actually representing his case during all these 12 plus or 15 years is in grave doubt. About that issue, this Court has remarked in the earlier part of this judgment. By contrast in Kuldeep Singh, the factum of representations to various Authorities of the employers and the Hon'ble Minister was not seriously denied by the employers. The said feature also distinguishes the workman's case from that in Kuldeep Singh.

33. By contrast, the facts in Prabhakar show that the services of the workman were terminated on 1st April, 1985 and the industrial dispute was raised in the year 1999. It was raised after a period of more than 14 years. The workman there was appointed as a Clerk in the Sericulture Department of the Government on 1st April, 1984 and his services were terminated on 1st April, 1986. The relevant facts are succinctly set out in paragraph no.4 of the report in Prabhakar, which read:

4. The petitioner was appointed as a Clerk in the Sericulture Department, Government of Karnataka, Belgaum on 1-4-1984. His services were terminated on 1-4-1985. During the period 1-4-1985 till 1999, the petitioner did not approach any judicial/quasi-judicial authority challenging the said termination. In fact, not even a notice or legal notice was served upon the Management questioning the validity of the said termination. However, some time in the year 1999, the petitioner approached the appropriate Government alleging that his services were terminated illegally and in violation of the provisions of Section 25-F of the Act. Insofar as delay is concerned, in the claim made by the petitioner, the only explanation given was that he had approached the Management on several occasions with request to reinstate him in service and pay back wages and other consequential benefits. He also alleged that though the Management initially assured that they would reinstate him, but dragged on the matter on one pretext or the other and when they ultimately told him that they would not reinstate him into service, he had no alternative but to raise the industrial dispute. The conciliation proceedings had started, which ended in failure. Thereafter, the appropriate Government referred the matter regarding validity of termination of the petitioner for adjudication.

34. The principles enunciated in Prabhakar show that contextually, it was a case with striking similarity to the case in hand. The workman commenced conciliation proceedings after a period of 14 years and for the delay, the only explanation given by him was a repeat approach to the Management on several occasions with a request to reinstate him in service. The Labour Court had answered the reference in favour of the workman, ordering his reinstatement in service without back-wages. The learned Single Judge of the High Court had upheld the award. The Division Bench of the High Court thought that it was a case where there was no industrial dispute alive worth adjudication, and quashed the award. Their Lordships of the Supreme Court upheld the view taken by the Division Bench, considering the period of time elapsed and the action of the workman in merely representing his case with the employers to explain his delayed approach for conciliation under the Act of 1947.

35. In the present case also, this Court finds that the workman spent too long a period of time, if at all he is to be believed, in going back to the employers time over again, where it was apparent that the same would elicit no meaningful response. At best, the workman was flogging a dead horse, from which the only inference that can be drawn is one of a dead industrial dispute. That apart, this Court reiterates, at the cost of some repetition, that the evidence in the case does not inspire confidence about the workman actually representing his case with the employers through all the applications that he has placed on record.

36. In view of all, that has been noticed hereinabove, this Court is of opinion that the industrial dispute that was referred for adjudication to the Labour Court, was indeed stale and a dead dispute.

37. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned award dated 27.01.2012, published on 12.04.2012 passed by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Lucknow in Adjudication Case no.252 of 2005 is hereby quashed.

38. There shall be no order as to costs.

Writ Tax No. 220 of 2020

M/s Fashion Dezire & Anr. ...Petitioners
Versus
U.O.I. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Nishant Mishra, Sri Tanmay Sadh

Counsel for the Respondents:
A.S.G.I., Sri Krishna Kant Shukla, Sri Ramesh Chandra Shukla

A. Tax Law – Central Excise Duty - Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019 - Sections 121(c), 121(c)(i), 123, 123(a)(i), 124, 127(5), 127(3).

127(4), 127(8) & 129(1)(a); Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme Rules, 2019: Rule 6(2).

Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019 - Sections 121(c), 123 & 124 – There is a complete absence of any statutory intent to allow for change of case category from 'Litigation' or 'Arrears' or to redetermine of the 'tax dues' and EAP upon an adjudication order coming into existence during the pendency of proceedings under the Scheme. (Para 14, 16)

The computation of the 'tax dues' and consequently determination of the EAP would depend on the case category 'Litigation' or 'Arrears'. The computation of the EAP under 'Litigation' i.e. pending adjudication case category, would be substantially lower than that computed under the 'Arrears' category. Therefore, once the petitioner had (rightly) filed the (first) declaration on 10.10.2019 under the case category 'Litigation', determination of the EAP amount would be governed accordingly. It cannot be changed, thereafter. (Para 14)

B. The proceedings under the Scheme must necessarily take precedence over the regular adjudication proceedings under the Act. If the adjudication proceedings is allowed to continue and be concluded during the pendency of a Discharge Certificate proceeding, arising from a valid declaration filed under the Scheme, it would defeat the declaration made and, therefore, defeat the object of reform i.e. to end 'legacy disputes'. (Para 16)

Any interpretation given to the Scheme as may defeat its purpose and object of the reform, must be rejected. A purposive interpretation must be adopted. (Para 17)

The statute having prescribed the manner to raise the demand of EAP and to pay that amount by a particular method, it could not have been demanded or paid otherwise. (Para 18)

C. In absence of any statutory risk to the adjudication proceedings being hit by any rule of limitation, those proceedings should necessarily have been kept in abeyance till the conclusion of the proceedings under the Scheme. The order dated 30.12.2019 was tainted with impropriety, to the extent that order was passed during thirty (30) days from issuance of the SVLDRS-2 on 4.12.2019. Therefore, in the first place, it could not have been enforced till 03.01.2020, in view of the language of S.127(2) and Section 127(5) of the Scheme. (Para 19, 20)

Till 03.01.2020, the Order-in-Original dated 30.12.2019 remained in a state of suspended animation. Thereafter, it has continued in that state, till date. It is so, since, the petitioner disputed the computation of 'tax dues' and filed written objections/arguments to the EAP demanded on the (first) SVLDRS-2 dated 04.12.2019. In view of those objections filed and by virtue of Sections 127(3) and 127(4) of the Scheme, the Designated Committee was obligated to deal with the same and necessarily raise an appropriate final demand of EAP, on SVLDRS-3, preferably on or before 29.12.2019. (Para 21, 24)

D. In absence of consequences being provided, the time limit/provisions would remain directory. In absence of any consequence of abatement etc. being prescribed either by the Scheme or the Rules, the time limit of sixty (60) days under Section 127(4) of the Scheme is purely directory. The statutory authority/Designated Committee having failed to act within time contemplated under the Scheme, it cannot escape its obligation - to issue the appropriate final demand of EAP on form SVLDRS-3. (Para 23)

E. The principle "competence of a Court to try a case goes to the very root of the jurisdiction, and where it is lacking, it is a case of inherent lack of jurisdiction". Either the appeal from such order must have been filed on or before 30.06.2019 or the limitation to file that appeal must have expired (at the time of filing the declaration). In the present case, neither condition was fulfilled on 31.12.2019. Therefore the (second) declaration filed by the petitioners arising from the adjudication order dated 30.12.2019 was non-est. It was not maintainable in law. It was entertained and a demand of EAP dated 17.01.2020 was raised thereon, without any jurisdiction. (Para 25)

Writ petition partly allowed, with direction upon the Designated Committee. Challenge to adjudication order dated 30.12.2019 not entertained. (Para 27, 28)

Writ petition partly allowed. (E-4)

Present petition assails estimate on the Form SVLDRS-2 dated 04.12.2019 and adjudication order dated 30.12.2019.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Naheed Ara Moonis, J.
Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal Singh, J.)

1. Heard Shri Nishant Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners and Shri Ramesh Chandra Shukla, learned counsel for the Revenue. Shri Shukla has placed on record the written instructions received by him. The same has been marked as "X' and retained on record.

2. Present petition has been filed to challenge the estimate furnished to the petitioners on the Form SVLDRS-2 dated 04.12.2019, under the Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Scheme'), to the extent, the Estimate Amount Payable ('EAP' in short) has been determined at Rs. 70,11,055.50 against total disputed "tax dues' taken at Rs. 1,40,22,111/-. According to the petitioners, the net EAP amount should have been computed at Rs. 15,37,816.00 against the total disputed "tax dues' Rs. 80,75,626/- only, after adjusting the amount of Rs. 25,00,000/- pre-deposited by the petitioners to maintain their appeals, filed earlier. A further consequential mandamus has been sought, effectively to issue the final SVLDRS-3, etc. Last, challenge has been raised to the adjudication order dated 30.12.2019 passed, pending the proceedings under the Scheme.

3. Undisputedly, the petitioners were earlier issued a Show Cause Notice dated 05.06.2015 proposing a demand of central excise duty, Rs. 1,40,22,111/-, under the Central Excise Act, 1944 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'). That proceeding culminated in the Order-in-Original dated 26.09.2016. Thereby, the central excise duty demand was confirmed at Rs. 80,75,626/- only. Thus, the central excise demand, Rs. 59,46,648/-, as proposed by the Show Cause Notice dated 5.6.2015 was not confirmed by the Adjudicating Authority under the Act. Against the order dated 26.09.2016, the two petitioners filed their individual appeals before the Customs, Excise and Service Tax Appellate Tribunal (in short 'CESTAT'). Those two appeals came to be allowed vide order dated 15.05.2019. The order dated 26.09.2016 was set aside and the adjudication proceedings remitted to the Adjudicating Authority. That order attained finality and the adjudication proceedings became pending (in remand).

4. In that fact background, on 01.09.2019, the Central Government introduced the Scheme by Finance (No.2) Act, 2019. The petitioner no.1 filed its (first) declaration under the Scheme, on 30.10.2019, disclosing disputed "tax dues' Rs. 80,75,626/-, under the case category 'Litigation'.

5. It is the case of the petitioners that in the proceeding before the Designated Committee (under the Scheme), respondent no.3 was a member and simultaneously, he was the Adjudicating Authority under the Act - with respect to the Show Cause Notice dated 05.06.2015 (upon remand). Further, despite the order of the CESTAT dated 15.05.2019, the Designated Committee, at the insistence of respondent no.3 sought to treat the entire proposed demand (under Show Cause Notice dated 05.06.2015) Rs.1,40,22,111/- as the 'tax dues' under the Scheme. This prompted the petitioner no. 1 to file a Clarification Application before the CESTAT, on 1.11.2019, with respect to its final order dated 15.05.2019.

6. While that Clarification Application filed by the petitioners was pending, on 4.12.2019 itself, the Designated Committee (under the Scheme) disagreed with the computation of 'tax dues' and EAP disclosed by the petitioners on the (first) SVLDRS-1. It issued an estimate of 'tax dues' to the petitioners on the (first) Form SVLDRS-2 computing the EAP at Rs. 70,11,055.50, based on the excise duty liability Rs. 1,40,22,111/-, as proposed vide the Show Cause Notice dated 05.06.2015. The petitioners did not agree to the demand of EAP thus made. Thereupon, undeniably, the Designated Committee issued a notice dated 05.12.2019, fixing the date 06.12.2019, for final hearing. Accordingly, the petitioners filed their written objections/arguments dated 09.12.2019 and 26.12.2019. These facts and documents are on record. They have not been denied by the revenue. Some hearing also appears to have taken place. However, no final demand of EAP on SVLDRS-3, was issued by the Designated Committee.

7. While that proceeding remained thus pending, the Clarification Application filed by petitioner no. 1 came to be allowed by the Tribunal, on 7.1.2020. The Tribunal clarified that the subject matter of adjudication proceedings (in remand), pending before the Adjudicating Authority, was only with respect to the proposed demand Rs.80,75,626/-, as no appeal had been filed by the revenue against the Order-in-Original dated 26.09.2016.

8. On 30.12.2019, respondent no.3 passed the Order-in-Original, ostensibly in compliance of the Tribunal's order dated 15.5.2019 and adjudicated the Show Cause Notice dated 5.6.2015, on merits. It confirmed the disputed duty liability of the petitioner at Rs. 80,75,626/- and dropped the duty liability to the extent Rs. 59,46,648/-.

9. The Scheme that was to originally expire on 31.12.2019, was extended by the Central Government up to 15.01.2020. On 31.12.2019, the petitioner no.1 filed a (second) declaration disclosing the "tax dues' Rs.80,75,626/-, under the case category 'Arrears'. The (second) declaration filed was also processed by the Designated Committee and accordingly, on 17.01.2020, a second estimate of EAP was issued to the petitioner on form SVLDRS-2, computing that demand at Rs. 58,45,379.20. Admittedly, the petitioner no.1 did not deposit the amount of EAP estimated on (first) form SVLDRS-2 issued on 4.12.2019 [against the (first) declaration], or on 17.01.2020 [against the (second) declaration].

10. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is: (i) in view of the Order-in-Original dated 29.06.2016 read with the order of the Tribunal dated 15.05.2019 and the further order dated 07.01.2020, the 'tax dues' pending adjudication were only Rs.80,75,626/-. Therefore, the EAP could be computed on that amount alone, under the case category 'Litigation'; (ii) since the (first) SVLDRS-2 was issued on 04.12.2019, respondent no.3 could not have passed the adjudication order on 30.12.2019; (iii) last, it has been submitted, the fact that petitioner no.1 filed its (second) declaration would be of no consequence and, in any case, it did not prejudice the rights of the petitioners arising under the (first) declaration, that had to be considered on its own merits.

11. The petition has been vehemently opposed by learned counsel for the revenue. He would contend, there is no error in the issuance of either of the two forms SVLDRS-2 and that the rights of the petitioners would be determined and governed by the proceedings on the second declaration filed by the petitioner no.1. The proceeding arising from the (first) declaration stood withdrawn or not pressed upon the petitioner no.1 filing and pursuing the (second) declaration. Since, the petitioners have not complied with either of the SVLDRS-2 issued to them, the writ petition lacks merit.

12. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, we proceed to consider the second submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, first. The Scheme does not contain any express provision to stay a pending adjudication proceeding, by way of a legal effect/fiction arising from any declaration filed thereunder. Second, neither the petitioners nor the revenue challenged the earlier order of the Tribunal dated 15.05.2019 and there was no specific stay order operating against the same, in any proceeding.

13. Therefore, the proceedings in remand, arising under that order did not suffer from any inherent lack of jurisdiction or authority. At the same time, by necessary implication, springing from section 127(5)1 of the Scheme, the petitioner no. 1 had time till 03.01.2020 to deposit the net EAP amount communicated to it vide the (first) SVLDRS-2, issued on 04.12.2019, or to object to the same under section 127(3)2 read with section 127(4)3 of the Scheme. If deposited, it would foreclose the decision in the pending adjudication proceeding. It is so, because, under section 127(6)4 of the Scheme, upon that deposit made in compliance of the EAP demand, the reply filed by the petitioner no. 1 to the Show Cause Notice dated 05.06.2015 would stand withdrawn, on deemed basis.

14. Then, under section 1235 read with section 1246 and section 121(c)7 of the Scheme, the computation of the "tax dues' and consequently determination of the EAP would depend on the case category "Litigation' or "Arrears'. The computation of the EAP under "Litigation' i.e. pending adjudication case category, would be substantially lower than that computed under the "Arrears' category. There is a complete absence of any statutory intent to allow for change of case category from "Litigation' to "Arrears' or to redetermine of the "tax dues' and EAP upon an adjudication order coming into existence during the pendency of proceedings under the Scheme. Therefore, once the petitioner had (rightly) filed the (first) declaration on 10.10.2019 under the case category "Litigation', determination of the EAP amount would be governed accordingly. It cannot be changed, thereafter.

15. Also, by virtue of section 127(8)8 read with Section 129(1)(a)9 of the Scheme, any demand of duty, even if created in the meanwhile, would not survive the issue of the Discharge Certificate. Again, issue of that certificate is a mandatory consequence of, deposit of the EAP amount.

16. Therefore, if the adjudication proceedings is allowed to continue and be concluded during the pendency of a Discharge Certificate proceeding, arising from a valid declaration filed under the Scheme, it would defeat the declaration made and, therefore, defeat the object of reform i.e. to end "legacy disputes'. Therefore, the proceedings under the Scheme must necessarily take precedence over the regular adjudication proceedings under the Act.

17. In view of that implied overriding effect arising to the Discharge Certificate (issued under section 127(8)8 of the Scheme), over the duty, interest and penalty, determined under the Act and; the limited time of ninety (90) days (from the date of filing of the declaration), contemplated under the Scheme, to conclude the proceedings - to issue that Discharge Certificate, there is inherent logic and purpose in the nature of things arising under the Scheme, as may commend to the Adjudicating Authority and or the Appeal Authority, as the case maybe to not conclude such proceeding before expiry of the time granted to deposit the EAP, under the relevant SVLDRS-2. In Writ Tax No. 832 of 2020, M/s Jay Shree Industries Vs. Union of India & Anr, decided on 06.08.2021, we have opined that the Scheme is a piece of reform legislation. In that case, relying on R.E.M.S. Abdul Hameed v. Govindaraju & Ors. (1999) 4 SCC 663, we have looked at the intention of the legislature to interpret the meaning of the word "penalty' appearing in Section 129(1)(a)9 of the Scheme. Here also, if we allow the Adjudicating Authority to conclude an adjudication proceeding during the pendency of a Discharge Certificate proceeding, it would run contrary to the intention of the Scheme to bring an end to the disputes under the Act. Any interpretation given to the Scheme as may defeat its purpose and object of the reform, must therefore be rejected. A purposive interpretation must therefore be adopted.

18. Then, under section 127(5)1 read with Rule 6(2)10 of the Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme Rules, 2019 (hereinafter referred to as the Rules), only that amount could be paid by the petitioner, electronically, as may be first communicated to it by the Designated Committee, on form SVLDRS-3. Here, under the (first) SVLDRS-2 form dated 04.12.2019, that time existed till 03.01.2020. Moreover, upon notice for hearing issued on 05.12.2019 and upon the objections filed by the petitioner on 09.12.2019 and 26.12.2019 and in view of the date of hearing fixed for 06.12.2019, that time did not run out since the Designated Committee failed to issue the mandatory final demand of EAP on SVLDRS-3 under section 127 (4)3 of the Scheme read with Rule 6(2)10 of the Rules, on or before 29.12.2019 or thereafter. The statute having prescribed the manner to raise the demand of EAP and to pay that amount by a particular method, it could not have been demanded or paid otherwise. That rule stands long settled since a four Judge Supreme Court decision in Patna Improvement Trust Vs. Smt. Lakshmi Devi, AIR 1963 SC 1077.

19. For the above reasons and in absence of any statutory risk to the adjudication proceedings being hit by any rule of limitation, those proceedings should necessarily have been kept in abeyance till the conclusion of the proceedings under the Scheme. We cannot contemplate, what useful purpose could be served by continuing and concluding the adjudication proceeding during the pendency of the proceedings arising upon filing of the (first) declaration on SVLDRS-1, under the Scheme, on 30.10.2019. In fact, by their conduct the authorities under the Act could not have defeated the object of an otherwise valid proceedings under the Scheme.

20. That said, we are unable to reach a conclusion that the respondent no. 3 lacked inherent jurisdiction to pass the Order-in-Original dated 30.12.2019. As discussed above, we conclude that the said order was tainted with impropriety, to the extent that order was passed during thirty (30) days from issuance of the SVLDRS-2 on 04.12.2019. Therefore, in the first place, it could not have been enforced till 03.01.2020, in view of the language of section 127(2)11 and section 127(5)1 of the Scheme.

21. Thus, till 03.01.2020, the Order-in-Original dated 30.12.2019 remained in a state of suspended animation. Thereafter, it has continued in that state, till date. It is so, since, as noted above, the petitioner disputed the computation of "tax dues' and filed written objections/arguments to the EAP demanded on the (first) SVLDRS-2 dated 04.12.2019. In view of those objections filed and by virtue of sections 127(3)2 and 127(4)3 of the Scheme, the Designated Committee was obligated to deal with the same and necessarily raise an appropriate final demand of EAP, on SVLDRS-3, preferably on or before 29.12.2019.

22. That is so, since the Designated Committee fixed the date of post-decisional hearing on 06.12.2019 and entertained written objections dated 09.12.2019 and 26.12.2019, yet, it did not pass any order on those written objections/arguments filed by the petitioner. It also did not issue the revised/final statement in electronic form, being SVLDRS-3 under section 127(4)3 of the Scheme read with Rule 6(2)10 of the Rules. Since no communication was made to the petitioners on SVLDRS-3, the time provided under section 127(5)1 of the Scheme has not started running, yet. Therefore, the proceedings arising from the (first) declaration filed by the petitioner dated 30.10.2019 are still pending under the Scheme.

23. In absence of any consequence of abatement etc. being prescribed either by the Scheme or the Rules, the time limit of sixty (60) days under section 127(4)3 of the Scheme is purely directory. The statutory authority/Designated Committee having failed to act within time contemplated under the Scheme, it cannot escape its obligation - to issue the appropriate final demand of EAP on form SVLDRS-3. This conclusion we base on the principle enunciated by the Supreme Court in Sharif-Ud-din Vs. Abdul Gani Lone, (1980) SCC 403 that in absence of consequences being provided, the time limit/provisions would remain directory.

24. Therefore, the Designated Committee continues to be obliged to issue the final demand of EAP on form SVLDRS-3. That not done, the Order-in-Original, though it exists, continues in a state of animated suspension. It has not come to life. It cannot be given effect to. It confers no enforceable rights or obligations, at present. Only, if the petitioners fail to deposit the final EAP amount that may be demanded within thirty (30) days of issue of the demand on form SVLDRS-3, by the Designated Committee, the said order may come to life (in future) and become enforceable with rights of recovery and appeal etc., at that stage, in that contingency, only. Therefore, at present, EAP may be computed only on the basis of the (first) declaration on SVLDRS-1 dated 30.10.2019.

25. Coming to the third submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, the (second) declaration filed by the petitioner, arising from the Order-in-Original dated 30.12.2019 first, as discussed above, even today, that order continues in a state of animated suspension, on account of the continued pendency of the(first) declaration filed on SVLDRS-1 dated 30.10.2019 filed by the petitioners. It serves no practical or legal purpose, at present. Therefore, it could not have given rise to the (second) declaration on form SVLDRS-1, filed on 31.12.2019. Even otherwise, by virtue of the section 121(c)(i)7 read with section 123(a)(i)5 of the Scheme, the cut-off date 30.06.2019 exists - to file a declaration with respect to any order that may have been passed upon conclusion of adjudication proceedings under the Act. Either the appeal from such order must have been filed on or before 30.06.2019 or the limitation to file that appeal must have expired (at the time of filing the declaration). In the present case, neither condition was fulfilled on 31.12.2019. Therefore the (second) declaration filed by the petitioners arising from the adjudication order dated 30.12.2019 was non-est. It was not maintainable in law. Thus, the (second) declaration, though filed by the petitioners, causes no legal effect. It was entertained and a demand of EAP dated 17.01.2020 was raised thereon, without any jurisdiction. It must therefore be ignored, notwithstanding the contention of the petitioners that it was filed by way of abundant caution. The principle "competence of a court to try a case goes to the very root of the jurisdiction, and where it is lacking, it is a case of inherent lack of jurisdiction", laid down by a Constitutional Bench of the Supreme Court in Hiralal Patni Vs. Sri Kali Nath, AIR 1962 SC 199, in the context of regular civil proceedings applies with equal force to the present quasi-judicial proceeding.

26. As to the first submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, in view of the discussion made above, first, we are of the view, once a valid (first) declaration dated 30.10.2019 had been filed on SVLDRS-1, it had to be processed by the Designated Committee. In fact, that Committee did not accept the petitioner's disclosure thus made. Accordingly, it issued demand of EAP on SVLDRS-2 on 04.12.2019 and fixed 06.12.2019 as the date for the post-decisional hearing, in terms of section 127(3)2 of the Scheme. The Designated

Committee also took on record written objections/arguments filed by the petitioners dated 09.12.2019 and 26.12.2019 and it also appears to have heard the matter at some length. However, it did not discharge its statutory obligation and it did not respond to the same as mandated under section 127(4)3 of the Scheme. Having failed to issue the revised EAP demand on form SVLDRS-3, the (first) declaration of SVLDRS-1 (filed by the petitioners on 30.10.2019) is still pending. Since, the matter is still pending before the Designated Committee, we are not required to answer the question of determination of the EAP, at this stage.

27. In view of the above, we allow the writ petition, in part, with a direction upon the Designated Committee to necessarily consider the written objections/arguments filed by the petitioners dated 09.12.2019 and 26.12.2019, in response to the SVLDRS-2 dated 04.12.2019 and to issue the appropriate final demand of net EAP on form SVLDRS-3 to the petitioners within a period of thirty (30) days from the date of communication of this order, after hearing the parties and considering their respective contentions as to computation of the correct EAP amount. All further rights and liabilities will arise and be governed accordingly.

28. For reasons, given above, there is no occasion to entertain the writ petition with respect to the challenge raised to the adjudication order dated 30.12.2019, at this stage. To that extent, interference is declined.

29. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed in part. No order as to costs.

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Nishant Mishra, Sri Tanmay Sadh, Sri Rahul Agarwal, Sri Navin Sinha (Senior Adv.)

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Tax Law – Input tax credit - Warehouse (Development and Regulation) Act, 2007 - Erstwhile Central Excise Rules, 2002 - Rule 10 - GST Act, 2017 - Section 35 - Central Goods and Services Tax Rules, 2017 - Rules 56 & 57 - SGST Act, 2017 - Sections 17 & 108 - Uttar Pradesh Goods and Services Tax Rules, 2017 - U.P. Krishi Utpadan Mandi Niyamawali, 1965 - Rule 50A - CGST Act - Section 49(4) - Central Excise Rules, 1944 - Rule 57-F - Bombay Municipal Corporation Act, 1888 - Section 314.

SGST Rules, 2017 - Rule 86A - The rule is based on "reason to believe". "Reason to believe" must have a rational connection with or relevant bearing on the formation of the belief. It is a subjective term and can be interpreted differently by different individuals. (Para 33)

The powers, as conferred u/Rule 86A, could not have been exercised merely on the ground that an inquiry has been initiated as there is a suspicion that the transactions were sham. (Para 30, 57)

Rule 109 of the SGST Rules, 2017 provides for service of notice in Form GST RVN-01 before an order u/s 108 is passed and exhaustive procedure is given therein, which requires documents to be enclosed specifying the grounds on the basis of which the revisional jurisdiction is sought to be exercised. Contrarily, the notice dated 07.05.2021 was in fact issued without any ground on the basis of which it could be said that there was no material or record available before the respondent No. 3 (Commissioner, Commercial Tax) for exercising jurisdiction u/s 108. Respondent No. 3 has assumed the jurisdiction u/s 108 merely on the basis of letter sent by the respondent No. 4, without calling for and examining the record of the Appeal filed by the petitioner company. (Para 57)

Once the supervisory power is being exercised in absence of relevant record merely on the basis of certain noting, which is forwarded to the revisional authority for exercising the powers it is sheer misuse of the power. In the present matter, admittedly without summoning the record the notice was prepared by the subordinate officers in which two options were indicated to the revisional authority with an observation that in case second option is approved, accordingly stay order may be prepared. This may not be intention of the legislature while incorporating the said feature. The said practice cannot be accepted by this Court. (Para 60)

The order impugned has been passed in absence of record and the revenue authority has proceeded to endorse on the dotted line, which has been submitted by the subordinate officer. Even though, the appellate order was appealable, which clearly reflects that said action is contrary to the procedures contained therein. (Para 61)

B. SGST Act, 2017 - Section 108 – Jurisdiction – The jurisdiction u/s 108 can be exercised by the revisional authority on his own motion and upon information received by him or on request of Commissioner of Central Tax. The pre-conditions to the exercise of this powers were two folds, namely, error in the order passed by an officer subordinate to the revisional authority and prejudicial to the interest of revenue. The revisional authority had to call for the records, he had to examine such records, he had to be satisfied regarding fulfillment of the above two conditions and thereafter give opportunity to the assessee of being heard and on making appropriate inquiry the revisional authority is empowered to pass appropriate orders. In the present matter, admittedly the respondent No. 3 has neither served any notice nor granted opportunity of hearing to the petitioner before passing the impugned order. (Para 35, 36)

C. Natural Justice and jurisdiction u/s 108 - Rules of "natural justice" are not embodied rules. The phrase "natural justice" is also not capable of a precise definition. The underlying principle of natural justice, evolved under the common law, is to check arbitrary exercise of power by the State or its functionaries. Therefore, the principle implies a duty to act fairly, i.e. fair play in action. These rules can operate only in areas not covered by any law validly made. They do not supplant the law but supplement it. (Para 47)

An administrative order or decision in matters involving civil consequences, has to be made consistently with the rules of natural justice. The concept of natural justice is invariably read into administrative actions involving civil consequences, unless the statute, conferring power, excludes its application by express language. (Para 49)

Every quasi-judicial order must be supported by reasons. The rule requiring reasons to be given in support of an order is, like the principle of audi alteram partem, a basic principle of natural justice which must inform every quasi-judicial process and this rule must be observed in its proper spirit and mere pretence of compliance with it would not satisfy the requirement of law. (Para 55)

The order must be supported by reasons but unfortunately the revisional authority/ Commissioner did not choose to give reasons in support of order passed by him. This was in plain disregard to the requirement of law. The said order does not satisfy the requirement of law. Therefore, the said action cannot be accepted. (Para 61)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Present petition assails order dated 26.03.2021, passed by Commissioner, Commercial Tax, U.P. Lucknow.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mahesh Chandra Tripathi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Navin Sinha, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Nishant Mishra and Shri Rahul Agarwal for the petitioner company and Shri Bipin Kumar Pandey, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. This writ petition has been filed by M/s North End Food Marketing Pvt. Ltd. against the order dated 26.3.2021 passed by the respondent no.3/Commissioner, Commercial Tax, U.P. Lucknow by which he has accepted the proposal for revision submitted by the Additional Commissioner, Grade-1, Commercial Tax, Moradabad Zone, Moradabad and stayed the effect and operation of the order dated 10.3.2021 passed by the Additional Commissioner, Grade-II (Appeal)-1st, Commercial Tax, Moradabad, wherein, the appeal filed by the assessee/petitioner company was allowed and decision of the respondent no.5/Deputy Commissioner, Sector-1, State Tax, Chandausi, Sambhal (Assessing Officer), communicated to the petitioner vide e-mails dated 23.7.2020 & 06.8.2020 for blocking of credit, was set aside.

3. The petitioner is a company incorporated under the provisions of the erstwhile Companies Act, 1956 having its unit at Shaktinagar, Chandausi, District Sambhal, U.P.. It is a subsidiary company of M/s Sohanlal Commodity Management Pvt. Ltd1 dealing in the business of procuring commodities on behalf of its customers on Pan India basis, storing such commodities in the warehouses owned and operated by SCMPL and thereafter supplying such commodities to different persons on the instructions of the customers. The SCMPL is primarily engaged in providing warehousing services for which it is registered under the provisions of the Warehouse (Development and Regulation) Act, 2007. On account of multiplicity of operations, the petitioner company maintains its books of account electronically in a centralized system prescribed under Rule 10 of the erstwhile Central Excise Rules, 2002 and Section 35 of the GST Act read with Rules 56 & 57 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Rules, 20172.

4. The petitioner is mainly dealing in "Mentha" oil in the State of Uttar Pradesh and is dul y registered under the provisions of U.P. Value Added Tax Act, 20083. The petitioner availed the credit of input tax paid on the purchases made from the dealers registered in the State of Uttar Pradesh in accordance with the provisions of UPVAT Act and after deducting the same from the output tax payable, discharged the net tax liability as per provisions contained in UPVAT Act. After enactment of Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 20174 and U.P. Goods and Services Tax Act, 20175 the petitioner was allotted GSTIN No.09AABCN9927F1Z6 on 23.6.2018.

5. Section 16 in Chapter-V of SGST Act provides for eligibility and condition for taking input tax credit. The expressions "input tax", "input tax credit" and "output tax" have been defined in clauses (62) & (63) of Section 2 of the SGST Act, which read as under:-

"Sec. 2 (62) "Input Tax" in relation to a registered person, means the central tax, State tax, integrated tax or union territory tax charged on any supply of goods or services or both made to him and includes;-

a) the integrated goods and service tax charged on import of goods;

b) the tax payable under the provision of sub-section (3) & (4) of Section 9;

c) the tax payable under the provision of sub-section (3) & (4) of Section 5 of Integrated Goods and Service Tax Act (13 of 2017); or

(d) the tax payable under the provision of sub-sections (3) & (4) of Section 9 of Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 but does not include tax paid under the composition levy;

Sec. 2(63) "Input Tax Credit" mean the credit of input tax;

Sec.2 (82) "output tax" in relation to a taxable person, means the tax chargeable under this Act on taxable supply of goods or services or both made by him or by his agent but excludes tax payable by him on reverse charge basis."

6. Section 16 (1) provides that every registered person shall, subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be prescribed and in the manner specified in Section 49, be entitled to take credit of input tax charged on any supply of goods or services or both to him, which are used or intended to be used in the course or furtherance of his business and the said amount shall be credited to the electronic credit ledger of such person. Sub-section (2) provides that no registered person shall be entitled to take input tax credit unless he is in possession of a tax invoice, debit note or any other prescribed duty paying documents and he has received the goods or services or both. Section 17 of SGST Act provides for apportionment of credit and blocked credits. Sub-sections (1), (2), (3) & (4) provide for restricted credit, whereas sub-section (5) provides for circumstances in which credit is not admissible. Sub-section (6) confers powers on Government to prescribe the manner in which credits referred to in sub-section (1) and (2) may be attributed. Section 49 provides that every deposit made towards tax, interest, penalty, fee etc. shall be credited to the electronic cash ledger, whereas input tax credit as self-assessed in the return of registered person shall be credited to his electronic credit ledger. Section 49 also provides that the amount available in the electronic cash ledger may be used for making any payment towards output tax in such manner and subject to such conditions and within such time, as may be prescribed.

7. Section 164 confers power on the State Government to make rules for carrying out the provisions of the Act and in exercise of such powers, 'Uttar Pradesh Goods & Services Tax Rules, 20176 were notified by the State Government. Chapter-V of the UPGST Rules provides for 'Input Tax Credit'. Rule 36 (1) provides for the documents on the basis of which input tax credit shall be availed, whereas Rule 36 (3) provides that no input tax credit shall be availed in respect of any tax that has been paid in pursuance of any order where demand has been confirmed on account of any fraud, willful misstatement or suppression of facts. Rule 37 provides for reversal of input tax credit in case of non-payment of consideration by recipient to supplier. Rule 86 provides that electronic credit ledger shall be maintained in Form G.S.T.P.M.T.-02 for each registered person eligible for input tax credit on the common portal and every claim of input tax credit shall be credited to the said ledger. The SGST Act and SGST Rules contain a complete code regarding eligibility conditions to take credit of input tax, manner in which such credit can be taken and also the manner in which such credit can be utilised for making payment towards output tax.

8. The Mentha oil, in which the petitioner company is trading, is extracted from Mentha herbs, which is grown in different districts of Uttar Pradesh. When the crop is ripened the farmers take the herbs to the distillation plants where Mentha oil is extracted. Then such farmers sell this oil to different registered dealers, who in turn supply the same to the petitioner company after issuing the tax invoice and E-way bill. The Mentha oil is an agricultural produce as defined under the U.P. Krishi Utpadan Mandi Adhiniyam, 1964 and hence, exit of specified agricultural produce from market area requires issuance of gate pass in Form V-A by the Market Committee under Rule 50A of U.P. Krishi Utpadan Mandi Niyamawali, 1965 as well as issuance of bill in Form IXR by the seller to the purchaser. Thus, the supply of Mentha oil is permissible only after issuance of gate pass by the Market Committee in Form V-A and bill in Form-9R by the supplier.

9. The petitioner company purchased Mentha oil from various suppliers on the strength of tax invoice issued by such suppliers. Since the petitioner is using warehousing services provided by SCMPL at different locations, hence e-way bills were also generated for movement of goods from the supplier's place to the warehouses operated by SCMPL. Such supply was also supported with gate pass in Form V-A issued by the Market Committee and bill in Form 9R by the supplier. Upon receipt of Mentha oil at warehouses of SCMPL, three samples are drawn for testing quality/properties of Mentha oil. After receipt of test reports, Mentha oil is warehoused, after making appropriate entry in stock register maintained at warehouses. The Mentha oil are not brought to the branches of petitioner situated within the State of U.P. The petitioner company maintains books of accounts electronically online and details of goods purchased and sold by the petitioner are also available at the warehouses operated by SCMPL.

10. During the period of 2018-19 the petitioner purchased Mentha oil from different suppliers including M/s Jai Balaji Trading Company. The purchases made from M/s Jai Balaji Trading Company during the period 2018-19 were to the tune of Rs.20188.39 lacs (inclusive of SGST & CGST). The Mentha oil so purchased was later on sold by the petitioner to different purchasers. The petitioner disclosed the input tax credit of Rs.1211.30 lakhs each of CGST & SGST in its returns as self-assessed and the same was credited to the electronic credit ledger of the petitioner in accordance with provisions of Section 49 of SGST/CGST Act. M/s Jai Balaji Trading Company made a cash payment of Rs.5,83,15,039/- to the Government exchequer from September, 2017 to March, 2019. The petitioner also made a cash payment of Rs.11,86,94,500/- apart from the adjustment of input tax credit against his output tax liability.

11. On 13.09.2019 the warehouses of SCMPL situated at Chandausi and Barabanki were searched by the officers of State tax, wherein 133 drums of Mentha oil kept at Chandausi warehouses were seized. On the same day, 1397 drums of Mentha oil at Barabanki Warehouse of SCMPL belonging to six firms were also detained and prohibited for disposal after issuance of an order in Form GST INS-03. 161 drums of Mentha oil belonging to the petitioner were seized by the Deputy Commissioner (Special Investigation Branch), Unit-B, Ayodhya on 28.2.2020. It is pertinent to mention here that 1236 drums belonging to five firms had been released prior to the said seizure without realizing any tax or penalty. Various electronic devices alongwith 15 loose papers and various other documents were seized from the warehouse at Barabanki on 13.9.2019 and nothing adverse has been communicated to the petitioner from these seized materials. Hence, these documents should have been returned to the petitioner within 30 days as per provision of sub-section (3) of Section 67 of the SGST Act. Except a few electronic devices, which were returned in July 2020, no other documents have been returned to the petitioner despite repeated requests. Out of the seized documents, a regular book in the Form of 9R (Exhibit No.2) was seized which reflected all the regular and daily inward supplies of the petitioner. Stock register of warehouse (Exhibit No.3) was seized, wherein details of stock was recorded. After investigation, no discrepancy was found by the concerned officer. All the entries were verified from the arrival stock register of Mandi Samiti and nothing adverse has been communicated to the petitioner. The department was informed on 05.9.2019 that 133 drums of Mentha oil of the petitioner were lying at the Chandausi warehouse and as such, the said stock was not suppressed and the same was seized on 13.9.2019 treating it as out of books or undisclosed.

12. The warehouse of SCMPL at Barabanki informed to the Commercial Tax Department at Ayodhya on 05.9.2019 that 161 drums of the petitioner were lying at the warehouse and despite this disclosure the same stock was seized on 28.2.2020. The petitioner through its authorized representative appeared on every occasion, whenever he was summoned either at Moradabad or at Ayodhya. The search was conducted on 13.9.2019 at all the places and the petitioner submitted its detailed explanation on 21.9.2019. On 04.12.2019 the entire details relating to outward supplies of Mentha oil made by the petitioner including the ledger account, e-way bills, 9R Forms, gate passes, invoices, bank transactions, were made available to the officers of State tax and after submission of these details, out of 1397 drums of Mentha oil detained from the Barabanki warehouse, 1236 drums relating to other parties, were released by the officers of State tax. The summons dated 09.12.2019 under Section 70 of the SGST Act were issued to the officers of the petitioner company requiring their attendance for the purposes of furnishing various documents mentioned in the summon. Adequate responses were furnished by the petitioner on 27.12.2019 and 05.2.2020. Even after furnishing the required details, neither the officers of the State tax were disclosing the 'reason to believe' nor released the seized goods.

13. Aggrieved with the said proceeding, SCMPL alongwith the petitioner earlier approached this Court by preferring Writ Tax No.304 of 2020 (M/s Sohan Lal Commodity Management Pvt. Ltd. and another vs. State of UP and ors) for quashing the proceedings pursuant to the search and seizure operation carried out at the warehouses of M/s Sohan Lal Commodity Management Pvt. Ltd. at Chandausi on 13.09.2019 and on 13.9.2020 and 28.02.2020 at Barabanki. The writ jurisdiction was invoked on the ground that jurisdiction under Section 67 of SGST can be exercised only on the basis of 'reason to believe'. It had been pressed that neither there was evasion of tax or stock nor it was reflected in the books of accounts. Even though repeated requests were made to the officers of the State tax but neither 'reasons to believe' were disclosed nor released the seized good items. The aforesaid writ petition was disposed of by a Division Bench of this Court by an order dated 02.6.2020. Relevant portion of the order is extracted hereinafter:-

"During course of arguments, learned counsel for the petitioners confined his prayer only with respect to prayer no. (b) in the writ petition.

At the very outset, Shri Manish Goyal, learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State has placed before us the judgment and order dated 22nd November, 2019 passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the Case of The State of Uttar Pradesh & Others Versus M/S Kay Pan Fragrance Pvt. Ltd in Civil Appeal No. 8941 of 2019 wherein the Apex Court has interalia observed as follows:-

"There is no reason why any other indulgence need be shown to the assessees, who happen to be the owners of the seized goods. They must take recourse to the mechanism already provided for in the Act and the Rules for release, on a provisional basis, upon execution of a bond and furnishing of a security, in such manner and of such quantum (even upto the total value of goods involved), respectively, as may be prescribed or on payment of applicable taxes, interest and penalty payable, as the case may be, as predicated in Section 67 (6) of the Act. In the interim orders passed by the High Court which are subject matter of assail before this Court, the High Court has erroneously extricated the assessees concerned from paying the applicable tax amount in cash, which is contrary to the said provision.

In our opinion, therefore, the orders passed by the High Court which are contrary to the stated provisions shall not be given effect to by the authorities. Instead, the authorities shall process the claims of the concerned assessee afresh as per the express stipulations in Section 67 of the Act read with the relevant rules in that regard. In terms of this order, the competent authority shall call upon every assessee to complete the formality strictly as per the requirements of the stated provisions disregarding the order passed by the High Court in his case, if the same deviates from the statutory compliances. That be done within four weeks without any exception.

We reiterate that any order passed by the High Court which is contrary to the stated provisions need not be given effect to in respect of all the cases referred in the affidavit by the State Government before this Court and fresh cases which may have been filed or likely to be filed before the High Court in connection with the subject matter of these appeals, by all concerned and are deemed to have been set aside/modified in terms of this order.

In view of this order, all the Writ Petitions pending before the High Court, list whereof has been furnished in the affidavit are deemed to have been disposed of accordingly. We have passed this common order to cover all cases of seizure during the relevant period, to obviate inconsistency in application of Law and also to do away with multiple appeals required to be filed by the State/ assessee to assail the unstatable orders/directions passed by the High Court in subject writ petition(s) referred to in the affidavit filed by the State before this Court.

Accordingly, the appeals are disposed of in the afore stated terms. All pending applications are also disposed of."

Shri Manish Goyal, learned Addl. Advocate General has submitted that the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 provides a complete procedure for release of such goods, as contained in Section 67 of the Act read with Rule 141 of the relevant Rules. It has been further submitted by him that the petitioners should have approached the appropriate authority under Uttar Pradesh Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (in short "the Act") to ventilate their grievance.

Per contra, learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that "Mentha Oil" has been seized in the matter which is perishable in nature but the concerned authority has not yet exercised its power under Section 67 of the Act (in short "the Act, 2017").

While rebutting the contention made by the learned counsel for the petitioners, learned Standing Counsel has stated that "Mentha Oil" is not perishable in nature and it has not been included in the schedule contained in the Notification dated 13th June, 2018 issued by Government of India.

Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, this writ petition is finally disposed of with a direction to the petitioners to make an appropriate application/representation before the concerned authority under the relevant provision of the Act, 2017 ventilating their grievances along with a certified copy of this order enclosing therewith a copy of the writ petition and its Annexures and, if any such application/representation is filed, the concerned authority shall make all endeavour to consider and decide the same by a reasoned and speaking order, after affording opportunity of personal hearing to the petitioners, in accordance with law expeditiously preferably within two weeks from the date of receipt of the said application."

14. The petitioner company was contesting with the respondents in respect of the drums seized from the warehouses of SCMPL by email dated 23.7.2020 sent by Goods and Services Tax network. For the first time, it was transpired to the petitioner through e-mail communication dated 23.7.2020 that the input tax credit available in the electronic credit ledger of the petitioner has been blocked and upon further enquiry, copy of the decision taken by the respondent no.5 was provided to the petitioner on 06.8.2020 informing that input tax credit of Rs.47,40,767/- under the CGST Act and Rs.47,40,767/- under the SGST Act (cumulative Rs.95,11,774/-) was blocked under Rule 86-A of the SGST Rules.

15. Aggrieved with the said decision/order dated 06.8.2020 the petitioner preferred statutory appeal before the Additional Commissioner, Grade-2 (Appeal)-I, State Tax, Moradabad/Appellate Authority and the same was registered as Appeal No.95/20

2019-20. Finally, the appeal was allowed by the Appellate Authority on 10.3.2021 with the following reasoning/findings:-

"(i) For invoking Rule 86A, there must exist reasons to believe that credit available in the electronic credit ledger was fraudulently availed or is ineligible;

(ii) The order dated 23.7.2020 does not disclose any reasons to believe, on the basis of which respondent no.5 has formed opinion that input tax credit was fraudulently availed or was ineligible;

(iii) From the documents submitted by petitioner relating to inward and outward supply, it is factually established that the same contains tax invoice no., date, description of goods, quantity, value, charged SGST & CGST, e-way bill no., no. of 6R & 9R, gate pass no. and vehicle no.. Before treating petitioner as a bogus entity, it was required on the part of respondent no.5 to verify the correctness of such details and reasons to believe that credit was fraudulently availed or was ineligible, could exist only if such details were found to be incorrect;

(iv) However, the decision dated 6.8.2020 does not disclose that the details furnished by petitioner were ever verified. The same was also pointed out to respondent no.5, but no explanation regarding the same was furnished.

(v) On the basis of material on record, it is clear that there was no reason to believe available with respondent no.5 that M/s Jai Balaji Trading Company has not received consideration in respect of outward supply or that the input tax credit availed by petitioner on inward supply was ineligible. The petitioner had disclosed the details of payment worth Rs.226.98 crores made against the outward supplies by Jai Balaji Trading Co. worth Rs.225.89 Crores (including the amount of S.G.S.T. and C.G.S.T after the price settlement). This factual aspect was not rebutted by the respondents.

(vi) On the basis of material available on record, it cannot be said that the inward supply of the petitioner was on the basis of fake invoices;

(vii) Unless and until the details submitted by petitioner are examined and verified after giving opportunity of cross examination, the same cannot be rejected;

(viii) Before blocking input tax credit, concerned authorities have not conducted any enquiry and the decision dated 6.8.2020 has been passed by respondent no.5 in a routine manner only on the basis of letter issued by Deputy Commissioner (SIB), Ayodhya, without verifying the same himself;

(ix) Principle of natural justice also requires that a speaking and reasoned order is passed, but respondent no.5 has passed a non-speaking and non-reasoned order;

(x) There is no requirement under the SGST Act that purchased goods must necessarily be first brought to the business premises and thereafter transported to the warehouse. Such practice is time saving, commercially expedient as warehouse has sophisticated infrastructure to store mentha oil, saves money and quality of mentha oil.

(xi) Adverse inference cannot be drawn if the business premises is found closed during inspection and the registered person cannot be treated as bogus on the said ground."

16. The Appellate Authority, on the basis of aforesaid reasoning/findings, decided the appeal with the findings that before blocking the credit, there was no 'reason to believe' with respondent no.5 that the credit available in the ledger was fraudulently availed or was ineligible. The appeal was allowed and the directions were issued for unblocking of credit of Rs.47,71,007/- of SGST & CGST. However, the order was rectified under Section 161 on the same day i.e. 10.3.2021, wherein the amount of credit was corrected. Although the first appellate order dated 10.3.2021 is an appealable order and the appeal lies against the same before the Appellate Tribunal under Section 112 of the SGST Act but for the reason best known to the respondents, they have not preferred any appeal against the same. Inspite of repeated requests made by the petitioner-company the respondent no.5 had not complied with the directions of the Appellate Authority. Meanwhile, the respondent no.4/Additional Commissioner, Grade-I, Commercial Tax, Moradabad vide letter dated 16.3.2021 informed to the respondent no.3/Commissioner, Commercial Tax, U.P. Lucknow that the order dated 10.3.2021 passed by the Appellate Authority is legally and factually erroneous and as such, the same is required to be revised in the interest of the revenue. The respondent no.4 also requested the respondent no.3 to stay the effect and operation of the order dated 10.3.2021.

17. In this backdrop, Shri Navin Sinha, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner submitted that the respondent no.3, in most arbitrary manner and without application of mind, has passed the impugned order dated 26.3.2021 in complete violation of principles of natural justice. More so, the jurisdiction under Section 108 of the SGST Act can be exercised by the revisional authority on his own motion and upon information received by him or on request of Commissioner of Central Tax, if he considers that any decision or order passed by any officer subordinate to him is erroneous insofar as it is prejudicial to the interest of revenue and illegal or improper or has not taken into account any material facts, he may stay the operation of such decision or order and after giving the person concerned an opportunity of being heard, pass such order, as he thinks just and proper including enhancing or modifying or annulling the decision or order. He submitted that sub-section (2) of Section 108 of SGST Act prohibits exercise of powers under sub-section (1) with an exception contained in the proviso. Sub-section (2) prohibits exercise of revisional powers, if (a) the order has been subjected to an appeal under Section 107 or Section 112 or Section 117 or Section 118; or (b) the period specified under sub-section (2) of Section 107 has not yet expired or more than three years have expired after the passing of the decision or order sought to be revised; or (c) the order has already been taken for revision under this Section at an earlier stage; or (d) the order has been passed in exercise of the powers under sub-section (1). The proviso carves out an exception and provides that the revisional authority may pass an order on any point which has not been raised and decided in an appeal referred to in clause (a) of sub-section (2), before the expiry of period of one year from the date of order in such appeal or before the expiry of period of three years, whichever is later.

18. Shri Sinha would argue that once the word 'order' used in clause (a) refers to 'adjudication order' then such order can be passed by 'Adjudicating Authority'. Thus, the order passed in appeal by the Appellate Authority is not an 'Adjudication Order' and consequently, the same cannot be revised, in view of specific bar under clause (a) of sub-section (2) of Section 108 of SGST Act. It is submitted that under sub-sections (3) and (4) of Section 112 of SGST Act, the Commissioner may call for and examine the record of any appellate authority and may direct any officer subordinate to him to apply to the Appellate Tribunal for determination of such points as may be specified by the Commissioner. In terms of sub-section (4) if the authorised officer makes such application, then such application shall be treated as an appeal against the order passed by the Appellate Authority. Once there is a remedy of appeal provided under the statute against the order under Section 107 then Section 108 cannot be interpreted in a manner so as to confer power of revision against the same order. In this regard, he has placed reliance on the judgment of Supreme Court in Anwar Hasan Khan vs. Mohd. Shafi7, wherein, it was held that statute should be read as a whole and one provision should be read with another provision to make the provision consistent with the object sought to be achieved. The revisional powers can be exercised in respect of orders passed by authorities lower to appellate authority, whereas the order passed in appeal under Section 107 of SGST Act can be challenged before the Appellate Tribunal under Section 112 of SGST Act.

19. Shri Sinha pointed out that the revisional authority has exercised powers under Section 108 (1) and sought to revise the order dated 10.3.2021 passed by the Appellate Authority without calling for and examining the record of Appeal No.GST-95/2020 Year 2019-20. The respondent no.3 had not called for and examined the record of the aforesaid appeal as well as order dated 10.3.2021. The jurisdiction under Section 108 can be exercised only if the twin conditions specified in sub-section (1) of Section 108 are satisfied. The words 'erroneous insofar as it is prejudicial to revenue' have been used in other statutes like Income Tax Act, 1961 and the same has been considered by the Supreme Court in Malabar Industrial Co. Ltd. vs. CIT8, wherein it has been held that twin conditions are required to be satisfied i.e. (i) the order sought to be revised must be erroneous; & (ii) it is prejudicial to the interest of revenue. It is submitted that the impugned order does not record any finding to the effect that the order dated 10.3.2021 passed by the Appellate Authority is erroneous insofar as it is prejudicial to the interest of revenue. On the contrary, in the impugned order the respondent no.3 has only observed that prima facie, there is reason to believe that the order dated 10.3.2021 is improper and prejudiced to the interest of revenue. In absence of any finding to the effect, that the order dated 10.3.2021 is erroneous, the exercise of powers under Section 108 by the respondent no.3 is wholly without jurisdiction. The defect in the said order while invoking revisional powers under Section 108 cannot be cured at a later stage, inasmuch as Section 108 can be invoked only if the circumstances specified in Section 108 exist and once it is invoked, the respondent no.3 is free to pass such order as he thinks just and proper and thus the impugned order suffers from inherent lack of jurisdiction.

20. Shri Sinha further pointed out that every loss of the revenue as a consequence of an order of Assessing Officer cannot be treated as prejudicial to the interest of revenue. An order can be erroneous only when it is based on incorrect assumption of facts and incorrect assumption of law or without applying principles of natural justice or without applying mind. In the present case the Appellate Authority has concluded that there were no reasons to believe with respondent no.5 that credit was fraudulently availed or ineligible. This conclusion is based on findings recorded in the order dated 10.3.2021 to the effect that the reasons to believe must exist for exercise of power under Rule 86-A. Moreover, the order dated 23.7.2020 does not disclose any reasons to believe; before examining documents furnished by the petitioner company, credit was blocked in a routine manner without application of independent mind and statement of third person cannot be relied upon without granting opportunity of cross-examination. The order dated 10.3.2021 passed by the Appellate Authority is neither based on incorrect assumption of facts or law, inasmuch as the entire material facts and relevant law in relation to exercise of power under rule 86A by the respondent no.5 have been considered by the Appellate Authority and adequate opportunities were given to respondent no.5 alongwith senior officers including respondent no.4 to justify his action under Rule 86-A. The observation, that the order dated 10.3.2021 is prejudiced to revenue, is also irrelevant, inasmuch as the requirement of Statute is 'prejudicial to the interest of revenue' and not 'prejudiced to the interest of revenue'. He has placed reliance on the judgments in Malabar Industrial Co. Ltd. vs. CIT9 and CIT v. Max India Ltd.10, in which it was held by the Apex Court that if the Appellate Authority has taken a view to which the respondent no.3 does not agree, the same does not make the order dated 10.3.2021 prejudicial to the interest of revenue unless the order dated 10.3.2021 is, otherwise, sustainable in law.

21. Shri Sinha would argue that in the present case, there is no finding as to show that the order dated 10.3.2021 is unsustainable in law and therefore, the observation of respondent no.3 regarding 'prejudiced to the interest of revenue' is wholly misplaced. The impugned order, being a quasi-judicial order, affects the rights of the petitioner, and it could not be passed on the prima facie opinion. After conducting due enquiry once the Appellate Authority has passed a detailed and reasoned order then the respondent no.3 cannot assume jurisdiction to revise such order simply on the ground that the revenue is not happy with the order and under the garb of revision, the respondent no.3 cannot be allowed to conduct a fishing and roving enquiry in the matter. In this regard, he has placed reliance on the judgments in Paul Mathew & Sons v. CIT11, CIT v. Gabriel India Ltd12; CIT v. Arvind Jewellers13; Sun Beam Auto Limited14, CIT v. Ratlam Coal Ash Co.15, CIT v. Ganpat Ram Bishnoi 152 Taxman16, CIT v. Mehrotra Brothers17 and CIT v. Associated Food Products (P) Ltd.18.

22. He further submitted that the respondent no.3 has neither served any notice nor granted opportunity of hearing to the petitioner before passing the order impugned. Rule 86A could not have been invoked by the respondents during the investigation or inquiry. Rule 86A has prescribed a mandatory procedure to be followed for the purpose of invoking the same. The Rule provides for "reasons to be recorded in writing" for blocking or not allowing the utilization of the ITC. It is argued that the procedure, as prescribed under Rule 86A of the rules, requires two conditions to be satisfied; namely, recording of the reasons in writing by the officer ordering blocking of the ITC and secondly, communication of such reasons to the affected person. It is argued that the bare minimal requirement of the principles of natural justice is recording of reasons and communicating such reasons to the affected party. The impugned action of the respondent no.3 clearly entails civil consequences inasmuch as input tax credit of the petitioner has been blocked. He has also placed reliance on the judgment in Sahara India (Firm) (1) v. CIT19. He has also placed reliance on the RTI reply dated 28.7.2021 issued by the Deputy Commissioner (Administration) and Public Information Officer, Commercial Tax, Moradabad, wherein, it has been informed that the records of the Appellate Authority were neither called for by the office of respondent no.3 nor the same were ever dispatched by the office of the Appellate Authority to the office of the respondent no.3.

23. In such circumstances, referred to above, Shri Sinha prays that there being merit in the writ petition, the same be allowed and the reliefs prayed for in the writ petition may be granted.

24. Per contra, Shri B.K. Pandey, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents has vehemently opposed the writ petition. Shri Pandey submitted that on the basis of Red Flag Data Analysis, Local Information and Reiki of this, it was found that in the business done by the petitioner company the actual value of the goods being displayed 'exchange' is not taking place. There was strong reason to believe that actual supply of goods by the merchant by creating a network can be obtained in large quantities without actual supply of goods. The search of the petitioner company was made on 13.9.2019, wherein, it was found that the company was not found doing business anywhere nor trading books of account were found at the site. From the initial analysis itself, it came to light that certain other firms are selling in huge quantities to the petitioner company. Six firms were also investigated on 22.10.2019 and out of these firms, M/s Jai Balaji Trading Company, Barabanki was not found in existence at its declared business place, whereas, supply of Rs.248.85 crores has been made by the said firm to the petitioner firm. Upon making further investigation it was found that the owner of the said firm is residing in Delhi. On analysis of the information available online, it was found that the rules of SEBI and MCX have been violated and fraud has been done in the guise of online trading by the firm in question.

25. Shri Pandey argued that ITC has been used by showing the purchase of about Rs.250 crores from non-existent firm M/s Jai Balaji Trading Company, whereas, it is clear from the money trail of the bank statement that only Rs.5 crore has been paid against it. In this way, ITC has been obtained through bogus invoices. On analysis of bank account it was also found that the petitioner company paid a fixed amount of Rs.22,500/- per month to the proprietor of M/s Jai Balaji Trading Company, Barabanki. From the money trail of the petitioner's bank statement it was revealed that huge money has been transacted with some suspicious names/firms but on perusal of returns, no purchase/sale was declared from these dealers and most of these firms have been paid a fixed amount every month. The fixed monthly payment to the aforesaid persons makes it clear that these persons are employees of the firm and are on the payrolls, in whose names the trading is done indirectly through MCX online. Moreover, it was also found that Mentha oil was bought and sold by these employees and some other proxy firms indirectly through funding on MCX. The billing to a non-existent firm opened in the name of any of its own employees/persons generated a huge amount of ITC by showing purchases from the same firm in its own name without making actual payment and receiving fake/bogus invoices.

26. It has been submitted that as per SEBI guidelines, only 40 metric tonnes of Mentha were allowed to be bought and sold to any individual in a month and 400 tonnes to a member of MCX. Due to this compulsion the stock positioning was done by the petitioner company by raising a group of persons on the platform of MCX at different time intervals and maximum stock of the future market, which led to a huge jump in the rates of Mentha oil. After initiation of the investigation against the trader in question, the rate of Mentha oil has not reached more than Rs.1300 per kg. The physical delivery of the purchase and sale of online platforms by C Group firms has been shown to Mrs. Abhishek Agarwal, Neetu Gupta and Yash Gupta. In the GST tax regime, these firms are neither registered to act as agents nor are they registered to deal with Mentha oil. On the aforesaid basis, out of the amount available in the credit ledger of the petitioner company, SGST amounting to Rs.4740767.00 and CGST amounting to Rs.4771007.00 i.e. total ITC of Rs.9511774.00 was blocked. As per arrangements made in the Circular dated 03.7.2020, the information regarding blocking of credit was duly sent to the petitioner company by e-mail, wherein the reasons for blocking the credit were mentioned. The said order was assailed by the petitioner company before the First Appellate Officer by preferring Appeal No.GST-95/20/Year 2019-Appeal and the same was allowed by the First Appellate Officer. Against the aforesaid order, the Additional Commissioner Grade-1, Moradabad vide his letter dated 16.3.2021 moved an application for restoration. In compliance thereof, the Commissioner, Commercial Tax vide its order dated 26.3.2021 stayed the effect and operation of the order having found factual wrong and prejudicial to the interest of revenue.

27. Shri Pandey further argued that Section 49 (4) of CGST Act empowers the State Government to determine the conditions for the use of funds available in the credit ledger for payment of any output tax. Section 49 (4) provides that the amount available in the electronic credit ledger may be used for making any payment towards output tax under this Act or under the Integrated Goods and Services Tax Act in such manner and subject to such conditions and within such time, as may be prescribed. Section 16 of the Act determines the eligibility and conditions for claiming input credit and empowers the Government to impose conditions and restrictions through rules. Section 16 (2) of the Act prescribes the entitlement of input credit. It is clear from Section 16 (2) (b) of the Act that there is no entitlement of input credit without receipt of goods or services. In view of the increasing cases of loss to the exchequer through bogus ITC claims on the basis of bogus forms, it was recommended by the GST Council to bring Rule 86A of GST Rules. There is no provision in Rule 86-A to provide an opportunity of being heard before blocking the credit. The restrictions prescribed by Rule-86A are for a limited period and are not in any way contrary to Section 73/74 or any other provisions of the Act. In fact, the ban was imposed for a limited period under Rule 86A. With regard to credit, proceedings are done naturally in due course and there is a legal arrangement to provide proper opportunity of being heard to the registered person concerned at the time of proceeding under Section 73/74. In the investigation, it was found that only paper invoice has been received by the petitioner without receiving the goods. Rule 86A (1) empowers the Commissioner, Commercial Tax, U.P. to authorize the officer subordinate to him to take action under Rule 86A. The Commissioner, Commercial Tax, Uttar Pradesh as the revisional authority vide Circular dated 24.12.2019 has the right to review the decision or order passed under the Act on the grounds mentioned in Section 108 (1). In support of his submission, he has placed reliance on the judgment of Supreme Court in Osram Surya Pvt. Ltd vs. Commissioner of Central Excise, Indore20, wherein it was held that a rule fixing time limit for exercise of a right does not take away any vested right. He has also placed reliance on the judgment in ALD Automative (P) Ltd. vs. CTO21; in which it was held that input credit is in the nature of benefit/concession extended to the dealer under the statutory scheme. The concession can be received by the beneficiary only as per the scheme of the Statute. The same view has been reiterated by the Supreme Court in Jayam & Co. v. Commr.22.

28. Shri Pandey argued that the newly inserted Rule 86A (w.e.f. 26.12.2019) confers power upon the authority concerned to block the ITC, if it is prima facie found that the transactions are fraudulent. He submitted that over a period of time the Government has unearthed many cases of fake input tax credit due to issuance of fake invoices, issuance of invoices without supply and other fraudulent activities which has led to decline in the revenue's exchequer. According to Shri Pandey, to meet with such situations, the Central Government introduced the concept of blocking of input tax credit by way of Rule 86A of the CGST Rules, 2017. In other words, according to Shri Pandey, the object behind the introduction of Rule 86A of the Rules is to curb such fraudulent activities. The supplier of the petitioner company has neither done business from any of his declared place of business nor books of account have been kept at any declared place of business. Therefore, there is sufficient ground to believe that no goods have actually been received by the petitioner company from its supplier M/s Jai Balaji Trading Company Barabanki and only invoices have been received. As per provisions contained in Section 16 (2) (b) the petitioner is not eligible to claim input credit on the basis of the invoices received by the petitioner company. The action in respect of bogus invoices received before implementation of Rule 86A is completely in accordance with the law. The notice has been issued to the petitioner company on 07.5.2021 to appear in the office of Commissioner, Commercial Tax, U.P. on 02.6.2021 for hearing. The order passed by the Appellate Authority under Section 108 of UPGST Act is in consonance with the order of the revisional authority passed by the Appellate Tribunal under Section 113 and the order passed by the High court under Section 117 as well as the order of Hon'ble Apex Court under Section 118. The stay order has been passed by the revisional authority under Section 108 (1) of UPGST.

29. In such circumstances, referred to above, Shri Pandey prays that the present writ petition does not merit any consideration and the same be dismissed.

30. Having heard the learned counsel appearing for the parties and having gone through the materials available on record, the question that falls for consideration is whether pending inquiry or investigation into the allegations of fraudulent transactions with respect to fake/bogus invoices for the purpose of availing the ITC, the respondents could have blocked/debited the input tax credit in the electronic credit ledger of the petitioner company by virtue of the power under Rule 86A of the SGST Rules, which came into force vide Notification dated 05.2.2020 and further the revisional authority has rightly invoked/exercised power under Section 108 and sought to revise order passed by the Appellate Authority without adhering the procedure and especially without calling for and examining the record of the Appeal No.GST-95/2020 Year 2019.

31. Before adverting to the rival submissions made on either side, the Court may first look into the provisions of Rule 86A of the Rules. Rule 86A reads thus;

"86A. Conditions of use of amount available in electronic credit ledger.-

(1) The Commissioner or an officer authorised by him in this behalf, not below the rank of an Assistant Commissioner, having reasons to believe that credit of input tax available in the electronic credit ledger has been fraudulently availed or is ineligible in as much as-

a) the credit of input tax has been availed on the strength of tax invoices or debit notes or any other document prescribed under rule 36-

i. issued by a registered person who has been found non- existent or not to be conducting any business from any place for which registration has been obtained; or

ii. without receipt of goods or services or both; or

b) the credit of input tax has been availed on the strength of tax invoices or debit notes or any other document prescribed under rule 36 in respect of any supply, the tax charged in respect of which has not been paid to the Government; or

c) the registered person availing the credit of input tax has been found non-existent or not to be conducting any business from any place for which registration has been obtained; or

d) the registered person availing any credit of input tax is not in possession of a tax invoice or debit note or any other document prescribed under rule 36,

may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, not allow debit of an amount equivalent to such credit in electronic credit ledger for discharge of any liability under section 49 or for claim of any refund of any unutilised amount.

(2) The Commissioner, or the officer authorised by him under sub-rule

(1) may, upon being satisfied that conditions for disallowing debit of electronic credit ledger as above, no longer exist, allow such debit.

(3) Such restriction shall cease to have effect after the expiry of a period of one year from the date of imposing such restriction.".

32. Having referred to Rule 86A above, the Court may now look into Sections 16 and 108 (1) and (2) of the CGST Act. The same read thus;

"Section 16 - Eligibility and conditions for taking input tax credit

(1) Every registered person shall, subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be prescribed and in the manner specified in section 49, be entitled to take credit of input tax charged on any supply of goods or services or both to him which are used or intended to be used in the course or furtherance of his business and the said amount shall be credited to the electronic credit ledger of such person.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, no registered person shall be entitled to the credit of any input tax in respect of any supply of goods or services or both to him unless,--

(a) he is in possession of a tax invoice or debit note issued by a supplier registered under this Act, or such other tax paying documents as may be prescribed;

(b) he has received the goods or services or both.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this clause, it shall be deemed that the registered person has received the goods or, as the case may be, services-

(i) where the goods are delivered by the supplier to a recipient or any other person on the direction of such registered person, whether acting as an agent or otherwise, before or during movement of goods, either by way of transfer of documents of title to goods or otherwise;

(ii) where the services are provided by the supplier to any person on the direction of and on account of such registered person.;

(c) subject to the provisions of section 41 or section 43A, the tax charged in respect of such supply has been actually paid to the Government, either in cash or through utilisation of input tax credit admissible in respect of the said supply; and

(d) he has furnished the return under section 39:

Provided that where the goods against an invoice are received in lots or installments, the registered person shall be entitled to take credit upon receipt of the last lot or installment:

Provided further that where a recipient fails to pay to the supplier of goods or services or both, other than the supplies on which tax is payable on reverse charge basis, the amount towards the value of supply along with tax payable thereon within a period of one hundred and eighty days from the date of issue of invoice by the supplier, an amount equal to the input tax credit availed by the recipient shall be added to his output tax liability, along with interest thereon, in such manner as may be prescribed:

Provided also that the recipient shall be entitled to avail of the credit of input tax on payment made by him of the amount towards the value of supply of goods or services or both along with tax payable thereon.

(3) Where the registered person has claimed depreciation on the tax component of the cost of capital goods and plant and machinery under the provisions of the Income-tax Act, 1961, the input tax credit on the said tax component shall not be allowed.

(4) A registered person shall not be entitled to take input tax credit in respect of any invoice or debit note for supply of goods or services or both after the due date of furnishing of the return under section 39 for the month of September following the end of financial year to which such invoice or invoice relating to such debit note pertains or furnishing of the relevant annual return, whichever is earlier.

Provided that the registered person shall be entitled to take input tax credit after the due date of furnishing of the return under section 39 for the month of September, 2018 till the due date of furnishing of the return under the said section for the month of March, 2019 in respect of any invoice or invoice relating to such debit note for supply of goods or services or both made during the financial year 2017-18, the details of which have been uploaded by the supplier under sub-section (1) of section 37 till the due date for furnishing the details under sub- section (1) of said section for the month of March, 2019.

Section 108 - Powers of Revisional Authority –

(1) Subject to the provisions of section 121 and any rules made thereunder, the Revisional Authority may, on his own motion, or upon information received by him or on request from the Commissioner of central tax, call for and examine the record of any proceedings, and if he considers that any decision or order passed under this Act or under the central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 by any officer subordinate to him is erroneous in so far as it is prejudicial to the interest of revenue and is illegal or improper or has not taken into account certain material facts, whether available at the time of issuance of the said order or not or in consequence of an observation by the Comptroller and Auditor General of India, he may, if necessary, stay the operation of such decision or order for such period as he deems fit and after giving the person concerned an opportunity of being heard and after making such further inquiry as may be necessary, pass such order, as he thinks just and proper, including enhancing or modifying or annulling the said decision or order.

(2) The Revisional Authority shall not exercise any power under sub-section (1), if (a) the order has been subject to an appeal under section 107 or section 112 or section 117 or section 118; or (b) the period specified under sub-section (2) of section 107 has not yet expired or more than three years have expired after the passing of the decision or order sought to be revised; or (c) the order has already been taken for revision under this section at an earlier stage; or (d) the order has been passed in exercise of the powers under sub-section (1):

Provided that the Revisional Authority may pass an order under sub-section (1) on any point which has not been raised and decided in an appeal referred to in clause (a) of sub-section (2), before the expiry of a period of one year from the date of the order in such appeal or before the expiry of a period of three years referred to in clause (b) of that sub-section, whichever is later."

33. Rule 86A undoubtedly could be said to have conferred drastic powers upon the proper officers if they have reason to believe that the activities or invoices are suspicious. The Rule 86A is based on "reason to believe". "Reason to believe" must have a rational connection with or relevant bearing on the formation of the belief. It is a subjective term and can be interpreted differently by different individuals. The Constitutional validity of Rule 86A of the Rules is not under challenge in the present case and the Court does not intend to test its validity in the absence of any specific challenge to the same. In such circumstances, the Court would confine its adjudication in the present litigation only to the question, whether the respondents could be said to be justified in invoking Rule 86A of the Rules for the purpose of blocking the input tax credit of the petitioner company pending the inquiry as regards the fraudulent transactions.

34. The Rule 86A is in respect of the power and procedure for blocking the input tax credit (ITC) in the electronic credit ledger of a registered person. A bare reading of Section 86A indicates that the Commissioner or an officer authorised by him in this behalf, not below the rank of an Assistant Commissioner, having reasons to believe that credit of input tax available in the electronic credit ledger has been fraudulently availed or is ineligible, may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, not allow debit of an amount equivalent to such credit in electronic credit ledger for discharge of any liability under section 49 or for claim of any refund of any unutilised amount. The invocation of Rule 86A of the Rules for the purpose of blocking the input tax credit may be justified, if the concerned authority or any other authority, empowered in law, is of the prima facie opinion based on some cogent materials that the ITC is sought to be availed based on fraudulent transactions like fake/bogus invoices etc. However, the subjective satisfaction should be based on some credible materials or information and also should be supported by supervening factor. It is not any and every material, howsoever vague and indefinite or distant remote or far-fetching, which would warrant the formation of the belief. The power conferred upon the authority under Rule 86A of the Rules for blocking the ITC could be termed as a very drastic and far-reaching power. Such power should be used sparingly and only on subjective weighty grounds and reasons. The power under Rule 86A of the Rules should neither be used as a tool to harass the assessee nor should it be used in a manner, which may have an irreversible detrimental effect on the business of the assessee. The aspect of availing the credit and utilization of credit are two different stages. The utilization of credit is a vested right. No vested right accrues before taking credit. There needs to be some guidelines or procedure for the purpose of invoking Rule 86A of the Rules. In the absence of the same, Rule 86A could be misused and may have an irreversible and detrimental effect on the business of the person concerned.

35. The jurisdiction under Section 108 of the SGST Act can be exercised by the revisional authority on his own motion and upon information received by him or on request of Commissioner of Central Tax, if he considers that any decision or order passed by any officer subordinate to him is erroneous insofar as it is prejudicial to the interest of revenue and illegal or improper or has not taken into account any material facts, he may stay the operation of such decision or order and after giving the person concerned an opportunity of being heard, pass such order, as he thinks just and proper including enhancing or modifying or annulling the decision or order. In the present matter, admittedly the respondent no.3 has neither served any notice nor granted opportunity of hearing to the petitioner before passing the impugned order.

36. The pre-conditions to the exercise of this powers were two folds, namely, error in the order passed by an officer subordinate to the revisional authority and prejudicial to the interest of revenue. Once these two conditions stood fulfilled, the revisional authority was authorized to give an opportunity to the assessee of being heard and after making such inquiry as he thought fit he could pass appropriate orders as the circumstances of the case would justify. This power was essentially a supervisory power. However, in order to ascertain whether the officer subordinate to him had passed an erroneous order, which was also prejudicial to revenue, the Commissioner was required to call for and examine the record of such proceedings. Therefore, the revisional authority had to call for the records, he had to examine such records, he had to be satisfied regarding fulfilment of the above two conditions and thereafter give opportunity to the assessee of being heard and on making appropriate inquiry the revisional authority is empowered to pass appropriate orders.

37. In Eicher Motors Ltd. vs. Union of India23, the validity and application of the scheme as modified by introduction to Rule 57F (read as 57F (4-A) of the Central Excise Rules, 1944 under which the credit which was lying unutilised on 16th March, 1995 with the manufacturers, stood lapsed in the manner set out therein, was questioned. Paras 4 and 5 of the judgment are quoted hereinafter:-

"4.....As pointed out by us that when on the strength of the rules available certain acts have been done by the parties concerned, incidents following thereto must take place in accordance with the scheme under which the duty had been paid on the manufactured products and if such a situation is sought to be altered, necessarily it follows that right, which had accrued to a party such as availability of a scheme, is affected and, in particular, it loses sight of the fact that provision for facility of credit is as good as tax paid till tax is adjusted on future goods on the basis of the several commitments which would have been made by the assessees concerned. Therefore, the scheme sought to be introduced cannot be made applicable to the goods which had already come into existence in respect of which the earlier scheme was applied under which the assessees had availed of the credit facility for payment of taxes. It is on the earlier scheme necessarily the taxes have to be adjusted and payment made complete. Any manner or mode of application of the said rule would result in affecting the rights of the assessees.

5. We may look at the matter from another angle. If on the inputs the assessee had already paid the taxes on the basis that when the goods are utilised in the manufacture of further products as inputs thereto then the tax on these goods gets adjusted which are finished subsequently. Thus, a right accrued to the assessee on the date when they paid the tax on the raw materials or the inputs and that right would continue until the facility available thereto gets worked out or until those goods existed. Therefore, it becomes clear that Section 37 of the Act does not enable the authorities concerned to make a rule which is impugned herein and, therefore, we may have no hesitation to hold that the rule cannot be applied to the goods manufactured prior to 16.3.1995 on which duty had been paid and credit facility thereto has been availed of for the purpose of manufacture of further goods."

38. As significant reliance has been placed on Eicher Motors Ltd. (supra), the Court may also look into the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of C.C.E vs. Dai Ichi Karkaria Ltd.24. In the said case, the manufacturers purchased raw material and used the same in the manufacture of an intermediate product and, in turn, used the intermediate product in the manufacture of the final product. The raw material and the intermediate product were liable to excise duty and they were specified goods for the purposes of the Modvat Scheme. The assessable value of the intermediate product for the purposes of excise duty in the instant case was admittedly to be determined on the basis of its cost which necessitated the taking into account of the cost of the raw material. The Revenue contended that the excise duty paid by the seller on the raw material was also to be included in the cost of the excisable goods (the intermediate product) in this case. On the other hand, the manufacturers contended otherwise. The Supreme Court rejected the contentions of the Revenue and held in Paras-18 and 19 as under;

"18. It is clear from these rules, as we read them, that a manufacturer obtains credit for the excise duty paid on raw material to be used by him in the production of an excisable product immediately it makes the requisite declaration and obtains an acknowledgment thereof. It is entitled to use the credit at any time thereafter when making payment of excise duty on the excisable product. There is no provisions in the rules which provides for a reversal of the credit by the Excise Authorities except where it has been illegally or irregularly taken, in which event it stands cancelled or, if utilised, has to be paid for. We are here really concerned with credit that has been vaildly taken, and its benefit is available to the manufacturer without any limitation in time or otherwise unless the manufacturer itself chooses not to use the raw material in its excisable product. The credit is, therefore, indefeasible. It should also be noted that there is no correlation of the raw material and the final product; that is to say, it is not as if credit can be taken only on a final product that is manufactured out of the particular raw material to which the credit is related. The credit may be taken against the excise duty on a final product manufactured on the very day that it becomes available.

19. It is, therefore, that in the case of Eicher Motors Ltd. v. Union of India, this Court said that a credit under the Modvat Scheme was "as good as tax paid."

39. With the above principles, it is the claim of the petitioner company that Rule 86A of the Rules extinguishes a vested right which the petitioner had for claiming credit of duty paid on inputs.

40. In the case in hand, Shri Pandey, appearing for the respondents submitted that there is no such requirement that a specific order should be passed assigning, prima facie, reasons to block the input tax credit and communicate the same to the person concerned. Shri Pandey would submit that ordinarily, the reasons are found in the form of notings in the original file, on the basis of which, the Court may be in a position to ascertain the genuineness of the belief formed by the authority. The formation of the opinion by the authority undoubtedly should reflect intense application of mind with reference to the materials available on record that it had become necessary to order blocking of the input tax credit pending the inquiry. (See Bhikhubhai Vithlabhai Patel & Ors. vs. State of Gujarat25).

41. On 12.5.2021, learned counsel appearing for the respondents was asked to get instructions on certain aspects. For ready reference, order passed by this Court on 12.5.2021 is reproduced below:

"Mr. Nimai Das, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel is granted a week's time to seek instruction in the matter.

It is argued by Mr. Navin Sinha, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Nishant Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner that operation of the appellate order, by which the Adjudicating Authority's order locking the Input Tax Credit had been reversed, has now been stayed. The submission is that the Revisional Authority has passed the order impugned without application of mind, merely paraphrasing the words of the statute with no reference to the facts of the case, or other material on record to reach his conclusion in favour of passing an interim order of stay.

The State shall clarify in its instruction the aforesaid fallacy urged on behalf of the petitioner.

Lay this matter as fresh again on 20.05.2021 before the appropriate Bench."

42. Thereafter, the matter was taken up on 20.5.2021 and on the said date, the Court had proceeded to pass following order:-

"In response to the aforesaid order, Shri Nimai Das, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel assisted by Shri Devesh Vikram, learned Standing Counsel, on the basis of instructions, has informed the Court that 2.6.2021 is the next date fixed in the revision in question for final disposal of the matter.

Put up this matter as fresh."

43. Again the matter was taken up on 16.7.2021 and learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel was directed to produce the entire original records. In compliance thereof, the original record was produced by Shri Jagidsh Mishra, learned Standing Counsel before this Court on 26.7.2021 and the same was taken on record.

44. Perusal of original record reflects that the Joint Commissioner (GST), Commercial Tax Headquarters, U.P. Lucknow forwarded the matter to

Additional Commissioner (G.S.T.) with specific noting dated 24.3.2021, wherein in paragraph-5, he has also suggested two options namely (i) either to prefer a writ petition before this Court for stay or (ii) exercise powers under Section 108 of UPSGST Act and stay the execution of the Appellate Order till the revision is decided. The noting is reproduced herein below:-

(g) Subsequent to the personal hearing in the matter, you vide email dated July 19,2019 had submitted six invoices (with GST) of transactions carried out between M/S Jai Balaji Trading Company (C & F agent of ISRPL as informed) and NEFM amounting to Rs. 13.82 crores. However, the corresponding funds received from/ commission paid to C& F Agent, M/S Jai Balaji Trading Company, could not be traced to the Bank account of ISRPL. Also, no relevant documentary evidences like agreement between ISRPL and M/S Jai Balaji Trading Company, terms of appointment, terms of payment/ commission, etc. were provided by you in support of the above.

(k) There are no justifiable reasons/relevant documentary evidences provided by you for the following:

Funds received from NEFM by ISRPL, whereas delivery of Mentha Oil taken by ISRPL on the exchange were transferred off-market to retain related entities without any corresponding settlement of funds with these entities.

Invoices of purchase by NEFM from ISRPL were without GST.

No documentary evidence including agreement between ISRPL and M/S Jai Balaji Trading Company i.e. (C&F agent), terms of appointment, terms of payment/ commission, actual payment/ commission to M/S Jai Balaji Trading Company, etc.

इस नेटवर्क की जॉच ैम्ठप् द्वारा की गयी है । ैम्ठप् द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 06.12.2019 (प्रति संलग्न पृष्ठ सं0 11 प्रस्तर सं0 11) के निम्न अंश उल्लेखनीय हैं–

11- In addition to the above, it is observed from the submission advanced by the notices, that except for NEFM none of the other Notices was registered with any mandi for Mentha Oil and majority of them have appointed Jai Balaji Trading Company as their C&F Agent for off-market/physical market transactions in the Mentha Oil. Incidentally, the proprietor of this C&F agent is the father of Yash Guptaa, A Group 'A' entity in the interim order. The above facts submitted by the Notices raises further suspicion that the trades executed by these entities through the said C&F agent appears to have been executed at the behest of or under instructions from NEFM. While perusing the submissions of NEFM and of other Notices, I notice certain glaring inconsistencies in the stands taken by them which need to be highlighted here. AS an illustration, I note that NEFM has initially in its reply had admitted that it had procured stock of Mentha Oil from 5 entities viz. Invictus, Gaurav Gupta, Saurabh Kumar Vaish, Vimuk and Yash Gupta. However, in its written submission filed before me after the personal hearing, is has stated that Mentha Oil was procured by it from Invictus, Gaurav Gupta and Yash Gupta and thereby has preferred to remain silent about its transactions with Saurabh Kumr Vaish and Vimuk. Further, NEFM has claimed that is was not aware about the trading activities of entities of Group 'A' and Group 'B' especially with respect to their holding of Mentha Oil stock and trading in Mentha Oil futures, which have been highlighted in detail in interim order. However, on the contrary to such a claim, NEFM has not rebutted the fact that apart from giving funds to various entities directly ad indirectly for procurement of Mentha Oil, it had also given funds for bearing the rental charges for storage of Mentha Oil stock in the MCX approved warehouses NEFM has also not disputed to the facts that it was paying fixed monthly payments to certain entities during the relevant period who were holding on to the stock of Mentha Oil. NEFM's claim that it was not aware about the clubbing of position limits by MCX with respect to the positions in Mentha Oil futures held by various entities of Group 'A' and Group'B' remains highly questionable, since these entities were trading in Mentha Oil apparently with the funds provided by it to them and the same funds support from the fact that the warehouse rent for storing Mentha Oil by Group' A' entities as well as monthly payment to certain entities was being paid by none other than NEFM. Moreover, as discussed in the interim order, MCX had reported that as soon as the positions of certain entities were clubbed, fresh positions in Mentha Oil futures were being taken by a new set of entities who were also found to be funded directly or indirectly through proxy entities by NEFM. Another instance of inconsistency is noticed in the submission of Group 'A' entities who have claimed-that they were only providing handling and transportation services to NEFM whereas in reality, the stock of Mentha Oil in exchange approved warehouses were held in their names as owners, hence the claim made by them about providing only handling and transportation services does not conform to their actual transactions.

46. Before dealing with the rival submissions to determine whether the principles of natural justice demand that an opportunity of hearing should be afforded to an assessee before an order under Section 108 of the SGST Act is made, the Court may appreciate the concept of "natural justice" and the principles governing its application.

47. Rules of "natural justice" are not embodied rules. The phrase "natural justice" is also not capable of a precise definition. The underlying principle of natural justice, evolved under the common law, is to check arbitrary exercise of power by the State or its functionaries. Therefore, the principle implies a duty to act fairly, i.e. fair play in action. As observed by this Court in A.K. Kraipak & Ors. Vs. Union of India & Ors.26, the aim of rules of natural justice is to secure justice or to put it negatively to prevent miscarriage of justice. These rules can operate only in areas not covered by any law validly made. They do not supplant the law but supplement it. (Also see: Income Tax Officer & Ors. Vs. M/s Madnani Engineering Works Ltd., Calcutta27).

48. In Swadeshi Cotton Mills Vs. Union of India28, R.S. Sarkaria, J., speaking for the majority in a three-Judge Bench, lucidly explained the meaning and scope of the concept of "natural justice". Referring to several decisions, his Lordship observed as under:-

"Rules of natural justice are not embodied rules. Being means to an end and not an end in themselves, it is not possible to make an exhaustive catalogue of such rules. But there are two fundamental maxims of natural justice viz. (i) audi alteram partem and (ii) nemo judex in re sua. The audi alteram partem rule has many facets, two of them being (a) notice of the case to be met; and (b) opportunity to explain. This rule cannot be sacrificed at the altar of administrative convenience or celerity. The general principle as distinguished from an absolute rule of uniform application seems to be that where a statute does not, in terms, exclude this rule of prior hearing but contemplates a post-decisional hearing amounting to a full review of the original order on merits, then such a statute would be construed as excluding the audi alteram partem rule at the pre-decisional stage. Conversely if the statute conferring the power is silent with regard to the giving of a pre-decisional hearing to the person affected and the administrative decision taken by the authority involves civil consequences of a grave nature, and no full review or appeal on merits against that decision is provided, courts will be extremely reluctant to construe such a statute as excluding the duty of affording even a minimal hearing, shorn of all its formal trappings and dilatory features at the pre-decisional stage, unless, viewed pragmatically, it would paralyse the administrative process or frustrate the need for utmost promptitude. In short, this rule of fair play must not be jettisoned save in very exceptional circumstances where compulsive necessity so demands. The court must make every effort to salvage this cardinal rule to the maximum extent possible, with situational modifications. But, the core of it must, however, remain, namely, that the person affected must have reasonable opportunity of being heard and the hearing must be a genuine hearing and not an empty public relations exercise."

49. Initially, it was the general view that the rules of natural justice would apply only to judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings and not to an administrative action. However, in State of Orissa Vs. Binapani Dei & Ors.29, the distinction between quasi-judicial and administrative decisions was perceptively mitigated and it was held that even an administrative order or decision in matters involving civil consequences, has to be made consistently with the rules of natural justice. Since then the concept of natural justice has made great strides and is invariably read into administrative actions involving civil consequences, unless the statute, conferring power, excludes its application by express language.

50. In Canara Bank Vs. V.K. Awasthy30, the concept, scope, history of development and significance of principles of natural justice have been discussed in extenso, with reference to earlier cases on the subject. The principles of natural justice are those rules which have been laid down by the Courts as being the minimum protection of the rights of the individual against the arbitrary procedure that may be adopted by a judicial, quasi- judicial and administrative authority while making an order affecting those rights. Concept of natural justice has undergone a great deal of change in recent years. Rules of natural justice are not rules embodied always expressly in a statute or in rules framed thereunder. They may be implied from the nature of the duty to be performed under a statute. What particular rule of natural justice should be implied and what its context should be in a given case must depend to a great extent on the fact and circumstances of that case, the framework of the statute under which the enquiry is held. The old distinction between a judicial act and an administrative act has withered away. Even an administrative order, which involves civil consequences must be consistent with the rules of natural justice. Expression 'civil consequences' encompasses infraction of not merely property or personal rights but of civil 'liberties, material deprivations, and non-pecuniary damages. In its wide umbrella comes everything that affects a citizen in his civil life.

51. In Mohinder Singh Gill & Anr. Vs. The Chief Election Commissioner, New Delhi & Ors.31, the Apex Court held that 'Civil Consequences' undoubtedly cover infraction of not merely property or personal rights but of civil liberties, material deprivations and non-pecuniary damages. In its comprehensive connotation, everything that affects a citizen in his civil life inflicts a civil consequence.

52. The question in regard to the requirement of opportunity of being heard in a particular case, even in the absence of provision for such hearing, has been considered by this Court on a number of occasions. In Olga Tellis & Ors. Vs. Bombay Municipal Corporation & Ors.32 while dealing with the provisions of Section 314 of the Bombay Municipal Corporation Act, 1888, which confers discretion on the Commissioner to get any encroachment removed with or without notice, a Constitution Bench of Apex Court observed as follows:

"It must further be presumed that, while vesting in the Commissioner the power to act without notice, the Legislature intended that the power should be exercised sparingly and in cases of urgency which brook no delay. In all other cases, no departure from the audi alteram partem rule ('Hear the other side') could be presumed to have been intended. Section 314 is so designed as to exclude the principles of natural justice by way of exemption and not as a general rule. There are situations which demand the exclusion of the rules of natural justice by reason of diverse factors like time, place the apprehended danger and so on. The ordinary rule which regulates all procedure is that persons who are likely to be affected by the proposed action must be afforded an opportunity of being heard as to why that action should not be taken. The hearing may be given individually or collectively, depending upon the facts of each situation. A departure from this fundamental rule of natural justice may be presumed to have been intended by the Legislature only in circumstances which warrant it. Such circumstances must be shown to exist, when so required, the burden being upon those who affirm their existence."

53. In C.B. Gautam Vs. Union of India & Ors.33 a question arose whether in the absence of a provision for giving the concerned parties an opportunity of being heard before an order is passed under the provisions of Section 269 UD of the Act, for purchase by the Central Government of an immovable property agreed to be sold on an agreement to sell, an opportunity of being heard before such an order could be passed should be given or not. Relying on the decision of this Court in Union of India Vs. Col. J.N. Sinha34 and Olga Tellis (supra) it was held that:

"Although Chapter XX-C does not contain any express provision for the affected parties being given an opportunity to be heard before an order for purchase is made under Section 269-UD, not to read the requirement of such an opportunity would be to give too literal and strict an interpretation to the provisions of Chapter XX-C and in the words of Judge Learned Hand of the United States of America "to make a fortress out of the dictionary." Again, there is no express provision in Chapter XX-C barring the giving of a show cause notice or reasonable opportunity to show cause nor is there anything in the language of Chapter XX-C which could lead to such an implication. The observance of principles of natural justice is the pragmatic requirement of fair play in action. In our view, therefore, the requirement of an opportunity to show cause being given before an order for purchase by the Central Government is made by an appropriate authority under Section 269-UD must be read into the provisions of Chapter XX-C. There is nothing in the language of Section 269- UD or any other provision in the said Chapter which would negate such an opportunity being given. Moreover, if such a requirement were not read into the provisions of the said Chapter, they would be seriously open to challenge on the ground of violations of the provisions of Article 14 on the ground of non-compliance with principles of natural justice. The provision that when an order for purchase is made under Section 269-UD-reasons must be recorded in writing is no substitute for a provision requiring a reasonable opportunity of being heard before such an order is made."

54. In Sahara India (Firm) (1) v. CIT35 the Apex Court held that unless a statutory provision either specifically or by necessary implication excludes the application of principles of natural justice, because in that event the Court would not ignore the legislative mandate, the requirement of giving reasonable opportunity of being heard before an order is made, is generally read into the provisions of a statute, particularly when the order has adverse civil consequences for the party affected. The principle will hold good irrespective of whether the power conferred on a statutory body or tribunal is administrative or quasi-judicial.

55. In Siemens Engg. & Mfg. Co. of India Ltd vs. Union of India36 it was held by the Apex Court as under:-

"6. Before we part with this appeal, we must express our regret at the manner in which the Assistant Collector, the Collector and the Government of India disposed of the proceedings before them. It is incontrovertible that the proceedings before the Assistant Collector arising from the notices demanding differential duty were quasi judicial proceedings and so also were the proceedings in revision before the Collector and the Government of India. Indeed, this was not disputed by the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents. It is now settled law that where an authority makes an order in exercise of a quasi-judicial function it must record its reasons in support of the order it makes. Every quasi-judicial order must be supported by reasons. That has been laid down by a long line of decisions of this Court ending with N. M. Desai v. The Testeels Ltd. & Anr. (') But, unfortunately, the Assistant Collector did not choose to give any reasons in support of the order made by him con firming the demand for differential duty. This was in plain disregard of the requirement of law. The Collector in revision did give some sort of reason but it was hardly satisfactory. He did not deal in his order with the arguments advanced by the appellants in their representation dated 8th December, 1961 which were repeated in the subsequent representation dated 4th June, 1965. It is not suggested that the Collector should have made an elaborate order discussing the arguments of the appellants in the manner of a court of law. But the order of the Collector could have been a little more explicit and articulate so as to lend assurance that the case of the appellants has been properly considered by him. If courts of law are to be replaced by administrative authorities and tribunals, as indeed, in some kinds of cases, with the proliferation of Administrative law, they may have to be so replaced, it is essential that administrative authorities and tribunals should accord fair and proper hearing to the persons sought to be affected by their orders and give sufficiently clear and explicit reasons in support of the orders made by them. Then alone administrative authorities and tribunals exercising quasi-judicial function will be able to justify their existence and carry credibility with the people by inspiring confidence in the adjudicatory process. The rule requiring reasons to be given in support of an order is, like the principle of audi alteram partem, a basic principle of natural justice which must inform every quasi-judicial process and this rule must be observed in its proper spirit and mere pretence of compliance with it would not satisfy the requirement of law. The Government of India also failed to give any reasons in support or its order rejecting the revision application. But we may presume that in rejecting the revision application, it adopted the same reason which prevailed with the Collector. The reason given by the Collector was, as already pointed out, hardly satisfactory and it would, therefore, have been better if the Government of India had given proper and adequate reasons dealing with the arguments advanced on behalf of the appellants while rejecting the revision application. We hope and trust that in future the Customs authorities will be more careful in adjudicating upon the proceedings which come before them and pass properly reasoned orders, so that those who are affected by such orders are assured that their case has received proper consideration at the hands of the Customs authorities and the validity of the adjudication made by the Customs authorities can also be satisfactorily tested in a superior tribunal or court."

56. Hon'ble Apex Court in N. Ranga Rao & sons vs. State of Karnataka and others37 considered the question of exercising revisional power under Section 15 of Karnataka Tax on Entry of Goods Act, 1979 (Act 1979) for determining limitation and held that the initiation of proceedings would take place, when the revisional authority suo motu calls for the records and examines the same, as per Section 15 (4) of Act 1979, which prescribes limitation for initiation of revisional proceedings, whereas Section 15B prescribes limitation for completion thereof. Hence, where the revisional authority called for the records of the case from the first appellate authority within limitation period, the revisional jurisdiction stood exercised within limitation irrespective of the fact that notice to the assessee to show cause against the proposed setting aside of the order of the first appellate authority was issued on a later date. Relevant portion of the judgment is quoted hereinafter:-

"5. To complete the chronology of events, it may be noted that the order of the First Appellate Authority was dated 28.3.1992, the order calling for the records by the Additional Commissioner was around 16.3.1996, the decision, on the question of error in the order of the First Appellate Authority and the loss to the revenue consequent thereto, was dated 16.3.1996, the show cause notice was dated 20.5.1996 and the same was received by the assessee on 24.5.1996. The order ultimately passed by the Additional Commissioner under Section 15(1) was of 14/15.10.1996. Therefore, according to the assessee, mere calling for the records for examination around 16.3.1996 did not amount to exercise of power within the meaning of Section 15(4) of the said 1979 Act and if that be the case then, according to the assessee, issuance of the show cause notice on 20.5.1996 was beyond the prescribed period of 4 years from the date of the order passed by the First Appellate Authority on 28.3.1992. According to the assessee, in the present case, the Additional Commissioner had initiated proceedings by way of show cause notice on 20.5.1996. According to the assessee, proceedings under Section 15(1) could only be initiated by issuance of a show cause notice. According to the assessee, a mere consideration by the Additional Commissioner in his Chamber on 16.3.1996 regarding error in the order of the First Appellate Authority and the loss to the revenue cannot constitute initiation of proceedings under Section 15(1) and nor did it constitute exercise of power within the meaning of Section 15(4) of the said 1979 Act. Consequently, according to the assessee, the revisional proceedings (suo motu) were time barred.

6. The Karnataka Tax on Entry of Goods Act, 1979 was enacted to provide for the levy of tax on the entry of goods into local areas for consumption, use or sale therein. Section 3 is the charging section. Under Section 3 a tax was levied and collected on entry of goods mentioned in he First Schedule into a local area for consumption, use or sale therein at the rates prescribed. Section 3-A dealt with collection of tax by registered dealer. Chapter III dealt with filing of return, making of assessment, payment of taxes, recovery and collection of taxes. Under Section 5, every registered dealer was required annually to submit a return to the AO within the period prescribed. Section 5(4) and 5(5) provided for passing of assessment orders. Section 8 dealt with payment and recovery of tax. Chapter V dealt with appeals and revision. Section 15 formed part of Chapter V. We quote hereinbelow Section 15 and Section 15-B.

"15. Revisional Powers of Commissioner, Additional Commissioner, Joint Commissioner and Deputy Commissioner: (1) The Commissioner may on his own motion call for and examine the record of any proceeding under this Act and if he considers that any order passed therein by any officer subordinate to him is erroneous in so far as it is prejudicial to the interests of the revenue, he may, if necessary, stay the operation of such order for such period as he deems fit and after giving the assessee an opportunity of being heard and after making or causing to be made such inquiry as he deems necessary pass such orders thereon as the circumstances of the case justify, including an order enhancing or modifying the assessment, or cancelling the assessment or directing a fresh assessment.

(2) The Additional Commissioner may on his own motion call for and examine the record of any proceedings under the Act, and if he considers that any order passed therein by a Joint Commissioner, or an appellate authority of the rank of a Deputy Commissioner is erroneous in so far as it is prejudicial to the interests of revenue, he may, if necessary, stay the operation of such order for such period as he deems fit and after giving the assessee an opportunity of being heard and after making or causing to be made such inquiry as he deems necessary, pass such order thereon as the circumstances of the case justify, including an order enhancing or modifying the assessment or cancelling the assessment or directing a fresh assessment.

(3) The Joint Commissioner may on his own motion call for and examine the record of proceeding under this Act, and if he considers that any order passed therein by any officer who is not above the rank of Deputy Commissioner is erroneous in so far as it is prejudicial to the interests of revenue, he may, after giving the assessee an opportunity of being heard and after making or causing to be made such inquiry as he deems necessary, pass such order thereon as the circumstances of the case justify, including an order enhancing or modifying the assessment, or cancelling the assessment or directing a fresh assessment.

(4) The power under sub-sections (1) to (3) shall be exercisable only within a period of four years from the date of the order sought to be revised was passed.

Explanation: In computing the period of limitation for the purpose of sub-section (4) any period during which any proceeding under this section is stayed by an order or injunction of any Court shall be excluded.

xxx 15-B. Limitation in regard to passing orders in respect of certain proceedings: (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in Sections 6 and 15, where any proceeding is initiated under Section 6 or any records have been called for under Section 15, the authority referred to in the said sections shall pass orders within a period of three years from the date of initiation of such proceedings or calling for the records, as the case may be:

Provided that in respect of the proceedings initiated or records called for before the date of commencement of the Karnataka Taxation Laws (Amendment) Act, 1977, orders shall be passed within a period of four years from such commencement.

(2) In computing the period specified in sub-section(1), the period during which a proceeding, has been deferred on account of any stay granted by any Court or any other authority shall be excluded."

7. A bare reading of section 15(1) indicates that the Commissioner, Additional Commissioner, Joint Commissioner and Deputy Commissioner could suo motu call for and examine the records of any proceedings under this Act if he considered that any order passed therein by any officer subordinate to him was erroneous so as to be prejudicial to the interest of the revenue, he was empowered to stay the operation of such order for such period as he deemed fit and after giving the assessee an opportunity of being heard and after making such inquiry, as he thought fit, could pass such orders as the circumstances of the case would justify, including the order enhancing or modifying the assessment or even cancelling the assessment or even direct a fresh assessment.

8. The pre-conditions to the exercise of this suo motu powers were two fold, namely, error in the order passed by an officer subordinate to the revisional authority and prejudice to the interest of revenue. Once these two conditions stood fulfilled, the revisional authority was authorized to give an opportunity to the assessee of being heard and after making such inquiry as he thought fit he could pass appropriate orders as the circumstances of the case would justify. This power was essentially a supervisory power. However, in order to ascertain whether the officer subordinate to him had passed an erroneous order, which was also prejudicial to revenue, the Commissioner including the Additional Commissioner etc. was required to call for and examine the record of such proceedings. Therefore, the revisional authority had to call for the records, he had to examine such records, he had to be satisfied regarding fulfilment of the above two conditions and thereafter give opportunity to the assessee of being heard and on making appropriate inquiry the revisional authority was empowered to pass appropriate orders.

9. It is important to note that under Section 15(1) there was no provision for giving a show cause notice as in the case of some other similar enactments. However, the power under sub-sections (1), (2) and (3) of Section 15 was exercisable only within four years from the date of the order sought to be revised. Under Section 15(4), therefore, a period of limitation was prescribed. The revisional authority had to exercise its powers only within four years from the date when the order sought to be revised was passed. Therefore, under Section 15(1) read with Section 15(4), there was no provision for issuance of a show cause notice. The reason is obvious. Section 15(4) required the revisional authority to exercise its powers within four years from the date of passing of the order sought to be revised. The concept of exercising the power is important, particularly in the absence of any provision for issuance of a show cause notice. When the revisional authority suo motu calls for the records for examination and when he examines that records, the exercise of power under Section 15(4) of the Act takes place. This can be equated to initiation of proceedings.

10. There is one more aspect which needs to be considered. Conceptually, there is a distinction between initiation of proceedings and completion of proceedings within the stipulated period. The limitation prescribed in Section 15(4) was the limitation for initiation of proceedings whereas limitation prescribed in Section 15-B was in respect of completion of proceedings within the prescribed period. In our view, a bare reading of Section 15-B with the proviso indicates that Section 15-B was retrospective. Firstly, the Head Note indicates limitation in regard to passing of orders inter alia under Section 15. It stated clearly that, notwithstanding anything contained in Section 15, where any proceeding is initiated under Section 6 or where any records have been called for under Section 15, the authority shall pass orders within a period of three years from the date of calling for the records. The proviso clarified that in respect of proceedings in which records have been called for before the date of commencement of the Karnataka Taxation Laws (Amendment) Act, 1997 (with effect from 1.4.1997) the revisional authority shall dispose of the proceedings within a period of four years from such commencement. This proviso indicates that proceedings in which records have been called for even in cases falling before 1.4.1997 had to be disposed of within four years from the date of commencement of the (Amendment) Act, 1997.

11. In our view, Section 15-B indicated the dichotomy between initiation of proceedings and completion of proceedings. The legislative intent was clear. It demarcated two aspects, namely, commencement of proceedings and completion of proceedings (outer limit). Section 15(4) prescribed limitation for commencement of proceedings whereas Section 15-B prescribed limitation for completion of the proceedings. We are required to keep in mind that the Legislature intended maximum leeway in cases where an error resulted in loss to revenue. In the circumstances, we are of the view that under the scheme of the 1979 Act, the initiation proceedings took place when the revisional authority called for the records of the case from the First Appellate Authority and, therefore, the jurisdiction stood exercised within the period of limitation.

12. Lastly, we may state that on 1.4.1997 in the present case the tax appeal against the order of the Revisional Authority was pending decision vide Tax Appeal No. E.T. 22/96. Moreover, the law of limitation is generally procedural, hence, in our view, Section 15-B was retrospective. For the above reasons, we find no infirmity in the impugned judgment of the High Court.

13. Before concluding, we may state that, as discussed above, the Karnataka Tax on Entry of Goods Act, 1979 prescribed limitation for initiation of proceedings, it also prescribed limitation for completion of proceedings unlike some other Acts under which the limitation prescribed was only in respect of completion of proceedings. We do not wish to comment about those provisions/enactments. Our present judgment is confined strictly to the 1979 Act herein.

14. For the aforestated reasons, we find no infirmity in the impugned judgment of the Karnataka High Court and accordingly the civil appeal filed by the assessee stands dismissed with no order as to costs. As regards the merits of the case, we express no opinion as the same have not been argued before us."

(emphasis supplied)

57. Considering the aforementioned dictum, the Court has occasion to peruse the supplementary affidavit, which shows that after the impugned order dated 26.3.2021 was passed by the respondent no.3, a notice dated 07.5.2021 was issued, whereby the petitioner was directed to appear on 02.6.2021 alongwith record of purchases effected from M/s Jai Balaji Trading Company GSTIN 09AANPG0918J1ZK. This much is apparent from the notice dated 07.5.2021 that it contained narration of facts leading to blocking of credit under Rule 86A by respondent no.5, which was set aside by the appellate authority. Rule 109 of the SGST Rules, 2017 provides for service of notice in Form GST RVN-01 before an order under Section 108 is passed and exhaustive procedure is given therein, which requires documents to be enclosed specifying the grounds on the basis of which the revisional jurisdiction is sought to be exercised. Contrarily, the notice dated 7.5.2021 was in fact issued without any ground on the basis of which it could be said that there was no material or record available before the respondent no.3 for exercising jurisdiction under Section 108. In the RTI reply dated 28.7.2021 issued by the Deputy Commissioner (Administration) and Public Information Officer, Commercial Tax, Moradabad, which is appended as Annexure SA-1 to the affidavit, it has been informed that the records of the Appellate Authority in Appeal No.95/2020 (2018-19) were neither called for by the office of respondent no.3 nor the same were ever dispatched by the office of the Appellate Authority to the office of the respondent no.3. As such, the respondent no.3 has assumed the jurisdiction under Section 108 without calling for and examining the record of the aforesaid Appeal filed by the petitioner company. The respondent no.3 has assumed the jurisdiction under Section 108 merely on the basis of letter sent by the respondent no.4. The powers, as conferred under Rule 86A, could not have been exercised merely on the ground that an inquiry has been initiated as there is a suspicion that the transactions were sham.

58. While forwarding the noting dated 24.3.2021, the Joint Commissioner (GST), Commercial Tax Headquarters, U.P. had submitted in para-5 that the department has two options either to prefer the writ petition before Hon'ble High Court and press for stay of the order passed by the Appellate Authority or under the revisional authority under Section 108 the appellate order is to be reviewed and till the finalization of proceeding of revision, the appellate order may be stayed. In para-7 of the said communication, it has also been averred that till date at the headquarter level the revisional power has not been exercised. After deliberation with the superior officials, the Additional Commissioner, Commercial Tax, U.P., has submitted categorical comment in para-5 (ii) of the endorsement dated 24.3.2021 to the Commissioner, Commercial Tax, U.P. that the second option is reasonable and in case the same is approved, accordingly leave may be accorded so that the proposal of stay order may be placed. Consequently, after an endorsement by the Commissioner, Commercial Tax, U.P. dated 24.3.2021, the stay order was passed on 26.3.2021. The entire relevant noting, as averred above, clearly reflects to the Court that even though the revisional authority has exercised under-mentioned provision but there was no independent application of mind.

59. The preconditions for the exercise of powers are basically two folds, namely, error in the order passed by an officer subordinate to the revisional authority and prejudice to the interest of revenue. Once these two conditions stood fulfilled, it was incumbent upon the revisional authority to give an opportunity to the assessee of being heard and after making such enquiry as he thought fit he could pass appropriate orders as circumstances of the case would justify. This power is basically a supervisory power. However, in order to ascertain whether the officer subordinate to him has passed an erroneous order, which may be prejudicial to the revenue, the Commissioner is required to call for and examine the record of such proceedings.

60. In the present matter, admittedly without summoning the record the notice was prepared by the subordinate officers in which two options were indicated to the revisional authority with an observation that in case second option is approved, accordingly stay order may be prepared. This may not be intention of the legislature while incorporating the said feature. Once the supervisory power is being exercised in absence of relevant record merely on the basis of certain noting, which is forwarded to the revisional authority for exercising the powers it is sheer misuse of the power. The said practice cannot be accepted by this Court.

61. After considering the record, the Court is of the considered opinion that while exercising the revisional power the authority has given go-bye to the procedure, that too without application of independent mind. The intent of the legislature to accord such power under the revision with a rider is to ensure that there may not be errors in the order passed by the officer subordinate to the revisional authority and the order may not be prejudicial to the interest of revenue. On the above parameters there is hardly any scope for taking another view. Admittedly, the order impugned has been passed in absence of record and the revenue authority has proceeded to endorse on the dotted line, which has been submitted by the subordinate officer. Even though, the appellate order was appealable, which clearly reflects that said action is contrary to the procedures contained therein. The order must be supported by reasons but unfortunately the revisional authority/Commissioner did not choose to give reasons in support of order passed by him. This was in plain disregard to the requirement of law. The said order does not satisfy the requirement of law. Therefore, the said action cannot be accepted.

62. For the reasons above, the impugned order dated 26.3.2021 cannot sustain and accordingly, the same is set aside.

63. Consequently, the writ petition stands allowed.

64. Let original record be returned to Shri B.K. Pandey, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State respondents.

65. The party shall file computer generated copy of such order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad, self attested by the petitioner alongwith a self attested identity proof of the said person (preferably Aadhar Card) mentioning the mobile number to which the said Aadhar Card is linked.

66. The concerned Authority/Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerised copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

A. Service Law – Gratuity - U.P. Basic Education [Teachers] Service Rules, 1981 - Rules for Grant of Gratuity to the Teachers of Aided Educational Institutions: Rule 5, 6, 13; U.P. Basic Education Provident Fund Rules, 1975; Rajya Sahayata Prapt Uchchatar Madhyamik Vidyalayo Ke Adhyapako Ki Mrityu Tatha Sewa Nivritee Aanutoshik Ke Niyamawali (Rules 1981); U.P. High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and other Employees) Rules, 1971 – Gratuity cannot be denied in a situation where a teacher dies prior to reaching the age of retirement and the death having occurred a year before the age of retirement was being reached. (Para 37)

The sole question which stands posited is whether a failure on the part of an employee to have exercised an option prior to his untimely demise would result in his heirs being deprived of the right to claim gratuity. (Para 7)

a) From the recordal of facts it is evident that insofar as primary educational institutions were concerned, no statutory provision commanded the submission of options in order to be entitled to receive gratuity. The concept of submission of options came to be introduced by virtue of the GO of 23 November 1994 and those which came to be subsequently issued and have been noticed. The Court also takes cognizance of the provisions of the GO of 10 June 2002 though ostensibly made in the context of change of options were what was consistently followed by the Board in respect of teachers who came to enter service post 1994 and is adhered to even today. (Para 29)

b) Rules for Grant of Gratuity to the Teachers of Aided Educational Institutions (1964 Rules): Rule 13 - Rule 13 of the 1964 Rules dealing with the issue of nomination also made provisions for a contingency where a teacher had failed to make a nomination prior to his death. Rule 13 dealing with that eventuality provided that in the event of no nomination having been made it would be the Director of Education who was designated to be the final authority to adjudge who would be entitled to the amount of gratuity. That award as made by the Director was to be binding on all parties. The aforesaid provisions made in Rule 13 are liable to be read in conjunction with Rule 6 which provided that a teacher covered by the 1964 Rules would be obliged to make a nomination upon completion of three years of continuous service indicating the names of the members of his family who would have the right to receive gratuity upon his death. These provisions also indicate that a right of a family member to receive gratuity consequent to the death of a teacher covered by the 1964 Rules was not completely effaced or lost. (Para 30)

c) Comparison between 1964 Rules and 1981 Rules - The position of teachers working in Higher Secondary institutions and governed by the provisions of the 1971 Act came to be drastically altered upon the promulgation of the 1981 Rules. This the Court observes since Rule 3 of the 1964 Rules originally covered even those teachers who were working in Higher Secondary Schools and Degree colleges. Upon the promulgation of the 1981 Rules, teachers working in those categories of institutions came to be exorcised from the ambit of the 1964 Rules.

However, the distinguishing feature of the scheme applicable to teachers of primary educational institutions was that a failure to submit an option was never considered as a fait accompli. (Para 32)

In any case they did not introduce or prescribe a corresponding connection between entry into service and the submission of an option. In fact, and as was conceded on behalf of the State, teachers had been conferred the right to exercise that option up to one year prior to reaching the age of retirement. The only additional stipulation that was placed was of that option being submitted before 1 July of the academic year in which the teacher was to retire. The absence of a negative stipulation and a prescription specifying the adverse consequences of inaction clearly operates in favour of teachers and the petitioners here. The Court also bears in mind the undisputed position on facts which has emerged of teachers being permitted to submit their options prior to attaining the age of superannuation and latest by 1st of July of the academic year in which they were to attain the age of retirement. Once that is conceded to be the accepted procedure consistently followed, the Court fails to find any justification to hold teachers to be under an obligation to submit an option immediately upon entry into service. (Para 32)

d) GO dates 23 November 1994 does not confer parity upon teachers of primary educational institutions and their counterparts in secondary medium schools and cannot be read as attracting the 1981 Rules. The expression "at par with" as employed in that Government Order does not lend strength to the contention as urged either especially when a careful and holistic reading of that Order establishes that the aforesaid expression was used only to underline the fact that teachers of aided secondary educational institutions stood at par with other employees of the State Government for the purposes of gratuity. (Para 33)

e) The petitioners cannot be denied the benefit of gratuity - Death being an unforeseen circumstance and an event which is clearly unpredictable could not have resulted in family members of those teachers being denuded of the right to claim gratuity. Undisputedly the teachers and employees in the batch of these writ petitions died prior to attaining the age of superannuation. As per the stand and practice of the State consistently followed, they had a right to exercise an option up to one year prior to their retirement and by the first of July of the academic year in which the date of retirement was being reached. The respondents could not have presumed that a teacher had decided that he would continue upto 60 or 62 years. (Para 34)

It would be wholly erroneous and irrational to hold that a teacher was liable to submit an option prior to his demise. The submission of an option to receive gratuity cannot legally be recognised as being attached to a circumstance which by its very inherent character is unforeseeable and incapable of being prophesized. Teachers while serving under the respondents would be presumed to be aware of the practice and requirement of submitting the requisite option one year prior to attaining the age of retirement coupled with the additional burden of ensuring that the option was submitted not later than the 1st of July of the academic year in which the teacher was to retire. If that was the recognised methodology consistently followed by the respondents, it would be wholly incongruous to recognise a responsibility placed upon teachers to submit that option prior to their untimely demise. On a more fundamental plane it must necessarily be stated that the State has failed to place for the consideration of the Court any prescription, statutory or otherwise, which may have drawn an inviolable line in time which when crossed was envisaged to denude a teacher of his right to claim gratuity. (Para 35)

It is manifest that the decision in Usha Rani appears to have rightly taken the position that gratuity cannot be denied in a situation where a teacher dies prior to reaching the age of retirement and the death having occurred a year before the age of retirement was being reached. (Para 37)

f) It may only be observed that the State would have been justified in refusing a claim for gratuity in case a teacher had continued in service beyond the stipulated age of retirement and thereafter died while in service. For instance, in case a teacher has continued beyond the age of 58 or 60 years without exercising the requisite option, he would be deemed to have taken and derived benefit of the extended age of retirement. While serving under the respondents in that extended tenure the teacher may have been presumed to have decided to continue in service till the age of 60 or 62 years. However, in a case where death occurs prior to the teacher attaining the age of 58 or 60 years cannot reasonably merit an assumption being made that such a teacher wanted to continue up to the extended and increased age of retirement. (Para 36)

4. St. of U.P. Vs Usha Rani, Special Appeal Defective No. 40 of 2021 (Para 5)

Precedent distinguished:

1. Prakash Chandra Sharma (Since deceased) through L.R. (Wife) Vs Dy. Director of Education Bareilly Region, Bareilly & ors. (1997) 2 UPLBEC 1155 (Para 22)

2. St. of U.P. & ors. Vs Shashthi Dutt Shastri & ors. 2017 (Suppl.) ADJ 768 (DB) (Para 24)

3. Prakash Chandra Sharma Vs Dy. Director of Education Bareilly Region, Bareilly 1995 (2) E.S.C. 378 (All) (Para 25)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Yashwant Varma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kamal Kumar Kesherwani, Sri Akhilesh Kumar, Sri Awadh Narain Rai, learned counsels for the petitioners, Sri J.N. Maurya, learned Chief Standing Counsel assisted by Sri Chandan Kumar, learned Standing Counsel, Mrigraj Singh, Sanjay Kumar Singh and Sri Awadhesh Kumar, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. These three writ petitions were with consent heard together and are being disposed of by this common judgment.

3. The three petitioners here are the heirs of teachers who were working in educational institutions administered by the Board of Basic Education1. Those teachers died while in service and prior to reaching the age of retirement. The age of retirement of teachers as prescribed in Rule 29 of the U.P. Basic Education [Teachers] Service Rules, 19812 was initially fixed at 58 years. It was thereafter increased to 60 years. In terms of the Twelfth Amendment to those Rules introduced on 9 November 2011, the age of retirement was ultimately increased to 62 years. The teachers in respect of whom the petitioners assert a right to receive gratuity admittedly died before attaining the age of superannuation. Since the respondents had refused to accede or attend to that claim, they approached this Court and preferred the instant writ petitions. The respondents on instructions apprised the Court that they would not be entitled to receive gratuity since those teachers had not exercised an option to receive the same prior to their death.

4. The petitioners have placed reliance upon the decision rendered by a learned Judge in Usha Rani Vs. State of U.P. And 6 Others3 to contend that the question of whether gratuity would be payable irrespective of whether an option had been exercised by an employee prior to attaining the age of superannuation and untimely death stood settled in their favour. Usha Rani was dealing with a case where the employee had died prior to attaining the age of retirement which at the relevant time was fixed at 60 years. The learned Judge taking note of the previous decisions rendered by the Court in the matter of Noor Jahan Vs. State of U.P. and 4 other4 and Smt. Omwati Vs. State of U.P. and 3 others5 held that the benefit of gratuity could not be denied to an employee solely on account of an alleged failure on his part to exercise the requisite option prior to his untimely demise and before he had reached the age of superannuation. The learned Judge dealing with the aforesaid question held thus: -

"Similar issue was considered by this Court in the matter of Noor Jahan (Supra) in which this Court vide order dated 04.01.2018 has clearly held that Government Order dated 16.09.2009 does not provide any bar for payment of gratuity in case petitioner's husband had not given option for retirement at the age of 60 years. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the order impugned is wholly arbitrary, inasmuch as under the relevant scheme for payment of gratuity, the claim of petitioner's husband is otherwise covered, and the Government Order dated 16.9.2009 does not curtail the payment of gratuity to those employees, who have died before attaining the age of 60 years.

Sri R.B. Yadav, learned counsel for the respondent nos.3 and 4, submits that the denial of gratuity to petitioner is in accordance with the Government Order.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties, and have perused the materials brought on record.

Government Order dated 16th September, 2009 provides for revision of pension and other retiral benefits to the retired employees of the department of basic education. This Government Order grants higher benefits w.e.f. 1.1.2006. Clause 4(1) of the Government Order provides that pension would not be payable to those employees, who have not completed 10 years of qualifying service, but the employees who retire upon attaining the age of superannuation of 60 years would be entitled to gratuity and other service benefits. The Government Order does not restrict payment of gratuity to an employee, who is otherwise covered under the scheme just because he has not attained the age of 60 years. Reference to age of 60 years is due to fact that age of superannuation under the rule is otherwise 60 years. Position has otherwise been clarified by Clause 5 of the Government Order, which provides that gratuity would be payable at the age of 60 years or upon death. The respondents, therefore, were not justified in rejecting petitioner's claim for payment of gratuity, in terms of Government Order dated 16.9.2009. The impugned action, therefore, cannot be sustained. Order dated 8.7.2016 is, accordingly, quashed.

A direction is issued to the respondents to compute the amount payable to petitioner's husband towards gratuity in terms of the scheme and release the same, within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order. The petitioner shall also be entitled to interest at the rate of 8% per annum, from the date of filing of the application till the amount is actually disbursed.

Writ petition is, accordingly, allowed."

In the matter of Smt. Omwati (Supra), Court had dealt for payment of interest upon delayed payment of gratuity and held that petitioner is entitled for interest. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"The only other issue that survives for consideration is whether, the petitioner is entitled to payment of interest on the delayed payment of gratuity.

This aspect has been dealt with by Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal (Defective) No.430 of 2016, Smt. Nazma Khatoon Vs. State of U.P. and others where a learned Single Judge had rejected the prayer for interest on delayed payment of gratuity. However, the Division Bench opined that interest is a necessary corollary to the retention of money by another person. It is neither compensatory nor penal in nature. It was so held, upon an earlier Division Bench decision in Smt.

Ranjana Kakkar W/O Late Prof. Amarnath Kakkar Vs. State of Uttar pradesh and others, 2008(10) ADJ 63 (DB).

The Division Bench in Smt. Nazma Khatoon (supra) went on to award 8% interest on the gratuity payable.

Counsel for the petitioner has also relied upon the Government order No.SA-3-1901/10-2002-971/80 dated 30.10.2002, which provides for payment of interest on delay in payment of gratuity and post retiral benefits beyond a period of 3 months from the date they are payable.

Under the circumstances, this Court considers it appropriate to award the same rate of interest on the delayed payment as has been awarded by the Division Bench in Smt. Nazma Khatoon(supra), the rate being 8%.

For the reasons given above, this writ petition is allowed. The impugned order passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Sambhal dated 01.01.2018 is hereby set aside. The respondents are directed to calculate the gratuity payable to the petitioner along with 8% interest thereon by a speaking order and to ensure payment of the said amount to the petitioner within a period of six weeks from the date, a certified copy of this order is filed before him."

Following the decision rendered in the judgment of Noor Jahan (Supra) as well as Smt. Omwati (Supra), matter of Smt. Brijesh (Supra) for payment of gratuity was allowed by this Court by quashing the impugned orders by which gratuity was denied.

Similar controversy was also decided by Lucknow Bench of this Court vide order dated 5.8.2019 passed in the matter of Smt. Mala Tripathi (Supra) in which Court has taken a similar view and held that if husband of petitioner died before attaining the age of 60 years and has not given option for retirement at the age of 60 years, gratuity cannot be denied only on this ground. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"Heard learned counsel for the contesting parties and perused the records.

From perusal of the records, it clearly comes out that the petitioner's husband died in harness on 26.08.2012 while working as Assistant Teacher in an aided and recognized institution. It is also admitted that the family pension has been paid to the petitioner. The only dispute revolves around the payment of gratuity to the petitioner. The ground taken by the respondents of the petitioner's husband not having opted for retiring at the age of 60 years which thus entails non-payment of gratuity to her at the very out set does not stand to legal scrutiny inasmuch as it is an admitted case by the respondents also that the petitioner's husband died in harness on 26.08.2012 despite his actual date of superannuation being November 2019. Thus, an employee is only expected to submit an option prior to his retirement and not decades prior to his retirement. However, this aspect of the matter has not been considered by the respondents and even the letter of the Institution dated 19.03.2014, a copy of which has been filed as Annexure-3 to the petition, does not address the aforesaid issue.

Accordingly, keeping in view the aforesaid discussions, the order dated 19.03.2014 (Annexure-3 to the petition) cannot be said to be valid in the eyes of law. As such, the writ petition deserves to be partly allowed and is hereby partly allowed. A writ of certiorari is issued quashing the order dated 19.03.2014. A writ of mandamus is issued directing the respondents to consider the case of the petitioner for payment of gratuity in accordance with law and relevant rules within a period of three months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order."

Facts of the case and dispute involved in the present case is squarely covered by the pronouncements made by this Court which are referred herein above, therefore, under such facts and circumstances, impugned order dated 30.7.2019 passed by respondent No. 7-Block Education Officer Block Kadarchauk, Distruict Badaun is hereby quashed.

Respondents are directed to compute the amount payable to the petitioner's husband towards gratuity in terms of the scheme and release the same, maximum within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order. The petitioner shall also be entitled to interest at the rate of 8% per annum, from the date of filing of the application till the amount is actually disbursed. "

5. The decision of the learned Judge in Usha Rani was subjected to an intra court appeal being State of U.P. And 6 Others Vs. Usha Rani6 That appeal came to be dismissed by the Division Bench on 28 January 2021 in the following terms: -

"By this appeal, a challenge is made to the judgment dated 07.11.2019 and its correction order dated 12.12.2019 whereby the writ petition preferred by the non-appellant was allowed. The writ petition was ordered to governed by the judgment in the case of Smt. Sarvesh Kumari Vs. State of U.P. others decided on 14.05.2019 and also in the leading case of Smt. Ranjana Kakkar Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2008 (10) ADJ 63. In the case of Smt. Ranjana Kakkar (Supra) facts were almost similar.

As per the government order, the employees were given option to continue in service beyond the normal period of retirement. The extension of service was permitted from 58 years to 60 years but with denial of the benefit of gratuity.

Options were sought and given by the employees in case of Smt. Ranjana Kakkar (Supra), but in the present case, no option was given by the non-appellant to continue her in service beyond the normal age of retirement with denial of the benefit of gratuity. It is however fact that in absence of option under the government order, it was taken to be a case of deemed option and accordingly family was denied benefit of gratuity. The age of the deceased was 44 years while in the case of Smt. Ranjana Kakkar (Supra), it was 45 years.

In the light of the aforesaid, what we find that the employee who had not continued in service after attaining the age of 58 years in a given case or 60 years in other cases would mean effective option to continue in with for denial of gratuity.

Accordingly, what we find that the present case is covered by the judgment of this court in the case of Smt. Ranjana Kakkar (Supra). An exception can be carved only when they continue in service without withdrawal of option even after the attaining the age of 58 years in a given case or beyond 60 years in other cases as normal age of retirement was changed from 58 years to 60 years by the amendment in the year 2004.

This Court has taken a view to hold that an employee continue in service beyond 58 years and died thereupon would not be entitled to seek benefit of gratuity in the case of State of U.P. through its Secretary Vs. Prabha Shukla decided on 16.12.2020 but it would not be applicable to the facts of this case.

This appeal is accordingly, dismissed."

6. The Court is informed that the State has preferred a Special Leave Petition before the Supreme Court which is still pending disposal. This Court dealing with identical matters had been disposing of writ petitions on consent of the respondents who conceded that the issue stood settled in light of the judgment rendered by the Court in Usha Rani. However, Sri J.N. Maurya, learned Chief Standing Counsel appeared when these matters were taken up initially and submitted that various Rules and Government Orders which would apply had not been brought to the attention of the learned Judge who had proceeded to decide Usha Rani. It was his submission that various previous decisions of the Court having a bearing on the question had also not been considered in Usha Rani. Learned Chief Standing Counsel submitted that the judgment in Usha Rani would thus merit reconsideration. Since only a legal question was raised, the respondents submitted that the same may be decided by the Court without inviting counter affidavits. A compilation of Rules and various Government Orders issued from time to time was also circulated by the respondents amongst parties and placed on the record.

7. The sole question which stands posited is whether a failure on the part of an employee to have exercised an option prior to his untimely demise would result in his heirs being deprived of the right to claim gratuity.

8. The payment of a gratuity insofar as Primary Institutions, Junior High Schools, Higher Secondary Schools and Degree Colleges was governed originally by the Rules for Grant of Gratuity to the Teachers of Aided Educational Institutions. These Rules came into effect from 01 April 19647. Those Rules were to apply to all members of the teaching staff of State aided educational institutions of the categories noticed above run either by a local body or private management and recognised and aided by the Department of Education of the State. Rule 5 of these Rules provided that a gratuity equal to six times the pay last drawn by a teacher at the time of his death would be payable provided he had put in not less than three years of continuous service prior to his demise. That Rule reads as follows: -

"5. A gratuity equal to six times of the pay last drawn by a teacher at the time of his death while in service provided he has put in not less than three years continuous service before his death.

Notes - (1) No gratuity will, however, be admissible to the family of a teacher whose death takes place after retirement or of a re-employed pensioner.

(2) "Continuous Service" means all whole-time service whether temporary, officiating or permanent, rendered either in one or more of the State aided educational institutions of any of the categories mentioned in Rule 3 and includes all periods spent on leave on average pay, or on medical certificate, but it does not include leave without pay."

9. Rule 5 essentially provided for the payment of gratuity in an event where a teacher died prior to retirement subject to the condition that he had rendered not less than three years of continuous service prior to his demise. Rule 6 of the 1964 Rules is in the following terms: -

"6. A teacher covered by these rules, shall on completion of three years' continuous service, make a nomination conferring on one or more members of his family, the right to receive any gratuity that may be admissible under these rules. The nomination shall be made in one of the attached forms as may be appropriated in the circumstances of the case.

Note - If the teacher has not left any family, no gratuity will be payable under these rules."

10. Rule 13 of those Rules which would be of some significance to the question which has arisen is reproduced hereinbelow: -

"13. In the event of no nomination having been made for this purpose before the death of a teacher or in the event of any dispute, the Director of Education, U.P., shall be the final authority and whatever award shall be made by him shall be binding on all parties and no appeal or representation shall lie against his decision."

11. On 08 March 1978, a Government Oder came to be issued dealing with the subject of retiral benefits payable to teachers working in institutions administered by the Board. It essentially provided that pensionary benefits would be payable to teachers working in the aforesaid categories of institutions at the same rate as was being paid to employees in government colleges. The Government Order in this respect made the following provisions:-

"मुझे आपसे यह कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि उत्तर प्रदेश बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् द्वार संचालित प्राइमरी एवं जूनियर हाई स्कूलों के शिक्षकों को जो लाभत्रयी योजना से अनुशासित हैं वर्तमान नियमों के अधीन जो सेवा निवृत्तिक लाभ उपलब्ध हैं वे राजकीय कर्मचारियों को अनुमन्य पेंशन आदि से अत्यल्प हैं, जिससे वे गत कुछ समय से यह मांग कर रहे थे कि उनकी सेवा निवृत्तिक लाभ इस प्रकार स्वीकृत किये जायें कि उन्हें राज्य कर्मचारियों को अनुमन्य दर पर पेंशन प्राप्त कर सकें। इस विषय पर सम्यंकल्प से विचारोपरान्त शासन ने यह निर्णय लिया है कि 1 मार्च, 1977 को या उसके पश्चात् सेवा निवृत्त हुये या सेवा निवृत्त होने वाले उक्त विद्यालयों के समस्त स्थाई पूर्णकालिक तथा नियमित शिक्षकों को उसी दर पर पेंशन देय होगी, जिस दर पर राजकीय विद्यालयों के समान स्तर एवं श्रेणी के शिक्षकों को अनुमन्य है तथा उसका आगणन भी राजकीय कर्मचारियों के लिये लागू प्रक्रिया के अनुसार किया जायेगा। राज्य कर्मचारियों को अनुमन्य पेंशन की दरें संलग्नक-1 में अंकित है। यह निर्णय निम्नलिखित प्रतिबन्धों के अधीन है-

(1) शिक्षकों को डेथ-कम-रिटायरमेन्ट-ग्रेच्यूटी या मृत्यु के पश्चात् उनके आश्रितों को पारिवारिक पेंशन देय नहीं होगी।

(2) सामूहिक जीवन बीमा योजना का लाभ उन्हें पूर्ववत् मिलता रहेगा।"

12. Dealing with the issue of submission of an option that Government Order in paragraph 2 made the following provisions: -

"2. मुझे आपसे यह भी कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि उक्त योजना के अंतर्गत पेंशन प्राप्त करने के लिए प्रत्येक कर्मचारी को इस बात का लिखित विकल्प देना होगा कि वह इस योजना के अधीन पेंशन प्राप्त करना चाहेगा अथवा शासनादेश सं0ए-5355/15-3133/1962, दिनांक 17 दिसम्बर, 1965 द्वारा प्रसारित लाभत्रयी योजना के अन्तर्गत पेंशन और उत्तर प्रदेश बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् भविष्य निधि नियमावली, 1975 के अन्तर्गत बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् का अंशदान प्राप्त करेगा। जो अध्यापक नगर महापालिका की सेवा से हस्तान्तरित होकर उत्तर प्रदेश बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् की सेवा में आये है और जिन्होंने लाभत्रयी योजना के लिये विकल्प नहीं दिया है, उन्हे भी इस बात का विकल्प देना होगा कि वह इस योजना के अधीन पेंशन लेना चाहेगे अथवा सम्बन्धित नगर महापालिका के विनियमों के अनुसार पेंशन के लाभों का उपयोग करना चाहेंगे। उक्त विनियमों के अन्तर्गत देय पेंशन के साथ उत्तर प्रदेश बेसिक शिक्षा भविष्य निधि नियमावली, 1975 के अन्तर्गत देय परिषदीय अंशदान अनुमन्य नहीं होगा और उनके खाते में जो कुछ भी परिषदीय अंशदान जमा है, वह संचालित ब्याज सहित, उपरोक्त प्रस्तर-1 (4) में इंगित लेखा शीर्षक में जमा करा लिया जायेगा। मार्च, 1, 1977 के पश्चात् जो भी अध्यापक बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् द्वारा नियुक्त किये गये हैं या किये जायेंगे उन पर यह योजना अनिवार्य रुप से लागू होगी और उनसे कोई विकल्प भराना आवश्यक नहीं होगा।"

13. In paragraph 6, the Government Order stipulated that all options would have to be submitted by 30 June 1978. Paragraph 6 read thus: -

"6. इस राजाज्ञा से संलग्न विकल्प-पत्र पर प्रत्येक सहायक/प्रधान से विकल्प प्राप्त कर लिया जाये और तद्नुसार उनको सेवा पुस्तिकाओं से इस विकल्प-पत्र को सुरक्षित रखा जाये। यह विकल्प-पत्र दिनांक 30 जून, 1978 तक प्रत्येक अध्यापक से प्राप्त कर लिया जाये और 15 जुलाई 1978 तक इस सम्बन्ध में हुई प्रगति से शासन को अवगत कराया जाये। एक बार किया गया विकल्प अंतिम और अपरिवर्त्तनीय होगा।"

14. The aforesaid Government Order appears to have been issued to give effect to the policy decision to extend benefits of pension to employees and to take cognizance of the provident fund scheme which had come to be introduced in the meanwhile and pursuant to the promulgation of the U.P. Basic Education Provident Fund Rules, 1975. By a Government Order of 06 June 1981, the last date for submission of options was extended up to 31 December 1981. It further provided that the aforesaid date would not be extended in future. The relevant extract of the Government Order is reproduced hereunder: -

"उपरोक्त विषयक पर अतिरिक्त शिक्षा निदेशक (बेसिक) के अर्द्धशासकीय पत्रांक पेंशन-2-16124/बावन-9(85)/80-81 के संदर्भ में मुझे आपसे यह कहने का निर्देश हुआ है कि उक्त पात्र में वर्णित स्थिति में राज्यपाल महोदय ने शासनादेश संख्या 5197/15-5-79/77 दिनांक 8-3-78 में उत्तर प्रदेश शिक्षा परिषद् द्वार संचालित स्कूलों के शिक्षकों के संबंध में संशोधित पेंशन योजना को स्वीकार करने का विकल्प-पत्र प्रस्तुति किये जाने की तिथि को जो उक्त शासनादेश दिनांक 8-3-78 के पैरा-6 के अनुसार 30-6-78 तक था, 31 दिसम्बर, 1981 तक बढ़ायें जाने की स्वीकृति प्रदान कर दी है। अतः आपसे अनुरोध है कि आप सभी अधिकारियों एवं बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् के अधीन

कार्यरत अध्यापकों को यह निर्देश दे दें कि उक्त शासनादेश दिनांक 8-3-78 में स्वीकृत पेंशन योजना के विषय में विकल्प पत्र भरे जाने की पूरी कार्यवाही 31-12-81 के पूर्व ही पूर्ण कर ली जाये। भविष्य में अब इस तिथि को बढ़ाया जाना संभव नहीं होगा।"

15. By another Government Order of 31 March 1982, the State provided that teachers employed in Junior High Schools, Secondary Institutions and Degree Colleges as well as those employed in Primary and Junior High Schools administered by the Board would be entitled to a family pension at par with facilities being provided to the State Government employees. That Government Order came to be issued in light of the the State framing the "Rajya Sahayata Prapt Uchchatar Madhyamik Vidyalayo Ke Adhyapako Ki Mrityu Tatha Sewa Nivritee Aanutoshik Ki Niyamawali"8. These Rules were published in the Gazette of 29 August 1981. In terms of Rule 2 thereof, they were to come into effect from 30 June 1978. As is manifest from the title of the 1981 Rules, they were to apply to Higher secondary educational institutions. This is further evident from the fact that the 1981 Rules in turn refer to the U.P. High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and other Employees) Rules, 1971. Though these Rules strictly speaking have no application to the present writ petitions which deals with the case of teachers who were working in primary educational institutions, since they were referred to in extenso by the respondents, the Court deems it apposite to briefly notice the provisions made therein.

Rule 3 of the 1981 Rules was in the following terms: -

"3. यह नियमावली वेतन वितरण अधिनियम, 1971 की परिधि में 30-6-78 या उसके पश्चात कार्यरत केवल उन राज्य सहायता प्राप्त उच्चतर माध्यमिक विद्यालयों के अध्यापकों पर लागू होगी जो किसी स्थानीय निकाय अथवा किसी अशासकीय प्रबन्धतन्त्र द्वारा संचालित है तथा जो 58 वर्ष की आयु पर सेवानिवृत्त होने के पक्ष में अपना विकल्प इस नियमावली की विज्ञप्ति की तिथि के छः मास के अन्दर दे देंगे। विकल्प का एक बार प्रयोग कर लेने पर वह अन्तिम समझा जायेगा। सेवानिवृत्ति की तिथि समाप्त मानी जायेगी।"

Rule 4 provided as under:-

"4. इस नियमावली की विज्ञप्ति की तिथि के उपरान्त नियुक्त अध्यापकों द्वारा अपने स्थायीकरण की तिथि के दो वर्षों के अन्दर 58 वर्ष की आयु पर सेवानिवृत्ति होने के पक्ष में अपना विकल्प न देने पर यह नियमावली उस पर लागू नहीं होगी। विकल्प का एक बार प्रयोग कर लेने पर वह अन्तिम समझा जायेगा।"

16. On 03 December 1991 the State Government issued another Government Order dealing with the issue of the demand by teachers and other employees working in primary schools and Junior High Schools run by the Board to modify options that may have been submitted by them. Dealing with the aforesaid that Government Order made the following provisions;-

"मुझे उपर्युक्त विषयक शासनादेश संख्या 5197/15-5-79/77 दिनांक 8-3-78 तथा शासनादेश संख्या 3181/15-5-81-79/77 दिनांक 6-6-81 के अनुक्रम में से यह कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि अपरिहार्य कारणोंवश कतिपय शिक्षकों द्वारा निर्धारित अवधि तक या तो विकल्प पत्र भरे ही नहीं जा सके अथवा त्रुटिपूर्ण ढंग से भरे गये। फलस्वरुप ऐसे शिक्षक उक्त शासनादेशों द्वारा प्रदत्त सुविधा के लाभों से वंचित रह गये थे और अधिकांश जनपदों के शिक्षक निरन्तर यह मांग कर रहे हैं कि उन्हे उक्त शासनादेश में

अनुमन्य सुविधा का लाभ प्रदान किया जाये। चूंकि उक्त शासनादेशों द्वारा अनुमन्य सुविधा का लाभ प्राप्त करने हेतु निर्धारित अवधि समाप्त हो चुकी थी, जिसके कारण उत्तर प्रदेश बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् द्वारा संचालित स्कूलों के शिक्षकों जो उक्त सुविधाओं से वंचित रह गये थे, को उक्त सुविधा दिया जाना सम्भव नहीं हो पा रहा था। अतः परिषदीय शिक्षकों द्वार निरन्तर की जा रही इस मांग पर सम्यक् विचारोपरान्त राज्यपाल महोदय ने उन शिक्षकों जो उक्त शासनादेश के अन्तर्गत अनुमन्य लाभ प्राप्त करने हेतु विकल्प देने से वंचित रह गये थे अथवा जिन्होंने पुरानी पेंशन योजना के अन्तर्गत विकल्प प्रस्तुत किया था, को उक्त शासना-देश में निर्धारित अन्य नियमों/शर्तों व प्राविधानों के अन्तर्गत अन्तिम रुप से 90 दिन के अन्दर निर्धारित प्रपत्रों पर पुनः विकल्प प्रस्तुत किए जाने की स्वीकृत सहर्ष प्रदान कर दी है। मुझे यह भी कहना है कि विकल्प पुनः प्रस्तुत किये जाने की उक्त सुविधा उत्तर प्रदेश बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् के अधीन कार्यरत शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों को भी आवश्यकतानुसार अनुमन्य होगी।

2. मुझे यह भी कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि जो कार्यरत शिक्षक/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारी इस शासनादेश में दी जा रही सुविधा का लाभ उक्त निर्धारित अवधि के अन्दर प्राप्त करने हेतु विकल्प-पत्र प्रस्तुत नहीं करेंगे उनके सम्बन्ध में यह स्वतः मान लिया जायेगा कि उन पर नयी पेंशन योजना लागू है। इस शासनादेश के निर्गत होने की तिथि के पश्चात् नियुक्त शिक्षक/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारी स्वतः इस सुविधा से आच्छादित माने जायेंगे।"

17. On 23 November 1994 yet another Government Order came to be issued dealing with the subject of gratuity and provided as follows: -

"उपर्युक्त विषयक सचिव उत्तर प्रदेश बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् इलाहाबाद के पत्रांक बे0शि0प0/पेंशन/17066/92-93 दिनांक 30-10-92 के संदर्भ में मुझे यह कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि उत्तर प्रदेश बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् के अधायपकों एवं शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों, सहायता प्राप्त गैर सरकारी जूनियर हाई स्कूलों के शिक्षकों एवं शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों को माध्यमिक शिक्षकों की भांति 58 वर्ष की आयु पर सेवा निवृत्त होने का विकल्प देने की स्थिति में ग्रेच्युटी की सुविधा दिये जाने की मांग की है। सम्यक् विचारोपरान्त श्री राज्यपाल यह आदेश प्रदान करते है कि जिस प्रकार राज्य सहायता प्राप्त माध्यमिक विद्यालयों के शिक्षकों को 58 वर्ष की आयु पर सेवा निवृत्त होने का विकल्प देने पर राजकीय कर्मचारियों की भांति ग्रेच्युटी की सुविधा अनुमन्य है, उसी प्रकार उ0प्र0 बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद् के अध्यापकों एवं शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों, सहायता प्राप्त गैर सरकारी माध्यमिक विद्यालयों के शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों तथा सहायता प्राप्त गैर सरकारी जूनियर हाई स्कूलों शिक्षकों एवं शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों को 58 वर्ष की आयु में सेवा निवृत्त होने की दशा में ग्रेच्युटी की सुविधा प्रदान की जाये। यह सुविधा उन्ही अध्यापकों एवं कर्मचारियों को अनुमन्य होगी, जो 58 वर्ष की आयु पर सेवा निवृत्त होने का विकल्प निर्धारित प्रपत्र पर प्रस्तुत करेंगे। यह सुविधा उपरोक्त वर्णित सभी शिक्षकों/कर्मचारियों पर इन आदेशों के जारी होने की तिथि से लागू होगी।

2. मुझे यह भी कहना है कि प्रश्नगत लाभ उन्ही अध्यापकों/कर्मचारियों को अनुमन्य होगा जो संलग्न निर्धारित प्रपत्र पर शासनादेश जारी होने के दिनांक से 90 दिन के अन्दर दो प्रतियों में संस्था के माध्यम से पेंशन स्वीकृत करने वाले अधिकारी के पास अपना विकल्प पत्र प्रेषित करेंगे। निर्धारित तिथि तक विकल्प पत्र न प्रस्तुत किये जाने पर यह स्वतः मान लिया जायेगा कि संबंधित अध्यापक या कर्मचारी इस राजाज्ञा में स्वीकृत सुविधा का लाभ प्राप्त नहीं

करना चाहता। एक बार प्रस्तुत किया गया विकल्प अन्तिम तथा अपरिवर्तनीय होगा।"

18. A reading of the provisions so made establishes that gratuity was provided to be payable subject to the teacher submitting an option of retiring at the age of 58 years. It becomes relevant to note that by this time the age of superannuation had been increased from 58 years to 60 years. The Government Order further required all options to be submitted by existing employees within 90 days of the issuance of that Order. A Government Order of 28 November 1998 taking into consideration the report of the Pay Commission of 1997 enhanced the quantum of gratuity payable to a maximum of Rs. 3.50 Lakhs.

19. Taking up the issue of a claim of teachers and employees seeking to modify options that may have already been submitted, the State Government on 10 June 2002 issued the following directions: -

"विषयः- उ0प्र0 बेसिक शिक्षा परिषदीय शिक्षक/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों के सेवा निवृत्तिक लाभों में परिवर्तन हेतु विकल्प की सुविधा दिए जाने के सम्बन्ध में नीति निर्धारण।

उपर्युक्त विषयक शासनादेश संख्या-6369/15-5-93-55/89, दिनांक 23-11-94 के अनुक्रम में मुझे यह कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि उक्त शासनादेश द्वारा प्रदत्त विकल्प की सुविधा के लाभ से वंचित रह गये बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद शिक्षक/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों के सम्बन्ध में विकल्प परिवर्तन की सुविधा प्रदान किये जाने की मांग पर सम्यक विचारोपरान्त श्री राज्यपाल यह आदेश प्रदान करते है कि उ0प्र0 बेसिक शिक्षा परिषदीय शिक्षकों/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों द्वारा सेवानिवृत्त के एक वर्ष पूर्व अर्थात् जिस शैक्षिक सत्र में उनकी सेवानिवृत्ति होगी, उसकी पहली जुलाई तक विकल्प परिवर्तन कर सकते है। किन्तु ऐसे कर्मचारी जो 58 वर्ष की आयु पर सेवानिवृत्ति का विकल्प देते हैं, को सेवा निवृत्ति के पूर्व तक विकल्प परिवर्तन की सुविधा अनुमन्य होगी। यह व्यवस्था इस शासनादेश के जारी होने की तिथि से लागू होगी।"

20. In 2011 pursuant to an amendment to Rule 29 of the Teachers Rules, the age of retirement of teachers in basic education schools came to be increased to 62 years. In light of the aforesaid on 04 February 2004 the State issued a Government Order providing that all facilities and benefits which could be claimed by employees upon submission of an option to retire at 58 years would now be available upon an option being exercised to retire at the age of 60 years. That Government Order made the following provisions: -

"अतः श्री राज्यपाल महोदय तात्कालिक प्रभाव से परिषदीय प्राथमिक विद्यालय, परिषदीय उच्च प्राथमिक विद्यालय तथा सहायता प्राप्त उच्च प्राथमिक विद्यालयों में शासन द्वारा सृजित पदों पर नियमानुसार कार्यरत अध्यापकों की वर्तमान अधिवर्षता आयु को 60 वर्ष से बढ़ाकर 62 वर्ष किये जाने की सहर्ष स्वीकृति प्रदान करते हैं। फलस्वरुप 58 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता आयु पर मिलने वाले सेवानिवृत्तिक लाभ अब 60 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता आयु पर तथा 60 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता आयु पर मिलने वाले सेवा निवृत्तिक लाभ 62 वर्ष की अधिवर्षता आयु पर अनुमन्य होंगे।

श्री राज्यपाल महोदय यह भी आदेश प्रदान करते हैं कि जो शिक्षक जुलाई 2003 के पश्चात अधिवर्षता आयु पूर्ण कर सत्रान्त लाभ पर

चल रहे हैं उन्हे भी अधिवर्षता आयु वृद्धि संबंधी लाभ प्रदान किया जायेगा।

इस सम्बन्ध में पूर्व में निर्गत समस्त शासनादेश उक्त सीमा तक संशोधित समझे जायेंगे तथा उनकी (अपठनीय) शर्ते यथावत रहेंगी।"

21. By an Office Order of 16 September 2009, the maximum limit of gratuity was increased to Rs. Ten Lakhs. By another Office Order of 23 December 2011, taking note of the recommendations of the Pay Commission Report of 2008, the respondents introduced the following measures in respect of pension and gratuity:-

"वेतन समिति, उत्तर प्रदेश, 2008 की संस्तुतियों को स्वीकार किये जाने के फलस्वरुप बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद द्वारा संचालित विद्यालयों में कार्यरत शिक्षकों/कर्मचारियों (दिनांक 01-1-2006 अथवा उसके उपरान्त सेवानिवृत्त) के पेंशन एवं राशिकरण की दरों का पुनरीक्षण किये जाने से संबंधित शासन के कार्यालय ज्ञाप संख्या-1754/79-5-2009-2/09, दिनांक 16-9-2009 के प्रस्तरों में संशोधन/व्यवस्था विषयक शासन के कार्यालय ज्ञाप संख्या-2768/79-5-2010-2/09, दिनांक 28-2-2011 के प्रस्तर-1(1) में वित्त विभाग की सहमति से निम्नानुसार व्यवस्था की गयी थी:-

"कार्यालय ज्ञाप संख्या-1754, दिनांक 16-9-2009 के प्रस्तर-4(2) एवं 4(4) के संबंध में यह व्यवस्था उन शिक्षकों/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों पर भी लागू होगी, जो दिनांक 01-1-2006 तथा 15-9-2009 के मध्य 33 वर्ष की अर्हकारी सेवा पूर्ण करके सेवानिवृत्त होंगे, जो शिक्षक/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारी दिनांक 01-1-2006 से दिनांक 15-9-2009 के मध्य सेवानिवृत्त हुए हैं, परन्तु उनकी अर्हकारी सेवा 33 वर्ष की पूर्ण नहीं होती है उन्हे पेंशन की पूर्व नियमों के अधीन, उनकी सेवाअवधि के आधार पर अनुपातिक दर से अनुमन्य होगी।"

2. वित्त (सामान्य) अनुभाग-3 के शासनादेश संख्या-सा-3-1622/दस-2010-308/97, दिनांक 10-11-2010 में प्रदत्त आदेश द्वारा राजकीय सेवानिवृत्त कर्मियों के लिये दिनांक 01-1-2006 को अथवा उसके उपरान्त सेवानिवृत्त/मृत कर्मियों को 20 वर्ष की सेवा पर पूर्ण पेंशन का लाभ दिये जाने की व्यवस्था दिनांक 08-12-2008 के स्थान पर दिनांक 01-1-2006 से प्रभावी कर दी गयी है। अतः एतद्द्वारा बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद द्वारा संचालित विद्यालयों में कार्यरत शिक्षकों/शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों को 20 वर्ष की सेवा पर पूर्ण पेंशन का लाभ दिये जाने की व्यवस्था शासनादेश निर्गत होने की तिथि से प्रभावी होने के स्थान पर दिनांक 01-1-2006 से प्रभावी की जाती है।

3. 60 वर्ष के उपरान्त सेवानिवृत्ति का विकल्प दिये जाने पर सेवानिवृत्ति/मृत्यु की दशा में ग्रेच्यूटी अनुमन्य होगी।"

22. On 23 August 2017 the State Government taking into consideration the recommendations made by the Pay Commission of 2016 enhanced the maximum gratuity payable to Rs. Twenty Lakhs.

23. The learned Chief Standing Counsel has submitted that in accordance with the provisions made in the 1964 and 1981 Rules read with the various Government and Office Orders issued from time to time, it was incumbent upon all teachers to submit an option to receive gratuity within the time frame stipulated therein. According to the learned Chief Standing Counsel a failure on the part of the teachers to timely submit their options must necessarily be held as depriving them of their right to receive gratuity. It was his submission that the decision in Usha Rani did not take notice of the aforesaid requirement and proceeded on the premise that an option was liable to be exercised right up to the time of a teacher attaining the age of superannuation. Sri Maurya learned Chief Standing Counsel placing reliance upon the judgment rendered by a Division Bench of the Court in Prakash Chandra Sharma (Since deceased) through L.R. (Wife) v. Dy. Director of Education Bareilly Region, Bareilly And Others9 submitted that an option must mandatorily be submitted in accordance with the provisions made in the relevant rules and in the absence thereof a right to receive gratuity is lost. He further contended that an option once submitted and duly taken on record by the State attains finality and could not have been modified or changed. Sri Maurya placed reliance upon paragraph-25 of that decision which is reproduced hereunder: -

"25. During the course of argument learned counsel relying on Rule of 1965 giving benefit of 'Tiple Benefit Scheme' notified by G.O. Of 1965 argued that in the matter of pension Regional Deputy Director is the Competent Authority, and therefore, option exercised by a teacher for getting death-cum-retirement gratuity is required to accepted by the Regional Deputy Director of Education to attain finality. We are not inclined to accept this contention, for the reasons that the benefit of death-cum-retirement gratuity was for the first time accepted by the State Government by G.O. dated 10.8.1978 and consequently, a rule (Niyamavali of 1981) was framed and notified by G.O. dated 29.8.1981 prescribing the manner and procedure to exercise the option An official act is to be done in the manner and procedure prescribed in the Rule framed in that regard and not otherwise. Therefore, we are of the view that for claiming death-cum-retirement gratuity the option is to be exercised and accepted in the manner as laid down in the Niyamavali of 1981 notwithstanding Rule 1965 otherwise the entire Scheme would become unworkable."

24. Learned Chief Standing Counsel then pressed in aid the decision of the Division Bench in State of U.P. And Others v. Shashthi Dutt Shastri And Others10 and more particularly upon paragraph-19 of that decision which reads thus:-

"19. It is also to be noted that in the present cases the petitioners had already exercised their option to forgo the gratuity and continued in the service till the age of 60 years and as such they cannot turn around and claim that they be provided gratuity at par with the teachers working in Government colleges."

25. Learned Chief Standing Counsel lastly invited the attention of the Court to the judgment of a learned Judge in Prakash Chandra Sharma v. Dy. Director of Education Bareilly Region, Bareilly11 where the following conclusions came to be recorded:-

"19. The conclusions emerging from the above discussion may be summed up as below:

(i) The option to retire at the age of 58 years exercised by a teacher becomes final and irrevocable after it is counter-signed by the competent Authority referred to in paragraph 16 of the Niyamawali and copies of the same are endorsed to the Manager of the Institution for being affixed in the Service book and the Controlling Authority namely, the Regional Dy. Director of Education for record as comprehend by Rule 16 of the Niyamawali. The question of withdrawal of the option does not arise thereafter.

(ii) Option to retire at the age of 58 years is, in effect, an option fur death-cum-retirement gratuity as per Government Order, dated 10-8-1978 read with G. O., dated 28-8-1981. The exercise of option and its acceptance/authentication/confirmation, is governed by the G. O. dated 10-8-1978 read with Niyamawali issued vide Government Order, dated 28-8-1981. The Government Orders dated 4-11-1991 read with G. O. dated 6-10-90 do not alter the legal position comprehended by the G.Os. aforesaid. At the most they confer a right in favour of those teachers, who had not been able to opt for gratuity by giving their options to retire at the age of 58 years, to give options for the same within the period stipulated in the G. O. , dated 4-11-1991. It does not confer any right in favour of a teacher who had already opted for retirement at the age of 58 years and whose option has been countersigned/ accepted by the competent Authority, withdraw the same and opt to retire at the statutorily prescribed age of 60 years."

26. Drawing the attention of the Court to the Government Order of 23 November 1994, learned Chief Standing Counsel contended that since that drew a parallel between teachers in primary educational institutions and those working in secondary institutions and placed them at par for the purposes of payment of gratuity subject to them submitting an option to retire at the age of 58 years, the requirements placed by the 1981 Rules would ipso facto apply to the case of the present petitioners also. The submission in essence was that in the absence of an option to retire at the age of 58 or 60 years being submitted, the right to receive gratuity would stand forfeited. It is in the aforesaid backdrop that the Court now proceeds to evaluate the correctness of the contention that Usha Rani is liable to be reconsidered.

27. It may at this preliminary stage be noted that the decisions rendered by the learned Judge and the Division Bench in Prakash Chandra Sharma do not deal with the question which falls for determination in this batch. Those two decisions were essentially dealing with the question whether an option once submitted and accepted was liable to be treated as sacrosanct. Answering the same the Court in Prakash Chandra Sharma held that an option once submitted and accepted in accordance with the procedure prescribed and prevalent could not be modified. The aforesaid principle was reiterated in Shashthi Dutt Shastri. However, as a reading of the principal question framed by the Court would show, the issue here is whether a right to receive gratuity can be said to be lost solely on account of a failure on the part of the teacher to have submitted an option prior to his death and attaining the age of retirement.

28. At the very outset the Court deems it apposite to underline some significant distinguishing features between the 1964 and the 1981 Rules. Firstly, the 1964 Rules did not contemplate an option to receive gratuity being submitted at all. As is evident from a reading of Rule 5, gratuity became payable immediately upon a teacher passing away while in service.

The only additional fetter which stood imposed was of the teacher having rendered three years of continuous service prior to his demise. The Note to that Rule specifically mandated that gratuity would not be payable where the death occurred after the retirement of the teacher. The requirement of an option came to be introduced for the first time by virtue of the Government Order of 8 March 1978 which extended pensionary benefits to teachers of primary educational institutions at par with their counterparts in government colleges. An option from these teachers was liable to be obtained since at the relevant time they were also beneficiaries of the provident fund which came to be created in terms of the 1975 Rules noticed above. The extension of the cutoff date for submission of options as contemplated under the aforementioned Government Order must consequently be understood in the aforesaid and limited context. Options for receipt of gratuity are fundamentally traceable to the Government Order of 23 November 1994. It was this executive direction which for the first time introduced the requirement of an option being submitted. The scheme of this Government Order must necessarily be evaluated bearing in mind the fact that by this time the age of retirement had been extended from 58 to 60 years. It was in the aforesaid backdrop that teachers were called upon to opt either to receive gratuity and exit service at the age of 58 years or continue till attaining the age of 60 years. The said Government Order was then followed up by the Order of 10 June 2002 which provided for options being submitted one year prior to the teacher reaching the age of superannuation and in any case by the 1st of July of the academic year in which the teacher was to retire. While this Government Order principally dealt with the subject of change of options that may have been submitted in terms of the Order of 23 November 1994, the respondents have unambiguously conceded and submitted that the timelines as envisaged under this Order was uniformly and consistently followed with respect to all teachers who may have come to be engaged post 1994 and thereafter. Regard must be had to the fact that the Order of 23 November 1994 which required options being submitted within 90 days of its issuance would necessarily have applied and stand restricted to those teachers who were already in employment on the date of its issuance. The only subsequent Government Order of import and having a material bearing on the question of submission of options was that of 4 February 2004. This Order essentially took into consideration the fact that the age of retirement had come to be increased to 62 and therefore the corresponding requirement of options being invited from teacher to either exit service at 60 years and receive gratuity or continue in service till the age of 62 years. The aforesaid order clearly recited that all previous orders issued on the subject were to be deemed to have been amended only to the aforesaid and limited extent.

29. From the aforesaid recordal of facts it is evident that insofar as primary educational institutions were concerned, no statutory provision commanded the submission of options in order to be entitled to receive gratuity. The concept of submission of options came to be introduced by virtue of the Government Order of 23 November 1994 and those which came to be subsequently issued and have been noticed above. The Court also takes cognizance of the statement of the learned Chief Standing Counsel who stated that the provisions of the Government

Order of 10 June 2002 though ostensibly made in the context of change of options were what was consistently followed by the Board in respect of teachers who came to enter service post 1994 and is adhered to even today.

30. As an ancillary aspect connected with the above, it may be noted that Rule 13 of the 1964 Rules dealing with the issue of nomination also made provisions for a contingency where a teacher had failed to make a nomination prior to his death. Rule 13 dealing with that eventuality provided that in the event of no nomination having been made it would be the Director of Education who was designated to be the final authority to adjudge who would be entitled to the amount of gratuity. That award as made by the Director was to be binding on all parties. The aforesaid provisions made in Rule 13 are liable to be read in conjunction with Rule 6 which provided that a teacher covered by the 1964 Rules would be obliged to make a nomination upon completion of three years of continuous service indicating the names of the members of his family who would have the right to receive gratuity upon his death. These provisions also indicate that a right of a family member to receive gratuity consequent to the death of a teacher covered by the 1964 Rules was not completely effaced or lost.

31. However, the position of teachers working in Higher Secondary institutions and governed by the provisions of the 1971 Act came to be drastically altered upon the promulgation of the 1981 Rules. This the Court observes since Rule 3 of the 1964 Rules originally covered even those teachers who were working in Higher Secondary Schools and Degree colleges. Upon the promulgation of the 1981 Rules, teachers working in those categories of institutions came to be exorcised from the ambit of the 1964 Rules. Rule 4 of the 1981 Rules acts and operates in stark contrast to the provisions made in the 1964 Rules. In contrast to the aforesaid Rules, Rule 3 of the 1981 Rules postulates that those who wish to retire at the age of 58 years would have to submit an option in that regard within six months of the publication of those Rules. It further prescribed that an option once exercised would be deemed to be final. Rule 4 of the 1981 Rules states that teachers who come to be appointed after the publication of those Rules and fail to furnish an option indicating that they desire to retire at the age of 58 years within 2 years of being confirmed in service would not be covered by those Rules. Rule 11 then proceeded to amplify the conditions subject to which gratuity would be payable. One of the primary conditions imposed was the submission of an option to retire at 58 years. The language of Rule 4 seems to indicate that the right to receive gratuity was directly dependent upon the teacher exercising a choice to retire at the age of 58 years and a failure to submit that choice within the time frame stipulated was to result in the 1981 Rules themselves ceasing to apply to such a teacher. The Government Order of 17 February 1999 diluted the rigour of this requirement by providing that an option to retire at the age of 58 years may be submitted a year before attaining the age of superannuation and latest by the 1st of July of the academic year in which the date of retirement was to fall.

32. However, the distinguishing feature of the scheme applicable to teachers of primary educational institutions was that a failure to submit an option was never considered as a fait accompli. As was noticed above, the first Government Order of 08 March 1978 required all options to be submitted by 30 June 1978. That date then came to be extended up to 31 December 1981. However, and for obvious reasons the aforesaid two Government Orders could have only applied to those teachers who were already in the employment of the respondents. By the subsequent Government Order of 03 December 1991, the respondents required all teachers to exercise an option to receive pensionary benefits within 90 days of the issuance of that Order. The prescription of a 90 days period for submission of options was reiterated in the Government Order of 23 November 1994. However, the string of orders did not deal with the case of those teachers who were and would have come to be engaged by the respondents after their promulgation. Though the order of 10 June 2002 on its plain reading essentially dealt with the situation of where a teacher desired to change the option which had been submitted, it was fairly conceded by the learned Chief Standing Counsel that the stipulations made therein, namely, of options being submitted one year prior to the age of superannuation being reached and in any case by 01 July of the academic year in which the age of retirement was falling was uniformly followed and implemented in respect of all teachers who came to be engaged and employed by the respondents from time to time and post the issuance of the Government Orders of 23 November 1994. On a specific query being put, learned Chief Standing Counsel submitted that this practice of permitting the submission of options prior to attaining the age of superannuation and in accordance with the timelines as prescribed in the Government Order of 10 June 2002 has been consistently followed in the department. Regard must also be had to similar provisions which were made in the Government Order of 17 February 1999 which dealt with the case of teachers employed in government aided and privately managed Senior Secondary institutions. While even that Government Order principally dealt with an issue of change of option and provided that a modification may be made prior to a teacher attaining the age of superannuation, the practice followed remained the same namely of options submitted even at the first instance being permitted to be filed before the respondents one year prior to the teacher attaining the age of superannuation and in any case by the first of July of the academic year in which the date of superannuation were to fall. More importantly neither the 1963 Rules nor the various Government Orders issued in connection with the right of teachers working in primary educational institutions administered by the Board to claim gratuity provided for the same being lost forever or being forfeited consequent to a failure to submit an option. In any case they did not introduce or prescribe a corresponding connection between entry into service and the submission of an option. In fact, and as was conceded on behalf of the State, teachers had been conferred the right to exercise that option up to one year prior to reaching the age of retirement. The only additional stipulation that was placed was of that option being submitted before 1 July of the academic year in which the teacher was to retire. The absence of a negative stipulation and a prescription specifying the adverse consequences of inaction clearly operates in favour of teachers and the petitioners here. The Court also bears in mind the undisputed position on facts which has emerged of teachers being permitted to submit their options prior to attaining the age of superannuation and latest by 1st of July of the academic year in which they were to attain the age of retirement. Once that is conceded to be the accepted procedure consistently followed, the Court fails to find any justification to hold teachers to be under an obligation to submit an option immediately upon entry into service.

33. The Court also finds itself unable to accept the contention of the respondents that the Government Order of 23 November 1994 having conferred parity upon teachers of primary educational institutions and their counterparts in secondary medium schools must be read as attracting the 1981 Rules. Undisputedly the 1981 Rules have never been adopted by or extended in their application by any order statutory or otherwise to teachers in primary educational institutions governed by the Board. Those Rules were made in the context and backdrop of the 1971 Act which admittedly has no application to this category of teachers. The Court thus finds itself unable to sustain the submission that the 1981 Rules would apply to these teachers merely on the basis of the Order of 23 November 1994. The Court also notes that the said order itself does not either explicitly or implicitly extend the application of the 1981 Rules to teachers working in institutions governed by the Board. The contention as advanced also does not flow impliedly from a reading of that Government Order. The application of Rules cannot be inferred by way of an interpretational sidewind. The expression "at par with" as employed in that Government Order does not lend strength to the contention as urged either especially when a careful and holistic reading of that Order establishes that the aforesaid expression was used only to underline the fact that teachers of aided secondary educational institutions stood at par with other employees of the State Government for the purposes of gratuity. The submissions advanced on the aforesaid lines thus stands negatived.

34. It is in the aforesaid background that the Court now proceeds to consider whether the petitioners here can be denied the benefit of gratuity. Undisputedly the teachers and employees in the batch of these writ petitions died prior to attaining the age of superannuation. As per the stand and practice of the State consistently followed, they had a right to exercise an option up to one year prior to their retirement and by the first of July of the academic year in which the date of retirement was being reached. It is in the aforesaid light that the decision rendered in Usha Rani took the view that death being an unforeseen circumstance and an event which is clearly unpredictable could not have resulted in family members of those teachers being denuded of the right to claim gratuity. The submission which came to be accepted was that the respondents could not have presumed that a teacher had decided that he would continue upto 60 or 62 years. Indubitably death is a circumstance which is neither predictable nor is it an occurrence which can possibly be foreseen or anticipated.

35. Viewed in that light it would be wholly erroneous and irrational to hold that a teacher was liable to submit an option prior to his demise. The submission of an option to receive gratuity cannot legally be recognised as being attached to a circumstance which by its very inherent character is unforeseeable and incapable of being prophesized. Lastly, as was rightly held in Usha Rani and the various decisions noticed in that judgment, it would be wholly impermissible for the respondents to assume either that the teacher wished to continue beyond the age of 60 or 62 years or that he wished to forego gratuity merely because an option in that respect could not be submitted prior to their unexpected demise. Teachers while serving under the respondents would be presumed to be aware of the practice and requirement of submitting the requisite option one year prior to attaining the age of retirement coupled with the additional burden of ensuring that the option was submitted not later than the 1st of July of the academic year in which the teacher was to retire. If that was the recognised methodology consistently followed by the respondents, it would be wholly incongruous to recognise a responsibility placed upon teachers to submit that option prior to their untimely demise. On a more fundamental plane it must necessarily be stated that the State has failed to place for the consideration of the Court any prescription, statutory or otherwise, which may have drawn an inviolable line in time which when crossed was envisaged to denude a teacher of his right to claim gratuity.

36. It may only be observed that the State would have been justified in refusing a claim for gratuity in case a teacher had continued in service beyond the stipulated age of retirement and thereafter died while in service. For instance, in case a teacher has continued beyond the age of 58 or 60 years without exercising the requisite option, he would be deemed to have taken and derived benefit of the extended age of retirement. While serving under the respondents in that extended tenure the teacher may have been presumed to have decided to continue in service till the age of 60 or 62 years. However, in a case where death occurs prior to the teacher attaining the age of 58 or 60 years cannot reasonably merit an assumption being made that such a teacher wanted to continue up to the extended and increased age of retirement.

37. Viewed in light of the above, it is manifest that the decision in Usha Rani appears to have rightly taken the position that gratuity cannot be denied in a situation where a teacher dies prior to reaching the age of retirement and the death having occurred a year before the age of retirement was being reached. The various Government Orders which have been referred to by the respondents far from casting a shadow of doubt on the correctness of the judgment in Usha Rani buttress and support the conclusions recorded therein. For all the aforesaid reasons, the stand of the respondents that the petitioners here would not be entitled to gratuity consequent to a failure on the part of the deceased teacher having failed to exercise an option would not sustain.

38. The writ petitions are consequently allowed. The respondents are hereby directed to evaluate the claim of the petitioners for release of gratuity in light of the conclusions recorded hereinabove. The exercise of consideration shall be concluded with expedition and a final decision communicated to the petitioners within a period of 3 months from the date of presentation of a duly authenticated of this judgment before the Basic Education Officer concerned.

A. Service Law – Non-practicing allowance - U.P. Government Doctors (Allopathic) Restriction on Private Practice Rules, 1983 - Rule 3, 4(b) - U.P. Government Doctors (Allopathic) Restriction on Private Practice (Second Amendment) Rules, 2005.

The 7th Pay Commission recommendations were approved by State of U.P on 09/03/2019 and given effect to vide GO dated 09/08/2019. The benefit of the same was given to the petitioners, and they started receiving the enhanced rate of NPA, till passing of the impugned GOs. (Para 5)

The bulwark of the challenge in this bunch of writ petitions is discrimination meted out to the petitioners by the unreasonable classification introduced by the State Government, by the impugned GOs dated 14/07/2020 and 04/09/2020, both having the effect of disentitling the petitioners who retired prior to 24/08/2009 of the revised rate of Non-Practicing Allowance (NPA). (Para 6)

In one set of writ petitions the GOs dated 14/07/2020 and recovery order dated 16/07/2020 have been challenged, while second set of petitions, the challenge is to the GO dated 04/09/2020 which had amended the earlier GO dated 09/03/2019. The consequential relief sought in both the writ petitions is writ of mandamus to command the opposite parties to pay the NPA as per the existing revised rate of 20% as fixed by the GO dated 09/08/2019. (Para 6)

Maintainability – The present petition at the behest of persons holding Office of Director/Additional Director at the time of the retirement even though initially excluded from the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance due to operation of the exclusionary clause in the rules of 1983, but subsequently, after amendment of 2005, were granted benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance, would be maintainable. The embargo imposed by the rules of 1983 was lifted when the said rules were amended in 2005 and they became entitled to receive the Non-Practicing Allowance. From 2005 till passing of the impugned order dated 14/07/2020, there is nothing on record to show that petitioners were disentitled from receiving the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance.

The petitioners being aggrieved by the impugned orders which have disentitled them from the benefit of the Non-Practicing Allowance due to the fortuitous circumstance, that their date of the retirement is prior to 24/08/2009, and not because they were holding the post of Director/Additional Director at the time of the retirement, which grievance can legally and validly be raised by them in the present set of petitions. (Para 23)

An individual cannot be non-suited, just because an Association of which he is a member has also preferred a similar writ petition on the same subject matter. A writ petition is maintainable before the High Court by any person who is aggrieved by the action of the State as being violative of part III of the Constitution. An individual has a right to enforce his fundamental rights enshrined in part III of the Constitution, and the rights to sue, to enforce the fundamental rights is not subservient or subject to a class action by the Association of which he is a member.

In the present case, the Association and the individual members have raised a common challenge to the impugned Government Orders. The petitioners are discontent by the impugned Government orders as they have been personally deprived of the benefit of the Non-Practicing Allowance and therefore they are the "aggrieved" and can validly ventilate their grievance by means of a writ petition u/Article 226 of the Constitution and also that the benefit or otherwise arising from the outcome of the present writ petitions, shall necessarily be of the individual members. (Para 24)

B. Prospective application of Government Orders – The State Government while interpreting the words "prospective/immediate effect", in the GO dated 24/08/2009 have understood it to mean that the benefit of the said order would be given to persons retiring after coming into effect of the said GO, i.e. 24/08/2009.

Prospective application has no correlation to the eligibility of claiming Non-Practicing Allowance (NPA). To make it abundantly clear the prospective operation of such Government orders only means that the revised rates are applicable from that particular day onwards, and no arrears can be claimed on the basis of the revised rates prior to the said date. There is no quarrel about their right to receive NPA, as the petitioners are regularly being paid pension as revised by the State Government from time to time. The allowances are also revised by the State Government from time to time looking into various factors including the cost index of living. Similarly, the NPA has been constantly revised since 1983, and it has always been co-related with the scale of pay an even though prior to 24/08/2009 it was on a slab basis, but still it was roughly a particular percentage of the basic salary which is clearly discernible on a plain reading of the aforesaid GOs. The GO dated 24/08/2009 also revised the rate of NPA and made it 25% of the basic salary. Apart from the revision of the rates in the said GO, there is no such tectonic shift in the policy w.r.t. payment of NPA which the State claims has led to create a watershed between the persons retiring prior to 24/08/2009 and those retiring subsequently, nor any such provision could be demonstrated by the State. Any such allowance like NPA is not liable to remain stagnant over a period of time in its application to petitioners while it is revised from time to time with regard to others similarly situated. (Para 55, 92, 93)

C. Retrospective application of impugned Government Order - In the absence of any provision contained in the legislative Act, a delegatee cannot make a delegated legislation with retrospective effect. There is no dispute over the fact that the legislature can make a law retrospectively or prospectively subject to justifiability and acceptability within the constitutional parameters. A subordinate legislation can be given retrospective effect if a power in this behalf is contained in the principal Act. (Para 55)

The Government was exercising its delegated power u/Rule 4 of the rules of 1983, which provided that the State Government could fix the rates of NPA from time to time. The impugned GO dated 04/09/2020 having fixed the rates of NPA w.r.t. the petitioners retrospectively, with effect from 24/08/2009, which is impermissible as per the law laid down by the Apex court. The impugned GO purportedly clarifying the earlier G.O. dated 09/08/2019 provided that the petitioners would only be entitled to NPA which they were receiving at the time of their retirement. In the meanwhile, the petitioners have received enhanced amount of NPA, which is also sought to be recovered by the impugned order. The impugned GO has the effect of refixing the rates with effect from 24/08/2009, therefore is clearly without jurisdiction and arbitrary. Consequently, the GO dated 04/09/2020 is clearly without authority illegal and arbitrary. (Para 56)

Retrospective dis-entitlement of Non-Practicing Allowance is clearly without jurisdiction, illegal, arbitrary and clearly violates all canons of reasonableness. Clause 3 of the GO dated 14/07/2020 states that from 24/08/2009 to 31/12/2015 the persons having retired prior to 24/08/2009 will be entitled to the same amount of Non-Practicing Allowance which they were receiving at the time of retirement. This clause clearly indicates that there was no GO, or any decision of the Government prior to 14/07/2020 not to revise the rate of NPA w.r.t. the Government doctors who retired prior to 24/08/2009.

The rules of 1983 entitle the Government to fix the rate of NPA from time to time, but there is no statutory provision enabling the Government to give retrospectivity effect to such determination. The rules of 1983 do not contain any provision enabling the State Government while exercising its power u/rule 4 to fix the rates, to make them applicable retrospectively. This fixation of rate with regard to the petitioners has retrospective application, and therefore, beyond the mandate of the State Government u/Rule 4 of the Rules of 1983, and contrary to the law. Therefore, without there being any enabling provision in this regard in the rules of 1983, the impugned order specially clause 3 of GO dated 04/09/2020 is without jurisdiction, illegal and arbitrary. (Para 57)

D. Colourable exercise of Power - The judicial pronouncements by court of competent jurisdiction cannot be set to naught by the action of the legislature or executive as it would amount to an encroachment on the judicial power. (Para 64)

Comparing both the impugned GOs it is noticed that they provide for the same entitlement regarding the petitioners who retired prior to 24/08/2009 and both the impugned GOs are to the effect that the petitioners would be receiving the same amount of NPA which they were receiving at the time of the retirement, without any benefit of revision. (Para 68)

It is well settled that rights and benefits which have already been earned or acquired under the existing rules cannot be taken away by amending the rules with retrospective effect. There cannot be any doubt whatsoever that the GO dated 04/09/2020 is nothing but a repetition of the earlier GO dated 14/08/2020. The respondents could not point out any difference in both the GOs, w.r.t. its application to the petitioners and also w.r.t. their entitlement of NPA. Such an exercise of power as has been done by the State in the present case, cannot be said to be a legitimate in exercise of powers vested in clause 4 of the rules of 1983, and is arbitrary and consequently violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. (Para 69, 70)

Once there is a judicial opinion, even if it is in form of an interim order, the Executive cannot be allowed to be override the said order, and in case the same is done it would amount to transgression of their power, and such an action is liable to be set aside as being without jurisdiction and authority. The G.O. dated 04/09/2020 has the effect of depriving the petitioners of their entitlement to the revised rate of NPA. The GO dated 04/09/2020 is clearly a device or a mechanism used by the respondents to circumvent the interim order of this Court dated 24/08/2020 by which the GOs dated 14/07/2020 and 16/07/2020 were stayed. In case the State was aggrieved by the interim order dated 24/08/2020, it was always open for them to move an application for vacation of the stay, or to move a special appeal, or approach the Supreme Court. The Government does not have any power to override a judicial order by executive fiat. The demarcation of power has clearly been delineated in the Constitution where the power to declare a legislative or executive act to be unconstitutional is vested only with the judiciary. The impugned order dated 04/09/2020 is clearly illegal and arbitrary as it has been passed in the teeth of the interim orders of this Court dated 24/08/2020. (Para 72)

E. Reasonable Classification - The Government has a right to treat different classes differently, and to that extent classification is permissible, but the classes so made should be characterised by certain distinction, and the distinction in the two classes should be based on differential attributes which would have just and rational having nexus to the objects sought to be achieved. (Para 80)

The GO dated 24/08/2009 does not distinguish between pre and post retirees nor does it create any class in its application for revision of the NPA, and therefore the State post facto could not have discovered and created two classes where none existed.

GOs which have been issued from time to time in exercise of rule 4 of the rules of 1983, have only approved the revision of the rate of NPA in sync with the recommendations of the Central Pay Commission where also no distinction has been made between serving doctors and retired doctors in its application to NPA, indicating that there never was any such distinction real or apparent as has been sought to be made as per the impugned orders. (Para 82)

The GOs failed the test of reasonable classification and the classification sought to be made on the basis of cut-off date being 24/08/2009 is bereft of reason and also that there is no intelligible differentia between the two classes so created the impugned orders are clearly violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. (Para 83)

F. Government Order to correct the error in earlier Government Order - Firstly there was no error, apparent or otherwise in the GO dated 09/03/2019 and secondly, there was no occasion to correct the said GO, which did not contain any deficiency or error and therefore on this score also the order dated 04/09/2020 itself is illegal and arbitrary. (Para 86)

G. Non-Practicing Allowance is payable to retired Government doctors - The petitioners are receiving a fixed amount as NPA as a part of their pension. The GOs dated 31/08/1989 and 01/02/2003 have explicitly extended the benefit of NPA to the retired Government doctors which would form part of the pension, and therefore the contention of the respondents that the petitioners are not entitled to NPA because they have retired, is clearly wanting in rationality and reasonableness, and even otherwise is clearly contrary to the said GOs, and is therefore rejected. (Para 87)

H. Withdrawal of NPA without opportunity of hearing - The GO dated 24/08/2009 while enhancing the rate of NPA to 25% was ipso facto applicable to serving Government doctors, as well as to the retired Government doctors in as much as the earlier GOs dated 31/08/1989 and 01/02/2003 had explicitly extended the benefit of NPA to the retired Government doctors. (Para 88)

Constitution of India - Article 14, 300A – Principles of natural justice - When a vested right sought to be taken away, then it is mandatory to provide an opportunity of hearing to the person concerned, in absence of which the action of the State is liable to be set aside as being violative of principles of natural justice. The revision on the rate of NPA 25% of the basic salary became a vested right of the pensioners and thus was duly protected as property under Article 300A of the Constitution, and they could not be deprived of same without following the procedure established by law. As noticed above, there was no error in the impugned GOs. The petitioners were never afforded any opportunity of hearing before passing of the impugned GOs, and hence on this ground also the impugned GO dated 04/09/2020 are arbitrary and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. (Para 89)

I. Financial Constraint - The State government being and are duty bound to pay the statutory dues of the employees cannot avoid its liability citing financial constraint. In the instant case there is no denial of the fact that the NPA is admissible to the petitioners and is being paid, it is only the applicability of revised rates which is under question. The claim of the petitioner is based on statutory rules and GOs where they have been entitled for the same, and in this regard wherever there is budgetary allocation of resources, then it is presumed that the provision has been made for the same, and plea of financial constraint would not be acceptable. (Para 96)

It is also noticed that whenever a fresh liability is sought to be created on the State then the contours and parameters of examination are different, and usually, the stand of the State may be accepted as such except when a claim is made on ground of discrimination. Where one class of persons is already receiving the benefit, and the same is sought to be extended to the other class, then the ground of financial constraint cannot inhibit a claim on ground of equal treatment, as the Constitutional Courts are under a mandate to give effect to the equality clause as mandated by Constitution of India. (Para 97)

The impugned recovery orders are illegal and arbitrary inasmuch as the NPA was duly fixed by the Government and paid to them to which they were entitled. This entire exercise was done by the State Government without any involvement of the petitioners, and they were duly entitled for the same. Even otherwise the said recovery will cause immense hardship. (Para 106)

Present appeal assails Government orders dated 14.07.2020 and 04.09.2020.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. The petitioners in this batch of writ petitions have raised common grievance, and hence they have been heard together and are being decided by a common judgment. The petitioners are Allopathic doctors who have served under the State Government and have since retired. They are aggrieved by the Government orders dated 14/7/2020 and 04/09/2020 whereby they have been denied the revised rate of Non-Practicing Allowance on the ground that they have retired prior to the cutoff date 24/08/2009, while doctors similarly placed and who have retired after 24/08/2009 has been entitled to the revised rate of Non-Practicing Allowance, and hence, they assert to have been unreasonably discriminated, and have prayed for setting aside of the said Government orders as well as the recovery orders passed in consequence of the impugned orders.

2. The facts in brief are that the petitioners are retired Allopathic Doctors of the Provincial Medical and Health Services of Government of U.P who have superannuated prior to 24/08/2009. The Government of Uttar Pradesh promulgated the U.P. Government Doctors (Allopathic) Restriction on Private Practice Rules, 1983 (hereinafter referred to as, Rules of 1983). By means of the aforesaid Rules of 1983 restriction was placed on Government

Doctors and they were banned from obtaining any pecuniary advantage by engaging in private consultancy, and in lieu of the said restriction a Non-Practising Allowance was made available to them, which was to be determined by the State Government.

3. In exercise of its delegated power, the State Government vide order dated 31/08/1989 has not only revised the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance but also provided that it will be treated as part of pay for all service benefits including DA, TA and other allowances and also for pensionary benefits. Subsequently, the rates were revised in 2003 and they were made applicable uniformly on all including the petitioners.

4. The 6th Central Pay Commission recommendations were approved, with regard to Non-Practicing Allowance, by the State of U.P. by Government order dated 24/08/2009, whichrevised the Non-Practicing Allowance to 25% of the basic pay plus grade pay. The benefit of G.O dated 24/08/2009 did not in any manner disentitle the petitioners, but they were not given the benefit of the revised rates.

5. The 7th Pay Commission recommendations were approved by State of U.P on 09/03/2019 and given effect to vide Government order dated 09/08/2019. The benefit of the same was given to the petitioners, and they started receiving the enhanced rate of Non-Practicing Allowance, till passing of the impugned Government orders.

6. The bulwark of the challenge in this bunch of writ petitions is discrimination meted out to the petitioners by the unreasonable classification introduced by the State Government, by the impugned Government orders dated 14/07/2020 and 04/09/2020, both having the effect of disentitling the petitioners who retired prior to 24/08/2009 of the revised rate of Non-Practicing Allowance. In one set of writ petitions the Government orders dated 14/07/2020 and recovery order dated 16/07/2020 have been challenged, while second set of petitions, the challenge is to the Government order dated 04/09/2020 which had amended the earlier Government order dated 09/03/2019. The consequential relief sought in both the writ petitions is writ of mandamus to command the opposite parties to pay the Non-Practicing Allowance as per the existing revised rate of 20% as fixed by the Government order dated 09/08/2019.

7. Sri Hari Prasad Gupta, Sri Hari Ram Gupta and Sri Manish Mishra Advocates have appeared on behalf of the petitioners, and Sri Ramesh Kumar Singh, Senior Advocate Learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Ashutosh Singh has addressed this court on behalf of the State.

8. It has been submitted by the Counsels appearing on behalf of the petitioners that the U.P Government Doctors Allopathic Restriction on Private Practice Rules, 1983 provides for grant of Non-Practicing Allowance in lieu of their entitlement for private practice at the rates which will be specified by the Government from time to time. It has been submitted that a vested right has been created in favour of the Government doctors for payment of the Non-Practicing Allowance in lieu of the ban on private practice as per the rules of 1983.

9. Subsequent to their retirement, the petitioners have been receiving Non-Practicing Allowance and there is no dispute with regard to their entitlement to receive the same. They claim that the State is acting illegal and arbitrary by not revising the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance with regard to the petitioners by wrongly interpreting the clause "the revised rates would be applicable with immediate effect" in the Government order dated 09/08/2019 to mean that the same would be applicable only to the persons retiring after the said date, and not the person retiring prior to the said date, like the petitioners.

10. The petitioners would submit that the correct interpretation of the said Government order would be that the revised rates of Non-Practicing Allowance would be effective prospectively across the board, and no person either in service retired can claim arrears of Non-Practicing Allowance, on the basis of revised rates from 01/01/2006 to 24/08/2009.

11. The petitioners claim that they are entitled to the revised amount of the Non-Practicing Allowance as prescribed by the Government from time to time and seek to challenge the decision of the State Government in restricting it only to the fixed amount payable at the time of retirement, as being illegal and arbitrary and violative of Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India.

12. Sri Manish Mishra Advocate submitted that the impugned Government orders has created two classes of pensioners with the cut of date being 24/08/2009, dividing both these classes of pensioners, and they have both been held to be entitled to receive Non-Practicing Allowance, but at differential rates, solely on the basis of the date of retirement. It has been submitted that there is no valid justification for creating the two classes, and the date of retirement does not have any rational nexus for determination of the quantum of Non-Practicing Allowance, nor is there any rational basis for such classification and consequently the impugned Government orders are hit by vice of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. It is urged that all the pensioners who form one class, are entitled to the same amount of Non-Practicing Allowance as revised by the Government from time to time, irrespective of date of retirement. To further canvas their submissions, it has been submitted that for a valid classification, there must be some distinguishing feature which separates or distinguishes one class from the other, in which case, the State may validly provide for different amount of Non-Practicing Allowance to such classes. Any such classification, for it to be valid, must necessarily satisfy the twin test, one that it should be based on some intelligible differentia, and secondly, that it should have a reasonable nexus with the object sought to be achieved. It is stated that both these material aspects are lacking in the classes so created, and hence the said impugned Government orders deserve to be set aside being violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. Reliance was placed upon the judgement of the Apex court in the case of D.S. Nakara (1983)1SCC305 to buttress their contention and submitted that their case is squarely covered by the ratio laid by the Apex court therein and as well as subsequent pronouncements of the Apex Court in this regard.

13. It was further submitted that the Non-Practicing Allowance being an integral part of the basic pay of the petitioners was liable to be periodically enhanced and revised as is done with regard to the basic pay and other allowances of all the pensioners irrespective of the date of retirement following the basic principle that, being a welfare State it is the obligation of the State to provide security in old age, and escape from undeserved want which has been duly recognized, and hence, pension is treated not only as a reward for the past services but with a view to help the employee to avoid destitution in old age. The quid pro quo is that when the employee was physically and mentally alert, he rendered unto master the best, expecting him to look after him in all the fall of life. A retirement system therefore exists only for the purpose of providing benefits.

14. Reliance was also placed on the Judgement of the Supreme Court in the case of V. Kasturi vs Managing Director, State Bank of India, Bombay(1998) 8 SCC 30 where it was held that the person retiring is eligible for pension at the time of his retirement and if he survives till such time subsequent amendment of relevant pension scheme he would become eligible to enhanced pension and would become eligible to get more pension as per the new formula of computation of pension subsequently brought into force, he would be entitled to the benefit of the amended pension provision from the date of the order. Reliance was also placed on the judgement of the Apex court in the case of All Manipur Pensioners Association vs State of Manipur (2020) 14 SCC 625 and others where on similar facts Supreme Court held that all the pensioners irrespective of the date of retirement either the 1996 retirees shall be entitled to revision in pension at par with those pensioners who retired post 1999, as they form a single homogeneous class, and the differentiation sought to be made by the State Government was held to be violative of Article 14 of the Constitution.

15. The State of U.P. having introduced Liberalised Pension Scheme in 1961 by making rules which were considered necessary for augmenting Social Security in old age to Government servants other than those who retired earlier cannot be worse off than those who retired later. This division which classified pensioners into two classes is not based on rational principle and if the rational principle is the one of dividing pensioners with a view to giving something more to persons otherwise equally placed, it would be discriminatory.

16. It has been urged that by means of Government Order dated 09/08/2019, the recommendations of the 7th Pay Commission were duly approved, but under the garb of clarifying the said Government Order at the behest of the Director Treasuries, the benefit which had accrued to the petitioners with regard to the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate of 20% of the basic salary, was withdrawn. It was provided therein that the petitioners would only be entitled to the Non-Practicing Allowance which was being paid to them at the time of the retirement. This clarification has been issued nearly after one year of the approval of the recommendations of the 7th Pay Commission, during which period the Non-Practicing Allowance was being paid to the petitioners at the rate of 20% of the basic salary plus grade pay. It is submitted that once the enhanced rate of the Non-Practicing Allowance was approved and the same was being paid to the petitioners, then a vested right accrued in favour of the petitioners, and the withdrawal of the enhanced rate of Non-Practicing Allowance without any reason or affording any opportunity of hearing is illegal and arbitrary and violative of the principles of natural justice. It was stated that it was a colourable exercise of power by the State Government in issuing the impugned Government order thereby under the garb of clarification the effect of the earlier Government Order dated 09/08/2019 has been reversed, without there being any reasonable basis in the most illegal and arbitrary manner, and in effect a new policy has been introduced under garb of rectification of error, and on this score also it is ultra vires the rules of 1983.

17. Sri Manish Misra, learned counsel for the petitioners further submitted that once the recommendations of an expert committee like the Commission are accepted, which has submitted a exhaustive report after detailed discussions and consultations with various representatives of pensioners and other Government bodies, and the recommendations are duly accepted and implemented, then the same cannot be reversed in such a casual manner without giving any reasons for the same. It was stated that there are certain matters which require a wider consultation and deep insight to bring forth the relevant issues necessary for taking an informed decision, which can be gathered only after appointing a body like a commission or a committee and handing them over the specialized task like fixation of the pay and allowances, and their recommendations are liable to be accepted or rejected or accepted in modified form by the Government, but once their reasoned and informative recommendations, are accepted by the Government, then they cannot be lightly overturned and reversed without there being adequate and sufficient reasons which is totally lacking in the present case.

18. Sri Hari Ram Gupta, Advocate while assailing the Government order dated 14/09/2020 submitted that the same has been passed only to circumvent the interim orders passed by this Court staying the operation of the earlier Government order dated 14/07/2020 and the consequential order dated 16/07/2020, and therefore it was a colourable exercise of power and is hence ex facie illegal and arbitrary and beyond the competence of the State Government. It was further submitted that the malice of law is clearly evident in the said Government order, which is a vain attempt to reimpose the restriction on payment of the Non-Practicing Allowance to the petitioners as per the recommendations of the 7th Pay Commission, contrary to the interim order of this Court. The said Government order dated 04/09/2020 has only recast the previous Government order dated 14/07/2020 without making any change to the outcome or effect of the previous Government order. It is submitted that the brazenness of the State Government is writ large in issuing the impugned Government order dated 04/09/2020, where they have deliberately ignored the interim orders of this court staying the earlier Government order, and hence it is clearly an overreach of the power and authority and jurisdiction of the State Government in this regard.

19. Sri Ramesh Kumar Singh, Learned Additional Advocate General representing the State in the aforesaid writ petitions while opposing the claim of the petitioners submitted as follows:-

a. With regard to the maintainability of the writ petition it is submitted that some of the petitioners were holding the administrative posts of Director General/Director and therefore they are not entitled to receive Non-Practicing Allowance, as such Non-Practicing Allowance cannot be included for the purpose of calculation of the respective pension amounts, and they would not have any locus to raise the issues as raised by them.

b. The revisions of Non-Practicing Allowance on percentage basis as provided in Government order dated 24/08/2009 has prospective effect and is not applicable on the persons who retired before 24/08/2009 and were getting Non-Practicing Allowance in accordance with the earlier arrangement on slab basis and no changes have been made in their respective amount of Non-Practicing Allowance amount till date.

c. It is the stand of the State Government that is on account of wrong interpretation of the Government order dated 09/08/2019 the persons who retired before 24/08/2009 were paid the respective pension along with the Non-Practicing Allowance on the percentage basis and after issuance of Government order dated 14/07/2020, the error was rectified, and consequential recovery orders were passed.

d. It has also been submitted that the impugned Government orders were passed to correct administrative errors which had crept in, in interpreting the Government order dated 24/08/2009, and a "Conscious policy" decision has been taken by the State Government.

e. The State has also pleaded financial constraint, as a reason for making the "correction" by means of the impugned Government orders.

f. It has been vehemently submitted that the State Government had rectified its error and by means of the impugned order dated 04/09/2020 paragraph 4(ii)(a) of Government order dated 09/08/2019 has been amended/substituted and now it is provided that Government doctors who were receiving Non-Practicing Allowance @ 25% on the date of their retirement would be entitled to Non - practicing allowance @ 20% of the basic pay as on 01/01/2016 while according to amended paragraph 4(ii)(b) such Government doctors who at the time of retirement were getting Non-Practicing Allowance of a fixed amount on slab basis will be entitled to the same amount of Non-Practicing Allowance they were receiving without any change. In this regard it was categorically stated that the Non-Practicing Allowance amount of pensioners who retired before 24/08/2009 has never been revised till date.

g. It is stated that the State Government is fully empowered to issue orders regarding payment of Non-Practicing Allowance to the Government doctors in service and also for those who have retired, in exercise of power under rule 4 of the rules of 1983.

h. The State has relied upon the Division Bench judgement of this court dated 25/01/2018 in writ petition no. 1482 as the of 2015 in support of the submissions that the petitioners are not entitled for revision/enhancement of the amount of Non-Practicing Allowance.

i. Defending the challenge made to the impugned Government orders being violative of Article 14 in as much as they are based on unreasonable classification, it has been argued by the learned Additional Advocate General that there is a creation of two classes of pensioners, but the classification is in fact reasonable based on distinction between persons who have received Non-Practicing Allowance on slab basis and the persons who have received Non-Practicing Allowance on percentage basis. It was further submitted that the said classification is justified as it is protected under the parameters of the Financial constraints, in the interest of general public at large.

20. I have heard the counsel for the petitioners as well is the learned Additional Advocate General on behalf of the State. The following issues fall for consideration of this court:

A. Whether the writ petitions are maintainable on behalf of Allopathic the Government doctors who have retired prior to the 24/08/2009 and were holding the post of Director General/Director on the date of the retirement?

B. Whether the benefit of enhancement/revision in the rates of Non-Practicing Allowance has any bearing on the date of retirement, and more particularly as to whether the same would be payable/admissible only to the serving Government Doctors and not to the retired Government Doctors?

C. Whether the judgement of the Division Bench of this court dated 25/01/2018 can have any application in the case of the petitioners in challenging the impugned Government orders?

D. Whether the classification created by the impugned Government orders on the basis of date of retirement is valid?

E. Whether the retired Government doctors are entitled for revision rate of Non-Practicing Allowance?

Maintainability of writ petition

21. With regard to the maintainability of the writ it has been submitted that according to Rule 4 (b) of the Rules of 1983 provides the list of persons who were excluded from the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance which includes persons holding the post of Director/Additional Director, Medical Education and Training and Principle of State Medical Colleges. It is vehemently urged that such petitioners, who are holding the said posts are not entitled to Non-Practicing Allowance, and hence any petition on their behalf, in this regard, would not maintainable.

22. The counsel of the petitioner on the other hand urged that the rules of 1983 were amended, notified/published on 21/06/2005 by The U.P. Government Doctors (Allopathic) Restriction on Private Practice (Second Amendment) Rules 2005 which extended the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance even to the persons holding administrative post of Director/Additional Director. It is submitted that after the amendment of 2005 the embargo for entitlement of Non-Practicing Allowance imposed by Rule 4(b) of the Rules of 1983 was lifted, and hence even the person holding the said posts became entitled for the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance, with effect from coming into force of the said amendment.

The Learned Additional Advocate General has further submitted that as per the impugned Government orders, the petitioner would be entitled for the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance which they were receiving on the date of the retirement, and such persons(Director/Additional Director) who are excluded by the operation of Rule 4(b) would not be entitled to benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance even after the amendment of the 2005 as on the date of retirement they were not entitled for receiving Non-Practicing Allowance. In response it has been submitted that even the persons who have held the post of Director/Additional Director are entitled to Non-Practicing Allowance after the amendment of 2005, and therefore they are aggrieved by the impugned Government orders revising the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance to their disadvantage and hence being "aggrieved" their petitions would be maintainable.

23. On the issue of maintainability, this Court is of the view that the present petition at the behest of persons holding Office of Director/Additional Director at the time of the retirement even though initially excluded from the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance due to operation of the exclusionary clause in the rules of 1983, but subsequently, after amendment of 2005, were granted benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance, would be maintainable. The embargo imposed by the rules of 1983 was lifted when the said rules were amended in 2005 and they became entitled to receive the Non-Practicing Allowance. From 2005 till passing of the impugned order dated 14/07/2020, there is nothing on record to show that petitioners were disentitled from receiving the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance. The petitioners being aggrieved by the impugned orders which have disentitled them from the benefit of the Non-Practicing Allowance due to the fortuitous circumstance, that their date of the retirement is prior to 24/08/2009, and not because they were holding the post of Director/Additional Director at the time of the retirement, which grievance can legally and validly be raised by them in the present set of petitions. Even otherwise, the impugned Government orders have been challenged by number of other individual persons and also the Provincial Medical Service Association of which they are members. Accordingly, in light of the above discussion the challenge to the maintainability of the writ petition fails and the petitions are held to be maintainable.

24. Another objection regarding maintainability has been raised by the State stating that when a writ petition has been preferred by the Provincial Medical Services Association, then individual petitions preferred by the members would not be maintainable and deserves to be dismissed. This argument of the respondents is not convincing and does not hold much water. A writ petition is maintainable before the High Court by any person who is aggrieved by the action of the State as being violative of part III of the Constitution. An individual cannot be nonsuited, just because an Association of which he is a member has also preferred a similar writ petition on the same subject matter. An individual has a right to enforce his fundamental rights enshrined in part III of the Constitution, and the rights to sue, to enforce the fundamental rights is not subservient or subject to a class action by the Association of which he is a member. In the present case, the Association and the individual members have raised a common challenge to the impugned Government Orders. The petitioners are discontent by the impugned Government orders as they have been personally deprived of the benefit of the Non-Practicing Allowance and therefore they are the "aggrieved" and can validly ventilate their grievance by means of a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution and also that the benefit or otherwise arising from the outcome of the present writ petitions, shall necessarily be of the individual members, and therefore the writ petitions on behalf of the individual members cannot be dismissed as being not maintainable.

NON PRACTICING ALLOWANCE

25. It is relevant to look into of the archival chronology of the Non-Practicing Allowance in order to get the clarity about the nature of the allowance and also the policy of the Government with regard to the same. This aspect of the matter has also been dealt in detail in the report of the 7th Pay Commission, where it is stated that earlier the doctors in the Government service were allowed private practice. The Railways which was the biggest employer of medical staff under the Central Government allowed the medical officers except the Chief medical Officer to engage in private practice in so far as it did not interfere with the other official duties. Apart from Railways, doctors employed in other Government agencies were generally debarred from private practice and consequently granted a Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate of 50% subject to a maximum of Rs 400/- between 1957-59. The rate of Non-Practicing Allowance varied from Hospital to Hospital and from State to State. This issue was considered by the Third Pay Commission which recommended payment of Non-Practicing Allowance varying between Rs.150/- to Rs.600/-per month. The 4th Pay Commission decreased the rates as compared to the previous commission, but the 5th Pay Commission recommended grant of 25% of the basic pay plus grade pay an the Non-Practicing Allowance and also provided that it shall continue to count towards all service and pensionary benefits without any change.

26. The Pay Commission further considered some specific grounds for grant for treating Doctors in Government service differently and extending Non-Practicing Allowance to them, namely: -

(a) Earlier doctors in Government service were allowed the privilege of private practice or Non-Practicing Allowance in lieu thereof. At that time, the emoluments of doctors were deliberately kept with the presumption that they will make good the loss by private practice.

(b) The basic medical course is of longer duration (4 ½ +1 year internship). Due to this, doctors enter the Government service at a late stage. Whereas in other services averages of entry of graduate direct recruits is about 23 years. In medical branch it is about 27 years. Due do this they have shorter effect of service.

(c) The entry level posts in the cadre of doctors have to be filled by direct recruitment. Accordingly, promotion prospects for them are lesser viz-a-viz officers in other organised services.

(d) The nature and duties and conditions of work of doctors involved certain uncommon deprivation. They have often to work at odd hours beyond the prescribed working as often they have to attend to urgent cases.

27. The State of Uttar Pradesh accordingly also decided to place restriction on the private practice of Government Doctors and promulgated the "The U.P. Government Doctors (Allopathic) Restriction on Private Practice Rules, 1983".

28. Rules of 1983 imposes restriction on private practice of "Government Doctors". Rule 3 of Rules, 1983 imposes restriction on private practice of Government Doctors and Rule 4 provides payment in lieu of private practice (commonly known as "Non Practicing Pay" or "Allowance").

29. The aforesaid scheme introduced by rules, 1983 was done with an intention to compensate the Government doctors in lieu of ban imposed on the private practice and to recompence them from loss of earnings and further that the Non-Practicing Allowance was treated to be part of pay for all the service benefits including pension.

30. The aforesaid rules were made under Article 309 of the Constitution of India and came into effect on 30th August, 1989. On 31/08/1989 while fixing the rates of Non-Practicing Allowance with effect from 14/08/1988 in clause 2 provided that the Non-Practicing Allowance shall form part of the basic salary of the employee for the purposes of pensionary benefits, dearness allowance, travel/daily allowance. By means of Government order dated 19/02/1990 & 22/03/1990 it was further clarified that Non-Practicing Allowance shall form part of basic salary as described in financial handbook vol II to IV in rule 9(21)(1). The rates of Non-Practicing Allowance were prescribed by Government order dated 31/08/1989 were subsequently revised and enhanced on 01/02/2003.

31. The rules of 1983 delegated the power of fixing the rate of Non-Practising Allowance from time to time to the State Government, and in exercise of the delegated power it proceeded to revise the rates as and when it was necessary, coterminous with the recommendations of the Central Pay Commission.

32. With the submission of the 6th Central pay Commission report in March 2008, recommending that "that Doctors should continue to be paid Non-Practicing Allowance at the existing rate of 25% of the aggregate of the band pay and grade pay subject to the condition that the Basic Pay plus Non-Practicing Allowance does not exceed Rs.85,000/-" the State of U.P. by means of Government order dated 24/08/2009, also approved the recommendation of the Pay Commission and revised the Non-Practicing Allowance to 25% of the basic pay plus grade pay. The said Government order also provided that the revised rates of Non-Practicing Allowance would be applicable with immediate effect.

33. The Government Order dated 24/08/2009 provides that after considering the various representations received from officers of medical service the rates of the Non-Practicing Allowance has been revised to 25% of the Pay Band plus Grade Pay. It was reiterated that the Non-Practicing Allowance for all purposes would be considered as part of salary including pensionary benefits. It was further clarified that the revised rates shall be applicable prospectively.

34. The Government order dated 24/08/2009 is very clear in its terms in as much as it seeks to revise the existing rates of Non-Practicing Allowance. It is further stated therein that the rates prescribed shall be effective prospectively, meaning thereby that the enhanced rates shall be payable only from the date of the Government order itself, and not from any previous date.

35. In absence of any provision either explicitly or otherwise, the Government order dated 24/08/2009 could not have been construed to restrict the application of the revision of the Non-Practicing Allowance to the petitioners. It is also noted that by the impugned Government Order only the rates were revised, and no new policy/scheme was framed.

36. Nonetheless, the benefit of the aforesaid Government order, as interpreted by the respondents, was never extended to the petitioners, and they continue to receive Non-Practicing Allowance at the old slab system at the fixed rates.

37. The 7th Pay commission recommended revision of Non-Practicing Allowance to 20% of the basic pay for the employees of the Central Government. The State of U.P. duly considered and accepted the recommendations of the 7th Pay Commission and extended the revision of the rates of the Non-Practicing Allowance to the Government doctors of State of Uttar Pradesh with the condition that the basic salary along with the Non-Practising Allowance should not exceed Rs.2,37,500/- .Clause 2 provided that the Non-Practicing Allowance would for all purposes would be part of the basic salary received by the retired employees. Clause 3 of the said Government order further provided that the benefit of Non-Practising Allowance would be admissible only to those doctors were getting the benefit of the same as per the earlier Government order dated 24/08/2009 or any other Government order issued earlier in this regard.

38. The Government order dated 09/03/2019 only revised the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance, and in very unequivocal terms extended the benefit of the same to the retired Government doctors. Clause 3 clearly extended the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance to those employees who were receiving the same as per Government order dated 24/08/2009 or any earlier Government order in this regard.

39. To give effect to the decision of the Government announcing the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance to 20%, another Government order dated 09/08/2019 was passed referring to the earlier Government order dated 09/03/2019 and stated that a decision has been taken by the Government to revise the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance with effect from 09/03/2019, and consequently there would be a need for revision of pension payment orders for the purposes of payment of pension/family pension.

40. According to Clause 4(i) of the said Government order which applied to the doctors who had retired prior to 01/01/2016 and for payment of their pensionary benefits from 01/01/2016 and 08/03/2019. It provided that the amount of Non-Practicing Allowance which was being paid as on 31/12/2015 will be added to the basic salary as computed on coming into force of the recommendations of the 7th Pay Commission as on 01/01/2016 will be paid as pension while clause (ii) provided that from 09/03/2019 20% of the basic salary will be paid as Non-Practicing Allowance which will be added to the revised basic salary as on 01/01/2016.

41. In pursuance of the Government order dated 09/03/2019 as well as 09/08/2019 all the petitioner started receiving the Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate of 20% as part of the pensionary benefits. Consequently, giving effect to the aforesaid Government orders, revised pension payment orders were issued to the petitioners which have been annexed along with the writ petitions including Non-Practicing Allowance 20% of the basic pay. As the petitioners were receiving the Non-Practicing Allowance in terms of earlier Government orders, they were extended the benefit of the same and they started receiving the Non-Practicing Allowance at the revised rates.

42. The petitioners continued to receive Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate of 20% of the basic salary till passing of the impugned order dated 14/07/2020 and the recovery order dated 16/07/2020.

43. The impugned Government order dated 14/07/2020 in its recital states that the Director Pension has sought certain clarification as to the quantum of Non-Practicing Allowance admissible to Government doctors who have retired prior to 24/08/2009.In response to the said clarification the G.O dated 14/07/2020 provides that the Government doctors who had retired prior to 24/08/2009 will be entitled to Non-Practicing Allowance at the same rate which was being paid to them immediately prior to their retirement.

44. The State Government in its attempt to "clarify" the order dated 09/08/2019 has further provided in clause 3 that from 24/08/2009 to 31/12/2015 in accordance with clause 4(i) of the Government order dated 09/08/2019 the same amount of Non-Practicing Allowance which the Government doctors were receiving just prior to his retirement would be added to the revised basic pay, meaning thereby that petitioners would not be entitled to any revision of Non-Practicing Allowance and the retired Doctor would receive the fixed amount of Non-Practicing Allowance which they were receiving at the time of their retirement, while persons retiring after 24/08/2009 according to fresh meaning/interpretation given to clause 4(ii) will be entitled to Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate of 20% of the basic salary.

45. The aforesaid Government order can therefore be summarised as under:-

A. With regard to the petitioners who retired prior to 24/08/2009 will be entitled to receive Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate which they were receiving at the date of retirement, and the revision of the Non-Practicing Allowance from time to time is inadmissible to them subsequent to 24/08/2009.

B. The clarification has been applied retrospectively in as much as relates back to payment of Non-Practicing Allowance with effect from 24/08/2009, and therefore it seeks to clarify the Government order dated 24/08/2009 and makes it inapplicable to the petitioners.

C. It further creates another class of Government doctors who retired post 24/08/2009, and they will be entitled to the revised rate of Non-Practicing Allowance.

46. One of the present sets of writ petitions was filed challenging the Government order dated 04/07/2020 and this Court passed an interim order on 24/08/2020 in writ petition no.12938 of 2020 (SS) staying the operation implementation of the order dated 14/07/2020 and 16/07/2020 as well as the recovery of the amount already paid. The interim order was followed and extended in all the other similar cases.

47. Pursuant to the interim order of the High Court staying the Government order dated 04/07/2020 and 16/07/2020,the State Government proceeded to pass another order dated 04/09/2020 purporting to remove the error which had crept in the earlier Government order dated 09/08/2019 and in effect only recast clause 4(ii) of the said Government Order, now providing that those Government doctors who at the time of their retirement were receiving Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate of 25% ,will be entitled to receive Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate of 20% of their basic pay with effect from 09/03/2019. It was further provided that those Government doctors who at the time of their retirement were receiving a fixed amount as Non-Practicing Allowance, would receive Non-Practicing Allowance at the same rate at which they were receiving at the time of their retirement. It was further clarified that with effect from 09/03/2019 there would be no change or revision in the Non-Practicing Allowance.

48. The Government order dated 04/09/2020 in effect creates a paradigm shift in the scheme of payment of Non-Practicing Allowance to the retired doctors of the Provincial Medical Services. In sum and substance, it provides that the doctors would be entitled to receive that component of Non-Practicing Allowance as part of their pension which they were receiving just prior to the retirement, and in other words it actually freezes the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance payable to petitioners who retired prior to 24/08/2009, while other Government Doctors after 24/08/2009 would be entitled to receive Non-Practicing Allowance at revised rates.

49. The impugned order dated 04/09/2020 has also been assailed in the second batch of writ petitions, and this Court by means of an interim order dated 20/01/2021 stayed the order dated 04/09/2020 and also the recovery of the Non-Practicing Allowance from the petitioners.

50. The controversy which has led to filing of the present bunch of petitions by the petitioners, all of whom are pensioners, having served in State of U.P. in the capacity of Allopathic Government doctors, and are receiving pension, are aggrieved by the action of the State Government, whereby those who retired after 24/08/2009 have been held to be entitled to revised amount of Non-Practicing Allowance on percentage basis, while the petitioners who retired prior to 24/08/2009 have been held to be entitled to Non-Practicing Allowance which they were getting just prior to the retirement that is under the slab system without any increment. They claim hostile discrimination has been meted out to them and have therefore challenged the impugned Government orders on the ground that they create two classes of pensioners, without there being any rational basis for such classification and hence are violative of Article 14 of the Constitution as interpreted by the Supreme Court in the case of D.S. Nakara (1983)1 SCC 305 and others subsequent pronouncements.

Prospective application of Government Orders

51. It has been submitted by the respondents that the impugned Government orders have "prospective application" and would be applicable only to persons who have retired after the date of the impugned Government order, and therefore petitioners have been validly excluded from the benefit of revised rate of Non-Practicing Allowance.

52. It has been stated in the counter affidavit on behalf of the respondents that the Government order dated 24/08/2009 was introduced with prospective/immediate effect and persons who retired before 24/08/2009 were getting Non-Practicing Allowance in accordance with the earlier arrangement of slab basis and no changes have ever been made till date, and on that basis have proceeded to justify the impugned Government orders.

53. The State Government while interpreting the words "prospective/immediate effect", in the Government order dated 24/08/2009 have understood it to mean that the benefit of the said, order would be given to persons retiring after coming into effect of the said Government order, that is 24/08/2009. The petitioners on the other hand have submitted that in cases where there is revision of pay scales or allowances which are introduced from a certain date, the benefit of the revised scale is not limited to those who enter service subsequent to the date fixed for introducing revised scales, but the benefit is extended to all those in service prior to the date. The revision when made is made applicable prospectively, and in the present case, all pensioners whenever they retire would be covered by the revised Scheme. The date of retirement becomes irrelevant. But the revised scheme would be operational from the date mentioned in the scheme and would bring under its umbrella all existing pensioners and those who retire subsequent to that date.

54. There is force in the contention of the petitioners that those who have retired prior to 24/08/2009 would be entitled to Non-Practicing Allowance as per Government order dated 01/02/2003 till 24/08/2009, when the rates were revised. Subsequently they would be entitled to the rate as fixed by the Government order dated 24/08/2009, meaning thereby that they cannot claim any arrears for revision of its prior to 24/08/2009. In the case of V. Kasturi Vs. Managing Director, State Bank of India, Bombay and Anr (1998) 8 SCC 30 . Ahmadi, J.,speaking for the Court in the aforesaid decision highlighted the observations in Nakara's case found at page 333 para 46 to the following effect:

".... the pension will have to be recomputed in the light of the formula enacted in the liberalised pension scheme and effective from the date the revised scheme comes into force. And beware that it is not a new scheme, it is only a revision of existing scheme. It is not a new retrial benefit. It is an upward revision of an existing benefit. If it was a wholly new concept, a new retrial benefit, one could have appreciated an argument that those who had already retired could not expect it."

With regard to the extending the revision of the pension scheme it was held:-

23.However, if an employee at the time of his retirement is not eligible for earning pension and stands outside the class of pensioners, if subsequently by amendment of the relevant pension rules any beneficial umbrella of pension scheme is extended to cover a new class of pensioners and when such a subsequent scheme comes into force, the erstwhile non-pensioner might have survived, then only if such extension of pension scheme to erstwhile non-pensioners is expressly made retrospective by the authorities promulgating such scheme; the erstwhile non-pensioner who has retired prior to the advent of such extended pension scheme can claim benefit of such a new extended pension scheme. If such new scheme is prospective only, old retirees non-pensioners cannot get the benefit of such a scheme even if they survive such new scheme. They will remain outside its sweep. The decisions of this Court covering such second category of cases are:Commander, Head Quarterv.Capt. Biplabendra Chanda[(1997) 1 SCC 208 : 1997 SCC (L&S) 444] andGovt. of T.N.v.K. Jayaraman[(1997) 9 SCC 606 : 1997 SCC (L&S) 1208] and others to which we have made a reference earlier. If the claimant for pension benefits satisfactorily brings his case within the first category of cases, he would be entitled to get the additional benefits of pension computation even if he might have retired prior to the enforcement of such additional beneficial provisions. But if on the other hand, the case of a retired employee falls in the second category, the fact that he retired prior to the relevant date of the coming into operation of the new scheme would disentitle him from getting such a new benefit.

55. To make it abundantly clear the prospective operation of such Government orders only means that the revised rates are applicable from that particular day onwards, and no arrears can be claimed on the basis of the revised rates prior to the said date. It is also further to clarify that prospective application has no correlation to the eligibility of claiming Non-Practicing Allowance. As discussed above there is no quarrel about their right to receive Non-Practicing Allowance, as the petitioners are regularly being paid pension as revised by the State Government from time to time. The allowances are also revised by the State Government from time to time looking into various factors including the cost index of living. Similarly, the Non-Practicing Allowance has been constantly revised since 1983, and it has always been co-related with the scale of pay an even though prior to 24/08/2009 it was on a slab basis, but still it was roughly a particular percentage of the basic salary which is clearly discernible on a plain reading of the aforesaid Government orders. The Government order dated 24/08/2009 also revised the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance and made it 25% of the basic salary. Apart from the revision of the rates in the said Government order we could not find any such tectonic shift in the policy with regard to payment of Non-Practicing Allowance which the State claims has led to create a watershed between the persons retiring prior to 24/08/2009 and those retiring subsequently, nor any such provision could be demonstrated by the State. This court is not impressed by the argument of the State that the petitioners will only be entitled to same allowances as well being paid to them at the time of retirement, without any revision of rates. The interpretation adopted by the State is clearly erroneous and arbitrary.

Retrospective application of impugned Government Order

It has been submitted on behalf of petitioners that in exercise of delegated power the Government could not have fix the rates of Non-Practicing Allowance retrospectively, and therefore on this score also the impugned orders are without jurisdiction, illegal and arbitrary. As has already been discussed above the rules of 1983 were made in exercise of powers under Article 309 of the Constitution of India, and the power to fix the rates was delegated to the State Government. The impugned orders have been passed in exercise of the said delegated power under the rules of 1983. The question which arises for our consideration is as to whether in exercise of delegated power, the State Government could prescribe the rates retrospectively? The law in this regard has been considered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Rajasthan v.Basant Agrotech (India) Ltd., (2013) 15 SCC 1

21.There is no dispute over the fact that the legislature can make a law retrospectively or prospectively subject to justifiability and acceptability within the constitutional parameters. A subordinate legislation can be given retrospective effect if a power in this behalf is contained in the principal Act. In this regard we may refer with profit to the decision in Mahabir Vegetable Oils (P) Ltd. v. State of Haryan*a (2006) 3 SCC 620, wherein it has been held that: (SCC p. 633, paras 41-42)*

"41. We may at this stage consider the effect of omission of the said note. It is beyond any cavil that a subordinate legislation can be given a retrospective effect and retroactive operation, if any power in this behalf is contained in the main Act. The rule-making power is a species of delegated legislation. A delegatee therefore can make rules only within the four corners thereof.

42. It is a fundamental rule of law that no statute shall be construed to have a retrospective operation unless such a construction appears very clearly in the terms of the Act or arises by necessary and distinct implication. (See West v. Gwynne [(1911) 2 Ch 1 : 104 LT 759 (CA)] .)"

22. In MRF Ltd. v. CST [(2006) 8 SCC 702] the question arose whether under Section 10(3) of the Kerala General Sales Tax Act, 1963 power was conferred on the Government to issue a notification retrospectively. This Court approved the view expressed by the Kerala High Court in M.M. Nagalingam Nadar Sons v. State of Kerala [(1993) 91 STC 61 (Ker)] , wherein it has been stated that in issuing notifications under Section 10, the Government exercises only delegated powers while the legislature has plenary powers to legislate prospectively and retrospectively, a delegated authority like the Government acting under the powers conferred on it by the enactment concerned, can exercise only those powers which are specifically conferred. In the absence of such conferment of power the Government, the delegated authority, has no power to issue a notification with retrospective effect.

23. In M.D. University v. Jahan Singh [(2007) 5 SCC 77 : (2007) 2 SCC (L&S) 118] it has been clearly laid down that (SCC p. 83, para 19) in the absence of any provision contained in the legislative Act, a delegatee cannot make a delegated legislation with retrospective effect.

*24. In A*hmedabad Urban Development Authority v. Sharadkumar Jayanti-kumar Pasawalla [(1992) 3 SCC 285 : AIR 1992 SC 2038] a three-Judge Bench has ruled thus: (SCC p. 292, para 7)

"7. ... in a fiscal matter it will not be proper to hold that even in the absence of express provision, a delegated authority can impose tax or fee. In our view, such power of imposition of tax and/or fee by delegated authority must be very specific and there is no scope of implied authority for imposition of such tax or fee. It appears to us that the delegated authority must act strictly within the parameters of the authority delegated to it under the Act and it will not be proper to bring the theory of implied intent or the concept of incidental and ancillary power in the matter of exercise of fiscal power."

*25. On a perusal of the aforesaid authorities there can be no scintilla of doubt that if the power has been conferred under the main Act by the legislature, the State Government or the delegated authority can issue a notification within the said parameters. In the case at hand, the High Court interpreting Section 16 has opined that such a power has not been conferred on the State Government to is*sue a notification retrospectively and, therefore, it can only apply with prospective effect.

26. Dr Manish Singhvi, learned counsel appearing for the State, has submitted that wherever a statutory power is conferred, there is no limitation with regard to exercise of that power and the same could be exercised from time to time and even if the words "time to time" are absent in the statute, the power conferred under the Act could be exercised all over again and there is no limitation to the number of times the power is exercised and if the power is exercised once, it cannot be stated that the power stands exhausted. It is his submission that the administrative power as well as quasi-legislative power could be exercised any number of times and this principle is embodied under Section 21 of the General Clauses Act. The learned counsel would further contend that even if the words "time to time" would not have been there in Section 16 of the Act, the power could be exercised any number of times. To bolster his submissions, he has commended us to the decisions in A. Thangal Kunju Musaliar v. M. Venkatachalam Potti [A. Thangal Kunju Musaliar v. M. Venkatachalam Potti, AIR 1956 SC 246] , D.G. Gose and Co. (Agents) (P) Ltd. v. State of Kerala [D.G. Gose and Co. (Agents) (P) Ltd. v. State of Kerala, (1980) 2 SCC 410] , Bansidhar v. State of Rajasthan [Bansidhar v. State of Rajasthan, (1989) 2 SCC 557] and State of M.P. v. Tikamdas [State of M.P. v. Tikamdas, (1975) 2 SCC 100 : 1975 SCC (Tax) 310] .

47. After so stating the learned Judges analysed the scope of Section 21 of the General Clauses Act and opined that Section 21 embodies a rule of construction and the nature and extent of its application must be governed by the relevant statute which confers the power to issue the notification, etc. Thereafter, the Court enumerated the principle thus: (Shree Sidhbali Steels Ltd. Case [Shree Sidhbali Steels Ltd. v. State of U.P., (2011) 3 SCC 193] , SCC p. 209, para 38)

"38. ... there is no manner of doubt that the exercise of power to make subordinate legislation includes the power to rescind the same. This is made clear by Section 21. On that analogy an administrative decision is revocable while a judicial decision is not revocable except in special circumstances. Exercise of power of a subordinate legislation will be prospective and cannot be retrospective unless the statute authorises such an exercise expressly or by necessary implication."

*48. Analysing further the learned Judges in S*idhbali Steels case [Shree

Sidhbali Steels Ltd. v. State of U.P., (2011) 3 SCC 193] opined that by virtue of Sections 14 and 21 of the General Clauses Act, when a power is conferred on an authority to do a particular act, such power can be exercised from time to time and carries with it the power to withdraw, modify, amend or cancel the notifications earlier issued, to be exercised in the like manner and subject to like conditions, if any, attached with the exercise of the power. It would be too narrow a view to accept that chargeability once fixed cannot be altered. Since the charging provision in the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1948 is subject to the State Government's power to issue notification under Section 49 of the Act granting rebate, the State Government, in view of Section 21 of the General Clauses Act, could always withdraw, rescind, add to or modify an exemption notification. No industry could claim as of right that the Government should exercise its power under Section 49 and offer rebate and it is for the Government to decide whether the conditions were such that rebate should be granted or not. The aforesaid authority clearly lays down that the power conferred can be exercised in the context of the words "from time to time" as used in the Act or in aid of the General Clauses Act.

49. At this juncture, we may fruitfully refer to the meaning given to the words "from time to time" in certain dictionaries and the description made in certain other texts. In Words and Phrases, Vol. 17-A, 1974, "from time to time" has been enumerated in various contexts. We may think it appropriate to reproduce certain contexts which are useful in the present case:

"The phrase "from time to time' means as occasion may arise, at intervals, now and then occasionally. Florey v. Meeker [240 P 2d 1177 : 194 Or 257 (1952)] , P 2d at p. 1190.

In constitutional amendment, authorizing legislature to alter salaries of named county officers "from time to time', the quoted phrase does not mean from "term to term'. Almon v. Morgan County [16 So 2d 511 : 245 Ala 241 (1944)] , So 2d at p. 514.

***

The phrase "from time to time', as used in the Constitution, authorizing the legislature to increase the number of Judges of the Supreme Court from time to time, means occasionally; that is, as the occasion requires, and therefore the words cannot be held to mean that the legislature may not decrease the number of Judges after an increase thereof. State v. McBride [70 P 25 : 29 Wash 335 (1902)] , P at p. 27.

***

The Century Dictionary defines the phrase "from time to time' to mean "occasionally'; and the Universal Dictionary defines "from time to time' to mean, "at intervals; now and then'. The phrase is used in such meaning in Acts 1898, c. 123, para 95, which directs the police commissioners of Baltimore, at the request of the park commissioners, to detail from time to time members of regular police force for preservation of order in the parks. Upshur v. Mayor & City Council of Baltimore [51 A 953 : 94 Md 743 (1902)] , A at p. 955.

***

The County Board of Supervisors had no authority to alter an election precinct in September, under statute providing that Board may, from time to time, change the boundaries of precincts and providing that changes might be made at regular or special meeting in July, since the two provisions were in pari materia and should be construed together in the light of all the provisions of the statute, the words ''from time to time' meaning ''at times to recur', and not ''at any time'. Laws 1885, p. 193, para 29, Laws 1871-72, p. 380, para 30, S.H.A. ch. 46, paras 29, 30. County Board of Union County v. Short [77 Ill App 448 (1898)] ."

50. In The Law Lexicon, The Encyclopedic Law Dictionary (2nd Edn., 1997, p. 764) the words have been conferred the following meaning:

"From time to time.-- ... ''as occasion may arise'....

The words ''from time to time' mean that an adjournment may be made as and when the occasion requires and they will not mean adjournment from one fixed day to another fixed day. ...

''The words "from time to time" are words which are constantly introduced where it is intended to protect a person who is empowered to act from the risk of having completely discharged his duty when he has once acted, and therefore not being able to act again in the same direction.' The meaning of the words ''from time to time' is that after once acting the donee of the power may act again; and either independently of, or by adding to, or taking from, or reversing altogether, his previous act."

51. In Black's Law Dictionary (5th Edn., p. 601), it has been defined as follows:

"From time to time.-- Occasionally, at intervals, now and then."

52. In Stroud's Judicial Dictionary (5th Edn., Vol. 2, p. 1071), it has been stated as follows:

"From time to time.-- ... ''as occasion may arise' (as per William, J., Bryan v. Arthur [(1839) 11 Ad & E 108 : 113 ER 354] Ad & E at p. 117)."

53. Thus, the conspectus of authorities and the meaning bestowed in the common parlance admit no room of doubt that the words "from time to time" have a futuristic tenor and they do not have the etymological potentiality to operate from a previous date. The use of the said words in Section 16 of the Act cannot be said to have conferred the jurisdiction on the State Government or delegate to issue a notification in respect of the rate with retrospective effect. Such an interpretation does not flow from the statute which is the source of power. Therefore, the notification as far as it covers the period prior to the date of publication of the notification in the Official Gazette is really a transgression of the statutory postulate. Thus analysed, we find that the view expressed by the High Court on this score is absolutely flawless and we concur with the same. We may reiterate for the sake of clarity that we have not adverted to the defensibility of the analysis from other spectrums which are founded on the principles set forth in Kesoram case [State of W.B. v. Kesoram Industries Ltd., (2004) 10 SCC 201] as the matter has been referred to a larger Bench and the lis in these appeals fundamentally pertains to the retrospective applicability of the notification issued by the State Government as regards the rate of cess on the major mineral i.e. rock phosphate.

56. Undoubtedly the Government was exercising its delegated power under Rule 4 of the rules of 1983, which provided that the State Government could fix the rates of Non-Practicing Allowance from time to time. The impugned Government order dated 04/09/2020 having fixed the rates of Non-Practicing Allowance with regard to the petitioners retrospectively, with effect from 24/08/2009, which is impermissible as per the law laid down by the Apex court in the aforesaid cases discussed herein. The impugned Government order purportedly clarifying the earlier G.O dated 09/08/2019 provided that the petitioners would only be entitled to Non-Practicing Allowance which they were receiving at the time of their retirement. In the meanwhile, the petitioners have received enhanced amount of Non-Practicing Allowance, which is also sought to be recovered by the impugned order. The impugned Government order has the effect of refixing the rates with effect from 24/08/2009, therefore is clearly without jurisdiction and arbitrary. Consequently, the Government order dated 04/09/2020 is clearly without authority illegal and arbitrary.

57. We also take notice of clause 3 of the Government order dated 14/07/2020 which states that from 24/08/2009 to 31/12/2015 the persons having retired prior to 24/08/2009 will be entitled to the same amount of Non-Practicing Allowance which they were receiving at the time of retirement. This clause clearly indicates that there was no Government order, or any decision of the Government prior to 14/07/2020 not to revise the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance with regard to the Government doctors who retired prior to 24/08/2009. This retrospective dis-entitlement of Non-Practicing Allowance is clearly without jurisdiction, illegal, arbitrary and clearly violates all canons of reasonableness. Just because the Government is vested the power to decide upon the "rate" of Non-Practicing Allowance, and the action of the Government to fix rates, though plenary, has to be exercised within the prescribed sphere, in accordance with law, rules and regulations in this regard and not in ignorance of the same. The rules of 1983 entitle the Government to fix the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance from time to time, but there is no statutory provision enabling the Government to give retrospectivity effect to such determination. The rules of 1983 do not contain any provision enabling the State Government while exercising its power under rule 4 to fix the rates, to make them applicable retrospectively.

This fixation of rate with regard to the petitioners has retrospective application, and therefore, beyond the mandate of the State Government under Rule 4 of the Rules of 1983, and contrary to the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Rajasthan v. Basant Agrotech (India) Ltd., (2013) 15 SCC 1. Therefore, without there being any enabling provision in this regard in the rules of 1983, the impugned order specially clause 3 of Government order dated 04/09/2020 is without jurisdiction, illegal and arbitrary.

Colourable exercise of Power

58. The impugned order dated 14/07/2019 has been challenged in one set of the bunch of petitions before us, and an interim order was passed on 24/08/2020 where the operation and implementation of the said Government order along with the consequential recovery order dated 16/07/2020 was stayed. Similar interim orders were followed in other writ petitions forming part of this bunch where the Government order dated 14/07/1990 and the consequential recovery orders were stayed, and the State Government was asked to file its response.

59. The State Government proceeded to pass yet another Government order dated 04/09/2020 stating that there was some error in the earlier Government order dated 09/08/2019 and provided that in clause 4(ii)(a) therein shall be read to the effect that those retired Government doctors who at the time of retirement were receiving Non-Practising Allowance at the rate of 25% would be entitled to the revised rate of 20% with effect from 09/03/2019 while as per clause 4(ii)(b) which is with regard to the petitioners who were getting a fixed amount of Non-Practicing Allowance at the time of the retirement, now provides that from 09/03/2019 they will be entitled to the same amount which they were receiving at the time of the retirement, and it further clarifies that such person's will not be entitled to any revision of the rates of the Non-Practicing Allowance.

60. It has been vehemently urged by the petitioners, that when the entire controversy regarding entitlement of payment of Non-Practicing Allowance was sub judice before this Court, and the interim order dated 24/08/2020 had, been passed staying the Government order dated 14/07/2020, then passing of Government order dated 04/09/2020 on the same subject matter was clearly in conflict and contrary to the interim order of this Court and impermissible and even amounts to contempt of the orders of this Court.

61. A second bunch of writ petitions have been filed assailing the validity of the Government order dated 04/09/2020, and this Court being prima facie satisfied about the illegality, has stayed the operation of the said, order.

62. The issue to be determined by this Court is as to whether the State Government can pass a Government order to put into effect an earlier Government order which has been stayed by judicial order. This issue has been discussed in detail in various judgements of the Apex court, the leading being Madan Mohan Pathak v. Union of India (1978) 2 SCC 50 it was observed by Bhagwati J., speaking also for Iyer and Desai., JJ

The attempt made to supersede the settlements, in so far as they related to the payment of bonus, by enacting the Life Insurance Corporation (Modification of Settlement) Act 1976 failed, firstly because the Act was held to violate the provisions of Article 31(2) of the Constitution and secondly because the Act could not have retrospective effect so as to absolve the Life Insurance Corporation from obeying the writ of mandamus issued by the Calcutta High Court, which had become final and binding on the parties.

63. If by reason of retrospective alteration of the factual or legal situation, the judgment is rendered erroneous, the remedy may be by way of appeal or review, but so long as the judgment stands, it cannot be disregarded or ignored and it must be obeyed. In Goa Foundation v.

State of Goa (2016) 6 SCC 602, the Supreme Court held:

"24...The power to invalidate a legislative or executive act lies with the Court. A judicial pronouncement, either declaratory or conferring rights on the citizens cannot be set at naught by a subsequent legislative act for that would amount to an encroachment on the judicial powers. However, the legislature would be competent to pass an amending or a validating act, if deemed fit, with retrospective effect removing the basis of the decision of the Court. Even in such a situation the courts may not approve a retrospective deprivation of accrued rights arising from a judgment by means of a subsequent legislation (1978) 2 SCC 50 : 1978 SCC (L&S) 103]). However, where the Court's judgment is purely declaratory, the courts will lean in support of the legislative power to remove the basis of a court judgment even retrospectively, paving the way for a restoration of the status quo ante. Though the consequence may appear to be an exercise to overcome the judicial pronouncement it is so only at first blush; a closer scrutiny would confer legitimacy on such an exercise as the same is a normal adjunct of the legislative power. The whole exercise is one of viewing the different spheres of jurisdiction exercised by the two bodies i.e. the judiciary and the legislature. The balancing act, delicate as it is, to the constitutional scheme is guided by the well-defined values which have found succinct manifestation in the views of this Court in Bakhtawar Trust v. M.D. Narayan, (2003) 5 SCC 298."

64. In the aforesaid judgements the law has been clearly spelled out by the Apex Court. The judicial pronouncements by court of competent jurisdiction cannot be set to naught by the action of the legislature or executive as it would amount to an encroachment on the judicial power. It is noticed that the rules of 1983 had delegated to the Government the power to prescribe the rates of Non-Practicing Allowance from time to time. In exercise of the delegated power vide Government order dated 19/03/2019 the recommendation of the 7th Pay Commission were approved and were given effect by Government order dated 19/08/2019. The first impugned Government order dated 14/07/2020 in its recital stated that the same was being issued for re-fixing the Non-Practicing Allowance with regard to persons having retired prior to 24/08/2009.

65. In clause 2 of the said Government order it was specifically provided that with regard to the Government doctors who had retired prior to 24/08/2009, will be entitled to receive the same amount of Non-Practicing Allowance which they were receiving just prior to their retirement.

66. On the challenge being made to the said Government order in the instant writ petition an interim order was passed on 24/08/2020 whereby the order dated 14/07/2020 along with the consequential recovery order dated 16/07/2020 was stayed with the direction not to recover the amount already paid to the petitioners as Non-Practicing Allowance.

67. The second impugned Government order dated 04/09/2020 was passed without making any reference to the interim order of this court and purporting to have been made in exercise of rule 4 of the rules of 1983 and to remove the error which had crept in the earlier Government order dated 09/08/2019. It provided that those Government doctors who just prior to their retirement were receiving a fixed amount as Non-Practicing Allowance will continue to receive Non-Practicing Allowance at the same rate which they were receiving at the time of the retirement.

68. Comparing both the impugned Government orders it is noticed that they provide for the same entitlement regarding the petitioners who retired prior to 24/08/2009 and both the impugned Government orders are to the effect that the petitioners would be receiving the same amount of Non-Practicing Allowance which they were receiving at the time of the retirement, without any benefit of revision.

69. In the aforesaid circumstances there cannot be any doubt whatsoever that the Government order dated 04/09/2020 is nothing but a repetition of the earlier Government order dated 14/08/2020. The respondents could not point out any difference in both the Government orders, with regard to its application to the petitioners and also with regard to their entitlement of Non-Practicing Allowance. Such an exercise of power as has been done by the State in the present case, cannot be said to be a legitimate in exercise of powers vested in clause 4 of the rules of 1983, and is arbitrary and consequently violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

70. The law in this regard has been considered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Madhya Pradesh & Ors. V. Yogendra Shrivastava (2010) 12 SCC 538.

12. It is no doubt true that Rules under Article 309 can be made so as to operate with retrospective effect. But it is well settled that rights and benefits which have already been earned or acquired under the existing rules cannot be taken away by amending the rules with retrospective effect. [See : N.C. Singhal vs. Director General, Armed Forces Medical Services - 1972 (4) SCC 765; K. C. Arora vs. State of Haryana - 1984 (3) SCC 281; and T.R. Kapoor vs. State of Haryana - 1986 Supp. SCC 584]. Therefore, it has to be held that while the amendment, even if it is to be considered as otherwise valid, cannot affect the rights and benefits which had accrued to the employees under the unamended rules. The right to NPA @ 25% of the pay, having accrued to the respondents under the unamended Rules, it follows that respondents-employees will be entitled to Non-Practising Allowance @ 25% of their pay upto 20.5.2003.

71. The respondents have relied upon the judgement of the Apex court in the case of Haryana Financial Corporation and Another vs Jagdamba Oil Mills and Another (2002) 3 SCC 496, specially paragraph nos. 10 and 11, where the limits of judicial review have been delineated, and has been observed that the Court's while scrutinizing an administrative decision should not substitute its discretion by the discretion of the administrative authority as if it were sitting in appeal. There is no quarrel with the proposition laid out by the Apex court in this regard, but the same has no application to the facts of the present case. The challenge in the present set of petitions are two Government orders passed in exercise of delegated powers under the Rules of 1983, where the State Government has prescribed the rates of Non-Practicing Allowance, which was a purely administrative exercise, and also this Court is not called upon to give its opinion about the quantum of Non-Practicing Allowance but only to the manner of exercise of power whereby a certain class of pensioners has been deprived of an allowance retrospectively and hence the said judgement is of no assistance in the present case.

72. Considering the rival submissions it is seen that the G.O dated 04/09/2020 has the effect of depriving the petitioners of their entitlement to the revised rate of Non-Practicing Allowance. The Government order dated 04/09/2020 is clearly a device or a mechanism used by the respondents to circumvent the interim order of this Court dated 24/08/2020 by which the Government orders dated 14/07/2020 and 16/07/2020 were stayed. In case the State was aggrieved by the interim order dated 24/08/2020, it was always open for them to move an application for vacation of the stay, or to move a special appeal, or approach the Supreme Court. The Government does not have any power to override a judicial order by executive fiat. The demarcation of power has clearly been delineated in the Constitution where the power to declare a legislative or executive act to be unconstitutional is vested only with the judiciary. Once there is a judicial opinion, even if it is in form of an interim order, the Executive cannot be allowed to be override the said order, and in case the same is done it would amount to transgression of their power, and such an action is liable to be set aside as being without jurisdiction and authority. The impugned order dated 04/09/2020 is clearly illegal and arbitrary as it has been passed in the teeth of the interim orders of this Court dated 24/08/2020.

Reasonable Classification

73. This Court is called upon to test the validity of the two Government orders dated 14/07/2020 and 04/09/2020 apart from the consequential orders for recovery of the amount of Non-Practicing Allowance paid as per Government order dated 19/08/2019 and a further direction about their entitlement for payment of Non-Practicing Allowance at the rates which has been revised from time to time.

74. The discrimination meted to the petitioners whereby they have been entitled to receive Non-Practicing Allowance on fixed slab basis, while others who have retired post 24/08/2009 are entitled to the revision of the same, is under challenge on the ground that there is no discernible criteria which can distinguish or differentiate between Government doctors who have retired prior to 24/08/2009 and those who have retired post 24/08/2009, as well as the same being illegal and arbitrary, apart from other grounds including not being afforded an opportunity of hearing and also the manner in which such a decision was taken.

75. The watershed which has been created in the present case is the date 24/08/2009, which is the date of issuance of the Government order implementing the recommendations of the 6th Pay commission, whereby the Non-Practicing Allowance admissible in case of the Government doctors was enhanced of 25% basic salary plus Grade Pay. It further provided that the Non-Practicing Allowance shall form part of the salary even for the purposes of retirement benefits, and the revised rates would be applicable with immediate effect.

76. Prior to issuance of the aforesaid Government order dated 24/08/2009 the Non-Practicing Allowance was being paid at fixed rates under a slab system, and accordingly the same was made admissible to all persons including the petitioners, while post 24/08/2009 implementing the recommendations of the 6th Pay Commission, a fixed percentage of the basic salary as the Non-Practicing Allowance was provided rather than quantifying the same by a fixed amount as had been done earlier.

77. The Learned Additional Advocate General has submitted on behalf of State Government that there are in fact two classes of pensioners, one who are receiving Non-Practicing Allowance at the fixed rates retired prior to 24/08/2009 while others have retired 24/08/2009 and consequently the difference between the two classes is real and apparent and hence both different classes have been treated differently by means of the impugned Government orders.

78. Considering the above submission, this court has to consider whether the classification so made by the impugned Government order is based on some intelligible differentiate justifying the creation of the classes and the raison d'être the which can distinguish the persons included in one class from another. The only consideration for classification which comes forth, as per the State, is the date of retirement. Persons retiring prior to 24/08/2009 have been clubbed into one class, and they would be entitled to Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate they were receiving at the time of the retirement and will not be entitled to any enhancements or revision, while the persons retiring after 24/08/2009 would form the other class, and they would be entitled to the Non-Practicing Allowance at the enhanced rate of 20%. In order to considered this aspect it would be fruitful to advert to extracts of judgement in the case of DS Nakara v. Union of India, (1983) 1 SCC 305 : 1983 SCC (L&S) 145 at page 328

38. What then is the purpose in prescribing the specified date vertically dividing the pensioners between those who retired prior to the specified date and those who retire subsequent to that date? That poses the further question, why was the pension scheme liberalised? What necessitated liberalisation of the pension scheme?

40. Therefore, let us proceed to examine whether there was any rationale behind the eligibility qualification. The learned Attorney-General contended that the scheme is one whole and that the date is an integral part of the scheme and the Government would have never enforced the scheme devoid of the date and the date is not severable from the scheme as a whole. Contended the learned Attorney-General that the Court does not take upon itself the function of legislation for persons, things or situations omitted by the legislature. It was said that when the legislature has expressly defined the class with clarity and precision to which the legislation applies, it would be outside the judicial function to enlarge the class and to do so is not to interpret but to legislate which is the forbidden field. Alternatively it was also contended that where a larger class comprising two smaller classes is covered by a legislation of which one part is constitutional, the court examines whether the legislation must be invalidated as a whole or only in respect of the unconstitutional part. It was also said that severance always cuts down the scope of legislation but can never enlarge it and in the present case the scheme as it stands would not cover pensioners such as the petitioners and if by severance an attempt is made to include them in the scheme it is not cutting down the class or the scope but enlarge the ambit of the scheme which is impermissible even under the doctrine of severability. In this context it was lastly submitted that there is not a single case in India or elsewhere where the court has included some category within the scope of provisions of a law to maintain its constitutionality.

42. If it appears to be undisputable, as it does to us that the pensioners for the purpose of pension benefits form a class, would its upward revision permit a homogeneous class to be divided by arbitrarily fixing an eligibility criteria unrelated to purpose of revision, and would such classification be founded on some rational principle? The classification has to be based, as is well settled, on some rational principle and the rational principle must have nexus to the objects sought to be achieved. We have set out the objects underlying the payment of pension. If the State considered it necessary to liberalise the pension scheme, we find no rational principle behind it for granting these benefits only to those who retired subsequent to that date simultaneously denying the same to those who retired prior to that date. If the liberalisation was considered necessary for augmenting social security in old age to Government servants then those who, retired earlier cannot be worst off than those who retire later. Therefore, this division which classified pensioners into two classes is not based on any rational principle and if the rational principle is the one of dividing pensioners with a view to giving something more to persons otherwise equally placed, it would be discriminatory. To illustrate, take two persons, one retired just a day prior and another a day just succeeding the specified date. Both were in the same pay bracket, the average emolument was the same and both had put in equal number of years of service. How does a fortuitous circumstance of retiring a day earlier or a day later will permit totally unequal treatment in the matter of pension? One retiring a day earlier will have to be subject to ceiling of Rs 8100 p.a. and average emolument to be worked out on 36 months' salary while the other will have a ceiling of Rs 12,000 p.a. and average emolument will be computed on the basis of last 10 months' average. The artificial division stares into face and is unrelated to any principle and whatever principle, if there be any, has absolutely no nexus to the objects sought to be achieved by liberalising the pension scheme. In fact this arbitrary division has not only no nexus to the Liberalised Pension Scheme but it is counter-productive and runs counter to the whole gamut of pension scheme. The equal treatment guaranteed in Article 14 is wholly violated inasmuch as the pension rules being statutory in character, since the specified date, the rules accord differential and discriminatory treatment to equals in the matter of commutation of pension. A 48 hours' difference in matter of retirement would have a traumatic effect. Division is thus both arbitrary and unprincipled. Therefore, the classification does not stand the test of Article 14.

79. Further, considering the aspect of reasonable classification, the one other condition for testing the law on the touchstone of Article 14 is the intelligible differentia which distinguishes persons included in the class with the persons excluded from the same.

80. Undoubtedly the Government has a right to treat different classes differently, and to that extent classification is permissible, but the classes so made should be characterised by certain distinction, and the distinction in the two classes should be based on differential attributes which would have just and rational having nexus to the objects sought to be achieved. The law in this regard was enunciated by the apex court in the case of Special Courts Bill (1979)1SCC380, and has been reiterated in the case of Manish Kumar Vs Union of India (2021) 5 SCC 1:-

"In the decision of this Court in In Re The Special Courts Bill, 1978, a bench of seven learned judges of this Court laid down certain propositions. We need only allude to those propositions which are apposite for deciding the fate of these cases before us:

"(1) The first part of Article 14, which was adopted from the Irish Constitution, is a declaration of equality of the civil rights of all persons within the territories of India. It enshrines a basic principle of republicanism. The second part, which is a corollary of the first and is based on the last clause of the first section of the Fourteenth Amendment of the American Constitution, enjoins that equal protection shall be secured to all such persons in the enjoyment of their rights and liberties without discrimination of favouritism. It is a pledge of the protection of equal laws, that is, laws that operate alike on all persons under like circumstances.

(2) The State, in the exercise of its Governmental power, has of necessity to make laws operating differently on different groups or classes of persons within its territory to attain particular ends in giving effect to its policies, and it must possess for that purpose large powers of distinguishing and classifying persons or things to be subjected to such laws.

(3) The constitutional command to the State to afford equal protection of its laws sets a goal not attainable by the invention and application of a precise formula. Therefore, classification need not be constituted by an exact or scientific exclusion or inclusion of persons or things. The courts should not insist on delusive exactness or apply doctrinaire tests for determining the validity of classification in any given case. Classification is justified if it is not palpably arbitrary.

(4) The principle underlying the guarantee of Article 14 is not that the same rules of law should be applicable to all persons within the Indian territory or that the same remedies should be made available to them irrespective of differences of circumstances. It only means that all persons similarly circumstanced shall be treated alike both in privileges conferred and liabilities imposed. Equal laws would have to be applied to all in the same situation, and there should be no discrimination between one person and another if as regards the subject-matter of the legislation their position is substantially the same.

(5) By the process of classification, the State has the power of determining who should be regarded as a class for purposes of legislation and in relation to a law enacted on a particular subject. This power, no doubt, in some degree is likely to produce some inequality; but if a law deals with the liberties of a number of well defined classes, it is not open to the charge of denial of equal protection on the ground that it has no application to other persons. Classification thus means segregation in classes which have a systematic relation, usually found in common properties and characteristics. It postulates a rational basis and does not mean herding together of certain persons and classes arbitrarily.

(6) The law can make and set apart the classes according to the needs and exigencies of the society and as suggested by experience. It can recognise even degree of evil, but the classification should never be arbitrary, artificial or evasive.

(7) The classification must not be arbitrary but must be rational, that is to say, it must not only be based on some qualities or characteristics which are to be found in all the persons grouped together and not in others who are left out but those qualities or characteristics must have a reasonable relation to the object of the legislation. In order to pass the test, two conditions must be fulfilled, namely,

(1) that the classification must be founded on an intelligible differentia which distinguishes those that are grouped together from others and

(2) that that differentia must have a rational relation to the object sought to be achieved by the Act.

(8) The differentia which is the basis of the classification and the object of the Act are distinct things and what is necessary is that there must be a nexus between them. In short, while Article 14 forbids class discrimination by conferring privileges This fixation of rate with regard to the petitioners has retrospective application, and therefore, beyond the mandate of the State Government under Rule 4 of the Rules of 1983, and contrary to the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Rajasthan v. Basant Agrotech (India) Ltd., (2013) 15 SCC 1. Therefore, without there being any enabling provision in this regard in the rules of 1983, the impugned order specially clause 3 of Government order dated 04/09/2020 is without jurisdiction, illegal and arbitrary.or imposing liabilities upon persons arbitrarily selected out of a large number of other persons similarly situated in relation to the privileges sought to be conferred or the liabilities proposed to be imposed, it does not forbid classification for the purpose of legislation, provided such classification is not arbitrary in the sense abovementioned.

(11) Classification necessarily implies the making of a distinction or discrimination between persons classified and those who are not members of that class. It is the essence of a classification that upon the class are cast duties and burdens different from those resting upon the general public. Indeed, the very idea of classification is that of inequality, so that it goes without saying that the mere fact of inequality in no manner determines the matter of constitutionality.

(12) Whether an enactment providing for special procedure for the trial of certain offences is or is not discriminatory and violative of Article 14 must be determined in each case as it arises, for, no general rule applicable to all cases can safely be laid down. A practical assessment of the operation of the law in the particular circumstances is necessary.

(13) A rule of procedure laid down by law comes as much within the purview of Article 14 as any rule of substantive law and it is necessary that all litigants, who are similarly situated, are able to avail themselves of the same procedural rights for relief and for defence with like protection and without discrimination."

80a. The Supreme Court in the case of All Manipur Pensioners Assn. v. State of Manipur, (2020) 14 SCC 625 i*n similar circumstances held as under:-*

7.9. In view of the above, we are satisfied that none of the judgments, relied upon by the learned Senior Advocate for the respondent State, has any bearing to the controversy in hand. The Division Bench of the High Court has clearly erred in not appreciating and/or considering the distinguishable facts in Hari Ram Gupta v. State of U.P., (1998) 6 SCC 328; T.N. Electricity Board v. R. Veerasamy, (1999) 3 SCC 414 ; Amar Nath Goyal [State of Punjab v. Amar Nath Goyal, (2005) 6 SCC 754 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 910] ; P.N. Menon [Union of India v. P.N. Menon, (1994) 4 SCC 68 : 1994 SCC (L&S) 860] and Amrit Lal Gandhi [State of Rajasthan v. Amrit Lal Gandhi, (1997) 2 SCC 342 : 1997 SCC (L&S) 512] .

8. Even otherwise on merits also, we are of the firm opinion that there is no valid justification to create two classes viz. one who retired pre-1996 and another who retired post-1996, for the purpose of grant of revised pension. In our view, such a classification has no nexus with the object and purpose of grant of benefit of revised pension. All the pensioners form one class who are entitled to pension as per the pension rules. Article 14 of the Constitution of India ensures to all equality before law and equal protection of laws. At this juncture it is also necessary to examine the concept of valid classification. A valid classification is truly a valid discrimination. It is true that Article 16 of the Constitution of India permits a valid classification. However, a valid classification must be based on a just objective. The result to be achieved by the just objective presupposes the choice of some for differential consideration/treatment over others. A classification to be valid must necessarily satisfy two tests. Firstly, the distinguishing rationale has to be based on a just objective and secondly, the choice of differentiating one set of persons from another, must have a reasonable nexus to the objective sought to be achieved. The test for a valid classification may be summarised as a distinction based on a classification founded on an intelligible differentia, which has a rational relationship with the object sought to be achieved. Therefore, whenever a cut-off date (as in the present controversy) is fixed to categorise one set of pensioners for favourable consideration over others, the twin test for valid classification or valid discrimination therefore must necessarily be satisfied.

8.1. In the present case, the classification in question has no reasonable nexus to the objective sought to be achieved while revising the pension. As observed hereinabove, the object and purpose for revising the pension is due to the increase in the cost of living. All the pensioners form a single class and therefore such a classification for the purpose of grant of revised pension is unreasonable, arbitrary, discriminatory and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The State cannot arbitrarily pick and choose from amongst similarly situated persons, a cut-off date for extension of benefits especially pensionary benefits. There has to be a classification founded on some rational principle when similarly situated class is differentiated for grant of any benefit.

8.2. As observed herein above, and even it is not in dispute that as such a decision has been taken by the State Government to revise the pension keeping in mind the increase in the cost of living. Increase in the cost of living would affect all the pensioners irrespective of whether they have retired pre-1996 or post-1996. As observed hereinabove, all the pensioners belong to one class. Therefore, by such a classification/cut-off date the equals are treated as unequals and therefore such a classification which has no nexus with the object and purpose of revision of pension is unreasonable, discriminatory and arbitrary and therefore the said classification was rightly set aside by the learned Single Judge of the High Court. At this stage, it is required to be observed that whenever a new benefit is granted and/or new scheme is introduced, it might be possible for the State to provide a cut-off date taking into consideration its financial resources. But the same shall not be applicable with respect to one and single class of persons, the benefit to be given to the one class of persons, who are already otherwise getting the benefits and the question is with respect to revision.

9. In view of the above and for the reasons stated above, we are of the opinion that the controversy/issue in the present appeal is squarely covered by the decision of this Court in D.S. Nakara [D.S. Nakara v. Union of India, (1983) 1 SCC 305 : 1983 SCC (L&S) 145] . The decision of this Court in D.S. Nakara [D.S. Nakara v. Union of India, (1983) 1 SCC 305 : 1983 SCC (L&S) 145] shall be applicable with full force to the facts of the case on hand. The Division Bench of the High Court has clearly erred in not following the decision of this Court in D.S. Nakara [D.S. Nakara v. Union of India, (1983) 1 SCC 305 : 1983 SCC (L&S) 145] and has clearly erred in reversing the judgment and order of the learned Single Judge. The impugned judgment and order [State of Manipur v. All Manipur Pensioners' Assn., 2016 SCC OnLine Mani 22] passed by the Division Bench is not sustainable and the same deserves to be quashed and set aside and is accordingly quashed and set aside. The judgment and order [All Manipur Pensioners' Assn. v. State of Manipur, 2005 SCC OnLine Gau 118 : (2005) 3 Gau LR 384] passed by the learned Single Judge is hereby restored and it is held that all the pensioners, irrespective of their date of retirement viz. pre-1996 retirees shall be entitled to revision in pension on a par with those pensioners who retired post-1996. The arrears be paid to the respective pensioners within a period of three months from today.

81. Considering the legal principles as enshrined in the renditions of the Apex court we find that the Non-Practicing Allowance was conceived and brought into effect by the U.P Doctors (Allopathic) Restriction on Private Practice Rules, 1983, where rule 3 provided for restriction on private practice, and consequently by rule 4 which stated that in lieu of private practice, Government doctor would be entitled to an amount by way of non-practicing pay or allowance or both, as the Government may specify from time to time. Giving effect to the rule 4 of 1983, Government order was issued on 31/08/1989 providing in clause 2 that Non-Practicing Allowance would form part of salary for the purposes of post-retirement benefits apart from other benefits stated therein. This aspect, character and nature of the Non-Practicing Allowance was reiterated in the Government order dated 01/02/2003 where rates of the Non-Practicing Allowance were revised. The Non-Practicing Allowance therefore was admissible to the Government doctors who were in service as a measure of compensation for restriction placed on their private practice, and also the same was to continue after retirement and would form part of the pensionary benefits.

82. It is also clear from the rules read along with the Government order issued from time to time, that it was never envisaged that serving and retired Government doctors will be treated differently for the purpose of payment of the Non-Practicing Allowance. Equally discernible is the fact, that no discrimination was ever conceived or explicitly made in any rule or Government order with regard to disbursement of the Non-Practicing Allowance which may have correlation any with date of retirement or on any other basis whatsoever. All the pensioners(Allopathic Government doctors including petitioners herein) form one class and are entitled to the same rate of Non-Practicing Allowance as fixed by the Government from time to time. The Government order dated 24/08/2009 does not distinguish between pre and post retirees nor does it create any class in its application for revision of the Non-Practicing Allowance, and therefore the State post facto could not have discovered and created two classes where none existed. After delving into the Government order dated 24/08/2009 we could not discover any intelligible differentia or any point of distinction between the Government doctors who retired prior to 24/08/2009 and those having retired after the said date. The classification sought to be made by the impugned Government orders is bereft of any reason or valid consideration and therefore arbitrary. Government orders which have been issued from time to time in exercise of rule 4 of the rules of 1983, have only approved the revision of the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance in sync with the recommendations of the Central Pay Commission where also no distinction has been made between serving doctors and retired doctors in its application to Non-Practicing Allowance, indicating that there never was any such distinction real or apparent as has been sought to be made as per the impugned orders.

83. The Government orders in our considered opinion having failed the test of reasonable classification and the classification sought to be made on the basis of cut-off date being 24/08/2009 is bereft of reason and also that there is no intelligible differentia between the two classes so created the impugned orders are clearly violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

Government Order to correct the error in earlier Government Order.

84. Examining the recital and content of Government order dated 04/09/2020, whereby, the same has purportedly been issued to "correct the error", also does not inspire confidence but seems to be a vain attempt to introduce a new policy by disguising it as an correction of error. The order dated 04/09/2020 has only recast clauses 4(ii)(a) and (b) as existing in the earlier Government order dated 09/03/2019. Clause 4(ii)(b) is applicable in case of petitioners whereby person retiring after 24/08/2009 are entitled to the Non-Practicing Allowance at the time which they were receiving immediately prior to the retirement, meaning thereby that they will not be entitled to any increment.

85. In order to test the reason for passing the impugned Government order, we have to examine the recital that the same has been passed to correct the error occurring in the earlier Government order dated 09/03/2019. The Government order dated 09/03/2019 was passed to implement the recommendations of the 7th Central pay Commission, and consequently revise the rates of Non-Practicing Allowance to 20% of the basic salary. The revised rates of Non-Practicing Allowance were extended as provided in clause 3 therein, to all those persons who were receiving Non-Practicing Allowance as per the earlier Government order dated 24/08/2009 or any other earlier Government order issued from time to time. The petitioners being fully covered under clause 3 of the said Government order, their pension payment orders were duly revised and modified. It is contended that even otherwise they were receiving Non-Practicing Allowance as per the earlier Government orders dated 31/08/1989 which was subsequently revised by another Government order dated 01/02/2003, and hence the revision was rightfully made even applicable to them.

86. We have also gone through the recommendations of the 7th Central Pay Commission, and we have not been able to find any such classification, nor the same could be pointed by the Counsel for the respondents, from which it could be demonstrated that the 7th Pay commission itself contained any restrictions with regarding to its application in relation to the retired Government doctors. The State Government having approved the recommendations of the 7th Pay Commission in its application to Allopathic Government doctors, and the decision having been implemented and a notification to this effect having been issued, a heavy onus lies on the State Government to show that a decision was taken earlier was erroneous. No such fact has been pleaded or argued pointing out any error and therefore this Court is of the considered opinion, that firstly there was no error, apparent or otherwise in the Government order dated 09/03/2019 and secondly, there was no occasion to correct the said Government order, which did not contain any deficiency or error and therefore on this score also the order dated 04/09/2020 itself is illegal and arbitrary.

Whether Non-Practicing Allowance is payable to retired Government doctors.

87. It has also been submitted by the State Government that the petitioners who have retired from service are not entitled to the Non-Practicing Allowance as they are not covered by the rules of 1983 and therefore, they cannot claim any rights of the Non-Practicing Allowance. Considering the pleadings as well as submissions of both the parties in this regard, undoubtedly, the petitioners in fact are receiving a fixed amount as Non-Practicing Allowance as a part of their pension. The argument of the State Government seems to be a self-defeating argument in as much as they have themselves admitted that Non-Practicing Allowance is being paid to the petitioners at a fixed rate which they were getting at the time of the retirement. In fact the Government orders dated 31/08/1989 and 01/02/2003 have explicitly extended the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance to the retired Government doctors which would form part of the pension, and therefore the contention of the respondents that the petitioners are not entitled to Non-Practicing Allowance because they have retired, is clearly wanting in rationality and reasonableness, and even otherwise is clearly contrary to the Government orders dated 31/08/1989 and 01/02/2003, and is therefore rejected. There is no Government order in existence which has the effect of revoking the aforesaid Government orders dated 31/08/1989 and 01/02/2003 and consequently the arguments of the State opposing the payment of Non-Practicing Allowance on this score to the retired Government doctors fails.

Withdrawal of Non-Practising Allowance without opportunity of hearing

88. The Government order dated 24/08/2009 while enhancing the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance to 25% was ipso facto applicable to serving Government doctors, as well as to the retired Government doctors in as much as the earlier Government orders dated 31/08/1989 and 01/02/2003 had explicitly extended the benefit of Non-Practicing Allowance to the retired Government doctors.

89. The revision on the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance 25% of the basic salary became a vested right of the pensioners and thus was duly protected as property under Article 300A of the Constitution of India, and they could not be deprived of same without following the procedure established by law. As noticed above, there was no error in the impugned Government orders. Further, when a vested right sought to be taken away, then it is mandatory to provide an opportunity of hearing to the person concerned, in absence of which the action of the State is liable to be set aside as being violative of Principles of natural justice. The petitioners were never afforded any opportunity of hearing before passing of the impugned Government orders, and hence on this ground also the impugned Government order dated 04/09/2020 are arbitrary and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

90. With the introduction of the Liberalised Pension Schemes which has been adopted by the State of U.P. since 1961 it has always been the objective of the Government that the pension paid to the retired Government servants is a social security in old age who has rendered ceaseless service in their heyday, and the quantum of the pension should be such so as to ensure a decent minimum standards of life, medical aid, freedom from want, freedom from fear and enjoyable leisure, and humility of dependents in old age and it should give them economic security. With these objectives in mind and also taking into account the spirit of the Constitution that we have a socialist state, the Government order the impugned Government orders have been scrutinized.

91. There is no Government order in existence which has the effect of revoking the Government orders dated 31/08/1989 and 01/02/2003 and consequently the arguments of the State opposing the payment of Non-Practising Allowance on this score fails.

92. Another issue which also arises is as to whether any such allowance like Non-Practicing Allowance is liable to remains stagnant over a period of time in its application to petitioners while it is revised from time to time with regard to others similarly situated.

93. As we have already considered above, the Government order dated 24/08/2009 did not distinguish or create any classes of pensioners for the purposes of payment of Non-Practicing Allowance to Government doctors in as much as it merely revised the rates of Non-Practicing Allowance across the board in pursuance to the recommendations of the 6th Pay commission. A careful perusal also reveals that the Government order dated 24/08/2009 was clearly applicable to the petitioners who retired prior to 24/08/2009. There is no reason or justification forthcoming from the State for its nonapplication to the petitioners. It is in fact the executing agency of Government that is, the Department of Pensions, of the State Government which did not extend the benefit of the said Government order to the petitioners and failed to issue revised pension payment orders giving benefit of 25% of the basic pay as Non-Practicing Allowance. The Counter affidavit which has been filed by the pension department is also silent on this aspect. To cover this lapse seems to be the reason for passing of the impugned Government order dated 04/09/2020, so as to justify their action after a lapse of 10 years. Instead of rectifying the mistake the respondent's have compounded the miseries of the retired Government doctors and in other words it amounts to taking advantage of their own wrongs. The basic salaries and all the allowances are constantly being revised upwards by the Government from time to time keeping in view the rising costs which is usually determined by a cost index. Similarly, the Non Practicing Allowance is also being revised from time to time as detailed above, and therefore the petitioners are also entitled for the revised amount of Non Practicing allowance. Their exclusion from revision of the same is therefore arbitrary and illegal.

Financial Constraint

94. It has been submitted by the learned Additional Advocate General that another reason given by the State Government for not revising the rate of Non-Practicing Allowance to persons who retired prior to 24/08/2009 is financial constraint of the State Government. In support of the contention it has been stated that the impugned Government orders, having been scrutinized by the Finance department and therefore the applicant's cannot claim any enhancement in their Non-Practicing Allowance. Counsel of the petitioner on the other hand have submitted that no material has been placed by the State to indicate or substantiate the stand of financial constraint, in absence of which is such an argument cannot be accepted.

95. Considering the rival submissions it is noticed that the State has a right to take a plea of financial constraints whenever the issue pertaining to release or grant of money is under consideration, but in order to sustain such an objection, the State is duty bound to lay before the court certain material from which it can be gathered that the prayer if allowed would entail a heavy financial burden. On the other hand it is equally correct that the courts can issue a direction to the State to comply with its statutory duties even if the entail a financial burden. The law in this regard is well settled. In Paschim Banga Khet Mazdoor Samity Vs. State of West Bengal, 1996 (4) SCC 36 it has been held:-

"Para 16- It is no doubt true that financial resources are needed for providing these facilities. But at the same time it cannot be ignored that it is the constitutional obligation of the State to provide adequate medical services to the people. Whatever is necessary for this purpose has to be done. In the context of the constitutional obligation to provide free legal aid to a poor accused this Court has held that the State cannot avoid its constitutional obligation in that regard on account of financial constraints. The said observations would apply with equal, if not greater, force in the matter of discharge of constitutional obligation of the State has to be kept in view."

3.6 Relying upon the decision of this Court in the case of Swaraj Abhiyan v. Union of India, (2016) 7 SCC 498 (paras 120 to 123), it is submitted that as held by this Court, a plea of financial inability cannot be an excuse for disregarding statutory duties. Reliance is also placed on the decisions of this Court in the cases of Municipal Council, Ratlam v. Vardichan, (1980) 4 SCC 162; and Khatri (2) v. State of Bihar, (1981) 1 SCC 627 and it is submitted that as observed the State may have its financial constraint and its priorities in expenditure, the law does not permit any government to deprive its citizens of constitutional rights on a plea of poverty. It is submitted therefore that the plea taken by the Central Government that the prayer of the petitioner for the payment of ex gratia compensation for loss of life due to Covid-19 pandemic to the aggrieved families is beyond the fiscal affordability may not be accepted. It is submitted that the fiscal affordability/financial constraint cannot be a ground not to fulfil statutory obligation under the DMA 2005 and the constitutional obligation as provided under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

96. In the instant case there is no denial of the fact that the Non- Practicing Allowance is admissible to the petitioners and is being paid, it is only the applicability of revised rates which is under question. The claim of the petitioner is based on statutory rules and Government orders where they have been entitled for the same, and in this regard wherever there is budgetary allocation of resources, then it is presumed that the provision has been made for the same, and plea of financial constraint would not be acceptable. The State government being and are duty bound to pay the statutory dues of the employees cannot avoid its liability citing financial constraint.

97. It is also noticed that whenever a fresh liability is sought to be created on the State then the contours and parameters of examination are different, and usually ,the stand of the State may be accepted as such except when a claim is made on ground of discrimination. Where one class of persons is already receiving the benefit, and the same is sought to be extended to the other class, then the ground of financial constraint cannot inhibit a claim on ground of equal treatment, as the Constitutional Courts are under a mandate to give effect to the equality clause as mandated by Article of the Constitution of India.

98. The respondents have relied upon the Judgment in the case of State of Punjab vs Amar Nath Goel (2005) 6 SCC 754 in support of their contentions. The said judgment is distinguishable on facts inasmuch as in paragraph no. 28 of the judgment the Apex court came to conclusion that the benefits as claim there in, were not admissible to the petitioners at the time of their retirement. In the present case the Government in 2020 has held the petitioners not to be entitled for revised rate non practicing allowance retrospectively with effect from 2009. The said amount was admittedly paid and duly received by them. We fail to understand as to why this stand of financial constraint was not taken into consideration, if in case it existed, at the time of approving the recommendations of 7th Pay Commission. The rates were duly revised and the enhanced amount was also paid, and no such difficulty was stated. Even in the impugned orders, only ground for revisiting the earlier Government order is "rectification of error". There is no mention of any financial constraint in the impugned order, and therefore, it is only an afterthought, and on this score fairness on part of the State is clearly lacking. In case there was any financial constraint, then there was no occasion for the State to disburse the revised amount of Non Practicing allowance, which was paid for nearly one year. At this stage, and facts of the present case, the plea of financial constraint his not available to the respondents.

99. Even otherwise, in the present case apart from the averment made in the counter affidavit, there is no material to substantiate the plea raised by the State with regard to financial constraints, and in absence of such material only on the basis of bald assertion this issue cannot be decided in favour of the State, and hence consequently rejected.

Precedentary value of Judgment in case of Dr. Sabhajeet Singh

100. Learned Additional Advocate General while opposing the writ petitions has submitted that the issues canvassed by the petitioners were subject matter of writ petitions nos. 1482 of 2015(SB) and 1239 of 2012(SB) wherein a number of doctors had approached this court seeking benefit of the Government order dated 24/08/2009 and by means of the judgement dated 25/01/2018 the writ petitions were dismissed, and therefore it is contended that the present petition is also liable to be dismissed on the same analogy.

101. The aforesaid writ petitions had been filed seeking a writ of mandamus and following prayer were sought as stated in paragraph 13 of the judgement:-

(i) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite parties to revise the pension of the petitioners counting the element of Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate of 25% of basic pay as the Non-Practicing Allowance is the part and parcel of the basic pay.

(1A) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the clause-III of the Government order dated 24/08/2009 (contained in annexure no. 6 to the writ petition) directing the opposite parties to count the element of Non-Practicing Allowance at least from 01/01/2016, i.e., the date from which the recommendation of the 6th Pay Commission has been accepted by the State of U.P.

(ii) Issue an order or direction commanding the opposite parties to pay the difference of pension to the petitioners and also pay the interest on delayed payment from the date of due till the date of actual payment."

102. Further, in paragraph 12 of the said judgement it has been stated that "all these petitioners were already retired before the issue of G.O dated 24/08/2009, claiming computation of retiral benefits by taking into consideration, Non-Practicing Allowance 25% of basic pay with effect from 01/01/2006 made representations to this effect and then filed the present writ petitions.

103. From the aforesaid, it is clear that the court was considering the relief as to whether Non-Practicing Allowance at the rate of 25% of the basic pay with effect from 01/01/2006 is admissible to the petitioners or not. The petitioners herein have sought quashing of the Government orders dated 14/07/2020 and 04/09/2020 whereby they been deprived of the benefit of the revision of Non-Practicing Allowance which was granted to them by means of Government order dated 09/03/2019. The aforesaid case is clearly distinguishable from the instant case on facts in issue in the instant writ petition.

104. Secondly, in paragraph 20 of the judgement the Division Bench came to conclusion that "..... Therefore, argument of creation of two classes is thoroughly misconceived and is no basis whatsoever .There does not exist any such classification" while in the present case the petitioners have based their claim on the basis that the impugned Government orders which has explicitly created two classes of pensioners with 24/08/2009 being the cut-off date, and the State Government in the counter affidavit filed in the case of Dr Laxmi Chauhan and others writ petition no. 18259 (SS) of 2020 themselves have admitted in paragraph 35 of the affidavit stating "the decision taken by the State Government and the issuance of the impugned Government order, in no manner could be said to be discriminatory, in fact, the same is based on reasonable classification and is not in violation of any principles of law." The issues and facts on the basis of which adjudication of claim of the petitioners has been made in the instant petition are completely different from the facts as existing at the time when the earlier petition was adjudicated, and therefore the said judgment would not be a precedent in the present case.

105. In the present bench of writ petitions apart from challenging the legality and validity of the impugned Government order dated 14/07/2020 and 04/09/2020 the writ of mandamus is being sought directing the respondents to pay Non-Practicing Allowance to the petitioners in pursuance of the Government order dated 09/08/2019, and therefore in terms of the prayer made before this court in the present set of writ petitions the scope of the enquiry is limited to the adjudication of rights of the petitioners with regard to their entitlement to receive Non-Practicing Allowance as per Government order dated 09/08/2019, and therefore the Division bench judgement of this court in the case of Dr Sabhajeet Singh and Others is not directly related to the facts in issue in the present set of petitions, and as considered above is clearly distinguishable and not applicable in the present case.

106. It has also been canvassed on behalf of the petitioners that the impugned recovery orders are illegal and arbitrary inasmuch as the Non-Practicing Allowance was duly fixed by the Government and paid to them to which they were entitled. This entire exercise was done by the State Government without any involvement of the petitioners, and they were duly entitled for the same. Even otherwise the said recovery will cause immense hardship and the petitioners claim protection of the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Punjab v. Rafiq Masih, (2015) 4 SCC 334

18. It is not possible to postulate all situations of hardship which would govern employees on the issue of recovery, where payments have mistakenly been made by the employer, in excess of their entitlement. Be that as it may, based on the decisions referred to hereinabove, we may, as a ready reference, summarise the following few situations, wherein recoveries by the employers, would be impermissible in law:

(i) Recovery from the employees belonging to Class III and Class IV service (or Group C and Group D service).

(ii) Recovery from the retired employees, or the employees who are due to retire within one year, of the order of recovery.

(iii) Recovery from the employees, when the excess payment has been made for a period in excess of five years, before the order of recovery is issued.

(iv) Recovery in cases where an employee has wrongfully been required to discharge duties of a higher post, and has been paid accordingly, even though he should have rightfully been required to work against an inferior post.

(v) In any other case, where the court arrives at the conclusion, that recovery if made from the employee, would be iniquitous or harsh or arbitrary to such an extent, as would far outweigh the equitable balance of the employer's right to recover.

107. In facts of the present case where we have already held that the petitioners are entitled to the revised amount of Non-Practicing Allowance as per Government order 09/03/2019, then as natural corollary, the consequential recovery orders dated 16/07/2020 are held to be illegal and arbitrary.

108. In light of the discussion made above, all the writ petitions are allowed and the impugned orders dated 14/07/2020, 16/07/2020 and 04/09/2020 are quashed, and the petitioners are held to be entitled to Non-Practicing Allowance as revised by the Government order dated 19/08/2019. The amount of Non-Practicing Allowance recovered in pursuance to the impugned Government orders is directed to be refunded along with arrears within a period of three months from today, failing which interest at the rate of 8% per annum will be paid for delay in payment beyond the period of three months. No other point was urged. The questions A to E are answered accordingly.

109. I may put on record an appreciation for my law clerk Mr. Himanshu Mishra, who has ably assisted me in case law research.
